

Farmers arrested in bridge melee

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — A column of about 75 tractors and pickup trucks — their lights flashing and carrying signs supporting American Agriculture — moved into this Lower Rio Grande Valley town today to support about 200 of their jailed comrades. Law enforcement officers kept the traffic flowing as the vehicles were parked away from the downtown area. About 300 farmers had gathered in the town by mid-morning. Sheriff's officials said the farmers would not be bothered as long as they did not block traffic or cause trouble. However, standing by were a helmeted squad of riot police and several tow trucks. The milling farmers clogged some of the roadway near the parking lot. The farmers were Valley residents who did not take part in the strike activities Wednesday. After the trouble at the International Bridge between farmers and law enforcement officers, they threw their support to the strikers.

"It's good to see these locals get off their duffers," one farmer said as the tractors rumbled into town. John H. Holcomb, of Progreso, said he was in town because he felt the police overreacted Wednesday. Holcomb said he was a former Border Patrol officer and special investigator and is now a member of the San Antonio branch of the Federal Reserve Board. More than 200 farmers, claiming they were victims of police brutality during the melee with nightstick-wielding police at the bridge, decided to remain in jail overnight rather than pay $18.75 for bond. Officers arrested 210 farmers from several states Wednesday after about 100 riot-equipped law enforcement officers lobbed tear gas canisters to break up the farmers' blockade of the bridge that spans the Rio Grande. There was shoving and fighting during the melee, with both sides striking blows. One handcuffed farmer was taken to a hospital, where he was admitted for treatment of cuts and bruises, and an elderly farmer was hospitalized after the tear gas aggravated his emphysema. A third person, a woman who claimed she had been beaten by police, was taken to a doctor. No officers were injured. Assistant District Attorney Doug Yancey said Wednesday night that "all but two or three" of the jailed farmers had elected to remain in jail. The farmers — including American Agriculture Movement members from Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kentucky and Georgia — are upset about the import of Mexican beef and vegetables they claim unfairly compete with American products. The prisoners were taken by bus to the Hidalgo County jail in nearby Edinburg. About six hours later, County Court at Law Judge Pete Benavides began mass arraignments on charges of obstructing a public place, a misdemeanor. The misdemeanor charge against the farmers carries a maximum penalty of 180 days in jail, $1,000 or both. Those farmers not arrested spent a damp night outside the jail in support of those inside. Officers let them in a building when it began raining but by morning they were outside again in a courtyard area. Farmer spokesman Joe Flannigan, of Corsicana, did post bond so he could coordinate the activities outside the jail. The farmers said they were hoping other farmers from across the country would head for the Rio Grande Valley to help them. The farmers could have been released by posting $18.75 of a $250 bond, Yancey said. "I ain't gonna pay no bond," said Ed Holly, a Mangham, La., farmer. Prisoners milling in the jail's recreation area said they felt they committed no crime and would leave only under personal recognizance bonds, under which they would have to post no money. Benavides said he would not consider setting personal recognizance bond. The judge also said if the farmers post no bond, it will be "May or June" before they could be tried.

Grand jury sets March meeting

District Attorney Rick Hamby said today that a tentative date for the Howard County grand jury expected to investigate the death of Juan Galaviz has been set. Hamby said the date was one of the last two weeks in March, but declined to release the specific date. "I don't want this to be held under any kind of pressure," said Hamby. "I want the grand jury to be free of distraction." The Howard County grand jury commissioners, who will select the grand jurors for the session, are scheduled to meet Wednesday. Juan Galaviz was killed by a policeman's bullet Dec. 8, 1977 as the 18 year old was being apprehended by police. The shooting followed Galaviz's alleged attack on a woman in the Howard College parking lot. Galaviz, after taking the woman's car and leaving the scene, allegedly returned and led police on a high-speed chase which ended at a roadblock at F.M. 700 and Birdwell Lane. Galaviz was apparently reaching for something concealed in his clothing at the time he was shot.

Regulations force change in mail pick-up methods

Three or four local firms will find that their normal mail pick-up methods have changed this week, as a result of stricter enforcement of federal Postal Service regulations. Firms that make a practice of picking up their own mail from the back door of the Post Office on their way to work will either have to pay $70, retrieve the mail from their boxes, or have the Postal Service deliver the mail. "Obviously, the regulation was written for large Post Offices," said Big Spring Post Office superintendent John Gee, "where it takes perhaps one or two hours of clerk time to hand the mail out the back door."

supposed to hold their mail out in a special distribution separation unless they pay the $70 fee required by the regulation," Gee explained. "The Postal Service is getting stricter on individual offices that have been more or less overlooking the fee." "At least one local firm, and possibly more will have to be charged the $70 fee — which is in addition to box rental charges. Their situation is specifically covered by the regulation, where in other cases, simply picking up the mail at their rented box, and accepting occasional overflow from the counter will be the only procedural changes," Gee said. "I suspect that any firms who will be required to pay the fee for picking up their own mail will simply tell us to deliver it," Hardesty added, "and I strongly feel that such an arrangement will cost the Post Office more than the clerk time required to hand the mail out the back as we did before. We have no choice but to follow it; the Midland Sectional Office came over to check us out, and that is the reason for re-examination of local policy and the stricter enforcement of the regulation."

"In our case, there are only a few firms — 'Call patrons' — who pick up mail this way, and it actually saves the Big Spring office time, since we don't have to send out a carrier. Our routes are already packed very full, and the addition of these firms to the carrier routes could mean overtime hours," Gee continued. "In the case of several of these firms," says Postmaster Frank Hardesty, "the boxes are large enough to hold mail, and we can simply hand the overflow — and parcels too large for the box — across the front counter. 'If they rent a box, we are not

Two more file for council

As the deadline neared, two more candidates filed to run for positions on the Big Spring City Council. With midnight Wednesday as the deadline for filing, Bill Hinkle Sr., 2706 Coronado, and Frank Martinez, 901 W. 3rd, threw their hats into the ring. Hinkle will vie for the place one seat now occupied by Harold Hall, who will run for a fourth term in this election. Martinez will attempt to unseat Ralph McLaughlin, place two councilmen, who will ask to be returned for his second term. Martinez is the owner of Francisco's Restaurant and Motel, 901 W. 3rd. Hinkle, previous owner of two local Super-Save Stores, has been retired for a year, but plans to open a new restaurant at 1810 Gregg soon.

Wilkinson to coach St. Louis Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bud Wilkinson, former University of Oklahoma football coach, has been named head coach of the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League. Cardinals owner Bill Bidwill announced today that Wilkinson, who has been out of coaching since he made an unsuccessful bid for the U.S. Senate in 1964, will replace Don Coryell as the Cards' mentor. Wilkinson won national championships with the Sooners in 1949, 1955 and 1956, and is considered to be one of the winningest coaches in college football. The announcement was a great surprise, as Bidwill knew it would be. "I'm just waiting for someone to come up to me and say, 'You sure came out of left field with this one,'" Bidwill said. "When that happens, I'm going to say, 'No, right field.'"

POLICE ARREST FARMER ON BORDER BRIDGE — Police officers wearing gas masks arrest a farmer on the border bridge at McAllen, Tex. Wednesday. About 250 striking farmers ran into tear gas and billy clubs after refusing to move from the U.S. Mexican bridge which they blockaded briefly Wednesday afternoon.

