Facts and figures come from all parts of the State to find, in well edited form, their niche in this widely demanded handbook on Texas—its past, present and future.

Sam Haynes in Sheriff Race in Tom Green.

Sam Haynes, for 17 years a peace officer in West Texas, most of the time which was spent in San Angelo and Tom Green county, and who has served as chief of the police department of San Angelo for eight years, has announced as a candidate for sheriff of Tom Green county.

Mr. Haynes has resigned as head of the police department and relinquished the office Tuesday after serving continuously for six years. He also served as police chief in 1826 and 1927 and has been a member of the department and a deputy sheriff of Tom Green county at intervals for 17 years.

First moving to San Angelo in 1903, Mr. Haynes was employed by a transfer company and then worked on the ranch of the late J. D. Sugg. After leaving the ranch he returned to San Angelo and worked for Frank Van Court who was operating a transfer line. In 1917 he was employed as a night watchman by the late George Cunningham, who was then chief of police.

"I do not want to make too many promises," said Mr. Haynes, "but I do pledge my best efforts toward discharging the duties of the office of sheriff. I feel that experience I have gained previous employment as a peace officer furnishes me with the best qualifications to serve Tom Green county as its sheriff."

Chief Haynes and members of his department have taken a leading part in solving many of the major criminal cases developing in this section of West Texas. He believes his knowledge of the methods, haunts and actions of the present day criminal will be of much benefit in his work as sheriff should he be elected.

The new candidate is married and the father of six children, all of whom are grown, and three are married. Two sons and one daughter live with Mr. and Mrs. Haynes.

Mr. Haynes was born in Bell county on a farm and lived there until he came to San Angelo.

Broad Economic Progress— The Way It Can Be Achieved

By HAROLD G. MOULTON
President, The Brookings Institution, Washington, D. C.

MUCH current discussion of economic problems is focused too intently on the depression to shed real light on our fundamental difficulties. Today's troubles obscure our view of what happened yesterday and what is likely to happen tomorrow. Actually our economic structure was being undermined by grave maladjustments long before the depression; in our "prosperity" years, millions of American families were poor.

Farmers and people in the small towns scarcely need to be told this. In 1929 and before, agriculture was not prosperous. Farmers had to pay high prices for the things they bought, but got little for what they sold. They were in a depression even then—caught between what looked like irresistible forces and an immovable body.

There are about 50 million farmers and people living in the small towns. In addition, professional men, domestic workers, small shopkeepers and others etc. It would not merely "soak the rich." Purchasing power can be increased only as we learn how to produce goods and services more efficiently and pass the benefits of that efficiency on to the masses. If we devise a way to make two articles where we formerly made one, and we pass on this gain to the people, purchasing power is actually created—the extra article can be sold.

Higher Wages and the Farmer

Organized labor for many years has tried to obtain the benefits of increased efficiency by pressure for higher wages. When improvements in production methods in a given plant made it possible to turn out two articles at what one had previously cost, organized labor sought to direct the savings into higher wages.

This gave certain groups of workers more purchasing power, but the effect on farmers has not been favorable. It has forced them to pay higher prices

PRODUCTIVE CAPACITY AND ACTUAL PRODUCTION, 1922-33

This chart illustrates the extent to which we have failed to utilize our full productive capacity. The black area represents what we produced; the shaded area, the additional amount that could have been produced. Our most serious economic problem is the under-utilization of our productive capacity. Much of this failure to utilize our entire productive capacity is due to monopolistic forces which have held up prices artificially. Reduction of prices under the force of free competition, so that people can buy more, is the way to production of more goods and higher standards of living for all.

living in the cities were similarly affected, inasmuch as they could not utilize organized pressure to force upward the return on their services. These with their dependents total about 20 million. While their standards of living perhaps were not actually lowered, most of them realized little gain from the great advance in productive efficiency made in that period.

The distribution in purchasing power of these groups, or its failure to rise, in turn, reacted on others. Business men sold less goods, and workers everywhere found it harder to get jobs. The forces that were retarding the farmer's prosperity were by no means helping the man in the city.

Progress—But Not Enough

It is true that our economic system has brought us living standards higher than those existing anywhere else in the world. Between 1900 and 1930, as an example, per capita income, in terms of what it would buy, increased about 38 per cent, at the same time, working hours were reduced about 13 per cent. But the fact of idle plant capacity indicated that we could have produced more goods and thus raised living standards.

Studies we have made at the Brookings Institution, aided by a grant from the Falk Foundation, of Pittsburgh, throw significant light on this. We made a detailed survey of productive capacity in manufacturing, mining, farming and all the other major divisions of industry, resulting in the finding that our productive plant could have turned out about 20 per cent more than it did.

