WE WISH ALL A HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS 1936.

John W. Bailey, chief of division of printing, State Board of Control, Austin Tex., was here Christmas visiting his 91-year-old mother, Mrs. J. E. Bailey, and made us a fraternal call Sunday. Mr. Bailey, like the writer, is one among the old-time journalists of Texas, and we spent a very pleasant hour talking over the old times when printing was "hand set." He remembered the three old journeymen printers, Hugh Tone Brown, Dirty Jones and Jim Baker who made the round of newspapers over Texas many years ago.

As the curtain of 1935 is nearing the floor let's take a retrospective view of the finances of our State government. On January 1, 1934, the deficit in the General and Pension Funds was $14,197,781. On December 14, 1935, the deficit was $17,174,565.

On January 1, 1935, there was an old Age Pension debt, but on December 31, 1935, there will be a $25,000,000 one, and no money to pay it with, hence, the deficit on December 31, '35 will be more than $42,000,000.

As in the salary bill for county officials the law passed by the last legislature will likely cost approximately $2,000,000 more than under the law that was repealed. In short, and will the people endure a continuation of such extravagance in 1936 and succeeding years as has characterized 1935—Texas Tax Journal.

E. E. Foster Announces for County Commissioner.

To the Voters of Precinct No. Four:

After being earnestly and repeatedly solicited by my friends from all parts of the county to enter the race again for County Commissioner.

I come before you thanking you for your past favors and kindly asking you for your support in the coming election, assuring you, if elected again, will serve you as faithful in the future as I did while in office as your commissioner.

My motto is "A square deal to everyone and special privileges to none," and to see that the taxpayers of the county receive full value for every dollar expended.

Again thanking you and asking you to review my record as faithful and capable representative.

Respectfully Submitted,

A Mortgage On Our Future

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

During the past few months America has established another record.

It is a new high in government spending, in days of peace.

This is revealed in the recent report of the United States Treasury Department showing that since the beginning of the present fiscal year, on July 1, our Federal expenditures have surpassed the $3,000,000,000 mark. By June 30, when the fiscal year ends, expenditures are expected to exceed $10,000,000,000. Only in war times have such records been surpassed.

Where are all these billions coming from?

Not current income! That can meet only about half the bill. The remainder becomes part of the growing Federal Deficit which the people must pay in taxes, direct and indirect, through the years to come.

It's a mortgage on our future; a lien placed by politicians and bureaucrats on whatever we or our children may earn, or grow, or build or save in the decades past.

The process of mortgaging the future is not exactly a new venture to the American people. Tens of thousands tried it back in the reckless Twenties—when they bought stocks on margin, or acquired homes and lands under conditions which loaded them with heavy debts to be paid out of future income.

And the American people realized—a bit late—that the method had its flaws. Today they know that the national headache which we call Depression had some of its origin in the practice of spending not what they had, but what they hoped to get.

The workers and earners of America have learned their lesson. And the process of mortgaging their future has not ceased. It has simply changed. Today the politicians and the bureaucrats are mortgaging the future for them—by piling up expenditure after expenditure which the people must some day pay.

That's the ultimate effect of creating huge public debts and deficits.

Office-holders and bureaucrats change with the years. But the debts they create persist. Eventually they must be paid. The people, out of their labor, out of their earnings, out of their savings are the ones who foot the bill.

Until the bill is paid these debts remain—a mortgage on the future of every citizen on whose labor depend not only the support of himself and his family, but the strength and stability of America.

On Texas Farms.

From two rows planted in her garden, Thelma Rosson, garden demonstrator for the Wood Glen girls' 4-H club in Rusk county, gathered 17 bushels of beans, 300 pints of which she canned. According to Thelma the big yield was due to the fact that the ground on which they were planted was covered with well-rotted barn-yard fertilizer early in January and then plowed deep and allowed to stand until the first of March when it was thoroughly cultivated and planted in beans.

