J. H. DeLong is Again Candidate for Court Job.

J. H. (Jim) DeLong, Christoval ranchman, has announced his candidacy for a second term as County Commissioner of Precinct No. 4, subject to the Democratic primaries. The precinct includes the communities of Christoval, Knickerbocker, Tankersley, Twin Mountains, Sims and Ben Ficklin.

"At the present time I have under way in Precinct 4 several worthwhile road projects," Mr. DeLong stated. "The Christoval-Knickerbocker road now recently completed, gives the southern part of the county an all-weather connection with Knickerbocker, Tankersley and other points in the western part of the county that has been needed. My aim in the road program is to provide good, adequate all-weather roads and bridges."

Mr. DeLong said that he appreciated the confidence placed in him by the people in electing him to the Commissioner's position in 1934 and declared that his objective, made easier of accomplishment by the experience of the first term, would be to give the people of his precinct and the county the service due from the commissioner's office, if elected for the traditional second term.

"I have served, during my first term, in one of the most trying periods in our county's history," Mr. DeLong stated. "The duties of this office have increased considerably over what they were and likewise the responsibilities. I feel that I am well acquainted with the job now, can serve the county well, and on that basis ask the people for another term."

Mr. DeLong is married and has three sons. He and Mrs. DeLong reside on the ranch three miles north of Christoval. He has been a resident of the county all of his life, his father, the late G. W. (Wash) DeLong, being one of the first to settle in the Concho country.

The coyote is a creature without a friend, an Ishmaelite whom man and animals have combined in despising, the ideal thief and vagabond of the animal world, this gray gaunt figure-head of the western world still survives, as much the owner of his empire as he was in the days when his ancestors looked with cock-eyed astonishment and staccato exclamations upon the expedition of Lewis and Clark feeling its way slowly across that trans-Mississippi wilderness whose future was then undreamed.—Outing Magazine.

Federal Aid will Help in Old Age Assistance.

Austin, May 6.—A statement this week by the director of the Old Age Assistance Commission revealed a fact that will mean thousands of dollars to State taxpayers and old folks in the Texas plan for helping the needy aged.

"A large part, if not all, of the cost of administering the Old Age Pension Law in Texas will be paid by the Federal government," Executive Director Orville S. Carpenter said.

Social Security Board officials told Mr. Carpenter they anticipated that many of the States receiving Federal aid will be able to pay a large part of their operation costs out of the Federal allotment for administrative expense thereby leaving most of the State funds to be spent for old age assistance.

"After determining amount to be granted a State for the payment of old age assistance, the Federal government adds 5 percent of this amount to the check for administrative expenses in that particular state," Mr. Carpenter explained. "The entire Federal expense in that particular state," Mr. Carpenter explained, "The entire Federal expense allotment may be used before any State funds are spent for this purpose."

Present estimates indicate that this amount will be sufficient to pay a large part, if not all, of the ordinary running expenses of the Commission after all the applications have been received and acted upon so that probably the entire administrative cost to the State will be only the initial expense of setting up the Texas organization and receiving and checking applications.

Reproducing Byrd's Camp

DALLAS, Texas.—Visitors to the Texas Centennial Exposition, the $25,000,000 World's Fair of the Southwest, which opens here June 6, will be able to see an exact replica of Admiral Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic camp in Little America. The admiral is supervising its construction. The project will cost $50,000.

$58,000 for Fair's Shrubs

DALLAS, Texas.—The City of Dallas Park Board has let a $58,000 contract for shrubs and flowers to be used in landscaping the city's section of the grounds at the Texas Centennial Exposition, the $25,000,000 Southwest World's Fair, which opens here June 6 and continues until Nov. 29.

Gold Mines on Display

DALLAS, Texas.—The most elaborate exhibit of precious metals to come from Texas earth is being assembled for exhibition at the Texas Centennial Exposition at Dallas. Here Texas gold mines will show their stuff for the first time in the history of the state.

Druggists to Meet

DALLAS, Texas.—Six National drug groups will hold annual conventions in Dallas during 1936. All meetings will be held on the Centennial Exposition grounds in the Federal Government building.

In compliance with the new Canadian regulations, American fishermen must now obtain licenses, and a rule limiting the day's catch to one black bass to a fisherman will be rigorously enforced. In the Bay of Quinte, Ontario, a small cruiser is due to duty in enforcing the law. It is said that some yachts in past seasons took from 60 to 150 bass in a day's fishing.