If nobody had wanted to buy anything, the idle plant would have been easily explained. But, millions of families were not getting nearly enough income to satisfy their wants.

Nearly 6 million farm and city families, received incomes of less than $1,000; 16 millions received less than $2,000; and 19 millions, or 71 per cent of the total, less than $2,500. More than 54 per cent of farm families got less than $1,000. Of course, in considering farm income the lower living costs of rural areas should be kept in mind. But, no matter where they lived, families trying to pay for food, clothing, medical service, education, etc., on $1,000 were not prosperous.

The extent of unfulfilled wants may be judged by the fact that nearly all family income in the $2,000 class or lower is spent for ordinary consumption goods—food, shelter, clothes, education, etc. Fifteen million families got less than this figure.

"The Immortals."

It was a raw, bleak November afternoon near Thanksgiving. Snow was in the air; one could almost see the white flakes float placidly down out of the leaden sky. I had come down at my friend Wickham's invitation to get a little shooting over Thanksgiving at his place in Virginia and arriving that day, had set out for a walk in order to get the "lay of the land." I had just jumped the branch which bisects the spring lot meadow when, looking up I saw in the next field, beside a small log cabin, the figure of an old negro man, apparently chopping wood. It occurred to me that he might know how the hunting was this season and whether game was plentiful, so I crossed over to him. The old man, after answering my questions in the affirmative, fell into conversation with me. We began discussing the neighboring country, the woods, etc., and from that gradually reached the subject of ghosts, or "haunts" as the darkeys say.

"Yassah," drawled the old "yassah, y'all white folks moke out yo' don' believe in ha'nts, but done seen or heard some tain' queah. Yassuh! he! he! and he went off into a high cackle of laughter; and nearly bent double with mirth. "Yassah, cyain't fool me! Cyas't fool ole Harry! But I've seen one dat ain't scared at all, ain't scared at a ha'nter oothin'." "Dey don't min' a thing. My ole Mar-se, Cap'n Harry, he was one dem kin'."

"Tell me about it," I urged, becoming interested at once. "Well sur, 'twuz dis'er way. 'Twuz a long t'm ago 'bout thut'y yea's back, I reckon. 'Twuz jes after dat, dat I sad dem misery in my back so bad. Mar-se Harry said 'awuz fam de rain dat nite, bt I knws bettah, 'Twar't dat; 'twere fum 'de sperits; 'twuz a dark night, not a star 'in de sky; cold, too. Cap'n Harry an' me, we wuz on our way back home to Orange County fvm Fredericksburg. We had been 'dar on biz'ness. Well, we wuz goin' th'ew de Wilderness when der wuz so much fightin' 'in durin' er de wah, in Pe kerrige. Seems to me we maste bsen 'bout half way th'ew. 'Twere awful dark an' I couldn't hardly see to drive I resleck' I give ds horses de reins. My lamps wuz dim, too. A'ler a suddu' one de horses, Annie Lee (she wuz dems' flighty an' nervous) neighed add started to kinda shiver 'Bout de sam' time de lampe go ho out an' a win, spring up fum nowwh' 'tall an' go 'who-o-oh!' right th'ew 'd trees. Mar-se Harry say de win' put de lamps out, but I knws bettah. 'Twar't dat; 'twere de ha'nts. After de lights go out an' de horses whinnied and de win' go 'who-o-oh,' I ain' feelin' so perky; I keef' feelin' right nervous anyhow since 'we drne come in de ole Wilderness, I let out a yell 'an begin to clim' down and run, 'cause I done thought: 'Gord 'Amighty, dese ha'nts aingwine git dis niffah dis time, naw sue, not if he got he laigs! I wuz gwine take out an' fy. I done fertit 'bout Mar-se Arroy an' ev' th'ing; I jes' t'inkin' 'bout ole Harry savin' he hide. But Mar-se Harry houe heard me holler an' he opened de lo' an' step down hisself. 'What is de matter, Harry?' he say, 'Dar is nothin' to be afraid of.' Nav suh! I says 'an I is tes makin' suah dar ains gwine bel' Jes den all de bushe an' de underbresh begin t crackle an' crunch, 'sif a great crowd 'er people wuz goin' by, an' 'sif wagons wuz rolin', 'long. Right erway I done thought 'er 1864 when me an' Mar-se Harry wuz fightin' together in de Wilderness. (T' wuz en a stormy nite jes' like dis one sa' de rain wuz jes' comin' down, an' I wuz soakin' wet an' Mar-se Harry made me put on he cote off'a he back.) It commenced to rain now, too. Well suh, 'long twid de creakin' er de bresh an de darkness and da neighin 'er de horses an de raib, an de win goin who-ooh! we commenced to heah de noise er de guns as dey wuz carried long, de brekin' er cannon dat's a soun dat yo cyait mistake. Me an Mar-se Harry done heard it so much in de wah dat when we heah it agin dis time him and me both knowed what twuz. But Cap'n Harry wan' fraid. Naw nuh, He wuz jes as brave an darin. 'Harry, he say, 'What is yo fraid of? Dar is notnin gwine hurt yo.' 'Yassuh, I says. Den Mar-se Harry wen to de horse head and patted em and tried to quiet em down an commenced lead em on th'ew de Wilderness, dey wouldn't budge a linch by deyselves. An, all dis time, suh, de breakin' er de cannon an de crackin' er de bresh, an de who'er de win' was gittin louder, an jes den I felt a cole win pass me an somethin cole bresh ginst my han. But I ain wait to fin out what tis. I hollers an jump 'erward an grab 'er. Mar-se Harry's cote tails an shet my eyes and stumble long side er Mar-se Harry. Mar-se Harry ain turn roun, jes pattin de horse and talkin gentle to em. Little by little we got away from dat Gord forsaken place an dem ha'nts, I reckon it took us bout five minutes, but, 'to de Lawd, it seem like five hundred yea's to dis niffah. When we got out on de big road agin (dat udder wuz jes a cow path) de Cap'n stop an turn roun and raise he right han an sez to me: 'Harry, sez he, 'Harry, yo is my wit witness yo knws I does not believe in spirits but, befo Gord, I believe dat dat wuz de Army er Northern Virginia we has jes passed.'—By Mary Spotswood Warren, Buxton, Md, in Confid erate Veteran.

