'Most vicious murder I've seen'

Dad charged with 6 deaths

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Writer

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — A 46-year-old father was charged Saturday with "silently and methodically" stabbing and beating his six sleeping children to death with a hunting knife and rubber-headed mallet.

One 15-year-old veteran police investigator called it "the worst mass murder in the history of the city and the most vicious murder I've ever seen."

Rockford police broke into Simon Nelson's home here after Milwaukee police notified them that Nelson was arrested in that city and charged with beating his estranged wife, Ann, 38.

Mrs. Nelson reported to Milwaukee police that her husband told her he had killed their children, aged 3 to 12.

Five-year-old Roseann Nelson and her 12-year-old sister Jennifer were found in their bed in a second-floor bedroom, their heads bludgeoned and their bodies repeatedly stabbed. Their pet dog, a dachshund, was in the bed, its throat slit, said police Capt. Richard Anderson. The girls' four brothers — Matthew, 7, Andrew, 9, Simon Jr., 10, and David, 3 — were found in their third-floor bedroom, killed in a similar manner, Anderson said.

One of the boys' bodies was found halfway out of his bed, indicating he may have been the only one of the children who had any warning of impending death, Anderson said.

Neighbors reported hearing no sounds, Anderson said in describing the killings as "silent and methodical."

He said a hunting knife and a large rubber-headed mallet were found in the home and were considered the death weapons.

Neighbors told police that Mrs. Nelson, an ice skating instructor, left Rockford several days ago and moved into a Milwaukee motel. They said the couple had had numerous arguments about Nelson's failure to get a job. Police said Nelson recently was hired as a management counselor in Rockford.

A Rockford police spokesman said the time of the children's deaths had not been firmly established, but it was were lodged against Nelson, who was arrested in Milwaukee about 6:30 a.m. Saturday. Milwaukee police also lodge a felony charge of aggravated battery against Nelson for the alleged beating of Mrs. Nelson at her motel.

Operation on Mesa Street

Drug roundup nets 8

Raids Friday night and Saturday afternoon by police detectives resulted in eight drug arrests in Big Spring, with one 16-year-old juvenile arrested twice. Detectives Mike Kelly, Tony Lujan, George Quintero and Reserve Officer

Mike Dawson, assisted by undercover and area agents, made the arrests in two separate raids on a Mesa Street address.

Farmers mad about line

LOWRY, Minn. (AP) — Following a televised appeal for peace by the governor, 100 state troopers will move into this central Minnesota town Sunday to keep angry farmers from obstructing work crews trying to assemble towers for a high-voltage transmission line.

The show of force — the largest mobilization of troopers in the state's history — comes after two years of negotiation, court action, protest and vandalism by farmers who consider the power line dangerous.

Electric cooperatives say more power is needed. The conflict climaxed last week with wrench-wielding protesters dismantling pieces of the tower and pushing and shoving 10 troopers who tried to stop them.

About 30 protesters met Saturday morning and leaders said later they would not stop in force Monday in an effort to stop construction work.

The farmers say they fear for their safety, both from high voltage and from ozone created by the 400-kilovolt, direct current line.

Although their opponents are farmer-run rural electric cooperatives which serve most of Minnesota's farms, the protesters argue for the "integrity of the land." As one leader put it: "We become the cesspool and the cities get the juice."

The issue is basic for many of the farmers: The survival of the rural way of life. Many of them wear buttons that read, "If you kill our farms, your cities will die."

Gov. Rudy Perpich, who has driven alone to the farms to hear gripes over kitchen tables, approved the trooper assistance last week after one woman was arrested and nine people were cited for trying to push through a line of troopers guarding construction equipment.

Attorney General Warren Spannaus said Friday his office will also send a lawyer to help with arrests if they occur.

Perpich, who says he owes his gray hair to the power line fight, went on television Friday night in an unprecedented appeal for law and order, calling "for an end to the harassment of workers, the interference with construction crews, and the destruction of equipment."

Lockheed talks set Thursday

Big Spring will be hosting important visitors this week when Lockheed Aircraft Service Co. officials present their program for Webb AFB to Air Force procurement personnel.

Hearings slated on medical center

Dr. Judson Williams, chairman of the board of regents of the Texas Tech University School of Medicine, has scheduled a meeting Thursday, Feb. 2, at which time oral presentations will be heard by the board on the issue of site selection of the regional Academic Health Center building, planned for the Permian Basin.

Communities in the Permian Basin have been invited to have representatives appear before the board of regents. The three cities have indicated their interest with time for their appearances having been determined by lot.

The Midland delegation will be heard at 3 p.m., the Odessa group at 4 p.m., and the Big Spring representatives at 5 p.m.

As many as 40 representatives are expected to begin arriving tonight and continue to flow into town until the briefing begins Thursday morning.

The procedure is called a pre-award survey of facilities, and will be presented by Lockheed as a part of its bid to win a defense contract to rebuild Air Force planes at the ex-Air Force facility.

According to Clyde McMahon, a member of the Webb Steering Committee, no functions between city or county officials and the arriving Lockheed and federal personnel have been planned, "although we'll possibly have something after they arrive."

Twenty Lockheed officials, including one vice president, will have arrived here by Tuesday. As many as 20 government officials from Ogden AFB and the Defense Auditing Department in Fort Worth will arrive before the Thursday presentation begins.

The briefing will continue through Friday and possibly into Saturday.

Two persons killed in Arkansas storm

WYNNE, Ark. (AP) — Two persons were killed Saturday afternoon when a tornado ripped through a mobile home park destroying about 50 trailers, Cross County Civil Defense Director Art Rogers said.

The tornado struck the Hamilton Trailer Park, about two miles south of this eastern Arkansas town at 4:20 p.m.

Rogers said about 50 mobile homes were destroyed and another 25 damaged. He said the park has about 100 trailers.

Cross County Hospital here reported treating seven persons for injuries.

Ambulances dispatched here to the scene from Jonesboro and Forrest City and a disaster unit was sent from the Jonesboro Office of Civil Defense.

A spokesman for Gov. David Pryor said in Little Rock that the National Guard was being alerted for possible duty in the area.

The National Weather Service said five mobile homes were destroyed when a tornado touched down five miles west of Hunter. Hunter is about 40 miles southwest of here.

The weather service said that twister hit Hunter about 3:32 p.m.

State's outlook good in energy

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Texas oil fields will provide a major share of crude oil into the 21st century, the Oil and Gas Journal reported Saturday.

The weekly business magazine reported that the Texas Railroad Commission reached the verdict after a 1977 study of 34 of the state's most productive fields.

Don't make waves

with Tommy Hart

The faceless individuals running our government have their own way of dealing with those intrepid souls who would challenge the system and expose waste and abuse.

A. Ernest Fitzgerald, shown the door in 1969 after revealing $2 billion in cost overruns associated with a cargo plane, sued successfully to have his job restored as a civilian cost-cutting expert for the Air Force. Little good it did him. Fitzgerald was given a $47,000 salary to do what amounts to trivial work, is now screened off from the big spending program.

Jimmy Carter resorted to lofty rhetoric defending Fitzgerald on the campaign trail two years ago but the sins of the syndrome have not diminished.

God may forgive you but the bureaucracy never does. (Cont. on p. 3A)

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: One out

Q. I have heard that it is possible for a person to have social security withholding discontinued by signing forms which deny future benefits. I also heard this is only possible due to religious beliefs. Can you verify?

A. This is true for ministers only and only if they have never paid into social security withholding as a minister. They may fill out a form on their first year as a self-employed minister denying all future benefits and not participating, according to Don Minyard, assistant manager at the local Social Security office.

Offbeat: Talking fireplace

HOUSTON (AP) — Scott Sullivan, 29, was surprised when he heard someone talking in his fireplace.

"Hey, anybody out there? I'm in the chimney," a man's voice said. Sullivan said the man explained he had climbed into the chimney to burglarize the house but got stuck. Sullivan called the fire department.

"They didn't believe me, so I called police," Sullivan said. The police didn't believe him either, Sullivan said, but decided to investigate after calling back to confirm the report. Investigators arrived and then called firemen again, who removed a 20-year-old, soot-covered man from the chimney.

"I was just walking along and thought I'd climb in and try to burglarize the house," the man told investigators, adding that he had never tried anything like it before and had no plans to try again. Police said burglary charges would be filed.

Adventure lecture series is nearing

Some season tickets are still available for the Big Spring Rotary Clubs' Adventures in Travel lecture series which will begin Wednesday, said Charles Bell, project chairman.

The first of the series will be at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Howard College Auditorium as cinematographer Robin Williams shows his film and narrates "Greek Islands Odyssey."

Members of the Big Spring's two Rotary Clubs will be selling season tickets through Wednesday for the series of five lectures. Season tickets cost $12.50 for adults; $7.50 for students; and $30 for a family.

If seats are available, tickets will be sold at the door for individual films at $4 each.

Tickets are available also at Big Spring's financial institutions, Skipper Travel and the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Williams, who was born in London to a family of famous adventurers, studied cinematography at Brooks Institute. His grandfather, a professor of languages at Stanford, was lost in the Amazon in 1916.

William's film tells about the Greek Islands, which have become one of the most popular tourist attractions in the world. It takes the viewer to Santorini, a volcanic island.

The film explores the lost Atlantis theory with the discovery of Minoan houses. From a Cretan dance in a local tavern to the 10,000 spinning windmills, the film covers the islands, including a stop at the holy cave of Apocalypse on Patmos where John wrote the "Revelations."

Other travel films in the series include "Hawaii," Wednesday, Jan. 25; "Shakespeare's Britain — Today," Tuesday, Feb. 7; "Cape to Kenya," Friday, March 17; and "High Himalaya," Wednesday, April 12.

Market at 2-year low Economic signs eyed

By the Associated Press
Americans are entering the second week of 1978 with the stock market buffeted to a two-year low at home and their dollar taking a beating abroad. And the week ahead should give other signs of the shape of things to come. Any decisive reaction in the foreign exchange market to the Carter administration's plan to deal with the deteriorating dollar should be apparent when trading opens Monday.

CIUDAD MANTE, Mexico (AP) — Some 250 soldiers patrolled the streets of this northern Mexico community Saturday to maintain order in the wake of political violence the night before in which at least 1420 persons were injured.

the palace and threw firebombs through city hall windows. They later marched through the streets, setting fire to the other buildings, Mendoza said. Some 40 prisoners escaped from the jail during the rioting, he said.

Observers said some 3,000 demonstrators protesting alleged election fraud in last November's election for mayor burned several buildings, including the city hall, the tax office, the city jail and several downtown stores.

Army troops from the nearby town of Tampico arrived about 1 a.m. Saturday to reinforce local troops, who put down the uprising and established order, Mendoza said.

The city is some 250 miles south of the Texas border in the state of Tamaulipas and some 85 miles south of Ciudad Victoria.

The newspaper editor said the protesters also smashed windows and damaged equipment at the newspaper "El Tiempo" and at "El Matutino."

The Tamaulipas State Attorney General's office in Ciudad Victoria said 14 persons were injured by gunshot or machete wounds during rioting Friday night and early Saturday morning.

Mendoza said the town's police force did not intervene in the rioting and remained in their quarters Saturday, leaving the maintenance of order to the federal troops.

Edgar Mendoza, city editor of the newspaper "El Matutino," said the demonstrators gathered in front of the city hall-called the municipal palace here-about 8 p.m. Friday to hear speakers denounce the elections.

Supporters of the PARM, the smallest political party in the country, have charged election fraud and led protest marches and occupied municipal offices in three states in recent weeks.

When they attempted to storm the palace, they were repelled by supporters of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party in an exchange of gunfire.

The party claims the candidates for mayor of the ruling party won election by fraud in municipal elections in November.

State Attorney General Evan Garza Mascorro said order had been restored. He claimed the leaders of the disturbance were not politicians but "professional subversives who took advantage of the political conflict."

The PARM has contested elections in 13 cities, four of them in Tamaulipas. One of the cities is Reynosa, just across from Hidalgo, Tex.

The demonstrators set fire to a garbage truck and another vehicle in front of Mendoza said the PARM candidate, Jose Gonzalez Alvarado, has accepted defeat in the election and did not participate in Friday's protest.

A Dutch layman named Brother Andrew, who has spent 22 years taking the Christian message beyond the Iron Curtain, suggests that God is interested in protecting his church, but not necessarily the privileged among us.
 "Capitalism can become a greater threat to Christians than communism," says Andrew. He fears that the affluence of the velvet push has tempted many Christians to compromise their faith for the comforts their society affords them.
 Andrew's surnames are Van der Bijl. He's known to many as "God's Smuggler," a nickname he doesn't particularly like. A biographical book about him, which tells of his penchant for taking Holy Bibles to the masses in Eastern Europe, is so named.
 Andrew wanted the tome entitled "With the Work of God Behind the Iron Curtain" but concedes it has sold better with the catchier title. More than four million copies of the book have now been distributed.

St. Mary's Episcopal Church here paid $24,000 for the block and a half on which its 120-unit retirement center will be built (at 17th and Lancaster).
 News of the complex dramatically increased land values in the area. The owner of a block nearby is now asking $0 big ones ($50,000) for his acreage.
 Odessan J.W. Cooper, who won the contract to erect the $3.1 million Canterbury complex, an Episcopalian by faith, says he may take the lead in trying to get HUD to finance a similar structure on his home turf.
 The automobile, it is generally conceded, has become a sex symbol in America. It is worshipped the point that it almost has become a religious symbol.

 Would it surprise you then to learn that the average American family spends more money on transportation than it does on food? Ten thousand drivers obtain licenses daily in the U.S. Each resident uses an average of 877 gallons of gasoline annually. We have half the motor vehicles in all the world. My advice is — invest in parking lots.
 Incidentally, a well-heeled chap I know bought one of those very exclusive sports wagons. Now he's claiming it is very economical on gas. It's always in the shop being repaired, he explains.
 Preston Smith, a gubernatorial candidate rarely heard and even less frequently seen, is doing so poorly in the polls he appears incapable of even forcing Dolph Briscoe and John Hill into a runoff.

The license plate on a California hearse bears this special lettering: "END RUN."
 Out of the earth, the rose, Out of the night, the dawn, Out of my heart, with all its woes, High courage to press on. —Laura Lee Randall
 A 30-year-old CG-5 Treasury Department employe, William Sibert, who spent most of the $87,557 he embezzled from the government to live lavishly for a while, says he would do the same thing again.
 "I don't have the slightest sympathy for the government," Sibert told a confidante. "I don't feel like I've done a crime against the government. I don't think it's a living thing. The government's screwed so many people in so many ways that I don't feel I've hurt my government. The government is not something that has a feeling."

 Sibert, whose annual pay was a modest $10,000, faulted the bureaucracy for being so inept when it put so much trust in him, says government is sloppy in its handling of billions of dollars and "stupid" in the way it has attempted to recover property he bought with the purloined funds.
 Not only is Sibert reluctant to return any of the swag, he consulted an attorney who he said advised him those who benefited from his philanthropy could keep what they received. Most of the people, he gloated, are "scared" by the government into returning such gifts.
 Sibert, who had an impressive rap sheet when he went to work for the Treasury Department, discovered he could transfer funds to himself simply by making out a voucher. His first payment was for $55,916.47 to William Sibert and he sent it to his supervisor, who promptly signed it.

He spent nearly $200,000 on at least 12 cars for friends and hosted dinners at expensive cafes where the tab often ballooned to $500. He bought a house with a swimming pool, a houseboat, lavished gifts on fellow workers and even anted up $80,000 for a topless bar a block from FBI headquarters in Washington.
 During the ripoff, he discovered banks would give him tens of thousands of dollars in cash for U.S. Treasury checks — no questions asked. One day, a bank was forced to close its doors and wait for another money delivery after Sibert "withdrew" $36,000 early in the morning.
 A few years ago, Sibert was found guilty on a housebreaking charge in Maryland and drew an eight-year jolt in the bucket. For this latest impropriety against the yeomanry, he was told he would have to mark time for six years in old Stoney Lonesome.
 If he did the entire six years soaking up striped sunshine, his "pay" would figure out to $391.39 a day. How many jobs around do you know that offer that kind of money?
 Sometimes, I think the only answer to the mess we've created in Washington is to take a bulldozer and push it all into the sea, then start over.

Elaborate plans paid dividends

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A truck hidden between trees, farm land untilled, a rancher with the hands of a city dude, tire tracks that disappeared into the ocean.
 Piece by piece the evidence indicated something strange was happening on a 210-acre ranch on the southern Oregon coast.
 On the last day of 1977, a flare was fired into the predawn sky and federal and local law enforcement officers swooped down on what they believe was a major smuggling ring bringing marijuana from South America and Southeast Asia to the East and West coasts.
 Court testimony Friday and documents have revealed the string of events that culminated in the arrest of 17 men on federal drug charges and the seizure of more than eight tons of potent marijuana "Thai sticks" valued at $20 million. It was the largest marijuana bust ever in the Pacific Northwest.

One of the defendants, Arthur Allen, 33, of Santa Barbara, Calif., bought the ranch south of Bandon, Ore. last August. The beach running along the property was relatively free of rocks, described by a U.S. Customs officer as "one of the few spots on the Oregon coast" where the terrain "could permit smuggling at sea."
 It also adjoined a popular fishing and hunting area. Previous owners had allowed fishermen and hunters to cross the ranch to reach the public land. Disgruntled anglers began to complain to the Customs office in Coos Bay that Allen would not allow them on his property.
 A check on Allen's car showed it was bought with cash in California by a man calling himself David Callahan. The buyer told the dealer he'd return for the title, but never came back.

On Dec. 5, Gano flew over the ranch with the Coast Guard and took aerial photographs. He saw "large tracks leading in and out of the barn" and guessed they could have been made by amphibious vehicles.
 On Dec. 6, Gano went to Allen's ranch with two Bureau of Land Management officers who wanted to check on the access complaints. Two large German shepherds held them at bay until Allen appeared.
 Officers equipped with infrared spotting devices started keeping a nighttime watch on the beach and ranch. They saw vehicles moving on the beach and Gano said "it appeared to us it was a patrol."

 Around Dec. 20 officers flew over the ranch again and spotted a large trailer truck parked on a back road between heavy trees. Officers began 24-hour observation of the ranch, Gano said.

 A week later, the Coast Guard spotted a vessel without running lights off the coast near the ranch. The night of Dec. 29 signals

Hashed between the ship and the beach.
 On Dec. 30, federal and local officers began to gather near the ranch at 12:30 a.m. Dec. 31 officers heard an engine and saw an am-

Ethics of state fire marshal may be probed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A legislative committee says it has found instances of misconduct and wrongful exercise of authority in the state fire marshal's office.
 The Senate Subcommittee on Consumer Affairs adopted a resolution Friday saying it "has found serious defects in the office of the state fire marshal, including misfeasance and malfeasance in the office, and hereby call upon the State Board of Insurance to correct the shortcomings immediately."
 The panel also resolved "that no further reprisal be taken against any person who has cooperated with the subcommittee staff or has testified before the subcommittee."

 It said it would continue its hearings into Meadows' office until it is "satisfied that the people of Texas are protected."
 Arson investigator Don Hicks told the committee a capital murder case in West Columbia could not be prosecuted because Meadows refused to have the case checked out immediately.

Moncada family plans to start anew here

Gifts are still being accepted for the Mario Moncada family, who lost all its belongings in a mobile home trailer fire, which occurred during the early hours of Friday, Dec. 30, on the Old Gail Road.
 The Moncadas escaped with their lives, thanks to their five-year-old daughter, Terri, who was awakened by the fire and alerted the others.
 Employees at Berkley Homes, where Moncada is employed, raised $200 to aid the Moncadas. For that and for the many other gifts of household goods, clothing and cash, Mrs. Moncada said the family will be forever grateful.

The Moncada car was lost in the blaze, as well as the residence and household goods. Total loss was estimated at $10,000, none of it insured. It was particularly distressing, according to Mrs. Moncada, because the family was just about free of debt at the time.
 She had special words of praise for all local churches and for the neighbors and friends who pitched in to help.
 The Moncadas plan to shortly move into a house in Big Spring owned by a relative of Mr. Moncada. Moncada decided to settle here after finishing a hitch in the U.S. Marine Corps.

Can you believe that 1977 bank call?

