EMOTIONAL EMBRACE — Jodie Elizabeth Gaines, 18, dashes into the arms of her brother, Ben Gaines Jr., on her return Tuesday afternoon to her family's McKenzie home. The return, cheered by residents of the rural West Tennessee town, ended a harrowing ordeal that began when kidnapers abducted the girl Friday night after she dined with her parents at a country club.

Freed herself by pounding bedframe for 10 hours

Kidnapped teen unharmed

MCKENZIE, Tenn. (AP) — Jodie Gaines, kidnapped by gunmen posing as police, handcuffed to an iron bed and left alone in a one-room shack, freed herself by pounding on the bedframe for 10 hours until it broke.

FBI agent Joseph Trimbach said the 18-year-old Miss Gaines was unharmed. He said he talked informally with her Tuesday night and agents would interview her more thoroughly today.

Arrested by the FBI were David Michael Wilson, 25, and Andrew Dickson, 22, both of the Paris, Tenn., area. Wilson's wife, Patsy, was questioned but released, the FBI said. Officers hunted a third, unidentified abductor.

No charges were filed and the FBI did not say where the arrests were made.

Agents recovered a $250,000 ransom dropped by Miss Gaines' mother in a ditch in Tennessee Monday night.

Miss Gaines came home Tuesday afternoon barefoot and in blue jeans, a red rose from her brother in her hand. Neighbors and reporters stood cheering on the lawn of the Gaines' two-story, white-brick house. A banner above the porch read, "Welcome Home Jodie."

Ben Gaines, a wealthy businessman, told reporters his daughter wasn't up to appearing before the crowd.

The joyous welcoming hubbub was a stark contrast to the young woman's harrowing ordeal, which began Friday night when two men in a car used a flashing blue light to stop her automobile on a deserted Carroll County road.

Home from her private Memphis school for a three-day weekend, Jodie had dined with her parents at the Carroll County Golf Club and was bound for her cousin's two miles away when she was stopped.

Her brother, Ben Jr., 20, said Tuesday night, "They told her they were undercover agents and they had a drug bust at the country club. They told her that she had left mysteriously and she was go back with them. Then they grabbed her."

At gunpoint, she was blindfolded, forced to lie on the floor of her car and driven off. She slept that night on the ground and was taken to the shack the next day.

Left alone Monday night, handcuffed to an iron bed, she managed to break the bedframe by beating on it with her free hand for 10 hours.

The Tennessee, Nashville's morning newspaper, reported in a copyright story that Jodie, wandering down a dirt lane Tuesday morning, stumbled onto fisherman John Owens.

Owens, a retired policeman tenting beside the Big Sandy River, told The Tennessean that when Jodie came upon him she said: "I'm lost. I'm Jodie Gaines. I've been kidnapped."

"She was scared to death and shaking all over. She threw her arms around me and hugged my neck when she found out I wasn't going to hurt her," he said.

Owens, who had been in the woods a month and hadn't heard about the kidnapping, thought she was a runaway. She persuaded him otherwise and he hid her in his tent.

School choir room damaged

Fire blamed on arsonist

By CARLA WALKER

Arsonists succeeded in causing extensive damage to the choir hall at Big Spring High School, but the fire was contained and kept from spreading to other areas of the school.

The fire was discovered shortly after 4:30 a.m. today, but was probably set around midnight. Entry to the area was gained through the patio area of the school, and the arsonists only seemed interested in starting a fire in the choir hall.

Fires were set in four places throughout the choir hall, one in the tuxedo room, one in the office of choir director Jack Bowers, office, and two in a music-trophy store room.

"We plan to offer a reward for information leading to the capture of whoever set the fire," said Don Crockett, business manager, for the Big Spring Independent School District. "Thanks to a variety of factors including the fire-preventive construction of the school, rain water caught on the roof, and others, the fire department had help in containing the fire, but the damage is quite extensive in this area."

The small fires set in the store room area did not take, perhaps due to lack of ventilation, and the fire in the tuxedo room is the one which did the most damage. Some 15 to 20 tuxedos were in the room, and they apparently fed the fire into a high blaze.

Cleanup of the area began around 8 a.m., but repair of the damage will take at least 60 days, according to an estimate from Crockett.

"I found out about 5:45 a.m. today," said Bowers. "I guess the choir will meet somewhere else the rest of the semester, because we certainly can't meet here."

Other than the tuxedos, our backdrops, some music, a record player, and no telling what all else were damaged. About the pianos, I just don't know. There is no major visible fire damage, but the intense heat could have done a lot of damage. We'll have to have someone knowledgeable look it over before we know if or how bad the three pianos were hurt," Bowers said.

Damage to the building was extensive, with four heating-cooling units, the ceiling, and a portion of the roof over the choir hall which will have to be completely replaced. Several of the structural beams near the tuxedo room are visibly damaged, and there may be others when the ceiling is torn down.

"We have damage to the wiring, smoke damage to the main entry foyer — which will probably require replacement of the ceiling there — damage to the auditorium, and no telling how much more that we just haven't spotted yet," said Crockett.

The school has $5,000 deductible fire and extended insurance coverage on the building, but no damage estimates are yet available.

"The amount of the reward has not been set yet, but we will definitely offer a reward for help in catching the arsonists," Crockett repeated. "We want the one or ones who were responsible for this malicious act to be caught and punished."

Briscoe steps up his attack on Hill

Primary may lure 1.8 million voters

By the Associated Press

There could be 1.8 million voters in the Democratic primary alone this Saturday based on absentee voting statewide.

Secretary of State Steve Oaks raised his estimate of the turnout Tuesday by 50 percent.

Oaks had predicted a 1.2 million turnout, but said he now thinks the primary will draw 1.8 million voters — more than cast ballots in 1976.

"From five working days ago until now, we've had a dramatic turnaround in absentee voting," Oaks explained.

Oaks said the GOP primary turnout should be between 110,000 and 150,000. Gov. Dolph Briscoe stepped up his attack on Attorney General John Hill concerning fiscal issues. He told a news conference in Austin that Hill's promises to beef up state spending on education would cost more than $3 billion in the next two years.

Hill recently said he favors raising state aid to education from 60 percent to 85 percent of the total cost.

"Not in his wildest imagination can he fulfill those promises without a state income tax. The only alternative would be to double the sales tax," Briscoe said.

Briscoe also disclosed he will vote against legalizing horse race betting, a non-binding referendum issue on the primary ballot.

Hill told a news conference in Houston that Briscoe was borrowing money from banks at the rate of $100,000 a week to finance "his bogus income tax scare campaign in a desperate stop-Hill move."

He also stumped in the lower Rio

Grande Valley, where Santa Rosa High School students cheered Hill and later booed when they were told they had to return to class.

"I'd rather be here in Santa Rosa

Warplane sales called 'important'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top administration officials, formally opening their campaign to convince Congress that U.S. warplanes should be sold to Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Israel, today called the sales "vitaly important" to U.S. Middle East policy.

"Failure to proceed with the sales will seriously undercut the American role in the peace process," Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Defense Secretary Harold Brown followed Vance and told the committee that sale of the aircraft is "essential" to assure the survival and vitality of U.S. security interests in the Middle East.

Vance and Brown led off the administration testimony at the start of their campaign to win congressional support for the sales, which face strong opposition on Capitol Hill.

On Tuesday 22 of the 37 members of the House International Relations Committee joined in introducing a resolution to reject the entire sale.

Carter had been counting on that committee to kill all resolutions aimed at rejecting the package. That parliamentary move effectively would have prevented the full House from considering rejection.

To kill the deal, both houses must adopt resolutions rejecting it by May 28.

A number of the House committee members are staunch supporters of planes for Israel, and at least two chief sponsors of Tuesday's unexpected resolution had said earlier that they were trying to force Carter to revise his sale to ease Israeli fears.

looking into the faces of our future citizens than be where the present governor was yesterday — in some fancy club in a big city ridiculing John Hill," he said.

Attorney general candidate Mark White said he was "dismayed" by opponent Price Daniel Jr.'s stance that there is no legal ground for a lawsuit challenging Montana's 30 percent coal tax.

He said the tax would cost Texas electric power consumers $400 million in 25 years and applauded the Lower Colorado River Authority and Austin for suing to strike down the levy.

White said in a news conference at the LCRA building that if elected, he would join the suit.

Honea is given maximum sentence, $5,000 fine

The Rev. Roy E. Honea, of Big Spring was told Tuesday by U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr., in Federal Court in Midland that he must serve three years in prison and pay a $5,000 fine for willfully subscribing to a false income tax return in 1972.

A Federal Grand Jury in Midland had indicted Rev. Honea, Nov. 29, 1977, by sealed indictment, for filing tax returns for 1971 and 1972 that he knew were incorrect in that substantial amounts of income had been omitted from those returns. He pleaded guilty to count two of the indictment, March 27, 1978.

At the time he entered the guilty plea, Honea, who is the minister of the Grace Baptist Church, Big Spring, acknowledged that the government could prove that he converted substantial amounts of church funds to his personal use and that he had not reported the receipt of these funds on his tax returns. The U.S. Attorney had stated that he would use church and bank records to prove this fact.

Willfully subscribing to a false income tax return is a felony and carries a maximum penalty of three years imprisonment and a $5,000 fine or both for each offense.

The case was investigated by special agents of IRS stationed in Midland.

New voting record established here

A record number of absentee votes cast in a primary election may portend a record turnout Saturday at the polls.

