BAKER LAKE, Northwest Territories (AP) — A Canadian-American search team struggled through waist-high snow Sunday to the edge of a crater nearly 10 feet across in the ice on the Thelon River and found wreckage from a runaway Soviet nuclear satellite.

Lt. Col. Donald Davidson of the Canadian Armed Forces told a news conference early today that tubing and a perforated metal canister were found protruding from the ice. Paul Murda, leader of a five-man U.S. scientific crew, said the canister was "sort of like a cylinder that got smashed" while the tubing "looks like structural tubing." "Something has really gone through that ice at a high speed," said Davidson. "This is all that's left sticking out, or maybe separate pieces. We don't know. We didn't pull it apart."

A Chinook helicopter took the 13-member crew from Baker Lake to the crater 180 miles to the southwest after it was found by two of the six members of a Canadian-American team wintering in the area on a wildlife survey for the Northwest Territories government.

The debris from the nuclear-powered Cosmos-954 satellite that fell from orbit last Tuesday was found eight miles northeast of the landing strip at Warden's Grove, a weather outpost in the Dubawnt Lake area 1,000 miles north of the North Dakota border. Davidson said the two men made a sled trip up the Thelon River Saturday and encountered the crater on their return.

He said one of the two men touched the metal with a gloved hand. Both men were flown Sunday to University Hospital in Edmonton for tests, while the other four were flown to a hospital in Yellowknife. The team consists of five Americans and one Canadian. Davidson said the search team talked with the wildlife surveyors at their camp and then went up again in the helicopter. Using detection equipment, they located a source of radiation about eight miles from the camp.

The helicopter landed on a rock outcropping about 1,000 yards from the site. The team moved forward on foot through deep snow, taking continuous radiation readings. "We kept moving forward and didn't find any (excessive radiation) and we were able to go right up to the edge of the crater," Davidson reported.

A crater nearly 10 feet across had been blasted in the ice by the heat of the object. About a foot and a half of water had frozen in it. Around it were 50 to 100 puncture marks which Davidson said may have been made by pieces of metal or by ice thrown up from the impact.

"It's quite possible there's something under there but we couldn't see it," he said.

Tom Crites, a U.S. health physicist, and Davidson reached the crater first. Next came Murda and Pvt. Mona Wilson, a female member of the Canadian Forces nuclear accident survey team.

The team was on the site for about two hours, returning to Baker Lake about three hours after dusk. Meanwhile, a team of paratroopers were sent for to cordon off the crater.

More snow expected in Ohio

By The Associated Press

Scattered cars and trucks litter snowy highways. Runaway barges clog rivers, hitting dams and endangering other water traffic. And many towns remain unwilling fortresses against the outside world behind enormous snowbanks.

Still, Ohio is digging out of the blizzard that paralyzed the state for four days and killed at least 28 people.

"Things are getting better every day," Dennis Kwiatkowski, head of the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration's snow removal project in Ohio, said Sunday.

Ohio expected 1 to 4 inches of fresh snow today, with temperatures no higher than the 20s, and officials expressed hope that it would not create new cleanup problems.

Other states also struggled to recover from the devastating storm:

—In Michigan, where 19 died and 15,000 travelers were stranded, many roads are still under 12-foot drifts. In the Lansing area, some sheriff's deputies made their rounds on snowshoes. The roofs on at least five buildings have collapsed. Michigan State University planned to reopen today after two days of canceled classes last week.

—Illinois offices, schools and roads were opened today. O'Hare Airport was open but running behind schedule.

—Northwestern Indiana received 2 to 4 inches of new snow Sunday. Scattered power outages were reported.

—In Kentucky, 208 National Guardsmen who had helped with rescue operations were deactivated. Schools were to remain closed, and the forecast was for more snow today.

The biggest problem was on the Ohio River, where 100 wayward coal and grain barges had broken free from moorings between Pittsburgh and Louisville — some had slammed into dams.

—In Virginia, where snow and driving winds preceded weekend flooding in almost all sections, the forecast was for more snow tonight and Tuesday.

Zone change is asked by Beil

A zoning request will be held at the meeting of the zoning board at City Hall Feb. 7 at 5:15 p.m. in the council room.

The request has been made to change Block 15 of the Brennard Addition at 1600 Lancaster for a shopping center. The request has been filed by Charles Beil.

Beil said there is no announcement at this time as to what might be placed at that location. It was simply preparing for the future, Beil added.

say they have made their exercise run almost daily, and will occasionally ride to a neighboring village about 10 miles distant.

Man, woman of year due honors

Banquet lures sellout crowd

Tonight's Chamber of Commerce banquet is a sell-out according to chamber officials.

Bob Moore and the Ambassadors spearheaded the drive of ticket sales for the annual event which will be held at 7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

In addition to a humorist speaker, Joe Griffith, and two special awards to the outstanding woman and man of the year, the group will hear from Mickey Thompson, representing the National Chamber of Commerce concerning accreditation received by the local chamber this year.

Griffith comes to the banquet with a background as a stockbroker, pilot, night club entertainer and television newscaster.

He lives in Dallas and is a graduate of East Texas State University and the New York School of Finance.

He is also an actor who has appeared in more than 100 television commercials for companies such as Atlantic Richfield, Gulf Oil, Dayton Tire and McDonald's.

Mrs. Edna Womack is in charge of decorations for tonight's event.

Inmates holding three men, seven women hostage in pen

NEW WESTMINSTER, British Columbia (AP) — Inmates holding seven women and three men hostage today at the British Columbia Penitentiary met face-to-face with Royal Canadian Mounted Police negotiators and demanded transfers to another prison.

The meeting late Sunday came more than 30 hours after the incident began. Earlier bargaining was done on the telephone.

"I think some of them are anxious to bring this down as soon as possible," said RCMP Inspector Roy Pickell after the 45-minute session with the inmates.

No reason was given for the transfer demand, but one observer said continual unrest at the 100-year-old prison stems from inmate anger at conditions there.

This was the 13th such incident at the prison since 1963, giving the "B.C. Pen" the reputation of being the worst in Canada "and perhaps all of North Hollingsworth, Clyde McMahon Sr., Bill Pollard, Winston Wrinkle, Stinson, Nelson, Green, Britton and Beil.

Holdover and new directors include John Arrick, Richard Atkins, Johnnie Lou Avery, Skipper Driver, Daryle Hohertz, Benny Kirkland, Tom McCann, Ken Perry, Jack Redding, Andrew Swartz, Walter Wheat, Williams, Read, Moore, and Brown.

Entrance to the cafeteria tonight can only be gained through the front doors of the school off 11th Pl. The cafeteria back and side doors will be chained and locked. The doors open at 6:30 p.m.

America," said Jim Spears, a reporter for the Vancouver Province who has been involved in negotiations in previous confrontations.

Participants in the Sunday negotiations were Marguerite Jackson, a Vancouver lawyer representing the inmates, RCMP Sgt. Chuck Hutchinson and inmate Ralph Summers.

RCMP Superintendent Bruce Northrup said the Canadian Penitentiary Service turned down a request by two of the five inmates to be transferred to Archambault Penitentiary in Quebec.

But Northrup said the inmates had tentatively agreed to a counter offer which would involve a transfer to Millhaven Prison near Kingston, Ontario.

Northrup said final approval on any inmate transfer would have to come from Ottawa. He declined comment on other demands made at the meeting.

Man, 30, held in death of woman in Mitchell

By MARJ CARPENTER
COLORADO CITY — Mrs. Malva Rene Forbes, 39, died of a gunshot wound in her home in Cuthbert around 8 p.m. Saturday night and a 30-year-old Cuthbert man is being held in Mitchell County jail in connection with the shooting.

The 30 year old, who apparently also resided at the home, is under investigation by the Mitchell County sheriff's department.

Mrs. Forbes was shot once through the right arm and the right side of the chest by a .22 Magnum pistol, which was later found by officers in the pickup belonging to her son, Jebby, 19.

Jebby also is the one who notified the police dispatcher in Colorado City Saturday night of the shooting. Wendell Bryant, deputy sheriff, was dispatched to the scene.

Mrs. Forbes was lying on the floor between the living room and kitchen, according to Deputy Bryant. She was pronounced dead at the scene by Henry Doss, justice of the peace, who has also ordered an autopsy.

Born Sept. 22, 1938 in Colorado City, Mrs. Forbes was a member of the St. Luke's United Methodist Church.

Services will be 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in Kiker-Seale Funeral Home Chapel with burial in Colorado City Cemetery.

Survivors include two daughters, Pamela Rene Forbes of the home and Rene Mischele Gonzales, Colorado City; a son, Jebby Joe of Colorado City; her mother, Mrs. Evelyn Loving, Colorado City; a sister, Mrs. Paula Williams, Boulder City, Nev. and a brother, Allen Ray, Colorado City.

Blueprint for peace

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel-Egyptian military talks aimed at working out a formula for an Israeli pullout from the Sinai Peninsula will resume Tuesday night in Cairo, Israel announced today.

A government statement said Defense Minister Ezer Weizman and his negotiating team will leave for Cairo Tuesday morning, where Weizman will face his Egyptian counterpart, Mohamed Abdel Ghany Gammasy.

The military talks recessed Jan. 13 in deadlock over the future of the 20 Jewish settlements established by Israel in the Sinai Desert. When Egyptian President Anwar Sadat broke off parallel foreign ministers' negotiations in Jerusalem on Jan. 18.

Budgeted item already nixed

An item in President Carter's budget was apparently included for a project which has already been abandoned, according to Harry Nagel, city manager.

Cong. Omar Burleson announced today that an appropriation request for $150,000 has been made for Big Spring by the President in his budget presented to Congress for fiscal year 1979.

It is the annual funding for study of flood control on Beal's Creek. However, this project has been abandoned as way too expensive to be feasible.

The U.S. Corp of Engineers has been funded annually by the $150,000 for a number of years to study the project.

However, since it would cost several million dollars, the city cannot afford the project and just last month representatives from the Corps of Engineers agreed that the project would need to be abandoned at this time.

Action/reaction: What to do

Q. If a nuclear satellite accidentally fell here, how could you protect yourself?

A. By the time it fell, it might be too late to do anything but leave and try to get out of the radiation area. The Department of Defense handbook on Nuclear Attack says on the widespread threat of fallout, remember, the most dangerous period is the first 24 hours after fallout arrives and you should seek shelter, but you might have to use fallout shelter for up to two weeks. If no shelter is available, improvise protection in a basement corner or corner without windows using dense materials for shielding. Prepare water and other liquids ahead and have food that requires no cooking. There is little danger that adults could inhale or swallow enough fallout particles to hurt them. Small children, however, could be injured by drinking contaminated water or milk.

Offbeat: Speeding bicyclist

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Campus police arrested a bicyclist at the University of Texas Sunday on charges of speeding, evading a police officer and riding on a sidewalk.

Steven Lynn Rosanky, 27, was released on personal recognizance bond after being charged in Municipal Court.

Patrol officer Nan Doerr said she clocked a man pedaling his bike at 25 miles an hour in a 15 mile an hour zone. She pursued, but when he took to a sidewalk and she tried to head him off by going around a block, he doubled back.

The officer then drove onto a sidewalk and gave chase while radioing for help. The biker darted between buildings. Fellow officer Billy Cox arrested Rosanky moments later. The officers estimated the chase lasted five minutes.

WESTBROOK FALLS — A series of 700 small explosive charges imploded the once-elegant 67-year-old Westbrook Hotel in downtown Fort Worth Sunday morning. The area will be paved over and made into a parking lot.

Kidnapped girl escapes

RICHFIELD, Minn. (AP) — An 11-year-old girl was abducted, sexually assaulted then locked in the trunk of a car for more than 10 hours before she escaped by squeezing through a knocked-out taillight, police said.

Temperatures had dropped to eight below zero, and the child was treated later for frostbite.

An 18-year-old Richfield man was arrested hours after the girl escaped Saturday night. Charges of aggravated criminal sexual conduct and kidnapping would be filed, officers said.

Richfield police said the girl was reported missing by her parents when she failed to return home after visiting a friend. They later received a telephone call from a man who demanded $5,000 for the girl's return.

FBI agents and police from Richfield and Minneapolis conducted a fruitless all-night search for the girl, but she was not found until Sunday noon when a motorist brought her to a Richfield fire station.

