

IN MEMORY — The balancing staff used by Karl Wallenda is tied by attendants to be balanced behind his casket during the funeral of the famed tight wire walker who was killed in San Juan, Puerto Rico during a performance last week. Wallenda will be buried this morning in Sarasota, Fla.

Shadow reminds mourners of Wallenda's wire act

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Some were friends. Most were fans. All who filed past Karl Wallenda's bronze coffin were reminded of his 58 years on the high wire by the shadow of a 24-foot balance pole hung overhead in tribute.

Wallenda's body was on view for six hours Sunday in the Roberts Sports Arena — the scene of many performances by the 73-year-old circus star. Burial services were scheduled for today.

The pole hanging over the casket was like the one he clutched last Wednesday as he fell to his death, blown from a high-wire strung between two hotels in San Juan, Puerto Rico, by a gust of wind.

Wallenda, who survived a number of accidents in his long career, plummeted 10 stories to his death.

His body was brought back to Sarasota — the winter home of many circus performers.

Circus performers from around the world sent flowers to adorn Wallenda's casket. The native of Magdeburg, now in East Germany, was praised by peers as the greatest of the high-wire walkers.

Minister will continue to try to revive mom

REEDS SPRING, Mo. (AP) — An Arkansas preacher returned on Easter to the freezer holding his mother's body, praying as he has over the past two weeks for the miracle of her resurrection.

But the three hours of quiet prayer were unsuccessful, and Daniel Aaron Rogers returned home, pledging to continue his efforts until Wednesday. That's the day he's promised health officials he'll proceed with plans to bury his mother.

Rogers and his wife conducted the private service Sunday at the funeral home in this tiny southwest Missouri village. In a telephone interview from Harrison Sunday night, Rogers, 41, said the Easter service was not discouraging.

"We feel, in fact, more encouraged than before," he said. "We sorted through everything and praying seemed to have lifted our spirits up and reassured us of God's love."

Nationwide attention was focused on this funeral home two weeks before when about 500 persons gathered to watch Rogers and three evangelist colleagues attempt to bring his mother, Gladys Rogers, back from the dead.

Mrs. Rogers died Feb. 2 in Harrison at the age of 81. Rogers packed her body in dry ice for six days, then had it placed in a freezer. State officials took the freezer and the body away, but after a month-long battle with courts and health officials Rogers was allowed to take it to Reeds Spring for the ceremony.

"We didn't think about it being Easter," Rogers said Sunday. "It's just a Sunday two weeks after last time. It seems the Lord has just worked things out to keep people interested."

He plans to continue praying until Wednesday to "raise mother up to give a testimony to the world of God's power and the reality of Christ."

"So many indications have come that it is God's will that it's just a matter of faith. We don't have any doubts that it's His will."

But Rogers said he has yet to see any signs of life, and he said he'll give up efforts Wednesday "unless an angel walks in and says, 'Yes, she'll be raised tomorrow.'"

If he fails, he said, it'll be because he didn't have sufficient faith.

Action/reaction: Where it goes

Q. I bought trash bags from the Jaycees because the caller said the profits were going toward the "Special Olympics." How can I be sure the money was used as I meant it to be?

A. According to chapter president Morris Molpus Jr., when the Jaycees were selling the bags, they were giving examples of projects they have supported in the past. "We have supported the Special Olympics in the past, and had intended to this year. However, the Special Olympics people said they were going to have the track and field day for this area in Odessa this year," Molpus said. "Other projects we used as examples were the volunteer work we support — physically and monetarily — at the Big Spring State Hospital, the 'Call Santa' Christmas program, and a possible 'Super Kids' track and field day for all children between first grade and 14 years old. Apparently there was a misunderstanding between the person involved and the Jaycee selling the bags. In the future, we will be more careful, but all I can say now is that I deeply regret any inconvenience it may have caused."

Some miners are balking

By the Associated Press
Most of the nation's soft coal miners today donned hard hats, switched on headlamps and stepped into rail cars and elevators that took them down into mine pits and shafts for the first time in 3 1/2 months.

But at some mines in Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, thousands of United Mine Workers members balked at crossing picket lines set up by striking mine construction workers.

Contract talks were to resume today in Washington between the construction workers, who build the tunnels and above ground facilities, and the Association of Bituminous Contractors. Negotiations recessed Sunday night when both sides said they were too exhausted to continue.

In Homer City, Pa., several hundred miners were halted by four grim-faced pickets carrying small cardboard signs at the Helvetia Coal Co.'s Lucerne No. 6 portal.

Angry at losing a day's pay and the $100 return-to-work bonus, groups of miners stomped their boots on the asphalt roadway at the mine gate and shouted at the pickets.

"We went out on strike at the same time as they did and we've got the same rights to a contract as them," said James Lyon, president of the 800-member construction Local 1600, based in Ebensburg, Pa.

"We supported them and I'm sure they'll support us," Lyon said.

Two pickets outside an Island Creek Coal Co. mine in Kentucky made miners "turn around," a company spokesman said.

"We don't have a contract, and that's the way it's got to be," said John Simpson, president of construction Local 1830.

Bryan Moak, a spokesman for Illinois' largest construction local, said Sunday his men were refusing to allow regular miners to enter the pits. He warned against the consequences should regular miners try to cross picket lines: "Our people are hostile."

Consolidation Coal Co., with headquarters in Pittsburgh, said pickets at 11 of its 51 mines in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio kept some 2,500 miners off the job.

But where miners did report for the

Baseball abandons efforts on coast

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball is terminating its effort to transfer the Oakland A's franchise to Denver and is prepared to play the 1978 season with two franchises in the San Francisco-Oakland area, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said today.

Until the end of last week, it appeared the A's would be sold by Charles O. Finley to oilman Marvin Davis and then be transferred to Denver. But the deal broke down Friday. And after a weekend of trying to piece it back together baseball is pulling out of the negotiations.

Finley had agreed to pay $1 million to settle the 10 remaining years on his stadium lease in Oakland, leaving a balance of $2.25 million due. Baseball had initially insisted that the A's owner pay $2 million. He balked at that figure. But Kuhn said that money was no longer a question.

12:01 shift, there was a feeling of relief and thanksgiving.

Although the men who showed up for work early Monday at Raccoon No. 3 near Wilkesville, Ohio, belonged to a local that voted down the new contract, they joked while preparing for work.

"It's good to see them come back," said Ron Young, personnel supervisor at the Southern Ohio Coal Co. mine. "It's good to be back to the business of mining and getting everything together again."

"I'm glad we went back to work," said Calvin Porter, a miner at the Westmoreland Coal Co.'s Wentz No. 1

mine near Stonega, Va. "I missed it — missed my friends, missed doing my job."

Just before the shift began, safety inspector Clinton Carroll called the miners together. They took off their helmets as one young miner prayed for their safety. Carroll then urged them to be careful.

MINERS RETURN TO WORK — Two United Mine Workers from Local No. 1957 smuggle themselves into a buggy for the ride into the shaft at the Southern Ohio Coal Co.'s Raccoon No. 3 Mine near the southeastern Ohio community of Wilkesville. Three can fit into this compartment enclosed within the vehicle that carries both workers and supplies into the mine. Miners returned to work at Midnight Monday without any sign of either pension or construction pickets.

Insurance coverage $30 million Cleanup cost is soaring

BREST, France (AP) — French officials say they expect the cost of the cleanup and damage claims from the Amoco Cadiz oil spill to far exceed $30 million, the maximum insurance companies are required to pay for such a pollution disaster.

Amoco, the American oil company that owned the supertanker, insured the ship for $12 million. The oil, owned by Shell, is insured for $20 million. Experts say there are no legal steps France can take to claim damages above $30 million, the limit set by an international agreement which France ratified.

Christian Gerondeau, national civil defense director, said he felt sure the government would be "talking to people" about the cost of the cleanup and damages from the worst oil spill in history.

Citing examples of the cleanup costs, he said the fleet of vessels spraying chemicals on the oil slick at sea is costing $2 million a day, and six oyster farmers estimate their losses will reach $1.3 million. But he would make no estimate of the total.

As the pounding waves sent geysers of crude oil 20 feet into the air from the wreck's tanks, French officials were considering dynamiting the hull to release the last 8.8 million gallons estimated to be still aboard. Attempts to pump out the remaining oil have been stymied by continuous gales. Officials want to get it all out so it can be dispersed or cleaned up, fearing that otherwise it will be source of long-time persistent pollution along the Brittany coast.

Since the tanker ran aground March 17, an estimated 56 million gallons of oil have spewed from the ship to wash up on the beaches or formed a huge oil slick floating offshore about 90 miles to the east of the wreck.

Jumper's bill is approved

Howard County Commissioners today accepted a bid from American Equipment and Trailer, Inc. for two dump beds to be installed on county trucks.

The bid, $5,128 for both of the truck beds, includes installation and half-cab protectors.

The competing bid, by Hobbs Trailer, didn't meet the specifications for a cab protector, and although the $4979.42 bid appeared cheaper, the addition of the required protectors upped the Hobbs bid to $5,318.42.

Also approved was a $432.44 bid on venetian blinds for two offices in the courthouse. Big Spring Venetian Blind and Awning Co. received approval on their bid to install eight blinds in the courthouse.

A resolution endorsing proposals to make U.S. 87 a four-lane highway in hopes of gaining the IS-27 designation was also passed. The resolution reads:

"Be it known by this resolution that we fully endorse and support the recommendations of the US 87 Highway Improvement Association that 87 Highway be upgraded with a divided four-lane thoroughfare complete from Raton, New Mexico to Port Lavaca, Texas, and that adequate right-of-way be purchased for future widening.

"Whereas, the first priority is to make the highway portion from the south Big Spring city limits to Sterling City into a four-lane divided highway with adequate right-of-way. Be it noted that this is the most heavily traveled two-lane portion of Highway 87 according to 1976 Texas Highway Department figures.

"And be it further known that we strongly concur that the most logical and inexpensive route for the future Interstate 27 is that route from Lubbock along US 87 through San Angelo to Interstate 10.

Commissioners also approved the payment of county bills for the month, including a $210 medical bill on a prisoner who recently jumped from the county jail. The county already paid a clinic bill, and the second bill, approved at today's meeting, was for doctor fees.

Pinkies Liquor Store on North 87 was burglarized for the second time in ten days during the night Sunday.

Deputy William Shankles noticed the store had been broken into when he was on regular patrol at 12:05 a.m. today.

It appeared that the boards covering the doorway had been rammed with the bumper of a vehicle breaking the boards.

The vehicle apparently entered the premises south of the building and drove to the rear.

Lloyd McCloud, store employee, advised that about $12 to $15 worth of change was taken from the cash drawer and six to eight cases of beer from the walk-in cooler.

Exxon ship is plagued by weather

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) - Gale force winds and heavy seas more than 100 miles offshore continued to plague the Exxon drill ship Glomar Pacific as crewmen worked to sink the first East Coast oil well sometime today.

National Weather Service officials here said a low-pressure system off the coast today could put the Glomar Pacific in heavy thunderstorms, fog, wind gusts of 35 miles per hour and 15-foot seas.

"It's hard to get started in heavy seas with the ship heaving," said Crandall Jones, Exxon's manager of offshore exploration. "There's nothing dangerous about it, it's just slow."