According to County Clerk Margaret Ray, 661 ballots were cast in the office by Democrats, 19 by Republicans. 76 mailouts were sent to Democrats and 30 to GOP members. Mailouts must be received by 1 p.m. Saturday to be valid, but Mrs. Ray says that 49 of the ballots have been returned already.

ROCKPORT, Maine (AP) — Andre the seal swam unannounced into Rockport Harbor after swimming 160 miles from Marblehead, Mass., in a record 3 1/2 days. But he didn't stay long.

Before he had been in Rockport more than a couple of hours Sunday, he was off to Camden "to watch them put out a fire in a boat," said Harry Goodridge, Andre's trainer and life-long companion.

The 17-year-old trained seal was first spotted splashing in the harbor at 3:30 a.m. Sunday by a man who called police to report that Rockport's honorary harbor master was home.

As he does every spring, Andre rode last Wednesday from his winter home at the New England Aquarium in Boston to the pier at Marblehead, Mass., where he was released for his swim to Rockport.

Goodridge said he was "happily surprised" that his freckled, gray and brown friend came home so quickly. Two years ago when Andre dawdled, his swim took two weeks.

Lawyer ouster denied

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court today refused to force a Harlingen law firm out of a suit involving a Cameron County tract of land recently bought for $2 million for a state park.

Without comment, the court refused to grant a writ of mandamus sought by Luis Montemayor, Alicia Trevino and Roberto Montemayor of Matamoros and Linda Montemayor of Brownsville.

The Montemayor group asked the court for an order that, in effect, would have stopped the Harlingen law firm of Stierberg, Skaggs and Koppel from representing its former partners in a suit against the group.

State District Judge Byron L. McClellan also had refused to force the firm to get out of the suit.

Japan means business?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter was getting a firsthand account today on whether Japan means business in promising to slash its huge trade surplus with the United States.

Carter was meeting with Japanese Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda, whose trade liberalization program won endorsement Tuesday from Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance.

Blanket lease likely won't be accepted

The Big Spring Steering Committee indicated Tuesday it would decline the opportunity, at least for the time being, to accept a blanket lease on Webb AFB property.

Harry Spannaus, manager of the Big Spring airport properties, pointed out to the committee that there would be no supplemental payments from the government whatsoever if a blanket lease is accepted by the city.

The city does not have the personnel nor the funds to maintain the property to the extent that it would remain attractive to prospective tenants.

Ed Bunn, Director of the Regional Corps of Engineers, was to have met with the committee to discuss the proposed blanket leasing but was delayed by bad weather.

The working force maintained by the Air Force at the base has been reduced further in recent weeks. After this week, no more than 35 civilian and 30 military personnel will remain at the base.

"It was estimated that $60,000 was spent by the government alone last summer on chores like mowing

Methods for the transfer of property in the Capehart Addition, whether conveyance is made to the city or to private companies handling the property, was also discussed but no action was taken. One member of the committee said he personally preferred to have the transfer made by no more than a block at a time.

It was also disclosed that R. E. (Red) McClure, one of the fixed base operators at Howard County Airport, wants the use of two hangars at the Municipal Airport when he moves his operations to the old Webb AFB site.

The use of one of those hangars had been requested by O. D. Landrum. Spannaus also told the committee that he planned to move his base of operations to the Terminal Building at Webb within the immediate future.

He added that present plans call for the terminal to remain open from 7:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., five days a week, closing on Saturday and Sunday.

'Baretta' will feel ABC ax

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC will lop three current series from its prime time schedule this fall and add only 3 1/2 hours of new programming in an effort to continue as frontrunner in the networks' ratings race.

"The few changes we are making in our fall prime time schedule are testimony to the faith we have in our current schedule and the stability and leadership we have achieved over the past few years," James Duffy, president of the television network, said in a statement Monday.

CBS and NBC plan to announce their fall schedules in the next several weeks.

ABC said 21 programs from the current schedule would be back in the fall — all but "The Six Million Dollar Man," "Fish" and "Baretta." Most holdovers will stay in their current time periods, ABC said.

The upcoming ABC season, to begin Sept. 11, will include three new comedies, an adventure program set in Las Vegas and a science-fiction series, the network said.

Stewart called the request "a campaign stunt." Sanderson said, "Even those who have been involved in the cover-up have, now admitted that some of the funds were not properly invested. They keep trying to credit Harding with improving the situation when actually, they are just trying to keep their own man in office where they can control state monies."

"The state auditor and state comptroller have told us how much money Texas has lost. That is one known fact that nobody denies," Sanderson continued.

"If we re-elect Harding, the protector of the banking interests as chairman, we just continue with the rip-off," Sanderson added.

He was honored at a reception at the Chamber of Commerce at 2:30 p.m. today on his second trip through Big Spring during his campaign.

Lakes fail to benefit from Tuesday's rain

Whether 3 inches or simply three inches, the rain was welcome as thundershowers swept across West Texas Tuesday.

Rain reports ran from light showers to heavy or squally hail as the storm front moved through, and the amount received varied even within the same area as one heavy downpour would just miss a nearby rain gauge.

Coleman and Seminole reported golf ball size hail.

Owen Ivie, general manager of the Colorado Municipal Water District, said that the rain did not help area lakes at all. "There was no runoff," he said. "Before we get any good runoff, I'd expect to see about two inches of hard rain. But Lake Spence is in good shape, although Lake Thomas is getting pretty low."

To the north and northwest of Big Spring, rain measured from 4 at Knott to 1.5 inches west of Actarzan, with light hail reported over the entire area. Other reports were: Luther, 6.; Ackerly, 9.; H.H. Wilkerson Ranch, 5.; and Grady, 5.5 inches. Dawson County reported up to one inch.

To the east of Big Spring, Coahoma reported 1.2 inches of rain. Mitchell County was blessed with as much as 2.5 inches of the wet stuff in the southern part of the county while the north could only claim 1.3 inches. Gall reported .5 inches.

To the south of Big Spring, Garden City reported one inch; Lomax, .6; St. Lawrence, 1.25; Fossil, one inch; and Elbow, 3 inches.

To the west, Martin County received only sparse rain with .25 inches in Stanton and up to one inch in outlying areas.

Boyce Hale, who lives four miles south of town, said his gauge trapped .55 of an inch. In the 73 days previous to that, Hale said, only .06 of an inch of rain fell in his homestead.

Council nixes plea of Arnaz

DEL MAR, Calif. (AP) — The city council has turned down a request by entertainer Desi Arnaz to rent or sell half of the oceanfront home he bought in 1960.

The council, however, said Arnaz could build a room for his 81-year-old mother.

The Cuban-born Arnaz said his mother has been living alone since his father died three years ago and "we don't believe in sending people to an old folks home in my country."

MESSAGE ON CAMPER TO THE POINT Candidate Charley Sanderson here

Treasurer candidate points to 'ripoff'

Charlie Sanderson, a San Antonio candidate for state treasurer, is stumping the state "trying to explain to the Texas voters about the biggest ripoff in Texas."

Sanderson, a former Bexar County auditor and Certified Public Accountant for 21 years, claims that, "In the last five years, Texans have lost over $50 million in interest due to poor investment of state funds."

"The present county treasurer, Warren G. Harding, was appointed by the governor and he serves big banking interests. Most of his campaign funds have come from big banks who have been using state funds interest free for years," Sanderson added.

The candidate explained that in his opinion, "Citizens better get braced if Harding wins the election. The state funds are controlled by three men on the state depository board. One is the state banking commissioner who is a direct appointee of the governor. The second is the State Finance Commissioner who is named by the state finance commission which is made up of nine men appointed by the governor. The treasurer was also appointed upon the death of Jesse James, which makes all three persons governor appointees."

Gerald Smith, a Houston banker, was recently named to the State Finance Commission for six years after

No new taxes. What has it meant for Texas?

The people of Texas like Dolph Briscoe's kind of government because they are getting more from state government now than ever before, but at the same time, they are keeping more of their hard-earned wages for their own use, rather than paying higher taxes for unneeded or ineffective programs.

But the people of Texas understand this, too: when something needs to be done, Dolph Briscoe gets it done.

- During the Briscoe Administration, we have put two and one-half billion additional state dollars into improving our public schools.
- During the Briscoe Administration, we have increased average teacher salaries 53 percent.

- During the Briscoe Administration, we have put increased emphasis on vocational and technical education.
- During the Briscoe Administration, we have increased funding for medical education by 250 percent.
- During the Briscoe Administration, we have increased spending for mental health and mental retardation by 174 percent.
- During the Briscoe Administration, we have expanded programs for the aged by 200 percent.
- During the Briscoe Administration, we have protected our $35 billion investment in the best highway transportation system in the world by enacting the first comprehensive, long-range highway program since 1955 — and we did it without raising the gasoline tax.

Briscoe For Texas
John Hill For Taxes

The choice is clear. Do we want to continue with Dolph Briscoe's style of leadership that stands on a solid record of prosperity without big government and without new taxes? Or do we want the kind of John Hill leadership that will promise anything to gain votes? The kind of leadership that will surely result in more governmental interference in your life and a state income tax next year.

Police beat Auto, billfold missing

A Cadillac vanished from the service lot of the Jack Lewis Dealership, 403 Scurry, sometime between 4 and 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Jack Roberts, 1206 11th, took his 1976 Cadillac Fleetwood Brougham into the dealership for service earlier that day. He was notified around 6 p.m. that his car had been stolen along with a billfold containing $54 and $600 worth of salesman's samples inside.

Total loss was estimated at $8,104.

