

Masked Moluccans seize hostages

ASSEN, Netherlands (AP) — Masked and heavily armed South Moluccan militants shot their way into a government office building today, wounding at least six persons and taking 30 to 40 others hostage, authorities said.

The area around this northern Dutch city has been the scene of previous terror attacks by South Moluccans who demand Dutch help in winning independence from Indonesia for their Asian homeland, a former Dutch colony.

The specific demands of the gunmen, numbering at least three, were not immediately known. But in earlier attacks Moluccan terrorists have demanded freedom for comrades jailed in Holland.

At least two persons fleeing the modern Drente provincial government office building were gunned down from behind and slightly wounded, and it was reported that others were shot inside.

The terrorists, numbering at least three and said to be armed with pistols and at least one machine gun, sprayed the streets outside with gunfire from upper-floor windows. Police in armored cars ringed the building.

Many government employees fled the building in a panic, some sliding down fire hoses lowered from windows and then fleeing through the backyard, police said.

"The bullets were flying about our ears," said Leo G. Klok, 42, a government clerk who escaped without injury.

Police spokesman P.T. Sinnema said one of the Moluccans rode up to the building in a taxi, pulled out a concealed machine gun and stormed through the main entrance, firing off shots. Within minutes at least two armed comrades joined him inside, Sinnema said.

Police said they believe the attackers wanted to kidnap provincial Commissioner Tinneke Schilthuis, Drente's top executive. But she escaped through a window of her ground-floor office.

Klok said he was drinking coffee in his second floor office when he heard an uproar outside the building.

"People were shouting 'Get out of here! Escape!'" he told reporters. "I got to the first floor with a couple of other people and then shots were fired at us...."

"We ran back upstairs and found a fire hose, which we unrolled and threw out of a window. We let ourselves down that, jumping the last few feet to the ground."

"We then ran for our lives. While we were running across the backyard, two of my colleagues were hit by gunfire but they weren't seriously wounded."

Klok said one terrorist he saw was wearing a hoodlike knitted cap.

Witnesses said the gunmen shot up an ambulance that rolled toward the building in an attempt to remove a wounded man lying outside. The ambulance turned back. Another man standing some distance from the building also was hit by gunfire, they said.

Restive South Moluccan militants last struck in force in this town 112 miles northeast of Amsterdam last May 23 when they hijacked a passenger train and seized a village schoolhouse. Dutch marines overcame them after 20 days, killing six of the nine gunmen who held about 50 hostages on board the train and capturing without bloodshed four men who held more than 100 children and their teachers in the schoolhouse.

Militants among the 40,000 Moluccans who live in the Netherlands demand an independent homeland on their native islands in Indonesia, once a Dutch colony. They have made repeated terrorist attacks in recent years but have been unable to force the Dutch government to back their demands.

Coal miners stay home by thousands

WASHINGTON (AP) — Miners stayed home by the thousands today, ignoring a back-to-work court order as coal industry and union negotiators took a day off from bargaining on a contract to end the 98-day coal strike.

The Carter administration was hoping enough miners would obey a federal judge's back-to-work order so that at least limited mine production could resume to ease the plight of coal-short regions.

But early reports from the coalfields indicated that not enough union members were showing up for the first two shifts for production to resume. There were no reports of violence and only isolated cases of picketing, which is specifically banned by the court order.

The union has predicted that the back-to-work order would be widely ignored by the 160,000 striking miners.

A Justice Department spokesman said the administration expects miners gradually will return to work this week. "We believe the bulk of miners will obey the order," said spokesman Mark Sheehan.

He said that by mid-day, federal marshals had served copies of the court order on about 90 percent of the coal companies and union locals named as defendants.

But he said officials would exercise "responsible restraint" in enforcing the order. "We don't plan any hasty or ill-conceived action... We don't seek any confrontation," Sheehan said.

Meanwhile, industry and union bargainers said they were making some progress after a weekend of talks but aren't on the verge of a negotiation breakthrough.