Railroad Service in Holland.
On the railroad in Holland E. V. Lyons writes: "The trains come in to the minute and go out to the minute. The officials are intelligent and polite. The carriages are good. Every station has its waiting room, where you may sit and read and drink a cup of coffee that is not only hot and fresh but is recognizably the product of the berry. It is impossible to travel in the wrong way."

New Texas Coins Now on Sale.

Austin, May 4.—The 1936 issue of Texas Centennial half dollars, which are being sold for the benefit of the Texas Memorial Museum, are now on sale. It has been announced here by Beauford Jester, general chairman of the Texas Memorial Museum Centennial Coin Campaign.

The 1936 coins minted at Philadelphia, Denver and San Francisco are being sold at the price as the 1935 issue which is now exhausted. A large supply of 1934 coins are still on hand and being sold at $1.00, the other years being sold at a larger premium.

The design on the 1934 coins is the same as on the 1936 issue, but due to the fact that the last issue is limited in number, the higher premium is being asked, Mr. Jester said.

Big Spring.—A well built concrete cellar with shelves on two sides for storing canned goods has been constructed by Mrs. G. W. Overton, 4-H pantry demonstrator for the Overton home demonstration club in Howard county, according to Miss Mayme Lou Parr, home demonstration agent.

The entire cellar is concrete lined and white-washed, with the shelves painted white. This makes the cellar very light, and it is possible to read all labels on the cans easily. A well balanced canning budget has been followed, providing sufficient leafy, starchy, and other types of vegetables.

The only known dinosaur tracks in the entire world will be on exhibit at the Texas University Centennial Exposition in Austin during the summer and will later be transferred to the Texas Memorial Museum, construction of which will get under way as one of the opening ceremonies of the University Exposition. The dinosaur tracks were recently found in a 75-foot sheet of Glen Rose limestone.

What the Politicians Should Know

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

One of the most interesting developments of recent weeks has been the sudden alarm of many men in public office over various political and economic theories which happened to originate elsewhere than in legislative halls.

Openly the politicians are expressing amazement at many of these new plans and projects, and wondering aloud just where and how they were inspired.

But the politicians should be the last of men to ask such questions.

For years many of them, in the quest of popular support, have been advocating projects not only startling and unusual, but frequently at odds with our American theories of government.

For years many of them have been preaching, for example, the exact opposite of Grover Cleveland's famous dictum that it is the business of the people to support the government—not of the government to support the people.

But whatever the temporary influence of such philosophies on scattered groups of citizens, they seem to be exercising little effect on the great productive body of American workers and earners.

Recognizing a responsibility to the handicapped and unfortunate, this predominant group, which represents the real strength and spirit of America, still believes with Theodore Roosevelt that America expects every citizen to be willing, so far as he is able, to pull his own weight.

And so long as that typically American spirit of courage and self-reliance prevails, neither the politicians nor the people need fear the wildest theories.

The Liberty Bell Rings Again

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Recently the Liberty Bell was "rung" again in Philadelphia.

At its guarded shrine in Independence Hall the famous relic was tapped with a rubber mallet and its deep tones were broadcast into homes throughout America and many parts of Europe.

On this occasion the Bell was sounded in the cause of peace. To the people of America and other lands it carried the message of our desire to live honorably in amity with all nations. But there are other messages which the Bell that has made glorious history could carry throughout the world.

It could remind us at home of the courage and strength and passionate desire for personal liberty on which our fathers founded and developed this nation.

It could carry to the regimented millions of Eastern Europe a reminder that it was in devotion to those principles that America attained a greater measure of well-being and happiness for all its people than any nation on earth.

It could recall to the autocrats and the people of central Europe the glorious history of a nation which wrote tolerance and freedom of religion into its fundamental law, and has devoted itself to those principles through 150 years of liberty.

It could remind the men and women of southern Europe that peace and happiness find their surest resting place where the people, not a dictator, rule the land.

These are some of the principles for which the Liberty Bell first rang a century and a half ago. If today it can strengthen these principles, not only at home but abroad, it will have performed another great service to mankind.

Home of the Wild Bee.
A wild bee's home, as we all know, serves the purpose of a storehouse as well as of a place for the young to grow and develop. The entrance used by the bees is often very small, but always leads into a large room. The wax for their honey and brood cells is the only thing in the least like furniture which they require. The brood and more bare the walls and floors, the better for them.—St. Nicholas.

Plans Completed for the Democratic Convention

SENATOR ALBEN W. BARKLEY of Kentucky, who was temporary chairman of the Democratic national convention in 1932 and as such delivered the keynote speech, will serve in the same capacity at the Philadelphia convention in June.

