$3 million damage suit filed by Earhart's family

(Compiled from local and wire sources)
HOUSTON — The family of Mark Lee Earhart, 23, a Big Spring native and former resident, has filed a $3 million lawsuit in connection with his death in the Dec. 27 explosion of a grain elevator in Galveston.

The suit, which asks $3 million in damages, is one of six lawsuits filed Tuesday in state district court in connection with the explosion. Total damages asked in the suits is more than $16 million.

Earhart was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Earhart of Big Spring and was a graduate of Big Spring High School. Farmer's Export Co., Cook Terminal Co. Inc. and Relco Equipment Inc. were named as defendants in the suit.

The suits allege the defendants knew that the dust collecting system at the grain elevator was improperly designed and installed, resulting in a dangerously defective operation.

Dennis Stevens, 27, and Leroy Preistly, 28, each asking $3 million in damages, allege they have been severely injured and disfigured.

Four dead grain inspectors and their families include Annette Figaro, 18, $1.6 million; Alvin W. Lueders, 25, $2 million; David C. Belluomini, 26, $3.5 million; and Mark Lee Earhart, 23, $3 million.

A spokesman for Farmer's declined comment.

Locals vying for med school

Big Spring will make its bid to attract a Permian Basin Regional Academic Health Center to the city, 5 p.m. Thursday.

A total of 14 members of the Big Spring Committee for a Medical Training Center will set off for Lubbock, 2 p.m. Thursday, to witness the presentation. The Texas Tech University Board of Regents, representing the university which will sponsor the center, will make the final decision of where the facility will be located.

According to the schedule of events, oral presentations will be made by Midland representatives at 3 p.m.; Odessa representatives at 4 p.m.; and by the Big Spring delegation at 5 p.m. According to Dr. Judson F. Williams of El Paso, chairman of the board of regents, a decision is expected at the Friday session of the board.

Big Spring's pitch will be made by Winston Wrinkle, and will include a complete slide presentation of Big Spring medical facilities and a speech outlining what Big Spring has to offer.

"We will stress what we can give them right now, and show them that we can do a better job of meeting the needs of a health center. Then we will leave it in their laps and hope for the best," said Dr. P.W. Malone, Malone-Hogan Clinic.

Malone stressed that unlike the other cities, Big Spring would not pack buses of citizens to the meeting or enlist governmental representatives to plug the city.

"Our state senator and representative will not be there. We will not make a political football out of this. We will go purely on what we can offer them," said the doctor.

And what will the committee offer the board? According to Dr. Malone, the committee will offer six crucial criteria.

—Big Spring offers, primarily through the State and Veterans Administration Hospitals, more long-term patients than the other cities. Long-term patients can be more effectively studied by medical students than can outpatients and short-term patients.

—Big Spring offers a larger number and greater variety of hospitals and teaching situations than the other cities. The city supports private, federal and state facilities.

—Big Spring offers a sizeable group of well-trained specialists.

—Big Spring offers an enthusiastic community with support of all of its 46 service clubs and the entire medical community.

—Big Spring offers (and Malone stressed that this was perhaps the most crucial) the Webb Air Force Base Hospital, a $3.5 million facility, immediately and with shared expenses and no rental fees.

—Big Spring offers two plots of land adjacent to local hospitals for future building to specifications which may be required by the Academic Health Center.

Community officials in Big Spring, Odessa and Midland were notified in mid-November that Tech's medical school was searching the Permian Basin for a city to house its branch school.

Although the medical program of the facility will be conducted in the entire Permian Basin area, only one city will be chosen as the location for the Permian Basin Regional Academic Health Center.

Written applications for the facility were submitted to Tech by the cities in December. The next link in the chain of events is the oral-visual presentation Thursday.

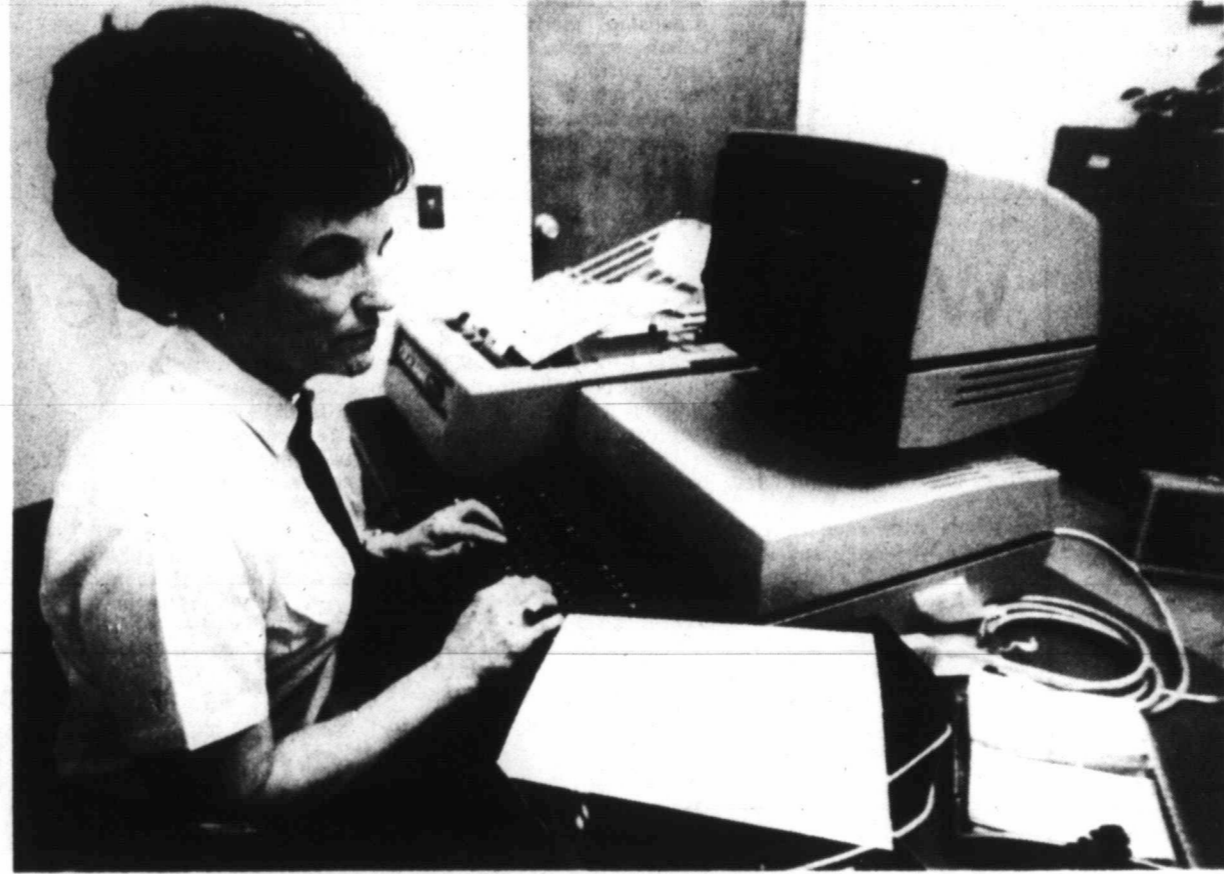

After the regents select a city for the building, Tech officials plan to go before the next session of the Texas Legislature to request funding for operation of the center.

Those members of the committee attending the Thursday meeting are Dr. Malone, Winston Wrinkle, Bill Albright, Barry Callen, Jimmy Taylor, Norman Knox, R.H. Weaver, Clyde McMahon Sr., Bill Tune, Dr. Clyde Thomas, Dr. R.B.G. Cowper, Adolph Supak, Dr. Jack Margolis, and Tom Balderach.

Those committee members unable to attend are: Ray Don Williams, Dr. Nell Sanders, Jack Powell, Harry Nagel and Wade Choate.

Vietnamese, American held on spy charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Vietnamese student whose father once ran for president of South Vietnam on a peace platform and a State Department information officer say they are innocent of charges that they passed U.S. defense secrets to communist Vietnam.

Ronald Louis Humphrey and Truong Dinh Hung are accused in a seven-count federal indictment of transmitting documents to Hanoi "relating to the national defense of the United States."

The indictment, released Tuesday, accuses Humphrey of passing confidential and secret documents to Truong for relay couriers who carried the documents to Vietnamese officials in Paris.

The espionage arrests are believed to be the first in which a U.S. citizen has been accused of spying for Vietnam and the first since South Vietnam collapsed and was taken over by the North in 1975.

Both men maintained their innocence in initial appearances Tuesday at the U.S. District Court in Alexandria, Va., a Washington suburb. They were to return to the courthouse today to enter formal pleas.

Judge William B. Bryant ordered them held in lieu of $250,000 bail. Truong's attorney had argued for lower bail, but the prosecutor, Assistant U.S. Attorney Frank W. Dunham Jr., urged they be held without bail.

Briscoe 'hid' seven energy staffers

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe has slowed the work of the new Texas Natural Resources Council but has used its payroll to camouflage seven people who work for his energy office, documents and sources indicate.

All seven employees are paid with funds received by the governor's energy office from the U.S. Department of Energy.

Comptroller Bob Bullock's office established a separate payroll for the NRC at the request of Dickie Travis, Briscoe's executive assistant.

It was revealed in January that 42 persons ostensibly employed by Counterpoint Systems, Inc., a private contractor, actually worked for the Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs (GOMA).

Sources say that in both instances, employees were "hidden" to foster the illusion that Briscoe had frozen the size of his staff.

The 1977 Legislature created the NRC, largely in response to coastal problems, made the governor chairman, directed him to appoint the other members and authorized him to hire staff.

Briscoe delegated the chairmanship to Al Askew, who heads his energy office.

Sources familiar with the situation said Briscoe was reluctant to sign the bill but did so after learning that both environmentalists and certain industrial lobbies favored it. The measure took effect Sept. 1.

The new law mandates quarterly meetings, but the NRC has yet to meet because Briscoe has not completed his appointments. The council also faces a March 1 deadline to report on coastal problems and their solutions.

Frank Sheffield, head of the NRC staff, is known to have expressed frustration at the strictures placed on his ability to hire experts.

Teen-ager rescues man from burning apartment

A 73-year-old man is in good condition today in Malone-Hogan hospital after 18-year-old Gerald Railsback, a service station attendant, pulled him from his burning apartment at 11:30 a.m.

Ennis Roach, who is a tenant at No. 4 Coronado Hills Apartments, was taken by ambulance to the hospital. He reportedly suffered second degree burns of the face and forearms.

"He was blistered and singed a little bit, but I think he was in pretty good shape," Railsback said 15 minutes after the incident.

"I was working at the Texaco station," the lad said, indicating Albert's Texaco station on Wasson Road, "when I saw smoke coming out of the roof. I ran over and heard the guy calling for help inside, so I ran around back to where they have these little porches and I got the sliding window open and helped him out."

Railsback also called to neighbor Mary Guitart, in No. 3, who called the fire department and the ambulance.

Roach apparently does not know how the fire started, but walked into his living room shortly before 11:30 to find flames and smoke.

Captain Bob Myers was in charge of the smoking scene. Lt. Sam Froman was the first fireman to reach the apartment.

"We have no idea how it started," he said, but when I got here flames were shooting out the front window under the porch roof. It had been going for some time, but we had it out in about five minutes."

According to Railsback, Roach was on his feet and calling when the sliding window was pried open and the man helped out, despite the thick smoke.

16 year old held in murder

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — District Attorney Joe Thigpen will ask that Roy Glenn Swink, 16, be tried as an adult for the killings of his father, stepmother and his brother last week in Asperment.

Swink currently is being held in the juvenile detention wing of the Lubbock County Jail.

The youth was arrested by Stonewall County authorities following the shotgun deaths of Asperment feed store owner Welon Swink, 38; his wife, Ilka Ilene, 28, and his son, Royce Wayne, 14.

Swink originally told officers he escaped being killed by crashing through a bedroom window.

