

Demo caucus seeking SS tax slash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Democratic Caucus today endorsed a cut in Social Security taxes and voted to use income taxes and other general revenues to help finance Social Security.

The vote by members of the party that has nearly a 2-to-1 majority in the House was 150 to 57.

The non-binding resolution adopted by the Democratic caucus does not endorse any particular amount of general treasury funds to be used for Social Security, which now is financed by payroll taxes equally levied on employers and employees.

The resolution neither specified how much Social Security taxes should be cut nor whether the taxes should be cut more or less than the tax increases voted by Congress last year when the lawmakers adopted a plan to bolster the sagging finances of the system with tax hikes of $227 billion over 10 years, beginning in 1979.

The caucus resolution favors "use of general revenue funds...with appropriate reductions in Social Security payroll taxes" and asks the Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee to prepare legislation for this purpose as soon as possible.

The House Budget Committee Tuesday voted to make room in the tentative budget for a $7.5 billion reduction in Social Security taxes during the year beginning Oct. 1.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, told the caucus today it would be "not only a mistake, but a disastrous mistake" to simply divert general treasury funds to the Social Security system.

But, as the debate made it evident the resolution would carry, Ullman indicated he might not oppose taking some elements of the present system, probably Medicare hospitalization and disability insurance, out of general Social Security and financing these from general treasury revenues.

The committee is scheduled to consider Social Security legislation in the next few weeks.

Pressing for the resolution, Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., argued that the burden of increased Social Security taxes would make U.S. industry even less competitive in international markets. He said the averaged tax on a steel worker, matched by his employer, is $1,500 a year more than in competing countries. He said the difference in the case of automobile workers ranges around $1,100.

"The whole issue in this country today is jobs, jobs, jobs," Burke said. Congress has been under heavy pressure to take some of the sting out of payroll tax increases it approved last December.

However, opponents of the resolution argued that the pressure is coming almost entirely from persons in higher earnings brackets since the steepest increases on employees would be brought about by raising the wage base on which a Social Security tax is levied.

The Budget Committee on Tuesday followed the recommendation of Chairman Robert N. Giaino, D-Conn., to approve a Social Security tax reduction as part of an over-all $20 billion tax cut.

Giaino's plan falls some $5 billion short of the $25 billion income tax cut proposed by President Carter in his budget message.

While the committee avoided specifics on the Social Security cut in its tentative budget, Giaino suggested that $5 billion of the $7.5 billion reduction be replaced by dipping into general treasury receipts. The remaining $2.5 billion would have to be provided by other legislation, Giaino said.

Alternatives to the Giaino plan for financing the Social Security system also are expected to go before the Democratic caucus and raise fundamental questions about the current 50-50 split between employers and employees.

One proposal calls for a three-way division among employers, employees and the Treasury. That plan would cost the government more than $30 billion if it were put into effect all at once, but proponents argue for phasing it in.

NEIGHBOR MOURNS — Paul Long, 15, cries after failing to rescue the victims of an early morning trailer fire at the Mobile Trailer Village near Jackson, Mich. early today. Five people, including four children, were killed in the

32 congressmen receive extra check each month

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Glenn, Bob Dole and Barry Goldwater have something in common besides the title "U.S. Senator." All three get a second check from the government each month in addition to their congressional salary.

For Glenn, the second check totals $848 in military pension based on 23 years in the Marine Corps that included America's first manned orbital space flight.

Dole's $704 a month check is also a military pension, but it is based on the permanent disabilities he suffered while fighting in Italy during World War II.

Goldwater's military pension check of $864 a month is based on his service as a major general in the Air Force. But his spokesman, Tony Smith, says the Arizona Republican gives his check to charity.

These three are among the 32 members of Congress who get monthly military pension checks or Veterans Administration payments in addition to their $1,100-a-week salaries. The second checks range from $41 a month to $1,109 a month.

Eighteen of the 32 are like Dole, partially disabled as a result of injuries connected with military service. The second checks for the others are based strictly on military service.

The second checks are quite legal.

"When people ask if it is right that I get it, I say, 'Under present circumstances, clearly yes,'" says Rep. James Lloyd. "But is it morally right? No. We need to make a change in the system."

Lloyd, a California Democrat, draws $618 a month in military pension for his 21 years in the Navy.

Lloyd and Glenn, an Ohio Democrat, are the only two members of Congress that are retired regular armed forces officers. All the others held reserve commissions. The difference is that the pensions for Glenn and Lloyd are reduced several thousand dollars a year because of a law designed to discourage retired officers from going into civilian federal jobs.

"His feeling is that his pension represents deferred income for his 23 years in the Marine Corps," said Steve Avakian, Glenn's press secretary.

Military pensions are based on rank and pay. Veterans Administration compensation is based on the degree of service-connected disability.

Dole, the Kansas Republican who was Gerald Ford's running mate in 1976, gets $704 a month, or $8,458 a year. He was critically wounded by a shell fragment in Italy. His right hand and arm are still crippled and he has no feeling in his left hand.

Thursday deadline to register

By WALT FINLEY

Thursday will be an important day for candidates in the May 6 primary elections and for would-be voters, Howard County officials stressed Wednesday.

First, 5 p.m. Thursday will be the deadline for persons to register with her office if they are to be eligible to vote on May 6. Mrs. Dorothy Moore, chief deputy, Howard County Tax Assessor-Collector, said. That's 30 days before election, as set by state law.

Thursday also will be the deadline for candidates in the first primary to file their first sworn statements of contributions and expenditures with County Clerk Margaret Ray.

THE PERIOD COVERED by the reports should be from the date when a campaign treasurer was designated through March 27, or 40 days before the first primary, she said.

The second statement, covering the period of March 28 through April 26, will be due in her office by April 29, she said.

In between those two dates is another important date — April 17, or 20 days preceding the election, absentee balloting will begin in Mrs. Ray's courthouse office. Absentee ballots also will be mailed on that date to persons who have made proper application.

Absentee balloting in person will end on May 2, but ballots returned by mail will be counted if they arrive prior to the closing of the polls, 7 p.m. on election day.

SOME NERVOUS congressmen have recently cut down on their wardrobes, Cong. Bob Krueger reportedly confided to former Big Spring councilman Jack Watkins as they rode from the Howard County Airport to a reception at the Flame Room in Pioneer Natural Gas Tuesday afternoon.

WANTS TO PLEAD GUILTY — David Berkowitz, the pudgy former postal clerk charged as the Son of Sam killer, has decided to plead guilty to the murders without standing trial, said the New York Post and Newspaper, a Long Island-based newspaper. "They've gotten rid of their Korean ties," Krueger cracked.

The 44-year-old New Braunfels congressman, now a candidate for the U.S. Senate, said the Tongson Park affair is uncomfortable for many Americans. "We don't like to hear it said we have the best Congress that South Korean money can buy," he explained.

KRUEGER CRITICIZED Democrat opponent Joe Christie's charge that a particular vote by Krueger was a conflict of interest because it benefitted Union Carbide, a corporation in which Krueger owns stock.

He bought the stock a year after he cast the vote, Krueger told Watkins.

Four more newspaper endorsements have been received by U.S. Senate candidate Christie. He said they include The El Paso Times and the Tullia Herald.

There will be an extremely important 30th District Democratic meeting in Paducah, Saturday, April 15, at Cal's Restaurant, starting at 2 p.m.

For industrial park improvements

EDA grant to city OKed

Cong. Omar Burleson announced this morning the approval of a $2,861,000 grant by the Economic Development Administration to Big Spring.

City Manager Harry Nagel provided a breakdown of how the funds will be used:

- Construction of a railroad extension spur to the park; $750,000.
- Improvements to the Big Spring Sewage Treatment Plant; $1,312,500.
- Installing and upgrading of various utility extensions at the park; $243,000.
- Construction of security fencing at the park; $175,000.

Helicopter crash victims identified

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Authorities identified late this morning the bodies of three men killed when a helicopter crashed into the Gulf of Mexico about 60 miles southeast of this island city early today.

The victims were John S. Hinds, 54, of Metairie, La., the captain of the Glomar Java Sea; Dwayne Rivers, 27, of Pasadena, Texas; and Michael McKinley, 28, of Houston.

Coast Guard authorities said the pilot and co-pilot of the helicopter, along with another passenger, were rescued.

The helicopter hit the water and flipped while trying to land on a drilling vessel.

p.m., Calvin Gambill, Seymour, 30th District Committeeman said today.

The agenda will include: (1) the Texas affirmative action and voter participation play will be discussed; (2) how to become a Texas delegate to the Democratic State Convention and the Democratic National Party Conference of 1978 will be rehearsed; (3) highlights of the District 30 meeting held in Stamford, Feb. 11 will be reviewed; (4) highlights of the State Democratic Executive Committee meeting staged in Waco, March 13.

Number of District 30 state convention delegates to the state convention in September from each county follows:

- Archer, 4; Baylor, 3; Briscoe, 2; Callahan, 4; Childress, 4; Clay, 6; Cottle, 3; Dickens, 3; Fisher, 4; Floyd, 4; Foard, 2.
- Hale, 9; Hall, 4; Hardeman, 4; Haskell, 6; Howard, 16; Jones, 10; Kent, 1; King, 1; Knox, 3; Mitchell, 5; Motley, 1; Nolan, 7; Scurry, 7; Scackelford, 2; Stonewall, 2; Throckmorton, 2; Wichita, 45; Wilbarger, 9. Total, 173.

—Improvements to the existing railroad spur in the park; $93,750.

—Improvements to streets inside the park; $121,500.

—Construction of a new entrance to the park; $22,500.

—Installation of utility meters at a variety of buildings in the park; $127,500.

—Remodeling of the Airport Terminal Building; $15,000.

"This is not necessarily the final package. It's still negotiable except for the sewage plant improvements, which are required by the state," said Nagel.

Cong. Burleson expressed gratification at the results of efforts which he and local officials performed to gain the funds.

Ambassadors to help host airport opening April 16

The Ambassadors set plans to help host the official airport opening on Sunday, April 16, assist with a chamber reception on April 24 and made other plans for future activities when they met at noon Tuesday at the Brass Nail.

The club will assist with Redcoat duties at the Municipal Airport opening at the former Webb AFB field at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 16.

They also plan to assist as hosts at the annual Chamber of Commerce reception at the chamber office on April 24 from 3-6 p.m.

The group elected one member to fill a vacancy and named Charles Wash to the new position in the club.

Rules are rules but . . .

OCOE, Fla. (AP) — Charles and Glenda Keoppen say that after living together for two years, they shouldn't be penalized for getting married. But city officials say rules are rules.

The city commission refused Tuesday to make an exception to an anti-nepotism policy that bars two members of the same family from working for the city.

Keoppen, 40, has been a firefighter for four years, and Mrs. Keoppen has been a police dispatcher for six years.

The couple was married Saturday. "You are saying that it was all right for us to live together unmarried, but now that we are married it's not right," said Keoppen. "I don't think that's fair. We have six children (by previous marriage) and it takes two paychecks to support our house."

The couple contended that several city officials knew the pair was living together for two years and took no action.

But the commissioners said the nepotism rule, adopted six years ago, should not be tinkered with.

City Manager John Vignetti later said Mrs. Keoppen had submitted her resignation effective in two weeks.

El Paso Sheriff wins suit

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A judge from outside El Paso County must preside over a suit aimed at removing El Paso County Sheriff Michael Sullivan Jr., the Texas Supreme Court ruled today.