Engineers and surveyors spent their first weekend off this resort taking readings from satellites in an effort to position the ship within 250 feet of a spot geologists say offers the best chance of finding offshore oil and gas.

The seas and radio interference with five navigation satellites have slowed efforts to precisely position the 451-foot ship within feet of a spot geologists say is the most likely to hold oil and gas deposits.

Engineers said federal regulations require clear radio readings from at least 20 satellite passes to determine the location of the ship.

Eight large deep water anchors are firmly holding the Glomar Pacific to the sandy bottom 398 feet below the sea's surface. The anchors are designed to hold the vessel steady during drilling.

When the survey crews are satisfied of their location, they must then position the vessel on the precise spot they want to drill by tightening and loosening cables to the ship's anchors.

Endorses peace proposals Cabinet behind Begin

The Israeli Cabinet closed ranks behind Prime Minister Menachem Begin and again unanimously endorsed his proposals for peace with the Arabs despite U.S. opposition to them.

Meanwhile, firing continued in southern Lebanon, and a Swedish U.N. reconnaissance patrol was caught in a crossfire. No injuries were reported.

Cabinet spokesman Arieh Naor said after the weekly cabinet meeting Sunday in Jerusalem the ministers still believe Begin's proposal for Palestinian autonomy on the West Bank of the Jordan River and a continuation of Israeli control until some future time is a fair basis on which to continue peace talks with Egypt.

The spokesman said the cabinet unanimously endorsed Begin's handling of his recent talks with President Carter, in which the prime minister insisted

Israeli will not withdraw from the West Bank of the Jordan River and that Jewish settlements established by Israel in the occupied territories must remain.

Naor added that the government "restates its commitment to the achievement of a total and comprehensive peace in the Middle East."

Naor also reported there had been discussion of the reports from Washington that a senior U.S. official said Begin's removal from office was necessary for the continuation of peace talks.

Naor said Begin would report to the Knesset, the Israeli parliament, later this week on his talks with Carter. But opposition leader Shimon Peres said his Labor Party probably would not submit a motion of no confidence in the government as had been expected because it was certain to be defeated by the government majority. "We are not for making empty gestures," Peres said.

In Cairo, President Anwar Sadat said Egypt and Israel are "speaking two different languages," but he still feels a Middle East peace settlement can be reached.

Sadat told a group of visiting American university presidents Egypt got rid of "all the problems of bitterness, hatred and all the complexities" in the 1973 war, but Israel's language "is that they need our land and our sovereignty for security."

In Beirut, the Palestine Liberation Organization claimed that its guerrillas fought "running battles" all night to repulse Israeli armored attacks on Palestinian positions in the foothills of Mount Hermon. There was no confirmation from the Israelis or from neutral observers.

Guerrillas fired mortar shells Sunday from the ruins of the cliff-top Beaufort Castle about two miles north of the Liti River on an Israeli-held territory below the river near the Kardall Bridge. Lebanese Christian militia returned the fire, and a Swedish patrol was caught near the bridge. But a U.N. spokesman said the Swedes were not the target and they were not hit.

Paris (AP) - Kidnapped industrialist Baron Edouard-Jean Empain, freed after two months, says his captors kept him chained and hooded, but despite rough treatment he came home in good health.

Empain, 40-year-old Belgian head of the Empain-Schneider industrial empire, was freed Sunday night, two days after police ambushed five of the kidnappers as they were about to pick up an $8.6-million ransom payment.

Three of the pickup gang escaped without the money, one was killed, and another was wounded and captured. The captive, 36-year-old Alain Calloil, telephoned other members of the gang Sunday night to urge them to free Empain, the police said.

Police Commissioner Pierre Ottavioi said as many as 10 men are now believed to have participated in the kidnapping and that Empain was moved several times during his captivity.

He told the police he didn't know where he had been held. The kidnappers freed the baron Sunday night on the southeast side of Paris and gave him a few francs. He took the subway to the Place de l'Opera, telephoned his wife and she and the police collected him shortly after.

Empain went into seclusion with his wife and family in their Avenue Foch apartment. A police cordon kept throngs of reporters and photographers back.

Ottavioi said Empain had been "mutilated" but gave no details. This apparently confirmed earlier reports that the kidnappers had sent one of the baron's fingerprints to the police as proof that they were holding him.

Weather Rainfall reported in eastern areas

Rain covered much of the eastern section of the nation today with showers stretching all along the coastal plains from the Carolinas into New England.

However, except for rain over northwestern Washington, a few light showers in the high plains of Nebraska and Colorado and some cloudiness along the California Coast, most of the rest of the nation enjoyed sunny skies.

Mild temperatures extended from the Pacific Coast to the Mississippi River with the most warming occurring over Iowa, Missouri, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

It was a little cooler over the southern Atlantic Coast and generally cool elsewhere in the East.

Rain and freezing temperatures turned the western half of Virginia into an ice-covered mess Sunday.

Half a million trees were damaged or destroyed in the Shenandoah Valley alone, said officials of power companies and the Virginia Department of Highways & Transportation.

As limbs broke off and whole trees fell, they knocked out electric and telephone lines, blocked roads and destroyed property.

More than 30,000 persons were reported without electric service Sunday morning in the Shenandoah Valley. By Sunday night, nearly half still were awaiting the restoration of service even though repair crews were brought in from other parts of the state.

Telephone company officials said they had 100 to 150 poles down and as many as 2,000 customers without service.

A flash flood watch was posted today for the Berkshires of Massachusetts, the northeastern hills of Connecticut, interior eastern New York, extreme southeastern New York, northern New Jersey and Long Island.

Playground to be discussion topic

During its regular 9 a.m. meeting Tuesday, the Big Spring City Council will consider a proposal by local Jaycees to construct a new children's playground in Comanche Trail Park.

The new playground should accommodate several hundred children at once, and will cost an estimated $200,000 to complete. It would be located between the softball field and the Old Settlers Pavilion at the park.

Seven items on the meeting agenda are concerned with the approval of minutes of meetings. These include minutes for four meetings of the city council, two meetings of the Big Spring Steering Committee, and a meeting of the Tourist Development Council.

is not accomplished during each 90-day time period, or (III) demolition is not completed within 90 days after issuance of a permit.

In other business, council members will:

- Consider advertising for bids for security lighting and fencing at the Big Spring Airport.
- Consider an appointment to the Tourist Development Council.
- Consider the appointment of a health officer.
- Consider a request for funds for the State Guard submitted by Joe Baucham.
- Consider a claim for damages by Dan Conley.

Council members will also consider the second and final reading of a request for a zone change for property located between Gregg and Lancaster from 15th to 18th streets. The property should be rezoned from Parking to Retail.

A revision in the Code of Ordinances will also be discussed. If amended, the ordinance to the building code will read, "A permit for demolition may be revoked by the building official if (I) work is not commenced within 30 days after issuance of a permit, (II) some work item in a set is liable for that item only.

Most movers disclaim responsibility for items of extraordinary value — jewelry, antiques, etc. — unless these things are specifically listed on the face of the bill of lading.

Movers and government officials agree that consumers should not ship items of unusual value. "Any items you have that are absolutely irreplaceable, keep those items in your possession," said Ray Atherton, head of the ICC's Household Goods branch.

Learn how to protect your possessions if you want to prevent trouble.

Movers are not liable for the full value of lost or damaged goods unless you buy extra coverage; the normal liability is only 60 cents per pound per article.

Suppose, for example, you ship a four-pound lamp which was bought a year ago for $20 and has a current value of $18. If the lamp is not packed in a container, the mover's liability is only $2.40. (If the lamp is included in a container, either alone or with other items, liability is based on total weight of the full container.)

"It is our normal recommendation," says the Interstate Commerce Commission, "that unless you are being fully reimbursed by your employer or other source for any losses or damages, you do not ship your goods at the minimum responsibility..."

The bill of lading you get when the driver picks up your furniture and other items will include a valuation statement. If you want minimum coverage, you must write the words "60 cents per pound per article" in the appropriate place and sign your name.

If you want further protection, you have one of two options. You can choose not to declare any value at all and not sign the valuation statement. In this case, the mover's liability is automatically set at the entire shipment. If your goods weigh 4,000 pounds, the mover's liability is $5,000. (Since the amount of liability is based on total shipment weight, you are not limited to recovering only $1.25 times the weight of any individual article.)

You also can choose to list a specific valuation higher than the $1.25-per-pound limit. You may, for example, list your 4,000 pounds of possessions as being worth $8,000. In this case, you must write the amount of your estimate and sign your name on the bill of lading.

The extra coverage — which costs 50 cents per $100 of value — means you will be reimbursed for losses caused by an act of God — like a storm — and in cases where goods you pack yourself are broken or damaged. (Without the extra coverage, you would have to prove negligence by the mover.)

You generally will be reimbursed only for the market value of an item — not its purchase or replacement price. When a damaged item can be repaired, the mover's liability generally is limited either to repair costs or the depreciated value of item, whichever is less. And a mover who damages one

Moving has its hazards

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Almost half the complaints received by the Interstate Commerce Commission about moving every year concern lost or damaged goods and you will have to learn how to protect your possessions if you want to prevent trouble.

Movers are not liable for the full value of lost or damaged goods unless you buy extra coverage; the normal liability is only 60 cents per pound per article.

Suppose, for example, you ship a four-pound lamp which was bought a year ago for $20 and has a current value of $18. If the lamp is not packed in a container, the mover's liability is only $2.40. (If the lamp is included in a container, either alone or with other items, liability is based on total weight of the full container.)

"It is our normal recommendation," says the Interstate Commerce Commission, "that unless you are being fully reimbursed by your employer or other source for any losses or damages, you do not ship your goods at the minimum responsibility..."

The bill of lading you get when the driver picks up your furniture and other items will include a valuation statement. If you want minimum coverage, you must write the words "60 cents per pound per article" in the appropriate place and sign your name.

If you want further protection, you have one of two options. You can choose not to declare any value at all and not sign the valuation statement. In this case, the mover's liability is automatically set at the entire shipment. If your goods weigh 4,000 pounds, the mover's liability is $5,000. (Since the amount of liability is based on total shipment weight, you are not limited to recovering only $1.25 times the weight of any individual article.)

You also can choose to list a specific valuation higher than the $1.25-per-pound limit. You may, for example, list your 4,000 pounds of possessions as being worth $8,000. In this case, you must write the amount of your estimate and sign your name on the bill of lading.

The extra coverage — which costs 50 cents per $100 of value — means you will be reimbursed for losses caused by an act of God — like a storm — and in cases where goods you pack yourself are broken or damaged. (Without the extra coverage, you would have to prove negligence by the mover.)

Farm Brazil remains top competitor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although the Brazilian soybean crop now being harvested is much smaller than in 1977, the Agriculture Department said today that the setback is temporary and that Brazil can be counted on to remain a fierce competitor of U.S. soybean producers in world markets.

Drought and other weather problems have cut Brazil's soybean harvest to around 19.5 million metric tons — about 385 million bushels — or about 12.5 percent below the 1977 harvest.

The reduction is the first time in 11 years that Brazil's soybean production has declined. Rising world demand for soybean meal and oil, higher prices and government incentives have helped boost expansion of the crop in Brazil.

"The setback is not expected to dampen Brazilian interest in soybeans, however," the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said. "Many producers have geared their entire operations to this 'wonder crop' and are not inclined to switch to alternatives such as corn and grain sorghum."

