Queen of the New York Show in Texas

MISS CAROLYN COLBORN

Who will reign as "Queen" of the Pre-Madison Square Garden Rodeo in Dublin, Texas, August 31, Sept. 1, 2, 3. Carolyn is the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Colborn, who live in Dublin and manage the fabulous Lightning C Ranch. Mr. Colborn is the director of the Madison Square Garden Rodeo, New York, and many others throughout the U. S. Carolyn participates in many of these rodeos and will perform a specialty act at the Dublin show this year. This is the rodeo that is known as "The New York Show in Texas" as it is given each year at Dublin just before the stock and specialty acts leave in a special train for New York. The Queen of this Texas event is shown with her horse she will ride at the Dublin rodeo.

Famous Dublin Rodeo, Billed As Biggest Yet, Only Fortnight Away

The internationally famous Hardin-Simmon Band will again play for all performances of the big Pre-Madison Square Garden world's Championship Rodeo, in Dublin, Texas, Aug. 31, Sept. 1, 2, 3.

Another highlight of this big Southwest show will be the performance of nine of the finest square dance teams in Texas, including the famous "Mixmasters" from Sweetwater, who are the National Champions. This promises to be very interesting because square dancing at its best will be shown.

The rodeo arena in Dublin now seats 9,000 people and plenty of good parking space is available. Mr. Everett Colborn is still the director of this show as well as the Madison Square Garden Rodeo in New York City. The entire organization will go there as soon as the Dublin show has ended. This gives Dublin the opportunity to obtain the very best of contestants because they all gather here to ride to New York City on the twenty-one car special train.

The 1949 performance will be the Tenth Anniversary of the Pre-Madison Square Garden World's Championship Dublin Rodeo. Everett Colborn, Gene Autry and Associates own large ranches at Florence, Arizona; Gene Autry, Oklahoma; Blackfoot, Idaho, and Dublin, Texas. Headquarters are at Dublin. It is only because this large rodeo corporation is located in Dublin that a show of this kind is possible here. Professional cowboys from all over the nation say that "it is the roughest and toughest of them all."

There will be $5,000.00 in prize money to be divided among the rodeo performers and additional prizes for the special event winners.

All shows will begin at 8:00 p. m. sharp—no daylight performances will be shown this year. The parades will begin at 6:00 p. m. This has always been one of the most colorful parades in the Southwest. Attorney General Price Daniel will lead the opening parade.

Miss Carolyn Colborn is to be the Dublin Queen this year. Carolyn is the very attractive sixteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Colborn of Dublin. She has won many honors while attending the Dublin schools and will finish high school next year. Last year she was a cover girl in the Dublin High School Yearbook.

Miss Patsy Collinsworth, a very beautiful Dublin girl, will ride in the parades and grand entry this year. Patsy recently gained considerable recognition as the cover girl for "This Week" Magazine. In 1948 she was the Texas Queen of the Madison Square Garden Rodeo in New York City. Patsy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Collinsworth of Dublin.

Dublin promises the best in rodeo entertainment. It's big and it's getting bigger. Remember the dates: August 31, September 1, 2, and 3.

Lingleville Family First to Receive FHA Insured Mortgage Loan

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Roberson of Lingleville Community is the first family to receive an insured mortgage loan made by the Farmers Home Administration in Erath County, according to a recent announcement by Charles B. Williams Jr. The Equitable Life Insurance Company of Iowa furnished the money at 3 per cent interest for a period of forty years. Mr. and Mrs. Roberson pay one per cent to the Government for insuring and handling of the loan. The loan is made for 40 years at 4 per cent interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberson are starting in the Grade A Dairy business and doubtless will make a success with these liberal terms on their land and buildings. The funds will be used to refinance, repair the house, water supply and build a new hen house and barn. They have a son, age 4, and two daughters, ages 2 years and 2 months.

The Farmers Home Administration makes long-time loans to enable farmers to do good farming and so that people will have enough time to pay for the farm and at the same time be useful citizens to the community. Any company, bank or individual interested in loaning their money, fully guaranteed by the Government, at 3 per cent interest should contact the County Supervisor in the Farmers Home Administration office in Stephenville over the Farmers Bank. The money is fully guaranteed so that the money of private enterprise may be used.

