Good Card.

Completing the races for the fall fair, the foregoing card should be the best that has been offered on the track this season.

It will be noticed in the first race
some of the best horses on the grounds will try for the final honors. Juror Campbell, the old favorite that lost Thursday, will again be a competitor to regain his prominence. Juror is a very fine racer and is to be watched for it is not his usual custom to let another horse canter under the wire in front of him. He generally saves his greatest speed for the home stretch, where he always makes a standstill play.

Juror is a fine racer, but there is one Greer, a horse that has been silent so far, but he will open fire in the enemy's camp Saturday and will likely cause a great disturbance. His being ability is known to be of the best grade and he generally leads the hunch when the wire is reached.

Besides these there are others that have done very good work, and on the whole, Saturday's races are prospectively the best of the entries made this season.

Friday's Results.

Racing Friday was of the finest type and many fancy stunts were pulled off. The races were fast and excitement was at its highest.

Three heats were necessary to determine the winner of the first race and a closely contested event Major Kleennart was the final winner, but fans looked very doubtful in the bet, for Jim Cobb let the bunch start the first heat, Jimmie was very swift and was remarkably well driven his speed failed in the last two heats and the Major was left unmanned the master of the turf in the 5th trot. Having entered upon the second heat, many expressions of doubt were made as regards Major Kleennart's winning, but all this was aside when he came out far ahead in the race in the finish. However, at the start, Jim Cobb led him to home stretch mark, but when that came, only a little seeing was needed. (Continued On Page Five.)

RAIN COMES JUST RIGHT

LONG DROUTH IN KANSAS AND VI-CINITY COMES TO AN END.

RIVER RUNNING WIDE

Only Recently Government Had Been Asked to Help Suffering Indians
Near the Border.

Hutchison, Kan., Oct. 8.—The great drouth that has caused much desper-ateism in this state for the last few weeks was broken today by one of the finest rains that ever fell in this country. The Kansas river, which has been at the lowest mark in twenty-five years, is now running with a full bed of water and the machinery that has been stopped for several days has again started. The oil wells that were ceasing to flow are again gushing with oil and the prospects of the country are very favorable.

For awhile it seemed that many people would die from starvation and the government had been called upon for aid, but now everything is looking bright and all fear of a famine has been discarded.

Curtiss Files.

St. Louis, Oct. 8.—Glenn Curtiss made a forty-five seconds flight Friday, going a quarter of a mile. His flight was prevented in the same manner as Wright's, as the wind and weather in general prevailed unfavorably.

PASSENGER BACKING INTO CITY
LIMITS BUMPS INTO AN OIL
TRAIN.

TEN PEOPLE ARE SERIOUSLY INJURED

Engineer On Local Sees Approaching Danger and Almost Succeeds in Bringing Engine to a Stop.

Topeka, Oct. 8.—In a wreck on the Santa Fe at Topeka today fifteen people were killed and ten seriously injured.

The passenger train was hit by an oil train on the outskirts of the city as it was rounding a curve. Both trains were running tolerably fast, but the passenger came to almost a complete stop before the accident.

The oil train was due to be on the siding at the time of the accident, but was coming in the yards to take water when the passenger was backing in on the track to turn. The engineer of the oil train did not know that the passenger was coming and it was impossible for him to stop after he saw it.

Hearst For Mayor.

New York, Oct. 8.—William Randolph Hearst, the biggest journalist of the world, has announced himself as a candidate for the mayoralty of New York City of the Independent party. Hearst once made the remark that he would decline the nomination, but his political friends have urged him very strongly to accept, which he has complied with.

HARRY WHITNEY.

Harry Whitney's account of his experience with Cook and Peary is expected to aid materially in settling the points at issue between the two explorers. It was to Whitney that Cook intrusted the records of his trip to the pole, according to the Brooklyn doctor. On the other hand, Peary's account of his meeting with Whitney at a later date declares that Whitney did not mention such records. Whitney is a wealthy resident of New Haven, Conn., who went to the north on a sporting expedition.

PRESIDENT GETS AN EARLY START

WANDERS THROUGH YOSEMITE VALLEY, SEEING SIGHTS.

GOES OUT ON CLIFFS

Becomes Uneasy On Account of His Weight, and Does Not Go as Far as Teddy Did.

Wawona, Calif., Oct. 8.—President Taft was up before daylight this morning ready for the day's pleasure drive.
He was very eager to see the sights and was taken in a stage coach through the Yosemite Valley to see the big trees.

He admired the beautiful scenery and went out on the cliffs, but not as far as Roosevelt did several years ago while here.

The president is a great adventurer, but he fears his extra amount of avoirduois would not fare so well if he got overbalanced and rolled down a cliff.

MOB.

Prisoners Taken From Jail and Hanged Near Greenburg, La.