Reports of the reduced soybean crop in Brazil have contributed to higher U.S. soybean prices and a growing export demand. Thus, in a real way, what happens in Brazil affects soybean farmers throughout the United States.

Much of the report, included in a weekly issue of "Foreign Agriculture" published by the agency, was based on information supplied by Leon G. Mears, U.S. agricultural attache in Brazil.

"Over the long run, Brazil can be expected to continue to expand exports of soybean oil and meal as a result of increased crushing capacity now coming on-stream," the report said. Last year the United States produced a record soybean crop of more than 1.7 billion bushels — about quadruple what Brazil produces — and the farm price of soybeans a few months ago was expected by some experts to drop sharply from the levels of a year ago following the much smaller 1976 harvest.

But increased demand, including larger exports, has helped narrow the price gap so that USDA officials now are forecasting that the farm price of soybeans will average $5.50 to $6 a bushel over the entire 1977-78 marketing year which will end Aug. 31.

The 1976-77 marketing year farm price average was $6.81 a bushel, reflecting the smaller harvest two years ago.

By Sept. 1, when the 1978-crop year begins for soybeans, the beans left over are expected to be about 215 million bushels, compared with 103 million carried over last Sept. 1.

Milk production likely to set another record

WASHINGTON (AP) — Milk production in the 36 major producing nations is expected to set another record this year, according to the Agriculture Department.

Total output could rise to more than 404.4 million metric tons this year, up 1.7 percent from the previous record of 397.7 million tons in 1977, the department's Foreign Agricultural Service says in an annual report.

A metric ton is 2,205 pounds. One ton of milk is equal to about 256 gallons or 1,024 quarts.

The report said that milk output by the world's two largest producers — the European Common Market nations and the Soviet Union — should show "significant" increases in 1978.

"Both Australia and New Zealand are suffering drought, which, combined with economic and policy factors, is likely to result in continued declines in output," the report said. "Otherwise, most milk-producing countries expect increased output in 1978, despite the emergence of scattered attempts to limit or discourage output."

Milk production in the Soviet Union last year was about 94 million tons, and may climb to 96 million tons in 1978, the report said.

By comparison, U.S. production was about 55.8 million tons last year and may edge up slightly to about 56.1 million this year.

Public drawing is scheduled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department plans to hold a public drawing here July 6 to decide who will get the first permits to import foreign breeding cattle through the government's new $7 million animal import center at Fleming Key, Fla.

The winners will get permits to import up to 400 cattle through the center, which is scheduled to open about a year from now. It has been officially named the Harry S. Truman Animal Import Center.

Cattle breeders have been prevented by federal law from importing cattle from countries where foot and mouth disease and other diseases are prevalent. The new center will enable imports from those countries by quarantining the animals for five months to determine that they are free of disease.

Importers and breeders have until April 15 to apply for the drawing. Application forms are available from the Import Export Staff, APHIS, Veterinary Services, USDA, 6505 Belcrest Road, Hyattsville, Md. 20782, and can be returned to the same address.

Black nations support rebs

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — Leaders of the five "front-line" black nations around Rhodesia gave a new pledge of total support for guerrilla leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe and called for "intensification of the just armed struggle."

At a summit meeting Sunday, the presidents of Tanzania, Zambia, Mozambique and Botswana and a representative of Angola also condemned the recent agreement signed by Prime Minister Ian Smith and three moderate black Rhodesian leaders. The presidents demanded that the United States and Britain oppose the agreement.

U.S. business practices shocking

Fiscally speaking, the federal government is like a runaway freight train with no one near the throttle in the engine cab.

Consider a recent remark by Congressman Mickey Edwards of Oklahoma:

"The federal government is simply spending too much money. The federal budget has literally exploded during the last ten years and the national debt has doubled. Even liberals, sensing the frustration and anger of the American people, now have to at least campaign in favor of fiscal responsibility."

"At the end of fiscal 1977, the official debt figure was just under $700 billion. The truth is the gross liabilities of federal programs are now more than $1.5 trillion, of which $4 trillion will have to be supported by raising taxes."

It's the job of Congress to keep a rein on the budget but leaving the responsibility up to Congress is like putting a fox in charge of the henhouse. Members of the Congress have a lot of people to satisfy and, quite obviously, they try to please everybody. When they can't find things on which to spend money they work overtime to invent them.

The seeds of destruction have been planted by a cabal in Washington that answers to no one for its sins and omissions. Americans with voting privileges can change the lineup in the nation's capital every two to six years but sending in fresh talent never does any good.

Les Fettig, administrator of the Office of Federal Procurement Policy in the Office of Management and Budget, had this to say about the government spending your money: "It's mystifying. Nobody knows how much Uncle Sam buys, or when, or why."

Fettig estimates that government purchasing and service agreements total $170 billion annually — more than a third of the federal budget and almost a tenth of the Gross National Product.

How long do you think a private business concern with this sort of accounting would last? How long to you think all private businesses can endure in a land which tolerates such irresponsible bookkeeping in its government?

Campaigning hand

Around the rim

Carla Walker

Campaigning for a public office is a hectic job, but I didn't know just how hectic it was until I spent part of one afternoon with one of the candidates for the U.S. House of Representatives.

The candidate's average daily schedule included a solid day of activities, beginning early in the morning, and ending late in the evening. Speeches, receptions, door-to-door campaigning, meetings with campaign leaders and civic leaders in each town, and countless appearances are required of those desiring to serve the public in an elected office.

Door-to-door campaigning, while not the most effective means of getting votes, is still an essential part of any campaign.

"YOU HAVE to divide time between the different types of campaigning," said a campaign worker for the candidate I followed around for part of an afternoon. "It takes a balance of media exposure, personal contact — both group and one-to-one — to get people familiar with a candidate."

"Door-to-door work has to be the hardest way to campaign," said the candidate himself. "People look at you as if you were an unwanted salesman, trespassing on their doorstep, and they are not very receptive in many cases."

"But, it is valuable personal contact, and lets people know that you are interested in them — personally — especially if you can talk to them for several moments about their lives. In addition, you can get a feel for their attitudes and learn something about the issues that need attention," said the candidate.

Among the hazards of door-to-door campaigning are dogs. A lot of people aren't contacted — and don't even have flyers left on their door — because of a belligerent dog.

NORMAL PROCEDURE in neighborhood campaigning is to park the car at one corner, and walk (rapidly) for several blocks stopping at each house before returning to the car. One candidate said he carries four pairs of shoes to each town just so his feet don't get quite so sore. "One thing about it," he laughed, "I'll not gain weight as long as I keep this up."

And, the schedule only gets more hectic as election day approaches. What would once have been done in two days, must be conducted in one day or less as time becomes more and more taken up and the whole campaign "snowballs," or in West Texas terms, "tumbleweeds."

"You have to be serious at the right moments, smile at the right time, never allow the fact that you are tired to show, and never, but never contradict anything you have once said," the candidate said. "A lot of times, people think a politician is being evasive when he won't answer a question in specifics. Sometimes, he really hasn't decided where he stands on the issue, and doesn't want to risk stating an opinion until he has thought the issue through."

It is a long road from campaigning to being elected, with many wearisome days, aching feet, and red eyes from writing speeches late into the night.

But, one thing about it — the candidate always develops strong right-arm and hand muscles — from shaking hands all day, every day.

Fireproof secretary

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — The White House refusal to help Patricia Roberts Harris, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), dug a bureaucratic antagonist has angered liberals and intensified the cold war inside the Carter administration.

Immediately at stake is whether Mrs. Harris takes over the Federal National Mortgage Assn. (Fannie Mae) — a federally chartered corporation which supports the housing market by buying commercial mortgages. But much more is involved. Backed by both civil servants and political appointees at HUD, Mrs. Harris is a throwback to Great Society liberalism of the 1960s which believed Uncle Sam and his checkbook could solve all problems.

JIMMY CARTER, considerably less certain than Pat Harris about most things, does not share that faith in government. There is, then, an internal conflict over both style and ideology between White House policymakers and departmental policy executors — particularly at HUD. But the President will not wield a hatchet. Mr. Carter is never inclined to fire anybody, and even if he were it certainly would not be the Secretary of HUD. Black and female, Mrs. Harris is fireproof.

Stylistic differences overshadowed ideological differences when Mrs. Harris's struggle with Fannie Mae began over a year ago. A prominent Washington lawyer before entering the cabinet, she had served as a well-qualified director for several companies eager for public display of blacks and females. So she was shocked to find Fannie Mae's 10 stockholder directors were all white males.

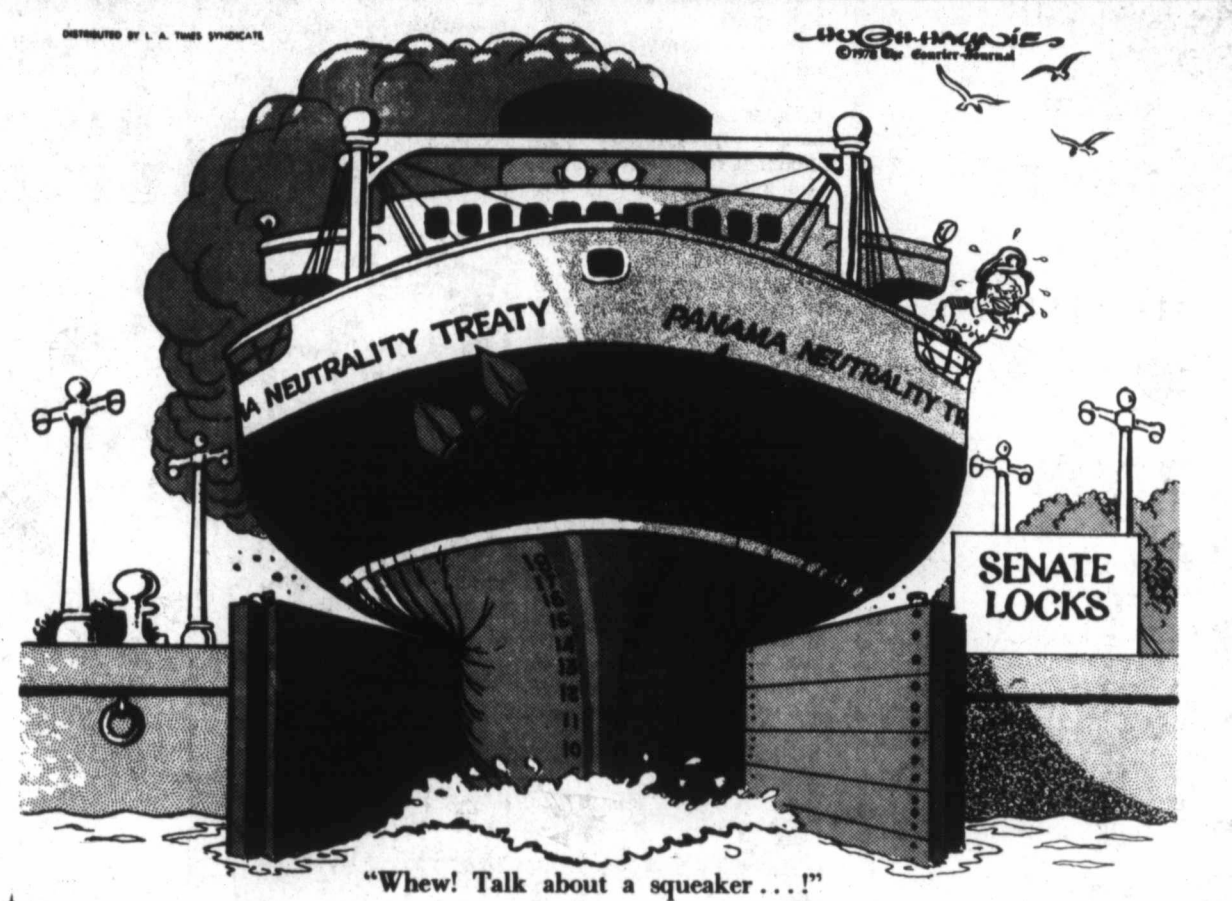

It was not what Mrs. Harris did next but how she did it. In her tough-gal style, she demanded that Oakley Hunter, chairman of Fannie Mae, integrate his board, sexually and racially. Hunter, a 61-year-old conservative Republican who served as a Congressman from California 25 years ago, was nonplussed. Stunned by what he considered a personal insult, he gave not an inch.