D. A. Jones has doubled the carrying capacity of the pasture on the Bennett ranch in Jackson county which he has seeded to Dallas grass. Fall seeding with about 10 pounds of seed per acre has proved most satisfactory. And a good sod is developed about a year earlier if it is sown in a field following a row crop rather in the native sod.

Cattle prefer it to other grass and is always the first to put out following a heavy frost Jones stated. This grass seeds freely and Jones is devising a seed harvester to use in the spring so that he might seed his entire pasture just as fast as practical.

In a recent address which R. M. Gibson of the Alanreed community in Gray county made over the Farm and Home Hour of KGNC, he said in part: "If anyone had any doubt about the value of terracing and contour rows for the prevention of wind erosion, all doubt would have been removed had they been on my farm this spring. All of the

"EXTRA GIRL"

When Texas Centennial Exposition officials began to select the Rangerettes, hostesses for the Exposition, they planned to have one who was born in each of the 48 states. Then along came Mabel Rooks, shown above, and she passed the strict requirements. Officials found later she had been born in the District of Columbia, so they increased the corps to 50, giving themselves a little leeway in the matter of states.

untreated farms around me were blowing — and my place was not blowing at all with the exception of some of the soil blown on the place from neighboring farms was shifting about a little. While the untreated farms were being blown away, my farm was being built up with their best of soil."

Franco-British Peace Plan Killed; Hoare Resigns

IF IT really was intended to bring about peace between Italy and Ethiopia, the plan proposed by British Foreign Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare and Premier Laval of France turned out a dismal failure. The storm of opposition to the scheme which would give Mussolini two-thirds of the African country as a reward for stopping an attack that was denounced by the League of Nations, brought the British and French governments to the point of collapse.

In Paris Edouard Herriot, member of the cabinet without portfolio, resigned as president of the powerful Radical Socialist party whose support is needed by Laval to maintain his majority in the parliament.

The council received from Adlis Abaha a note in which Emperor Haile Selassie bluntly accused Great Britain and France of having violated the league covenant by seeking "to impose upon Ethiopia a predominant control by Italy with the certain aim of entrusting to Italy the administration of the capital and a large part of the territory."

In view of all the opposition and of Mussolini's hint that he would reject the proposals, the league council killed the plan entirely, softening its action by formally thanking Great Britain and France for their "preliminary efforts" toward peace.

How close Europe is coming to a general war is apparent with the revelation that Britain is lining up the countries of the Mediterranean region for support in case she is attacked by Italy.

Supreme Court May Be Divided on TVA

WHEN the Supreme court passes on the constitutionality of the Tennessee Valley act, its opinion will not be unanimous, is the prediction of those who were present during the oral arguments. The case was taken up to the highest tribunal by fourteen preferred stockholders of the Alabama Power company.

Justice McReynolds, known as a "conservative," appeared to challenge the TVA lawyer to defend the right of the government to sell surplus power produced by Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals.

On the other hand, Justices Brandeis and Stone, who are "liberals," inquired into the right of minority stockholders of the Alabama Power company to bring the suit which led to the Supreme court test.

Federal Judge Holds Wagner Labor Law Invalid

FEDERAL Judge Merrill E. Otis at Kansas City has held unconstitutional the Wagner labor dispute act which gives employees the right to organize and bargain collectively.

Declaring congress had exceeded its constitutional right "to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several states . . ." the judge said, "the conclusion is that the whole act is unconstitutional."

Senator Borah's Hat Is Almost in the Ring

IF WISCONSIN Republicans wish to make Senator Borah their candidate for the Presidential nomination, it is all right with the veteran from Idaho.

State Senator P. E. Nelson of Maple, Wis., and former State Senator Bernhard Gettelman of Milwaukee called on Mr. Borah in Washington and asked permission to circulate nominating petitions for him in their state. This was granted.

Mr. Borah told reporters that Nelson and Gettelman had suggested a campaign for "a delegation representing the liberal forces in the party out there, and in my name."

