

Food, housing costs increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose 0.8 percent in January, the largest increase in nearly a year, because of sharp increases in food and housing costs, the Labor Department said today.

The Consumer Price Index for all urban consumers rose 0.8 percent last month after rising 0.4 percent in each of the past three months, the department said. The increase was the largest since a 1 percent rise in February 1977.

"About two-thirds of this rise was due to price increases of 1.2 percent for food and beverages and 0.8 percent for housing," the department said. "Among other major expenditures, transportation rose 0.6 percent and medical care 0.8 percent."

The department also reported that the average worker's buying power dropped by 3 percent since December, the sharpest one-month decline in 14 years.

The department said the reduction in real spendable earnings was caused by a 1.2 percent decrease in average weekly earnings and a 1.8 rise in taxes, particularly Social Security.

Today's report was the first in a new system the department is using to try to cover the buying habits of more people. The department expanded its index to cover all urban consumers, about 80 percent of the U.S. population. The department also is measuring prices paid by urban wage earners and clerical workers separately, a measure used in union contracts. This index also rose 0.8 percent last month.

The 1.2 percent increase for food and beverages was due to "higher prices for most types of food purchased in grocery stores, for restaurant meals and alcoholic beverages," the department said.

Home-ownership costs rose 1 percent, mainly because of higher house prices, home maintenance and repair services, mortgage interest costs and housekeeping.

Medical care costs were up 0.8 percent, used cars rose 2.5 percent and price increases were recorded for airline, taxi and bus transportation.

Clothing prices rose only 0.3 percent, while entertainment costs were up 0.5 percent because of more expensive reading materials, sporting goods and theater and movie prices.

The 0.8 percent increase, if averaged out over an entire year, would amount to an annual inflation rate of nearly 10 percent, well beyond the Carter administration's goals of 6 to 7 percent. The figures were adjusted for seasonal variations, but could also reflect some automatic first-of-the-year price increases.

The index for all urban consumers stood at 187.2, meaning it cost the average urban resident $187.20 for the same goods $100 would buy in 1967. For urban wage earners and clerical workers the index was 187.1.

The index covers all city and suburban consumers, who make up 80 percent of the country's population. Rural areas are still not taken into account. Doing that, officials said, would be too expensive.

Wages paid more than 8.5 million workers are tied to fluctuations in the index, which also affects the monthly checks of 50 million Social Security beneficiaries, retired military and Civil Service employees and food stamp recipients.

TANKER REMNANTS — The broken shell of a railroad tank car which carried liquid propane gas is inspected by investigators seeking the cause of a blast which killed at least 12 persons and injured scores more. The explosion occurred last Friday, and inspections began in earnest on Sunday.

Train derails; gas kills 8

YOUNGSTOWN, Fla. (AP) — Hundreds of people stayed away from their homes today as workmen began the delicate task of righting a derailed tank car that ruptured, killing eight people with a ghostlike, yellow cloud of chlorine. Eighty-nine people were injured.

Salvage experts also had to contend with a loaded chlorine tanker, a tanker of liquefied petroleum gas, one filled with ammonium nitrate — which is a highly explosive base for fertilizer — and five others loaded with caustic chemicals.

Workmen planned to ring the site near this small Panhandle town with a wall of earth and to smother the chlorine car with foam before trying to clean up the wreckage left by the derailment early Sunday.

Officials planned to make air tests today before telling the 700 to 1,000 residents who were evacuated when they could return.

Russell Gober, a member of the National Transportation Safety Board, said it appeared the derailment was caused by a broken rail but that was a tentative conclusion.

The accident came a day and a half after a derailed tank car carrying liquid propane gas exploded in Waverly, Tenn., sending a ball of flame tearing through the town.

Three victims of that accident died Sunday to bring the death toll to 12 and more than 40 were still hospitalized for burns.

The Florida dead, who were in their teens and early 20s, were exposed to the chlorine as they drove along U.S. 231, which parallels the tracks where more than 20 cars of a 120-car Atlanta & St. Andrews Railroad train jumped the tracks about 2:30 a.m. The car engines of many people choked to a stop in the gas, trapping some and forcing others to run for their lives.

James and Madelyn Miller were among those who had to flee. Their engine stalled when they stopped for a young man waving frantically for help.

The Millers said the young man was too groggy to keep up and fell behind. They did not know what happened to him.

The final victim, a 15-year-old girl, was not found until late Sunday afternoon when a helicopter crew spotted her lying in a field across the highway from the wreck.

The train's engineer, Ray Shores, 53, was the last survivor to be rescued. He took to the swamp along the tracks where he found a pocket of untaunted air and waited eight hours until being rescued by a helicopter.

In all 89 people, some of them youths who had been hunting raccoons in the swamp, were treated at area hospitals after being exposed to the gas. By today, 18 remained hospitalized — six of them in critical condition.

Chlorine is a gaseous element often used in bleaching, water purification and other chemical processes. It reacts with moisture in the lungs, turns to an acid and eats away the lungs' mucous membrane, suffocating its victims.

Murder trial of 'Dr. X' is under way

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — Dr. Mario Jascalevich, once known as "Dr. X," is going on trial two years after his indictment for allegedly killing five patients with the exotic drug curare a decade ago.

Jury selection in the murder trial of the Englewood Cliffs physician was to begin today before Superior Court Judge William J. Arnold.

Bergen County Assistant Prosecutor Sybil Moses was expected to argue that Jascalevich, 50, murdered five patients by injecting them with curare, a potentially lethal muscle relaxant also used by South American Indians as a poison on their arrows.

The deaths occurred between December 1965 and September 1966, while Jascalevich was chief of surgery at Riverdell Hospital in Oradell.

He pleaded innocent when he was indicted in May 1976. Before Jascalevich's indictment, prosecutors had referred to the physician under investigation as "Dr. X."

Raymond A. Brown, a noted civil rights and defense attorney representing Jascalevich, has declined to comment on the case.

The major issue in the trial was expected to be whether curare was present in the dead, identified as Carl Rohrbeck, 73; Nancy Savino, 4; Margaret Henderson, 26; Frank Biggs, 59, and Emma Arzt, 70.

Four of the five patients, including the 4-year-old girl, were recovering from surgery when they died. The fifth died shortly after Jascalevich canceled his operation.

When the case was investigated briefly in 1966, Jascalevich told a prosecutor there were medical explanations for the deaths. The investigation was dropped for lack of evidence, with a major factor being the inability to detect the presence of curare in the victims' bodies.

In early 1976, the bodies of the five were ordered exhumed by former Bergen County Prosecutor Joseph C. Woodcock Jr., after news stories on the mysterious deaths. Advances in medical testing also made detection of the drug possible.

Laboratories in four states performed tests on the remains, and law enforcement sources say curare was found in all five. According to hospital records none of the patients had been given the drug.

Mrs. Gandhi's rebel wing of the Congress Party won a decisive victory over the weekend in a state election in south India in her bid to resume leadership of the nation.

Begin rejects Egyptian demands

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin met with the U.S. Mideast negotiator today and said afterward Israel refuses to commit itself to a total pullout from occupied lands or to creation of a Palestinian state, in effect once again rejecting two key Egyptian peace demands.

Assistant Secretary of State Alfred Atherton conferred with Begin for two hours, continuing his shuttle mediation effort to find a basis for Egyptian-Israeli agreement on a declaration of principles for peace negotiations. Atherton said he was not ready to propose a compromise formula.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Didn't happen

Q. Why did the sheriff stand by Saturday and allow the Brown Berets to run down the United States flag and raise the Mexican flag?

A. This did not happen. Many Mexican flags were carried in the crowd but they were not raised on the flag pole. At the end of the demonstration as it was breaking up, the United States flag fell. The rope holding it had either broken or been cut. The sheriff took the flag and rope into the courthouse where it will be repaired and raised again.