The personality clash quickly became ideological. HUD claimed Fannie Mae under Republican Hunter was refusing to buy risky inner-city mortgages, a claim refuted by Fannie Mae and the housing industry. In no time, HUD had sufficient grounds to demand Hunter's ouster. The President himself agreed to look into it. Ambassador Robert Strauss, the administration's peripatetic Mr. Fixit, tried to get Hunter quietly to resign. Failing that, one course remained: sack Hunter.

BUT TO HUD'S astonishment, the White House blocked the way by finding no grounds for firing Hunter. That recommendation came from a 32-year-old White House domestic policy aide named Orin Kramer who is now regarded as Benedict Arnold at HUD (in the words of one HUD official, "that little creep"). "I'm not going to let this turn into another Marston affair," Kramer told friends. "My job is to protect the President."

That desire is incomprehensible to HUD bureaucrats who could not care less for Jimmy Carter's political hide. Moreover, while HUD and Mrs. Harris seek wider bureaucratic frontiers, in a style harking back to Lyndon Johnson, by taking over Fannie Mae, Mr. Carter's men are more concerned about the housing industry in an uncertain economy.

The difference extends beyond Fannie Mae. The Harris team at HUD is frustrated by what it considers meat ax budget slashes by Mr. Carter's Office of Management and Budget (OMB). "We are dealing with a bunch of conservatives, including a conservative President," a bitter Harris adviser told us. Carter aides believe HUD is living in a long-gone Great Society, submitting budgets that begged for the meat ax.

"Whew! Talk about a squeaker..."

'Rest' comes hard for teenager

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a 14-year-old boy who has a problem — Osgood-Schlatter disease in my knee. I realize that it isn't serious. About four months ago the doctor put on a small cast. It didn't help. So I started playing on it. I love sports and don't know what to do without them. When I went back to the doctor he told me I can't play. Now when I am at home, I don't know what to do. Please don't say "rest," because I've heard that a million times. If I play records at home my mother gets angry, especially when it's rock and roll.

I have already played on my knee. I know I wasn't supposed to, but I could take it. So I'm writing to you for help. — M.H.

There is a normal bump at the upper end of the large bone of the leg (at the knee) called the tibial tuberosity. The tendon of the knee cap attaches at this point and if there is any disturbance of the juncture, it is called Osgood-Schlatter disease. It is, as you already know, not serious, but it can be painful.

O-S is what is called a "self-limiting" disorder. Yours will last from two to 11 months and clear up with rest and avoidance of irritation. You should not kneel with that leg.

For a boy who loves sports, this is a difficult pill to swallow. Although the cast did not help you, it is the only one available. It is usually OK to engage in activity that does not produce pain. Since you might have your own "personal view" of just what pain is, you had best take your parents' and doctor's advice about what you should or should not do.

Rest, application of cold compresses, perhaps medicine to reduce pain is the standard treatment. You'll just have to adjust your home activities accordingly. Play your rock records a bit more quietly and accept the necessary restrictions. The disorder will disappear in due time. You will prolong the discomfort if you persist in overdoing.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is tinnitis a problem of aging? I assume it is because I seldom hear complaints from younger people with ear noises. I find the only answer for me (at night, anyway) is playing my bedside radio and going to sleep that way. Otherwise, it's like trying to sleep in a steam boiler. — Mrs. I. O. B.

No, it's not a problem of aging, although admittedly most sufferers are elderly. I believe most of this arises from the fact that the older we get, the more of the various medicines we take (such as aspirin for arthritis). These may cause the noises. High blood pressure, which seems to creep up on us with age, also tends to produce strange noises. Circulation changes as well as middle-ear disorders are other causes.

But noises are more limited to aging than are high blood pressure, ear infections, or other ailments that affect our ears.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Back in September you advised a man to be examined promptly if he had blood in his urine. At the time I had this for about two months, but I didn't do anything about it. I thought it might go away, you know? Well, when I read the article I decided to go in and see the doctor. Sure enough, he sent me to the hospital the next day, then operated on me for kidney stones. He took seven out. I never knew I had them. You're also right about kidney stone-formers being poor liquid drinkers. I do want to thank you so much. — Mrs. R. M.

Thank you. Your kind letter makes

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: It is my belief that Jesus did not die willingly, as a lot of Christians claim. Instead, he was murdered against his will, and there is no reason to believe that he died for our sins. Can you point to any Scripture that teaches otherwise? — Miss C. R. R.

DEAR MISS R.: I strongly urge you to read the New Testament for yourself and seek to see what Jesus taught about Himself. If you read it with an open mind, you will find many passages which show that Jesus knew His death was necessary to win our salvation. It is clear that He went to His death obediently and willingly. Jesus taught His disciples about His death as soon as they were able to understand that He was the Son of God. "From that time forth began Jesus to shew unto His disciples, how that he must go unto Jerusalem, and suffer many things of the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and be raised again the third day." (Matthew 16:21).

Jesus also taught that His death was voluntary and was for the salvation of men. For example, John 10:11, 15, 18 says: "I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep... and I lay down my life for the sheep... No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again."

What a tremendous truth! Our greatest problem is our sin. Only Christ can bring forgiveness, because "He being in very nature God, did not consider equality with God something to be grasped, but made himself nothing... and became obedient to death — even death on a cross!" (Philippians 2:6, 7, 8, New International Version).

WASHINGTON — There is startling new evidence that the Korean connection may have reached into other countries, including the Arab sheikdoms and the former Greek dictatorship.

We learned in the early 1970s that Korean entrepreneur Tongsun Park and Rep. Richard Hanna, D-Calif., were racketing around the Mediterranean. We reported on April 1, 1974 on their travels to Yemen, Saudi Arabia and Egypt.

We have now learned that this odd couple also stopped in Greece, which was then under the thumb of a military junta. Previously, Hanna had taken a public stand against the Greek colonels. In May, 1969, for example, he wrote to several officials to express his "strong objections" to a proposed World Bank loan to Greece.

SUBSEQUENTLY, HANNA came under the influence of Tongsun Park, according to Justice Department documents. He was in Park's pocket in July, 1971, when he made a mysterious visit to Athens.

While in Greece, he suddenly reversed his attitude toward the Greek dictatorship. He decried "American interference in the internal affairs" of Greece. In private meetings with U.S. diplomats, Hanna escorted a prominent Greek exiled leader in the United States.

He was Elias Demetrapoulos, a Greek journalist driven from his homeland by the junta in 1967. He set up shop in a tiny hotel room in Washington and proceeded to lambaste the colonels from afar. He complained about the military junta to congressmen on Capitol Hill. One who befriended him was the same Hanna who denounced him in 1971.

Meanwhile, Hanna's boon companion, Tongsun Park, had apparently developed some enigmatic ties to the Nixon administration. As early as June, 1971, the State Department had informed then Attorney General John Mitchell in a confidential memorandum that Park had "a highly questionable" background.

"We know for a fact," continued the Korean experts, "that Park offered to contribute to the campaign fund of several congressmen and have suspicions that he has been involved in many other irregularities as a lobbyist." Mitchell promised a full-scale FBI investigation, but it turned out to be nothing more than routine search of the records.

A few years later, Park quietly teamed up with Spiro Agnew, who had been drummed out of the vice presidency, to pursue international business deals. Park's private papers contain cryptic references to joint Agnew-Park ventures in the Middle East.

Thus it appears that Tongsun Park, who was already friendly with Richard Hanna, also had high-level connections in the Nixon White House.

And this, perhaps, best explains why Hanna did a surprise turnabout on Greece and Elias Demetrapoulos.

Nixon and his associates staunchly supported the Greek dictatorship and were angered by Demetrapoulos' efforts to do it in. So abiding was Nixon's hatred for the exiled leader that he connived with John Mitchell to have Demetrapoulos sent home to certain torture and possible death.

Witnesses told us how Mitchell once threatened to have Demetrapoulos deported. And we previously disclosed the Greek junta's plans to kidnap Demetrapoulos, with the "cooperation of various agencies of the U.S. government," and smuggle him back to Athens.

By July 1971, Hanna had become a Demetrapoulos enemy and a convert to the dictatorship's cause. Following Hanna's visit to Athens, U.S. Ambassador Henry Tasca dispatched an extraordinary secret cable to Attorney General Mitchell and Secretary of State William Rogers.

"MY DEPUTY has recently been informed by Congressman Richard Hanna... that (Elias) Demetrapoulos has been giving financial assistance to various Congressmen," cabled pro-junta Tasca. The ambassador went on to accuse Demetrapoulos of attempting to "damage our relations with Greece, loosen our NATO alliance and weaken the U.S. security position in the Eastern Mediterranean." The exiled leader, said Tasca, was a "dangerous and a mysterious enemy."

"I bring this matter to your attention now," Tasca concluded, "believing that as an alien resident in the United States, it may be possible to submit him to the kind of searching and professional FBI investigation which would lift some of the mystery."

What Tasca was recommending, in other words, was that Mitchell and the FBI take advantage of the fact that Demetrapoulos did not enjoy the Constitutional rights of an American citizen and could therefore be harassed with relative impunity.

Hanna did not return our calls. Had we been able to speak with him, we would have asked why he suddenly turned around on Greece and Demetrapoulos. Was it Tongsun Park's influence? Did he and Park hope to land some business deals with the Greeks? Was he paid off by Greek interests? Or, more interestingly, did the Nixon White House use its knowledge of Hanna's dealings with Park to persuade the congressman to support the administration's position on Greece?

We were unable to reach Henry Tasca in Rome, where he is now in private business.

Footnote: The charge that he was giving "financial assistance" to congressmen, Demetrapoulos told my associate Joe Spear, was a "ridiculous lie." He explained that in his job as Washington representative of Brimberg & Co., a Wall Street firm, he often invited politicians to speak at corporate gatherings. He provided documentary evidence that the modest honorariums paid to the speakers were handled by the firm, not by him. A CIA study of Demetrapoulos, meanwhile, concluded that "there are no hard facts in the record" to show that he ever worked for any foreign government against Greece or the United States or "has ever been involved in criminal activities."

Dean's new dodge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dean has changed his style and politics. He is no longer a Republican. "I registered as an independent when I came out here," he says, "which isn't that big a switch for me... I always split my ticket." In well-tailored bluejeans and a wine-colored sweater — the horn-rimmed glasses are the only giveaway — his new image might be called "laid back."

