

Three county cotton farmers win $246,292 suit

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Three Howard County cotton farmers today won a $246,292 supreme court judgment that they had the right to pull out of a cotton contract in 1973, a year of soaring prices for the fiber.

Without writing a new opinion, the court said it could find "no reversible error" in a decision of the Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals.

A Lubbock jury also had ruled for the farmers — Jack Wolf, James Barr and David Barr — in their suit against Plains Cotton Cooperative Association.

The American Cotton Shippers

Association considered the case so vital that it filed a "friend of the court" brief urging the high court to enforce the cotton contracts.

According to the civil appeals opinion, the farmers agreed orally with Alvin Hill, a Vincent ginner and agent for the cooperative, to sell their crops to Plains. But when the written contract was presented, they refused to sign.

The court said Hill and a Plains official, Bert Kyle, then told the farmers they were bound anyway by their oral agreements but could escape from the contracts by giving 30 days' notice.

Wolf and the two Barrs signed the contracts in April 1973 without reading them. During the summer cotton prices rose to twice the amount stated in the contracts.

When they tried later to give 30 days' notice and get out of the contracts, Plains said there was no such escape clause. They filed suit in September to cancel the contracts, but delivered their cotton in February after Plains obtained an injunction.

The farmers then sued for the difference between the price paid by Plains under the April contracts and the market price for cotton on the date they delivered their crops to the cooperative.

Plains said the farmers were negligent in not reading the contracts. But the court of civil appeals said this did not matter.

"We have concluded that a party's own negligence should not bar him from seeking equitable relief from a contract executed in reliance upon the false representations of the other contracting party," it said.

The court said the farmers' "mistaken belief... that their cotton was already sold for the contract price (under their oral agreements)" justified canceling the contracts.

"It is our opinion that the mistakes found in this case which were brought about by misrepresentations of the defendant and its agent were ample grounds to afford the plaintiffs (the farmers) relief from the contracts which they would not have signed except for such mistake," it said.

The cotton shippers association said in its brief that Hill, the Plains agent, had told the farmers exactly what the contract said — that the escape clause applied only in case of proven "hardship."

JAMES BARR

It said the farmers merely were seeking a windfall profit at the expense of Plains, which was locked into sales contracts with textile mills at prices fixed earlier in the year.

Walter Claude Blount

Unclaimed ashes

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Walter Claude Blount — or at least the copper urn containing his ashes — resides amid the bicycles and television sets in the property room of the Fort Worth Police Department.

And mystified police have no idea what to do with him. They don't even know who he is.

A notation on the bottom of the urn says Blount died in Los Angeles on June 18, 1932, at age 59. His body was cremated at Inglewood Park Cemetery there.

Police know nothing else about him. Nor do they know why someone left Blount's ashes in a room of the now-vacant Westbrook Hotel in downtown Fort Worth.

Fort Worth policeman Joe Remza said authorities have no idea how long the urn was left at the Westbrook, which closed two years ago, or why it was left there.

"We've asked the Los Angeles police to try to trace Blount's background and determine whether he had any close relatives," said Remza. "We're hopeful that we can locate members of his family and turn over his remains to them. They should stay with the family."

A spokeswoman for the Los Angeles cemetery could provide little help in solving the mystery.

"Our records show that Mr.

Blount's ashes remained with us until May 9, 1933," she said. "Then they were claimed by an Etta Blount. Although the records don't identify her, we assume she was his widow."

"We have no way of knowing what became of her. Nor do we have other information which might help police determine whether there is anyone still alive who would want to keep the urn."

Workers found the urn as they prepared to demolish the once-opulent hotel. Uncertain what to do with Blount's ashes, they delivered them to police.

Officers duly tagged the urn and place it in the property room, then began their search for Blount's relatives.

Police noted that the Westbrook operated briefly as a retirement center before closing and speculated that Blount's widow, or another member of the family, lived there and kept the urn until either dying or becoming too ill to keep track of their property.

Suppose the effort to find a next-of-kin proves unsuccessful. What happens to the urn containing Walter Claude Blount?

"We haven't given any thought to that," said Remza. "I guess it could become a permanent fixture in the property room."

Unemployment rate drops

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate dropped from 6.9 percent to 6.4 percent in December, its lowest level in more than three years, the government reported today.

The sharp decline broke an eight-month pattern that had seen the unemployment rate bounce between 6.9 percent and 7.1 percent since last April.

Some 480,000 Americans were removed from the jobless rolls last month, leaving 6.3 million unemployed, the lowest total since the recession in late 1974.

Total employment last month rose by 410,000 to 92.6 million, continuing a steady expansion that has seen 4.1 million persons join the ranks of the employed in 1977.

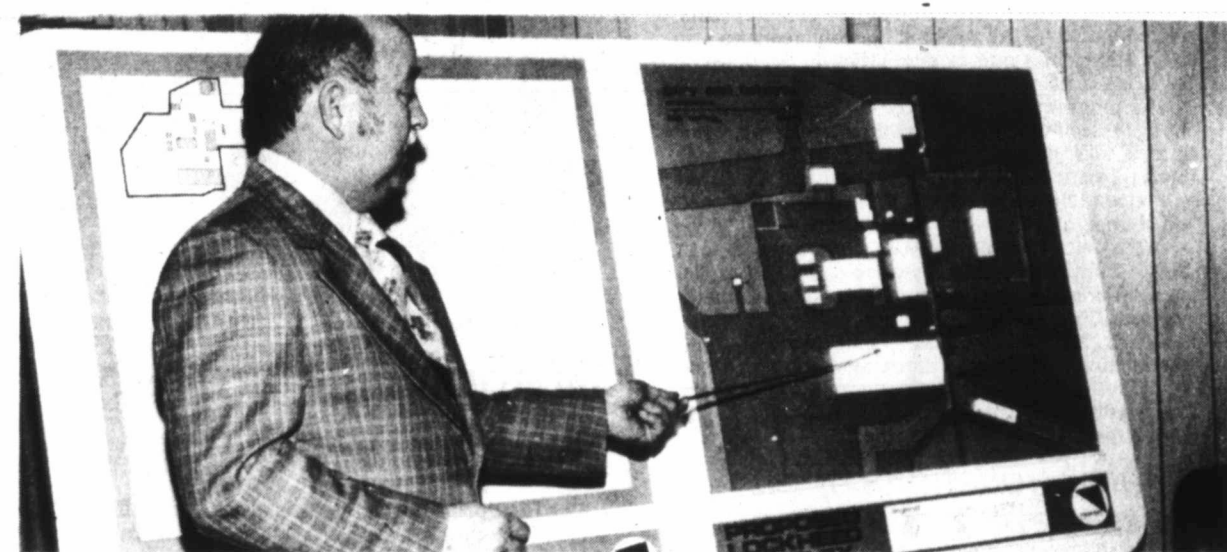

At 6.4 percent, the unemployment rate in December was nearly a full percentage point below the rate at the beginning of 1977, when 7.3 percent of the labor force was jobless.

The unemployment rate in 1977 averaged 7 percent for the year, comparing favorably with a 7.7 percent average in 1976 and an average of 8.5 percent in 1975.

The size of the drop in the jobless rate at the year's end was somewhat of a surprise to most government economists, who expected only a slight decline in the figures.

The big drop also put the jobless rate in line with President Carter's goal to reduce unemployment to the 6.5 percent range after his first year in office.

However, most economic forecasts for 1978 indicate that further declines will be slow in coming and that there may be some increase later in the year if economic growth falls off sharply. The Commerce Department predicted earlier this week that unemployment would decline only to about 6.5 percent in 1978.

PROPOSED COMPLEX — Ken Miller, project manager for Lockheed Aircraft Service Co., looks over the plans for the proposed Lockheed complex at the former Webb AFB if the contract is obtained in late March. Miller would be manager of the facility here.

For Lockheed meeting Thursday Vanguard of teams here

Lockheed officials are in Big Spring and some have already arrived from the Defense Auditing Department from Fort Worth for a pre-award survey to be held here Thursday between Lockheed officials and the Air Force.

Others are expected Thursday from Ogdan AFB in connection with the presentation. Lockheed officials will show the Air Force team a slide presentation and possibly hold a bus tour to point out local facilities available.

This is in connection with a contract bid by Lockheed which is attempting to win a defense contract to rebuild Air Force planes at the former Webb AFB facility.

According to Clyde McMahon, a member of the Big Spring Steering Committee, 19 Lockheed officials arrived here Sunday night. In the group are Ken Neudoefler, vice president of Lockheed Aircraft Service Co., Ontario, Calif.; L.L. Haderer, project management director; Ken Miller, project manager; Jack Damberger, director of marketing; Bob Bolduan, director of planning, pricing and contracts; D.L. Grindle, director of industrial relations and J.E. Conner, manager of program development.

Grindle would be in charge of staffing the plant here if the contract is obtained and Miller would be manager here.

The briefing will continue through Friday and possibly into Saturday. No official functions between city or county officials and the Lockheed and federal personnel have been planned at their request.

Fewer traffic accidents reported in Big Spring

Traffic accidents for the year in Big Spring were down by almost 300 as compared with 1976.

A total of 1,258 accidents were reported during 1977, down from 1,552 for 1976. Accidents resulting in injuries to drivers or passengers dropped from 217 to 150.

"Any time you have a reduction of almost 300 accidents, 70 fewer injuries and 100 fewer people hurt you have to be pleased," said Police Capt. Sherrill Farmer, head of traffic control.

Farmer believes that the Selective Traffic Enforcement Program (STEP) that was instituted in 1976 is responsible for the accident reduction. Under the program, officers concentrate their energies in high accident and heavy violation areas in the city.

Other statistics show that the number of persons injured in accidents dropped from 301 to 194, and the number of fatalities dropped from four to three.

Biles given prison term

STANTON — Ollie Biles, 60, of Fort Stockton, was found guilty of murder and sentenced to 15 years in the State Department of Corrections in connection with the shooting death of a Mexican national in Dec. 1976.

Biles was charged with shooting Raul Ibarra Dominguez, 29, off the top of a cotton trailer at the Farmers Co-op gin two and one half miles west of Stanton.

Part of the testimony revolved around the sanity of the defendant with Dr. James A. Hunter of Rusk State Hospital testifying as to his sanity. Biles had been a patient at that hospital since his arrest.

The defense used Dr. Roy Crimear of the Big Spring Hospital as their witness.

The jury, which included six men and six women, took about an hour and a half to determine the guilt and sanity portion of the trial and another half hour to set the sentence. The trial ended at 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Rick Hamby, district attorney, prosecuted the case with Judge Ralph Caton presiding in 118th District Courtroom in Stanton. Roy Ford was attorney for the defense.

