

Doctor says Ector inmate was murdered

DALLAS (AP) — A Mexican-American's death in the Ector County jail Jan. 22 was a homicide, and not a suicide as alleged by jail officials, according to an autopsy report.

The report was made by Dr. Frederick Bornstein, the El Paso County medical examiner in El Paso who performed an autopsy at the request of Larry Lozano's family.

Bornstein said today he has not yet released his report but did make it available to Ruben Sandoval, lawyer for the Lozano family investigating the death.

"It is my opinion that the man died from extensive blunt trauma, such as beating, hitting, kicking, as well as possible small wounds with sharp instruments," the autopsy report said.

Dr. Bornstein's report concludes "Therefore, I consider the mode of death homicide. The pattern is incompatible with suicide."

Dr. Bornstein said he did not know the report was going to be made public at this time.

Ector County Medical Examiner Dr. Krishnakumari Challapalli also performed an autopsy but has not released her findings.

The Dallas Times Herald and San Angelo Standard Times quoted from the Bornstein report in copyright stories in today's editions.

The autopsy revealed that the body of the 27-year-old man had 92 separate bruises on it, showed evidence of choking and revealed extensive distortions of the face and forehead.

Lozano was arrested Jan. 10 after his car struck a fence post west of Odessa. He reportedly fought with two deputies at the accident scene and two additional deputies were called to the scene to help subdue him. He had been in jail 12 days when he died.

Bornstein's report said his findings were "incompatible" with the contention of Ector County Sheriff Elton Faught that Lozano committed suicide in the padded cell in which he had been isolated.

Faught, when asked if he had any comment on the report, said "none."

The Times Herald also reported that a witness told state investigators that officers involved with the case gathered seven days after Lozano's death in a conference room on the second floor of the Ector County Courthouse with Sheriff Faught and attorney Bill Barnes to discuss the probability of a federal investigation and "to get their stories straight."

Faught has claimed that Lozano, who had a history of mental distress, became violent in his padded cell three hours after he had been injected with two tranquilizers at a local hospital. The sheriff said Lozano repeatedly rammed his head into a shatterproof window in his cell and then grappled with eight officers before he died, handcuffed, on the floor in front of his cell.

Faught says his officers never hit Lozano during the incident, "not once."

Asked to explain how Lozano might have received the number of bruises cited in Bornstein's preliminary report, Faught replied, "I don't know and none of the officers know."

A witness in the Ector County Jail told the Times Herald that on the day of Lozano's death he said "six or seven deputies, one in civilian clothes," remove their badges, hats and belts and enter Lozano's cell. The witness said he later heard "the shuffling of feet and mixed voices combined with dull thuds, like someone hitting someone with either their hand, foot or something."

The Times Herald quoted three witnesses as saying that Lozano had been harassed and isolated by deputies and jailers during the days just before his death. Two of the witnesses said they saw a deputy dump one of Lozano's meals through a hole in the door. He said the food fell onto the floor of the cell. He said the floor was filthy and was partially covered with dirt and human waste from a backed up commode.

Rocke Flannigan, who briefly shared a cell with Lozano in the Ector County jail, spent two hours Tuesday going over his account of what he called harassment and physical abuse of Lozano by deputies.

Flannigan told the Standard Times that "it seemed like they wanted me to say that I was put up to say what I was saying, that I was paid to say it, but I told them I was saying it because it was the right thing to do."

Immediately after the interview Flannigan was subpoenaed to appear Feb. 14 for a special inquiry by Odessa County Justice of the Peace Virgil Lumpee.

Man killed, two injured in wreck

One man was killed and a Big Spring couple was injured in a three-vehicle crash 14.3 miles southeast of Big Spring in Glasscock County around 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Jose Manuel Navarro, 21, of Garciasville in South Texas, was killed and Herbert H. Taylor, 57, of 503 Highland in Big Spring and his wife, Martha, were injured in the three-vehicle accident.

Navarro, driving a 1970 car, originally collided with a white truck tractor rig driven by Ramiro de los Santos, 48, who lived only 23 miles away from him down in South Texas in Donna.

The vehicle driven by Navarro then apparently went into a spin on the wet highway and spun into a vehicle driven by Taylor. Both Taylors were taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital suffering from multiple lacerations and bruises, including cuts on their knees.

Navarro was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace J. E. Wooten of Garden City.

The Navarro vehicle was headed north on U.S. 87 when it struck the trailer tractor, which was headed south with the Taylor vehicle behind it.

The driver of the trailer tractor rig apparently did not know that he had been involved in an accident. He thought the wind caught his trailer in the rain and fog.

When he stopped in Sterling City, he saw pieces of the Navarro car on the rig and notified the highway patrol.

Dean Richardson, Big Spring state trooper, investigated the accident and also went into Sterling City to talk to the truck driver who was held there for questioning.

This was the second traffic fatality in Glasscock County within the week.

ICY TREE — Three girls, on their way to College Heights Elementary School this morning, stopped at the 11th and Birdwell Fire Station to take a closer look at a tree covered with ice. There was no ice storm here, but a sprinkler left on during the night left this tree and a couple of others covered with the graceful icicles. Joyce Stewart, 8, left; Danne Hepner, 9, right background; and Nancy Stewart, 9, right foreground; couldn't resist the temptation to taste the icicles. Temperatures dropped to 24 degrees Tuesday night after rising to 44 degrees on Tuesday. Drizzle which fell most of the day Tuesday was measured as a trace at the Big Spring Experiment Station. Elsewhere in the state, snow and ice made road conditions extremely hazardous with no improvement expected today in the following areas: Tyler, Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Waco, Childress, Dallas, Brownwood, Amarillo and Paris. Scattered ice is reported on highways in the areas of Austin, Atlanta, San Angelo, Abilene, Bryan, and Lubbock.

Before House panel Borden farmer swears farmers going broke

WASHINGTON (AP) — The message Texas farmers are presenting to the House Agriculture Committee promises nothing short of agrarian disaster unless emergency legislation is enacted to beef up crop prices.

"I want to know what happened," Fluvanna farmer Glenn Toombs said Tuesday.

Toombs is former county judge of Borden County.

"My family wants to know what happened. My loan people want to know what has happened and my creditors want to know. The farmers in my area can't help but feel we are being misled, mistreated and misinformed by our policy makers, all the while we are slowly, but surely, going broke."

Toombs was joined by 32 others Tuesday, including congressmen, bankers and farm implement dealers, in asking the committee to rewrite or amend the 1977 Farm Bill they say will bankrupt the agriculture community and "take the rest of America down with it."

More than 100 persons are expected to testify through Valentine's Day. The hearings were prompted by the nationwide farm strike.

"To preserve the family farm, we feel we must have a fair price with a reasonable amount of profit on our investment," said Floydada farmer Adrian Helms.

"To achieve this, we must have stable prices over an extended period of time and production control," he added.

"The soil is our way of life. I ask that you help us preserve it, not only for me, but for my sons, daughters and America."

Lorenzo cotton farmer Max Joiner submitted a letter from Alton Strickland, president of the Lubbock Production Credit Association, which said, "This association has been making farm loans since 1934... never before have we, along with the farmer, been faced with as critical a situation as we are now facing."

Tahoka farmer Cleve Littlepage was one of several who presented the committee with documents he said showed the rapid increase in farmers' production costs.

$17,000 lost? Coahoma School Board mulls audit, contracts

An audit citing extensive "internal control weaknesses" in the Coahoma School District accounting system and a discussion of the superintendent's, principal's, and athletic director's contracts are expected to dominate discussion at Thursday's Coahoma school board meeting.

The audit, prepared by Big Spring certified public accountant Kenneth Boothe, lists waived delinquent taxes, inadequate books, no bids on insurance coverage, no organizational chart, lack of adequate bank bonding, and $17,000 in possible interest lost as the problems facing the district.

Declining to elaborate further on his audit, Boothe said, "They went on a computer system a couple of years ago, and they had problems with the computer center."

"I want to stress that there is no misappropriation of funds; I doubt the state will take any action on it."

The audit cost $14,975, according to board president Wendell Shive. "The school district is presently in compliance with state regulations," he continued, "because we have not received any communication from the state to tell us otherwise. I doubt any district is in complete compliance, they change the rules so fast." Shive said that the school district is in good shape financially, and "no one is in danger of losing his job as far as I know."

"We are in the process of implementing some of the auditor's suggestions. The biggest part of the audit was his recommendations — some of them his personal opinions."

Mrs. Maxine Hinsley, the school secretary, is in charge of the books. She is a longtime school district employee.

John Wilson, certified public accountant who performed the audit on the school system last year, said, "I gave the district a clean opinion, as I believe they received again this year. But I did include a management letter, which ought to be public record, including advice on taking a harder line on investing their cash."

"I certainly believe the audit I did was adequate. Its cost was in the neighborhood of $6,000 to $8,000, but I think the commotion is more in the nature of publicity than of any new discoveries."

The board meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Coahoma administration board room.

Choate, Lockheed chief Focalpoint honored by Congressmen

By TOMMY HART

Thirteen of Texas' 24 U.S. representatives in Congress attended the Democratic luncheon last week in Washington, at which Mayor Wade Choate of Big Spring and C.T. (Chuck) Thum, president of Lockheed Aircraft Service Corp., were honor guests.

Choate and Thum, along with Joe Meise, Assistant Secretary of the Air Force and George Carey, also of Lockheed, attended at the invitation of Cong. Omar Burtson, who represents the 17th Congressional District of Texas in Washington.

Texas congressmen present included Sam B. Hall Jr., Charles Wilson, Roy Roberts, Jim Mattox, Jack Brooks, W.P. Poage, Jim Wright, George Mahon, Henry B. Gonzales, Bob Krueger, Bob Gammage, Dale Milford and Burtson.

Thum spoke at length on the F-4C aircraft modification program, which his company will undertake at Big Spring if it is awarded an Air Force contract next month.

The Lockheed official said his firm would modify and update approximately 325 F-4C aircraft. This, he added, would be a four and one-half year procurement cycle with the first contract for 18 months, followed by three one-year follow-on options.

Value of this contract, according to Thum, is approximately $20 million annually, or approximately $100 million over the life of the program.

Lockheed, Thum reminded his listeners, is in competition for the contract with McDonnell Douglas Corp., Tulsa, Okla., and World Airways, Oakland, Calif.

Lockheed's base of operations in Big Spring would be a site formerly occupied by Webb AFB, which was recently closed by the Department of Defense.

Lockheed's employment in Big Spring would peak at between 600 and 650, Thum told the congressmen. The estimated payroll in Big Spring would be $10 million annually, which would ultimately have an annual economic impact of $50 million on the community. A new hangar will be built at Webb costing an estimated $1.8 million, Thum added. In addition, LAS will procure from local sources guard services, janitorial services, fueling services, office supplies, tools, chemicals and other consumables.

LAS also proposes to institute a training program to update the level of semi-skilled employees.

The Air Force, Thum said, has conducted facility surveys and is currently negotiating with the three competitors. Although the original contract award date was March 31, 1978, because of the emergency of the program the Air Force could award the program as early as the end of February.

Action/reaction: Senior tax break

Q: Do people who have turned 65 have to pay city, county, and school taxes, or is there an exemption for this group?

A: According to Zirah Bednar, County Tax Assessor-Collector, persons 65 and older must pay taxes, but their first $3,000 of "assessed value" is exempt. More information is available at the county tax assessor-collector's office.

