BAND NOTES

For the benefit of the uniformed, Hico is going to have a School Band. Some twenty-five students from the grade and high schools make up the personnel. Satisfactory progress is being made and rehearsals with the entire organization will start shortly.

Not only sweet sounds will greet you, but glamour too, when some sixteen majorettes go into action. Every period as well as before school and at the noon hour, are being used to forward ambitious musicians.

Plenty of vacancies still exist and it is not too late to get started.

SENIOR NEWS

The call of the Fair was too much for us, so we heeded its siren and Wednesday morning found us speeding toward Dallas. We arrived with few mishaps, although we lost H. C. and his car a couple of times.

The Fair is all it has been reported to be. The exhibits were as interesting, the midway as exciting, the performances as thrilling as anyone could have wanted. No one was disappointed in any way; except maybe there was more screaming in the "Ride and Laff" house than laughing, or perhaps the roller coaster ride wasn't long enough, or maybe the picture machines in the penny arcade didn't always work. But the biggest complaint was that we couldn't go back again. We all came home solid boosters for the Fair, and advising everyone to go and, of course, to take us with them.

Our many thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Hancock, Mrs. Angell, and H. C. Connolly for the use of their cars and for giving us something to talk about for the rest of our lives, and something for the Senior Reporter to write about this week.

JUNIOR NEWS

What's a creature? Is it a dumb animal? Sorry, Juniors, I'll try to be a better reporter, but by the time we leave the gossip to the Crystal Ball column and the sport news to the rightful writers, it doesn't leave anything for me to report except about the football heroes of our class—French, Latham and Grimes. They could make the news every week. Also the managers, Ables and Eakins.

Yes, we were green with envy when the Seniors left for the State Fair, but we will be Seniors some day—maybe.

We know it seems odd, but there doesn't seem to be a happy Junior over the fact that this is Six Weeks' Test week.

The Juniors will be selling sandwiches at the football game here Friday night. Try one. We can assure you that you won't be sorry.

SOPHOMORE NEWS

Everyone seems to be studying this week, or at least have their noses in a book. (I wonder who we are trying to fool). The Homemaking II girls are going to make some woodwork at the F. F. A. Shop if the boys will do most of it. We plan to make what-not shelves, magazine stands, etc.

Each week we are going to interview some person from our class. We start with Charles Golightly. He happens to be the short, bashful, and cute kind of a boy. He always expresses his thoughts in one way or another. He has blue eyes, brown hair, and could stand some more height. He is a nice kid and fun to be around—sometimes.

F. F. A. NEWS

On September 13, our F. F. A. chapter held their first meeting to elect officers. They were as follows:

President, Ralph Ellis.
 Vice-president, Odell Terry.
 Treasurer, Cecil Hicks.
 Secretary, Walter Latham.
 Parliamentarian, Eugene Randolph.

Sentinel, Vernon Hill.
 Reporter, Charles Golightly.
 Later the F. F. A. nominated one candidate from each High School class for F. F. A. sweetheart. They are as follows:

Freshman, Wanda Nell Johnson.
 Sophomore, Mildred Ellis.
 Junior, Betty Dodd.
 Senior, Willa Dean Hancock.

Jars with candidates' names in them will be placed in places at town. We want everyone to vote. Votes are one cent per vote, so put in as much as you like.

The F. F. A. boys are very proud of the new shop. They are settled now and are ready for their tests. Sears & Roebuck gave the chapter a gift to raise pigs. The chapter will give a gift to a boy in another chapter in this area.

GALLOPING GRANDMA... Mrs. Forest Burright, 61, wife of an Oregon, Ill. farmer and mother of seven children, working out on the Hooovett racetrack with her brother "Kinny Wyn" over a fast track. Mrs. Burright set her world's record in 1943, when she drove the trotter "Luckyette" a mile in 2:04.

The boys appreciate the new shop and wish to thank the people responsible for its making.