Clifford Brown, a Lubbock attorney representing Swink, said he would fight any attempt to have the youth declared an adult.

A hearing will be held in Lubbock within 10 days to determine the youth's status.

FBI probe of jail death would be 'whitewash'

ODESSA (AP) — Gerry Lopez, an Odessa lawyer and a former attorney for the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, has claimed that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is incapable of conducting an impartial investigation into the death of Larry Ortega Lozano, a jail inmate who died in the Ector County jail Jan. 22.

Lopez said the FBI probe would, in effect, be a "whitewash" because of the agency's close ties to local law enforcement officials.

Lopez suggested that the state's attorney general's office would be the most responsible agency to conduct the probe. That office is already committed to undertake the job.

Lopez says at least four of his clients have been victims while incarcerated in Ector County and Odessa city jails.

Dan Maeso, agent in charge of civil rights matters, will conduct the investigation for the state attorney general's office.

Maeso is one of two Assistant Attorneys-General who met with District Attorney Rick Hamby in Midland to discuss the death of Tiburcio Griego Santome.

Maeso and Assistant Attorney-General Ed Ibar met with Hamby and Texas Rangers at Midland's DPS headquarters. A two-hour discussion of the case was held before Maeso and Ibar left Midland. No further comment from them has been forthcoming.

Weather forces cancellation of ceremony

The special landing ceremony at the new Big Spring Municipal Airport was cancelled this morning, due to the fog.

However, private aircraft may now land at the airport under VFR (visual flight rules) conditions. Harry Spannaus, director of the industrial park, said it will take four months for him to receive approval for instrument flight landings.

Services will not be available until after the T-Hangars and Fixed Base Operations are moved from the county airport. This is expected to take from 120-180 days, according to Spannaus.

A special ceremony will be held in April at which time the entire industrial park will be dedicated. An Air Show may be held in connection with that event.

Offbeat: Attendance record
GREENVILLE, Pa. (AP) — The snows of '78 came too late to threaten Cynthia Staynoff's perfect attendance record.
Greenville High School president Carl Scott said Tuesday that in recent rough weather, 200 to 400 students per day had been absent from the 11,500-student Greenville District.

But Miss Staynoff, who weathered every other storm in 12 years of schooling, graduated early this year. Not that the weather could have kept her home.
Through eight years of St. Michael's Grade School and four years at Greenville High, she never missed a day.
"I just didn't, and that's all," she said by phone from her parents' bakery in this northwestern Pennsylvania community.

Once in second grade, she said, her mother spotted a measles on her chin and "told me I wasn't allowed to go."
"But I got up early, put a bandage on my chin and went to school without telling her," she said.

Cubans seek Third World leadership

EDITOR'S NOTE — Fidel Castro has sent his soldiers, doctors, builders to various parts of the world — especially Africa — in a bid for Third World leadership. Here is a report on the Cuban presence compiled from information collected by Associated Press bureaus around the world and written by a veteran correspondent in Africa, who has followed Cuba's buildup in that part of the world.

By LARRY HEINZERLING
Associated Press Writer

Cubans are fighting wars in black Africa, breeding bulls and building roads in Asia and waging a low-key campaign to win influence among their Caribbean neighbors.

The island nation's campaign for Third World leadership — with Africa replacing Latin America as its top priority — mixes the gospel of socialism with a flood of soldiers, doctors and other technical advisers.

Cuba's largest presence abroad is in Africa where an estimated 27,000 Cubans, mostly soldiers, operate in 16 countries.

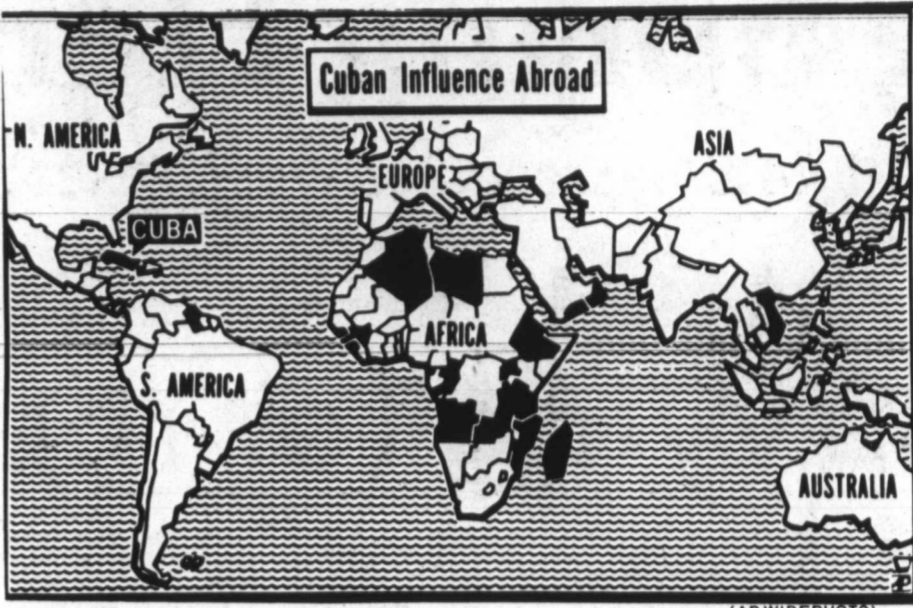

President Fidel Castro also has dispatched his "international builders brigade" to Vietnam and is wooing friends in Jamaica in the Caribbean and Guyana on South America's northeast coast.

Aside from soldiers, the brigade resembles in many ways the U.S. Peace Corps. It includes everything from teachers, basketball coaches and doctors to construction workers and dance instructors, often followed by propaganda movies and the government news agency, Prensa Latina.

In Vietnam, Cuba has opened a bull-breeding center northwest of Hanoi, built a hospital in central Binh Tri Province and constructed a 30-mile highway southwest of Hanoi linking industrial and agricultural areas.

The Vietnamese government recently awarded friendship medals to 20 Cuban experts for their contribution to war reconstruction.

In the Caribbean, Cubans in Jamaica have built an agricultural school for 500 students outside Kingston, have a microdam project in the works, are training construction crews and are providing technical assistance in sports, science, tourism, mining and agriculture.

In Guyana, a brigade of doctors has been working in Georgetown and remote areas of the interior. Cuban experts in Georgetown are also in charge of the shrimp fleet, training Guyanese in fishing.

Elsewhere in the region, Cuba is the main supporter of the Puerto Rican independence movement. Informed sources in San Juan say they are convinced that Havana is the main financial backer of the Marxist pro-independence Puerto Rico Socialist Party.

Some of the islands of the Caribbean are seeking independence and Cuba is believed to be seeking influence in those areas through political parties rather than violent revolution. Cuba's involvement in Africa was capped last March by a tour by Castro to Somalia, Ethiopia, Tanzania, Mozambique and Angola. Its role in Africa has widened since.

Last month, a soldier whom Somalia identified as one of an estimated 2,500 Cubans supporting Ethiopian forces was captured by ethnic Somali insurgents in the Ogaden region of eastern Ethiopia.

Cuba's largest present in Africa is still in Angola, the former Portuguese colony where an expeditionary force of 19,000 soldiers and 4,000 civilian advisers are backing the Marxist government against two guerrilla nationalist movements.

Weevils sing: Don't cage me in that thing

By MARJ CARPENTER
COLORADO CITY — A pickup has been driving around Colorado City dragging a trailer, with what looks like a Bingo game cage attached.

It's a wire cage around another wire cage and it is full of trash and dried leaves instead of Bingo stubs.

The odd-looking machine was built by the Mitchell County extension service staff.

Bud Hill, manager of the Buford Co-op Gin furnished building material. Alton Raschke donated the trailer. David Stubblefield supplied the tires. Sam Crenshaw devised a pulley system. Colorado Lumber Company donated material.

L.C. Mize supervised the weird looking project.

Why were all of these perfectly sane citizens contributing to a project that looked like a dirty Bingo cage?

The truth of the matter is that it's a boll weevil finder. The boll weevil, according to the old ballad, is "a-lookin' for a home."

And Mitchell County is lookin' for the boll weevil's home. The machine is to be used in surveying overwintered boll weevils in Mitchell and Scurry Counties.

Now the boll weevil hunters have already determined one fact: Soon after the boll weevil emerges from his overwintering quarters, it migrates to the nearest cotton field. And the boll weevil does not appear to care whose field it may be.

So, the boll weevil hunters are hunting the overwintering sites and seeking out possible early season control.

Over in Howard County, they have located some of the sites and are in the process of studying ways to eradicate them or control them.

In Mitchell County, they now have a moving boll weevil hunter. They know the weevils love shinnery, broad leaf trees such as Chinaberry and thick stands of mesquite. They also love piles of leaves and trash.

Flu bug beds pupils

The flu bug has taken a number of students and teachers out of the Big Spring school system during the last couple of weeks, and Lakeview elementary reports that it may have additional problems — with chicken pox.

Officials at the school said that last week was worse for attendance because of the flu, but that things were beginning to get back to normal; however, chicken pox problems could worsen attendance again.

Kentwood and College Heights each reported a proving attendance figures this week, with near ten per cent of the students still out.

Bauer elementary said student attendance was bad last week, but improving. Among the teachers there, attendance was worse this week with four out today.

Washington and Moss elementary said that their figures showed nothing approaching an epidemic of the flu, but said that attendance was low. At Moss, the last few weeks saw more illness among teachers than normal, but today, overall attendance was near normal.

The junior highs both had low attendance in past weeks, with today's figures showing a large improvement.

At Rannels, attendance was almost normal again, but Golias still shows low attendance. Absences last week at Golias were close to 200 daily, where average absences number from 50 to 75. Monday absences were almost 150, with today's count showing some 91 students still out.

At the senior high, there has been lower-than-average attendance, but a lower percentage absent than at the junior highs and elementary.

An agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation will give pointers on security to representatives of all the banks and credit unions in the area, 7 p.m. Thursday.

After being contacted by several institutions about a seminar on bank security, Police Sgt. Ed Kissinger, head of crime prevention for the city, contacted the FBI in Dallas. Agent H. Lamar Meyer volunteered to lead the seminar.

"I was contacted by Webb Credit Union first," said Sgt. Kissinger. "It is in the process of moving from an area where it was surrounded by security and never had to give it a thought. Now the Webb people want to know best how to approach the security problem in the 'real world,'" said Kissinger.

Trouble ahead for volunteer army

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rising recruitment costs and a shrinking pool of eligible manpower may spell trouble for the volunteer army into the 1980s, say Pentagon spokesmen.

Five years after Richard M. Nixon ended the draft, it costs more than four times what it did to draft men for the armed services in the mid-1970s.

Recruiters are spending $500 million annually to keep the armed forces up to the 2.1 million level mandated by Congress. That came to $1,200 for each of the 411,000 enlistees last year, the Pentagon says, including a system of bonuses to encourage volunteers and salaries for the recruiters.

By contrast, at the height of the Vietnam war in 1966, the Selective Service System spent less than $100 million to induct 382,010 men, less than $300 per person.

And recruits will continue to cost more.

"The cost will go up," Pentagon spokesman John Becker said in a telephone interview. "There isn't anything you can do about it."

In 1974, the first year in which no one was drafted into the Army, the number of males turning 18 was 2.1 million, a level Defense Department planners don't expect to reach again until nearly 1990.

The real crunch will come from 1986 to 1988, Becker said, when the number of men reaching the age of 18 will drop to 1.7 million.

So the Defense Department is counting on higher reenlistment rates and more women volunteers to keep the armed forces at the congressionally set level of a million fewer personnel than during the Vietnam war, Becker said.

Triple slaying suspect moved

ASPERMONT, Texas (AP) — A 16-year-old boy has been transferred to a juvenile detention center in Lubbock in connection with last week's shotgun slayings of three members of an Aspermont family.

Killed were 38-year-old Herman Swink; his 27-year-old wife, Eileen; and Royce Wayne Swink, 14, his son by a previous marriage.