Gunshot wound fatal to woman

Marie Stubblefield Murphy, 38, was found dead in her home by Howard County deputies Wednesday. David Murphy, her husband, called the sheriff's office at 1:34 p.m. to report the shooting. Mrs. Murphy was pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace Gus Ochotorena, who has requested an autopsy.

According to reports, Ricky Lynn Murphy, 17, told deputies that he was cleaning his .22 caliber pistol when it discharged, striking his mother in the head.

The boy was hospitalized following the incident.

An investigation is under way by the sheriff's department.

Rites are pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Mrs. John Hill to visit here

Mrs. John (Bitsy) Hill, wife of John Hill, who is a candidate for Governor of Texas, will make her third trip to Big Spring Tuesday, Jan. 17.

She will be guest of honor at a reception at the club room of Big Spring Savings and Loan at 10:15 a.m. The public is invited to come and meet Bitsy and to ask questions about the campaign, according to Bob Miller, local attorney.

Mrs. Hill will be accompanied by Mrs. Austin McCloud of Eastland, whose husband is judge of the court of civil appeals.

100 lambs, 35 steers may be entered Stock weigh-in is at 3

By CARLA WALKER

Weigh-in for stock entered in the Howard County Livestock Show officially begins at 3 p.m. today, as 4-Hers and FFA members from the county converge at the fairgrounds.

Washing and trimming of steers and lambs was the order of the day as exhibitors prepared their animals for the judging tomorrow.

According to the office of County Agricultural Agent Bruce Griffith, the lamb show will begin at 4 p.m. tomorrow, with the steer show to follow at 7 p.m.

The Premium Show will be at 7 p.m.

when exhibitors put their stock up for sale.

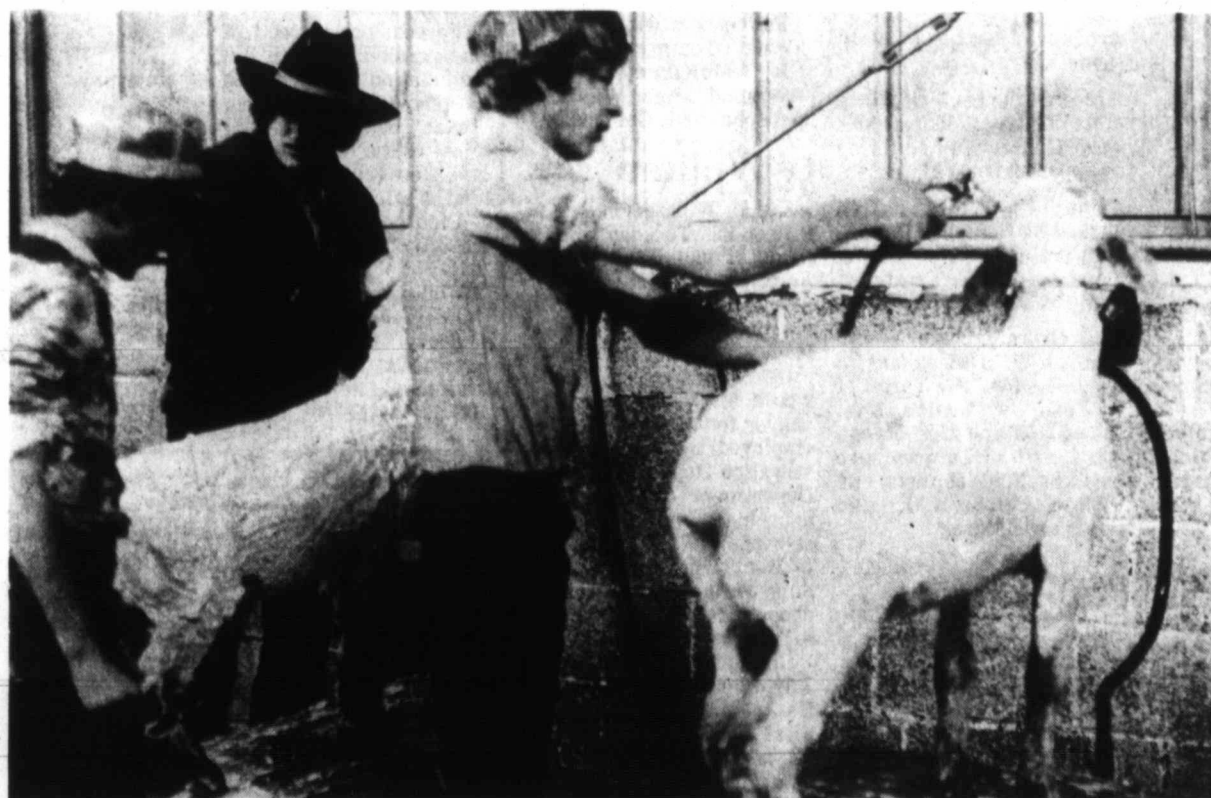

Assistant County Agent Andy Vestal said that over 100 lambs and 35 steers are expected to be entered in the show, with each exhibitor eligible to sell one lamb in the Premium sale. Approximately 25 steers and 70 lambs will make the sale, where local merchants and individuals bid on the stock to give the youth a better price for their animals.

Vestal, who is working his first show for the county, says that there has been a major change in the lamb show this year.

"Many of the larger shows are having exhibitors shear the lambs instead of doing the time-consuming blocking and clipping that used to be customary," said Vestal. "When the lamb is sheared, the judge can tell a lot more about the actual shape of the lamb, and it makes it easier on the exhibitors."

The annual Loy Acuff Award will be presented at the end of the show. This award — a $100 savings bond — is made to the top Howard County bred Hereford steer.

EVERYBODY'S WET — These two lambs weren't the only wet bodies in the cold morning temperatures, as their washers, Dwain Yarbar, 15, Kyle Bennett, 16, and Mike Hale, all from the Coahoma FFA chapter, also got wet. The fairground livestock barn was a scene of considerable activity today, as exhibitors prepared their stock for tomorrow's judging in the Howard County Livestock Show.

Offbeat: Cop charged with rape

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit police officer has been charged with raping a woman he was called to help, while his female partner slept in their patrol car.

Robert Brown, 28, pleaded innocent Tuesday at his arraignment in Detroit Recorder's Court to a charge of third-degree criminal sexual conduct.

Brown and his partner were called to the scene of an auto accident Dec. 30, police investigators said.

After taking the accident report, investigators say Brown offered to give the unidentified 21-year-old accident victim a ride to her home.

Police say Brown's female partner fell asleep during the ride and Brown escorted the woman into her home where he allegedly raped her.

Brown, a seven-year veteran of the force, has been released on personal recognizance bond. He faces a Jan. 18 court hearing.

Here's how to cut smoking?

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — The use of biofeedback techniques may be working to help teenagers in New Hampshire quit or dramatically cut down on smoking, according to early statistics.

The program, developed by the New Hampshire Lung Association, puts a trained health educator into a high school science class with electronic biofeedback machines that show pupils what smoking a cigarette does to their heart, lungs and skin temperature.

In the fall of 1977, the lung association went into 13 New Hampshire high schools where 2,500 pupils—smokers and nonsmokers—tested themselves with the electronic devices.

So far, 20 percent of the pupils have returned questionnaires on their smoking habits and the initial statistics show that 60 percent of the smokers "have either quit or cut down; almost half have quit altogether."

Sinai negotiations open

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The Egyptian and Israeli defense ministers open negotiations tonight on Israel's withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula with the fate of the Jewish settlements there the chief issue.

Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman flew from Jerusalem to Aswan today for a preliminary meeting with President Anwar Sadat before his first session with War Minister Mohammed Abdel Ghany Gamasy.

Israel's offer to return Sinai to Egypt includes continued existence of 20 Jewish settlements there, Israeli security forces to guard them and withdrawal of other Israeli soldiers in three to five years.

But Sadat has said "not a single Israeli" can remain on Arab lands and the Israeli withdrawal must be speedier.

Audit shows city is in good shape

The annual financial report for Big Spring shows that the city has $111,407 in the bank.

The report was presented by the accounting firm of Hollingsworth, Wilson, Lee, Reynolds and Company to the City Council at Tuesday's regular meeting.

The $111,407 figure is the cash balance for the city's General Fund. The Water and Sewer Fund shows a cash balance of $78,968.

"We seem to be in pretty good shape," said Harry Nagel, city manager.

Nagel then pointed out that the city will have paid off its general obligation bonds by the fiscal year 1984-1985.

Statistics also show that in the last ten years, the city's bonded debt per capita has dropped from $57 to $29.

In taking the ratio of the city's ad valorem tax revenue and its total debt, Big Spring ranks considerably lower than surrounding cities with a 3.45 ratio. Ratios for other cities included Midland, 5.36; Odessa, 4.85; Abilene, 8.54; Lubbock, 3.67 and San Angelo, 4.31.

The report shows that the city purchased 2,872,978,000 gallons of water from the Colorado River Municipal Water District during the year. Of this, 1,393,104,000 gallons were treated and pumped to customers' and 1,020,979,000 gallons were untreated and used by Cosden Oil Refinery and in city parks.

Investigations ended in two shooting cases

District Attorney Rick Hamby announced today that the Texas Ranger investigations into the deaths of Tiburcio Griego Santome and Juan Galaviz were complete and would be presented to grand juries.

"I would like to stress that any person who has information which pertains to either of these cases should come forward and contact my office," said Hamby, "but unless some new leads come up, I believe the investigations are complete."

Hamby said he hoped to present both cases to Howard County and Glasscock County grand juries in February.

"We'd like to get to them as soon as possible," the D.A. continued, "and I'd like to get them presented next month."

Santome was shot Nov. 7 by ex-deputy G.B. Thurwanger after he was arrested in St. Lawrence by Sheriff Royce Pruitt. Santome allegedly pulled a knife and assaulted Pruitt and Thurwanger as they drove him to Garden City. The investigation was handled by Texas Ranger Eddie Almond.

Galaviz was shot December 8 by Big Spring police sergeant Leroy Spires. The shooting followed a high-speed chase and an assault allegedly made by Galaviz on a local woman in the Howard College parking lot following a basketball game. The investigation was handled by Texas Rangers Dee Vickers and Charlie Hodges.

Cigarette smoking 'Slow-motion suicide'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Declaring that cigarette smoking is "slow-motion suicide," Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. today unveiled the government's most ambitious effort yet to help the nation's 54 million smokers quit the habit.

The planks of Califano's campaign include new warning labels on birth-control pills, a possible increase in the federal excise tax on cigarettes, a proposed ban on smoking in commercial aircraft and a call for smoking restrictions in all government buildings and public places.

He also announced the creation of a new Office on Smoking and Health, which will oversee the program. The campaign will be backed by $23 million in 1979, more than double the current spending level for anti-smoking programs.

Califano, a heavy smoker himself until kicking the habit in 1975, announced details of the anti-smoking program on the 14th anniversary of the now-famous surgeon general's report on smoking and health.

