

Rich, poor nations urged to take five steps together

Carter maps action to fight inflation

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — President Carter urged poor countries today to join rich industrial nations in a five-step drive to fight inflation, create jobs and raise living standards because rich nations "cannot by themselves bring about world economic recovery."

for solving problems — not to divide the blame for ignoring them," Carter declared in a major address to Venezuela's national congress on the second day of his week-long tour of Latin America and Africa.

and raise the standard of living of our peoples," the president said. "The industrial nations share the same problems and cannot by themselves bring about world economic recovery."

developing nations. —Build a more open system of world trade. —Moderate disruptive price movements in basic commodities. —Conserve and develop energy. —And strengthen the technological base in the poorer countries.

proposing "a U.S. foundation for technological collaboration." Beyond pledging that "we in the United States will do our part," Carter did not elaborate. But he noted that he has asked Congress to increase economic assistance funds by 28 percent and that his administration is prepared to increase American contributions to the International Monetary Fund.

States. Following today's talks, Carter, his wife Rosalynn, 10-year-old daughter Amy and top advisers including Zbigniew Brzezinski, the president's national security adviser, and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, were bound for the Brazilian capital of Brasilia.

About 300 demonstrating university students condemned Carter and his human rights policy Tuesday in Brasilia. They declared the policy invalid, saying the United States supports leaders like Augusto Pinochet of Chile and Anastasio Somoza of Nicaragua, both accused of denying human rights.

FATAL ACCIDENT ON IS-20 EAST OF BIG SPRING ...head on crash causes second accident, leaving one dead.

Tossed from pickup, hit by car

Man dies in mishap here

H. L. (Frog) Harrington, 39, of Coahoma, died at 3:06 p.m. Tuesday after injuries he received in an accident that occurred two hours earlier, at 1:07 p.m.

hurt in the accident. Spencer was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital, where he was treated and released. Technically, the incident had to be filed as two accidents, a two-car crash, and a car-pedestrian accident, with the first accident listed as the "cause" of the second.

He lived in the area all his life, attending school in Coahoma. He had been in the welding business for 18 years. Survivors include his wife, Shirley, Coahoma; two sons, Cody Harrington, Big Spring, and Gregg Harrington, Coahoma; two stepsons, Clay William Kitts of Coahoma, and Glenn Kitts, South Padre Island, Texas; a stepdaughter, Deedie Doss, Midland; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Harrington, Coahoma; five sisters, Garry Faye Daughtrey, Colorado City, Mary Alice Wilson, Lovington, N.M., Rita Grace Hull, Forsan, Lydia Beth Supten, Amarillo, and Cynthia Ann Wintamute, Big Spring.

Services will be Thursday at 2 p.m. at Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with Rev. Bob Roby, of Gorman, officiating.

Mr. Harrington was born March 27, 1939 in Howard County. He owned and operated Harrington Welding Service in Coahoma.

He married Shirley Kitts Oct. 10, 1977 in Sand Springs. Mr. Harrington was a member of the First Baptist Church of Sand Springs and the Coahoma Masonic Lodge 992 A.F. and A.M., and Scottish Rites 5839 at Lubbock.

The two vehicles crashed head-on, and Harrington was thrown from his pickup. A vehicle driven by Joseph E. Couch, of Pecos, had been following the Harrington vehicle, and swerved into the other lane to avoid the wreckage of the two cars.

Trull, 40, devoid of his familiar cowboy boots, Stetson and cigar for his appearance in court, is charged with holding Bill May, an employee of Tyler millionaire Billy Pyron, on Aug. 9, 1977, in Pyron's gasoline-splashed office here.

Estes and about 50 other defense witnesses were sworn in Tuesday afternoon. Estes, who served six years of a 15-year prison sentence for his notorious multi-million dollar swindle, has been under investigation by state and federal authorities for alleged recent business dealings in violation of the terms of his parole.

Couch saw Harrington, thrown up against a guard rail and tried to stop his car, but was unable to leave the roadway, since the accident had occurred on a bridge over a gully located just east of the Big Spring business exit.

Trull allegedly threatened to ignite the office if Pyron and paroled swindler Billie Sol Estes didn't pay him the money he claimed they owed him from a land deal.

Estes is administrator of the Albermarle-Charlottesville County jail, where Hurt and Ms. Callaway are incarcerated. Pruet said no to the jailhouse wedding because he said it would pose a security problem.

The Couch vehicle skidded some 70 feet before hitting Harrington. Couch and his wife, Sue, were not hurt.

Trull allegedly threatened to ignite the office if Pyron and paroled swindler Billie Sol Estes didn't pay him the money he claimed they owed him from a land deal.

Hurt and Callaway have taken their case to federal court. Ms. Callaway, 31, is awaiting trial on a charge of using a stolen credit. Hurt is serving time for a break-in and theft.

The 65-foot, steel-hulled boat was flipped by the wake of the tanker "Zapata Ranger," the Coast Guard said.

Tuesday's testimony, which included taped accounts of Trull's telephone conversations with Pyron and police during the four-hour standoff, all but concluded the prosecution's case.

Hurt, a trusty at the jail, says he proposed March 8 as he delivered a tray of food to Ms. Callaway's cell. "When I handed her the tray, I whispered in her ear, 'Will you marry me?' and she said 'Yes,' says Hurt.

The boat capsized following a near-collision with the tanker about 4 a.m., according to a spokesman at the Coast Guard search and rescue headquarters in New Orleans.

Smith County District Attorney A.D. Clark III said he would need "an hour or two" this morning to finish up. Defense attorney G. Brockett Irwin of Longview said he anticipates calling both Pyron and Estes to the stand today.

Hurt, a trusty at the jail, says he proposed March 8 as he delivered a tray of food to Ms. Callaway's cell. "When I handed her the tray, I whispered in her ear, 'Will you marry me?' and she said 'Yes,' says Hurt.

A spokesman said the Miss Brazosport capsized after the 35,000-ton tanker swerved to avoid a collision.

A ruling Tuesday by State District Judge Glenn Phillips, however, prevented Brockett from pursuing in open court any alleged business dealings between Estes and Pyron.

The form, given to women applying for Aid to Dependent Children, is meant as a means of establishing paternity for children born out of wedlock. It includes the following questions:

—Were you living with the child's father during the 10-month period prior to the birth? If so, where?

The questionnaire was disclosed after a letter to Gov. Jay Hammond from the state chapter of the National Association of Social Workers, which asked that use of the form be stopped.

—Number of times you had sex at the above address(es)? Number of times you had sex with the father in the 10 months before birth?

—During which incident do you believe the child was conceived? (Give date and place.)

Phil Nash of Anchorage, director of the agency involved, defended the form's use but said it was being modified because of objections. He said it was prepared with advice from the state Department of Law because "we need a strong case to prove paternity in court."

—Did you have sex with any other person during this 10-month period? If so for each person state: (a) Name and address of the person. (b) The dates on which intercourse occurred. (c) Addresses and description of place at which the intercourse occurred.

Nash's agency was created several years ago because of a change in the Social Security Act, which required states to try to establish paternity and obtain support for children born out of wedlock.

"The feds said we had to do this to receive federal funds, but we never thought anything like this would happen," said Democratic state Rep. Charles Parr.

State prison lands deal postponed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Saying it wanted more information, the approval board for state prison land purchases has delayed action on an $8 million deal for 6,740 acres in Hidalgo County.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong and chairman James Windham of the Texas Board of Corrections voted unanimously for an indefinite postponement.

The board of corrections has voted to buy the land for a new prison. But state law also requires the approval board's OK.

Besides the land purchase, the board of corrections also wants an option to buy another 7,760 acres from the same owners for $6 million.

Briscoe said appraisers from the General Land Office and Texas A&M placed the market value of the land at $6.8 million—well under the negotiated purchase price.

The governor called for a third appraisal or an "in-depth study" by A&M—or both—before the approval board votes on the purchase.

Armstrong later said neither appraisal included $400,000 to $500,000 worth of equipment or the value of the purchase option, which would freeze the price of the additional land for two years.

Briscoe said the attorney general should resolve at least two legal questions before the board acted.

He cited a state budget rider authorizing a new prison in West Texas—not the Lower Rio Grande Valley. A rider also says the land is to be brought with a mix of tax funds and money from the sale of the prison system's Blue Ridge Farm. Briscoe indicated the Hidalgo County purchase involved only tax money.

Death inquiry continuing

A Howard County grand jury continued to hear testimony in the presentation of the investigation into the death of Juan Galaviz.

Spring police sergeant Leroy Spires following Galaviz's attack on a woman leaving the Howard County auditorium. The 18-year-old allegedly took the woman's car and led police on a high-speed chase. Spires fired the fatal shot after calling on Galaviz to surrender. The youth was reaching for something in his coat pocket when shot. A knife was found in his possession.

According to Assistant District Attorney Don Richard, about 25 witnesses of the over 40 expected have appeared before the grand jury, and the remaining testimony in the investigation should conclude today.

Spikes has since resigned the Big Spring police department, alleging harassment as the reason. Galaviz was shot and killed by Big Testimony will then begin on the 34 other cases scheduled for consideration.

Continuous weather news being offered in area

High band radio owners will soon be able to receive continuous weather reports in the area.

The new stations are part of a nationwide program to provide direct warnings for natural disasters and nuclear attack. It is hoped that 300 such weather stations will be in operation within the next few years, offering access to the broadcasts for 90 per cent of the population.

A new weather radio service will be inaugurated for the Midland-Odessa and Big Spring areas. The service will provide the latest weather and flood information on a 24-hour-a-day basis.

Man falls to death from deck of tower

The station will be on the air on a test basis soon, and after adjustments are made, continuous broadcasts will begin.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — An unidentified man fell about 600 feet to his death from the observation deck of San Antonio's Tower of the Americas shortly before noon today, police said.

Weather service officials recommend that those planning to use the service should obtain a receiver with a rated sensitivity of around two microvolts or less to assure reliable reception.

Officers said the death apparently was a suicide, the third since the downtown tower opened during HemisFair here in 1968. The observation deck is about 600 feet above the ground.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Not profitable

Q. Why is there no carefully supervised teenage club for teenage dances?

A. Probably because nobody has decided it would be a profitable venture. A teenaged club would not be a taxpayers responsibility. Clubs for adults are privately owned and operated on a business basis, working for a profit. If someone were convinced that such a venture would be possible for this area, one probably would be built. In the meantime, the school sponsors about four or five dances a year, the Y-Teens sponsor dances, a few churches, and some individual bands sponsor dances.

Tops on TV: Sheriff woes

You can try your luck with "Crisis At Sun Valley," a made-for-tv offering, starring a couple of relative unknowns. The story, which unveils on NBC beginning at 8 p.m., involves the dilemmas of a sheriff at a ski resort. Inside: Social Security poll

TO HEAR a lot of congressmen tell it, Americans are demanding a rollback of new Social Security tax increases. But AP-NBC News polls show they may be hearing only the discordant notes in a symphony of support for the tax rise. Seep. 8B.