Greenburg, La., Oct. 8.—Being very much wrought up, a mob today took from the Greenburg jail Tipieca, a Red-Bone, and a negro, who tried to kill Senator B. T. Young recently, and lynched them a short way from the jail. The mob was not bolstered after securing the men, but quietly hanged them just out of the city limits.

Southern Pacific.

Washington, Oct. 8.—It is reported that the Southern Pacific will build a line through Mexico to Guadalajara and have it completed by 1912. This belief is derived from Masell, of the Mexico lines, who has been in Washington for several days on railroad matters.

John D. II.

Galveston, Oct. 8.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., heads a syndicate to get control of the guayule fields in Mexico. They have already gotten 65 per cent of the fields and are to be rivals to the rubber monopoly.

SPAIN CAPTURES FT. TRESFARGAS

MOORS SURRENDER WITHOUT EVEN FIRING A SHOT.

BATTLES STILL RAGING

However, Morocco is Not Troubled With Such Bloodsheds as Recently the Case Has Been.

Melilla, Oct. 8.—Still the battles rage in Spain and Spanish troops are gaining more strongholds from the Moors. Friday the Spanish troops captured Cape Tresfarcas without even firing a shot. The Moors are seemingly losing confidence in the war, but are still waging fights in some parts of the country.

COTTON OPENS ABOUT STEADY

New York, Oct. 8.—The cotton market opened steady, but had a bullish sentiment that was caused by a private telegram which was received from Texas. The message stated that the Panhandle district was covered in snow.

The market developed an advance of from 4 to 9 points higher than yesterday, but the report that the governors of the American Cotton Manufacturers voted to recommend the curtailment of Southern spinners caused a break. Spots were quiet, upland middling 13:55. Gulf middling 13:80. Liverpool quotations advanced to 7:27 d.

Stocks.

New York, Oct. 8.—Pennsylvania led the market Friday, but all trading was very narrow. However, a big profit was taken on Atchison. The afternoon market was weak. Government unchanged and all others lower.

Call money opened four and three-quarters and closed at three higher than five.

POISONING OF PRAIRIE DOGS

MORE THAN 7,500,000 HAVE BEEN KILLED IN EIGHT MONTHS.

GOVERNMENT REPORTS

Crusade Against These Pests is Being Carried On With Vim in the Southwest.

Kansas City, Oct. 8.—More than 7-500,000 prairie dogs have been killed by poisoning in the last eight months, according to the report of J. W. Holman, official government inspector.

The crusade against the dogs was caused on account of the great damage done farms.

The inspector says that there will be over a million killed in the next eight months.

STEAMSHIPS

MUST PAY A HIGHER RATE

Galveston, Oct. 8.—A cablegram which was received at Galveston from London today announces that all steamship line owners running vessels between Gulf and European ports will have to pay higher rates of transportation. A general conference was held Thursday and the rates were agreed upon. They have not been quoted, but are very lenient in a large measure.

GEORGIA FEELS TWO EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS ONE DAY

Dalton, Ga., Oct. 8.—Causing much excitement and disturbance, two earthquake shocks were felt in Georgia this morning. The shocks only lasted a few minutes and no damage has been reported. The shocks were much stronger than some that have been felt in preceding weeks.

The people in Georgia and other adjacent states are rather annoyed over the situation, as these disturbances are getting monotonous.

SUCCESSFUL.

Wilbur Wright Makes Flight, But Wind is Unfavorable.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Making a three-minute flight in an aeroplane, Wilbur Wright sailed at College Park, Maryland, today. The wind was rather high and it was impossible to gain much height and stay in the air very long, but the flight was successful in every respect.

Effects of Tariff.

Providence, Oct. 8.—High price raw materials which were created by the recent tariff bill are causing all the cotton mills of Rhode Island to close down. The result of the raw material prices is causing only the larger cotton mills to operate and will no doubt cause some further talk on the tariff question.

Rock Island Wreck.

Waterloo, Oct. 8.—In a wreck on the Rock Island in Iowa, James Marple was killed and eight others seriously injured. The wreck occurred forty miles north of Waterloo and the exact cause of it is not yet known.

PRESIDENT LOWELL'S PLAN.

A great event in the history of education has occurred. Albert Lawrence Lowell on October 6 seated himself in the president's chair of Harvard University and former Governor of Massachusetts John D. Long, as president of the board of overseers delivered to him, one by one, the yellow charter, the silver keys and the golden seal of Harvard University. And when the last had been handed him, Mr. Long declared, "Albert Lawrence Lowell, vested with all the powers and privileges of the president of Harvard University."

It has been forty years since the charter, the keys and the seal of this great institution of learning had been brought into the sunlight. And for these forty winters there has been nothing but the glories of success to crown the efforts and ends for which same has been promoted.

We have wondered if the methods could be improved upon, and when the announcement was made that there would be a revolution in the plans of the institution, there was great doubt as to the success of any course which might be pursued other than that which has been so long tried.