WORM'S EYE VIEW

You will please to excuse our little worm, Nillwonnowillin, this week if he doesn't seem too clear. He went to the State Fair and got a little too close to Elsie, the Bor-den cow who very friendly and cute but Nillwonnowillin offered a few criticisms. First, Elsie was a lot cuter with a different hairdo; likewise La Verne. They should tone down their gossiping in study hall, or let us hear all of it instead of just bits; and above all, they should let up on their acting and be their own sweet selves, which is pretty sweet. After all, Nillwonnowillin is just as sweet and natural as anyone, and everybody just loves him. So take heed, chicks, or you may not be so slick.

He managed to recover, though, and gave us his view of a couple of Sophomores. It is a couple this time because they are inseparable as his two cousins, Oole and Goole, and that's pretty inseparable. The only thing that ever comes between these two girls is a couple of boys named Ralph. The names' names, by the way, are Patsy Meador and La Verne Parker.

Patsy is dark; La Verne, light; Patsy is plump; La Verne, slender. They are very friendly and cute but Nillwonnowillin offered a few criticisms. First, Patsy would be a lot cuter with a different hairdo; likewise La Verne. They should tone down their gossiping in study hall, or let us hear all of it instead of just bits; and above all, they should let up on their acting and be their own sweet selves, which is pretty sweet. After all, Nillwonnowillin is just as sweet and natural as anyone, and everybody just loves him. So take heed, chicks, or you may not be so slick.

REFLECTIONS
 The lesson for this week will be found in Emily Post. Some of you don't seem to know the meaning of manners, and manners are very important when you want to make a good impression.

Did you boys know that it is not polite to knock down the weaker sex in the mad rush to the Lunch Room? What will visitors think when they see this turmoil which occurs every school day at 12:15? It is forgivable for a growing boy or girl to be ravenously hungry, but is it necessary to be quite so eager about it?

And another thing—it is really quite a shock to start out the front door and have it slammed right in your face. Let's please be careful about that. You could injure some one seriously that way. He might get his nose caught in the door and that is a very painful experience.

These are just a few helpful suggestions to help each and every one of you to become a more desirable companion, because it is a shame to tarnish your glamour with sloppy manners.

So mind your manners, kiddies, or you might be left waiting at the gate.

— H H S —
CRYSTAL BALL
 It seems as if a lot of kids would surely like to know who Zingaris, is, and here's hoping they don't find out, because from what I hear, I would certainly get my tin ear battered down. Just be patient, you guys, and you'll find out at the end of school, this year. By that time I hope I'm not around.

Now let's have a look-see of the happenings over the past week end. To start it off, we see Mildred T. leaving school Friday evening in a green coupe, and the best we could tell, it was Ralph Loden.

Friday night at the game, I see Lee Roy Brooks and Yvonne H. together. At the same time I see H. C. Connolly and Winnie Mae Greer. Not bad, not bad at all.

I don't believe the Hico boys (some of them, anyway) would be missed if they left, because the Fredell boys seem to be taking the Hico girls over. Pat M. had one of them hooked Saturday night. If you don't believe me, ask Billy Bradley.

I wonder who those good-looking boys were that Dorothy Lewis and Flossie E. were talking to Saturday night.

I thought Erma T. had a date with Ray Martin, Saturday, but I see that he was with Jo Nell C. I see Louise Hyles and Billy Ellis were together again Saturday night. Billy Jackson and Myrna Sparks were keeping company, too.

What's happened to Joan Golightly? Seems like I saw her Saturday night with a Grammar School boy name of Charles.

H. C. wasn't doing bad Sunday. He was with three girls, but his interest seemed to be concentrated on only one of them—Billy Louise Jackson.

That's all for now, dear readers, but remember, keep writing those letters. (What letters?)

EYES ARE PRICELESS—LIGHT IS CHEAP

How much light is enough to get good grades?

HERE is one benefit you can easily give your children—Better Lighting. The plain truth is that many children do their home work reluctantly because their eyes rebel at the hard work of trying to see under poor light. In many homes studying is done under only two to five foot-candles.