District Attorney Joe Thigpen had filed a petition alleging that the 16-year-old engaged in delinquent conduct.

The teenager was represented by counsel during a detention hearing Tuesday.

Maddox going to hospital

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — Lester Maddox is going back into the hospital this week for tests to determine whether he needs heart bypass surgery.

The former Georgia governor had been admitted briefly to Urban Medical Hospital last Wednesday for tests but was released when it was learned all the tests could not be completed.

He said Sunday his doctor wants to make sure that all the tests can be done during a single visit before readmitting him.

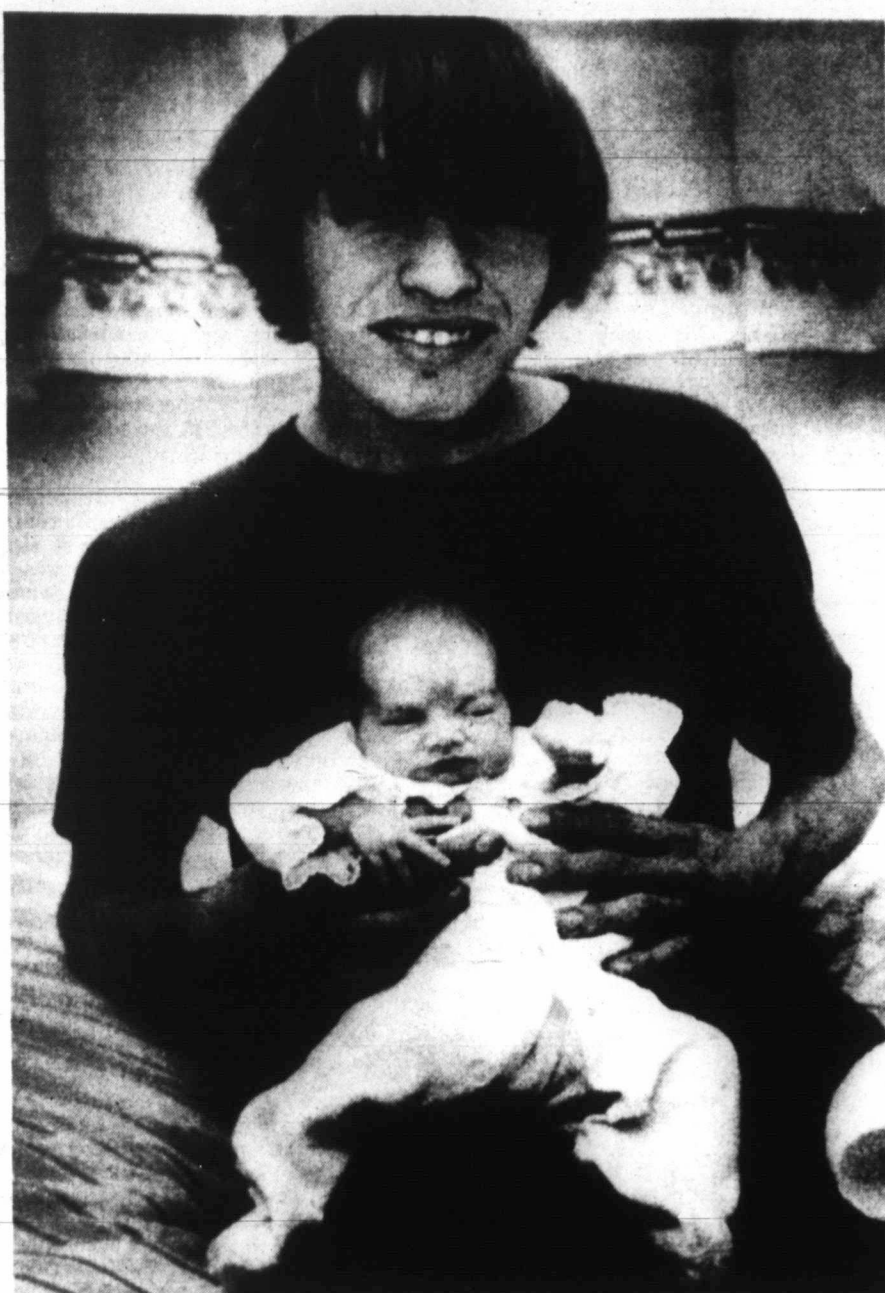

Maddox suffered a heart attack while working in his garden September 25.

Abilene's Judge Ely, 99, dies

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Retired State District Judge Walter Ely died in an Abilene Medical Center Tuesday after a sudden illness. He was 99.

Ely was one of three men appointed to the State Highway Commission in 1926 by Gov. Dan Moody to establish order in the state's highway system.

Funeral services were pending.

BORN TO MOTHER IN A COMA — A proud father, Ricky Goforth, 21, of Amarillo, Tex. holds his three-week-old daughter, Susan, on his lap Tuesday at his Amarillo apartment. Susan was born Jan. 8 to Laurie Goforth who has been in a coma since mid-December when she suffered a cardiac arrest. Laurie, who may never see her daughter, remains comatose in the intensive care unit of an Amarillo hospital.

Teen is mom, but may never know it

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — For 21-year-old Rick Goforth, the joy of being the father of a healthy baby girl is tempered by the knowledge that his comatose teen-aged wife is still unaware of the birth.

Instead of carefree hours with the baby, Goforth spends precious minutes at his wife's bedside in a hospital's intensive care unit while the little girl stays with his mother-in-law.

Eighteen-year-old Laurie Goforth, the victim of cardiac arrest that has left her unconscious since Dec. 18, had the baby on Jan. 8. Doctors say she is unaware of the birth.

Goforth has left his job in nearby Borger to live in a small apartment near Northwest Texas Hospital. His mother-in-law, Mrs. Al Butcher, cares for the baby, Susan Michelle, while Goforth works at an Amarillo aerosol plant.

Goforth is allowed to visit Laurie in the hospital's intensive care unit twice a day for only 10 minutes at a time.

And now, he's learned that a major medical insurance policy application he sent in for his wife just six days before she suffered her attack had been rejected.

Until Laurie's heart attack, life was a joy for the newlywed high school sweethearts, married last year.

The day when Laurie was struck by the heart attack was special. The couple had just bought a color television — their Christmas present to each other and, of course, for the baby scheduled to arrive in two months.

"It had been a good day. We came home and heated up some pot pies for dinner. After we ate, Laurie and I sat on the couch and she was writing Christmas cards," recalled Goforth.

"Then, all of a sudden, Laurie screamed, 'Oh, no!' I thought at first she was kidding me, but she collapsed in my lap. I didn't know what had happened," he added.

It took valuable time for an ambulance to transport Laurie the 50 miles from Borger to Amarillo. Her doctor said later that she suffered another arrest while in the ambulance.

By the time she arrived, she had suffered severe brain damage, doctors said. Doctors were hopeful that nothing had happened to the baby. Because of Laurie's critical condition, they decided to wait and let nature take its course.

On Jan. 8, Laurie began having contractions and only two and a half hours later, six-pound, eight-ounce Susan Michelle was born.

"I didn't know anything about babies but they taught me a lot at the hospital before I brought her home. I know how to feed her and burp her and change her diapers now," he said.

On Dec. 12, Goforth had applied for two major medical insurance policies — one for him and the other for Laurie.

"The agent told me that we would be covered from the time we signed up. I got my policy back in the mail, but Laurie's never came," he said.

Goforth's insurance company, the American National Insurance Co., of Galveston, told The Associated Press on Tuesday that it had rejected Laurie's application.

Jim Mineer, a senior vice president, said the application was rejected Jan. 26, and a letter to that effect had been mailed to Goforth, along with his initial payment.

Mineer said a letter from her family doctor showed past medical problems. He would not reveal the contents of the letter.

Mrs. Butcher said that doctors had told her when Laurie was a youngster that she had a fast heartbeat, but she had not been treated for it.

Goforth says things have happened so rapidly that he hasn't had time to worry about the insurance.

"I just have to hope and pray that Laurie can make it. We feel that the fact that she had the baby okay was a miracle. If one miracle can happen to us, another one can too," he said.

Medical costs control plan pushed by TMA

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Medical Association wants medical schools to teach students more than how to treat patients — it wants them to teach how much treatment costs.

This is one of the TMA's recent proposals to hold down health care costs. It says that is its top priority in 1978.

"The medical profession in Texas has the responsibility to face this issue squarely and to develop our own effective cost control programs," said Dr. John Smith Jr. of San Antonio, TMA president.

As part of the program, the TMA said in a statement, physicians will be asked to eliminate unnecessary procedures or substitute less expensive ones.

Also, the TMA said, health insurance companies will be encouraged to use deductibles to protect against "over-utilization of benefits. These companies also will be asked to provide coverage for diagnostic tests and services on an outpatient basis rather than only as part of in-hospital care."

It would save office expenses, the TMA said, if patients paid for office visits at the time of service and submitted their own insurance claims. In 1975, the TMA said, medical practice expenses accounted for 43 percent of physicians' before-tax income.

"Following sound health practices, such as proper diet and exercise, not smoking, and not drinking in excess, for example, could prevent up to one half of most people's health problems," Smith said.

Juries often too generous with awards

People who complain about the rocketing rate of inflation are often people who, when chosen for jury duty, award outlandish sums to plaintiffs in damage suits.

For years, insurance rates have been leading indicators of inflation. Insurance rates have to go up when huge and often unrealistic sums are awarded to people who have complained in the courts that doctors are derelict in pursuit of their duties, that manufactured goods are faulty, that contracts have been breached.

Don't think for a moment that the cost of such payments are absorbed by the insurance companies. They have to be passed along to the customer. That means all of us pay.

"Suing people for damages has become a new form of big business in Texas which is clogging our courts, corrupting our jury system and undermining the tradition of honesty and fair play," Jerry Johns, president of the Southwestern Insurance Information Service, says.

"Many jurors in the state are too often being treated like audiences on a television give-away program in which they applaud as higher and higher sums of money are awarded," he added.

More than one lawyer has flatly refused to handle a case when it was discovered the defendant in a complaint was not covered by insurance.

Johns says that sympathy has no place in a jury box. "Plaintiffs," he adds, "are entitled to just compensation for damages and not retirement income as some Texas jurors seem to believe."

Excessively high jury awards, Jones adds, "hurt every person who pays insurance premiums."

State figures show that less than half of the people driving automobiles today are covered by insurance, although the state law makes it clear that it is illegal to drive a vehicle without liability insurance. It's obvious that the ratio will diminish still more as rates escalate and they're bound to grow if juries don't approach their jobs a little more realistically.

Youthful influence

Around the rim

Carla Walker

It is truly amazing how a child can change the speech patterns of perfectly normal, well-educated adults.

Take for example, my niece, Becky Jo Walker — or "Baby Bear" as she sometimes chooses to call herself. At the age of two and one-half years, she has altered the speech of my entire family.

Contrary to accepted grammatical rules, the personal subject pronoun is "me" — not "I." "Me not know that," "Me go with you," and "Me not like that" are now commonly heard sentences coming from everyone in the family including my mom — who always corrects my father's grammar, my brother — who was a straight A student and has an Associate of Arts degree, and myself, despite the fact that I have a bachelor's degree in journalism.

AND, THE CONSONANT sound "s," contrary to Webster's dictionary of pronunciation, is undistinguishable from the sound Webster shows for the letter "f."

Thus, the sentence "I am going to your house," when spoken by Becky or other members of my family, sounds more like "Me doughing to 'ur houf." "Give me a kiff," translated from "Becky-ese" to English, is a request for a kiss.

When told to use "I" instead of "me," Baby Bear and her mimics can often be heard to say "Listen to I!" Oh, how appalled Mrs. Smith, my high school English instructor, must be!