Offbeat: Grape justice pledge

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Hugh Carey says he'll do his best to see that New York state grape juice is available for sale in the cafeterias of the state office complex.

The governor is acting after Assemblyman Rolland Kidder, who represents a grape-growing district, complained that he has even "had to settle for Florida orange juice" in state cafeterias.

"Since New York State doesn't raise oranges or pineapples, but does raise grapes I thought it would be appropriate for the state of New York to offer grape juice in the cafeterias," wrote Kidder.

World headquarters of the Welch grape juice company is in his district. In his reply, Carey said thirsty souls should take some consolation in the fact that "stronger New York State grape juice" is available in one cafeteria.

He referred to a new policy, criticized by some legislators, which makes wine and beer available in one state cafeteria.

Outside: Showers

Cloudy skies and showers are forecast through this afternoon, with cooler temperatures expected Tuesday. High today is expected in the upper 60s, low tonight near 40, and high Tuesday in the low 60s. Winds will be southwesterly at 15 to 25 miles per hour today and gusty, shifting into the west at 10 to 15 miles per hour tonight.

Steering group to meet Tuesday

The Big Spring Steering Committee will meet in Building 351 at Webb AFB at noon Tuesday, at which time members will be updated on leasing developments accomplished by city officials at Webb.

All members are being urged to be in attendance.

During council meeting

Hangar bid due approval

The Big Spring City Council will accept Tuesday one of the seven bids submitted by area contractors for construction of a new hangar to be used by Lockheed Aircraft Services Co.

Bids were opened at a special meeting of the council held 2 p.m. last Tuesday. Low bid was submitted by McRee Buildings Systems of Levelland for $524,345.

Council members will also consider an emergency reading of an ordinance authorizing the issuance of $2.2 million in certificates of obligation. The money would be used to cover the cost of construction of the new hangar.

In other business, council members will:

—Consider a request for a variance allowing the construction of a cabinet shop at 909 Johnson. The request was made by Benny Kirkland.

—Consider the first reading of a resolution authorizing Mayor Wade Choate to enter into a utility easement, and a second resolution authorizing the mayor to enter into an escrow agreement with Security State Bank.

—Review a claim for damages submitted by Mrs. Tom Parker.

—Consider an emergency reading of a resolution naming an officer and alternate for the Housing and Urban Development Loan Program.

—Consider a budget revision for the second year of the Community Development Block Grant Program.

—Appoint a member to the Detoxification Board.

East Texas wildfires

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — More than 200 wildfires burned 3,500 acres the past four days, the Texas Forest Service's Fire Control Department said today. The fires were spawned by gusty winds and low humidity, said spokesman Pat Ebard. Ebard said most of the blazes occurred in the north and central portions of East Texas, with Anderson, Rusk and Smith counties reporting the most activity. More than 90 percent of these fires have been caused by brush and trash burning, he said. Last month's rains and snow kept the natural vegetation damp but the warm weather, gusty winds and low humidity created an extremely high fire danger.

Redistrict ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today upheld a lower court's order striking down the way Tarrant County, Texas, elects its state legislators. The justices ruled without comment that a three-judge federal court was right when deciding in 1976 that the political districting system unconstitutionally dilutes the voting strength of the county's minority members. The effect of the lower court's ruling was ordered held in abeyance by the justices last December in order to give state officials time to prepare a formal appeal. Today's action voids the nine legislative districts as they now exist in Tarrant County and means a new redistricting plan, proposed in 1974 by minority residents, must be adopted. It will be up to state officials to cut through the transitional confusion in time for impending city and state elections. "It's an extremely bad situation," said Steve Bickerstaff, state assistant attorney general, who

Selling coal contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — The men chosen to sell the proposed coal contract to rank-and-file miners are getting instructions today on how to handle the difficult job. Although the contract has been widely criticized in the coalfields, top United Miner Workers officials feel that if they can adequately explain the pact, the 160,000 striking miners will approve the contract next week and be back in the pits by mid-March. Members of the union's bargaining team scheduled meetings with the "salesmen" — some 400 miners and union district representatives — at a downtown hotel. The 400 miners were chosen by UMW President Arnold Miller.

Park vows to testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tongsun Park is promising to testify fully and let the truth come out in the South Korean influence buying scandal. The South Korean millionaire made that pledge as he arrived Sunday afternoon to begin closed-door testimony Tuesday before House ethics committee investigators. "I hope that as a result of my giving my side of the story as well as I can recollect how things did happen, I hope we'll come to a happy ending," Park told reporters on arrival. Park has been charged in a 36-count criminal indictment with trying to buy congressional influence for the South Korean government.

Check artists hit Lamesa

LAMESA — Forged check artists using eight different names on checks from the Ellis National Bank and driving a car with Oklahoma license tags swept through Lamesa, writing hot checks all over town last week.

The Dawson County sheriff's office said apparently the group hits a different town each weekend after the banks close.

Sons of mobster Bonanno jailed

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — The sons of one-time underworld figure Joseph "Joe Bonanno" Bonanno were jailed here Sunday on warrants charging them with alleged parole violations, sheriff's officials said. Salvatore and Joseph Bonanno were arrested by U.S. marshals in surprise, pre-dawn moves on warrants issued Friday by U.S. District Court Judge Robert F. Peckham in San Francisco. The elder Bonanno, considered by authorities to be a leader of a New York organized crime family, now lives in retirement in Tucson, Ariz. The two men were arrested at 1:30 a.m. after returning to their Santa Clara County homes from a Saturday night dinner party, according to their attorney Jerrold Ladar. They were later freed on bail. "They were very surprised," Ladar said. "Nobody had any idea there were any problems going on." The specific nature of the alleged probation violations was not known. The allegations should be made clearer in a show-cause hearing scheduled here today before U.S. Magistrate Nordin Blackler. The brothers' probation status stemmed from their 1971 conviction in a widely-publicized trial in San Jose for using force in trying to extort payments from an admitted heroin smuggler.

Public can aid fight for weight labeling

AUSTIN — Texas consumers can join the fight against short-weight packages in supermarkets by supporting current efforts to strengthen federal net weight labeling requirements, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said today. The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is holding public hearings on plans to upgrade its regulations, Brown said. The proposed changes would require accurate net weight labeling at the point of retail sale, he stated. Currently, meat and other food products packaged under federal supervision must contain the full amount stated on the label only at the time they leave the processing plant, he noted. "However, according to weights and measures officials, an intense letter-writing campaign opposing the rule changes has been launched by industry representatives in an attempt to influence the hearings," Brown said. "I would encourage every consumer who is concerned about getting exactly what he pays for in the supermarket to help counter this campaign by writing to the USDA and stressing support for the revisions. "If consumers cannot rely on the information on labels, then the entire goal of net weight labeling — accurate cost comparison — is defeated," he stated.

Best floats due rewards

SAN ANGELO — Trophies will be awarded to winning floats in this year's rodeo parade which is scheduled for 10 a.m. Friday, March 10 in downtown San Angelo. The parade is being held in conjunction with this year's 45th Annual Stock Show and Rodeo which will be March 8-12. According to rodeo officials, this is the first year prizes will be awarded in the float division of the rodeo. As of Feb. 24, 20 floats had been entered in the parade. Any other organizations or individuals who would like to enter the parade should contact the rodeo secretary at 655-4136.