The girl told police she had been abducted at knife-point at 6:30 p.m. Saturday and was forced to ride in the trunk of her assailant's car until midnight.

She was later sexually assaulted, bound and gagged and returned to the trunk, officers said. From 2 a.m. until shortly before noon Sunday she remained in the trunk, while temperatures plunged to eight below zero.

Officers said the girl, who weighed less than 90 pounds, was able to knock out a taillight on the car and squeeze through a six-by-12-inch hole.

Seven found dead in home

LAYTON, Utah (AP) — Autopsies were to be performed today on seven members of a family found dead in a home where police said temperatures measured at least 112 degrees.

Authorities said the seven apparently died of asphyxiation from a faulty furnace.

"It's about as tragic a thing as I've seen," said Davis County Sheriff William Lawrence. He estimated the victims had been dead about 12 hours when they were discovered by relatives about 4 p.m. Sunday.

Police identified the dead as Ruben Martinez, 22; his wife Ernestina, 26; his daughter, Jessica, 2; his son, Zakery, 9 months; his twin brothers, Rowdy and Randy, both 9; and his sister, Bernadine, 16.

The state medical examiner, Dr. Serge Moore, said all apparently died of asphyxiation in their sleep Saturday night. He said there was no evidence of foul play.

Police Chief Lamar Chard said the victims were discovered by Mary and Janice Martinez, the mother and sister of Ruben. He said they broke a window to get in after their knocks went unanswered.

Chard said the furnace thermostat was broken and only the "on-off" switch was functioning. He said the switch was in the on position and the furnace was running.

Triple slaying suspects

HOUSTON (AP)—A police detective and an assistant district attorney were in Colorado today seeking custody of two men charged with capital murder in the deaths of three Houston residents.

A third man, Robert Avila, 24, also was charged and is being held in jail here without bond.

Arrested Saturday in Grand Junction, Colo., were Mark Richard Cass, 22, and David Allen Roeder, 20, both of Houston.

The three were charged in the deaths of two men and a woman who had been missing since last Monday.

Three bodies were recovered from a shallow grave Saturday on a ranch near Shiner.

Two of the bodies were identified as Donald C. Fanchik, 33, owner of West Side Shopping Center, and a friend, Dr. William S. Fitzpatrick, 31.

The third body was expected to be that of Georgina M. Rose, 46, owner of a jewelry store in the shopping center.

The search for Mrs. Rose and the two men began last Monday after her store was found stripped of an estimated $200,000 in jewelry.

Fanchik's automobile was found burned on a rural road near Eagle Lake on Thursday.

Police beat Three-year-old hurt

A Fort Stockton man who was driving the wrong way on 3rd Street and forcing people off the road Saturday was arrested and charged with driving while his license was suspended.

A juvenile was seen taking a case of Orange Crush, a case of Seven Up and a case of Dr Pepper from the truck Sunday at 4th and Johnson. The youth was apprehended and the drinks returned.

Police also were given some stolen property when an anonymous person called the station and told them where to find it. The cache included a pillow case, a strobe light, a polaroid camera, another camera, a wallet and a pair of socks.

In an accident at 7:51 p.m. Sunday, Kequisha Sessions, 3-year-old Hobbs, New Mexico girl was treated at a local hospital and released for injuries received in a two-vehicle accident.

Rocky New, 20, Coahoma, was driver of one vehicle and Fenywick Horn of Hobbs, driver of the second vehicle. The accident occurred on the exit ramp on US 80.

Ezra Cunningham, 3106 W. 9th, reported somebody kicked in his front door, but that nothing was reported missing.

Jean Hart, 502 Washington, reported eggs thrown on her vehicle.

Charles Tidwell reported the window in his pickup broken while parked at Shade Western.

The window of a City Parks and Recreation vehicle was broken Saturday night while parked at 302 NW10th.

A grass fire was reported Saturday afternoon at Wasson Road and Belvedere. It was quickly extinguished.

Richard Robertson, 1908 Nolan, reported a terrier he said was valued at $250 missing from his back yard.

Tony Rodriguez of 501 NE 9th, had a bad night Saturday night. He reported to officers that he was assaulted by an unknown person at the Sonic at 9:48 p.m. Then at 11:56 p.m., he reported that somebody singled out his vehicle at the 7-11 at 18th and Gregg and kicked in the rear left panel.

Two water mains were reported broken on 3rd Street at Nolan and Owens Saturday night.

A minor accident occurred at 800 S. Birdwell at 4:06 p.m. involving vehicles driven by Kim Thompson, 5 Indian Ridge and Gary Scott, 1212 E. 17th.

Mattox wants to use Korean aid as 'bait'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas congressman wants to dangle U.S. foreign aid in front of the South Korean government, hoping to insure the presence of Korean businessman Tongsun Park before a congressional investigating committee.

Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Texas, told President Carter and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. he was planning to offer an amendment to the budget to delete all "major funds destined for South Korea," including more than $800 million in military equipment scheduled to be left in South Korea after the 2nd Infantry Division is withdrawn.

"Given the level of United States aid to South Korea in its aggregate this year," Mattox wrote O'Neill in a letter dated Jan. 27, "such action may not be enough inducement to gain cooperation from South Korea and insure that the (investigative) committee and its counsel, Leon Jaworski, have access to Tongsun Park and (former ambassador) Kim Don Jo for interrogation.

The committee is investigating alleged efforts by Park and others to buy influence in Congress with money, gifts and favors.

Mattox' letter-writing campaign came a week after Jaworski met with members of the freshman Democratic caucus. Jaworski reported on the roadblocks to the congressional investigation put up by the Korean government, Mattox said.

"In light of this contingency, I am proposing that the next armed services authorization bill contain provisions stipulating that the 2nd Infantry Division of the U.S. Army will not leave any equipment or supplies to the South Korean government when it makes its scheduled withdrawal unless that government complies with our request for full cooperation."

Mattox noted the equipment includes "helicopters, tanks, field artillery, troop transports and other valuable, modern military hardware."

The freshman congressman from Dallas is a member of the budget committee and serves on the committee's task force on national security, which monitors foreign aid budgeting.

Early last week, Mattox cosponsored a bill by another freshman congressman, Rep. Allen Ertel, D-Pa., calling on the South Korean government to cooperate by allowing congressional investigators access to Park and Kim.

In his letter to Carter, also dated Jan. 27, Mattox asked the president to "direct the secretary of the army to include a contingency plan for the removal of that equipment as part of the formal plans for the Army withdrawal which will be presented to the joint chiefs of staff in the near future and inform the Korean government of this contingency."

Suspect in torchings untouched

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Police say a mentally retarded 20-year-old man has confessed to setting fire to one sleeping drunk and is a suspect in the torchings of two others. But authorities say they are powerless to arrest him or stop him from striking again.

"The victims are helpless drunks and they're being victimized by themselves and by a dangerous suspect who has no compassion and maybe is not even responsible for his actions because of his mental state," said Phoenix Police Detective Larry Stubbs.

"We've tried everything we can to get him off the streets," Stubbs said, "but it's not working. We have no legal means and it's really frustrating."

Police did not identify the man, who psychiatrists say has the mental development of a 4-year-old, nor did they say whether he is cared for by friends or relatives.

All three victims were sleeping on sidewalks or in doorways in an area of dark, smoky bars, crumbling hotels and warehouses south of the city's rejuvenated downtown. Police said all were doused with a flammable liquid and set afire as they slept.

The two latest attacks occurred last week, and both victims are still hospitalized in stable condition, authorities said.

After the first incident on Jan. 17, police said, two young men were apprehended, and one — the retarded youth — confessed. But the victim, who was not seriously hurt, refused to cooperate and returned to his California home.

Psychiatrists who examined the youth found he was mentally incompetent, dangerous to himself and others but not insane in the clinical sense. The finding of incompetency unusable, police said, and, lacking a witness or complainant, they had to turn the youth loose.

Police say they must catch the man committing a crime before he can be held. Then, they say, he can be brought to court, certified incompetent and admitted to the Arizona State Hospital for treatment.

Carter said present stocks in European depots, mostly in West Germany, are adequate to support a little more than two additional divisions sent from the United States.

He proposed stockpiling enough additional equipment to outfit another three U.S.-based divisions by 1983.

In effect, that would enable U.S. commanders to double the number of U.S. divisions on the European firing line in the first days of a world crisis.

American generals in Germany expect that reinforcing divisions would start flying to Europe in May.

$4 billion arms plan unfurled

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's proposal to stockpile stand-by equipment and supplies for an additional three U.S. Army divisions in West Germany would cost about $4 billion, Pentagon officials estimate.

This is a key element in the Carter administration's plan to strengthen U.S. forces assigned to help defend Western Europe against what Pentagon specialists describe as Russia's "incredibly strong and growing military power."

In his fiscal 1979 budget message to Congress last week, Carter said the Army should increase "prepositioned stocks and equipment in Europe to enable U.S.-based divisions to deploy more rapidly in a crisis."

Under this concept, troops would be flown from the United States with only small arms and personal gear. Tanks, artillery and other heavy equipment would be earmarked and waiting for them in European depots.

That would sharply reduce reliance in an emergency on scarce cargo air transport resources and get the reinforcing divisions ready to fight quickly.

The concept has gained importance because of rising concern among U.S. and allied strategists about the ability of western forces to stop a heavy tank-led attack launched with only a few days warning.

Carter said present stocks in European depots, mostly in West Germany, are adequate to support a little more than two additional divisions sent from the United States.

Those who want to run as independents must file declarations with the Secretary of State by Feb. 6 and then after the primaries gather petitions from voters who do not vote either Democratic or Republican in May.

Therefore, they are counting on the prepositioned stocks being in the hands of the reinforcing troops by the time an attack could be launched from the east.

Emergency care course start

Howard College is offering Pre-Ambulance Emergency Care courses Jan. 31, through Feb. 23, and April 4, through April 27. The courses are scheduled in the mornings from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 a.m. and in the evening from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursdays. Everyone will be required to pre-register before class time in the Dean of Occupational Education Office in the Horace Garrett building. The cost of the course will be $30 and will be limited to 20 students. The location will be announced at a later date.

The instructor, Mr. Knack Cox, a certified E.M.T., has assisted and taught C.P.R., First Aid and Safety as well as Emergency Medical Technician courses.

The course will include pulmonary arrest, cardiac arrest, wounds, bleeding and shock, fractures, injuries to head-neck-spine, Medical Emergencies I and II, Environmental Emergencies, burns, and access to entrapped victims. Students will have CPR Manikin practice on all listed areas.

Texas politicians to pay up or get out

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas politicians are deciding this week whether to pay up or get out.

The deadline for filing official notices for public office and paying the necessary filing fees is Monday, Feb. 6, at 6 p.m.

Candidates who want to run in the May 6 party primaries must file and pay filing fees to their respective Democratic and Republican local or state headquarters. The price is $2,000 for candidates for U.S. Senate and $1,500 for governor and other statewide offices. Local filing fees start at $50 for public weigher or inspector of hides and animals and run upwards to $700 for district judges.

Those who want to run as independents must file declarations with the Secretary of State by Feb. 6 and then after the primaries gather petitions from voters who do not vote either Democratic or Republican in May.

Statewide candidates who have announced so far and paid their filing fees at either the Democratic or Republican state headquarters include: Democratic: Governor — Ray Allen Mayo, 65, San Juan author and publisher; former Gov. Preston Smith, 65, Lubbock businessman, and Attorney General John Hill, 54.

U.S. Senator — U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, 41, New Braunfels. Lieutenant governor — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, 45.

Comptroller — Comptroller Bob Bullock, 48. State Treasurer — C.R. "Charlie" Sanderson, 46, San Antonio accountant.

Agriculture commissioner — Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown, 56.

Railroad commissioner (unexpired term) — Ray Lemmon, 51, Houston businessman. Republican: Governor — Clarence G. Thompson, 46, Fort Worth businessman; Ray Hutchinson, 45, Dallas attorney and former State GOP Chairman. U.S. Senator — Sen. John G. Tower, 52.

DIES — Cowboy film star Tim McCoy, who began working as a cowboy at the age of 15 and performed on stage and screen until he retired in 1976, died Sunday at an Arizona military hospital, where he was being treated for a heart ailment. McCoy had lived in this Mexican-border community for the past 20 years.

McCoy, a Michigan native, swept from the Wyoming range to Wild West shows, the silent screen, talkies, television and then back to the Wild West show, before retiring in 1976.