He presented an outline of the program in remarks prepared for address to the National Intergovernmental Council on Smoking and Health, a federally sponsored group that has declared this National Education Week on Smoking.

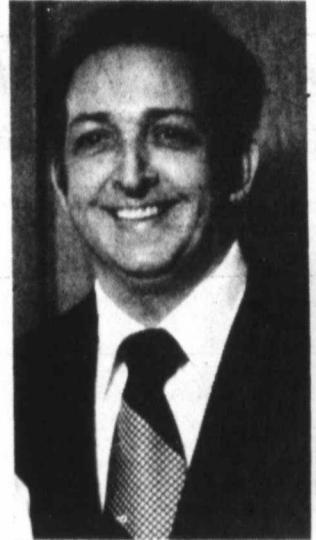

Since the surgeon general's report was issued in 1964, an estimated 30 million Americans have stopped smoking.

The report and nine updates have shown that cigarettes are responsible for 325,000 premature deaths each year, including at least 90 percent of the 90,000 deaths from lung cancer. Health officials say smoking can cause coronary heart disease, emphysema and chronic bronchitis.

"So the evidence of 14 years... cannot be ignored," Califano said. "Smoking ruins health. Smoking kills."

The head of the lobbying group said there was nothing Califano could tell the public that it doesn't already know. He said the institute also maintains that no one has proved smoking is hazardous to health.

PATIENT RANDY KEY WITH VISITORS AT MALONE-HOGAN HOSPITAL. Standing are Connie Key, Clois Snell and RN Jean Connelly (l to r)

Police beat — Visitors cooperating with hospital policy

Discouraged thieves

Tuesday was a relatively slow day for local police. The cold weather could be a discouraging factor for the lawless breed.

Burglars broke through the bedroom window into the home of Robert C. Joplin, 1400 E. 14th, Tuesday afternoon. Once inside they stole an assortment of jewelry, several savings passbooks, a belt and buckle and a pocket calculator.

Loss was estimated at $850.

Car burglars broke into an auto belonging to Delia Landin, 410 Lancaster, sometime between 4 p.m. Monday and 10 a.m. Tuesday. Stolen was a stereo tape player valued at $50.

Intruders also hit the home of Gary Wallace, 305 E. 13th, sometime between 9 a.m. and 8 p.m. Tuesday. Stolen were a stereo receiver and several record albums.

Loss was estimated at $500.

Car burglars broke into an auto belonging to Delia Landin, 410 Lancaster, sometime between 4 p.m. Monday and 10 a.m. Tuesday. Stolen was a stereo tape player valued at $50.

From all indications, visitors to Malone-Hogan Hospital are cooperating with hospital staff in firming up their visiting regulations.

The policy went into effect Tuesday, Jan. 3. Nursing Director Jean Connelly said that her supervisors are pleased with the community's response. "There's a noticeable difference," she noted, "especially in the morning hours, and that has helped tremendously."

The hospital is working out its procedures as the weeks go on, and specific problems arise. For many, it's a matter of delivering clean gowns to the patient, or books and electric razors.

For others, it's a need to see a member of the family for just a minute. "We've had very few visitors asking for special privileges without legitimate reasons," 3rd floor head nurse Lorraine Shirley commented. "Of course, this floor is mainly medical and families are very aware of the needs of the patient," she added.

On the surgical floor, the traffic is still heavier than on the other floors, but even there the visitor policy has helped. "Visitors of these patients who are scheduled for surgery have been super," 4th floor supervisor Deirda Whately, RN, observed. "There've been one or two who've been a little frustrated over the changes, but over all it's working beautifully," the head nurse said.

Obstetrics has traditionally been the one area in the hospital where visiting privileges were most limited, and the loosening of reins allowing siblings to visit the mother and newborn has created changes in their routine. But "the advantages greatly outweigh the disadvantages," head nurse Lucy Griffith commented. "There's definitely a happier family mood here in OB, since we decided to allow the family to visit the mother and new baby," Mrs. Griffith added.

What about the patient? For the most part, it's a sigh of relief, mixed with a need for assurance that their family understands.

Long-term and critically ill patients are usually in special need of understanding by their family and friends. And fortunately for the hospital, the response from this group of visitors has been good.

"I think it's a good thing," Connie Key, father of Randy Key, who's been in and out of the hospital since Thanksgiving, said flatly. Randy was injured in a freak hunting accident two days after Thanksgiving. Since that time, he's been in an Odessa hospital, coming to Malone-Hogan in mid-December.

"We've told all our family and friends about the new policy, and they do understand. The nurses have been the best, absolutely the best, and we're glad to have Randy here at Malone-Hogan," Key added. "Of course, we want to be near him, and he wants us here. But we're aware that there can be too much, and too many at times."

Weather Freezing rain mixed with sleet

By The Associated Press

Freezing rain mixed with sleet covered a wide area of the northern half of Texas early today, prompting the National Weather Service to issue traveler's advisories for slick streets and highways.

A winter storm spread a variety of freezing precipitation across scattered areas of North and Central Texas and snow was forecast for portions of Northwest Texas.

The freezing rain and sleet was reported from the Pecos River Valley eastward to the Red River Valley and in North Central Texas as well as the Hill Country of Central Texas.

Forecasters warned of the possibility of an accumulation of 1-3 inches of snow in Northwest Texas before nightfall. Most of the freezing rain and sleet was expected to end by afternoon.

Cloudy skies were reported statewide early today and fog dropped visibility to less than two miles in the Cotulla area.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the teens in Northwest Texas to the 60s in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Early morning temperature extremes ranged from 15 at Amarillo in the Panhandle to 66 at Brownsville in the Valley.

Some early morning readings included 17 at Dalhart, 29 at Texarkana and Dallas-Fort Worth, 30 at Austin, 35 at Lufkin, 36 at Houston, 46 at Corpus Christi, 65 at McAllen, 37 at Del Rio, 26 at San Angelo, 46 at El Paso and 17 at Lubbock.

Freezing rain was reported at Abilene, Austin, Dallas-Fort Worth and San Angelo during the pre-dawn hours. Many other locations also reported freezing rain or drizzle mixed with sleet.

Local case nears jury

ABILENE — Final arguments are under way here today and the jury should begin its deliberations in a $35,000 lawsuit brought against Safeway by a Big Spring 18-year-old man.

Henry G. (Hank) Adams Jr., brought the suit for embarrassment and humiliation stemming from a March 4 arrest in the Big Spring Safeway parking lot for possession of alcoholic beverages. According to testimony, the charge was dropped.

Kenneth Lawhon, assistant manager of Safeway, testified that the parking lot was frequently used by non-customers and that he had informed police that the parking lot needed to be cleared.

He denied urging them to arrest the three young men, including Adams.

Hoover accepted favors from FBI employees

WASHINGTON (AP) — What the Justice Department called "abuses of power and position" by FBI officials under J. Edgar Hoover's administration will go unprosecuted because the cases are too old, the department says.

"There definitely would have been prosecutions if the state of limitations hadn't run," said Michael E. Shaheen Jr., head of the department's Office of Professional Responsibility.

In a report released Tuesday, the department described Hoover as a man who routinely accepted lavish gifts and extensive services from subordinates. The report also described misuses of FBI funds by the former director and his top aides.

Attorney General Griffin B. Bell said the abuses, uncovered in the investigation begun more than two years ago, "have cast a shadow over a great institution and over those of its officials who engaged in no wrongdoing whatsoever."

And he warned that while it may be too late to prosecute any of the wrongdoers, such misconduct would not be tolerated again.

Hoover, who died in 1972 at age 77, was accused of accepting goods and services that ranged from a front portico and a fish pond at his home in Northwest Washington to repairs to his stereo equipment and free tax advice from an FBI accountant.

"FBI employees called upon to perform these services did not think them proper, but felt compelled to follow orders for fear of losing their jobs or of arbitrary transfers or promotion delays," the report said.

One FBI agent, who asked not to be identified, said the Justice Department report came as no surprise. "We used to hear stories like that," he said. "I was not that shocked (although) I'm not saying I would condone it."

The only FBI official to be prosecuted in connection with the investigation was John P. Dunphy, a former FBI section chief who was fined $500 and placed on probation in 1976 after he admitted taking $100 worth of lumber from the FBI to build a bird house.

The allegations against Hoover and his subordinates are not new. But the report marks the first time the Justice Department has confirmed them and compiled them in one document. The report said Hoover's "home-appliances, air conditioners, stereo equipment, tape recorders, television sets and electric wiring were serviced and repaired" by FBI engineers.

The climax came Tuesday, when the Justice Department, of which he had been more or less an independent part for so long, issued a report accusing him of accepting special favors and services from FBI employees and taking part with colleagues in a pattern of longstanding and widespread abuses.

For himself, Hoover insisted that the FBI had to maintain a reputation as spotless as Caesar's wife.

"The time has come to be blunt," he said in a 1964 interview with The Associated Press. "Public trust in the FBI is an important part of law enforcement and national security. If that trust is chipped away, our defense against crime, espionage, and subversion is weakened."

Rickover never neutral about subject

There is always something attractive about the appearance before a Congressional committee of Admiral Hyman Rickover, the father of nuclear submarines, simply because the admiral is so feisty and outspoken. The admiral did not disappoint his admirers recently in telling what he thought about cost overruns in building new ships for the senior service.

Shipbuilders' claims are "grossly inflated," he said; top civilian officials in the Department of Defense sympathize with the shipbuilders and are prone to make "giveaway" payments. The only way to stop this, the admiral added, "is to get the shipyards' officials and put them in jail."

On the whole, Rickover's charges are worth considering. It should be noted, however, that one of his favorite projects, the massive Trident submarine, simply because of its size, has demanded new construction concepts that have led to rather awesome overruns on that weapons system. We aren't suggesting, of course, that the father of the Trident do hard time for that.

Rickover's appeal lies in the fact that he is rarely neutral on any subject dealing with national defeat. Reporters always know they can get a good quote from him.

Rickover is a man who could have retired years ago and disappeared into the wings. The admiral feels, however, he has something to offer in the way of public service. May he never change.

Airing of facts Around the rim

Carla Walker

Since agriculture reporting is to be one of my principal jobs, I naturally have my own opinion of the farmers' strike. I also have a background in the financial situation of the farmers in this area, since I am a farmer's daughter and have spent most of my life in Big Spring.

There is no doubt that farm commodity prices are low this year, and that grain farmers in particular really suffered. But, how much of that suffering was self-induced?

WITH PREDICTIONS of a worldwide food shortage, prices on almost all agriculture products rose a few years ago. In particular, the price for wheat and cotton went up. Farmers expanded production in hopes of capitalizing on the higher prices without thinking about how such massive production would affect prices.

Now, with international surpluses, both cotton and wheat — especially wheat — prices are down much lower. Other government actions — the Russian wheat deals, agricultural product import laws among them — have helped to push prices down, and those facts need to be aired.