The court directed El Paso County District Judge Edwin Berliner to request assignment of a non-resident judge to hear the case.

Sullivan was indicted Feb. 23 by an El Paso County grand jury on charges of official misconduct. A removal suit against the sheriff was filed a day later and a hearing set on possible temporary suspension of Sullivan.

The sheriff asked Berliner to get an outside judge for the hearing and cited a Texas statute that requires a judge who is not a resident of the county to preside over suits filed to remove local officials.

Berliner denied Sullivan's motion. The sheriff then asked the Supreme Court to order a non-resident judge.

"The sole issue before us is whether Art. 200a (6) requires a district judge in whose case a removal suit is filed to request the assignment of a non-resident judge to rule on the initial question of temporary suspension as well as to dispose of the suit for removal. We hold it does," the court said.

John Wayne recovering

BOSTON (AP) — John Wayne's recovery from openheart surgery is routine — except for a presidential phone call and televised get-well wishes from Bob Hope.

Martin Bander, spokesman for Massachusetts General Hospital, said Tuesday that President Carter had telephoned Michael Wayne, the 70-year-old actor's son, to say he was praying for him.

Bander also quoted the president as saying: "John Wayne is a great national asset. If there's anything I can do for him, please let me know. He surprises all of us with his ability to recover. Tell him he is in my thoughts and prayers."

During the Academy Awards Monday night, Wayne was paid tribute by master of ceremonies Bob Hope.

"We want you to know, Duke, we miss you tonight," Hope said. "We expect to see you amble out here in person next year 'cause no one else can walk in John Wayne's boots."

Wayne was operated on Monday for a faulty heart valve, and Bander said the hospital switchboard was swamped with calls from well-wishers from around the world.

Although he remains in intensive care, Wayne could be out of the hospital in about two weeks and could be working again by midsummer, doctors said.

Burning grass poses problems

Grass fires have been occurring almost daily in the county. There was one Sunday in the area behind the Ramada Inn.

There was another Monday near the Martin County line north of IS 20.

There are quite often fires along the railroad right of way. The Silver Heels Fire Department has fought a grass fire almost daily during the past week.

Fires in the county have to be fought by volunteers and they all also hold down full-time jobs.

People are urged to use extreme caution in tossing out matches or cigarettes, since the entire area is extremely dry, fire officials emphasize. Wobbler Willbanks, of the Silver Heels fire department, asks for cooperation of the public.

Mr. Burgess was born June 30, 1917 in Rock Mills, Ala., and married Louise Beverly May 24, 1949 in Georgia. They came to Big Spring in 1959 and lived here until 1964. He was stationed at Webb Air Force Base during that time.

He retired from the Air Force in 1968 after 21 years and moved back to Big Spring in 1968, coming from Ocean Springs, Miss. He was a member of the local Oddfellows Lodge.

Mr. Burgess had worked as a clerk at the Big Spring Post Office for the past eight years, and was employed there at the time of his death. He was a member of Westside Baptist Church,

Ridin' fence

It's Dave Duncan's annual birthday. His party is traditionally held at the Settles Coffee Shop where he goes each morning to the coffee club.

Now, the coffee club is a group of old-timers who get together each morning and drink coffee and discuss the weather, the government, the status of the town and old memories.

The only birthday that the group celebrates is that of Dave Duncan. This is in deference to him being the oldest member of the club.

A cake is prepared and this year's cake featured an old derrick for the Old Wildcatter.

"Is this your birthday again, Dave?" this reporter asked. "Harumph," Dave cleared his throat. "How old are you this year?" I questioned. "Humpphhhh," says Dave who figures everybody ought to remember how old he is.

"Eighty-six? Is that right?" was the next question. To that we got a nod of the head. Dave's "not exactly" the talkative type unless you get him off on one of two subjects.

He can tell you about the old oil days right after World War I in Old Hogtown, DelLeon, Ranger, and all the way from Desdemona to Stephenville.

He finally wandered in over around Scurry County and settled in Howard County and has probably taken part in the drilling of over 1,000 oil wells.

The other subject that he can really get hot up about is government and government interference in the oil business. He has some very colorful things to say on that subject.

Dave acts tough, but when it comes to his family or the Methodist Church, he's a softy. And he can "harumph" all he wants to about that.

He looked around his birthday table and grinned a little bit to one side at his friends. Those of us who were never acquaintances — like during the past decade — he just kind of squinted his eyes and looked at us like he was sizing us up.

We have to thank John Hursback for getting Dave out to West Texas. He came out to drill a wildcat well on the McKinsey Ranch in the Girvin Field near Fort Stockton. Two lawyers from Illinois named Hursback came into town. John was part administrator for Burroughs Adding Machines. He thought a lot of Dave and he got him to come out to West Texas. Their first well they drilled in Howard County was southeast of Coahoma. They moved the big spudder out there in August 1934 and have been around here ever since.

We're glad, Dave. And we're glad to help celebrate your 86th — out where I ride fence.

He expressed disappointment that apparently there is going to be no labeling of imported foreign meat, insisting that imported meat should be inspected and also labeled all the way to the table of the consumer.

Krueger also talked about the need to step up research into alternative energy sources to meet the long-term energy needs of the United States. "Finding more new domestic supplies of natural gas," he said, "is the most economically and environmentally sound short-term solution, and because of that prices of natural gas should be deregulated over a period of years to meet the costs of new production."

'Inflation robbing people'

By MARJ CARPENTER

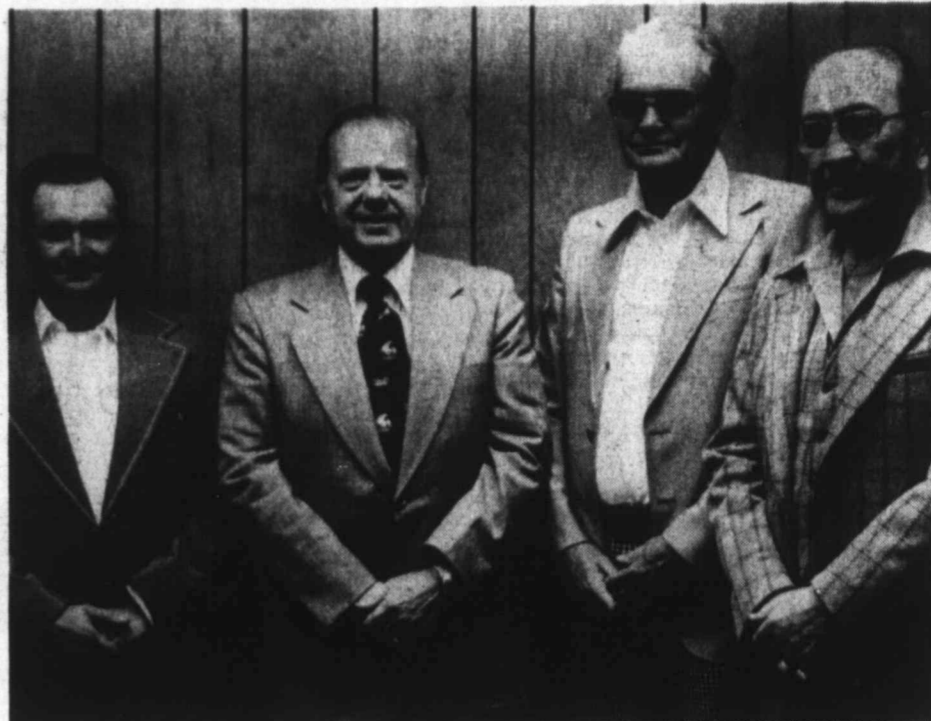

U.S. Senate candidate Bob Krueger said Tuesday in a campaign swing across West Texas that a realistic across-the-board tax cut coupled with a ceiling on government spending would be a major step towards solving the United States' current economic and inflationary problems.

The candidate said that in his campaign back and forth across Texas, he had found more people concerned with inflation and the dwindling value of the dollar than any other issue.

"Inflation is robbing the mature of their savings and the young of their futures," Krueger said. "Government operations are eating up an ever-growing share of citizens' earnings. This must be controlled."

The 21st District representative said he intends to introduce an amendment to the first federal budget resolution when it comes before the House this spring which would limit increases in the budget for fiscal year 1979 to the rate of inflation.

Such a limit, combined with an across-the-board tax cut would channel economic growth into the private rather than the public sector,

He also said he thought it was not likely that anyone would seriously consider a massive Health Care bill in this session or even next year since it would mean over $100 billion annual cost and the budget was already $60 billion in the red.

Krueger indicated that he thought Congress would have to study other means of helping people with health care to keep them from being wiped out. He mentioned physician extenders and encouraging more out-patient care instead of so much expensive hospital care. He said the way it is presently set up, hospitalization almost encourages hospital care, where out-patient care would be sufficient.

The candidate for the Senate said, in connection with Big Spring's problem that he would do everything possible to attempt to help them get something good into the "wonderful facilities at Webb." He mentioned both the former Webb hospital and the Big Spring industrial complex and said "I would never lock myself into a bloody ditch promise, but would certainly do everything possible to help."

Krueger said there is

GOOD FOR SOMETHING — Dalmar painted a picture of her husband's three old hats and recently won a top art prize with the painting. The local artist, whose works are displayed in the Chamber of Commerce during April, said, "I knew those hats would finally be good for something."

As Artist of Month

Martha Conway honored

By MARJ CARPENTER
Martha K. Conway, going by the artist's name of Dalmar, is the artist of the month being honored by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce during the month of April.

Dalmar began painting about 1956 and painted until 1961. One day she got discouraged and quit and did not touch a brush again until 1972.

When she retired from her other work in 1976 because of arthritis and disc trouble, she had more painting time, but was limited in energy. "I now paint when I am able," she stated recently.

She said that painting is "marvelous therapy for aches and pains. I heartily recommend it."

Her instructors have been many. In portraits, she studied with Addie Mae Miller, Rene Mazza, and Paul Milosovich; and in landscapes from David Slade and J. D. Keel Jr.

She studied seminars in palette knife from Arnold Leondar and general training from Mary Raley and Virginia Whitten. She worked in pastels with Terry Patterson and Vicky Clark and in acrylics with Diana Fleming and James Campbell with watercolor instruction from Warren Cullar and Dan Brown. "I learned something important from each one," she relates.

She is active in the Big Spring Art Association, Texas Fine Arts Association, Big Country Art Association, Gaines County Art Association and the International Society of Artists.

Her awards include Best in Show in the Big Spring show, silver medal in Dawson County, second in Boston Cabot Show, outstanding award in Howard County Fair, purchase awards, numerous ribbons in Big Spring, Midland, Sweetwater, Seminole, Abilene, Post, Brownfield and Odessa.

She also has circuit awards from Big Country show and the Texas Fine Arts Association. She has been honored by fellow artists twice with the Tipping of the Brush award.

Since placing first in Odessa last month, she has had three paintings accepted in the Midwest Area Show, a juried show sponsored by the San Angelo Art Association. Just last Sunday, she won two thirds and two honorable mentions in Brownfield.

Dalmar teaches only on rare occasions. She enjoys working in all media and has received ribbons in each category. She is particularly drawn toward portrait work. However, she grew up in Beaumont and also has a weakness for seascapes. "However," she states, "I find West Texas very paintable, particularly old wooden windmills, tumbled down outhouses and barns and the sky and sunset effects."

Dalmar stated, "I feel very strongly that a painting should awake a response from the viewer — either like or dislike — just so it is not indifference."

