

FBI nominee's record favors prosecutors

WASHINGTON (AP) — William H. Webster, President Carter's choice to become director of the FBI, has supported eavesdropping and other controversial investigative tactics in his decisions as a federal appellate judge.

But in one case he upheld the right to sue the FBI for alleged illegal harassment.

The opinions he has written during four years on the U.S. Circuit Court in St. Louis show that he has generally interpreted the law and the Constitution to favor prosecutors, rather than criminal defendants.

His writings in criminal cases could offer some clues to the viewpoints he brings to the job of running the chief federal law enforcement agency.

President Carter is nominating the 53-year-old jurist to succeed Clarence M. Kelley as FBI director. Webster is a Republican. The nomination requires Senate confirmation.

An Associated Press study of 60 of the 185 majority and dissenting opinions Webster has written turned up several cases in which he supported the investigative tactics used by federal and local police. And he allowed prosecutors considerable latitude in the evidence they could use against a defendant on trial.

But in reaching his decisions, Webster relied heavily on the precedents of earlier court rulings. He broke no new ground to expand the rights of police or prosecutors.

In a 1976 case, for example, Webster wrote the court's opinion affirming the fraud conviction of James A. Harvey of Arkansas, who was accused of using a "blue box" to circumvent the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s billing system and make long distance home calls for free.

When company officials suspected Harvey of using the scheme, they eavesdropped on his phone calls for six weeks, then alerted the FBI which obtained a search warrant, raided his home and arrested him.

To support his decision, Webster cited an opinion by four of the nine justices of the Supreme Court.

Two more newspapers banned in Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The army broke up a student mass meeting, rounded up campus leaders and banned two more newspapers Saturday in a widening crackdown against critics of President Suharto's right-wing government.

Informed sources said more than 100 students were arrested in this capital city and elsewhere on the Indonesian island of Java. The local military command claimed it had no information about the arrests.

About 2,000 students gathered for a protest meeting at a private Christian university on the outskirts of the capital, but the crowds were dispersed by troops backed by four armored cars, a jeep and a helicopter. By late afternoon, the university compound was empty.

Student leaders at the University of Indonesia here claimed the government banned all student councils throughout the country. They demanded to see Suharto, in the words of one leader, "to tell him of our grievances and then we will be quiet."

Several campuses, including the University of Indonesia here, were ringed by troops.

Weather

Up to eight inches of snow falls

By the Associated Press

Heavy snow fell on the northern half of Texas Saturday, dumping up to eight inches in some areas, but no weather-related fatalities were reported.

The storm caused hazardous driving conditions, forcing motorists indoors and off the highways.

Throughout North Texas, temperatures were in the 20s and skies were cloudy. Snowfall ranged from eight inches at San Angelo to a trace and freezing rain at Austin.

The National Weather Service said the storm was moving in a northeasterly direction and eventually would swing out of Texas into southeastern Oklahoma and Arkansas, probably by Sunday.

Officials at the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport said they were braced for the storm and all runways were clear. Both incoming and outgoing flights were on schedule, they said.

The Department of Public Safety in Austin said their troopers reported light traffic in the worst areas and only a normal number of weekend accidents.

In south Texas, rain, freezing rain and sleet were reported.

The only city in the state where fair skies were reported was Amarillo, which frequently feels the brunt of Texas' winter storms.

Late Saturday afternoon temperatures ranged from 27 at San Angelo to 43 at El Paso, 28 at Dallas-Fort Worth, 26 at Wichita Falls, 30 at Lubbock, 31 at Longview, 32 at Tyler, 35 at Corpus Christi and 41 at Del Rio.

FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Fair skies and a warming trend are expected through Monday. Highs Sunday will be in the 40s in the north to the 50s in the south and west. Lows Sunday night should range from the mid 30s to the lower 30s. Highs Monday should be in the 50s.

EXTENDED FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — There should be no significant precipitation through Thursday. The weather will turn colder Tuesday with highs in the 30s and 40s in the north and in the 50s in the south. Lows in the teens are expected in the north and 20s and 30s in the south.

IT'S WET IN CALIFORNIA — Third grader Debbie Holland of East Linda, Calif., waits for her Marysville school bus during one of last week's Northern California rain storms. Water rationing is ending rapidly in many communities following January's heavy rains, making it one of the wettest months ever recorded in Northern California, and ending the worst drought in the history of the state.