In earlier years, wheat farmers could offset an expected loss on their wheat in low price years by holding their grain off the market, and instead grazing cattle on it. The cattle could be sold at a sufficient profit to make back the production costs of the wheat plus a small profit. Import laws on cattle, however, have allowed foreign beef to flood U.S. markets at a time when U.S. production was sufficient for our domestic and export needs. The surplus drove cattle prices down, and wheat farmers could no longer make production costs by grazing their wheat.

Complaints like this need airing, and a strike is unquestionably one method of getting attention. But, whether any such action can be the best method is another question.

It should be pointed out that the present tractor "strike" in this area cannot be truthfully called a strike. Without rain, the farmers cannot work anyway, so the drive through town is really no more than a demonstration. If rains came and farmers refused to plant, that would be a strike, but such actions are highly unlikely.

Some of the demands of the striking farmer, principally the 100 per cent parity issue, are ideal, but unworkable. Few farmers really expect such demands to be granted, for obvious reasons.

A similar situation would be a contractor who saw escalating real estate prices, and moved into Big Spring, building a huge amount of housing. If he flooded the market, soon the supply would exceed the demand, and he would have to sell his houses very low to get them to move at all on the market.

If this builder kept on building homes and asked for 100 per cent parity, requesting the government to buy his houses at a figure that met his cost of building them, farmers would be as vocal as anyone else against such subsidy.

THERE HAS to be a market for any commodity to sustain the price. When supply goes down, price goes up, and when supply goes up, certainly, the insufficient demand will lower prices substantially.

No farmer needs to be told how much supply-demand affects his profits, but there must be more prudence used in determining the amount of supply. Farmers are well-informed as to how much of a certain crop is being produced, and they must avoid a blind rush for windfall profits if they want to keep prices reasonably high.

A massive increase in production when the market was not expanding at the same time is the biggest reason for this year's low prices.

On the other side of the coin, governmental regulations make cutbacks almost unreasonable. If a farmer cuts his acreage one year, then no matter the world situation—shortage or surplus—he cannot increase his production back to the level it was before. More and more, legislation is strangling the farmer, and his business is no longer really "free enterprise" in anything but name. Congress is even now considering a law that would tell farmers when they can plant as well as how much, restricting an already over-regulated industry to the point of no longer having the right to make its own business decisions.

At the same time, the government itself is contributing to the surplus. The U.S. keeps a reserve of almost all agricultural products, and when the price is high, the government is one of the first to dump some of its reserves on the market, thus placing the farmer in direct competition with the body that so strenuously regulates his industry.

Such things as labor and steel costs have driven farm machinery costs up at a much faster rate than the return on crops has risen. The tractors which cost $3,500 to $4,000 in 1950 now cost over $25,000; similarly, labor, fuel, and all other operating costs have risen, and yet cotton prices of 40 cents per pound in 1950 were only equalled or topped in no more than five of the 27 years since that date. 1973 was the first year prices went up. This past year's crop prices ranged from 41 to 44 cents per pound.

The answer to the problem is complicated, and most farmers agree that they haven't found it. The only alternatives are more governmental control resulting from subsidies similar to those received by most major industries—steel and transportation among them—or less government regulations that would allow farming to once again be a truly "free" enterprise.

I personally, favor the latter.

Unendurable pain

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Not many years ago, reaching home from the city, I discovered the normally imperturbable lady who has cooked for my family for a quarter century far gone in weeping. She is an elderly and hardy Cuban black who early in life suffered a lifetime's ration of sorrow and pain, and for that reason her tears were not treated as though caused by a collapsed soufflé. I got the story from her in spurts. A message, through an intermediary in Miami. Her sister, dying of cancer in Havana. Miserable pain. No morphine, because Castro's supply was available only to the army.

I CALLED my favorite doctor. Out of town on a fishing trip, unreachable. I asked another doctor a hypothetical question: What would a doctor's prescription look like authorizing enough morphine for daily doses for 60 days to a dying patient? I scratched out the hieroglyphics on a doctor's pad, approached the pharmacist, who whistled at the size of the order but got out the stuff which I drove to Pan American at Kennedy and put into the hands of a pilot. In Madrid, my brother had arranged to meet the pilot, take the package and give it to a pilot on Iberia, bound for Havana. Twenty-four hours later the dying woman had her short lifetime's supply of morphine. Back from his fishing trip the doctor telephoned me. Easy-going type, in his conversational style, but steel in his system. "I note from records that I have come in from the pharmacy that I authorized you to pick up morphine worth about $50,000 on the black market. Are you enjoying it?" I explained. He sighed, executed papers that designated the dosage as designed for a case of terminal illness, and somehow the irregularity of the transaction never attracted official attention.

What does attract official attention has become the object of a crusade led by Mrs. Judith Quattlebaum of Potomac, Maryland. She is the head of something called the Committee on the Treatment of Intractable Pain and her objective is to sweep the bureaucratic cobwebs that prefer human agony to medical intervention. We are, for all our concern in America for health and pleasure, as dour as the most misanthropic countries on earth when it comes to certain kinds of pain.

There are a number of objectives endorsed by Mrs. Quattlebaum's Committee, but that which has received the most attention is the licensing, for patients who suffer from terminal cancer, of the heroin drug. She had a personal experience during the Second World War, observing the agonizing death of her grandmother. Then she watched Stewart Alsop on the Dick Cavett Show, describing the death throes of a patient occupying an adjacent room.

She launched the Committee. And people began to send her case histories, which she has compiled. One example will do (one example is almost too much): "I have lost my mother with incurable uterine cancer.

IT IS NOT safe to say that such torment as this would simply cease to be if the United States were to change its laws in order to permit the manufacture and administration of heroin under carefully controlled circumstances. But doctors seem to agree that heroin will do more than morphine for several reasons. One is that it is capable of producing a higher degree of euphoria

The Committee, which has acquired some distinguished sponsors including the active patronage of Congressman Newton Steers of Maryland, is up against the conventional unyieldability of the law which, with that magisterial irrelevance of which it is so regularly capable, in effect authorizes the use of heroin only for teenagers in ghettos who have relatively little trouble in acquiring it, while their grandmothers die in pain under the hygienic auspices of the law. The Committee on the Treatment of Intractable Pain can be reached at 9300 River Road, Potomac, Maryland 20854.

Dear Editor:
Who says there are no honest people left in the world? I had an experience this Christmas that I would like to share. Christmas Eve my husband and I were on our way to Coahoma and stopped at the Fina truckstop to put air in the tires. When the door was opened one of our Christmas packages fell out. We did not discover the loss until we arrived at Coahoma. The gift was from my husband to me and was very special.
December 27 I called a local radio station to advertise my loss. About five minutes later I received a call that the present had been turned into the Sheriff's Department. It was a pair of diamond earrings. I want to take this opportunity to thank the individual who found them for turning them in. It turned out to be a very Merry Christmas after all.

Dear Editor:
This is not to put the city people down, for they also have a "hard row to hoe," in today's inflated economy. But everyone should get a few more facts about this farm strike before making any profound statements (or poems).
If you will get all the facts, you'll find that what the farmers are striking for, will benefit everyone.
If you are interested enough to comment on this situation, you should be interested enough to go to a farm strike meeting and learn what you are talking about.
In a very few years, if the present situation continues, all farms will be owned by big corporations (oil companies, insurance companies and etc.) and you can believe that they will be less efficient and they will get parity.
Dan Whitaker

Dear Editor:
This is a reply to the cute poem in Sunday's paper. It seems people never get tired of kicking the farmer. They think they know so much about farming and our lifestyles. It should be mandatory that every person spend one year on a farm. I'm sure if they did, they would be singing a different set of words to a tired old tune.
Two things you were right about. One, you don't know anything about farming, and Farmer Jones worked hard. That's about as far as the truth went. One partial truth — "He built a new home, it's unfinished still." When he built that home, he had only a set amount to spend, a small amount. What could be done himself, he did. The reason it is still unfinished is that he ran out of money and every year he works a little on it. This is not always borrowed money. It is instead money he earned working from "can 'til can't." When it is cold he had to take an ax to break stock water. Through until our products reach the level of parity. At parity, a loaf of bread would go up three cents, a pair of blue jeans 50 cents, so its not something we cannot live with. You say this will help the farmer but it won't help me. Wrong! If that farmer makes more, he spends more in your town. You go down through the years and look at all the years in which a good crop was made and see the way your city prospered.

When the tractors were in town Tuesday we heard that the farmers were not hurting if they could ride in air-conditioned tractor cabs. How many of you people in town do not have a heated office, even music piped in? When the farmer comes to town, he doesn't tell you to get rid of the heating and cooling, he realizes it is necessary for good productivity. Why should the farmer be a second-class citizen? Why shouldn't he have an air conditioner and heater? Those tractors are his office. Fifteen years ago it wasn't necessary to have the heaters and air conditioners. On cold days we stayed home, on hot, dusty, windy days we could stay home, but now we are caught in such a price squeeze that we have to work on all the ugly days in order to farm enough land to make a decent living.
Dennis Fuchs

My answer
Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am a Christian and I want to be faithful to God. However, I worry about whether I could keep my faith if I were persecuted. Do you think it is right for me to worry about this? — W.S.

DEAR W.S.: I find that a lot of people worry about this, because many of us know we do not have, in ourselves, the strength to resist physical persecution. However, there are several things you should keep in mind. First, do not let your concern for the future keep you from being the best possible Christian right now. Think of Jesus' statement that we are to "Take therefore no thought for the morrow; for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof" (Matthew 6:34). This doesn't merely refer to our physical needs, such as clothing and food; it also means we are to trust everything about the future into His hands. In the meantime, we are to be faithful, for as we are faithful everyday, we will find ourselves growing stronger.

Remember that God has promised to be with you in the midst of trials, and He will not send you a trial you cannot meet if you trust in Him. The Bible says, "No temptation has seized you except what is common to man. And God is faithful; he will not let you be tempted beyond what you can bear. But when you are tempted, he will also provide a way out so that you can stand up under it" (I Corinthians 10:13, New International Version). This is true of every kind of temptation, including the temptation to deny Him under pressure. Trust this promise.

People who have undergone persecution emphasize the importance of memorizing verses and passages from the Bible to provide support when things get rough. Finally, remember that you are tempted every day to deny Christ — in your home, at work, in your recreation. You may never face open persecution, but sometimes Satan's persecutions are indirect and subtle — and therefore more dangerous. Learn to trust God every day for every testing that comes your way.

Hashimoto's disease thyroid problem

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Several years ago I had my thyroid gland removed. I had no symptoms other than a swelling in my throat. The doctor told me afterward he had to remove the entire gland because it was hard as a corn cob. He said it wasn't malignant and probably was caused by Hashimoto's disease. I never found out what that was. Can you tell me anything about it? — Mrs. K.R.Y.