One figure which is closely watched as an economic indicator for small cities is the year-end bank deposit figures.

That's why the record deposits reported by the four banks in Howard County was such welcome news last week.

The banks showed deposits of $130.7 million on Dec. 30, 1977, against deposits of $116.6 million for 1976.

THE GAIN in one year's time is 12.1 per cent, which is remarkable enough by itself. But when you figure that the one year being considered is the same one that saw Big Spring lose its air base and 3,000 jobs, then the 12.1 per cent gain is astounding.

The Webb closing did have some effect on deposits, but it was swallowed up by the general economic strength of the area, much as the effect on the other portions of Big Spring's economy has been.

Another amazing point is that the deposits might have looked even better if the cotton harvest and selling period had been normal this year.

UNDER USUAL circumstances, farmers would have sold much of their cotton by now, and the bank deposits would reflect these sales.

But since many farmers have all or portions of their crop in the government loan program, these dollars will not be fully reflected until later than normal.

By any standard, the year-end bank call for 1977 gave Big Spring another solid cause for optimism.

Long shadow

Evans, Novak

DALLAS — The impression in Washington of fading political opposition to the Panama Canal treaties is refuted here in Texas by the experience of William Clements, Dallas oil-drilling millionaire and former Deputy Defense Secretary, in his surprise campaign for the Republican nomination for governor.

Clements started under a cloud for having backed President Ford's proposed canal treaty in 1976 while at the Pentagon. He changed to opposition against President Carter's version but still belittled the issue as not all that important. More experienced political advisers, shuddering in horror, soon switched him to an unequivocal anti-treaty stance.

NEVERTHELESS, CLEMENTS' semi-apostasy on the canal could cost him the nomination. Its value is dubious anyway; polls and politicians heavily favor Democratic Gov. Dolph Briscoe for re-election. But the canal issue casts a long shadow forward to a 1980 struggle for possibly crucial presidential convention delegates from Texas.

The reality is the absence of any decline in opposition here to turning the canal over to Panama. That is particularly true of the minority of Texans who vote in the Republican primary. So nobody supporting the treaties can hope for any Republican prize in Texas, be it the dubious honor of running for governor or the rich harvest of delegates to the 1980 national convention.

This political rule was not obvious to Clements when he surprised the tight little world of Texas Republican politics in November by announcing for governor at age 60, his first effort at elective office. That nomination had seemingly been nailed down by former state Rep. Ray Hutchison, who until recently was Republican state chairman and apparently had solid organization support.

The argument being made for Clements by veteran party wheelhorse Peter O'Donnell and others is this: the governorship can be won only by a Republican who rounds up the "heavy hitters" — Texas big money men — who habitually go Republican for President and Democratic for governor. With their clout, Clements might have a chance against Briscoe following a possibly damaging Democratic primary.

BUT GIVEN Hutchison's head start, Clements must win over the fervent, issue-oriented 1976 supporters of Ronald Reagan. They suspected Hutchison as state chairman was "neutral" for Ford against Reagan, and they mistrust Hutchison's close ties to former Gov. John B. Connally, who ended up backing Ford.

However, as ex-Deputy Defense Secretary, Clements too has Ford connections — including support for a Ford-sponsored canal treaty. It was not passive support. Texas newspaper editors can recall Clements' off-the-record pleas to support a treaty because the canal is militarily indefensible.

Although he opposes the Carter treaty, Clements tried to put the issue in perspective. Just before announcing his candidacy, Clements publicly declared the canal issue is far less important than strategic arms limitations talks (SALT). The treaty debate, he said, is "snapping at gnats." Even today, Bill Clements is candid enough to tell us: "IF SALT is 10 on a scale of 10, then the canal is about 1."

OTHER — TEXAS Republican leaders, but only privately, feel the same way, and Clements now has followed their lead by not volunteering his views to the grass roots faithful. On a recent visit to Midland in conservative West Texas, Clements declared himself, with no ifs, ands or buts, against giving away the canal. Mayor Ernest Angelo, an ardent Reaganite and Republican national committeeman, was satisfied.

I looked over Jordan, and what did I see . . . .

Vaginitis, infection: Trouble

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it common to have both vaginal and urinary tract infection at the same time? I am 51 and had a hysterectomy five years ago. The tubes and ovaries were left in. Is vaginitis more common after a hysterectomy or after a certain age? I have tried to be careful about wiping after a bowel movement, but both vaginal and urine cultures showed "E. coli" anyway. Can you comment?

—E.P.H.

Your question is a good one, but there are too many factors involved for a simple answer.

Vaginitis and a urinary tract infection can be present at the same time. They may either be related or independent of each other. Vaginitis does not, as a rule, follow hysterectomy. Anyway, after five years it could not be called a cause of your condition. Had your ovaries been removed there might have been some hormone imbalance that could have contributed to it. But this is a moot point since you say yours were left intact.

Trichomonas (a vaginal parasite) or a yeast infection are the commonest causes, and a low dose of estrogen, if your doctor approves, might correct things. Urinary tract infections can be quite stubborn but should respond to appropriate antibiotics.

By being careful about your hygiene after bowel movement I assume you mean the matter of wiping from front to back rather than vice versa — always a good idea. The "E. coli" is a bacteria, and a common cause of urinary tract infection. It might show up no matter how meticulous you are about toilet hygiene. E. coli is present in large numbers in the body. Certain strains are harmful and may cause either urinary tract or intestinal problems.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: The stomach fascinates me and I've been reading up on it. A question I can't find an answer to is just how different kinds of food pass through it. I mean how long for meat, potatoes, etc. You answer some weird question. How about it?

—Miss H.S.

Well, Miss H.S., that's not such a weird question.

You are right in assuming that different foods "pass through" in different time spans.

Without going into great detail, I can tell you that an average meal is handled by the average stomach in about four hours. But digestion goes on gradually. Generally, carbohydrates are passed on to the small intestines first, proteins (meat, for example) second, and the fats last. That's why a high-fat meal can be troublesome for some folks.

If you are fascinated by the stomach you are not the first. There was the famous pioneer doctor, William Beaumont. He chanced to encounter a man who had a gaping hole in his stomach (from a gunshot wound). He nursed the man to health. As the hole would not heal, Beaumont had an opportunity to watch the internal workings of his stomach firsthand over the course of several years. ## Was LBJ ill?

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Did the late Lyndon B. Johnson conceal from the American people that he had cancer while he was their president? His long-time Senate confidant, Bobby Baker, claims that LBJ confessed this startling medical secret to him.

The two men developed almost a father-and-son relationship during their Senate years. Then Johnson moved up to the vice presidency, and Baker was caught in a wheeler-dealer scandal. He wound up in prison on federal charges.

After his release, he had a dramatic, secret reunion with Johnson at the LBJ ranch in 1972. Baker's account of the conversation will appear in a forthcoming book. He told us he is willing to take a lie detector test to bear out the truth of his account.

In the unpublished manuscript, Baker relates that he and Johnson got into a discussion of the former president's health problems, beginning with the heart condition which later proved fatal.

JOHNSON SAID he had consulted doctors about the possibility of open heart surgery, but they unanimously held "it would be a waste of time and that I might die on the operating table."

Then, leaning toward his young friend, Johnson said: "I've got cancer, too, you know." While Baker sat "astonished," according to the memoir, LBJ confided this bombshell: "When they removed the throat polyp when I was president, they found it was malignant."

After a pause, he continued: "Of course, we didn't make that public." Johnson explained that he kept the illness secret on grounds that "if the damn president has much more than a hangnail, the stock market goes crazy."

Johnson had the growth removed from his throat at the same time as his hernia operation on Nov. 16, 1966, with more than two years left in his presidency. The White House announcement at the time emphatically reported no malignancy was found in lab tests on the polyp.

Dr. Wilbur Gould, who removed the polyp, told us no cancerous malignancy was found by pathologists. A similar denial came from Dr. James Cain, who for years was the Johnson family physician. Dr. Lewis B. Woolner, who did the pathology work on the president's polyp, told us: "It was a benign polyp — there was no question about it." Dr. George Burkley, another physician to the former president, also said there was no finding of cancer.

We obtained Navy confirmation, however, that doctors had removed a small skin cancer from LBJ's ankle in October 1967. It would have been characteristic of Johnson to engineer a massive coverup of a cancerous condition. It would have been equally characteristic of him to exaggerate a minor skin cancer to impress intimates with his ability to carry on under adversity.

Bobby Baker's book, meanwhile, may well be the political publishing event of 1978. It reportedly will contain allegations that such Washington giants as Clark Clifford and Abe Fortas had feet of clay.

FISH STORY — The United Nations is quietly searching for an American fishing expert to work for Uganda's zany dictator Idi Amin. The State Department strongly discourages Americans from going to Uganda. Yet U.S. government agencies are actively cooperating with the recruitment effort.

THIS IS THE latest in a series of mysterious U.S. favors to help the bloody Amin. We reported last November that the State Department had issued visas to a dozen Ugandan airborne policemen so they could receive helicopter training in Texas.

We later revealed that other groups of Ugandans were receiving communications and flight training at various facilities in Florida. Some of these Ugandans, investigators believe, are tied to Amin's personal execution squad.

The quest for a fishing expert, however, may be merely a bureaucratic blunder. We could find no evidence that anyone in government is pulling strings for Idi Amin. But we could also find no evidence that anyone questioned the recruitment effort. Here are the facts:

The UN's Food and Agriculture Organization has undertaken a three-year project to upgrade the fishing industry on Uganda's Lake Victoria. Among the specialists needed for the job, according to an FAO job notice, is a "Master-Fisherman-Team Leader."

The person who is selected for this job will work closely with Amin's government in Entebbe and will organize training courses for "trawler boat crews."

The job notice was passed on to the U.S. government and turned up floating through the Hydrographic Center at the Defense Mapping Agency. Officials admitted the notice was being circulated but claimed to have no idea where it came from.

We traced the document back through the bureaucratic labyrinth to the Foreign Agricultural Service. Dr. Ralph Phillips of the FAS suggested that "a secretary probably received it and routinely sent copies" to other government agencies.

Nothing automatic

Around the rim

Walt Finley

In his new book, "Potomac Fever," former U.S. Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma tells about the time he and Fritz Mondale were freshmen in Congress.

One time, at a meeting, both were standing near the entrance door. Frequently, guests entering the room knew Harris and not Mondale and Harris would introduce him, saying, "I want you to know my good friend, Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota."

Just as often, a guest knew Mondale but not Harris and it would be Mondale's turn to make an introduction.

Before long, it became a game. When a person knew Harris and not Mondale, he would say, "That's two points for you" — and vice versa.

They were about even on points when Katharine Graham, the publisher of the Washington Post, came in. Harris knows her well so he said under his breath to Mondale, "Well, this clinches the title for me."

Mrs. Graham recognized Harris and extended her hand.

The worst power failure of all may be what's happening to the Carter energy program in Congress.

Congressional candidate Jim Baum said the President first knew his energy plans were in trouble when staff members at the White House began to show up for work carrying flashlights.

Herald word maker Amelia Rodriguez, known far and wide as "Little Agate," says frustration is spending your life fusing string and then seeing someone invent Scotch tape.

If "chair person" denotes both male and female, then why not insist on a bad dream being changed from nightmare to night horse?

"Incidentally, what's gained by the use of 'chair person' there still is a male inference in the last three letters."

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Isn't it using fear and scare tactics to tell people that if they do not believe in Jesus they will face the wrath of God or that they will go to hell? Would a God of Love use such an approach? — H. E.

DEAR H. E.: I would hope that all people of love would use this approach toward their family and friends. If there is a real danger to be avoided, it is our duty to warn people of it. If the ice is too thin for skating, I am grateful if someone takes the trouble to put up a notice to that effect — otherwise, I might be drowned. The Bible clearly teaches that there is a hell to avoid and a heaven to gain, and armed with that information it is surely our duty to warn people of the fact.

Paul did not consider it scare tactics to warn people: "I write not these things to shame you, but as my beloved sons I warn you" (1 Corinthians 4:14). In Ephesus Paul preached: "Watch, and remember, that by the space of three years I ceased not to warn every one night and day with tears" (Acts 20:31).

God, in His love, is constantly warning us of dangers ahead; He should be deeply grateful for His concern for us. We might have cause to complain if God had not warned us that there is a hell. Each generation must pass on that warning.

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor,

We do not pretend to be experts on farming, nor do we know how farmers in other parts of the country live. While we realize that some farmers do live within their incomes, observation has told us that most area farmers have nothing to complain about. The enclosed poem quite clearly expresses our opinion of the farm strike in the Big Spring area.

Thank you,
Mrs. Tina Arguello
1208 Madison
Becky Kerr
Ardmore, Okla.
Mrs. Beverly Hall
1709 Purdue

There once was a farmer named Jones
He worked hard on the land he owned.
His credit was good so he bought what he needed
And a whole lot more, no warning he heeded.

He bought his wife diamond rings on the bankers good will
And he built a new home — it's unfinished still.
(For of course remodeling must take place every year And sure, it's on credit, but why should he fear?)

He bought a new tractor and a caddy to boot
And why not a new pick-up — special order to suit.
Right about now the bills were a pressure
So his wife took a job to pay her hair dresser.

The weather was dry but he didn't worry
He had irrigation, the rain needn't hurry.
The government had paid him to plant a bit less
With that extra loot he refurbished his address.

His creditors started wanting their payment
"But my crop isn't in yet" was his lament.
The rain came in time and he got his crop in
He loaded it up and went to the gin.

Then he looked at his bills and got a bit scared
But he said to the bank "Take me to court if you dare."
He considered his debts and saw with clarity
He could fend off the bank if he cried "No parity."

When his neighbors saw what Jones could do
They said "Great idea — let's do it too."

"This way we can pay the bills we owe
And if we work it right, no one will know
"That we're in debt because of our life styles
Not from growing crops on those country miles"
So they all got together and went on a strike
And decided to demand a crop price hike.

Now I'm watching those new tractors pass
Wasting a heck of a lot of gas.
All because some farmers live beyond their means
While the blue collar worker can't get credit to buy beans.

by Tina Arguello and Becky Kerr

Dear Editor:

I am a farmer's wife and I for one, am tired of hearing people say, "Look at these farmers driving those $40,000 tractors with a cab, air conditioner and heater and C.B. on them." First of all if you think paying for a $40,000 tractor is easy, you should try it sometime! Believe me, we would much rather have one for $5,000. We just haven't noticed any of them floating around. Since this happens to be the equipment we have to have to make a living, we don't have a very big choice, either buy the expensive equipment or quit farming.

Second, as for the air-conditioning and heating, A farmer spends from 10-14 hours a day on his tractor during the course of a growing season. He is out there in the 100 degree temperature and better in the summer to the 32 degree and lower in the winter. Not to mention the sand and wind he faces every day.

I have never noticed people who work in town, who do not have heated and air conditioned buildings to protect them from the elements, and I am all for it. I just can't understand why anyone thinks a farmer should face them without any protection. As for the C.B.'s when your farms are several miles apart, you need a C.B. to call home to bring seed to the field, or come help, I'm broke down again.

In other words, it's a business communication as a telephone is to most businesses.

These tractors with their cabs, air-conditioners, heaters and C.B.'s are not for luxury, they are our livelihood.

New gin machinery speeds production

By CARLA WALKER
Sounding like a freight train, and working almost as fast, the new equipment at the Knott Co-op Gin went into operation Dec. 6.

According to gin manager Don Brownfield, the new machinery has allowed the gin to more than double production without employing any more workers. From the suction to the press, all of the $1,100,000 worth of equipment has been installed in the past two years, and the gin is almost through processing cotton which farmers held back to try out the new machinery.

"All the machines should have been here by Aug. 31, but instead, were delayed until Oct. 20," said Brownfield. "By the time we got things ready to run, all the farmers were through stripping cotton, and some of the area gins were closing down. The only cotton we're ginning is what farmers held for us."

The manager said that approximately 2,770 bales would be ginned when the Co-op finishes the season this week.

The difference between this year and last year is that instead of averaging six bales per hour as with the old equipment, the gin can turn out 15 per hour on the average, and has pressed up to 20 in one hour.

"Also, the bales are compressed to universal specifications — 3200 pounds per square inch — and don't have to be repressed before being shipped to the cotton mills," Brownfield pointed out. "That saves the farmer money, because the Rolling Plains Cooperative Compress — where we ship our cotton — gives back $3.50 per bale since they don't have to repress it."

"This gin is a cooperative, which means that all profits are paid back to the farmers at the end of the year. And, our business is done with other cooperatives which helps us to add those dividends of what we already pay our farmers."

The business Brownfield refers to is the Co-Op's dealings with five different cooperatives ranging from a seed delinting and sales cooperative to a manufacturing company that supplies the gin "store" with farm tools, farm use chemicals, and diesel at competitive prices.

"Farmers can buy most of the products they need through us at competitive prices, and receive the benefit of profit dividend from us and from the supplying companies," said Brownfield.

Until the gin's debt for the ### Sale of tags jumps here

Zirah Bednar, County Tax Assessor-Collector, said that automobile license tag sales had topped $26,596.67, with approximately 850 sold.

License plate stickers will be on sale at the county courthouse and Newsum's Grocery. All license plates must be renewed before April 1, and hopefully the bulk of the registrations will be spread out through the early weeks rather than the crush at the last minute.

GIN MANAGER DON BROWNFIELD AT CONTROL BOARD
... didn't want his crutches to show

new equipment is payed off, ginning profit returns will be small or nonexistent, but one gin board member thought that a few years of good or average crop production would put the gin back into a paying position.

"We can gin more than twice as much cotton with the same amount of labor, so it effectively cuts our labor costs in half," Brownfield explained.

The gin manager was able to move workers who were on the compress to the and leaf trash. Huge dryers take over, then send the cotton to a machine that removes the burrs. A stick machine removes sticks and other trash that escaped the first cleaner.

The cotton is then dried a second time, and run through a second stick machine to be sure that all the plant trash is removed.

All that is left is the valuable "lint" or fiber, and the seeds. Gin stands separate the two products with the lint going to the press and the seeds transported by a blower and auger to a large pile. The seeds are later hauled off for delinting storage until next planting season.

The press is a huge, impressively powerful machine that compresses, puts ties around, and sacks of cotton almost without human assistance. The only manual labor is tagging the bales, placing the huge burlap sacks on a stretcher, and sewing the sack shut.

Brownfield himself has had a major role in the building of the gin, and it is not uncommon for him to spend 15 straight hours working in spite of the fact that he is on crutches and in a back brace.

During construction of the new facility, Brownfield stepped backward into a 16-foot concrete hole, sustaining a crushed vertebra, separating the muscle from the bone in his left arm, and shattering his right heel. For a number of weeks following the accident, the gin board members and Brownfield's wife, Lee — head gin office manager — had to supervise the construction.

Soon, however, Brownfield was back at the job. "At first, I could only work on blueprints in the hospital room, but I slowly began to be able to work short hours at the gin and build back to my regular hours," Brownfield said.

Regular hours last year were even more strenuous, when Brownfield would spend 20 hours working, sleep 2, then put in another full work day. One board member stated that a gin manager earns more than his pay during the three or more months of harvest season, and earns his vacation during the less busy months.

"We are here to serve the farmers," said Brownfield. "Our ginning charges are competitive with anybody's, and when we get our equipment paid for, we'll be kicking back profits to the farmers who do business with us. Non-cooperatives just can't compete with that," Brownfield stated.

Nurses' capping rite set for 7:30 Tuesday

A capping ceremony for the Class of 1979 — Associate Degree Nursing Students at Howard College — will be held in the Howard College Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The ritual signifies that the students have successfully completed the first level of the Registered Nursing program. Female students will receive a cap, while male students will be presented a stripe on the collar of their student uniform. Students in the class have now completed 32 of the 74 semester hours required in the two-year program. Members of this class will graduate in May of 1979.

The capping ceremony will be conducted by nursing instructors Diane Austin, Kathy Molpus, Charlotte Greene, and Mary McClendon. Also participating in the program will be Mrs. Lee, and Dr. Bobby Wright, Dean of Occupational Education. Paul Ausmus, science instructor at Howard College, will deliver the principal address. A reception following the ceremony will be held in the Tumbleweed Room of the Student Union Building. Serving at the reception and ushering during the ceremony will be sophomore students of the ADN Program.