A spokesman for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association said the two sides had no plans to meet face-to-face today, although "we are continuing to work" on the issues in dispute in separate meetings.

Top industry bargainers returned home Sunday but planned to return here either today or Tuesday.

"We're getting down to the brass tacks... to the hard issues," Nicholas T. Camicia, chief industry bargainer, said Sunday as he left the hotel where the weekend talks were held. He said he was encouraged but added, "We still have a lot of work to do."

Hopes for a swift settlement in the 14-week-old walkout faded as the two sides recessed general talks after a brief Sunday session so that small groups of lower-ranking negotiators could work on contract language covering specific issues.

Among the differences separating the two sides are union demands to continue free health care benefits provided under the expired 1974 contract and elimination of proposed industry penalties to curb wildcat strikes.

HEAVY SURFACE WINDS CAUSE PLANE TO CRASH AT HOWARD COUNTY AIRPORT
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Neefe, Big Spring, escape uninjured

$77,000 aircraft destroyed High winds cause crash

Charles and Joy Neefe were flying in from Del Rio Sunday afternoon when gusty winds hit the area. His light Mooney 201 aircraft was totaled as he attempted to land at Howard County Airport.

There were no injuries. Officials at the airport said surface wind speeds were gusting up to 65 miles per hour at the airport around 2:30 p.m. when the crash occurred.

As the plane attempted to land, the cross winds apparently picked it up and sat it down in a pasture near the runway. The plane apparently landed tailfirst, injuring the rear of the plane, bent the prop and knocked off the landing gear.

An alert that another plane was missing in the wind on a flight plan from San Antonio to Big Spring proved to be in error. Officials later notified the airport that the plane had landed at another airport.

Deputy Buster McCartney was in charge of guarding the wreckage which was inside the field area of the airport.

The plane had an estimated value of about $77,000 including equipment, according to airport personnel.

Briscoe's legal advisor says:

GOMA uproar 'political'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe's top legal advisor says he does not know what the governor could have done to prevent the reported mismanagement of funds in the Governor's Office on Migrant Affairs (GOMA).

Don Adams said Briscoe acted decisively just as soon as he learned something was wrong in one of his divisions.

Adams says the controversy over GOMA, which is funded primarily by federal money, would not have attracted as much attention in a non-political year.

Adams, who is leaving GOMA as acting director to return as chief legal counsel to Gov. Briscoe, appeared Sunday on Capitol Dateline, a radio panel program.

"I think, if we had not been in a political year there would not have been as much interest in the agency," Adams, a former state senator from Jasper, said. "But there were some things wrong over there and it came to light during a political year which probably fed the problem."

Adams took the place of GOMA director Rojelio Perez who was suspended by Briscoe after he refused to testify before a Brownsville court of inquiry.

"Quite frankly, one of the problems we have now is all the investigations that are going on," Adams said. He noted that the Department of Community Affairs has a GOMA audit underway, Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle is investigating, the Department of Labor is investigating and the FBI has another investigation of alleged irregularities in the use of federal manpower funds.

"There is so much auditing and so much investigation going on that the staff over there had to stand in line to see the files," he said.

Adams was critical of Earle's investigation, which has a "task force" that includes two investigators from the governor's office and two from the office of Attorney General John Hill, Briscoe's chief Democratic opponent in the May 6 primary.

"I think Mr. Earle is a very capable man and I would have preferred that he performed the investigation solely within his office."

"We could do without putting political candidates in the investigation," Adams said.

Adams predicted GOMA would "drop out of the news pretty shortly" and within a week or two will be operating in a "semi-routine manner."

Rafael Quintanilla Jr., formerly a lawyer with the Texas Public Utility Commission, becomes acting GOMA director to replace Adams on Monday.

Waterhole Ike living mighty high on the hog

GOLCONDA, Nev. (AP) — The holder of Social Security number 530-80-4623 is a pig — in fact, a drunken pig.

Waterhole Ike never works; has dozens, if not hundreds, of offspring, and spends a good deal of his time lolling in the mud.