Building off to big start

February was a spectacular month for construction in Big Spring. With a total of 32 projects, costs totalled $2,643,899, bringing the total for the year so far to $2,979,584. February of 1977 garnered only $152,660 worth of projects, raising the total for the year to date to $254,185. By far the largest project for the month was the proposed construction of a new K-Mart Store at 1701 E. FM 700, by C&W Manhattan Associates. Construction costs were estimated at $1,400,000. Other significant projects included:

the remodeling of the old Malone-Hogan Clinic at 801 Main for the State National Bank, $600,000; the remodeling of Rip Griffin Truck Terminal properties at I.S. 20 and Highway 87, $162,000; and the construction of a skateboard park by Keith Bristow and David Terry at 900 W. FM 700, $100,000, and the remodeling of Harris Lumber Co., 1609 E. 4th, $55,000. Other projects which bolstered the total for the month included the construction of eight new homes in the city. Prices ranged from $28,500 to $50,000.

Pilot of ill-fated DC-10 praised

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was his last flight before retirement and Capt. Gene Hersche was taking his wife along to Honolulu as he taxied the big Continental Airlines DC-10 toward takeoff. Then a bang. Two tires blown out. Landing gear buckled. A shower of sparks from metal grinding on concrete. The plane careens to the right, toward a clump of buildings. Hersche, who will be 60 Friday, reacted in a flash Wednesday to pull it back to the left and bring the huge aircraft to a screeching, wobbling, fiery halt off the runway, but short of a fence. It was a maneuver that may have saved lives. But two passengers died when they scrambled over a burning wing and slid down an escape chute into flames and 79 passengers were injured, four critically, authorities said. Also injured were 11 firemen. Mrs. Hersche and the other 116 passengers and crew members escaped. "I think the pilot did a hell of a job stopping the plane before it hit the fence," said passenger Robert Lyon, 41, a Los Angeles attorney who is a private pilot. Another passenger, retired pilot George Ambros Jr., 61, of Hillsdale, N.J., said, "The captain certainly used his discretion well. Had he delayed two more seconds, we wouldn't have made it." When Hersche reversed the engines and veered to miss a car rental agency, the plane tipped to its side and a wing banged against the ground, rupturing a fuel tank. Sparks from the gear apparently set the leaking fuel ablaze, Continental officials said. "He saved a lot of lives," said Rick Dare, service manager for the car rental firm in the path of the out-of-control plane. "A lot of people were afraid to slide down (the escape chutes)," said Lyon.

belts tightly, put your head down and grab your ankles..." Workers in airport buildings watched the drama unfold. "The yellow escape chutes popped out of the exits and people began sliding down them," said Tom Spencer who works nearby.

Incumbents will not run again

Four candidates have filed to contest two seats being vacated by school board members. Board vice-president Jim Bill Little said today that he had decided to "let in some fresh ideas." Little, who has served eight years on the board, said, "I just think it is time to give someone else a chance. I have enjoyed serving very much and I think the district is in good shape." Don Reynolds, three-year veteran of the school board, said, "I've enjoyed working on the board and with the administration, but my daughter graduates this year and I decided it was time for someone with a direct interest to get involved." Bert Harris, Charles Beil, Paul Spence and Tom McCann have filed to run for the two slots vacated. Absentee balloting will take place March 13 through 28 at the county clerk's office.

IN A BED OF FOAM — A continental Airlines DC-10 jetliner lies in a bed of foam after it crashed during takeoff Wednesday at Los Angeles International Airport. Some 184 passengers and a crew of nine were aboard. Two persons were reported dead and 79 others injured. The flight was departing for Hawaii when the nose gear failed on takeoff.

After trouble in Hidalgo County Area group heads south

By MARJ CARPENTER Four Howard County farmers are among over 200 farmers incarcerated in the Edinburg jail, who chose that option rather than pay $18.75 bonds after they were arrested for blocking a public place in Hidalgo County at the tip of Texas Wednesday. Five area farmers were among those protesting at the international bridge between Hidalgo and Reynosa, objecting to importing farm products from Mexico.

Joe Barnes, Terry Brown and Morris Barnes plan to fly down Friday.

Mrs. Janie Reid called the local Agriculture Movement Office this morning and said that those who arrived last night were allowed to see the four men from Howard County and that they were "all right." "However, this morning, the law officials have become belligerent, as more and more farmers arrive. They won't let anybody see any of the prisoners now," she stated. She also said that "farmers are beginning to get out of hand and stepped off to one side with a handful of farmers who were the only ones not caught up in the arrest. Pitts telephoned the families of the other four Wednesday afternoon. Bill Wallace, Travis Reid, A.D. Reid and Marion Lea Snell were in the group that was forced into an inspection area by police armed with tear gas and truncheons. They were then placed in buses and taken through McAllen to the county seat of Edinburg, 15 miles to the north and placed in the county jail. The farmers were refusing to pay the misdemeanor bond, stating that they wanted out on personal recognizance. The local judge was refusing the personal bonds, demanding payment on the bond set on misdemeanors. Flying to McAllen Wednesday night from Big Spring were Mr. and Mrs. Donny Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Randall Reid, Mrs. Janice Reid and Darrell Coates. Driving down to the troubled area today in a motorcade were Mrs. Rita Pitts, Mrs. Betty Pitts, Bud Hughes, Roger Coates, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Reid, Bruce Parker, Ewan Evans, Jim Baum, Larry Don Shaw, Robert Nichols and Richard Parker. ## Park increasingly evasive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tongsun Park is increasingly evasive and is giving the House ethics committee incomplete and sometimes angry answers about alleged efforts to buy influence in Congress, several committee members say.

His evasiveness, they said after Park's second day of testimony Wednesday, was notable especially on the question of whether he was a South Korean agent when he gave congressmen thousands of dollars.

One member said Park was particularly evasive whenever investigators confronted him with information tending to support the allegation that he made contributions to buy influence in Congress for the South Korean government, not just for his rice business.

Park, who contends he contributed to congressmen out of friendship and to help his business, acknowledged to reporters that "the questions were very tough."

"A witness does not like to face such tough questions," Park said, "but I'm glad they are being tough so once and for all we can get the truth out."

The question of whether Park was a South Korean agent is important because the Constitution prohibits congressmen from taking money from a foreign agent, but until 1974, it was legal to accept contributions from a foreign businessman.

Reps. Bruce Caputo, R-N.Y., and Millicent Fenwick, R-N.J., were among the committee members who said Park was increasingly evasive, although they refused to say what kinds of questions he tried to evade.

Caputo said Park gave evasive or incomplete answers "many times" and seemed to have a good idea how much the committee already knows.

"He knows where we don't know things for sure but have some reason to believe something — and that's where he's cagey," Caputo said.

The Howard-Glasscock unit of the American Cancer Society has the one big crusade for funds during the year and also attempts to distribute educational literature concerning early detection of cancer.

The board of directors met Wednesday at the Spanish Inn, to finalize plans for the coming crusade.

A report was also heard on memorials from Mrs. Merle Stewart. Memorials may be sent to Box 2121.

Other board members present included Mrs. Fran Bordofsky, chairman; Oakey Hagood, James Hulen, Jerry Drake, and Marj Carpenter.

Mrs. Kay Clark and Mrs. Ruth Currie are in charge of the house-to-house campaign. Dr. James Cave heads the business drive and Wayne Henry is in charge of special gifts.

Henry will be assisted by Eddie Hedges. Working with Mrs. Currie and Mrs. Clark will be Mrs. Laura Erhardt, Mrs. Billie Smith, and Mrs. Ann Fairchild, Mrs. Belva Harrington, Dr. and Mrs. Ron Cohorn and Mike McCracken. In addition, they will be assisted by numerous women volunteering to be captains of certain sections of town as well as members of the high school student council and other student leaders.

Dr. Cave will be assisted by Mrs. Nell Wilson, Mrs. Joyce Phillips, Mrs. Cliffa Slate, Al Valdes, Ron Killough and Bob Hecker.