James Campbell wins

A talented young man who makes his living as a psychologist at the Big Spring State Hospital, but whose second calling is art walked away with top honors at the Big Spring Art Association's Membership Show held Sunday at the Howard College Library. James Campbell, who also teaches art and holds a degree, won the association's Best of Show award, and also garnered a 1st place ribbon for his "White Boat" watercolor. His "Best of Show" painting, an acrylic, was titled "Glass Float," painted in methodical realistic detail. First place in acrylics was taken by Carol Strong with her painting "Jody", a dramatic portrayal of a small boy fishing. Other first place awards were: Martha Conway's mixed media painting titled "Bait House," Mary Raley's "Tornado Cloud" in the pastel division, Martha Conway's "Horn" in graphics, and Janny Linney's "The Barn" in oils. A welcome surprise occurred in mid-afternoon when Morris Robertson arrived and purchased $300 worth of paintings, including Corma Stovall's "Violin"; Arlys Scott's "Contex Barn"; Ruth Sweatt's "Potton House" and Roberta Ross' "Crackin' Nuts."

Other winners include in the professional division: Acrylics, "Jody" by Carol Strong; 2. Cliff Dwelling, by Corma Stovall and "Supper Time" by Terry Patterson. In watercolors, Campbell was followed by another watercolor by him called "Cellar" and Carol Strong's "Just Waitin' Till Spring." Under mixed media, Conway's "The Bait House" was followed by Ross' "Crackin' Walnuts" and Robb's "Still Hangin' Round." In pastels, Raley's "November Tornado Cloud" followed by Dalmar's "Green Still Life" and Patterson's "See Me," with Ross getting an honorable mention on "Sand Hill Crane Comin' In." Under graphics, Dalmar's "Homing" was followed by Elsie Merrell's "The West That Was." In oils, Jannie Linney's "The Barn" was followed by Raley's "Yellow Roses" and Corma Stovall's "The Little Ones." Honorable mentions went to Merrell's "Cock Fight" and Virginia Whitten's "Holy Ghost Canyon." In the non-professional division, under mixed media, Alice Webb placed first with "Frog Woman's Bowl" followed by Paul Warren's "Paradise" and Adelle Smith's "Day Before Yesterday" with honorable mention to Charlene Brasher's "Desert Blues." In watercoloring the winner was Bernice Cason with "Tower Mission Conception" followed by Lindsay Henry's "Corner of the North 40"; Arlys Scott's "Park Bench" and honorable mentions to Robert von Rosenberg's "Farm House" and Al Scott's "Still Hangin' On." Under graphics, Linda Rupard won with "Armadillo" followed by Flora Brown's "Leader of the Herd" and Gladys Shortes, "I'm Hungry." In pastels, Dorothy Pearce won the "Girl" followed by Flora Brown's "Curious Kittens"; Adelle Smith's "Reflection in Brass" and honorable mentions to Alice Webb's "Fruit of Labor" and Linda Rupard's "Puppies." In acrylics, Von Rosenberg got first and second with "Coastal Scene" and "Texas Coast" followed by Charlene Brasher with "Little Dove" and honorable mention for her "West From Captain." In oils, Ruth Sweatt was first with "La Casa Grande" followed by Arlys Scott with "Moss Lake and Signal Mountain"; Joyce Sanford's "Blue Jay" and honorable mentions to Sherry Dills "Daisies and Daffodils"; Adelle Smith's "Icy Splendor" and Nita Moser's "Hibiscus."

Police beat Clerk refuses to spook

Police had a usual busy weekend, but a sharp-witted clerk at a convenience store saved them a little trouble and saved the store some money. The clerk working at the 11th and Johnson 7-11 store reported that a short change artist attempted to confuse her by offering her several different bills to pay for a small purchase. When she wasn't taken in by the man's demand that she owed him $10, the would-be con artist left. Someone entered the home of Floyd Young, 1401 Runnels, Saturday and took a Cosden 25-year diamond ring and a variety of other items. Total value of the stolen articles was $538. While Tommy Doyle Hayes, of Ackerly, was inside the Bowl-A-Rama, someone broke into his pickup and took a .22 caliber rifle valued at $105. The auto burglary occurred between 9:30 and 11:55 p.m. Saturday. Value of the items was set at $949. Burglars broke a plate glass window in the Stanley Hardware building between 3 a.m. and 5:15 a.m. today and reached inside to take two drills from the showcase. Total value of the damage to the window and the lost merchandise was $202.98. Four hubcaps valued at $500 were taken from Steven G. Willis' car while it was parked in the Barcelona Apartments parking lot between 9:30 a.m. Sunday and 7 a.m. Monday. Hubert Wesley Sorrells, of Ira, lost control of the vehicle he was operating while northbound on U.S. 87 near the Brandin' Iron Inn. His car struck the guard rail beside the highway around 2:30 a.m. today, but he declined medical attention and had no apparent injuries. The Kwikie parking lot was the scene of a minor accident involving cars belonging to David Garcia Jr., 101 E. 24th, and Jose Guadalupe Arguella, 611 S. Bell around 11:20 Saturday. Vehicles driven by Kenneth Wayne Pruitt, 2509 Larry, and Franklin Kyle Casey, 2315 Mishler were involved in a minor accident at 10 p.m. Saturday in the 1700 block of south U.S. 87.

Political rally slated Tuesday

SEMINOLE — Twelve candidates for national and state offices will appear at a citizens' rally scheduled here at 7 p.m., Tuesday in the Civic Center. Several of the politicians expected are campaigning for the 19th District Congressional seat now held by George Mahon. People from throughout the area are being invited to attend the rally.

Cactus Room is meeting site

The Downtown Lions will meet Wednesday as usual in the Cactus Room of Howard College. Polly Mays, mayor pro tem and longtime member of the Historical Survey Committee, will speak on some historical aspects of Howard County and Big Spring.

It has been announced erroneously that the meeting would be at senior high school but the date for this is March 8, when the club will have an option for visiting the planetarium or the Vocational Department and shops as part of Texas Public School Week observance.

A special meeting for new Lions members is set for 11:45 a.m., Tuesday in the Turnblewood Room of the college SUB, said M.A. Barber, president.

Dangerous cargo hearings called Uncle Sam crying 'enough'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government, crying "enough" in the wake of two fatal train accidents in three days, is planning unusually thorough hearings into the transportation of hazardous materials on the nation's railroads and highways.

Small wonder:

—Jan. 15. The little town of Pond Eddy, Pa., began cleanup operations after a Conrail freight train derailed, rupturing a tank car that spilled 11,000 gallons of poisonous and explosive acetaldehyde into the Delaware River.

—Jan. 15. Five Uhrichsville, Ohio, families were evacuated when eight cars of another Conrail freight derailed, spilling 3,500 gallons of flammable tetrahydrofuran, soaking the ground.

—Jan. 18. Methyl-ethyl-ketone spilled from a derailed Western Railway of Alabama tanker near Montgomery, Ala., threatening the state capital's water supply.

—Jan. 23. Some 400 Point Pleasant, W.Va., residents had to leave home after a Chessie System derailment spilled 20,700 gallons of highly toxic epichlorohydrin 100 feet from the Ohio River. Two days later workers removed the useless top soil from an acre of ground.

—Jan. 27. Fifteen families were evacuated from Colchester, Va., when a derailed tank car began leaking liquified petroleum gas.

—Jan. 30. At least 300 persons in Leon and Mayhew Flats, Ky., were driven from their homes by fear of poisonous acrylonitrile spilled from a derailed Chessie System tank car. It took nearly 6 hours to put out the fire that blazed around the tanker.

—Feb. 4. About 50 residents were ordered to leave their homes when a 58-car Chessie System freight left the tracks near Woodland Park, Mich., spilling ethylene oxide. The train was on its way to a nearby Dow Chemical Co. plant.

These mishaps pale next to what happened Wednesday in Waverly, Tenn.

Twenty-four tank cars derailed, one carrying propane burst, and a fire ball shot into the town. Eleven persons have died; five homes were destroyed and 12 businesses damaged by the fire.