Another common speech habit is to change, or completely drop the first consonant of a word or name. I have almost forgotten what it is like to hear my mother call me "Carla." Instead, like Becky, the entire family calls me

"Aria," or something like that. Also, the spelling and pronunciation of "look" has been changed (or else a new definition has been added for the word "book"), because now the family "books" at the television or, more often, "books" at Becky.

UNABLE TO say "Grandma," Becky has almost permanently labeled my mom "Ma," or at best, "Nee-ma." Grandpa never was a favorite term, so my father, whose name is Ray, is more commonly known as 'Ay, since the advent of his first grandchild.

My aunt and uncle, Myrtle and Johnie, are often introduced as Myr and Non," since "Myrtle" is too long for Becky to say, and most of Baby Bear's come out more like n's. One of Becky's younger uncles has had his name changed from Jim to "Nim," and Jim's brother, nine-year-old Corky answers to "Tork."

Most of those names are logical child pronunciations, but we still have yet to figure out how Grandma Lois became "Mimi."

Perhaps at the outset, use of "Becky-ese" was a conscious effort to be funny, or an effort to give more

"You-were-there" effects to repetition of Becky's cute statements. Now, however, the use of Baby Bear's way of talking is almost subconscious. As she absorbs the English language from the adults around her, so we absorb the way she talks, and relive a little of the wonder of discovering a new world through her eyes.

Country Western singer Lynn Anderson put out a song about how she was "Growing Up All Over Again" through the eyes of a little girl. Well, Me am, too.

Why SALT delay?

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — The historic Senate debate on arms control is being inexorably delayed, perhaps into next year beyond the 1978 elections, thanks to developments in Washington and Geneva tied to a single word: verification.

In Washington, prospects for Senate ratification of a new SALT (strategic arms limitation talks) agreement are going down instead of up because of serious doubts about Soviet compliance. In Geneva, U.S. efforts at verification are partly responsible for unexpected delay in negotiating an agreement.

Central to this problem is the Soviet Backfire bomber. The Senate insists on verification that the bomber will not be an intercontinental weapon, the difficulty of which has stymied the U.S.-Soviet talks. The U.S. effort to bar modernization of strategic weapons, another unresolved point, also reveals the limits of verification.

BUT QUESTIONS larger than verification are raised. Does the willingness of U.S. negotiators to accept the Backfire as a non-strategic weapon betray over-eagerness for agreement? Is the U.S. attempt to bar modernization an effort to compensate for the vulnerability of U.S. Minuteman strategic missiles?

Indeed, expert critics of the nearly completed SALT II agreement feel it gives the Kremlin a dangerous strategic advantage even if all limits on the Soviets could be verified. But it is verification, more understandable to the layman, that causes unease among uncommitted Senators — particularly John Glenn of Ohio.

Having supported chief SALT negotiator Paul Warnke in his closely contested confirmation fight, Glenn was counted on by the White House as a vote for ratification. But after attending the Geneva negotiations as a Senate observer, the former astronaut came away worried about verification. Unless restrictions on the Soviet Union are made more verifiable than they are today, Glenn will vote no on SALT II.

CONSEQUENTLY, SENIOR administration officials are in no hurry for a SALT ratification debate and would prefer waiting until after the 1978 elections. This lack of haste is one reason why the old Carter administration forecast that a SALT treaty would be initiated this month is now inoperable.

Moreover, the Backfire bomber issue — though really less important than missile agreements already reached — remains a serious stumbling block. The Backfire clearly has the range to reach North America on a one-way flight. The Russians insist it is not a strategic weapon, will not count it in SALT's numerical limitation on strategic weapons, and will not even mention Backfire in the SALT II agreement. Instead, they offer a letter from President Leonid Brezhnev promising not to use the Backfire as an intercontinental weapon.

In a recent interview over RKO General Television, Warnke told us any Backfire agreement "will have to be something which is legally binding and which is verifiable." What the U.S. has in mind is co-signing Brezhnev's letter to make it "legally binding." But even putting it into the agreement itself would not guarantee against the Russians turning the Backfire overnight into a strategic weapon. In short, it is not verifiable.

Simultaneously, Soviet negotiators use the non-verifiable argument in resisting U.S. demands to prohibit modernization of intercontinental missiles. This demand is intended, by preventing Soviet modernization, to bolster the largely discredited argument by the arms control community that SALT II would contain the Soviet threat to Minuteman silos.

But Soviet negotiators are adamant. The recent official cable back from Geneva describes this position by Soviet negotiator Shechukin: "Freezing any improvements to existing ballistic missiles (for example, guidance) was impossible and unverifiable."

Strides made in treating mental woes

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I never miss your daily column, and some of your comments have helped not only me but friends and relatives. Will you please explain EXACTLY what is meant by the phrase "manic-depressive." What is involved? I know there is no cure for it. — E.M.S.

You are wrong about this being incurable.

One term for it is "bipolar depressive psychosis." Another is the "cyclothymic personality." Theories abound as to the whys and wherefores of such personality disorders. Labels should be used cautiously.

In the manic-depressive state, the person shifts from moods of elation and great energy to ones of melancholia or depression with loss of energy and interest in his surroundings, in family, school, hobbies, sex. Usually there is no single cause for the emergence of either mood — a great disappointment, for example. The mood shifts seem to be dictated "from within," regardless of circumstances. Often moods are extended, lasting months.

These are less common personality disorders. The more common type is the so-called "unipolar" psychosis, with depression the most common of that type. It's estimated that 1 in 20 have this at some time in their lives to a major degree, many more to a lesser one.

In modern medicine's emphasis on treating the "whole" person, more doctors are becoming aware of these personality disturbances as part of everyday practice. As I said, you are wrong to call these conditions incurable. Modern pharmacology now has medicine for such disorders. Lithium, for example, is used in treating the manic state. Other mood adjusters are available for others. Group-therapy organizations are being formed to help persons who have lost touch with themselves. Psychiatry is helping others.

Physical disorders can be involved, requiring physical cures. One thinks of advances in treating low blood sugar hypothyroidism and other ailments which can create personality changes resembling the so-called "mental" illnesses. I find much to be encouraged about in this field.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What's the difference between tendinitis and bursitis? — H.A.

Tendinitis is inflammation of the tendon sheaths (coverings). Bursitis is inflammation of a bursal sac (a kind of "cushion") found over various bony prominences.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a 74-year-old woman who has been having a time with catarrh. When I mentioned this to my young doctor, he said it was "post-nasal drip." Whatever they call it now, I have it, but the doctor didn't give me any medicine for it. Can you do any better? — L.H.D.

It does mean exactly the same as post-nasal drip. The drip is caused by irritation that produces the mucus, which seeks the easiest path — via the nose or throat. Mucus production is a protection for the irritated membrane. You don't say whether or not you "smoke." That can aggravate "catarrh," especially at your age, when membranes tend to be a bit thinner. Dust, low humidity, animal dander are other possible causes. If you use nose drops, do so sparingly, because certain "rebound" effects can result, making the drip problem eventually worse.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter grinds her teeth in her sleep. You wrote recently that this means pinworms. How do I handle this problem? What kind of doctor should she be taken to? — Mrs. J.O.

It can be a sign of pinworms, but it isn't always the case. Have her examined. The doctor will diagnose pinworms easily if that is her problem. Her pediatrician is familiar with pinworms. It is a common childhood condition. Her teeth should be checked too.

NOTE TO H.W. — You got it wrong. Vasectomy has nothing to do with whether or not a man can get or give venereal disease. I suspect what was said was that a man with a vasectomy MIGHT be more promiscuous (with the absence of the fear of pregnancy) and thus increase his odds of having V.D.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet, explaining what sinus trouble really is and what can be done about it. For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Please explain Matthew 10:34, "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I came not to send peace, but a sword." Surely these words of Jesus are completely contrary to the thought of Him being the Prince of peace. — A.C.

DEAR A.C.: These two thoughts are not contradictory. It seems a paradox, but it is nonetheless true that the one who brings peace must always be a source of conflict — unless everyone accepts the peace that He offers.

When the Gospel is preached to any group of people, it is inevitable that some will respond to the message while others will reject it. This puts them immediately into conflict with each other, just as though a sword were driven between them to separate them. If one member of a family accepts Christ and another rejects Him, then Christ can become a source of conflict between them.

As soon as a person accepts Jesus Christ as his Lord and Saviour, he is at peace with all other believers because the same Spirit of God abides within the lives of all Christian people. But this same God-given peace puts him in disagreement with all unbelievers because now his standards are different, as are his motives, principles, sense of allegiance and aim in life.

It is important to recognize that the peace that God gives is very different from what the world means by peace. "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you" (John 14:27). "These things I have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world" (John 16:33). The peace to which Jesus refers is not the absence of trouble, but peace in the midst of trouble.

In the world, the Church experiences apathy, opposition and persecution. What we are to seek is "the peace of God, which passeth all understanding" (Philippians 4:7).

Prosecution rests in police trial

HOUSTON (AP) — The defense was expected to begin calling witnesses today in the federal court trial of three former Houston police officers accused of violating the civil rights of a young prisoner.

The prosecution rested late Tuesday after former officer Louis Glenn Kinney was severed from the trial of the three others.

U.S. District Judge Ross N. Sterling ordered that Kinney, 27, be removed from the current trial and be tried separately on a later date.

He based his decision on grounds that Kinney had testified as a state witness when two of the defendants were tried in state court.

Terry Wayne Denson, 27, Stephen Orlando, 21, and Joseph Janish, 22, remained on trial.

Sterling made his decision during cross-examination of Glenn Brinkmeyer, 23, the fifth officer who was fired after the body of Joe Campos Torres, 23, was found May 8 in Houston's Buffalo Bayou.

Torres' body was found three days after he had been arrested during a disturbance in a Houston tavern.

Brinkmeyer earlier entered a plea of guilty to a misdemeanor federal charge and agreed to testify for the government.

Defense attorney Mike Ramsey said Brinkmeyer and Kinney, who had been partners for more than a year, tried to protect each other and that both had received immunity from state charges to testify in an earlier trial involving Orlando and Denson.

Denson and Orlando were convicted of negligent homicide last October in state court at Huntsville and assessed probation one-year sentences. Two weeks later a federal grand jury returned the civil rights indictment.

Ramsey also said if Denson and Orlando had received stiff sentences during their state court trial, "the federal charges would have been dropped and Mr. Kinney and Mr. Brinkmeyer would have gone free."

Sterling ruled that the defense could enter the testimony but that Kinney could no longer be a defendant in the federal trial.

Under direct examination, Brinkmeyer testified of the officers' slapping and kicking Torres and Orlando's hitting him in the right leg with a flashlight while the prisoner was handcuffed.

When asked by Brian McDonald, with the U. S. Justice Department, what his reaction to Torres' request to see a lawyer, Brinkmeyer replied, "I wasn't concerned, because there was one of him and six policemen, and if we all told the same story, nothing could be done about it without witnesses."

When the officers met again at the Commerce Street location, Brinkmeyer testified, Orlando asked Denson if he still "wanted to see a wetback swim" after which Denson led Torres to the bayou bank and pushed him in.

Labor Department suing union boss

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department is suing Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons and 15 other former trustees of a scandal-scattered union pension fund to recover millions of dollars in allegedly illegal loans, government sources say.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall called a mid-morning news conference to announce the suit, due to be filed today in U.S. District Court in Chicago.

The ex-trustees of the Teamsters' Chicago-based $1.4 billion Central States Pension Fund allegedly made loans that were improper or illegal under the 1974 federal pension reform law.

"We really don't know the true extent of the losses and probably will never know, but it involved tens of millions in loans," said one Labor Department source.

The defendants, in addition to Fitzsimmons, include William Presser of Cleveland and his son, Jackie, 51, who is among those frequently mentioned to succeed the 69-year-old Fitzsimmons as head of the nation's biggest union.

The others include trucking industry executives and union officials, all of whom had served as Central States trustees before resigning in 1976 and 1977 under the pressure of threatened government action against them.