Double swap patient dies

HOUSTON (AP) — The young daughter of a woman whose heart and one kidney were transplanted into a 21-year-old man says the recipient's death made her feel like her mother had died again.

Kirk Russell Martin, 21, a Bay City, Texas oil field worker who two weeks ago became Houston's first heart transplant patient in eight years, died Wednesday.

Martin received the heart and kidney Feb. 14 in surgery performed by a team headed by Dr. Denton A. Cooley at the Texas Heart Institute of St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital.

The donor was Leona Singleton, 38, a mother of two who died of brain damage from a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Kay Cannon, 14, a daughter of Mrs. Singleton, said the recipient's death "made me feel like she died again. It was her death all over again."

"I thought he had been doing well. I thought he was going to make it. It was a big shock when I learned he was dead."

She said a hospital representative called her father, Marshall Singleton, to tell him about Martin's death.

In a statement announcing the death, a hospital representative said the transplanted heart functioned well but the donor kidney did not.

"There was no evidence of rejection of the transplanted heart," the hospital statement said.

"The lack of kidney function forced them (doctors) to continue use of the kidney machine which complicated his management."

Martin was described by his heart specialists soon after the surgery as the first person in the world to undergo a combination "last ditch" treatment using both a partial artificial heart pumping device and a human transplant.

The team headed by Cooley implanted the gift heart after five separate efforts to remove the mechanical pump had failed.

Martin came to the Texas Heart Institute three weeks ago after an abscessed tooth caused a bacterial infection which developed into bacterial endocarditis, a severe inflammation of valves or lining membranes of the heart. The inflammation destroyed his aortic valve.

Ridin' fence

Most West Texans fail to realize that at one time all of this part of the state was part of Bexar County.

Bexar County has as its seat, San Antonio, known at one time as the villa of San Fernando de Bexar. It was the first municipality in the Spanish province of Texas with the founding of the civil settlement of the Canary Islanders on June 21, 1731.

Soon after the Anglo colonists came to Texas in 1821, San Antonio became the western outpost of the settlement. With the winning of independence for Texas in 1836, departments became counties and on Dec. 20, 1836, Bexar County was created. That was 142 years ago when Texas won their hardfought independence. March 2 is Texas Independence Day.

At that time, Bexar County included what later became 128 separate Texas counties. It reached all the way up to El Paso and included West Texas up past Jones County.

In 1860, the first separate county was cut away from Bexar County.

The first one in this particular area to be officially organized was Mitchell County. Jones, Scurry, Fisher, Nolan, Howard, Dawson, Gaines, and Andrews followed.

Mitchell County was named for Eli and Asa Mitchell. Stephen F. Austin's original colony.

In 1871, the legislature named 54 counties created from Bayer with most of the counties named for early colonists of Texas or Revolutionary war heroes.

The first known person to live around Mitchell County, other than the Indians, was a buffalo hunter named John Moor, brother to J. Wright Moor who headquartered in Snyder and was credited with killing over 4,000 buffalo.

In the late '70s, the first herdsmen arrived, one of whom was George Waddell. He and J. F. Byler set up a cow camp at China Grove on the head of Champion Creek in the southeastern corner of the county. Just above the creek was the frontier store of R. S. McClintock which was made out of willow poles and buffalo hides.

Waddell and Byler moved their ranch quarters to Lone Wolf Creek on a crossing selected by Texas and Pacific, around 1880.

After the 54 counties were named, Waddell went to Albany on Dec. 20, 1880 to request to organize Mitchell County.

An election to organize the county was held on Jan. 10, 1881, in the lobby of the Grand Central Hotel.

Colorado City was named the county seat. There were 120 votes cast. The voters included the qualified locals as well as 30 Texas Rangers in Capt. Sam McMurray's company of Rangers which had been sent to keep law and order in the comparatively new territory.

J. R. Dobbins was the first county judge over there. Branch Isbell was the first county clerk and A. W. Dunn, treasurer.

R. C. (Dick) Ware was the first sheriff. Ware was a Texan Ranger, who a few years before had killed the bandit Sam Bass at the famous battle of Round Rock.

For those of you who have ever visited the battle sites of the Texas Revolution, such as the Alamo, Goliad, and San Jacinto, you will know the cost of that victory when Texas was fighting alone and not as part of the entire United States.

That 142-year-old battle for independence was from March 2 to April 21, 1836 when Santa Anna surrendered at San Jacinto. And Texas became a Republic, later becoming a state in 1845. Then it was January 1881 when Mitchell County became a county. Howard County, in turn, was officially organized on July 1, 1882.

Just thought I'd get the years in order and the sequence of events for those who may have forgotten when Texas gained its independence, when it joined the United States and when we became counties — out here where I ride fence.

ARRIVAL WAVE — New Mexico Gov. Jerry Apadaco, left, and Dallas Mayor Robert Folsom wave Wednesday after arriving at Gatwick Airport near Horley, England aboard the Braniff International plane in background. They were among a group of Braniff officials and civic leaders who came to England for the inauguration of cut-rate service between England and the United States. The inaugural flight was canceled Wednesday as the United States and Britain failed to conclude an agreement on air fares for the service from England to Dallas-Fort Worth.

Ian Smith agrees to transfer power to Rhodesia's blacks

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith and three black political leaders have made more progress toward conclusion of the agreement they are negotiating for transfer of political power from Rhodesia's whites to the black majority. Qualified sources reported Dec. 31 has been accepted by Smith, Bishop Abel Muzorewa, the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole and Chief Jeremiah Chirau as the date for transfer of power to the blacks. They also have agreed that each of them would be chairman in rotation of the transitional government that will run the country in the interim, the sources said.

Bank must honor 46-year-old savings account passbook

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Over bankers' protests that they would have to keep a "glut of paper," the Supreme Court today ruled that a McKinney bank had to honor a 46-year-old savings account passbook. The court said it found "no reversible error" in lower court decisions that Central National Bank of McKinney has to make good on the $1,000 savings account Mrs. C. F. Booher took out in 1932. With interest, Mrs. Booher received a $3,793 judgment, and the bank had to pay court costs. Mrs. Booher presented her passbook to the bank in February 1975. It showed no withdrawals or deposits since the initial deposit of $1,000. The bank refused her request for payment. At trial before a state district judge in McKinney, the bank produced three account cards in the name of Mrs. C. F. Booher — with a "k" — and claimed she was the same person as Mrs. Booher — with an "h." The account cards showed the account was closed with a withdrawal in 1935. But the trial judge and the Beaumont Court of Civil Appeals found that Mrs. Booher's passbook was proof she had made no withdrawals and had authorized none. The bank could produce no evidence she ever had reported a lost passbook. The lower courts also found that the records produced by the bank were not records of Mrs. Booher's account. The appeals court cited a provision in Mrs. Booher's passbook that no withdrawal could be made without it unless she proved to the board of directors it had been lost, stolen or destroyed. In a "friend of the court" brief, the Texas Bankers Association said there was no reasonable doubt that Mrs. Booher and Mrs. Booher were one and the same. Bankers already face "a glut of paper," and the problem will get worse because of the court decisions, the brief said. "If the decision stands, a Texas bank can never feel quite safe in destroying deposit records regardless of the time span involved. In this case, the claim is for only $1,000 but in the next case, the amount may be many times greater," the association's brief said. It said customers often lose certificates of deposit and banks replace them as a courtesy. "It is not at all farfetched to imagine that many of these original certificates may be discovered in an attic trunk 50 years later by an enterprising descendant and then be submitted to the bank for payment. The bank will rarely in such cases be able to meet the burden of proof which the decision of the court below imposes upon it," the bankers association said.