Then, early Sunday, a freight derailed near Youngstown, Fla.

Spewing liquid chlorine became a yellow-green cloud that has taken the lives of at least eight persons. An additional 67 went to the hospital.

"It literally burns your lungs up," said Al Smith, an Environmental Protection Agency investigator, on the scene Sunday.

The National Transportation Safety Board was watching.

Kay Bailey, acting chairman of the safety board, was so concerned by the continuing spate of derailments involving dangerous substances that on Thursday she called for the rare full-board hearing on the matter.

The hearings in April will look at how the railroads and trucking firms handle what Slattery termed, "all kinds of exotic materials that cause battlefield-like damage."

Ridin' fence

Larry Tubb is training to be the county trapper after Earl Brownrigg retires. He has been working under Brownrigg for a year and a half in his spare time.

He is also a city fireman and works 24 hours on and 48 off like the other firemen. When he first gets off, he sleeps. Then he checks his traps and resets them for the next period when he resumes his duties as a fireman.

He has trapped numerous coyotes. He skins them and sells the pelts.

The carcasses of the dead coyotes then hang on the fence at a ranch near Vincent until the buzzards and the elements finish them off.

He has also trapped three bobcats. He said the cats run in the rimrocks around Canyon Ridge.

He said he never had hunted much — "I couldn't afford to go hunting, but I always wanted to go."

When he got the chance to learn trapping, he took to it rapidly. Larry said, "I really like to sit around and listen to trappers like Earl. He, in turn, would tell stories about some of the old trappers around — like the late Samps Christie and others."

Tubb added, "Of course times have changed. There aren't as many different kinds of varmints around as there once were — but there's no shortage of coyotes. Ranchers still lose a lot of sheep and a lot of newborn calves to coyotes." Larry and his wife, Elaine, have two daughters.

Beverly, 12 and Karen, 7. Tubb worked for a glass company for 4½ years. Tubb admits that a lot of people think he's unusual for going into the trapping business.

"Somebody has to learn it. The old trappers will all soon be gone and the ranchers need trappers," Tubb said quietly.

He realizes that environmentalists don't like or understand trapping. "But the ranchers out there understand it. It sometimes means the difference between profit and loss to them."

He pointed out that all trapping is carried out within the law.

It's a different way to make a living — but it's a way to make a living — out by a fence hung with dead coyotes.

Museum seeks oil catalog

The Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Midland, has a collection of such catalogs but the earliest is 1923. Some of the equipment in the museum's collection dates to the earlier periods and awaits firm identification, which is why the older catalogs are being sought.

Also, the museum is looking for a catalog, sales literature, or any other material dealing with the early Wichtex Machinery Company of Wichita Falls. This firm manufactured, in the 1920's and 1930's, the well-known "Wichtex" spudders used in cable-tool drilling. The museum has two of these spudders on display but needs information on them.

Any old-time drillers, tool dressers, or others who can help are asked to contact the museum at 1500 Interstate 20 West, Midland.

Just how far is too far in courts?

Sometimes our appeals courts are prone to gag at a gnat and swallow a camel.

A case in point is the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, which recently overturned the conviction of an Amarillo man who had been sentenced to 99 years in prison after being adjudged guilty of aggravated rape.

The decision to throw out the decision wasn't unanimous. Justice Leon Douglas argued that a jury should have the right, in certain cases, to show motive or a common plan. The other judges disagreed.

The defendant in the case at issue, according to the testimony, allegedly picked up a woman hitchhiker. Later he raped her under threat of killing her if she offered resistance.

To encounter the defendant's claims that the woman consented to the act, attorneys for the state submitted evidence concerning his alleged involvement with two other assaults on women.

"The evidence in all three instances tends to show a plan or scheme to prevent his conviction by attacking vulnerable young women whose credibility could be challenged," Justice Douglas wrote in taking issue with the court's reversal of the decision.

"Thus, the evidence of the other alleged rapes was highly probative and outweighed any prejudice to appellant which resulted from its admission," Douglas continued.

Courts invariably lean over, as they should, to protect the rights of persons accused of crimes. Everyone has a right to expect his "due process of law." In this instance, the defendant will face a new trial at which the controversial evidence won't be admissible — if indeed the state decides to prosecute.

There's something amiss in the statutes if prosecutors cannot present evidence that tends to tie a defendant to a pattern of criminal activity, rather than limiting jurors' knowledge of the facts to a single incident which, isolated by itself, might leave the question of guilt a matter of putting faith in the testimony of one witness or another.

The burden of proof would still lie with the prosecution. There are many instances, however, in which tracing a criminal pattern becomes necessary to provide a jury with the complete picture.

Just how far should the courts go to protect the rights of the defendant in a case — beyond what they guarantee the accuser?

Saudi backfire

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Although motivated by highest U.S. interests, President Carter's request for modern fighter planes for Saudi Arabia could backfire by promoting Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin to stall negotiations with Egypt and thereby endanger peace in the Middle East.

The President's courageous decision to confront Israel and the pro-Israeli bloc in Congress by selling Saudi Arabia 60 F-15 aircraft, the West's best fighter plane, was based on the need for strong U.S.-Saudi links. This nation's economic future depends in major part on Saudi Arabia's friendship, because of both its leading price-setting role in the international oil cartel and its massive dollar holdings now invested within the United States.

IF THE SAUDIA aircraft deal (tied to lesser plane sales to Egypt and Israel) went to Congress today, it probably would escape the simple majority opposition of both House and Senate needed for a congressional veto. But by the time it reaches Capitol Hill in early April, Congress may be far less inclined to approve because of stalemated Mideast peace talks.

The strong suspicion in official quarters here is that Begin's deepening intransigence is motivated in no small part by his opposition to the F-15s for Saudi Arabia. If peace is certainly not at hand in the Mideast, Congress can be more easily lured out of arms for Arabs.

The heart of the issue for Israel is not really concern over future Arab use of these aircraft against Israel, as Begin asserts. Rather, it is deep-seated Israeli fear that the Saudi-U.S. link is becoming strong enough to affect the 30-year alliance between Israel and the U.S.

For the first time since Israel became a state with U.S. aid, it is competing with an oil-rich Arab state for Washington's favor. Gradual strengthening of economic and military links between Saudis and Americans was reinforced by the peace initiative of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, not the Saudis' best Arab friend.

ISRAEL, ACCUSTOMED to having its way in Washington, worries about this new competition — as shown when Begin intimate Moshe Arens spoke privately to the House International Relations Committee recently. Arens, chairman of the Israeli parliament's security committee, attacked the Saudi aircraft deal as stupid for the U.S. His point was that if trouble threatens Saudi Arabia from Iraq or Libya or other extremist Arab states, let us — Israel — handle it for you. The message: it's Israel and the U.S. together, and let's keep the Arabs out.

Given that fundamental Israeli policy, Begin's objective is to weaken the U.S.-Saudi link in every possible way and prevent the kingdom from expanding its U.S. political and economic base. One way to achieve that is to block the sale of the F-15s.

Incredibly, Israel is determined to block the deal even if Egyptian-Israeli peace prospects suffer. Begin himself has publicly given warning. On Feb. 16, he told the Israeli parliament that the proposed aircraft deal was a threat to "the process of negotiations" between Israel and Egypt.

HIGH ISRAELI officials are now using the F-15s for Saudi Arabia as a major new reason not to yield to Egypt three Israeli military airfields located on the Sinai F., ninsula, particularly a major base near the Israeli Agaba Gulf port of Eilat. Israel had not agreed to turn over the airfields anyway. But the Saudi aircraft deal is now being used as sudden new justification for retaining them, on grounds they are needed to guard against the Saudi air "threat."

"THE USUAL, MR. JORDAN?"

Should she be kept in dark?