These selections were made by the committee on arrangements. Other officers of the convention chosen are: Lee Barnes of Alabama, chief doorkeeper; Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, national committeewoman of the District of Columbia, hostess of the convention.

National Chairman Farley said that the two-thirds rule, which has prevailed in Democratic conventions for a century, will not be abolished. The rules committee will be headed by Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri and it will report for abrogation of the two-thirds rule as well as elimination of the unit rule.

Present plans are to have Mr. Roosevelt go to Philadelphia on Saturday, June 27, to close the convention by accepting the nomination in a speech delivered either in the Municipal stadium or in the University of Pennsylvania stadium close to the convention hall.

Roosevelt Addresses National Democratic Club

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT made what might be considered the first of his campaign speeches before the National Democratic club in New York city, Tammany was there in full force, but such disgruntled Democrats as Al Smith and John J. Raskob were conspicuous by their absence.

"If you increase buying power," he said, "prices will go up; more goods will be sold. Wages ought to and must go up with prices. This does not mean unsound inflation or skyrocketing prices; this should be avoided just as we seek to avoid bankruptcy sale values."

Turning to his critics with sarcasm, the President said "some individuals are never satisfied." Referring to charges of extravagance and mounting deficits, he said people complain to him about "the current costs of rebuilding America, about the burden on future America." He insisted that the measure should not be the three-billion-dollar deficit of this year but the assertion that the national income has risen thirty-five billions in 1932 to sixty-five billions in 1936.

New Tax Bill Battle Started in House

THE administration's bill to levy about $90 million dollars in new taxes yearly was introduced in the house by the ways and means committee, and a fierce battle started immediately. The Republican minority of the committee issued a report which stated that the proposed tax law was "unsound in principle, will undermine business stability, is another step toward regimentation of all business, and is not designed to raise revenue but admittedly is another New Deal experiment."

Conservative Democrats joined with the Republicans in this attack against the bill, but the administration leaders were confident the measure would pass before May 1.

Green Urges Unions to Remain Nonpartisan

WILLIAM GREEN, president of the American Federation of Labor, has sent a letter to all affiliated unions urging that they adhere to the federation's "traditional nonpartisan political policy." He says:

"For obvious reasons, labor should avoid division even in the pursuit of its political policies. Such division can be avoided if working men and women, loyal to the American Federation of Labor, will refrain from identifying themselves with any political movement designed to serve as a substitute for the nonpartisan political policy of the American Federation of Labor."

Some time ago George L. Berry asked all unions to join "Labor's Nonpartisan league," the object of which, he said, was "to put American Federation of Labor unions on the record for President Roosevelt."

Navy in Six-Week Drill on the Pacific

ONE hundred and fifty vessels of the United States fleet, with 450 airplanes, are now engaged in the year's grand maneuvers in the Pacific. War conditions prevail and the vessels and their crews are being given a severe test of their fitness that will last for six weeks.

Von Starhemberg of Austria Voices His Defiance

CIVIL war in Austria became a possibility as the quarrel between the Fascists led by Prince Ernst von Starhemberg and the clerical and monarchist elements became acute. Government officials, however, were trying desperately to patch up the trouble.

Prince Von Starhemberg, who is vice chancellor, in a defiant speech at Horn warned his political opponents that his helmwehr, or home guard, would be dissolved "only over my dead body."

Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, speaking at Baden, retorted that "Austria is not Italy and Austrians are not Fascists."

Von Starhemberg asserted that if internal foes press too hard there will be a "repetition of 1934"—when the helmwehr triumphed in a short but bloody civil war against Socialists. False friends surround Schuschnigg, von Starhemberg said, and the helmwehr plans to protect him from them.

For Austria, said Starhemberg, there are three possibilities—a continuation of the authority of the state, Nazism, or communism. He asserted the helmwehr is determined to preserve the Fascist system and would continue as a separate organization but that other private armies would be absorbed by the regular army.

Advance of the Italians in Ethiopia Continues

ITALY'S victorious troops in northern Ethiopia continued their advance on Addis Ababa, though it was somewhat retarded by the efforts of the natives to blow up the roadways and otherwise harass the invaders. The Italian motorized column in this movement is the most formidable yet formed in this war and is notable for the large number of white troops included.

General Graziana's southern army, meanwhile, was driving toward Harar, second city of the empire, in three columns. The Ethiopians were putting up stiff resistance at various points but everywhere were driven back, according to Italian dispatches.