Texas 142nd birthday celebration delayed

WASHINGTON-ON-THE-BRAZOS, Texas (AP) — Young men with old guns and a teenage girl from an early German community are to be among those gathered here Sunday to celebrate Texas' 142nd birthday. Although the Convention of 1836 made its declaration of independence from Mexico on March 2, anniversary ceremonies will take place March 5 "to give more people a chance to participate," said Jim Ethridge, a member of the Washington-on-the-Brazos Park Association. The group — along with the Texas Independence Day Organization — sponsors the annual event. Most of the members of the Brazos Militia, a reenactment group formed recently, are antique gun buffs. They either own originals or build working replicas of the muzzle-loading rifles militia men used to defend the territory settled in the 1820s by land-hungry pioneers. "We'll be at the ceremonies to lend some atmosphere and to represent what Texas was — how it got started," said the group's "captain," Charles Kilsby, a Lake Jackson barber. Militia members try for as much authenticity as possible in their outfits said Sam Whitley, a Lake Jackson chemist. "Putting together a complete, authentic outfit can run as high as several hundred dollars," Whitley said. Beth Gilleland, who will help light candles on the giant birthday cake, said studying Texas history last year in the seventh grade in Klein probably meant more to her than to some of her classmates. She is a direct descendent of Virginians who established the first Anglo-American settlement in Texas.

'I'm rich and I want everything on the menu'

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — A 350-pound man walked into the restaurant and told night manager Cathy McCullough: "I'm rich and I want everything on the menu." Mrs. McCullough, 34, said she thought the man, who identified himself as March Banks Whiteman, was kidding until he flashed a roll of $100 bills. A cook worked for nearly two hours preparing breakfast, lunches and deserts for Whiteman and two companions while curious customers watched. The men ate the first three meals, then the remaining 153 dinners are packaged for carry out. At 5 a.m. Sunday, Mrs. McCullough rang up Whiteman's bill: $223.82. He peeled four $100 bills from his roll, leaving a $100 tip for the cook and the rest for his waitress. Whiteman, who Mrs. McCullough said was in his mid-30s, then loaded the boxes into his luxury car and left.

Three young boys perish in home fire

HOUSTON (AP) — Three young boys died Wednesday night when fire gutted their two-story southwest Houston townhouse. Fire officials said the boys' parents were playing bingo at a church at the time of the fire. The victims were identified as Jesse Padilla Jr., 11, Patrick Anthony Padilla, 8, and John Salvador Padilla, 6. District Fire Chief O. L. Burns said the bodies were found together in a second-story bedroom. He said it appeared they had been in bed at the time of the fire and had tried to get to a window. They were the sons of Jesse Padilla, 31, and Mary Lou Padilla, 27. Fire officials said the parents were playing bingo at a church and were notified by a neighbor of the children's deaths. Fire officials said the fire began on the first floor but the interior was so badly gutted it was difficult to determine the cause of the blaze. They said the fire was contained in the Padilla residence because of a fire wall between it and the adjoining townhouse.

Jimmy's White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is toying with the idea of taking up a new hobby — bird watching. Sharing space with the Bible on his Oval Office desk recently was a copy of the Audubon Society Field Guide to Birds of North America. Inquiries brought word that a friend had given Carter the book in the hope that the president would get interested in identifying different birds during weekends at Camp David, Md., or during trips home to Georgia. The president, who likes walking through woods, was reported giving serious thought to using the guidebook during his hikes. The identity of the book-giver remains a mystery. However, the administration's premier bird watcher is Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger. On these winter days too chilly for tennis, Carter exercises on the bowling alleys at the White House and Camp David. The level of the president's bowling skill is not something many people talk about. But an old friend and associate says a score of 165 is about right. When Carter visited snowy New Hampshire a couple of Saturdays ago, something new was added to presidential security measures, which seem to grow like Topsy. As Carter answered questions from high school students in a school gymnasium at Nashua, an officer on a police snowmobile zigged and zagged across neighboring fields looking for intruders. The Rev. Charles Trentham, the president's pastor at the First Baptist Church here, is a serious-minded man, and rarely more so than when occupying his pulpit. Last Sunday, however, Trentham began his sermon to Carter and others in the congregation by telling a joke. It concerned an argument among a surgeon, an engineer and a politician as to which represented the oldest of the three professions. The surgeon claimed the honor because God made Eve by carving her from Adam's rib. Whoa! cried the engineer. His profession was older because God created everything in six days from chaos. Carter managed a laugh as Trentham went on to relate that the politician claimed precedence for his profession by demanding, "Who do you think was responsible for the chaos?"

Prisoners supporting sheriff

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — Larimer County Sheriff Robert Watson has received support for reelection from an unlikely source — his prisoners. Watson has not announced his candidacy yet, but a group of prisoners in the county jail endorsed him in a letter to a Loveland, Colo., newspaper. The Loveland Daily Reporter-Herald received a letter on Feb. 19 signed by 29 inmates jailed in Fort Collins on charges ranging from burglary to murder. Watson was complimented by jail inmates for implementing numerous educational and vocational programs. The inmates said he has shown concern and regard for the welfare of each prisoner housed in the county jail. "Any opponent who seeks to replace Mr. Watson in his capacities at the forthcoming election would undermine and diminish his accomplishments," the letter concluded.

Trio charged with scheme to sell bogus Texas driver's licenses

HOUSTON (AP) — Three persons, including a Texas Department of Public Safety trooper, have been charged with bribery in connection with an alleged scheme to sell fraudulent Texas driver's licenses. Charged Tuesday were Delbert Trotter, 26, a DPS trooper; Betty Joyce Gray, 31, and Elizabeth Gonzalez Fernandez. Bonds of $5,000 were set for each. Major W. J. McLean, Houston area DPS region commander, said Ms. Gray, a civilian employee at the West Belford license service center, and Trotter were suspended from duty after the charges were filed. McLean said officials know that 10 to 15 fraudulent licenses were issued in recent weeks but officials do not know how long the alleged scheme had been working.

Jacinto City chief fired

JACINTO CITY, Texas (AP) — The Jacinto City Council has fired police chief Allan R. Jamail. The action Tuesday came after a 10-hour closed door session. Council members of the community on the outskirts of Houston announced it had voted to dismiss Jamail from his $18,000 a year job "for want of confidence." Jamail, a former city councilman who was appointed police chief in 1976, was taken to a Pasadena hospital Tuesday afternoon after complaining of illness, according to Jack Maner, city administrator. He was later returned to home to rest, Maner said. Maner would not say specifically what led to Jamail's dismissal. "The council agreed Allan had done many good things, but certain things were brought out in the past several months that resulted in the council losing confidence in him," Maner said. "The 10-hour session shows it wasn't an easy thing to decide." "If I have done anything wrong, it has been unintentional," Jamail told the council prior to the meeting.

Fat people eat more or gobble their food?