Hashimoto's disease (named for the late Japanese surgeon) is an inflammation of the thyroid gland. There is usually a general swelling of the gland, giving a feeling of fullness at the throat. (The thyroid gland is wrapped around the front of the windpipe.)

It is thought to be an "auto-immune" disease; that is, one in which tissue reacts against itself or to substances it produces. With Hashimoto's disease, normal thyroid tissue gradually disintegrates and is replaced by tough fibrous material. This causes the gland to be firm.

It may progress to the point where breathing and swallowing are impaired, in which case removal is advised. In some the problem can be controlled with thyroid hormones. In about one-third of the cases, gland underactivity results, making the person sluggish and tending toward fatness.

It is identified by the presence of certain proteins in the blood and by needle biopsy. It is seldom cancerous. Hashimoto's disease can affect persons of either sex at any age, but is most common in women at about 50. It has been reported more often in recent years, especially in the Gulf States, where it is the reason for about 10 per cent of all thyroidectomies (thyroid removals).

Thyroid medicine is required for life, either as a control or after removal.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In discussing plastic surgery for bags under the eyes, you mentioned the possibility of keloids forming. I understand these are more likely for persons with darker complexions. I am a black woman considering this procedure. Should I go ahead? Is there any way to tell if the keloids would be worse for me? — Mrs. P.R.

It's true that people with dark complexions are more prone to keloids, which are overgrowths of scar tissue.

The doctor would be able to tell by observing other scars on your body just how much of keloid-former you are. If other cuts or wounds did not cause keloid formation, you could go ahead with the operation.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a terrible case of bad breath. It is constantly with me, and I'm positive it is coming from my stomach. Could this be because I am an uptight person? — B.B.

It could stem from your "up-tightness," but I wouldn't settle for that kind of simplistic diagnosis out of hand.

After obvious dental problems are eliminated (deep cavities, etc.), it's wise to continue the search in other areas. A chronic infection in the nasal cavity or in the sinuses should be investigated. Often nasal obstruction causes mouth-breathing, which can produce chronic breath odor. The only way the stomach could be involved is if you were regurgitating material to cause it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am breastfeeding my baby. A neighbor told me breastfeeding can cause mongolism because of the preservatives and chemicals we get in our food. Is there any truth in it? — Mrs. T.E.

None. You can do without such neighbors. Mongolism (Down's syndrome) is a birth defect involving a chromosome disorder. It has nothing to do with breastfeeding.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: This is very embarrassing to me. Can I expect to have an ejaculation when the doctor massages my prostate, which I suspect is going to happen during my next visit? — Anonymous.

No, but prostatic fluid will appear. This is not an ejaculation.

"Bad Breath Can Be Corrected" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet explaining the causes and cure of bad breath. For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

100-year-old medical twins 'have each other'

FREMONT, Neb. (AP) — Twin sisters who were among the century's first female doctors and pharmacists celebrate their 100th birthday today. "We just keep on living. We thought we'd be dead at about 83, but here we are," said Dr. Marie Morse, who was honored with her sister, Hannah Hansen, during a weekend celebration at their Fremont nursing home. Mrs. Hansen, one of two women who graduated from the Creighton University School of Pharmacy in 1907, owned a drugstore in Uehling, Neb., until the 1940s. Dr. Morse, one of four women who graduated from Creighton's School of Medicine in 1902, practiced medicine for 30 years in Wisner, Neb., with her husband, the late Dr. Russell Morse. Dr. Morse remembers the early days, when she got $10 for delivering a baby. "Sometimes, the patient tried to get out of even paying $10. But I was happy and busy, doing what I had to do," she said. Dr. Morse's daughter, Catherine Lambka, 70, of Michigan City, Ind., said there was "quite a bit of prejudice when my mother started practicing medicine. She had to teach school so she could get the money to go to medical school." Mrs. Lambka believes she and her four sisters "were more reliable and independent (than other children) because we were expected to be." But Dr. Morse discouraged her daughters from becoming professionals, "because she thought it would be too hard," Mrs. Lambka said. Miss Hansen said she gave little thought to being one of the few women in her profession. Another sister became a pharmacist and a brother was a dentist. "We came here from Denmark in 1878," said Miss Hansen. "My parents weren't much over 20 years old. They worked at keeping alive and that kept them busy. Making money was a big job." Mrs. Lambka commented: "Their parents expected them to do something with their lives, so they did it." Mary Calmes, activities director at the nursing home, said the twins, although confined to wheelchairs, are "very independent." "They play bingo and watch a number of movies. They're always interested in other individuals' activities," she said. "They're not impressed with the fact that they're 100 years old and can't understand why people make such a fuss. That's why I think they're special." Mrs. Calmes doesn't believe the twins would have lived so long "if they didn't have each other. All their contemporaries are gone."

Coal strike 'breather'

By the Associated Press
Both sides in the 37-day nationwide coal strike are taking a breather after federal mediators in Washington met with them in an attempt to restart bargaining. Striking miners, faced with bitterly cold weather in much of Appalachia, also appeared to take a break, in efforts to close non-union mines. The only activity reported Tuesday was in northeast Alabama, where special teams of state troopers searched for stolen explosives and patrolled around non-union mines. Two cases of primers used to explode sodium nitrate were stolen from a strip mine in Walker County and police said the theft apparently was related to the strike. Negotiators for the two sides met for about two hours in Washington Tuesday, but there was no indication that actual bargaining had resumed. Another session was apparently scheduled for later in the week. Negotiations in the strike by 160,000 miners broke off Dec. 30. After Tuesday's session, a source close to the talks said there were "small signs" of movement, but he cautioned, "I don't want to build up this too much." A news blackout was imposed on the meeting, reportedly at the request of both sides. West Virginia Gov. Jay Rockefeller was preparing a proclamation Tuesday that Jan. 22 be a day of prayer for peace in the coalfields, according to the governor's press secretary, Scott Widmeyer. The idea for a day of prayer and rallies in West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania is being promoted by Wayne Alderson.

THERE ARE SOME THINGS A COMPUTER CAN'T REPLACE

Computers and assembly-line methods have greatly improved many businesses, and we should be grateful for them. There are some things, however, that can never be replaced. In funeral directing, we believe that personalized attention and genuine concern are still essential.

Billionaire's estate fuss

Marriage license 'blank'

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Only a blank spot remains where there once was a record showing that a marriage license was issued to Frania Tye Lee and a man named Richard Hunt, a court archives expert testified Tuesday. Mrs. Lee contends that "Richard" actually was oil billionaire H. L. Hunt and that he was bigamously married to her. She now is in federal court trying to get a piece of the late billionaire's estate. Bruce A. Singleton, assistant director of archives for the clerk of court's office in Hillsborough, Fla., testified that someone apparently cut a page out of a courthouse record book. The page, he said, contained an entry showing that the marriage license was issued. But Singleton said it did not show that a marriage actually took place and was, in fact, stamped with the word "void." He said that attorneys for both sides in the dispute have copies of the page which disappeared in late 1975 or early 1976. Mrs. Lee, who is 73 and lives in Atlanta, Ga., contends that she married Hunt in Florida in 1925 but discovered in 1934 that he also was married to another woman. She wants half of the money Hunt made between 1924 and 1934 plus half of the fruits that have subsequently sprung from those riches. She claims that H.L. Hunt was the father of her four children. One of those children, Hugh Lee Hunt, 43, of Alexandria, Va., testified Tuesday. He told the court that when he was a teen-ager his mother told him to "respect and honor Hunt as my father and he would take care of us." Hugh Hunt testified that his mother became upset in 1974 after reading a book that Haroldson Lafayette Hunt, one of the world's richest men, had written about his early life. "He was never supposed to deny our family existed," he said.

SEA OF GLASS — A woman scrutinizes a water glass, one of many being sold Thursday as the Commodore Hotel in New York opened its doors to bargain hunters. The glass, along with tons of silver, 32 acres of carpet, 4,000 beds, 32,000 towels and other items left from the 22-story hotel named after shipping magnate Cornelius Vanderbilt, was part of the 90-day sale to empty the structure to make way for a new hotel. The Commodore, which fell on hard times in recent years, was closed in 1976.

Houston woman claims mayor betrayed her, women's cause

HOUSTON (AP) — Nikki Van Hightower, Houston's former official women's advocate, says new Mayor Jim McConn has "definitely betrayed women" in announcing he will fire her from her city job.

McConn, on his third day in office, said Thursday he could see no purpose Ms. Van Hightower could serve in the city government.

The City Council last year abolished the position of women's advocate but Mayor Fred Hofheinz then appointed her as an affirmative action specialist with essentially the same duties.

The decision drew applause from the mostly male audience of the Houston Rotary Club where McConn delivered his State of the City address.

However, most of Houston women leaders said they would take a "wait and see" position on the announcement.

McConn said his administration will include women in top positions but there will be no posts for advocates or liaisons with women's groups.

"I just figured this administration could do well without Nikki Van Hightower," he said. He said her payroll status will be terminated after the next pay period. She has been making about $20,000 a year.

Ms. Van Hightower said she met with McConn last week and said he sounded optimistic about continuing her position.

"I'm just shocked because he sounded very positive," she said. "He said he would get back with me but he never did."

She said she believes McConn "definitely betrayed women. He had no hearing on this to get any one's point of view."

Son Doesn't Want Mom To Remarry

DEAR ABBY: I am a 39-year-old widow. My husband died three years ago leaving me with a 13-year-old son I'll call Mike. I loved my husband very much, but he had an incurable illness and suffered terribly, so his death was a blessing.

Mike took his father's death hard, as they had always been great pals. I made Mike "man of the house." He escorted me in place of his father, and I let him handle the money when we went marketing. He took over surprisingly well.

About six months ago I met a 45-year-old widower, and we hit it off immediately. I never expected to fall in love again, but it happened. We are so right for each other! Now for my problem. He wants to marry me, but Mike doesn't want me to get married again—ever.

My son comes first, but I don't want to spend the rest of my life alone, Abby. Yet how can I marry again knowing it will break my son's heart?

AGONIZING

DEAR ABBY: Although it seemed right at the time, it was a mistake to cast your son in the role of a substitute husband.

Encourage Mike to take a social life of his own among his contemporaries. His possessiveness is understandably adolescent, but with maturity, he will be less hurt and more realistic. Marry the man.

DEAR ABBY: I load and unload freight and baggage for a major airline. We handle dogs and cats that are "kenneled" for transportation.

Most of these animals have never experienced anything like this before, and they are petrified from the noise of the screaming jets and from so much jostling around. Some animals try to chew through the kennels, and they end up with broken teeth and bleeding mouths. Some even get loose.

Please inform your readers that pills are available (from any vet) which, if given to the animal before the trip, will keep him calm and comfortable. I have seen so many frightened and hysterical animals in my work, it breaks my heart. If you love animals as I do, you'll print this.