Dalmar's four children are grown and scattered to the four winds with families of their own. Her husband has recently retired. Dalmar says, "He is my best critic and perfectly willing to slam on the brakes to take a picture of an unusual scene." And Dalmar is an unusually good local painter. Drop by the chamber this month to see her selection.

Weather

Gusty winds roar across West Texas

By the Associated Press
Severe thunderstorms accompanied by gusty winds roared across West Texas during the night and forecasters warned of more thunderstorm activity today and tonight.

The National Weather Service said some of the thunderstorm activity in Northwest Texas may become severe.

Elsewhere, forecasts called for considerable cloudiness and continued warm temperatures. Highs today were expected to range from the middle to upper 70s in the Panhandle and along the coast to the middle 90s in far South Texas.

Although most of the thunderstorm activity stopped during the late evening hours, some isolated thunderstorm activity continued between midnight and dawn in the Lower Pecos River Valley.

Lozano inquest slated Tuesday

ODESSA — An inquest into the Jan. 22 death of Larry Lozano in the Ector County jail has been scheduled for 10 a.m., Tuesday. Presiding over the inquest will be Peace Justice Virgil Lumpsee.

Lozano was found dead in jail 12 days after his arrest on charges of assaulting a peace officer.

Elton Faught, Ector County sheriff, said Lozano apparently went berserk and committed suicide by ramming his head against the window in a padded cell. The one-inch glass was broken. The inquest originally was scheduled Feb. 14 but was postponed.

The jury hearing the inquest will consist of six persons. A total of 35 persons have been subpoenaed to testify during the inquest.

Faught previously termed Lozano as a mentally ill person who belonged in a mental hospital.

Two former inmates of the Ector County jail said in taped interviews that on two occasions they saw deputy sheriffs harass Lozano.

We must act to slow deforestation

We don't need anything else about which to stew, but the World Bank provides another nagging worry.

That august organization warns that if a trend in the developing world continues unchecked, there could be no forests left in less than 100 years.

In our great lunge toward industrialization, we're cleaning out our forests at an alarming rate.

A bank report places the present forested area in developing countries at some 2.5 billion acres. That's roughly half of what it was when the 20th Century began.

THE BANK, putting primary blame on population pressures, hopes to reverse the trend and insure the fact that there will always be a good green earth. It is allocating a half-billion dollars over the next five years to projects designed to halt deforestation and renew the woodlands.

Actually, what is occurring is an acceleration of a process that has been under way for untold centuries. Through much of man's civilized history, progress toward ever greater levels of culture has been accompanied by a denuding of his original natural environment.

Time was, when China was heavily forested but the population increased there rapidly. With the boost in people came industrial expansion and a need for wood. Today, trees in China are noted for their scarcity. Much of Western Europe, especially Italy, has gone through like changes.

CHANGES IN climate have also affected the growth of trees but human activities — overuse without heed to replacement or wanton wasting — have been principal factors in the degrading of Planet Earth. It's not too late to reverse the process. Once much of the original farming population had moved on to the more spacious and productive Middle West, large tracts of the Northeastern United States were returned to forest.

It's no accident that much of Germany is covered with beautiful woodlands. Much planning has gone into keeping it that way. The Teutonic forests are much like they were centuries ago.

It may take divine help to 'make' a tree but man certainly can do a lot to help or hinder its survival.

Still on books

Around the rim

Eileen McGuire

Where are my forty acres and a mule? According to the Texas Constitution, I'm entitled to them.

That law, though no longer applicable, is still on the books. So is a Texas law forbidding anyone who scalps an Indian from serving as governor. Remember that when you go to the polls.

At this point, I was going to list some silly laws from various state constitutions, but I ran into a "Reproduction in any manner..." prohibition on my source.

Dumping that idea, I now call on my cat to provide me with a rim. Cats, dogs and fish are always good in a pinch.

I MOVED last week and Barney didn't approve. Barney is a huge white cat with gray markings and sometimes mistaken for a small tiger when he streaks by.

Barney decided to hang out in the old neighborhood one more night, he told his comrades Shamie, Clancy, Bear and Dylan (Shamie is also a cat, the other three are mutts). The truth is, Barney is a coward and he didn't fool any of us with his story of spending one last night with that loose feline down the street.

Getting Barney into my car the next morning was easy. Getting him out was a different story. Like I said, Barney is huge. My car is very small. Nevertheless, he found a way to squeeze himself over the hump, under the seat, between the passenger and driver's side.

Barney is also a pig so I should have realized when I couldn't tempt him out with food, that he was stuck. Since he was no longer speaking to me, how could I know that he couldn't get his rear over the hump?

"Here, pretty kitty," I cooed, displaying a tasty morsel of Tender Vittles. I mistook the helpless look in his eyes for insubordination so after a half an hour of pleading, I changed my motherly coaxing into "Get out of that car, you damn cat!" No response.

BY THIS TIME, we had gained the attention of his peers — Shamie, Clancy, Bear and Dylan — who were all lined up at the fence snickering at the cowardly cat. I pleaded with them to help me in my time of need and they complied, not out of cooperation but because they all know what I'm like when I'm late for work.

Shamie told Barney she'd spotted this chick down the street she'd fix him up with and Clancy relayed his discovery of a hole in the backyard right next to the garbage can. No dice.

Next I got into the car and revved up the motor, confident he'd jump out of the open door. He didn't and now

I had my new neighbors' attention also.

Already 45 minutes late for work, I decided that this was the day Barney was going to get used to my car. Not only would he accompany me to work and on my interview, but I was going to take the bumpiest roads I could find.

After learning of my dilemma, Danny Reagan, the "cat man," gave it a shot. "Here, pretty kitty," he cooed, displaying a tasty morsel of Tender Vittles.

For a minute there, I thought Barney might fall for it, but then Danny made the mistake of commenting on Barney's half-black, half-white nose, which Barney has always been very defensive about.

"Hey, what's wrong with that cat's nose?" said Reagan. "You should talk," Barney replied. "You can take that Tender Vitte and shove it up your nose, buddy."

A first. Reagan's charm failed. Not wanting to admit defeat, Reagan said, "He's too freaked out" and went back to work.

"Maybe he's stuck" said Tommy Hart. We all chuckled at that when Tommy went into his office, not realizing that Tommy had some real insight into this kitty business.

By the time lunch hour rolled around, it was 90 degrees out and Barney was speaking to me again. "Get met out of here, you..." he spat.

AFTER ESTIMATING what a dead cat under the driver's seat would do to the resale value of my car, I realized that there was nothing to do but torture Barney further. I yanked him out.

Getting Barney into the Herald and into a box in order to avoid another no-I-won't-go, under-the-seat ordeal, called for yet another battle. This time, he not only cussed, he got violent.

The battle-scars on my arms and back are taking longer to heal than it took Barney to get used to the new house. By the time my lunch hour ended that day, he had discovered my new hiding place for the Tender Chunks, ate a couple of days' worth of food, and was contentedly munching out on my favorite shoes.

It took him a couple of days to live down his reputation as a coward among his peers, but with a few good swipes at them all, he's gotten everyone back in line. His only complaints now are that the foxy feline down the street turned out to be "fixed" and in this new neighborhood, everyone uses millimeter-thick trash bags.

Deregulation

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Those (like me) who believe in deregulating gas and oil are confronted with an argument that is more nearly sophisticated than sophistical, and therefore worth serious examination. It is this: To permit domestic owners of gas and oil to sell it at world prices is to permit them, so to speak, to participate in the wages of sin. That (the critics conclude) has very little to do with any presumptive respect for the free market.

Here is what they are talking about. The price of oil ($13.50) is being set not by free competitive exchanges between willing sellers and willing buyers, but rather by a cartel which controls a preponderance of the world's supply and, under the leadership of Saudi Arabia, came together as the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries at the end of 1973 and quadrupled the price of oil.

MEANWHILE, IN 1971 the United States had set a ceiling on the price of domestic crude having much earlier (1954) set a ceiling on the price of natural gas. The paradoxical effect of these ceilings has been to buttress the synthetically high price being charged by the OPEC states. And indeed our imports of this exorbitantly-priced oil doubled since 1973, from 23 per cent of the fuel consumed domestically to 47 per cent. This validation of the synthetically reduced price resulted in part from a synthetically subsidized demand. If you continue to sell oil in the United States at eight dollars instead of 13, the consumer does not experience that privation which causes him to economize. Accordingly, the demand for oil is commensurately subsidized.

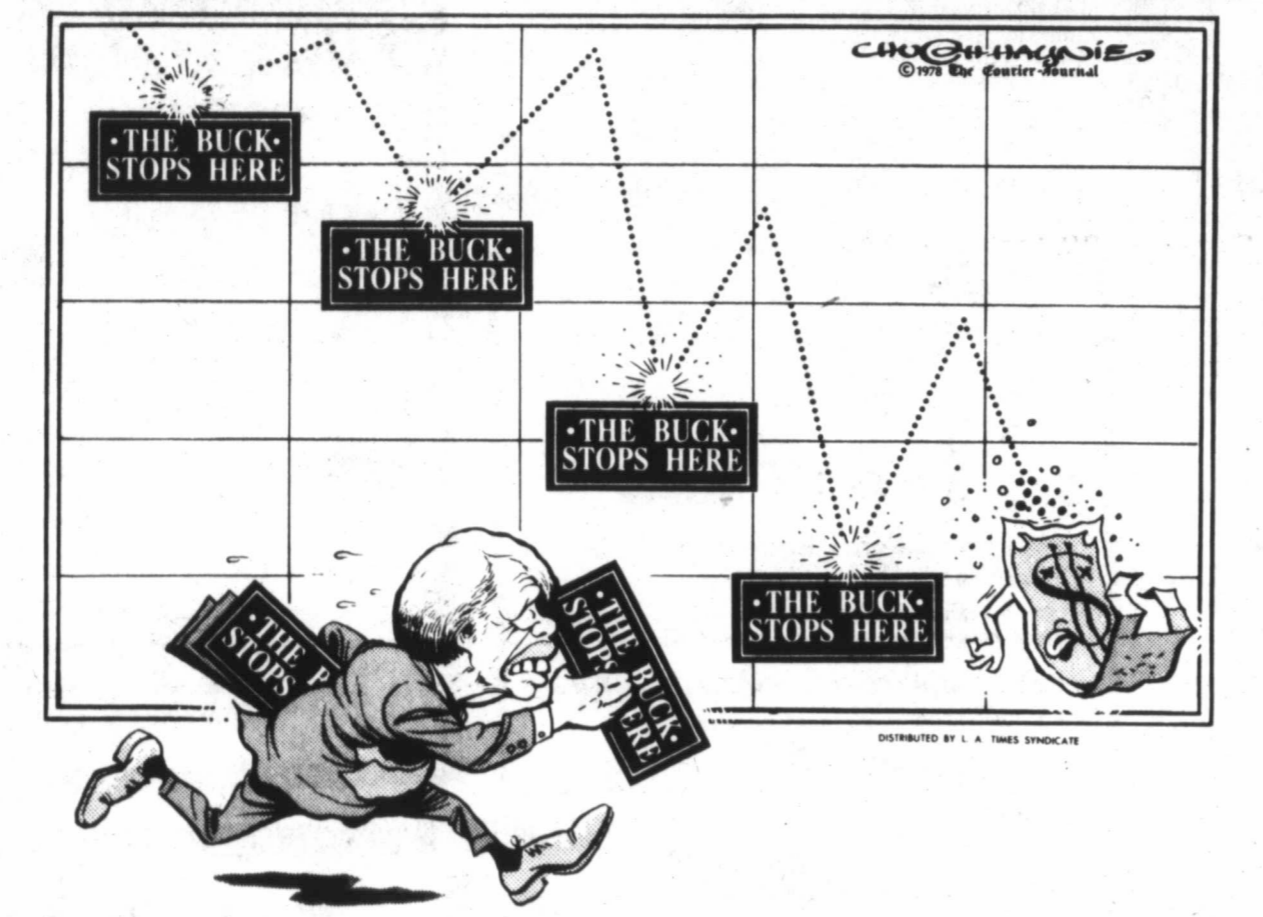

Here, by the way, is how two economists, writing in "The Public Interest," have worked it out. For every four per cent rise in the price of oil, demand diminishes by one per cent. For every five per cent increase in the price of oil, supply increases by one per cent. Inasmuch as, under present laws, we are maintaining domestic oil at 30 per cent less than the world price, we are consuming three million barrels per day more than we would otherwise consume, and we are producing slightly less than two million barrels per day less than we would otherwise produce. Add these figures, and you come up with an increased import of about five million barrels per day. At $13.50, incidentally, this adds up to approximately the size of our balance of payments deficit for last year.