"Hunger Marchers" Parade in the Capital

ABOUT six hundred men and women, members of the recently organized Unemployed Workers' Alliance, staged a big parade of "hunger marchers" in Washington.

Lasser declared after spending 30 minutes with the President's secretary: "Mr. McIntyre gave us a lot of nice words, but nothing substantial. If nothing is done to give these people jobs there will be a hunger march on Washington next summer in which hundreds of thousands will take part.

"The jobless feel that we have been sold out by the Democratic party," Lasser declared.

The marchers carried banners and placards with such inscriptions as: "Give the bankers home relief; we want jobs!"

Labor Says Industry Is Arming for Conflict

BEFORE the senate subcommittee on labor appeared spokesmen for organized labor with charges that there is a great movement of machine guns, tear gas and police clubs into industrial centers for use in contending with strikes and attendant disorders.

At one point Harris testified that he knew the Wheeling Steel corporation at Portsmouth was "arming," a statement that brought from corporation officials at Portsmouth an assertion that company police were armed to protect property against "thieves and firebugs, and they will continue to be armed."

At another point in the hearing three was testimony that general "rumors" were being circulated that the Ford Motor company was "shot through" with spies, hired to report on the activities of labor.

Maryland Young Democrats Hear Mr. Roosevelt

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, attended Easter services at St. Thomas Episcopal church, after the First Lady had witnessed the Knights Templar sunrise service at the Arlington amphitheater.

Mr. Roosevelt accepted an invitation to speak before the annual convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution which opens in Washington April 20. He also will deliver an address on April 25 at the Jefferson banquet of the National Democratic club in New York city.

Death of James M. Beck Is Loss to Nation

SUDDEN death, due to a coronary thrombosis, came to James M. Beck at his residence in Washington, and all informed Americans mourn the demise of this public spirited citizen and eminent authority on constitutional law.

Mr. Beck was not only one of the foremost lawyers of America but for more than three decades was a public man of distinction, holding numerous offices at Washington, and an influential place in the councils of the Republican party.

of Pennsylvania, as a Democrat. He left that party on the silver issue and was made an assistant attorney general by President McKinley. In 1921 Mr. Harding appointed him solicitor general, an office which he filled with distinction. He then served three terms in congress, where he was one of the best debaters, and retired in 1934 because he thought congress had become a "rubber stamp."

League of American Nations Proposed

IN THEIR formal acceptances of the invitations of the United States government to the forthcoming Inter-American peace conference, three of the Latin American nations have proposed that a league of American nations be formed to preserve peace in the western hemisphere.

Congressmen Working on Taxes and Relief

CONGRESS settled down to earnest work that would clear the way for early adjournment, the two chief matters under consideration being taxes and relief.