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A Memphis State University psychologist who doesn't have to worry about gaining weight has news for people who do. All those theories about fat people being that way because they eat more or gobble their food aren't necessarily accurate, Dr. Andrew Meyers says. Meyers, 29, has studied obesity and its causes for almost five years, first under Dr. Albert Stunkard at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia and, since 1976, at Memphis State. A slender man often mistaken for a student, Meyers sat in his tiny office recently and talked about his profession's record for treating obesity — a term he prefers to "fat." "We could almost never get people to take weight off," he said. "If they did, they didn't keep it off." At Pennsylvania, Stunkard examined assumptions about obesity to see how fat people differed from thin. One study involved more than 5,500 subjects at six Philadelphia restaurants. Teams kept track of customers' food choices to see whether overweight persons ate more food, particularly fattening foods. "In general," Meyers said, "we couldn't find any difference." Then researchers watched customers eating — counting bites, sips, chews and 17 other eating behaviors. "Still no difference," Meyer said. "The basic assumption was that if you're fat, you eat faster, but it didn't hold up." In a third study, researchers found the percentage of overweight customers doubled on buffet or smorgasbord nights. "That says maybe some of our traditional evidence is holding," the psychologist said. "But a lot of our basic assumptions are shaky." Meyers said research shows some overweight persons may benefit more from a daily walk than from a drastic diet. Though study is a long way from complete, Meyers said, it suggests the most effective way to reduce may be through slight changes in exercise. "Obese people throw up their hands and say they don't want to get into jogging or playing three sets of tennis a day," he said. "We're not talking about that. We're talking about making a slight change... designing individual activity programs just slightly more active than they were." For example, he said, 10 minutes of mild morning exercise and a 20-minute evening walk could, with no change in eating habits, take one pound off every 35 days. "That's not much, but if we're talking about long-term benefits, it may be much healthier than a crash diet," he said. Meyers said that such treatments as rigid dieting are good for some and that genetics and metabolism may play a role in some obesity. "It's still appropriate to go about changing the eating habits of obese people... but a lot of people are already eating very little," he said. "I think making the kind of changes we are talking about could be one of the answers we've been looking for."

GOMA official asked FBI to investigate rumors

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — An official of the governor's office says he asked the FBI to investigate rumors he had helped a private trade school operator get business from Manpower program operators.

Domingo Lopez of the Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs denied published reports he had aided James H. Bartlett of Midland obtain subcontracts for his trade schools from programs funded through GOMA.

The FBI declined to comment on published reports it was looking into Bartlett's relationships with Lopez and Fred Buchanan, a Manpower official with the Texas Department of Community Affairs (TDCA).

Lopez said Wednesday he mentioned the rumors to FBI agents at the close of an interview during which he testified under oath about GOMA contracts.

"I told them this was being passed around, and if they were interested I would like to have this cleared up as soon as possible," Lopez said.

Director Ben McDonald of the Texas Department of Community Affairs said Bud Harris, chief of TDCA's manpower division, would check out the report that Buchanan had helped Bartlett — a former business partner — obtain job training subcontracts.

He said he ordered Buchanan in 1975 to divest himself of an interest in a private trade school even though the department's counsel said there was no conflict of interest.

In another development, acting GOMA director Don Adams suspended Sergio Martinez, a deputy director, for not cooperating with a Travis County Grand Jury on Tuesday.

"His attorney told me he took the Fifth," said Adams.

Martinez was in the grand jury room only one minute Tuesday afternoon in the panel's first known session concerning alleged misuse of federal Manpower funds.

Danny Stokes, Martinez' lawyer, refused to say if he had informed Adams what his client had said in the secret grand jury proceedings.

A friend said Martinez, 34, told him Tuesday night that he didn't have anything to hide but took the Fifth on advice of counsel.

"I don't think they asked him anything except what they (state investigators) had already been questioning him about," the friend said.

He said investigators had asked Martinez about a $107,000 voucher he had signed to authorize payment of Manpower funds to Counterpoint Systems, Inc.

Counterpoint had a $900,000 contract to do various tasks for GOMA, with 42 persons who became known as "hidden employees" of the governor's office.

The source said the voucher became invalid when GOMA director Rogelio Perez switched from a direct contract with Counterpoint to one that laundered the money through the Texas Migrant Council of Laredo.

Perez and GOMA program director Joaquin Rodriguez were suspended in January after taking the Fifth in a Brownsville court of inquiry probing Manpower programs in that area.

Lopez denied a report that Perez took away his duties after his relationship with Bartlett was questioned by GOMA officials and Manpower contractors at a meeting last year in San Angelo.

He said two things caused his temporary demotion: his complaints that Perez was mismanaging Manpower funds and Perez' suspicion that he was somehow involved in the beating of a friend.

Lopez acknowledged there might have been occasions when he and Bartlett visited Manpower program operators at the same time.

"I did not plan any trips or meetings of any kind where we introduced him. He traveled around a lot. If we were in the same place at the same time, I would have introduced him to you," Lopez said.

TDCA documents show Buchanan made no secret of his one-time business connection with Bartlett.

Buchanan informed Harris, his boss, on April 9, 1975, that he owned a half-interest in a Bartlett operation, the Austin Vocational Trade School, Inc.

Buchanan said in a memo that TDCA counsel Tom Laramey told him the possibility of conflict of interest "was only very remote" since the school did not deal with program operators funded through TDCA.

He promised, however, to avoid any situations where his actions might benefit the school. TDCA director McDonald later ordered Buchanan to give up his interest, which Buchanan did.

Lopez said that even though Bartlett's operations had been questioned by the Texas Education Agency — which regulates private trade schools — he thought the schools did a good job.

"Right now I'd contract with him if we had the money," Lopez said.

Lopez said the FBI had talked with him mainly about GOMA contracts, especially Counterpoint.

He said agents also were interested in the fact that GOMA, under Perez, had signed contracts for job training and other manpower services that exceeded the federal money available.

Even with Perez out of the picture, GOMA's overcontracting still amounts to $367,000 for job training alone, Lopez said.

Cost of feeding family doubled in five years

Higher prices for beef and eggs helped boost the family grocery bill again last month, leaving the total nearly 11 percent bigger than it was a year earlier and almost 60 percent above what it was five years ago, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

Plan ahead, save up to 20 percent

Gambling at the supermarket? Statistics show Americans spend about $397 million each day chancing that their food budgets will meet family nutrition needs. As a guide to cutting food costs without eliminating essential nutrients, nutritionists suggest using USDA's Four Food Groups system.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and non-food items and checked the price on March 1, 1973, at one supermarket in each of 13 cities. The prices have been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. One item — chocolate chip cookies — was dropped from the list late last year because the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

Food shoppers should compare the cost per serving of foods in the same food group, such as milk and yogurt or ground beef and beef roasts. In this way, the Four Food Group system can aid consumers in choosing a more economical food while maintaining the nutritional value of the type food they intend to buy.

Don't overhawe frozen fruits

Serve frozen fruits still icy, advises Marilyn Haggard, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. When frozen fruit fully thaws, the texture is soft and mushy, the specialist says.

Plan to serve two different types of pasta for your party. Contrast a long thin spaghetti or linguini with plump shells or egg bows for a decorative touch. Make sure you have enough large cooking pots to accommodate the quantity you are planning on — two pots for the pasta and one for the sauce. Allow approximately one quarter pound of pasta per person in total.

Now to sauce the dish. Offer a choice of two different sauces with contrasting colors and flavors. Tomato sauce originated in southern Italy and is the type most Americans know. This Sausage Tomato Sauce has a sweet rich flavor and is very easy to prepare. Spinach Pesto Sauce comes from the cuisine of Genoa in northern Italy and is a taste treat more unique to the American palate.

Ghost towns add color

Modern Women's Forum met Friday in Coker's Restaurant with Mrs. Fred Whitaker as hostess. Mrs. Cass Hill presided and members answered roll call by naming interesting places in Texas that they had visited. "Mountains, forests, plains: what a Lordly heritage to claim," a selected quote, was read by Mrs. Hugh Duncan in introducing the program of the day, "Our Texas Heritage."

Others, she said, were mining towns and religious settlements which were later abandoned. Particular attention was called to Thurber in Erath County—a town at one time with a population of 10,000, but today only the brick smokestack and yawning openings in the earth from which coal was mined remain. Each year on July 4 the remaining 80 people living there stage a homecoming to recall the days when Thurber was the state's leading coal producer. July 5 the grounds are deserted and Thurber returns to the sleepy little town it is.