Every morning he waddles into Mark Cowley's cafe-tavern — Waterhole No. 1 — in this town in northern Nevada, and drinks beer from a 5-gallon bucket.

"He's all right until about 10:30 a.m. and then he comes in, has his drink and he's in hog heaven," Cowley said.

After a drink, Waterhole Ike listens as Cowley reads him letters from around the state.

Cowley heads a syndicate that promotes the pig. He already has sold about 1,000 shares of stock in the pig at $1 each. If a thoroughbred horse can be syndicated, said Cowley, so can a pig.

For stud service Waterhole Ike charges $25.

About two years ago Cowley and eight of the patrons in his bar formed the syndicate.

The syndicate's money grew, and Cowley opened a savings account for the pig. But the savings and loan firm needed a Social Security number for the account holder to report interest for taxes, so Cowley applied for a card.

"Everything I put on there was the truth," Cowley said. "His mother was Go-Pig-Go, and his father was Three Stars. He was born on May 1, 1974."

"Down at the bottom where it says signature, I wondered what to do, since everybody knows a 2-year-old pig can't write," he said. "So I wrote 'Waterhole Ike by Mark Cowley.'"

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare sent Waterhole Ike a Social Security card and Cowley gave the number to the bank.

"I went to the welfare people and told them I knew this guy who couldn't work because he is an alcoholic and he has 10 dependents."

"The welfare department was going to give him $650 a month. I even almost got him into the alcoholic rehabilitation program. As far as the government is concerned, he's just the same as you or I."

The future seems secure for Waterhole Ike. More stock certificates are being issued, and he now has just about $1,000 in the bank.

Decisions on truck bids delayed by commission

The Howard County Commissioners met today and spent their morning session taking bids on two dump trucks and a water truck for the county.

The bids were discussed following a court decision to hold the bids on two pickups until this afternoon. The court decided to hold so that Pollard Chevrolet, who maintained they had not received their bid specifications until Friday although they were mailed March 1, could submit bids on the pickup. The court was not willing to wait several days so that Pollard could bid on the heavier trucks.

Several bids were taken, but the decision-making process was not completed at press time.

In other action, the commissioners conferred with county engineer Bill Mims, and heard a briefing on an agenda item calling for the designation of Ector County as a prime sponsor for the CETA manpower program.

Nabar Martinez, program director of the human resource center, told the court that the designation of Ector County did not mean a shift away from Howard County, and might instead mean more autonomy for this area while continuing to provide funds for the programs.

According to Martinez, the plan would allow the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission to distribute manpower funds throughout a 17-county area.

The commissioners face a lengthy agenda for their afternoon session, including final resolution of the bids.

Defeating Tower is COPE's goal

HOUSTON (AP) — Discussions focused on the gubernatorial campaign today as about 700 labor officials began a two-day meeting of COPE, the political education committee of the Texas AFL-CIO.

The defeat of Republican U.S. Senator John Tower is the No. 1 priority for the group in this year's elections but the race between Governor Dolph Briscoe and Attorney General John Hill was attracting the most attention.

Harry Hubbard, state AFL-CIO president, said he is backing Briscoe but that he did not consider the activities of those backing Hill as efforts to divide Texas labor.

Hubbard predicted "well over two-thirds" of the delegates will support Briscoe. Recommendations on endorsements are to be placed before the convention Tuesday afternoon and will require a two-thirds vote for approval.

Hill backers expressed hope they would be able to prevent a two-thirds majority for Briscoe and thus cause the convention to adjourn without an official endorsement in the gubernatorial race.

Sam Dawson, an official of the United Steelworkers in Houston, said two of the largest unions in the state, the steelworkers and machinists, strongly favor Hill.

Absentee voting under way today

Absentee balloting for the April 1 city election was opened today.

An absentee ballot allows those who will be unable to vote on election day, to cast their vote either in person at city hall or through the mail.

The first step in voting absentee is to request an application to vote from the office of Tom Ferguson, city finance director. This may be done either through the mail or in person.