The Cadillac was stolen in the Wyoming Hotel, 1:40 a.m. today, and ripped off $58 and a bottle of MD-20-20 Wine. According to reports, Hill pretended to be asleep while the men ransacked his room.

Six mishaps were reported Tuesday.

Vehicles driven by Jimmy Lunsford, 2206 S. Monticello, and Naomi S. Marrs, 607 Caylor, collided at West Highway 80 and Airbase, 12:30 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Billy P. Bingham, 1808 W. 3rd, and Bellah L. Couch, Gail Route, collided at 305 Main, 12:47 p.m.

Washington 'mess' is criticized

Jim Baum, U.S. Congressional candidate for the 17th District post being vacated by Omar Burleson, held a news conference at the Sheraton Hotel in Abilene this morning, stating:

"Since last September, perhaps the most frequently asked question I have heard has been 'What can you do about the mess in Washington?'"

"I have been honest in answering that no one can do it all by himself. I have even told people many times that we will have government of the people and for the people only if people get involved. Today, I call your attention to another bureaucratic effort to make an end run around our elected officials in Congress."

"The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (BATF) is inviting public comment through May 22 on what is called 'Centralized National Firearms Registration.' Let me make this much clear. The issue is not whether you personally want or do not want national gun registration. The issue is a government bureau with no authority whatsoever is trying to circumvent the will of our elected representatives."

"Congress has repeatedly refused to pass computerized central records of guns. Now, the bureaucrats of alcohol, tobacco and firearms have decided to make their own law. It was only recently that HEW decided to establish guidelines which would have eliminated most of our rural hospitals. Now, BATF is moving toward national gun registration."

"What can we expect next? Only if our citizens get involved can we stop these brazen bureaucrats from making their own laws. I call on citizens to write the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms to tell them loudly and clearly that we don't want government of the bureaucrats. We want government of elected officials."

A billfold belonging to Jack P. Proctor, Mayo Ranch Motel, was stolen from his pickup sometime between 8 p.m. and midnight Monday. The billfold contained $10 and a number of credit cards.

Three men forced their way into Ronnie Hill's room Bingo, bet petitioning in Missouri

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — A group seeking a popular vote on bingo and pari-mutuel betting in Missouri is going to expand its petition campaign throughout the state.

The group of representatives of service clubs and veterans' organizations in the St. Joseph area, decided Monday night to write to similar groups around the state. It needs a 250,000 signatures to place a Constitutional Amendment on the November ballot. The petition signings must come from throughout the ten Congressional Districts.

The group said Missouri loses money because bingo players go to Kansas and Illinois, and horse race betters go to Nebraska.

The group, led by Carlyle Hadley of the American Legion, started its petition drive recently in northwest Missouri.

'Baum Blast' planned here on election eve

Jim Baum, candidate for U.S. Congressman, 17th District, will wind up his campaign at 8:30 Friday night in Big Spring with a "Baum Blast", open to the public and hosted by the "Baum Squad," which consists of more than 200 Big Spring volunteers who have worked in Baum's behalf the last eight months.

According to Don Brooks, "Baum Blast" chairman, "This is not just Jim's campaign...it's our campaign as Jim has stated many times and we want the public to enjoy the event...to bring their families for free soft drinks, cake and cookies, music and the highlight of the evening, a softball game with Baum behind the plate as catcher, the position he played during his professional baseball days."

Also on hand to run, creep or crawl out of the dugout (according to their ages and physical condition) will be such athletic personalities as Frank Hardesty, Don Finkenbinder, Fred Davis, Oakley Hagood, Milton Isiah, Don Brooks, Evan Evans and Walt Finley.

Site of the event will be the Old Settlers' Pavilion in Comanche Trail Park.

Judge Lee Porter, Baum's campaign chairman, said, "Jim has proven himself all across the 17th District to those who doubted his chances to win eight months ago. We have a winner from Big Spring...Jim Baum."

When contacted for comment, Baum stated, "31,000 miles of travel, 1,000 miles of walking from door-to-door and help from people in all 33 counties have put me in a run-off position in this campaign. I want to say 'thank you, Big Spring.' After eight months of hard work by all of us, let's have one night of fun and relaxation. Come on out and bring your families to Comanche Trail Park Friday night at 8:30. I'm ready to 'play ball'...on the baseball field and in Congress."

'Hurricane force' winds Tower without power

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A thunderstorm packing 80-90 mph "hurricane force" winds lashed the 675-foot Tower of the Americas Tuesday night, shattering a window, knocking out power and forcing the evacuation of about 150 persons from the tower restaurant.

Three persons suffered minor cuts from flying glass, but there were no major injuries, authorities said.

The winds at the 620-foot restaurant level, called "hurricane force" by one official, shattered a 10-foot square plate glass window. The winds blew down a chandelier in the restaurant and threw dishes and utensils across the room.

The power was knocked out for about 20 minutes.

Most of the diners walked off their dinner by trudging down the 1,200 steps to the base of the tower, escorted by fire department personnel.

Others, however, were taken down in elevators powered by emergency generators.

The tower was closed for the remainder of the night and officials began surveying the damage today. There was no immediate damage estimate.

"It (the tower) swayed back and forth and I started to get sick to my stomach," said Ruby King, one of those in the tower. "I thought this is it and maybe I panicked. I just wanted to get out of there."

"The tower was swaying back and forth and I was getting nauseous," said Shirley Mann, a tourist from Hutchinson, Kansas.

Ray Lopez, acting division fire chief, said the evacuation was orderly.

The thunderstorm, spewing high winds, rain and hail, was one of many that rumbled across Central Texas Tuesday night. The San Antonio area was placed under a tornado warning after witnesses reported a twister in nearby Castroville.

Carter, Congress must set example

It is interesting to note that, in effect, President Carter has lent some thought to the matter and admitted to the old homily: "We have met the enemy and they are us."

Inflation, says the chief executive, has become the country's No. 1 problem. He adds he will now give it his personal attention.

CONSIDERING THE fact that the tiger is at our gates, it's comforting to know that Mr. Carter perhaps can spare some time from other projects he has taken, like insisting that Mr. Ian Smith act like a gentleman in the Rhodesian situation, to fence with the people's economic woes.

Putting a governor on the rate of inflation isn't the easiest undertaking under the sun. If Carter is to succeed, he must first convince Congress that it is going to have to police itself. The legislative bodies, in efforts to placate the constituency or the most vocal members thereof, have a tendency to authorize more spending than the government recovers in the way of taxes.

There's also a little matter of regularly voting whopping salary raises for members of the Washington establishment, just to make them feel appreciated. Carter should be setting an example for private industry and labor unions in keeping a tighter rein over such matters.

THE PRESIDENT has a choice. He can resort to realistic political action in the federal sector or he can merely offer the nation his service in battling the ogre. Up to now, he has been content to shout at the problem from a distant mountain top, hoping it will go away.

The inflation menace has been growing by leaps and bounds and it's not going to improve one iota until and unless the president and the lawmakers become a lot more responsible and thrift-minded in matters fiscal.

The whole country is waiting for the chief executive and the members of the Congress to set the good example. So far, the nation has waited in vain.

How it might be

Around the rim

Eileen McGuire

The best explanation I've heard yet for marriage no longer lasting as long as they used to came not from human behavior experts, but from a television movie last week. Two of the main characters were an elderly couple reflecting on their 40-year marriages.

"Marriages don't last as long as they used to," said he to her.

"They don't have to," she observed. "Who could have afforded divorce when we were young?"

Profoundly simple.

SOCIETY HAS gone from ostracizing the divorced person to welcoming him with at least half-open arms. A few months back, a story in the Herald told how corporations now value bachelors in executive positions because of their flexible lifestyles. Not so long ago, a man had to be married in order to get ahead because marriage was a sign of stability.

"Society accepts divorce much better than it used to," the gentleman in the movie could have said.

"It has to," his partner could have replied, "since two out of three married couples do get divorces."

As divorce becomes even more acceptable, perhaps someday fashionable, society writers of the next century may have a new kind of ceremony to report on.

Out of the fine print of the public records and into the Sunday spotlight comes the divorce announcement complete with a wedding picture torn in half. Try this on for size:

Gilda Gorilla, plaintiff, became the ex-wife of Herman Gorilla, defendant, in a hearing held Monday at the courthouse with the Honorable Will Decide presiding.

She is the former wife of William Wolf, Austin, and he is the ex of Igot Ridothim, 1078 Plentyrich Lane.

THE COUPLE were uncoupled before a solid oak bench featuring a matching gavel. Background sounds were provided by the stenographer.

Standing up for the pair were their attorneys.

The plaintiff chose a faded bluejean pantsuit for the occasion and carried a brown manila envelope of incriminating photographs.

Following the final decree, Ms. Gorilla was the guest of honor at the Dew Drop Inn. Beer and pretzels were served.

Preceding the hearing, Ms. Gorilla was honored at a shower in her attorney's office at which time she was presented with the house, the car, and the kids.

The defendant will make his home in Austin following a freedom flight to Las Vegas.

According to Ms. Gorilla, the marriage was dissolved because, "The big ape was always out monkeying around with somebody else. The only place I ever got to go was bananas."

Travesty-bound

William F. Buckley, Jr.

The trial of Anatoly Shcharansky nears, and unfair though it is to the defendant to dwell on it, much hangs on the procedure and the outcome of extrapersonal interests. Shcharansky is, we can safely assume, innocent. But he is an important pawn in whom the Soviet Union has greatly invested. Perversely, the Communists have been greatly aided by the astonishing behavior of the President of the United States and one of his key security assistants, David Aaron.