Harry L. Hopkins, head of the WPA, appeared before a subcommittee of the house appropriations committee, also in executive session, to urge compliance with President Roosevelt's request for an additional billion and a half to finance relief in the 1937 fiscal year.

The committee extracted from Mr. Hopkins a reluctant promise that relief funds will not be spent hereafter on projects not approved by congress, these including especially the Florida ship canal and the Passamaquoddy tidal power experiment.

Hagood Given Command of Chicago Area

FOLLOWING a conference with Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood, who was removed from command of the Eighth corps area for criticizing WPA methods, President Roosevelt took the soldier back into his good graces and appointed him to the command of the Sixth corps area with headquarters in Chicago.

Calles Is Expelled by Mexican Government

PLUTARCO ELIAS CALLES, former president of Mexico and for long the most powerful figure in that republic, was forcibly exiled to the United States, together with three other once prominent citizens, by the Mexican government, which declared their presence there was dangerous to the welfare of the country.

Summarily ousted with Calles, who for 11 years ruled Mexico with an iron hand, were Luis Morales, former minister of labor and leader of the regional confederation of workers and peasants; Luis de Leon, former minister of the interior and agriculture; and Rafael Melchor Ortega, former governor of Guanajuato.

The four men were, by order of President Cardenas, placed aboard a plane at Mexico City and taken across the border to Brownsville, Texas. From there they took another plane to California.

Spanish Parliament Ousts President Zamora

SOMETHING new in Spanish history took place in Madrid. The parliament, by a vote of 238 to 5, ousted Niceto Alcala Zamora from the office of president of the republic.

Diego Martinez Barrio, speaker of parliament, was made temporary president to serve until elections are held.

Black's Lobby Decision Wins Court Decision

SENATOR BLACK'S lobby committee won a considerable victory in the District of Columbia Supreme court when Chief Justice Wheat refused to enjoin the committee from using the telegrams from and to William R. Hearst which had been seized.

"I have not been informed yet of any case in which any court has assumed to dictate to a committee of the senate what it should do and what it should not do, and I do not feel that I have any right to inaugurate any such principle as that."

Continuing its investigation, the Black committee heard the testimony of Fred G. Clark of New York, national commander of the Crusaders.

Eleven Persons Killed in Air Liner Crash

FLYING through a fog on its way to Pittsburgh, a Transcontinental and Western air liner went far out of its course, plowed through the forest seven miles southeast of Union City, Pa., and smashed into a granite wall on Chestnut Ridge.

It was asserted that the officials were accused of conspiring with the Russian government and of supplying to Russia and Outer Mongolia military information which was used advantageously by both of Manchukuo's neighbors in recent frontier clashes.

"A SURETY OF PURITY"

Preserving Canadian Fish
In compliance with the new Canadian regulations, American fishermen must now obtain licenses, and a rule limiting the day's catch of black bass to a fisherman will be rigorously enforced. In the Bay Quinte, Ontario, a small cruiser is doing duty in enforcing the laws. It is said that some yachts in past seasons took from 60 to 100 bass in a day's fishing.

Portrait of An American
By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Who is the typical American? Just what is he like? There seems to be doubt on these questions in the minds of many men in public office today. Much of our recent legislation suggests that they regard him as willing to swap his American birthright of independence and opportunity for the lifeless regimentation now imposed on certain populations abroad.

But there should be no such confusion. A portrait of the typical American was clearly drawn in the Bill of Rights of our Federal Constitution. Read it and you will see that he is a man who stands firmly for:

Freedom of religion, freedom of lawful speech, freedom of the press, freedom of peaceable assembly...

The right to be secure against unreasonable search and seizure, to be immune from governmental inquisition, to trial by jury in all civil as well as criminal cases...

The guarantee that he shall not be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law, and that he shall be protected in all these and other rights even against government itself.

In that insistence on definite rights and powers is reflected, I maintain, a true picture of the real American citizen—the man who works and earns and saves and on whose character and effort depends all the strength of our government. It has stood unchanged for almost a century and a half. It remains as accurate today as when first drafted.

When our politicians get that picture clearly in mind we shall see fewer efforts to inject into our government the ideas of a regimented Europe—whose tragic effects we read daily in dispatches from across the sea.

America, our lawmakers should remember, is still full of Americans—sons and daughters of the hardest, most self-reliant breed of pioneers and liberty-lovers the world has ever seen. No one can take away their individual freedom—and make them like it. The Bill of Rights still remains our national portrait.

Christoval 25 Years Ago.