He tapes his shows in the book-lined study of the hillside home he and his wife Mo bought when they moved here from Washington. Watergate, the subject of his best-selling memoir

ESCORTED AWAY — Demonstrator is escorted by riot policeman from control tower of new Tokyo International airport in Narita, Japan, Sunday after demonstrators broke through police lines and stormed the facility. The demonstrators were protesting opening of the new billion-dollar airport. The demonstrators occupied the tower about two hours before police arrested them.

Airport foes will continue attacks

TOKYO (AP) — Militant foes of Japan's new international airport who wrecked the control tower under cover of an assault by thousands of demonstrators vowed today to continue their attacks on the billion-dollar Narita field.

"We'll employ everything we can. We'll fight until we see the airport abolished," said Issaku Tomura, the leader of the Anti-Airport League.

Airport officials said the attackers smashed radar, communications and meteorology equipment in the control room, and the opening Thursday of the airport 41 miles northeast of Tokyo will probably have to be delayed again.

Demonstrations, riots, attacks and other blocking tactics have already delayed the opening of the airport for six years, and five persons have been killed in battles there.

At least 20 persons were injured Sunday when some 6,500 militants clashed with police.

"Blind Ambition," has been a recurring theme is his radio show.

"I have an inside track," Dean says wryly.

He spent four months in prison in 1974 for his role in the scandal. "It was a chance to take a harder look at myself and not exactly like what I saw," he says.

"I'm not one to live in the past." He says, "so I don't think about it very much. I can't have bitterness against anyone because it's my own fault for what happened. I can only be bitter at myself for my own stupidity... for my failure to get my act together sooner."

Although his early radio shows attracted attention, Dean isn't declaring a triumph yet.

"If the radio show doesn't go," he said, "it wouldn't be the end of the world."

"Ten years ago, this would have been an all-consuming thing. I might have been out here trying to replace Cronkite."

Villagers slain

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A band of about 70 Meo hill tribesmen attacked a village in northern Thailand Sunday night and killed several villagers, border police reported.

Residents will fight intrusion

MCLESTER, Okla. (AP) — A group of residents near McAlester are forming a new town in hopes of stopping construction of a large restaurant and nightclub.

"We don't want a honky-tonk downgrading our property and endangering the lives of our kids," said Paul Johnson, an Oklahoma highway patrolman who is chairman of the steering committee for incorporation.

The two-square-mile area of about 80 families is served by a 17-foot wide road with a onelane bridge.

"I hate to think of the children that could be named for life or killed if we let a bunch of drunks pile out of a tavern onto that narrow country road," said another resident.

Assistant District Attorney Neil Whittington said Pittsburg County commissioners will meet April 3 to issue a certificate of incorporation to the new town — to be named Frink-Chambers.

Promoter Walter Key, who owns 11 acres inside the area, says he has found a new legal weapon that will allow him to kill the town before it can kill his plans for the proposed $150,000 restaurant-nightclub that would book shows by country music performers.

Key lost a court fight to prevent the incorporation election and also failed to get an injunction to prevent issuance of the certificate of incorporation.

But now he says he has found a state law which prohibits the incorporation of a territory within three miles of an incorporated city with less than 200,000 population. McAlester has about 19,000.

Frink-Chambers will be less than a mile from the McAlester municipal airport but about five miles from the main part of town.

McAlester incorporated a narrow strip of land out to the airport so it could be taken into the city limits.

Johnson maintains the airport should not be considered part of the town in applying the state law Key is trying to have invoked.

Chamber drive success

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce membership drive wound up with a Big Spring bang Friday as Ambassador Troy Fraser totaled more than 3,900 points, with 41 new members to his credit. Troy received the first place prize of a trip to Acapulco for two. A portion of the flight will be on Continental Airlines and is co-sponsored by Skipper Travel and the chamber.

Second place went to last year's over-all winner, John Arrick, who brought in 33 new members and won a 223. Ruger Rifle, provided by Gibson's, Bob Wegner, Carter's Furniture, Wheat's Furniture and City Pawn Shop.

Charles Beil was the recipient of a $150 gift certificate from Gibbs & Weeks, Men's Clothiers, for his third place standing with more than 30 new members.

Fourth was Dan Hutchinson who was awarded a quality travel bag from Dunlap's.

Ambassador Chairman Richard Atkins was fifth and received a $50 gift certificate from the Brass Nail.

The team competition was won by Williams Wonders, captained by Chamber President Ray Don Williams. Team members Troy Fraser, Jim Gregg and Louis Tallant will enjoy a dinner for two.

Bill Albright, chamber executive vice president, summed it up saying "the drive totaled a tremendous lot of hustle as 194 new members were added to the chamber roles. This brings the total figure to 1,019 memberships. The goal established by the membership committee, Martha Cohorn, chairperson, was 1,000 members by the end of March.

Albright further noted that last June the drive netted 221 members and combined with these results, a nine-month net of 414 new members should set a record.

Orientation sessions for the new members will be held in April.

Trull takes stand today

TYLER, Texas (AP) — The kidnapping trial of a Mississippi promoter who claims he was bilked out of a small fortune by paroled West Texas swindler Billie Sol Estes gets down to cases today when the promoter takes the stand.

Don Trull has said the incident that led to his arrest stemmed from a refusal by Estes to pay money Trull claims was owed him.

Estes is on the subpoena list of Trull's defense attorneys and could take the stand Tuesday. His and other names on the list indicate that defense lawyers would like to get Trull's allegations against Estes read into the official court record.

Included on the witness list are several Houston and Abilene businessmen who have told The Associated Press they, too, were caught up in bogus promotions authored by Estes.

The 40-year-old Trull ended up in jail after an Aug. 9, 1976, incident in which he allegedly held a man hostage for four hours in a gasoline-soaked Tyler office building while threatening to burn the place down. He surrendered after an alleged attempt to extort $10,000 and a Cadillac from Tyler millionaire Billy Pyron, a man Trull claims was in some way connected with his deal to buy land in East Texas from Estes.

Pyron has denied any involvement in the matter.

Estes was paroled in 1971 after serving about half of a 15-year-sentence for fraud that involved the U.S. government and some 400 individuals. His scheme involved non-existent fertilizer tanks.

One of the terms of the Estes parole was that he not take part in any self-employment or promotional activities.

Ridin' fence — Mother Shipton's prophecy

And England shall admit a Jew.
The Jew that came was held in scorn.
Shall of a Christian then be born.
A house of glass shall come to pass
In England — but alas!
Alas!
A war will follow with the work
Where dwells the pagan and the Turk.

The States will look in fierce strife
And seek to take each other's life.
When North shall thus divide the South.
The eagle builds in lion's mouth.
Then tax and blood and cruel war
Shall come to every humble door.

Three times shall sunny, lovely France
Be led to play a bloody dance.
Before the people shall be free.
Three tyrant rulers shall see shee,
Three rulers in succession
Each sprung from different dynasty.

Then, when the fiercest fight is done,
England and France shall be as one.
The British olive next shall twine
In marriage with the German vine,
Men walk beneath and over the stream —
Fulfilled shall be our strangest dreams.

All England's sons shall plow the land,
Shall oft be seen with book in hand.
The poor shall now most wisdom know,
And water wind where corn did grow.
Great houses stand in farflung vale
All covered o'er with snow.

In water iron then shall float
As easy as a wooden boat.
Gold shall be found in stream or stone,
In land that is as yet unknown.
Water and fire shall wondrous do,
And in the air man shall be seen.

Beaneath the waters men shall walk;
Shall ride, shall sleep and even talk.
And in the air man shall be seen,
In white, in black as well as green.
A great man then shall come and go,
For prophecy declares it so.

Legalized gambling on way?

CIUDAD ACUNA, Mexico (AP) — A Mexican government official says the resort area near Lake Amistad on the border near Del Rio, Texas, could ride a combination of relaxed religious views and a sagging economy into status as a haven for gamblers.

Jesus Ramon, a spokesman for the governor of the Mexican state of Coahuila, said horse and dog betting could be followed by Las Vegas-style casinos before the year is out.

The Lake Amistad area is one of those being considered for such a venture, Ramon said.

He told the San Antonio Express and News horse and dog betting would probably be the first step.

"Top officials are beginning to consider it," Ramon said. "The top people in government have commented it is not impossible to open more dog tracks."

"I think it would be done in stages," Ramon said. "I think we would have horse racing and dog racing first. The results would then be analyzed and then the possibility of casino gambling would be considered."

Elias Cardenas, director of tourism for Coahuila, said legalized gambling is also being considered by other Mexican cities.

"I think they may be making studies in Acapulco," Cardenas said. Ramon said Cancun and Baja California were also looking at the idea.

"The government would be most likely to look for resort places which are already functioning, which have rooms and hotels, but need some economic help," he said.

Pari-mutuel betting is currently legal in some Mexican cities, but Juarez, across the Rio Grande from El Paso, Texas, is the only one located along the Texas border.

"Things have become more relaxed as far as the Catholic Church is concerned," Ramon said. "The Mexican public is open to the idea of expanded gambling. There is a need for work. I think that is the key to the question."

Count our blessings

By Bill Albright
Executive Vice President,
Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce
Industrial Growth and Development

I wonder if you are really aware of the many "pluses" that we are experiencing today in the Big Spring area.

Maybe this edition of Hustle 3 could be called "Let's Count our Big Spring Blessings."

To begin with, our economy is surprisingly healthy. As an example, and using January 1978 as the comparison month, bank deposits were up almost 10 per cent over January 1977; savings and loan assets increased more than 25 per cent; the tax that employers are required to deposit representing a portion of wages and Social Security was up 400 thousand dollars and it's obvious that building starts or actually permits, were more than doubled.

In addition, there's another source of indicators — it is the number of families moving into the Big Spring area — just ask any of our fine realtors about our growth and economy based on newcomers.

Then, there's still another source of indicators — it's your Chamber of Commerce, and here is a major signpost — over a thousand members — 20 active committees — and people working together to make things happen. The pledges to the Industrial Foundation totaling more than half a million dollars rounds out the positive picture that is Big Spring today.

Guess everyone of us should be extremely proud of our accomplishments — but on a collective basis — because no one person or group can take credit. It takes all of us with your chamber as the catalyst — and it takes lots of Hustle! Hustle! Hustle!

Cold water can bring on heart seizures

People getting in the water in March know it will be cold but they may be in for the shock of their lives. In fact, the shock may be fatal if the water is cold enough, the Texas Medical Association (TMA) says. Accidents of over-enthusiasm could keep someone in cold water long enough to cause hypothermia, a condition where body temperature drops several degrees until the person has a heart attack.

A study in Britain estimates an average size, unprotected adult would be in danger of hypothermia after about two hours of staying in seawater that was 62 degrees Fahrenheit. A thin adult would be in trouble in about an hour; a fat adult could survive much longer.

Major factors contributing to hypothermia risk include water temperature, length of time in the water and the person's physical condition, especially body fat. Children have the biggest risk of hypothermia because they have so little body fat.

Reception to honor Lloyds' Golden Year

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lloyd of Hermleigh will observe their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at the Hermleigh Community Center.