BRIEFLY ON the matter of Shcharansky. He is a computer mathematician and a chess player who in April 1973 applied for permission to emigrate to Israel. Permission denied. Why? Because he "possessed classified information," a charge at which everyone in Moscow who is permitted to laugh, laughed. Shcharansky had been employed in the Moscow Research Institute for Oil and Gas, which is officially unclassified. Any organization in Russia that is officially unclassified is about as secret as the Bronx Zoo. Shcharansky's offense is that a) he is Jewish — the Soviet Union's frenzied campaign against the Jews is unabated; b) he sought to leave the country; and c) by joining the forlorn committee of Soviet citizens who endeavored to monitor Soviet compliance with the Helsinki pact, he insulted the people who signed that pact.

Thus far, routine Soviet stuff. But then a year ago, having arrested Shcharansky and kept him from contact even with his own family, the Soviet Union announced that he would be tried for treason, an offense that not commonly brings a death sentence. The prosecutors came up with one Dr. Sanya Lipavsky (Sanya is a he in Russian) who had shared an apartment for a few months with Shcharansky during his bachelor days. Lipavsky, the Soviet press reported, had confessed to the Soviet Union in great remorse that during 1975 he had acted for the CIA as an agent and, as a repentant Jewish dissident, he was now presumably ready to testify against Shcharansky, again presumably a co-conspirator. Once again, it is not clear what services Lipavsky was in a position to render to the CIA since he was a doctor in a clinic that examined the taxi and bus drivers before licensing them, but never mind.

A few months later, in June of last year, President Carter announced at a press conference that Shcharansky "has never had any sort of relationship, to our knowledge, with the CIA." But then last March, David Aaron, an important assistant to Brzezinski, tipped off Time magazine that in fact Lipavsky had indeed been active with the CIA. Between them — Carter and Aaron — about every protocol in the spy business was violated.

The residual problem is that if the Soviet Union "proves" — i.e., presents hard evidence that Lipavsky was in fact a CIA agent — Carter is labeled a liar. That is unpleasant, but not unendurable. What is truly damaging is the prospect for Soviet dissidents who have had the sympathy of the outside world, but would stand to forfeit much of it if one of their members was proved to be an agent of the United States.

Never mind the mitigating facts — almost certainly, Lipavsky was a double agent, in this case hired by the KGB to approach the CIA for long enough to forge a synthetic link expressly for the purpose of disclosing that link in publicly useful circumstances. Lipavsky's background and motivations are hardly likely to be probed in a Soviet trial.

Speaking of which, Shcharansky has been given an old Soviet hack for a lawyer, one Sylvia Dubrovskaya, called out of retirement. She is a close friend of the Presidium Municipal College of Barristers in Moscow. Bliethly, the Soviet Union informed the outraged friends of Shcharansky that if they wanted another lawyer, they were perfectly free to hire one provided they paid his fee.

Stress can create temporary diabetes

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A son of mine who is living away from home has been told he has chemical diabetes. Would you be so kind as to comment on this condition? How does it differ from regular diabetes? — Mrs. C.A.

Dear Doctor: I'm 23 and going on my third pregnancy. Everytime I have gotten pregnant, I have become diabetic after delivery. I'm no longer a diabetic, I'm told. My doctor advises me not to have a large family because of this problem. What causes the change in my body? I still watch my sugar. What are the chances of my being a full-fledged diabetic in my later years? — Mrs. C.E.

Chemical or "latent" diabetes seems to be involved in both of the above questions. It can occur in individuals whose families have a history of diabetes.

The chief difference is that in the latent type there may be no overt signs, such as excessive thirst or urination. The fasting blood sugar may be normal, but become elevated under conditions of stress. Witness Mrs. C.E.'s problem with her pregnancies, a common stress factor in this. Having had this condition, she is wise to heed her doctor's advice to avoid having a larger family.

A chemical diabetic can go either way. He may revert to a non-diabetic state or become overt. At Mrs. C.E.'s age she might expect hers to develop into a full-blown state in from 10 to 15 years. She is wise to continue to watch her diet and weight.

For either of the above persons, weight-control and frequent monitoring of blood sugar is important to determine which way the balance is tipping. Both individuals are fortunate. Diabetes, especially this type, remains one of the most undiagnosed diseases.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What do they do when they give you a brainwave test? Does it hurt? How long does it take them to do it? Will it hurt your hair at all? Do you have to stay in the hospital? Is it the same as a brain scan? — Ms. F.F.

A brainwave test is called an electroencephalogram (EEG). There are various forms of brain scans. The EEG is one.

Tiny electrodes (contacts that can pick up electric current) and are placed on the scalp in various selected areas. A sensitive receiver picks up the electrical currents given off by the brain's cells and records them on a chart for the doctor to examine. To give you an idea, the different levels of waves can detect the smallest disturbances in any area of the outer brain or its surrounding envelope. It can distinguish waves caused during excitement, relaxation, drowsiness, sleep, or deep sleep.

The patient lies quietly for an hour or so during the test. There is no pain and it doesn't harm the hair. It can be done on an outpatient basis. That is, you don't have to be admitted to a hospital to have it done.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it all right to start a young child on coffee and tea?

My four-year-old has developed a taste for coffee and will drink it right along with my husband at breakfast. He thinks it makes him one of the guys, I guess. Will this harm him? — Mrs. K.H.

Not a good idea, and for two reasons. It may be occupying space better taken by more wholesome drinks, like milk or juice. Secondly, it is a stimulant, and four-year-olds can do without the additional stimulation.

However, if the child has come to the conclusion that being like daddy demands his morning coffee, there may be little you can do to change his mind at this point. If he insists on this, make his coffee caffeine-less.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For a better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: In our church, when the sermon is finished, our minister invites people to "walk the aisle," presumably to "accept Christ." All they do, however, is sign a card, and the congregation votes on their acceptance. Do you believe this is all that is required to really meet God? — P.C.

DEAR P.C.: It depends a great deal upon the individual and the depth of conviction and resolve they possess when they "walk the aisle." I am sure that many people make a lasting decision this way. I am equally sure, however, that others need further prayer, counseling and instruction. In our crusade, we go to great lengths to make sure that everyone is dealt with adequately, and yet we know that some who come forward are never brought to a meaningful decision.

I believe that all churches and all evangelists should consider the point you make. When a person is moved to make a public acknowledgment of Christ, he should know that it is just the first step in a growing relationship. New believers should be guided painstakingly and carefully until the leader is sure that these people comprehend what a Christian decision really means. We read that new believers in the early church "devoted themselves to the apostles' teaching and to the fellowship, to the breaking of bread and to prayer" (Acts 2:42, New International Version).

Don't fault your minister for his invitation. Responsibility for growth — that is, providing a convert with nourishment and encouragement — is really the job of the whole church.

Ultimately, we Christians function like the catalyst in a chemical reaction — we merely facilitate events. The work of introducing people to God is something He has reserved for Himself. We are honored, however, to be co-laborers in the divine process.

WASHINGTON — While an audience of aghast Americans watched the "Holocaust" television series, the governments of the world, including our own, were averting their eyes from the dreadful extermination of millions of innocent Cambodian men, women and children.

Scarcely a voice has been raised in the ivory tower of the United Nations to protest the Cambodian slaughter.

President Carter has been slow to denounce the wholesale butchery, which parallels the Nazi nightmare in sheer brutality.

The death toll from beatings, shootings, starvation and forced labor may have reached 2.5 million victims since April 17, 1975, when the communists seized control of Cambodia.

Ignored by the outside world, perhaps one-third of the Cambodian people have been annihilated. It is as if the entire population of Kansas has been eradicated.

THOUSANDS HAVE died of atrocities for no other reason than they had attended school or acquired a small holding. Witnesses have told of young people being executed for demonstrating affection for one another. "People were arrested and executed," states an intelligence report, "to reduce the number of lazy persons."

What is happening to the gentle people of Cambodia is so monstrous that the mind rejects the grisly truth.

The charges are based on the private accounts of Cambodians who have fled in terror and communist defectors who have escaped party purges.

The first reports reached us less than two months after the communist take over. We have now accumulated a two-inch stack of refugee accounts, verified photos and medical records.

We have also had access to confidential documents and analyses from the State Department, Justice Department, Central Intelligence Agency and the White House.

The evidence is so overwhelming that we call upon the United Nations, the White House and Congress to condemn Cambodia as a criminal state, as Public Enemy No. 1 among nations. We urge Americans, who believe in human decency, the worth of human life, to write to Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim at the United Nations, New York City, 10017, in behalf of the oppressed Cambodian people. Letters may also be needed to move the president and Congress.

Doomsday came to Cambodia almost immediately after the Khmer Rouge guerrillas seized the country. Residents of the major cities were forcibly evacuated from their homes and sent on death marches to primitive camps in the backwoods of the country.

NONE WAS SPARED — not the old, the sick nor infants in arms. They were prodded for days by Khmer Rouge bayonets under scorching sun without food, medicine, shelter or water. Countless thousands failed to survive, victims of agonizing hardship and deliberate torture by their guards. Even today, Cambodia's cities are ghost towns with only Khmer Rouge bullyboys strutting in the streets.

Cambodia's villages were similarly shattered. Inhabitants were rounded up en masse and herded to government compulsory labor communes far from their homes. In some attested instances, entire villages suspected of having opposed the Khmer Rouge were wiped out.