Once ballots are completed they must be received by the city no later than 10 a.m., March 30 if sent through the mail. Deadline for voting in person is March 28.

Three positions, places one and two on the city council and mayor, will be contested in the election.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Extra charge

Q. Why does the telephone company demand an extra fee for having an unlisted number?

A. A company spokesman says that service comes extra because employees go to the extra expense of eliminating the normal procedure within the directory. Also, the firm is performing a service for the customer by helping to restrict the calls he or she receives. This is a type of secretarial service whereby the phone company safeguards the customer's phone number.

By MARJ CARPENTER Two sellout crowds at the Brass Nail Sunday night heard Boots Randolph belt out the new and old songs on the saxophone and listened to Brenda Lee, the little girl with the big voice.

Randolph, often called "Mr. Saxophone" enters the show playing melodies on the tenor sax and continues to pour out songs on the sax interspersed with patter between him and his four-piece band.

His saxophone melodies range from the newest hit "Light of My Life" to "Stardust," one of the oldest. His ability to pour pure melodious song into a sax has not been heard very often since the era of the big COLORADO CITY — Services for William Alva Bennett, 81, of Loraine, who died Saturday afternoon at Root Memorial Hospital following a short illness, will be at 2 p.m., today at the First Methodist Church in Loraine.

Randolph's pleasant patter, spiced with occasional language one never hears on TV, was complimented by the comedy routine of Joe Grant and Eddie Seals, themselves talented musicians.

Brenda Lee, the pint-sized vocalist who recorded a large number of top hits in the '60s that ranged from "Jambalaya" to love ballads, can still belt a song. Backed by a very efficient small "orchestra" as she calls it, she appears to pour her soul into her music.

The miniature singer also bows to the floor in the style of many European performers as she moves through her show.

The two troupes now headquartered in Nashville but made a two-week Texas tour with great success, with Big Spring on the final night before they headed for home.

The tour included Dallas and El Paso, Odessa and Midland, and other Texas cities, but the Big Spring crowds apparently enjoyed the show as much as any on the tour.

The complete evening's entertainment played the full range of nostalgia for the big band days, memories of rock and roll, echoes of country western and hits that remain in the memories of the fluctuating American music fan.

Alinder, who gave his age only as "in my late middle 30s," stroked his sandy beard as he sat at a cluttered desk in his downtown office and reviewed the sneers and cheers stirred by his resignation.

He has received support in local newspaper editorials and telephone calls and letters from across the country.

But Mayor Frank Rizzo has said Alinder "should have been fired and not permitted to resign."

While City Representative Joseph LaSala said Alinder's movie bit "doesn't mean a tinker's damn to me" but that he voted to accept the resignation because he felt the Cultural Affairs Council had outlived its purpose.

The council, an independent agency created for the 1976 Bicentennial celebration, coordinates city plans for concerts, theater and poetry readings in the historic district with the community.

"My family and friends know me, and the idea of me being in a porno film is ludicrous," Alinder said. First of all, morally they know I wouldn't do it, and physically I can't do it. I'm not the body beautiful."

But Alinder panicked when the story surfaced and the City Hall rumor mill began grinding.

"I quit because I thought a connection with a porno film would hurt the city, but I have been proven wrong," Alinder said.

"I rode up in the elevator with a policeman, and he said, 'May I shake your hand? Good luck. You did nothing wrong. You didn't steal. You weren't corrupt.' He made my day."

Porno folk hero of Philly

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dallas Alinder says he didn't want to embarrass the city, but now the city cultural director finds he's unexpectedly "the porno folk hero of Philadelphia."

Alinder last month impulsively quit his $27,000 job as executive director of the city's Cultural Affairs Council after an X-rated movie in which he had appeared in 1974 played at a movie house near City Hall.

Alinder had a role in the movie two years before he was hired, when he was broke and out of work. He said he took the part to pay his rent and that he was fully clothed in his brief scene.