"My primary objective is a convention of liberal delegates which will write a liberal platform and name a liberal candidate. To that end I shall devote my efforts. If in any state or district the liberal forces think that it will help the liberal cause to pledge delegates to me, I shall co-operate fully with that plan. If, however, it is thought better to pledge the delegates to some other liberal, I shall co-operate just as fully. In other words, inflexible as to the objective, flexible as to the tactics."

"As I see the political situation in this country, a man would be seeking political immolation to take a nomination upon any other than a liberal platform. So the first thing to do is to get a convention committed to liberal principles. So far as my efforts count, I am not going to permit personal matters, either my own or those of others, to interfere with the main purpose."

War Department Lobbying Brings Indictments

TWO grand juries, a house committee and an army court martial have been investigating lobbying at the War department for two years.

Those named were former Brig. Gen. Alexander E. Williams, one time acting quartermaster general of the army, who was convicted by a military court last spring of accepting an improper loan and ordered dismissed from the service; Thomas Jefferson Ryan, lawyer and former representative from New York, and the well known Silverman brothers, Joseph, Jr., and Nathan, surplus army goods dealers.

The four men were charged with conspiring to prevent the house military affairs committee from questioning Frank E. Speicher, "mystery witness" of the long inquiry by hiding him out in New York city while federal agents were hunting him throughout the nation.

Gomez, Long Dictator of Venezuela, Is Dead

DICTATOR of Venezuela for twenty-seven years, during most of the time president of the country, Gen. Juan Vicente Gomez died in Caracas of an old malady at the age of seventy-eight years.

Gen. Gomez

Gomez succeeded in paying off the entire debt of his country, amounting to nearly $40,000,000, and at the same time accumulated a great fortune for himself.

Among Gomez's greatest contributions to Venezuela were the establishment of friendly relations with foreign nations and peace within the country, the building of a fine system of automobile highways, and development of natural resources.

He made the most of the great petroleum deposits at Lake Maracaibo, granting many concessions to foreign oil companies, but placing an export tax on oil. The industry in Venezuela grew until it now holds third rank in the world.

Gen. Gomez was a man of many talents. He was a statesman, a soldier, a diplomat, and a politician. He was a man of great vision and courage, and he was a man who was loved by his people.

London Tower Fortress, Palace, Prison in Turn

The tower, situated on the banks of the Thames, is perhaps London's most interesting historical monument. Surrounded by a moat, it dates back to the Roman period, and in turn has served the purposes of a fortress, a royal palace, and a state prison.

The tower has been associated with the darkest scenes of English history. Its oldest part, the White tower, was built by William the Conqueror, outside what then were the walls of the city, to overawe the inhabitants within them.

It was the most of the great petroleum deposits at Lake Maracaibo, granting many concessions to foreign oil companies, but placing an export tax on oil.

PICTURE the delight of the huge audience at a hockey game between a New York team and one from Montreal the other evening, when Joe E. Brown threw in the puck to start the game. He looked very small and very thin—much smaller than he does on the screen—in contrast with the burly hockey players. And he clowned a bit when he hastened off the ice.

Pat O'Brien, who was with him, threw the little rubber disc down between two players at the beginning of the second period. He looked big enough to play hockey himself. In fact, friend Pat is getting a bit heavy. Brown gave the spectators a chance to see a perfectly happy human being. It was a small boy who went to him during one of the intermissions, to shake hands. Brown held his hand a long time and visited with him, and afterward the youngster lingered in the aisle, unable to tear himself away from the idol who had been so kind to him.

Joe E. Brown.

It's too bad, in a way, that "Barbary Coast" and "Frisco Kid" came along at the same time. One has Miriam Hopkins as the star, the other has James Cagney, but these two stories of early days in San Francisco are too much alike; in fact, they might be two versions of the same story.

Everyone is wondering how southerners will like "So Red the Rose." After all, they're the only ones who can really pass judgment on it, and certainly they won't make the mistake that one New York reviewer did. He said that the only authentic southern accent belonged to Walter Connolly—when, as a matter of fact, both Margaret Sullivan and Randolph Scott, the heroine and the hero, hail from Virginia.