Offbeat: 'I can change it'

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — Fred Christlieb didn't want to be late for his business appointment, so he decided not to wait for the mechanic but to change a flat tire himself — on a DC9.

Larry Litchfield, public information director for Hughes Air West, said in San Francisco Tuesday that Christlieb, 35, was among the passengers on a flight from Spokane, Wash., to Boise, Idaho, Monday when the plane's tire went flat upon landing at Lewiston.

Litchfield said airline officials announced that a mechanic would have to drive from Spokane to change the tire. But Christlieb, a computer service representative from Nine Mile Falls, Wash., said "I can change it" and produced a Federal Aviation Administration license that showed him to be a qualified DC9 mechanic.

The airline verified the license with the FAA and told Christlieb to go ahead.

TV's best: Ex-Big Springer in movie

Not only is the best bet on television tonight the Ruby and Oswald factual account on Channel 7 at 7 p.m., but also a young man who has visited and lived in Big Spring will play the part of Oswald.

Frederic Forrest, who is a nephew of Mrs. Mabel Kountz, lived here with his parents when his mother, Virginia was teaching Spanish and his father, Fred, was working for a florist in Midland.

Mabel received special word to watch the three-hour dramatic special tonight, and it is probably also the best on television today. It reports a four-day span preceding and following the assassination of President Kennedy.

TRYING TO SAVE TINY BEAR — Zookeeper Randy Deer uses a small bottle to feed a tiny Alaskan brown bear at the Milwaukee County Zoo. The bear, born two-and-a-half weeks ago, but her mother refused to take care of her and she was taken to the Zoo's hospital where she is fed cow's milk three times a day. The bear has increased her weight to 19½ ounces and zoo officials hope she will reach her normal full grown weight of 600 pounds.

Fort Worth bonds OKed

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Voters Tuesday approved a $1.3 billion bond package, the largest in the city's history, by an overwhelming margin. Slightly more than 15,000 voters, the lowest turnout for a bond election since 1958, approved the nine propositions by percentages ranging from 72 per cent to 82 per cent. The vote total was likely smaller because of a surprise snow and ice storm. Included in the bonds approved were provisions for additional and relocated fire stations, a new downtown police station and improvements to Meacham Field. Other items called for street improvements, park and recreation facilities, water and sewer improvements and the upgrading of Will Rogers Coliseum.

Soldiers called in

New Englanders today dug out from one of their worst blizzards in history and waited for help from federal troops. Crews cleared airport runways of drifted snow to allow Army troops and snow-moving machinery to arrive. Officials predicted that some troops would reach stricken areas today. President Carter declared Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts federal disaster areas Tuesday and also authorized mobilization of soldiers at Fort Meade, Md.; Fort Bragg, N.C.; Fort Dix, N.J.; Fort Hood, Texas; and Fort Benning, Ga.

U.S. reacts immediately

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The state Court of Appeals decided that the gangrenous feet of a 72-year-old Mary Northern can be cut off because the woman refused to choose between amputation and death, says a judge. "This is not a 'right to die' case," Judge Henry Todd wrote in a ruling handed down Tuesday by the three-judge appeals panel. "If the patient would assume and exercise her rightful control over her own destiny by stating that she prefers death to the loss of her feet, her wish would be respected."

Somali denies rout

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP) — Somali rebels fighting in eastern Ethiopia denied that an Ethiopian offensive had routed them and said the Addis Ababa government's claims were "mere wishful thinking." The Western Somali Liberation Front claimed that its forces destroyed 43 Ethiopian tanks and shot down two planes Sunday and Monday. A member of Ethiopia's governing Military Provisional Council said Tuesday that the Ethiopian offensive to recover the Ogaden desert had started and the Somalis were fleeing "in all directions."

Nicaragua strike ends

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Conservative political leaders opposed to President Anastasio Somoza claim that his refusal to resign is driving his opponents into the ranks of the Marxist Sandinista guerrillas. Meanwhile, the nationwide strike that began Jan. 23 after the assassination of anti-Somoza publisher Pedro Joaquin Chamorro ended Monday.

Police beat Burglars sweep home

Burglars swept through the home of Lawrence Oliver, 400 N.W. 9th, taking $5,700 worth of guns, rings and watches with them. The intruders broke through the back door of the home sometime between 8:30 and 9:15 p.m. Tuesday. Ransacking every room inside, they gathered up a .357 magnum revolver, a color television set, a 12-gauge shotgun, six boxes of bullets, three watches, a man's gold ring and three women's gold and diamond rings, a gold necklace, two antique gold pillboxes, three antique German beer steins, 10 china plates and $20 in pennies. Another car was stolen Monday night. Ima Jean Maddox, 538 Westover, lost a 1965 Oldsmobile with $100 worth of clothing inside to thieves. Total loss was estimated at $600.

Francis Hock, 1601 Main, lost a $500 carport Monday. According to reports, Ms. Hock bought the carport at 1308 Scurry on Jan. 30. When she drove past the location Monday it wasn't there. Thieves broke open a pinball machine at the Rowe Laundromat, 611 E. 2nd, sometime Monday night. Loss, including damage, was $45. Car burglars ripped off an eight-track tape player from a car belonging to Manuel Limon, 1105 N. Nolan, sometime between 8 a.m. and 3:45 p.m. Tuesday. The car had been parked in the Big Spring High School parking lot.

The tape player was valued at $89. The bad weather apparently brought out the worst in Big Spring drivers with 10 mishaps reported Tuesday. A parked vehicle belonging to Colleen Drake, 2200 Johnson, was struck by a vehicle that left the scene near the entrance of Scenic Mountain State Park, 10:15 p.m. Vehicles driven by Linda S. Bairager, 1206 W. 2nd, and Tony J. Gillespie, Knott, collided at 9th and Gregg, 2:26 p.m. Vehicles driven by Freddie G. Morris, Austin, C.E. Boyd, Devine, and Richard L. Stolen items are recovered

The Howard County Sheriff's office made a series of recoveries of stolen items Tuesday. Deputy Eddie Owen recovered four tires and rims valued at $600. The equipment was located with information gained from a 22-year-old man presently in custody on other charges. Sheriff A.N. Standard recovered a large number of old coins valued at over $300. Standard said the coins were taken in an October, 1977 burglary of a Cisco Rexall store. "We are expecting further recoveries," he said, "and we have made no arrests, although the investigation is continuing." Others are Julian Moncada, Lupe Morales, Pandora Prather, Mary Lynn Rich, Sterling City; Mark Root, Letha Strickland, Forsan; Patricia Swindell, Connie Thornton, Lamesa; Cathy Valdes, Mark Walters, Ricky Watkins, Kenneth West, Coahoma; Eugene Williams, Cleveland, Miss.; Lana Williams, and Stephen Wilson.

Energy Dawson, Sterling wildcats scheduled

Wildcats were scheduled in Dawson and Sterling counties this week with a confiner set in Martin County. Idencycy rap hits Klusman

Stephen Francis Klusman, 30, Southland Apartments, was transferred from the city to the Howard County jail Tuesday under felony charges of indecency with a child by exposure. Klusman, who is being held under $7,500 bond set by Justice of the Peace George Ochotorena, is charged in Ochotorena's office in connection with a January 20 incident. The charges were filed by police Detective Tony Lujan.

Fire destroys mobile home

A fire which broke out at 4:58 p.m. Tuesday destroyed a mobile home belonging to Mrs. Helen White. Coahoma, Jonesboro, and Sand Springs fire departments responded to the blaze after Mrs. White's nephew reported the smoking residence. No one was in the house when the fire started, and no one was injured in the blaze. The flames were out by 6 p.m., although firemen continued to soak the wreckage. According to the Sheriff's Department, the nephew said he saw flames near the base of the water heater.

The Rev. Fred Witta, pastor, will officiate. Burial will take place in the Loraine Cemetery under the direction of Kiker-Seale

Luther Dudley

GROVER CITY, Calif. — Luther Eugene Dudley, 61, former Big Spring area resident, died Tuesday afternoon in a San Luis Obispo Calif. hospital. There will be a visitation period Friday at the Sunset Funeral Chapel in Grover City, with private burial Tuesday in the Arroyo Grande District Cemetery. Born in Texas Dec. 12, 1916, Mr. Dudley was raised around Newcastle. He lived in the Big Spring area for a number of years, and was a retired water well driller. Mr. Dudley lived in California for the past 20 years. He was preceded in death by his wife, Virginia, on May 22, 1977. Survivors include one daughter, Glenda Kanzler, Arroyo Grande, Calif.; a son, Norman Dudley, Arroyo Grande, Calif.; his father, Arthur E. Dudley, Hanford, Calif.; three brothers, John W. Dudley, Lemoore, Calif.; Donald Dudley, Taft, Calif.; and Kenneth Dudley, Armona, Calif.; three sisters, Mrs. Vera Holder, Lemoore, Calif., Mrs. Ethel Shafer, Phoenix, Ariz., and Elizabeth Cummings, Fresno, Calif.; seven grandchildren; and one great-grandchild.

Grace Snyder

Mrs. R.H. (Grace) Snyder, 75, died at 9:30 p.m. Tuesday in a local hospital. Services are set for 11:30 a.m. Thursday in Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be Thursday at 4 p.m. in Evergreen Cemetery in Ranger. Mrs. Snyder was born May 29, 1920 in Peoria, Ill., and she married R.H. Snyder in 1921 in Beaumont. Mrs. Snyder was a resident of Big Spring for the past 36 years, and was a member of the First Baptist Church here, and the T.E.L. Sunday School class. Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Babs Moore, Big Spring; three sons, Don Snyder, Sweetwater; Jerry Snyder; Temple; and Dick Snyder; Kerrville; a stepson, Lewis Snyder; Virginia Beach, Va.; a brother, Norman Barber, Houston; one sister, Mrs. Ethel Ozmert, Victoria; six grandchildren; and a number of step-great-grandchildren. Mrs. Snyder was preceded in death by her husband on July 19, 1976, and also a sister.

W.R. Stell

BOWIE — W.R. Stell, of Bowie, died Tuesday at 4 a.m. in Bowie. Mr. Stell is the brother-in-law of Mrs. Asa W. Tindol of Coahoma. Services will be in the Nazarene Church in Bowie at 11 a.m. Thursday, with burial at the Crestline Cemetery in Wichita Falls under direction of Owens-Brumley Funeral Home. Survivors include his wife,

85 percent cases solved

Big Spring Police solved an amazing 85 per cent of the cases reported during January, according to records released today. "And that's no typographical error!" said Capt. Jim McCain, pointing to the report. The clearance rate, percentage of cases solved, rose from a 38 per cent total for December to the 85 per cent

Bandit files rights suit

LUBBOCK — Burton Russell Beadle, convicted of taking part in the largest bank robbery in Lubbock County history, has filed a federal suit against justice and law enforcement officials, claiming his civil rights were violated. Beadle, 44, was assessed a 99-year prison term by a jury last November for his alleged role in the Aug. 31, 1976, robbery of the American Bank of Commerce in Wolforth. The heist netted the robbers $66,000. Beadle is being retained in the Lubbock County Jail

Weather Schools closed persons stranded

By the Associated Press
Snow, sleet and freezing rain and drizzle slickened highways and streets across a vast area of the northern half of Texas as a winter storm held most of the state in its strong, icy grasp.
Schools were closed, persons were stranded on icy highways and many businesses across North Texas operated on reduced work schedules.
Icy roads were reported from the Red River southward into the San Antonio area.
Several hundred cars were stopped before dawn on stretches of Interstate 35 around Waco after several tractor-trailer rigs jackknifed on icy spots and blocked the highway, the Department of Public Safety said.
A DPS spokeswoman said, however, the rigs were removed and traffic began moving again at dawn. She said the DPS had received no reports of injuries or any major problems as a result of the traffic stoppage.