The state board that never met

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — When Texas Sunset Commission members heard last week that the Texas Stonewall Jackson Memorial Board never had met during its 20-year existence, they had one question: Who created the thing in the first place, and why?
 Commission staff members said former Sen. Charles Herring sponsored the creating legislation in 1957. They didn't know why. As it turns out, neither does Herring.
 The former senator from Austin now is executive director of the Lower Colorado River Authority. He was asked by a reporter why he successfully fought for a state agency to memorialize a long-dead confederate general.
 "I have no recollection of it," Herring replied. When he learned that the legislation produced only a paper agency, he added, "Then it was a waste of time to pass it."
 Sunset Commission members, who are looking at combining or abolishing state agencies, obviously think so too, and it is very likely that by Sept. 1, 1979, the Stonewall Jackson Memorial Board will be gone as well as forgotten.
 That also is the possible fate of the Pink Bollworm Commission, Vehicle Safety Commission, Pesticide Advisory Commission and Burial Association Rate Board.
 The Sunset Commission

staff already has studied these state agencies and recommended they be abolished. The commission will examine over the next 10 years.
 No doubt by design, the commission will take up the easy ones first, the first public hearing on agencies will be Feb. 20 and will cover the five above-mentioned paper agencies and the Texas Navy, Inc.
 Texas Navy, Inc., does exist, but actually is only a quasi-public agency. It is a nonprofit corporation that promotes Texas history and goodwill, and its only tie to the state is statutory permission to use the Seal of Texas on honorary "commissions" given out by the organization.
 The Sunset Commission staff is recommending that the present arrangement be continued, but some members question whether this is wise.
 The organization's funds come from private contributions and are maintained outside state financial control.

 Several commission members indicated reservations about the state having an association with a group over which it has no control.
 "We don't want something to happen to those funds that would reflect on the state," Rep. Bill Ceverha (R-Dallas) said.
 More questions on the situation probably will be asked at the Feb. 20 hearing. By Nov. 28 the commission will have studied and made recommendations on 26 agencies. Its report will be made to the legislature when it meets the following January.

 Some cynical observers say the Sunset process will accomplish little more than abolishment of paper agencies and will generate more paperwork and expenditures than it cuts.
 One commission member, Sen. W. E. "Pete" Snelson (D-Midland), doesn't believe this will happen.
 He said the Sunset process will give the legislature an opportunity "to cut back on the growing maze of red tape that is strangling our society in so many areas."

Energy

Drilling in 1978 off to a good start

HOUSTON (AP) — Momentum carrying over from 1977 has domestic oil and gas drilling operations off to a good start.
 "Many contractors report receiving the largest ever total of year-end payments this past December," said Ed McGhee, executive vice president of the International Association of Drilling Contractors.
 The industry kept an average of 2,002 rotary drilling rigs at work last year, the highest level since 1959. The weekly average ranged from a high of 2,168 to a low of 1,815.
 In 1971, the low point of a 16-year slump in domestic drilling operations, the rotary rig average of only 975 resulted from weekly averages that ranged from a high of only 1,189 to a low of 814.
 McGhee said the December prepayments alone will carry many contractors through the January-March first quarter.
 "Moreover, there is no indication of a slackening of new business; weather appears to be the only significant factor limiting U. S. rig activity," he said.
 McGhee said response to the strong demand is prompting new contracting firms to spring up in all areas.
 "In Houston alone, two completely new five-rig drilling firms have been spawned in the last six months," he said. "Five rigs don't confer upon one a major contractor status, but the average member in the association owns only about four rigs."
 McGhee said an interesting number of producer firms are finding rig ownership attractive.
 "Not only is contract work profitable at the moment, but owning the rig also ensures that it will be available for inhouse work," he said.
 "Not typical, but indicative, is a letter spread across the oil country by Liberty Petroleum Corp. of Toledo, Ohio. Liberty states: 'We are urgently in need of drilling rigs. If these are unable to move into Ohio we are willing to invest funds in your state.'"