One eyewitness told of village elders and children alike being clubbed to death with pickaxe handles and heavy haws. In one instance, 500 villagers were bloodily slain. In another, 120 families were beaten and shot to death.

Those who survived the original summary executions and reached the heavily guarded resettlement camps lived with sudden death every day.

Khmer Rouge thugs and Communist commissars have been instructed to "eliminate" all Cambodians, including children, who are not from the peasant or working class. Indeed, everyone whom the communists regard as tainted by the former society are ticketed for execution.

EVEN THE PEASANTS have been punished for the most remote ties to the past. They were required to fill out forms, according to intelligence reports, "not only to maintain a rough census of the population but to try to ferret out individuals with any connection to the former government.

The communist cadre constantly urged the populace to be completely honest when filling out these forms.

Oftentimes simple farmers or workers would admit to some remote relations with the past government, for which they were often earmarked for harsh treatment."

The fabric of family life is being deliberately eradicated by the new government. On arrival at the rural work camps, wives and husbands are separated. Their children are taken away and placed in special government-run youth camps. Even love and marriage are carefully controlled.

Life in the camps is subhuman and the working conditions inhuman. The living often have reason to envy the dead. On a typical day, men, women and youngsters of all ages are taken to sweltering rice and vegetable fields to work under trigger-happy guards. A dish of rice or rice gruel is their standard fare from 5 in the morning until 10 at night. Death is the penalty for trying to hoard any of rice, crayfish, vegetables or snails available in the fields. Some desperate workers have been executed for trying to sneak a drink of water.

The communist authorities have ordered the people to increase rice production to three tons per hectare (2.4 acres). Some people muttered that the fields could not produce more than three tans (storage jars) per hectare. Those whose complaints were reported to the authorities, an intelligence report, "were considered thwarting progress and were arrested and imprisoned."

Even knowledgeable observers hesitate to say how many Cambodians have perished in this modern-day Holocaust. But one State Department source told us: "We frankly don't know how many Cambodians are left. But if the trend continues, they may become extinct."

Carter due to sign two money bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two bills aiding financially troubled farmers are drawing close to final congressional action and their expected signing by President Carter.

Senate and House conferees are expected to meet soon and easily resolve the differences between a package of changes in rural and farm credit programs the Senate adopted Tuesday on a 92-0 vote. The House passed its version last week.

The House has scheduled the final vote for Thursday on a second measure. It would allow the president to raise the federally guaranteed rates of return on wheat, feedgrains, cotton and rice whenever he asks growers to idle cropland as a way to boost their market prices.

The Senate approved that product of House-Senate conferees Tuesday on a voice vote with two minutes' discussion by the four senators present. The conferees' earlier and more extensive proposal, backed by the American Agriculture protest group, was attacked by Carter and killed by the House on April 12.

Carter has said that he would accept the authority to change prices since present law requires that the congressionally set "target prices" be adjusted only by a fixed formula.

But he has said only the wheat target would be raised this year, from $3 to $3.40 a bushel, a $600 million budget addition if the average post-harvest market price is $3.

The Agriculture Department pays eligible farmers the difference between the target and a lower average.

"This is a modest bill that provides limited help to the nation's farmers," said Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., chairman of the agriculture committee. "It is far short of what I think is needed to restore vitality to the agricultural economy. But it appears to be the best farm legislation attainable under existing circumstances."

"This is the best we can accomplish," said Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., prime author of the defeated bill. "We are at the mercy of the administration."

The credit bill has three parts. One raises the limits on traditional ownership and operating loans to reflect the larger farms prevalent today. It also opens the programs to corporations and partnerships principally involved in farming.

The second sets up a 20-month program under which up to $4 billion in federally guaranteed or insured loans of up to $500,000 each would be available to proven, farmers who need to refinance existing debts or face bankruptcy because of "economic stress." The House has a $400,000 limit.

The third raises from one-half to three-fourths the amount of a rural water or sewer project that can be paid for through a grant from the Farmers Home Administration.

Both credit measures, three years in the making, have general administration approval.

Peanut power vying with 'Sun Day'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Peanut power is vying with solar power in the Agriculture Department's "Sun Day" exhibit today.

Sun Day was proclaimed by President Carter as a way of recognizing solar energy as an alternate power source. The USDA, like many other federal agencies, has a display to illustrate the sun's benefits.

Take peanuts. One exhibit in the department's administration building which opened Monday for a five-day public appearance features peanuts which "store the energy they get from the sun underground" as they grow for about 120 days.

Particularly among USDA employees who helped themselves freely, that the box containing them was empty most of the time.

Raisins are also products of the sun since they are dried grapes, another display pointed out. There are free samples of raisins, too, provided by Sun Maid in 2,800 one-ounce cartons. Like the peanuts, they were in short supply on the eve of Sun Day.

The department's $36,000 Sun Day exhibit included a number of other displays which featured the use of solar energy, ranging from models of solar-heated homes to sun-powered peanut driers.

Imports of foreign agricultural products in the first five months of the fiscal year that began last Oct. 1 totaled $5.4 billion, up six percent from $5.1 billion in the same period a year earlier, says the Agriculture Department.

The import value of coffee and vegetable oils were down from a year earlier but those were more than offset by increases for cocoa, cattle, beef and veal, fruits, vegetables, sugar and tobacco, the department said Tuesday.

Bettge is recognized for engineering work

An outstanding performance award was presented to Richard F. Bettge, civil engineer assigned to the Big Spring Area Office of U.S. Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service.

Bettge was recognized for outstanding leadership in engineering work in the Big Spring area. His territory includes 12 field offices located in a 14-county area extending from the southern boundary of Mitchell to Ector Counties northward through Yoakum, Terry and Lynn Counties.

Area Conservationist Earl D. Archer presented him with a Certificate of Merit signed by State Conservationist George C. Marks, Temple. Bettge was cited for excellence in supervision and training in engineering functions as well as direct engineering assistance to farmer's and rancher's in the application of conservation practices.

He also provided effective assistance in the department's rural development program and in the basic goals of equal opportunity employment.

Bettge has served the Big Spring Area Office for the past two years. He and his wife, Cathie, and young daughter, Lisa, reside at 2717 Cindy Lane.

Beef prices will go up

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Rising prices for hamburger meat signal the beginning of a period of increasing beef prices that will last from three to five years, an agricultural economist says.

"Beef prices will go up," says Dr. Herrell F. DeGraff, former president of the American Meat Institute.

DeGraff, addressing an agribusiness conference here Tuesday, said U.S. ranchers have completed a cycle of liquidating their cattle herds and are moving into a new cycle of rebuilding their herds.

This means that more animals will be held back from feed lots and markets for breeding purposes, he said. The resulting shortage in the marketplace will drive prices up.

DeGraff said a recent increase in hamburger meat prices from about 79 cents a pound to 99 cents a pound is the earliest indicator of what lies ahead.

Former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, who also spoke to the conferees, lashed out at the farm policies of the Carter administration during a news conference.

He said the Carter administration's farm policy has turned the United States into the "residual supplier" of the world's grain needs, storing food while other countries sell their harvests at top prices.

The plants break through the soil to receive the sun's energy, bloom, and then turn their stems back into the earth where they continue to grow and produce peanuts," the exhibit says.

To make the display more enticing, the department has free samples available. About 200 pounds of roasted peanuts in the shell were provided by the National Peanut Association to be doled out to visitors.

But the free peanuts were so popular Tuesday, par-

Sun's days are numbered

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It's Sun Day, a celebration of the seemingly inexhaustible supply of energy from our friendly neighborhood star. But the sun's days are numbered. Like the Earth, the sun is running short of fuel. For our purposes, it's already lived more than half its useful life. And before it goes out it will burn our planet to a sterile cinder, then vaporize it. But there's no cause for immediate alarm. We have 1 billion or 2 billion years to prepare.

As Vanderbilt University astronomer Dr. Douglas Hall said, "Although there are a lot of questions to be answered in astronomy one of the things we do, frankly, understand quite well is what has happened to and what is going to happen to our sun."

To understand how the sun will die, you must know something of its life. A small star, one of about 100 billion in our galaxy, it was formed about 5 billion years ago from a cloud of interstellar gas and dust. Composed of about 70 percent hydrogen, 27 percent helium and 3 percent heavier elements, the cloud contained enough matter to make it contract under its own gravitational pull. What's left is the largest object within 26.1 trillion miles.

On the sun, the pressure of gravity turns hydrogen and helium into a superhot plasma. What makes sunshine is the thermonuclear fusion of hydrogen under the star's tremendous internal pressure. Hydrogen atoms in the 27-million-degree fahrenheit core are turned to helium.

Four hydrogen atoms produce one helium atom. But a helium atom has an atomic weight .0287 less than four hydrogen atoms. The missing weight is changed to energy.

Every second the sun converts 4.5 million tons of hydrogen — producing enough heat to melt a column of ice 3.5 miles thick and 93 million miles tall. The sun's surface temperature is 10,800 degrees.

About 1 billion years ago the sun was 10 percent smaller and dimmer and Earth about 10 percent cooler. A billion or 2 billion years hence the sun will be 15 percent larger, its light will double, and so will Earth's temperature.

About 4.5 billion years from now, the oceans will boil away. A few hundred million years after that, when the sun's hydrogen is consumed, its core will contract and its temperature will rise to 180 million degrees. The helium inside will flash and the star will rapidly expand to become what astronomers call a red giant, 1,000 times more luminous. Engulfed by the wave of energy, Earth will vanish in a puff of smoke. Nuclear reactions will continue until fuel is exhausted, the giant losing much of its mass to space.