Forecasters warned that additional accumulations of one to three inches of snow could be expected today and tonight across a wide area of the northern half of the state. Some areas, including the Dallas area, had more than four inches of snow on the ground by early today. Snow was continuing to fall.
The Texas Department of Public Safety said many motorists were stranded on Interstate 35W between Waco and Hillsboro in North Central Texas. Portions of Interstate 35 were closed in Austin early today because freezing drizzle formed ice on roadways in the Austin area.
The Texas Department of Public Safety urged persons in areas generally north of San Antonio to exercise caution because of snow and icy conditions and urged persons not needing to travel to stay off the roadways.

FORECAST — Travelers advisory north today and tonight. Intermittent snow, light rain and drizzle south today and tonight diminishing Thursday. Additional snow accumulations of 1 to 2 inches will continue to cause hazardous driving conditions north today and tonight. Colder central and southeast today. Not as cold most sections tonight and Thursday. Highs up to 20s. Panhandle to 40s southwest. Lows 20s north to near 40s extreme south. West. Highs Thursday 30s north to 40s southwest.

EXTENDED FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy and cool Friday becoming mostly cloudy with a slight warming trend Saturday and Sunday. Scattered showers and few thunderstorms, west Saturday night spreading eastward over all of West Texas Sunday. Highs Friday 40s north to 50s south except 40s Big Bend. Warming to 50s north, 60s south and 70s Big Bend by Sunday. Lows Friday 20s and 30s moderating to 30s and 40s except 50s extreme south by Sunday.

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow flurries are forecast today from the Dakotas to Oklahoma. Rain is expected for the central Pacific coast. Temperatures are expected to be cold over most of the nation.

Republicans have primary race in 6th District

Judge Spears will not get free ride

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — San Antonio District Court Judge Franklin Spears will not get a free ride in his 1978 campaign for the State Supreme Court, as first filing reports indicated.
Ballot applications and filing fees received in Tuesday's mail produced a Democratic opponent for State Supreme Court, Place 1 — District Court Judge O'Neal Bacon, 57, of Newton.
Spears, 46, is a former state senator and representative.
The winner will succeed Associate Justice Price Daniel Sr. who did not seek re-election, because there is no Republican contender for the post.
Another mailed application received Tuesday put William Lorenzo Powers Jr., Dallas, in the five-candidate Democratic race for the 6th Congressional District where Rep. Olin Teague, D-Texas, is retiring.
Republicans have their own primary race for the 6th District with Carl Krohn of Bryan and Wes Mowery, Fort Worth.

Will Polanski return to U.S.?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The attorney for fugitive movie director Roman Polanski has flown to Paris to try to persuade his client to return to the United States and face sentencing for having sex with a 13-year-old girl.
A secretary at lawyer Douglas Dalton's office confirmed Tuesday that Dalton was in Paris and probably would remain there this week.
Polanski fled to London the night before he was to have been sentenced Feb. 1 on the charge of having sexual intercourse with a minor — an offense previously known as statutory rape. The Polish-born director and then flew to Paris, where, because he is a French citizen, he cannot be extradited.
Nonetheless, the district attorney's office here was preparing extradition papers for Polanski.

Not 'right to die' case Amputation decision

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The state Court of Appeals says it has given the state authority to cut off the gangrenous feet of a 72-year-old woman because she refused to choose between amputation and death.
"This is not a 'right to die' case," Judge Henry Todd wrote in a ruling issued Tuesday by the three-judge appeals panel. "If the patient would assume and exercise her rightful control over her own destiny by stating that she prefers death to the loss of her feet, her wish would be respected."

Mary Northern, 72, was reported in fair condition at General Hospital three weeks after she was taken by police from the partly burned home where she lived alone. Her feet were frost-bitten and gangrene set in. Without amputation, doctors say, she has only a 10 percent chance to live.
Todd visited Miss Northern at her hospital bedside on Jan. 28 and noted then, "The patient wants to live and keep her feet, too, and refuses to consider the impossibility of such a desire."
The 22-page Court of Appeals opinion allows the state to authorize amputation when doctors believe it necessary to save her life.

OFFICIALLY ON BALLOT—U.S. Congressional candidate Jim Sharp is shown delivering some 700 signatures to Calvin Guest, chairman of the Texas Democratic Party, in Austin late Monday. In taking this route to become certified for the 17th Congressional race, Sharp said: "The little people in this district, not special interests, placed my name on the ballot. I'm not trying to buy a seat in Congress. I'm trying to earn the respect of the voters and hope this petition shows I am willing to work hard to win this race. I waited until now to announce my candidacy in an effort to serve as a restraining force. The constituents in this district should not be expected to pay such exorbitant amounts for this Congressional race. This petition is a demonstration that I am truly a fiscal conservative. . . I had the option of paying a $1,500 filing fee, or coming up with 500 signatures of registered voters. I chose the latter and let action speak louder than words." Sharp is one of seven Democrats in the race to replace Omar Bursleson in Congress.

Chamber prepares farm resolution

The Big Spring Chamber of Commerce Agriculture and Business Committees concluded the second morning of meetings Tuesday by reading a resolution to present to the Chamber Board.
"We did discuss the wording of a resolution which will be submitted to the board at the next meeting," said Richard Atkins, economic development chairman for the Chamber. "The resolution deals with the Chamber's stand on the farm problem, and could result in an action proposal should it be passed by the board."
"Whatever the result, I feel that we made a good start toward improving the relationship between the rural segment of our economy and the business interests within the city limits," Atkins continued.
"The meeting was worthwhile and productive in my opinion, and I wish we could have more sit-down discussion type meetings to familiarize everyone with problems of the different parts of our area economy," said the Big Spring businessman.
Atkins said that the two committees were pleased with the presence of the area farmers at the meeting.
"Actually, we had not planned on having the farmers come," Atkins said, "but any meeting of the Chamber — unless otherwise specified — is open to the public. The response of the farmers and their comments at the meeting were beneficial to the efforts of the committees."

Only two Democratic primary contests developed from the filings for the Texas Senate.

Only those filing for multi-county districts filed in Austin. Those from single county districts file in their home counties.
In the 1st Senatorial district, where Sen. A.M. Aikin, D-Paris, dean of the Senate, is not seeking re-election, there were four candidates filed at Democratic headquarters.

Agricultural Problems?

The Public Is Invited To See A Free Film

Produced by Jerry Litton, the late Congressman from Missouri who was killed in an airplane crash along with his wife and son.

The film, 30 minutes in length, was made for an address to the White Farm Implement Convention. It has been shown to agricultural groups every night since then. It is of interest to farmers, landlords, businessmen and the consumer.

Now barbecuing gets a bad rap

Comes now Dr. Arthur C. Upton, head of the National Cancer Institute, who says that charcoal broiled foods — the kind you bring to a fine summer in your backyard over coals and liberally dab with exotic sauce — are dangerous in two ways.

The charring involved produces a substance related to the tar one gets in smoking cigarettes. The cooking itself breaks down the amino acids in protein, another peril.

Some people will tell you there's not enough acid in your system to neutralize the meat once you've eaten it. Barbecue, however, remains one of the most popular dishes in the Southwest and is catching on in other parts of the world.

The other dangers associated with outdoors cooking have long been well-known. If you can't immediately light a fire, and that is especially hard to do in windy West Texas, your blood pressure may go up. If you do light a fire and it flames too high, you run the risk of getting your fingers, not to mention your eyebrows, scorched.

The impatience of other members of the family and — or party toward the cook is well known. ("Hey, Pops! Is it ready yet?") The cook gets the impression the consumers invited to the cookout think they could have fared better by buying their meat at the barbecue stand.

Few barbecues are considered complete without an abundance of beer or colas on hand, and you know the dangers involved when your quota of either or both is over-subscribed.

The cancer warning merely puts one more nail in our coffin. Why is it that everything that appeals to the palate is considered immoral, fattening or illegal?

Faking it

Around the rim

Dusty Richard

My mother was a great cook. This is no surprise — most everyone's mother was a great cook.

However, she did not pass that trait on to me, why I don't know, but I guess because everytime she would say, "Okay, now I'm going to teach you to bake a chicken (or roll out a pie crust or broil a steak or stuff bell peppers)," I would always reply, "Oh, Ma, I was just fixing to wash my hair (or do my homework or go out on a date or take a nap)," and my mother, being the kind soul she was, would say, "Alright then, but don't blame me if you never get married (or never have a dinner party or starve to death when you leave home or have to eat Kentucky Fried Chicken the rest of your life)."

NOW AT the time, those prospects did not really bother me, because I didn't intend to get married; give dinner parties; starving was good for your figure; and Kentucky Fried Chicken is not all that bad.

But then, disaster struck. Not really disaster, but I did get married. Not to just anyone, but to a very particularly super cook (Julia Child and James Beard pale in comparison).

I wasn't too worried, for I figured I could fake my way through a couple of months of married life until I learned how to cook. Unfortunately, my husband wasn't fooled.

Oh, sure, he didn't catch on to the spaghetti-chili ruse that I often used, at least not for a while.

The spaghetti-chili ruse is quite simple, actually: you merely make a gigantic pot of spaghetti, and the next day, add two large cans of ranch-style beans, seven tablespoons of chili powder and assorted other spices (to make it hotter than hades) and serve.

Your husband will be so busy fanning his mouth and trying to catch his breath that he won't have time to notice that it looks exactly like the spaghetti you served yesterday. Works everytime (almost).

I guess the day that I finally knocked off my lack of culinary ability was the time I prepared salad, Campbell's Chicken Noodle Soup and Tater Tots (with a very good, though impertinent, white wine).

My old man came home hungry as usual and sniffing the aromas of soup and Tater Tots. He was not amused.

"What kind of dinner is this, anyway? What do you think I am, a vegetarian?" (I figured the little pieces of chicken in the soup counted as the meat course.)

AFTER HE had calmed down and eaten my (I thought it was pretty good) dinner, he said, "Look, Dusty, you're going to have to admit it. We can't go on living this way! You...you...you can't cook, and there's no two ways about it. Not that I mind eating your rather creative dinners, but I'm losing weight. My lunch bills are tremendous, since I eat so much at lunch so I won't be as hungry at dinnertime. I'm starting to eye the cat's Super Supper with a whole new respect for Morris. We've got to do something."

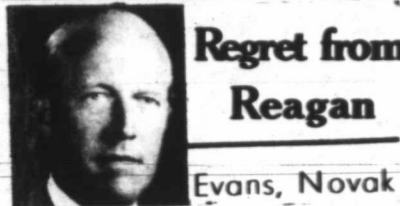

(Let it be known that this is the first time I've even mentioned in a rim that I own a cat, unlike some other Herald staffers we all know and love.)

So, we came to a compromise. We would alternate fixing dinners. I would cook (?) one night, he would the next. However, this did not work out as planned, for when my husband would cook, he always made a whole lot, and there were left-overs. Since I had to cook the next night, I would simply reheat his dinner, splash on a little tarragon, and serve it as my contribution.