But back on the question of permitting U.S. producers to free-load on the back of the monopolists, or more properly the oligopolists. Question: Is this "right," in the sense of is this fair, just? Question: What should be done about it?

Concerning the first, the so-called windfall profits are simply less important than a correct adjustment of policy. Windfall profits occur every day as a matter of course; the public policy question should concern itself not with the profiteer, but with making right the larger situation.

In this case, what we need is to increase supplies by encouraging exploration and production — that is our economic responsibility. Our political responsibility is to fight the cartel. The struggle against those who have banded together in restraint of trade for the purpose of imposing a synthetically high price upon us. Bear in mind that if the OPEC leaders were American citizens, under existing laws they would be sent to jail. As it is, our President attends their banquets and toasts their health.

HOW TO FIGHT the cartel? The best means is by differential, discriminatory tariff. Divide the OPEC powers into three rough categories. Category A would cover those countries the extractive price of whose oil is especially inexpensive, say a dollar and a half or less — Saudi Arabia is the prime example. At the other end — category C — are those nations whose extractive price is especially high.

Beware 'Dr. Feelgood' dieting

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Recently I went to a doctor who specializes in weight reduction. Upon my visit I was greeted immediately by a nurse who proceeded to give me a vitamin B-1 shot, explaining that there were certain steps in the breakdown of fat and at the later stages vitamin B-1 would help in dissolving the fat and help avoid the plateau that many dieters suffer from.

I was then led to a room with several other dieting ladies and lectured about the potential dangers in carrying excess weight around. Then I was handed a 650-calorie diet plan and told to eat bran buds or another similar unrefined bran cereal in addition to the diet. A doctor examined my heartbeat, my throat, and my skin.

I was then handed a prescription for Synthroid and was told to take three a day, one at each meal. I was then told to return each week for a vitamin B-1 shot.

The whole thing confused me, since I got no instructions or information as to what my ideal weight should be according to my build, etc. I have no history of thyroid imbalance and none in my family. No blood tests were taken.

I realize the thyroid is a very touchy little control center and, if upset, can affect the heartbeat. I would appreciate your opinion about this program for weight reduction. I don't want to start this diet unless I have the opinion of another doctor. I am 20, and about 20 pounds overweight. — C. B.

I don't think much of the program, at least from your description. It is seemingly made up chiefly of nonsense, with a bit of potential danger added in. No, you don't want to fool with thyroid medicine strictly for weight reduction, certainly not in your case. Drop this, and look for some sensible diet to shed your 20 pounds. On any 650-calorie diet you would need a full range of vitamin supplements to assure good health. The B-1 shots are standard calling card for the Dr. Feelgoods around.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A friend says that at menopause a woman has a "change-of-life" or "menopause" baby. I told her this is nonsense. She swears it's true. Your answer, please. — Mrs. H. D.

A few definitions are in order. What is "at menopause"? What is "change of life"? and what is meant by "menopause baby"?

Menopause means the ending of menstruation. It occurs usually after age 45-50 and is a gradual affair, with skipped periods or periods of lessened flow. In this setting there may be sporadic ovulation, and thus pregnancy might occur. That might be what your friend means by "sudden burst of fertility."

A woman well into natural menopause will not become pregnant. By that I mean a woman who has had total absence of menstruation for a year or more.

What is called a "menopause baby" (a loose term at best) is one born at some point in the gradual process mentioned above. The odds for this occurring gradually decline past age 40. The best rule is that the woman is potentially fertile until she has had a year of no menstrual periods — if she has reached the age when menopause is expected. Otherwise, she should seek other answers as to why periods have stopped.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Last month I missed my period. I thought I was pregnant. The only symptom was nausea. Then last week my period started again. It was three weeks late. The flow was heavier and I had unbearable cramps and a headache that lasted three days. My periods usually last six or seven days.

Should I have a D&C? Someone said I may have had a miscarriage. Is that possible? — Mrs. N.B.

It's quite possible you had a miscarriage. A D&C (dilation and curettage) may be needed. Much depends on what your doctor finds. If you had unusual discharge and have spotting, a D&C is definitely in order for you.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My brother has joined one of the smaller religious cults, and now he says I will be lost eternally if I do not join it too. I have trusted in Christ for my salvation, but I am beginning to wonder if my brother is right. — Mrs. N.S.C.

DEAR MRS. C.: Your question suggests two things to me: you may not be as secure in your faith as you ought to be, and your brother probably is very convinced of his new-found ideas. It is one of the signs of non-Christian cults that they often claim to have truth which no other group has, and their members often hold to these ideas very strongly. They may have no intellectual reasons to do so, but they have committed themselves and have an emotional attachment to their particular ideas.

The first thing you should do is strengthen your own faith in Christ. We are told in the Bible to "be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you" (I Peter 3:15). Remember that your faith is based on

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Does the friction of food passing through the intestines produce any of the body's heat? — S. K.

No. You are winner of the "most unusual question of the month" award. No prizes.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: May I use Eufedex on an infected acne sac that fills and empties often? I am awaiting your trusted answer before experimenting with it. — W.H.E.

To my knowledge this medication (the drug flourocil in a vanishing cream base) has no place in treatment of an infected acne sac. Sounds to me that you have an infected sebaceous cyst. Surgical removal of the entire cyst, as opposed to simple lancing, may be in order, or the application of antibiotics.

Acne is a terrible problem for anyone growing up. If you are afflicted with it, or have children who are, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Controlling Acne, Blackheads and Pimples." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

You can lose weight if you really want to! Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to him in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Lost treasures

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — We may have solved the mystery of the lost treasures of the East, which were pillaged by the Japanese conquerors when they overran Asia during World War II.

In an earlier column, we cited evidence that the Japanese hid the loot on ships, buried trucks, underground vaults and dozens of other secret sites in the Philippines.

American war prisoners reportedly were forced to help bury the booty and then were killed to safeguard the secret. At one site they allegedly were buried alive. Their bones were found by eyewitnesses who told us they located the site from secret Japanese maps.

More than 100 maps of the hiding places reportedly were drawn by Japanese generals who looted the occupied countries and brought the stolen treasure to the Philippines. The maps allegedly list an inventory of gold, silver, platinum, jewelry, and other prizes worth an estimated $100 billion.

The story of how President Ferdinand Marcos, the Filipino strongman, got hold of the maps and schemed to retrieve the treasure reads like a paperback thriller. We have pieced the story together from eyewitness accounts, sworn statements, confidential documents and tape recordings now in the possession of the State Department.

MARCOS ALLEGEDLY formed a secret combine, known by the code name "Leber," to recover the fabulous booty. Participants in the venture have told us that the dictator has no intention of returning the priceless treasures to the countries that own them. He allegedly has made arrangements to melt down the gold and change its chemical nature, so he can sell it on the world market.

He has sworn the other conspirators to secrecy, threatening to kill anyone who makes this story public. He also has given his colleagues code names, witnesses say. For example, Marcos was supposed to be referred to as "Charlie" in all telephone and written communications. His top aide, Gen. Fabian Ver, was given the pseudonym "Jimmy." All overseas cables dealing with the project were sent in one of two codes.

allegedly had come too close to a sunken treasure in Manila Bay.

We have examined almost 1,000 pages of documents, listened to over 30 hours of tapes and interviewed witnesses both in the United States and the Philippines. One of the documents, marked "Personal, Confidential, Proprietary Information," sketches the secret operation.

"There are exactly 34 locations of major importance and 138 locations of lesser importance," the communication explains. "The Leber group has retrieval plans for all 172 locations, but wish to only work on the 34 locations, knowing that if they retrieve several of the 34 sites they will have done an excellent job."

The document makes it clear that Marcos dominates the Leber combine. He has 10 secret partners, two of whom are the Japanese with the original maps. "At the zero appropriate time," states the document, "they grabbed the master plans of treasure burials from Yamashita's Headquarters and held them until this day. Even the President has never seen one such original engineering drawing..."

THE DOCUMENT concludes: "Please discard this letter... If it falls into the wrong hands, all of the carefully guarded secrets will be washed, and none of us can afford this to happen. By discarding, it is meant that it would be burned or shredded, please."

We threw a scare into the Leber combine on July 3, 1975, when we reported on the defection of a Marcos aide named Primitivo Mijares. We noted in passing that Marcos allegedly controlled "a claim on some buried World War II Japanese treasure in the Sierra Madre."

Former participants in the venture recall they were digging at a Sierra Madre site on the very day the column was published. Marcos "nearly had a fit," one participant told our reporter Eileen Canzian. Marcos ordered all work on the project stopped until he could determine "just how much Anderson knows."

At the time, we had no documentation but only the word of sources close to Marcos. A few weeks passed without any further mention by us of the Sierra Madre treasure, so Marcos allowed the digging to resume. Sources who participated in the excavation say the Japanese maps were accurate down to the last detail. Our witnesses were withdrawn from the project, however, just before the buried booty was about to be uncovered.

Jury acquits Trull of kidnapping raps

TYLER, Texas (AP) — It took weary jurors more than 18 hours and one stern admonishment from State District Judge Glenn Phillips to acquit businessman Don Trull of aggravated kidnapping charges stemming from an Aug. 9, 1977 incident.

The jurors returned the innocent verdict Tuesday night after two days of numbing deliberations. Trull, who claimed he held a man hostage to recover $1.5 million he lost in deals involving paroled swindler Billie Sol Estes, took the news dreyed and without emotion.

"I was just thinking about winning, that we were going to win," Trull said later. Asked if he expected the verdict, he said, "Yes sir, I sure did."

"The jury heard all the evidence available and determined it did not convict beyond a reasonable doubt," said Smith County District Attorney A.D. Clark III. "By golly, I have no quarrel with the jury's verdict."

"You might say that we had great confidence in the jury," said defense attorney G. Brockett Irwin. "We felt, regardless of the verdict, that they had given the case full, fair and impartial consideration." Jury foreman Hilmar Kuhlman declined to talk to newsmen about the verdict.

"We don't have any comments. We're just tired and we want to go home," he said.

Phillips had sternly admonished the deadlocked jurors earlier in the evening to press for a verdict.