Help your children keep their most priceless possession. Keep their eyes young. Provide them with modern light for home study—a table lamp using at least a 100-watt bulb or a floor lamp with a 100-200-300-watt bulb. Better light means better sight and better grades.

Homework on the porch has the benefit of 500 foot-candles of good light. Yet many children try to study their homework with less than 1% of this amount.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Want a Vacation from Marriage?

Alvin Blake went south on his vacation, for some fishing, and left his Missus to enjoy a vacation from the corn-cob pipe, clothes in a heap, and soles on the harmonica.

First few days, Martha enjoyed it—house neat and quiet, top back on the toothpaste, no morning mess from Alvin's midnight snacks (Al's partial to a bit of cheese and beer at bedtime).

Came the end of the week, she began toidget; couldn't even read the Clarion, it looked so unmannish; didn't have any appetite with nobody to cook for. She was about to wire Al, when he barges home a week ahead of time, and she almost cries for gratitude. ("Felt the same way myself," says Al.)

From where I sit, those differences of habit and opinion—whether they have to do with corn-cob pipes, a glass of beer, or playing the harmonica, seem mighty trivial when you're separated. And they are, too!

HOUSE AND HOME

By MARY E. DAGUE
Author of Sister Mary's Kitchen

REMEMBER when you were in your "Teens"? Your appetite was finicky and you were a problem even in those days of abundant markets.

Teen-age boys and girls require fully as much food—and frequently more—than moderately active adults. So the necessity for planning well-balanced meals for the entire school day becomes of paramount importance.

Good nutrition reflects itself in happy, healthy and alert youngsters and each of the three meals a day should contribute about one fourth to one third of the daily requirement.

Because it doesn't seem important to the youngsters "how-good-for-you" any food may be meals for the school day must be tempting to eat as well as nutritious. The urge to eat only those foods that are good to taste and satisfying adds to the difficulty of planning school-day meals.

Don't forget that the after-school snack is approved by nutritionists. Of course this extra meal should be light and nourishing. Such foods as milk, fruits, crackers and cookies are ideal and they won't interfere with dinner time appetites when eaten in moderate amounts in the middle of the afternoon.

Hearty soups are splendid for noon meals. Served with crisp toast, crackers or croutons, luncheon will be satisfying as well as nutritious.

A quick and easy soup is made by combining condensed tomato soup with cooked or canned corn.

Quick Lunch Chowder
Two cups condensed tomato soup, 1 cup canned corn, 1 teaspoon grated onion, 3 tablespoons minced green pepper, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 4 teaspoons cracker meal, 2 cups milk, salt and pepper, 4 teaspoons minced parsley.

Melt butter in sauce pan, add onion and simmer two or three minutes. Add soup, corn, green pepper, cracker meal and milk and bring to boiling stirring constantly. Reduce heat and simmer ten minutes, stirring occasionally. Season with salt and pepper and serve with parsley sprinkled over top.

● Superphosphate is the most essential fertilizer to use on dairy farms, and should be used in the poultry house also.

● Pigs will produce more meat from 100 pounds of feed than any other farm animal.

● Winter weather usually means the confinement of poultry—and confinement too often means pickouts. Keeping birds busy and preventing overcrowding and feeding properly usually will prevent pickouts. Debeaking may be resorted to on offending birds. Debeaking machines and pickout guards are on the market. Perhaps rose-colored glasses would serve to advantage.

● The farm prosperity of the past five years promises to continue through 1947 and probably 1948. In 1935 to 1939 farmers had an annual net income of $5,500 million, in 1946 it is expected to be three times as great.

● Alfalfa hay or meal makes an excellent food for the brood sow in winter. It will furnish much of the necessary vitamins A and D.

● If arrangements have not been made to vaccinate the fall crop of pigs for hog cholera, now is the time to get busy. Two weeks after weaning is an ideal time.