And that is the whole, true, sad story of why I no longer cook. I tried to keep it a secret, but as always, the truth will out.

Yes, yes, I admit it — I'm a failure as a woman and a wife!

Mother, oh, mother, where did you go wrong?

Regret from Reagan

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Astonished by the offer, Ronald Reagan turned down Republican national chairman William Brock's proposal that he share the party's formal rebuttal of President Carter's nationally televised appeal for approval of the Panama Canal treaties.

Brock's offer was made before the networks decided whether or not to grant the Republicans equal time to answer Mr. Carter. What made it seem preposterous to Reagan, an all-out treaty opponent, was that he would have been twinned with Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee — a proponent of the treaties if amended to assure U.S. intervention rights.

"That's a great image for the Republican party," one Reagan aide told us. "Divided we stand, united we fall?" His point: the party would be split putting one Republican on the air defending the treaty and another Republican attacking it.

REAGAN IS still smarting under Brock's decision not to mount a national committee campaign against the treaties, using funds partly collected by an anti-treaties letter sent to contributors over Reagan's name. Indeed, Brock's offer to give Reagan a spot in the party's rebuttal of Mr. Carter was intended to save Reagan's resentment.

Brock's problem was multiple: first, avoiding preferential national exposure for one potential 1980 presidential candidate, such as Baker, over another, such as Reagan or Sen. Robert Dole; second, handle the rebuttal while minimizing splits within the party over the treaties; third, find a Republican consensus in sharp enough disagreement with the President to make a rebuttal worthwhile.

Reagan, vacationing in Mexico, never did talk directly to Brock. But in discussing the proposal with his own aides — and quickly rejecting it — Reagan made clear that any "rebuttal" to Mr. Carter that showed the Republican party split down the middle would be self-defeating.

A FOOTNOTE: Reagan political advisers want him to take a hard public line against the treaties as a national catastrophe, with or without the amendments backed by Baker. That's bad news for Baker, whose support for the amended treaties has hurt him badly with the Republican right wing. Reagan might diminish that damage by praising the Baker-backed changes.

DOES JIMMY KNOW?

Democratic Gov. James Exon of Nebraska and nine other farm-state governors were shocked when Jimmy Carter turned to Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland during a closed-door meeting Jan. 31 to ask whether farmers were running into credit problems because of low farm income.

Mr. Carter, quoting a warning to that effect from Sen. Herman Talmadge, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, asked Bergland if it was true. Bergland didn't know, and asked one of his aides. The answer Mr. Carter got was: no, there is no "liquidity crisis" in the wheat and corn belts.

Exon, who had set up the White House session to warn Mr. Carter of political rebellion in the farm belt, jumped in at that point. To the contrary, he told Mr. Carter, there certainly was a credit crisis in Nebraska, and other states too. Banks were being forced to extend notes beyond their maturity dates and were encountering evermore stringent liquidity levels.

WHAT WORRIED EXON and the other governors was the implication of the President's and Bergland's lack of knowledge about a fundamental economic farm problem. One told us: "We had to ask ourselves, is Mr. Carter getting the facts he needs to make the nation's farm policy?"

The session did have its successes. The President for the first time seemed genuinely aware that a massive farm problem threatens his party next November.

Blood clot problem requires fast treatment

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has been disabled for the past four months with chronic thrombophlebitis. He cannot use blood thinner because it causes bleeding. Apparently only heat will help relieve the leg pain. What advice can you give us? He is only 58. — Mrs. E. K.

Much more information is necessary for any specific comment. Many thoughts come to mind. Are the superficial veins affected or are they deep-lying ones, or both? The matter of varicose veins must be considered. Is he overweight?

The term thrombophlebitis is a mixing of two words "thrombus" (a clot in a vessel) and "phlebitis" (inflammation of a vein). The danger is that a blood-vessel clot may travel and obstruct circulation elsewhere. This is more a threat in deep-vein problems than with superficial ones, those nearer the skin surface. A traveling clot is called an "embolism."

Armed with these few terms you should be able to discuss your husband's situation more intelligently with the doctor.

Anticoagulant (blood thinner) is frequently used to prevent clot formation. Your husband might tolerate a lower dose. However, only his doctor can judge.

Meanwhile, elevation of the legs above the heart level is important along with bed rest. The legs should be bound with elastic stockings, especially when walking. Prolonged standing or sitting is to be avoided, and he should not sit with one leg crossed over the other.

Hot baths and compresses help relieve pain, but care must be taken not to burn the skin. Anti-inflammatory drugs will control the phlebitis. It is important to avoid leg edema (eh-DEE-muh) during treatment. This is accumulation of fluid in the leg. Hence the need for rest and the binding. Any swelling should be reported.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our 30-year-old son has a poorly functioning gall bladder and is on a very low-fat, low-spice diet that forbids all fresh fruits and vegetables (except tomatoes and lettuce) and all baked goods. He does hard physical work and must carry a noon lunch. He has lost 20 pounds in just over a month. It is frustrating to pack lunches with appetite appeal or variety from the small list of foods he is allowed. Is such a restricted diet necessary? — Mrs. W. H.

This diet seems unduly strict for a gall-bladder disorder. He should be able to have more variety, with more carbohydrates and sandwiches made of lean meat and fowl. Butter and margarine are not usually ruled out.

A well-balanced diet is OK, but if he is a heavy eater the fats should be watched and reduced.

Go back and discuss diet with his doctor. You may want to discuss removal of the gall-bladder disturbance is chronic or if stones have formed.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Years ago I read your advice about salt and the menstrual period. I was having terrible bloating. I stopped salt entirely at the table for the week before the period and it has worked well and helped me. I have passed on the advice to others in my boat, but have not been able to explain why it helps. Can you? — Mrs. J. W.

The female body accumulates fluid normally in preparation for potential pregnancy. Salt causes extra accumulation and in some women the combination of the two sources can cause inordinate bloating. It's a good tip (salt restriction) and other women should try it. Besides, we all eat too much salt anyway and quitting for a week a month cannot do any harm.

Glad you were able to practice this bit of home medicine profitably.

Are you having a gall bladder problem? To find out how the gall bladder works and what kinds of trouble to look for, read Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "You and Your Gall Bladder." Write to him in care of The Big Spring Herald, for a copy, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

"But of course I took care of your gas-gush'er tax, in good man! I (hic) gush'led it!"

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why would a preacher talk about the Bible in Greek? I thought the Bible was originally written by Hebrews. — Mrs. S.P.

DEAR MRS. P.: Yes, almost all of the Bible was written by Jewish people; in fact, to our knowledge only the gospel of Luke and the book of Acts were written by a gentile, Luke. The Old Testament originally was written in Hebrew, but by Jesus' time most people in the civilized world understood Greek.

The important thing is that we can have God's Word available to us today. There are many fine translations that have been made, and they accurately give us the meaning of the original languages. It is a wonderful thing to know that the Bible remains God's Word, even when it is translated into another language. "All Scripture is God-breathed and is useful for teaching, rebuking, correcting and training in righteousness, so that the man of God may be thoroughly equipped for every good work" (II Timothy 3:16-17, New International Version).

Be thankful for men who can study the Bible in its original languages and bring out shades of meaning that are sometimes difficult to translate. At the same time, learn to read and study the Bible for yourself. God has given it to you to help you grow in your knowledge and your love of Christ. As the Psalmist said, "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path...thy law do I love" (Psalm 119:105,113).

Billing snare

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Credit card holders should watch out for the calculated complexities in their monthly billing. An obtuse phrase, a carefully placed comma or a pair of parentheses could hide a legalistic snare that could cost more money.

A secret congressional staff report claims the obfuscation by credit card operators is sometimes deliberate. One banker boasted in a taped conversation how language in his firm's disclosure statement had been so distorted that customers failed to recognize new charges had been added.

The staff memo, prepared for Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., alleges: "Bankers have not only begun using methods which (are) difficult to understand. They have taken pride in designing disclosure statements that will confuse."

THE TAPED BANK OFFICIAL, for example smugly remarked that "our attorneys did a good job structuring the notice. We had other attorneys call in and say, 'What the hell (are) you talking about?'"

Even a university professor, specializing in techniques of language manipulation, was unable to fathom how his own bank computed charges on credit card billings until a congressional expert explained the legalese.

One sentence, under the heading "Important Information," went on for 178 words, contained four parentheses, six commas and six "qualification words." The bewildered professor also complained about "washed-out gray lettering" used on the notification. The fine print, he told investigators, "was visually repelling and designed to discourage anyone from reading it."

The House Consumer Affairs Subcommittee has received complaints from customers that the monthly printouts of their credit card charges not only are confusing but contain unexplained extra charges. Many customers "end up paying amounts they may not owe," a congressional investigator told our associate Larry Kraftowitz, because they feel the hassle isn't worth it.

Citibank tried to add a monthly service fee of 50 cents on customers even though they had paid their balances in full. In this case the charge was rescinded because of complaints. But the House memo comments: "Perhaps bankers are just trying to see how much they can squeeze the lemon before it refuses to give."

Footnote: A spokesman for the American Bankers Association blamed federal regulations for the legalistic language used in informing customers of new charges. The best sensible advice, of course, is to keep your on-the-spot receipts and read the fine print.

HEALTH COSTS: President Carter has sought to reduce medical costs for the average American by promoting health maintenance organizations, known in medical circles simply as HMOs. His dream of cheaper health care may be jeopardized, however, by fraud profiteering and malpractice.

HMOs provide various kinds of preventative medical care for a prepaid fee. They frequently offer a better care at lower cost because their doctors are aware that a healthy patient requires less expensive care and less of their attention. All too many private doctors have the attitude that the sicker the patient, the more they can charge.

The Carter administration, therefore, wants to increase the federal subsidies for HMOs from $18 million to $30 million a year. But a forthcoming report by the Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee will disclose a rash of abuses that occurred in some HMO clinics.

SEN. SAM Nunn, D-Ga., fears that the same frauds and abuses could crop up on a national scale unless strict federal safeguards are imposed. But Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., is averse to overly stringent government restrictions that could stifle the growth of the HMO programs.

The Senate investigators concentrated on the HMO program in California.

Here are the highlights: —Some clinics used fraudulent door-to-door techniques to peddle their services. High-pressure salesmen signed up residents by telling them they were buying tickets for chicken dinners, Bible readings or the Los Angeles Rams football games. Once they had unwittingly signed up, these residents found it impossible to resign from the clinics.

—Some HMOs in California offered substandard health care. Investigators found that a doctor at the clinic had operated on two patients at the same time. At another, an administrator without medical training was found prescribing drugs for a patient. Many patients were given excessive doses or the wrong drug entirely.

earned if all the funds, including student class funds, annual funds, lunchroom funds (if any), federal funds, as well as maintenance funds were shuffled in and out every week for 52 weeks.

The tax office did waive some penalty and interest in a few cases where there was some problem with the property (example: not on tax roll) but the majority of this has now been collected.

County is facing financial pressure

Howard County is facing the same financial pressure other governmental bodies face, according to the 1977 financial audit.

Virginia Black, county auditor, said of the audit, "It shows that expenditures have continued to gain on revenues. This past year they ran very close to even."

"We are probably fine for one more year, but after that it will start squeezing. In the next few years our alternatives will be cutting down services, a deficit budget, or finding additional revenue."

Total revenue for the county reached $1,657,986.10 in 1977 while expenditures were $1,685,444.44.