In the film, entitled "Divine Obsession," Alinder plays a rich man attempting to muscle in on a madam's territory. He gets hit in the face with a plate of caviar.

"It was a comic bit, 28 words of dialogue," Alinder said. "I had visions of being spat upon, and eggs being thrown at me, and instead it's been a turnaround," said the transplanted North Dakotan.

"I expected to be condemned," Alinder's resignation was accepted by the City Council on March 9.

"The pressure came from within me, my own code of ethics," he said of the resignation, scheduled to take effect April 15.

Texas voters have rejected horse race betting three times since 1968, but by a diminishing margin each time. It lost by only two percent in 1974, compared to a 10.8 percent whipping in 1968 and seven percent in 1972.

Actually, the State Democratic Executive Committee has little choice in the matter since they have in hand petitions with nearly 100,000 signatures demanding the non-binding voter poll.

Also on the SDEC agenda Monday is the certification of all the Democratic candidates in the local and statewide primary contests. Twelve appeals are before the committee.

Committee members also will discuss the date and site of the September state convention. No invitations have been received so far from cities who want the convention.

Young GOPs meet Tuesday An organizational meeting for young Republicans between 15 and 36 will be held at 11 a.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Floyd Mays.

Front moving out of state tonight

Northwest Texas is experiencing widespread cloudiness with some showers early today but the weatherman said temperatures should get up to the 60s in the area. The clouds came ahead of a front moving in from the west, but forecasters say most of the front will be moving out of the state toward the east by tonight.

Temperatures were in the 30s in the north to the 60s in the coastal plain early this morning, but the weather bureau said they would rise from the 60s in the north to the 80s in some portions of the south today.

Son fails to raise mother from dead

REEDS SPRING, Mo. (AP) — A preacher whose prayers over a freezer holding his mother failed to bring her back to life Sunday says he has until Easter to resurrect her.

"We have not given up, and we haven't lost heart," said evangelist Daniel Aaron Rogers. "People are still praying with us and standing with us in our faith. We're going to keep praying for at least another two weeks."

Earlier Sunday, he told about 500 persons gathered at a mortuary here that the two-hour attempt to bring his mother back from the dead had failed and "we don't know what went wrong."

The congregation, many of whom wept, moaned and prayed, waited in the chapel and sang gospel songs as the preachers prayed in an adjoining visitation room over the body of Gladys Rogers. About a third of the onlookers represented newspaper and radio and television stations.

Evangelist J.T. Williams of Pea Ridge, Ark., recruited by Rogers to help in the service, could be heard raising his voice in prayer. At one point, he shouted: "Oh, her eyes are moving... Thank you, Jesus!" Rogers later said he did not "personally" see any movement in his mother's eyes.

"Come out of there," urged Harold Bogan, an associate of Rogers' in Harrison, Ark. "Raise her up," Rogers pleaded.

After more than an hour of pleading and praying, Williams emerged from the tiny room. "We have tried everything Jesus told us to do, and we don't know what is wrong," he told those gathered in the chapel. "She has not risen from the dead."

About an hour later, Rogers appeared in the chapel and announced: "We have done everything we can think of and it hasn't worked. What we want to do is get back in our closet and pray some more."

Hustle 3 Committees at work

By Bill Albright Executive Vice President, Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce Industrial Growth and Development

Let's follow up on some more of the activities of our Chamber committees. I'd like to point out that these committees are composed of volunteers; people who are interested in helping to make this community "a better place to live and earn a living."

The Transportation Committee takes in a very broad area including highway, rail and air. Chairman Bob Miller has an active program under way promoting U.S. Highway 87 as the major extension of IS 27 to the Gulf.

Cal Calnan heads the Health and Safety Committee and has conducted two meetings of the group. Items of current interest include nursing home standards, ambulance service, support of law enforcement officials and traffic improvement on our major N-S artery, US 87.

LES MOSSES, Switzerland (AP) — At least 14 alpine skiers were missing Sunday as rescuers searched frantically for victims of a huge springtime avalanche which crashed into a crowded ski lift area more than seven hours earlier, police reported.