Students to be capped include Donna Adams, Lorraine Agard, Elizabeth Arencibia, Selma Bailey, Bradley Beach, Wanda Brewer and Brenda Bruns. Others are Celestino Cisneros, Fran Franklin, Sharon Harbuck, Phyllis Hart and Mary Hulan.

Also Carol Immel, Alonzo Landi, Lisa McCutchan, Patricia McCutchan, Bruce Myers, Shirley Nichols, Shirley Reynolds, Joanna Sawyer, Yvette Sickler, Patricia Wright and Sandra Zinke.

According to Lettie Lee, Director of the ADN Program, applications are now being taken for the next class, starting in June of this year. The Associate Degree Nursing Program at Howard College enjoys full accreditation by the Texas State Board of Nurse Examiners. Graduates of the program are eligible to take State Board Examinations for licensure as Registered Nurses.

Coping with a problem

By WILFRID M. CALNAN,
A.C.S.W., Director Howard
Co. Family Service Center

Gretna is a woman in her mid-thirties who lives in an east Texas city where I once resided and served her. She has experienced an unbelievably difficult life beginning with a childhood in which her parents stated in a rejecting way that they had wanted a boy rather than her and proceeding through an adulthood that featured three failed marriages, the loss of one child through cribdeath, and the birth of a retarded child, then being left with two other small children to raise unaided. Obviously, she had no model of parenting that would help her to be a parent to her own children.

After I left her community she encountered a crucial problem and asked to come and see me. After helping her find immediate relief for her stress and evaluating her problems, I referred her to a private social work practitioner in her own community. This social worker made periodic reports to me. In her last letter she made several significant reports about Gretna's progress. I was impressed with one thing she said, "Gretna has let both children know what she expects. As a consequence they recognize her authority and heed her."

My friend had helped Gretna unlock one of the secrets of good parenting. That is, know as a parent that you have authority and be confident to move in this knowledge. Perhaps the Jewish people as depicted in the Old Testament had the clearest concept of this authority. This concept still stands out in the Jewish family of today.

It starts with the Commandment: "Honor thy father and thy mother..." To be honored by children as parents — mother and father must have the self-confidence that they are entitled to this honor.

The Torah goes on to expound on this word, "Each person should stand in awe of his mother and father and observe my Sabbath, I am the Lord, your God."

There are certain behavior aspects of this word that can be analyzed in this way.

Kavod (pronounced Kavoud) stands for the love that exists between parent and child. The simple example is that the child helps his parent on with his coat.

Yirah (pronounced Yearah) means awe or restraint. "The child ought not to sit in the chair of his parents. He should not contradict them." These two words spell out the rightful authority of the parent.

The third word, Shabbat (Shabbas) spells out the limits of this authority. "Even were the parent to instruct the child to breach the Divine Law, the child would stand with the obligation of giving priority to the Divine Will, not the command of the parents."

Gretna's accomplishment was to learn that neither her rejecting parents, nor the freedom of permissiveness, could provide her with a model for her parenting. What she was also to learn through her counselor was that parental authority and the potential for her learning her role as a parent lay within her. These are lessons that most parents can learn so that they can be effective with their children and, further, create a secure environment for them. Parents need to let their children know the fair expectations they place upon them.

Jack Powell to give report at meeting

The Permian Basin Health Systems Agency will hold its annual meeting Monday, Jan. 16, at 7:30 p.m., in the conference room of the West Texas Education Building, Air Terminal, Midland. This meeting is open to the general public. A nominating committee report will be presented by Jack Powell of Big Spring.

The agency is a public regional planning body organized by mandate of the Health Planning and Resource Development Act of 1974, P.L. 93-641. The purpose of the agency is to plan for and evaluate health services to ensure that every citizen of the 17 county Permian Basin Region has equal access to quality health care at a reasonable cost.

Primary objective of the agency for the past year has been in the development of a 5-year Health Systems Plan which will retain flexibility through a yearly evaluation. Since September of 1977, Planning Task Forces composed of the Providers and Consumers of health services within the Texas Planning Area 12 (Permian Basin) have been working to build Goals and Objectives for the Health Systems Plan using documented information and individual perceptions to determine the major health concerns of the people of the Region.

These goals and objectives along with actions to be taken and resources that will be needed to achieve these goals and objectives, will be reviewed by the Permian Basin Health Systems Agency 30-member governing body at their annual meeting.

After the governing body approves this plan it will be sent to public hearings in each of the 17 counties in the region (Andrews, Borden, Crane, Dawson, Ector, Gaines, Glasscock, Howard, Loving, Martin, Midland, Pecos, Reeves, Terrell, Upton, Ward and Winkler) for comment in February. These hearings will be hosted by the representative governing body members.

Other business of the agency at the annual meeting will include installation of officers for 1978 and review of the grant application for full designation. The agency is funded yearly through a grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and must reapply every year. Conditionally designated for the last two years in a trial period, the agency will seek full designation in March.

SPECIAL HIGH MASS
said by Rev. Alan Brelivet at St. Thomas

Festival at St. Thomas Church set this week

By MARJ CARPENTER
Parishioners of St. Thomas Church, 605 N. Main, held a beautiful Fiesta Guadalupe honoring the Virgin De Guadalupe this week.

The fiesta began with a processional led by Irineo Carrasco and Reynaldo Abelar from the St. John's Youth Hall to the Main Church. The processional was held at night.

A beautiful rosary made of fresh roses was presented by girls from the Catholic Youth Organization and donated by the Guadalupe's sponsor, Mrs. Carmen (Lupe) Gonzales.

Juan Diego represented by Luis Florz Jr. was the preferred and selected Indian to whom the virgin appeared, according to the Fiesta.

The Mariachis of Santo Tomas also took part in the ceremony, furnishing lively music. The Rev. Alan Brelivet O.M.I. presided over a High Mass and afterwards, the people in a candlelight procession returned to the St. John's Youth Hall for a special program presented by different societies and organizations.

The Las Mananitas began the program. Pascual Porras, C.Y.O. coordinator and a member of the cur-sillistas movement, sang "A Ti Virgencita."

A participation contest followed. Judges for this event included Reynaldo Abelar, Gus Ochotorena, Mrs. Albert Gonzales, Miss Emma Cavazos, and Mrs. Mary Helen Claverane.

The first number was La Marcha Zacatecas by C.Y.O. members and two songs were sung by three girls, Elizabeth Devallos, Maria Yanez and Carmen Salazar.

Next performance was La De Coipres by the Cur-sillistas headed by Leo Escovedo, who also represented Nuestro Senor. The Cur-sillistas also represented Los Doce Apostoles.

The Guadalupeans sang some songs. They wore matching red skirts with white blouses and wore their cinta Guadalupe Tri Color.

Trophies were presented with first place to the C.Y.O. second place going to the Guadalupeans and third to the Cur-sillistas.

Frank Ortega then sang "Las Caviatas" and numerous other songs followed.

Gifts offered included two baskets of two dozen roses donated by the Ladies Altar Society and Guadalupeans.

A huge cake with the form of a cerro del Tepeyac with the virgin's picture on top was donated by Mrs. Leo Gonzales.

Another bouquet of roses was donated by Margie Perez, Frank, Delia and Sandra Ortega.

A certificate of appreciation and award was presented to Mrs. Jesus Molina for "the eldest and most faithful." A certificate for the oldest member with 41 years of Guadalupe membership went to Mrs. Lupe Garcia.

Fidel Saldivar acted as master of ceremonies. The decoration committee included Mrs. Fidel Saldivar, Mrs. Crescencio Padilla, Mrs. Saturnino Jimenez, Mrs. Carmen Gonzales, Pascual Porras and the Rev. Brelivet.

In charge of publicity was Mrs. Bonifacio Salazar. There was a turnout of 354 people.

Civitan's will boost fund

The Civitan Club will make a special presentation during their luncheon meeting next Tuesday to the Ricky Klahr Scholarship fund.

President Gerald Wilson will present a $100 check to Capt. Sherrill Farmer and Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery in memory of the policemen who died last year.

The scholarship is to be awarded to a law enforcement student at Howard College. Hobart Stevens, vice president, announced the forthcoming presentation.

Crucial balloting looming

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Lawyers are advertising today just like shoe stores and auto mechanics, and some of the older barristers are swollen purple because they can't stop it.

The U. S. Supreme Court said in an Arizona case last June 27 that advertising is all right.

A woman lawyer in Houston immediately placed ads on her fee for divorce cases on postmidnight television, an hour when some spouses are wondering about the approximate location and pulse rate of their erstwhile sugar dumplings.

The high court said bar associations could adopt reasonable restrictions on advertising.

The Texas State Bar has given the Texas Supreme Court proposed guidelines. The main one restricts such advertising to newspapers.

The state court is expected to modify those guidelines this month and present them to the state's 28,000 attorneys in a referendum.

At least 51 percent of the lawyers must vote for the referendum to be binding. A simple majority of those voting will put them into effect.

But Joe Longley, bar board director from Austin says, "A lot of older lawyers will vote against it because it would look like approval of advertising. Most liberal lawyers oppose the guidelines on the grounds they are too restrictive."

Longley said this "unholy alliance" between older lawyers and liberal lawyers may defeat the guidelines. That would leave the legal profession in its present helpless position. A lawyer could advertise anything he wanted to so long as the ad is not false, misleading or deceptive.

By a 5-4 vote, the U. S. Supreme Court in Bates vs. Arizona authorized ads for "routine" services: "the uncontested divorce, the simple adoption, the uncontested personal bankruptcy, the change of name, and the like."

Those last three words have given bar association officers an opportunity to view their offices from a high point on their walls. What is included in "and the like"? What is a "routine" legal service?

As dissenting Justice Lewis Powell wrote, "A $195 fee may be reasonable for one divorce and unreasonable for another; and a $195 fee may be reasonable when charged by an experienced divorce lawyer and unreasonable when charged by a recent law school graduate."

Bar officials are taking the position that the burden is on the lawyer to show the service he advertises is routine.

But some lawyers are advertising their fees for matters that cannot be considered routine — personal injury suits for example — and they say the only burden on them is to show the ad is not false, misleading or deceptive.

One of those is former Austin Mayor Jeff Friedman, who says his newspaper ads provoked "an extremely strong response, particularly from working and middle-class families that need legal services but feared exorbitant fees."

"I never supported the concept of advertising, except on new offices and lineups (combinations of lawyers)," Friedman said.

But after the Bates case, he used ads to let the public know he is available for full-time legal work now that he no longer is His Honor.

The American Medical Association filed a brief in the Bates case conceding doctors would be affected by the court's decision.

The AMA says it has never prohibited advertising, it only bans solicitation of patients. That's like saying the AMA doesn't oppose faith healing, only praying and laying on of hands.

Edwin J. Holman, a lawyer who retired in 1975 after 28 years as director of the AMA department of medical ethics, estimates only two to four percent of America's doctors solicit in their ads.

The Federal Trade Commission has charged the AMA's prohibition of solicitation is restraint of trade. That challenge is pending before an FTC hearing examiner.

AL AND ARLYS SCOTT
...artists of the month

By Big Spring Chamber

Local art works featured

A husband and wife team, Al and Arlys Scott, who are both artists have their art work featured this month at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce as artists of the month.

The couple was married while both were employed at Radio Station KGLW in Hamilton in 1949. Arlys was originally from Big Spring, the daughter of Mrs. T. B. Atkins.

Al, an advertising salesman for the Big Spring Herald, has been drawing, sketching and cartooning since his high school days in Los Angeles, Calif. His first lessons in oil painting were taught by Theo of Los Angeles. Later he attended Manuel Arts in L.A.

A Texan for 30 years, Al has a deep appreciation for the beauty of Texas skies and sunsets and especially for the rural scenes of Central and West Texas.

Scott likes to depict the ranches, barns with farm implements, wagons and other nostalgic vehicles of the 30s and 40s.

He has studied in Big Spring with Virginia Whitten, Robert Gartland, Warren Culler and Charles Pruitt. He has won several ribbons in local shows. He has been awarded two "tipping of the brush" honors by fellow artists of the Big Spring Art Association.

His work is in several private collections in Texas and California. His favorite medium is watercolor. He wants to record the nostalgia of rural Texas and the half remembered scenes that will someday be only a memory. Arlys is a Texas native, living first in the Panhandle and then Big Spring.

To satisfy a yearning for trees and streams, she and Al travel often in the high country of New Mexico. She most often chooses to paint things of nature, including landscapes, floral and people.

She paints only subjects which seem in her eyes to have beauty and paintings which she feels that she could live with and enjoy in her own home.

An early interest in art and crafts grew through the years into her present desire to be a serious painter. Educational background includes a degree from Baylor University and art lessons in Big Spring under Myrtle Lee, Virginia Whitten, Winnie Unger, Mary Raley and James Campbell.

Workshops with J. D. Keel, Warren Culler, Robert Gartland, Dan Brown, Charles Pruitt and others have each added to her enthusiasm. She prefers oils and watercolors but also enjoys other media.

Arlys disagrees with many other artists in that she believes you should not be confined to painting only the scenes you live with daily.

She thinks you should feel free to paint ships on stormy seas, wild animals, mountain tops with snow caps, deserts and jungles.

Theft ring is exposed

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Seven residents of this North Texas city were arrested Friday on charges they were part of a multi-state car theft ring that may have switched as many as 1,500 vehicles, the FBI said.

Ted Rosack, special-agent in charge of the Denver FBI office, said as many as 40 persons were involved in the theft ring.

The complaints that resulted in Friday's arrests were filed by federal prosecutors in Denver where a grand jury has been investigating the thefts.

The ring, which operated in Texas, Colorado and California, is said to have switched titles of wrecked cars in junkyards with those of stolen cars before selling the swiped vehicles, according to Dallas FBI agent Earl Starks.

The operator of a Wichita Falls salvage yard, his wife and the wife of another salvage yard owner were among those arrested.

Fowler heads cast of gospel singers

Singer, songwriter, Grand Ole Opry star, and gospel music pioneer Wally Fowler heads the list of gospel singers appearing in the Feb. 3 gospel music show sponsored by the Big Spring Police Association.

Slated to begin at 8 p.m. in the city auditorium, the show will also include a talent contest for local singers, and will present a number of other gospel groups well-known in the this area, according to Ronnie Spears, director of the program.

"We are really excited to have Mr. Fowler here," said Spears. "Although he may not be too well known in this area, he is one of Nashville's best-known personalities because of all that he has done for country and gospel music."

Among Fowler's accomplishments are aiding the careers of Chet Atkins, Eddy Arnold, Hank Williams, and Tennessee Ernie Ford. Fowler formed the first Nashville record company in the early forties, and wrote hit songs recorded by such stars as Eddy Arnold, Willie Nelson and Elvis Presley.

Fowler formed several bands, among them the Georgia Clothoppers — of which Chet Atkins was a member during his early career days — and the Oak Ridge Quartet. Fowler owned, managed, and sang lead with the latter group, one of the country's better known gospel singing groups.

It was Fowler who introduced Hank Williams to then general manager of the Grand Ole Opry, Harry Stone, and got Williams a backstage pass. With a loaned guitar, Williams soon gathered a crowd backstage.

Often called "Mr. Gospel Music," Fowler's first love has always been gospel singing. He has possibly done more benefit shows than any performer in the history of gospel music.

Proceeds from the Big Spring show will go to the Police Association's Benevolence fund to help boy and girl softball teams in the city and the Ricky Klahr scholarship fund.

Obscene calls can be traced mechanically

If you think nothing can be done about obscene or harassing telephone calls, then think again.

Telephone abusers can be easily traced and caught, said Bob Hurt, Southwestern Bell manager for Big Spring.

"The type of equipment we use allows us to trap and trace a call mechanically," Hurt said.

With the older equipment, Hurt explained, a person who made a phone call had control of the line. The person being called could not call out unless the caller hung up.

The trapping device reverses the polarity of the line and allows the person being called to have control of the line.

"If the person receiving the obscene phone call doesn't hang up, then it is easy for us to trace the call," Hurt added.

"We are 100 per cent effective in identifying obscene telephone callers. All we need is a signed statement from the complainant granting us permission to turn our evidence over to the police. Then it is up to the complainant to file charges."

The telephone company has some general rules that are helpful in dealing with nuisance calls:

—Always use the telephone on your own terms. Don't talk to anyone unless you want to.

—Make the caller identify himself. You don't have to identify yourself unless you want to.

—Instruct members of your family, especially kids, not to talk to someone they don't recognize. Teach the kids to ask for a call back number.

—If the caller is silent, hang up.

For abusive calls, Hurt recommends that you hang up the telephone immediately, and don't give the caller a chance to get started. Don't talk to the caller, that is what he wants.

For threatening calls, call the police and the telephone company immediately. Cooperate with them to catch the caller. If the caller calls more than once, make a list of dates and times for the police.

Hurt also suggests that women living by themselves should have their first name initialized in the phone book. (For example: Mary Smith would be M. Smith).

"We want people to be aware of the fact that we can catch the people that make these annoying and threatening telephone calls," Hurt added.

Oil performance impressive

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—Jack M. Allen says the domestic petroleum industry recorded a remarkable performance in 1977.

Allen is the new president of the 5,000-member Independent Petroleum Association of America.

"We drilled more than 60 per cent more wells in 1977 than we did in the year of the Arab oil embargo, 1973," the Perryton, Texas independent said.

"And we were better at our job because we drilled a lower percentage of dry holes than at any time since 1948."

Allen's remarks were prompted by the association's report comparing 1977 domestic operations with each year since 1973.

The 27 factors listed in the report ranged from wildcat well drilling to oil field machinery prices. All but two of the 1977 factors showed increases over 1976 and all but six showed increases over 1973.

Allen attributed the activity to higher prices the industry has been allowed since 1973.

"Regretably, I believe we have reached the saturation point, however," he said, "because the industry was able to mobilize some of its reserves, equipment and manpower that had been under-utilized during the lean years of the '60s and early '70s."

"Now, we have taken up the slack and rig manufacturers, service companies, and suppliers are reluctant to expand without some signals from government leaders that they are serious about reducing imports and increasing domestic production. So far, there has been no such indication."

The number of service wells drilled and the quantity of heavy fuel oil imports were the only 1977 factors trailing 1976. Service well completions were down 6.2 percent, residual imports down 2 percent.

Domestic production increased last year because of the opening of the Trans-Alaska pipeline. All three production factors for 1977, however, were below 1973 levels.

Crude oil output last year was estimated at 8,235,000 barrels a day, up 1.3 percent from the 8,132,000-barrel level of 1976 but down 10.6 percent from the 9,208,000 barrels average of 1973.

Production of natural gas liquids last year averaged 1,605,000 barrels a day, 0.1 percent above 1976 but 7.7 percent below 1973.

The combined output of crude and gas liquids averaged 9,840,000 barrels a day, up 1.1 percent from 1976 but down 10.1 percent from the 10,946,000 barrel average of 1973.

While only 2 percent below 1976, the 1977 heavy fuel oil imports average of 1,370,000 a day was 26.1 percent below the 1,853,000 average posted in 1973.

Other petroleum products imported last year averaged 770,000 barrels daily, up 26.2 percent from the year earlier level but down 33.6 percent from the 1973 average of 1,159,000.

Total demand for petroleum products averaged a record 18,595,000 barrels a day. All product categories showed demand increases in 1977 when compared with 1976 but the 1,055,000 barrels a day requirement for aviation fuels was 4.1 percent below the 1973 level.

The report placed the 1977 average price of domestic crude oil at $8.56 a barrel, 5.2 percent above the 1976 average of $8.14 and 120.1 percent above the $3.89 recorded in 1973.

Oil well steel casing prices were said to be 9.6 percent above 1976 and 83.4 percent above 1973. Average hourly wages paid last year were estimated at 7.8 percent above 1976 and 48.1 percent above 1973.

Oil field machinery prices last year were said to be 8.3 percent above year earlier averages and 76.9 percent above the average posted four years earlier.

Well completions last year totaled 45,100, up 8.8 percent from 1976 and 63.4 percent above the 27,602 completions recorded in 1973.

October sales of Series E and H United States Savings Bonds in Howard County were reported today by County Bond Chairman Jimmy Taylor. Sales for the ten-month period totaled $495,773 for 68 per cent of the 1977 sales goal of $725,000.