Contreras Is Elected President of Venezuela

ELEAZAR LOPEZ CONTRERAS, an army officer who rose to the rank of general under the late dictator, Juan Vicente Gomez, is now president of Venezuela. The national congress elected him to that office by a vote of 132 to 1 and directed that he assume the office on May 29. As president of the chamber, Contreras became temporary president on the death of Gomez.

Supreme Court Decision in Stock Yards Case

UPHOLDING a reduction of rates and charges at the St. Joseph, Mo., stockyards, the Supreme court held that the findings made by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace justified the rates he set and that the stockyards operators had failed to show confiscation.

Justice Louis D. Brandeis, Harlan F. Stone and Benjamin Cordozo agreed that the rates should be upheld but in an opinion by Justice Brandeis expressed belief that the court went too far in passing on the fairness of rates.

Two Well-Known Writers Taken by Death

DEATH came to two of America's well-known writers. One was Finley Peter Dunne, creator of "Mr. Dooley," the genial satirist of modern life whose witty sayings delighted two generations. The second was Percy Hammond, veteran dramatic critic of the New York Herald Tribune, one of the foremost of the country's commentators on matters theatrical. Both passed away in New York city.

STAR DUST Movie • Radio

JAMES MELTON, one of radio's sweetest singers, has finished his latest radio assignment and arrived in Hollywood to work in "Cain and Mabel." Before leaving New York he made inquiries as to his own importance in the picture—wanted to know what sort of breaks he'd get on publicity, etc.

He knew that Marlon Davies, being the star, would come first in the hearts of the publicity men for the company. A casual inquiry revealed the fact that he'd come second, which was all right with him. But for the moment neither he nor his informant recalled that Mary Boland was also cast for that picture—and Miss Boland is pretty important, being an excellent actress and a favorite of movie fans as well.

Also—Mr. Melton is, first of all, a singer. The script calls for a prize-fighter as a hero. The question at the moment is—if you take his singing away from Mr. Melton, will you have a prize-fighter?

Now it's Harold Lloyd who wants to make pictures in color. He has been making experiments on his own hook for the last two years, but is not yet quite sure whether or not color would add to the type of comedies that he makes.

Furthermore, he's through with making just one picture a year; from now on he'll make two a year, he thinks, or at least, two every three years. And with his latest one, "The Milky Way," as an example, that comes under the heading of good news.

Those radio programs of Bing Crosby are rapidly becoming one of the best of the broadcasts; he is getting really big names, (or rather, his sponsor is getting them for him), and he makes a delightful master of ceremonies. Better add this program to the list of those you tune in on Thursday evenings.

When you see "The Great Ziegfeld" (and of course you'll see it) you'll hear "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody" beautifully sung. Allan Jones sang it, while Stanley Morner was photographed as if he were singing it. Jones did not get screen credit, and Morner, who has a good singing voice, got credit but didn't sing.

The youngsters in Hal Roach's "Our Gang" started on a personal appearance tour a while ago, which has proved so successful that they will go on and on right through the summer. Not only children, but grown people as well, arrive for the first show and then right on till closing time.

As if there hadn't been enough trouble over Mae West's latest, "Klondike Annie," the Chinese government is objecting to it now, so Mae won't be a welcome visitor in the Orient.

Another picture that you'll want to see is "I Married a Doctor"—which you'll recognize as Sinclair Lewis' great book, "Main Street."

Josephine Hutchinson and Pat O'Brien have the leads, and do exceedingly well by them. However, here's a word of warning to young, unmarried doctors; don't take the girl you hope to marry to see this one, for it may make them feel that doctors don't make very good husbands.

Staging a come-back in pictures was rather a hard thing for Dolores Costello Barrymore to do; she was a victim of the early days of talkies, when she was given such insane speeches that audiences laughed at her, which cost her an opportunity she really deserved.

But she took voice lessons, and diction lessons, and did so well in "Little Lord Fauntleroy" that Paramount has signed her up. Now it looks as if a real career is opening for her.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . When people in New York asked Bette Davis if she was going to fly back to Hollywood she said, "No; I'm a sissy, I'll take the train" . . . Al Tolson and Ruby Keeler did the same . . . But a few accidents have not frightened the general public; plane reservations still have to be made way ahead . . . Eddie Robinson refused to be frightened; his mother was ill in New York, so he flew to see her, and flew back . . . Anita Louise is the latest star to embark for picture-making in England . . . Eddie Cantor's new radio contract calls for something like $15,000 a week, but he'll have to pay his company himself . . . Ed Wynn will return to NBC soon, and have Graham McNamee with him again.