Mr. Roberson is a Veteran of World War II. Veterans have preference on all Farmers Home Administration loans; however, for this insured mortgage loan, funds are adequate to insure a loan for any family who is selected by the County Committee and who has 10 per cent equity in their farm or a 10 per cent down payment.

Ice Cream Party for Future Farmers Held Friday Night

The Hico FFA Chapter had as its summer activity an ice cream party Friday night, August 12, at the Agriculture room, according to Joe Thompson, reporter for the Chapter.

Members met at 7:45 p. m. after which they purchased three gallons of Vanilla and two gallons of strawberry ice cream.

There were 24 members and two guests present. Norman Petry was the champion ice cream eater—first to start and last to finish, Joe Added.

With no business to be taken care of, the party was adjourned until after the next regular meeting, to be held the first night in September, Joe concluded.

Long-Time Citizen of Hamilton County Passes to Reward

Funeral services for J. W. Burden, who passed away in the local hospital Wednesday, August 17, 1949, were held from the local First Baptist Church Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock with the pastor, Rev. L. H. Davis, in charge, assisted by Rev. J. L. Ray, pastor of the local Methodist Church. Burial was in Fairy Cemetery.

Active pallbearers were grandsons, and honorary pallbearers were the following: Ike Malone, W. E. Ellison, J. R. Griffiths, Albert Russell, John Rusk, John Burney, B. S. Washam, John Leach, G. C. Wright, J. W. Richbourg, O. L. Halle, A. A. Fowell, all of Hico; J. N. Clark and Ben Smith of Carlton, and John Ables of Fairy.

Mr. Burden, a citizen of Hamilton County for 55 years, was a retired farmer and moved to Hico from Carlton about ten years ago.

John Weston Burden was born to William Henry and Harriet Elizabeth Burden at Town Creek, Alabama, November 27, 1865, where he grew to manhood. He was married to Dora Agee, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Agee, on December 10, 1884. To this union were born fifteen children, of whom ten survive.

Mr. and Mrs. Burden with their first five children came to Texas in 1893, locating at Jonesboro, Coryell County, where they lived for two years before coming to the Hico vicinity.

This pioneer couple helped to build schools and churches in the community where they lived and reared a family of sons and daughters who are respected citizens, workers in church, school, and civic affairs of their respective communities.

Mr. Burden united with the Baptist church in early manhood. He loved his church and was an active deacon in the local Baptist church until he suffered a stroke seven years ago which left him an invalid.

While living in the Falls Creek community before 1916 he helped build the school which he served as trustee for many years. He was a member of the "Farmers' Union", an organization which at that time helped to better farming conditions. He also was a contributor in various ways to building the County Line Church, where he and his family worshipped.

When he moved to Carlton in 1916 he found a plan was on to build a new Baptist church and he fell right in to support its building program until it was a reality. When the Carlton school building burned in 1921, Mr. Burden, who was a trustee, was among the leaders in building the present structure. He was happy over any progressive undertaking for his community.

When he retired from the farm, he and Mrs. Burden moved to Hico where they continued their church activities, interrupted by the sudden death of Mrs. Burden in 1944 which came only three months before they would have been married fifty years.

Left to mourn his going are 38 grandchildren, 45 great-grandchildren, and the following children: A. M. Burden, Lubbock; Mrs. Pyle Wade, Hico; Mrs. Della Proffitt, Carlton; Mrs. Mattie Ford, Arlington; Mrs. Lucille Snow, Fort Worth; Mrs. Eula Mae Meeks, Arkadelphia, Arkansas; Mrs. Grace Petry, Luther and Arthur Burden, Hico, and Mrs. Stella Faye Pittman, Gorman.

Meeting Announced for Organization of Disabled Veterans

With hundreds of disabled veterans said to be in this area, a local Disabled American Veterans Chapter has been proposed.

Charles J. Walker, department organizer, announced to the News Review that he would be in Hico at the City Hall for an organizational meeting set for 8 o'clock.

All disabled veterans are urged to contact Mr. Walker for any information concerning the proposed chapter. Applications may be obtained pertaining to the proposed chapter's activities.

Mr. Walker said that veterans qualified for membership are those who have been wounded, gassed, or injured or disabled while serving in the Armed Forces of the United States or its allies during time of war.