The forecast calls for partly cloudy weather today and Thursday. Mild temperatures are expected with highs today and Thursday near 80 degrees. The mercury should drop to a low in the mid-50s tonight. Winds are from the southeast at 15 to 25 miles per hour, and are expected to slow to 10 to 15 miles per hour tonight.

STUNNED — A man identified as Eugene Lipscomb winces in pain as rubber balls fired from "stun guns" used by Atlanta police bounce off of him. Lipscomb held police at bay with a knife and a sharpened screwdriver for over two hours before he was subdued by the stun gun balls and a jet of water. The man had reportedly attempted suicide.

Drug bust in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — State and local law enforcement officers began a roundup Tuesday night of 86 persons, including "some major dealers and wholesalers," named in sealed indictments alleging sale and possession of heroin and other drugs, Dallas county Sheriff Carl Thomas said.

The roundup by about 70 officers culminates "several weeks" of undercover work and expenditure of about $13,000 to make drug purchases, he said.

Thomas said he personally had to borrow $5,000 from a Dallas bank so members of his Drug Abuse Task Force could make one buy. "Some" of the $5,000 he recently obtained from county commissioners was also used, with the rest of the money coming from state and city funds.

About 20 of the suspects had been arrested by early Wednesday.

The buys, Thomas said, included six for heroin, 11 for cocaine and 36 for marijuana. He refused to estimate how much cocaine and heroin had been confiscated during the undercover operation.

"I don't know what the dollar figure is, but with that many indictments, it's got to be a pretty good-sized figure," said Thomas.

Department of Public Safety officers, as well as officers from Dallas and several suburban police departments, assisted in the roundup.

Radicals vow sabotage

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Palestinian radicals vowed to sabotage the cease-fire in southern Lebanon despite Yasser Arafat's pledge that the Palestine Liberation Organization will do all it can to help the new U.N. peace force establish a buffer zone between the Israelis and the guerrillas.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine claimed it was continuing raids behind Israeli lines south of the Litani River and the radical Popular Democratic Front vowed to keep fighting "until the enemy is defeated and expelled from south Lebanon."

Begin's peace proposals

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin will send his defense minister to talk with Egyptian officials soon, following up a personal letter to President Anwar Sadat urging resumption of Israeli-Egyptian peace negotiations, a top Begin aide says.

Begin urged Sadat to come up with new responses to Israel's latest peace proposals.

Cold killed her son

Blizzard ordeal

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Two months after a blizzard trapped her outside, Teresa Kimble is still hospitalized, undergoing both physical and psychological therapy. The cold killed her infant son and forced amputation of her feet, fingers, thumbs and part of her buttocks.

Doctors say Mrs. Kimble, 23, will be in the hospital at least four more weeks to be fitted with artificial limbs. All that is left of her hands are stumps.

"Why take my baby?" asked Mrs. Kimble, about her 20-month-old son, Timothy. "He didn't do a thing wrong and I didn't do nothing wrong. I wish God had taken me instead. I wish I stayed inside the trailer and thought to turn the oven on in the kitchen."

On Jan. 26, the blizzard had stranded Michael Kimble in Indianapolis where he works. His wife awoke at 3 a.m. in their rural Shirley mobile home and noticed the trailer was cold. The wind had blown out the heater's pilot light. Mrs.

Airport bombed

NARITA, Japan (AP) — Helmeted militants threw about 20 firebombs into Japan Air Lines' new Narita airport hotel early today, smashing windows and damaging lobby furniture in the continuing fight against Tokyo's new international airport.

Police said 10 men drove a small truck up to the hotel, hurled the bombs and fled. A private guard was slightly injured.

The opening of the billion-dollar airport 41 miles north of Tokyo has been delayed again because the control tower was wrecked during a mob attack Sunday and the fumes of the installation have promised more violence.

Man, 78, dies while in boat

COLORADO CITY — Robert (Buster) Baker, 78, of Colorado City was found dead at about 9 p.m., Monday in a fishing boat on Lake Champion.

Mitchell County Justice of Peace Henry Doss attributed death to natural causes.

Services will be at 4 p.m., today in the Kiker-Seale Funeral Home, with the Rev. Bob Grayson officiating. Burial will occur in the Colorado City Cemetery.

A native of Oklahoma, Mr. Baker moved here in 1923. He was a retired automobile mechanic. He married Ola L. Austin in Colorado City in 1923.

Survivors include his wife; a daughter, Mildred Sparks, Robert Lee; five brothers, Gary Baker, Colorado City, Henry and Gene Baker, both of Robert Lee, Cecil P. Baker, Lawton, Okla., and Jim Baker, Duncan, Okla.; and a granddaughter.

Kimble could not relight it. She decided to take Timothy and try to make it to the safety of her husband's grandmother's house — located only 50 yards away.

But the snow and wind drove them back. "The baby was so scared," Mrs. Kimble said in a recent interview. "He cried and screamed and wouldn't hold still."

They tried to get back in the trailer, but the door was stuck. She had kicked it shut to be sure the wind would not blow it open. They sat on the porch with the blizzard raging around them. Mrs. Kimble estimates they sat there two or three hours.

Finally, she began to beat the metal door with her hands and feet, kicking a hole large enough to crawl through with Timothy.

Rescuers would not tell her, but her son apparently was dead when they arrived. When the corner came, he confirmed the boy's death.

Mrs. Kimble was taken to New Castle Hospital, where her frostbitten skin began to turn black. Last month, she was transferred here.

"Frostbite is much like a burn but it progresses," said Dr. David Larson, the plastic surgeon treating Mrs. Kimble. "It freezes the tissue and vessels. It's difficult to tell whether they're dead or alive."

Friends have started a fund to help pay medical bills. She has medical coverage that pays approximately 80 percent, but the medical expenses are running at least $200 per day. "I know that some day I'll get out of here, but I can't stand the waiting," she said.

Pampa lands new gas plant

DALLAS (AP) — Dorchester Gas Corporation announced it has awarded contracts for construction of a new 36 million cubic feet per day cryogenic gas processing plant near Pampa.

The new plant, which includes increased fractionation and storage capacity, will cost approximately $6 million.

A Dorchester spokesman said the new plant, scheduled for completion in December, substantially replaces the company's present plant in the West Panhandle field.

Recoveries of natural gas liquids will increase to about 115,000 gallons per day from present production of approximately 60,000 gallons.

Ethane, a product not presently extracted, will account for most of the increase.

The plant will process gas from 136 wells, of which 84 are owned by Dorchester.

Convicted trio spend night with families, refusing interviews

Three ex-cops' sentence ires Mexican-Americans

HOUSTON (AP) — Three former Houston policemen, after being sentenced to one year in prison for the civil rights violations of a young Mexican-American prisoner, spent the night with their families, refusing interviews, and, according to their attorneys, apparently relieved by the outcome.

Many members of the large Mexican-American community in this, the nation's fifth largest city, expressed anger, disappointment, and a belief, as stated by the mother of the young man who died while in police custody:

"We have been slapped twice in the face. We have no other cheek to turn."

The former policemen, all with outstanding prior records, were ordered to serve one year in a federal prison on a misdemeanor civil rights charge, and given a 10-year suspended sentence on a felony count.

U.S. District Court Judge Ross Sterling, in announcing his sentences, said, "This was a situational offense which we will never encounter again. A long period of confinement will have little effect on the Houston police department, where I think the real problem lies."

The sentences were handed down against Terry W. Denson, 27, Stephen Orlando, 22, and Joseph Janisch, 22.

The case arose in May 1977 when Joe Campos Torres, a 23-year-old Mexican-American laborer, former member of the Army Ranger unit, and self-styled karate expert, was arrested during a disturbance at a Houston tavern.

Three days later, the body of Torres, clad in Army fatigues and heavy combat boots, was found jammed against some of the debris that always drifts down the muddy waters of Buffalo Bayou, a sluggish stream that flows through a section of downtown Houston.

Medical examiners said Torres drowned.

Bob Bennett, defense attorney for former policeman Denson, told The Associated Press, "He just doesn't want to be interviewed now. He has been under a hell of a strain for the past 10 months."

"I guess the sentence by the judge today was like a patient where the doctor told him he didn't have cancer, but did need a major operation."

"I will tell you that Terry Denson has insisted throughout he had nothing to do with the death of Joe Campos Torres. I believed him. And two juries have believed him. This was a case where some guys had a slight lapse of judgement with some tragic circumstances and in no way was a case of police brutality," Bennett said.

Mike Andrews, the attorney for Janisch, said, "He is crushed by the fact that he must serve time for something he knows he never did. He is crushed by the fact that he never again can reach that goal he has had for many, many years — to be a Houston policeman. No, he just doesn't want to talk now."

Denson and Orlando were tried in October on state murder charges. A jury in Huntsville, about 70 miles north of Houston where the trial was moved because of the heavy publicity in the metropolitan area, convicted the two of negligent homicide, with one year probated sentences.

Mrs. Torres told The Associated Press, "We were slapped in the face in Huntsville. We were received another slap in the face today. We have no more cheeks to turn."

Mamie Garcia, director of the League of United Latin-American Citizens, said, "The federal judge told us today that in our country all men are created equal except for Mexican-Americans. We can only hope that the predominantly white society will be able to live with their consciences after hearing today's sentencing."

Houston Police Sgt. John Orlando, a veteran of 27 years on the force, a grizzled, soft-spoken officer who once had three sons serving as officers, said of the verdict for his young son, "It was a fair trial. It was a fair sentence."

Since the death of Campos Torres, the Houston police department has created an internal affairs division to investigate all charges of police brutality. Police Chief Harry Caldwell, in Washington for a meeting and not available for comment, a few days ago increased the division staff from six to eight members.

Six officers originally were involved in the Campos Torres incident.

Carlless Elliott, a rookie officer at the time, reported the event to his superiors and said that Campos Torres had been beaten, slapped and threatened with being pushed off a 16-foot high enbankment into the bayou.

Elliott was never charged and testified in both the state and federal trials.

Glenn Brinkmeyer, a five-year veteran of the force, pleaded guilty to a civil rights misdemeanor charge in exchange for his testimony.

Louis Kiny, 27, had his federal trial severed from the other three officers because he had testified against Denson and Orlando at the state proceedings. He is to be tried later.

About 50 persons demonstrated outside the federal court building following the sentencing, shouting, "Stop police brutality."

And, David Sheets, president of the Houston Police Officers Association, said, "We were surprised. We were geared and expected a tougher sentence because the officers might be made an example. The reaction of the man in the street is they feel these officers have been subjected to double jeopardy and double standards."