McGhee said recent warnings about possible overbuilding of land rigs seemingly have deterred few domestic contractors.
 "New orders still pour in to the manufacturers," he said. "Some drilling firms, however, report taking greater than usual precaution. They get contracts in hand before ordering."
 He said at least one contractor is forming a partnership with the operator to hold title to each new rig purchased.
 "This cuts down the contractor's financial exposure and gives the operator an incentive to keep the unit working," he said.
 McGhee reports guarded optimism is the attitude among most of the world's offshore drilling contractors.
 "All jack-up units are at work; moderate improvement is evident in demand for semisubmersibles and floaters," he said.
 "On top of this, gloom seem to be lifting regarding bureaucratic and court delays of drilling on the U. S. East Coast."
 McGhee said one contractor looks at the situation this way: "We're committed too far ahead to think that 1978 will be anything but a so-so year. But if things keep improving, we should be about to set the stage for a good healthy 1979."
 Contractors, McGhee said, are not the only ones taking satisfaction in the growing domestic rig population.
 "Thieves seem equally pleased," he said.
 "Thefts of bits, elevators, tongs, etc. have been increasing. Seven expensive insert bits were stolen on a recent day from a rig working in a remote location in Idaho."
 McGhee said some arrests have been made but not enough to stem the traffic in stolen goods. He said the situation is aggravated by the dramatic pickup in equipment sales brought on by the drilling boom.
 "Some items have not been available for immediate delivery from their manufacturer," he said. "A clever thief can accept an 'order' for a scarce item and deliver it faster than can a legitimate supply house. Moreover, the thief doesn't have to store the item while he looks for a buyer. This makes him the more difficult to apprehend."

Oil and gas leases filed in big numbers

Statewide rotary drilling rigs may have been down in Texas this week, but interest in oil and gas in Howard County is apparently picking up.
 The drill rig count this week was 831 compared to 832 last week and 838 last month although up from the 744 of a year ago.
 Nationwide, there was also a slump this week to 2121 over 2140 last week and 2168 the previous week and 1878 a year ago.
 But in the Howard County clerk's office, there was suddenly been a rash of oil and gas leases filed.
 This week, the clerks filed over 279 instruments, almost a record high in recent years.
 The year 1978 is only two weeks old and going into the third week and there are already 526 oil and gas leases filed in Howard County, according to Margaret Ray, county clerk.
 It was the second week in February before this many leases had been filed last year and that was considered a good year.

Bill Mathis, an independent land man who often sells the leases to various companies or individuals, filed 40 this week. He is from Midland.
 Florida Gas Exploration, also out of Midland, filed over 60 oil and gas leases.
 They are not all in one portion of the county like somebody suspects a big strike in one location.
 Many of them have been out in the Moore Community area and a little to the north.
 Some of them have been southeast and some have been southwest of Big Spring.
 Nobody gives any apparent reason, but evidently drilling activity is going to pick up around Howard County.
 The act of filing oil and gas leases is not usually an exercise in futility.
 Somebody is getting ready to look for additional energy sources. And in a county where oil activity had slowed down in recent years, starting to pick up a little bit in 1977.

Stock market rally never materializes

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market flirted with a rally this week but tiptoed away amid disappointment over President Carter's economic plans, continued squabbling over a national energy plan and the dollar's softness in foreign exchange markets.

Pulses quickened on Wall Street Tuesday when the market began to climb out of the slump that had made 1978 a disaster before January was over. And the following day when the rally continued analysts allowed themselves a small amount of optimism.

But the bubble burst Thursday. The market feared higher interest rates and was apprehensive about Carter's speech Thursday night.

Analysts began to say the two-day upswing was nothing more than an adjustment that's common when the market goes way down quickly.

And that's what it has done. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks began the year at 831.17 and ended last week at 776.94.

"Never in the 80 years that records have been kept has the market gotten off to a worse start in a new year," said analyst Larry Wachtel.

The resurgence Tuesday and Wednesday pushed the Dow up 14.56. But by the end of the week the index was ahead only 1.21 from the week before.

Experts said investors don't have much confidence in Carter and that his speech Thursday did little to change that.

The immediate outlook for stock prices depends heavily on what Wall Street thinks of the Carter administration's tax and economic programs and budget proposal, which are being released over the weekend and Monday morning.

But many analysts said Wall Street is sufficiently disenchanted with Carter that they would be surprised if the outline of his proposals brought a favorable response.

One possibility to break the pessimism in the market is a large influx of foreign investors buying undervalued stocks in American companies with good earnings, but the chances of it seem remote.

BILL BENNETT

Precinct 2 seat sought by Bennett

Bill Bennett has announced he will be a candidate for the office of County Commissioner, Precinct Two, subject to action in the First Democratic Primary election May 6.

Bennett was elected to that position in 1970 and retained it one term.

Born in Howard County, Bill has resided here all his life. He and Mrs. Bennett own their own home in the Sand Springs area. He has been employed by Cosden Oil & Chemical Co., for 28 years and now works in Operations at the local refinery.

He attended public schools in Coahoma. He is married to the former Johnnie Padgett of Forsan. They have two sons, Jody, 20, now in college at Angelo State University; and Randy, 16, a senior at Coahoma High School. Both were involved in athletic programs at Coahoma High School.

The Bennett family is affiliated with the Baptist Church.