Familiarity

FAMILIARITY makes us careless and unobservant. But there comes a day when we observe and think. Then we suffer. As a boy I loved life and country things. I used to get up to see the sun, as an old divine I once read remarks, "coming forth from his chambers in the East." I have come in to breakfast drenched in dew. Waiting for Nightfall and a Meal of Mice.

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service

THE evening air of early spring in the Everglades of southern Florida is soft and mild. Delicate scents from blossoms come with the breeze, together with the voices of myriad frogs in incessant but attractive chorus from the marshes. Suddenly, from the moss-festooned live oaks in this peaceful background, comes an outburst of demoniacal laughter, guttural in sound and startling in its abruptness.

Playing the beam of light from an electric torch through the branches, you discover presently two glowing spots of ruby red, reflections from a pair of eyes. As your own eyes adjust themselves to the feeble illumination, you can distinguish dimly the shadowy form of a great barred owl. The hubbub stops immediately, for the bird is puzzled by the spot of light; but as you continue along the trail the owl, now behind you, utters a loud, prolonged whoo-oo-oo-aw that resounds eerily among the trees. Until daybreak you hear at intervals the wild undulation of its calls filling the darkened woodland.

The voices of owls are more familiar than their persons, as most of them are active principally at night, and without special search the birds themselves are difficult to see. Their presence, unseen but constantly evident, has caused imagination to play about them until in practically every country in the world there have grown up fables and superstitions regarding owls.

The little owl of Europe, about as large as the American screech owl without the ear tufts of that species, has long been an emblem of wisdom, and in early years was accepted as a special ward of Pallas Athene of the Greeks.

He Only Looks Wise.

The vogue of the owl as an emblem of wisdom is not due to any special intelligence of the bird, but to the conformation of the head, with the two eyes so placed that they look directly ahead like those of man.

As the companion of night-flying witches, or as one of the ingredients in the brews concocted by these trouble-makers, the owl developed a black and unsavory reputation, attested by many references to its evil omen in Shakespeare and other writers.

Among American Indians, owls, though feared at times, were in better repute and were the basis of various lively legends. Zuni tales include stories of one called "gray owl" that lived in a house as a man does. The Pima Indians held that at death the human spirit passed into the body of an owl and, to assist in this transmigration, they gave owl feathers, kept for the purpose in a special box, to a dying person.

Among the Plains Indians, the Arikara included an owl group as one of their eight mystic societies, and in the sacred rites of this body they used the stuffed skin of an owl with disks of cunningly fitted buffalo horn for eyes.

Owls are found throughout the world from the Arctic regions through the continents and to remote islands in the sea. More than 300 kinds are known, ranging in size from the tiny elf owl, no larger than sparrows, to the powerful horned owls and eagle owls, which are two feet or more in length.

Scientifically, all owls are included in one order, the Strigiformes, in which two families are recognized, one for the barn owls (Tytonidae) and the other (Strigidae) for all other species.

Regardless of their size, owls are instantly identified by their broad faces with prominent disks of feathers about the eyes, coupled with sharp, curved beaks and claws, and long, fluffy feathers. Their nearest relatives are the whippoorwills, night-hawks, and goatsuckers.

Formerly it was thought that owls were allied to hawks and falcons, but on careful study it was found that these two groups differ radically in structure. The resemblances are superficial and are due to the form of the beak and claws, which have undergone similar development from seeking the same kinds of foods.

Other Birds Dislike Them.

Most owls are nocturnal and by day sleep in caves, hollow trees, tangles of leaves, or whatever may offer protection. When they are found by other birds, there is high excitement, jays, cardinals, and the like gathering to scold and chatter at these enemies of the night. Crows are more aggressive and often drive the largest owls to seek more secure cover where they may avoid their cawing black tormentors.

The homes of owls are located in hollows of trees, caverns in rocks, or in stick nests built by hawks, crows, or other birds. Often no nesting material of any kind is used. The eggs are white, occasionally tinted with buff or pale blue, but without markings, and are peculiar in being usually elliptical or nearly round. The young are covered with white down and remain in the nest under care of the parents for a considerable time.

In defense of their young, owls are often aggressive and swoop at any and all who chance to pass, sometimes with startling effect when the attack is delivered without warning. A scientist climbing to the nest of a great horned owl once was struck so savagely in the back by one of the parents that the strong talons of the bird drew blood through the heavy clothing he wore.