ROLLED VAN — Howard County deputy Eddie Owens examines the van belonging to Pete Ramon, a Woodrow resident, which Ramon rolled at midnight five miles south of Big Spring on U.S. 87. Ramon apparently abandoned the vehicle and hitched a ride home, arriving at 5 a.m. He was taken to a hospital today. The accident was reported at 7:45 a.m. today.

Wares are recovered; more thefts reported

Howard County deputies are investigating two thefts reported this morning, and helped with a recovery of stolen merchandise Tuesday.

Chief Deputy Bill Whitton, in cooperation with Texas Ranger Eddie Almond, succeeded in recovering oil drilling equipment stolen Thursday from Wes Tex Drilling. Recovered items included two mud pump liners, one liner cage, one diesel fuel pump, two slip dogs, and one mud pump cap. The property was returned to its owner.

Deputies are investigating the second break-in of the Coahoma Dairy Queen in recent days. Last Friday, the drive-in window was pried open and the jukebox and cigarette machines vandalized. Last night, the front door was crowbarred open and the machines vandalized again. Deputy Bill Shankes discovered the break-in.

Deputies are also investigating the theft of some lumber from a house build-

Kleasen's arms trial resumes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Robert Kleasen surrendered to New York state police on a felony assault charge in 1971 but failed to appear in court ten months later, a New York state policeman testified Tuesday.

Ernest G. Zanetti testified in Kleasen's federal firearms trial here which resumes today with closing arguments to the jury.

Defense lawyer Marvin Teague of Houston offered no witnesses.

Kleasen, freed from Death Row by a Texas appeals court in the slaying of two Mormon missionaries, is under a six-count indictment that could send him to prison for 30 years.

He is charged with lying when he swore he was not under indictment at the time he purchased a revolver and two rifles in 1973.

Teague asked U.S. District Judge Jack Roberts to dismiss three of the six counts on grounds that the government had presented only circumstantial evidence against Kleasen.

Roberts denied the motion. Zanetti, assigned to the Wayne County substitution, said Kleasen turned himself in on the felony assault charge in June, 1971. A grand jury later incorporated the charge in an indictment against Kleasen.

Ralph DeGelleke, clerk of court in Wayne County, testified the indictment was still in force.

The three firearms purchased in 1973 were a .357 Magnum revolver and .22-caliber rifle bought in Austin and a .22-caliber rifle purchased in San Antonio.

The rifle in San Antonio was bought in the name of "Richard C. Raadt," but the address on the three forms — including two on which Kleasen allegedly signed his own name — was the same. The same address appeared on the Raadt driver's license.

Phillip A. White, a handwriting expert with the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, testified that the same person signed the three forms.

U.S. Treasury agent Dale Littleton returned to the stand Tuesday and testified the weapons were seized after officers forced Kleasen's car off U.S. 281 south of Burnet.

The jury was outside the room when Littleton testified Monday, after the defense objected to his testimony.

Kleasen, dressed in the same clothes he wore the first day of the trial Monday, occasionally scribbled notes to his lawyer on Tuesday.

Kleasen was convicted in 1975 and sentenced to death in the slaying of Mark Fischer, 19, a Mormon missionary from Milwaukee, Wis. He was also charged but not tried in the death of Fischer's fellow missionary, Gary Darley, 20, of Simi Valley, Calif.

Police allege Kleasen sawed their bodies into small pieces with a taxidermist's bandsaw.

The conviction was overturned Nov. 23, 1977, by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, which ruled that physical evidence that formed the basis for Kleasen's conviction was inadmissible because it was obtained with a faulty search warrant.

Throw the contraption out, says writer

What would you be doing tonight if television hadn't been invented and refined to the point that it can be brought into your home?

Nothing has a grip on the average American home like TV. It provides a fix which, if we tried to do without, would likely give us terrific withdrawal pains for a long time.

Most of it is trivia, we concede. We watch films, of both old and new vintage, we certainly wouldn't pay to see in any respectable movie house. As a matter of fact, if the truth were known, a lot of respectable movie houses wouldn't book them for fear of having to hire a fumigating firm the following day.

Television is here to stay, though. Ninety-nine per cent of the homes, some of them without a bathroom, have at least one television set. The average American watches television four hours a day and the average household has at least one TV set turned on six hours a day.

These figures emanate from a book due shortly on the market. Written by Jerry Mander, it is entitled "Four Arguments for the Elimination of Television."

Mander is direct and to the point. He spent four years and used up 100,000 words in putting together the book. He wants us all to take the cure cold turkey. Throw the thing out, he says, and make the people who live off the medium go to work.

Mander argues that television is "non-reformable" because it is unable to convey complex ideas and because its dehumanizing effect is unavoidable.

Mander goes beyond what most other critics have said about the medium. Some of whom have been arguing that its psychological, physiological, political and economic effects are irrefutably negative.

Mander takes issue with this synopsis. When asked to "say a few words" about his tome on a network program, Mander reminded the producer that his plethora of words would not reduce to "a few." He also remarked ironically that a thesis of his work was television's inability to convey complex ideas. Why should he then attempt to use the medium for this very purpose, he argued.

Mander apparently doesn't feel he needs the free exposure on television to promote his book. He may be regarded as a modern Don Quixote. If he is, he is certainly a refreshing tilter of windmills.

Pet peeves

Around the rim

Eileen McGuire

When I was a teenager, lusting after my idols John Lennon, Paul McCartney, Elvis Presley, Bob Dylan, Donovan and other greats who weren't great enough for me to remember, I got a big kick out of discovering "pet peeves" in fan magazines.

Now that I'm no longer a teenager, I've developed a few pet peeves on my own.

imbalance. Eat it at your own risk."

My pet peeve of longest duration is nature's fault. When I was 16, I looked like I was 12. Now that I'm 25, I am mistaken for 18. How do you get used car salesmen to take you seriously when you look like you just graduated from high school? How do you break it to people that you are the mother of two?

My greatest peeve is the way grocery and discount stores place candy and gum conveniently next to the checkout counter. Have you ever tried to steer a four and a five year old past them? You can tell them candy isn't good for them, but the fact that it is where it is is proof enough that it must be good for something.

Along with that peeve is the way the cereal section is laid out with the sugary cereals on the lower shelves where children can't possibly miss them and the unsweetened cereals on the top shelves as if they are for adults only.

One of the newest sugary cereals is actually chocolate chip cookies. Pour milk and additional sugar on them and your children are ready to start their day with a stomachful of cookies.

The ingredients of many of these cereals are no different than candy and I think they should carry the following warning on them:

"Beware: Disguised as a nutritious way to start the day, this cereal is actually candy. It may be hazardous to your dental and medical health and there is now indication that sugar may be addictive, resulting in emotional

ANOTHER PEEVE I run into every time I move. I hate paying a $15 service charge to turn on a utility that only takes one minute to turn on. I can keep up with the rising cost of energy by moving to less expensive homes but by the time I pay for the privilege of having energy, I'm back where I started from.

My final peeve is the fact that single people have to pay larger taxes than married people. Is this the government's way of penalizing people for not wanting to be a joint anything? Single people pay just as much as married people for rent, utilities, food, etc. and if they have children, they pay the additional expenses of being single parents. I'm not asking for a tax break, just a little equality.

Naming dislikes is easier than naming likes, but I guess what I like most about life is the fact that my pet peeves aren't more serious than they are. I only have to face the candy counters and cereal aisles once a week, I don't move too often, tax time only comes around once a year and I always have my driver's license to prove I'm over 18.

And if I didn't have any pet peeves, I wouldn't have had a rim this week.

Not enough

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Hardly a week goes by when some head of state doesn't visit Washington. In the old days if they saw Disneyland while they were in the United States they went home happy.

But things have changed. Most heads of state now come to Washington to see how much military aid they can get out of the United States.

Several weeks ago the president of Zemelulu arrived in Washington for a State visit. The Zemelulan ambassador to the United States met him at the plane, as did the American secretary of state and an honor guard from the U.S. Army, U.S. Marines and U.S. Air Force.

THE ZEMULULAN ambassador whispered to the president, "The first thing you must do is review the honor guard."

The president said, "Those are nice rifles they're carrying. Can I have them?"

"No," said the ambassador, "not yet. First we have to take a helicopter to the White House where President Carter will greet you."

After reviewing the troops the president of Zemelulu got into the helicopter. "Should I ask the secretary of state for 24 of these?"

"It's too early in your visit. We have to go through formalities."

The president looked very disappointed.

The helicopter landed on the White House Lawn where President and Mrs. Carter were waiting to meet the party. President Carter made his opening remarks calling Zemelulu one of the great countries of the world and a friend the United States could not do without.

THE ZEMULULAN ambassador said out of the side of his mouth, "It is now your turn to respond."

"Good, I'll ask him for two squadrons of F-15s and three squadrons of F-16s."

"Wait. It's not the time. You never ask for military equipment in the Rose Garden. It's against protocol."

"What should I say?"

"Just say the ties between Zemelulu and the United States are stronger than they have ever been, and the admiration for America as the preserver of peace is something every Zemelulan cherishes."

"All right, but I think we're wasting a lot of time. I have only two days here."

The Zemelulan president made his remarks which were followed by a 21-gun salute.

The Zemelulan president took out a notebook, "I almost forgot the cannons. How many 105-mm cannons should I ask for?"

The ambassador replied, "I think they said they'd give us five."

"Five? My generals told me to come back with no less than 50."

"We'll talk about it later. We have to go into lunch."

The Zemelulan president said, "When can we go to the Pentagon and see the stuff?"

"We have to lunch with the President and Mrs. Carter first. After that we have to place a wreath at the Lincoln Memorial."

"That will blow the whole afternoon," the Zemelulan president complained.

"The Pentagon is just over the bridge from the memorial, Mr. President. We can go there after the wreathlaying."

"How late do they stay open?"

"Five o'clock."

"Five o'clock? I won't even have time to pick up any gunboats for our navy."

"Suppose all the F-15s are gone by then?"

"The Pentagon always keeps a dozen in the stockroom for its special friends. Oh, by the way, there is a State dinner tonight and Beverly Sills is going to sing."

"That's nice. Maybe I can talk President Carter out of some cruise missiles during Madame Butterfly."

"C'mon, fellas... don't be bashful... feel free 'ride my coattails!"

Drug may help post-shingles pain

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have read there is a drug that can be injected to help relieve the pain of shingles. But you have said that, for greatest effect, it is important to give it as soon as possible after the shingles appears. How can one know whether one has shingles or not? And how effective is the drug? The reason I am asking is because my mother suffered, and still does somewhat, from shingles pain many months after she got it. I would like to avoid this happening to me. —Mrs. H.F.

Shingles (herpes zoster) is a viral infection of a nerve root. It occurs somewhere in the chest wall and the first sign is pain along the involved nerve. It can vary in intensity. In several days a blotchy rash appears on the skin. It is usually one-sided, as is the pain. Soon little blisters appear similar to those of chicken pox (in fact the herpes virus is very similar to that of chicken pox). The blisters usually heal in about 10 days.