Upon announcing his plans, Bennett made the following statement:

"After much thought and consideration, and being prompted by many concerned citizens of my precinct and from other parts of the county, I have decided to again seek the office of County Commissioner, Precinct Two.

"I made this decision realizing that Howard County is now moving forward with a stable and an expanding economy. I have high ideas for the future of the county. I think leadership and good business practices are necessary and important. I believe with my experience as a farmer, some ranching experience, a laborer, a business man and four years as a commissioner I can contribute to the kind of leadership that is needed to keep the county moving in a progressive manner.

"The first pledge I will make is that I will not vote for a salary increase during my term of office. If a salary increase becomes necessary for any elected official, I would insist that it not become effective until the beginning of the succeeding term. The exception would be for the sheriff's department, for I realize we are living at a time when good law enforcement is necessary as never before. I would use all the power vested in me to increase the salary of the sheriff and his deputies comparable to that of other law enforcement agencies and would oppose any discrimination of women, with reference to salary.

"If elected, I intend to devote some time and attention to establishing a veteran's service office in Howard County. I think this is very necessary, because I know of times when veterans and their families were entitled to needed benefits that were available but because of the lack of knowledge securing them they were either denied or not applied for.

"I am sure there will be other issues to come up during the campaign, so I will say here and now that I will be available to answer all questions as to how I stand on any phase of county government."

Stanton man starts McMurry drive

Jimmy Stallings, certified public accountant from Stanton, will preside over a luncheon and meeting at 12 noon Tuesday, in the Western Sizzler Restaurant here to kick off the 1977-78 McMurry College Annual Fund drive in the Big Spring area.

United Methodist churches in Big Spring, Garden City, Coahoma, Westbrook and Stanton will participate by sending representatives who will help with the fund-raising for the Methodist-owned college in Abilene. Church pastors, McMurry Annual Fund chairpersons from the churches, and all members of the local Annual Fund teams have been invited to attend, according to Stallings.

Stallings is Big Spring

district chairman of the McMurry Annual Fund for 1977-78. He will also preside over five additional kickoff meetings in the Big Spring area, beginning with a 7 p.m. dinner on Monday, January 23, at First Methodist Church in Snyder. Attending the Snyder meeting also will be representatives from United Methodist churches in Dunn, Ira, Fluvanna and Hermitage.

At 7 a.m. Tuesday, Stallings will preside at a breakfast and meeting and LaVilla Restaurant in Colorado City. Representatives from Dorn, Roscoe, Lorraine and Bailey Chapel will also attend that meeting.

There will be a 6:30 p.m. dinner on Tuesday, at St. Lukes United Methodist Church in Midland. Representatives from Andrews will also attend the dinner.

At 7 a.m. Wednesday there will be a breakfast at First United Methodist Church in Seminole, with attendance by representatives of churches in Denver City and Seagraves.

The final meeting will be a 12 noon luncheon Wednesday, at Northridge Methodist Church in Lamesa. Representatives from Ackerly, O'Donnell, Draw, and Gail will also attend.

This is the second year that Stallings, a 1950 McMurry College graduate, has headed the campaign for McMurry in the Big Spring district. Last year the Big Spring district contributed $21,691.42 to McMurry.

The McMurry Annual Fund was begun in 1973 to raise money for academic and general expenses of the college. Dr. Thomas Kim, McMurry president, noted at the time that most other private U.S. colleges have similar drives. Tuition brings in only about 40 per cent of the McMurry budget.

Last year the McMurry Annual Fund raised a total of $322,600 with campaigns in Big Spring, Lubbock, Pampa, Plainview, Amarillo, Seymour and Abilene districts of the Northwest Texas Conference and the Carlsbad district of the New Mexico Conference of the United Methodist Church.

Alateens provide needed help

By MARJ CARPENTER
Jane sat out front of her home with her date after returning from a basketball game.

She eyed her home cautiously. She noticed the light was still on in the kitchen. She said a hasty prayer, "Oh dear God, don't let Dad be drunk." She told her date goodnight hastily and told him "Don't walk me to the door."

She had been greeted on more than one occasion by an irrational drunken father screaming at both her and her date. One time he had struck her in front of a date. She saw a light snap on in the front of the house. She bolted suddenly from the car and ran into the house, trying to avoid a scene.

This is a normal event for the daughter of an alcoholic father.

Arthur came in from junior college in the afternoon. The door was wide open, even though it was cold. He sighed as he walked into the hallway and put down his books.