CARES

DEAR CARES: Another tip for animal lovers. Never feed your pet before he boards an airliner. The combination of nervousness and motion sickness invariably causes him to regurgitate.

DEAR ABBY: My son recently married, and his wife insists on calling me "Grandma," which infuriates me no end! (I am a grandmother, but not hers.)

I do not wish to be called "Grandma" by a woman who could not possibly be my granddaughter. If she doesn't want to call me "Mother" or "Mom," as my other daughters-in-law do, she may call me by my first name or anything else she likes, but that "Grandma" stuff has got to go!

How do I get this simple message across to her?

NOT HER GRANDMA

DEAR NOT: First tell your son. And if that doesn't work, tell HER.

Getting married? No matter how little you have to spend or how unconventional your lifestyle, it can be lovely. Send for Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Enclose $1 and a long stamped (24 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Communication writer's function, author says

Author Robin Szczpaniak of Big Spring was the guest speaker at the Jan. 3 meeting of the 1955 Hyperion Club.

Mrs. James Cole, president, called the meeting to order.

Volunteers to work as hostesses at the Potton House were recruited.

The group met in the home of Mrs. Matthew Hunter with Mrs. Jack Powell and Mrs. Roy Reeder as hostesses.

Szczpaniak said that he believes that a writer's primary function is to communicate, not to confuse. He added that Mark Twain had had the same idea.

He is presently working on a book, "Looking Back at Tomorrow," the subject of which is primary numbers and principles such as those discovered in the Great Pyramids. The book attempts to explain tarot cards as the earliest form of the Bible, or written account of Christ.

He has a novel, "The Molecular Man," which he describes as "a cross between John Steinbeck and Toffler's 'Future Shock' sociology."

Szczpaniak was introduced to the club by Mrs. Robert F. Penner.

Meetings announced

The Home Demonstration Council met Jan. 9 at the County Home Extension Office with the City Club acting as host.

Mrs. James Johnston, County Chairman, called the meeting to order and gave the devotional.

A leaders' training meeting will take place Jan. 16 at the extension office, it was announced. The topic will be over-the-counter drugs.

Mrs. Frances Zant gave a report on the 4-H Stock Show which will be Jan. 11, 12 and 13 at the fair barn.

It was announced that there will be a T.H.S.A. training meeting at Pecos, Jan. 24.

Home demonstration agent Janet Rogers announced that the 4-H Food Show will be Feb. 4 at 1 p.m., at the First Methodist fellowship hall. She also informed members of a workshop on "Insulation and Home Energy" to take place from 7 to 9 p.m., Feb. 13 at the Texas Electric Co. Reddy Room. The workshop will be conducted by home economist Sandra Killough.

The next meeting will be at 2 p.m., Feb. 6, at the County Home Extension Office.

Longevity, nursing care need big social problem

Billy Hendricks of the Mountain View Lodge was the guest speaker at the Jan. 3 meeting of the Scenic Chapter of the American Business Women's Association.

Jerry Dietz gave the benediction.

The group, which met at the Western Sizzler, was called to order by Jerry Dietz, president.

Lou Thompson worded the invocation.

Hendricks said that the biggest problem in our society is that people are living longer and their need for nursing care is increasing. Seventy per cent of Medicaid money is spent in nursing homes, and nursing care is very hard work; the patients in Hendricks' care are provided the best food and care that he and his staff can give them, he said.

Mrs. Thompson, Ways and Means chairman, reported that James Brigham won the half-beef in the club's recent raffle sale, and thanked the members for their work in the Fall Bazaar. She also thanked the public for their interest.

For school students Penalty is reduced

By BOB BURTON
School board members Tuesday reduced the penalty levied on four students after their infraction of school rules Dec. 20.
Four students were suspended until Feb. 23 and one withdrew from school after being found in violation of school policy over "conduct which will be considered disruptive, and adversely affect the general welfare of the school." That section of the school code contains rules on drugs, alcohol, firearms, vandalism, and physical violence.

In an executive session called by the school board, the parents of three of the students (two students' parents were represented by attorney Wayne Basden) asked that the sentence be reduced. The board voted unanimously to reduce the penalty to a retroactive ten-day suspension, meaning that all four students will attend school Monday.

After an hour and ten minute executive session, board member Don Reynolds made the motion for the reduction, adding, "The four students did break the rules. They know they did. But I want the administration to know that we are still backing them."
Board president Roy Watkins said, "This has been a heart-rending decision for the board. We do not condone this activity, but we recognize some special circumstances. We do not expect this to set a precedent."

Supt. Lynn Hise said later that this decision "will not affect school policy. The board reviewed the facts and felt that this was the best course to take."
"There are, however, seven other students who were suspended under this section of the conduct code. On request, these preceding cases will be reviewed in the light of this decision."

In other action, the board approved final working of the personal leave policy. Over objections by Carol Hunter that the first section was unnecessary, the board approved a policy which first states specifics under which personal leave may not be granted. These include vacations, recreation, athletic events, and attendance of a convention at which the teacher is not directly involved. The second section simply states that such leave may not be taken the first or last five days of the school year.

The board also approved a compromise funding proposal for the aerial photographing of the county. In the motion was included the stipulation that the school district could not contribute more than $3,060, just over half of the 50 per cent the city and schools were to split. Board president Roy Watkins voted against the proposal, saying, "I didn't like it when it was first proposed and I don't like it now."

Assistant Supt. Harold Bentley told the board that school attendance was holding at 14 per cent below 'Tokyo Rose' is surprised HONOLULU (AP) — Iva Toguro D'Aquino, known to millions of American servicemen during World War II as "Tokyo Rose," says she is surprised at the interest in her.

After a meeting Tuesday with Gov. George Ariyoyhi, Mrs. D'Aquino said: "I thought those days were over. I didn't expect you folks to make a big deal out of this."

She was visiting Hawaii with a friend and called on the governor to express her gratitude for his support of her presidential pardon. Just before he left office, President Gerald Ford pardoned Mrs. D'Aquino.

Mrs. D'Aquino, an American trapped in Tokyo at the outbreak of the war, was one of several women who broadcast in English to American servicemen over Japanese radio.

She was convicted of treason in 1949, and spent more than six years in prison. She now works in a small, family-owned import store in Chicago.

'schoolfriends'

LONDON (AP) — Prince Andrew, the 17-year-old second son of Queen Elizabeth II, brought one of his "schoolfriends" home to meet the royal family.

The friend was Kirstie Richmond, also 17. She and the prince attend the exclusive Gordonstoun School, near Elgin, Scotland.

The prince and Kirstie spent the weekend in the Norfolk countryside and traveled to Buckingham Palace on Monday before returning to school Tuesday.

A spokesman for the royal family said the teen-agers are "just schoolfriends."

1980 census to cost you $4

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1980 census, which will cost four times as much as the 1970 census, will be "the world's largest data collection effort," the Census Bureau director says.

Manuel D. Plotkin said that because the bureau is making a special effort to count precisely the number of persons in minority groups, the 1980 census will cost more than $4 per American compared with $1 per person in 1970.

The 1970 census measured a population of 204 million and cost $218 million, census officials said. The 1980 census is expected to count 220 million Americans and cost an estimated $900 million.

Plotkin said the 1970 census undercounted the number of Americans by 2½ percent, or 5.3 million persons. Of these, an estimated 3.4 million whites and 1.9 million blacks were not counted.

The bureau plans to hire 200 field workers — 10 times more than in 1970 — specifically to help minority groups complete the forms.

The census, whose constitutional purpose is to determine the apportionment of seats in the House of Representatives, is taken every 10 years.

It not only counts the number of people in America, but also records such information as sex, race, marital status, number of children, occupation, educational background and housing facilities. The 1980 census for the first time will ask about income and ethnic background.

One of the biggest uses of the information is to determine from population breakdowns and economic data how federal money should be distributed to states and local communities.

"We're under more pressure now to get more precise information because there are more government programs, and the allocation of federal funds for these programs is tied to the census," Plotkin said in an interview.

The 1980 census, the 20th conducted by the federal government, will also reflect changes in American life over the past decade.

Under law, there is a fine of up to $100 for willfully neglecting to complete the census form. The government pays the mailing costs.

Vows to divulge truth about dealings

Tongsun Park signs agreement

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Tongsun Park signed an agreement today to tell U.S. Justice Department investigators and American courts everything he knows about the Korean payoff scandal on Capitol Hill. But he refused to tell reporters whether he would testify before congressional committees.

Justice Department prosecutor Paul Michel said he and other investigators from Washington will start interrogating the Korean rice dealer Friday morning, using a lie detector. He said they hoped to conclude the questioning in about 10 days. Park signed a memorandum pledging to divulge the full truth about his dealings with past and present members of the U.S. Congress during a meeting at the U.S. Embassy with Acting Deputy Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti.

The document pledges Park to answer the questions of U.S. investigators in Seoul and, if required, in American courts in return for full immunity from pending criminal charges against him.

investigating the scandal, he replied: "I won't answer that question now."

Leon Jaworski, special counsel to the House Ethics Committee, has threatened "grave consequences" if Park refuses to testify before his panel. This apparently was a repetition of the previous threat to halt American aid to Korea which produced the agreement to have Park testify in the courts.

About 20 former and present congressmen have acknowledged they received money or other gifts from Park but denied any wrongdoing.

American-Korean relations were strained after Park refused to go back to Washington to face trial in federal court on 36 counts of bribery, mail fraud and other charges in connection with his alleged influence-buying on Capitol Hill

Vision clinic ends today

A three-day low vision clinic being sponsored by the Midland Independent School District in Odessa ends this evening.

Residents of Midland, Odessa, Pecos and Big Spring will be seen at the office of Dr. D.W. Leach, 415 N. Houston, Odessa, until 7:15 p.m., today.

Dr. Frank Porter of the University of Houston College of Optometry and the Herman Low Vision Clinic of Houston is conducting the clinic, which will assess area residents identified as visually impaired whose ages range from birth to 22 years.

According to Pat Knox, MISD teacher for the visually impaired, a state law enacted in 1977 requires school systems to identify and provide education for residents from birth through the age of 22. The visually impaired include the partially sighted whose vision tests 20-70 — 20-200 and the legally blind whose vision is 20-200 and under.

Dr. Porter will make recommendations concerning the educational environment of those tested. In some cases aids such as monocular telescopes or aphakic lenses will be suggested to school officials. In other cases, just the use of better lighting conditions will assist the students to function more effectively in the classroom.

The clinic is sponsored by the Midland Independent School District in coordination with the Texas State Commission for the Blind.

TAKE IT FOR GRANTED — Big Spring Steer Wilbert Grant goes in for a layup against a Permian Panther in last Friday's win over Mojo. Tuesday night, Grant hit for two points as the Steers fell to Midland Lee, 61-45. This Friday, the locals return home to host Abilene Cooper in Steer Gym at 8 p.m.