Secretary of State Steve Oaks said he would immediately issue certification of the election after the canvassing board acts on the recount. Members of the canvassing board are Oaks, Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Mrs. Blake Sparenberg of Austin.

Recount is under way

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Paper ballots are being recounted in 25 Panhandle counties to determine if Republican Bob Price really won a special election over Democrat Bob Simpson by 241 votes.

The recount began Friday by county officials under direction of the secretary of state's office. It is hoped the results will be ready for the state canvassing board next Tuesday for a final decision.

Price, of Pampa, was declared the apparent winner by a vote of 15,199 to 14,958 to succeed Max Sherman of Amarillo, who is now president of West Texas State University.

Simpson, of Amarillo, requested the recount and Price's attempt to block it was turned down Wednesday by the Texas Supreme Court.

The recount applies only to paper ballots and does not concern the electronic ballots cast in Potter County, where Simpson had a majority.

Secretary of State Steve Oaks said he would immediately issue certification of the election after the canvassing board acts on the recount. Members of the canvassing board are Oaks, Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Mrs. Blake Sparenberg of Austin.

Football too rough

Teen is 'novillero'

REYNOSA, Mexico (AP) — Like many nervous mothers, Barbara Renk does not want her teenage son to play high school football.

Being an obedient son, David Renk does not bump helmets with 200-pound linemen. Instead, the 14-year-old youth from Alamo, Texas spends much of his time practicing to tangle with 700-pound bulls.

This past Sunday he became possibly the youngest American to go for a kill of a bull in Mexico.

His father, Fred, a former bullfighter with the scars to prove it, knew it was a big opportunity for his son, the "novillero." A good showing would impress the officials from the larger bull rings.

"If he can kill well, they'll be looking," the elder Renk said.

In David's mind's eye, he has often seen himself plunging the sword into the bull's back. But he never had attempted it on a full-grown animal.

"If I can get it right between the shoulder blades . . . If I put it right in, he will go down," David said.

Four hours before the fight, the Renks loaded into their family car and headed for Reynosa. David feigned fear. But his father knew better.

Next year, David will attend school in Mexico City so he can continue his training. He said his friends at Donna High School don't understand why he fights bulls.

"I guess it's just what I like to do," the ninth grader said.

Mrs. Renk said she attempted to discourage her son for a few years. She's changed her mind.

"It's either help him now or he'll run away when he's 16 or 17 to do it," she said with a helpless grin. "They say it is like handing him dynamite. It is but he has trained with and studied the dynamite for years."

The Renks have a snapshot

Girl scouts' council meeting set Jan. 23

The annual council meeting for the West Texas Girl Scout Council will be held Monday, Jan. 23, at the Big Spring High School cafeteria at 7:30 p.m.

The program will have as its theme "the B's" of Scouting. The keynote speaker W. L. Albright of Big Spring will encourage every Girl Scout volunteer to "be involved."

Albright, executive vice president of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce and Industrial Growth and Development, is personally involved in many civic, fraternal and veterans organizations. He served in three wars and received the Silver Star medal for valor.

To further his management career he earned a B.B.A. at Park College, Mo. He graduated from the Institute of Organizational Management through studies at T.C.U., S.M.U., Notre Dame, and the University of Delaware. Studies of industrial development led him to Texas A&M and the University of Oklahoma.

For four years he served Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce at Hereford, and since February 1977 has been at the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

Bill and Inez Albright live at 2900 Stonehaven in Big Spring. They are parents of six grown children. Bill is well qualified to speak to the of David, age 3, sporting a matador's cap and cape. Since then, he has been training with smaller bulls.

"But now it is for real," Mrs. Renk said. "Before it was a game." Before Sunday's fight, the Renks met Longinos Mendoza at a Reynosa motel. Mendoza, a young Mexican matador, is one of David's closest friends.

After laying out David's "suit of lights," they headed for the ring to view the bulls.

Several smaller bulls in the pens tried to jump over the fences as the Renks and Mendoza studied them.

David's father said bulls give tips to their behavior. A bull that veers to the right when he enters the ring is "contrary" or "unpredictable."

After a trip back to the motel for his costume, David was ready. For the first time he seemed nervous. His voice cracked when asked if he was afraid.

"I'm getting there," he said. After a prayer in the ring chapel, he awaited the end of the preliminary fights.

Fred Renk said his wife broke down in tears on the way to the ring.

"She said, 'this is really happening, isn't it?'" As a biting north wind whipped through the ring on a dreary New Year's Day, David entered the ring to the raucous bullfight music.

The gates opened and the bull trotted out, veering to the right.

The youth made a few smooth series of passes with his cape. But he then slipped several times on the sandy turf.

After Mendoza has placed several ribbon-decorated blades into the bull's back, David drew his sword and prepared to attempt the kill.

On his first two tries, his sword glanced off the animal's shoulders. On the third try, the sword dangled briefly and fell to the ground.

Steers stop Mojo with Poss shot

Whether Big Spring Steer senior guard Del Poss likes it or not, he is some sort of hero this morning.

It was Poss, who, with no time remaining on the clock, sunk a "very pressurized" free throw, to break a 45-45 deadlock with the Permian Panthers here Friday night, and give the locals their first league win of the season — a 46-45 stinger over winless Mojo.

The victory raised the Steers from the 5-4 cellar and placed them prominently in the middle of the loop. The Bovines are now tied for fifth place with San Angelo (1-2) in what is turning out to be a log-ride for the conference first half crown.

Permian plummeted to the league root cellar with the loss, and now sports an 0-3 "counting" record — equal to that of cross-town rival Odessa High.

Big Spring led throughout most of the game and held a 24-17 bulge at intermission. The two squads started very slowly, and the locals led 8-6 at the end of the first quarter.

Defensively, the Steers were too tough for the Panthers, and the only visitor to see light through the blanket was Randy Wilson, who bucketed 25 points, more than half of PHS's total.

Only a desperate rally in the final going gave Mojo its slim chance for victory. With a little less than two minutes remaining in the game, Permian pulled ahead for the first time in the contest 41-40.

The top side of that score flip-flopped around for the remainder of the game, and with just 10 seconds remaining, Big Spring's Chippo Wright canned a shot that knotted the score at 45-45.

With six seconds remaining in the game, Permian had the ball out of bounds.

Chippo Wright intercepted the inbound pass and tossed up a 25-foot jumper with the final seconds draining from the scoreboard. The shot missed and Poss went up with two Permian players for the rebound.

As time ran out, the two Panthers landed in a heap on top of the Steer and a foul was called.

Calm and collected, Poss tossed in the winning shot, much to the elation of his teammates and the partisan crowd.

The win brought the Steers' overall season record to 5-14, and their next game is Tuesday on the road against Midland Lee.

A strong Permian JV squad (16-2 on the season) beat Big Spring 63-55 and the local sophomores also fell to the visitors 61-31.

Awesome 'D's will meet in Super Bowl

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys and Denver Broncos, the National Football League's conference title teams, clash in Super Bowl XII next Sunday, a milestone game for the world championship of professional football.

The contest will be held at the flamboyant Superdome, a luxurious roofed structure that dominates the downtown skyline of this city. It marks the first time the Super Bowl will be played indoors.

Both teams, who arrive Monday for a week of workouts before the big game, depend on awesome defensive units.

The Cowboys, kings of the National Football Conference, led the NFC with 53 quarterback sacks and permitted only 26 touchdowns all season. The AFC champion Broncos allowed only 148 points, lowest in the conference.

The Dallas defense, nicknamed Dooomsday II after the unit that helped the Cowboys win the 1972 Super Bowl, is led by end Harvey Martin, the NFL's defensive player of the year, and safety Cliff Harris, both All-Pro selections. The Cowboys surrendered only 229.5 yards per game, lowest in the NFC this season.

Joining Martin up front are tackles Randy White, a converted linebacker, and Jethro Pugh, who played on the "72 champions, and Ed "Too Tall" Jones at the other end. The linebackers are Thomas Henderson, Bob Breunig and D.D. Lewis with Benny Barnes and Aaron Kyle at the corners and Charlie Waters joining Harris at the safety positions.

Dallas practices the flex, an intricate defensive arrangement that is designed to have all gaps plugged by a staggered line. For the flex to work properly, the Cowboys must maintain their defensive positions. If they do, trap plays are short-circuited before they can develop.

Denver counters with a defense that placed four players on the All-Pro team. They are end Lyle Alzado, who anchors the three-man front, linebackers Randy Gradishar and Tom Jackson and safety Bill Thompson.

The Broncos went to the increasingly popular three-man front this year and became immediately successful with the arrangement. Besides Alzado, the front includes nose guard Rubin Carter and end Barney Chavous. Joining Gradishar and Jackson at the linebacker positions are Joe Rizzo and Bob Swenson. Corners Louis Wright and Steve Foley and safeties Thompson and Bernard Jackson complete the secondary.

Denver fans call the defense the Orange Crush, borrowing the trade name of a popular soft drink whose sales have escalated in direct proportion to the success of the Broncos.

Both defenses had proud accomplishments this season.

Besides leading the NFL in total defense, Dallas also paced its conference with the best defense against the rush (1,651 yards) and the second best against the pass (1,562).

Denver finished fourth in total defense in the AFC, but led the conference against the rush (1,531 yards).

Both units will have plenty of problems to deal with on Super Sunday.

Dallas' high-powered offense operated by quarterback Roger Staubach, led the NFC with 345 points and scored 42 touchdowns, also tops in the conference.

The Cowboys led the NFL in total offense with 4,812 yards and Staubach won the passing championship, completing 210 of 361 attempts for 2,620 yards and 18 touchdowns. His main targets were wide receiver Drew Pearson, who caught 48 for 870 yards, and running back Preston Pearson, who had 46 for 535.

Staubach also threw frequently to running back Tony Dorsett, the former Heisman Trophy winner who was the NFL's offensive rookie of the year. Dorsett rushed for 1,007 yards, becoming only the eighth rookie in NFL history to reach that plateau. He also caught 29 passes for 2733 yards.

Dorsett did not become a starter until midway through the season and when he did, he added an extra dimension to the Cowboy attack, giving Dallas the breakthrough type runner the team had lacked before. His backfield running mate is Robert Newhouse, who rushed for 721 yards during the regular season and was the Cowboys' leading ground gainer in the playoffs victories over Chicago and Minnesota that moved Dallas into its fourth Super Bowl.

Denver did not have a single player among the AFC's leading rushers and pass receivers and the Broncos' 3,906 yards in total offense was the third lowest total in the conference. But in the playoffs, the Broncos eliminated Pittsburgh and Oakland, who, between them, had won the last three Super Bowls. That put the Broncos in the championship game for the first time.

Denver turned the corner with retreat Craig Morton at quarterback. Morton was a member of the first two Cowboy Super Bowl teams in 1971 and 1972 and spent a couple of seasons with the New York Giants before being cast off to the Broncos where he became the wheelhouse of the Denver offense.

Morton finished second to Miami's Bob Griese among AFC passers, completing 131 of 254 attempts for 1,929 yards and 14 touchdowns. He was intercepted only eight times, the lowest figure for any regular AFC quarterback.

North wins Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Frank Corral of UCLA kicked a tiebreaking 46-yard field goal, longest in Senior Bowl history, between short touchdowns runs by Terry Miller and Todd Christensen as the North scored all its points in the final quarter and defeated the South 17-14 Saturday in the 29th edition of the post-season all-star game.

A 4-yard run by Miller, an All-American from Oklahoma State, and Corral's conversion capped an 89-yard drive and tied the score early in the final period.

Corral connected on his record field goal with 5:47 left in the game and Christensen smashed across from 1 yard out for a decisive 17-7 lead with 1:27 to play.

The last touchdown came on fourth down after All-American linebacker Mike Woods from the University of Cincinnati galloped 84 yards with a fumble to the South's 9-yard line.

The costly fumble was committed by Johnny Davis of Alabama, who scored the South's first touchdown on a 1-yard run early in the third quarter. It was the South's only turnover of the game and came at the 2-yard line with the North clinging to a 10-7 lead.

Following Christensen's TD, All-American quarterback Doug Williams of Grambling marched the South 73 yards by completing six of eight passes, including a 10-yard touchdown strike to Wes Chandler of Florida with 18 seconds left.

However, the North recovered the ensuing onside kick and ran out the clock to record its third consecutive Senior Bowl triumph. The South still leads the overall series 14-12-3.

Wide receiver James Lofton of Stanford won a car as the game's most valuable player. Cash awards of $2,500 as the top offensive and defensive players went to Stanford quarterback Guy Benjamin and Eastern Michigan cornerback Ron Johnson for the North and Davis and linebacker Scott Hutchinson of Florida for the South.

In addition, each member of the winning team received $1,500 while the losers got $1,250 apiece as many of the nation's top collegiate seniors made their play-for-pay debuts.

After a scoreless first half, the South stormed 81 yards following the second half kickoff, with Williams completing three passes for 28 yards and Davis breaking loose for 20.

A pass interference call against J.C. Wilson of Pitt moved the ball from the North's 22 to the 1 and Davis scored two plays later.

Watson leads Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Tom Watson, the leader all the way, made his first bogeys of the year, slipped to a one-over-par 73 but retained a two-shot lead Saturday through 54 holes of the $200,000 Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

Watson who held a four-stroke advantage when third round play started in warm sunshine, fell victim to mildly erratic play that opened the gates to a challenge in Sunday's final 18 holes of play in this, the first tournament of the season on the PGA Tour.

The 1977 Player of the Year had a three-round total of 204, 12 under par on the sprawling, 7,035 yards of desert valley that make up the Tucson National Golf Club course.

Bobby Wadkins, seeking his first title in four years of tour activity, moved to within two shots of the leader with a 71. Bobby, the younger brother of PGA champ Lanny Wadkins, had a 206 total.

He bolted into contention with three consecutive birdies beginning on the third hole "but my putter kind of died on me after that," he said. "But I'm only two shots back, so I guess I can't be too disappointed."

Tied for third at 208 were Lee Trevino and talkative Texan Bill Rogers. Rogers matched par-72 in the third round. Trevino, a two-time former Tucson champion and a great favorite here, had a 71 that included a great save from a bunker on the final hole after the national television cameras had cut away for the day.

Hawks lose in ABC finals tilt

Using a deliberate offense and stingy defense, the Western Texas College quintet took the 8th Annual ABC Olympic Classic Basketball Tournament championship trophy from the Howard College Hawks, 79-69, Saturday night.

Sophomore Russell Sublet led all scorers with 24 points, as teammates Eugene Williams and Robby Randolph hit for 12 and 10 points, respectively. Joe Cooper and Casey Wilder scored seven apiece.

The win by the Snyder club marked the second year in a row that the top trophy went to that college.

HC's Joe Cooper, Robby Randolph, Russell Sublet and Eugene Williams were all named to the all-tournament team.

The Hawks will host Clarendon in Hawk Gym Monday at 8 p.m. in their next outing.

SENIOR BOWL — Elvis Peacock (34), Oklahoma's fastest halfback, carries the ball on short yardage for the North Squad. Pursuing is defensive linesman, Stan Johnson from Tennessee State. College all-star seniors from various parts of the country were invited to play for their first football paycheck in the 29th Senior Bowl. (AP WIREPHOTO)

NFL stonewalls fumbling of Denvergate case

I don't mind a referee in football, or an umpire in baseball making a bad call. Bad calls happen. But don't insult me with some phony-baloney rationale. Don't tell me how right he was, and that I don't really understand the nuances of the situation. Don't lie to me and everyone else, the way the NFL is doing.

They blew the big call in the Denver-Oakland game, the AFC championship game, the Super Bowl entry game. The mistake was right there on instant replay, for all the world to see — just as it was right there a week before, when Bert Jones fumbled the ball and the ref said no, the play was dead, the whistle had blown, and everybody could see what a terrible mistake that was.

This time, they said the ballcarrier's forward progress had stopped. What forward progress? Forward progress is used to determine where the ball is to be spotted, not to time when a play ends. If the whistle was to be blown each time maximum forward progress has been achieved, there would be no such thing as second-effort.

SECOND EFFORTS WOULD CEASE

Let me repeat that, because it shows how ludicrous is the official explanation of the ruling. If a play ends the instant forward progress by the ballcarrier stops, there would be no second-effort by ballcarriers.

How many times have you seen Franco Harris hit the line, stop cold, bounce back, slant off to one side or the other, and make a substantial gain? How many times have you seen Larry Csonka do it; Walter Payton, O.J. Simpson, Chuck Foreman, Otis Armstrong, the strong runners. They make most of their yardage on second effort, breaking tackles, bouncing off human walls.

This time, it was Rob Lytle, the Denver halfback. He's trying to buck over from the two, midway through the third period. Jack Tatum hits him a step after the handoff. Rob Lytle coughs up the ball. Standing straight up, he coughs up the ball. An Oakland man scoops it up and is running clear. But wait.

The whistle has blown. It shouldn't have, but it did. The head linesman, of all people, had blown it. Not the referee, not the umpire, the head linesman, standing at the far sideline.

"He's the last man to call that play," said Al Davis. The man who built the Super XI champions was speaking with a heavy emotional hangover. He had just awakened in Oakland, where it was very early. He couldn't believe his steam would not be in Super XII because of that whistle. "Look," he said, "call me back in an hour."

I did. He still couldn't believe it. "The head linesman is 20 yards away. The umpire is within two yards. The referee three or four yards. Even the linesman on the other side had clearer vision," he said.

Al Davis has a theory: "Ed Marion was the head linesman. He is senior member of that crew, and a strong official. The referee and umpire just didn't want to overrule him. That's the mechanics of strength among officials."

"Look, it's over, it's done. I've learned to live with the errors of human beings. Officials make mistakes, players make mistakes. The thing I resent is the explanation," said Al Davis.

So do I. Most of all, I resent that, because it insults my intelligence and the intelligence of the public. It is no explanation at all. It is a coverup. The NFL would be better off saying perhaps a mistake had been made, or to say nothing at all. Instead, it felt impelled to issue this gobbledegook about forward progress.

QUESTIONING NOT PERMITTED

The explanation came in a typed statement, not from the mouths of game officials themselves. After a game, newsmen are not permitted to question officials. The big sign on their dressing room door reads: POSITIVELY NO ADMITTANCE, and a big man in uniform, carrying a big club and wearing a big gun, stands outside.

This is all part of a traditional stonewalling that Pete Rozelle had better think about. Coverups are passe. Extreme secrecy is passe. There rules were put in when the NFL was a small, private club. Now it has gone public, in a big way, and when you are in the public eye you have an accountability to the public.

Traditional secrecy kept covered the fact that Craig Morton was so badly injured he was doubtful as Denver quarterback right up to game-time. That is unforgivable. A year ago, at Super Bowl time, Fran Tarkenton, Vikes' QB, was able to lie about his bad leg, and get away with it, because newsmen are barred from Super workouts.

Commissioner Rozelle has promised that it will not happen again. He has promised observers will be permitted at Super workouts. It is a start, but there is a need for more. The entire Denvergate situation should be examined. If the NFL did less hiding before the fact, it would have to do less explaining afterward.

HAPPY COACH? — Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry, who has a reputation for smiling infrequently, attempts a face-breaker during last Sunday's 23-6 win over the Minnesota Vikings. Next Sunday, the Pokes and Denver Broncos meet in Super Bowl XII.

Tomjanovich will return to NBA

HOUSTON (AP) — Injured Houston Rockets forward Rudy Tomjanovich, despite the trauma of having his face smashed in four weeks ago, has confidence he will return to the National Basketball Association.

"Whenever you are away from something you always have apprehensions," Tomjanovich said Friday night in his first public appearance since Dec. 9 when then Los Angeles player Kermit Washington decked Tomjanovich with one punch.

"But when I get into a game, I don't think anything will be any different—I'll play my natural game."

Tomjanovich might be excused if he were shy of taking an elbow in the face. Tomjanovich's jaw, nose and skull were fractured in the one-punch bout with Washington requiring three hours surgery to put his face back in order.

Washington, later traded to Boston, was fined $10,000 and suspended at least 60 days by National Basketball Association Commissioner Lawrence O'Brien.

Tomjanovich's speech had to be strained through his wired together mouth Friday night just as his soft diet has been since Dec. 9 as he spoke to newsmen for the first time since the incident.

He later received a standing ovation when he was introduced at the Rockets' game against Milwaukee.