He knew that his mother was probably passed out again. Sure enough, she was lying on the couch, breathing heavily. There were empty beer cans on the coffee table and a couple had fallen to the floor. A cigarette had fallen out of the ashtray and burned out, leaving another mark on the coffee table.

Breakfast dishes that he had put in the sink himself that morning were still there.

He sighed again and looked in the icebox for something for a sandwich for supper.

He found some peanut butter and three pieces of bread. He settled for that. He had to get to work at a service station and needed to

A little lower On being seventeen

By WILFRID M. CALNAN
Director, Howard Co. Family Service Center

Judy was small, dark, defiant and seventeen. Angrily, she told her mother that nobody could stop her if she left home. Disbelieving use the little time he had to study.

He sat looking at his school books and trying to think. He wondered if he was the only one whose father had died, that had a mother that drank all day.

He worried that she would set the house on fire. He worried about money. He worried about how he could ever leave and have a family of his own with nobody to take care of her.

These are not fiction stories. They are real incidents in the records of Alateens. The names, of course, are changed.

The entire concept of Alateens is anonymity. "Alateen came into existence because of a need to help teenagers live with an active or recovering alcoholic, whether it is one or both parents or a friend," Bob Fuller, local sponsor of the Alateen chapter here said this week.

The local group meets each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at 615 Settles. The teenagers who attend there share mutual problems which they have to deal with.

One 24-year-old youth here in Big Spring, who is now married, says, "I could not have made it when I was a teenager without Alateens. When I sneaked off to that first meeting of the group, I was absolutely in despair.

"I learned a lot of things. I learned that alcoholism was an illness and that my Dad was trying to combat it from one day to the next. I also learned that teenagers caught up in that situation have to take it one day at a time, too."

He added, "People in Alateens care about each other. In fact, you might just say that they care — period."

Members of Alateens used this, the mother called a police authority. To her surprise she learned that Judy was right. She could leave home and nobody could do anything about it.

I encouraged mother to relax. I told Judy she was within her rights to leave home. I did express the hope that she would think of what could happen to her if she did leave home at this time. Mother began to relax. Her relationship with Judy improved.

WHAT ARE the lessons to be learned from this series of episodes? One is the tremendous contradictions that take place in the minds of our children. As a nation we have expanded the length of childhood and children's dependence on parents. Not so long ago it used to be common for children to go to work at the age of twelve or fourteen.

Now, frequently, we provide for the dependency of children upon parents by extending subsidy past 18 years or over 21 years, especially if the chance for higher education is offered. At the same time, we have created a contradiction. Although the period of dependence on parents has been extended, the child gains his majority at 18 years and, in Texas, can legally leave home at the age of 17 years.

AT THE TIME when the late adolescent needs certainty in his life, the uncertain can easily arise. This can cause conflict between parent and child. Here is one of the reasons for the conflict.

Life may be considered as a series of separations, beginning with birth and proceeding through adulthood. The "natural" separations mostly take place between the parents and the child. One of the marks of good parenting is the parents' demonstrated ability to help the child move through stages of separation. Perhaps the greatest test is the separation at age 17 and 18 years.

The parents need to show the utmost in understanding and patience in facing the problem, confronting their child. Perhaps they may have to take risky, heroic measures, such as helping set up the child in "that apartment."

Above all the parents need at this time to be courageous and to remain confident of their own personal competence, their abilities as parents. More than this, they need to understand that the obstinacy of their child is a cry for help, and to find ways to respond to this cry. Parents are much more capable of facing this traumatic period than they credit themselves as being.

to go straight into Ala-non when they became 20, but in recent years, there have been some chapters of Alateens which include the early 20s.

"They share the same problems. A lot of kids in their early 20s are still trying to complete their education," Fuller pointed out.

Ala-nons is adults who are married to an alcoholic partner or live in a home with an alcoholic parent or other relative.

Some people get interested in the program that do not actually have the problem of an alcoholic in their home. Sometimes an Alateen will bring a date to the meeting and their friend will then become interested.

Violence, financial problems and emotional turmoil are among the main problems that are caused in the home of an alcoholic.

These problems are especially distressing to teenagers just at the age when they are wanting the respect of their peers. But an Alateen who learns to cope with the family problems is often a life-saver to younger children in the home, who do not understand the problems at all.

Persons wishing additional information may call Fuller at 267-6591 or attend one of the meetings on a Wednesday night at 615 Settles.

The sponsor stated, "We don't have all of the answers, but those involved do share a lot of problems. And it helps."

Landry captures Scovell Award

DALLAS (AP) — Tom Landry, head coach of the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys, has been named by the All Sports Association of Dallas as recipient of the coveted Field Scovell Award.