He also was an author, intent on debunking many of the myths surrounding Western heroes. He was inducted into the Cowboy Hall of Fame in Oklahoma in 1974, along with actor John Wayne. Wayne had been an extra in some of McCoy's films.

During World War I he was a lieutenant colonel in the infantry. He knew Indian sign language and caught the eye of a Hollywood scout who got him a leading role in the motion picture, "The Covered Wagon."

He won an Emmy for his "Tim McCoy" show on television and then went on a Wild West show circuit, playing in such arenas as New York's Madison Square Garden.

PAUL RUIZ
Ruiz named All-State

Paul Ruiz, a Big Spring High School senior, was recently named to the All-State Band, Paul, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Ruiz, is first chair clarinet in the BSHS Honor Band. He also serves as Color Guard Captain in the Marching Band.

The road to All-State Band is a long, strenuous one. Paul made first chair All-Region Band earlier in the year, qualifying him to try out at the Area level. He was one of eleven students selected from a field of 44 candidates to perform in the All-State Band.

Members of the All-State Band will provide entertainment at the Texas Music Educators Association Convention. The TMEA Convention will be held in Houston Feb. 8-Feb. 12.

Choir is another musical interest of this talented young man. Paul is a member of the Meistersingers and performed in the All-Region Choir. This intense concentration on the music field is not unusual, for Paul plans to major in music at Texas Tech and later become a professional musician.

School meeting slated Tuesday
SAN ANGELO — From 100-150 local and area public school counselors, principals and superintendents are expected to attend the fifth annual Counselor-Administrator Conference to be held Tuesday on the campus of Angelo State University.

Emphasizing the relationship between the schools and the community, the one-day conference is sponsored by Education Center Region IV, the Three Rivers Personnel and Guidance Association, Phi Delta Kappa and Angelo State University.

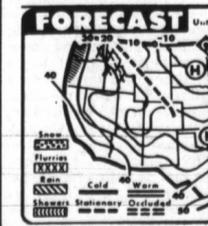

Weather

Freezing drizzle falling in state

Freezing drizzle and rain were falling over parts of Texas this morning, hampering visibility in some areas. Fog and freezing drizzle combined to cause slick and icy highways and bridges over much of the Panhandle and South Plains. Most of the rain was falling in East Texas and South Texas, but it was slight. The largest amount any area had received by early morning was a few hundredths of an inch. Victoria and Houston received .03 overnight. Pre-dawn temperatures were in the 20s in the Panhandles and in the 30s and 40s over the remainder of Texas. Temperatures were expected to remain on the cool side today over the state. Afternoon highs were expected to range from the upper 30s over portions of West Texas to the 40s and 50s over the middle of the state and the upper 60s along the Rio Grande from El Paso to Brownsville.

FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — Fog and occasional light freezing drizzle north, partly cloudy southwest considerable cloudiness elsewhere today then partly cloudy most sections tonight and Tuesday. A little warmer north to day then a little cooler north Tuesday. Widely scattered showers west of the Pecos Tuesday. Highs today 45 north and extreme southeast to 68 extreme west. Lows 20 north to 35 south. Highs Tuesday near 40 north to near 60 south except upper 60s Big Bend.

EXTENDED FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — Chance of light precipitation north after mid-week. Not so cold most sections Wednesday. Highs 40s north, 50s south to the upper 60s lower elevations of the Big Bend. Lows 20s north and mountains to the low and mid 30s south.

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow is forecast today for the Great Lakes and Midwest. Rain is forecast for the central Gulf. Rain is also expected on the northern Pacific coast and snow flurries are forecast for the northern Rockies. Temperatures are expected to be cold for most areas.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ford asked the conference delegates to wrestle with this question: "How much more regulation can we afford, either directly in product costs or indirectly through lost opportunities for economic growth?"

Udall, D-Ariz., said the period of unbridled economic growth is doubtlessly over. "Our great leap forward was not the normal course of events, but rather an exception to them," he said. "It was based on cheap and inexhaustible energy and a never ending supply of waters, minerals, lumber and other resources."

Udall said "the human race will be essentially out of oil and gas in 30 years. We can't ignore it, and it won't go away." He added: "I am not talking about a national no-growth policy. All I am saying is that an insistence on growth, in the pattern that we have known in the past can only take it on a collision course." The White House conference is featuring a series of verbal confrontations on issues such as growth vs. conservation, the Sunbelt vs. the Frostbelt, environmental protection vs. development.

"The key phrase is 'scarce resources.' How do you do more with less — less land, less energy, less water and less pollution," said one delegate, a Colorado businessman.

The 500 delegates hail from every state and territory and from all walks of life. Most are prominent in politics, business, labor or academia, representing the traditional viewpoints of economic diversity.

The conference opened Sunday night with a review of the nation's economic history from the 1700s, when growth was unlimited for a sparse population with abundant resources; through the 1800s "manifest destiny" principle, the belief in some divine sanction for territorial expansion; to the present-day's dwindling resources, high unemployment, abandoned farms and aging cities.

"As we begin the second 200 years of our history, we know that the future will not resemble our past world of abundance: abundance of land, water, energy, mineral resources, forests and food," said Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps.

"We know that things once thought free now bear a price tag. We know that new resource constraints bring new dimensions to our thinking." She asked that the delegates consider questions about the federal government's role in economic planning: —Should Washington keep hands off? —Should the government guide the pace and location of economic growth through incentives built into the federal tax system? —Should Washington flex its muscles and take on the role of planning national and regional growth? —As older areas lose jobs and people, should the government subsidize those who have been left behind? "Our nation needs a vision of what it expects of itself in the coming decade," Secretary Kreps said. "Only from such a vision can the outlines of national policy emerge."

Presidential adviser Jack Watson said the conference could make "a breathtaking contribution" to national economic issues that hold the key to the nation's future.

"We are looking for creative insights and practical ideas on the challenges that confront this country," said Watson, such as unemployment, inflation, energy, urban decay and regional inequities.

The conference was put together by the Commerce Department with little help from the White House itself. A series of workshops will develop papers on the economic issues, and the findings will go to President Carter and to Congress for their use in preparing legislation.

EARLY PLANTING — While much of the nation digs from the snow dumped by last week's storms, two farmers in New Mexico's Mesilla Valley work in the fields, planting their 1978 onion crop. Temperatures in the mid-70's allowed many farmers near Las Cruces to begin their season's planting.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 150 years after it first appeared in Ohio and Indiana, hog cholera has been eradicated from the United States after less than two decades of federal and state efforts costing $140 million.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland will officially announce Tuesday that the disease, which affects only swine, has been eliminated. The campaign against hog cholera, described by the Agriculture Department as "the most destructive and costly swine disease ever to exist in this country," really began in September 1961 with an authorization by Congress enabling USDA to cooperate with states in a nationwide campaign to stamp it out.

Hog cholera, unknown in the world before then, was first detected in 1833 in southern Ohio and along the Wabash River in Indiana. It soon spread to other states and to other countries in all parts of the world and still exists in many of them.

"The eradication of this 'native' American disease took just about 15 years — a relatively short time for disease elimination," Bergland said in a statement issued in advance of his official announcement. "But even more important, the job was done for less than the original estimate," he said. "At the outset, eradication was expected to cost between $160 million and $200 million in state and federal funds. The actual cost from 1962 through 1977 was about $140 million."

The federal and state campaign included the destruction of infected and exposed swine, with indemnity payments to owners of the animals. All told, some 5,700 swine herds containing about 800,000 hogs were destroyed from 1965 through 1976 at a cost of $25 million.

"Other efforts included the elimination of hog cholera vaccines in 1969 which helped in protecting vaccinated animals still enabled those to pass on the disease virus to others has not brought much success, the Agriculture Department said today. Last year's soybean output was about 700,000 metric tons. Although that represented a 66 percent increase since the Soviets began their expansion in 1965, it still falls far short of meeting needs, the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said in a weekly report.

By comparison, U.S. soybean production last year was a record of 46.7 million tons — more than 1.7 billion bushels. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds.

SHOP BIG SPRING FIRST
It's not too early to be planning for a spring clean up campaign. Actually, spring is little more than one and a half months away. As all of us are aware we must put our best foot forward in meeting and impressing our visitors and our newcomers.

First I'll mention that the chamber calendar is getting quite full so if you need to schedule something it will be to your advantage to get the information in to the office as soon as possible. Our attempt to help coordinate activities can be only as complete and effective as you permit it to be. If you have an event for the monthly activities calendar we must have it by the 15th of the month.

Those of you who have attended Campus Revue were treated to a really great show. If you missed it — be sure to make a note on next year's 'do list.' The young people and school officials who participated in this very professional production did themselves proud. Our community is fortunate to have such talent, but even more fortunate that our educators develop and share that talent. Hats off to our Steer Band and Mr. Bradley.

And speaking of "proud" — when you have an out of town visitor be sure you invite them to visit our unique attractions here in Big Spring. We sometimes get so busy that we forget that we have the Heritage Museum, one of the finest in the Southwest, plus the beautiful and historic Pottin House, and a very special attraction in the Doll Museum and Steer Horn Collection. Call the chamber for hours of operation and other information.

Jimmerson was serving a three-year probated sentence on a theft conviction when he was stopped by police on Jan. 10, 1977, for speeding. He was arrested for disorderly conduct after using abusive language, and two marijuana cigarettes were found in a pocket.

The following month Jimmerson was accused of making a false bomb report to Lamesa High School.

Both arrests were used by the district court in revoking his probation and sentencing him to prison.

Jimmerson asked the appeals court to throw out the revocation, claiming the disorderly conduct arrest was improper and the evidence in the bomb threat arrest insufficient.

The court recently ruled against his claim on the marijuana charge but didn't go into the bomb threat question.

Hereford

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is in a flap with Hereford cattle producers over a report it circulated which describes a genetic defect in the familiar red-and-white animals' skins. Earlier this week, the department issued a news release which was based on studies at its Eastern Regional Research Center in Philadelphia. It was handled further by USDA's Agricultural Research Service regional office in Beltsville, Md., and finally issued here.

In part, the report said that the characteristic called a vertical fiber defect "occurs in nearly 10 percent of the 30 million Hereford cattle hides produced each year in the United States" and that it is "not known to occur in the hides of other breeds."

The defect results in an estimated $10 million annual loss to the leather industry, the news release said.

Further, the report said that the genetic trait "may be linked to reproductive failures" of some Hereford cattle.

rehearing. On second look the court agreed there was insufficient evidence that the language used to the police was strong enough to warrant the disorderly conduct arrest. This decision made the marijuana cigarettes inadmissible as evidence.

The court found, however, the evidence in the bomb threat was sufficient for revoking the probation.

China's grain

reports sketchy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Specialists in the Agriculture Department said today that China's grain production last year may not have been as large as China has indicated in sketchy reports on 1977 agricultural output. But planting of winter grain last fall for this year's harvest apparently was ahead of the 1976 crop's and enabled wheat plants to develop more in time for winter.

The analysis was included in a weekly "Foreign Agriculture" report issued by the department's Foreign Agricultural Service. It was prepared by Charles Y. Liu, Carolyn L. Whitton and Frederic M. Surls, foreign demand and competition specialists in USDA's Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service.

On Dec. 27, a year-end radio announcement in English by the New China News Agency, was cited by the USDA experts. It said: "China reaped a fairly good harvest this year. Annual grain output reached (the 1976) level, and output of such industrial crops as cotton, jute, ambray hemp, cured tobacco and tea went up."

The USDA experts said that despite the broadcast "there are still questions as to whether the 1977 crop (of grain) was, in fact, the same as, or perhaps was somewhat less than, the 1976 level."

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures No. 2 were mostly higher in midday dealings today. The average price for strict low middling 11.16 inch spot cotton declined 53 points to 52.11 cents a pound Friday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Woman more durable of species

Women are outliving men, which is a statement not exactly new. Whereas they were outliving men on the average of one year half a century ago, they're now staying around an average of eight years longer.

The average man now dies at 69, the average woman 77. The margin could get more pronounced.

Life expectancy for both sexes has risen rather sharply the past four years, but the woman, in a sense, is the stronger sex because she has more staying power. She may also develop a greater desire for life.