Priscilla Davis sues husband

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Priscilla Davis has charged in two civil suits that her estranged husband, millionaire Cullen Davis, wounded her and killed her 12-year-old daughter in a "barbaric" 1976 shooting spree at the $6 million Davis mansion.

The two state court suits were filed Tuesday against Davis, a Fort Worth businessman who has been acquitted of capital murder charges stemming from the death of his 12-year-old stepdaughter Andrea Wilborn.

The girl was one of two killed in August 1976 in a "barbaric" 1976 shooting spree at the $6 million Davis mansion.

Davis still faces charges in connection with the slaying of his estranged wife's lover, Stan Farr, and the wounding of his Mrs. Davis and a family friend. Davis is free on bond.

In one suit, Mrs. Davis sought an unspecified amount of damages for her injuries. She alleged in the suit that Davis waited in ambush for her and "intentionally and maliciously" shot her in the lower chest.

In the second suit, Mrs. Davis, 36, sought damages for the loss of her daughter and asked that punitive damages be awarded "in an amount that would constitute punishment of defendant, Thomas Cullen Davis, as an example for the public good."

No money amounts were specified, but attorneys said they will file petitions later to specify the amounts. It is believed Mrs. Davis will seek more than $1 million in each suit.

Mrs. Davis testified in Davis' Amarillo murder trial that Davis gunned down Farr and then shot her.

The jury did not convict on the basis of testimony by Mrs. Davis and Gavrel. Davis did not take the stand and his attorneys concentrated instead on attacking Mrs. Davis' morals and lifestyle to discredit her testimony.

Prosecutors could not have forced Davis to testify in the criminal trial, but Mrs. Davis' attorneys could call him in a civil trial of the suits and force him to answer questions or invoke the Fifth Amendment.

Different rules of evidence. Cruelty to dog charges dropped

LIBERTY HILL, Texas (AP) — A charge of cruelty to animals against a man who shot and crippled a Doberman pinscher he said was threatening his child was dropped Monday.

Justice of the Peace R. V. Gann dismissed the charge against Mark Hyden, 26, a construction worker.

"I'm sure that if there had been any threat to my child I'd have blown the dog away," said Gann.

Hyden said he shot the dog April 8 in his backyard after it was "growling and showing his teeth" at Hyden's 6-year-old son.

Leslie Reaves, owner of the dog, said the dog would not even bark at someone unless provoked.

Apply and the required standard of proof would be less than in the murder trial.

In filing the suits, Mrs. Davis' attorneys cited a 1977 ruling by the Texas Supreme Court that wives may sue their husbands who intentionally injure them.

Davis and his wife have been embroiled in a divorce suit since 1976. Trial in the divorce case is scheduled to begin here Aug. 18.

SHOES OR NO SHOES: SHE'S A WINNER — Rachel Ockels, 9-year-old Dallas, Tex., 3rd grade student, is shown with an angel drawing she made to enter competition. After much discussion as to whether angels wore shoes, Rachel decided to keep the angel in brown shoes. Her drawing won school, city-wide, and finally state competition. The art will appear on the Texas 1979 Christmas Seal stamps.

Angels can't walk around barefoot, says Christmas Seals contest winner

DALLAS (AP) — Because a nine-year-old girl was concerned about angels and the possibility that they might get struck by "thunder," there's going to be an angel clad in brown shoes and a cocktail dress on the 1979 Christmas Seals.

"You can't have angels walking around all day barefoot. They might get struck by thunder. You know they have thunder, even in heaven," said little Rachel Ockels in explaining why the angel she drew for a contest at her elementary school is wearing any kind of shoes, let alone brown shoes.

Despite the fears of her art teacher at Lida Hooe Elementary school about the shoes detracting from Rachel's angel, the picture won top honors at the school. Later, it won the Dallas city contest and then won top honors in Texas, meaning that it will represent the state and appear on the 1979 Christmas Seals.

"I drew the angel wearing brown shoes. Everybody kept telling me angels don't wear brown shoes — particularly brown shoes," the third-grader said.

"But I was drawing the angel in a cocktail dress and if you wear a cocktail dress, you've got to have shoes," she is quick to explain, demonstrating her knowledge of fashion.

Mrs. Kay Giddens, Rachel's mother, said she was surprised when she was told that the picture took top honors in Texas.

"We were shocked. I had no idea what the picture even looked like. The original drawing is in New York, but they did send us a reproduction," Mrs. Giddens said.

Dear Abby

He's Got His Wife's Number

DEAR ABBY: Recently I attended a 30-year reunion of my high school graduation class in a small town in California. My husband came along and I introduced him as "No. 5." My former classmates treated me as though I had leprosy.

Abby, not everybody marries their high school sweethearts, and many of us have not remained in an unhappy marriage just to save face. I grew up in an era when it was taboo to live with someone before marriage, and a sin to try someone out in bed. So consequently I made four mistakes in a row. Luckily I kept looking, and I found my present husband to whom I have been married for 10 years. I've never been happier.

I'm not saying that being married five times is something to be proud of. What I am saying is, it's not ag to be ashamed of either. And aren't we all entitled in this life to our own pursuit of happiness? Sign me... FIFTH TIME AROUND

DEAR FIFTH: I see your point, but when you introduce your husband as "No. 5," you give the impression that you're proud of it.

Don't be defensive. Just introduce your husband by his name — not his number — and you won't need an antidote for leprosy.

DEAR ABBY: I have a boyfriend and we were kissing. Right in the middle of it he said, "Boy, you sure do kiss good, but not as good as Carol or Cindy." What would you do if your boyfriend compared you with other girls? JUST TURNED 12

DEAR JUST: I'd either get another boyfriend, or I'd try to improve my kissing.

DEAR ABBY: With the Catholic Church becoming so liberal these past few years, can you tell me whether the church now permits its members to join the Masonic Order? Or is it the Masons who won't take Catholics? CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: The general prohibition against Catholics joining the Masonic Order remains in force under the present law of the church. I am told that Masons would accept Catholics — if the Catholic Church would permit them to join.

DEAR ABBY: Re SUSPICIOUS who found hidden in his wife's closet six beautiful sheer nightgowns which he had never seen before: This appears to be a sheer case of negligee! SLEUTH

DEAR ABBY: Our car was damaged by a drunken driver who works at the same factory as my husband. The estimated cost of having it repaired is $700.

My husband didn't want to have the other man booked for drunken driving, so instead of calling the police to report it right away, my husband called the man's wife to take him home and sober him up.

The wife couldn't sober him up, so she came back to the scene of the accident and told the police that she was the driver of the car, instead of her husband. My husband backed her up.

My husband and I have been going round and round about this. I told him that he was dead wrong to have agreed to such a thing — the police should have been notified at once, and if they booked the other man for drunk driving, it might teach him a good lesson. I don't think drunken drivers should be protected. What do you think? DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: I'm with you. Not only is the drunken driver now free to repeat the offense (and possibly cause a more serious accident), but also your husband is a party to falsifying an accident report — a serious offense!

Tell that dude to hit the road

Dear Doctor: I need help. I'm 14 and have been seeing this guy 24 for about a year. After about nine months of him trying to make love to me — he finally succeeded. Now he talks about me like dirt to all his friends. But when he wants something, he comes to me and I give in. I just happen to love the dude. I know he tells everybody I'm easy. How can I stop this foolish stuff.

T.U., Piqua, O.
Dear T.U.: Tell this "dude" to get lost. Any 24 year old guy that sees a 14-year-old girl has many problems. For opens he has committed a crime. Statutory rape. You are a young girl with a great life ahead of you. Don't let this "louse" ruin it. Don't see this guy again, no matter how much you think you love him.

Laura Green honored with parlor shower

A bridal shower honoring Laura Jo Ellen Green, bride-elect of Jerry Carusetta, was held in the parlor of Wesley United Methodist Church Saturday.

Refreshments were served from an oval table draped with a white linen cloth and centered with a basket of yellow roses, white carnations and blue snapdragons around a white dove.

Corsages were presented to the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Kenneth N. Green, and her grandmother, Mrs. J.A. Faulkenberry.

Hostesses for the affair were Mrs. Ben Boadle, Mrs. Vic Keyes, Mrs. Bob Bedford, Mrs. R.A. Sadler, Mrs. Floyd Pringle, Mrs. Kenneth Born, Mrs. Dub Bryant, Mrs. Maurice Wright, Mrs. Ray Anderson, Ms. W.D. Lovelace and Kenda Born.

A set of cookware and an electric mixer was presented to Miss Green by the hostesses.

It was announced that each Home Demonstration Club will display three crafts at their membership tea which will be held from 2 to 4 p.m., May 8, at the fellowship hall of the First Methodist Church.

Highlighting the tea will be a book review by Mrs. Clyde Thomas. The tea will be hosted by the presidents of the clubs.

Newly elected officers of the council are Mrs. James Johnston, chairman; Mrs. Bob Wren, vice chairman; Mrs. L.Z. Rhodes, secretary and Mrs. C.A. Smauley, treasurer.

The council will meet for its next regular business meeting at 2 p.m., June 5, at the extension office.

Ballots becoming longer

Election trends

HOUSTON (AP)—One of these days soon a majority of the members of Congress may be news media personalities whose names and faces are familiar to the hometown voters.

At least that is the conclusion reached by a Texas A&M University political science professor after a recent research project.

James Dyer, in an interview, said the "longer the election ballots become and the more people break away from the straight party lines, the more likely they will vote for someone whose name looks familiar."