Most cases of shingles leave pain that lasts from two to three weeks, but, as you know from your mother's experience, the pain can last for months or years.

Dr. Ervin Epstein of the University of California School of Medicine reported success with injection of triamcinolone in controlling the so-called post-zoster neuralgia (pain) in 60 per cent of 300 patients he studied over nine years. There was a report of his treatment in the Dermatology News of October 1977. There is no way to prevent the virus infection, as with immunization, for example. Over the years, various other combinations of drugs have been tried to control the zoster and post-zoster pain, but none has been found to be entirely effective. There are no guarantees with the triamcinolone, but Mr. Epstein's results seem encouraging when the drug is given as early as possible.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter is 15 and for over a year now has had a steady discharge and odor. I have taken her to three gynecologists and they said they don't see anything wrong. It seems to me something has to be causing this problem. The child is miserable and just about lives in the bathtub. Is there anything that can be done? —Mrs. J.H.

Well, I must agree with you that something is causing this problem and it's hard for me to believe that three gynecologists have been unable to suggest what.

I have encountered situations, especially among young girls, where a tampon has become "lost" after insertion. This can cause an odor and chronic discharge. One wonders whether the discharge substance has been examined for trichomonas or other parasites. These possibilities should be investigated if they have not been already.

Meanwhile, your daughter might refrain from wearing nylon panties or pantyhose. Cotton is best. She should also avoid bubble bath preparations in the bathtub, where you tell me she "lives." A vinegar douche (one tablespoon of vinegar to a quart of warm water) should help temporarily. I am reluctant to suggest you seek a fourth opinion, but under these circumstances I will.

Do you know of the problem firsthand, or is it possible the youngster is exaggerating matters — which some tend to do at such an age?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have two things that annoy me. I wondered if the symptoms go together. I have split corners of my mouth the year around. It defies all treatment. The other complaint is that my urine has a strong smell of vinegar. Is this common or not? I am a female, 65 years old. —Mrs. H.

The splitting is due either to a nutritional deficiency (vitamin B) or from an irritation. If you use dentures, the dental paste or the dentures themselves should be checked into. The year-around symptoms suggest something of this order.

Urine odor is due to the concentration of the urine, either on the acid or alkaline side. It should be analyzed to determine which. In either case, drinking more water can help matters.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can being overweight affect menstruation? —M.K.

Yes, and so can being underweight or rapid weight loss.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a 63-year old male. When I am standing up I notice in my right groin an almond-sized elevation that looks like the beginning of a hernia. Occasionally it is slightly painful. My doctor says it is "old age."

Can strengthening of the stomach muscles through exercise, such as situps, help in slowing down or preventing a rupture? —H.E.

Without seeing this firsthand, it sounds very much like an inguinal hernia (the most common type). This is due to a weakening of tissues in that area, but it is not a matter of old age. Hernias can and do occur at any age.

Strengthening the abdominal muscles with exercise will not help and, in fact, the stress could possibly be harmful. There is no way to help this non-surgically, except to avoid strains that might aggravate it. If it is giving you discomfort it likely will continue to do so. I suggest you discuss possible surgery with your doctor.

Shingles can be a painful disease! For a copy of Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I was deeply hurt the other day when I heard that someone had accused me of being a gossip. What can I do about it? —H.K.

DEAR H.K.: Gossiping can be a very serious thing, partly because gossip easily degenerates into lies about people that might destroy their reputation. It is also a hard thing to combat. The Bible treats gossiping as a great evil: "An evil man out of the evil treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is evil: for of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaketh" (Luke 6:45). "As coals are to burning coals, and wood to fire; so is a contentious man to kindle strife. The words of a talebearer are as wounds" (Proverbs 26:21-22).

First, you should examine your behavior to see if there are any grounds for the accusation. We so easily can speak a thoughtless word that slanders another person. If you have done so, seek the forgiveness of God, and ask Him to help you overcome the temptation to gossip about others in the future. Also, if you have gossiped about another person, I believe you should seek the other person out, confess what you have done and ask their forgiveness. This can be very painful, I know, but it is important.

If you feel, however, that there is no justification for the charge, you might consider confronting the person who has accused you of spreading gossip. You need to pray for wisdom in this, and you should especially go out of your way to be kind to the other person. "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you" (Matthew 5:44). This is what Paul did: "being reviled, we bless; being persecuted, we suffer it" (1 Corinthians 4:12).

In the future, be sure you never give anyone grounds for accusing you of being a gossip, and do all you can to be a good example to others.

MY SON, THE DOCTOR

In preventing legal problems

Leftovers in Demand By These Diners

DEAR ABBY: For the last few years, our family has met at each other's homes for holiday dinners and we all bring something toward the dinner.

When there are leftovers, should they remain at the home of the hostess? Or does the person who brought whatever is left over get to take it home?

Thanksgiving, Cousin Joe brought two bottles of vodka. The crowd drank only one and a half, so Joe grabbed the half bottle and took it home with him. Was that proper?

Cousin Marge brought a turkey. She kept remarking on how "cheated" she felt because she wouldn't have any leftovers. (There was a little turkey and dressing left over. Should the hostess have picked up the hint and told Marge she could take home the leftovers?)

Please answer in the column. There must be others who have family dinners and want to know what to do about leftovers.

FAMILY DINNER

DEAR FAMILY: Leftovers should be left with the host and/or hostess. If they want to share them with the guests, it's their option. And I think it's tacky to take home an open bottle of liquor or wine.

DEAR ABBY: In your column, you urged mothers to tell their school-age sons to ask the girls to dance. You say, "Many girls attend a school dance and aren't asked to dance even once!"

Well, Abby, look at it from the boy's point of view. It takes a lot of courage to ask a girl to dance when there's a 50-50 chance that you'll get turned down. It's much safer to just stand and watch.

I'll never forget my first high school dance. I walked clear across the gymnasium floor to ask a girl to dance with me. She turned me down and I was humiliated before my buddies as I walked back alone and took my place again in the stag line.

I hope this explains why some boys lack the courage to ask a girl to dance.

ED IN MIRANDA

DEAR ED: Thanks for presenting the boy's side of it. Girls, are you listening? If you're asked to dance, accept—even if he's too short, too chubby or has pimples. (And if he's a lousy dancer, make the best of it. It's only one dance.)

DEAR ABBY: As for making donations to a charity in the name of friends, I'm with you.

Last September I had my fourth surgery in my right ear, which restored my hearing, and for the first time in my life I do not have to wear a hearing aid. In October I had a serious accident involving an elephant and was nearly killed.

At Christmastime I felt that a beautiful way to celebrate my happiness in the miracle of my new perfect hearing, and in gratitude for still being alive, would be to make donations to the Ear Research Institute in Los Angeles. This I did in the name of my friends in order to give new hearing to those who could not have afforded it otherwise. Sign this...your loving fan,

Legal 'check-up' important

You are drawing up a will, getting a divorce or buying a home. You want a lawyer. Would you know how to find one?

Too often, the answer is "no." The American Bar Association is trying to change the situation.

Concerned about reports that legal needs of many Americans are not being met, the lawyers' group is offering advice on when to use an attorney, where to look for one and what you can expect to get for your money.

According to a new guide published by the ABA, preventive legal advice is just as important as preventive medicine. "One of the most important reasons to see a lawyer is to have him give you a 'legal check-up.' This type of...law is especially helpful to people who are thinking of starting a business, planning to marry, buying a home or providing for heirs."

At the same time, the ABA says there are instances when it is not necessary and even silly to use a lawyer. "Americans have become too quick to go to court," it said.

In cases of minor disputes, the ABA suggests such remedies as the Better Business Bureau, small claims courts and settlement services offered by the American Arbitration Association.

Copies of the guide, "The American Lawyer: How to Choose and Use One," are available, at $1 each, from the American Bar Association, Circulation Department, 1155 E. 60th St., Chicago, Ill., 60637.

When you need a lawyer, it pays to know where and how to look.

—Start with friends. "The best recommendation generally comes from someone who has had a problem similar to yours and had it resolved to his satisfaction," says the ABA.

—Try the public library. The Martindale-Hubbell Law Directory gives brief biographical sketches of many lawyers, describes the type of practice they engage in and, for some, rates their legal ability, ethical standards and professional reliability.

—Check the phone book. Many bar associations operate Lawyer Referral Services, listed in the Yellow Pages under attorneys.

"Under the LRS plan, the lawyer will consult with you on a legal problem for a half hour without charge or for a prescribed fee and then render whatever services are requested for a fee mutually agreed upon," says the ABA.

—Read the ads. A 1977 ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court paved the way for advertising by lawyers and the ABA's Code of Professional Responsibility was amended in line with the court decision.

TWEEN 12 AND 20 Dating older men hinders activities

Dear Dr. Wallace: I understand if Dad stopped by to see how school dances are conducted but for him to stay and I usually agree with your column and make you feel uncomfortable is wrong. Your best friend here should be a friendly teacher, counselor or your principal. Talk to one of them and ask them to "enlighten" Dad. Let's hope it works.

Whenever a girl is dating an older man (she's 17, he's 24), you always make the same statement — forget him; he is too old for you. I was 16 when I met my husband, who was 23. That was 14 years ago. After I graduated from high school, we were married. We now have two children and are still very happy and in love. Please remember that each individual circumstance is different.

Send questions to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 24-cent stamped, large, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

State Auditor McNiel declares:

GOMA funds handled sloppily

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs was a slipshod operation before it was shaken up in January, and it has too few employees, State Auditor George McNiel says.

Hunt named coordinator for Jim Baum in Taylor

Dr. W. A. Hunt, Abilene, former president of Howard College, has been named as the Taylor County coordinator for the Jim Baum for Congress campaign. Dr. Hunt's father was the founder and first president of McMurry College.

audit of GOMA, requested by Gov. Dolph Briscoe, was issued Tuesday afternoon. Briscoe said numerous problems mentioned by McNiel have been corrected. McNiel said he found: —Dismissal of three-fourths of GOMA's 41

DR. W. A. HUNT

In making the announcement, Judge Lee Porter of Big Spring, Baum's campaign chairman, said, "We are fortunate to have a man of Dr. Hunt's ability and qualifications supporting Jim in his campaign and are pleased to have him lend his efforts to our endeavor."

Dr. Hunt is a graduate of McMurry College, where he also obtained his Bachelor of Science degree. His Master of Arts degree was received from Southern Methodist University, his Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Texas and in 1959, McMurry conferred upon him a Doctor of Laws Degree.