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son has Klinefelter's syndrome and has been taking hormone injections every two weeks for several years. He's also had the breast operation, which was very successful.

The doctor advises me never to try to find out about the subject, that it would frighten me, and that modern medicine has come a long way in normalizing the obvious system. He says his only handicap would be sterility.

So, over the years I am supposed to suffer in blissful ignorance. The child, now 17, has always been a problem and the "black sheep." As he approaches manhood, we worry that his problem might hinder his going out into the big world. Wouldn't it be better for us to know about Klinefelter's syndrome if only so as not to relate all his abnormalities to it? Or do you agree with the doctor? Psychiatrists are of no help. Enlighten me, please. — A.O.R.

I do not agree that you should avoid informing yourself about the condition. It is a congenital defect (occurring at birth) in the sex glands. There is an extra "X" chromosome present. We all have two kinds of chromosomes — X and Y. The normal male has an "XY" combination. With Klinefelter's, the combination is "XXY." This results in feminizing traits and physical characteristics.

Hormone therapy is helpful to a point, but it will not correct his sterility. You should know that. Behavior problems have been associated with the syndrome.

You and he have been dealt a pretty severe blow of genetic fate, and it would be well to learn as much as you can about the disorder. I say this particularly in the light of your letter. You seem to be an intelligent parent trying to cope with a most difficult problem.

Guidance of some sort — psychological or psychiatric — would be in order. With this, you cannot expect overnight miracles. It's a complex problem, but I do not suggest closing your eyes to the facts. Make your feelings known to your doctor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was wondering if you get mail from doctors. — J.

Occasionally. Some colleagues are kind enough to write suggesting additional information relating to a reader's question, or to tell if an experience with treatment of an ailment in their practices. I also hear about it when I make a booboo. In any event, they are always welcomed.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell me something about lecithin. I have been told it can help blisters on the side of my tongue. What is it and what does it do in the body? — S.C.

Lecithin (LESS-ih-thin) is one of a group of phospholipids involved in the body's use of fats. Studies show it increases with fat intake. The liver seems to produce it as needed. I have no evidence that lecithin as a supplement is beneficial. There is a rare condition in which a hereditary deficiency appears, but this is untreatable.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 59. Three years ago I had a partial hysterectomy. We have moved and I have a new doctor. He told me that the cervix is removed in a partial hysterectomy and that therefore I no longer need the Pap smear. Is this correct?

Further, he has given me a complete checkup, except for an internal and rectal examination. Should these be part of the checkup? M.B.M.

You should continue to have Pap smears. The cervix is removed in a partial hysterectomy, a fact easily established by any internal examination, which should, by the way, be part of a thorough physical, as a rectal should also.

Black Africa

William F. Buckley, Jr

Two reports from different parts of Africa highlight the awful reaches of ideology and the persistent survival of the state as the enemy of all "well disposed, decent, and industrious men," as H. L. Mencken hyperbolically put it. The first is a remarkable report by the New York Times' John Darnton from Addis Ababa. Thither, as we know, a group of journalists were invited only to be subjected to a kind of iron-fisted paternalism men and women suckled by the First Amendment are quite unused to. Not even in Peking are reporters virtually locked into their hotels and required to report for duty to visit every port of call on the agenda. Even so, John Darnton managed to get around, and he transmits an elated infatuation with Marxism by the young revolutionary set in Ethiopia, whose principal occupation these days is killing people.

THIS IS NOT considered a violation of human rights; in Ethiopia we are baptized, by total immersion, into the Orwellian mode. The right not to be taken from your home or office and killed is not a human right. All rights, we are given to understand, are economic rights. Under the imperial rule of Haile Selassie, Ethiopia was desperately poor, and there were, therefore, no rights. In order to rectify this situation, the Ethiopian leaders explain, it becomes necessary to transform society. And how is that accomplished? Lenin was the great teacher.

"How can a revolution happen without bloodshed?" Darnton quotes a "well-dressed" young member of the Ethiopian Revolution Information Center, "sipping a beer in the lobby of the Ghion Hotel."

The question was explored formally for the benefit of the visiting journalists in something very like a seminar at which three speakers spoke on the subject of violence, "explaining it, analyzing it, extolling it." "One might look at the whole thing from a moral point of view," one leader explained, "— why kill people? Is a revolution just killing people? One might ask such moral questions. But the question of violence cannot be approached from a purely abstract moral level."

Haile Selassie was overthrown in 1974. After that there was an effort of sorts made to effect land reform, nationalization and the rest of it. "In the last year the revolution had gone sour," one European observer remarked. "In the last year there have been no revolutionary measures, no proclamations; it's just killings and more killings." And another observer: "Killing has become a revolutionary act in itself. It began as a means to defend the revolution. Now it is a way of expressing it, or proving that it is still going on."

Those words might have been uttered by any observer during the last throes of the French revolution 200 years ago.

Ah, but what will the dawn bring in Ethiopia?

WHEN FRELIMO, the anti-Portuguese guerrilla force in Mozambique, turned Marxist, it lost one of its founders, Dr. Domingos Arouca, who is now leader-in-exile of the opposition Fumo. He too recently spoke with western reporters, detailing the effect that "scientific socialism" (he calls it "fascism") has had on Mozambique. There is no longer any system of public transportation; medical care has decreased to such a point that death in childbirth is as common as it was at the turn of the century. "Political change in Mozambique," he said, "is not a matter of 'if' but of 'when.' The people are fighting against the constant demonstrations of tyranny."

Although Arouca deplores apartheid, he does not doubt that the people of Mozambique would prefer to live in South Africa. "The blacks of South Africa have the highest standard of living in the whole of Africa. No one of them would be willing to change his life for the one he would have in Mozambique." Asked about Steven Biko, Arouca replied: "At least one hears about Biko's death, whereas the public executions made by Frelimo in the stadium of Quelimane are not even heard of. . . . Nobody talks about the executions that take place in the former nursery of the town of Maputo, or of all those who are tortured and shot in the middle of the back."

It is curious to recall that Karl Marx raged, during his lifetime, against the oppression of human beings.

Must be kidding

Around the rim

Carla Walker

They've GOT to be kidding!!!

It is hard to believe that something as foul as cow manure could fertilize plants, much less believe that it can be used as an energy source.

But, a recent Associated Press wire story said that a plant in the rural Oklahoma Panhandle is scheduled to begin sending gas to a Chicago utility company in the next couple of weeks.

And, that's not all. The Oklahoma firm which built the plant has tentative plans for three more plants — all located in the Texas panhandle.

to be a shortage of raw material, so the supply will be relatively steady.

Because of that, the price, now slightly higher than the cost of natural gas, will rise only because of inflation of production costs, not because of dwindling supplies. Also, if natural gas is deregulated, prices will probably be up to the equivalent of manure gas prices, $1.94 per 1,000 cubic feet.

INCIDENTALLY, the name of the Thermometrics, Inc. subsidiary plant in Oklahoma is Calorific Recovery Anaerobic Process, Inc., and you can check out the company name abbreviation using the initial letters of each word for yourself.

Using some 182,500 tons of cattle manure annually from three nearby cattle feedlots, the plant expects to produce enough gas to power 3,500 Chicago homes, and 75,000 tons of cattle feed (that will sell for less than comparable feed priced about $18 to $20 per ton), per year.

The story also noted that a full-grown steer produces from 9½ to 10 pounds of manure daily, and the plant pays $1 a ton for this raw material.

And I thought it was only good for fertilizing plants and mending shoes. Guess you learn something every day.

Carter steps in

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — President Carter became incensed when he read last year that New York City's most notorious drug dealer, Leroy "Nicky" Barnes, had become known as "Mr. Untouchable" because of his ability to elude the law.