For years, reports in the press and elsewhere have alleged that the giant pension fund, which covers 450,000 Teamsters, has made loans to businesses to benefit the trustees as well as to organized crime figures.

The reports were partly responsible for the Labor Department launching the investigation in 1975 that forced the removal of the trustees, bookkeeping reforms and the turning over of its assets last year to outside professional managers.

After winning those concessions, the government, in hopes of recovering money allegedly lost through such loans, focused its investigation on any improper or "imprudent" actions by the ex-trustees themselves.

Under the federal pension law, trustees can be held personally liable for losses a pension fund incurs as a result of wrongdoing or imprudent loans.

In testimony last July before a Senate subcommittee, Labor Department officials told of millions of dollars in questionable loans, including a $4 million loan to the owners of the Aladdin Hotel in Las Vegas that was secured in part by gambling "chits" or notes valued at $9 million.

Effects of cloud seeding in local area to be studied

Direction of a multi-agency-funded study of effects of cloud seeding has rotated to Texas A&M University.

The project focuses a large amount of equipment and expertise on developing methods to make clouds produce precipitation. Overall administration and direction of the project is under the Texas Department of Water Resources.

It is funded by the U.S.

Bureau of Reclamation and three states — Montana, Kansas and Texas — with which the government has agreements. The joint program is called HIPLX, for High Plains Cooperative Experiment.

Chief scientist this year is Dr. James R. Scoggins, Texas A&M meteorology professor. He will co-direct the field program this summer in the Big Spring area with an official of the Texas Department of Water Resources.

Clouds over a 4,000-square-mile area in West Texas will be seeded and their characteristics studied. Some will grow into convective, thunderstorm-size rainfall producers. They will be sampled and measured from the ground and air to determine conditions and what effect seeding has on the cloud, Scoggins said.

"Sufficient research of this nature has not been carried out," the scientist added.

scientific approach taken in the HIPLX program, rainfall enhancement efforts can be poorly conceived and produce adverse results. One instance was related by a 92-year-old former resident of North Central Oklahoma.

The rain-starved populace of a small town had watched thick clouds build every afternoon one summer in the 1920s, but they dissipated near sundown. A dude arrived one morning with a pair of cannon-like devices. Word got around he could make it rain, for a price.

Folks pitched in, and the next day, with clouds building, the rainmaker readied his apparatus. The climax came and went, without rain. "No problem," the machine operator assured. "It may take a couple of days to build up a charge."

The next day, even clouds failed to materialize. Townspeople turned on the cloud-gunner, and he just made it out of town without tar and feathers, the story goes.

Scoggins noted that HIPLX is a large, diversified program, involving scientists with Meteorology

Research Inc. of Altadena, Calif., Texas Tech's Geosciences Department, the Colorado River Municipal Water District at Big Spring, TDWR and Texas A&M.

They joined to conduct field programs in 1976 and 1977, and again this summer. The project utilizes three weather radars, four aircraft, four atmospheric sounding systems and a 15-station surface weather station network. Three of the planes, including a jet, a turboprop and two smaller craft, will seed clouds. Silver iodide and carbon dioxide seeding agents will be applied this summer.

Two of the aircraft are instrumented to take cloud physics measurements, Scoggins said. Cloud growth, amount of water, droplet size, how ice crystals have been altered and precipitation obtained will be quantified.

Data from the various sources will then be correlated to determine seeding effects. Analysis of the three summers' work is expected to produce parameters in which precipitation by seeding is feasible.

Scoggins said the 1978 field work will be conducted in June and July, from Big Spring, Texas A&M now has a contract to analyze data from the two previous summers.

"We anticipate support for analyses of data this coming summer," Scoggins said. At Texas A&M, the project involves research assistant Greg Wilson, three graduate students and three other students on a part-time basis in addition to the chief scientist.

Incumbent McKinney files for re-election

Donald B. McKinney has filed his candidacy for re-election to the Howard College Board of Trustees for another six-year term. McKinney has been on the Howard College Board for the past six years.

DONALD MCKINNEY

A lifelong resident of Howard County, McKinney lives on a farm in the Center Point community, which was purchased by his grandfather, Tom McKinney, from the state in 1896. In addition to his being a farmer and rancher, McKinney is an electrical foreman at Cosden Oil and Chemical where he is a member of the 25-year club. He attended John Tarlton College and served in the Air Corps in World War II.

Married to the former Frances Nan Sheedy of Coahoma, they have two children: Dr. Larry McKinney living in Galveston, and Molly Foss who teaches science in the Bulington, Colo., school system.

The McKinneys are members of the Coahoma United Methodist Church. He has long been an active contributor to community and civic endeavors for the betterment of the area. He is a Mason, a charter member of the Greater Big Spring Rotary Club and a member of the Board of Directors for the Texas Farm Bureau.

In announcing his candidacy for re-election, McKinney stated he was interested in the very best education for the student in both the academic and vocational fields. He is confident Howard College can continue serving the educational needs in our rapidly changing and growing community.

McKinney was instrumental in developing a cooperative program between Cosden and Howard College in which the College's Occupational Education Division offered an industrial electricity job training program tailored specifically to meet the job needs of Cosden and its employees. This course has since been offered on an expanded basis to include employees from other related industries such as Sid Richardson and Cabot.

Don strongly feels that the policies passed by the college Board of Trustees must insure the most efficient and effective use of the taxpayer's money resulting in the best education possible for the residents of Howard County.

Barr files candidacy for HC trustee post

A lifelong resident of Howard County, Barr lives on a farm in the Vincent community, where he is a former and rancher and has been for the past 25 years.

Married to the former Betty Carpenter of Howard County they have two children: Mark of Hobbs, N.M., and Maxwell of the Vincent community.

The Barrs are members of the Coahoma United Methodist Church. He presently serves as a member of the board of directors and is vice president of the Coahoma State Bank. Barr has been a member of the Lamesa Federal Land Bank Association for the past 15 years and is currently serving as president.

He has also served as vice-chairman of the stockholder's committee of the Federal Land Bank of Houston for the past three years. Buddy was extremely active in 4-H and FFA activities during his sons' tenure in the Coahoma schools. He also served a tour of duty in the U.S. Army during World War II.

In announcing his candidacy for election, Barr noted his sincere belief that

Ordeal over for trucker, trapped 6 days

CLEVELAND (AP) — For six bitterly cold days, trucker James Truly shivered, slept and ate snow. He was entombed in a snowdrift that had buried his rig, and no one knew he was there.

On Tuesday, he heard footsteps in the snow above his cab.

"I started beating on the roof with a piece of pipe. They heard the noise and hurried and dug down," he said.

"I opened the window, and there was my brother... I said to myself if anybody'd find me, my brother would find me, and he did," said Truly, 42.

Truly was caught in a blizzard on state Route 13 last Thursday while hauling two coils of steel to a Mansfield, Ohio, auto plant.

"I couldn't see nowhere... I just couldn't see the road, so I had to stop," Truly recalled after being released from a hospital Tuesday night.

"When it got done snowing I was covered up. I couldn't even get the door open."

His world was not one of silence.

"I could hear the snowmobiles running over top of me. I could hear the airplanes," he said.

He could also hear chatter on his CB radio but could not transmit. During the ordeal, he said he would wake up periodically, turn on the cab light, listen to the radio, eat a little snow, then lie down again.

"I sat there and prayed and prayed, hoped and waited."

Truly said his brother Donald of Parma, Ohio, "knew the way I was going. He checked all the way to the snowdrift, and there was nothing. He checked all the way from the snowdrift to where I was going, and there was nothing, so he knew I had to be in that snowdrift."

Truly said if he had stopped his truck 2,000 feet earlier or later, "I'd never been in it (the drift)."

The snowdrift was near an airport, "and the snow blows right straight across the road." Only in that "one little patch" the drift built up, burying his truck, he said.

The trucker said he had one blanket and a window drape which he wrapped around his feet.

"It was pretty cold," he said. "It was all frosted up inside."

Truly was last heard from Thursday when a Mansfield CB operator, Michelle Huntley, reported she had talked briefly with a trucker with the CB handle "Part-time." That is Truly's CB name.

Miss Huntley said she sent a friend with a four-wheel-drive vehicle but he couldn't find the missing truck.

Donald said he and his brother's nephew, Eugene Jasper, had been searching "along Route 13 every day since Saturday."

"We knew he had helped push a pickup truck out of the snow Thursday morning in that area," Donald said.

A few hours after Truly walked into Mansfield General Hospital, joking with emergency room personnel, he was back home here with his wife and two children, Susan, 17, and James Jr., 12.

A trucker for 20 years, driving his own rig, Truly said he expected to be back on the highways soon.

"All we got to do now is dig the truck out," said his brother.

FOUND ALIVE BY BROTHER — Cleveland James Truly is helped from the cab of his truck Tuesday after he was buried inside it since last Wednesday night, when snow covered the truck. The truck was lost in a huge snowdrift along State Route 13, north of Mansfield, Ohio. Hungry and dazed, Truly was found by his brother.

Energy — Carterites mull concessions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frustrated by the deadlock that has stalled action on a national energy plan, the Carter administration is sounding out Republicans on possible concessions to break the stalemate.

But a group of House liberals is warning that they will balk at any effort by President Carter or the Democratic congressional leadership to go along with a compromise calling for deregulation of natural gas prices.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, and other leaders in the congressional energy battle have indicated that some form of natural gas deregulation may be needed to get the president's stranded energy bill moving again.

And Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger, in a surprise meeting late Tuesday with key Republican energy negotiators, indicated flexibility on the gas-pricing issue and a willingness to support some form of limited deregulation if necessary to break the impasse, according to participants.

The House passed Carter's plan to keep price controls on natural gas at higher levels than at present while the Senate voted to deregulate newly produced gas after two years. The differences threw the bill into a House-Senate conference committee, which is supposed to draft a compromise bill.

But the inability of Senate conferees to settle their own differences on deregulation has stalled action on Carter's energy plan for almost two months.

The Republicans, who in the past have accused the administration of ignoring them on energy issues, said Schlesinger's visit encouraged them to hope that a compromise they can support may be within their grasp.

Four stepouts drilled in Howard County

A discovery was finalized in Mitchell County this week. Four stepouts were drilled in Howard County.

Mabee Petroleum Corp., Midland, No. 21 Bell, Yates gas discovery one location southeast of 3,127 production in the Iatan, East-Howard field of Mitchell County and 20 miles east of Big Spring, was finalized for a calculated, absolute open flow of 1.2 million cubic feet of gas daily.

Production was natural through perforations at 993-1,003 feet.

Drilled to 1,085 feet, with 4 1/2 inch casing set at 1,077 feet, it is plugged back to 1,069 feet.

Location is 990 feet from the youth and west lines fo 28-29-18-T&P.

In Howard County, four miles southwest of Big Spring, Trey Exploration, Inc., San Angelo will drill four stepouts to the Moore (San Andres) field.

All the projects, contracted to 3,400 feet are in 13-34-18-T&P. The No. 4-C Shirley Waldron, et al, one location northwest, is 2,310 feet from the south and east lines.

The No. 20-D Shirley Waldron, et al, one location northwest, is 2,310 feet from the north and west lines.

The No. 6-E Shirley Waldron, et al, one location west is 1,650 feet from the south and 2,310 feet from the west lines.

The No. 7-f Shirley Waldron et al, is 330 feet from the south and 1,650 feet from the east lines.

Pact helps firm meet demands

HOUSTON (AP) — A new major supply contract is credited by Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. with enabling the firm to meet peak natural gas demand during January.

W. L. Schull, Lo-Vaca vice president of gas operations, said Tuesday the 10-year contract signed in October with Houston Pipe Line Co. provides for a minimum take of 50 million cubic feet a day with yearly average of 200 million a day.

The maximum Houston Pipe Line is obligated to deliver to the Coastal States Gas Corp. subsidiary is 300 million cubic feet a day with deliveries above that amount to be on a "best effort" basis.

Schull said "their best effort has been great."