Hosting the event will be the couple's nine children and their families. Their children are Carl Ray Lloyd, Wendell; Eltine Davis, Midland; Pat Cornett, Snyder; Jerry Bob Lloyd, Gooding, Idaho; Billy Joe Lloyd, Dalhart; Keith Lloyd, Lockhart; Weldon Lloyd, Fluvanna; Jimmy Don Lloyd, Snyder; and Dorothy Patrick, Snyder.

Friends and relatives of the family are invited to attend the celebration.

The couple met at a "snap" party in the Luther Harris home in the Luther community. They were married March 30, 1928 in Colorado City at the First Christian Parsonage by the Rev. A. E. Ewell. Their witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. J. Hollis Lloyd.

Mrs. Lloyd is the former Leta Gray, daughter of Mrs. Carl Gray and the late Carl Gray. Born in Big Spring, she was reared on a ranch in Borden County, south of Gail. She received most of her education at Fairview, a one-room, one-teacher school where her father, and his brothers and sisters had also attended.

Lloyd, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Lloyd, was born in Fort Worth, and spent his childhood in Wood County before moving to West Texas in 1922. He attended school in Lamesa and played football for the Golden Tornados.

The couple lived in Borden County where Lloyd was engaged in farming and ranch work before moving to Scurry County in 1936. He engaged in farming, later going into the trucking business, driving for 12 years for Mayflower Transit.

All nine of their children graduated from Snyder High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd are

Baptists. Lloyd, retired, enjoys raising chickens and Mrs. Lloyd likes to piece and make quilts. They are happiest when entertaining their 27 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

MULTI-WAY LOOK — Model Inger Hammer uses the single piece of Qiana fabric made of wrinkle-free nylon. Instructions call for use of sleeves and a belt to vary the styles that give the 50-way dress its name. Robert Wachman designed the dress for Great Vibes Inc., using Qiana, a du Pont fabric made of wrinkle-free nylon. Instructions call for use of sleeves and a belt to vary the styles and length of the dress. Sleeves can be worn short or long or may be tied like a sash or like shoulder straps.

Fashioned by ex-psychologist

Dress can be worn 50 ways

NEW YORK (AP) — The 50-way dress — it grew out of a T-shirt.

Dubbed by its manufacturer as the height of versatility, the silk-like, wrinkle-free fashion was created by Robert Wachman, a Manhattan psychologist-turned-clothes designer.

Wachman, who designed the dress for Great Vibes, Inc., of New York, attended Bard College in Annandale-on-Hudson, N.Y., and Columbia University, where he majored in psychology.

"Then I designed a T-shirt for myself with capped sleeves and everything changed," says Wachman.

30. "People kept asking me where they could buy one."

Friends in the fashion field suggested that he market the shirt. "So I took $5,000 and my T-shirt and founded my own company, Robert Truth, in 1973."

The concept for multiway clothes emerged early last year when Wachman, his fiancée and his mother were packing for a four-day jaunt to the Caribbean.

"I suddenly realized we were filling up way too many pieces of luggage for such a short trip. I thought, 'This is ridiculous. We need more versatile clothing.'"

Back in New York, Wachman got out some Qiana, a du Pont fabric made of wrinkle-free nylon.

in a variety of solid colors for under $50. "That's less than a dollar a style," Wachman says.

Instructions for use of the sleeves to vary the styles and the belt to vary the lengths are included. The sleeves can be worn short or long and can be tied like a sash or like shoulder straps.

Wachman is continuing the multiway concept with designs for men's fashions.

"People are searching for ways to be relaxed and first class. The multiway story is the answer — the look for the '70s."

Dear Abby

Should Modest Teen Be Given Privacy?

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for your understanding reply to that 13-year-old girl who said she nearly died of embarrassment when taking gang showers after gym. I hope her mother follows your advice and goes to the principal to demand some privacy for her daughter.

I was raised to be modest, and showering with other girls was a terrible ordeal for me. I'm married now and have a child, and I'm still modest.

FRESNO MOM

DEAR MOM: Thanks, but most of my mail on the shower problem said, "You're all wet!" Some samples:

DEAR ABBY: Instead of sympathizing with that shy girl, you should have encouraged her to examine her reasons for being ashamed of her body. Your answer was kind, but dumb. If she ever marries, she'll be the type who undresses in the closet and can't make love with the lights on.

NO HANG-UPS IN HOLYOKE

DEAR ABBY: I know exactly how that 13-year-old girl felt because I felt the same way, but it was worse for me because I was a boy!

Not only could I not gang shower, I couldn't even strip in front of other boys, so on gym days I wore my gym shorts under my pants. I should have faced the fact that I had a problem and taken measures to overcome it in my youth. But I didn't, and it hung on for 15 years. You should have advised that shy girl to get counseling.

CHICKEN

DEAR ABBY: Good grief! Why did you give comfort to that young girl who was ashamed of her body? If she doesn't get over it, between her natural instincts and her inhibitions, she's sure to wind up on a psychiatrist's couch.

Our kids were brought up in a nudist park, and they all have healthy attitudes about nudity and sex.

BODIES ARE BEAUTIFUL

DEAR ABBY: I must disagree with your answer to the teenager who hated group showers. I, too, was terribly embarrassed when confronted with group showers in junior high. My mother wanted to go to school to defend my right to privacy, but I begged her not to because I was afraid the other kids would tease me if I got special treatment. Now I'm glad she didn't go, because by the end of high school I overcame my feeling of "shame" about my body.

NOT ASHAMED OF ME

DEAR NOT: Let's hear from a Miami reader who tells how the problem was solved at her school:

DEAR ABBY: There are always a few girls who are bashful about being seen naked in the shower, so our gym teacher lets us shower in our underwear. Then we change into dry underclothes in the toilet booth where there's complete privacy.

LILY

And one for the other side:

DEAR ABBY: Nobody, boys or girls, should be forced to go naked in front of others. That's the trouble with this modern world. Everybody has become so bold and brazen they are letting it all hang out. It's disgusting!

ASHEVILLE, N.C.

Credit women hear Thomas

Big Spring Credit Women International met at noon Thursday in the Settle's Hotel for their regular luncheon meeting.

During the business meeting, Mary Jones was named as delegate from the local group to go to the Lone Star Council State Credit Meeting which will take place Apr. 15-18 in Galveston.

Triuett Thomas, administrator of Cowper Hospital and Clinic, was the guest speaker. The subject of his talk was hospital credit.

Thomas stated that hospital customers are buying something that does not have a price tag attached. Hospital costs cannot be determined ahead of time; it depends on the individual patient's illness and length of recovery.

The average family, he said, does not budget hospital stays as it does buying a new car or furniture. Therefore, hospital expenses usually put a strain on the family pocketbook.

Thomas' motto is "Try to help someone each day." This not only includes helping someone mentally, physically or spiritually, but it may be just guiding a person in working out their budget to include paying a hospital bill.

There were four guests at the meeting: Thomas, Frankie Boyd, Juanita Bryant and Beth Cook.

Two Does plan Las Vegas trip

Big Spring Drove No. 61 Texas of the Benevolent, Patriotic Order of Does of the United States of America, met in regular session in the Elk's Lodge Hall at 8 p.m. Tuesday with Shirley Bodin presiding.

Alma George reported that her committee served coffee and doughnuts to patients at the V.A. Hospital last Monday.

Kay Williams reported that the fund-raising projects were in full swing and that all was going well.

Mrs. Bodin and Karen Mason, five-year treasurer, are making plans to attend the Grand Lodge Convention in Las Vegas, Nev., June 10-16.

Edna Mae Hayworth's name was drawn for the attendance prize.

The next regular meeting will be at 8 p.m. Apr. 4 in the Elk's Lodge Hall.

Club shows Madonnas

The Sew and Chatter Club met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Lewis Murdock.

In response to the Howard County Library's request for interesting collections to be displayed for public enjoyment the club arranged a display of Madonna figurines. The figurines belong to individual club members and may be seen now at the library.

Crochet projects were discussed and new patterns shown.

Refreshments were served to 14 members.

The next meeting will be Apr. 12 in the home of Mrs. Lawrence Robinson, 602 E. 17th.

Shoe sizes based on com

U.S. shoe sizing was developed in England during the 14th century. A measurement of one-third inch, the length of an average barley corn, represents the difference in whole numbered shoe sizes.

Disease is 'worst kind' Chemical from urine used to treat cancer

HOUSTON (AP) — A chemical extracted from human urine is being used in the controversial treatment of a 17-year-old cancer victim for whom other forms of treatment have proved unsuccessful.

"It's the worst kind of cancer you can have," Cliff Taylor of Denver said Sunday from his hospital bed. "They call it Synovial Cell Sarcoma. It started in the joint of my right arm. I was playing baseball when I was 12 and one day I tried to throw the ball and it felt like something was just blocking my arm."

Two months later, doctors amputated the arm, and conventional treatments held off the disease until 1976.

"He took the conventional treatments — amputation, radiation and chemotherapy," said Taylor's 41-year-old widowed mother, Linda Hudson. "He couldn't take chemotherapy any more because it made him sick. He just felt he couldn't tolerate it. He just felt life wasn't worth living."

Dr. Stanislaw R. Burzinski, the youth's doctor, said he extracts chemicals called peptides from the urine. Those chemicals have no adverse effects on normal tissues but inhibit the growth of cancer cells, he said.

Taylor's condition means he must have about 40 gallons of human urine a day, and a Houston church is sponsoring a collection effort within its congregation.

"He's getting pretty massive doses," his mother said.

Burzinski admitted the urine treatment is controversial, but said that is because "what is new and simple in quite controversial."

"The theory behind the treatment is that each tissue has a specific chemical that protects it from cancer," he said. "If a person has a deficiency in that chemical, he may get cancer."

The doctor said he believes each tissue is protected by a different compound. Those compounds can be found in the tissue and in smaller quantities of the blood and urine, he said.

Burzinski said urine was chosen as the source for the compounds because it is readily available. He said he began testing the chemicals on humans last year after 10 years of animal tests.

Of 30 patients treated so far, he said, four are in complete remission, meaning the cancer has disappeared. Nine have had partial remissions, meaning the tumor is less than half the size before treatments began, and nine others have stabilized, meaning the tumors have not grown or have shrunk somewhat.

He said he has followed U.S. Food and Drug Administration rules for human experiments but has not asked for FDA approval. Such approval is not required because all the experiments are in one state, he said.

Cliff said doses of the compound sometimes tire him out.

"I feel pretty good now," he said.

Danny Reagan Track meet shines

There were a number of proud people at the end of the day Saturday when the ABC Relays finally came to an end after a full day of blue skies and thrilling competition.

Everyone was proud that it didn't rain, and that the local boys captured their first track meet since perhaps as long ago as the late 50's. Steer track Coach Jerry Carter was proud of everyone. His father, the meet announcer, was also proud of his son.

Carter's father coached his son in track at Amarillo Tascosa some years back. That's when that school won two state championships and had a pair of runnerup seasons. Some of that winning mood must have rubbed off on the younger Carter.

Big Spring Athletic Director Don Robbins was proud. One of the most exciting moments of the day occurred when Steer anchor man on the varsity distance medley relay, James Martin, battled the Estacado runner in the final 30 yards of that race.

Martin exerted every erg of energy he had left to keep his resurging opponent from taking the win from him. "That showed a lot of courage," Robbins said, as he and the entire stadium reveled in the triumph. "That showed a heckuva lot of courage!"