According to the audit, any direct comparison between 1976 and 1977 is unfair as the fiscal year 1976 was only nine months long, enabling the county to close out its financial affairs and begin a new year in September, 1976.

But, the report continues, in percentages, the assessed actual valuation of county property totalling $131,130,367 is a 15.23 per cent increase over the preceding year. Both the General Fund and the Road and Bridge Fund increased slightly, while the Debt Service by the county was cut from seven per cent of 1976's budget to three per cent of 1977's.

Mrs. Black also made a recommendation concerning one problem area in the county system: the Inter-governmental Service Fund. The audit says, "A loss has been sustained in this department for four years...If in the future the county no longer receives these additional funds (from the Revenue Sharing Funds to cover the loss) the current rental rates will need to be increased to provide adequate cash for replacements."

The Fund is the system under which the county operates its 80 vehicles, allocating money to each department which uses a vehicle, then charging it according to mileage and depreciation to pay for new vehicles.

A chart in the final pages of the audit reveals the skyrocketing expenditures. In 1967, the judicial section of the county budget cost $82,698.94. Last year it cost $174,850.90. Law enforcement cost $68,774.55 in 1967; in 1977 the bill ran $155,664.91. Highway and Street departments ran $383,098.74 in 1967; in 1977 they cost $540,028.37.

Revenues, too, have risen, but not as steeply. In 1967, fines and forfeitures brought in $29,833.37; in 1977 they brought in $119,766.25. In 1967 taxes brought in $635,149.36; last year they produced $980,704.96.

Nevertheless, the ratio of assessed tax to estimated taxable value has decreased since 1967 from 10 and one half per cent to nine and one half per cent.

Another gem of information in the audit is the 12 largest taxpayers in the county: Cosden Oil and Chemical, Sun Oil, Continental Oil, Exxon, Amoco Production, Getty Oil, Mobil Oil Company, Texas Electric Service Company, Texaco, Inc., and Southwestern Bell.

INVITATION FOR DEMOLITION BIDS

The Office of Housing and Community Development, 207 West Fourth, Big Spring, Texas, will receive Bids for the Demolition of substandard buildings on February 17, 1978 until 2 p.m. at which time all bids will be publicly opened and read. The successful bidder will be required to post a One Hundred Dollar (100.00) cash bond with the Office of Housing and Community Development to insure the successful completion within sixty days (60) from award of bid. Property damage and public liability insurance will be required on Commercial Structures.

The Office of Housing and Community Development reserves the right to accept or reject any and all bids.

GRIT AND BARE IT — A highway worker shovels cinders onto New York's Triborough Bridge Tuesday while an alluring poster in the background offers an alternative to Tuesday's storm. But since the airports were closed the option wasn't really available.

Spy plane triggers mysterious blasts?

PORT LAVACA, Texas (AP) — Two powerful booms that rocked four Texas coastal counties last week may have been caused by a supersonic SR-71 spy plane slipping — not so silently — through the upper atmosphere, say Air Force officials.

The mysterious blasts, which authorities said shook buildings and rattled windows, occurred about noon last Friday.

Almost simultaneously, residents in Matagorda, Victoria, Goliad and Calhoun counties called police, news services and neighbors to find out what happened. One startled fisherman called it a "hellacious big noise."

An Air Force spokesman at Bergstrom Air Force Base in Austin said Tuesday night the Strategic Air Command reconnaissance plane, which travels three times the speed of sound at more than 85,000 feet, was on a training mission in the area at the time of the booms.

A spokesman at a nearby U.S. Coast Guard station said no aircraft appeared on the station's radar screens when the booms were heard. But the SR-71 is armed with electronic "spoofing" gadgetry capable of wiping its image off radar screens.

The craft, a successor to the U-2 spy plane, was apparently not based at a Texas naval station or Air Force base. The nearest SR-71s are based in California, the spokesman said. Port Lavaca Mayor K.A. Wallis said Monday it had been five or six years since the area was last rocked by a sonic boom.

"It is not a normal occurrence," Lt. Cmdr. John School at Chase Field in nearby Beeville conceded last weekend. Residents of the coastal area had remained mystified about what caused the booms and not everyone was convinced Tuesday it was a sonic boom.

Bob James, chief meteorologist for the National Weather Service in Victoria, said he believed the sounds were sonic booms but couldn't explain how the noise managed to trigger alarm over a four-county area at what appeared to be the precise same moment.

"I don't know what it was," he said. "My first thought was it might have been some type of explosion but it would have reverberated longer."

James discounted any weather phenomena that could have caused the noise.

"There's no way. There is nothing in the weather that could have caused that," he said.

Similar unexplained booms have been heard for 100 years along the East Coast from Nova Scotia to South Carolina. Military officials have denied any connection with those booms, however, and are conducting a study on them.

Three-member audit unit set up by TCDA

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The executive director of the Texas Department of Community Affairs — a source of funds for the troubled Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs — has set up a three-member audit committee within the department.

Ben McDonald said Tuesday the TCDA has more than 1,000 contracts in force, and "there cannot help but be problems and audit expectations, and these need to be resolved and determined as quickly as possible. The audit review system will do this."

GOMA's executive director and another top agency official were indicted in connection with an investigation in the Lower Rio Grande Valley concerning the alleged use of federal Manpower funds.

Other complaints included an arrangement under which 42 of GOMA's 50 employees received their pay from Counterpoint Systems, Inc., a private consulting firm.

McDonald said the audit review committee includes chief fiscal officer A.M. Mahrous and Lynda Cohalla and Victor Alonzo, also in the department's fiscal office.

McDonald said he had written letters to subcontractors announcing that their contracts would be canceled unless they were brought into compliance with department regulations.

Many are upset over changes in the church

Episcopal Church undergoes test of unity

By EILEEN McGUIRE
Disagreement over the ordination of women and homosexuals as priests, a relaxed stand on the remarriage of divorced parishioners and modernization of the Book of Common Prayer is putting the Church of England, known in this country as the Episcopal Church, to what is probably its greatest test of unity since its break with the Western Church in 1533.

The conflicts came to a head last month when four Episcopalian priests left the church to form the new Anglican Church of North America, celebrating their first high pontifical mass Jan. 29.

A Jan. 30 article in the San Angelo Standard Times told how the priests, the Right Revs. James O. Mote, pastor of St. Mary's in Denver, Colo., Robert Sherwood of Oakland, Calif., Peter Francis Watterson of West Palm Beach, Fla. and Mark Doren, a Philadelphia missionary, had been consecrated as bishops of the newly formed church.

According to the Associated Press article, the "new Anglicans", as they call themselves, are a "10,000-member, 100-parish church" and are proclaiming themselves a member of the Anglican Church despite the Archbishop of Canterbury's refusal to recognize them.

Not entirely true, according to the Rev. Harland Birdwell, rector of the local St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

"A lot of misinformation has been given," he said. "Tens of thousands of Episcopalians, myself included, are upset and unhappy over the changes in the church, but at last count, less than 25 parishes, not 100 as the article claimed, have actually left the church. The figures given in that article were inflated."

"Not one Texas congregation has left the church, yet the news media reports that three have. One Dallas priest has three separate groups of dissidents meeting, but they are each only a small handful of people from many different parishes. The same is true all across the country."

It is Birdwell's opinion that the new Anglican Church of North America will not be recognized by the Archbishop of Canterbury and despite claims to the contrary of retired Bishop Albert Chambers, one of two bishops who consecrated the "new Anglican" bishops, the Episcopal Church can indeed refuse recognition of the new church.

"By virtue of his office, the Archbishop of Canterbury does have the power to refuse recognition," he said.

He explained that the Archbishop of Canterbury is appointed by Queen Elizabeth, head of the monarchy of the Church of England, along with the aid of the bishops of the Church of England, making the Archbishop of Canterbury the titular head of all Anglican Churches.

Just as the church is known as the Episcopal Church here, it is known by other names in different parts of the world, but all still come under the spiritual jurisdiction of the mother church, the Church of England.

"One reason that the new church will not be recognized," Birdwell said, "is because the consecration of their 'bishops' was an irregular consecration. One of the canons of the church requires that three bishops be present at the consecration and that it be done with the consent of the church as a body."

"Only two bishops were present at this recent consecration because they couldn't find another bishop who would go along with it. And then it was done without the consent of the church, a canon that has been held for 18 centuries in order to protect the church."

"Canonically speaking, those four men are still priests, not bishops."

According to Birdwell, the ordination of women and modernization of the Book of Common Prayer are the two major issues causing the turmoil within the Episcopal Church.

The St. Mary's Church in Denver was the first to secede from the Episcopal Church after the ordination of women was approved of by the national convention, which meets every three years, in 1976. Birdwell was one of the priests who voted

(Drawing by Barry Callen)

WOMEN PRIESTS — are one of the two major issues threatening the unity of the Episcopal Church. Many Anglicans who disapprove of the church's favoring of the ordination of women, contend that a woman cannot serve as the image of Christ because Christ was male.

in favor of the measure at the 1973 convention when it failed to pass.

"I went to that convention intending to vote against it," he said. "It was a traumatic choice for me. Most of my parish was against the measure. Through prayer and a search of my conscience, I finally reached the decision to vote in favor of it."

"Christ came to break down the walls that divided people; to do away with labels. I remembered what St. Paul said, 'In Christ we are neither Jew nor Greek, slave or free, male or female.'"

Though he admitted that emotionally and traditionally, he's still not sure he's ready for women priests, Birdwell said he would certainly receive communion from one.

On the other hand, he can understand the argument against women priests.

"The dissenters point out that Christ didn't choose any woman to be his Apostle. But then he didn't choose any gentiles either."

"Another point the opposition makes is that we've always done it this way and if God had meant for women to be priests, it wouldn't have taken 1900 years for it to happen."

"In addition, many Anglicans believe that the priest stands at the altar as the image of Christ. Christ was male, so how can a woman be his image?"

The second major issue of disagreement, involving changes in the Book of Common Prayer, is equally perplexing.

"A lot of good improvements have been added to the prayer book," Birdwell said. "For example, it now contains provisions for hearing private confessions, whereas before we had to go to another source for that information. The book is more comprehensive now poetry and drama that characterize them.

"My main objection to the modern version of the prayer book, however, is the emphasis that is put on celebration and festivity. The modern book plays down the penitential aspect of our religion that characterized the traditional Book of Common Prayer."

"It's good to approach religion with an attitude of celebration, but when I see what man has done to man in the 20th century, I feel that stressing the penitential part is equally important. My main argument with the new book of prayer is a theological one."

The fate of the prayer book will be decided at the 1979 general convention in Denver. According to Birdwell, it takes two conventions to approve a change in the prayer book.

"The odds are in favor of the prayer book passing as it is since it has already passed one convention. People are tired of using different services. They're tired of experimenting."

"If it is passed, I think it will be a big mistake, though it is a good beginning toward a more comprehensive prayer book."

"What I'd like to see is a choice. Let them offer one wholly traditional prayer book and one wholly modern, both containing the exact same services, but leaving the choice of language, traditional or modern, up to each individual church."

The Jan. 30 Associated Press article also listed the ordination of homosexuals and relaxed standards on abortion and divorce as further factors of unrest within the Episcopal Church. According to Birdwell, these problems, too, have been blown out of proportion.

"Nothing has changed in our stand on abortion," he said. "The official stand is as it has been since 1958, I believe it was. The church disapproves of abortion except in the cases of the life of the mother being at stake or pregnancy being the result of rape or incest."