But when President Emeritus Elliot announced that the policies of the new president would be "learn one thing well and something of everything," great shouts of joy and approval went up from the thousands of the foremost men in the educational world.

"Learn one thing well and something of everything." It has long been conceded that one man could not make a success of more than one thing at a time. It is as well accepted that one learned in a special line is of more value than any amount of untaught help. Each profession must have its special. And after all there is no more of a profession of medicine, law or optics than there is in farming, raising cattle or running a sawmill.

Then if it is necessary for a man to specialize on the one, why not on the other? Here is hoping that this principal will be adopted and that each child entering not only the higher places of learning, but from the very first steps of the free school, will be taught that it is its duty and that necessity demands that it make a choice of some special line of work and follow that more closely than any other, never losing sight, however, of the one great cardinal, "get a liberal broad education."

It means a great deal for the future success of this idea that such a prominent man in the educational world has adopted it.

CHALKS SAFETY VALVE.

Exhibit at Fair Grounds Proves Very Interesting.

Among the exhibits of the Findlater Hardware Company at the fair grounds will be seen Chalks Safety Valve. This valve is a safety cut-off for water troughs where the ordinary float valve is used.

Ranchmen throughout the country, especially in the well districts, have experienced considerable loss of water on account of some default of the float valve, and it is a great thing to know that they now have something that will protect it for them.

It is very distressing to a ranchman to have a tank of water and have it lost in a very short while.

R. H. Chalk, a prominent ranchman of Sutton county, is the inventor of this neat little valve, and he deserves great credit from his fellow ranchmen for getting out something of this kind. The Findlater Hardware Company is the wholesale and retail distributors of the Chalk's Safety Valve.

R. H. Thartman of Kansas City, returned to his home Friday, after attending the fair.

Miss Dea Jackson has gone to her home in Fort Worth, after visiting here a few days.

STREET AND ALLEY COMMITTEE AFTER IMPROVEMENTS.

ON CHADBOURNE STREET

Sidewalks Near Concho Avenue, Now Out of Place, Will Be Brought to Proper Line.

Believing that the time is ripe for some improvements on sidewalks in the business section of the city, the street and alley committee of the city council announces that immediately after the fair merchants having fronts on Chadbourne street, near the Landon hotel, will be instructed to make some badly needed repairs.

The sidewalk on the west side of Chadbourne street, running from a point near the middle of the block, down to Concho avenue, is not as wide as it should be, and this is to receive immediate attention. The paved walk has been extended by means of a platform.

form. This platform will be removed and, under the direction of the street and alley committee, the walk will be extended to its proper width.

On the other side of the street the walk is also out of line, and it, too, will be made to correspond with the property lines.

After being in the city prospecting for several days, B. L. Roker of Hillsboro, has returned to his home, well pleased with this country.

Sam F. Flannigan of Cleburne, has been here with his family visiting the fair. He left Friday for his home, greatly enthused over the prospects of San Angelo.

Geo. Norvill and wife returned to their home in Lometa Friday.

Miss Laura Matson has gone to Dallas on a visit to friends and relatives.

G. H. Barta of St. Louis, has been in the city on business. He left for Ballinger Friday.

OLD TIMERS' DAY AT SAN ANTONIO

FRIDAY, NOV. 12, SET AS DATE FOR GATHERING OF COWMEN.

SOME SPECIAL FEATURES

Committee Will Exert Every Effort to Make Occasion One That Will Long Be Remembered.

San Antonio, Oct. 8.—Friday, November 12th, has been named as "Old Timers' Round-up Day" at the big International Fair of San Antonio this fall, and the committee in charge is planning to make it a banner day in both attendance and entertainment. The purpose is to bring together, for a day of sport and entertainment typical of those times, all old-time cattle men and "cow-punchers," irrespective of present calling, who once engaged in the cattle industry on the open ranges of Texas, are the now ubiquitous barbed-wire prescribe limits to the round-up and the railroads dimmed the trail. The day's program promises to have plenty doing from the opening in the morning to the big "blow-out" at night in honor of the men who first "made Texas famous." The forenoon will be largely taken up in a reunion, with speaking by "Old-Timers," and by men of national reputation; and in the afternoon many features typical of the range will be seen. The festive broncho will be "busted" in the good old-fashioned way. Fleet, trim-limbed cow ponies, ridden by real "Old Timers," will strive with one another to be first under the wire. And old-time round-up outfit will emerge into view and a herd of real "long-horns" will be rounded into the "cutting-flat" and famous, fleet-footed, trained and best reined "cutting horses"—few remaining specimens of this one-time pride and pet of the Texas "puncher"—will prescribe stiff figures and perform stunts calculated to put the old-timers in a reminiscent mood and cause them to pray to Father Time to "make me a (cow) boy again, just till tonight." Men of staid habits and stern affairs; captains and colonels in business and finance; bankers and merchants; men long steeped in problems of profession and statecraft, will all forget for the time the worry and the dignity which is their wont, and as John and Jim and Tom and Bill will remember and recount with all the vigor and enthusiasm of boyhood, long-forgotten stories—exaggerated and embellished, of course—of the round-up and the trail. The ladies, too—the mothers, wives, daughters, sisters and sweethearts of the "Old-Timers"—are not to be neglected; and features for their special entertainment, and prizes for their benefits, are being arranged.