Even the losers were proud. A Snyder hurdler, after being edged out at the finish line, went over to Starter Tom Koger and told him: "That was a great start, man, great!"

American Business Club President Mike McKinney was perhaps proudest of all. "We would've liked a bigger crowd," he said, "but we made a little money for a change and the Relays were a success." The ABC Club was also proud of Cleveland Athletics, Robinson Drilling, First National Bank and Security State Bank. They donated the four biggest trophies for the meet.

And I was proud that the visiting cities could see how well Big Spring could run a meet, despite the ancient track, and I was proud to hear more rumbungs about doing something about improving "Old Memo."

Can't wait until next year's ABC Relays. Good job guys!

'A season without celebration' -- Kentucky's Hall

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Kentucky, with its stoical seniors and pressure-ridden coach, squares off with young, loosey-goosey Duke, paced by teenagers Mike Gminski and Gene Banks, tonight in the NCAA Basketball Championship game at the Checkerdome.

For Kentucky, victory is a must. "The only way we can succeed this year is to win the NCAA Championship," said Wildcats Coach Joe Hall. "This has been a season without celebration for us because so much was expected of this team. It's strange in an academic situation to have this pressure."

But that's the way it is at Kentucky, particularly this season with a veteran ballclub that includes seniors Jack Givens, Rick Robey, Mike Phillips and James Lee. This quarter made it to the NCAA final three years ago, won the National Invitation Tournament two years ago and got as far as the regional finals last year. But none of that matters in the eyes of the rabid Wildcat boosters.

"Sure, we've had a lot of pressure at Kentucky," admitted Robey. "It's been a hard grind. But we've dedicated ourselves to winning the big title this year. We've saved up our good times. We'll have them next week."

Hall, who knows he's under the gun and doesn't much like it, was asked Sunday if he was thinking about resigning after the playoffs.

"I couldn't possibly answer that now," he said. Pressed for a clarification Hall added: "I don't know... I just don't know."

Duke, on the other hand, wasn't even supposed to make the tournament. But the Blue Devils won the Atlantic Coast Conference post-season tourney and the rest has been gravy.

Young — Duke will start two freshmen, two sophomores and a senior — and fearless, the Blue Devils are having a ball.

Kentucky heads into the title game with a 29-2 record and a 12-game winning streak. A barometer of the Wildcats' overall talent is that they have not really put it all together lately and have been able to win anyway. Sophomore guard Kyle Macy got them through the regionals with his heady play, outside shooting and clutch four shots. Givens and sixth man Lee took over Saturday in the 64-59 win over Arkansas.

To win tonight, Kentucky will have to get more production from their 6-foot, 6-4, in the final match of the $100,000 Women's Pro tennis tournament in Philadelphia Sunday. Miss Evert took away first prize of $20,000.

Will Hall resign? ST. LOUIS (AP) — Would a Kentucky victory in tonight's NCAA championship game be the last time the Wildcats take the floor under Coach Joe B. Hall?

Hall himself hinted at the possibility Sunday after declaring: "This season was without celebration for us."

"So much has been expected of us," Hall said at a mid-morning news conference. "We've had only two losses this year and still there has been so much pressure. It's been real tough."

Hall's senior-laden team, ranked No. 1 practically the entire season, was rated a solid favorite over a young Duke squad in tonight's finals, and Hall was asked later if he might retire with the championship.

"I wouldn't answer that right now," he said. "I just don't know."

Later in the day, after his remarks appeared on the Associated Press wire, Hall denied that he would resign and, in a terse statement issued through the Kentucky sports information office, branded such conjecture "absolutely false."

"I will not resign, win or lose, tomorrow night," Hall's statement said.

Hall, however, did not deny making the remarks that led to such conjecture. He told Lexington, Ky., writers that he did not remember exactly what he said.

Since succeeding the late Adolph Rupp six years ago, Hall has fashioned a sparkling 21.7 victory average and taken the Wildcats to the NCAA Tournament four times. But the ultimate trophy, the NCAA championship, has thus far eluded him and the insistent Kentucky fans.

"The only way we can have a successful year is to win the NCAA," he said. "It's strange that you can have this much pressure in an academic setting."

A year ago, when Kentucky bowed to North Carolina in the finals of the East Regional, Hall endured rumors of his impending resignation. This week in St. Louis, hundreds of Kentucky fans have been wearing "I'm a Joe B. Fan" buttons on their lapels.

"We won the Southeastern Conference championship and when we came back to Lexington we didn't even celebrate then," he said. "When we started practice this fall, people close to our program began the year saying, 'We know you're going to win the NCAA.' Not, 'We hope you win the NCAA,' but, 'We know you're going to win the NCAA.'"

Promoter Don King and A's may still move to Denver

OAKLAND (AP) — Major league baseball owners might be able to provide the key to unlock the snafu which has prevented the Oakland A's from moving to Denver, an official says.

Bob Kennedy, general manager of the Chicago Cubs, said Sunday there is a possibility the owners could kick in more than the $1 million they have agreed to pay to help the A's out of their lease.

"I would think we'll have a decision by tomorrow (Monday) afternoon," said Kennedy, a former manager of the Oakland club.

The Oakland Coliseum reportedly is demanding $3 million to allow the A's out of their lease. In addition to the owners' already committed $1 million, A's owner Charles Finley is to pay $1 million.

Kennedy's idea, which he said he has discussed with Buzzie Bavasi, general manager of the California Angels, is to have the 26 owners contribute about $7,000 each for seven years to make up the difference.

SWINGING TOWARD VICTORY — Chris Evert of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., swings at ball on way to easy victory over Billie Jean King of New York City in straight sets 6-0, 6-4, in the final match of the $100,000 Women's Pro tennis tournament in Philadelphia Sunday. Miss Evert took away first prize of $20,000.

SWINGING TOWARD VICTORY — Chris Evert of Ft. ## No consolation here!

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The consolation prize in the NCAA basketball playoffs is no consolation to Digger Phelps.

"I hope in the future we can figure a way of bypassing the consolation game," says the Notre Dame coach. "It's an emotional letdown and unfair to the kids involved."

Phelps, part of a growing legion of basketball coaches who are making a stand against the third-place game at the NCAA championships, underscored one of his pet peeves Sunday.

Speaking at a news conference prior to tonight's championship finals, Phelps made the motion to abolish the virtually meaningless contest. And Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton seconded the motion.

"I feel it's unfair to have it," said Phelps, whose Fighting Irish meet Sutton's Razorbacks in the preliminary contest prior to the title game between Kentucky and Duke. "It's unfair for everyone concerned."

"We've bypassed consolation games in the regionals and it's fair to the teams involved. I'm in this situation, and I know it's fair to the teams involved here, too. Maybe now that we're playing the All-Star game on Sunday, we could play it as a preliminary to the championship game. Playing the East-West game then could really add a lot of color and flavor to the players involved and the crowd."

Phelps' reference was to an All-Star game sponsored by the National Association of Basketball Coaches, played Sunday at Kiel Auditorium.

Asked what he'd rather do than play the consolation game, Phelps quipped: "Let's go to Busch Gardens... I gave up beer for Lent and I can start again."

Sutton, whose Arkansas team lost to Kentucky after Notre Dame was beaten by Duke Saturday at the Checkerdome, isn't exactly thrilled with the prospect of a consolation game, either.

"I said this yesterday (Saturday) and I agree with Digger that the consolation game should be eliminated," he said. "I told the (NCAA) committee this and hope they would take a long look at doing away with it. Digger and I can play 'Horse' or go one-on-one instead of having a consolation game."

Added Sutton: "On second thought, I'd have a better chance against Digger if we played 'Horse.'"

That was an understatement. Two of the judges gave every round to Holmes, and the third scored 11 rounds for the 28-year-old winner.

Holmes, who split his trunks in the second round and changed into a new pair following the fourth, took control of the fight in the fifth. In that round, Holmes, who nullified Shavers' power with foot speed, a great jab and slick counterpunching, hurt Shavers with two hard rights to the side of the head.

"Larry won the fight... no doubt about it," said Shavers. "It just wasn't my day."

Green wins Heritage despite wind

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Hale Irwin, one of a number of self-destructing challengers, may have summed it up best in the wind-blown windup of the Heritage Golf Classic.

"I would like to thank my fellow competitors," Irwin said, straight-faced as could be, "for falling on their butts and allowing me to finish second. I don't feel that I deserve it, but I'll accept it."

Winner Hubert Green was a little more diplomatic about one of the great mass collapses in recent golf history.

His winning score was 277, 7 under par on the 6,855-yard Harbor Town Golf Links, rapidly gaining a reputation as one of the nation's best.

It was worth $45,000 from the total purse of $225,000 and sent Green past the $1 million milestone, making him only the 16th golfer in history to reach that figure.

"Absurd," snorted Green, now a two-time winner this year and a two-time winner of the Heritage title that annually is growing in prestige and importance.

"It's absurd to talk about three strikeouts — and the Yankees rallied for six runs in the bottom of the ninth inning to defeat the New York Mets 9-6.

Elsewhere: —John Montefusco pitched seven innings and Bill Madlock homered to lead the San Francisco Giants over the Milwaukee Brewers 3-1.

—The Los Angeles Dodgers won their fourth game in a row, pounding the Houston Astros 12-1.

—Ted Cox' three-run homer in the eighth inning — Minnesota's Rob Wilfong, who homered earlier, tripled home the decisive run in the 11th inning, giving the Twins a 7-6 triumph over the Atlanta Braves.

—The St. Louis Cardinals nipped the Detroit Tigers 3-2 on Ted Simmons' pinch single in the 11th inning, and Chris Speier delivered a run-scoring pinch single in the 13th as the Montreal Expos shaded the Toronto Blue Jays 5-4.

—Bobby Grich singled home the winning run to give the California Angels a 6-5 10-inning victory over the Cleveland Indians, and Tony Armas hit a two-run homer in the Oakland A's 6-4 triumph over the Seattle Mariners.

—The Texas Rangers made it 4-0 in one-run games, edging the Cincinnati Reds 3-2 on Claude Washington's seventh-inning sacrifice fly.

—Dave Johnson doubled home the winning run in the eighth inning as the Philadelphia Phillies edged the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2.

—The Chicago Cubs downed the San Diego Padres 3-0.

Hubert, now the winner of 14 career titles, pushed his season's earnings to $117,499 and joined Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson as the only multiple winners of the year. He moved past Watson into second place on the year's money list.

Beattie makes up for ailing Yankees

With the National Collegiate Basketball Championship up for grabs tonight, it's only proper that big Jim Beattie should be in the headlines.

However, Beattie is getting his sports mixed up. An All-New England cager at Dartmouth in 1974, MVP of the Kodak Classic in 75 and Dartmouth's captain-elect for the 76-77 season, Beattie is slowly but surely hurling his way onto the star-studded but ailing pitching staff of the world champion New York Yankees.

Catfish Hunter, coming off a bad year, has diabetes. Sore-shouldered Don Gullett hasn't thrown a ball in anger this spring. Ron Guidry, behind schedule because of a bout with the flu, has been hit hard. Andy Messersmith is sidelined with a shoulder separation.