"Some jury, sometime, will have to try this case," Phillips told the jurors. "You are that jury and it seems to me that you should make every effort to reach a unanimous verdict."

Trull, 40, was charged with dousing the Tyler office of millionaire Billy Pyron with gasoline, taking Bill May, a Pyron employee, hostage and threatening to ignite the office during a four-hour standoff with police.

Trull claimed during and after the standoff that Pyron and Estes hoodwinked him out of $1.5 million in a series of complicated business transactions.

The jury has sent out more than a dozen notes, requesting evidence and testimony from the week-long trial that was highlighted by a courtroom appearance by Estes and numerous allegations of perjury and shady business deals.

The panelists spent three hours in the courtroom Tuesday morning, listening to tapes of May's testimony about the incident. Irwin later said that was a pivotal point in the deliberations.

The jurors began deliberations about 1:30 p.m. Monday and continued until midnight, taking only a dinner break. Phillips ordered the jurors sequestered at midnight Monday. Deliberations began again at 9 a.m. Tuesday. Phillips did not allow the jury last week to hear testimony by Pyron and Estes about alleged business transactions with Trull, ruling that it was not relevant to the kidnapping charge.

Many of the sessions out of the jury's earshot were heated. At one point, attorneys for both sides accused the other's witnesses of lying under oath.

Documents Trull took from the Abilene office he shared with Estes in 1976 have sparked state and federal investigations into Estes' alleged recent business activities in violation of his strict parole.

Estes was paroled in 1971 after serving six years of a 15-year federal prison sentence for his multi-million dollar swindle.

During Monday's closing arguments, Irwin delivered a revival-like plea to the jury, brandishing a Bible in one hand, his other on Trull's shoulder.

Irwin said Trull was just "running a bluff" at Pyron during the incident at the office in an attempt to recover his losses.

Clark said, however, that Irwin's defense was "throwing a skunk in the jury box... to put anybody on trial except the defendant."

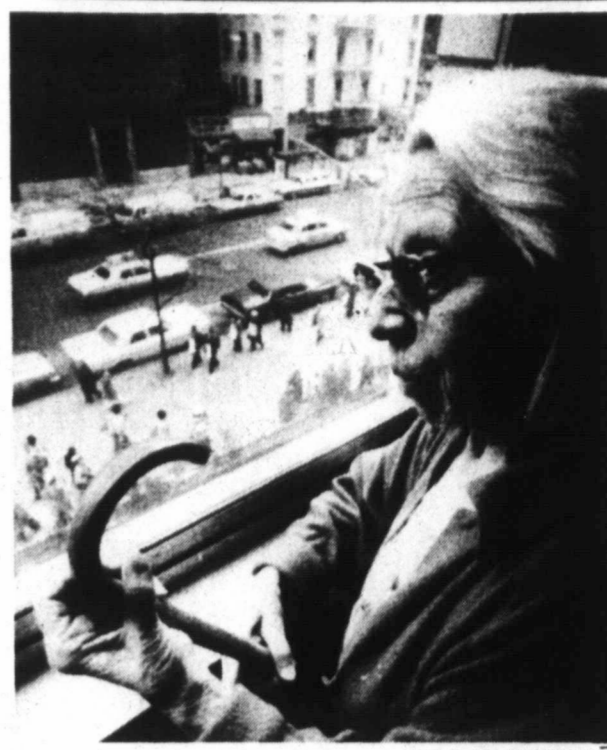

"If red herrings and rabbit trails work with you," Clark continued, "Irwin has accomplished his purpose. He's fooled you. He's clouded your minds with everything except what happened on Aug. 9. But that's what the trial is all about."

Rodents destroy crops in Asia

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Each year Asian countries lose 33 million tons of food to rodents, according to a recent issue of CCF World News, published here by the Christian Children's Fund.

Twenty per cent of Asian harvests are eaten up or are ruined each year by rodents while crops are still standing. Both India and the Philippines have begun control programs to stop the damage, and organizations such as CCF have initiated nutrition programs, the publication reports.

College has Dante in 29 languages

SOUTH HADLEY, Mass. (AP) — Most students read Dante's "Divine Comedy" in English or Italian, but Mount Holyoke College can supply the classic in 29 translations. Gaelic, Chinese, Turkish, Dutch as well as the international Esperanto language are represented in some 200 illustrated editions and translations collected by Valentine Giamatti, retired Mount Holyoke professor of Italian.

The Divine Comedy collection, believed to be the most complete in the United States, includes a 1481 edition illustrated by Botticelli, an illustrated and autographed six-volume edition by surrealist Salvador Dali and a 1920s, ornate, tooled leather version that covers nearly the entire top of a card table. Giamatti donated the valuable collection to Mount Holyoke in 1974. His son, A. Bartlett Giamatti, president-elect of Yale University, serves as honorary curator.

Cancer mystery

RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Cancer has struck hard in this suburb of New York City and residents are scared.

"There are a lot of irrational, hysterical people in town," said Daniel Van Winkle, the father of one of 16 people who contracted leukemia, Hodgkins disease or lymphoma in the past three years. Three have died.

Van Winkle, whose son, Wesley, died in January 1977, believes the cancer issue has been blown out of proportion. The 16 cases here were coincidental, he believes.

But local residents interviewed as they shopped in the business district in this community of about 20,000 said they were frightened of the implications of the cancer cluster.

"It's very unbelievable," Annerose Coyle said of the cancer cases. "The first thing my husband said to me was, 'Are we going to move?'"

As curious children watched Tuesday, Stephen Papenberg of the local health board tested for carcinogenic chemicals in front of the Pierrepont Elementary School. Six of the cancer victims attended school there, and two died.

Anna Amorelli, principal of the Pierrepont School, challenged attempts to link the cancer cases with the school. "I don't think there is a cause in this building," she said.

The chemicals benzene and styrene, the objects of the tests, are used in industries in surrounding communities and both have been shown to cause cancer, Papenberg said.

Initial air samples failed to reveal the presence of either chemical.

Pinkie's Annual "Spring Wine Festival"

If you could ask one person to select wines for you, Don Errol McCown would be a good choice. Don Errol is the head wine buyer for Pinkie's and a nationally recognized authority on fine wines. He's the man chiefly responsible for the excellent selection of wines at Pinkie's. Months ago, he began contacting wine importers and wineries in this country, and the winemakers of Europe. He had just one objective: to gather up the best to be found.

COTTON CREATION — Paula Kay Allen models the dress she made for the recent Natural Fiber Fashion Revue at Lubbock. Her dress, made with Simplicity pattern No. 7467 and a fabric of 100 per cent cotton, won her second place in the junior high division for which she received a $30 gift certificate from Dunlap's.

Coahoma girl wins prize for sewing

Paul Kay Allen, Coahoma, placed second in the junior high division of the Natural Fiber Fashion Revue held March 30 at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

The 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Allen, Paula is a member of the Coahoma 4-H Club and an eighth-grader at Coahoma Junior High School.

Her winning entry was a dress made and modeled by her, using Simplicity Pattern No. 7467 and a 100 per cent cotton fabric. According to regulations, each garment entered had to be of at least 50 per cent cotton.

The fashion revue was part of the South Plains Farm Show sponsored by the Southwest, Hardware and Implement Association. The purpose of the revue was to promote natural fibers such as cotton, wool and mohair.

It was planned and conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Department of Clothing and Textiles of Texas Tech University and the Textile Research Center at Texas Tech.

Paula's entry was one of 42 in the junior high division and one of 101 in all divisions which included junior high, senior high and adult. First, second and third place winners were announced in each division.

Entries were judged on construction, compatibility of fiber and design, quality of work, creativity, overall appearance, accessories, becomingness, fit, poise and representation of current fashion trends.

A five-year member of 4-H, Paula learned how to sew through the organization and now makes many of her own clothes.

During her first and second years in 4-H, she was named Grand Champion in sewing and recently won first place in the junior high division of the local 4-H Food Show which qualified her to compete in the district food show where she was named second runner-up in her division.

Her prize for her achievement in the Natural Fibers Fashion Revue was a $30 gift certificate from Dunlap's.

Refreshments were served from a table centered with a decorated cake featuring the numbers 90. Hand-fashioned miniature dried arrangements were plate favors.

Craft talk included a display of handsome wooden plaques, pictures, ceramics and canvas tote bag painted with tote designs using acrylic, oil and ink by Mrs. Jeff Grant.

Ceramic work was shown by Mrs. M. F. Hodnett, and glazed flower craft was shown by Mrs. Alton Underwood, who also distributed a personal safety sheet to each member from the Crime Prevention Unit of the Big Spring Police Department.

Anniversary celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Acri were honored Sunday afternoon on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary with a reception in the Blue Room at Dora Roberts Community Center.

Calling hours were 2 to 5 p.m. and hosts of the affair were the couple's children, Mr. and Mrs. David Hanson, Frank Acri, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Tito Arencibia, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hayworth and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Eudy.

A special guest was the Rev. R. Gage Loyd, who married the couple on April 2, 1953 in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rutherford.

The serving table held a tiered cake, the decorations of which carried out the spring color theme of yellow and green. The table was centered with an arrangement of silk flowers of yellow and green, and punch was served from a large bowl. Other table decorations carried out the silver tradition.

The honorees were presented a yellow orchid corsage and boutonniere.

Club surprises birthday girl

Mrs. Nat (Holly) Shick, 90 years young Apr. 1, was honored by the City Home Demonstration Club with a surprise birthday party in the home of Mrs. Waymon Etchison, hostess, at 2 p.m. March 31.

Gifts were presented to Mrs. Shick from 15 members and one guest, Mrs. F. H. Talbert. Lillian Dawson, daughter of Mrs. Shick, was present to assist her mother.

Refreshments were served from a table centered with a decorated cake featuring the numbers 90. Hand-fashioned miniature dried arrangements were plate favors.

Craft talk included a display of handsome wooden plaques, pictures, ceramics and canvas tote bag painted with tote designs using acrylic, oil and ink by Mrs. Jeff Grant.

Dear Abby

Husband's Got 'Bigmouthitis'

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell a husband to SHUT UP? After 40 years of marriage, I have heard everything he has to say at least 15,000 times. I know all his war stories by heart, also his "raised-on-a-farm" routine, and his cures for all the ills of the world. I have had it up to here with his loud, long-winded monologues on politics, religion, business—you name it, he's an authority on the subject.

He demands absolute silence when he's watching a ball game on television, but he thinks nothing of turning the set off in the middle of something I'm watching if he wants to say something.

We have lost most of our friends because of his know-it-all attitude. Who wants to be around someone who talks all the time and never listens? I've listened to him for 40 years and I'm sick of it.

I've read your column for years. So has my husband. He loves your humor. Maybe with humor you can offer a solution to my problem. Thanks for trying. And please don't send any letters to the house. My husband doesn't believe in privacy—except for himself.

HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: It will take more than "humor" to solve a problem that's been building for 40 years. Obviously, to improve an ailing marriage both parties must be willing to try. Professional counseling might help. If your husband refuses to cooperate, you can either split, or "bear the ills you have, rather than fly to others that you know not of."

DEAR ABBY: Just a note to protest your approval of giving gifts in someone else's name: If someone were to give Reverend Moon (remember the "Moonies"?) so much as a toothpick in my name, I'd likely go over and blow up his house.

I imagine you have a pile of letters on your desk concerning this subject, so if any of them agree with me (and most should), I'd appreciate it if you would publish them.