● New outbreaks of Newcastle disease among poultry and turkeys is reported. Call a veterinarian. It is a respiratory disease characterized by gasping symptoms similar to those accompanying bronchitis.

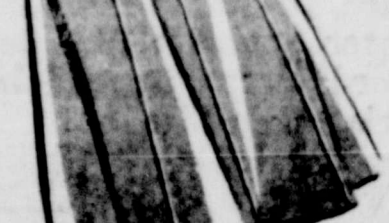

● The supply of young fruit trees is below normal. Now is the time to place orders for any trees which are to be planted next spring. Be sure of the variety when ordering.

● When air transport of bees is arranged, honey in southern orchard fields will be gathered by bees which were gathering honey from northern fields the previous day.

● Keep a close watch on livestock being fed new grain. Digestive troubles caused by molds carried in the new grain may result.

● Farmers who breed their sows early can get their next spring's pigs on the market ahead of the crowd with the chance of higher profits.

● Check feeder calves for stomach worm infestation. If worm eggs are found in the feces, drench with penicillin.

The KNOTHOLE

By ELLIOTT PINE
NWNS Sports Writer

Bob Hill could have tried his luck as a heavyweight fighter, but he chooses the safer and probably surer road to athletic fame in big league baseball. The 22-year-old ex-naval cadet was signed by the Phillies in mid-summer after he resigned from Annapolis. He was a heavy weight champion of the academy, and first baseman on the school's ball team, where he batted .360. He is a six foot, 200-pounder.

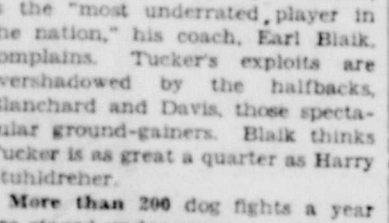

They're saying that Johnny Lujack is the greatest quarterback Notre Dame has had since Frank Carideo, back in 1929 and '30. He has plenty of skill, speed and strength, but most important, he has strategy. Mike Jacobs is planning a rematch for Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano for the middleweight crown. He will stage it outdoors to accommodate a really big crowd—he hopes around 50,000, with gate receipts touching the half million dollar mark. Umpires favor replacement of pop bottles with paper cups . . . so does management. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas League, has ruled bottles out of the League's parks after an umpire was seriously cut by stopping a hurled bottle with his head.

Skiers of the midwest are looking to Leland, Mich., where the new management of the Sugar Loaf Winter Sports Club hopes to develop a miniature Sun Valley. Sugar Loaf is the only hill in the midwest that remotely resembles the long steep slopes of the West and of Europe. Arnold Tucker, Army's quarterback, is the "most underrated" player in the nation," his coach, Earl Blaik, complains. Tucker's exploits are overshadowed by the halfbacks, Blanchard and Davis, those spectacular ground-gainers. Blaik thinks Tucker is as great a quarter as Harry Stuhldreher.

More than 200 dog fights a year are staged under cover . . . they are illegal everywhere. Specially bred bull terriers, also known as pit terriers, are the principals. Spectators are often wealthy men who wager large sums on the outcome. The fights generally continue until one dog is dead.

Dale Carnegie

Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

HERE are a few suggestions, on sure-fire ways of losing friends.

"1. Be sloppy. Drop ashes on the rugs of your friends and leave rings from your drinking glass on their tables. Break dishes, and burn holes in their sheets. When you borrow anything at all, either forget to return it at all or send it back damaged. It requires little effort to dog-ear leaves of a book, or to mark the pages with a pencil. If the article borrowed is clothing, it is a simple matter to return it with a grease stain or a ripped seam. Never be punctual; always keep the other fellow waiting for you. How could you know that his time is of importance to him.

"When you stay overnight at a friend's house, leave the bathroom in a mess of wet towels and spilled powder. You can manage to scatter powder on all the articles of the dresser, too, with very little effort. Send letters without sufficient postage, and always mail your Christmas cards on December 24th. The chances are you were just as busy on December 15th, but—

"2. Be over-solicitous. If a friend has a cold, keep fussing around him as if he were dying of pneumonia; tell everyone how awful he looks and how worried you are over him. Force gifts on your friends until you embarrass them; especially if you can't afford it; give the impression that you have to bribe your way into their friendship. Run futile little errands for them that they never wanted done, until they are crushed under a load of obligation.