Angrily, the president placed a telephone call to Attorney General Griffin Bell and complained about the untouchable drug king. Carter's personal intervention, we have now learned, helped to nail the lid on Barnes.

The president read in The New York Times Magazine that Barnes had made millions peddling heroin out of a Harlem garage but had managed to keep one jump ahead of the authorities. This had made him a hero to the Harlem street children.

CARTER ASKED his Attorney General to give the drug king special attention. Bell immediately contacted the U.S. Attorney for New York's southern district, Robert Fiske Jr.

A skilled trial lawyer, Fiske decided to prosecute Barnes himself. He told us that the call from Bell helped to persuade him to handle the Barnes case personally.

The New York City police had been unable to keep Barnes behind bars. He often taunted them, leading surveillance units through the streets on 100-mile-per-hour chases. He had beaten four previous indictments on charges of murder, bribery, narcotics, and gun violations.

But "Mr. Untouchable" met his match in Fiske. Last December, he was convicted of selling millions of dollars worth of heroin and cocaine each year. He received a life sentence with no chance for parole. Eleven of his cohorts were thrown in the slammer with him, putting one of Harlem's biggest drug operations out of business.

Afterward, Bell triumphantly reported the successful prosecution to the Cabinet. According to the confidential minutes, he "noted that the U.S. Attorney personally prosecuted the case, an example for other U.S. Attorneys."

"The interest in this particular case," Bell reported in front of a smiling President Carter, "began when the president reacted to a New York Times Magazine article which discussed the difficulty of convicting organized crime leaders."

JOB JUMPING: For a plump, balding physicist, Arthur Thomas Stanley has been astonishingly nimble at skipping back and forth between the Army and the companies it does business with. Each time, the companies have wound up with lucrative contracts stemming from his governmental efforts.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why do some Christians hold Saturday as their day of worship instead of Sunday? — F.R.

DEAR F. R.: Saturday is the seventh day of the week and, as such, was (and is) the Jewish day of worship in accordance with the Old Testament. The command to set aside one day out of seven for worship and rest from normal labor is found in the Ten Commandments: "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy. . . . The seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord thy God. . . . for in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day; wherefore the Lord blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it" (Exodus 20:8, 10, 11).

The early Christians realized that they were not saved by keeping the Old Testament law, but by God's Twice in the past 10 years, Stanley has performed his job-jumping acrobatics. First, he served as a civilian physicist with the Army from 1965 to 1968. He helped develop a complex new entanglement device to replace barbed wire. In Pentagon gobbledygook, the new creation is known as GPBTO.

A private firm, Physics Technology Laboratories, obtained a $25,000 military contract to develop GPBTO. The contract proposals were prepared personally by Stanley.

Less than a year later, the physicist left the Army to work for Physics Technology. Indeed, he was listed as a director and stockholder of the company. Thereafter, the company raked in almost $200,000 in federal contracts from Stanley's former Army associates. All the contracts had to do with the GPBTO project he had helped to develop.

In 1970, Stanley did a reverse somersault from Physics Technology back into his previous Army position. He began industriously assembling technical data to be used in manufacturing GPBTO.

One fat GPBTO contract went to a new, Connecticut-based firm called Man-Barrier Corporation. The company was paid $7.3 million over the next few years to produce GPBTO.

In early 1977, the Army sought bids for a final $6.8 million GPBTO contract. The next day, Stanley resigned from his government job. He surfaced three days later as a top executive of Man-Barrier. His company landed the $6.8 million contract two months later.

The company promised to deliver 7,000 units of GPBTO by the end of last year. Instead, it produced only 2,636 units, nearly 62 per cent short. It is an interesting sidelight that Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., privately assured Army officials that the company felt it could deliver the goods even faster than promised.

Stanley sees no conflict of interest in his job shuttling. "This sort of thing happens all the time," he told our associate Larry Kraftowitz. The physicist said he did only "technical work" for Physics Technology. He blamed Man-Barrier's poor performance on last winter's natural gas shortage, which restricted its production.

MICROWAVE ADVERTISING: For more than a year, the Federal Trade Commission has quietly tried to compel Litton Industries to back up its advertising claims about microwave ovens.

The dispute arose when Litton ran slick ads in a number of newspapers boasting that "76 per cent of the independent microwave oven service technicians surveyed" recommended Litton over three major competitors.

My answer

grace. Early Christians who had been Jews probably kept Saturday as their day of worship, but as time went on Sunday replaced Saturday, largely because Jesus had been raised from the dead on a Sunday. This observance of Sunday as the day of worship seems to have begun in New Testament times. Acts 20:7 says, "And upon the first day of the week (Sunday), when the disciples came together to break bread, Paul preached unto them. . . ." Several Christian writings from the early second century show that Sunday was regarded as the day of worship by Christians at that time.

While there are some Christians who still hold Saturday instead of Sunday as their day of worship, this should not be an issue that divides honest believers. Paul only mentions the Sabbath once directly.

Cuba reports for ship duty

Navy Hull Maintenance Technician First Class Robert D. Cuba, son of Victoria Phillips of San Rual Station, P.O. Box 0, Lamesa, has reported for duty aboard the dock landing ship USS Spiegel Grove, homeported in Norfolk, Va. He joined the Navy in July 1977.

Ewing joins 'Readex 1-78'

Navy Electrician's Mate Fireman Apprentice Richard L. Ewing Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Ewing Sr. of Gail Route, Box 39-C, Big Spring, is participating in exercise "Readex 1-78" in the Western Pacific.

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the combat store ship USS White Plains, operating from Yokosuka, Japan.

"Readex 1-78" is being conducted near Okinawa. Comprised of 29 U.S. Navy ships and 250 Seventh Fleet aircraft, this six-day exercise is part of a continuing fleet training program.

Overall command of "Readex 1-78" belongs to Vice Admiral Robert B. Baldwin, USN, commander of the U.S. Seventh Fleet. His command is embarked aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Oklahoma City.

'Operation Red Flag'

Marine Cpl. Gabriel Badillo Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Badillo Sr. of 1137 Elm St., Colorado City, recently participated in "Operation Red Flag" over the Nevada desert.

He is serving as a member of Marine Fighter Attack Squadron-531 based at El Toro Marine Corps Air Station, Santa Ana, Calif.

Conducted at Nellis Air Force Base, near Las Vegas, this six-week exercise was composed of units from the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, Air National Guard and Canadian Air Force. It was designed to provide training in air-to-air fighter tactics.

A graduate of Colorado high school, he joined the Marine Corps in April 1975.

Lentz gains weapons tips

Navy Gunner's Mate Seaman John M. Lentz, son of Mary E. Lentz of 712 N. Ave. G., Lamesa, was graduated from Basic Gunner's Mate School. He joined the Navy in June 1977.

Barksdale is promoted

Timothy E. Barksdale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Barksdale, 3612 Hamilton, has been promoted to the rank of Petty Officer Third Class. He graduated one of the top ten in his class in technical radio training. He joined the Navy in January, 1977 and is now stationed in the Philippines.

Westbrook grad is assigned

SAN ANTONIO — Airman Linda M. Anderson, daughter of retired Air Force Master Sgt. and Mrs. Jimmie M. Anderson of Westbrook, has been assigned to Chanute AFB, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training.

The sergeant attended Big Spring High School. His wife, Beverly, is the daughter of Mrs. Bevelere Anderson of 2304 Thorp St., Big Spring.

During the 11-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by marines.

Comments from capital Who is Hill's opponent?

AUSTIN — Comptroller Bob Bullock may not have an opponent; but news releases from his campaign headquarters would make one think that he's in a race with Attorney General John Hill.

Most of the time, candidates without opponents sit back quietly — as Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong is doing — and let opposing candidates battle.