Experts say woman takes better care of herself. She sees the doctor more often when she isn't feeling well and sometimes when she senses that her physical condition is going to take a turn for the worse. Men won't do that. They'll put off going to the doctor as long as possible. Once he does face up to the fact that he must seek out medical help, he's prone to become much more dramatic and fatalistic about it.

Not only does the female look after her health more faithfully, she's less likely to be involved in fatal automobile crashes than men. There are more male homicide victims than women and suicide statistics show more men than women are prone to take their lives.

Man worries a lot — about his earning capacity, about his virility, his acceptance by his peers. Perhaps he "prepares" to die at an earlier age than woman. The woman is prone to fret a lot, too, and not infrequently about the fact that she knows her mate is not ready to accept the weight of the years.

Man, as he enters his December years, is prone to keep asking himself "Is that all there is?" Woman is more realistic and tends to look back with a sense of triumph and forward with a determination to endure.

Sex discrimination

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Yet another of the birthday appraisals of President Carter's first year in office is underway and we leave aside, in today's lesson, broad matters of domestic and foreign policy in order to examine the kind of thing that has grown up under the bureaucracy Mr. Carter vowed to combat on coming into office. In which office he inherited an obligation to discharge the law as enacted in Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended by the Equal Employment Opportunity Act of 1972, which legislation seeks to protect women, in the private and in the public sector, against discrimination in employment.

During President Carter's term of office the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia found itself wrestling over the case of Barnes (Paulette) v. Costle (Douglas), which nicely illustrates a lot of things including the way in which our distinguished judges find themselves spending their time.

WHAT HAPPENED was this: The young lady was hired by a government agency and her boss made a pass at her. Not merely one, one gathers, but a series of passes. As he grew more ardent, his inducements evolved into threats. Either she would... or he would fail to advance her in her position to a higher grade; or perhaps fire her. She stood by her virtue, and he finally contrived to declare the position she occupied unnecessary, thereby firing her through the device of eliminating the job she held. She sued. In days gone by her weapon in court would have been very simple: in threatening her (in effect) what her boss did was commit a tort action, for which he would be criminally liable under common law.

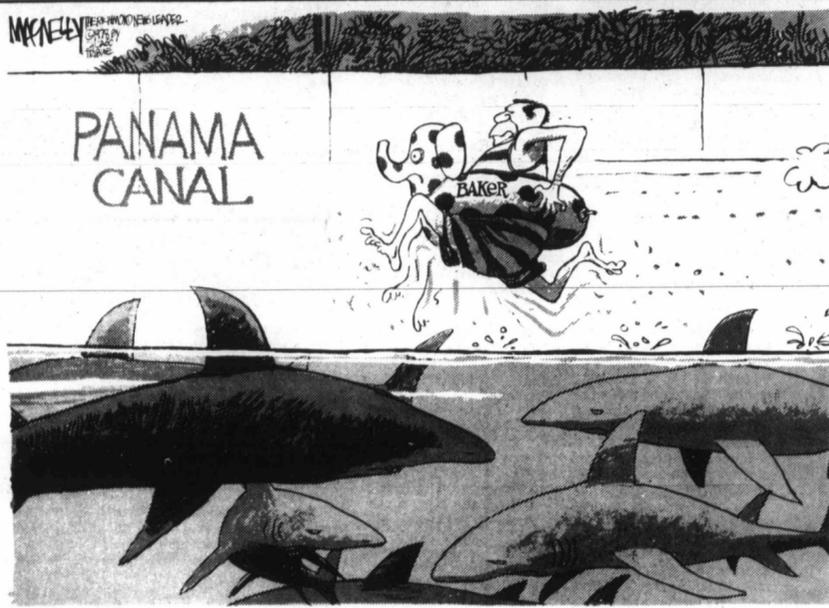

Ah. Not now. First, the lady, who by the way is black, did what comes most naturally and charged that she had been discriminated against because of her race. The trouble with that is that her boss is also black, so along the way she was persuaded to change her complaint and alleged that she was discriminated against on account of her sex.

But the lower court ruled against her, on the grounds that although to be sure she is a woman, it was her failure to comply with her boss's request to have sexual relations that got her fired, not the fact that she was biologically equipped to have such relations.

Now this had the effect of raising a very subtle point with which a higher court wrestled, namely, did Congress intend to protect people against discrimination as women exclusively, or was it required, really, that something other than being a woman was required before a woman could object? For instance, it is one thing to say: I'll hire a woman as readily as a man — but if the woman I hire gets pregnant, I'll let her go. On this point the court ruled that if the factor of gender figured in any way, that was enough to trigger the protective legislation.

But then the court came on this problem. What if the guy who wants the girl to have sex is also a guy? In other words, suppose today he propositions Jane, and tomorrow he propositions John? Well, in that case — sorry about that — the girl can't complain under this law. Because, you see, the boss is equally guilty in his activity toward guys as towards girls; and how can you therefore say that he is discriminating against women? I suppose the case could be made that the girl, by this reasoning, might have a case against the boss who propositions a guy more often than a gal and is therefore discriminating against her, though I hasten to add the court did not make this case.

I JUST FINISHED saying that the boss is "guilty" of propositioning the girl. One judge was careful to say that the opinion — which was in favor of the appellant — did not go quite that far — the court is not to be accused of prudishness. "Sexual advances may not be intrinsically offensive," this judge explained, "and no policy can be derived from the equal employment opportunity laws to discourage them."

Rh factor in pregnancy controlled

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter is expecting her first child. She was told she has Rh-negative blood and might experience difficulty. How serious is this? What does the "Rh" mean? — R.R.M.

Veteran readers can skip this one. Rh is a substance some people have in their blood and others do not. About 85 per cent of the Caucasian population has it. The figure is higher for non-Caucasians. They are Rh-positives. Those who don't have it are called "Rh-negatives." The initials "Rh" stand for the Rhesus monkey, used in experiments that led to an understanding of the problem in 1940.

Whenever the two kinds of blood (positive and negative) are mixed difficulties can arise, chiefly the destruction of red blood cells. This can occur when a negative mother carries a positive fetus. If the father is positive, the fetus will have positive blood and some of it may infiltrate the mother's. Hence the concern.

The problem usually emerges with the second or third pregnancy involving a negative mother and a positive father, but precautions are in order even during the first. (The mother may have been exposed to positive blood in a previous blood transfusion.) The doctor will monitor your daughter's blood carefully, especially in the late stages of her pregnancy, to see if anything is amiss. After delivery the baby's blood will be checked to see if steps are required to correct matters.

Discover of the Rh problem led quickly to development of effective countermeasures. The mother can be protected with certain antibodies that counter the Rh problem.

So long as the problem is recognized there is seldom any difficulty that cannot be managed.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If a woman wanted to have amniocentesis to detect a potential problem of the fetus, when should she have this done? — Mrs. G.D.

A recent issue (Nov. 30) of Patient Care touches on this in a panel discussion of the subject among several doctors.

Fifteen weeks is the suggested early date for meaningful results from amniocentesis (tapping the amniotic sac to obtain fluid for analysis). There is normally another two- or three-week wait for results. Before this time there may be insufficient fluid surrounding the fetus and the uterus might not be large enough to allow the "tap." One of the doctor suggests 17 to 18 weeks as providing a margin for safety. Prior to 15 weeks there apparently are not sufficient numbers of cells in the fluid for adequate analysis of potential defects.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If I smoked a pack of cigarettes every day for ten years and then stopped, how long will it take for my lungs to clean out? — P.A.

Like the man who beats himself over the head, stopping brings almost immediate relief. It may take a week for your cough to stop, but you will notice an almost immediate feeling of well-being. Within a week or two you might be able to climb a flight of stairs without huffing. Can't put any timetable on the lung matter. That, too, is a progressive proposition. Some may never "clear out" entirely, but the lungs you end up with will surely serve you better and longer.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can poor leg circulation cause brittle toenails? —

M.W.

It can, and doctors can make a pretty fair analysis of circulatory problems by glancing at your feet. With ischemia (circulation interruption) the toenails may appear brittle and opaque and there may be an absence of hair on the toes. It's much the same with the fingernails, but the toes usually react first to the poor circulation. It's a matter of lack of nutrition in the area. Cramping and pain can be another sign.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have glaucoma and have been taking eye drops for it. Shortly after starting I began to get ringing in my ears. Any connection? — Mrs. C.P.

None that I know of.

WEIGHT WATCHER

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Please explain the reference in Exodus 32:6, quoted in I Corinthians 10:7, which states that the people "rose up to play." A Christian friend tells me that God's condemnation of this behavior shows that it is wrong for Christians to engage in any games for pleasure. Is that correct? — B.K.T.

DEAR B.K.T.: It is a complete misunderstanding of the word "play" to suggest that this refers to games that are played for enjoyment and that keep our bodies fit. The Hebrew word used here refers to sexual behavior.

The passage in Exodus tells of the time when the Israelites were guilty of idolatry. They made a golden calf and worshipped it. As so often happens when large numbers of people engage in idolatry, it leads to drunkenness, revelry and sexual immorality. The passage in Exodus reads: "They rose up early on the morrow, and offered burnt offerings, and brought peace offerings; and the people sat down to eat and to drink, and rose up to play." This suggests that they started early in the morning and spent most of the day eating and drinking, after which the drunken revelry started.

When puzzled by a passage like this, it is helpful to consult a good Bible commentary or to look at some of the modern translations of the Bible. Other translators discard the word "play" and use such expressions as "revelry," "a wild party" and "an orgy."

If athletic exercise were wrong, Paul would never have used it as an illustration of the Christian life: "Know ye not they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize? So run, that ye may obtain" (I Corinthians 9:24).

If all else fails

Around the rim

Danny Reagan

Victor Hugo and I are a lot alike when it comes to writing rimes. You remember ol' Vic? He wrote "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" and "Les Miserables."

Sometimes, however, he ran into difficulties and was tempted to do things other than write. At such times, (and this is true, I swear), he forced himself to work by having his servant take away all of his clothes, with instructions not to return them for several hours.

Left with his own nude self, and pen and paper, there was nothing to do but sit down and write.

That's not exactly the way I do it, but when I must write a rim, and would rather not, I leave instructions with my wife to hold a shotgun to my head and threaten to sing "Feelings."

ON EXTREMELY stubborn days, she also threatens to play a tape recording of Marj Carpenter singing "The Eyes of Texas", accompanied by Gretchen Werrell on the food processor.

And along those lines, the subject for today is "The 25 Unnatural Laws of Man."

1. You've all heard of this first one — Murphy's Law — "If anything can go wrong, it will." Life, as we know it, is based upon this very important law. Then, there is the related...

2. "O'Tool's Commentary on Murphy's Law" — Murphy was an optimist.

3. "Boren's First Law" — When in doubt, mumble.

4. "Farber's Fourth Law" — Necessity is the mother of strange bedfellows.

5. "Marj's Insurance Law" — Whenever there's an extra payday in the month, the car insurance payment falls due.

6. "Gordon's First Law" — If a feature story is not worth doing at all, it is not worth doing well.

7. "Maier's Law" — If the facts do not conform to the theory, they must be disposed of.

8. "Law of Selective Gravity" — An object will fall so as to do the most damage.

9. "Jenning's Corollary" — The chance of the bread falling with the buttered side down is directly proportional to the cost of the carpet.

10. "Etorre's Observation" — The other line moves faster.

11. "Reagan's Addendum" — The express line moves slowest of all.

12. "Zymurgy's First Law of Evolving Systems Dynamics" — Once you open a can of worms, the only way to recan them is to use a larger can.

13. "Hart's Dead Mackerel Law" — There's another nail in my coffin.

12. "Howe's Law" — Every man has a scheme that will not work.

13. "The Unspeakable Law" — As soon as you mention something — if it's good, it goes away — if it's bad, it happens.

14. "Nonreciprocal Laws of Expectations" — Negative expectations yield negative results. Positive expectations yield negative results.

15. "Werrell's Wife Conclusion" — Take my wife, please!

16. "Segal's Law" — A man with one watch knows what time it is. A man with two watches is never sure.

17. "Barth's Distinction" — There are two types of people; those who divide people into two types, and those who don't.

18. "REAGAN'S REVERSE Curse" — Sure as you predict the team you want to win, to win, it loses. And sure as you predict the team you want to lose, to win, it wins anyway. And vice versa.

19. "The Golden Rule of Arts and Sciences" — Whoever has the gold makes the rules.