The widest possible publicity is being given the big event; and the president of the Fair, as well as the members of the special committee in charge of the day's program, are being deluged with inquiries and responses from over the state, which indicate a general enthusiasm in the movement.

The officers and members of the Cattle Raisers Association are lending active aid, and Hon. Jim Callan of Menardville, president of that association—who, by the way, is said to be incubating one of his inimitable and sparkling speeches for the occasion—has made the threat that if any "Old Timer" fails to attend, he will "cut his mount, throw his bedding off the wagon and refuse to work his cattle."

Altogether, "Old Timers' Round-up Day" is going to present a spectacle that will cause a Texas Cattle Raisers Association gathering to look like a committee meeting! and it promises to provide a day of entertainment that would make a wild west show seem as tame as a Sunday school picnic.

Incidentally, it will serve, too, to recall and commemorate the trials, triumphs and achievements of that vanishing type of our civilization, the sturdy and self-reliant spirit of which is well worthy of perpetuation. It is to be hoped that the occasion will score such a success this fall as to make "Old Timers' Round-up Day" a permanent feature of the great Fair.

"It was impossible for the murderer to escape by the way he had entered the court without our seeing him, or if we couldn't see him we must certainly have felt him, since the court is a very narrow one, inclosed in high iron railings."

"Then if the man was hemmed in that narrow square how is it you did not find him? I have been asking you that for the last half hour."

"M. President," replied Rouletabille, "I cannot answer that question before half past 6."

The president had certainly been impressed by Rouletabille's explanation of Mme. Mathieu's part.

"Well, M. Rouletabille," he said, "as you say. But don't let us see any more of you before half past 6."

Rouletabille bowed to the president and made his way to the door of the witness room.

I quietly made my way through the crowd and left the court almost at the same time as Rouletabille. He greeted me heartily and looked happy.

"I'll not ask you, my dear fellow," I said, smiling, "what you've been doing in America, because I've no doubt you'll say you can't tell me until after half past 6."

"No, my dear Sainclair, I'll tell you right now why I went to America. I went in search of the name of the other half of the murderer."

"The name of the other half?"
"Exactly! When we last left the Glandier I knew there were two halves to the murderer and the name of only one of them. I went to America for the name of the other half."

I was too puzzled to answer. Just then we entered the witness room, and Rouletabille was immediately surrounded. He showed himself very friendly to all except Arthur Rance, to whom he exhibited a marked coldness of manner. Frederic Larsan came in also. Rouletabille went up and shook him heartily by the hand. His manner toward the detective showed that he had got the better of the policeman. Larsan smiled and asked him what he had been doing in America. Rouletabille began by telling him some anecdotes of his voyage. They then turned aside together, apparently with the object of speaking confidentially.

On the stroke of half past 6 Joseph Rouletabille was again brought in. It is impossible for me to picture the tense excitement which appeared on every face as he made his way to the bar. Darzac rose to his feet, frightfully pale.

The president, addressing Rouletabille, said gravely:

"I will not ask you to take the oath, because you have not been regularly summoned, but I trust there is no need to urge upon you the gravity of the statement you are about to make."

Rouletabille looked the president quite calmly and steadily in the face and replied:

"Yes, monsieur."
"At your last appearance here," said the president, "we had arrived at the point where you were to tell us how the murderer escaped and also his name. Now, M. Rouletabille, we await your explanation."

"Very well, monsieur," began my friend amidst a profound silence. "I had explained how it was impossible for the murderer to get away without being seen. And yet he was there with us in the court."

"And you did not see him? At least that is what the prosecution declares."

"No! We all of us saw him, M. le President!" cried Rouletabille.

"Then why was he not arrested?"
"Because no one besides myself knew that he was the murderer. It would have spoiled my plans to have had him arrested, and I had then no proof other than my own reasoning. I was convinced we had the murderer before us and that we were actually looking at him. I have now brought what I consider the indisputable proof."

"Speak out, monsieur. Tell us the murderer's name."

"You will find it on the list of names present in the court on the night of the tragedy," replied Rouletabille.

The people present in the courtroom began showing impatience. Some of them even called for the name and were silenced by the usher.

"The list includes Daddy Jacques, Bernier, the concierge, and Mr. Arthur Rance," said the president. "Do you accuse any of these?"

"No, monsieur!"

"Then I do not understand what you are driving at. There was no other person at the end of the court."

"Yes, monsieur, there was, not at the end, but above the court, who was leaning out of the window."

"Do you mean Frederic Larsan?" exclaimed the president.