"And in most cases that name has been a media personality, particularly persons on television whose voices are heard and face are seen each night in thousands of homes."

"The newspaper reporters and radio broadcasters don't come across nearly as personal to their audience. People don't feel they know them as well," he said.

"But the television newscasters or the ones who report the weather are seen night after night in the homes of the voters. They are familiar names and familiar faces and ones that the voters learn to trust and would be glad to vote for in an election, especially when there are many candidates," the professor said.

Dyer's research project embraced the congressional elections of 1974 and 1976. He found 17 members of Congress who had worked in some media prior to election.

He said, "In our research we counted people who were editors or such before the election. We discounted those who were owners of newspapers, television or radio stations. This gave us a truer picture.

"Granted, 17 persons does not sound like many when you consider we looked at more than 400 persons who occupied the two houses of Congress during a four year period. But we were looking for some kind of trend and these figures gave us the desire to explore the possibilities further and that we will do," He said.

The professor said perhaps "the news media people may never replace the attorneys as the controlling force in Congress, but it is a possibility."

Dyer said his study also showed that most voters are unaware of the candidates and the issues in congressional races. "Often they know nothing about the candidates and that is why an individual with name recognition has a tremendous advantage."

"Voters," he said, "are relating to the candidate with the most appealing personality, and particularly as more and more people run for office the more strange becomes the voters' behavior."

TOURING WEST TEXAS — District Judge Franklin Spears (right) of San Antonio, a candidate for the Texas Supreme Court, paused in Big Spring Tuesday on behalf of his candidacy. He confers here with Mike Ezzell, State Representative, who was in Big Spring to handle some business matters. Ezzell is running unopposed in the 63rd Legislative District.

Candidate for Supreme Court is visitor here

Franklin Spears of San Antonio came to Big Spring Tuesday to remind voters that there are state races other than the gubernatorial derby being waged between Dolph Briscoe and John Hill.

Spears happens to be a candidate for the Texas Supreme Court and he says too little attention is focused upon such important races by the constituency.

Son of a former state senator, Spears was elected judge of the 57th Judicial District of Texas in 1968. He also served as presiding judge of the 11 district courts of Bexar County and as Juvenile Judge and Jury Supervising Judge.

He served in the Texas House of Representatives and was named to the State Senate in a special election held in December, 1961.

A candidate for Attorney General of Texas in the 1966 Democratic election in 1966, Spears was defeated in the runoff although he received 45 per cent of the vote. He is 47 years of age.

A veteran, he was admitted to the Bar of Texas in August, 1954. After his discharge from service in December, 1956, Spears returned to San Antonio to resume the practice of law.

Spears has presided over nearly 500 jury trials.

Married to the former Rebecca Errington of McAllen, they have three sons, Scott, 24, is a law student at St. Mary's University in San Antonio, Carleton, 19, is a sophomore at the University of Texas and John, 10, is a student in San Antonio.

Spears said the best testimonial for his candidacy was the fact that he was endorsed by 81.4 per cent of those participating in a recent lawyers' poll.

TOP STUDENT — Mark Root, son of MSgt. and Mrs. Wm. A. Root, Luke AFB and formerly Webb AFB, was given the Presidential Award at Howard College at ceremonies Monday night. He was cited as outstanding in his department and in extra-curricular activities at the college. He will complete his education at the University of Arizona.

"We've got a feeling you're gonna like us."

Steve Smith, the anchorman on Houston's KHOU-TV, said despite the study, "I can say no, absolutely no, about any political ambitions. Such a thing has never entered my mind. Being an anchorman doesn't qualify anybody for Congress."

"I will say this," Smith added, "we do need more nonprofessional politicians in Congress. We need more persons who teach school, or dig ditches, or are homemakers. But me run for office? Forget it. I'm a newsmen."

Judy Jordan, anchorman for KDFW-TV in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, said:

"I personally have no interest in running for any office at all. I don't think I'll ever change that stand. The exposure certainly does help, and it has been proven to help a number of people who have run for office."

Dyer said the key to the "whole thing is the political parties. If they get stronger, or as strong as they once were, we won't see many personalities in Congress. The parties once handled their own screening process, wanting to bring their own people up through the ranks."

"But if the parties get weaker, as has been the trend, we will see name identification become more and more important, and that means more news media personalities in Congress and in our state legislatures," he said.

16th bid for Congress

'Front Porch' Harmon not running very hard

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP) — The years haven't dampened the political ardor of 74-year-old Randall Harmon, best known for paying himself $100 a month rent to use his front porch as an office the one time he got elected to Congress.

He's signed up to try again this year. Today marks his 16th bid for Congress in 34 years. But he spends 12 hours a day driving his taxi and makes it clear he's not running very hard.

"I might campaign some on Election Day. Then again I might drive my cab. And then again I just might stop and have a drink with some friends," he said. "It probably all will amount to about the same results anyway."

During his two-year term from 1958-60, Harmon left a legacy not soon forgotten in Indiana's 10th District.

What caused all the fuss was the disclosure that the federal government was paying him $100 a month for rent on his district office, which happened to be located on his front porch.

There was also some dispute about the salary paid to his administrative assistant, who doubled as his wife.

"People still call me 'Front Porch.' They say,

"Oh, yeah, you're the guy who got in some trouble about his porch. What was that deal all about?" he recounted. "And I tell them I hired my wife and my porch and they called it nepotism."

"My wife moved out 10 years ago, but I still got the same porch," he said. "I'm keeping what they call a low profile. I haven't spent a dime on this campaign and I only went to one political meeting and that was as a favor to some guy who hangs out at the same doughnut shop I do."

Harmon is on the ballot as a Democrat this year against incumbent Phil Sharp. But he's flexible about his party affiliation.

"I ran for Congress in 1944, 1946, 1948, 1950 and 1952 as a Republican and lost all five times," he recalled. "I got mad when the Republicans nominated Eisenhower for president over Sen. Bob Taft, so I changed over and ran as a Democrat and lost in 1954 and 1956 and then I won in 1958."

He was voted out in 1960 and ran again as a Democrat in 1962, 1966, 1970, 1972, 1974 and 1974, losing each time.

"I had some friction at home so I didn't run in 1964 and 1966," Harmon said. "Some people have told me it didn't seem like an election those years without me on the ballot."

So the bearded candidate says he will keep running for the 10th District seat "until I die or until I'm unlucky enough to win again."

JOHN DEAN

Dean dislikes 'Judas' image

ST. LOUIS (AP) — John Dean says he doesn't like the idea of being looked on as a Judas who turned on former President Richard Nixon.

Dean said he was disappointed that Nixon wrote in his recently published memoirs that Dean had "turned on him."

"If he views me as his Judas, well, I would say eyeball-to-eyeball with him that I don't view him as my 'Christ,'" Dean told a St. Louis University audience Monday night.

Dean, who served four months in prison on a charge of obstruction of justice in the Watergate case, said he has a clear conscience because he told the truth.

"I have no amnesia (about the scandal) like some of the other witnesses did," he said, adding that the break-in at Democratic headquarters was "incredibly stupid." He said he knew of no "deep, dark secrets" that could have been uncovered by the burglars.

Changes in insurance ads likely

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Insurance ads would have to spell out any policy features that would deny or reduce benefits under new rules laid out for the State Insurance Board on Tuesday.

Cat ordinance wins approval by whisker

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — There'll soon be a kitty quota in this Miami suburb which has some of the toughest zoning laws in the state.

The city commission Tuesday passed an ordinance limiting families to four adult cats per residence. The vote was 3-2.

Some Coral Gables residents waggishly questioned the language of the ordinance, which outlaws ownership of more than four "carnivorous quadrupeds belonging to the feline family."

Asked whether three-legged cats would be exempt from the quota, City Attorney John Little said, no, he assumed the ordinance would limit amputee cats as well.

Other ordinances in the city included bans against owning more than four dogs or one chicken, duck, snake or goat, building a treehouse, building a chikee (a thatched Indian hut), leaving a garage door open overnight, and parking a pickup truck, camper or boat trailer in a driveway overnight.

The board asked for minor revisions and indicated it would hold a public hearing before voting on the rules, which staff members wrote in an attempt to curb deceptive advertising.

Former board chairman Joe Christie started the process a year ago, saying existing rules weren't doing the job.

Changes proposed by the staff would:

- Require that any ad that mentions policy benefits must also spell out all provisions that reduce or deny benefits. Present rules allow an ad to cover this with a simple disclaimer that says exclusions exist.
- Force advertisers to disclose that customers have 10 days to examine and reject an accident and health policy.
- Prohibit disparaging competitors or their policies.
- Require ads to define

Operations end for firm here

Big Spring Aircraft at Howard County Airport closed down effective May 1, according to Tooter Whitmire, owner of the facility.

Whitmire stated that O.D. Landrum is selling fuel for him at the Big Spring Aircraft facility but there are no other services offered at this time.

He has some plans to possibly sell the corporation in the future, but for now his plans are indefinite.

"preexisting conditions" — probably the most common means of denying health insurance benefits to a policyholder. Clip-out application forms would be accompanied by a clear statement of the exclusion for preexisting ailments.

—Mandate disclosure of the source for any statistics quoted in an ad.

—Prohibit insurers from offering gifts for applying for insurance policies by specified deadlines.

—Outlaw the use in advertising of technical words, except in the insurance trade press.

—Prohibit life insurance ads from promising that policyholders would be investors or founders of a company and share in its profits.