Cowach Landry, former all-Southwest Conference fullback at the University of Texas and all-pro cornerback of the New York Giants, will receive the trophy at the 13th All Sports Award dinner at the Sheraton-Dallas Hotel Feb. 28.

Landry, only coach in the history of the Dallas Cowboys, last year was named Pro Coach of the Year by the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Landry was born in Mission, Texas, Sept. 11, 1924 where he later earned All-Regional fullback honors at Mission High School before enrolling at Texas. After one semester at the university, Landry entered the Air Corps and flew B-17 missions with the Eighth Air Force. After his discharge he returned to Texas where he earned All-SWC honors as a junior and co-captained the Longhorns as a senior. Those Texas teams defeated Alabama in the 1948

Sugar Bowl and Georgia in the 1949 Orange Bowl.

Landry first played with the old New York Yankees of the All-American Conference in 1949, moving to the Giants a year later where he was a defensive standout through 1955, the last two years as player-coach. He was All-Pro in 1954.

After the 1955 season, Landry was Giants defensive coach through 1959. He became head coach of the Cowboys in 1960, posting an 0-11-1 record his first year. Since 1966, his first winning season, he has recorded a 127-42-2 standard, best of any pro football team.

Dallas defeated the Denver Broncos 27-10 in New Orleans Jan. 15 for the Cowboys' second Super Bowl crown. Earlier, the Cowboys defeated the Miami Dolphins 24-3 in New Orleans' Tulane Stadium for their first Super Bowl title in 1972.

Tickets for the Awards dinner are $15 per person and may be obtained by mailing check or money order to P.O. Box 148, Dallas 75221.

Weather screws up schedules

By the Associated Press
It's getting so you can't tell who's playing without a weather report.

Earl voted best Am

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Heisman trophy winner Earl Campbell of Texas was an overwhelming choice as amateur athlete of the year in voting by the Texas Sports Writers Association.

In the preferential balloting, Campbell drew 96 of the 105 votes cast and finished with 407 points.

Others who received votes were basketballer Otis Birdsong of Houston, football sprinter Johnny "Lam" Jones of Texas and running back Larry Collins of Texas A&I.

For the second winter in a row, heavy snow, high winds and just plain miserable weather have begun to play havoc with the sports schedule. Up to 18 inches of snow fell in various parts of the United States Thursday and Friday, thus curtailing much of the sporting action.

The hardest-hit area seemed to be the Northeast, where three National Basketball Association contests, several minor league hockey games and a slew of college activities were postponed. And a number of racetracks also were dark due to the storms.

The NBA games in Buffalo, Boston, Piscataway, N.J. and Chicago were postponed. Philadelphia, Rochester and Nova Scotia were to be rescheduled.

The Denver Nuggets, who played in Milwaukee Thursday night, were unable to get to Buffalo to play the Braves; the Cavaliers were stuck in Cleveland and couldn't make their game with the Bulls in Chicago, and both Boston and Piscataway were unreachable by basketball players and just about anybody else. The Kansas City Kings were due in Boston and Seattle was scheduled to play the New Jersey Nets.

The blizzards also forced postponement of three-fourths of the American Hockey League schedule, with only the Binghamton-New Haven game being played. Games in PETERBOROUGH, Ontario (AP) — Audrey Victor (Dit) Clapper, who was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1945, two years before he retired from the National Hockey League, died in a hospital Friday after a long illness. He was 70.

Clapper dies

A six-foot 200-pound right winger and defenseman had 20 brilliant seasons with the Boston Bruins. Clapper, who preferred to use his size to stop fights rather than start them, played for the first three Bruin Stanley Cup-winning clubs, in 1929, 1929 and 1941.

A NEW TWIST — The versatility of the new perimetric hairstyles are shown here on three models, each having a different perimetric cut. The styles allow for upsweeps, braids, buns and twists.

Hairfashion goes metric with 'perimetric hair'

By DUSTY RICHARD
 "Perimetric" is the word for spring-summer 1978 hairstyles. Perimetric hair combines diametric perming and metric cutting techniques to create a soft feminine look needed for spring-summer apparel.

Weergang of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association (NHCA), harsh, geometric lines of past hairstyles will be gone, leaving instead wispy fringes.

Mary Lopez, owner of Circle Beauty Salon, 98 Circle Dr., said that she and members of her staff will attend the NHCA Convention in February to learn these new spring-summer styles.

To achieve this effect, the interrelationship between perming and cutting must be examined. Diametric perming is a precise method of selecting the exact size perm rods to support the metric haircut. Perm rods are measured by diameter sizes, and particular sizes are selected for different hair lengths, densities and textures.