"Yes, Frederic Larsan!" replied Rouletabille in a ringing tone. "Frederic Larsan is the murderer!"

The courtroom became immediately filled with loud and indignant protests. So astonished was he that the president did not attempt to quiet it. The quick silence which followed was broken by the distinctly whispered words from the lips of Robert Darzac:

"It's impossible! He's mad!"

"You dare to accuse Frederic Larsan, monsieur?" asked the president. "If you are not mad, what are your proofs?"

"Proofs, monsieur? Do you want proofs? Well, here is one," cried Rouletabille shrilly. "Let Frederic Larsan be called!"

"Usher, call Frederic Larsan."

The usher hurried to the side door, opened it and disappeared. The door remained open, while all eyes turned expectantly toward it. The clerk reappeared and, stepping forward, said:

"M. President, Frederic Larsan is not here. He left at about 4 o'clock and has not been seen since."

"That is my proof!" cried Rouletabille triumphantly.

"Explain yourself," demanded the president.

"My proof is Larsan's flight," said the young reporter. "He will not come back. You will see no more of Frederic Larsan."

"Unless you are playing with the court, monsieur, why did you not accuse him when he was present? He would then have answered you."

"He could give no other answer than the one he has now given by his flight."

"We cannot believe that Larsan has fled. There was no reason for his doing so. Did he know you'd make this charge?"

"He did. I told him I would."

"Do you mean to say that knowing Larsan was the murderer you gave him the opportunity to escape?"

"Yes, M. President, I did," replied Rouletabille proudly. "I am not a policeman; I am a journalist, and my business is not to arrest people. My business is in the service of truth and is not that of an executioner. If you are just, monsieur, you will see that I am right. You can now understand why I refrained until this hour to divulge the name. I gave Larsan time to catch the 4-17 train for Paris, where he would know where to hide himself and leave no traces. You will not find Frederic Larsan," declared Rouletabille, fixing his eyes on M. Robert Darzac. "He is too cunning. He is a man who has always escaped you and whom you have long searched for in vain. If he did not succeed in outwitting me he can yet easily outwit any police. This man, who four years ago introduced himself to the police and became celebrated as Frederic Larsan, is notorious under another name—a name well known to crime. Frederic Larsan, M. President, is Ballmeyer."

"Ballmeyer?" cried the president.

"Ballmeyer!" exclaimed Robert Darzac, springing to his feet. "Ballmeyer! It was true, then?"

"Ah, M. Darzac, you don't think I am mad now?" cried Rouletabille.

"Ballmeyer! Ballmeyer! No other word could be heard in the courtroom. The president adjourned the hearing.

Those of my readers who may not have heard of Ballmeyer will wonder at the excitement the name caused. And yet the doings of this remarkable criminal form the subject matter of the most dramatic narratives of the newspapers and criminal records of the past twenty years. It had been reported that he was dead and thus had eluded the police as he had eluded them throughout the whole of his career.

Ballmeyer was the best specimen of the high class "gentleman swindler." He was an adept at sleight of hand tricks, and no holder or more ruthless crook ever lived. He was received in the best society and was a member of some of the most exclusive clubs. On many of his deprecatory expeditions he had not hesitated to use the knife and the mutton bone. No difficulty stopped him, and no "operation" was too dangerous. He had been caught, but escaped on the very morning of his trial by throwing pepper into the eyes of the guards who were conducting him to court.

He left France later to "work" America. The police there succeeded in once capturing him, but the extraordinary man escaped the next day. It would need a volume to recount the adventures of this master criminal. And yet this was the man Rouletabille had allowed to get away! Knowing all about him and who he was, he afforded the criminal an opportunity for another laugh at the society he had defied! I could not help admiring the bold stroke of the young journalist, because I felt certain his motive had been to protect both Mile. Stangerson and rid Darzac of an enemy at the same time.

The crowd had barely recovered from the effect of the astonishing revelation when the hearing was resumed. The question in everybody's mind was, Admitting that Larsan was the murderer, how did he get out of the yellow room?

Rouletabille was immediately called to the bar and his examination concluded.

Woman

Features in this Column: For That Week End Visit How to Make It a Success Learn the Art of Mixing

Many a nice girl has been invited to a week end and then grieved deeply because she never received a repetition of the invitation.

There are many reasons for this. It takes a certain talent to be a successful "week ender," as any hostess can testify.

The first and most important thing to be a good mixer. There are truly lovely souls who are absolutely no good in a crowd. They want a private session with people they like, where they can dig deep into heart, soul and mind. For people they meet casually

READY FOR A MOTOR TRIP.

They have almost no use, and for people who don't appeal to them they have absolutely no use at all.

Delightful as these women are when they have you all to themselves, they are simply impossible where there is a large gathering and you have to leave them to entertain your guests. Women of this description have been known to stand in one spot right in the middle of the floor with the most helpless and woebegone expression until rescued.