Applicants for membership will submit proof of their eligibility, such as service discharge showing wounds or other disability.

Forget-Me-Nots are sold to assist in service and welfare work. The national flower of the Disabled Veterans Organization, Walker said. They will be offered for sale August 24. He added: "Let's get this chapter started and help it grow. General Jonathan Wainwright is National Commander of this organization and the Disabled Veterans organization was chartered by a special Act of Congress. Come to the meeting and bring a buddy with you."

National School Commission Picks DuPont Executive As Staff Director

New York, N. Y.—Henry Toy Jr., 35, Du Pont Company Executive and founder of the Council for Delaware Education, has been appointed Executive Director of the new National Citizens Commission for the Public Schools, Roy E. Larsen, president of Time Inc. and chairman of the Commission, announced recently.

"As a businessman who realizes the vital importance of the public schools to each community as well as to the nation, Mr. Toy has been largely responsible for the dramatic success of the Council for Delaware Education in helping citizens to improve the public schools in communities throughout Delaware," Mr. Larsen said.

"In his capacity as Executive Director of our Commission he will be able to give all his time and the full benefit of his experience to implementing the program outlined by our members. According to part of this program the Commission will act as a clearing house of information to enable one group of citizens endeavoring to improve their local public schools to profit from the experience of others. Mr. Toy will also assist us in carrying out many other projects which we are planning to help encourage the broad public interest in the public schools which we believe is necessary to solve the many extremely serious problems which confront the schools today."

The National Citizens Commission for the Public Schools is composed exclusively of laymen, many of them outstanding in business, labor, law and publishing. It was formed last May to work for concerted action by citizens in their own communities. The group has received initial financial support from the Carnegie Corporation and the General Education Board. Its officers are, besides Mr. Larsen: James F. Brownlee, former deputy director of the OPA, vice-chairman; John A. Stevenson, president of Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co., treasurer, and Leo Perlis, director of the National CIO Community Services Committee, secretary. The Council for Delaware Education, which Mr. Toy headed for two and a half years after founding it in November of 1946, is a dramatic illustration of what a group of determined citizens can do for their schools. It has been instrumental in achieving many far-reaching school improvements in Delaware. These include increases in teachers salaries, appropriations for the construction of new school buildings, wide-spread legislative changes for the benefit of the schools, and an upsurge in public interest in the schools which has been reflected in a greatly increased number of voters turning out for elections affecting the schools.

Heritage of the Old Homestead Brings Thoughts of Departed

Homer Stephen of Stephenville, founder of the Erath County Historical Society, has submitted for publication the following article with the thought that it might cause some persons to work their parents' graves:

"Some of our greatest possessions are memories of the old homestead. Suppose we take a trip to the sacred shrine—go from room to room and sit by the old hearth. "Probably many members of our immediate family we loved in our youth have been gathered to the home of their fathers, and as we think of those who should be near to our hearts, we should remember our dear old grandparents to whom we owe our existence on earth.

"I wonder how long it has been since the weeds have been cut around some of those pioneers' graves. They established Christianity and civilization and bequeathed a great heritage that was a big factor in making a great America, and I hope their children's children may carry the heritage on and on.

"And how can we leave this sacred spot without remembering the old fashioned mother whose prayers and love girdle the globe? For her child, if he be on the face of the earth or maybe after he has been in the battles of life, worn and weary, he returns to the old homestead, she welcomes him and says: 'My child, no harm can reach you here.'

Thank God for the old-fashioned mothers who have been such an important factor in moulding a great nation."

Dog Days Could Be Death Days for Careless Motorists in Texas

Austin, Aug. 15.—Pointing out that August of 1948 was the most dangerous of the year for motorists, Colonel Homer Garrison Jr., Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, appealed today to all drivers to exercise extreme caution in their driving this month. During August of 1948, 212 persons lost their lives in Texas traffic accidents surpassing the month of December for the first time. December, Colonel Garrison stated, was normally the month of most traffic fatalities.

Contributing factors toward August's high death rate, according to Garrison, is the fact that this month is a period of many vacation trips, during which numerous people travel unfamiliar roads and devote too much attention to the scenery rather than their driving; too, August heat results in fatigue and induces drowsiness thus making this month the highest in vehicle accidents.