During the 23 years of their marriage, eight children were born to them and because of the love and devotion of his wife, Houston was able to win the greatest victory of all by conquering himself. The impatient youth who had known excesses became a gentle, wise and principled man.

At the age of 70, he died, and during his illness Mrs. Houston sat by his bed and read his favorite parts of the Bible. His last words were "Texas, Margaret, Margaret"—the two things he loved most.

Gifted children not always easy for parents to spot

Your 2-year-old daughter is constantly asking questions. Is it normal curiosity or the sign of a gifted child? Your 4-year-old son likes to look through books. Is he merely typical for his age or he is showing indications of something more? Almost all parents like to think their children are unusually talented or bright in some area, but identifying the truly gifted youngster can be a difficult task. According to the Office of Gifted and Talented in the U.S. Office of Education, gifted and talented children are capable of high performance; they have demonstrated ability or achievement in one or more of a number of areas, including general intellect, creative thinking, visual and performing arts or leadership. The office estimates that 3 to 5 percent of the school-age population—two to five million children—could be considered gifted or talented. How can you tell if your child is one of the few? Writing in a recent issue of "American Education," Dorothy A. Sisk, director of the Office of Gifted and Talented, noted that the intellectually gifted child—the one who begins reading early, for example, and rapidly goes through all his or her school books—is the easiest type to spot, particularly in a school setting. "Children with giftedness in say, specific academic aptitude, leadership, visual and performing arts and creativity may be high achievers in only one subject, with records of underachievement in other areas," said Dr. Sisk. Dr. Sisk said there are several characteristics that point to a gifted child. Among them: —Early use of advanced vocabulary. A normal 2-year-old, for example, might say: "There's a doggie." The gifted 2-year-old might expand the sentence, including more than one idea. For example: "There's a brown doggie in our backyard sniffing the flowers." —Keen observation and curiosity. Watch for the child who pursues a specific line of questioning, seeking more and more information. —Retention of a variety of information. Gifted children often amaze parents and teachers by recalling details of past experiences. —Periods of intense concentration. A 1-year-old gifted child, for example, might sit for five minutes or more listening to a story being read to an older brother or sister. —Ability to understand complex concepts and think abstractly. —A broad and changing spectrum of interests. Gifted children often show an intense interest in one subject for a period of time, then turn, equally intensely, to a totally unrelated subject. —Strong critical thinking skills and self-criticism.

Gifted children evaluate themselves and others, but they are particularly critical of themselves. If you believe your child is gifted, you should consult with teachers and other school personnel or with authorities at the local college or university. Further information is available from the Office of Gifted and Talented, U.S. Office of Education, Donohoe Building, 400 6th St. S.W., Room 3835, Washington, D.C., 20202.

Since the family hasn't been effective, why don't you put the bug into the ear of a non-family member such as a physical education teacher, school nurse, or a girl friend. Hints haven't worked. Maybe telling her the truth will. Doctor Wallace, I'm almost 18, have a good head on my shoulders and consider myself responsible. My problem is that mother will not allow me to go out on school nights except to go to work. I never get a chance to see my girlfriends except on the weekends and that's the time I see my boyfriend. Several times my boyfriend has asked if we could double-date with a friend and his date. I always have to say no unless it's a weekend. Then we have a fight. It always seems like it is my fault but it's not. It's my mother's. If I get my homework done and finish my chores, I don't see why I can't date on weekdays. Do you agree? Carla, York, Pa.

But I do agree that occasionally you should be allowed to date on a school night if homework and chores are finished. You are old enough to accept that responsibility! Doctor Wallace, I'm 13 and have a 9-year-old sister who thinks she can hit me any time she pleases. I never hit her back; I just yell at her to knock it off, but she never does. # War on abortion changes from debate to bombs, arson, guns

WASHINGTON (AP) — For some "fanatics," the weapons in the war on abortion have changed from strident debate to bombs, arson and guns, says a pro-abortion group that cites attacks at clinics in 13 cities.

The National Abortion Rights Action League, a lobbying organization, says in a report released Wednesday that the attacks on clinics follow a pattern.

About two weeks ago, Aurelia E. Elliot, a worker at the private Concerned Women's Clinic in Cleveland, answered the clinic door and a man threw a bag at her.

She was temporarily blinded when it hit her in the face and burst. The contents were thought to have been gasoline. The man ignited the liquid and the fire caused $30,000 damage.

A few days earlier, van-das threw iodine around the clinic and cut telephone cords.

A clinic in Cincinnati was hit last month when a chemical bomb and packets of literature were thrown through a window. The report claims that the substance in the bomb is listed by the government for use in warfare.

Recently, demonstrators who had been protesting repeatedly outside a Fairfax, Va., clinic roughed up staff members and knocked a pregnant worker to the ground. There have been 20 arrests at the clinic during the last 15 months, according to the report.

There also have been threats against the children of abortion clinic workers, the report adds.

In St. Paul, someone broke into the Planned Parenthood offices a year ago, soaked the floor with a flammable liquid and ignited it. Water and smoke damage was estimated at $250,000.

The clinic director's life was threatened and board members have received threats that their children would be kidnapped. One board member sought police protection because of persistent threats. A bomb was heaved through the clinic window late last month, but it did not go off, the league said in its report.

A group calling itself People Expressing A Concern for Everyone (PEACE) has claimed credit for six coordinated clinic incidents on Jan. 6. The group disrupted clinic activities around the country, with members being arrested in New York, Minneapolis, Baltimore, Anchorage, Omaha and Fairfax.

"These are serious, horrible crimes being committed by those who oppose women's right to choose," said Karen Mulhauser, NARAL executive director.

The report was released as the debate over abortion took a new turn in Congress. The House Education and Labor Committee voted Wednesday on abortion legislation that will affect, for the first time, middle-class women. So far, congressional debate has focused on federal abortion payments for poor women.

The committee agreed to a proposal that would allow employers to refuse paying for abortions under medical and sick leave benefits. The amendment was attached to pregnancy benefits legislation.

Airports prepare for predicted surge in air travel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many American airports are turning to technology in preparation for a predicted surge in air travel in the next decade.

To increase the number of flights an airport can handle, researchers are developing and testing a number of technological tools: better instrument landing systems, automated flight data processing, fog dispersal systems, and devices to better forecast the weather and to detect the current in the slipstream of an aircraft, which is potentially dangerous to following planes.

The Federal Aviation

Administration predicts that more than 433 million passengers will ride the nation's domestic air routes, scheduled and commuter in 1989. That's 81 per cent more than the 239 million carried last year.

To meet this demand, the Transportation Department said last September that as many as 10 major new airports might have to be built by the year 2000. But it added that expansion of current facilities and the introduction of new technology could reduce the need to only one new airport.

Even under the most favorable conditions, the study said, an additional airport will be required to serve the San Francisco-Oakland area.

The study presumed that a new or additional airport is needed when the average runway delay exceeds six minutes.

Transportation Secretary Brock Adams identified other likely candidates as Boston, New York and Philadelphia. But he said it probably would not be feasible to build in New York and Boston, based upon considerations such as anticipated impact of noise, air quality, water quality, access and site selection procedures.

He said Atlanta, Chicago,

Denver and Seattle appear to be feasible areas for airport relocation, but that relocations are doubtful in Minneapolis, Philadelphia and St. Louis.

In addition, the report said Los Angeles is expected to reach a limit of 40 million passengers by 1995 and a new airport will be required to handle overflow if ground access to the present airport cannot be improved.