Steers lose to Lee Rebs

MIDLAND — With the exclusion of the second quarter Tuesday night, the Big Spring Steers played the Midland Lee Rebels a pretty good game.

However, in the second frame, the locals hit only one of 12 from the field and four of nine from the charity stripe. They were outscored, 17-6, that period, and went on to drop a 61-45 District 5-4A conference game.

In the second half, the score differential was only two points, but that disastrous second quarter, in addition to 30 per cent shooting and 22 turnovers, was too much for the Bovines to overcome.

"The loss was a combination of two factors," said Head Coach Tommy Collins. "Very poor shooting, and our early trouble with their full court press."

Collins was pleased with the efforts of Kenneth Coffey, Mark Poss and Kenneth Perry on the offensive boards during the second half. They pulled down 12, giving the Steers more shots at the hoop.

Mark Poss led the locals in scoring with 15. Perry was the only other Steer in double figures. He had 11. Big Spring dropped to 1-3 in district play, still tied for fifth place with San Angelo.

The Steers host Abilene Cooper in Steer Gym this Friday night. The junior varsity match begins at 6:15, followed at 8 p.m. by the varsity contest.

Father's aspirations fulfilled in BB draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Carl Lebo has one chance left to make major league baseball, and it's the opportunity he's nurtured for the last 19 years.

It's his son Mike.

"The day my wife was in the hospital having Mike, I went out and bought a catcher's glove, bat and ball for him," Carl said. "I wanted him to have the career I didn't."

Carl Lebo is a computer specialist for a naval depot in Mechanicsburg, Pa., although he really wanted to be a big league ballplayer.

An injury in his first year of minor league ball cheated him of his chance of making the big time, so the next best thing will be watching Mike play for the Toronto Blue Jays.

Mike, 19, was the first pick Tuesday in baseball's 13th winter draft for amateur talent. Father and son had been waiting for this day for a long time.

"Since Day One, the only thing I've wanted to do is play ball," said Mike, a 6-foot-4, 215-pound catcher who was considered the outstanding prospect in this lean crop of amateur athletes. "This is something I've dreamed about all my life."

"This is one of the best days of my life," said Carl, a minor league catcher in the Brooklyn Dodgers' chain in the 1950s.

"I've wanted him to play baseball since that day in the hospital," Carl said. "He's wanted to play, too. But I guess you could say I've guided him a little."

Does Carl Lebo see Mike as the chance to vicariously attain a goal he couldn't reach?

"Oh, without a doubt," Carl said.

Carl was playing in the low minors for Union City, Tenn., when his arm was injured by a foul tip. "I couldn't pick up my arm, and when a catcher can't throw, a catcher can't play," he said.

Would he have made the major leagues if not for the injury?

"There's no doubt in my mind," Carl said.

Hog Coach miffed

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — University of Arkansas basketball coach Eddie Sutton says Razorbacks fans may not realize what they have going for them with the No. 3 team in the nation.

Sutton said recently that he has been a little miffed at the lack of excitement by Arkansas fans at home games here and in Little Rock.

The Razorbacks are unbeaten in their first 13 games.

"Two years ago we had a good basketball team and the fans were crazy," Sutton said. "This team borders on being great and is the most exciting basketball team I've ever been associated with. But the enthusiasm of two years ago is not there. I don't think the fans really know what they have."

"I could coach another 50 years and they won't have another team as exciting as this one."

He said he wasn't "down" on the Hog supporters, who have bought out every home game in Fayetteville and Little Rock this year, but he thinks the fans should take a more active, vocal role.

"They should be tearing the place apart. Basketball fans should let their hair down," he said.

'We have emotion, and we'll show it Sunday'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys bristle at suggestions they are an unemotional team playing for a coach of stone.

"That's a bunch of bull and I knew we'd hear that here because of all the cheerleading Denver does on the sidelines," said Cowboy linebacker D.D. Lewis. "You don't get any false chatter out of us. What you get is for real."

Denver, the Cinderella opponent for the Cowboys in Super Bowl XII, has been described as a fiery, emotional team playing for an equally saucy and demonstrative rookie head Coach Red Miller.

"We have emotion and we'll show it Sunday," snapped strong safety Charlie Waters. "I prefer playing for a coach like Tom Landry who controls his emotions under fire. He does show it. And he cracks jokes, too. You just have to be a person on the inside of the Cowboy organization to understand it."

Waters said, "Our business is winning. Usually Coach Landry's game plans are a work of art. I can only remember one time when there was a flaw and that's when he was worried about the Duane Thomas situation in 1971.

"You could tell he had something else on his mind. I like to know my coach is thinking about his job."

Lewis said, "I recall Denver cheering on the sidelines like that was supposed to be their job or something when we played them in the last game of the regular season in Texas Stadium. That didn't show me much. It was sort of like the Washington Redskins."

Lewis added, "I used to think I needed a lot of cheering and a coach who patted you on the back. I saw how John Ralston (former Denver coach) and George Allen hugged their players and all that. Then I realized a professional should be too busy for all that stuff going on."

"Heck, Coach Landry will give you praise. And when you get it you really know you deserve it." Middle linebacker Bob Breunig said, "During a game Coach Landry is very composed. But that's the way you want your coach to be. He has emotions like everyone else but he doesn't let them get the best of him."

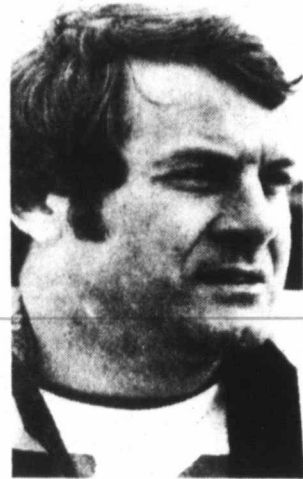

"He's a consistent man ..."

a man you can believe. You know he has done his homework. In the three years I've been with the Cowboys, he has amazed me. I like the kind of security you have around a man like Coach Landry."

Waters chimed in, "You don't have to waste time getting on his good side like you do in some organizations. The bottom line is professionalism."

Rookie Tony Dorsett, who had watched Landry on television while becoming a Heisman Trophy winner at Pittsburgh, said he is amazed that any athlete would expect a rahrah coach.

"Coach Landry is incredible ... fantastic ... a genius at what he does," said Dorsett. "I think he is a fantastic person and what's that old cliché, action speaks louder than words. Well, that's Coach Landry."

Defenses talking Super tactics

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — there the way it could have been.

"But it'll be there this time."

Jackson also downplayed the Cowboys' complex multiple-formation offense. "When they snap the ball," he said, "there's only so many things a body can do. They might jump around a lot in the backfield, but I don't think that's going to distract us all that much."

Richards, however, disagreed with Jackson's assessment. "If they know that we can run half a dozen different plays off one set (formation) and we've got a whole bunch of different sets, then they're got to have a lot of things running through their minds."

Y'know, like, if they were successful with that last time, are they gonna run it again or are they gonna run a variation?"

"I think maybe his (Jackson's) view is just a little bit too simplified."

And what of the Bronco's offense?

"Their defense seems to be their offense," said Waters. "That is, the offense sort of sits back until the defense gives them the ball in good field position with a fumble recovery or an interception. Then they go in and score."

It almost sounded as if Waters was underrating the Denver attack. Granted, it was 10th in the American Conference, but numbers like that can be deceiving, cautioned Jack Dolbin, the wide receiver who plays opposite the more highly publicized Haven Moses.

"People tend to discount our offense," said Dolbin. "But we get the job done. Like, there was the game in San Diego. We were down with two minutes to go and had to go 80 yards to win — and we did. Or the Oakland game (for the AFC title) when we knew we needed two first downs in the last few minutes to win it — and we got 'em."

"Anybody who underestimates our offense may be sorry he did."

And Dolbin certainly isn't underestimating Dallas' (See "Super," p. 2B)

Hodgson joins Tech coaches

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — New Texas Tech football coach Rex Dockery has added Pat Hodgson, a former all-Southeastern Conference receiver at Georgia and receiver coach for the Bulldogs since 1972, to his staff.

Hodgson, 33, named Tuesday to coach quarterbacks and receivers at Texas Tech, is the seventh coach to be named to Dockery's staff, leaving one position to be filled.

A three-year starter for the Bulldogs, Hodgson graduated from Georgia in 1965.

A good feeling with Marj Carpenter

Sometimes you just get a real good feeling about some occasion and that's kind of the way I felt last Saturday.

Dorothy Garrett and the rest of that family have been very special to Big Spring, sharing and supporting so many local activities.

That is why, when the large crowd attended the wedding of Sue Garrett and Stan Partee, there was such a really good feeling about the whole thing.

It was big and little people that went to the event because big and little people have learned to love them.

The side benefits, for those who attended because they cared and wanted to wish the couple well, was a beautiful string ensemble, towering palms and floral arrangements at the wedding and hanging flowers of every description at the reception.

A lot of folks also got a first view of the beautiful stained glass window at the First United Methodist Church.

And then a lot of former Big Springers came back for the event. It was just one of those things that gave you a good feeling about the whole world and the future of it.

My good feelings over the past week have not been limited to the wedding. There's nothing gives you a better feeling in the world of high school sports than beating Permian — at anything — even tiddlywinks.

And when you are a basketball fan, beating Permian in basketball is a special joy. Let's go, Steers.

You can, you know. Then I went up and watched the rehearsals of Campus Review 78 for a while. And as usual, talks it's going to be a good show.

We are so spoiled to this production. It is undoubtedly one of the best high school productions in the state and we just kind of take it for granted after 11 years.

We are prone to sometimes pick it apart rather than realize that we are lucky enough to have one of the best. And this year, again, it's going to be good entertainment. It will give you a good feeling.

While on the good feeling bit, I've got a good feeling about all of the work that has been done by the Big Spring Steering Committee thus far in the Battle for Big Spring.

The way the community has bounced back and upward gives you a good feeling.

There's always a few dreary folks around who

Nights shifted for meetings

The next pre-natal clinic for expectant parents will be held Monday nights, rather than Wednesday, as before. Classes will be held in the classroom at Malone-Hogan Hospital beginning Jan. 30 at 8 p.m.

We've switched to Mondays in order to avoid a conflict because of church services that are generally held on Wednesday nights. RN Karen DeNardo, instructor for the classes, said Wednesday. "The change to Monday will enable some to attend, that otherwise would not be able to do so," she added.

Only those with due dates between March 27 and May 21 need apply. The classes will be limited, and those with later due dates will have an opportunity to enroll in a later class, Mrs. DeNardo explained.

Interested parents are invited to register for the free clinic by calling Louise Curry, 263-1211, Ext. 175, by Jan. 15.