"If you will follow the above, plus yesterday's suggestions, in all probability within one year you will not be bothered by having any friends at all. If by chance a few obstinate ones sentimentally linger on, I can offer a brief post-graduate course guaranteed to produce results in even the most aggravated cases. This includes interfering with your friends' discipline of their children, causing trouble between husbands and wives, and involving them in your personal feuds, so that Jim can't invite you and Tom to the same party, or Nell has to be sure you never find out that she still sees Harriet! Just a little of this, and you will find yourself permanently blessed with solitude and in possession of unbroken privacy for the rest of your life."

Successful Parenthood

By MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS
Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

BREAKFAST comes first—first in the day, and first in importance, too in your child's daily diet. For Bobby and Mary should start to school each morning with a good share of the day's food energy already under their belts. Yet, do you two thirds eat a poor breakfast or realize that only one-third of the children in this country have a really good breakfast each morning? The other none at all. Grown-ups don't do much better. Is your family the toast-and-coffee grabbing kind? We know of one family where breakfast is served a la Dagwood—each one grabs his toast from the toaster and takes along a cup of coffee as he runs out the door and into the car. Even Daddy balances a cup on his knee as he drives the kids to school on his way to work, while someone feeds him his toast.

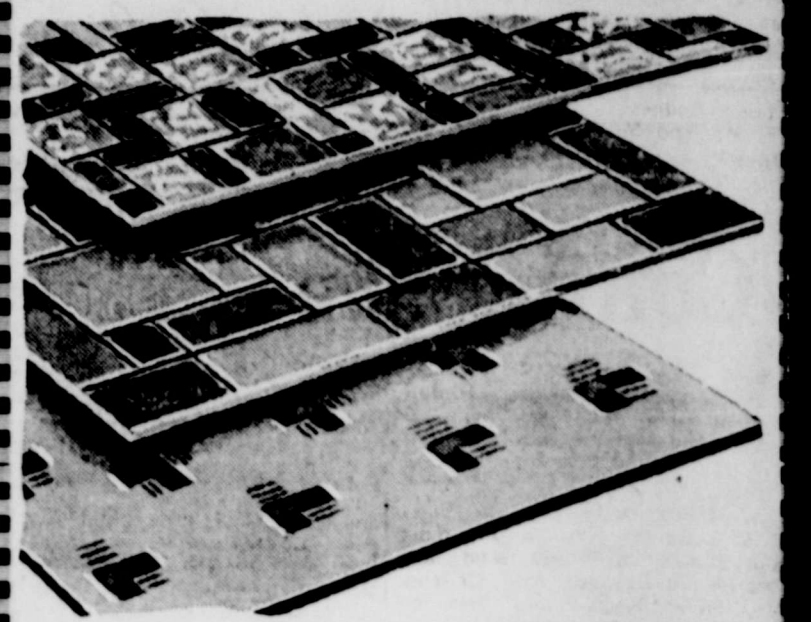

Not many families rush breakfast that much—but it's often pretty sketchy and disorganized. You'll find it pays in better temper, calmer nerves, and heightened efficiency for everyone if you plan to get up early enough to enjoy a leisurely and substantial breakfast. What makes a good breakfast? Nutrition experts agree that your breakfast should provide about one third of the day's calories. Here's a recommended breakfast pattern: Fruit or fruit juice; enriched or whole-grain cereal with milk (not cereal to heat); enriched or whole-grain bread or toast with butter or fortified margarine, and jelly or jam if desired. Milk to drink or cocoa made with milk. Eggs, if they aren't to be served for lunch or dinner. Coffee for adults.