"It was a huge, horrible monster," said a police spokesman, referring to the 300-meter long avalanche which thundered into the region at mid-afternoon, sweeping helpless skiers off balance and trapping victims beneath nine feet of snow.

After the service, the congregation was allowed to file past the freezer, which was hidden behind a large screen. The ceremony culminated Rogers' month-long battle for custody of his mother's

Next week we'll wind up discussion of the remaining chamber committees. SHOP BIG SPRING FIRST Rogers packed her body in dry ice for six days, then had it placed in the freezer. Rogers said he may contact S.A. VICTIM'S MOTHER — The mother of Yaakov Paz, left, is comforted by an unidentified woman today at his funeral in Tel Aviv. Paz was one of many victims of an Arab terrorist raid on the Israeli coast Saturday which has been described as the worst such incident in the Jewish state's 30-year history.

Palestinian strongholds in Lebanon likely targets

JERUSALEM (AP) — Palestinian strongholds in southern Lebanon are considered likely targets for Israeli attacks in retaliation for the weekend Arab terrorist in which the Israeli government said 36 of its citizens were killed, 72 were wounded and all 11 raiders killed or captured.

"Those who kill Jews in our time cannot enjoy impunity," said Prime Minister Menachem Begin, and he vowed that Israel "will eliminate this threat" of terrorism.

Beirut newspapers claimed Israel was massing troops and armor along much of its 60-mile frontier with Lebanon. They predicted a three-pronged assault including a tank thrust against guerrilla bases in south Lebanon, a naval bombardment of the port of Tyre, which is now a guerrilla headquarters, and air strikes against Palestinian refugee camps in the Beirut area.

Although the raiders came from Lebanon, that nation's defense and foreign minister, Fuad Butros, denied the Lebanese were in any way involved. He called in the ambassadors of the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China to ask their help in averting an Israeli attack against Lebanese territory.

Begin, postponing his trip to Washington for at least a week, also made clear that the Palestinian assault Saturday on two buses sharpened his opposition to a Palestinian state on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and to complete Israeli withdrawal from the territory, the central issues blocking a peace agreement between Egypt and Israel.

"It is unthinkable that in Judea, Samaria and the Gaza Strip a state will arise that will be ruled by Yasser Arafat and his murderers," Begin told a news conference.

Judea and Samaria are the biblical names for the West Bank, which Israel occupied in the 1967 Arab-Israeli War.

Arafat's Al Fatah guerrillas, the largest group in the Palestine Liberation Organization, said it sent the two boatloads of raiders to the Israeli coast. It warned that "the coming days will see more guerrilla raids deeper inside Palestine."

Begin called the PLO "the most despicable organization since the Nazis" and sharply criticized the Soviet Union because the raiders carried Russian weapons. But the Israeli leader said the attack "should not and will not" affect peace negotiations with Egypt — believed to be one of the aims of the terrorist ambush.

Funerals for the victims began with the burial of a 5-year-old girl, Na'ama Hadani. Others were scheduled today, but some of the corpse still had not been identified.

Among the dead was Gail Rubin, 39, a photographer from New York City who immigrated to Israel five years ago and held dual American and Israeli citizenship. Friends said she was a niece of a sister-in-law of Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn.

Believed to be the first victim of the guerrilla attack, Miss Rubin was on the beach at the fishing village of Maagan Michaels, 37 miles north of Tel Aviv, when the terrorists came ashore in two rubber dinghies.

'Racehorse' to represent teen 'killer'

HOUSTON (AP) — Lucinda Stout, the 16 year old convicted in Dallas last week of killing her mother, will be represented in the appeals court free of charge by flamboyant Houston attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes.

Miss Stout was found guilty of the June stabbing death and sentenced to 99 years in prison.

Haynes said Sunday night he agreed to take the case for free because "she has no money and apparently few friends. Even her father testified against her."