The length, density and texture of the hair are again considered in metric haircutting, a process of cutting hair to exact lengths at specific areas of the head. The combination of metric haircutting and diametric perming create the total perimetric hair effect.

Ms. Lopez said that when a woman comes into her salon, which offers Redkin PH-balanced hair products and cosmetics, she or a member of her staff will help the woman decide on a style, taking into consideration such things as her type of hair and her lifestyle.

SHADES OF NEFERTITI — This model shows another of the Egyptian variations in perimetric hairstyles. Notice the soft lines and wisps.

FRINGE — Here is displayed the Wind Drift, featuring the fringe that will be fashionable next season. The hair is fringed along its "hem."

SOLAR HAIR — Examples of last year's geometric lines are shown here in solar hair styles, designed to generate feelings of warmth through action-packed waves and curls.

1978 SPRING-SUMMER STYLES — Featured in a perimetric trio are, clockwise from the bottom left, Update 30's, Visor and an Egyptian variation.

the clothing styles and soft pastel colors fashionable next season, loose curls are required, rather than geometric lines. NHCA noted that the bubbly-foam perm is gaining importance as a perming method. In the bubbly-foam perm, hair designed with perm rods or rollers is covered with a foaming chemical which penetrates into the hair to produce the waves and curls complimentary to spring-summer clothes. The professional perm gives lasting stability for quick washing and drying between salon visits. The styles also feature versatility in length, adequate for many variations, including braids, twists and chignons. Among the perimetric hair favorites created for spring-summer 1978 are Egyptian looks, Wind Drift, 30's

Update and Visor looks. Perimetric hair, as premiered at the National Beauty Show in Las Vegas, Nev., Jan. 15-18, is being taught to cosmetologists throughout the country in their individual cities and states.

 BIG SPRING, TEXAS,
 SUNDAY, JANUARY 22, 1978

CURLS, CURLS, CURLS — This super-curly perimetric style is one of the favorites to be worn for the spring and summer of 1978. In addition to curls, it features fringe at the ears, nape and bangs.

NO BRUSH — Don't even take a brush to this new hairstyle. In brief, the more tousled, the better. Unless hair is naturally curly like Ford model Kim Neblett's, a perm might be needed before hair is washed, combed and blown nearly dry. Fluff hair out with your fingers as you blow dry, continuing to finger-dry when hair is still slightly damp. That's it!

Cool relationship with older man

Dr. Wallace:

I'm 19 and in love. I work at a bank and awhile back, an attractive customer asked me for a date and I said yes. We had a very nice evening. The next day he even helped me rake leaves in my yard. When I went on my second date with him, my mother said she really liked him.

I have an older brother who is overprotective and watches over me. When he found out that my date was 30 years old, my brother asked me not to date him anymore. Now my mother agrees with my brother.

Once in awhile, I go over to his apartment and cook for him, but my mother wants me to stop this. This guy says that he doesn't want to come between my family and me, but I really do love him and would like to get serious with him. What should I do?

Loret, Lodi, Calif.

Dear Lorel:

Continue to date this fellow, but because you're living at home, honor your mother's wish and stay out of his apartment.

Don't be too eager to rush into a serious situation with him. It could be that you are just infatuated with an "older" man. If not, still give your relationship time to mature.

Dr. Wallace:

Several months ago, you stated a few driving tips to save gas. I am a college student who is short on money and who wants to help out in the energy crunch. Could you please repeat these hints?

Nick, Alliance, Ohio

Dear Nick:

The average driver in the United States uses about 600 gallons of gasoline a year, and by improving your driving habits you can save about 60 gallons of fuel per year. This figures out to about $378, which ain't shabby. So that I do not repeat the same tips that have been printed, I've dug up a few more.

— Anticipate stops, turns, lights, yields and hills.

— Conserve momentum by avoiding unnecessary braking, turning and accelerating.

— Decelerate through natural resistance of the engine, road, tires and wind.

— Economize in motion. Start smoothly but briskly and get to a cruising speed quickly. Keep a steady foot on the accelerator.

— Maintain proper tire pressure, reduce idle speed, set timing and carburetor properly.

Dr. Wallace:

I'm a 17-year-old girl and a senior in high school.

My problem is that my parents are quite religious and will not allow me to attend our homecoming dance. In fact, they don't even allow me to attend sock hops.

It's my last year and I feel that I have the right to go. I sort of believe like my parents that dancing is a sin, but I still want to go. I've talked to my parents but they won't listen to my arguments.