When they are invited to form one of a party of people they have absolutely nothing to contribute to the general fund of merrymaking. They sit and listen if they are interested, and if they are not they sit and look bored.

No hostess ever wants one of this type around again unless it is a case of charity.

Most opinionated women are almost as bad. They orate, and no one should be serious at a house gathering. It is extremely bad form. You should give to all the time, do any old thing that is required of you and always wear a charming smile.

And also there is the question of trunks. A trunk does not mean an expensive van, and two trunks in a bungalow constitute a crime.

Then the question of suitable clothes is another thing. Some take nothing but short skirts, under the impression that you are informal, while others have sequin creations and look sulky if there is no occasion to use them. The best thing is to be prepared for a change of everything unless you know the guest thoroughly.

If you are motoring, for goodness sake don't fill the car with bags and bundles. Remember there are other people with you. A sensible one piece dress is the best thing to wear. Over this get a rain or dust coat like the one in the illustration and don't wear a bag hat, but a small shape with no ornament to get mussed and over which you can pin snugly a long veil.

And do wear a hair net. No hostess is taking out a disheveled party. Daily it is not necessary any more these days of neat and handy hairstyles. You may think you look better in a hair net, but you look a great deal worse with your hair in ringlets.

Last and not least, do not be afraid to get lost. If you feel that way, stay at home. A cowardly, nervous woman is enough to spoil any party. There are no set cars and pedestrian excursions.

If you leave a friend's house it is better to tip the servants for the trouble you have caused than to be much in order to write your announcing your safe arrival. Don't drink her for the good times you had. The omission of this is unpardonable.

THE WOMAN WHO LIVES ALL ALONE

She Acquires Many Fussy Little Ways and Habits.

"She is growing old maidish," remarked Mrs. Wordly Wise as she watched the back of a departing visitor.

The bachelor raised his eyebrows. "Meaning just what?" he demanded. "Oh, that she needs some one to live with her to keep her from becoming queer."

"A man?" "Or a woman, or a child, or, best of all, any one who will have courage enough to criticize her and to keep her up to the mark."

"I always thought," mused the bachelor, "that it was not good for women to live alone."

"Nor for man either," the lady tartly observed. One sees quite as many masculine as feminine old maids, and they are even more full of crankiness and set habits. The fact is that every human being needs a critic, and the chief use of a husband is that he nags the life out of you and tells you all the things that are the matter with you. You don't need any of the other sort of talk about how nice you are. Other people tell you that.

Now, when you live alone you get to the point where you think you are perfect, and that is absolutely fatal, because just at this point you let yourself go, and the first thing you know you are becoming a slave to your own ideas. You want your porridge just so, and your coffee just so, and your friends must have certain ideals, because if they don't they are not good enough to associate with you; also you begin to have Theories, with a capital T, about the care of children, about how the house should be run and how food should be kept from germs, and—oh, a whole lot of things! And that's the time when a nice, gropey, complaining husband would be the best help in the world. You would have to become mellow and broad minded and adaptable to counterbalance him.

And there is the question of little mannerisms too. The woman who lives alone is full of these. They grow on her because she has no one to criticize her and she doesn't realize them.

For instance, putting the hands to the face continually, tweaking one's

PUTTING THE HANDS TO THE FACE CONTINUALLY

hair or rubbing the end of one's nose—how many women you see with such a habit!

Then there are mannerisms of speech, like saying "Listen!" all the time, when the person addressed is listening with might and main.

Also the expression of the face in repose—how self centered and either bitter or self satisfied it is apt to become! And little tricks of walking, of sitting, of settling one's skirts—how quickly they grow on one!

We are creatures of influence, even the most strong minded of us, and we are swayed by conditions of life as we are by the movements of the dance. If those conditions are lonely we are thrown back upon our own individuality; we absorb no new ideas or impressions.

That is the worst thing in the world for a woman. She is naturally timid, and she is naturally not broad minded. She needs a life that will vary her experiences and bring her in contact with all kinds of people.

This is the way to absorb the best there is—to become mellow instead of sour in old age and to ward off the coming of it as long as possible.

Mrs. Taft at the Age of 18 Uplift by Women in Utah The "Santa Claus Lady"

Mrs. William H. Taft, as every American woman probably knows, was Miss Helen Herron, whose father was Judge Herron of Cincinnati. People who knew her then say that in attaining womanhood she lost none of her maidenly autability. As a girl she was quite popular, and, what she was a favorite in the best society of her city, she was particularly known for her quiet manner and love of home.

COPYRIGHT JUDGE COMPANY 1907

MRS. TAFT AT THE AGE OF EIGHTEEN. The picture of the first lady of the land was taken when she was only eighteen years of age. It is one with which the public is not familiar, for it is a family photograph and as such is highly prized by the president.

Women's Influence in Utah.