Here are some tips on serving some of the vital breakfast foods. The citrus varieties are your most valuable fruits. A half-glass of orange juice will go far toward supplying the day's needs of vitamin C, as will half a grapefruit, a whole orange, or two tangerines. Because the pulp as well as the juice contains vitamin C, there is vitamin thrift in serving juice unstrained and even higher economy in serving citrus fruit halved, sectioned, or sliced. But heat and air are destructive to vitamin C—so don't slice the fruit until almost serving time. You can squeeze juices beforehand, but keep them cold in a tightly covered container until ready to use. When you cook cereals, you'll save time, and vitamin B too if you use the quick-cooking varieties—less thiamin is lost than in the longer cooking of old-fashioned oatmeal. Instead of sugar, use chopped prunes or raisins cooked right in your cereal—they add iron and vitamins as well as helping stretch your sugar ration. Your breakfast eggs will be fresher if they are refrigerated as soon as they come from the store—but don't wash them beforehand, or you'll remove the thin protective coating with which nature insures their freshness. The secret of successful egg cookery is a low, even temperature . . . it makes all the difference between a tough, rubbery, inedible egg-white, or a delicate digestible custard.

Eighth-Place Pig Leading Actor At Dallas State Fair

A pig that places eighth in the great State Fair of Texas junior livestock exposition doesn't usually deserve a story all to itself.

But in the case of the Poland China barrow of 15-year-old Eugene Duke of Bexar County it is that and more, too. For his story is one that doesn't happen often, a rare combination of drama, tragedy—and courage.

Young Duke lives on a farm ten miles southeast of San Antonio. On the night of Thursday, Sept. 26, the worst flood in San Antonio's history overflowed Chipideras Creek near his house. The water swirled against the Duke house, crumpled it. Gene and his sister escaped by clinging to a floating tree. But his mother and brother weren't so lucky. Their bodies weren't found the next day, unbreathing.

Gene had been grooming three pigs for the State Fair. After the flood one was found dead. Another is still missing. The third was recovered last week at a farm farther down the river, lame, bruised and ill.

Gene had his heart set on exhibiting those pigs. When the water subsided, he worked with his one surviving pig long and hard. He didn't expect to win any prizes. But the pig finished eighth.

For that it brought him $3, and a strange light to his eyes. It's not what he can buy with the money, he says. It's the thought. It's the thought of what went into raising that pig and the great determination that carried him through.

And just wait till next year's State Fair, he says. "I'll be back."

Six-Inch Sermon

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

Paul Talks for His Lifework.

Lesson for October 20: Acts 9: 19b-22; 11:25, 16; Galatians 1: 17-24.

Memory Selection: Acts 9:20.

Several years passed after Paul's conversion before he began his outstanding work. Beginning to preach in Antioch, thinking the thing through in Arabia, and returning to Tarsus, he was found there by Barnabas, who accompanied him to Antioch, whence the two soon set out on the first missionary journey.

From the lesson text and elsewhere we learn that the humble Ananias led Paul to confession and baptism in the home of one Judas. Following this he began to preach in the synagogues with such results that certain Jews sought his life. His friends let him down the city wall in a basket and he escaped.

Soon afterward he went to Arabia, evidently to think things through. Just where in that country he abode and how long he remained cannot be known. Many think he was in Arabia three years. Evidently more than that time had passed when Barnabas found Paul in his native Tarsus and took him to Antioch.

Thus by prayer, meditation, and serving as opportunity came, Paul trained himself for his great work as the Apostle to the Gentiles. And we may learn from him that earnest preparation is required to render a fine service in Christ's name. The Sabbath, rightly observed, with Bible reading, meditation, and prayer, and all forms of Christian service should lead us into greater service.