Don't miss Lily Pons' first picture, "I Dream Too Much." RKO certainly picked a winner when Miss Pons was selected as their operatic star, after Grace Moore's success sent all the big companies scurrying around after girls with reputations as singers. Lily Pons doesn't just sing. She shows an amazing talent for comedy. She's not pretty, yet she has moments of looking very much like Lupe Velez. And she makes her love scenes with Henry Fonda very convincing. Eric Blone and his trained seal add not a little to the general hilarity, and what with one thing and another the picture's a riot.

You've read about all the precautions taken to protect the famous quintuplets during the making of their scenes in "The Country Doctor." Naturally, everybody's one thought was for the babies. So when Jean Hersholt, who plays Dr. Daffoe in the picture, went walking, slipped on the ice, and acquired a badly bruised leg, nobody was much disturbed. It looks as if we wouldn't see anyone in the roles of the father and mother of the babies. According to report, they were offered $700 if they'd sign papers allowing themselves to be impregnated, and refused; not enough money.

Did you tune in your radio on the broadcast that opened the new NBC studio in Hollywood? There certainly were plenty of celebrities on the air—but as for me, I liked Mary Livingston's goofy poem best of anything I heard. And reflect a moment on the fact that the master of ceremonies was Al Jolson, who had such a time making a success of broadcasting. He was determined to master the new medium, and he did, but what a battle! I doubt whether anyone ever worked harder than Jolson did in those first broadcasting days of his; watching him work, you found yourself pulling for him with all your heart. Well, that persistence of his has carried him a long way.

Gangster pictures may be a thing of the past, as we've been told over and over again, but they keep bobbing up in some form or other every little while—and they always break records at the theaters where they're shown, it seems to me. The latest is "Show Them No Mercy," based on a kidnaping case that got great publicity, and it's full of thrills.

Indian Elephant in Gay Trappings.

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

THE elephant, goliath of modern animals, is decidedly different in anatomy from all other mammals. He looks more or less alike at both ends; his trunk is shaped much like his tail, both being practically hairless, wrinkled, and of about the same length. A sleeping elephant, with ears at rest and the very small eyes closed, looks like a case of "heads I lose, tails you win." Because of this uniformity at the terminal points of his anatomy, and the wrinkled condition of his epidermis, the animal seems unfinished.

The wrinkles cover his back and sides and sag down over his straight, column-like legs to his knees, which are always baggy. His trousers are never pressed and his clothes never fit him, because his tailor, Mother Nature, shirks elephant duties. If you examine the epidermis minutely you will find it finely reticulated or stippled, giving it a distinctive character peculiar to the elephant.

The only really well-groomed or well-tailored elephants are some stuffed specimens in natural history museums, which possess skins as smooth as rubber balls. The original skin has been covered by a coat of black enamel paint which fills up and hides every wrinkle in the skin.

Such taxidermy was changed by Carl Akeley, who knew his elephants and mounted them as nature had made them. He invented a method of tanning the skins and reducing them to the thickness of a kid glove. After the tanned skin was placed over the papier-mache manikin Akeley skillfully modeled the skin from the top or outside by injecting fluid papier-mache underneath the skin. In this way the fine reticulations were retained. Not a drop of paint touched the skin of his elephants.

Because of the hooflike nails on their huge feet, elephants are assumed to be related to the hoofed animals, such as horses and cattle; but this is a mere superficial resemblance. The secret of the elephant's ancestry was discovered by paleontologists some years ago in the Fayum beds of Egypt in the Libyan desert. In these beds of Tertiary age were found the remains of animals related to modern elephants, but less than half their size, which had short trunks, as indicated by their abbreviated nasal bones.

His Teeth Are Peculiar.

The elephant has a peculiar tooth arrangement. The teeth do not fit into permanent sockets or cavities in the jawbones, as teeth do in other animals. Instead, they pass through the jaws from behind forward.