"In the first three weeks of 1978, they have delivered up to 713 million cubic feet a day," he said. "That's more than 400 million above the maximum contract obligation."

First blacks, women picked as astro candidates

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Ronald E. McNair is a physicist from South Carolina who could become the first black astronaut in space.

Dr. Anna Fisher is a physician from Los Angeles who could become the first woman in space.

Lt. Cmdr. John O. Creighton is neither black nor a woman and won't be the first anything in space—he just wants to get there.

The three represent three distinct groups among the 35 astronaut candidates that were at Johnson Space Center (JSC) Tuesday for orientation—blacks, women and others.

McNair, and Air Force majors Guion Bluford and Frederick Gregory are the first blacks chosen as astronaut candidates. Dr. Fisher is one of the first six women to be selected for the elite training class scheduled to begin this summer.

The women and blacks were easily the most noticeable group Tuesday as the new trainees were introduced to JSC employees by JSC Director Chris Kraft.

When McNair was born in 1950 there still were drinking fountains labeled "white" and "colored" in many southern cities and for a young black boy in the late fifties to consider being an astronaut was the stuff of which dreams were made.

"It was as far removed from what was the normal course as you can get," said McNair, currently with Hughes Research Laboratories, in Malibu, Calif. "It was something I thought about back then but it was sort of like a fantasy you might say.

"It wasn't anything very real for a black kid back then to be an astronaut or anything close. It just wasn't the everyday course of affairs."

Dr. Fisher, whose husband Dr. William Fisher also applied but was not chosen, said she is glad to be in the program now.

"I didn't think it (women in space) was something that was going to happen in my lifetime," she said. "I'd pretty much resigned myself to the fact that I was born too soon."

Gregory, currently with the Air Forces Staff College, Norfolk, Va., is a pilot trainee and doesn't see any significance in being one of the first three blacks chosen as astronaut candidates.

"I look at it as being a very qualified person to perform a function for the United States," Gregory said. "I think we went through this rash of separatism in the '50s and '60s and we're out of that now."

"I think the push now is for women in space... and I think this is the thing that should demand high news coverage and not the fact that there are now three blacks in the space program."

The women candidates definitely received their share of news coverage during Tuesday's orientation session. They were easily the most photographed group.

They were asked to line up behind a model of the orbiter-space craft for a group picture when a male voice in the back of the room shouted

"Now let's see a high kick." "For me it is not a big thing to be the first woman," said Sally K. Ride, a mission specialist who currently is a research assistant at Stanford University.

"But I want to get up there as soon as I can so for me it's important that I be in the earliest group that I could be in."

"I would have preferred that there were women in the space program all along but I'm just happy to be a part of it now."

Kathryn Sullivan, who will receive her Ph.D. in geology in April, said she wouldn't prefer to be in a later group of women to avoid the publicity of being first.

"I want to be here right now," she laughed. "This will all die down after awhile. It's the first time I've ever been an astronaut and that's how I feel about it."

Cmdr. Creighton, amused at the extra attention given to the blacks and women, said the novelty soon would wear off.

"I'm sure the first woman in space will get a lot of publicity but after novelty wears off it will be commonplace," he said.

"Everybody remembers the first man on the moon but few remember the second or third."

And Kraft quickly set the tone for JSC's treatment of the women. After introducing the group to JSC employees he referred to the astronaut candidates as "a great bunch of guys."

Kraft was reminded there were women in the group but he stuck to his statement. "Girls are called guys these days," he explained.

Texan slain by hoodlums

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two men fatally shot a Lynwood man after demanding money from him, but left the victim dying on the sidewalk without taking a cent, said a sheriff's spokesman.

Robert Glenn Terry, a native of Sherman, Texas, and his wife, Nan, both 38, had walked out of a Lynwood liquor store Friday night when they were approached by two men armed with a handgun, sheriff's deputy Jim Platis said Tuesday.

The two men first held the gun to Mrs. Terry's head and demanded money, but then placed the gun against Terry's head and led him away from his wife.

They shot Terry once in the head and ran off without taking anything from the wounded man, said Platis.

Terry was pronounced dead at a nearby hospital early Saturday morning.

More Cowboys?

The World Champion Dallas Cowboys will play the San Francisco 49ers, Houston Oilers and Pittsburgh Steelers at home and the Denver Broncos on the road in pre-season 1978.

The 49ers visit Texas Stadium Aug. 5, followed by an Aug. 12 meeting in Denver, and back home again for an Aug. 19 date with Houston and a final bout with the Steelers on Aug. 26.

Although dates won't be known until the National Football League releases the 1978 schedule later this spring, the Pokes opponents and sites for the 16-game regular season have been finalized.

At home, Dallas hosts Washington, St. Louis, Philadelphia, New York Giants, Baltimore Colts, Minnesota Vikings, New England Patriots and the New Orleans Saints.

Road games will be against the NFC East, plus Green Bay Packers, Miami Dolphins, New York Jets and Los Angeles Rams.

Season tickets are on sale now at the Cowboys Ticket Office in Expressway Tower, 6116 N. Central Expressway.

Speaking of Cowboys, retired Ralph Neely is starting a new sports career. Neely will be a vice president and director of Southern region operations and development for Sports Illustrated Court Clubs of America, a racquetball chain in which Time Inc. has a minority interest.

SICCA expects to have 100 clubs open by the end of 1981, representing a $125 million total investment, and Neely will be responsible for at least a quarter of that total.

FYI: In Neely's 13-season NFL football career, he was elected to the All-Pro team four times. A two-time All-American at the University of Oklahoma, he majored in business administration, graduating in 1964.

Neely and wife Dianne live with their two children, Dale and Dedra, in Dallas. Neely is a native of Little Rock, Ark., and grew up in Farmington, N.M.

***

"H-O-R-S-E" has come to the NBA. Have you seen it yet? If you never played the game on a schoolyard court or on your carport (and where have you been?), here's the object of the game: Just make a shot — no matter how easy or difficult — that you hope your opponent will miss.

If your opponent misses, then a letter of the word "Horse" is given to him. The game continues until one player has forced the other to spell out the word.

Thirty-two of the league's best shots met at the Omni International Complex in Atlanta, Ga., in September, to compete for $54,000 in prize money in the elimination tournament, with the overall winner receiving a first place share of $15,000.

Everyone is guaranteed at least $500, and the runner-up gets $7,500.

Dick Buerkle, who recently set the new record of 3:54.9 in the indoor mile, is a peanut butter freak. Before he set the new mark, he ate a "pre-game meal" of two peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, plus nine Oreo cookies.

"When I make him a meat sandwich," said his wife, "he wants to know if we are out of peanut butter. I have to buy it in the three-pound jars to keep from running out all the time."

***

MICKEY MANTLE, on Ted Williams: "He was the greatest hitter I ever saw, but I don't think he was too good a manager. I'd be with him at an All-Star game and he'd talk to me about hitting. By the time the game started, I didn't have any idea what he was talking about."

FAIRLEIGH Dickinson University basketball coach Al LoBalbo, on being told his team looked good even though it lost to Seton Hall: "I would rather be Quasimodo and leave with Raquel Welch than be Rock Hudson and come away with Imogene Coca."

Forsan sweeps tilts

FORSAN — Three Forsan squads posted victories over Water Valley Tuesday night.

The varsity boys upped their record to 22-1 and 7-1 with a 93-29 romp. Angel Miranda led all scorers with 21 points, as Dennis Baggett hit 16 and Gary Martin and Randy Cregar sunk 14 each.

The varsity girls, led by Valerie Stevens' 22 points, bested their foe, 67-25. Julie Poyner (16) and Jaylene Saunders (17) also added to the 21-7 and 8-0 girls' total.

Dale Earnest and Vance Stevens scored 16 and 15 points, respectively, to lead the Forsan JV's to a 65-44 victory. All three teams see action on the road against Sterling City Friday.

Grady splits games

GRADY — The Grady boys fell to Sterling City 70-52 Tuesday night, but the Wildkittens took a 43-41 double-overtime victory over the SCHS fems.

Allen expected to get Rams' coaching job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Rams owner Carroll Rosenbloom, starved for a Super Bowl team, turned today to George Allen, whose motto is "the future is now."

Allen, fired twice before as head coach of the Rams, was introduced in a news conference. But a Rams spokesman made the official announcement of the hiring early this morning.

Allen flew into Los Angeles Tuesday night and the Rams reserved a banquet room at a large hotel for noon today, ostensibly for the formal announcement that the 56-year-old Allen will succeed Chuck Knox.

A throng of reporters greeted Allen as he flew into Los Angeles International Airport and someone remarked, "Welcome back," to which Allen responded, "It's like coming home."

Allen refused to confirm that he is going to be named the Rams' head coach, but he did say he has talked to Rosenbloom about the Los Angeles job twice and that he has not talked to any other NFL teams about employment.

"We are going to discuss the job, but it may be a while before a final decision is made," said Allen. "Carroll Rosenbloom would be a fine man to work for and his organization is a fine one."

"That wouldn't be the case here. This team has the personnel to reach the Super Bowl."

Knox coached the Rams to NFC Western Division championships in each of his five seasons with the team, but the Rams have never reached the Super Bowl. He left 5 Jan. 11, signing a six-year contract to coach the Buffalo Bills.

ALLEN IN L.A. — Veteran National Football league coach, George Allen, is shown with his wife, Eddy, aboard a Los Angeles airport transport cart after arriving in L.A. Tuesday. Allen refused to confirm that he was L.A. Rams' owner Carroll Rosenbloom's choice to succeed Chuck Knox. "We are going to discuss the job," Allen told reporters at the airport, "but it may be a while before a final decision."

Steers mush Mojo again

ODESSA — The Big Spring Steers ended any question in Permian's mind Tuesday night as to who had the better basketball team in 1977-78.

The Steers were in total control of the game throughout, and had built up a 12-point lead with under two minutes to play, before a Permian rally closed the margin to less than embarrassing for Mojo.

But the final score still read 57-53 in favor of the Bovines when the final buzzer sounded, completing a clean sweep over the Panthers this season.

Big Spring's leading scorer for the year, Chippo Wright, again paced the Steer attack with 19 points. Mark Poss and Scott Wilder were the other two locals in double figures with 12 and 10 markers, respectively.

The Steers will be back on the friendly hardwoods this Friday night as they host the Midland Lee Rebels, 71-46 victims of Abilene Cooper Tuesday night.

The Steers raised their season record to 7-19 with the Mojo-mash and are only two games out of the running with a 1-2 record in second half District 5-4A competition.

Sands' teams win two

ACKERLY — Both Sands High School varsity squads continued their dominance on the hardwoods by flooring Loop Tuesday night. The boys won 73-33, and the attractive Fillies scampared to a 70-29 triumph.

Martin Nichols' 19 markers led the Ackerly crew, who now stand at 27-1 on the season and 2-0 in second half play. David Long and David Hall also added 14 and 11, respectively. Larry Easter and Stan Blagrave followed with eight and seven.

Susan Martin seared the net for 27 points in the girls' encounter of the 26th-win-against-only-two-defeats kind. Jodie Kemper and Jill Floyd followed with 24 and 16 points. The girls are now 1-0 in second half play.

In the pivotal meeting of second half play, all three Sands squads travel to Klondike Friday.

MARAVICH INJURED — New Orleans Jazz guard Pete Maravich is rolled off the floor of the Superdome Tuesday night after he fell and injured his knee. The jazz star could be sidelined for a week and it is not known yet if he can play in Sunday's All-Star game in Atlanta. At left is trainer Don Sparks.

Saint Louis trades Dobler

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Shock and dismay have been expressed by teammates and a coach following the trade by the St. Louis Cardinals of wide receiver Ike Harris and guard Conrad Dobler to the New Orleans Saints.

"You're kidding," said offensive line coach Jim Hanifan when told of Tuesday's transaction. "All I can say is that's show business. Conrad is someone special to me. Conrad and I go into a deep personal thing. It breaks my heart."