20. "Ninety-Ninety Rule of Project Schedules" — The first 90 per cent of the task takes 90 per cent of the time, and the last 10 per cent takes the other 90 per cent.

21. "Hoare's Law of Large Problems" — Inside every large problem is a small problem struggling to get out.

22. "Skinner's Constant (Flanagan's Finagling Factor)" — That quantity which, when multiplied by, divided by, added to, or subtracted from the answer you get, gives you the answer you should have gotten.

22A. "Don Green's Corollary" — Don't worry about that. Worry instead about insects in general.

23. "Conehead's Fifth Law" — When speaking before a group, always insert proloid capsules in your ears.

24. "Bucky's Primus Maximum Facto" — If at first you don't succeed, tear something else up.

25. "Journalist's Creed" — If a story is written fairly and objectively about two sides of a certain issue, both sides will hate you. If that story took two weeks to write, and is your best effort to date, there will be two dozen typos in it, paragraphs one and 32 will be interchanged and your name will be left off. If it's really scrambled up, your name will be left on.

But just remember the words of that great philosopher Mel Torme: "Things could be worse." That's right. I could be listening to Mel Torme singing "Feelings."

Far-out politics

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Across the country, patriots of the soapbox have seized upon an event that has demoralized most deep-dyed conservatives — the smash-up of Richard Nixon's regime.

The rabble-rousers of the right have capitalized on the despair of the conservatives, offering them an outlet for their frustration and a goal for the future. The right-wing crowd has one simple answer for all setbacks: "Treason's the reason."

They are peddling the politics of conspiracy with renewed vigor, grinding out tormented propaganda against those who brought down Nixon. The recluse of San Clemente has now become the hero of the hate sheets.

BUT IT'S THE villains who get the most attention. The ravings are directed primarily against the Rockefeller. In the subterranean world of right-wing politics, hatred of the Rockefeller has become a dangerous obsession. Ex-Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and his banker brother, David, are depicted as leading an international conspiracy to subvert the United States.

This has caused growing concern inside the FBI, which keeps an apprehensive eye on right-wing extremists. Thousands of fanatics, their minds twisted with hate, have armed themselves and have formed into radical cults.

FBI documents warn, for example, that the National Caucus of Labor Committees (NCLC), formed "goon squads" whose members are trained in military tactics and indoctrinated in violence. An internal memo from FBI Director Clarence Kelley tells of "beatings" and "brainwashings."

Back in 1974, as Nixon's sun was sinking in the West, the NCLC set up an underground "officers training camp" at Argyle, N.Y., where members allegedly were tutored in military history, close order drill, weapons handling and "small unit tactics and strategy."

They have also received instructions, according to the FBI, in the delicate use of the numbachutka. This is a strangulation weapon, a deadly Korean device, composed of two sticks connected by a chain.

The NCLC shares the widespread, right-wing obsession that Nelson Rockefeller and the CIA are plotting to take over the U.S. government. But there are others on the NCLC hate list, including Henry Kissinger and Ralph Nader.

"This causes one to wonder," speculates the FBI report, "if a deranged or overzealous NCLC member would take out his frustration on one or more of these individuals."

THE FBI HAS also worried that the leader, Lyndon LaRouche, might attempt to convert the NCLC into a terrorist force. "The result," warns the report, "could be catastrophic."

Recruits are isolated from their families and encouraged "to surrender their worldly goods to the organization." Gradually, the NCLC achieves such control over the recruits, the FBI report states, "that family, friends and even communications experts cannot strike up a meaningful conversational exchange with them."

It is one of the paradoxes of our time that the fanatics of the right and left, who profess to be bitter enemies, often find themselves dancing together around the May pole. In fact, LaRouche couldn't seem to make up his mind whether to take up a position at the extreme left or extreme right of the political spectrum.

The NCLC started out on the far left, harassing FBI agents. Then the group moved to the far right and began "cooperating" with the FBI. But the cooperation consisted of burdening the FBI with tips about wild conspiracies that existed only in their minds.

THE FBI DESCRIBES LaRouche as paranoid. "He reports that key aides were programmed for his assassination. His concept of his own destiny is grandiose. The fate of the world is riding on his shoulders," declares the memo.

Footnote: An NCLC spokesman said that our article is "part of an overall intelligence operation" and that the group has been militant only to protect itself from political attack. He would neither confirm nor deny the weapons training program in upstate New York.

CLARIFICATION — We recently reported that Sen. Richard Stone, D-Fla., was the latest politician to turn up as a director of a nursing home. We also noted that some nursing homes have used politicians to wangle bigger benefits and have cut them in for a share of the profits. We did not intend to imply that Stone had received any profits. Other politicians have made money off nursing homes, but Stone received no payments from the home that listed him as a director. He has now removed his name from the retirement home.

SHORT OF TIME — In preparing the massive federal budget, President Carter spent so much time reviewing the spending requests of federal agencies that he was forced to adopt a budget of his own.

Conservation Calendar is new household aid

Every American has a responsibility to preserve our freedoms — and conserving our resources is one way it can be done. That message from well-known international designer Roger Rasbach is meant to encourage patriotic citizens to do their own thing in eliminating waste from their personal, family and community life. But it isn't easy, admits Rasbach, one of the first to own a solar conversion home, considered one of the most energy-efficient homes in the United States.

Rasbach's Provident Planner, published last year, explained that judicious planning without waste is the battle of our time. The book was written in an attempt to inspire people to go about it from every principle observed by our forefathers — durability, economy, conservations, permanence, naturalness, unity. Now Rasbach has introduced a Conservation Calendar, a daily reminder of how the good life can be preserved for our progeny by conserving what we have today.

"As we begin again to identify with the spiritual principles which created our country and evolved the traits of family life, more than valuable resources will be saved. Future historians may record this as the most valuable event of the century, a turning point when the truly good life was restored to America," Rasbach points out.

But everyone must become involved in the effort. The calendar which Rasbach dedicated to Ima Hogg, the founder of the Mental Health Association in Texas and a true conservationist, is set up to be a file in a drawer. The backing becomes a folder and the file cards are kept encased within.

"Emergency" as he calls the calendar, begins at the first month with listings for the cost and use of electricity, gas, fuel, water, oil and even seasonal shopping buys from white sales to avocados. Another month is an "emergency" checklist for family activities. For example, "Do you plan individual family activities that pool the use of the automobile?" It suggests, too, that microwave cooking may save 50 to 75 percent energy over conventional cooking.

As for health — "Preventive medicine can save thousands of dollars, plus your life."

We find that in the garden, a small 12-by-15-foot plot can supply a family of four with fresh produce.

There are suggestions for organizing a household; how to have good mental health about it; how to be a good shopper; replacing some electrical things with their nonelectrical counterparts.

Some file cards are organized for records of transportation, major repairs, consumer supplies and other listings including security, medical, fire and consumer assistance.

There are cards for listing such facts as equipment warranties and service manuals. It is a good, convenient arrangement for listing serial numbers and service dates of major appliances — dishwasher, garbage disposal, freezer, washer — as well as of small appliances and miscellaneous items such as cameras and firearms.

The Conservation Calendar Kit is published by Walker.

TWEEN 12 AND 20 Pregnant girl needs all help she can get

By ROBERT WALLACE, Ed.D. Copley News Service

Dear Dr. Wilace, I read a letter today in your column written by an unwed pregnant girl. Your suggestion that a clergyman could help the pregnant girl choose the correct alternative is not entirely correct. Clergymen do not always know about the choices that a frightened pregnant girl has.

Her best bet would be to go to a Planned Parenthood or a Family Planning Clinic. She needs reassurance and facts without any moral overtones. A clergyman with inadequate knowledge or improper attitude can complicate the matter further.

Mrs. Ajita Kale, Executive Director Family Planning Service Galesburg, Ill. 61401

Dear Mrs. Kale, Thanks for your concern. Although I would not eliminate the clergy at this critical time, I agree that a Family Planning Clinic can offer necessary assistance.

The best suggestion might have been to contact both your clergyman and a Family Planning Clinic, if available.

Dear Dr. Wallace, I am a sophomore with many friends who are lots of fun to be with, but there is just one person that ruins everything. None of us really likes him.

He doesn't have any real friends of his own and we'd all like him to meet his own type of friends because he really doesn't fit in with us. We don't want to hurt his feelings any more than what we have.

I personally feel as though I've been rude to him. I know he is mad at me because I have been excluding him from our conversations. He just isn't getting our hint that we don't want him around. I don't know how to tell him because we used to be good friends in grade school but I've found my own type of friends to be with.

What would be a good way to get the message across to him without hurting his feelings more?

C. H., Seattle, Wash.

Dear C. H., Being rude to him is not the answer. Since he was a friend of yours in grade school why don't you tell him face to face that you no longer care to be acquainted with him. You don't say why he doesn't fit into your crowd or why he ruins everything.

Wouldn't it be nice if you could make friends with him, help correct his problem, and include him in the group?

Dear Dr. Wallace, I am a 13-year-old boy and my problem is that all the girls say I'm cute and follow me around school. It's been this way for a long time.

Because of this the boys call me a sissy and I don't like it one bit. What should I do?

Kevin, Alliance, Ohio

Dear Kevin, Nothing. Enjoy it while it lasts.

The boys who call you sissy are just jealous!

Questions may be sent to Dr. Robert Wallace, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Abby Must She Exchange Christmas Checks?

DEAR ABBY: The following is from a letter I recently received from an out-of-state relative:

"Let's make a deal. Next year instead of sending each other Christmas presents, send me a check, and I will do the same for you. It will save us both a lot of trouble."

Abby, I never considered shopping for Christmas presents "a lot of trouble." Besides, what's the sense of my sending her a check for $30, and her sending me the same? How do you feel about it? I should add, this relative needs more money like I need another belly button.

BULLETIN READER IN PHILLY

DEAR READER: I agree with you. Tell her to just blow you a kiss next Christmas, and you'll do the same for her.

DEAR ABBY: My wife's older brother, who is retired, telephoned us long distance to give us some very bad news. He said his wife had cancer, then he asked me if I would put her on my Blue Cross at work.

I was startled to learn that his wife had cancer, and shocked at his suggestion that I put her on my Blue Cross. I told him that I didn't think General Motors, for whom I work, would approve.

He told me that he had once put his neighbor on HIS medical plan at work so he knew it could be done, but if that's the way I felt about it, he was sorry he called. Then he hung up.

Abby, my wife and I are bewildered. Could I put his wife on my Blue Cross? Legitimately, I mean?

BEWILDERED IN OHIO

DEAR BEWILDERED: You are correct in assuming that you may not put your brother-in-law's wife on your Blue Cross. In order for her to qualify for your Blue Cross coverage, she would have to be totally dependent on you financially, which is not the case. Your brother-in-law may have been able to legitimately include a neighbor on HIS medical plan, but it was not Blue Cross.

DEAR ABBY: Re the secretary whose boss asked her to return (on her lunch hour) a girdle his wife had purchased. The secretary was humiliated because, after standing in line for a long time, she was informed that undergarments were not returnable.

You should have told that secretary that if her boss ever asked her to return anything again, she should tell him that her lunch hours were already taken up with her own errands, but she would be glad to accommodate his wife ON COMPANY TIME.

If the boss allowed her to do so (which is extremely doubtful), the secretary should then take her sweet time to perform the errand. I assure you, that would be the last time the boss would ask his secretary to return anything.

ALOHA IN HANALEI, HAWAII

DEAR ALOHA: Thanks, friend. Your answer was better than mine.

Dutch educators cite harmful effects of T.V.

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — Late in the 1976 U.S. presidential campaign, television cameras dutifully recorded then-president Gerald R. Ford standing on the roof of a car waving and gesturing to the crowd for political support.

The next day, some 3,000 miles away in Amsterdam, Netherlands, a Dutch school headmaster glanced out of his window and was stunned by the sight of three schoolboys shouting and waving from the hood and roof of an auto.

After a scolding, and a call to the boys' parents informing them that $300 damage had been done to the car, the headmaster asked the obvious question, "why?"

"We saw President Ford do it on television last night," they said. "We figured if he was doing it, it must be all right."

"I think this is one demonstration that television, and expressly American television, has quite an effect on Dutch schoolchildren," said headmaster Willem van der Meulen of the Schreuder Institute, a private Dutch elementary school.

"The boys are not bad. They saw something on television, they didn't think about what they were doing, they just did it," he said.