In accepting the position of Taylor County Coordinator for Baum, Dr. Hunt stated, "My long association with Jim Baum gave me insight into his qualifications for the post he is seeking... that of United States Congressman representing the 17th District. He is deeply committed to furthering the aims and goals of public education, both as a parent with four children in public schools, as a concerned citizen and as a taxpayer. During my tenure at Howard College, I called upon Jim many times for assistance in projects ranging from promoting student activities to passing bond elections for the growth and development of our institution."

"He is a man of his word... he is a man who gets things done... a man of strong convictions which he carries out. He has been my friend for many years, but he has been a friend of education a lot longer. I am honored to lend my support to the campaign of a man in whom I strongly believe... Jim Baum."

School elections okayed for Hereford, Midland

DALLAS (AP) — A three-judge federal panel, deciding not to grant an injunction on "the eve of the election," has agreed to allow the Hereford and Midland school districts to hold school board elections Saturday, as scheduled.

The federal government had claimed the methods of electing school board members might be discriminatory and asked the court to delay the elections.

Jeremy Schwartz, an attorney with the civil rights division of the Justice Department, said Tuesday that the judges decided not to grant an injunction on "the eve of the election."

However, the Trinity and Chapel Hill independent school districts agreed to a consent order delaying school board elections in those districts.

Midland and Hereford school districts changed methods of electing school board members prior to 1975 when provisions of the voting rights act made it necessary to get Justice Department approval for any such change.

Schwartz said the law is retroactive to Nov. 1, 1972, but the two districts argue that provision is unconstitutional because it amounts to an after-the-fact restriction.

The federal government has challenged Hereford's change on grounds it could dilute minority voting strength.

Comment from capital

'Secret ballot sought

AUSTIN — Elections in 1978 will be by secret ballot, but there is an important one coming up next year that probably won't be decided that way. It's for speaker of the Texas House or representative.

The speaker wields a lot of power along with his gavel in this state. Most people who want to be effective in or with the legislature try to stay on his good side.

With that point in mind, Rep. Buddy Temple, D-Diboll, is calling for a secret ballot for electing the speaker next year. He says that way the House members can vote without worrying about hurting anyone's feelings.

Temple's position is not purely philosophical. He wants to be elected speaker in 1978 and undoubtedly thinks a secret ballot will help him.

Speaker Billy Clayton doesn't like the idea either of a secret ballot or of Temple becoming speaker. He wants an unprecedented third consecutive term.

Clayton doesn't come right out and say he's against a secret ballot. He says the decision will be up to the House next January and the method of voting won't affect the outcome. But his impartiality is questionable.

Temple sent a letter to Clayton on March 27 calling for a secret ballot and mailed copies to all House members. Clark Jobe of the Temple campaign says there hasn't been much response from the membership so far. Clayton says he's heard responses — all negative. "We've had a number of letters from members," the speaker said early this week. "We have not had one single member desiring to go back to a secret ballot."

Secret ballots in the past prevented people back home from knowing how their representative voted, Clayton said.

The speaker now claims 120 pledges for re-election, saying this only counts districts where he feels a certainty that the person

Senate and UN ignore acts

WASHINGTON (AP) — It has been 11 years since two human rights resolutions were introduced in the United Nations, a year since President Carter endorsed them and six months since he signed them.

But the U.S. Senate has taken no action on the documents, which are equivalent to treaties. And fewer than one third of the U.N. members have approved them.

On the surface the resolutions, like Carter's own human rights

"hidden employees," who were paid with federal manpower money by Counterpoint Systems, Inc., left the agency only with 18 people.

"The main concern we have... is whether 18 employees will be enough to effectively administer the GOMA program. The problem is not only to do what formerly was done by 50 people, but in important areas to do it better," McNiel wrote.

Briscoe said acting GOMA director Rafael Quintanilla had asked for five more

Smedley could be sent here

BAIRD — James P. Smedley, 86, jailed for a claw hammer attack on 42nd District Judge Don Lane here last week, has been hospitalized in Abilene after going on a five-day hunger strike.

Smedley had been judged in lieu of $5,000 bond. He was admitted to Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene late Monday.

Callahan County Attorney Donald Wilson said that papers ordering Smedley to Big Spring State Hospital had been filled out and will be signed by Justice of Peace Bobby Curtis when the Abilene hospital releases Smedley.

Judge Lane escaped injury in the hammer incident, which occurred last Thursday.

Wilson said that Smedley apparently became upset because he believed Judge Lane had something to do with him losing his driver's license.

5 candidates attend forum

More than 80 interested citizens were on hand at Howard College Student Union Building Tuesday night to ask questions of several candidates for City and School District offices.

The Forum was moderated by the KBST news director, Carl McMillen, and involved school district candidates Burt Harris, Paul Spence, and Charles Bell; and city council candidates Frank Martinez, and Bill Henkel. The other candidates had been invited but had conflicting schedules.

The forum was sponsored by the Governmental Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Carol Hunter, chairman.

Bill Albright, executive vice president of the chamber, said that an Open Forum for Congressional candidates is planned for April 16, 4 p.m., following the opening of the Big Spring Airport. Additional open forums will be held for county and state candidates April 25 and 27. Details will be announced later.

people, and "if the request can be supported by the present GOMA budget, the authorization should be made."

—GOMA would endorse refund checks from subcontractors and transfer them to other subcontractors instead of following the normal practice of depositing them in the treasury and writing new checks.

Briscoe said the practice has been abolished.

—GOMA advanced money to most subcontractors on the basis of "letters of authorization" rather than by contract.

The auditor said this could cause subcontractors to spend money "in anticipation of grant funds which might not be forthcoming."

Briscoe said GOMA now operates only on the basis of signed contracts.

—GOMA officials illegally lent property such as electric typewriters and calculators to four subcontractors.

Briscoe said almost all the furniture and equipment had been recovered or accounted for.

Southwest Texas Junior College in Uvalde received a loan of $6,829 worth of equipment, McNiel said, more than any other contractor.

Dimensional standards change at post office

Within the next few months, the Postal Service will begin enforcing new dimensional standards for first-class mail which weighs less than one ounce and for single piece third-class mail weighing two ounces or less.

Sometime after April 15, the all "non-standard" size mail will be subject to a surcharge.

"Handling of mail is the reason for enforcing the standards — which actually came into effect July 6, 1976 — with a surcharge," said Big Spring Postmaster Frank Hardesty.

"Odd shapes — including letters in non-standard size envelopes, and the cute little cut-outs that are sent as birth announcements or party invitations — are kicked out of the sorting machines," said John Gee, Big Spring Postal Superintendent. "We have to handle and sort them

Flores did not sign the contract, but GOMA director Rogelio Perez "was responsible to him, so he was in that chain of decision-making," said GOMA executive Domingo Lopez.

Perez has been suspended without pay since he took the Fifth Amendment during a Harlingen court of inquiry into manpower problems three months ago.

Employees' pay boost will be discussed

COAHOMA — The Coahoma City Council will hold its regular meeting 7:30 p.m. Thursday in City Hall.

A total of seven items make up the agenda. They include:

—A discussion with Wayne Bristow representing the Southwest Computer Service.

—A report from the police department.

—Appointment of a Board of Equalization.

—Discussion of a raise for employees.

—Appointment of a certified public accountant to audit books for the fiscal year ending Friday.

—Discussion of a resolution to submit an application for Small Cities Program funds.

—Discussion with Mrs. Hervol and Mrs. Thompson regarding a dog problem.

"inadequate and unreliable," shot through with duplicate entries, misclassification of income and expenditures and missing posting dates.

Briscoe said "an organized accounting system" is being implemented.

While the agency had valid internal controls over the awarding of manpower grants, "These were from time to time overridden on the instructions of GOMA management."

Briscoe said it now takes concurrence by the acting director and deputy director to commit any money.

A little respect, please

It took a lot of years, but the Southwest Conference has finally grown out of its short pants stage in basketball in the eyes of the rest of the nation.

The Longhorns' championship finish in the NIT and the Razorbacks' third place finish in the NCAA has opened a few Atlantic Coast Conference and Pac 8 eyes in the collegiate basketball viewing chambers.

Recognition, respect and myriad pats on the back won't be immediate, mind you. Look how long it took for the SWC gridders to be acknowledged, despite the fact that Darrell Royal was doing an impression of Tom Landry on the college level.

In 1967 and '68, Houston (an independent then) finished third and fourth in the NCAA tourney. Arkansas had finished third and fourth in 1945 and '41, respectively; Texas ended in the third slot in 1943 and '47; and Baylor and SMU had fourths in 1950 and '56.

Other than that, the only other time an SWC team made it to the final four was Baylor's second place finish to Kentucky (under Adolph Rupp at the time) in 1948.

Counting the Hoggies visit this year (and not counting the two Houston showings, that's only eight of the 160 top four spots in the 40-year history of the championship.

Considering talent, Arkansas may not repeat next season, but Texas might. Since they both now have a one-year tradition started, the odds are at least in their favor.

Speaking of tradition, or more precisely, records, here's two from the NCAA Championship tourney that will probably hold for a long time. Most points scored by an individual in a game: 61, Austin Carr, Notre Dame (112) vs. Ohio U. (82), March 7, 1970; and Most Championships won: UCLA under John Wooden, 10 out of 12 between 1964 and 1975.

TEEN-AGERS ARISE!

Al Valdes came in my office Monday afternoon like four different people. He was upset, sad, angry and perplexed over the seemingly rampant apathy that has hit the Big Spring Teenage League picture.

Valdes, who has been president of the league long since his son grew out of the age requirement, is hoping that there are still a number of parents whose sons wish to play baseball, and who will be willing to give their time and talents towards helping the organization.

Anyone who has even the slightest interest in the league, should be in attendance at the Big Spring Educational F.C.U. Building, 1110 Benton, 7 o'clock tonight.

That meeting will probably decide the future of Teenage Baseball in (or out) of Big Spring.

REMARKABILITIES

"Everybody wants to renegotiate these days. I was always taught, you make a bad deal, you make the best of it, live with it. You buy a stock it goes down, you can't phone your broker and say, hey, I want to do it over again. I didn't expect it to go down." — DICK YOUNG.

"I can't believe all these baseball players. If everyone of them was paid what he thought he was worth, they'd all have to get bodyguards." — FAVE SPOTTER, on big league boys' greed for the big bucks.

"If the NCAA wants to get rid of independents and drive us all into conferences, why don't they come right out and say so?" — GENE SMITHSON, Coach of Illinois State's 24-3 team this year snubbed by the NCAA tournament committee.

Allen leaves A's, Reds beat Bums

By the Associated Press

"Someone must know I can still play." With those words, disillusioned Dick Allen left the camp of the Oakland A's, his controversial, phlegmatic 15-year major league career apparently ended.

If any team thinks that Allen still can play, it will have to base its judgment on past performances. The controversial first baseman never had a chance to prove his worth in spring training this year. He did not bat in any of Oakland's exhibition games before the A's placed him on waivers Tuesday for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release.