The following local items are copied from the Observer dated in 1911:

J. A. Barnes, our accommodating telephone manager, came near having a serious lamp explosion Sunday night. He covered the lamp with a badger hide which lay on the floor, thus smothering out the flame.

Mrs. H. D. Coffee and children left Tuesday on a visit to relatives and friends in San Angelo, from whence she will later depart for Brownwood to visit relatives.

Dr. J. D. Goyen formerly of Eldorado, has located here. He exchanged locations with Dr. C. J. Martin, who has located in Eldorado.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Salmon favored a few friends with a delightful "moonlight supper" on the river bank last night, which was heartily enjoyed. Those favored: Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Shelton, Miss Fannie Salmon, Lee-man Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Van Horn and daughter, Blanche.

Miss Fannie Cook of Seneca daughter of J. L. Cook, a former resident of Christoval, is visiting Miss Eva Hannan and other friends here.

Sam Holland and S. A. Williams, prominent sheep men of Eldorado, were here yesterday en route to San Angelo. Mr. Holland had two wagons loaded with wool. Mrs. Paul Wright of Dallas is visiting her parents, (Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Salmon and family.

Mrs. L. A. McCord left here Wednesday for Terrell, Texas, where she will make her home with a cousin, Miss Eva Stamps of that place.

A herd of 918 yearling steers passed through town Monday on their way to Door Key ranch. They were bought near Sonora by Willis Johnson.

According to an estimate sent to the State comptroller, by Tax Assessor A. D. West, the taxable values of Tom Green county will be $9,700,000, which is a slight increase over last year.

Married—Wednesday, May 11, at San Angelo, Miss Ollie Brothers to Mr. Sam Murphy, both of Christoval, Justice of Peace Branch performed the ceremony.

Prof. J. W. Covington, who was elected principal of the Christoval school will attend the normal at San Marcos, and will move here about Aug. 1.

The Fox Who Had Lost His T. H.
A fox caught in a trap escaped with the loss of his brush. Thereafter feeling his life a burden through the ridicule to which he was exposed, he schemed to bring all other foxes into like condition with himself, that in the common loss he might better conceal his own deprivations. He assembled a good many foxes and publicly advised them to cut off their tails, saying they would not only look much better without them, but would get rid of the weight of the brush, which was a very great inconvenience. But one of them, interrupting, said: "If you had not yourself lost your tail, my friend, you would not thus console us."—Aesop's Fables.

Wooden Flywheel.
After an accident to the flywheel on a large European electric station the superintendent designed and had constructed a flywheel of wood which has a diameter of 65 feet and a rim width of ten feet. The thickness of the rim is about 12 inches and it is made up of 44 thicknesses of beech planks with staggered joints. The boards were glued together and then bolted. The inside consists of a double wheel, the 34 spokes of which are fastened to two hubs. Spokes and hubs are operated at 76 revolutions a minute, which corresponds to a peripheral speed at the rim of 125 feet a second.

Unfair Competition
By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Picture a store-keeper, a dairy-farmer, or a small manufacturer who through years of industry has established his business...

Then into his community enters a competitor. This rival is more fortunately situated. He doesn't have to worry about making a living, or meeting tax bills, or showing a favorable balance at the end of the year. A rich uncle takes care of all that for him.

How long could the store-keeper, or dairy-farmer, or manufacturer continue to meet such competition?

That, in effect, is the question raised by an official report recently submitted at Washington by the Committee on Government Competition with Private Enterprise.

It reaches the conclusion that, except in such fields as national defense, research, conservation and the like, Federal competition is "wholly destructive."

What attention will official Washington give this significant report? That is difficult to say.

For years, citizens who have seen their own taxes used to underwrite competition against them have protested against those methods—without success.

For years, they have pointed out that government competes against private enterprise in more than 200 lines—including certain agricultural products, construction materials, harness, textiles, clothing, printing and a host of others.

For years they have pointed out what the Committee now emphasizes in its report. Namely:

"That government expenditures will be reduced and revenue increased if the Federal Government withdraws from competition with private enterprise except under the conditions specified."

"That under normal economic conditions government competition with private enterprise... contributes to the development of a socialized industry."

"That a revival of private industry will permit the return of labor to its normal occupations, will hasten the return to American standards of efficiency and maintain the dignity of labor which has made the American working man the nation's greatest single influence for the advancement of democratic ideals."

Protests of the nation's workers and taxpayers against Bureaucracy's unfair competition have gone unheeded. Will an official report fare any better in protecting them in their constitutional right to earn a living? Let's hope so.

In the words of the report itself, "The government's true function is to protect and promote the economic activities of its citizens—not to supplant them."