The grinding teeth are often enormous in size, the crown being 12 inches long in the older teeth and often quite as deep. These huge molar teeth are thrust upward and forward exactly in proportion to the wear on their crowns; so that when the tooth is worn down and useless it is pushed to the tip of the mouth and falls out as a mere fragment, one-thirtieth or less of the bulk of the original tooth. Six of these molars, or cheek teeth, pass thus through each jaw on each side of the mouth. Thus the elephant in his lifetime uses 24 teeth.

The only other group of mammals in which the teeth pass thus through the jaws are the manatees. And, oddly enough, in the Fayum beds of Egypt have been found remains of mammals intermediate between elephants and manatees. These fossil manatee-like animals imply a common ancestry for the two groups, which are today widely diverse in anatomy and habits.

Fables About Elephants.

Much of the elephant lore that is widely accepted is equally fabulous. There are stories told of how they never forget an injury and how they always get their man and trample him to death. The elephant has a wonderful memory, but the beast does not often resent a wrong. If elephants habitually resented every wrong and revenged every beating, there would be a very high mortality among elephant trainers and attendants. They try to bully and test the "nerve" of each new trainer and attendant.

If the trainer or keeper fears the animal and does not at once subdue it with force, then that particular elephant will continue to intimidate him and he may eventually be killed. If, however, he subdues it at once by force, it will then usually submit to his authority ever afterward.

It is often said that African elephants cannot be trained, and therefore are seldom seen in circuses or zoos. The African elephant is as easily trained as the Indian. The great Jumbo was taught to carry children on his back in the London zoo and was a docile and safe elephant. The Belgians at Apt, one of their stations in the Congo, are using trained African elephants to plow fields and to pile and carry logs and lumber.

Perhaps the most frequent misconception about elephants is their age. Animals estimated by circuses to be far beyond fifty years old are usually without exact history in youth. A common error is to overestimate the age of an elephant purchased as a fully grown adult. Such an elephant is often said to be thirty or forty years old when actually it is fully grown when only ten or twelve years old. It then lives 30 or 35 years in captivity.

"Graveyards" Never Found.

The story of elephant graveyards circulates in the African wilderness, where ivory hunters still entertain hopes of a find of graveyard ivory some day. The tradition runs that when they feel death coming upon them, elephants leave the herd and trek to an elephant graveyard, a remote spot in the wilderness where all the elephants of the district go to die. There the ground is supposed to be thickly strewn with the huge bones of elephants, many having died 100 years ago or more. The tusks which form a part of the skeletal remains of the beasts in such a graveyard would be worth many thousands of dollars, as ivory does not decay or lose quality with age. Many hunters have sought for these graveyards, but none has been rewarded by the discovery of such treasures.

The Indian, or Asiatic, elephant differs physically in many particulars from the African elephant. In reality they belong to different genera, the African being an old-fashioned elephant, with fewer enamel plates in its molar teeth and with a rounded skull like that of the ancient mastodons. The Indian elephant is a much more modern type, with more complicated or complex teeth—the last word in elephants.

The chief external difference between the African and Indian animals is in the ears. In the latter they are small and only one-third the size of the African's, and the upper margin does not fold inward behind the ear where it borders the neck. The dorsal profile differs in the Indian by having the crown of the head on the same level as the back. Instead of the head being held higher and the neck sloping downward to the withers, as in the African.

In the Indian elephant the forehead is marked by a depression, or valley, separating two rounded knoblike bosses (bumps of wisdom) which part it along the middle line.

Ranges of the Elephants.

The Asiatic elephant ranges through the forested parts of India and is today more numerous in Burma or eastern India and in the island of Ceylon than elsewhere. From Burma it ranges eastward through the Malay peninsula to Siam and also farther east to Cochinchina. Southward it extends to the island of Sumatra.

The African species originally, before white men slew it, ranged over every foot of tropical Africa from sea level to the tops of all forested mountains, or to the upper limits of forests on the snow-capped mountains, such as Kilimanjaro, Kenya, and Ruwenzori. On these equatorial peaks timber line occurs at an altitude of approximately 10,000 feet.