And the 6-foot-6, 210-pound Beattie is taking advantage of the situation. The hard-throwing right-hander fired five strong innings Sunday — one run, four hits, one walk,

JACKSON, HARRIS HONORED — Connie Jackson, center, receives her first place medal from Debbie Fulcher for first place in the long jump. Jackson won with a 16'11 1/2" leap, and Big Spring's Selena Harris, right, captured third place with a 15'11 1/2" jump. The local girls placed second in the ABC Relays with 99 points. Ector's second-place winner Karen Templeton can be seen at far left, and the other medal presenter is Big Spring's Tori Knight.

Borg passes Gerulaitis

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Bjorn Borg defeated Vitas Gerulaitis, 6-5, 6-6, 6-4, 6-5 to win the $200,000 Tournament of Champions. Borg's passing shots were the difference in the match as Gerulaitis played well at the net when he could get to the ball. It was Gerulaitis' sixth consecutive loss to Borg.

NTSU coach may leave

DENTON, Texas (AP) — North Texas State basketball Coach Bill Blakely is back in Denton, and he's expected to announce today whether he's back to stay.

Blakely talked with officials at the University of Wyoming over the weekend about the basketball coaching vacancy there that came about with the resignation of Don DeVoe earlier this month.

Wyoming athletic director George McCarty said Blakely had not been offered the job, but that further attempts to fill the post would depend on whether or not Blakely is interested.

McCarty said he expected to hear from Blakely today and that no other candidates had been scheduled for interviews.

Blakely took over a loser at NTSU, but has put together back-to-back, 20-victory seasons at the North Central Texas school.

Despite his team's successes, they have been snubbed by post-season tournaments.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MARCH 28, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning finds you able to devise a practical plan that could produce greater abundance in the days ahead. You can easily charm others now with your personality and get the support you need.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't neglect important duties early in the day. Take steps to improve your health. Show more thought for your mate.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Put the finishing touches on a plan which you and associates have formulated, and then get work started. Think constructively.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you get an early start on routine duties, you'll have time for important things later. Afternoon is best for working on a new plan.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Find the right means through which to have greater enjoyment during your spare time. Make plans for the future.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be sure to handle routine duties early in the day and you'll have time for creative activities later. Avoid one who is jealous of you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Obtain the information you need from the right sources. Plan the future wisely. Do some entertaining in the evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Your monetary matters can be improved if you take the time. Study new projects that could be lucrative to you in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Morning is the best time to gain a personal aim that means much to you. Take steps to improve your financial status.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make long-range plans that could give you greater abundance in the future. Engage in favorite hobby with congenials.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use a more direct approach with others and get better results. Sidestep one who is detrimental to your progress.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle important duties early in the day for best results. Contacting an influential person who can help you is wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Consult a higher-up who can help you get ahead faster. Don't be too demanding with family members at this time. Use care in motop.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be an exceptionally bright student and will want to be well prepared for the fine success that is possible here. Your progeny would do well in the sales field. Be sure to give ethical and religious training early in life.

Spinks could handcuff his own image quickly

ST. PETERSBURG — It now develops that instead of taking away Leon Spinks' heavyweight title, the WBC should have taken away his driver's license. Leon does such dangerous things as driving the wrong way up a one way street, for which he was arrested in St. Louis and taken to Police Headquarters in handcuffs, indicating the cop must have seen Leon's last fight. The arresting officer made it clear that Leon offered no resistance, and that the handcuffs are part of normal operating procedure. I have never been arrested for driving up a one way street, but I do know of people who were and they weren't manacled. It does seem a bit much.

Sued by Landlord, Too — A few days earlier, Leon Spinks was named defendant in a civil suit. It seems he hadn't paid rent for two months on an apartment in Philly, where he now lives and trains. Total amount due for the two months is $660, indicating it is something less than a penthouse with mirrored walls and llama rug. There are two types of people who do not pay their bills on time, the rich and the poor. The rich don't have the time, and the poor don't have the money. Leon Spinks has been both.

Right now, Leon Spinks is on the rich side. He has over $200,000 in a savings account, I am told. He has been traveling for the past two months, hardly occupying the Philadelphia apartment, if at all. It is very easy, when you are on the road, to let a bill slide for a month or two. I have received a nasty note from the gas company upon occasion.

"All the landlord had to do," says Bob Arum, "is get in touch with me at Top Rank. I would have advanced the money for the rent, and got it back from Leon later."

Bob Arum, head man at Top Rank Inc., has promotional rights to Leon's next three fights, at least, and figures Spinks is good for the five hundred bucks and change. The suit for two months' rent does strike me as being a bit dramatic.

What it all seems to add up to is that Leon Spinks is a rather bewildered young man who needs some guidance. It all is happening so fast to him. He hardly had time to realize he had beaten Muhammad Ali for the heavyweight championship of the world, then they told him it was being taken away from him. In between, they told him he could make $5 million for fighting Ali again. This can be a pretty dizzy roller-coaster for a 24-year-old who has spent most of his years having things decided for him by the United States Marine Corps or by some amateur boxing organization.

Too Many Advisors Now — Now, he has a horde of people telling him what is good for him. A few months ago, he was told to get a lawyer, and last week they said, no, not that one, that one.

Today, Bob Arum plans to be in St. Louis to see Leon Spinks, and try to put some order back into his life. Somebody has to assure Spinks, for his peace of mind, that nobody can take away HIS title. They can take away THEIR title, the WBC can, but that doesn't matter much because Leon Spinks beat Muhammad Ali, and that makes him heavyweight champ.

Leon Spinks can do himself more harm than the WBC. These scrapes he is getting into can make him look like a troublemaker. He is black, and a black man can get that reputation faster than a white man. Reputation can be an important commodity when a TV network is putting up the bulk of the money. If CBS were to back off, the way ABC did from Don Kings' boxing tourney, the damage could be much more than anything the WBC has done.

A heavyweight champion who gets his picture in the paper with his hands cuffed behind his back can make it difficult for a network to sell a sponsor.

TO THE VICTOR... — Big Spring Steer pole vaulter Rusty Braun, right, accepts his first place medal from Charlotte Bell during the running of the annual ABC Relays. Braun won the pole vault competition with a 13'6" clearance. Teammate Robbie Wegner, who took second place in the event, has already accepted his medal. The Steers won their first track meet in over 15 years by racking up 182 points in the local classic.

Hogs and Aggies 'Bearing' down

Arkansas and Texas A&M, trailing the Baylor Bears by a half-game in the most competitive Southwest Conference baseball race in years, take dead aim on the Bears this week with the Razorbacks playing six league games and the Aggies bracing the Bears headon in a three-tilt series. Arkansas meets Texas Christian in a weather-delayed series tonight and Tuesday then travels to Dallas to play Southern Methodist in a single game. Friday and a doubleheader Monday. Baylor is 8-4 after using Burl Coker's pitching and the slugging of Mike Johanson and Ken Kokhorst to sweep a doubleheader from Houston Saturday. Both Arkansas and Texas A&M are 6-3. The Aggies dodged a big bullet all the conference schools must dodge in sweeping a three-game series from Rice over the weekend. Mark Thurmond twirled a three-hitter and David Pieczynski served up a six-hit in a double-header win Saturday. The bullet the Aggies dodged? Getting past Allan Ramirez, the crafty Rice right-hander who was 8-4 last year. The Aggies touched him for six hits in a 4-0 victory Saturday. The Aggies are the defending SWC champions while Baylor represented the league in the NCAA College Baseball World Series last year after the league tournament. Texas Tech, now 6-6 in SWC play, split a doubleheader with Southern Methodist (3-6) over the weekend. Baylor's Burl Coker throttled the Cougars on five hits in the opener then Ken Kokhorst and Mike Johanson each knocked across four runs in the second game. The SWC tournament will be held in Austin in May.

Houston is 7-5 after the double-dip disaster against Baylor and is at TCU Friday and Saturday. Baylor's Burl Coker throttled the Cougars on five hits in the opener then Ken Kokhorst and Mike Johanson each knocked across four runs in the second game. The SWC tournament will be held in Austin in May.

Lee leads East in 93-87 All-Star win

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Butch Lee, after riding the bench for nearly half a period, knew what to do when he returned.

The irrepresible Marquette whiz, college basketball's player of the year, crammed 18 points into the final 1 1/2 minutes and steered the East to a 93-87 victory in Sunday's 16th Coaches All-Star game.

"He's a lot more mature now," said former Marquette Coach Al McGuire after watching Lee demolish his West squad with 29 points. "He has confidence," McGuire said. "We made a run at them. Normally, in a game like this you have trouble taking the ball out of bounds. But I was very, very surprised and pleased by the way these guys played."

Lee, who scored 11 points before intermission, bided his time early in the second half as the West, employing a fullcourt press, wiped out a 50-37 East lead. But then, after Rickey Lee of Oregon State gave the West a 68-65 edge, Lee returned and took matters into his own hands. "He (East Coach Frank McGuire) wanted me and Wayne Radford to have the ball," Lee said. "We were the guards, and he wanted us to have it as much as possible." Proving an apt pupil, Lee marked his return with a 20-foot jumper a steal and a layup, restoring the upper hand for his team.

60 takes tourney

The quartet of Mark McCraney, Don Minyard, Jerry White and Robert New captured first place in Sunday's BSGA Louisiana Draw Golf Tournament held at Comanche Trail Golf Course. They carded a 60, one stroke ahead of the team of Gary Howell, Jim Welch, Mike Scarbrough, Jimmy Shoults and Dave Brazel. Two teams were tied at 63: Bobby Water Jr., Bob Heckler, Mike Murphy and J. D. Richardson, and Jerry Barron, Charles Burdette, Lloyd Duncan and Carl Small. A total of 46 golfers participated in the tourney, and the next tournament, a selective drive, will be held April 23. Don Minyard, Don Belew, Jerry White and J. D. Campbell are members in charge of that tournament.

Astros buried by Dodgers

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers' Manager Tom Lasorda is normally exuberant, but the recent play of his defending National League champions has made him even more cheerful than usual. "We're hitting the ball like we did last year," said a smiling Lasorda Sunday after the Dodgers buried the Houston Astros 12-1 in an exhibition game. "We were a little sloppy earlier in the spring and I guess that's to be expected. Our pitching has been tremendous the last week and Burt Hooton was very sharp against the Astros."

The Dodgers have scored 63 runs in their last seven games while giving up just 15. Their only loss in that span was a 9-8 setback to Baltimore. Steve Garvey, 21-for-40 in exhibition play, drove in four runs with a pair of singles Sunday and Teddy Martinez doubled twice and singled as Los Angeles bettered its record to 9-7. Hooton pitched six strong innings for the Dodgers, allowing three singles and an unearned run. Free agent reliever Terry Forster pitched the final three innings, allowing three hits. The Dodgers battered four Houston pitchers for 16 hits, five for extra bases, as the Astros' exhibition record dropped to 7-8. The game was knotted in the seventh inning, but rookies Nelson Norman and Bobby Thompson singled and Claudell Washington lofted a sacrifice fly to score Norman from third base with the game-winner. POMPAÑO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Jon Matlack and Ferguson Jenkins combined for a six-hitter Sunday and the Texas-Rangers held on for a 3-2 exhibition baseball victory over the Cincinnati Reds. The game was knotted in the seventh inning, but rookies Nelson Norman and Bobby Thompson singled and Claudell Washington lofted a sacrifice fly to score Norman from third base with the game-winner. The Rangers raised their Cincinnati scored once in the fifth and once in the ninth. It was the fourth one-run victory of the spring for Texas, which has yet to lose a singlerun decision this year.