What am I going to tell the boy who is going to ask me? Help!

Penny, Valparaiso, Ind.

Dear Penny:

You are confused. Either you agree with parents on the morality of dancing or you don't. There is no in-between.

Since you knew how your parents felt about dancing all through your high school career, you should have expected they wouldn't listen to your arguments now.

I believe your only chance to have your parents relent and allow you to go would be for a school administrator or teacher to contact your parents and invite them to help chaperone the dance. They just might go for it but don't get your hopes up too high.

Questions may be sent to Dr. Robert Wallace, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Baby being kept alive by 40 nursing mothers

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Forty women with milk to spare after breast-feeding their babies are freezing it to keep George Hernandez alive.

George is nearly two, but his medical problems have held his weight to only 14 pounds.

He stays alive on 30 ounces of milk each day, eating at two-hour intervals.

The nursing mothers collect their spare milk in plastic containers and store it in freezers until it is needed to prepare George's formula. George was born with most of his intestines on the outside, and complicated surgery had to be performed when he was just a few hours old. At 2½ months he developed what medical science calls a "volvulus" — the twisting of the intestine around itself. It was so severe that a length of the intestine became gangrenous and had to be removed.

Protracted diarrhea followed, and tests at John Sealy Hospital in Galveston showed George had become allergic to commercial infant formulas.

A formula was devised composed of half breast milk and triglyceride, predigested protein substances and table sugar. He began to put on weight.

In a couple of years, says George's doctor, the infant's "short gut" will grow enough for him to digest other foods.

Miss Mashburn, Owens are united in marriage

Erma Lou Mashburn and Tim Owens, both of Midland, were united in marriage at 7 p.m. Jan. 14 by the Rev. Ed Carson in the First Baptist Church of Stanton.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Mashburn of Stanton, and parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Gene Owens of Pecos.

The double-ring ceremony was performed before an altar set with a lighted rainbow candelabrum filled with mixed flower bouquets of pink and white gladiolus and carnations. Two spiral tiered candelabrams filled with the same flowers stood before the wedding party.

The bride, presented in marriage by her father, chose a floor-length gown of organza with Venice lace covering the fitted empire bodice. The sheer bishop sleeves of the gown ended in wide cuffs and were edged in Venice lace, as was the hem of the bell-shaped skirt.

Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a Juliet cap and was edged with Venice lace motifs. She carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, white carnations, baby's breath and stephanotis on top of a white Bible.

Alma Hill, Midland, served her sister as matron of honor, and Mary Mashburn, Houston, served her sister as maid of honor. Rosalyn Louder of Stanton was bridesmaid, and Marlene Rigoli of Stanton was bridesmatron.

The bride's attendants wore dark blue gowns of crepe knit accented with white lace and carried cascades of blue, white and pink carnations. Smaller floral arrangements adorned their hair.

Louis Perkins of Pecos served as best man, and groomsmen were Darren Owens, Plainview, brother of the groom and Cliff Davis and Daryl Boatright, both of Pecos. Loyd Mashburn, nephew of the bride, was junior groomsmen.

The groom and his attendants wore blue suits trimmed in dark blue.

The bride's table, covered with white lace over blue, held a centerpiece of light blue, dark blue and pink.

The groom's table held a centerpiece of pink car-

Lamesa seeks police car, sweeper bids

LAMESA — The city council discussed city hall alterations, and called for bids on four new police cars and a street sweeper when they met this week.

They also passed an ordinance creating a home rehabilitation program for the city on second reading. The program is designed to offer low interest loans for housing improvements which will be funded with part of a federal Community Development grant.

Target area selected for the home program is in the vicinity of the Midland School and would allow loans, not to exceed $4,000 to qualified property owners who are unable to secure loans from other sources to finance improvement of their properties.

Councilman Nelson Hogg introduced a motion to include the disabled, regardless of age.

In discussing the bids on new police cars, the council agreed to ask for an option to include diesel engines. It was noted by some council members that police departments who have tried diesel engines report lower maintenance costs.

Beecher McCormick was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Phil Scaggs on the Board of City Development. John Middleton was reappointed city judge.

The fire contract is to be renewed with Dawson County. A request by the school to use Lobo Park was approved.

Official notice passing a resolution for Places Two and Three on the city council with the election April 1 was approved. The election was again set to be held in conjunction with the schools.

Less than 24 hours after the election was called, Art Bizzell and Jim Trulove filed for positions on the council. Bizzell, an accountant, filed for re-election to place two which he has held one year.

Trulove, operator of J&J Grocery, filed for place three, presently held by Nelson Hogg.