He said he would fly to Dallas to see his new client today or Tuesday, depending on the continued improvement of his daughter, Ricki, 21, who was injured in an auto accident March 1. She remains hospitalized in Houston.

The attorney, known for his rousing, closing-argument orations and subsequent healthy fees, successfully defended Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis at the oilman's capital murder trial in Amarillo last year.

The trial has been called the longest murder trial in Texas history.

In his decision to accept Miss Stout's appeal, Haynes indicated factors other than her lack of friends and finances played a part.

"The age of that child was another factor and the punishment meted out to her," he said. "You know, Dallas is a city known for some pretty stiff sentences and the people (after the Stout verdict) just stood up and cheered."

"Since then, I have had 50-60 calls from people in Dallas outraged at the punishment. I think the first call I had was from a friend of hers (Lucinda's), apparently at the request of the little girl herself."

Wrestling - Not an act

with Marj Carpenter

"Wrestling is in no way a fancy act or a show — it's wrestling," Don Kernodle, North Carolina wrestler, said here while visiting in Big Spring last week.

The young man is 27 years old and had made his last to Big Spring when he was five. "I remember none of it," he laughed.

He was here this time visiting his uncle, Alan Kernodle. He has been wrestling out of Amarillo, along with Dory and Terry Funk, world champions.

The Funks are some of the best known names in wrestling and have been around West Texas for quite a while. Dory is now 36 and Terry is 33. Kernodle is a young wrestler — only 27.

He grew up in Burlington and Charlotte, North Carolina. He went to Elon College and joined the wrestling team. He became wellknown in that part of the state in a hurry.

That's why he decided to keep his own name when he went into professional wrestling. "After all, people remember Dory Funk better than Gorgeous George — and Dory Funk is his own name," Kernodle philosophized.

Kernodle was in a movie made about a month ago called "Paradise Alley." It's a story of three brothers and there's some wrestling scenes in it and Kernodle and the Funks are the wrestlers in the film.

"It should be out this summer," the six-foot Kernodle said. He is a solid 235 pounds and most places he went while in Big Spring, people thought they knew him. He was accused of being an old friend. He was told "Say you're a professional football player, aren't you?" He eventually has a familiar face.

But Kernodle, who has wrestled since he was in his teens, says, "There's no acting in good wrestling."

He added, "That's for real in there. I've lost three teeth through the years and had several other injuries. That's not acting."

around. "I'm getting to see some of the United States and a lot of wrestling arenas. And after a while, those all look alike."

That's the way it was with Don Kernodle — when he stopped to visit while I was 'utridin' fence.

Cultures will be spotlighted

Miss Texas will act as hostess on behalf of the Ballinger Business and Professional Women's Club, the Festival Committee and the State of Texas.

Public should check returns

DALLAS — Taxpayers can prevent possible slower processing of their tax returns and delay in issuance of refund due by double checking their returns before filing, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Some of the most common taxpayer mistakes, according to the IRS, include arithmetic errors, use of the wrong filing status, failure to sign the return and especially to provide two signatures in the case of a joint return, and failure to attach all necessary documents.

The IRS also urges taxpayers to use the peel-off-label that comes with the tax package on their returns in order to avoid possible social security number errors. Taxpayers can also save time and speed up processing by mailing their returns in the coded, pre-addressed envelope found in their tax packages, according to the IRS.

DON KERNODLE
"not an act"

Kernodle said he had enjoyed working out of Amarillo and being back in West Texas briefly — but "I'm kind of anxious to get back to North Carolina."

He was leaving Friday to go home. He said that he had been enjoying the wrestling circuit. "I haven't married and don't have a family so it's fairly easy to travel

Murder suspect is being held

NEW YORK (AP) — An East Harlem man has been arrested in the Feb. 25 slaying of a French woman who was a member of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church, police said today.

Detectives said Robert L. Fowler, 31, was booked on a charge of murder in the death of Christiane Coste, whose body was found in a rear courtyard. Authorities said she had apparently been thrown from the top of a building.