Before departing, the 36-year-old Allen said, "The Good Lord will provide. I'm going to go home and hope for someone to call."

Allen has played with five teams, and his 351 home runs were the third highest total among active players. He also won the American League's Most Valuable Player Award with the Chicago White Sox in 1972.

Two-run homers by Dan Driessen and Dave Concepcion and a solo shot by George Foster powered Cincinnati to a 5-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers. The Seattle Mariners whipped the California Angels 8-0 behind the two-hit pitching of Dick Pole, Enrique Romo and John Montague.

Roger Erickson and Dave Johnson collaborated on a sixhitter and Craig Kusick drove in the only run as the Minnesota Twins blanked the Montreal Expos 1-0. A split squad of Pittsburgh Pirates got fivehit pitching from Kent Tekulve and Elias Sosa plus a home run from Fernando Gonzalez to edge the Chicago White Sox 1-0.

The rest of the Pirates' team suffered a 12-3 loss to Toronto as Roy Howell led the Blue Jays with four hits. Jerry Kosman hurled seven scoreless innings and Lee Mazzilli and Ken Henderson rapped homers, leading the New York Mets to a 7-4 triumph over St. Louis.

The Baltimore Orioles downed the Philadelphia Phillies 4-2, with Mike Flanagan allowing only one run and five hits in seven innings. Larry Herndon's three RBI helped the San Francisco Giants top the Chicago Cubs 5-4.

Fred Kendall's three-run triple highlighted a five-run first inning that carried the Cleveland Indians to an 8-4 decision over Oakland. Early home runs by Dave Winfield, Oscar Gamble and George Hendrick, plus run-scoring singles in the 10th inning by Derrel Thomas and Bob Davis, lifted San Diego to a 5-3 decision over the Milwaukee Brewers.

The Detroit Tigers defeated the Boston Red Sox 5-4 on Lou Whitaker's run-scoring single in the 11th inning.

Two games were rained out — Houston against Atlanta and Kansas City against the New York Yankees.

AAU funded?

NEW YORK (AP) — Full-time national coaches, subsidized athletes and paid leaves of absence to compete in international sports competitions. It sounds like a model for sports programs in Russia or East Germany, but actually it could be the wave of the future for amateur athletics in the United States.

A first step was taken in that direction Tuesday with the announcement of a grant to finance a national wrestling coach and staff.

Sun Co. of Radnor, Pa., will present an initial check for $75,000 to the AAU this weekend at the World Cup Wrestling tournament at Toledo, Ohio. A total of $225,000 has been pledged by Sun to pay the coach and his staff for three years.

The coach and his staff will be selected by the national AAU wrestling committee, hopefully by this summer.

"I see this development as a breakthrough in our handling of Olympic sports in the United States," said Joseph Scalzo, immediate past president of the AAU and its national industrial chairman. "I'm convinced that wrestling will improve almost overnight" from having a coach.

If the wrestling coach program proves successful, Scalzo said, sponsorship will be sought from other companies for national coaches in other Olympic sports, such as track, gymnastics, swimming, boxing and weightlifting.

To err is human, to give away games Steerish

By DANNY REAGAN

"This is the third game in a row we've given away," explained Steer Head Coach Tommy Collins following his chargers' 3-2 district loss to Permian Tuesday afternoon. "I'm pretty disgusted with our defense," he added. "I knew at the first of the season we weren't going to be a hitting ballclub (the locals have gathered only 12 hits in three league games), but I thought we'd be a much better defensive club, especially up the middle." With a wind blowing out of the south that portended a busy day for leftfielders, the Steers held district leader Permian scoreless until the sixth inning, when a total of seven errors finally caught up with them.

Tony Jacobo, who was credited with the loss, had his curve ball working early in the game, but got behind the Mojo sticks in the sixth, when Collins brought in Charlie Vernon as relief. Larry Smith was slated to start against PHS, but a bout of tonsillitis kept him out of the game.

Regular starting first sacker Johnny Mize was also out with a sprained ankle, and Collins indicated that both would not play in Thursday's game against Ft. Stockton, and that they were "doubtful" for Saturday's game with Midland Lee. Mize is the team's leading hitter (.428) in district, and Smith is the second-leading stick with men on base.

Before the game, Permian veteran coach Gene McCanliss indicated that his club was undefeated in league play because of a recent elimination of errors and a "pretty good" defense that had turned four double plays in the two prior games before Tuesday.

It was timely hits by Mojo and a breakdown on defense by the Steers, however, which led to the Permian success Tuesday. The locals committed three errors in the first inning, and only escaped a bases-loaded situation then with a heads-up double play.

David Manley broke the ice in the third frame when he scored on a dropped fly by the PHS second baseman. Permian committed two of its three errors in that inning. The Steers scored their only other run in the fifth inning when Tony Mann led off with a solo round-tripper.

Mike Gomez, Tony Rubio and Kevin McLaughlin garnered the only other hits, all singles, for the Steers. Permian took control of the game in the sixth inning, and scored two runs on two hits and two errors to knot the score. A slicing pop-up with just enough steam on it by Permian's Tony Northcutt fell to the dust harmlessly, just a horsehair outside of the first base line, preventing Mojo from scoring two more runs in that frame.

Permian Coach McCanliss offered the most excitement of the day when he gesticulated and argued with the umpire about the barely foul ball. The discussion was meaningless, however, as PHS came back the very next inning and sewed up the game with another run off of another Steer error and an RBIing double.

The Steers host Ft. Stockton Thursday in a non-conference encounter, with either Ricky Myers or Ricky Torres hurling from the mound. The locals, now 0-3 in district and 7-8 on the year, travel to Midland Lee Saturday in their next league game.

'I BEG TO DIFFER SIR' — During sixth inning action of the Steers' 3-2 loss to Permian Tuesday, umpire Rocky Vieira and 20-year veteran Panther coach Gene McCanliss had this discussion about a sliced fly into right field that just barely hit outside the baseline. Mojo had already scored two runs in that inning to tie the score. The Steers host Ft. Stockton Thursday in their next action, a non-conference bout in Steer Park.

Giants have better pitchers than Reds in NL West

By the Associated Press

The Cincinnati Reds went shopping for pitching help during the off-season and acquired a hard-throwing hurler from the Oakland A's whose last name has four letters and begins with B.

However, thanks to Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, it's Doug Bair rather than Vida Blue. And while the Reds were hoping to land a starting pitcher, Bair will work out of the bullpen.

Bair had a 4-6 record and 3.46 earned run average with Oakland after coming up from the minors. But the Los Angeles Dodgers, who ran away with the National League West by 10 games over the Reds a year ago after a blazing 22-4 start, also came up with bullpen help, signing free agent Terry Forster, 6-4 with Pittsburgh in 1977 but American League Fireman of the Year with the Chicago White Sox in '74.

After that incredible 22-4 opening, the Dodgers were 10 1/2 games in front of the pack and rookie Manager Tom Lasorda could almost begin charting his playoff pitching rotation. In fact, Lasorda, one of the world's great optimists, may be planning ahead again right now.

"We did it before and we can do it again," he says. "That is our motto for the 1978 season. I feel the teams in the NL West are going to have to catch us."

Back to power the offense are a quartet of 30-home run hitters, the first time in baseball history one team boasted four such sluggers. They are first baseman Steve Garvey (33), right fielder Reggie Smith (32) and third baseman Ron Cey and left fielder Dusty Baker (30 apiece). Cey also set a major league record by driving in 29 runs last April.

The rest of the attack is potent, too — catcher Steve Yeager (with veterans Johnny Oates and Jerry Grote behind him), second baseman Davey Lopes, shortstop Bill Russell and center fielder Rick Monday.

Monday, plagued by back spasms for much of the season, hit only 15 home runs after belting 32 in 1976 with the Chicago Cubs.

The pitching staff includes starters Don Sutton, Tommy John, Burt Hooton, Rick Rhoden and Doug Rau, with Forster, Charlie Hough and Mike Garman in the bullpen.

With Blue, plus John Montefusco, Ed Halicki, Bob Knepper, and Jim Barr, the Giants have strong pitching, backed up by relievers Gary Lavelle and Randy Moffitt. And don't forget Lynn McGlothen.

But the catching (Marc Hill and Mike Sadek) is only average and slugging first baseman Willie McCovey is 40 years old. In a porous infield, Bill Madlock moves from third to second, Johnnie LeMaster takes over at short and Darrell Evans and Mike Ivie, neither a Gold Glove threat, will compete at third. The outfield of Jack Clark, Larry Herndon, Randy Elliott and Terry Whitfield — maybe Evans, too — hasn't scared anyone yet.

The San Diego Padres, unable to compete on the field, got the biggest spring headlines by firing Manager Alvin Dark and promoting pitching coach Roger Craig. Hamburger king Ray Kroc, who owns the ballclub, shelled out $2.7 million for free-agent outfielder Oscar Gamble after adding relief ace Rollie Fingers and catcher Gene Tenace a year ago.

On paper the Padres are improved, though. Gamble joins Dave Winfield and George Hendrick in a solid outfield. Third baseman Derrel Thomas, late of the Giants, lends some experience to an otherwise young infield of Gene Richards at first, Bill Almon at short and rookie Ossie Smith at short. At least that was Dark's plan. Craig may move Almon back to short, where he did well as a rookie a year ago.

The pitching staff includes old folks Gaylord Perry (39) and Mickey Lolich (37), youngsters Bob Shirley (23), Bob Ojchinko (23) and Dave Freisleben (22). The best of the lot, if he's over his arm miseries, is Randy Jones, the 1976 Cy Young winner.

The Atlanta Braves are rebuilding from the bottom — where they finished — but starting at the top with a new skipper in Bobby Cox. The Braves have some punch in right fielder Jeff Burroughs, left fielder Gary Matthews and catcher Biff Pocoroba.

Prediction: 1, Cincinnati. 2, Los Angeles. 3, San Diego. 4, Houston. 5, San Francisco. 6, Atlanta.

Meanwhile, the Reds not only saw their string of two consecutive world championships come to an end, they didn't even win their division, an oversight which Manager Sparky Anderson plans to correct.

The major reason for optimism is that Tom Seaver, acquired from the New York Mets last June, will be around all season. Seaver was 14-3 in a Cincinnati uniform — 21-6 overall — and Anderson sees no reason he can't win 25 games ... for openers.

If the rest of the pitching staff doesn't exactly leave opposing hitters quaking in their spikes, the Reds still have perhaps the best eight-man lineup in the game.

Wadkins looms at Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — With most of the game's great names taking a break before next week's Masters, PGA champion Lanny Wadkins looms as the top attraction in a less-than-stellar field arrayed for the $240,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

The event, sandwiched between the prestigious Heritage Classic and the famed Masters, has attracted one of the lighter lineups of the season.