But not Bullock. He says Hill misled the public in saying his political contributions come from "the little people," meaning regular citizens. Bullock says Hill's list of supporters "looks more like a Cadillac salesman's route list than an army of typical Texans."

Bullock is supporting Gov. Dolph Briscoe and makes no secret of his desire to be governor of Texas. He figures Briscoe would retire after four more years, but Hill would run again if he were the incumbent.

Mexican-American legislators were nervous this past week as reports circulated that the Federal

Scott Carpenter

Bureau of Investigation is asking about their involvement with the Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs.

Several called us to find out what was happening. They wondered whether some prejudice is being shown, since Anglo and Black legislators aren't being bothered.

When Congress took its Washington's Birthday break, U.S. Sen. John Tower and Texas congressmen seeking reelection were in the state campaigning.

State Republican Executive Committee members passed a resolution making clear they back Tower against all challengers, including independent Hank Grover.

Grover was the Republican candidate for governor in 1972 and barely lost to Dolph Briscoe. He also was a big backer of Ronald Reagan's 1976 bid for the Republican nomination for president.

The Reagan faction of the Republicans controls the SREC, and the resolution was to kill any rumors that Tower would receive less than full support from party leaders.

John Hill was in Madisonville this week, saying it was ridiculous to think that he or any other Briscoe opponent is dealing in "dirty tricks."

Briscoe aides have said a dirty tricks campaign is being waged against the governor.

Hill said he thinks that Briscoe is his own dirty

Mother goes on trial for murder of daughter

DALLAS (AP) — In one courtroom today, a mother goes on trial for the murder of her daughter. Just down the hall, a daughter goes on trial for the murder of her mother.

Mrs. Carrie Marsh is accused of striking her 9-year-old daughter with a pop bottle and leaving her to drown in an area lake last November.

Barbara Sue Marsh's body was found floating in the lake by two fishermen.

Police said the woman called them and reported her daughter missing. However, Betty Latham, the accused woman's 20-year-old daughter, said her mother told relatives after she was arrested she and the victim "were at the lake just throwing rocks and they got into a fight. "She said she hit Barbara and Barbara fell into the water," Mrs. Latham stated. "Mama said she tried to pull her out but kept dropping her."

In the second case, Lucinda Stout, 16, is accused of fatally stabbing her mother, Sharon Stout, 34, with a butcher knife last June.

The young defendant was certified to stand trial as an adult last August.

Harry Stout, Lucinda's father, testified at the certification hearing that he wants his daughter "put away until she is an old woman."

Stout was wounded twice with his own pistol during the same mishap that resulted in his wife's death.

Hustle 3 Committees busy

By Bill Albright
Executive Vice President,
Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce
Industrial Growth and Development

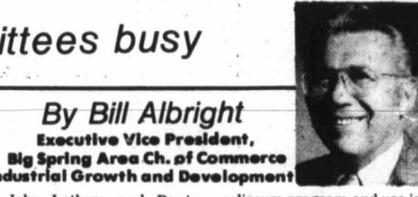

A chamber of commerce is as strong and effective as the sum total of its membership, its board of directors, its officers, its staff and its committees.

And committees are what it's all about — because they are the action arm of the chamber. All the money and all the membership, all the leadership and all the plans and goals amount to very little without a dedicated conscientious effort on the part of the 'DOERS'.

This week I'd like to review some of the committee actions that are under way and in the "getting off the ground" stage. Time and space limit me to only a few of our 20-some committees, so I'll plan to review additional ones in the near future.

First, our agriculture committee and business committee have met jointly on two occasions. They invited farmers and ranchers to air their views on the agriculture situation and the impact on business. The result of the meetings was a review of the chamber agriculture policy and a reinforcement of that policy plus a resolution by the chamber to support the principals of supply and demand as it affects loan prices and loan levels. The right of the American farmer to operate at a profit was emphasized. Action and interest continues. Charles Beil is chairman of the business committee and Skipper Driver is chairman of the agriculture committee.

The Ambassadors have met on several occasions and are already working to conduct a "Membership Blitz" in March. Of course, their January activities resulted in a packed house at the annual banquet. Several nominations to fill vacancies in this select group have added the names of Troy Frasier, Terry Newman, John Latham and Baxter Moore to the roles. Other nominations are pending. Richard Atkins is chairman.

The beautification committee, under the leadership of Bob Hurt, has had two meetings and has presented a set of proposals to the chamber board. Among the proposals are code enforcement and a "Spring Clean-Up Campaign." High on the list of priorities is the elimination of eyesores in our community. The committee also proposed a study of the use of trash containers in small project areas. Hopefully the efforts of these determined citizens will lead to a "Keep American Beautiful" level of attractiveness for our community.

Mel Prather is chairman of the cultural affairs committee and judging from the exceptional Arts and Crafts Festival of 1977, we can predict a very active and progressive year for culture. An expansion of the Star Lite Specials is planned for this summer and support of the

Colleges are resorting to 'piracy of students'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Some Southern colleges are resorting to "piracy of students" from other institutions as college enrollments are leveling off, says Texas Commissioner of Higher Education Kenneth Ashworth.

They also play the "body count game," Ashworth said in a speech prepared for members of the governing boards of Texas colleges and universities. "This involves such devices as taking programs off of our campuses to reach new clientele and raiding the service areas of other institutions," he said.

He criticized the lowering of admissions standards by schools to attract more students and the subsequent

She would move there from her Gettysburg farm home that was the first home she and her late husband owned.

Church-sponsored for family unity Scouts and cubs hand out awards

Though both the Court of Honor banquet for Boy Scout Troop No. 187 and the Blue and Gold Banquet for Club Scout Pack No. 187 ended up being on the same night, creating a problem for parents with sons in each, the Feb. 23 banquets proved to be successful.

The pack and troop, sponsored by the Church of Latter Day Saints, hold the banquets annually to honor all Boy and Cub Scouts.

In the cases where parents had one son in the pack and another in the troop, the mother went with one child and the father with the other, depending on the part each parent had in the program.

Paul Brown opened court leading the Boy Scouts in the Scout Oath.

After the Court of Honor, which was held at the church, the ones who were involved joined the group at the Blue and Gold Banquet, which was being held at the Marcy School, just down the street from the church.

The main event of the Court of Honor was when Larry Turk was presented his Eagle Award. Although he lives in Snyder, he is affiliated with the Troop No. 187 here in Big Spring. This award had another special significance in that it was the first Eagle earned in this troop since it was organized. Larry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Toni Turk, Snyder, Texas.

Several awards were earned in Troop 187. Among them are: Paul Brown for hiking, 50 miler and community living; Randy Menges for community lives, animal science, hiking, farm mechanics and 50 miler; Larry Turk for book binding, drafting, electricity, journalism, art and Eagle;

Phillip Harrison for cooking, woodwork, animal science, salesmanship, sports, farm mechanics, 50 miler, safety, rabbit raising, community living, and physical fitness.

(Phillip was also advanced to a Star); Bart Neighbors for community living; and John Brown for Buffalo Trail Council Strip.

On My Honor Awards were presented to Robert Turk, Michael Henry, Larry Turk, Paul Brown and Randy Menges.

This is a special award presented by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, to signify that a boy has accomplished all the requirements to the best of his ability to God, his country, his fellowman, and himself. He has attended Scouts for two years, and has the advancement of at least a Star.

Mrs. Robert Henry was presented a thanks award for her help in arranging transportation for the campouts and other activities for the past year. Marshall Horn gave the benediction.

The Blue and Gold Banquet was begun with the Webelos posting the colors. The invocation was given by Glenn Jones. Joe Bradley, Cub Master, gave recognition to the following: Don Smith, Pack Committee Chairman, Mrs. Don Fortner, Primary President, under whose direction are the church Cubs, and Lloyd Loveless, the Bishop of the church.