Van der Meulen told a reporter that in the Netherlands, just as in the United States, there is serious concern among parents and educators about the role that television is playing in the development of their children. But he added that, in his opinion, the positive aspects of television viewing outweigh the negative.

Years back, many children established wrong notions and ideas about subjects that were only described to them, he said. "Today, television shows many things and the visual image teaches better than any illusion one can conjure up. In some cases, television will make clear that some things are completely different from what a child may have imagined."

Van der Meulen was quick to note, however, that television without proper supervision by the family can be a very harmful influence.

"The family, the social background of the child, is the key to any questions about harmful effects of television viewing," he said.

"In Holland, television is taking the children away from reading books. Instead of reading, children now only have to watch a story. It would be oversteering the issue to say that the Dutch are alarmed at the amount of foreign programming on their television sets for, in fact, most British and American shows are viewed with enthusiasm.

But, when little Dutch girls play, "Kelly, Sabrina and Jill," and Dutch boys try to imitate the feats of "Steve Austin," the school sometimes moves in. Two parent-teacher panels at the school have examined TV's impact on the children. "We were concerned they might be moving too far from their Dutch heritage," said Van der Meulen. "We were also worried that they stayed up too late watching TV and came to school too tired to work."

"The outcome was that parents should exert more control in the home."

C.R. attracts out-of-towners

CR '78 brought four weekend visitors to Big Spring.

From Mesquite, Dessie Wheat and Denise Hipp spent the weekend with Mrs. Wheat's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wheat, 901 Mountain Park, Mrs. Wheat is the grandmother and Miss Hipp the cousin of Larry Wheat, one of the cast in "Moovin' On."

Others who came to see the production, also from Mesquite, were Lolene Range and Amelia Reilly, both of whom were houseguests of Mr. John Hogan, 509 Westover.

The visitors were entertained at the Country Club Saturday by Mrs. D.O. Gray with lunch and bridge. On Sunday they were dinner guests of Veva Strom.

Beauceants honor V.I.P.

The Big Spring Assembly No. 211 of the Social Order of the Beauceant met in regular session Jan. 23 at the Masonic Hall.

Plans were made to serve dinner Jan. 25 to the Big Spring Commandery No. 31.

A new member, Mrs. Robert C. Baker, was received by initiation.

The group voted to give cookies to the Big Spring State Hospital.

Mrs. Steve Baker was installed as first vice president by Mrs. M.A. Parsons.

A memorial was sent to the Knights Templar Eye Foundation in memory of S.K. Ralph Londe.

The next meeting will be Feb. 13.

The Supreme Worthy President of the Supreme Assembly of the Social Order of the Beauceant made her official visit and inspection Jan. 20.

She was accompanied by Mrs. Maurice Rony, Waco, Supreme Marshal, and Mrs. Clarence Cain, Dallas, Supreme Assistant Marshal.

Horticulture course to be offered at HC

James L. Owens, agronomist at Howard College, was guest speaker at the Council of Garden Clubs meeting Wednesday.

The group met at 3:30 p.m. in the Dora Roberts Community Center.

Owens told of a course in Horticulture and Plant Propagation to be offered at the college at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Feb. 7.

Everyone interested should call Barbara Stroud at 7-6311 ext. 70.

The course is especially for beginners and those wanting to learn how to plant and care for plants and gardens. Students will learn by doing the work out in the greenhouse; peat pots and potting soil will be available.

Johnny Johansen, president, called the meeting to order and presided at the business meeting.

Mrs. O.S. Womack gave a report on the decoration of tables for the Chamber of Commerce Banquet Monday. There will be workshop in her home at 9 a.m. Monday and all members of the council garden clubs are asked to participate.

The council decided to plant a tree in memory of Mrs. Frank Wilson.

System protecting goof-offs

EDITOR'S NOTE: President Carter has denounced the federal personnel system as a "bureaucratic maze" and says he'll make strong efforts to get Congress to change it this year. Here, in the first part of a five-part series is an overview of how the system affects the average citizen, why, and what might be done about it.

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal personnel system is delaying Social Security disability payments to sick and jobless workers, impeding the war on high-way deaths, inflating the government payroll and protecting goof-offs from being fired.

It once ordered about $5,000 in back pay for a postal worker who was fired for shooting a colleague in the stomach at a Manhattan post office. It sent a Commerce Department manager through a 21-month-long maze of paperwork to fire an $8,000-a-year secretary who consistently failed to show up for work and who lied about having doctors' appointments.

It pays its blue-collar workers an average of 8 percent more than their counterparts in private enterprise, by the government's reasoning. But it pays its top managers thousands of dollars a year less than many could earn in similar corporate jobs.

It rates 98 percent of its white-collar employees "satisfactory" and most of the rest "outstanding," and it gives periodic merit raises to 99.3 percent of them (in addition to yearly raises to compensate for inflation).

In short, according to top federal executives interviewed by The Associated Press, the system isn't working the way it is supposed to work.

The civil service system was originally set up in 1883 to protect the public from the historic abuses of the spoils system, in which the victorious political party awarded federal jobs to its own members as "the spoils of victory."

In theory, the present system provides a corps of non-partisan, professional workers selected and promoted on the basis of merit and paid at levels comparable to private industry.

The president and his assistants are allowed to put political appointees in the top 2,200 or so policy-making jobs, where they can be fired at will. The bulk of the remaining 2.8 million civilians in the executive branch enjoy something approaching lifetime tenure, and are supposed to run the government in accordance with policies set at the top.

So much for theory. Throughout the federal government, in case after case, managers say they keep inefficient employees on the public payroll rather than firing them because civil service rules make it too difficult. Result: taxpayers support the inefficient ones while their work falls on the shoulders of colleagues, whose own morale sometimes suffers.

It is so difficult to fire or discipline a federal employee for laziness or inefficiency that Leonard Reed, a 24-year veteran of the civil service, called the federal government "the incompetent's best friend" in an article in the Washington Monthly magazine.

A former Washington journalist who recently accepted a federal management post said: "It is just a whole lot worse than I thought. I always thought that the number of drones was about the same in the public sector as in the private. I no longer think so."

"It's a real impediment," said the official, who asked not to be named. "I have repeatedly asked my very best career people, and I have some real winners, 'How can I get rid of X?' They all say, 'You won't live that long.'"

Federal managers often find it easier to transfer, ignore or even promote inefficient employees than to fire them. Others find the rules make it easier to eliminate a person's job, and then with it, than to fire them outright. Tales regularly surface of federal employees who do no work whatsoever, having been shunted into do-nothing jobs just to get them out of the way.

There are a host of other complaints about the system: Merit pay raises are virtually automatic; discrimination complaints are easy to bring and hard to defend against; women suffer because of the legally required preference given to military veterans who make up more than half the federal workforce.

The performance evaluation system fails to sort out the good performers from the mediocre; there are few monetary incentives to put out more than minimum effort.

The appeals system, elaborate as it is, doesn't completely guard against improper political hirings or improper firings of "whistleblowers" who embarrass their bosses by publicizing waste or other abuses in their agency. Employee unions say it is too easy to fire someone for minor rules infractions.

President Carter feels that unless changes are made he cannot hope to fulfill his campaign promise to make the federal government more efficient.

"Even the best-organized government will only be as effective as the people who carry out its policies," he said in his State of the Union address to Congress. "For this reason, I consider civil service reform to be absolutely vital."

Carter's words indicate he intends to push hard for his civil service legislation in Congress, where the heavily unionized federal workforce has a strong lobby.

The president probably can count on widespread public support for civil service changes. Polls indicate most Americans believe federal employees are overpaid, underworked and virtually impossible to fire.

Says the president's chief political poll-taker Patrick Cadell: "The feeling about efficiency in government is really a strong one. ... I suspect there is very good support for an initiative in that area."

Carter's words indicate he intends to push hard for his civil service legislation in Congress, where the heavily declining the GOMA job. He also mentioned family reasons as another factor in declining the position.

He had to resign his political office. Three people have already filed for the seat. The special election is scheduled for March 4. Torres has vowed to avoid the race.

His decision came only four days after he told Briscoe's office he would take the reins of a job that has become a statewide focal point because of alleged corruption and internal strife.

Torres first announced his decision to decline the position to the Brownsville Herald. The newspaper, in its Sunday editions, said the legislator issued a statement following an interview that dealt with Torres' business relationship with Robert Massey.

Massey, also a Brownsville resident, has been indicted on charges of felony theft. The indictment came after a court of inquiry in this South Texas city launched a probe into alleged misuses of federal Manpower funds by some organizations with business ties to GOMA.

In his statement, Torres cited "innuendoes" raised by the press and the possibility of "guilt by association" as reasons for declining the position.

His decision came only four days after he told Briscoe's office he would take the reins of a job that has become a statewide focal point because of alleged corruption and internal strife.

Torres first announced his decision to decline the position to the Brownsville Herald. The newspaper, in its Sunday editions, said the legislator issued a statement following an interview that dealt with Torres' business relationship with Robert Massey.

Massey, also a Brownsville resident, has been indicted on charges of felony theft. The indictment came after a court of inquiry in this South Texas city launched a probe into alleged misuses of federal Manpower funds by some organizations with business ties to GOMA.

In his statement, Torres cited "innuendoes" raised by the press and the possibility of "guilt by association" as reasons for declining the position.

Saints search on

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans Saints hope to find a replacement within 10 days for Hank Stram, the latest coach to be fired by the hapless National Football League team.

Early speculation centered on Dick Nolan, a former San Francisco 49ers head coach who was made defensive coordinator for the Saints last year after starting the season as linebacker coach.

Harry Hulmes, the team's vice president for administration, confirmed that Nolan was a top candidate for the job, but he said several others were being considered.

Hulmes said one of those would be George Allen, recently fired as coach of the Washington Redskins. "I'd listen," Allen said, "but I haven't been contacted."

Hulmes said the Saints hoped to have a new coach within 10 days. He said team owner John Mecom "is restless and anxious to find a winning combination."

Stram was the fourth New Orleans coach to be fired by Mecom. In 11 years in the NFL, the Saints never have finished better than 5-9. During Stram's two seasons, they were 4-10 and 3-11.

Stram cleaned out his plush office Sunday, still shaken by the news of his firing on Saturday. "It was like a bolt out of the blue," he said.

Mecom, a Texas oil millionaire, was reported to be somewhere on the West Coast and unavailable for comment.

Stram, who coached the Kansas City Chiefs to the 1970 Super Bowl championship, said he hadn't decided whether he would seek another coaching job.

Haas wins Open

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Married life will be a little simpler for Jay Haas.

It's never really easy for the touring golf pros, who follow a gypsy existence in an endless series of hotels.

But it is easier when you can plan your schedule. And bright, 24-year-old Jay Haas, who plans to be married next winter, solved a lot of problems and potential problems with his front-running victory in the Andy Williams-San Diego Open.

The victory, the first in his brief, two-year tour career, was worth $40,000 from the total purse of $200,000 and carried some other very important dividends. It lifts him out of the ranks of qualifiers for 12 months. And, with assured appearances in the Masters and Tournament of Champions, virtually assures him of a spot in this year's top 60 money winners and an exemption for all of 1979.

left one in a bunker on the 15th, had a final 72. Bean, whose drive for the top died when he 3-putted the 16th, and Schroeder had final 69s.

Tom Watson, twice a winner this year and the 1977 San Diego champion, made eagle 3 on the final hole for a 71 and a 285 total. Johnny Miller finished at the same figure after a closing 69.

Haas, nephew and golf student of former Masters champ Bob Goalby, started the warm, sunny final round with a 1-shot lead and pulled away with three consecutive birdies beginning on the 4th.

He clinched it with three scrambling pars on the back, including a 12-foot saving putt on the 14th and good recoveries on the next two.

"You really can't appreciate how much that means," said Haas, a former national collegiate champion from Wake Forest. "You can plan your schedule. You can take some time off without losing your exemption for the next tournament. You don't have to worry about being somewhere on Monday to qualify."

"I can't begin to tell you how important this is to me."

"Almost anybody out here (on the tour) will tell you that the exemption is the most important thing you can have."

He nailed it down with a front-running final round of 2-under-par 70 that made him a 3-stroke winner at 278, 10 shots under par on the 7,047-yard South course at the Torrey Pines Golf Club.