"Several years ago, the question of abortion was brought up at a national convention and a change in the official stand was disapproved."

As for a relaxed stand on divorce, it is not divorce itself that is the issue, but rather the time span between divorce and remarriage.

"Up until 1973, our stand was that a period of 12 months must elapse from the time a divorce became final, before that person could remarry in the church and then it had to be done with the permission of the bishop. In 1973, the time period was changed to 30 days."

"I voted against the change because I think it is a bad change from the pastoral point of view. Most people need that year to get their heads on straight after going through the trauma of divorce."

"It was a bad change and I think the church may change it back. In fact, I may offer a resolution at the 1979 convention to change it back to the original 12 months, but with some flexibility."

Another vexing problem, the ordination of homosexuals as priests, came to the forefront when

"I'm not as upset with the fact that she is a lesbian as I am with the lack of order in her ordination and with the sensationalism involved."

"The ordaining bishop was in violation of the canons which he chose to misinterpret and in my opinion, he should have been censured by his fellow bishops because in this age where discipline is a dirty word, church leaders must uphold some semblance of order."

The turmoil that presently engulfs the Episcopal Church has had only a minor effect on the local parish which lost two parishioners over the conflicts. Birdwell is striving to keep conflicts within his parish to a minimum. "St. Mary's will remain within the discipline of the church," he said. "And I will continue to rely on the Anglican belief that the church does and can err, but that in God's good time the Holy Spirit will correct the mistakes that are made."

"I intend to go on doing as I have done, doing the ministry of Christ as I understand it, both in Big Spring and in the diocese."

"I will not let myself be too upset about what is happening in New York or Denver or anywhere else. There are just too many other things I can be doing that are really important."

Shoe Salesman Blows His Top

DEAR ABBY: OLD SHOE DOG's letter certainly steamed me. I sold fine shoes to both men and women for over 50 years, and I always removed the customer's shoes. (Shoe dog says, "Doctors don't undress their patients, so why should we remove shoes?" What an idiotic comparison. There is nothing degrading about undressing a foot.)

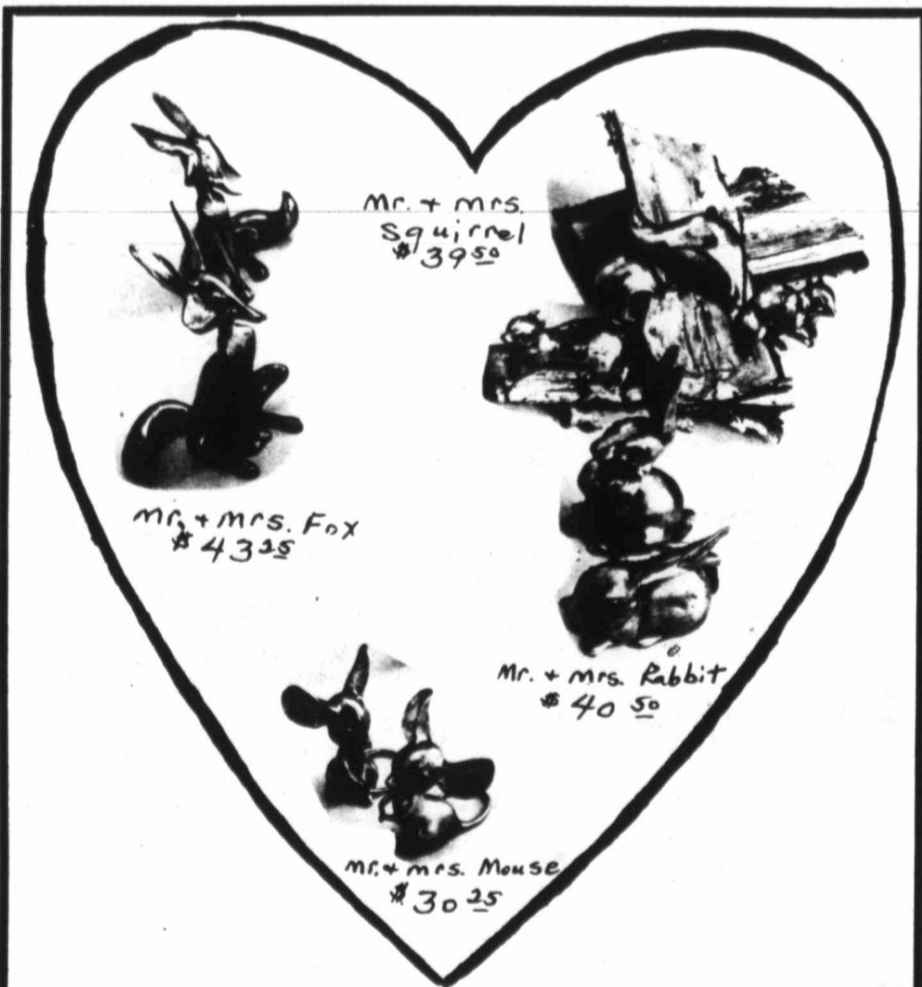

Shoe dog complains, "Most people don't even know what size shoe they wear!" Why should they? A competent shoe salesman routinely measures the customer's foot, then gives him (or her) the size that fits. Besides, shoe sizes change according to one's weight. (If you've gained or lost 20 pounds you can't wear the same size dress or suit you wore before your weight changed. The same is true of your shoes.)

I don't know where OLD SHOE DOG sold shoes, but he never could have made it in MY store.

CITY ON ICE—This is the way New York's Brooklyn Bridge looked Tuesday after a blizzard dumped more than a foot of snow on the city. Road, rail and air transportation throughout the Northeast was snarled by the storm.

Three former policemen guilty

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal court jury found three former Houston policemen guilty today on two counts of violating the civil rights of a Mexican-American who drowned while in their custody.

One of the counts is punishable by life in prison, the other by one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Ferry W. Denson, 27; Stephen Orlando, 22, and Joseph Janish, 22, were convicted of violating the civil rights of Jose Campos Torres, 23, a laborer, former serviceman and self-proclaimed expert in karate.

Denson and Orlando found innocent on two other felony counts and Janish found innocent on one of those counts. He was not charged with the other count.

The first count of which the trio was convicted charged the three officers were guilty of a conspiracy that resulted in the death of Torres and a misdemeanor civil rights violation.

The officers showed no emotion as the verdict was read, but as they left the courtroom with their lawyers, Denson was sobbing.

Mrs. Joe Torres, mother of the dead man, said, "This verdict is better than just letting them go. It won't bring my son back, but maybe it will mean that some other son won't be hurt."

Brian McDonald, chief prosecuting attorney, said it will be up to the judge to decide the punishment for the officers and "we will make no decision."

McDonald added, "We are pleased with the verdict."

The jury had deliberated about 7½ hours over a two-day period before returning the verdict.

About an hour before the verdict was returned, the jury asked U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling for a legal definition of "conspiracy resulting in death."

Sterling told the jury that such a conspiracy "actually is a partnership for a criminal act. The evidence must show that all involved have come to a mutual understanding to commit such an act."

The judge added, "There is no need, however, to prove the defendants didn't intend for Jose Campos Torres to die to prove conspiracy."

Weather baby okay thanks to two guys

DALLAS (AP) — Some day when baby Dedre Shawn Denham is old enough, she'll realize it's not WHERE you were born that counts.

In Dedre's case, that would be just short of the McCormick Street exit on the Dallas-Fort Worth Turnpike sometime shortly after 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Thanks to a couple of guys named Mike Chambers and Frank Valerio, Deborah Sue Denham and daughter Dedre — all six pounds of her — are resting comfortably at Parkland Hospital.

In a job where routine is synonymous with emergency, it came as no surprise to the Dallas paramedics when a call came for help during the height of the rush hour as Dallas motorists were cussing their way over icy streets. It was the second winter storm of the season and it had hit unexpectedly, snarling traffic and creating general havoc on streets and highways.

"Her pains were about a minute apart," said Chambers, a paramedic pro of five years. "I didn't think we'd make it to the hospital but we started out anyway."

Chambers should have been a prophet. After long minutes fighting icy roads and irate motorists, it became obvious the hospital would be getting two patients instead of one.

"We just pulled over to the side of the road and delivered it," he said matter-of-factly. "This is my sixth (delivery). It's Frank's second."

Valerio, a six-month rookie, tried to imitate Chambers' cool but his excitement refused to stay hidden.

"I'm still kinda new at this, kinda eager," he laughed. "I really didn't know all of what was going on the first time. But this time was better."

Forsan girls win district, boys in playoffs

By DANNY REAGAN
Sports Editor
FORSAN — For the Buff partisans that packed Buffalo Gym Tuesday night, the final buzzers couldn't have signified happier endings.

When the first game-ending horn sounded, the Forsan JV girls had themselves a 54-39 win. That was just hors d'oeuvres for the home crowd.

After that, they saw the hoop-happy varsity girls sail away a perfect district season and league championship with a 66-35 triumph over the Garden City Bearkittens.

For dessert, the Forsan Buffs overcame a sluggish first quarter to completely digest the boys' quintet from Garden City, 84-52. That win by the boys capped an undefeated second half slate and set up a district playoff game against Greenwood in Garden City Friday night.

Forsan, 10-0 in district, went into the girls' game expecting a fight for their lives. Garden City was 8-1 in district, with the one loss to the Forsan Queens in first half play. The winner of Tuesday night's game would automatically capture the second half title.

But chances of an eventual district playoff contest faded early with Gee City's propensity to turnover the ball, and Forsan's Valerie Stevens tendency to put the little round ball through the slightly larger round hoop.

Stevens earned 18 points by halftime and was the second-leading scorer of the night with 22. Jaylene Saunders, whose rubbery moves to the basket paced the second half effort, was tops with 23 points. Julie Poynor also had 18 for The Queens. Donna Plagens led Garden City with 16, while Patsy Blissard was the only other Bearkitten in doubles. She had 10.

Stevens and Lucy Thixton combined on defensive plays to thwart Gee City early, as the visitors were held to only two field goals in the second frame.

With Poynor, Monica Dyess and Saunders hitting at will in the final period, the Bearkittens were outscored 19-3 in the final period. The Forsan win sets up bi-district meeting, the date to be announced later, between the winner of the north district... either Sands or Klondike.

The boys game resembled golf in the early going. It seemed as if everyone wanted the lowest score, and holes-in-one were infrequent. As a matter of fact, the score stayed at goose egg-all until 4:31 left in the first period, when Bearkat Wayne Hirt hit a jumper.

With Hirt racing up and down the court unmolested and big Jorge Patino dominating the basket nether world, Gee City had surprisingly built up a 10-2 lead, with 2:41 remaining in the first eight minutes.

The Buff quintet started to click, however, and with Tim Posey's four points and steel, plus a perfect pass by Ooo-woe! The comments about Odessa floating around Hawk Gym Monday night! "The more I live and breathe, the more I hate Odessa's guts!" said one adamant fan, who would definitely prefer to remain anonymous.

And ever-present Hawk supporter Ann Weaver would've steamed my glasses if I would've worn any.

The referees weren't getting heaps of roses thrown their way either. You know, and I say you know because there are many Hawk fans out there who know exactly what I'm talking about... when a certain official or pair of officials is going to call a game, you just know, deep down in the pit of your stomach, that you're not going to enjoy the night.