On the sands of the Sahara the animal is not found, but it occurs in the bush-covered deserts and grasslands on its southern border, and from that latitude southward to the Cape of Good Hope. On the east coast or border lands of the Indian ocean the elephant extends through Ethiopia and eastward through the deserts of Somaliland. Half at least of this vast area is still inhabited by elephants.

A third distinct species of elephant occurs in extreme western Africa, in Liberia, the land of the pygmy hippo, and eastward to the Cameroons. This elephant is also a pygmy of sorts and is usually known to the zoo public as a "pygmy elephant." The name "pygmy" will doubtless stick in the public mind and replace the older or first name bestowed on this species, of "round-eared," or cyclotis. The ear is different in shape from that of the large African species, being circular in outline, without the fold inward at the neck, and only half the size, proportionately, of the African elephant's.

Raisins and figs will not stick to the food chopper if a little flour mixed with a few drops of lemon juice is put through chopper with the fruits.

One quart of boiling water, three tablespoonfuls of linseed oil and one tablespoonful of turpentine mixed together and applied to hardwood floors with a woolen cloth will remove all the dust and dirt that has accumulated on them.

If windows are rubbed with tissue paper after they have been washed with chamolis wrung out of a quart of warm water to which a tablespoonful of ammonia has been added, they will have a brilliant polish.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed. How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

GEORGE GETS HIS WINGS

NO GEORGE, I WON'T MARRY YOU UNTIL YOU GET YOUR PILOT'S LICENSE... I THOUGHT YOU KNEW THAT.

WELL... YOU CAN'T STALL AROUND MUCH LONGER! I'M TAKING MY FINAL TEST HOP IN THE MORNING!

IF SHE REALLY LOVED YOU SHE WOULDN'T CARE WHETHER YOU HAD TIN WINGS PINNED ON YOUR CHEST OR NOT!

SO THE DOCTOR SAID YOU HAVE COFFEE-NERVES? WHAT DID HE ADVISE?

HE SAID, QUIT COFFEE AND DRINK POSTUM! BUT THAT'S BUNK! I'LL GIVE UP FLYING!

THAT'S THE FIRST SMART THING YOU'VE SAID SINCE YOU TOLD THAT DOCTOR WHAT YOU THOUGHT OF HIM!

I HOPE GEORGE MAKES AS GOOD A HUSBAND AS HE IS A PILOT!

HE WILL... HE'S BEEN THE SWEETEST MAN ALIVE SINCE HE SWITCHED TO POSTUM!

SORRY, BUDDY... NO TEST HOP FOR YOU! CAPTAIN SAYS YOUR NERVES ARE SHOT! REPORT TO THE DOCTOR AT ONCE!

SAY... IF THAT CAPTAIN HAD MY HEADACHES HE'D BE IN THE HOSPITAL!

THIS IS A DIRTY DEAL! WHAT IF YOU DID SMASH UP THAT LANDING GEAR TODAY... WE ALL MAKE MISTAKES!

IF YOU GIVE UP FLYING, GEORGE, YOU'LL GIVE ME UP, TOO, I WON'T MARRY A QUITTER!

OH, ALL RIGHT... IF YOU FEEL THAT WAY, I'LL TRY POSTUM!

CURSES! THAT WASHES ME OUT! POSTUM ALWAYS PUTS ME INTO A TAILS-PIN!

TAKE A TIP FROM ME... IF YOU'VE GOT COFFEE NERVES... SWITCH TO POSTUM!

OF course, children should never drink coffee. And many grown-ups, too, find that the caffeine in coffee disagrees with them. If you are bothered by headaches or indigestion, or can't sleep soundly, coffee may be to blame... why not try Postum for 30 days? It contains no caffeine. It is simply whole wheat and bran roasted and slightly sweetened. Easy to make... costs less than half a cent a cup. Delicious, too... and may prove a real help. A product of General Foods.