Tomjanovich said he was about ready to start working out again when he learned Thursday that because of the incident he would require surgery on both eyes. He said surgery on one eye would involve a tear duct and the other eye needed other repairs.

"That's the thing about injuries like this," Tomjanovich said. "You can have so many things on the side. Before this eye thing came up the doctors told me after four weeks to start jogging and if there was any pain to stop."

Tomjanovich declined to talk about a suit he has filed against the Lakers asking damages for his injuries.

He said he could forgive Washington "as a man, but there can be no excuse for what he did."

Tomjanovich said he hadn't been thinking about Washington since the incident. "A lot of things went through my mind, mainly about my career, my family and my teammates," he said.

The Rockets have slumped badly since losing Tomjanovich. They lost their next five games in a row and now are 4-8 in the 12 games since Tomjanovich's injury.

"A lot of teams lose key players," Tomjanovich said. "I believe in the Rockets and I believe they are going to make the playoffs. We have people with the character to win."

Why is hockey going broke?

NEW YORK (AP) — The television networks have helped make sports big business in America. The old American Football League, bankrolled by NBC, survived to eventually merge with the National Football League, backed by CBS. Eventually, the NFL became a three-network conglomerate.

Major league baseball has a two-network deal that keeps the sport's owners prosperous. The National Basketball Association enjoys a lucrative pact with CBS. Golf has profited, tennis has boomed, collegiate sports have thrived on television bucks.

But standing alone is the National Hockey League, the forgotten — make that ignored — child. Many of the financial crises plaguing it can be blamed on its lack of a national TV contract.

"The last year of a major network contract was 1974-75 with NBC," says Carl Meyers, the man the league hired from TVS, the successful independent sports network, to set up the NHL network. "The next year, we developed the concept for our own series of telecasts and started with the Soviet-NHL series. The reaction to it was not great, the production was terrible — we only had three people working on it — and the advertising was so-so. But we got it on the air."

"Then we moved on to the Stanley Cup playoffs, which did nicely and generated some money for the league. So we went to the Game of the Week last year." The weekly NHL games, televised on Monday nights, did moderately well according to Meyers. "We went for Monday because we felt we might bridge the gap from football to baseball as a fourth network."

NBC dropped the NHL because it found that hockey had little appeal in warm climates in the United States, diminishing the impact of sponsor commercials; because few blacks watched the almost totally white sport, eliminating a vast audience, and because college basketball and the madefor-TV events like Superstars were available for the same time periods.

"We gave hockey the best shot we could give it," says NBC's Tom Merritt, "but our ratings for college basketball last year in the same slot show hockey's problems as a television spectator sport. The basketball games doubled the ratings the NHL.

Forsan's 7th beaten in 2nd

STANTON — The Forsan 7th graders swept Garden City in the opening round of the Stanton 7th grade Basketball Tournament, but fell to the hosts in the second round.

The FJH boys stopped Garden City 14-11. Lloyd Carver's 12 points led Forsan, and Trevino hit four for GCJH. The girls beat Garden City 29-12, as Jami Findley hit eight and Jinia Strickland garnered seven for the winners. Wilkerson scored six for Garden City.

Stanton decided the boys 22-11. Carver again led FJH with four. Church had 10 for Stanton. Deana Clark scored eight and Vicki Baggett hit seven, but the FJH girls lost to Stanton 32-22. Graves had 10 for SJH.

Hawks run, gun St. Phillips, 99-93

By DANNY REAGAN Sports Editor

The Howard College Hawks were running, gaming and having fun again Friday night in second round play of the 8th Annual ABC Olympic Classic Basketball Tournament held here.

The Preybirds romped with all the fast-paced intensity that marked earlier season play, and despite a meager 23 out of 42 free throws, they handed the visiting St. Phillips of San Antonio club a 99-93 defeat.

The win set up a Saturday night championship finale (see p. 1B) between two unbeaten tourney teams — the Hawks and Western Texas, 99-73 winners over Sul Ross JV Friday.

Russell Sublet and Joe Cooper, two former Houston Kashmere teammates, were electric for the Hawks in the early-going. Sublet, who finished the night with 28 points, and Cooper (24 points) combined for the first 19 of 23 points put on the boards by the locals.

Aided by key passes from co-guard Casey Wilder and Robby Randolph, combined with prize-winning moves, Sublet was unstoppable in the early-going.

Cooper, again picking off caroms without leaving the floor, completely dominated the offensive backboards.

Sophomore Eugene Williams (19 points) gave board support and defensive pressure, and shortly before the end of the initial frame the Hawks had built up a 12 point lead, 30-17.

The second period turned mud-slugish for the Hawks. HC turnovers and missed free throws allowed St. Phillips to briefly take the lead, 47-45, with just 1:26 left on the first half clock. Robby Randolph reeled off four unanswered shots, however, and Cooper hit a bucket at the buzzer to send the Hawks into the dressing room with a 54-51 lead.

St. Phillips started the second half with deadly accuracy, and with less than five minutes gone, they led the locals, 64-61. A few minutes later, however, Sublet drove the lane unopposed for a layup and Williams added two more on a rubberized move, and HC took the lead, 70-68, with 13:02 remaining. They were never headed from that moment on.

Despite four missed opportunities at the one and one for the Hawks in the final period, which allowed St. Phillips to knot it up at 91-all with only 2:48 left, HC held on with crucial buckets by Sublet and Randolph for the win.

Randolph and sophomore Johnny James were the only locals who had the free-throw eye Friday night. Both hit five charity tosses each. The win advanced the Hawks' season record to 10-6.

In Friday's other game, Joe Mendoza led Western Texas with 19 points, and Ricky Enriquez passed Sul Ross with 22 markers.

Read any good books lately? Mojo beaters, etc.

Well, if you haven't read any good books lately, that is, here's a good one for you: "The Tony Dorsett Story" by Phil Musick, published by Ridley Enslow Publishers of New Jersey.

Haven't read it myself, but have been keeping up with the installments that have been appearing in the Dallas Morning News. It has to be a must for every serious Cowboy fan.

One especially catchy part of the book is an account of the day Dorsett broke the NCAA career rushing mark. The scene is the Pitt-Navy game of 1976. Quoting from Musick's book, here's how it went:

"At 4:04 on a fine autumn afternoon about 100 years since the game of college football had come into being, Tony Dorsett took a short pout and swept to his left.

"A couple of yards into the Navy secondary, Dorsett feinted a move to the sideline as the Midshipman defense crossed the field to cut him off. In one stride, Dorsett cut back, roared through two tacklers and into daylight.

"At the Navy 10-yard line, middle safety-man Mike Galpin dove for Dorsett's thighs, hit him squarely, and felt the Pitt ace tear from his grip. Galpin watched Tony Dorsett dance into the end zone to complete the 32-yard touchdown run.

"He had just become, with that 32-yard burst, the greatest runner in the long, long history of college football. By the only true measuring rod — yards gained — he had surpassed all the immortals: Red Grange, Tommy Harmon, Bronko Nagurski, Jim Thorpe, O. J. Simpson. Tony Dorsett was the greatest."

Dorsett was quoted as saying that day: "I wasn't going to be denied. I wanted that record."

Speaking of Dorsett, something had been nagging at the creases in my brain since the start of the Hawk season, which, it just so happened, opened in the middle of the Cowboy season. Friday night, at the ABC Olympic Classic my favorite spotter answered the question. "You know, Russell Sublet looks an awful lot like Tony Dorsett," Hawk fan number one said.

It's true folks. Go to a Hawk game sometime and see for yourself.

YOU SURE HE WASN'T IN DALLAS? Alex Hawkins, a CBS television sportscaster, recently infamous for his comment that Dallas Cowboy quarterback Roger Staubach "runs like a sissy," was arrested on an Atlanta freeway early Friday and charged with driving under the influence and possessing less than an ounce of marijuana.

Lucky thing he wasn't picked up anywhere in Texas. He would've probably been drawn and quartered on the spot.

MAYBE IT HELPED, DEL! Big Spring Steer Del Poss (whose heroes can be seen just to your left there) recalls those harrowing moments

Friday night when his free throw, with not time left on the clock, pulled the locals to a 46-45 win over the Permian Panthers:

"When Chippo (Wright) shot (as the last few seconds ticked away) I jumped up for it, and so did two of the Permian guys," Poss said. "One of them bumped into me and both of them fell on top of me."

A foul was called and the senior went to the line. What was going through his mind? "I was pretty scared, and not thinking about much of anything," he said. "The only thing that bothered me was Danny Valdes right under the basket focusing in on me."

Just goes to show you that Valdes is a lucky charm. MEANWHILE, JUST ACROSS TOWN ... Friday was a banner night for basketball in Big Spring.

Not only did the Bovines defeat the best team in any sport (including dominoes) to beat, the Hawks pulled off a little razzle-dazzle of their own.

Wish I could've been in two places at once. Can't believe the thin crowds at the American Business Club's Olympic Classic this weekend. If the local yellers have been staying away due to a mediocre Hawk record, perhaps HC's performance in the Classic will cure that.

After starting strong, the Hawks fell into a lull, and prior to the Tournament, they had lost four of their last five games. Yet, they looked good after the holidays. Why?

"I think a major factor is Joe Cooper," said Head Coach Harold Wilder. "He's been playing a lot better, with greater intensity, and he's been making plays in this tournament that he hasn't been making before."

Another major factor has to be the success of the "Three Guard Front" composed of Robby Randolph, Russell Sublet and Casey Wilder. With Joe Cooper and flashy Eugene Williams controlling the sky, the three swift guards give the Pirebryds the extra edge in the running department.

And if the Hawks have any chance of finishing in playoff position in the tough Western Junior College Athletic Conference this season, they're going to have to run, and run hard.

TAKE "TOO TALL JONES" AND CALL ME IN THE MORNING

For those of you out there suffering from "No Cowboy Game Today" depression, here's something to tide you over until Super Bowl Sunday next week.

The Cowboys and Broncos have had two common opponents this season: St. Louis and Pittsburgh. Denver beat St. Louis 7-0 and Pittsburgh 21-7. Dallas beat St. Louis 30-24, then lost to them, 17-24, and also lost to Pittsburgh, 13-28. What does it all mean? Don't ask me, I'm confused. All I know is that Dallas will beat Denver in Super Bowl XII, 21-17.

'Underdog Bowls' are commonplace now

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Still-stunned Texas Longhorn fans don't have to worry about playing Notre Dame only when Notre Dame is the underdog.

Irish Athletic Director Moose Krause says Notre Dame would play the highest rated team in future bowl games, even if that team is ranked below them.

In a telephone interview from South Bend, Krause said a No. 1 Notre Dame could not afford to pass up a chance to play No. 2, even if the players would rather go to the beach at Miami or the French Quarter in New Orleans.

"We would play No. 2 because it would be for the national championship. We're not going to duck anybody. That was Rocky's philosophy. I'm going along with it," Krause said, referring to Knute Rockne, the great Irish coach in the 1920s and early 1930s.

Texas Coach Fred Akers said after Notre Dame beat the Longhorns in the Cotton Bowl, 38-10, "Bowls are for underdogs."

Oklahoma and Michigan say amen. Frequently, the team that has something to prove — usually because of a humiliating performance in the season finale — beats a seemingly superior opponent in a bowl game.

Notre Dame did that in the 1971 Cotton Bowl. Southern California trounced the Irish worse than the 38-28 final score indicated in the last game of the season. Notre Dame turned around and snapped Texas' 30-game win streak in the Cotton Bowl, 24-11.

Almost no one thinks Arkansas really is 25 points better than Oklahoma, or that Notre Dame is 28 points better than Texas. But Oklahoma and Texas have no chance to prove that.

Pokes to see new Craig

DALLAS (AP)—It will be a different Craig Mmrtion than the Dallas Cowboys have seen before in Super Bowl XII.

That opinion comes from Cowboy special assistant Ernal Allen, who says there is no comparing the Craig Morton of the Denver Broncos and the Craig Morton formerly of the New York Giants.

Morton, of course, played for Dallas six years before he was traded to the Giants, where he labored two and one-half seasons. He was 0 for 5 against the Cowboys in games while at the helm of the Giants.

"Craig has corrected the bad habit of throwing interceptions," says Allen, Dallas Coach Tom Landry's right hand man. "At New York he wouldn't take the trap or throw the ball out of bounds."

Allen says, "Their defense is No. 1 in the NFL. They have allowed only five touchdowns rushing in 14 games. They are first in the NFL in average yards allowed per game — only 109 rushing. And also they have allowed just 3.3 yards per rush."

The Cowboys fly to their fourth Super Bowl Monday, leaving Love Field on a charter flight at 4 p.m.

Allen adds, "They have 25 interceptions by 10 different people. They are very active defensively."

Lemons soured over dirty Froggies

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Texas Coach Abe Lemons did not waste words in expressing his feelings toward two Texas Christian University players who, he felt, played a rough game and pushed and shoved his Longhorns in Texas' 90-41 college basketball victory Thursday night.

"When they get on the road someone is going to kill those two hot dogs," Lemons said after the game. "If you can't play, that's one thing, but to play dirty is something else. They'll get theirs. They're a disgrace to the game."

He was referring to Aurdie Evans, who was expelled from the game, and Mike Dreyspring.

TCU Coach Tim Somerville admitted there was some pushing and shoving during the game, but, looking at the score, he added: "Things like that (rough play) go on all the time in games. It was just frustration on our part and pushing and shoving on their part."

Part of the TCU frustration may have come from the fact that the team's leading scorer, Steve Scales, was held to two points for the night by a Texas zone defense that has helped carry the team to a 9-2 record.

The Horned Frogs scored only 12 points in the first half, committed 29 turnovers and shot a pitiful 26.9 percent from the field for the game.

Then, at one time, in an embarrassing display, four players ran to the other end of the court leaving the inbound man all by himself with the ball.

"What can I say? It's going to be a long year for them, I'm afraid," Lemons said of the Frogs who are now 2-8 for the year.

But Lemons' main complaint centered on the actions of Evans and Dreyspring.

Evans was expelled after he delivered a blow to the belly of Phillip Stroud. Lemons said Dreyspring had been pushing Stroud earlier in the game.

"He hit Phillip and then stood there and laughed at him," Lemons said.

Stroud added: "He had been riding me all night. I don't know why he had it in for me. Hey, this is my first year here."

LYLE THE LEGISLATOR — (AP WIREPHOTO) Denver Broncos defensive lineman Lyle Alzado jokingly pretends he's a member of the Colorado House of Representatives during a visit there by several members of the Super Bowl-bound Broncos. Alzado picked up a notebook and took his turn giving a "speech" then was politely reminded that House rules prohibit any but members from sitting behind the desks, which got a good laugh from the members assembled for the first day of the 1978 session.

More spit than polish?

NEW YORK (AP) — Isn't it high time baseball outlawed the spitter?

Not the moistened horsehide careening crazily toward the plate, but the balloon-jawed batsman standing there in the pinstriped suit and making like Old Faithful before 70,000 people and a TV audience in the millions.

This past World Series definitely had more spit than polish.

At times, in the environs of home plate, the national pastime resembled a New Hampshire country store in a wintery day with everyone getting a chance to take aim and ping away at the pot-bellied stove.

Batter after batter, taking his turn at the plate, dramatically adjusted his mittens (they used to dust their hands), pounded menacingly on the plate, then deposited a puddle of tobacco juice or whatever at the feet of the plate umpire, who soon may be equipped with a splash pan as well as shin guards and a chest protector. The TV zoom lens was there to catch every vulgar drip in living color.

Some of those fancy salaried free agents, signed by the pennant buying owners, turned out to be better long-distance spitters than hitters under world championship pressures.

The whole saliva scene was pretty revolting here in the effete East, but it must have been downright disgusting west of the Missouri, where folks were just sitting down to their dinners when the first spray of the ballgame came splashing across their screen.

If owners Walt O'Malley and George Steinbrenner are going to tolerate such liquidities in their expensive play pens, they should at least install spittoons in the batter's box and maybe another out on the mound for likes of Sparky Lyle, who is rarely seen on camera without two grapefruit sized wads of tobacco bellowing out his jowls like a puffed adder. Come to think of it, championship cuspidors might be a good giveaway gimmick to spur attendance, like free bats and jackets.

Too bad the baseball moguls at their Honolulu meeting didn't give some thought to the effects of nicotine on their walto-wall artificial playing surfaces and whether catchers and plate umpires should get hazard pay and extra health insurance for working in a contaminated area. Or how about a "refrain from spitting" sign embroidered on the ump's chest protector or maybe a government health warning on the helmet of batters who regularly ruminate at the plate?

If spitting, like sliding or stealing, is deemed a charismatic essential of the grand old game, then maybe the display of effluent might be limited to one man in the batting rotation, the best spitter on the team, who would appear in the lineup under the heading DH: designated hawker.

In this sophisticated sports era of astroturf, $3 million free agents and electronic action replays that stifle barroom colloquy, baseball seems to be regressing into its boisterous rowdy past. Hal McRae has brought back the Ty Cobb blind side, spikes-up slide; Billy Martin has revived the bluster and machismo of the old Gas House Gang and even the most intellectual-looking student of the game, the college-type in the tinted spectacles and long curly locks, feels compelled to exhortate like the biggest rube since "Alibi Ike," the minute the P. A. system calls him to the plate.

Holtz 'more comfortable' nowadays

MIAMI (AP) — A year after departing the New York Jets for the head coaching job at Arkansas, Lou Holtz says he feels "more comfortable" in the intercollegiate environment.

Still, he has nothing negative to say about pro football.

"The few talents I have are better suited for intercollegiate athletics," Holtz said in an interview.

He was sitting in a hotel coffee shop less than 12 hours after his Razorbacks had upset Oklahoma 31-6 in the Orange Bowl and staked their claim to a national championship.

"I think I'm more of a teacher," Holtz said. "So many of our players have gotten better and better and better. People that you would have been looking to cut in the pros. That gives you a lot of satisfaction."

Holtz, who took North Carolina State to four straight bowl games before coaching the Jets in 1976, was hired to succeed Frank Broyles at Arkansas on Dec. 11, 1976.

He was asked to evaluate the past year.

"I really don't have much of an evaluation of it," Holtz said. "A year later I still have problems; the problems are just a little bit different."

"Even though we just won the Orange Bowl and capped a pretty good year, I don't feel the exhilaration that maybe I should have, because I was extremely happy with the New York Jets. I can't say a negative word about professional football."

Holtz said he had never been through a year with "so much adversity and controversy. Every time you turned around we were losing this guy or that guy or we had this problem or that problem."

Holtz said the Razorbacks had lost 22 players to injuries since the start of the season.

"We've always prided ourselves on the fact that we try to talk more about the people who are going to play than the people we've lost. I think self pity is the one thing that can demoralize you and cripple you. None of our players ever sat around and felt sorry for themselves."

The latest controversy occurred Dec. 21 when Holtz suspended running backs Ben Cowins and Michael Forrest and flanker Donny Bobo because of an incident in the athletic dormitory, allegedly involving a coed.

Before that he was criticized by some Arkansas media for giving a speech on behalf of Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and for making television commercials for an air conditioning firm.

He defended his right as a citizen to speak for Helms but took steps to cancel the commercial when he found it conflicted with university policy.

Frank Broyles, who stepped down after 19 years as head coach to become full-time athletic director at Arkansas, was instrumental in the hiring of Holtz.

"He was recognized by his peers as a coach who gets as much out of his material as anybody in the game," Broyles said. "He was also strong in the three areas that I wanted in a head coach."

"First, he coached the offense himself and he called the plays and ran the offense. This is necessary if you're going to have any continuity to your offense. A head coach can delegate his defense and go on about his business but if he's working with the defense there is no continuity on offense."

"Second is that he was a good disciplinarian. Team sports require discipline."

"Thirdly, he loved his players and was concerned about their future and their welfare."

'Don't be a 'fish hog', throw your bass back

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — You fish for bass to "prove your manliness," says Ray Scott. So, when you have conquered the cantankerous critter and achieved your "moment of glory," why not throw him back and give someone else a chance?

That's the doctrine the former Montgomery insurance man is preaching now as head of one of the nation's largest outdoor organizations, the Bass Anglers Sportsman Society.

Scott, a card-carrying environmentalist himself, readily agrees with those who complain about the "fish hogs" who catch more than they need and "drag them all over town" just to show off.