The Texas Department of Public Safety has set as its goal less than 1948 traffic deaths in 1949. If not more than 162 persons are killed this month it will mean a saving in human lives of 50 over the same period last year and this alone, would effect a 2 1/2 per cent reduction for the entire year.

SINGING AT LITTLEVILLE

Everybody is invited. Many good singers and quartets are expected.

SOUTHERN VIE FOR CROWN . . . Social life in the nation's capital received a setback in the recent appointment of Mrs. Porto Motta, No. 1 party giver, as minister to Luxembourg. To fill the gap, leading Washington socialites are reported in a race for the crown. One of the more prominent candidates high in the race for the position is Mrs. Elizabeth Curtis, wife of a well-known real estate operator. Here, she helps Vice President Alben W. Barkley select his steak at a recent elaborate swim-dance party given on her estate. The vice president seems willing to leave the choice of the steak to her.

Carlton

By Mrs. Fred Gey

J. E. Hyles, 66, farmer, passed away at his home near Carlton at 5:15 Tuesday evening, August 9, after about two months illness and great suffering. All that medical doctors and loving hands could do for him could not stay the disease that caused his death. The services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. Chester Sylvester, assisted by Rev. E. E. Dawson of Hico. Joseph Ernest Hyles was born to the late Jas. A. and Mary Frances Hyles, Aug. 27, 1882, in Hico. Had he lived until Aug. 27, he would have been 67. While he was a small lad, his parents moved to a farm near Olin where he grew to young manhood.

"HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

HOW DO YOU handle customers who come in shooting from the hip? Well, here's how one man faced the smoke. He is Harry C. Stewart of Decatur, Ill.

He had just gone to his office, one morning, when one of the salesmen came in with a story of woe about a Mrs. Fradkin. She was using one of the company's ice cream cabinets, but was not selling enough ice cream to pay for it; in addition, she would not make another payment on the cabinet.

Just as the salesman finished his recital, lo and behold, Mrs. Fradkin herself sailed in, and under full steam. She glared at the salesman and said that she had been badly mistreated and that she was not going to pay her bill and that no person from the company must ever again set his foot inside her store. She dealt in ice cream, but her words smoked. In fact, she became almost hysterical in her rage.

Mr. Stewart's first reaction was to side with the salesman and tell the woman to go to the North Pole. But second thought advised him that that was no way to handle an irate customer, so he said in an understanding voice, "Mrs. Fradkin, I know somebody has certainly hurt your feelings, or you would not be so upset, so please tell me what happened."

She did. Finally, she "talked herself" out. Mr. Stewart had listened sympathetically, and there was a great deal to be said on her side.

At the bottom of the matter, the salesman had gone to get some paid advertising from her; she had refused, then the salesman had tried to collect the money she owed on the cabinet.

Clash! Fireworks. As Mr. Stewart talked to her, little by little she became calm. Finally, she said she would not have the cabinet taken out at all—as she had at first declared she would—and that she would then and there, on the spot, pay up all she owed. In half an hour she walked out entirely satisfied, a booster for the company.

Texans' Investment in Savings Bonds Proves Thrift With Patriotism

For generations ago Americans have looked up to the Scotch and the French in the matter of thrift and, just because somebody said so at some time or other, we have been inclined to regard ourselves as profligate spenders. This is simply not true, and no better proof of the error exists than the record in the recent Opportunity Drive for the sale of the government's Series E Savings Bonds.

The final report of the drive has just been made, showing that between May 16 and June 30 the people of Texas invested $48,835,869.75 in these securities, and achieved 126 per cent of the state's quota. That is a lot of money any way you look at it, and the figure takes on special significance when it is understood that this is just an addition to the savings of the citizens of Texas who now own $1,589,137,000 worth of Savings Bonds which earn about $42,372,000 in interest each year for their owners.

This represents a tremendous amount of stored-up purchasing power. It is stored-up purchasing power in every hamlet, town and city of the state, and in the rural communities too. It is the nest egg for hundreds of thousands of Texans, mostly of average means, who have had the forethought to take a little of their earnings and set it aside for future use.

the nation help preserve a healthy economy. The leaders of the Opportunity drive are to be congratulated, for it has been reported that this Savings Bond campaign has been the most successful since the war. But despite the unselfish work the Savings Bond leaders have contributed to the undertaking, probably those most deserving of congratulations are the men and women, here and throughout the state, who have demonstrated the good sense to save a part of their earnings by investing in these safest of all securities.