In my opinion, a good official is one that is never noticed. That doesn't mean he doesn't call any fouls, it's just that the fouls he calls, you see yourself (and I feel certain my eyes are as good as any striped-shirt) and mentally, the ref doesn't enter into the play.

Del Pass, Royce Cox, Oakie Hagood, Shorty Lawson and a few others were, and are, such officials. And only with a few minor excepting incidents, they were consistent.

Some officials, however, prefer the limelight... they must revel in the boos and jeers that are shot their way when they call their many "border-line" or "invisible" fouls.

Most of them are pretty good Joe's I guess, but one point never ceases to amaze me. The seeming notion held by many basketball referees that the biggest guy on the court cannot be fouled... he can only commit fouls.

Poor Joe Cooper. He gets more whistles blown his way than (fill in your favorite sex symbol here.) Sure he fouls, but he gets banged around underneath the basket as much as anyone.

Just as a footnote. During Monday night's game between the Big Spring Steer girls and the Abilene Cooper feds in Steer Gym, Coach Carole Bartasek observed a "judgment" call by one of the refs that made her slap her forehead with her palms.

Nora Billalba had just fouled out for Big Spring. Penny Ray and Debbie McNew had already gone to the bench with five fouls.

That completely depleted the Big Spring bench, and the only player left was Peggy Calhoun, who, because of a sprained ankle, had not played the entire game on orders from trainer Chris Hayes.

With only seconds left, however, Calhoun was sent out on the court to just stand in one position in order to have the allotted six members on the court.

As Peggy was standing there watching the action, one of the Abilene Cooper girls grabbed a defensive rebound and came racing down the floor. She ran right over Calhoun, who was, as I have said, just standing there.

One guess as to whom was called for the foul. That's right... Calhoun. Oh well, they always even out, right? Hmm.

AND THAT'S THAT!

If you didn't catch the AP story about the UIL mixing girl-boy athletics in Texas which appeared in Sunday's Herald, here's the main point Dr. Bailey Marshall, league director, made in his statement.

"The main reason the activities are separated by sex is to protect the girls' athletic program. It is not difficult to see which group would suffer most if boys were allowed to play on girls' teams and girls allowed to play on boys' teams."

"Right on!" chokes UIL antagonist Danny Reagan. Marshall makes sense. Quite a bit of it.

If girls were allowed on boys' teams, then logic suggests, no dictates, that boys should be allowed on girls' teams. Before long, the boys, who, more often than not, have bigger muscles and grow larger, (even though this in no way means they are better, mind you), would soon take over the girls' programs.

Then, the girls would be right back where they were years ago, when they didn't have anything at all, except maybe a volleyball or basketball game once in every blue moon.

The UIL news release concludes: "Currently, there are eight athletic activities sponsored by the League for boys that culminate in a state championship. For girls, there are seven. At present, an eighth activity — girls' softball — does not play past the district level. If and when interest develops, the program will be played to a state championship also."

If the Ohio judge's ruling doesn't get overruled on appeal (and no one thinks it will), then I'm afraid the "sisters" in Ohio are going to suffer a loss in the battle for equality, even though they think they may be winning a decisive victory.

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1978

SECTION B

POYNOR'S POINTS — Forsan Queen Julie Poynor (30) puts up a shot over Garden City's Trudy Hoelscher (15) during Tuesday night's district-clinching win by the Forsan crew. Teammate Lisa Day (12) goes in for a possible rebound, while Bearkitten Rose Hoelscher (21) watches the action. Forsan won 66-35.

Longhorns to brand blue preppies

DALLAS (AP) — Burnt orange was expected to be branded on the top Texas schoolboy football talent today as the Texas Longhorns ride the momentum of their Southwest Conference championship year.

By late Tuesday, the Longhorns had received verbal commitments from such highly sought stars as Donnie Little of Dickinson, a slippery quarterback, runningback Brad Beck of Perryton, and center Mike Babb of Euleus Trinity.

Quarterback Charles Brooks of Andrews was on Texas' list along with lineman Joe Shearin of Dallas Wilson.

Also in the Dallas area, Highland Park tackle Robert Mullins, end Wayne Johnson of Richardson, and tackles Mike Robbins and Dan Lovett of Richardson Pearce gave the green light to Texas.

Lawrence Sampleton, a 6-foot-5, 210-pound tight end from Seguin, was leaning toward Texas.

Highland Park defensive tackle Richard Neely, an all-stater, told Southern Methodist Coach Ron Meyer he wanted to be a Mustang.

Milton Collins, a 230-pound bluechip running back from Blooming Grove, visited College Station over the weekend where the Texas Aggies would love to have him as a potential Wishbone fullback. Collins was impressed by the visit.

Ice and snow in the northern half of Texas should hamper the nine SWC coaches as they criss-cross the state.

The SWC signing date is a week ahead of the national letter and the coaches have to do it all over again Wednesday Feb. 15.

Oklahoma was expected to sign South Garland linebacker Jerry Sanders but the Sooners apparently were not making the kind of impact they have in recent years.

Okies chipping too

By the Associated Press

The University of Oklahoma appears certain to land what one Houston paper calls "the best linebacking prospect in the state" today when Jerry Sanders of South Garland, Texas, inks a Big Eight letter of intent with the Sooners.

Sanders reportedly has told Texas Tech head Coach Rex Dockery and Texas assistant Mike Parker that he will come to Oklahoma to play his college football.

Players can sign Big Eight Conference letters of intent today. The signing date for the national letters of intent is Feb. 15.

Although Sanders has a scheduled visit left at UCLA, his coach, Jim Dodson, said Tuesday: "He's signing tomorrow with OU and he's going to OU."

Sanders made the Texas Football Magazine's "Super Team" and was a Parade Magazine prep All-American.

"We didn't have hardly any defensive linemen the last two years," Dodson said. "So, Jerry had a pretty tough time. He shouldered most of the load."

South Garland had 6-4 records each of Sanders' three years, when he also started on the basketball and baseball teams.

"He could play about anywhere," Dodson said. "His coach says Sanders has only average speed (4.8 in the 40)."

"But he can do that four-eight sideways, backwards, anyway you want to run it," Dodson added. "He's got the greatest lateral movement of any kid I've seen."

Also, in Texas, the Sooners have won a commitment from Greenville lineman Elbert Graham, plus commitments from running back Herman Williams and quarterback Rod Pegues of Gainesville and kicker John Hoge of Dallas.

From Oklahoma, lineman Larry Cooper of Fort Gibson, back Bobby Grayson of Beggs, tackle Kelly Mitchell of Sallisaw, tight end Steve Holmes of Yukon and tackle Kevin Ormand of Ponca City were expected to join Oklahoma.

Possible Oklahoma State signees include Putnam City's Rob Shaff, a lineman, and Les Miller, a tight end; also Davis tackle Ed Branch.

Steers fall to coogs

ABILENE — Abilene Cooper, picking up momentum with every game, mauled Big Spring in a District 5-AAAA basketball encounter here Tuesday night, 57-41.

The defeat was the fourth in five second half starts for Big Spring. Overall, the Longhorns are 7-24. Cooper is unbeaten in five second half assignments and has a gaudy 27-4 record on the year.

The Cougars led from wire to wire, building up a ten-point advantage through the first eight minutes and racing to a 24-15 bulge at the intermission.

The Steers will try to regroup Friday night on the road against Odessa High, a team equally down on its luck. Odessa has yet to win in second half play.

Terry Orr led the Cooper surge with 20 points, his best effort of the season. Woody Martin played a fine game inside for the Cougars and wound up with 16 points.

The Steers resorted to a deliberate style of play, which means they took their time working the ball down court. Mark Poss was the only one to hit in double figures for the Bold Gold. He had 13 points, seven of which came from the line.

Cooper also won the JV contest, 63-40, limiting the Steers to a mere two points in Round One. It was never really a contest, although the Steers fired up for 22 points in the final eight minutes against Cooper reserves.

A game: COOPER (57) — Miers 22.4; Bradford 20.4; Houston 2.37; Martin 4.4; Orr 8.4; Anderson 0.2; Sadler 1.0. Totals 21-15-57.

BIG SPRING (41) — Wright 3.2; Wilder 2.1; Coffey 1.0; M. Post 3.7; Rubio 1.2; Burgeron 2.0; Perry 1.3; Grant 1.0. Totals 14-13-41.

Frazier to fight again?

NEW YORK (AP) — Former world heavyweight champion Joe Frazier has been offered $250,000 to come out of retirement and fight Scott LeDoux sometime in April, a Madison Square Garden official said Tuesday night.

The bout, if it comes off, reportedly will be held in the Minneapolis Auditorium although it would be promoted by Madison Square Garden.

The New York Daily News said the fight would be nationally televised by NBC, probably during prime time.

However, Frazier has demanded $300,000 and a clause in the contract guaranteeing him another fight after the proposed LeDoux bout, said John Condon, a Garden official.

A Frazier comeback has been rumored many times and sources said Frazier earlier turned down a proposed fight with Earnie Shavers. Frazier reportedly was offered $750,000 for the Shavers bout but wanted $1 million.

Frazier retired from the ring on June 15, 1976, after he was stopped in five rounds by George Foreman.

CLOWNS FOR TEXAS COACH LEMONS — Rice university students dressed as clowns go into their act as University of Texas basketballers warm up Tuesday night at Houston. The 'Clown Night' at Rice came from a remark Longhorns coach A.E. 'Abe' Lemons made after the Jan. 17 game with Rice at Houston. Owls coach Mike Schuler had made 99 substitutions in the game. Lemons had remarked that all that was needed were clowns to make it a circus. So when Lemons and the Longhorns came calling, Rice students provided the clowns.

Horns fright wigs in 'clown night' bout

HOUSTON (AP) — It was "Clown Night" when the Rice Owls entertained the 12th-ranked Texas Longhorns in a Southwest Conference basketball game Tuesday night and there was a circus atmosphere at times in the stands and on the court.

Rice Coach Mike Schuler picked up a pair of technicals for fussing with the referees and Texas pulled off a 10-point play.

The fans came into Audry Court wearing floppy shoes, noses that looked like ripe tomatoes, fright wigs and plastic hats.

But it didn't really change the predicted outcome of the game. The conference-leading Longhorns, fueled by Jim Krivacs' 36 points and four other Texas players in double figures, took the Owls, 102-86.

The victory boosted Texas' season mark to 11-1 and its season record to 19-3. Rice fell to 2-9 in conference play and 4-17 for the year.

The idea for "Clown Night" began when Texas Coach Abe Lemons suggested after the first Rice-UT game when Schuler ran in 99 substitutions that all Rice needed was clowns to make it a circus.

Lemons remained unperturbed, even when one clown juggled three lemons behind the Texas coach.

John Hadl will retire

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers Coach O. A. "Bum" Phillips has confirmed that reserve quarterback John Hadl, one of the National Football League all-time leading passers, is retiring after 16 seasons.

Phillips Tuesday said Hadl, 37, will accept a job as an assistant coach at the University of Kansas, his alma mater.

Hadl was not available for comment.

Hadl called the Oilers coach several days ago to tell him of his decision, which, Phillips said, had nothing to do with the new contract the club offered him.

"It's a good thing for John," Phillips said. "He'll make a heckuva coach. I knew he was thinking about it during the season because he talked to me about it several times. I'm a great believer in coaching so I advised him to give it a try."

Hadl played in only four games last season, completing just 11 of 24 passes for 76 yards and suffering three interceptions.