Veteran Gene Littler and big Andy Bean, both of whom made challenges then fell victim to their own mistakes, and John Schroeder tied for second at 281. Littler, who missed yet."

Lemons, claiming that Krivacs has been forced to make many of his shots with defenders hanging from his arms and legs, added, "I started to buy him a saddle the other day, so people could ride him when they're hanging on him."

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — So much for running and jumping, bicycling and practicing six hours a day. You need more than that to beat Jimmy Connors for a tennis championship.

Showing how vastly their approaches to the game differ, the irrepressible Connors downed Roscoe Tanner 6-2, 6-4, 6-3 Sunday in

The 26-year-old Tanner talked all week about his austere six-week training grind under the direction of former U.S. Davis Cup captain Dennis Ralston. Tanner had felt that it made him stronger, more disciplined, ready for the likes of Connors. He played

Hogs rest up for grudge match

The Arkansas Razorbacks, whose loss to Texas earlier this season was their fourth game in a week, will rest tonight and enjoy the irony of Wednesday night's crucial Southwest Conference rematch with the weary 15th-ranked Longhorns.

Texas, atop the SWC with an 8-0 mark, hosts rested, dangerous Houston tonight and must travel to Arkansas on Wednesday to take on the fourth-ranked, revenge-minded Hogs. It will be Texas' fifth game in 10 days.

On Jan. 14, the unbeaten Hogs stumbled into Austin for their fourth game in a week and were beaten 75-69 by the Longhorns, who had enjoyed a three-day rest.

"Look, it's different for us than Texas. We go on a road trip and we've got to spend the night," Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton said after the Hogs trimmed Texas Tech 54-49 Saturday night in Lubbock.

"We're always flying and that gets old. Texas has a few bus trips where they get back home by midnight. But this week the situation is reversed," added Sutton. "Last time the Texas game was our fourth in seven days. This time it's their fifth in 10 days."

"We're not going to do anything different than we did when we lost in Austin," he added.

The Longhorns, with Jim Krivacs pumping in 30 points, outlasted Southern Methodist 85-80 Saturday night to run their season mark to 16-2. Houston, meanwhile, was idle.

"Krivacs was hot," Texas

Coach Abe Lemons said of the 5-11 junior who hit 14 of 24 field goals. "One of these nights, he'll miss and they'll call him a bum. But he hasn't ANYONE'S BALL — Los Angeles Laker Kenny Carr, (2) reaches high over the top of Washington Bullets' Kevin Grevey, (35) in an attempt to rebound the ball during NBA action at the Capital Centre in Landover Maryland Sunday afternoon. The Bullets defeated the Lakers 119-112.

All-Stars start early

The All-Star Game is still a week away but some of the participants in the National Basketball Association's mid-winter gathering put on a demonstration Sunday of what to expect.

Consider the following efforts, all by All-Stars:

—Pete Maravich had 35 points and 11 assists to help the New Orleans Jazz beat the Indiana Pacers 107-91 for a chabrecord eighth straight victory.

—George Gervin sank 19 of 25 shots from the field en route to a season-high 42 points, leading the San Antonio Spurs to their seventh straight triumph, a 127-113 decision over the Kansas City Kings.

—Doug Collins and Julius Erving combined for 56 points to enable the Philadelphia 76ers to edge Denver 118-117 despite 39 points by the Nuggets' David Thompson.

—Bob Lanier scored 39 points and hauled down 19 rebounds to carry the Detroit Pistons past the Cleveland Cavaliers 120-116 in overtime.

But perhaps the best performance of the day came from a former All-Star who wasn't chosen for this year's contest. John Drew hit a career-high 45 points as the Atlanta Hawks handed the Buffalo Braves their sixth straight defeat, 107-102.

In other NBA games, the Phoenix Suns whipped the New Jersey Nets 131-100, the Portland Trail Blazers routed the Houston Rockets 123-88, the Golden State Warriors beat the Boston Celtics 99-88, the Washington Bullets defeated the Los Angeles Lakers 119-112 and the Seattle SuperSonics edged the Milwaukee Bucks 103-101.

Orleans even and the Jazz went on to take command by outscoring the Pacers 36-16 in the period. The Jazz led by as many as 19 points in the second half.

The victory lifted New Orleans to the 500 mark at 24-24, but the Jazz has a nine-game road trip coming up after the All-Star break.

Spurs 127, Kings 113

Streaking San Antonio widened its lead over Washington in the Central Division race to 2½ games by handing the troubled Kings their 16th defeat in the last 19 outings.

Gervin, who will start alongside Maravich in the backcourt for the East All-Stars, had 16 points in the second period when San Antonio went ahead to stay.

76ers 118, Nuggets 117

Collins had 30 points and Erving 26 as Philadelphia nipped Denver in a battle of division leaders. Dan Issel, who finished with 34 points, brought Denver within 1 point by hitting a jumper with 4 seconds left. The Nuggets regained possession on a steal but Issel's 30-foot at the buzzer bounced off the rim.

Pistons 120, Cavaliers 116

Lanier got 28 of his points after halftime to keep the Pistons in contention, but it was a basket by Eric Money with 26 seconds left that snapped a 116-116 tie. Two free throws by John Shumate with 1 second left provided the final margin.

Campy Russell scored 35 for Cleveland.

Hawks 107, Braves 102

Buffalo led 42-29 midway through the second period before Drew took command, scoring 31 of his points in the second half and 17 in the fourth quarter.

Home streak broken

By the Associated Press

Indiana State Coach Bob King says the key was poise. Creighton Coach Tom Apke says it was weariness.

Whatever it was, 13th-ranked Indiana State has not only suffered four straight losses, but they have been bounced into fourth place in the dogfight that passes as the Missouri Valley Conference race.

King's Bluejays rallied from a 14-point deficit to steadily chip away for a 72-64 win over Apke's squad. The loss snapped Indiana State's 30-game home winning streak.

"Indiana State didn't play poorly, but they did play very tired basketball," Apke said after Saturday night's win, but added: "We did a great defensive job on Larry Bird and he still got 32 points."

King credited Creighton's cool determination.

"When Creighton got down 14 points in the first half, they kept their poise and hung in there," he said.

"People in the league are taking advantage of our weaknesses. They are taking the good shots away from our good shooters, Bird and (Harry) Morgan," King said.

Creighton got their first lead at 41-40 early into the second half, and then went ahead when Randy Ecker hit a free throw to break a 57-57 tie. From then on, the Bluejays methodically pulled away from Indiana State.

"We're gonna shake things up," King promised. "We have no choice. We've got to try some different people who might help us offensively in support of Larry and Harry."

Hot-shooting New Mexico State took advantage of the Indiana State loss to claim sole possession of first place. The Aggies now sport a 7-1 record while the Sycamores tumbled to 5-3, tied with Creighton.

Bradley is in second place with a 6-2 record. Southern Illinois is right behind at 6-3.

Tanner, of course, had nothing to be ashamed of for his week's work. He eliminated Syd Ball, Zeljko Franulovic, Ilic Nastase, Eddie Dibbs and Borg enroute to a confrontation with Connors. He left with a $17,500 runner-up check.

The 26-year-old Tanner felt, however, that his earlier opposition set him up for Connors. Nastase, Dibbs and Borg hit with a lot of topspin, a slower ball that gave Tanner time to make adjustments.

"Jimmy hits the ball hard and straight at you," Tanner explained. "As a result, I was late on a lot of shots. I have to get quicker. He (Connors) played well. But that's what makes him the toughest guy in the world to beat."

Connors beat Brian Gottfried in a 3 hour 32 minute semifinal Saturday night, after losing the first two sets of the best of five match.

The doubles title went to the top seeded pair of Bob Hewitt and Frew McMillan, who split $11,500 for defeating Vitas Gerulaitis and Sandy Mayer 6-4, 6-4.

Carner didn't mind

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Many of the 16 golfers who played in the $105,000 Triple Crown Match Play Championship did not like the head-to-head format of the event, but JoAnne Carner didn't mind it a bit.

Carner, who picked up the winner's check of $21,000 after Sunday's final match, had a very positive opinion about the match play format — the first of its kind staged by the Ladies Professional Golf Association.

"I love it," the grinning Carner said after beating Sandra Palmer 1-up in a thrilling finish to the four-day tournament. "I'm going to stay up all night trying to talk David Foster into having more match play tournaments."

Foster is chairman of the board of the Colgate-Palmolive Co., which sponsors a number of LPGA tournaments, including the Triple Crown.

Palmer, who missed a 13-foot par putt on the 18th hole Sunday, then watched as Carner made a three-footer for the victory, said that she still likes match play, and added she was happy just to be in the tournament.

Palmer was an alternate for the original Triple Crown field, but was invited to participate when Carol Mann — recovering from an operation — withdrew. Palmer collected $14,000 for finishing second.

Carner had a one-up lead after two holes, but Palmer moved ahead by one when she parred the third and fourth holes while Carner took bogeys on both.

Carner tied the match on No. 9, however, sinking her par putt for a five, while Palmer settled for a six. Palmer edged ahead again on No. 11 with a birdie four, but Carner came back and tied the match with a birdie on No. 12.

Palmer again moved one-up with a birdie on the 16th hole, and seemed to have the match in hand. But she missed a short birdie putt on No. 17, and Carner made a similar putt, tying the match.

Palmer's third shot on the par five 18th hole was short and on the fringe and her lag left her the 13-footer she couldn't make. Carner's approach on the final hole also was short, but close enough to the green to allow her to putt near the hole for a virtual tapin.

Sally Little won third-place money of $10,000 Sunday with a birdie three after she and Sandra Post finished even through 18 holes.

Netters lose heart-breaker

The Big Spring High School Tennis Team lost a heartbreaker to the visiting Midland Lee Rebels, 8-10, Saturday.

In boys singles action, four of six local netters defeated their opponents. Winners included Barry Fish, Craig McMahon, Nick Williams and Bill Little. Losing to Lee netmen were Wasi Syed and Dale Brown.

All three Big Spring boys doubles teams of Fish-Williams, Little-McMahon and Syed-Brown took the honors for the day.

Joni Cline contributed the only point for the girls effort with a solid 6-2, 6-4 victory over Laurie Hahn of Lee.

The Steer netters will look for their first district win when Abilene High comes to town Tuesday afternoon. The Steer record now stands at 2-3.

8-0 Doubles Girls
Bryce Lanier beat Cline Cline (BS), 6-0, 7-4.
Smith Snyder beat Burns Mexia (BS), 6-2, 7-4.
Mutschler Cravens beat Mathews McMurray (BS), 6-2, 7-6.

Irish slow Terps way down

By the Associated Press

It was just like the Atlantic Coast Conference, Lefty Driessel said — a lot of crowd noise, television, a tough opponent and some familiar faces.

The Maryland coach took everything in stride, except the final score.

"It's been a while since I've been beaten like this," he said, "and it's hard for me to accept it."

What Driessel had to swallow Sunday was a 69-54 beating from Notre Dame, the nation's fifth-ranked college basketball team.

"I don't have much to say except we got beaten by a much better team," said the Maryland coach, who has reason to be tight-lipped these days.

The addition of the heralded Albert King theoretically gave Driessel one of the strongest teams in the ACC this year. But his Terps have truly been turtles so far, losing six games in their last eight starts, many of them to conference opponents.

It doesn't help his ego, either, to play teams like Notre Dame in non-conference games.

Among the Maryland-killers in Notre Dame's noisily jampacked Athletic Convocation Center was freshman Tracy Jackson, who scored 11 points in a reserve role. Jackson, an acquaintance of Driessel's from Maryland who was once recruited by the Terp coach, was named the game's Most Valuable Player.

Notre Dame was the only ranked team to play Sunday. On Saturday, second-ranked Marquette was beaten 68-64 by Chicago of Loyola.

KNIGHT MOVES — Chicago-Loyola's Larry Knight (32) tries to break up rebound as Marquette's Bernard Toone (33) reaches for the ball during Saturday's game in Chicago. Loyola upset No. 2 ranked Marquette 68-64.

Reds beat Yanks 10 straight

MOSCOW (AP) — For the 10th straight year, the Soviet Union beat the United States in its boxing series — but the Yanks managed the only knockout and a pair of TKOs in the 11 bouts.

The Soviet Union wound up on top 7-4, with all of its victories coming on points in the three-round bouts, three of the American victories were more like routs, capped by a powerhouse second-round TKO by 19-year-old heavyweight Greg Page of Louisville, Ky.