In fact, for the first time in more than 40 years, Sam Snead is missing from the 144-man field that will start Thursday over the 6,984-yard, par-72 Forest Oaks Country Club course. The 65-year-old Snead, who won the first of eight Greensboro titles in the 1938 inaugural, had to withdraw because of a sore foot.

Lon Hinkle, who has yet to win, is the only member of this year's top 10 money-winners in the Greensboro field. Only five of the top 20 — Hinkle, Wadkins, Lou Graham, Howard Twitty and Andy North — are on hand.

The sponsors may have wished for more, but some of the players are completely happy. "That's too bad. I'm sorry for the sponsors," comeback kid John Mahaffey said. "But for a player, it's beautiful. There's that many less to beat. The win counts and the $48,000 spends."

In addition to the big first prize, the winner also gets a spot in the Masters. That's a particular lure for Mahaffey and Australian Graham Marsh, who tops a strong foreign field.

Other leading contenders include Hinkle, Graham, who has played very well in the last two weeks, and "Of Sarge" Orville Moody, who last week had his best showing in years.

Also drawing a lot of attention will be Al Geiberger, who is making his first start of the season. Geiberger, a former Greensboro champion and the only man ever to shoot 59 in a regular tour event, has been out of action all year in the aftermath of major surgery.

Maxwell named new course pro

Bobby D. Maxwell returns to Big Spring in the position of Golf Professional at Comanche Trail Golf Course effective June 1.

Maxwell, most recently out of Abilene as an assistant, will take over duties as Golf Course Superintendent April 1, as current pro Bobby Howell will continue as course professional until May 31, at which time he will submit his resignation.

Maxwell graduated from Big Spring High School in 1947, and he grew up working on various golf courses. Through high school, he helped his father in the management of Comanche Trail Golf Course here.

After a two-year stint with the army, Maxwell went on the PGA tour in 1966-67, but decided to pursue the career of course professional. His brother, Billy, had some success on the tour about that time, winning more than a half dozen titles.

Bobby Maxwell then spent time in New York, Dallas, San Angelo, Abilene and Fort Worth as Country Club pro. His latest full-time assignment was the Head Golf Professional's job at Squaw Creek Golf Club in Ft. Worth from 1970-76.

Maxwell also attended SMU and NTSU on golf scholarships before entering the Army. He is a native of Abilene, is married and has one son. Maxwell holds the course record at both the Muny Golf Course and Country Club. He's fired a 60 both places.

Oilers link with TSN

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers announced a multiyear agreement with the Texas State Network Tuesday that will expand the National Football League team's radio network from seven to as many as 70 stations.

Houston camp to San Angelo

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Houston Oilers Coach Bum Phillips says he is nearly certain the Oilers will move their summer training headquarters to San Angelo.

Phillips said Tuesday in San Angelo that Oilers personnel still have paperwork to finish with Angelo State University officials, "but we're 99 percent sure."

The Oilers have conducted their preseason football drills at Nacogdoches the past two summers. In previous years, they were at Huntsville and Kerrville. Phillips said the Oilers wanted to find a summer camp with lower humidity than in East Texas.

Japs to make Olympic togs

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Scorekeepers, timers and other personnel at the 1980 Winter Olympics in upstate New York may be wearing uniforms made in Japan.

Asics of Osaka, Japan, has tentatively agreed to provide 3,000 staff uniforms free in return for use of the Olympics trademark and the publicity that goes along with being an official Olympics supplier.

The tentative agreement between the Lake Placid Olympic Organizing Committee and Asics has touched off a small furor among some American uniform manufacturers who contend American firms should be given first priority.

However, Olympic organizers say American companies were given first priority and none showed any interest.

Shortstop experiment halted

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — Houston Astros Manager Bill Virdon has called a halt to the Great Shortstop Experiment—and the announcement brought a sigh of relief from third baseman Enos Cabell.

Virdon announced Tuesday that Cabell, the Astros' regular third baseman last year, would not play shortstop for the Astros this season, although the shortstop position remains up for grabs.

Virdon said Art Howe will start the season at second base and the shortstop battle will be waged among incumbent Roger Metzger, Julio Gonzalez and newcomer Jimmy Sexton.

In other moves Tuesday, the Astros announced that former Detroit pitcher Vern Ruhl, put on unconditional waivers Monday by the Tigers, worked out with the Astros Class AAA Charleston team Tuesday.

Ruhl, 27, who had a 25-29 record in four seasons at Detroit, was expected to sign with the Charleston team when waivers expire Sunday.

The Astros also obtained outfielder-infielder Dave Augustine from the Pittsburgh Pirates in exchange for outfielder Jim Fuller.

Blakely will stay at North Texas

DENTON, Texas (AP)—Bill Blakely has decided to stay at North Texas State and keep fighting to bring big-time basketball to the independent school which is bidding for a membership to the Southwest Conference.

Blakely turned down an attractive head basketball coaching offer Tuesday at Wyoming to replace Don DeVoe, now the head coach at Tennessee.

"The real hang-up I have is Dallas...I love the area," said Blakely.

"I have to admit that it was very flattering to be given consideration at Wyoming," said Blakely. "I've always had a love affair with this university and I know that I'll remain happy coaching here."

Wyoming offered Blakely a $41,500 yearly salary on a three-year contract, a car, and a big recruiting budget. Blakely was making $32,000 a year at North Texas but he was expected to get a raise.

Blakely's team club was 22-6 this year and he has a 65-16 overall record at North Texas state.

"The past few days have been hectic, but I'm very happy with my decision to remain at North Texas," said Blakely. "I have an outstanding staff in Jim Moffitt and Jimmy Gales. We have been extremely pleased with the progress of recruiting and it will get our undivided attention. With seven seniors on this team, we can certainly offer to recruits the opportunity for immediate playing time."

Blakely has faced problems of recognition for the Mean Green despite 20-victory seasons the last three years. Each year they have been ignored by the NCAA and National Invitational Tournament officials.

Also, NTSU has trouble with its scheduling. Few Southwest Conference schools will schedule NTSU, although Baylor and Houston handily defeated the Mean Green this last year.

"We can have a great basketball program some year at North Texas but we have to get everyone pulling together," said Blakely.

Hayden Fry, NTSU athletic director, said "Bill is a super guy and a super coach. He has the same problem we face in our football program. We've just got to quit complaining and get so good nobody can ignore us. It's a challenge and I know Bill loves a challenge."

'OUCH! OUCH!' — Big Spring catcher Tony Mann and Permian leftfielder Tony Northcutt collide at home plate after Steer pitcher Tony Jacobo scooped up a bunt and relayed it to the local catcher in time to pick off the scoring attempt. The Steers dropped a 3-2 decision to Mojo Tuesday at Steer Park.

Warriors surprise dull Spurs

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Golden State Coach Al Attles ought to patent his "George Gervin Foul Philosophy." His Warriors worked it to perfection Tuesday night against the National Basketball Association's leading scorer.

Gervin was hit with three fouls early in the first period and sat out all but 23 minutes of the Warriors' 106-94 rout of the Central Division-leading Spurs.

He finished with a mere eight points, 19 below his average.

"We were trying to do some things to get him (Gervin) early fouls," said Attles. "We asked Sonny (Parker) to constantly overplay and deny him the ball."

"We were trying to isolate Gervin," added Attles. "I was the happiest guy in the building when he left."

Meanwhile, Parker led the Warriors with 20 points, nine above his average. Rick Barry and Robert Parish each added 18.

Golden State held a 59-51 halftime advantage before breaking the game open in the third period.

The ice-cold Spurs, who shot a paltry 37 percent for the game, scored only 17 points in that period. The Warriors, meanwhile, hit 26 points and built leads that reached 21 points.

They led by as many as 28 points in the final quarter.

"As soon as you take for granted you've got a playoff spot wrapped up, this happens," said San Antonio Coach Doug Moe, whose team has qualified for a playoff berth.

Pete is a car without brakes

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Pete Maravich says he's finished for the rest of the National Basketball Association season, sidelined by an injured knee that leaves him "like a car without brakes."

But New Orleans Jazz General Manager Lewis Schaffel and Vice President Barry Mendelson were hoping their star guard might see action in one or two of the team's remaining regular-season games.

"It's always a day-to-day proposition," said Schaffel. "He will not play in tonight's game against Los Angeles, and there's a possibility he will not play the rest of the season," said Mendelson. "I would say there's a strong possibility he won't play the rest of the season."

In NBA statistics released Monday, San Antonio's George Gervin passed Maravich for the league scoring lead the "Pistol" held for almost two full seasons. However, Maravich was 48 points shy of making the 1,400-point threshold for consideration for the league title.

The all-star guard injured his knee while throwing a trick pass in a Jan. 31 game against Buffalo. He returned to action March 21 and played in three games before his knee swelled up again.

Ridin' fence Easy to understand

with Marj Carpenter

Every now and then a news story will really bother me, and one did last week. It was the story about Pam Tedford, daughter of Billie Sol Estes, who was warned by a trial judge in Tyler as she muttered at Don Trull and his attorney as she left the stand.

According to the story, State District Judge Glenn Phillips told Estes' daughter he hopes "she enjoys her stay in Smith County jail, but that if she persisted in such comments, she would enjoy her stay in the Smith County Jail."

My mind immediately flew back over the years. Pam was 14 when her father was arrested, which would make her 30 now. And today happens to be the 16th anniversary of that original arrest.

Pam was the oldest of the five Estes children and she had basked in the glory of her father as he appeared to be one of the most successful businessmen around. Politicians of great import visiting in their home were nothing and parties were many.

They were considered important everywhere they went. Her father, whatever else he did, was interested in his children and on one occasion had the entire junior high band come to his home for a Christmas dinner when Pam was a member of that band. When the second daughter, Jan, was on a girls' softball team, he sponsored the team and fixed them a practice field in his side yard.

I know this because my daughter was catcher and as freshman favorite, 1963 his daughter was pitcher on that same team. They were the only team around with a sodded practice field and a water fountain.

Those children worshipped their father. When the story broke, I worried about it. I worked a lot on that story with reporters from many newspapers and magazines and looked up reams of information for them as the weeks progressed.

I would find out who Estes sent cantaloupes to, or who Estes bought Stetson hats for, or nearly anything they asked. But I balked when they began to ask questions about what kind of grades the children made at school and items of that nature. I really felt sorry for those kids.

information on the kids to make them like me, because they hated me and everybody associated with the investigation on their father. This was a natural reaction and it never bothered me.

One time when I was covering Estes' trial in El Paso and I went through the old Cortez Hotel to lunch, Pam glared noticeably in my direction. I commented on it to Finus Motherhead, the Associated Press reporter covering the trials.

"They just can't help it," I said. "They have to blame somebody and they can't blame their dad. I just hate it that Billie Sol has brought those five children to the trial and sat them on the front row. There's no way to keep them out of it any longer."