Meanwhile starting Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini was expected to sign his contract today.

Tommy Vance, Pastorini's agent, was delayed returning from a hunting trip in Mexico and did not get the contract in time Tuesday to give it a final look.

"I was in the war with the Japs and Germans," he said. "After all, a few clowns aren't going to bother me."

The Owls bothered him a bit, though, after trailing by 17 at half, 50-33.

Rice outscored the Longhorns 23-6 the first nine minutes of the second half and tied the game at 56-56 on a jumper by Alan Reynolds with 11:15 to play.

"I saw us going down the drain," Lemons said. "Somebody pulled the cork. We stood around like we were in line for a movie."

The Longhorns quickly went ahead on a pair of free throws by John Moore and Rice never caught up again.

Shortly afterwards Texas made 10 points without Rice having the ball.

Longhorn Tyrone Branyan drove for a layup and was bumped to the ground by Alan Miller. Referee Joe Shoshid said the foul was deliberate and worth two free throws. Schuler approached Shoshid for a ruling. Shoshid called successive technicals on Schuler, each a bench technical worth two more free throws. The Longhorns throw the ball in and scored again to complete the 10-point effort.

Schuler said he only wanted a ruling from Shoshid. The Rice coach said he did not curse.

"I'm still waiting for one," he said afterwards.

"I said 'Why?' and got a technical. If I had cursed the man, he could have thrown me out. I'll go to my grave with those two technicals knowing I was right."

Lemons said later he didn't know what Schuler said to Shoshid, "but it was the wrong thing."

Schuler said he hoped there was something he could say about Shoshid and his partner, John Kloza without getting into trouble.

"I would like to think that in America, you could," he said. "There's a gag rule, though, and you are not to comment on the officials."

Krivacs, who went into the game averaging 18.8 points in the conference, didn't think much of the clown bit.

"Where I'm from (Indianapolis) that stuff doesn't go," he said. "I take this game pretty seriously. I don't like the disrespect the (the clowns) showed toward the game."

'Why do we always beat SMU by 2?'

By the Associated Press

Kent Williams, who delivered the killing blow, asked the question of the hour: "Why is it we always beat SMU by two points?"

Williams drilled a 20-foot jump shot with 21 seconds to play Tuesday night to carry Texas Tech to a 64-62 Southwest Conference basketball victory over the snakebit Mustangs, who lost to the Red Raiders by two points earlier this year.

Also, Tech defeated SMU by one and two points respectively last year.

The victory coupled with Baylor's 70-69 upset of Houston at Waco sent shock waves through the middle of the SWC standings.

Tech cemented its third position with a 9-3 record while fourth place Houston faded to 7-5.

SMU is now 5-6 in the vital fifth position with Baylor closing fast at 4-7. Spots below fifth place in the final regular season SWC standings must go on the road in the first round of the post-season tournament.

"We have a rabbit's foot when it comes to SMU, no doubt about that," said Tech Coach Gerald Myers. "There's no difference between the two teams except we get the breaks."

Myers added "I'm happy we are playing well. I'm not saying our victory was all luck. But SMU did an excellent job of keeping the ball away from Mike Russell."

Russell, the third leading scorer in the SWC averaging 18.9 points per game, only got six points against SMU's tight zone. He never took a shot in the first half.

In the only other game, No. 12 ranked Texas ripped Rice 102-86 in Houston to stay atop the SWC standings by a half game.

SMU Coach Sonny Allen was philosophical about the loss.

"They beat us two points at their place and two points at our place," said Allen. "I guess they're two points better than we are."

Russell said he didn't feel sorry for the Mustangs.

"Close gets you a good handshake and a mark in the L column," he said.

Williams and Geoff Huston each scored 18 points for Tech while Jeff Swason also scored 18 points for the Mustangs.

Rain falls on Hope Classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Defending champion Rik Massengale and the other PGA golfers scheduled to begin the $250,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic today may have a lot of use for their slickers and umbrellas before play wraps up.

Rain has fallen almost without letup at this desert resort area since last Sunday and it — plus gusty winds — is expected to continue through the coming weekend. The Desert Classic, the only 90-hole tournament on the PGA trail, is scheduled to finish Sunday.

Palmer is a five-time winner of the Desert Classic, with other champions on hand including Billy Casper, who won in 1965 and 1969; Hubert Green, winner Sunday of the Hawaiian Open and champion here in 1974; Bob Rosburg, 1972; Tom Nieporte, 1967; and Doug Sanders, 1966.

The final two rounds of the tournament on Saturday and Sunday will be nationally televised by NBC.

Play will be at Eldorado, Indian Wells and La Quinta country clubs in addition to Bermuda Dunes.

Tom Watson, winner of two of the five PGA events already held this year, ranks as one of the favorites in the Desert Classic. He's currently atop the 1978 PGA money list with earnings of $93,956. Green's victory in Hawaii boosted him into second on the earnings ladder with $62,800.

Jay Haas, who captured his first PGA tournament victory at the Andy Williams-San Diego Open, and Bill Kratzert could provide surprises in the Desert Classic. The 25-year-old Kratzert, 10th on the money list last year, played very well in Hawaii before losing to Green on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff.

Stanton fems in playoff

STANTON — The Stanton High School girls did what they had to do Tuesday night to have any chance of carrying their sterling season any farther. They beat Shallwater.

Led by Loretta Young's 30 points, the Big Red girls handed Shallwater its worst defeat of the season, a 62-51 decision that put both teams in a district playoff to determine who gets to go to bi-district.

Bonnie Bludworth also added 22 for Stanton, and Terry Heidelberg scored 10.

A blistering 30-point output by Stanton's Todd Smith led the boys to a 63-53 victory, as Tommy Morrow added 10. Judy Cook's 10 points also led Stanton in the JV girls' 34-28 loss.

Massengale is considered the man to beat in the tournament, but six other Desert Classic winners, including Arnold Palmer, are entered in the event.

The pros are teamed with a trio of amateurs for the first four rounds, playing a different one of the tournament's four courses each day. The 18-hole finale is at Bermuda Dunes, with only the pros vying for the $45,000 winner's purse.

Coahoma teams beaten

MERKEL — The Coahoma Bulldogs fell to a hungry Merkel quintet Tuesday night, 75-68. Mike Ritchey led the 'Dogs effort with 13 points and Tim Greenfield added 11. Corbin, Dever and Douglass each scored 10.

In a surprise, Merkel also beat the potent Coahoma girls, 56-41. Stacy Hodnett and Angela Dykes led the girls with 10 and nine points, respectively. The two fem squads hold identical district records now.

Coahoma boys stand at 1-4 in league play and Merkel is 4-1.

Grady finished its season with a 12-13 record.

The Grady girls fell to Water Valley 40-30 to end their season with a 9-13 record. Faye Welch and Ginger Madison led the Gradyites in scoring with 16 and eight points, respectively.

Grady is the site for Thursday's Jr. High girls' playoff game between Forsan and Greenwood, at 6 p.m.

Grady steams Water

GRADY—Alex Perez' 19 points led the blitz by the Wildcats of Water Valley. In the 98-53 rout, Mark Tate hit 15 for GHS and Joe Lozano and Eli Silva also added 10. Grady finished its season with a 12-13 record.

The Grady girls fell to Water Valley 40-30 to end their season with a 9-13 record. Faye Welch and Ginger Madison led the Gradyites in scoring with 16 and eight points, respectively.

Grady is the site for Thursday's Jr. High girls' playoff game between Forsan and Greenwood, at 6 p.m.

Sands does Well(man)

ACKERLY — All three teams from Sands High School won again Tuesday night... this time against Wellman.

The JV boys advanced their record to 7-3 with a 58-33 rout; the varsity girls advanced to 27-3 and 2-1 with a 71-36 bombing and the boys triumphed 62-54, upping their readings to 29-1 and 4-0.

Martin Nichols led the boys' effort with 24. He was followed by David Long's 15; Van Gaskins' seven and David Hall's seven.

Susan Martin led the girls with 26, Jill Floyd had 25 and Jodie Kemper added 20.

Shane Wigginton and Frank Garfias led the JV boys with 23 and 19 points, respectively, in their 58-33 win. The squads travel to Dawson Friday for their next games.

'FREE' — Freeman Williams, who scored 81 points in a college basketball last week and probably will be the game's leading scorer for the second straight season, says he's not just a shooter. And he's confident he can make it in the pros.

'Free' leads nation easy

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — His basketball talents were honed on the concrete and asphalt that covers downtown Los Angeles. Last Friday in a game against Rocky Mountain College, he scored 81 points — the second-highest output ever in a college game. He also has had single-game deluges of 71 and 66 points during his four-year career. His name is Freeman Williams, but his Portland State teammates just call him "Free."

Williams, a 6-foot-4 senior, probably will become the first college basketball player since Pete Maravich to win the scoring title two years in a row. He is averaging 36 points per game this season. He won the title with a 38 points per game average last season.

But, with the exception of Maravich, the big scorers in college have had trouble making it in the National Basketball Association, where shooting ability is only one of many necessary talents.

The soft-spoken Williams says he knows the pitfalls and is confident he can avoid them.

"Most guys who've led the nation in scoring get drafted and think they will keep doing all the scoring in the pros," Williams said. "I know when I get to the pros I won't have to score so much. I figure I can contribute in lots of other ways."

What happened to Pat McCormick?
with Marj Carpenter

It was the early '50s. Pat McCormick was fighting bulls in Mexico and South America. She was a big name all over the world and one of the prettiest bullfighters around. The crowds loved her. Sports Illustrated paid her way to Spain to fight there, and after she got there, the Spaniards wouldn't let a woman in a public ring in the

50s. But in Mexico and Carracas, Venezuela and other South American cities, the Oles and Vives were loud and long for pretty Pat McCormick of Big Spring. Her parents, the E.B. McCormicks still reside in Big Spring and well remember the days when their daughter surprised them and became a bullfighter. McCormick, who retired from Cosden and works at Cactus Paint, said "I guess it was all my fault. When Pat was seven years old, I took my wife, Bob, and my daughter, Pat, to Mexico on vacation. We went to Mexico City and like the rest of the tourists, went to the bullfight. Bob and I didn't give a darn about the bullfights, but Pat came away saying 'I'm going to grow up and be a bullfighter.' Of course, we laughed." She went home and would play bullfighting. Her cousin sent her a bullfighter's cape and she fought play-like bulls all over the yard. I'd be cutting the grass and she would be making swipes at the lawnmower," McCormick recalled. She went to the University of Texas but asked her father if she could transfer her sophomore year to Texas Western in El Paso "claiming there was a special art teacher" there. But of course, she was getting down by the border. That summer she asked to stay and take more work from a Spanish artist, who was leaving at the end of the summer. "We agreed, not realizing that she was going down to the stock yards and working with the steers with an old army blanket. Well, a fellow from the bull ring in Juarez heard about it and came over and watched her and offered her a chance to make a few passes in a real bullfight. She did and we heard about it here at home after it happened," her father added. "We also heard that she got caught and tossed into the air in that first fight. But she came right back and the crowd loved that. She worked that first fight in a pair of slacks and an old white shirt." Her father recalled that they rushed down to El Paso where Pat again calmly told them, "I'm going to be a bullfighter." The next few years saw her fighting all over Mexico and down in South America. "She got hurt at Villa Cuna. There were two bullfighters competing in the ring to see who could do the best, and get the most ears and tails. The man bullfighter got