The 27-year-old Dobler, who revealed in his reputation as one of the National Football League's meanest players, did not echo the sad feeling, however.

"The Saints have made me very, very happy," he said from his Laramie, Wyo., home. "I'm probably worth more, but I'll tell you I'm delighted."

Dobler, who was unhappy with his St. Louis salary, was traded along with Harris, who would today have become a free agent, for New Orleans defensive end Bob Pollard and guard Terry Stieve.

"I was a little surprised, but I'm overjoyed," said Harris, who was signed at his home in Des Moines, Iowa, by Saints Vice President Harry Hulmes.

"I was really tough and aggressive, and it was just a matter of staying close enough to make that final surge at the end."

The Queens shot 23 percent from the floor for the second night in a row.

Tami Edwards and Jan Phillips led the locals with 15 points each, and Paula St. Julian was the other Queen in double figures with 10.

The Queens take to the hardwoods again this Friday in the Angelo State University tournament, where they open with Howard Payne at 1 p.m.

The Queens now sport a 17-3 season record.

Horn-Hog shootout tonight

The ailing, weary, 17th-ranked Texas Longhorns — shellsbocked after four tense victories — take their surprisingly unblemished Southwest Conference mark tonight to Fayetteville, Ark., where Arkansas hasn't lost for two years.

And Texas Coach Abe Lemons doesn't relish the trip, as illustrated by his comments Monday night after a heartstopping 73-72 victory over Houston:

"I said if we got beat tonight, I'd be sad going to Arkansas. I also said if we won tonight I'd be sad going to Arkansas."

The second-ranked Razorbacks, whose only loss this season was a 75-69 beating by Texas in Austin, were idle Monday night and are rested and healthy for tonight's contest.

The Longhorns, meanwhile, will be playing their fifth game in 10 days — the previous four being decided by a total of 10 points, one in overtime and the other in the closing seconds. All five starters are also trying to recover from nagging ailments.

Ron Baxter has a pulled groin muscle, Tyrone Branyan has a sore Achilles tendon, John Moore and Gary Goodner have chest colds and Jim Krivacs has had a virus. All played, however, against Houston.

Ironically, when the Razorbacks lost in Austin they were playing their fourth game in a week and Texas was coming off an open date.

"The Texas game is the biggest game in the league season," said Arkansas coach Eddie Sutton. "When we played earlier, no one had played enough games to realize how meaningful that game would be. Now, unless Houston or Texas Tech wins out, it looks like it's a two-team race between Arkansas and Texas."

But while the Bulldogs couldn't gain, they played tenaciously for the second section, keeping the Blizzards within an additional six points.

Winters is now 3-0 in district play.

The Bulldog fems avenged the defeat, however, overpowering the Winters sextet 41-35.

Turning point in the game was a bruising third quarter, when the girl's outscored Winters 11-2 to take their lead after a tied halftime score.

Angela Dykes had 17 points to key the Bulldog effort, with Stacy Hodnett also in double figures with 10.

I remember Joe Namath: A brash swinger

Scottsdale, Ariz. — The rounded shoulders. You couldn't miss them. Joe Namath's shoulders. They hunched over the teed-up golfball. The form was good. The swing. The drive sailed down the fairway and hooked to the left, much like his passes these last seasons — short and off the mark.

"G.D.," he muttered, the way he used to do when he missed a receiver on the football field. From now on, he will say it only on the golf course. He has announced his retirement. It was said in a way: He was a king proclaiming to the world he was abdicating — after the revolution. Joe Namath had quit a job he didn't have.

Nobody was about to pay him $400,000 to stand around the sidelines for another year, the way the Los Angeles Rams did, while a kid named Pat Haden quarterbacked the ballclub. He had prolonged it for a year after the Jets had mustered enough nerve, at last, to tell him he was washed up. He was supposed to go to Los Angeles, to the ever-running Rams, and somehow magically lead them into Super Bowl XIII, the way he so magically had led the New York Jets into Super Bowl III, nine years before.

He putted out and walked across the cart path.

"Joe. Sign this please?" She was young and willowy, and the fluffed blonde hair, Farrah-Fawcett to her shoulders.

"Yes, m'am," he said.

JOE'S BOAST BECAME LEGEND That hasn't changed. The politeness. The southern charm. He always said "Yes m'am," "You're welcome, m'am," young or old, dog or beauty.

I remember that week at the hotel on Miami Beach, The Gault Ocean Mile. The Jets stayed there, prepping for The Miracle. We were at the bar, talking about the Baltimore Colts, and what he had seen in the films. A woman walked up, shoved a paper and pen between us.

"For my son," she said. "Thank you."

"Yes m'am, you're welcome m'am." I always had the feeling he would say that after making love.

"It scares me," he said, after she had gone. "I'm afraid to look at any more movies of the Colts. I'm afraid we'll get overconfident. They have nothing."

The next day he made the boast that was to become legend. "I guarantee it," he said of a Jet victory.

It turns out that Joe borrowed the boast Pete Lammons had said at a team meeting. "I guarantee we'll beat them," the Jets' tight end had shouted in the lockerroom earlier that week. No matter. It sounds better coming from Joe Willie. He is the prototype of his time. Brash. Swinger. Talented. Maverick.

headquarters. A sticky situation. Could lead to trouble.

"Give up the place," the commissioner told him.

"I'll quit first," said Joe Willie.

It went back and forth for a few days. A meeting was set up at Pete Rozelle's office. Joe would capitulate. It was all set for the morning. Except for one thing. Joe didn't show.

The day before, Gerry Philbin, defensive end, had opened his new restaurant and bar on Long Island. The Goalpost, it was called — Joe was there. Most of the Jets were there. They talked about the Bachelors III thing, and Rozelle's edict. They had a drink, and another. You could see it happening.

"Don't let him beat you down, Joe."

"You got your rights, Joe."

"Two more scotches." "Yeah, tell him where to go, Joe."

Another scotch. "I wouldn't show up in the morning," Joe.

They can't do that to you, Joey Baby."

Hawaiian Open is fun time

HONOLULU (AP) — The Hawaiian Open is the pro golf tour's fun time, a family affair, a romp in the sun while much of the Mainland is buried in ice, snow and cold.

While a whopping $250,000 total prize is up for grabs, a casual, easy-going, not-to-worry atmosphere prevails.

Parties, both formal and impromptu, abound. ChiChi Rodriguez and wife Iwalani, a Hawaiian native, annually host a luau at her parents' home. The Banyan Tree is the gathering place. Players hurry through their practice rounds to join their wives — and the wives come to this one, all of them — on the beach. Many stay over an extra week for vacation.

A charter flight over, packed with younger players and wives, displayed all the sobriety and decorum of a high school outing. Soft-spoken veteran Don January, eye-glasses in place and weighty book in hand, could have been the faculty sponsor.

Tour officials who work the other events in blazers and ties adopt uniform gaily-patterned sports shirts. Fresh pineapples serve as tee-markers. The Polynesian caddies wear cutoff jeans and tramp the Waialae Country Club in barefoot splendor.

The sponsoring airline makes the most of it and delights in the national television coverage that shows to the shivering, blizzard-swept Midwest and East pictures of the pros cavorting on Waikiki.

Topping the list is Tom Watson, the 1977 Player of the Year and a two-time winner this season. It was in this tournament, five years ago, that he made his first big run for a victory when he led through three rounds.

Other top candidates for the $50,000 first prize are U.S. Open champ Hubert Green, PGA and World Series title-holder Lanny Wadkins, Lee Trevino, Ben Crenshaw, Hale Irwin, defending champion Bruce Lietzke, Arnold Palmer, 1978 winners Miller Barber and Jay Haas and a total of 20 men who won four titles last year.

Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by ABC-TV.

60 schools may file NCAA suit

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of almost 60 institutions is at odds with the National Collegiate Athletic Association over the new television plan and a possible lawsuit against the NCAA is being considered, The Associated Press learned Tuesday night.

"I think Chairman Moss' committee needs to know about this," a spokesman for one of the schools, who asked to remain anonymous, told the AP.

He was referring to the House Oversight and Investigations Subcommittee, headed by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., which has been looking into the policies and procedures of the NCAA.

The schools include members of the Mid-American, Missouri Valley, Pacific Coast Athletic Association, Southern and Southland conferences and 19 independents.

According to the AP's source, those five conferences, along with the independents in question, are being forced into the NCAA's newly formed Division I-AA if they want a share of television money which they claim was guaranteed them when the new TV pact was approved last spring.

At its mid-January convention in Atlanta, the NCAA's major division was split into Divisions I-A and I-AA. Division I-A will include the nation's big-time football powers but, thanks to a late amendment, the five conferences previously mentioned plus the independents in question can also qualify for what originally was to have been the long-awaited so-called "super division."

The spokesman claims the latter group of schools was specifically guaranteed 16 TV appearances over each two-year period of the new four-year contract with ABC-TV. But, he said, "The NCAA has informed us they have taken those guarantees away and put them in Division I-AA."

The spokesman admitted that a clause in the TV contract gives the NCAA's Television Committee the authority to make changes in the new plan with the approval of the policymaking NCAA Council.

But, he added, "A letter we received the other day from the NCAA was the first any of us knew about the change in the guaranteed appearances."

CONCENTRATION! — Arnold Palmer concentrates on the roll of a practice putt as he warms up for the Hawaiian Open that gets underway Thursday at Waialae Country Club.

Speaker warns consumers to read medicine labels

Roselle DeHoney presented a program entitled "Over the Counter Drugs" at the Friday meeting of the City Home Demonstration Club. The group met in the home of Mrs. W.N. Norred, San Angelo Hwy., and the devotional was given by Mrs. James D. Johnston from Psalms 103:1-2. The roll call question was "What is your favorite house plant?" The most popular answer given by members was: any plant that is easy to care for. Mrs. DeHoney reminded members to always read the labels on drugs, whether prescription or commercial. "It is required by law that the drug company give its name and address so that the consumer will be able to communicate with them," she said. "There is more money thrown away on cold remedies than on any other preparation, which amounts to 500 million dollars a year," Mrs. DeHoney stated. These cold remedies tend to increase blood pressure when decongestants are present, and when antihistamines are present the mucus already contained in the lungs will thicken. "The sugar pill makes us feel better, as long as we think it will," she said. Mrs. DeHoney showed the group a variety of drugs available to the public over the counter and explained the chemical base and acid reaction of the body to each. The perfect acid reaction is 6.9 pH to any compound. She said to always store drugs in a dark place where it is cool: never put drugs on top of the refrigerator for any length of time, as it is too warm. Mrs. Norred gave a report on the Home Demonstration Council meeting. She announced that the 4-H Food Show and Tasting Tea will be this Saturday at 3 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the First Methodist Church. Contestants will be 4-H members who are required to prepare energy-saving recipes, answer questions about their preparation and nutritional values and make place settings for their food. A booklet containing the constitution and by-laws of the T.H.D.A. is now available for the first time at a low cost of 50 cents. Mrs. Alton Underwood reported on the recent T.H.D.A. meeting Jan. 24 in Pecos. There were 77 people present and she said that it was a huge success. She reminded members that donations to go toward the T.H.D.A. scholarship awarded each year will be due by June 1. She also urged each member to save canceled postage stamps from the U.S. which she in turn will send to the Salvation Army to be redeemed for food to feed needy children. These stamps should be sent or given to Mrs. Underwood, 601 E. 16th, Big Spring. The only visitor present was the new son of Mrs. Johnston, Jeffrey Douglas, aged 6 weeks. The next meeting will be at 2 p.m. Feb. 10.