Bishop Loveless spoke to the audience, and told them of the appreciation of the church here, being able to sponsor the pack. He stated that the Worldwide Church (The Mormons) encouraged family strength and family unity. He said he appreciated the support the parents gave the boys in the pack. He said he also had appreciation of the giggles, giggles, and lively activities that go into what makes little boys, boys.

Joe Bradley then recognized his leaders Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Skipper Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Panky, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Jones and his wife Mrs. Joe Bradley.

New families were welcomed into the pack. They were Mr. and Mrs. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. McDowell, and Mr. and Mrs. Toni Turk.

Recognition was given to Den 2 for their table decorations. Den 1 was in charge of the entertainment. Their motto is Den one has more fun than anyone.

The following awards were then presented: One year pins to Scott Jones and Bobby Carson; Webelos to Eric Garland for aquanaut, citizenship and Silver Arrow Point; Peter Forney for citizenship and athlete; John Barkley for athlete; Paul Wicker for citizenship and scholar; Jimmy Bradley for Arrow of Light.

Advancements were Den 1 — Joe Wicker to Wolf, Kenneth Kirkham to Bear and a silver arrow, Bobby Waight to Bobcat, David Turk to Bobcat; Den II — Chris Peterson to Bobcat, Brian Boyd to Bobcat, Shayne Hudgins to Wolfe, Shayne Shoup to Bear, Troy Riley to Bear, Travil Riley to Bear and Mickey Boyd to Bear.

A Special Advancement Board was made by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bradley which consisted of boards with the heads of the Bobcat, the Wolf and Bear set in ladder form, with the Arrow of Light at the top. Each boy who had an advancement was allowed to move his name tag, which was a little Indian boy with one feather, to the next advancement board.

The Top Rank Clubs welcomed the following new members into Webelos: John Menges, Troy Doane, Kenneth Kirkham, John Barkley and Kim Anding.

Recognition was given to Larry Turk, who had been given the Eagle Award. Toni Turk, Scoutmaster, then spoke a word of encouragement to the Cubs to work toward a stronger Scouting movement.

The group sang "America the Beautiful" and dismissed.

Dear Abby

Find Fault with Rabbi's Advice

DEAR ABBY: CRAVING AFFECTION complained because her husband of 12 years would accommodate her sexual desires only three times a year. She consulted her rabbi, who told her that as long as her husband didn't mistreat her she has nothing to complain about.

Abby, I think that woman should find herself another rabbi. It is a fact that one of the 613 mitzvahs (rules in the Jewish code of conduct) states that a husband has a moral obligation to satisfy his wife sexually once a week.

My information comes from the Yeshiva University of Los Angeles. Sign me...

"KNOWLEDGEABLE GOY"

DEAR GOY: According to the Bible (Exodus 21:10), a husband is responsible for his wife's food, clothing and "conjugal rights"—which includes sex.

A man cannot be "commanded" by Jewish law (or any other law) to "satisfy" his wife sexually. But he has an obligation, to try.

DEAR ABBY: Eight years ago I had an affair with a co-worker, and like a fool, I told my husband everything. My life has been a living hell ever since.

I can't take the car without him checking the mileage. I can't use the phone without him adjusting the cord to see if it's been moved. Every time we have a disagreement, he brings up the affair and says I have to put up with anything he dishes out and I should consider myself lucky that he's still here.

We have one son, and my husband keeps telling me he will tell the boy all about me as soon as he's old enough to understand. (Abby, the boy wasn't even born at the time of my mistake!)

My husband wrote down everything I confessed to him and says he can use it in court with no proof. Every time we argue, he threatens to call the man's wife and tell her about me.

I've even told him to go ahead and have an affair himself if it would stop the revenge, but to quit threatening me!

Every time we receive a wrong number, he swears I'm fooling around. This has been going on for over 6 years and I can't take any more of it, but what can I do? My nerves are shattered.

TOO HONEST

DEAR HONEST: Give your husband an ultimatum. Tell him that unless he goes with you to a clergyman, marriage counselor or a mental health clinic, you will take your child and leave!

Perhaps with therapy he can be made to realize how cruel and sick his thinking is. If he refuses counseling, leave him. Life anywhere else would be preferable to the abuse you're getting.

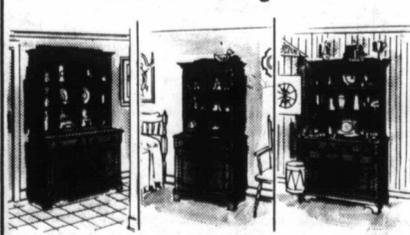

DEAR ABBY: That woman who wrote in to complain about gabby hairdressers sure got my goat. I'm a hairdresser, and I wish that lady could have stood behind my chair today. She'd have heard the details of four divorces, three hysterectomies, two kids spaced out on dope, and I don't know how many sad stories about cheating husbands, alcoholics and in-law problems.

If a hairdresser talks too much, the customer can always say, "No more talking, please. I'd like to relax." But if the customer decides to do a non-stop number on her hairdresser, no way can the hairdresser shut her up.

GRINNING AND BEARING IT

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Who says hutches are for dining rooms?

One of our Tell City beauties is probably the most gorgeous single piece you can put in an Early American dining room. But why stop there? A hutch can put beauty and storage in a family room or living kitchen. Make a hallway useful. Provide a bedroom hobby center. Of course, you need the right hutch. And that's where we come in. The area's largest selection of sizes and types will open your eyes to the many beautiful uses of a Tell City hutch.

Think what your neighbors will say when you install Gas air conditioning...NOW!

Your neighbors may talk a bit and raise a few eye brows when they see Gas air conditioning installed at your house on a cold, wintery day. Let 'em! They will appreciate your good judgement on the first warm days when your home is cool and comfortable while others are still waiting for installation. Call us now for a free cooling survey. No obligation.

Think what they'll say in 10 years... when it's still going strong, still in warranty!

10 YEAR NO SWEAT WARRANTY

*Manufacturer's ten year limited warranty covers all defects in material and workmanship on the sealed refrigeration unit for ten years from date of installation of the air conditioner when it is installed in a single family residence. All other parts are warranted for one year from date of installation.

After a decade of seeing you enjoy cool, comfortable, trouble-free summers, your neighbors can only say "Wow!" Gas air conditioning lasts and lasts without any loss of cooling capacity. There are fewer moving parts... and no compressor... to wear out. And, Gas air conditioners are built by craftsmen using more stainless steel than in any other unit. Those are the reasons why we can offer a ten-year warranty*. Install Gas air conditioning now and forget about expensive maintenance to your cooling system for at least 10 years!

Install Gas air conditioning now.

BARNEY'S COUNTRY PORK CHOPS

Uum, I can just taste their country goodness. Six hearty pork chops seasoned to perfection. A superb tasting dish that will delight family and company alike. As easy to make as it is delicious. And if you want your chops thicker or thinner than you see on the counter, just tell one of my boys. They'll cut them especially for you...just the way you like them.

6 pork chops 1 cup finely diced carrots 1 cup diced onions 1/2 cup tomato sauce 2T Worcestershire sauce	salt & freshly ground black pepper 1 cup diced celery 1/2 cup beef stock 2T prepared mustard chopped parsley
---	--

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Lightly grease the bottom of a large skillet with a little fat trimmed from chops. Season chops on both sides with salt and pepper. Brown well on both sides for about 15 minutes altogether. Sprinkle carrots, celery and onion in a shallow two-quart casserole. Arrange browned chops on top. Pour excess fat from skillet. Add stock, tomato sauce, mustard and Worcestershire sauce to the skillet. Blend. Pour mixture over chops, cover. Bake for 50 minutes; remove cover. Bake 15 minutes longer. Sprinkle with chopped parsley.