Andre Curry, a 17-year-old Golden Gloves regional champion from Washington, D.C., turned in one of the day's best performances. He flattened Viktor Kotovshchikov, a finalist in the 1976 Soviet championships, with a thunderous right to the jaw just 15 seconds into the second round of their light welterweight bout.

Flyweight Richard Sandoval, 17, of Pomona, Calif., outpointed Anatoly Klyuev and 22-year-old welterweight Edward Green of Houston stopped Sergei Radkevich after 2:09 of the second round for the other American victories.

"Every one of our wins came with difficulty," Alexei Kiselev, the Soviet coach, said later. "All the Americans turned out to be strong and willful guys."

It was a surprise for many observers, who had expected the Americans to show poorly against the Soviets. Five of the 13 American team members were only 17 or 18 years old, and Hal Miller, the U.S. team manager, acknowledged before the meet that "I cannot say this team is the best that our amateur boxing has."

In two other bouts, lightweight Viktor Rybakov outpointed Darryl Fuller, 17, of Jackson, Tenn., despite several fine combinations by the American and bantamweight Vladimir Sorokin easily outpointed 18-year-old Byron Lindsey of San Diego.

"We came here to get experience and that's what we got," said Steve Ducoff, the U.S. chief of officials. He said he heard Jerry Palmieri, a 19-year-old light heavyweight from Dumont, N.J., say: "That's the best lesson I've ever had," after his loss on points to Nikolai Yerofeev.

The Americans have never won the U.S.-Soviet series, which began in 1969 and alternates between Moscow and Las Vegas, Nev. The U.S. team will box Tuesday in Donetsk, the Ukraine, and Friday in Alma Ata in Soviet central Asia.

'78 Hall-of-Famers few

NEW YORK (AP) — A set of strict new voting guidelines applied to the Hall of Fame's committee on baseball veterans this year insures the fewest number of new members in a decade for the Cooperstown, N.Y., shrine.

The veterans committee met today to consider additional candidates for the Hall of Fame but was limited to naming only two men to join Eddie Mathews as 1978 inductees. Mathews was the only player elected in this year's voting by the Baseball

Writers Association of America.

The last time as few as three new members were named was 1968 when Kiki Cuyler, Goose Goslin and Joe Medwick made it. Since then, Cooperstown membership has been swelled each year, usually by as many as six personalities, and sometimes, such as 1971 and 1972, by eight.

Traditionally, the veteran's committee has supplied the bulk of the Hall of Fame's membership, with 107 of the 164 members making it via that route. In some years, such as 1945 and 1946, the veterans committee has voted several candidates into Cooperstown. The total for those two years, for example, was 21 new members.

But last year, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn ordered a re-examination of the voting procedures and appointed a special committee for that purpose. Among the committee's recommendations was a new structure and altered responsibilities for the veterans group.

Membership on the veterans committee was increased from 12 to 18 but it is one shy of full strength because of the resignation of Hall of Famer Bill Terry. In addition, the committee was given the added responsibility of dealing with players from the old Negro Leagues.

Previously, a separate committee had dealt with players who performed in the Negro Leagues in the days before blacks were permitted in organized ball. That group functioned for seven years and elected nine members to the Hall of Fame, including Satchel Paige, Josh Gibson and Monte Irvin.

Besides players from the Negro Leagues, the veterans committee considers two other categories of candidates.

Sul Ross tops TIAA

By the Associated Press

The Sul Ross Lobos, with a pair of conference victories last week, have become the third leader in as many weeks in the turbulent Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association basketball race.

The Lobos, 3-1 in the TIAA, whipped McMurry 67-65 on Monday night and then trounced winless Tarleton, 74-64 Saturday night.

Sul Ross lost to McMurry

72-65 Tuesday, but it wasn't a conference game.

Trinity and McMurry trail Sul Ross with 2-1 records.

Trinity has two conference games on tap for this week, hosting 0-17 Tarleton on Monday and entertaining Austin College on Saturday.

Sul Ross meets only Tarleton in TIAA action, while McMurry's only TIAA game is Monday night at Austin College.

MARTINA'S FOREHAND — Second-seeded Martina Navratilova (above) makes a return to her opponent Rosemary Casals during singles title match Sunday in the Virginia Slims tournament in Los Angeles. Navratilova, of Dallas, won easily 6-3, 6-2.

Navratilova wins

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Martina Navratilova played excellent tennis on her way to a victory Sunday in a $100,000 women's tennis tournament, but she said things might have been different if Chris Evert or Evonne Goolagong had been around.

"Maybe I wouldn't have a streak if Chris or Evonne were here," said the 21-year-old Navratilova Sunday after whipping Rosemary Casals 6-3, 6-2 to win the tournament championship and the $20,000 first prize here.

The triumph was the 15th singles win in a row for Navratilova, who was seeded second in the tournament and had few problems in disposing of the fifth-seeded Casals in a 65-minute match.

A crowd of 5,130 watched as the 29-year-old Casals of Sausalito, Calif., was able to break Navratilova's service only once.

"Martina played a better game," said Casals. "When somebody comes in like a blanket as she did, I didn't have a chance to push her."

Navratilova, who had never won a tournament in Los Angeles, earned $20,000 while Casals collected $10,500.

The tournament was sponsored by Virginia Slims. The women's tour moved to Chicago for another $100,000 tournament beginning today.

Ridin' fence

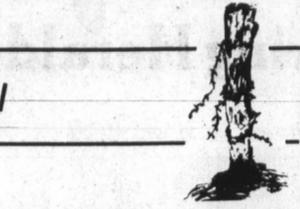

When writing about old-timers, we are prone to select those who have lived in this particular area for many years.
 But equally interesting are people like Mrs. Georgia Robinson, 86, in the Stanton View Nursing Home who have moved to West Texas in recent years.
 In the first place, she and her daughter, Charliotta Hamilton of Big Spring selected the nursing home as a good one. She is living there by choice and says, "Although I miss my home, I have learned to accept my life."
 "I get out some and there are good Stanton people here who take me to church on Sunday. Sometimes I go to senior citizen activities, and I write a lot of letters," she laughed.
 Mrs. Robinson has a lot of wonderful memories. She spent most of her life in two counties bouncing back and forth from Young County to Throckmorton County.
 Mrs. Robinson recalls that when she was 17 years old, she had her first teaching job teaching in a country school at Maize for $30 a month for three months in the summer.
 "In that first job, I lived at home and drove a horse and buggy six miles through thick woods to school.
 "I went down a country road that was not even a lane. But the drive was a beautiful experience. I can remember it like it was yesterday," she recalled.
 She added a description that made you realize that Mrs. Robinson has a knack for remembering the beautiful things in her life, "One morning I was riding

A recent arrival

with Marj Carpenter

through the woods. The sun was just coming up and dew was on the ground and everything had a sparkle about it..." She paused and added, "I can still see them when I shut my eyes. There were two fawns playing in the early morning sunlight in a break between the trees. It was a beautiful moment."
 With a teacher like that, the students are bound to have learned to appreciate beauty. She remembers that she had about seven kids and kept both a paddle and switches for discipline.
 "Some were nearly as old and big as I was," she laughed.
 She said she really graduated from the school of hard knocks but that she had training at North Texas State, West Texas State and at what was once Stanford College.
 She taught at a lot of little country schools in such places as Elbert, Hufstutler, Live Oak, Sunshine, Woodson—and that's where she met and married August R. Robinson, a young farmer on June 30, 1919. She and her older sister had a double wedding at home. Her sister has since died and Mrs. Robinson is the only one left of the four young people that married that day.
 Even after her daughter was in college, she continued teaching by substituting. She said she was pleased that her daughter chose teaching as a career. Her son, August R. Robinson Jr. is with the United States Department of Agriculture in Maryland. She has five grandchildren.
 She and her roommate, Letha Wright, compare notes on their families and memories.
 In a nursing home, each person has their own memories and their own friends and relatives who call.
 But in Stanton, they also have some community interest groups that look after them all.
 And it's interesting to talk to people who have moved to our area in retirement—and find it good—out where I ride fence.

Vanessa Cooper and Jim Bob Read were named Miss and Mr. Coahoma High School following a contest and talent show at the high school auditorium Saturday night.
 First runners up were Toni Hale and Mark Walker and second runners up were Carmen Holman and Bobby Arista. The third runners up were Andrea Fowler and Chip Balzer. Named for congeniality were Mark Walker and Vanessa Cooper.
 Vanessa played a piano selection that included Rachmaninoff's "Concerto in C Minor" and Read did a comic patter routine.
 Walker, Arista and Balzer all sang country western tunes with Arista accompanying himself on the guitar.
 Miss Hale did a ballerina routine and Miss Holman an acrobatic dance with Andrea singing and accompanying herself on the guitar.
 Other contestants for the honor included Delana McQuerry, Billy Rorick, Judy Cox, Jimmy Campbell, Debby Kerby, Gary Paige, Jean Wanner, Julie Hall, Suzanne Shive, John Mulkey, Donna Camp, James Dever, Billy Grandon, Cheryl Powers, Kathy Doolin, Janene Shive, Don Mulkey, Kim Thompson, Lori Broughton and Earl Thomas.
 Former winners who participated included Laurie Choate, Rhonda Griffin, Jesse Griffin and Mike Henry.
 Kerry Swann and Jay Lane Phinney acted as master and mistress of ceremonies.
 Ushers were Steve Spears and Terry Don Roberts, along with Liz Kerley and Melissa Brown.
 Card holders included Mickie Schafer, Jim Bob Coates, Sherry McCutchan and Jay Shawn with a stage crew including Ron Barr, Danny Dodson, Karen Battle, Jana Smith, Cheri Welch, Becci Rowden and Ray Rinard.

Cooper, Read crowned in ritual at Coahoma

Vanessa Cooper and Jim Bob Read were named Miss and Mr. Coahoma High School following a contest and talent show at the high school auditorium Saturday night.
 First runners up were Toni Hale and Mark Walker and second runners up were Carmen Holman and Bobby Arista. The third runners up were Andrea Fowler and Chip Balzer. Named for congeniality were Mark Walker and Vanessa Cooper.
 Vanessa played a piano selection that included Rachmaninoff's "Concerto in C Minor" and Read did a comic patter routine.
 Walker, Arista and Balzer all sang country western tunes with Arista accompanying himself on the guitar.
 Miss Hale did a ballerina routine and Miss Holman an acrobatic dance with Andrea singing and accompanying herself on the guitar.
 Other contestants for the honor included Delana McQuerry, Billy Rorick, Judy Cox, Jimmy Campbell, Debby Kerby, Gary Paige, Jean Wanner, Julie Hall, Suzanne Shive, John Mulkey, Donna Camp, James Dever, Billy Grandon, Cheryl Powers, Kathy Doolin, Janene Shive, Don Mulkey, Kim Thompson, Lori Broughton and Earl Thomas.
 Former winners who participated included Laurie Choate, Rhonda Griffin, Jesse Griffin and Mike Henry.
 Kerry Swann and Jay Lane Phinney acted as master and mistress of ceremonies.
 Ushers were Steve Spears and Terry Don Roberts, along with Liz Kerley and Melissa Brown.
 Card holders included Mickie Schafer, Jim Bob Coates, Sherry McCutchan and Jay Shawn with a stage crew including Ron Barr, Danny Dodson, Karen Battle, Jana Smith, Cheri Welch, Becci Rowden and Ray Rinard.

Dental work helps him look like Presley

OCALA, Fla. (AP) - Dennis Wise tries to sound like Elvis Presley and now he's going to great lengths to try to look like him.
 Wise, 24, has already undergone the necessary dental work and is expected to have his face worked on this week.
 The first phase was dental work completed Saturday by an unidentified dentist who used an 11-inch by 14-inch color photograph of Presley as a guide.
 "You should see the beautiful job they did," said Wise's manager, promoter Danny O'Day.
 O'Day said Wise's teeth were similar to Elvis' and didn't require much change. Caps and crowns were fitted and a gap between Wise's two front teeth was closed, said O'Day.
 Wise is scheduled to undergo plastic surgery early this week at an undisclosed hospital when surgeons, again working from photographs, will attempt to reshape his face to make him look exactly like Elvis.
 When he is redone, Wise plans to take his "Tribute to Elvis" show on tour around the nation.