But he disputes any claim that tournaments sponsored by his organization and hundreds of BASS clubs throughout the nation are depleting the piscatorial population.

Tournament fishing, Scott says, "has very little effect" on the biological balance; "it's just a drop in the bucket" compared to the daily catch of the millions of everyday fishermen.

But he concedes that the pros who fish for pay can have a "tremendous sociological effect" on the amateur anglers. It's like golf, or tennis, or bowling, or any other sport. The weekend fisherman watches the pros and tries to improve his own skill.

With that in mind, and recognizing the need for tighter regulation in some waters, new restrictions have been drawn up for this year's BASS tournaments.

The daily catch limit has been cut from 10 to seven, and the minimum length for tournament bass has gone up from 12 to 14 inches.

More significantly, perhaps, the bonus awarded for each fish still alive when weighed in has been doubled.

Urging bass fishermen, pro and amateur, to "throw 'em back" isn't anything new for BASS. It started doing it five years ago, and of the 64,210 bass caught in tournament since then, Scott says, 51,882 have been released.

Evidence of over-fishing, or "very efficient, successful angling" as scientists called it, showed up in a recent study of West Point Lake on the Alabama-Georgia border.

The study was made by the Auburn University School of Fisheries, whose department head, Wayne Shell, agrees with Scott that tournament fishing itself has not been shown to be harmful.

The problem, says Shell, is with everyday fishermen who, as a rule, "catch about all they can."

He says the BASS "throw 'em back" campaign can be a "constructive force" to encourage conservation.

The fisheries scientist confirms that bass can survive if thrown back. In the experimental ponds at Auburn, he says, bass are caught, tagged and returned to the water.

And, he says, "we catch the same ones over and over again. It doesn't seem to bother them."

THROW EM BACK — Ray Scott, president of the Bass Anglers Sportsman Society, admires a collection of large-mouth bass in an aquarium in his office in Montgomery. Scott is urging fishermen everywhere to throw back the bass they don't intend to eat and let someone else enjoy the thrill of catching them.

Long mileage Road-gripping traction. Gas economy. Easy radial handling. Wider top steel belt for good stability and handling. A tear-resistant rubber insert helps isolate belt motion from the cord body. Long-wearing compound in tread and shoulder. Special Diene sidewall compound to resist flexing and ozone attack.

Our new 721 steel cord. Much stronger. Here's why. Our previous steel cord used only five strands of steel. The new cord is stronger and more durable because it has ten filaments seven wrapped around two with one more steel strand wrapping up the pack. The new twist that gives our new tire its name.

College polls have closed 'Gates of Mercy'

DALLAS (AP) — The "Gates of Mercy" — are you ethically bound to close them when you're shooting for high stakes, such as the college football championship of the United States?

This was one of the prickly little issues which emerged — almost unnoticed — from Notre Dame's resounding 38-10 victory over previously unbeaten and top-ranked Texas in Monday's Cotton Bowl.

The setting: only a few minutes were left on the clock. Notre Dame had its precious upset triumph in the bag, leading by 28 points. More than that, the Longhorns, banged and battered throughout the afternoon, were reeling like a punch-drunk prizefighter, ready to go down for the full count.

Their eyes were glassy and their legs wobbly, and they were being humiliated before their worshipping fans. Instead of taking pity on their already vanquished victims and letting them crumble to the canvas softly with perhaps a shred of dignity remaining, they were the fired-up Fighting Irish pumping away desperately for still another score.

The gun sounded with 'Y' wetness begins Monday

The YMCA Aquatic Program will resume Monday.

Women's swim lessons and water exercises are Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 10 a.m. and will again be taught by Jan Robertson.

Children's After School Swim Classes will be offered on Tuesdays and Thursdays, as usual, with recreation swims on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 4:30 p.m.

Saturday recreation swims will be at 10:30 till 11:30 a.m. for grades 1-6, 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. for all ages.

Family swims are 7:00 to 8:45 p.m. on Tuesday and Friday, and 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Saturdays.

Blue Jays to get first draft pick

NEW YORK (AP) — The Toronto Blue Jays, with the worst record in 1977, have the first selection Tuesday in major league baseball's 13th annual winter free-agent draft.

Selections in the regular phase of the draft are based on reverse order of winning percentage in 1977, with American and National League clubs alternating choices. The order of selection in the secondary phase, for players drafted last June who did not sign, was determined by a drawing by the league presidents. Minnesota has the first pick in the secondary phase.

The draft will be conducted by telephone hookup with the 26 teams tied into a conference call from the office of Commissioner

Notre Dame two feet from another touchdown.

Although Coach Fred Akers and his shattered Texas legions issued no public outcry, they obviously resented it. Longhorn supporters were embittered. They accused the Fighting Irish of electing to "pour it on."

Dan Devine, the Notre Dame coach, stoutly denied any such intent, although he acknowledged that he was aware that Alabama, Notre Dame's keener rival for No. 1 ranking in the polls, had crushed Ohio State in the Sugar Bowl 35-6.

The final score from New Orleans was flashed on the electric scoreboard as the Cotton Bowl game ground toward its conclusion.

Anglers invade Lake Spence

Fishermen endeavored to start the year right at Lake E.V. Spence by turning out the Friday before New Year's Day in the largest numbers since Labor Day. The balmy weather of the day, however, turned off sharp the remaining days of the holiday season and reduced the amount of fishing.

However, there were several good catches reported, and most of them were striped bass of the medium range. Some of the reports included:

Triangle Grocery — Lesa Labban, Delores Labban and Verne Labban, all of Sweetwater, five strippers to 7 lbs., four strippers to 7½ lbs. and two strippers to 4 lbs., respectively.

Hillside Grocery and Bait — Phillip Price, Big Spring, two strippers to 6½ lbs. and a 6-lb. channel catfish; E. L. Latimer, Littlefield, three strippers; Jimmy Clayton, Littlefield, three strippers; Keith Latimer, Littlefield, three strippers; C. C. Weir, Robert Lee, three channel catfish to 10 lbs. and a 6-lb. striper; Dommesse Fulkerson and son, San Angelo, four strippers to 10½ lbs.

Bowie Kuhn. January drafts traditionally have less talent available since top high school prospects are not eligible until they graduate in June. The players eligible for this draft are high school graduates who haven't entered college, junior college players and college dropouts.

Still, recent winter drafts have produced some fine talent, with several players reaching the major leagues in a short period of time.

In the 1976 winter draft, Detroit made outfielder Steve Kemp the No. 1 selection in the regular phase. Kemp has established himself as one of baseball's finest young sluggers, powering 18 home runs and driving in 88 runs as the Tigers' starting left fielder in 1977.

"Sure, I saw it — so did the players. We knew the significance of it," said Devine.

He admitted he threw in fresh troops. He said he didn't tell them to cool it. He allowed them to play ball.

"I pulled out our best runners, Vagas Ferguson and Jerome Heavens," he said. "I substituted our second-string quarterback, Rusty Lisch. He is a good kid. He wants to win a place on the team. Naturally, he's going to do the best he can. I would expect him to."

"When you are desperately trying to score, you use your timeouts. We had all three timeouts still available when the game ended. Does that sound as if we were trying to run up a big score?"

Suppose such had been Devine's intention — could anyone have blamed him? These were not ordinary games, but final major bowls, all involving teams with national aspirations. All knew they were under the microscopes of the pollsters. Who is so naive as to believe that the voters aren't influenced by the margins of victory?

The final bowl games accented one of the refreshing characteristics of college football as contrasted with pro football. Coaches deal with impressionable young men. Players are 260-pound hunks of highly sensitive and inflammable fibre.

Arkansas, Notre Dame and Washington — all 10 to 18-point underdogs — proved that if you want hard enough, you can traffic in miracles.

Coach Barry Switzer of Oklahoma recognized this when he sent his No. 2 Sooners against Arkansas in the Orange Bowl night game at Miami, having seen Notre Dame's and Alabama's smashing scores.

"To be No. 1, we've got to win big," he commented. Instead he lost it, beaten 31-6 by the Razorbacks, an 18-point underdog. It's doubtful that Alabama's Bear Bryant pulled any punches.

The polls have turned "mercy" on the football field into an archaic word. There was some criticism when Pittsburgh smothered Temple this season 76-0, LSU beat Rice 77-0 and Texas beat Rice 72-0. One must remember that even subs can be fired by desire. So how do you hold down a score without fixing the game?

Jesse Griffin recipient of Howard Co. award

Jesse Fred Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Griffin, of Coahoma, was recently chosen as the recipient of the Howard County Merit Scholarship 1977-78. Under the terms of this scholarship, it is awarded for four consecutive years (8 semesters) and is payable at the rate of $150 per semester. The scholarship is valid only at a participating college in the Permian Basin area which includes Howard College and UTPB.

JESSE GRIFFIN

The Howard County Merit Scholarship is under the auspices of the Permian Merit Scholarship Program which was established in 1976 as an idea of Conrad Dunagan of Monahans, when he convinced a group of people living in and doing business in the Permian Basin area of western Texas and eastern New Mexico that some effort should be made to award scholarships to the academically talented students who were graduating from area high schools and who wished to remain in the Permian Basin area while pursuing their higher education. It was decided that a pilot program be tried in eight different counties of the Permian Basin: Andrews, Crane, Ector, Gaines, Howard, Midland, Ward and Winkler.

In July 1977 it became apparent a formal organization was needed and after a series of meetings were held during the summer of 1977, the Permian Merit Scholarship Foundation was incorporated to become a non-profit organization "to identify outstanding potential graduates of Permian Basin area high schools and to grant four-year scholarships to the most able among them who want to remain in the Permian Basin while pursuing a college career."

Applications for these scholarships may be made by high school seniors by April 1 of their senior year. Application forms may be picked up and returned completed to the high school counselor. A committee of business and college officials studied applications submitted through the area high school counselors and made their award based on the student's high school grades, class rank, and college entrance exam scores.

Jesse graduated from Coahoma High School in May 1977 where he maintained a grade point average of all high school grade of 92.9 while being actively involved in a wide range of student activities. He was a member and vice-president of the National Honor Society, a member of the

Ridin' fence — The colonel's secretary

with Marj Carpenter

Colonels come and colonels go, but Tommie Bryans is still in the office. She was primarily a base commander's secretary, but for many years was a hospital commander's secretary.

She also, as a young high school girl in Wichita Falls in 1940, was a member of the cast in the first military show ever held at Sheppard AFB in a production called "Whacky Khaki."

She was in Wichita Falls because her parents had sent her there from Nocona where she was raised on a ranch to attend the Mary Immaculate Academy School. "I was Methodist, not Catholic, but going to school there was easier than riding a bus, and it was a good school," she recalled.

She next moved to the Lamesa area with her mother where her stepfather was towing gliders for glider pilots during World War II. She married William Bryans while living there and her husband at that time was a cadet for the Army Air Corps at Cimarron Field in secretary for ten colonels Oklahoma.

"We lived in Air Corps towns such as Orlando, Fla. where he was a test pilot and ended up in Maxwell, Ala. at the war's end," she recalled.

"We spent our first Christmas as a married couple in an attic in Coffeeville, Kans.," she recalled. She said, "During World War II, Army Air Corps wives didn't have all the advantages they have now. Nobody found us housing. We found our own — in any alley or attic you could find," she laughed.

They joined up in the civil service after the war and began working at Randolph AFB where she started as a clerk typist.

She was later secretary for the hospital commander at Carswell AFB in Fort Worth and then she and William transferred to Webb AFB in 1960. He was head of Civilian Personnel. She was secretary for the hospital commander, Col. Robert Weimer. He is now retired and living in California.

From then on, she has served as secretary for a series of base commanders, including her job as secretary for Col. Ron Miller, currently commander at Webb AFB in its caretaker status.

After Col. Weimer, she accepted her first position as base commander's secretary under Col. George Franks, who is retired and lives in Austin. She then served under Col. Chandler B. Estes, retired and living in Columbia, S.C. She then served under Col. John Grow, who later retired in Japan and lives in Idaho.

She next worked under Col. Al Schultz, retired later at Chanute and living in Tennessee. She was then secretary for Col. Robert Mesenheimer, now stationed at Patrick AFB in Florida.

She next served under Col. Robert Broadman who is assigned to the Air Training Command at Randolph.

She was secretary for him the day he had the heart attack while en route to the Webb AFB Hospital for a checkup.

She next worked for Col. Jerry Grimes, who is now stationed in Newbruck AFB in Germany.

Her husband has already transferred to Goodfellow AFB and comes home on weekends. "We're not sure what we'll do next. I'll stay with this job until the entire military portion of the base is closed down," she added.

Tommie is Air Force oriented and probably has forgotten more about the Air Force than most people ever knew.

She's a Texan and loves it here in Big Spring and has enjoyed her years here.

Tommie Bryans, the colonel's secretary, has spent lots of days out by Webb's fence.

TRA future talk topic

Outlook for the Food Service Industry for the '80s including reshaping the future of the Texas Restaurant Association and the Permian Basin TRA Chapter will be outlined in Speaking at a meeting of the Permian Basin Restaurant Association will be W. H. "Buckshot" Price, TRA executive vice president from Austin.

The dinner meeting will be held at the Hilton Inn in Midland beginning at 7:00 p.m. Reservations may be made with chapter president Sherman Cox at 366-2496, Odessa; or Midland, Herb Blankenship at 683-4922, or Bill Brown at 563-0860.

Price, under whose dynamic leadership the Texas Restaurant Association has grown to a record 5,400 members in 21 regional chapters covering the state, will also meet with the officers and directors of the Permian Basin Chapter on Tuesday afternoon prior to the dinner. He will be seeking suggestions on a broader scope of Association activities and services to the membership in "Reshaping the Future of TRA."

Price says Permian Basin viewpoints and recommendations will be sought as to the future restructuring of TRA, new programs and services, present and future goals and what costs, if any, would be involved in expanding the scope of TRA activities throughout Texas.

The TRA executive vice president directs a 23-member staff at the association's million dollar headquarters in Austin and sub-offices in Dallas and Houston. He is a past president of both the International Society of Restaurant Association Executives (ISRAE) and the Texas Society of Association Executives (TSAE), and recently was elected a Life Director of the Texas Tourist Council.

On Beal's Creek Engineers may drop project

The Army Corps of Engineers may drop the Beals Creek Project, according to Pilar Pena, chief of the General Planning Section of the Corps' Fort Worth branch.

"We will meet with city sponsors on Wednesday to inform them that our initial findings show that the project is marginal at best," said Pena.

The Beals Creek Project was conceived in the '60s and has undergone consideration and revision ever since. Even if the project were given the go-ahead, its starting date would be at least five years distant.

According to Pena, the meeting 11 a.m. Wednesday is an "informal get-together" with city officials to present the Corps' preliminary findings on the project.

"At this point the project seems unfeasible. But this meeting is standard operating procedure whether our findings are favorable or not. We will ask for further information from the city and the general public, and that information could change the results of our final findings," said Pena.

He will be accompanied by Big Spring by D.L. Mills, chief of the planning branch for the Corps' Fort Worth District.

Following the meeting with city officials, a brief summary report will be prepared for the general public. After this report is published, the public will have 90 days to submit information that might be relevant to the findings by the Corps.

The report will be published no later than February, according to Pena.

During that 90-day period the Corps may hold a public meeting here, but that will be up to the discretion of the Corps officials, he explained.

Once the information has been gathered, all will be incorporated in the final report by the Fort Worth Branch. The report will then be sent to Dallas, and will follow the chain of command up to the chief engineer and Secretary of the Army in Washington, D.C., for final consideration.

V.A. Hospital sixth floor helps handicapped to help themselves

By EILEEN MCGUIRE

Serving 57 Texas counties and two in New Mexico, the Big Spring Veteran's Administration Hospital began offering a new service to patients when the 6th floor was converted from a psychiatric ward to a Nursing Home Care Unit in June, 1976.

Two years later, Chief of Voluntary Services and Public Relations Dene Sheppard reports that the ward is proving to be highly successful in achieving its purpose which is, according to Supervisor of Nurses Dorothy Paynes, "to rehabilitate the patient to his or her highest potential so that the patient is ready to move on."

"I do not like the term 'rehabilitate,' said Ms. Paynes. 'It's impossible to rehabilitate (restore to former capacity) these patients, but we can rehabilitate them so that they can learn to live and function despite their handicaps.'

After phasing out the former psychiatric ward, the ward was completely remodeled to provide a sunny, homelike atmosphere for patients and equipped to enable handicapped occupants to do as much for themselves as they possibly could.

Visitors to the 6th floor are greeted with bright, cheerful colors and piped-in music. In addition to the double bedrooms, there is a sunporch for game-playing, a TV room, kitchen and dining room and the most modern of physical therapy equipment.

Paintings and artwork of gay colors decorate the walls along with a "reality clock" in every room. The reality clock, a plastic gadget with protruding knobs, enables patients to stay aware of the month, day and date by interchanging pieces which circle the correct knob. The knobs are reset each day by the nursing staff and patients who take on the project.

According to John Webb, social worker for the Nursing Home Care Unit, the clocks are part of the Reality Orientation Program, a 24-hour-a-day strategy to help confused patients become aware of what's happening here and now.

To aid the physically handicapped and encourage independency, rooms are lined with handrails, doors are widened for wheel chairs, and furniture and equipment, such as the patient's telephone and drinking fountain, are lowered for easy access.

Bedrooms are arranged so that the wheelchair patient can reach everything with minimal movement and beds are lowered so that the wheelchair patient can get in and out with little or no assistance.

When the patient is ill, however, the beds raise to a level that makes it easy for nurses to care for him.

Bedrooms are furnished with a special kind of chair for the geriatric patient. Not a rocking chair, the high-backed, stuffed chairs rock slightly forward to give the older patient a little boost when he attempts to stand.

Bathrooms are also geared to the wheelchair patient which make, up three-fourths of all 6th floor patients. Wide doors, low toilets, handrails and sinks fashioned with pipes flat against the wall and out of the way allows for self-care and independency.

In many ways, the V.A. Hospital's 6th floor resembles a nursing home, but with one distinct difference. That difference, Ms. Sheppard pointed out, is the habilitation program. The patients on the 6th floor are not sent there to die; rather, they are sent there to learn how to live.

In order for a patient to be admitted to the Nursing Home Care Unit, disabled veterans are screened through a committee, Ms. Paynes explained.

"If the patient is not medically acute and the committee feels that we can help him," she said, "he's admitted to the 6th floor. It depends on the individual. If the potential is there, we take him and work with him."

There is no age limit for the 6th floor. Currently, ages range from 41 to 92 and 33 of the 40 beds are filled. By Monday, the number of patients will increase by three when those out on passes return. The group of patients currently being habilitated includes one female.

According to Ms. Sheppard, the program is successful because of what she called the "team approach." The program and placement of each individual patient is a decision made by the whole "team" which consists of the nursing staff, social worker, minister and the patient's family, if any.

When the patient and nursing staff feel that a patient is ready, he may begin "testing" his capacity for self-care and independency through 24-hour to 30-day passes.

"First, he may go home for a week, then two, then three, until he and the nursing staff feel that he is ready to care for himself on a permanent basis," said Ms. Paynes. "It's a mutual decision between the staff and the patient."

Where the patient goes on his pass, depends on his capabilities. For many, it means going home to test their abilities to live by themselves and care for themselves. When the testing is over, the patient may be discharged to go home or on to another facility, such as a nursing home, depending on how much progress he was able to make.

"The program is very successful," Ms. Paynes said. "Within the last two months, we've admitted 24 new patients. The patients stay only until they're ready to move on."

Ms. Sheppard, Ms. Paynes and Webb all agreed that the reason the program is so successful is a combination of the patients wanting to help themselves and a nursing staff that really cares what happens to them.

"The nursing staff is an extension of the patient's family," Ms. Paynes pointed out. "Everyone up here is like family. Every nurse that works on this floor is here because she volunteered for this floor. They're here because they really want to help these people."

The daily routine for each patient varies, depending on what program is selected for him. Meals are served at regular times and each patient is scheduled for a whirlpool bath in the century tub twice a week. From 8 a.m. to 11:30 and 1 p.m. to 3, the patients are occupied with their individual therapy programs.

Therapy includes physical therapy, occupational therapy and corrective therapy which involves exercise, physical education and reconditioning activities.