Medical and Dental Pre-School Check-Up Important to Children

Austin, Texas, August 15.—The month of September brings a return of school days, and thousands of Texas boys and girls will be returning to classrooms for the next nine months. Every one of these children, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, should be as free as possible from all physical defects that can be corrected, and protected against other diseases which frequently spread through classrooms.

A complete medical and dental check-up is of the utmost importance in getting the child ready for school. Eyes, ears, nose, throat, and teeth should be carefully examined, and all remediable defects corrected or placed under treatment. Such defects can lead to serious impairment of growth and progress academically, socially, and emotionally.

Defects of hearing and vision handicap a child in his class work, and often result in the false impression that he is backward and unable to learn. Such defects can often be corrected, and the child is not only more progressive in his work, but is a happier, better balanced individual as a result of being more socially acceptable. Dental defects should be corrected not only for cosmetic reasons, but because good teeth enable a child to chew his food properly and thus promote good digestion and bodily nourishment.

"In addition to correcting such defects as already exist, young children should be protected by immunization against disease, when possible," Dr. Cox said. "Immunization is safe and dependable, and every child is entitled to this protection against disease."

New Buick Special

High on the list of engineering achievements on the new Buick Special is the design of the combined bumper and grille. Developed by Buick and offered on the Special for the first time, this innovation was accomplished by placing the vertical bumper grille bars forward of the single-piece bumper. Two bomb-shaped bumper guards, which also house the parking lamps, are mounted on the bumper.

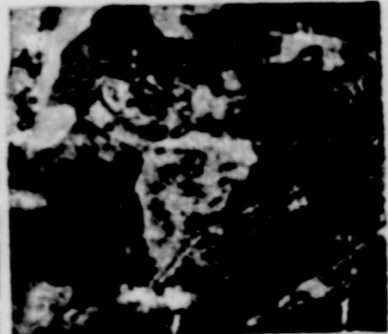

TIM TAKES IT

(A Short Story) By RICHARD HILL WILKINSON

TIM LANGDON PAUSED at the corner of Market and Canal streets. Directly across the street from him the pale rays from a street lamp filtered down through the layers of fog. Tim unhooked the thong of his nightstick from about his wrist, and took a firm grasp on the handle. The solid feel of the wood against his palm was reassuring. Yet in spite of this, in spite of the pressure made by the service gun against his right hip, he felt a cold prickling along his spinal cord.

Sergeant Moriarty had told him that the Canal street beat would be his initiation to the force—a sort of test to find out whether or not he could take it. If a man could handle Canal street he could handle anything; that was the slogan of the force.

Tim held his watch so that it caught the feeble rays of the street lamp. One fifteen. Suddenly he stiffened. Across the street a skulking figure appeared in the glimmer of the street lamp, hesitated a moment, then disappeared. Silence. Slowly Tim relaxed. Nothing wrong with that. Nothing unusual about a man walking along the street at 1:15 in the morning. Distinctly he heard the muffled, deep-toned whistle of a river boat. He gripped his club firmly and started across the street, annoyingly conscious of impending danger.

Halfway up the stairs he began to shoot.

The roar of an approaching automobile smacked against his ears. He jumped to avoid being hit as it skidded around a corner, flashing through the fog-filtered light and disappeared into the blackness of Canal street. A moment later Tim heard the squeak of brakes. Then a shot. Then three more shots and a man's terrified scream.

Tim started to run. The pricking sensation had disappeared, but his hands felt clammy. Half a block down Canal street, he came upon the automobile, one front wheel on the sidewalk, its motor still running. As he pounded along the pavement a crouching figure darted from beside the car, rapidly mounted a flight of steps and disappeared through a door.

Tim yelled a throaty command to halt, but the figure had already vanished. Yanking out his service pistol, Tim galloped up the steps. The door above was open. He stepped into a darkened hall. The door banged shut. Instinctively Tim leaped to one side, crouched. His own breathing sounded unnaturally loud. He tried to still it, realizing it was a certain indication of his location.