While walking at dusk near a woodland camp in eastern Kansas, the scientist was startled by something that, without warning, struck his bare head. The aggressor was a little screech owl with a family of young nearby. At other times he has had owls knock off his hat, assisted no doubt by his involuntary flinching as the bird brushed past. In Puerto Rico, country people inform you gravely that a native owl steals the hats of persons who walk the trails at night and carry them off to use them for nests, a superstition probably based on attacks such as those described.

Their Plumage Is Soft.

All owls have soft plumage composed of long, fluffy feathers. The wings have softened margins, so that in flight the birds move without sound, as if they were shadows. In owls, the lower leg, or tarsus, and upper surfaces of the toes, bare in most birds, are covered with feathers, these being reduced or absent only in a few species that inhabit warm countries. The plumage colors run usually to gray, brown, and buff, with lighter markings of buff and gray. White and black are extensive in some, but brighter colors are rare or absent.

Some of the smaller owls have rounded markings on the back of the head, resembling eyes. In South America the country people tell you these birds have four eyes. They can see behind as well as ahead.

The eyes of owls are fixed so immovably in the head, where both are directed forward, that the bird must change the position of the head to alter its line of vision.

Though the majority of owls remain hidden in shaded, secluded places by day, there are a few that are abroad by day or by night indifferently. This is true of the snowy owl, which lives in summer through the long Arctic day, and of the borrowing owls of open country in the new world. The latter delights in resting in the sun, and in broad daylight detects and watches hawks and other birds flying at such great heights that one can barely see them.

What They Eat.

Owls live mostly on animal food which is captured alive, except that occasionally they feed upon rabbits freshly killed by automobiles along our highways, or upon other carcasses. Mice, rats, and other small mammals are regular prey, as are birds of various species.

The barred owl eats many crayfish and fish, while crabs and fish are staple foods of the fish owls of Africa and India, which have featherless legs and rough, horny-surfaced toes to assist in capturing such slippery prey. Horned owls have been known to capture goldfish in ornamental pools, but this is unusual.

Owls, like hawks, tear their prey apart and swallow the pieces entire. During digestion the flesh is assimilated, while bones, fur, feathers, and other indigestible portions are formed into compact pellets, which are regurgitated to leave the stomach empty for another meal. Such pellets accumulate about roosts and, through identification of the bones contained, give a valuable index to the food of the bird concerned.

The great horned owls and snowy owls are merely predatory, killing rabbits, squirrels, and other creatures of good size. The former has been known to capture and eat small owls. In the Dominican Republic was seen a burrowing owl tearing at the body of a young bird of its own kind which had been killed and thrown aside by some native.

Occasionally wild mice increase for various reasons until they form a veritable plague. Under such circumstances short-eared owls gather in abundance and aid in reducing the numbers of the pests. Burrowing owls feed extensively on beetles and other large insects.

Noble Thoughts

THE note of the day in all its higher and nobler trend of thought is to include, to share, to communicate. Emerson has remarked that "exclusiveness excludes itself." All that we keep out we go without. If we admit no one we deprive ourselves of every one, and if we admit a few in order to lay to our souls the flattering unction of exclusiveness, we exclude the many. If you have greater knowledge, finer culture, do not exclude but share, and find in it its divinest sweetness.—Lillian Whiting.

NOT long ago I was like some friends I have... low in spirits... run-down... out of sorts... tired easily and looked terrible. I knew I had no serious organic trouble so I reasoned sensibly... as my experience has since proven... that work, worry, colds and whatnot had just worn me down.

"Yes, I have come back to where I feel like myself again."

The confidence mother has always had in S.S.S. Tonic... which is still her stand-by when she feels run-down... convinced me I ought to try this Treatment... I started a course... the color began to come back to my skin... I felt better... I no longer tired easily and soon I felt that those red-blood-cells were back to so-called fighting strength... it is great to feel strong again and like my old self. © S.S.S. Co.

Mrs. Roy Keller of Brady, is here taking mineral water baths for eczema. Years ago she and her family lived here and she was known as Heba Fay Robinson, and when about 10 years old, served faithfully as the "angel" who presided over the roller which inked the type on the G. She can depend on our Christoval mineral water curing her trouble, as it has never failed.

A big portion of West Texas received good rains last night. Some counties got as much as 2 inches. Christoval and surrounding country received 1-2 inches or more which makes the weeds and grass sprout up. In indications are favorable for more rain today.