CLAIRETTE GIRL MARRIED TUESDAY IN GRANBURY

Miss Florine Havens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Havens of Clarette, became the bride of Sgt. Dallas C. Wheeler of Fort Sam Houston Tuesday, October 16, in a ceremony performed at Granbury by Rev. Greenwood of Bluff Dale. They were attended by Miss Leota Roberson of Stephenville and John Alexander of Clarette. The bride wore a blue wool gabardine dress with black accessories. Mrs. Wheeler was graduated from Dublin High School in 1938 and attended the Sellers School of Beauty Culture in Fort Worth in 1941. Since that time she has been employed in Fort Worth and San Antonio. Two Ex-Citizens Die

Our hearts were made sad last week when we received word here of the death of Mrs. Sam Priest of Duffan and Mrs. Dock Shirley of Breckenridge. Mrs. Priest died suddenly Wednesday of a heart attack. We understand Mrs. Shirley's death was also unexpected. However, relatives stated she had never fully recovered from injuries received some time back in an automobile accident.

Funeral services for Mrs. Priest were held Friday afternoon at the Methodist Church, conducted by Rev. J. F. Isbell, Methodist pastor at Hico. She was born March 8, 1883 and was a member of the Presbyterian Church. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, a daughter Edith, and a son Robert. Interment was in the Fairy cemetery. Active pallbearers were: Jude and Clyde Shields, Horace Rowe, T. L. Betts, John Howerton, Tom Jackson, Mr. Starley and one other whose name we failed to obtain.

A large number of friends and former neighbors attended funeral services held Saturday afternoon at the funeral home in Hico for Mrs. Shirley. It will be remembered that the Shirleys lost their son Charles in an automobile accident several years ago.

We extend deepest sympathy to the relatives at the passing of their loved ones, and may God bless and comfort all in this time of sorrow.

The Priest and Shirley families formerly resided in and near Fairy. Today (Tuesday) we again have threatening skies, and the weather man says rain again. Farmers have been taking advantage of the fair weather the past few days, with from one to four tractors in operation on most every farm, breaking, sowing or harrowing. Some are working on day and night shifts in order to try and get their farm work completed between rains.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Blount and their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Howell (Buster) Blount of San Antonio spent Friday night of last week here with friends. They also visited with Mrs. Guy Blount's mother and brother, Mrs. Webb and son J. D., of near Hamilton. The Blounts spent Friday and Saturday prospecting in this section. They stated that water got about a foot deep in their yards during the recent flood in South Texas, and think they've about decided to return to their former homeland, "The Fairy Section of Hamilton County."

Mrs. Brittle Little and Mrs. H. R. Brummitt spent last week visiting in Grand Prairie with Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Anderson, and in Fort Worth with Mr. and Mrs. Elton Massengale, Miss Maggie Brummitt and Mrs. Gene Miller, niece of Mrs. Little. Mr. Brummitt spent the week end there and they accompanied him home.

Mr. and Mrs. Boler Swindle of Waco were visitors here a few hours last Saturday. Mrs. Swindle visited in the Oran Willford home while Mr. Swindle spent his time in town greeting old friends. Mr. Swindle is a former member of the Fairy school faculty.

Rev. Oran Columbus carried his father, Mr. J. P. Columbus, to the Gorman hospital last Saturday night to remain a few days during an attack of asthma. We hope he is soon able to return home.

Whitt Whitson of Dallas spent Monday here visiting his mother, Mrs. Maud Whitson, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Beck and son Charles and Mr. and Mrs. Claud Brunson visited last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. Z. Brummitt.

Mrs. Elsie Wetterman and Mr. and Mrs. Nat Grimes and daughters were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Anderson of Cranfills Gap last Sunday.

Thomas Ray Abel had the misfortune of breaking his leg and displacing his ankle Wednesday, Oct. 9, at school while playing football. He was taken to the Meridian hospital for immediate treatment by our superintendent, Mr. Oran Columbus, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Abel. He is doing nicely at this time. Those visiting in the J. W. Abel home and wishing Thomas Ray a speedy recovery were: Mr. and Mrs. Ted Arrant and family, Mr. and Mrs. Audie Clark, Mrs. Slater, John Abel, Louis Abel, James Moore, Tommy Joe Blakley, Red Blakley, Lloyd Akin, C. M. Brown, H. R. Brummitt, Mr. Nix, Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Brummitt, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie New and family, Mrs. Buster Glenn and Freddy, Billie Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pitts and Ina, Mrs. O. J. Clark and boys, Mrs. Ella Shepherd, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Raeburg and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Mason, Mrs. C. R. Lawrence of Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Chaney of Iredell, and Mr. Wm. Horsley of Hico.