A sense of terror chilled his blood. The knowledge that the door hadn't shut on its own accord caused his hand to tremble. He steadied himself. Slowly he began to move along the wall. A sense of not being alone possessed him, a sense of impending danger and threat in the darkness that lay about him. He thought: "I was a fool to rush in here blindly. This may be my first and last day on the force."

Then he remembered his flashlight and fumbled for it. Its white rays slashed through the darkness. The hall was empty, but a rustling came from the top of the flight of stairs directly in front of him. He heard a muffled curse and a voice say "Capek!"

Tim's blood froze. Capek! The mere name gave him an overpowering sense of dread. Capek hated coppers. If Capek were at the head of the stairs it meant—Tim fought against the urge to flee, to rush toward the blessed security of the murky street.

A picture of Sergt. Moriarty's smile crossed his mind. He understood now what that smile had meant. It was a sneer, not a smile. It meant that Moriarty believed he couldn't take it.

Tim's mouth set grimly. So that's what they thought of him, eh? Well, he'd show 'em! "Come on down, Capek! I'm coming up after you!"

Subdued, sneering laughter from the head of the stairs. "Come ahead!" He started up the stairs two at a time. Blinding flashes of light stabbed at him from the darkness above. The roar of guns and acrid odor of burning powder filled his ears and nose. He supposed they had hit him. He didn't see how they could miss. But he kept on, feeling no pain, nor numbness.

Halfway up the stairs he began to shoot. By the time he had reached the top his gun was empty. He hurled it into the darkness and hurled himself after it. His body plumped up against a heavy form. Arms closed about him, vise-like, holding him still. Light beams jabbed at him out of the darkness. "Some one laughed. A voice said: "Nice going, Tim. You'll do all right."

"Initiation, Tim," Moriarty was saying. "It's our way of finding out what a rookie is made of. We can't afford to risk losing a man like you by leaving him on the Canal street beat."

Good Dental Health Requires Early Care, Periodic Examinations

Austin, Texas, Aug. 15.—Tooth decay or dental caries is a destructive, progressive disease of the teeth. A large part of a tooth may be destroyed by decay with little evidence of decay on the surface. Says Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, surveys of large groups of preschool children reveal that 50 per cent of them have decayed teeth at three years of age, 75 per cent at four years of age, and 90 per cent at five years of age. Six out of ten children age 4 to 5 have as many as seven or more cavities.

Decay begins most frequently in the small pits and fissures on the chewing surfaces and at the points of contact between the teeth. Pits and fissures with structural flaws should be filled at once to prevent decay.

Dr. Cox said, "Dental examinations and care should begin with the three year old child, and periodic examinations and necessary care should follow thereafter, as often as the dentist advises. The first of baby teeth should be kept in a healthy condition until it is time for them to be lost."

"X-rays aid the dentist in finding hidden cavities, especially those between the teeth. Many of these beginning cavities are located in areas where they cannot be found in any other way. X-ray pictures are also useful in finding other conditions that require immediate attention such as abscesses, impacted teeth, broken roots, bone destruction due to pyorrhea, extra teeth and other information that is important in treatment of the case."

"With periodic dental examination and adequate dental care for each child, beginning at three years of age, the great majority of the children will reach adulthood with good dental health."

MINERAL WELLS

By LYN CONNELLY
NWSN Radio-Screen Editor

EVER WONDER about the birth of a song? With Stan Jones, a Nevada forest ranger, rocking the music world with his stirring ballad, "Riders in the Sky," and Vaughn Monroe's magnificent version of it hitting the million selling mark, we asked Jones as to the song's origin and this was the result: "The legend," he said, "starts down in the southeast part of the country after the Civil War when our first cowpunchers drifted west, most of them ex-Confederate soldiers, and took up cowpunching for a living. The Mexican charros that were already running stock had a legend... In other words, if a man was bad most of his life in that wilderness, one day he would see an apparition in the clouds."

"But the cowboys that came out and later turned out a lot of badmen picked it up a little differently and it went something like this... If they saw in the clouds on a very dark and stormy day, an apparition of a herd of very wild looking cows, or animals of one kind or another, and behind this group of cattle they saw a band of riders chasing them — that they would actually have seen the devil's herd, and the boys that had been condemned to chase that herd... If they did see it they would be condemned for all time with that bunch of boys to catch the devil's herd."