"The entire program is geared to getting the whole person ready to move on," Ms. Paynes said. "Street clothing is encouraged and the routine is flexible. We have an open door policy. Patients' families are free to visit and some spend entire days helping to care for the patient. The patients share a telephone which they are free to use and we have two right now who help push wheelchair patients for a couple of hours each day for pay. It makes them feel proud and they're growing from their experiences of helping others."

Volunteers play a big part in the Nursing Home Care program, Ms. Sheppard pointed out.

"We use a lot of volunteers. One church group plans a birthday party for all patients celebrating a birthday that month and we also depend on volunteers for church services, bingo, ice cream socials, visiting, letter writing and we've even had a dance."

"Our biggest need and the best way the community could help us right now would be by volunteering services for daytime escort. From 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., patients are in need of being escorted to their various activities. Also, some outside activities, such as a fishing trip, would be wonderful for the patients."

Ms. Sheppard said that nearly all of their entertainment equipment had been donated by volunteers and organizations. The ward is looking forward to a large-screen television they'll soon be getting which will enable more than just four or five wheelchair patients to view.

"Youth groups, such as the one that comes in from Garden City, are especially welcome because contact between the ages is so good for the patient," she said.

The 6th floor also welcomes tours made by groups and organizations as it helps to establish a relationship between the V.A. Hospital and the community which it serves. Ms.

Sheppard pointed out that the area that the V.A. Hospital serves includes 140,000 potential veterans.

Webb, social worker at the V.A. Hospital for the past year and a half, believes that the Big Spring V.A. Hospital gives the best care that he has seen in any V.A. Hospital. Employed as a social worker in private institutions for five years before coming to Big Spring, Webb feels that the treatment and care that patients get at the V.A. Hospital, paid for by the government, surpasses that of expensive, private nursing homes.

With the goal of independent living always in mind, Webb is the instigator of the Reality Orientation Program as well as a go-between for patients and their families.

Dr. Frances M. Graham, psychologist at the V.A. Hospital for the past year, explained that patients are primarily admitted to the hospital for medical reasons or surgery and if a habilitation potential is discovered, they may be screened and transferred to the 6th floor. His role at the hospital is to help maximize habilitation potential and he sees any patient at the hospital when the patient is referred to him by a doctor.

"This V.A. Hospital is one of the finest in the country," said Graham who spent his internship at V.A. Hospitals. "Our staff is both dedicated and professional."

Clyde Strong, patient at the V.A. Hospital since July, was admitted to the Nursing Home Care Unit in November. A retired construction foreman for an electric company in El Paso, Strong's wife rents an apartment in Big Spring to be near her husband while still retaining their home in El Paso. She spends nearly every day, from 10 a.m. till bedtime, with her husband in the relaxed, homelike atmosphere of the 6th floor. "It's not like a hospital up here," she said. "It doesn't feel like a hospital. It feels like home, and that makes all the difference to us."

KEEPING UP WITH TIME — R.R. McKinney demonstrates use of the "Reality Clock" which decorates the walls of every room on the 6th floor. The clock is part of the Reality Orientation Program instituted on this special ward to aid patients in becoming aware of what's happening here and now.

JUST THE RIGHT SIZE — Chief of Voluntary Services and Public Relations Dene Sheppard assists Sherman Hasty in looking up a telephone number. The low height and availability of the phone encourages patients to do for themselves. A Charlie Brown poster on one of the walls of this hall says it all: "You helped us... May we help you?"

MAIL EARLY — warns the notice of collection hours on the patients' mail chute. In many institutions, mail is collected and taken care of by officials, but on this unit, self-sufficiency is stressed and that goes for mailing letters, too. Like most of the 6th floor facilities, the mail chute is purposely lowered at a height designed to help wheelchair patients help themselves as George Roach demonstrates.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward visit New Mexico after wedding

Kathy Rae Haught and Ray Ward were joined in marriage in a double-ring ceremony at 7 p.m., Dec. 16 in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David R. Haught, Fort Stockton.

Harold Durham, minister of the Church of Christ, officiated at the ceremony, which was performed before a fireplace in the family room of the home. Ten lighted white tapers, entwined with greenery, lined the mantle, and arrangements of bronze chrysanthemums and white carnations flanked each side of the fireplace on the hearth. A lighted eternity candle stood by the hearth on a pedestal table.

MRS. RAY WARD

Mrs. Fred Roper provided a medley of songs at the piano including "Twelfth of Never," "Theme from Love Story," "You Light Up My Life" and "A Time for Us."

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin H. Ward, Fort Stockton, and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David R. Haught, Fort Stockton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length pearl white jersey knit gown accented at the V-neckline with seed pearls. An inset at the empire waist was highlighted with seed pearls and was repeated at the tips of her long tapered sleeves.

A pearl tiara held her tiered veil of illusion trimmed in white lace and she carried a cascade of white rosebuds, centered with brown cymbidium orchids.

June Chancellor served her sister as matron of honor and Lonnie Thames of Big Spring served as maid of honor. They were gowned in identical dresses of beige crepe accented with matching lace and wore bronze pompoms and baby's breath in their hair. Each carried a nosegay of bronze pompoms centered with brown cymbidium orchids.

Gary Weddle was best man and groomsman was Jimmy Chancellor, brother-in-law of the bride.

Mrs. Haught was attired in a floor-length beige knit dress with an overlay of brown chiffon, and Mrs. Ward was clad in a formal yellow jersey knit dress with a matching lace coat. Each wore a corsage of brown cymbidium orchids.

At the reception in the dining room of the home, the table was laid with a brown cloth overlaid in beige lace. The bride's and the attendants' bouquets were centered on the table along with brown tapers.

Cherubs separated each tier of the three-tier wedding cake, which was decorated in beige icing and topped with the traditional bride and groom figurines. The groom's cake was shaped like a boot and decorated in shades of chocolate frosting.

Kay Haught, sister of the bride, served wedding cake and Linndy Thames served the groom's cake. Mrs. Henry Thames presided at the punch and coffee service.

In the foyer of the home, Robin Ward, sister of the groom, registered guests and distributed rice bags.

After a wedding trip to Carlsbad and Ruidoso, N.M., the couple will make their home in Fort Stockton.

As the couple departed, she was wearing a brown jumpsuit with a matching beige sweater and a corsage of brown cymbidium orchids.

On the evening prior to the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Ward hosted a rehearsal dinner in the Sands Restaurant.

For the wedding, out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thames and daughters Linndy and Lonnie of Big Spring.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Howard College. She was active in Meistersingers and was squad leader of the Goldiggers. In 1975, she was named Junior Miss Big Spring, Miss Big Spring and Miss Congeniality.

The groom is a graduate of Monahan High School and attended Angelo State University. He plans to receive his degree from Sul Ross State University next spring in wildlife management. While in high school, he was a member of the honor society and was an Eagle Scout. He served on the ASU College Program Council and was the school artist. He is a member of the SRSU Range and Wildlife Club, serving as secretary-treasurer. He is presently employed as a farmer and hunting guide.

Focus on family living

Choosing doctor takes time

By JANET ROGERS,
 County Extension Agent

To insure satisfaction in medical services, consumers need to spend as much time and energy choosing a doctor as they would in choosing a car or apartment.

doctor has a specialty, and, if so, ask if he has certification to practice his specialty.

BECAUSE DOCTOR-PATIENT communication is of major importance, arrange an office visit with these physicians, and talk with them about your expectations and needs. Expect to pay for this office visit.

Even if a doctor falls short on other considerations, place your sense of trust and confidence above all else.

PICKING A NAME out of the yellow pages may be easy, but doing some "comparison shopping" for a doctor will insure that you find a doctor who meets your needs and who is one you can communicate with.

ASK ABOUT THE doctor's office hours and how far in advance an appointment must be made.

Ask if the doctor makes house calls and what arrangements are made for after-hours coverage.

Probably the most important doctor is the family doctor, because he or she is the first to diagnose the nature and severity of a problem.

Ask what his fee is for a routine office visit, a hospital visit, a physical examination and a house call. Ask what the usual billing procedure is.

OTHER QUESTIONS to ask are these:

If necessary, the family doctor will advise seeing a specialist.

Does the doctor practice in association with other physicians? What are their specialties?

Is the office a medical arts building equipped to do chest X rays, electro-cardiogram, pap smear, throat culture, and urinalysis?

TO FIND A FAMILY doctor in a new town, get names and recommendations from your present family doctor, the local medical society, a local accredited hospital, or friends who have doctors they like.

To which hospital does the doctor admit patients? Do patients have a choice of hospitals if the doctor is affiliated with more than one?

Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Gilmore spent Christmas Eve in Monahans with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGuire. The Gilmore's daughter and husband, Floyd Griffith, of Donaldsonville were there also. Then on Christmas Day the Gilmore's and the Floyd Griffiths went on to Odessa to spend the day with the Griffith's son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Griffith.

The next step is to call the doctor's office and talk with the staff.

After questioning several doctors or their receptionists, select two or three that have qualifications and offer the kinds of services you prefer.

Mr. and Mrs. T.D. Breithaupt of Odessa came by Mrs. Breithaupt's mother's Mrs. J.H. Cardwell to get her to go to San Antonio. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Paul Garone. Mrs. Garone is the daughter of the Breithaupt's.

Plenty of Tasks For Teens To Do

DEAR ABBY: My late husband was a minister. He carried one of your columns for years and used it often for his sermons.

It was the one titled "Teenagers, go home." It's still as timely now as it was 15 years ago. I am enclosing a copy and hope you agree it's worthy of a rerun. Thank you.

MRS. CHARLES HAGEE, COLUMBIA, MO.

DEAR MRS. HAGEE: I do. And here it is:

TO THE TEENAGER WITH NOTHING TO DO
 Three teenage boys, products not of the slums but of a very good eastern suburb of Cleveland, have been found guilty of 11 burglaries. Why did they commit them? They had "nothing to do."

This case inspires us to present a message we have been saving for just such an occasion. The words were delivered by a juvenile court judge—one who speaks to young people every day. This is his message:

"Always we hear the plaintive cry of the teenager: What can we do? Where can we go? The answer is clear: Go home! Hang the storm windows, paint the woodwork, rake the leaves, mow the lawn, wash the car, learn to cook, scrub the floors, repair the sink, build a boat, get a job. Help the minister, priest or rabbi. Help the Red Cross, the Salvation Army. Visit the sick, assist the poor, study your lessons, and when you're through, and not too tired, read a book.

Your parents do not owe you entertainment. Your community does not owe you recreational facilities. The world does not owe you a living. You owe the world something. You owe the world your time and your energy and your talents so that no one will be at war, in poverty, or sick, or lonely, again.

In plain, simple words: Grow up! Quit being a crybaby. Get out of your dream world and develop a backbone, not a wishbone. Start acting like a man or woman.

You're supposed to be mature enough to accept some of the responsibility your parents have carried for years. They have nursed, protected, helped, appealed, begged, excused, tolerated and denied themselves needed comfort so that you could have every benefit. You have no right to expect them to bow to your every whim and fancy.

In heaven's name, grow up and go home!"

MRS. STEVE FRYAR

December rite unites Fryars

Christy Davidson became the bride of Steve Fryar on the evening of Dec. 30 in a ceremony at the Ozona United Methodist Church with the Rev. Larry Bailey, pastor, officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Davidson III, and Neil Fryar of Big Spring and Betty Fryar of Big Spring.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of ivory Italian chiffon and pearly Venice lace. The high-rise bodice was overlaid with Venice lace appliques over English net. A Queen Anne neckline was framed with lace and lace appliques extended over the top of the long, cascading sleeves with deep cuffs of matching lace. A softly flowing skirt was pleated in back to form a Watteau train which fell to chapel length. Her headpiece of Venice lace held the long tiered veil of illusion with lace edging the fingertip tier.

Maid of honor was Kathy Richter of Fort Worth. Matron of honor was Cindy Baize of Stamford. Sheryl Schneemann of Big Lake, Kay McMullay and Tina Dolan of Del Rio and Ann Jones of Floydada were bridesmaids.

Neil Fryar, Big Spring, served as best man. Groomsmen were Kent Shaw of McKinney, Leonard Fluitt of Poteet, Joe Scott of Big Spring, Dennis Hardman of San Saba and Perry Gamble of Big Spring.

Dan Davidson, brother of the bride; Mike Overstreet, Granbury; Joe Williamson, Iowa Park; Bobby Scott, Clyde; and Ollie Smith, Del Rio, were ushers.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Big Spring Country Club.

The bride is a 1976 graduate of Texas Tech University with a BS in agricultural economics, and the groom is a 1977 graduate of Tarleton State University with a BS in general agricultural business.

After a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nev., the couple will be at home in Big Spring, where the groom is in the farming business with his father.

Armstrong, Marvin marry at College Baptist Church

Janet Luan Armstrong and Thomas S. Marvin Jr. exchanged wedding vows Saturday evening in the College Baptist Church with the Rev. Jimmy Law, pastor of the church, officiating.

Parents of the couple are R.C. Armstrong, 2706 Lynn, T.S. Marvin, Sand Spring, and Faye Marvin, Big Spring.

MRS. THOMAS MARVIN JR.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with a sunburst of yellow gladioli and mums, surrounded by spiral white papers accented by arrangements of palms.

Mrs. Jarrell Barbee provided music at the organ. Emily Boyd and Jay Phinney were vocalists.

The bride was attired in a formal-length gown of white organza fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline and bodice of Val lace. The full-length skirt swept into a chapel-length train. A deep ruffle of lace formed the hemline of the skirt and train. The headpiece was a small cap of matching lace holding a walking-length, lace-edged veil of illusion.

David Armstrong, brother of the bride, and Shelby Marvin, brother of the bridegroom, were candlelighters.

Patty Webb presided at the guest registry.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and is attending Howard College. She is employed at the Howard College Computer Center. The bridegroom is a graduate of Coahoma High School. The couple will reside at 307 Edwards.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white carnations, yellow sweetheart roses and English ivy surrounded by bridal lace.

Jimmy Campbell, Coahoma, served as best man. Groomsmen were Edwin Dickson, Big Spring and Tim Greenfield, Coahoma. Ushers were Robert Spiller and Danny Tucker, Coahoma.

A reception honoring the couple was held in the activities building of the church following the ceremony. The wedding cake was three-tiered, heart-shaped and decorated with tiny yellow and green flowers. The bride's table was draped with a white cloth, overlaid with white lace. The centerpiece was a five-tapered candelabrum. Crystal and silver appointments were used.

But my parents don't feel I'm responsible to go out with my friends during the day or in the evening. I could never go out with a boy.

When I ask them why, they just say I've got too much freedom already. I need to see my friends and I do need a little freedom. What can I do to convince them that I am responsible?

Jackie, San Diego, Calif. Dear Jackie: Some parents never realize that they are doing harm by being too strict and in your case I agree that you need some degree of freedom.

Get someone to go to your aid. Usually your best friend here would be a trusted teacher, counselor or school administrator. Explain your situation and ask if they would talk to your parents.

It seems to work better if they would come to your house rather than having them go to the school. Sometimes your clergyman or a relative can help.

Posters, labels would warn against hair dye

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beauty parlor customers may soon find posters warning that the dye they are about to color their hair with may also cause cancer.

The federal government on Wednesday proposed regulations requiring the posters as part of a plan to warn consumers about the possible cancer-causing effects of a chemical in most permanent hair dyes.

The Food and Drug Administration, which announced the plan, is prohibited under a special provision of the 40-year-old Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act from banning so-called coal tar hair dyes. The suspect chemical is a coal tar derivative.

The FDA proposed requiring cancer warnings on the labels of hair dyes containing the chemical 4-methoxy-mphenylenediamine or its sulfate and in the beauty salon posters following the National Cancer Institute's finding that the chemical caused cancer when fed to laboratory rats and mice.

Leslie Dach of the Environmental Defense Fund said the largest manufacturers of the dyes are Clairol in the United States and Cosmair in Europe. Clairol is a division of Bristol-Myers Co., and Cosmair manufactures L'Oreal products.

The FDA proposal won't go into effect for at least six months.

Until then, consumers who buy permanent hair dyes in drugstores or other retail outlets can identify the suspect chemical among the ingredients required on the label. It would be listed as 4-methoxy-mphenylenediamine or its sulfate or as 2,4-diaminoinosole or its sulfate.

The label would say: "Warning — Contains an ingredient that can penetrate your skin and has been determined to cause cancer in laboratory animals."

The posters that hair dye manufacturers would be required to give beauty parlors would have to be at least 11 inches by 14 inches.

Under the heading "Hair Dye Notice," the posters would say: "Some hair dyes contain ingredients which may cause cancer. These hair dyes are required to bear a label warning. Ask to see the label of the product intended for your hair."

A spokeswoman for the cosmetics industry denounced the FDA proposal, saying, "There is no basis for this kind of governmental action."

An estimated 30 million men and women in the United States use permanent hair dyes.

TWEEN 12 AND 20 with BOB WALLACE Not a sermon — just some darn good advice

Copley News Service

Dr. Wallace:
I hope you can help me. I'm a good-looking guy 18 years old who stands 6-foot-1-inch and weighs 218 pounds.

Dr. Wallace:
My girl friend and I are going with two brothers (twins). In fact, we live with them. We want to get married but we think the boys are afraid because so many marriages end in divorces. We're 18 and the guys are 23. Please tell us what we should do?

By the way, I'm 6 months pregnant.

Jeana, Goshen, Ind.

Dear Jeana:
I would like to preach to you, but I won't.

Ask your boyfriend what his plans for the future are. If you are not a major part — leave him, then decide what's best for your baby.

Tell your girl friend the same thing only make sure she is not using the same type of birth control methods that you were using.

Dr. Wallace:
I'm a 15-year-old girl and my biggest problem is my parents. My responsibilities are cleaning the house, cooking dinner and watching my younger sister.

But my parents don't feel I'm responsible to go out with my friends during the day or in the evening. I could never go out with a boy.

When I ask them why, they just say I've got too much freedom already. I need to see my friends and I do need a little freedom. What can I do to convince them that I am responsible?

Jones, Tipping wed in Indiana ceremony

Janice Elaine Jones and David Michael Tipping were united in marriage Dec. 30 at 7 p.m. in the First Baptist Church, Danville, Ind., by the Rev. Ron McDugle, pastor of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben J. Jones Jr., Danville, Ind., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Delma L. Tipping, Abbott.

The couple stood before an altar adorned with spiral candelabra entwined with greenery and floral arrangements of red and white carnations accented with baby's breath and evergreens.

Vocalist Mrs. John Finley was accompanied by Mrs. Harold Harrison at the organ.

The bride chose a gown of organza overlaid with Chantilly lace on a basque bodice and a semi-flow skirt. A ruffle and Venice lace edged each long sleeve. The lace was repeated on the skirt, which flowed into a chapel-length train. A Camelot cap held a bouffant veil with Chantilly lace edging.

She carried a bouquet of red and white carnations cascading on an open Bible. The bouquet was accented with baby's breath and greenery.

Mrs. Jay Rotkin, Los Angeles, Calif., served her sister as matron of honor, and bridesmaid was Mrs. Anthony Pustejovsky, Hillsboro, sister of the groom.

Steve Tipping, Cleburne, served his brother as best man, and groomsmen was Robert Jones, Danville, brother of the bride.

Ushers were Gary, Richard and Darrell Jones, all of Danville, and all brothers of the bride.

Deborah Nunaley, Danville, was flower girl, and ring bearer was Chad Robson of Danville.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the church.

The bride is a graduate of Danville High School and Hardin-Simmons University.

Abilene She is presently a speech therapist for Big Spring Independent School District. The groom is a graduate of Blooming Grove High School in Blooming Grove and attended Navarro Junior College, Corsicana. He is a graduate of East Texas State University, Commerce, and is presently employed as a teacher and coach at Goliad Junior High School, Big Spring. After visiting scenic spots in Indiana, Missouri and Oklahoma, the couple is at home at 2401 Marcy Drive No. 105.

Low estimate means little

CHICAGO (AP) — Choosing the moving company with the lowest estimate is a common and costly mistake, warns the National Institute of Certified Moving Consultants.

Moving estimates are not bids, as some people believe, the group points out. Actual costs are determined by the weight of the household goods and additional services provided by the moving company.

If one estimate is far below the others, compare the estimated weights to see if all your belongings to be shipped are included. Also check packing and carton charges against other estimates. A good estimate should come within 10 percent of the actual cost of your move, the institute says.