There they sat — Pam, Jan, Dawn, Billie Sol Jr. and Joy — and as I recall they were then 15, 13, 12, 10 and 6. They sat and listened to the evidence that sent their father to the penitentiary.

They had earlier sat through a trial in Tyler. That trial started out in Pecos where they only found one juror in a panel of 150 that wasn't prejudiced. They moved the trial to Tyler.

Here it is March again. And here Billie Sol is subpoenaed as a witness in an aggravated kidnapping trial. And back in Tyler, of all places — in the same courtroom.

Somehow, I can understand Pam muttering. I can understand Pam cursing. She has grown up in an atmosphere of constant publicity and trials and concern.

My own children have been affected by the Estes story — although not so directly. They've done a little muttering about it themselves.

Somehow it wouldn't have surprised me if Pam had flown completely apart. And it's just kind of on my mind today. March 29, 1962, is a date that changed my life — but not to the extent it changed Pam's — out where, I used to ride fence.

School nursing due discussion

The monthly meeting of the Licensed Vocational Nurses Association will be held Monday night at 7:30 p.m. It was announced this week by Cyneather Woodruff, LVNA president.

Mrs. Harry Jordan, Title I school nurse, will speak to the group on the duties and problems of school nursing.

Blast rocks Arkansas town

LEWISVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Most of the 2,500 residents of Lewisville were evacuated early Wednesday morning after an explosion rocked this southwest Arkansas town.

Authorities said the explosion occurred about 12:10 a.m. when a Cottonbelt Railroad train derailed. Authorities said the car which exploded, and as many as four other cars, were loaded with highly flammable liquid vinyl chloride.

By 5 a.m. only law enforcement officers, firefighters and a skeleton crew at the Lafayette County Hospital remained in Lewisville.

"It's like a ghost town here now," said Lafayette County Hospital Administrator Frank Schweitzer. Arkansas State Police Capt. Milton "Scrubs" Mosier said officials were concerned because the burning railroad car was near facilities of the J. & P. Petroleum Co. where tanks of liquid petroleum were stored. He said fire officials could do little but hope that the flames would not reach the tanks.

"They tell us not to put any water on it (the vinyl chloride)," he said. "We're just waiting for daylight, now."

The Lafayette County Hospital's 28 patients, including two newborn infants and three seriously ill patients, were transferred by ambulance to Magnolia Hospital, about 25 miles away, apparently without incident. Most of the other citizens of Lewisville went to stay with relatives and friends out of town, or were moved to Stamps High School to wait until the danger was over.

There were no known fatalities. Three crewmen aboard the train were admitted to Lafayette County Hospital for treatment, but were later transferred to Magnolia with the other patients. Schweitzer identified the crewmen as Clarence Halford, 61, Jerry McAfee, 47, and Michael D. Pate, 32, all of Pine Bluff. The crewmen were reported in good condition, a hospital spokesman said.

Ambulance units from Hope, Magnolia, Texarkana and Prescott transported the Lafayette County Hospital patients to Magnolia.

Magnolia Hospital Administrator W.D. Hedden said there were no difficulties with the transfer, and the move was completed about 2:30 a.m.

Schweitzer said the patients would not be transferred back to Lewisville "until we get an all-clear." Authorities said several windows in Lewisville were blown out by the force of the explosion, including the window of a downtown antique store 10 blocks away.

One motorist traveling along Interstate 30 at the time of the explosion said the flash could be seen 25 miles away.

The train was traveling from Shreveport, La., to Pine Bluff.

Lewisville is located about 25 miles east of the Texas border, and about 25 miles north of the Louisiana border.

Howard Hughes estate Hill says California has 'very weak claim'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorneys for Texas and California were to appear before the Supreme Court today to present arguments concerning both states' aim to collect inheritance taxes from the Howard Hughes estate.

The high court agreed last month to hear arguments before deciding whether it should help resolve the dispute involving millions of dollars in potential inheritance taxes for either state.

The arguments will pit Texas Attorney General John Hill against Jerome B. Falk Jr., a San Francisco attorney representing California.

Hill said Tuesday that California has a "very weak claim as far as being the domicile state of Mr. Hughes."

Last month, a Houston jury found that the recluse millionaire was a legal resident of Texas when he died.

Hughes died April 5, 1976, while being rushed in a chartered jet from Palm Beach, Mexico, to Houston. He is buried in a Houston cemetery.

Estimates of Hughes' fortune range from more than $2 billion to $166.8 million. The lower sum came from an appraisal for the brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith.

Court documents indicate the estate's administrators have estimated the taxable value at $51.7 million to the Internal Revenue Service.

Documents filed by California officials seeking Supreme Court intervention note that the controversy is clouded by what the lawyers called "the unusual, indeed, bizarre, way in which Hughes lived. As far as is presently known, home for Hughes during the last 10 years of his life was a series of barren hotel rooms which fulfilled only the most primitive function of home...shelter against the rain."

Hill claims, however, that Hughes' home was Texas and that he filed California state income tax returns as a non-resident.

Primer on Manpower

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A primer on Manpower — a word associated with indictments and political accusations — seems overdue. So here goes.

When a reporter writes of "Manpower," he or she usually means job programs funded by the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA).

CETA is supposed to reduce unemployment and poverty by numerous means, including job training, public works jobs and even programs for alcoholic workers.

It often provides cash directly to job trainees. On the job training, with the federal government paying half the wage, is part of CETA. So are job counseling and "linkages" with union apprenticeship programs.

Congress allots CETA money each year to the states. A state's allotment grows if its unemployment or poverty levels increase significantly.

Similarly, the U. S. Department of Labor allocates CETA money within a state partly according to percentages of unemployed and poverty-level people and partly on the basis of the previous year's grant.

Texas' current CETA allotment is $325 million — half of it for public works projects and public service jobs. Comprehensive Manpower services, which have generated most of the headlines, account for $80 million.

Simple enough so far.

But confusion and jargon take charge when you talk about how CETA money is spread around Texas.

First come the prime sponsors — Manpower people call them primes.

Primes may be cities or counties with 100,000 or more people. They may also be coalitions, such as the Coastal Bend Manpower Consortium that includes Corpus Christi and 12 county governments.

Primes get their money directly from the U. S. Department of Labor.

The 135 counties without local prime sponsors are called the "balance of state" — BOS in Manpower jargon.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe is the sponsor of the BOS, and his office approves each CETA grant in those predominantly rural counties. BOS spending totals about $55 million this year.

Briscoe relies heavily on evaluations of grant proposals by the Texas Department of Community Affairs in parceling out BOS money.

TDCA also administers the BOS grants and flows the money to local Manpower contractors.

Manpower people complained when Briscoe creamed off 20 percent of all BOS funds for the Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs. One reason was a federal requirement that BOS money be divided according to a county's share of Texas' poor and unemployed.

One TDCA employee said drily, "There aren't many migrants in Grayson County" — certainly less than 20 percent of those eligible for CETA assistance.

The other major category of CETA spending is "state services," accounting for four percent or $3.4 million of Texas' total for comprehensive manpower services.

Briscoe also controls "state services" grants, with advice not only from TDCA

Fired chief may entervote race

CLEVELAND (AP) — Richard Hongisto, fired as Cleveland's police chief by Mayor Dennis Kucinich, says he has not ruled out the possibility of running for mayor himself in the event of a recall effort.

Hongisto said he has been approached about entering the race by several people trying to collect the 37,000 signatures needed to force a mayoral election.

Kucinich fired Hongisto, formerly sheriff of San Francisco County, last Friday on grounds he failed to substantiate his allegation that the administration tried to pressure him into making unethical decisions.

Current state services contractors include one whose records have been seized by the FBI — the United Labor Legislative Committee's Worker Assistance Program — and a Harlingen job-training program whose leaders are under theft indictments.

Newspaper ad man succumbs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Roger Williams, national advertising manager of the Philadelphia Inquirer and the Daily News, was killed when struck by a van being pursued by police.

Williams, 47, died Saturday while walking on a downtown sidewalk near his home, police said.

Department of Memorial Affairs is established

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Max Cleland has announced the establishment of a Department of Memorial Affairs within the Veterans Administration.

The new department consists of the National Cemetery System and the service of furnishing of government headstones and grave markers for the graves of veterans.

Carl T. Noll, who has been director of the National Cemetery System since its foundation, will head the new Department of Memorial Affairs while continuing as head of the National Cemetery System.

The new Department of Memorial Affairs will have jurisdiction over the nation's 103 national cemeteries as well as the planning and development of new cemeteries.

Its other major function will be that of procuring and supplying headstones for all graves in the national cemeteries as well as for the graves of veterans buried in private cemeteries where such requests are made.

VA first acquired primary responsibility for the maintenance of national cemeteries in 1973 when Congress authorized the transfer of 82 from the Department of the Army. The VA had previously operated 21 cemeteries.

Subsequently, VA has undertaken the first major expansion of the National Cemetery System since 1950. New cemeteries are being opened at Riverside, Calif., Bourne, Mass., and Calverton, N.Y., and others are in the planning stages at Quantico, Va., and at Indiantown Gap, Pa.

The Agency is currently exploring sites for two new cemeteries, one to be located in the southeastern United States and the other in the Great Lakes region of the country.

The new cemeteries are planned to provide for the needs of veterans well into the next century, Cleland said.

Social Security poll nets surprise

NEW YORK (AP) — Most Americans support this year's Social Security tax hikes even though members of Congress say the public is clamoring for a rollback of the tax increases, Associated Press-NBC News polls show.

A growing number of congressmen, pushing for a cut in the Social Security tax increases they passed last year, say the country's election-year voters are demanding relief from the hikes, which were designed to rescue the Social Security system from bankruptcy.

By a 56-38 percent margin, Americans said in March they support this year's increase — a finding identical to an AP-NBC News poll taken in February.

That backing is not based on ignorance. Fifty-four percent of the 1,604 adults interviewed this month said they had noticed the increased Social Security tax payments, withheld as FICA (the Federal Insurance Contributions Act) from the pay checks of many wage earners.

Forty-one percent of those polled said they had not noticed the rise, and 5 percent weren't sure whether more was being withheld from their checks.

Even those who had noticed the bigger bite favored the Social Security tax hike, by a 51-45 percent margin.

The March poll indicated that only about 6 percent of Americans have contacted their representatives in Congress about the hike.

Because the proportion of people who said they had voiced their views was so

Refunds could be held up

Taxpayers should make sure their address and social security number on their return are correct and legible to prevent delay of tax refunds, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Taxpayers who have moved since filing their tax return should inform both the U.S. Postal Service and the IRS Service Center where they filed their return of the new address. Otherwise, any refund due might not reach its destination.

To ensure accurate addresses and social security numbers, the taxpayer should use the peel-off label attached to his or her tax package. The taxpayer can make any name, address, or social security number corrections right on the label.