Los Angeles, Miami, New York and Minneapolis have proposed new airport locations in recent years but have been blocked by protests over noise, pollution and land use. Miami was one of 10 cities in the survey considered to have adequate facilities for the foreseeable future. The others are Cleveland, Detroit, Honolulu, Houston, Las Vegas, New Orleans, Pittsburgh, San Diego and Tampa.

"Because of environmental, financial and practical considerations, it may turn out that the Dallas-Fort Worth airport will be the last major airport built in the United States for a long time to come," commented an FAA official.

The Dallas-Fort Worth facility, opened in 1974, is one of the most modern airports in the world, located in the countryside far from heavily-populated areas.

The debut of the jumbo jets, which carry more people per plane, has relieved some of the pressure on airports.

While the passenger load will be up an estimated 81 percent in 1989, the FAA calculates the number of takeoffs and landings will rise less than 50 percent in that period.

That still is a significant number, which is why airports are looking to technology for the answer to speeding the flow of traffic.

Among devices being developed is one to detect wake vortex, the current generated in the slipstream of an aircraft which forces following planes to keep a safe distance. The system is being tested at some major airports, with a view toward making it operational in 1980.

"We have found in certain meteorological conditions, such as a minimum crosswind component across the runway, the distance between aircraft can be cut almost in half with no degradation in safety," an FAA report said.

The advent of microwave landing systems — MLS — will increase the capacity of an airport by the use of precise multiple guide paths for different aircraft and curved approach paths that can be used to keep planes away from communities for less noise impact.

As a means of controlling aircraft on the ground, airport experts are studying an installation at London's Heathrow airport which uses radar and a system of red and green taxi lights. The red lights are used to form a bar across a runway and are turned off when an aircraft is cleared to continue.

Other proposed systems use radar and radio to keep contact with taxiing aircraft. Runway traffic control will become more important with the move to establish lower minimums for landings at major airports.

A fog dispersal system is being installed on a runway at Los Angeles International to be used on a selective basis. It is similar to that used at Paris' two airports to reduce aircraft diversions and delays.

Many airports are considering easing congestion by dispersing peak traffic loads and by diverting general aviation — non-airline, mostly private — flights to satellite fields.

Terminal improvements go hand-in-hand with an airport's ability to handle more traffic.

Two years ago, the airlines, most just emerging from hard times, were not eager for airport authorities to spend their money on terminal expansion. But the 1976 Airport Development Act for the first time made federal funds available for such improvements, and many authorities are making use of this money.

Theft of court funds traced

BOSSIER CITY, La. (AP) — District Attorney Henry Brown says charges probably will be filed in the theft of several thousand dollars from Bossier City's municipal court fund.

Brown said an audit would be needed to determine exactly how much was stolen. He said the total was several thousand dollars but apparently was less than $10,000.

Clerk of Court Martha Alexandria said she discovered the missing funds Friday after the Legislative Audit Advisory Committee asked for a fiscal statement of all the court's funds.

'Day of Prayer' slated Friday

Mayor Wade Choate has proclaimed Friday to be a "Day of Prayer" in Big Spring.

The celebration of the event will take place on a nationwide scale under the auspices of Church Women United.

In Big Spring services will be held in the Salvation Army Chapel at the corner of Fourth and Aylford, beginning at 10 a.m. Friday. A nursery will be provided at the First Methodist Church.

The public is invited to attend. Special guest speaker will be Mrs. Lt. Col. Harland Cleveland of the Salvation Army Texas Division.

Mrs. Cleveland was commissioned as a Salvation Army Officer in 1937. She has served the Salvation Army in divisions across the United States and Mexico.

She is also an active member of Church Women United, and is currently the Texas Director of Women's Services and Home League Secretary for the Salvation Army.

MRS. LT. COL. CLEVELAND

Coffee planned as seal benefit

A Coffee Day, put together jointly by B. W. Thompson of the Highway Restaurant and the Easter Seal program, will be held March 9 at the Highway Restaurant in Garden City.

All proceeds from the sale of coffee will go to the Easter Seal program to support the Texas Easter Seal Society.

The Society started its annual Spring Campaign Wednesday and will conclude the fund-raising April 1 with the seventh annual Easter Seal Telethon.

The Easter Seal Society has served the physically handicapped by furnishing treatment and service which is not available elsewhere.

Last year, the Texas Easter Seal Society spent over $3 million in service to the handicapped. The society's efforts this year are dependent on the continued support of the public.

Endorsement is withheld

The family of Lisa Thixton said today that they have not endorsed a dance being billed for this weekend as a Lisa Thixton Benefit.

The mother of the young cancer victim said that the persons putting on the dance had told them that all sponsorship donations would go to the group and only admissions would go to the victim.

Because of misunderstanding and the fear that some people would be misinformed, Mrs. Thixton said the family prefers not to endorse the fund raiser.

Roundup set March 10-12

SWEETWATER — The annual Sweetwater Jaycee Rattlesnake Roundup will be held March 10, 11, and 12 at the Nolan County Coliseum in Sweetwater.

The event has been held since 1958 with about the same number of snakes captured every year. The snakes are brought to the coliseum where they are weighed and placed in lined and floored pits for public viewing.

Heavy screened partitions separate the spectators from the venomous reptiles.

Safety and handling demonstrations are given by a professional handler, and snake-bite first aid is discussed. Following the demonstration, the snakes are "milked" of their venom which is used in medical research.

The roundup also offers sightseeing tours of the area, cooked snake meat, souvenirs and a large gun and coin show.

One may also take the opportunity to go along with an experienced hunter on an actual snake hunt. A registration fee is charged to cover the cost of a hunting permit, insurance and hunting instructions.

As a part of the roundup, the annual Miss Snake Charming Pageant will be held in the Sweetwater High School Auditorium on the night of March 10.

Song-Fest will be conducted

A Song-Fest has been scheduled at the Kentwood Older Adult Center, 2805 Lynn, Monday at 7 p.m., featuring two visiting groups.

A ladies' ensemble from the First Baptist Church directed by Mrs. Reggie Cranford will sing, as will a youth trio from First Assembly of God Church. Members of the trio are Robert and David Pruitt and Don Houghton.

The public is invited to attend.

Miller good bet to head FRB

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee voted 14-1 today to recommend that the Senate confirm the nomination of G. William Miller to a four-year term as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

Committee Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., cast the only vote against the 52-year-old industrialist, saying he felt Miller is unqualified by experience to be the nation's top central banker.

Miller, board chairman of Textron Inc., a major U.S. conglomerate, survived a six-week investigation of an alleged business bribe to an Iranian general.

If confirmed by the Senate, Miller would replace Arthur F. Burns in one of the most powerful positions in government.

Miller is a lawyer and engineer who has been active in Democratic politics.

His confirmation was stalled in January by a committee investigation of a $2.95-million payment made by Textron's subsidiary, Bell Helicopter, to Air Taxi Inc., Bell's sales agent in Iran. The late Iranian Air Force

Gen. Mohammed Khatami, brother-in-law of the Shah of Iran, allegedly was a secret owner of Air Taxi at the time of the payment. Khatami was killed in a 1975 accident.

Miller twice has denied under oath at banking committee hearings that he knew Khatami was an owner of Air Taxi. The Textron chairman testified at Tuesday's hearing that he still wasn't convinced that Khatami was an owner.

Miller also testified that he has done nothing illegal or improper in his business dealings.

Proxmire said the full Senate probably will act on the Miller nomination Friday.

Even after his confirmation, Miller will remain under investigation. The Securities and Exchange Commission is looking into the Air Taxi situation and four other areas in which the business practices of Textron or one of its 30 subsidiaries have been questioned. Officials say the investigation could last as long as six months.