"My part of it for pecking it up," Stan continued, "started when I was 14 and a friend and I were out on the range one morning... We had gone out to a windmill to pull a pin. On the way back we took a shortcut and curved up a narrow ravine. Looking out on the valley floor and the teeth of the gale was an old cowpuncher... When we got to the top the old fellow punched me in the side and said, 'Son, there are the kind of clouds a man sees the riders in.' The next morning I found out that the man had dropped dead that night."

There should be no question about it! There's no use getting angry at your hens if they begin to act coy around the nests. It's time to swing into action with a feeding program designed to furnish not only the basic nutrients such as proteins, carbohydrates and fats, but also the equally important vitamins and minerals so often missing in ordinary rations.

CACKELO EGG MASH

CACKELO FLOCK LAYING ALL MASH

contains high quality ingredients, which are present in amounts and proportions designed to help your hens produce to their maximum ability. The above marginal amounts of vitamin-mineral fortification aid in guarding your hens against vitamin-mineral deficiencies as well as helping to improve economy of feed.

Local Boy Attending State Department's Foreign Affairs Course

Boyd R. Reedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Reedy, Route 3 Hamilton, who own and operate a large ranch near Carlton, is one of the twenty-three outstanding students and instructors, representing twelve colleges and universities throughout the nation, who have arrived in Washington to attend the first Student-Professor seminar to be conducted by the United States Department of State.

Designed to give the academic circles of the country a more comprehensive picture of the State Department's role in the conduct of foreign affairs, classes were begun July 19 in the Foreign Service Institute where members of the two-month course gathered for the first time from all areas of the Department.

Planned tours both within and outside the Department are permitting the group first-hand observation of the areas, operations, and procedures under discussion. Young Reedy, a student at Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., has been assigned to the area of Shimabukuro Teruji, Hilo, Hawaii, T. H.

Individual projects of special interest have been assumed by members to give actual working experience to each student and professor attending the course.

The current program was developed and initiated as a result of the widespread interest of college level groups and individuals to gain a more intimate knowledge of the workings, functions, activities, and role of the Department.

Registration took place July 18 and the seminar was officially launched the following day with a welcome from Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs George V. Allen. The eight week program will be concluded September 9.

Speakers and lecturers during the first two weeks have included William P. Marrox, Director, Foreign Service Institute; Allen Evans, Director, Office of Intelligence Research; G. Bernard Noble, Chief, Division of Historical Policy Research; Francis H. Russell, Director, Office of Public Affairs; Evron F. Hale, Assistant Director, Foreign Service Institute; Lyle I. Schmitter, Division of International Conferences; Joseph S. Sparks, Division of South Asian Affairs; and Barbara J. Pryor, International Broadcasting Division.

One of the early seminars took place in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee room in the Capital building. Tours of the Division of Communications and the Executive Secretariat of the State Department also have been conducted.

Some seventy-five colleges and universities were asked to participate in the nation-wide program by nominating a limited quota of candidates on the basis of individual interests in international relations as well as scholarship and leadership merits. A Department board consisting of representatives from the Foreign Service Institute, Departmental Personnel Division, Public Liaison Division, and the Foreign Service Personnel Division made final screening and approval of the applicants. Members of the Seminar pay their own travel and living expenses.

Growing Plants Will Add Glamour to State Fair Agriculture Show

The dirt farmer of Texas will achieve a large measure of glamour in the fresh, living Agriculture Show now being readied for the 1949 State Fair of Texas Oct. 8-23.

Gone will be the old-fashioned museum-like jars of seeds and prize ears of corn so long a fixture of state fairs. Instead, at the 1949 State Fair of Texas majestic stalks of grain and billowing sheaves of wheat will be shown growing with their roots in actual soil, under typical farm conditions brought indoors.

There will be more actual growing plants exhibited at the Fair this year than at any fair anywhere before," declared E. C. English, chairman of the Fair's Agriculture Committee. "Visitors, who've never seen rice or peanuts, for example, except in a bowl of cereal or a candy bar, will get to see them as they grow in the field."