DEAR A.P.E. Some readers agree with you, but you're the only one who threatened to blow up the house of anyone who gave an unauthorized gift in your name.

DEAR ABBY: A comment to BITING MY TONGUE, the wife of the man who tells co-workers that he owns his own home, when in fact he is only renting it.

Ownership of property is a matter of public record. All one needs to know is the address of the property and it can be looked up in the county assessor's book. Other pertinent information, such as when the property was purchased, how much was paid for it, the owner's mailing address, and how much it is taxed is also available.

If the man who falsely claims to own his own home has a job that calls for in-depth investigation of his character and assets, he is in deep trouble. For obvious reasons, lying about such a matter implies a lack of integrity.

So please tell his wife to stop biting her tongue so she can open her mouth and tell her husband what he's toying with.

REAL ESTATE SECRETARY

DEAR SECRETARY: Thanks for the helpful information.

Juried shows add prestige to several local artists

Big Spring artists have represented this area quite well in juried art shows recently.

A juried show is one in which only a limited number of paintings are selected from all the entries. Those rejected during the pre-judging must be picked up by the artist before the show is hung. It is an honor to be accepted for a juried show and this acceptance adds to the prestige of the artist.

In the Abilene Fine Arts Museum Show, which was judged by Michael Frary of Austin, James Campbell took second place ($300) and a donor's purchase prize with his acrylic, "The Glass Float," His acrylic, "The Cellar," and watercolor, "The White Boat," were also accepted.

All W.W. I veterans and their wives, widows and daughters are invited to attend.

The oil painting, "Puddin'," by Elsie K. Merrell was accepted, as was the mixed media "Frog Woman's Bowl" by Alice Ann Webb. These paintings were hung in the Abilene Museum of Fine Arts during March.

The San Angelo Art Association is currently sponsoring a juried show, "Midwest Area Art Show," The Judge was Esme Glenn, Abilene.

Four Big Spring artists entered paintings by an oil wipe-out, "The Goose"; Corma Stovall had an acrylic, "Cliff Dwelling" accepted.

Ms. Merrell entered two; an oil, "The Cock Fight" and an acrylic, "The Sky One" were accepted. Dalmar (M.K. Conway) had acceptance of a pastel, "Roostin' Topknot," an acrylic, "Psychedelic Peacock," and an opaque watercolor, "Beach at Night."

These paintings, along with others in the show, will be hanging in the Kendall Gallery, San Angelo, until Apr. 26. The artists invite anyone visiting San Angelo to stop by and see them.

JIM SHARP (L), CONG. RICHARD NOLAN

Member of Ag committee backs Sharp in race

U.S. Congressional candidate Jim Sharp, Big Spring, appearing on an Abilene television program sponsored by area Farm Bureau organizations Monday, read a letter of endorsement from U.S. Congressman Richard Nolan (D-Minn.). Nolan, a member of the House Committee on Agriculture, was the first Member of Congress to introduce legislation in the House calling for 100 per cent of farm parity Feb. 22, 1978. In part, Nolan's letter read, "I am absolutely convinced this country needs, now more than ever before, to have former doorkeepers elected to Congress. Tell the voting public that you have viewed the inner workings of the House of Representatives firsthand and more closely than any other staff person on the Hill" and "this, more than anything, has prepared you to serve in the U.S. House of Representatives." Sharp was appointed Assistant-Doorkeeper by U.S. Congressman Omar Burlison and served on the floor of the House for the past two-and-one-half years. Later Monday, speaking before area Farm Bureau leadership at an Abilene cafeteria, Sharp stated, "Richard Nolan is the prime sponsor of H.R. 11096, the so-called '100 per cent of parity' bill. While I sincerely appreciate Cong. Nolan's support, I cannot allow working relationships to intercede in my bid to represent all constituents in the 17th District." Continuing, Sharp said, "I can not, in good conscience, tell the voters of this District I will support legislation calling for 100 per cent of parity. I can say I favor 100 per cent of value for the American farmer at the international market place."

Workshop set for Saturday

An area workshop, hosted by the Big Spring Educational Secretaries Association and sponsored by the Texas Educational Secretaries Association, will be held Saturday at Big Spring High School. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. and the first General Session at 9:30 a.m.

Rogers, Harold D. Bentley, Roy E. Watkins, Mrs. Jean Faulkenberry, Mrs. Melinda Crocker Blackburn, Mrs. Carol Hunter, Gene Adkins, Mrs. Emily Ward, Mrs. Diane Clinton, Mrs. Joyce Francis, Mrs. Nancy Dickens, Dr. Wayne Bonner, Bob Brock, Mrs. Edna Womack and Mrs. Robert Shive.

The welcome will be delivered by Lynn Hise, superintendent of schools, and the keynote address by Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery, assistant to the president of Howard College. Group sessions will follow.

Stanton's city council meets

The Stanton City Council will meet in special session, 7:30 p.m. Thursday, in council chambers.

A public hearing will be held to discuss priorities and needs of the community. The council will also make a final decision about which projects will be funded with $250,000 in Community Development Block Grant Small Cities Program money. The final item on the agenda calls for a resolution authorizing an application for a low rent housing program.

After a lunch break in the high school cafeteria, afternoon group sessions will be conducted. "It is felt that the entire program will be enjoyable and profitable. The group discussions will be geared to relate to school secretaries' specific and individual problems," local school secretaries point out. Leading the work sessions will be Joe Pickle, Mrs. Wanda Reese, Mrs. Janet

Coop hoop scoop

One of the most consequential factors in the Howard College Hawks' attainment of a 20-game winning season this year is 82 1/2 inches tall.

His name is Joe Cooper... BIG Joe Cooper, if you please, and his most recent success culminated a resplendent two-year career at HC.

In his freshman year at the local institution, he was a towering inferno of All-Star potential. Playing in the shadow of Paul Cathey (ol' Jack-in-the-box legs), however, "Coop" found his role relegated to one of "watcher" instead of "doer."

A hair-trigger temper and frequent displays of moodiness back then also left question marks dotted all over his future.

But after a summer of growing both physically and mentally (he added another inch and a half and 30 pounds to his frame), the Houston Kashmere ex was prepared to straighten all those crooked question marks to exclamation points during his sophomore season.

He quickly found the right combination of wrist bone movements which increased his shooting accuracy, and with the added weight, and resulting confidence, he immediately took over the king-of-the-hill position in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference rebound department.

His scoring potential even began to challenge the deadly aim of teammate Russell Sublet. And with Coach Harold Wilder's untiring tutelage in the various subtleties of big man defense, he became a nagging coat of paint to all opponents who attempted to find any measure of success against him.

If this makes him sound good, fine... he is good. And coaches and players from all over the nation found that out for themselves this past Saturday when the National Junior College Athletic Association held its annual East-West All-Star game in San Antonio.

Cooper, who was named to the 10-member West squad in March, made the starting lineup, and was a significant component in his squad's 105-98 victory over the East.

His nine points, 14 rebounds and two blocked shots were excellent, of course, but the fact that he only played 20 minutes (the two teams of five relieved each other every five minutes), and held the country's top All-American, Joliet's Arnette Hallman, to only 12 points, deserves special mention.

"Cooper played very well," said Harold Wilder, who accompanied the All-Star to the Alamo City. "I was very proud of him, and his job on defense impressed everyone."

Also of special note to Wilder was the fact that three of the West's starting five were from Texas schools. McLennan's Sam Worthem, a 6-5 guard originally from Brooklyn, garnered MVP honors in the All-Star game, and Western Texas' Julio Gallardo scored 10 points for the victors.

"The fact that three of the starters were from our region just proves what type of competition we have down here," said Wilder of the Lone-Star-dominated squad.

Joe's mother and four of his sisters also came to see him play. Mrs. Cooper, who hadn't seen her son play since high school, was one of over 5,000 people in attendance. Those odds didn't seem to affect her, however, as she won the drawing for a free trip to Guadalajara, Mexico.

"Everything was just a big success," said Wilder, regarding the coincidence.

Cooper is expected to sign a national letter of intent with Tulsa University a week from today. Ex-Hawk Assistant and now Tulsa Assistant, Leroy McLendon, should be in Big Spring next Wednesday to ink the local star.

"Mac" handled the recruitment of Cooper from Kashmere, he knows the family, and has extreme confidence in the big center, according to Wilder.

The fact that Cooper just seemed to get better and better with each succeeding game this season can only breed confidence in the future for the entire Tulsa organization, and make Howard College and Big Spring proud of their newest ambassador.

A new master?

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A new dimension has been added to the Masters Golf Tournament this year.

For almost two decades, there has been Jack Nicklaus, the man to beat at the Masters.

And there have been the challengers, the Weiskopfs, the Irwins, the Floyds, and, more recently and successfully, Tom Watson, who last year beat Nicklaus at his own game.

Another dramatic Nicklaus-Watson confrontation is a possibility in the Masters that begins Thursday. But not really probable.

The new dimension is Severiano Ballesteros, a Spaniard and the most exciting personality in the sport since the young Arnold Palmer.

"He's a long, very long (hitter)," said veteran Billy Casper, the 1970 winner of the Masters. "And he's a fantastic putter. His game is ideally suited to Augusta National. He will win here. Probably more than once."

Ballesteros, 21, flagship of the "Spanish Armada" that has dominated European golf for two years, says in improving English: "I need more experience... Very difficult to win in the States."

He accomplished that last week, however, winning the Greater Greensboro Open in his first start in a regular PGA Tour event. He became the youngest player in 15 years to capture a tour title.

Incredibly, considering his age, it was his 19th world-wide title.

Here, however, he faces a field that includes 58 tour-tested American pros, nine American amateurs, 10 foreign pros and one foreign amateur.

Chief among them is Nicklaus, 38, holder of all the golf records worth having who has dedicated himself to supremacy in the Masters, U.S. and British Opens, the PGA.

JV's fall to Coog subs

The Big Spring Steer junior varsity dropped to 2-7 on the season with a 7-1 loss to the Abilene Cooper subs Tuesday afternoon.

Freddie Martinez took the loss from the hill for the locals, giving up four earned runs, six hits, five walks and garnering six strikeouts.

"We committed five errors," said Coach Hal Martin. "We outthrew them 7-6, but our defense just didn't hold up and we left a number of men on base."

Mike Evans was the big stick for the locals. He telegraphed two singles and a double to pace the Shorthorns. Gilbert Rubio, Freddie Martinez, Tommy Rodriguez and John Pfeiffer also had singles for the locals.

The JV's travel to Permian Thursday and return home Friday for a game with Midland High. Rubio is expected to start against PHS, and Jim Brown will open the Midland game.

Steers come close, but lose cigar, 3-2

By BOB BURTON

With the bases loaded, no outs in the eighth, Cooper fireman Eddie Jacques fanned two and popped out one to dampen Steer hopes and save a Cougar win, 3-2.

The crowd at Steer Park saw a 1-1 tie through seven innings. Hometown hurler Larry Smith allowed one run, scored by Gary Watts in the third. Watts walked, Mearse sacrificed him to second, and Watts scored on a single by Sam Houston.

That tied the score at one apiece, due to Ricky Myers' solo blast in the second. Myers' homer came with one out.

Both teams left men in crucial positions on the base paths for Big Spring. Smith was left at second in the first inning, Mike Gomez at third in the second, Charlie Vernon at third in the fourth, David Manley at second in the fifth, and the bases loaded in the eighth. Cooper left 13 men on.