4-H contestants will cook up energy-savers

"Energy Conservation in the Kitchen" is the theme of the 1978 4-H Food Show. The show, to be held Saturday in the First Methodist Church fellowship hall, will feature 4-H'ers age 9-19 who have prepared energy-saving recipes. 4-H'ers will carry out the theme by preparing and serving food which requires little or no cooking time, uses small appliances requiring less energy than standard cooking practices or saves fuel energy in some other way. All 4-H'ers who have completed a foods project in the past year are eligible to enter. Contestants will cook their favorite energy-saving recipe, serve a portion to the judges, and answer questions concerning preparation of the recipe and nutritional information. There will be two divisions for contestants. The junior division will be for 4-H'ers ages 9-13 and the senior division for ages 14-19. Each division will consist of four entry classes — Breads and Desserts, Main Dishes, Side Dishes, and Snacks and Beverages.

High heels hazardous

A Boston orthopedic surgeon warns that heels four inches or higher are "dangerous, exerting harmful effects in the foot, ankle and spine. The major hazard, according to Arthur W. Trot, MD, is that "the heel is so far from the ground that the stability of the entire foot is imperiled, making fractures, sprains and twisted ankles possible. High-heeled shoes affect the spine, accentuating the normal lumbar postural curve that is essential to maintaining balance." This can lead to back pain problems, says Dr. Trot.

Watchwords are 'be careful' and 'be informed'

Common sense puts cents in pocket

AUSTIN — Carelessness can be hazardous to your personal finances, a University of Texas professor says. Dr. Howard A. Wolf cautions that the best watchwords for managing one's everyday finances are "be careful" and "be informed." Most persons, he says, don't have the time, energy or inclination to become informed. Headaches originating in the area of the pocketbook usually come about because "there are a lot of careless people," he says. A professor in UT's Finance Department, Dr. Wolf is author of a 1977 book, "Managing Your Money," one of the few textbooks in the nation aimed at high school students, and "Personal Finance," a somewhat more sophisticated textbook that is used widely in colleges and will be issued in its fifth edition this spring. Much of the advice for maintaining order in one's personal finances, the professor says, just boils down to "common sense" — even in little things. For example, he recommends putting down in black and white a "loose" budget ("it doesn't have to be elaborate"), checking monthly bank statements, keeping good records for tax purposes ("It's not fun, but it's necessary") and for major purchases such as houses, automobiles and boats. Some persons even end up overpaying their income taxes, he notes, either because of ignorance or because they "don't like the boredom" of deciphering the tax forms. It is especially important, Dr. Wolf continues, that persons take greater care when they borrow money or buy insurance. He advocates investigating the terms offered by three or four lenders or insurers and reading provisions of an agreement thoroughly "before just signing anything." Individuals also should be careful not to abuse the use of credit cards, for, in a sense, "you are borrowing money," he says. He warns that "renting money is like renting a house or car. You have to pay for its use." Other little things can mean a lot, too, he adds. If in doubt, a person should check with the local Better Business Bureau before hiring someone to perform a major service. For those who use hand calculators at home to tote up figures, Dr. Wolf's advice is to "do it twice" as a means of double checking. In a family, Dr. Wolf believes, all major financial decisions should be made jointly by the husband and wife. In addition, he says a wife should be familiar with the financial affairs of her family "in case of divorce or death."

important records such as cancelled checks be kept in a file cabinet at home. In regard to setting up a personal budget, Dr. Wolf says such a step can help a person "identify what's out of line" in his monthly expenses. Learning the appropriate state and Federal agencies where individuals can lodge complaints about unfair treatment by financial or commercial institutions is helpful to concerned consumers, says Dr. Wolf. He adds, however, that wise shopping in the first place is to be preferred over remedial action. How about valuable papers that may languish in shoe boxes or drawers at home? Dr. Wolf advises that stocks, bonds, wills and insurance policies be kept in safe-deposit boxes at banks or savings and loans institutions, while less-

Can Person Help And Stay Alive

DEAR ABBY: Last week I read another report of a woman who was dragged from her home by her husband and shot on the street in full view of neighbors and several witnesses—and no one helped. It got me to thinking about what I would do if I were to witness such an act. Of course I would notify the police, but in the meantime the poor woman could suffer a terrible beating and even be killed. What else could I do to help, other than call the police? I certainly couldn't attack a man who had a gun or a knife. He could easily kill me, and I have a responsibility to my family to stay alive. If I were to shoot the man and he lived, I'm afraid he would come after me next. Please, Abby, ask your law enforcement friends to give some advice to people who want to help, but also want to remain alive.

DEAR N.M.: All my law enforcement friends and consultants agree that the wisest move is to call the police immediately, and be sure to stress that it is an emergency.

DEAR ABBY: I have tried to solve my problem myself, but it has gone too far for me.

I have a 12-year-old son who is an only child, and my husband babies him to death. Anything Scottie wants, Scottie gets.

Well, Scottie has been out of school going on the fifth week. He says he doesn't feel well, and his father believes him and lets him stay home. I know Scottie could go to school if he wanted to, because the minute the bus is gone Scottie feels better. He spends the day watching TV, eating and fooling around.

If I try to make him go to school, his father says I am being "mean." I am not mean, Abby, I am only trying to do what's best for the boy. Can you help me?

DEAR MOM: A physician should examine Scottie and decide whether or not he is well enough to go to school. If he is, go a step further and find out WHY Scottie doesn't want to go to school. A conference with his teacher might be the key to the whole problem.

Ridin' fence Out in the area

Here it is with one month already gone in 1978. And all kinds of things happened out in the area during January.

One of the things that happened that I would like to comment on is the Miss CHS and Mr. CHS contest out in Coahoma.

The Coahoma High kids are deadly serious about who they select to represent their high school. It's not a haphazard popularity contest on who you happen to like that particular day. It includes a contest in appearance, personality and talent.

And I tell you what, there's a lot of talent out there. It's hard to compare kids who have worked for years and years learning piano, ballet, acrobatic dancing, flute, clarinet and other talents against kids who have a natural talent for art or to sing a country Western song, or let loose with a comic patter and simply hold the audience in the palm of their hands.

To all of the kids in that program, I'd say — you're all winners to get up on the stage and participate. I congratulate everybody who had anything to do with that program.

The Roaring '20s theme was so well carried out, both by using a radio broadcast with a master and mistress of ceremonies dressed like the roaring '20s to the ushers and usherettes in costumes of that period.

They even had an Al Capone scene where two guys were shot out in the audience to liven up the show.

The card holders dressed like such 20's notables as Lindberg, Charlie Chaplin and Greta Garbo. And the patter-of-the-emcees was very accurate facts about the '20s.

It was one of the best ways to teach history of that period of America that I have ever seen. I was really glad to get the opportunity to see that production and understand why Coahoma is so proud of it. The picture of Mr. and Miss CHS will be in Sunday's Herald... but the runners-up and other entrants were also top-notch. Well done, CHS.

Over in Colorado City last week, Sefton Pickens resigned as chamber executive. I, for one, call him "friend" and am sorry to see him go. I know many Colorado citizens are grateful for his service to that community that he loves.

Over at Lamesa, Donnell Echols, a Lamesa cotton producer and board member of the national organization called Cotton Inc., just returned from a two-day Western Europe Cotton Export Forum held in Raleigh, N.C.

He was one of three cotton producers from across the U.S. who joined top executives of cotton merchants, co-ops, the National Cotton Council and Cotton Inc., in the meeting with top officials of seven of the largest cotton mills in

Presidential vows, tequila compared

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for the American Hispanic community compares presidential promises with tequila — "both have to be taken with a grain of salt."

In the opening speech at the Conference on Hispanics in Business, Ricardo Zazueta, the national director for SER (Service, Employment, Redevelopment) Jobs for Progress Inc., praised President Carter's stand on the Panama Canal treaty Tuesday but blasted Carter for "taking Hispanics for granted."

"In the last four decades, Hispanics have been undercounted by the census, underemployed and underpaid by business and government, underrepresented by the American political system, underestimated by four presidential administrations and, in general, underrated by America. Only in wars and poverty have Hispanics been over-represented," he added.

Zazueta's comments came during the opening of the two-day conference which concludes tonight with a banquet keynoted by a scheduled speech from Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas.

The majority of the Hispanic groups in the U.S. support ratification of the Panama Canal treaty "...not only on the basis of human rights, but also as a means of entering into a new relationship with Latin America to change negative American attitudes towards Hispanics there, and, thereby indirectly enhance understanding of the Hispanic in this country," Zazueta told more than 200 representatives from business, Congress and the Carter administration.

FIRST OFFICIAL VISIT — Fike Godfrey of Abilene, who identifies himself as a conservative Democrat and who has declared for the position of U.S. Congressman, 17th District, paid his first official visit to Big Spring earlier this week. With him here is his wife, Naomi. Godfrey, former executive vice-president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, formerly lived in Spur. He maintains a ranching operation in Kent County. Godfrey was one of several congressional candidates present for the annual Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce membership banquet.

Former HC athlete seeking re-election

Dr. Charles O. Warren has filed his candidacy for re-election to the Howard College Board of Trustees for another six-year term. Dr. Warren has served Howard College as a trustee for 14 years and is a former Howard College student and athlete.

A lifelong resident of Howard County, Dr. Warren owns his own practice in general dentistry. He attended the University of Texas at Austin after completing his program at Howard College. He received his Doctorate of Dental Surgery in 1961.

Dr. Warren is married to the former Shirley Riddle of Big Spring, and they have four children: Mike, a sophomore at Baylor University, Lisa, a junior in Big Spring High, Mark, a freshman in Big Spring High, and Matt, a seventh grader.

The Warrens are members of the First Baptist Church of Big Spring where Dr. Warren serves as an ordained deacon. Dr. Warren has given his time to the community by serving on the board of directors for the Y.M.C.A. and has been highly involved in Little League baseball. He is a Kiwanian, Gideon, a member of the Texas and American Dental Association and past president of the Permian Basin District Dental Association and served a tour of duty in the U.S. Army during the Korean conflict.

In filing for re-election, Dr. Warren stated that he had served on the Howard College board for the past 14 years because of his extreme interest in higher education and Howard County. His philosophy is that everyone profits from a "good" education, one that prepares our youth and adults for a more productive role in society.

Dr. Warren also stated that he feels it highly important that the Howard College Board of Trustees continue their economical care of the taxpayer's property which has been entrusted to them.

TIA to halt Hobbs flight

CLOVIS, N.M. — Texas International Airlines has indicated to civic leaders in Clovis, Carlsbad and Hobbs, N.M., that it will cease serving the communities no later than the end of 1978.

The airline also announced it would be cutting jet service to four of five communities it serves in New Mexico, substituting slower propeller-driven planes.

The rupture of DC 9 jet service to Carlsbad, Clovis and Hobbs will come March 15. Instead, the airline will provide the cities with PropJet Convair service. The airline presently serves Roswell, Hobbs, Albuquerque and Clovis in New Mexico.

Last April the City of Clovis had purchased a modular terminal at Cannon AFB to accommodate the new jet service which could not use the municipal airport. In an announcement made Monday, the airline said it will again start using the municipal airport.

Inmate guilty of slaying

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — State District Court Judge Peter Michael Curry has set Feb. 17 for the formal sentencing of a Bexar County Jail inmate convicted of slaying another prisoner.

A 166th District Court jury on Tuesday assessed Eddie River, 25, a 50-year sentence after convicting him of murder in the strangulation death Sept. 17, 1977, of Hugo Saenz.

Four other inmates at the jail are awaiting trial in the same case.

Jail guards found Saenz' body hanging in a shower and at first believed the death was a suicide.

Industrial chiefs picked

LAMESA — Six new industrial foundation directors were elected at the annual meeting last week.

Richard Gentry, Bob Brown, Jim Norris, Ronnie Cloud, Dale Newberry and Dee Adcock are the new directors. Cloud replaces Rob McDonald, who moved from Lamesa.

The others were elected to three year terms. Re-elected was Leroy Olsak, to another term as president. Walter Buckel will again be vice president and Don Bryant, secretary-treasurer.

Other members of the executive committee are J.D. Dyer Jr. and Elwood Freeman.

The foundation owns the Lamesa Industrial Tract between N. 7th and 14th Streets immediately east of the Railroad.