Victor Brunch and Jeff Sherman, both of Springfield, Mo., participants in the first "bonus march" by World War II veterans, sleep on the steps of the Missouri state capitol in Jefferson City. They joined in a motor caravan to the state capital to demand that Gov. Phil Donnelly call a special session of Missouri legislature to enact a state bonus act providing $400 for veterans.

Notes From Office Of County Home Demonstration Agt.

Miss Ethel R. Hander, Hamilton county home demonstration agent, in a recent publicity release discussed "Green Lawns for Winter" in the following manner:

For a green lawn all winter you should cut the Bermuda grass close and plant Italian rye grass. You will want to plant one pound of seed to each 1,000 square feet, that is one pound to each 19 foot by 199 foot square.

If the soil is not wet, water immediately to set the seeds. Rain may wash away or bunch them into rows.

Rye grass will come up and grow during the fall and winter. It is to be mowed as any other grass. It will die down in the spring. It should not be allowed to grow rank because this is about the only way in which it will harm the Bermuda grass.

The rye grass can be used on any type of lawn which is dead in winter.

At the time these seeds are planted, a poor lawn may be given a top dressing of barnyard manure and rich soil. If pulverized and mixed before putting on the lawn, it will not disfigure appearance.

Save Fallen Leaves

When the leaves fall off your trees this fall, don't burn them. They'll make good nitrogen fertilizer when they rot.

Sadie Hartfield, landscape gardening specialist of the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service, explains that decayed leaves will furnish nitrogen, one of the three main plant foods which is expensive and not as plentiful as the other two—potash and phosphorus.

Not only leaves, but grass clippings, green garbage from the kitchen, straw and spoiled hay make good fertilizer. Miss Hartfield adds, "There are two ways you can make use of this material. Either dig or plow the leaves in the soil to rot during winter, or pile them in a compost heap, keep them moistened and turned until they are decayed and ready for use. In the windy sections of the state, you should put the compost in a pit and cover lightly with soil."

Sewing Aids

To streamline your sewing methods, take a few moments to hear these time- and effort-saving hints from Mrs. Dora R. Barnes, clothing specialist of the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service.

First, says Mrs. Barnes, provide yourself with a well-arranged place to work—a regular sewing room, if possible. In addition, fix up a sewing box, equipped with a good pair of shears, needles of different sizes, sewing and basting thread, a good thimble and tape measure, pins and pin cushion, and emery bag to clean needles and a hem gauge or six-inch ruler.

A thread box will save your temper as well as your time, adds Mrs. Barnes, and is very easily made. The ideal thread box size is one and a half inches deep and nine and a half inches long. Just about the measurements of a half-size cigar box. Go to the lumber company and get 37 inches of one-half inch round and cut it into four pieces, each one just long enough to fit the bottom of the box. Glue the pieces, flat down, into the box, just far enough apart for a spool of thread to lie flat between them.

This size box will hold about 35 spools of thread, and with this arrangement the thread won't be getting tangled up and you will be able to select more easily the color you want.

Remember, says Mrs. Barnes, that the right equipment and careful planning will make your sewing tasks easier and quicker.

THE TELEPHONE PUZZLE

If it takes 3 pairs of wires to connect 3 telephones and 12 pairs to connect 6 telephones, how many are needed to connect 12 telephones? The answer is 66! Puzzling, isn't it? As these pairs of wires increase, expensive central office equipment increases in proportion. Each additional telephone means wider service for you without raising your telephone bill. And here's something else. Each additional telephone installed adds to the cost of providing telephone service for you and everyone else.