Tony Jacobo came on in the fourth to dig the Steers out of trouble, and almost ended up burned himself when Ricky Myers threw a routine grounder into the dirt at first base, letting Armstrong on. Jacobo alked Kendrick to load the bases before fanning Watts to retire the side.

Smith also had a single-handed doubleplay in the fourth, netting an attempted sacrifice bunt in the air, then throwing out Cooper's Dozier, who had left for second base.

Cooper's eighth inning started with designated hitter Bobby Mize. Mike singled, then advanced to second on a sacrifice.

Zumwalt got on due to an error by Rubio, who was handcuffed by a grounder. Watts singled to load the bases, and Gary Mearse hit a two-run single up the middle. Houston lined out to center off reliever Charlie Vernon and Dozier struck out to end the Cooper advance.

Big Spring started suspiciously enough, with back-to-back singles by Rubio and Smith. Cooper brought on Hewitt from God-knows-where. Hewitt threw eight pitches, walked Mann and Mize, bringing in one run, and was summarily yanked.

Jacques, now 3-0, came on to handcuff the Steers with his slow curve on the outside corner. It looked fat, but Vernon and Myers each took three cracks at it without success. Mike Gomez stepped up, swung, and lost a contact in the batter's box before Kevin McLaughlin lined out to center to end the game.

The Steers are now 7-11 on the season and 0-5 in district play. They play next Wednesday at Snyder, then return home Saturday against Odessa.

Rangers, Astros beat Coogs

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas Rangers and the Houston Astros picked up exhibition victories Tuesday night at the expense of the University of Houston Cougars with the Rangers having an easy time and the Astros having to struggle.

Jon Matlack pitched seven shutout innings to lead the Rangers to an easy 8-0 victory over the Cougars in the first game of the doubleheader in the Astrodome.

Bob Watson's sacrifice fly in the eighth inning snapped a tie and the Astros went on to edge the Cougars, 3-1, in the second game.

Billy Blum, who has an 8-0 record with the Cougars, held the Astros to one run and six hits for seven innings in the second game.

The Cougars took a 1-0 lead in the second on Terry Byrum's triple and Donnie Randall's sacrifice fly.

The Astros tied it in the bottom of the inning on Joe Ferguson's sacrifice fly.

Terry Puhl started the Astros' eight with a single and was sacrificed to second. A walk and Denny Walling's single loaded the bases and Watson's sacrifice fly brought in one run and Dave Bergman singled in another.

Matlack allowed the Cougars only three hits in the opener. He allowed no walks and struck out four. Len Barker pitched two innings to complete the Ranger

'Gonna fight Ali'—Leon

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Leon Spinks says he has chosen the time and the opponent for his first defense of his heavyweight title, but fight promoter Bob Arum said the place will be decided in a bidding war.

"I'm gonna fight Muhammad Ali my next title fight... sometime in September or October," Spinks said at a New York news conference where he accepted his championship belt from a Boxing magazine.

Arum is president of Top Rank Inc., the promotion firm which holds exclusive rights to a rematch between Ali and the young fighter who won the championship from him. Arum was here Tuesday talking to New Orleans businessmen about staging the fight in the Superdome, which could seat close to 100,000 for a boxing match.

But Arum said he wasn't limiting his search for a site to New Orleans.

"There's a group in St. Louis backed by Anheuser-Busch that's very interested; there is a group in Montreal and a group in Mexico City," Arum said. "We have meetings in each of those cities later in the week."

Spinks said that Arum is merely scouting territory for him.

"I don't know where Bob Arum is gone," said Spinks. "The fight will be where I want it to be."

Arum said the great capacity of the Superdome is very attractive.

MYERS' ROUND TRIP — Steer third baseman Ricky Myers is congratulated by teammates and third base coach Rex Scofield Tuesday after he belted a solo homer over the left field fence. Myers' effort put the Steers out in front, but Cooper came back in the next inning to tie. The game ended after eight innings, 3-2 for Cooper.

USGA final Forsan netters take division

Inking set

The United Girls' Softball Association (formerly Miss Softball America) will hold its final day of registration Saturday at the Howard College Student Union Building from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Girls between the ages of eight and 19 are eligible, and registration fee is $7.

Parents or legal guardians must accompany each applicant, and birth certificates are required.

Umps meeting

The Big Spring Umpire Association will hold an organizational meeting tonight at 6:30 at the Western Sizzler.

Any interested male or female is urged to attend, and Coahoma, Forsan, Stanton, Ackerly and other area residents are welcome.

For further information, contact John Weeks at 3-2051, or Ron Douglas Cowling, 7-6391.

Wyatt becomes sixth golf ace

Tony Wyatt became the sixth member of a BSHS varsity golf team to card a hole-in-one this school year at a local golf course.

Wyatt aced the par 3, 145-yard, number six hole at Comanche Trail Golf Course Monday, using a wedge.

Witnessing the event was Marty Terry, Jimmy Newsom and Randy Crockett.

Four boys and two girls have performed the link magic thus far. Earlier this year, Mitzl Sanderson aced the 13th at BSCG; Tammie Tonn did likewise on Munny number six; Bruce Carroll one-clubbed CC number 7; David Howell aced Munny number 10 and Dewayne Thomas dropped his first shot in Munny number 13.

Tournament. The Forsan girls captured 30 points to pace the four-member tourney. Garden City ended in the runner-up slot with 20 points, Stanton came in third with 15 and Coahoma took fourth with five points.

The Buffalo boys also won with 30 points. Both Stanton and Garden City captured 15 points, and Coahoma ended competition with 10 points.

In the finals of the boys' singles, Forsan's Martin Nichols defeated teammate Brad Robertson, 6-3, 7-5, and in the boys' doubles finals, Gonzales and Arguello from Stanton beat Covert and Overton of Garden City, 7-5, 6-4.

Stanton's Lisa Britt and Bonnie Blutworth edged Forsan's Lisa Frank and Melissa Day, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4 in the girls' doubles finals, and Frank defeated Garden City's Lisa Hirt 6-3, 6-2 in the girls' singles finals.

Complete tourney results follow.

It doesn't pay to play 'slow'

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Hefty penalties — fines up to $1,000 and a three-week suspension — will be assessed pro golfers found guilty of slow play.

"As the showcase of golf, we must take steps to correct the situation," PGA Tour Commissioner Deane Beman said Tuesday in announcing the new, strict and drastic steps that will be taken to speed up play.

"The pace of play is of continuing concern. Slow play is a considerable detriment to the tour and to the game of golf," he said.

Beman said slow play is a problem, not only on the tour, but in junior golf, high school and college golf, the amateur game and weekend country club play.

"It goes throughout the game," he said. "It takes time and a great deal of money to build a golf course. If we could improve play 20 percent, that means you, at your country club, could provide a place to play for 20 percent more people."

He said the new policy — to be administered and judged by officials carrying stopwatches — was the result of a timetudy taken at nine tournaments and new rules instituted by the Tour's Policy Board at a meeting Monday night.

The new rules will be instituted in a couple of weeks, after the Tour's membership is informed in writing.

Under the new rules, a player found guilty of slow play would be fined $200. A second offense also calls for a $200 fine. A third offense carries an automatic fine of $1,000 and suspension from three tournaments.

Slam crash Derrick

OKLAHOMA City (AP) — Cameron College forward John Derrick brought down the house and a backboard during a halftime slam dunk contest at Tuesday night's Oklahoma Basketball Coaches Association all star game.

The 6-foot-7 senior from Garland, Texas, ended the competition on his second attempt when he demolished the goal.

He was promptly awarded the contest plaque.

Derrick, who one local sports writer claims "has springs built into his knees," was a little embarrassed by his accidental vandalism of the Bethany Nazarene College men's gym.

"I didn't know the goal was that weak," he said. "I just went for the goal. I think my wrist must have hit the rim."

Resumption of the game was delayed about 45 minutes while workmen installed a new backboard and hoop from the nearby girls gym.

"He demolished it to the tune of about $500," a college spokesman said. "But it was beautiful."

RELIC — Local sports enthusiast Dr. Floyd Mays was one of the 34,000 people who saw the final game of the 1932 World Series between the New York Yankees and Chicago Cubs played in old Wrigley Field.

Mays still has the ticket stub from the game that "about 5 million people claim they saw." The Yanks swept the series that year, and the fourth and final game is most remembered for Babe Ruth's two-strike home run to centerfield after pointing to that spot with his bat, indicating where he was going to hit the round-tripper.

The "Bambino," after taking a lot of flak from the fans, hit the ball out of the park, remembers Mays.

Drug tests

LONDON (AP) — The International Athletes' Club, a British organization, has a new idea for beating the shot putters and hammer throwers who build their muscles artificially by taking anabolic steroids.

The club is studying a plan for random tests on athletes on a voluntary basis.

Bass Club meets

The regularly scheduled April meeting of the Big Spring Bass Club will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Kentwood Older Adult Center.

Approximately 35 anglers attended the March meeting, and with the advent of warmer weather, even more new members are expected to attend.

Maxy Ware finished first in the Twin Buttes March tournament. He hooked two fish for a total weight of 9 lbs. 13 oz.

Other finishers included: 2. Donnie Baker, 8 lbs. 1 oz. (2 fish); 3. Vic Keyes, 7 lbs. 6 1/2 oz. (1 fish, big bass); 4. Ed Henry, 5 lbs.; 5. Ken Sprinkle, 4 lbs. The tourney was hampered by strong winds, even though 25 fishermen turned out.

The April tournament is set for Hubbard Creek Lake on April 15 and 16. The tourney will be the usual three fish stringer, and there will be several other tourneys being held in conjunction with the local one.

The Parker County Invitational (1 fish) and the Abilene Invitational will be going on at that time. Those local fishermen who enter these tourneys and weigh-in fish before the Big Spring weigh-in should keep a weigh-in slip for the local tourney.

Headquarters for the tourney will be at Peeler Park and fishing times are: Saturday, daylight to 6 p.m. and Sunday, daylight to 2 p.m.

In other club items of interest, Howard Stewart caught a 9 lbs. 6 oz. lunker at Don Martin over Easter, and Maxey Ware won second place in the Castle Gap Invitational held at Twin Buttes.

The May tournament will be held at Oak Creek on May 13 and 14.

For further information, contact the Big Spring Bass Club, P.O. Box 372, Big Spring, Texas.

Pain killers eyed

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — When Bob Gross of the Portland Trail Blazers came down hard on his left ankle during a National Basketball Association game at Milwaukee March 23, he "heard something crack."

It was a stress fracture, but he said he initially felt no pain. His ankle had been numbed by three injections — including one into the bone — of Marcain, a local anesthetic.

"It's the same thing that the dentist injects into your gums," said Dr. Herbert Wendel, director of the Division of Clinical Pharmacology at the University of Oregon Health Science Center School of Medicine.

"A local anesthetic is a purely symptomatic treatment. It numbs the nerve endings," Wendel said. "From a medical standpoint it is outrageous to do this. The only way it will heal is to rest it."

But the Blazers were hurting with three front-line players out heading into the final few weeks of the season. So Gross played.

Gross's experience provided an unusual glimpse of the use of such so-called pain-killing drugs in sports medicine, a subject many in the NBA are reluctant to discuss.

Dr. Robert Cook, the Blazers' team physician, said such drugs aren't given indiscriminately and aren't intended to completely kill the pain. Trainer Ron Culp was asked if the dosage given Gross — who had also taken three shots at halftime of the previous game — was unusually large.