MRS. HENRY CURRIE

Kilpatrick, Currie exchange wedding vows

Denise Marie Kilpatrick and Henry E. Currie were united in marriage at 10 Saturday morning in the First Presbyterian Church by the Rev. Gage Lloyd.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B.J. Kilpatrick, 1401 Robin, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Currie, 903 Dallas.

The couple stood before an altar adorned with baskets of red poinsettias.

The bride wore a purple gown and carried a bouquet of purple carnations. The couple will make their home in Big Spring after a wedding trip to the Dallas and Fort Worth area.

Republican Women elect new leader

Mrs. Clyde (Jane) Thomas was elected new president of the West Texas Republican Women when they met at noon Thursday at the La Posada Restaurant.

Other new officers are Mrs. Wallace (Carol) Hunter, vice president; Mrs. Louis (Lou Ann) Stallings, secretary and Mrs. John (Donna) Fish, treasurer.

Mrs. Winston (Betty) Wrinkle presided and called for a nominating committee report from Mrs. Floyd (Polly) Mays and Mrs. Lamar (Joyce) Green.

Mrs. Bill (Dene) Shepard, legislative chairman, urged members to write letters to their representatives and senators, concerning such matters as the keeping of the right to work law and gas deregulation.

Nile-inspired makeup 'for evenings only'

Egyptian fashions will be the inspiration for a new kind of face makeup that will be darker, perhaps, and emphasize the lips, eyes and cheekbones.

"It is not a street makeup or one you would wear to business, however," emphasizes makeup expert Taylor Reynolds, a former portrait artist. "It is strictly for evening."

To achieve a dazzling look, Reynolds uses a makeup foundation "that is darker than most women would want to wear unless they have a deep tan," but lighter makeup may also provide a pretty effect "if emphasis is put on the lips, eyes and cheekbones," the areas the Egyptians emphasized. As an artist he is always interested in the use of makeup to enhance natural bone structure.

"Even small eyes can look larger by widening the space between the base of the eyelashes and the brow. Eyebrows may be too heavy and should be thinned out underneath, never above where you would disturb the natural arch. But don't tweeze the brows to a thin line — it isn't stylish," Reynolds advises.

Circles under eyes can be helped by a concealer, a tone lighter than the foundation, but avoid brown or earth tones about the eyes if there are dark circles or brown eyelids.

"For evening, the eyes should be surrounded by color. A liner can be extended at the corner of the eye and a cream shadow applied under the lashes with a brush, blending it into the lashes with your fingertips." If lashes are needed, they should be worn, "no amount of mascara can alter the no-lash look."

One of his typical eye makeups goes like this: apply a dark wood smoke-grey color on the lid, extending it at the corner, use wild plum shadow at the contour of the lid where the eyeball fits into the socket and makes a crease when the eye is opened. He blends both, extending them to the outer corner of the eye, about one-eighth of an inch. On the inner corner of the lid he uses a meadow green and on the brow a shimmering "no color" fawn highlighter. He is "inclined to coordinate shadow with clothes," and he has only one rule about shadow: blue-eyed girls should not wear blue eye-shadow. It distracts.

Lips should have a lacquered, almost moist look with the lower lip emphasized with a lip balm after it is sculpted in color. He uses a dark plum color to outline the lips with a brush. Then he fills it in with a blackberry color, a dramatic effect that betrays the image of Nefertiti admirers.

"Makeup should be set with loose powder. Encapsulated moisturizers in some powders give a soft glow to the skin. I apply it with its paddle puff using one side for application, the other for buffing," he said.

"For sculptural effects on the face, I use two tones of blusher. I put a rose glow blush just below the temple, bringing it downward to the cheek bone, stopping two-and-a-half fingers' width from the nose. Most of the color ginger glow is concentrated in the natural hollow, and a real highlighter is used on top of the cheekbone to further enhance the sculpted appearance. Used down the center of the nose, the same high lighter gives a classic chiseled look."

Choose foundation that is close to the skin tone so there will be no color line at the neck. Makeup should not be used on the neck unless there is scarring or pigmentation, he advises.

But there is less need for that advice in these times, he commented. In his tours about the United States he has observed that women are becoming clever in the use of makeup.

At seminars he conducts, the number one question from his audience is: How can I get rid of bags under my eyes? In his opinion seven out of 10 women have water retention in that area, and a frequent suggestion is to see a doctor.

Clubhouse

Chapter plans 11th birthday

Alpha Beta Omicron met at 7 p.m., Jan. 3, at the home of Marion Washburn. All members were present and each told how she spent New Year's Eve.

In honor of the chapter's 11th birthday, Alpha Beta Omicron will meet at the K.C. Steak House on Jan. 17th for an anniversary dinner.

Ways and Means Projects for 1978 were discussed and a chapter review was given.

The next meeting will be Jan. 17 at K.C. Steak House.

Moore gives away more

The Texas Star African Violet Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Bart Wilkinson for their first meeting of the year. Outgoing president, Mrs. A.C. Moore, presided.

New officers were elected and they are Peggy Rogers, president; Mrs. C.Y. Clinkscales, vice president; Doris Guy, secretary; Reba Baker, treasurer.

Mrs. Lavelle Hill presented a program on "Demons in Your African Violet Collection." The presentation included a 25-question quiz on insects and other factors detrimental to the health of African violets.

The club will be assisting Mrs. Moore again this Sunday in giving away her

Hairdryers need labels

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission says it will ask an independent testing organization to develop flame and overheating warning labels for hand-held hair dryers rather than set a new federal standard.

One member of the commission said she would go further, requiring a warning label to consumers about possible shock hazards if the dryers are immersed.

"The thing that concerns me is that sales of this product are going up very rapidly, some people use them every day, and people tend to get careless," said commission member Barbara Franklin. "People seem to store hair dryers near the tub."

The commission on Thursday denied petitions to set a flaming and overheating standard for the dryers.

The commissioners said Underwriters Laboratories, a testing center, had made significant steps to reduce the hazards. But they asked UL to develop stronger labeling about correct use to prevent the smoking, flaming and overheating problems.

Ms. Franklin said she would write UL separately, urging them to put stronger and more conspicuous labels on hair dryers dealing with the possibility of shocks.

African violets. Due to health reasons, Mrs. Moore is going out of business and wishes for all of her friends to come by her home at 1907 Main from 2 to 4 p.m. to pick up a complimentary African violet.

A letter was read from the Potton House Committee in which was stated a desire for club meetings to be held in the Potton Home in the near future.

The next meeting will be Feb. 2, 7 p.m., at the home of Mrs. H.B. Crocker, 1707 Benton. Mrs. Moore will present a program on propagating African violets.

Landscaping discussed

Mrs. Luke Fortenberry presided at the Wednesday meeting of the Planter's Garden Club in the absence of the president, Cass Hill.

The club met at 3:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Merle Hodnett, 1001 E. 16th.

Each member answered roll call by giving the title and author of a book she had read on landscape design.

Mrs. C.R. Moad was a new member at the meeting, and Mrs. Waymon Etchison was a guest.

Mrs. J.L. Trantham reported from the nominating committee on the slate of officers for the coming year. They are Mrs. Paul Guy, president; Mrs. C.Y. Clinkscales, vice president; Mrs. Fortenberry, secretary; Mrs. Hill, treasurer; and Mrs. A.C. Moore, council delegate.

Mrs. Hill read a letter from Mrs. Floyd Mays on the Potton House, and gave the program on landscaping.

She said that landscape design is the fine art of developing land for use and beauty and is governed by the same principles of design which apply in the other arts.

Balance, dominance, contrast, rhythm, proportion and scale must all be carefully considered in landscaping the home.

Plants used under windows must be low-growing, she said, and in choosing plants for an outside corner, one should measure the distance from the ground to the eaves and select plants which are slightly less than half this height when mature.

Club looks at violence

Ruth Morton, chairman of the Family Life Committee of the Elbow Home Demonstration Club, led a discussion on violence at their meeting Thursday morning.

The club met in the home of Sue Holguin.

She stated that anger is the beginning of most family violence. Experiencing violence while growing up is a cause of violent behavior as an adult.

She said that there are some family service organizations to which one can go for help.

The devotional was given by Laprecia Adams from Psalms 62.

Some members will work at the stock show concessions Jan. 12, while others will send pies and brownies.

It was announced that a leader's meeting on over-the-counter drugs would take place at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Home Demonstration Office at the courthouse.

Flo Nobles was a visitor and also won the door prize. The next meeting will be a luncheon and book review in the home of Mrs. L.Z. Rhodes Jan. 19.

Burns 80, hasn't peaked

(AP WIREPHOTO)

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This Sunday, George Burns, 80, continues his show biz career doing gags and a soft-shoe number with a young guest on Hope's vaudeville show on NBC. But next April, Burns may go back to school, which he left in the fourth grade to start his career singing with the Peewee Quartet in his native New York.

He says he's considering an offer to lecture at Harvard. "Can you imagine that?" he inquired. "I can't even spell Harvard."

(An aide said it's part of a course of chats by heavyweights in film, dance, theater, music and visual arts.)

What might you lecture on, Mr. Burns?

"Call me George," the teacher said. "Well, it'd be the only thing I know: Show business. I don't get mixed up in politics. I don't talk to anybody who can't sing harmony."

Will the visiting professor, if he visits, do a routine or two?

"I might," he said. "Might also tell 'em how you build up a routine, how you start with one joke, you top it and top it again, and first thing you know, you've got a routine."

To student jokesmiths, he offered this:

"I've been mixed up with writers all my life and the most important thing for a writer is to find the first thought, the first idea. You get a good thought, the thing writes itself."

He paused briefly. "That's the kind of great stuff I'm going to tell 'em," he warned, kidding the act he may put on at one of the nation's top hatcheries of thought and study.

Burns, who turns 81 on Jan. 20, has been busy with other acts of late, including the touting of his new hit movie, "Oh, God."

Its the only other city in national TV

Country producer likes Nashville

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Producer Joe Cates began his TV career in New York in 1947 with a show called "When You Wish Upon a Star." He was born in New York, still lives there and says he likes the place.

But such is the nature of TV today he rarely does a show in what used to be the navel of network production. He tends to spend considerable time in Nashville, Tenn., these days.

He produced Johnny Cash's CBS Christmas special there. He and his brother, Gil, recently produced another Nashville show, another tribute to the late Elvis Presley that NBC will air Sunday. And this week, he returned to Nashville's new Opryland complex to tape yet another downhome musicale for NBC, "50 Years of Country Music," a three-hour extravaganza airing Jan. 22.

Next spring, it's Nashville again for another Cash special. Cates, 53, a specialist in specials, was asked if he suspects Nashville has become a pretty big center of production for network TV.

"I wouldn't say pretty big," he said by phone from New York. "Los Angeles still clearly is the leader, followed by New York only because news, sports, soap operas and a few oddball things come out of there.

"But the only other city in the U.S. that is doing (national) television regularly is Nashville, not the old radio centers like Chicago or Detroit." He offered a few theories why.

"Obviously, there's a concentration of country music stars living there," he said. "And country music has become national."

"So many of these people are crossover" — not limited to country music fans in appeal — "and are of national interest."

"A third reason is that they very wisely built a major studio facility there."

Preschool books feature pictures instead of words

By ANNE SMART, Children's Librarian

Many parents wonder what books are appropriate for their pre-school child. Usually, the parent reads the story to the child and together they look at the pictures. Often, the child will disregard the text and make up stories based solely on the illustrations.

Currently there are a number of picture books without words. Any preschool child can "read" these books with or without parents and gain an appreciation of reading and learn how to handle books with care. There are a number of these books without words at the Howard County Library.

"A Birthday Wish" by Ed Emberley relates the round about way in which the birthday wish of a small mouse is granted during his birthday party. The illustrations are charming and colorful and there are a few words on the very last page.

Fernando Krahn has created several books without words. His newest is "The Mystery of the Giant Footprints" in which children and their anxious parents follow the trail of some suspicious giant footprints. The illustrations are in soft pencil.

Mercer Mayer also specializes in stories without words. In "Hiccups" Mr. Hippo tries to cure his love of hiccups only to catch them himself. His illustrations are tiny pen and ink drawings. In "The Bear & The Fly" by Paula Winter, Father Bear tries to kill a pesky fly but succeeds in hurting Mother and Baby Bear and wrecking his kitchen instead.

"Albert B. Cub and Zebra" by Anne Rockwell is the most difficult of the books without words. It is an alphabet book, a story book without words, a puzzle and a mystery. It is about the adventures of Albert B. Cub as he tries to find the culprits who abducted his beloved Zebra. On each page the reader may find as many objects as possible beginning with the designated letter. The full written story is at the end.

These and many other fine picture books may be found at the Howard County Library.

Opry welcomes Ft. Worth

Fun & a poppin' next week as Odessa is invaded by Fort Worth entertainers for "Cowtown Night" at The Odessa Brand New Opree which is held in the world famous Shakespeare replica, The Globe of the Great Southwest Showtime for the doubleheader on Jan. 14 are set for 6:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. The group will hand deliver a special proclamation from Fort Worth's mayor, Hugh Parmer, which will be accepted by the mayor of Odessa or his emissary with a return proclamation to the city of Fort Worth.

The Odessa Brand New Opree is not a jamboree — it is a beautiful stage show with four platforms for entertainers to display their talents with colored spotlights dancing on one group to another. The Globe of the Great Southwest's motto is "Only for the good, the true and the beautiful" and its clean language and shows are suitable for entire families.

Derwood Rowell, a former Odessan, coordinated the show and Bill Brewer will serve as master-of-ceremonies. Wanda Snodgrass, publicity director and acting theatre manager for the Globe books the shows.

"Tumblin' Creek" features Derwood Rowell, Stan Knowles and Eric Fruje. Rowell is cohost of Fort Worth's "Community Capsule" (Channel 11). While he was with Channel 2 television in Odessa, he worked as KOSA-TV's producer-director and produced the Larry Gatlin and Roy Orbison shows. He was also sportscaster and salesman for the station, as well as cohost of the "Hi Noon" show. Rowell and Knowles, co-owners of D.C. Sound Enterprises in Fort Worth, produce "Country Crossroads" with Leroy van Dyke, Bill Mack and Jerry Clower which is heard over 1,000 radio stations. Fruje is a seminar student and teacher for the Fort Worth Independent School District. He is a former Kentuckian with a song bursting to be sung who boasts of Cajun blood. "Tumblin' Creek" whose latest release is "ABC's of Love" backed by "Hanging On," is currently a part of the Grapevine Opry. They appeared on the "Chili and Cabrito Festival" in Stephenville last September and for the special Odessa Brand New Opree presentation for the Southern Association of Student Councils' 43rd Annual Convention which was held in the Globe with Gov. Ronald Reagan as speaker.

Bill Brewer is the featured singer with the "Bandera Express." This sixteen-year-old singing sensation is a writer for B.M.I. with hundreds of songs to his credit. He spends his time either on the road performing or in the recording studio. His record releases include "I Found It," and a country single entitled "C.B. Holt" backed by "Prison Built For Two." His latest release is "Little Toy Soldiers." "Bandera Express" is one of the toughest shows on the road. All members are studio musicians and play it all — country, progressive and rock-a-billy.

Western artists featured at U.T.

AUSTIN, Texas — "American Masters in the West," a survey of paintings made in the West from the 19th Century until the present, is a new exhibit at The University of Texas.

The paintings will remain on view through Feb. 26 in UT's Michener Gallery, located in the Harry Ransom Center at 21st and Guadalupe.

The show has been assembled from selections in the Anschutz Collection, a private collection in Denver.

Some of the artists represented in the show were those who traveled westward in the 19th Century with surveyors and census takers. Other later artists were associated with the thriving art colonies at Taos and Santa Fe. Many of the artists were not necessarily natives of the area; some had studied in Europe and in the eastern U.S.

Among widely known artists whose works are in the exhibit are Frederic Remington, Charles M. Russell, George Inness, Henry Farny, N.C. Wyeth (father of Andrew Wyeth), Frank Tenney Johnson, John Sloan, Robert Henri, Joseph Henry Sharp, Georgia O'Keeffe, Marsden Hartley, John Martin, Oscar Berninghaus, Andrew Dasbury, George Catlin, Thomas Moran and Alfred Jacob Miller.

Headquarters for Baum campaign opens Monday

The official campaign headquarters opening for Jim Baum, local candidate for Congressman, 17th District, will be held Monday at 10 a.m., corner Third and Runnels, with a ribbon-cutting ceremony by Mayor Wade Choate.

The public is invited to the event, which will begin with a prayer by the Rev. Harlan Birdwell, St. Mary's Episcopal Church, followed by brief remarks by Mayor Choate; Baum's campaign chairman Judge Lee Porter; District Judge Ralph Caton; Howard County Democratic Chairman Evan Evans and also by Baum.

Immediately following the ceremonies, Baum will begin a local door-to-door campaign in Big Spring, beginning with the Kentwood area. "Howard County has the second largest number of registered voters in the 17th Congressional District," Baum commented. "I want to emphasize to all the voters of this district that I want their support and will endeavor to bring home this emphasis with my door-to-door effort."

The remainder of the week will see Baum in his hometown of Abilene and also in Clyde, Eastland, Sweetwater and Snyder. Next week's door-to-door stops will be in Weatherford, Mineral Wells, Lorenzo, Throckmorton, Colorado

Some blood banks running in red

Some blood banks are running in the red, trying to make up for shortages that occurred during December. A blood bank's inventory can be strained because donations usually decrease in December. At the same time, needs increase due to larger numbers of traffic accidents and illnesses.

The Texas Medical Association hopes many people can overcome any uneasiness about giving blood so they can help fill the important need. The entire blood-giving procedure usually takes about 30 minutes, including getting a brief medical history from the donor. Actually drawing the blood takes approximately 10 minutes and has been refined so that there is little or no discomfort.

Most people are able to give blood about once every two months. Medical conditions can prevent some people from donating that often and some cannot give at all. Anyone who has had hepatitis anytime in his or her life cannot ever donate. People who have taken an antibiotic or certain other drugs cannot donate if he or she took the drug within 30 days of the time they want to donate. A person who has had malaria or tuberculosis symptoms within the last three years also is excluded. People who have had a baby or major surgery within the last six months cannot donate because their bodies need to keep the blood materials to build up their own bodies. People unsure about their status can call a blood bank to see if they are eligible to donate.

Mobile blood collection units also can give information and take donations. Since January is Texas Blood Donation Month, many groups will be sponsoring drives, making mobile units available or organizing trips to permanent centers to dispense information and make it easier for people to give blood.

Biggest turnover

Lobbyists on the move

By SCOTT CARPENTER
 Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN Five of the state's most powerful lobbyists won't be working for the same special interest groups next time around.

It's the biggest turnover among some of the most powerful people in Austin in anyone's memory, and rumors are strong that more "resignations" are coming. Stories about the termination of the five vary. About all that is really known is that the cases don't appear to be related.

Certainly least expected was the resignation of Jim Yancy, who has lobbied for 20 years for the Texas Association of Business and its predecessor Texas Manufacturers Association. Personality conflicts are given as a possible reason.

Cecil Rusk, who helped form the Texas Association of School Boards, left with a large severance pay after he made an effort to stay on the job.

Employees Association is looking for a new lobbyist-director after Jim Stewart and two of his assistants left. The number two lobbyist for the Texas Realtors Association, Mark Hanna, resigned his post shortly after the Realtors had one of the most successful legislative sessions. They claim they passed everything they wanted and killed all the legislation they didn't want.

The fifth major resignation is that of H.C. Pittman who has been head of the State Bar, a state agency which sponsors numerous pieces of legislation.

The Bar recently has been highly criticized for the methods it used to finance construction of its new building and for the tremendous growth in the size of the Bar staff, its functions and the dues lawyers had to vote on themselves to pay for it all. Normally there is no turnover at the major association heads after a legislative session. Changes by the smaller associations usually are due to some piece of legislation that either got passed or killed which negatively affects the business of the membership. They look for someone who can better represent them.

It would be rare if the real reasons for the resignations ever came to light, folks just don't like to talk about former longtime employees and the reasons they left.

But it is interesting to note the number, and remember that most of us thought it was an uneventful session during which the big-name lobbyists got most things their way.