Miller has said that the SEC investigation would not impede his work at the Federal Reserve because, he contends, nothing would be discovered that would damage his reputation or embarrass the Carter administration.

The new Federal Reserve chairman will have to deal with several important policy decisions. They include a set of choices about interest rate levels, which will have a significant impact on economic recovery, unemployment and inflation.

Also of immediate concern will be what to do about the sharp and continuing decline in the value of the dollar abroad.

Carter has 'good hope' for coal pact ratification

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, nervously awaiting the outcome of the United Mine Workers contract ratification vote, is taking subtle steps to guide 166,000 striking miners toward approval of the pact.

Officially, the administration is staying out of the ratification drive put together by union leaders. Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said at a news conference Wednesday it would be inappropriate for federal officials to be "out-campaigning" for the tentative pact.

But sources said the administration approached Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., earlier this week to discuss whether he would be willing to help in the drive.

Sources said the discussion Monday included the possibility of Kennedy making a trip to West Virginia to urge miners to vote an end to their 87-day strike. Kennedy decided against such a step, according to the sources, who asked it to be identified. A Kennedy aide said the Massachusetts Democrat "feels it's the best role for him to play as a member of the Senate Human Resources Committee."

The aide would handle any legislation President Carter requests to impose a government end to the strike should the miners turn down the contract.

Carter said Wednesday he has "good hope" for ratification, and Marshall said, "It's looking favorable."

But several top administration officials believe ratification is far from certain. At his news conference, Marshall conceded there is "ferment" in the coal fields over the terms of the pact.

He said there is little chance for new negotiations and said the administration is prepared to act immediately to end the strike if the contract is turned down.

The miners will be voting over the weekend on whether to end their strike against the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, a 130-member organization responsible for half the nation's coal production.

The UMW itself is promoting the proposed contract through a series of radio and television advertisements that began airing on Wednesday. Union officials have said they will spend $40,000 for air time for the contract commercials.

The administration has made no secret of its desire for the contract to be approved. Carter, announcing the tentative settlement Friday on national television, urged the miners to ratify the pact, and he and Marshall also have referred to miners' patriotism in several public statements.

At his news conference, Marshall responded to one question by outlining several points in the contract that are beneficial to the UMW membership.

These include wage increases up to 37 percent,

Medicare enrollment is under way

"A general enrollment period for Medicare is now in progress," announced Don Minyard of the local social security office. The general enrollment period extends from Jan. 1 through March 31 of each year. During that time anyone eligible to enroll in Medicare may do so.

Generally, those eligible to enroll are individuals over age 65 who missed their initial opportunity to enroll. This first chance to enroll extends from 3 months before the month of one's 65 birthday to 3 months after one's 65th birthday.

There is another group of people more recently eligible for Medicare to whom these rules apply. This latter group are those people who have been receiving disability checks for at least 24 months.

Enrollment for them is usually automatically carried out after they have received disability checks for 24 months. Should they pass up their initial opportunity to enroll and later wish to enroll, the general enrollment period is the only time for such late enrollment.

Anyone desiring to enroll during the general enrollment period must contact the social security office, either by phone or in person. Coverage for all individuals enrolling during the general enrollment period begins July 1 following their enrollment.

Loose cattle
 PLAINVIEW, Texas (AP) — A collision between a truck and a train here Wednesday left the truck's cargo of cattle dead, injured or liberated. No humans were injured.

Police and city officials were still working late Wednesday night to round up about 70 head of cattle that were reported roaming in the central and northeastern sections of Plainview.

Authorities said between eight and 10 head of cattle died as a result of the collision, and about another 10 would die or be destroyed by morning because of injuries.

The truck's driver said he gunned the motor to clear the cab from the tracks, which moved the trailer portion astride the tracks. Police said the collision with the southbound freight train was An eyewitness said the train suffered slight damage.

Radio-dispatched vehicles from all city departments were assigned to the search, to which all city employees and available police officers were assigned.

Police said The cattle belong to a local feedyard.

Former judge disbarred
 AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Former Duval County District Judge O.P. Carrillo — in prison on income tax charges — has been disbarred, says the State Bar of Texas.

The bar said in a statement Wednesday that the disbarment took place in the 229th District Court in San Diego, Texas, with Judge Vernon Harville presiding.

The bar said Carrillo was convicted of filing false and fraudulent income tax returns in 1975 and is serving a prison term.

Upon his conviction, the bar said, Carrillo was suspended from practicing law, pending completion of his appeals. After he had exhausted his appeals, a grievance committee of the bar filed the disbarment suit.

Carrillo was removed from office when the Texas Senate impeached him in January 1976 for allegedly stealing taxpayers' money through phony equipment rentals.

The Senate voted 22-5 to impose the additional penalty of barring him from holding public office ever again.

Rainbow span far out idea

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — New Orleans artist Emery Clark wants to transform the Interstate 10 bridge across the Mississippi River here into a "drive-through rainbow."

The city's beautification committee and mayor-president are backing Miss Clark's proposal to paint the bridge in 24 different colors. "It's rather far out, but then when you get to thinking about it, it's unique," said Mayor-President Woody Dumas.

Approval is needed from state highway officials who said last month they planned to recommend a $2 million cleaning and painting job for the tollfree bridge.

The idea first was proposed to the city of New Orleans by Miss Clark, but officials there said they couldn't afford it as the bridge connecting the city with the West Bank had been repainted in 1976.

Comment from capital

Boots made for walking

AUSTIN — Most persons who take physical examinations do so in a quiet sort of way, relating the event only to relatives and close friends.

People all over Texas now know — or will know if they keep reading — that Sen. John Tower took a walking stress test wearing old cowboy boots.

The reason they know that is that Tower's publicity staff called reporters around the state to relate all the details, including quotes from the doctor.

Tower was proclaimed in good shape for someone who gets most of his exercise walking the halls of the national capitol.

The physical took place in Wichita Falls and was given by a longtime Tower supporter.

Lieutenants in the John Hill for governor campaign.

Jim Davis

Madla, vice chairman of the House Health and Welfare Committee, wants a legislative investigation of a department rule involving a law passed by the legislature last year.

The law requires, among other things, that representatives from private organizations for the elderly accompany health department teams inspecting licensed nursing homes.

Madla's ire is aimed at the rule requiring the citizen-member's comments to be "advanced, if appropriate, within the field staff report and not independently or publicly."

Kenneth Dickson, executive secretary of the association, says the committee said it "accepts the invitation and if the governor can't be there he will send a representative."

Legionnaire's disease' no, no. ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state Senate has approved a measure that would forbid state officials from using the term "Legionnaire's disease" to describe a mysterious illness that emerged during an American Legion convention in Philadelphia two years ago.

But the senate didn't say what word officials could use to describe the illness. In fact, the bill had to resort to saying public officials could not call "the disease commonly known as 'legionnaire's disease,'

The vote in favor of the ban, sponsored by legislators who said the name of the disease was offensive to war veterans, was 54-2.

"How are the people supposed to know what health officials are talking about when they can't use the name everybody knows?" asked Sen. Frank Leichter, D-Manhattan, one of those who voted against the measure.

TEXAS

They were mad after they learned Gov. Dolph Briscoe won't appear before the Association of Texas Educators on Friday (March 3).

Jack Martin of the Hill campaign says he was guaranteed by convention planners that Briscoe would be in McAllen for the educators' convention.

"We wanted him (Attorney General Hill) to stand up there next to the governor and let the people see them side-by-side on the education issue," Martin says.

Ken Clapp of the Briscoe campaign says the governor never had been committed to appear in McAllen. He said prior commitments had been made for the same time in Houston.

The confusion may have been generated by some ambiguity in the response by the governor's campaign committee.