"No, and it was not administered in such a way as to totally remove the pain," Culp said. "We feel that pain is too important of an indicator."

But Gross said after the Milwaukee game, "I heard a crack and didn't know what it was. I looked around to see and suddenly realized it was my ankle."

No sellout blackouts... yet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pro football fans have been assured they will have an opportunity to watch their local heroes on television if the stadium is a sellout — at least for the next two years.

Congress has been informed by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle that the NFL will continue its policy of televising home games locally during the 1978 and 1979 seasons if there is a sellout 72 hours before kickoff.

Despite the assurances, the chairmen of the Senate and House communications subcommittees said Tuesday that they intend to proceed with legislation to enact the limited ban on blackouts into law and not rely on voluntary action.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., said his subcommittee "will almost certainly conduct hearings on the anti-blackout legislation in the near future with a view toward resolving the issue for all sports."

"I'm happy the NFL has agreed to continue the anti-blackout plan, but this is an issue facing all sports, and obviously Congress is going to have to begin examining some of the legislative proposals and come up with a bill everyone can live with," Hollings said.

Rudy can go home again

HAMTRAMCK, Mich. (AP) — Rudy Tomjanovich, a hometown boy who went on to great heights — literally — hasn't been forgotten by the folks in this Detroit-area city.

The 6-foot-8 forward for the Houston Rockets will be honored at a testimonial dinner May 2, then inducted into the Hamtramck Hall of Honor the following day.

Tomjanovich was forced to sit out the rest of the current National Basketball Association season after being slugged two months ago by Kermit Washington of Los Angeles. Tomjanovich suffered a fractured jaw and other facial injuries.

A star basketball player at the University of Michigan, Tomjanovich, 29, has been a professional for the past eight years.

Raiders crank up drills

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Texas Tech's Red Raiders began their first week of full scale spring practice Tuesday and set their sights for a Wednesday scrimmage.

"We'll get a good look at a lot of people," first-year Coach Rex Dockery said. "I think we should have a pretty good idea about our status at some positions after our scrimmage."

Dockery said the secondary and linebacker positions are of most concern. Junior Jeff Copeland has looked "impressive" in the early spring drills, he noted.

The Tech spring drills end April 27 with the annual Red-White game.

Monterey coach is winningest

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Lubbock Monterey had to sweep a doubleheader from crosstown rival Lubbock Coronado Tuesday to make their coach the state's winningest ever in high school annals, but the Plainsmen did it.

The 3-0 and 6-0 shutouts gave Monterey Coach Bobby Moegle a career mark of 520 victories. The first win tied the 19-year coaching veteran with Houston Reagan's Le Roy Ashmore, who retired in 1969 after 21 seasons.

A Taylor native, Moegle captured Class 4-A baseball titles at Monterey in 1972 and 1974.

One flying saucer coming up

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Braves promised their fans they'd see a flying saucer at the team's National League opener Friday, and they will see one — even if it's illegal, a Braves spokesman said Tuesday.

The Federal Aviation Administration warned the team last week that a flyover by a phony flying saucer could be illegal.

As publicity for the baseball game, the Braves and local ham radio operators have been broadcasting an invitation to space ships to fly over Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium when the Braves play the Los Angeles Dodgers Friday.

But FAA official George Bergmark said the Braves' plans to fly in a phony space ship if the real thing didn't show up would be "against FAA regulations."

Bob Hope, public relations director for the Braves, said Tuesday the team had spent $3,500 for a flying saucer. "Since the people attending the game will be looking for one," the Braves intend to use it, he said.

There's joy in Denton

DENTON, Texas (AP) — Baseball is only a club sport at North Texas State University.

That means no scholarships. No home field. And almost no wins.

But after 32 consecutive losses, all kinds of joy erupted Tuesday among the walk-on members of the North Texas State baseball team. The Eagles got a no-hitter from pitcher John Downs for a 10-0 victory over UT-Dallas, then came back with a 16-7 triumph and a sweep of the doubleheader.

Now, Coach Johnny Williams is setting his sights high for the rest of the season.

"We were 0-for-February and 0-for-March, but our goal in April is to go over 500," he said during the revelry of the twin victories over UT-Dallas at Fort Worth's Rockwood Park.

The 10-0, no-hit victory was an abbreviated affair, cut short after five innings under the 10-run rule.

UT-Dallas, which like North Texas plays only club ball, got five runs in the first inning of the second game, but the Eagles rallied for a 16-7 victory, dropping UT-Dallas to 1-9 for the year.

The end of the drought came just three days after the Mean Green appeared to have beaten Texas Tech in Lubbock before losing again. NTSU led by 11-0 going into the bottom of the fourth inning, but the Raiders scored seven runs that inning and five more in the bottom of the final inning to win 12-11.

Travis Riley nudges twin in Cub event

Travis Riley edged his twin brother, Troy, in the finals of the Cub Scout Pinewood Derby Saturday at the Howard County Fair Barns. Third place went to Craig Parker. All were from Pack 187. In one of the eliminations, miniature racers made by Travis and Troy finished in a dead heat. In the consolation division — open to all boys who did not make the final round as pack representatives, Todd McKinney, Pack 187, sacked up first place, while Lathy Williams and Todd Harness, both of Pack 29, finished second and third. Awards for most original designs went to Craig Parker, Troy Riley and Travis Riley in the champinship division; and to Lathy Williams, Ross Hesson, Pack 100, and Todd Harness in the consolation division.

Trophies were provided by the Big Spring New Car Dealers Association, and the Big Spring American Legion Post 506 presented the first place Pack 187 with a $10 award. Cubmaster Joe Bradley accepted the award.

Boys from Troops 5 and 401 assisted in registering boys and in the judging. Adult supervisors were Mike McCracken, Cub Scout chairman for the Lone Star District, Bob Doolin, Loran Lewis, and Kent Jurgeons. The Derby was arranged by Nancy Doolin.

Carter shoots down neutron bomb plans?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proposed neutron bomb, which President Carter reportedly decided will not be part of the U.S. arsenal, is known to American military men as the equalizer.

U.S. military officials say the weapon could halt a tank attack in central Europe where the Soviets have an estimated 3-to-1 numerical tank advantage. There has been considerable speculation about Carter's plans for the weapon, which is intended to kill enemy troops with radiation while limiting destruction of the surroundings. Sources told the Associated Press that Carter has tentatively decided against producing the weapon. He should make a final decision soon, according to State Department officials who declined to be identified.

The neutron warhead would kill enemy tank crews by sending streams of neutrons through the thick steel of their vehicles. Blast and fire damage would be limited to the immediate area and, according to weapon-backers, would spare civilian lives and houses on the periphery of the immediate battlefield.

U.S. arms control negotiator Paul Warnke said early this year the weapon "kills more Russians and fewer Germans."

Ex-Air Force ace to deliver talk

Howard College has announced that graduation exercises will be held at 8 p.m., Thursday, May 11. Commencement speaker will be Steve Ritchie of Golden, Colo. Ritchie is a native of North Carolina but has called Colorado home since attending the Air Force Academy where he played football for the Falcons and received his bachelor's degree.

STEVEN RITCHIE

The Vietnam ace entered pilot training in August 1964, graduated first in his class, and became one of the most highly decorated individuals in U.S. military history. He was the only Air Force pilot "Ace" of the Vietnam conflict and is the only American pilot in history to down five MIG-21 enemy fighters.

His decorations include the nation's second highest award, the Air Force Cross, four Silver Stars, ten Distinguished Flying Crosses and 24 Air Medals. He volunteered for two hours of duty in Southeast Asia, flew 339 missions and amassed 800 hours of combat time in the F-4 Phantom. In 1973, he was selected as one of the "Outstanding Young Men of America."

Feeling the need to fight a different kind of battle, Ritchie resigned his Air Force Commission in April 1974 to run for Congress in the 6th District of North Carolina. He is currently employed by the Coors Company as a special assistant to Joseph Coors. Steven is recognized for his keen ability to accurately analyze current legislation and its potential effect on our personal freedoms. He has been quoted in the Wall Street Journal and the Congressional Record. In 1976, he was named President of the Combat Pilots Association, a national organization dedicated to the defense of our country and the survival of our American system.

He is involved in community affairs as chairman of the Colorado Crusade to Conquer Cancer, as a member of the Men's Advisory Board of the Denver Chapter of Freedoms Foundation, and as a public affairs representative for the Colorado Air National Guard. Steven is an articulate spokesman for America and has logged over 400,000 miles appearing before more than 300,000 people. "He has a challenging message for every American," college officials point out.

Water demands decrease during first quarter

Reduced deliveries of surface water to oil companies and a cool spring combined to hold water demands down for the Colorado River Municipal Water District in the first quarter of 1978.

As weather warmed toward the end of March, there was a resurgence of demand by the cities, which required 1,110,874,000 gallons for the month, a 17.2 per cent gain. But the deliveries to oil companies dropped almost 400 million gallons for the first quarter and reduced their take to 1,227,905,016 gallons, down 24.52 per cent for the period. SACROC unit had to get by with 52.29 per cent less water from Lake Thomas and Sharon Ridge 56.25 per cent less from the same source in March under an operational pattern to stretch the lake supplies. Nearly half of deliveries to oil companies in March was in brackish water.

Total deliveries in March was 1,498,786,580 gallons off .70 of one per cent from the same month a year ago.

Grand total for all district deliveries in the first quarter was 3,924,934,216, down .368 per cent from the first quarter of 1977.

March deliveries included Odessa 464,511,000 gallons, up 19.13 per cent; Big Spring 225,361,000 gallons, down 2.69 per cent; Snyder 75,437,000 gallons, up 10.34 per cent; Stanton 10,097,000 gallons, up 199 per cent; Midland 328,210,000 gallons, up 28.94 per cent; Robert Lee 7,258,000 compared to none the previous year.

Evelyn Hagen still in coma

Mrs. Frank (Evelyn) Hagen continues in a coma in Lubbock Methodist Hospital and underwent an amputation of her right hand Tuesday, according to friends here.

A fund has been set up at First National Bank for help in hospitalization costs for the local beauty shop operator. She has been hospitalized now for eight days.

Library uses comics as bait

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Comics such as The Hulk and Tom and Jerry have taken their place alongside Tom Sawyer and other literary works at a public library.

"I want some readers. This is another attempt to snag a couple more readers," says children's librarian Mary Ann Maginnity.

Mrs. Maginnity spends about $40 on a bundle of comics every two months.

"Once the kids see we have the comics, they will come back. Then, maybe we can suggest something else that might catch their fancy. If they never came in, we'd never have that chance," she said.

Hiker takes penicillin and apparatus with him

Max Chandler, Big Spring resident who is presently a patient at Malone-Hogan Hospital has stirred quite a lot of talk.

"One day, a patient told one of the nurses that 'a man is running away,'" said Chandler, and I've had lots of people ask me questions each day when I walk."

Chandler, hospitalized now for some four weeks for treatment of a lung abscess, was told by his doctor that he could get outside and take walks each day if he wished.

The only complication is that he has to receive penicillin intravenously 24 hours a day. So, he has to "wheel along" the apparatus, stand, bottle, tubes, and all.

"Two girls came up the elevator one day, and were overheard talking about a 'man walking in the parking lot carrying a picket sign' and the girls were wondering what I was demonstrating about," Chandler laughed. "Look - can you read his sign," one of the girls supposed.