Mrs. George Sutherland, a descendant of the Virginia Lees, a woman of culture, prepossessing in personality, a student of all questions in which her sex is interested, leader of the best society in the city where she has made her home, Salt Lake City, concludes after travel and observation that the women of Utah have done more to uplift politics and elevate womanhood than have the women of any other state or any country. And Mrs. Sutherland is not a suffragette.

She says that the women of her adopted state have more intelligent views on public questions than men of the average type. They are at the polls early and deport themselves with a dignity that creates a wholesome atmosphere. Not only in politics of the higher types, but in social and ethical questions, the Utah woman is an important and influential factor. Mrs. Sutherland has noticed that the best class of immigrant girls to this country go to Utah, and she has yet to see any one of this class who has been converted to the Mormon faith. "Those who wish to study the woman question at close range should visit Utah," said Mrs. Sutherland recently.

Memorial to "Santa Claus Lady."

Miss Elizabeth A. Phillips, known to thousands of children as the "Santa Claus lady," whose recent death in Philadelphia was sudden and sad, is to have a memorial erected to her memory. The money for the shaft, which is to be erected next Christmas, is to be contributed in pennies and dimes by children. The work will be directed by the Elizabeth A. Phillips Memorial association, under the supervision of Miss Rose Weintraub, friend and fellow worker of Miss Phillips. The woman who is thus to be remembered had previous to her untimely death begun to work out a plan to found a national Santa Claus association, with branches in various cities, all of which were to do the same sort of cheerful work at Christmas time as Miss Phillips did in Philadelphia. The idea appealed to a number of wealthy and influential people who are interested in seeing it carried forward.

Sir Hiram Maxim and Lady Maxim are at present entertaining at their residence, Rye Cots, South London, an extremely youthful visitor in the shape of their seven-year-old grandson, Master E. Maxim Joubert. As no member of the family could accompany him, the little chap, whose home is in Massachusetts, traveled from Boston to New York, and thence crossed the Atlantic on the Lusitania, entirely alone.

He had with him a popgun and an armful of toys; he occupied a cabin all to himself, and became the most popular passenger on board, especially with the ladies. The plucky little fellow gave not the slightest trouble. He was met at Liverpool by Lady Maxim.

PATOUT-GAITHER.

This Firm Does Big Business During Week of Fair.

Despite the fact that the Patout-Gaither company was disappointed in not getting into its new building before the fair, it has handled the crowds with entire satisfaction and, as expected, has enjoyed a very large business during the week. In advance of the big celebration week this company made ample arrangements to take care of the many visitors who were expected to call at the store, and with competent help in all departments, and experts in charge of the alteration end of the establishment, customers from points along the Santa Fe and the Orient have been given prompt service. Many garments have been received for alteration, and they will be shipped within the next few days.

At the fair grounds this company advertised extensively in the way of signs, and it also did some advertising in the city proper. Special souvenirs for ladies were distributed about 4,000 having been given out.

Patout-Gaither company expects to move into its new quarters within about two weeks. All of the fixtures are ready. Although practically a new company in this city, it has already taken a stand along with the oldest and most important establishments.

NEW CITY JAIL IN FIRE HALL

STATION WILL ALSO CONTAIN OFFICE FOR SECRETARY.

AGREEMENT IS REACHED

Splendid Quarters Will Be Provided for a Council Chamber—Bond Issue Will Be $20,000.

It is now a certainty that when the plans for the proposed new fire station are drawn, provision will be made for a city jail; council room and office for the city secretary. It will be recalled that when the petition calling for an election order was presented to the council, it asked that the citizens vote on a bond issue of $15,000. On investigation the council expressed itself as being in favor of an issue of $20,000, claiming that $15,000 would not be sufficient to erect a building suitable for the purposes for which it is intended. It was then agreed that the amount should be placed at $20,000.

Following the complaint to the effect that the city prisoners are not given the proper care in the county jail, city prisoners have been barred and are denied the use of the jail. As a result the city is now without fit quarters for its prisoners, and it has been decided to have a calaboose built in connection with the fire hall.

According to City Marshal Bates the city has two of the best iron cages to be found in West Texas. These cages will be placed in the new calaboose, and the city will have a jail worth while.

COKE COUNTY TAKES FIRST

LEADS TOWNS IN AGRICULTURAL DISPLAY AT FAIR.

TOM GREEN SPECIALS

Knickerbocker First, With Carisbad Second and Christoval Third. List of Awards.

Awarding Coke county first prize, with Irion second and Bunnels third, and announcing winners in the individual classes, the judges on agricultural displays completed their work Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

"We have been busily engaged all week in looking over these exhibits," said Thos. F. Owen, one of the judges, Friday, "and the fact that we are just now getting through with our work is enough to convince anyone that in the agricultural department the San Angelo fair was a success of the most pronounced kind. Of course, the whole fair has met our fondest expectations, as far as that is concerned, but being directly in line with the agricultural products, they seem better than anything else to me.