Those registered will be notified through the mail about the classes as well as what they will need to bring with them, Mrs. DeNardo said.

UTPB signups continuing

Late registration for the University of Texas of the Permian Basin spring classes to be held on Howard College campus, will continue through next Tuesday, Jan. 17.

Classes will begin Jan. 17. Anyone wishing to sign up for classes being offered should call Mrs. Virginia Smith at 267-8360 for further information.

Roswell man to stand trial in connection with theft of $20,000

ROSSELL (AP) — A 25-year-old Roswell man who waived his extradition hearing will be taken to Texas to stand trial in connection with the theft of $20,000 from a Friona, Texas, grocery store, officials said.

Rudolfo Corrella was arraigned Monday before Magistrate Baudelio Ramirez on charges of aggravated assault and automobile theft. He was being held in the Chaves County jail on a $10,000 bond. The charges stemmed from the theft at Friona of a car from Arnie Navarez of Roswell. Navarez was forced to turn over his car keys, clothes and wallet containing $1. He told deputies he had to walk home, about four miles, in his underwear and socks before he could call the sheriff's office.

Ramirez said the New Mexico charges will be held in abeyance until Corrella fulfills his obligations in Texas.

Corrella was being sought on a $25,000 Texas warrant for the robbery of the Friona Piggy Wiggly. Sheriff Charles Lovelace of Parma County, Texas, said Joe Tumgate, 40, assistant manager of the store, was robbed by a man who apparently hid in the back of the store and waited until the store official was ready to make his night deposit.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) It is important you study well any data pertaining to some interest you want to put in operation. A good time to make new contacts now. Some socializing now okay.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) See where you can improve finances. Don't neglect obligations. Please loved one by doing small errands.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Have talks with partners and cement better relations with them. Study into international conditions and be better informed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Put more effort into the work at hand and get good results. Talk over details with co-workers. Be sure you are thinking clearly and not permitting others to put anything over on you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make the arrangements early for the amusements you want later and they work out just fine. Compliments to those you like is wise, too.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get rid of petty annoyances at home, but be understanding. Make sure you get your accounts in order. Do what you can to make home more charming.

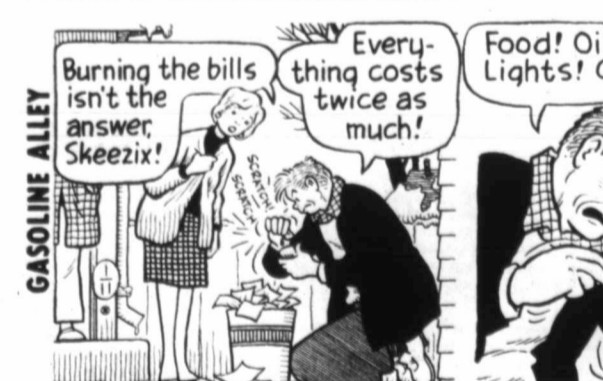

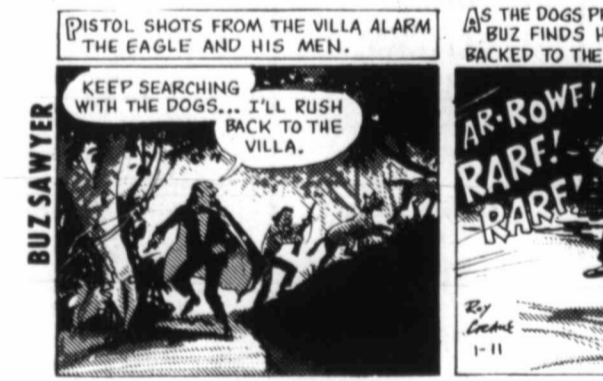

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Gather data you need to improve your daily routines. Plan a little trip that could yield good results. Show you are a good family member.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you apply yourself seriously you can work out from under some monetary tensions. Take time for improving health, also.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Change conditions around you by removing minor irritations. Visit with friends and relatives you like.

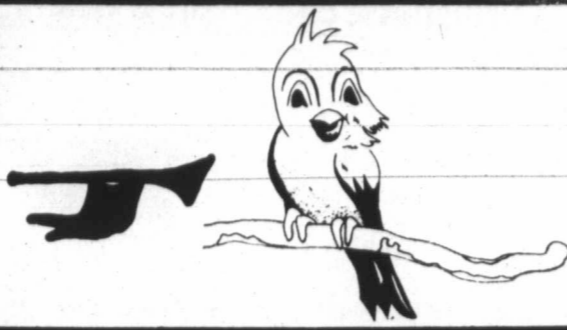

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will easily understand what is on the mind of others by simple meditation, since the subconscious is working accurately here. Ideal chart for work that has to do with private matters and understanding big projects, political trends and the like.

Farm Kremlin halts grain orders

Enchanted Rock may be sold

FREDRICKSBURG, Texas (AP) — The owners of scenic Enchanted Rock will decide Friday whether to give an option to buy the property to a national conservation group.

Developers also have made offers for the second largest granite dome in the United States — Stone Mountain in Georgia is larger — but Charles and Ruth Moss will meet with their four partners to discuss negotiations with Nature Conservancy of Arlington, Va.

Mrs. Moss said they want to sell so they can "quit working so hard." They've owned the property for 25 years.

Each of the four partners owns a one-eighth interest.

The pink granite mass rises 500 feet above the surrounding countryside 12 miles north of Fredericksburg. It covers approximately 200 acres. Four other smaller dome masses adjacent to it spread out over an additional 440 acres.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A question among grain farmers and government officials is when the Soviet Union will resume buying U.S. wheat and corn for delivery this year.

According to Agriculture Department officials, the Soviets ended a surge of grain purchases more than a month ago and have shown no sign of disclosing new orders.

The Soviet Union's last purchase announced by the department was on Dec. 9, when private exporters disclosed sales of 250,000 metric tons of wheat and 601,600 tons of corn for delivery through next Sept. 30, the end of the second year of a long-term grain agreement with the United States.

Under the agreement, the Soviets are committed to buy at least 6 million tons of wheat and corn annually for five years. About that amount was bought in the first year of the pact which ended last Sept. 30.

Through the Dec. 9 sales, the Soviets have bought about 6.4 million tons of grain — 2.3 million of wheat and 4.1 million of corn — for delivery during the current year. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

The agreement allows Russia to buy up to 8 million tons annually without further consultation with U.S. officials, but requires it to talk further if more than 8 million tons are wanted.

Last fall, the United States gave Moscow the go-ahead to buy up to 15 million tons of grain in 1977-78, and officials here have said they expect the full amount will be bought, probably 10 million tons of corn and 5 million of wheat.

Thus, if this is the intention, the Soviet Union still has to buy almost 9 million tons of grain to make up the full order of 15 million tons.

Although private exporters who handle the Soviet business are extremely secretive in their dealings, many authorities believe that most or all of the grain was arranged for months ago and that only the official announcements of purchases are hanging fire.

Because of this, the grain trade generally has already taken into account the Soviet purchases and does not foresee any serious price movement if and when new orders are announced.

The big unknown factors, however, are important. For one thing, there is always a possibility that Moscow may decide to increase or decrease its original intentions. In those events, U.S. grain prices could be affected to some degree.

Meanwhile, attention is being paid to Soviet grain crop prospects in 1978. If there is another reduced crop on the heels of the 1977 harvest, American farmers might stand to benefit with further large Russian orders a year from now.

Striking Texas farmers map trips to Washington

A group of striking Texas farmers threw a blockade of tractors across a Santa Fe Railroad track early today in West Texas between Hale Center and Lubbock.

Hale County deputies met briefly with the farmers, but made no arrests.

Officers said one train, enroute from Amarillo to Lubbock, was delayed for about an hour.

Santa Fe Railroad officials reportedly planned to meet with the farmers later today.

The scene of the blocked track was about 40 miles north of Lubbock.

The action came as most striking Texas farmers began to organize next week's trips to Washington for a nationwide protest rally. Very little activity had been expected in the state while the farmers prepared for the Washington trip.

"We've got meetings going on to finish plans for the Washington drive," said Gerald McCathern of Hereford, one of the leaders in the American Agriculture organization staging the strike.

Asked how many Texas farmers he expected to attend the three-day rally in Washington Jan. 18-20, McCathern said, "As unorganized as we are, there is no way of saying. We might have 500 or we might have 5,000."

But Texas had its share of tractorcades and blockades on Tuesday.

In Laredo, police peacefully arrested 37 farmers who refused to move their tractor blockade of a meat cold storage plant. The farmers were later released on personal recognizance bonds and were expected to leave the border city early today.

In the Northeast Texas city of Paris, farmers blocked a massive Campbell Soup plant with about 75 tractors for an hour and a half Tuesday before a compromise was reached.

AFBF will consider resolutions today

HOUSTON (AP) — Delegates to the American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) meeting were to consider resolutions today but so far during the session there has been no indication there will be any pertaining to the farmers' strike.

About 14 Texas farmers, members of the protesting American Agriculture movement, picketed the entrance to Sam Houston Coliseum Tuesday where the delegates were meeting.

The protesters said they were turned back at the entrance as they tried to enter the meeting room. Later they met with top officials of the Texas Farm Bureau to discuss their grievances.

The majority of the AFBF members demonstrated a lack of support for the strikers as they applauded their president, Alan Grant of Visalia, Calif., said the farmers strike was not in the best interests of agriculture.

Max Johnson, an Amarillo, Tex., cotton farmer and leader of the demonstrators, said that the disparity between what farmers set for their produce and consumer items they have to buy "is the reason for 100 per cent parity."

Johnson said that he put more than $100,000 into his crops this year and although he hadn't figured his taxes, his loss is between $2,000 and $3,000.

Among resolutions to be considered by the group is one opposing ratification of the Panama Canal treaties and one urging revision of the environmental protection laws.

Appearing before the meeting Tuesday were Richard W. Owens, chief administrator of the the federation; Rep. John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., the House minority leader; former Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson; and singer Anita Bryant.

Owens said the Carter administration has halted some Food for Peace shipments while diplomats checked the human rights record of recipient nations.

"This action again underscores the political and diplomatic hazards commonly encountered in federally administered trade and food policies," Owens said. "Everyone supports human rights but we don't

Examiner did not discuss $1.6 billion gas refund

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Senior legal examiner John Camp of the railroad commission has testified that he did not discuss with commissioner Jon Newton a proposed order forcing Lovaca Gathering Co. to refund $1.6 billion to natural gas customers.

Lovaca is trying in court to see if Newton influenced Camp or examiner John Neel, who heard Lovaca testimony in support of a rate increase.

Lovaca says Newton was biased and prejudiced against Lovaca.

Instead of an increase, the commission voted 2-1 for the huge refund and also said Lovaca must live up to its original gas contract prices. Lovaca says that will cost an additional $540 million a year.