There will be living exhibits of flax, grain sorghums, grass, corn, cotton, wheat, roses, legumes, oats, barley, and vegetables.

A fabulous exhibit of more than 40 varieties of Texas grass alone is worth a trip to the Fair, Mr. English said. The Texas Forest Service will set up a tall living pine tree; and a dazzling exhibit of roses by Tyler growers will probably be the Fair's most colorful single display.

A huge and impressive exhibit will show how the vast Texas A&M College System reaches into every county in the state to help farmers and ranchers to better crop quality and yields and improve livestock.

The cotton industry will tell the full story of Texas' leading crop in an interesting exhibit pin-pointing the advantages of mechanization and modern marketing methods which have enabled Texas to hold its position as the nation's leading cotton-growing state.

Displays by West Texas groups will portray the importance of this vast agricultural empire in the economy of the state. The miracle of irrigation in the "shallow water" section of the area will be demonstrated.

"We have tried to give the new Texas agriculture every bit of emphasis which the importance of this $2,000,000,000 industry deserves," Mr. English said.

"There will be a harvest of ideas for the farmer and a new perspective for the city-dweller in the new approach to this year's Fair."

The interior of the huge Agriculture Building has been newly "showcased" by the nationally-famous Lambert Landscape Co. of Dallas.

"Like father, like son" is a saying that really means something in the telephone industry. In every phase of telephone operation, you'll find fine examples of family service. Fathers and sons—mothers and daughters—brothers and sisters—following each other's footsteps or working together to add new meaning to telephone service.

These are people with a great sense of public duty. With so many members of the same families devoting their lives to the improvement of telephone communications, it must truly be said of their work—it's not a job, it's a tradition

Rural Youth Day At Dallas Fair October 15 To Bring Record Crowd

Post-war rural youth activity in the state will reach its high point this year when the largest single gathering of farm boys and girls in the nation's history will be honored by the State Fair of Texas on Rural Youth Day, October 15, James W. Aston, chairman of the Fair's rural youth day committee, has announced.

"At least 75,000 4-H Club boys and girls, Future Farmers and Future Homemakers from farms and ranches in every corner of the state, will make the trip to the Fair," Aston said. "Last year's attendance of 60,000 was considered phenomenal, but all indications point to a 25 per cent increase for this year."

The youngsters are traditionally given free admission to the Fair, and a free lunch which is provided by Dallas business leaders.

"Purpose of Rural Youth Day is primarily to help youngsters become better citizens," Aston said. "The sights they see and the information they obtain on this day broaden their vision, and their knowledge of trends in agriculture, livestock, poultry and modern life in general. They find out what is going on, gain valuable 'know-how,' learn how to profit from the experience of others and, as a result, they become better business men, homemakers, farmers, ranchers, and citizens."

Rural Youth Day was inaugurated at the Fair in 1946. Through the cooperation of the Texas A&M College Extension Service, state Vocational Agriculture and Home-making departments, the event has grown from an initial attendance of 30,000 to 75,000 which is the goal for 1949.

Attendance prizes of $100 each will be awarded the county 4-H Club delegation and the Future Farmer and Future Homemaker chapters which have the highest score, based on the number of members present multiplied by the number of miles traveled to the Fair.

A banquet honoring the 50 outstanding Future Farmers, Future Homemakers, and 4-H Club boys and girls in the state during 1949, will be held in the Texas Room of the Baker Hotel at 7 p. m., October 14.

Other junior events planned for the 1949 State Fair are Junior Livestock Show, October 17-22; Junior Market Turkey Show, October 8-13; Junior Market Broiler Show, October 14-20; Junior Grass Judging Contest, October 19; and State Junior Livestock Judging Contest, October 11.

KEEP PRODUCTION UP AND COSTS DOWN WITH OUR HOME MIXED FEEDS

With many dairymen walking a "tight wire" along the narrow path between profits and losses, balance is as important to them as to the trapeze artist in a circus.

Livestock authorities say that good feeding is the most important single job on the dairy farm. They also agree that home-grown grains, mixed with protein concentrates cost less than carbohydrates that must be shipped in.

That's where we come in. Our equipment and experience in this line enable us to offer you the very best mixtures at the lowest prices. We are now featuring many new lines.