"All of the displays are good, and the farmers of this section of the state deserve great credit for the interest they have taken in this matter. By their exhibits they have shown to the world the wonderful possibilities of West Texas, and, I am quite sure, crops have been better here this year than in any other part of the state. These displays speak for themselves."

GLASSY CARD FOR LAST DAY OF FALL FAIR

necessary to make him gain the lead which he kept till the wire was reached. This winning in the second heat caused another heat to be made and everybody was very eager to see the finish, Major Klennart also taking it.

Leaving the flag, Jim Cobb led the racers to the half mile mark, when Klennart gained an even mark with him, but held it only a short time, when he broke, to the sorrow of many people. This break placed him in the rear of nearly all the horses, but as the last quarter was neared the old Major neared the leading trotter, which was Jim Cobb. As the corner that led the horses in on the home stretch was rounded, people began yelling and cheering, for there was a closely contended race being made for the leadership at the wire. Cobb was doing his best and his driver was holding him to a steady gait and a very fast one, but Klennart forged his way to the front and flashed under the wire master of the field.

Pacers were then led out blanketed, but were soon relieved of those, the famous pace for the laurels in the 2:40 pace. Brooklyn Brooks paced up and down the track in front of the grandstand with a regular swing that gave the people much faith in him. The belief was right, for he took the field before him in two consecutive heats. Though he was the favorite of the race, there was another horse in the field that had to be dealt with and that was Major, the second racer in the first heat. Major held a first place around the track, with Brooklyn close behind him till the last quarter was reached, when Brooks steadily increased his pace and came under the wire leading Major by a good margin. This proved to the people that Brooklyn Brooks was the fastest horse in the world.

The second heat came and cries of cheer for the winner in the first heat were sent up. The second heat started and Brooklyn held his steady gait just a little behind, but to the surprise of everybody, the old boy broke as the first quarter was being finished and he fell several paces to the rear. This looked very unfavorable for him, but his admirers never lost confidence, for a steady approach was being made on the leading horse which was Dora J. The approach was made till the home stretch mark was reached and the old favorite paced easily by the side of Dora J. and soon passed her and going under the wire far in the lead, in fact, so far that he was checked up and his driver looking back to see where Dora J. was. This was an easy victory for Brooklyn Brooks.

In the half mile dash Judge Denton seemed to be the popular horse, but Anti Newman easily ran ahead of the rest and was pronounced by the judges as the winner. Anti was fast from the start and held the same speed till the wire was neared, at which time he added a little to his gait and was victor of the race.

The last event was for three-quarters of a mile and some of the best minded horses of the grounds competed for the honors. The horse that dashed under the wire first was I'll Meter, with Wahoo closely at her heels. I'll Meter was disqualified on a foul and Wahoo was left to proclaim himself winner.

PARADE

Thousands View Spectacle as It Passes Down Chadbourne Street.

Beautifully decorated floats, buggies and automobiles, forming a parade several blocks long, came as a forerunner of the many splendid things provided in the form of entertainment for the thousands of visitors for San Angelo day at the fair. The parade was one of marked significance, demonstrating the enterprise of the San Angelo business set.

Miss L. M. Evans and Messrs. Hodges, Atwood and Alexander had entire charge of this feature, and that their efforts met with the approval of the people was attested by the liberal applause given the various floats and designs.

The line-up of the parade was as follows:
City Marshal Bates and Officer Cunninghamham.

AUTOMOBILE.

Feature Race Again Stopped, Jackson Car Being Out of Order.

Coming to the fair grounds with the intention of having a race, the Buick and Jackson drove in on the track with a good appearance, but fate was against the latter.

Everything was in readiness for the famous auto race and both machines had warmed up for the ten-mile run, when suddenly the Jackson got wrong and was put out of commission. This caused great disappointment to the spectators and auto drivers also, as both men were anxious to have the race for blood.

The people were not wholly at a loss in the matter, as DeWitt consented to give another five-mile exhibition race. His car was in fine trim and he circled the track five laps in 5:16 1-2. This is the record-breaking time for any machine that has raced with time on the local track. DeWitt, the Fearless, drove the car at a good clip around the curves and when the home stretch was made in front of the grand stand, the little machine ripped the earth from its damp state and scattered it in the air in fine particles of dust and left it behind as a reminder to the people that he had come by.

LAST.

Fair Closes With Excellent Program For Saturday.

Saturday will be the Concho-Colo-rado day at the fair, and even if it is the get-away event, the indications point to the belief that the program will outclass that of any other day of the week, and that the crowd will be larger.

All of the displays at the fair grounds will remain intact, the racing card is unusually attractive, the automobile events should be exciting in the extreme and the carnival will be in full swing.

CAPTAIN THOMAS S. BALDWIN
Captain Thomas S. Baldwin is probably the best known of American experimenters with the dirigible balloon. General James Allen, chief of the signal corps of the United States army, has called Captain Baldwin "the father of modern American aeronautics."