—Place pre-paid legal service ads and those for health maintenance organizations (HMOs) under the same rules.

James Norman, board lawyer, said terms like "misleading and deceiving" could be interpreted by the board in the context of a particular advertisement's overall impression.

"I like that. It's straight out of 'Alice in Wonderland' — misleading and deceiving is whatever the State Board of Insurance says it is. I like that," said board chairman Hugh Yantis.

Yantis also asked Norman whether the board could move against an ad appearing in a national magazine that circulates in Texas.

"I believe we have jurisdiction over it," Norman said.

Rhodesia's olive branch offered to bush fighters

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesia's olive branch to black nationalist guerrillas was offered to fighters in the field, not leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, informed sources said today.

"Our main task is to get the message through to the fighters in the bush that the battle for majority rule has been won," the informants, who asked not to be identified, said.

"This will obviously take time to filter through. The fighters will also have to be convinced that they are not being drawn into a trap."

The guerrillas have been battling the government of Prime Minister Ian Smith for six years, and their leaders have denounced the pact for majority rule he signed with three black moderates in March.

Nkomo and Mugabe were invited to participate in those talks on condition they renounce violence, but refused and said a black-ruled Zimbabwe, or Rhodesia, would come about on their terms.

Danny Reagan Remember a year ago?

The Cowboy acquisition of first round pick Larry Bethea brought to mind Tony Dorsett. I guess it's a "First Round Memory Association" symptom characteristic of most Dallas Cowboy fans.

Bethea was happier than Walt Garrison with a "peen" between his cheek and gum when told that the fakes had picked him numero uno. A year ago this week, Tony D. was expressing likewise sentiments, only not as freely. I guess that's the big difference in five figures and seven figures.

TONY DORSETT He's a veteran now

A year later, Dorsett is still happy. He has a new $100,000 plus house, has bought a $80,000 one for his parents near Pittsburgh, drives a gleaming new van, and silver-gray customized Lincoln Continental with an $18,000 stereo sound system in it.

Dorsett, according to Lynn Callison of the Dallas Times Herald, is getting his life under control and he now feels "a responsibility to the Cowboy organization and to myself to keep my nose clean." He says, "You're not going to read anything else about Tony Dorsett except the news about what he's doing on the football field."

If you remember, Dallas police arrested Tony and his date recently when they allegedly observed her "stuffing a Quaalude pill in her clothing," and the Cowboy came forth with a few curse words. "It was never brought out that the lady I was with had a prescription for that drug," Dorsett told Callison. "And they supposedly stopped my car for speeding, but they never arrested the guy driving the car. Instead they put their handcuffs on my date and me, and took us down to the jail."

Last summer, Dorsett also dirtied his nose when he busted a bartender in the jaw for making a racial remark. "A human reaction, I hit him." The charges against him were later dropped. It's a year later now. The million dollar baby is a veteran. New rookies are in the news. If everything goes as planned, Dorsett won't be filling the newspapers from top to bottom again until next season...and that will be, hopefully, for breaking some more records.

INDISCRIMINATELY SPEAKING —Big Spring Steer Coach Tommy Collins finally got to see his brother on national television Monday night. For those of you who stayed with the hapless Cincinnati Reds, Dave Collins was the last batter up in the game.

Collins (.183 for the year) has seen limited action and was pinch-hitting for some luckless Red hitter. Unfortunately, he took a third strike in his short stint, and the only other noticeable feature of his showing, other than the fact that he spit a lot, was that commentator Don Drysdale delivered him a compliment.

"He's one of the fastest guys in the major leagues," said the ex-pitcher, "and probably the fastest on the Reds' organization." "I figured Drysdale would say something about Dave," said Tommy Collins. "because Don used to be the announcer for the Angels when Dave played for them. That was during the time the Angels had Nettles, Rivers and Dave out there. talk about speed. They were all 6.1 in the 60."

Cowboys pull surprises...satisfied, but no yelling

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys served up their usual surprises in the National Football League draft, but lightning and thunder didn't accompany the picks like last year's horsetrading for Heisman Trophy winner Tony Dorsett.

While Houston stole away with Texas' Earl Campbell as the NFL's No. 1 draft pick, the World Champion Cowboys were content to get what they considered some solid players from their 28th and last place order of selection.

Michigan State defensive end Larry Bethea, Brigham Young fullback Todd Christensen, Oklahoma defensive lineman Dave Hudgens and Houston running back Alois Blackwell went in the first through fourth rounds, respectively. The Cowboys were satisfied but not overjoyed with the

Earl resting, mom's planning house

HOUSTON (AP) — Perhaps today Mrs. B.C. Campbell can start planning her new home and her son Earl, the newest Houston Oiler millionaire, can get some rest.

Campbell was presented with his new luxury car and changed from his burnt orange sport coat to a blue Oiler blazer. Mrs. Campbell started her day by personally making the Oilers' selection of her son as the No. 1 pick in the NFL draft.

Campbell, looking like he had just finished four quarters against Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl, trudged into the Oilers draft headquarters Tuesday afternoon and signed a five-year pact for an estimated $1.3 million.

Then she talked about the home she'll have someday in Tyler, where she spent most of her life growing roses and raising 11 children. "It's going to be large and simple," Mrs. Campbell explained. "But the main thing about a house is that it be filled with love and the roof doesn't leak. The roof I have now leaks." Almost lost in the excitement of getting Campbell signed were the later Oiler selections that included Brigham Young quarterback Gifford Nielsen, Texas Christian wide receiver Mike Renfro and tight end Conrad Rucker of Southern. "We got the two guys who set all the rushing and receiving records in the Southwest Conference," Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips said, referring to Campbell and Renfro.

Greene was one of four players from the small NAIA powerhouse to be selected in Tuesday's first six rounds of the National Football League draft.

Atlanta assistant coach Jerry Glanville arrived in Kingsville Tuesday afternoon for a final check on Greene's speed over 40 yards. The Falcons considered Greene a sleeper in the draft and felt no other team would draft him early, Glanville said.

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, MAY 3, 1978

Texas players were premium Tuesday

But as they were leaving the athletic department to head for the football field, Greene, a 6-2, 195-pounder, got a long distance phone call from the Cardinals. Of course, Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell of Texas and his $1.3 million contract with the Houston Oilers hogged the spotlight in the NFL draft.

The Oilers, who acquired Tampa Bay's No. 1 draft choice, made Campbell the NFL's first pick. Arkansas kicker Steve Little, who was picked by St. Louis, was the only other Southwest Conference player to be selected in the first round. He was the 15th player picked.

Texas-Arlington, never considered to be a fertile hunting ground for the NFL, had two players — running back Derrick Jensen and defensive tackle Dwight Carey — selected in the first five rounds. Jensen was the first player selected in the third round and went to Oakland. The Kansas City Chiefs drafted Carey in the fifth round.

Campbell's teammate, All-American defensive tackle Brad Shearer, was the 18th player selected in the third round, going to the Chicago Bears. Glue-fingered Texas Christian wide receiver Mike Renfro was the Oilers' No. 4 pick.

The Dallas Cowboys used their No. 4 choice on running back Alois Blackwell of the University of Houston, while Texas Tech running back Billy Taylor was taken in the fourth round by the New York Giants. The Giants then took Texas Tech defensive tackle Jim Kralh in the fifth round.

Texas Tech defensive back Eric Felton was a fifth-round pick by New Orleans, while Texas A&M offensive tackle Frank Myers was a fifth-round selection by Baltimore. West Texas State offensive tackle William Fifer went to Detroit in the fourth round and Arkansas guard Leotis Harris was Green Bay's No. 6.

Fans ask 'Who's he?'

NEW YORK (AP) — The "Who's Who" players of Tuesday dissolved into the "Who's He?" crowd today as the National Football League entered the mopping up stage of its annual college draft.

The Earl Campbells, Art Stills, Wes Chandlers, Chris Ward and the other instant superstars were long gone, gobbled up and showered with hundreds of thousands of dollars by most of the league's 28 teams. The electricity which had buzzed through the Roosevelt Hotel's Grand Ballroom had drained out (along with the hundreds of fans who packed the gallery to watch the proceedings), the teams were looking for diamonds in the rough in today's seventh through 12th rounds — Don Nottingham and Larry Browns, late-round picks who bucked the odds and became stars.

Still, a 6-foot-7, 250-pound defensive end from Kentucky, was the No. 2 pick, taken by Kansas City, whose defense was the worst in the NFL last year, a statistic that led to a 2-12 record and put two Chiefs head coaches — Paul Wiggin and Tom Bettis — on the chopping block. Wes Chandler, a wide receiver from Florida, was the No. 3 selection, by New Orleans, the New York Jets took Onio State tackle Chris Ward and Buffalo went for Terry Miller, a running back from Oklahoma State.

Miller is the Bills' successor to O. J. Simpson, traded to San Francisco last March. The 49ers, who have made wholesale changes under General Manager Joe Thomas and Coach Pete McCulley, drafted with O. J. in mind. They took Notre Dame tight end Ken MacAfee.

MacAfee, a 6-4, 250-pounder, was the seventh selection overall, after Green Bay had taken Stanford wide receiver James Lofton. No. 8 was also from Notre Dame's national champions — defensive tackle Ross Browner. The Cincinnati Bengals picked the winner of the Outland Trophy as the best college lineman of 1976.

The two-hour, 10-minute first round (about an hour shorter than first rounds in recent years because of the lateness of the draft) ended when Dallas, the Super Bowl champion, took defensive end Larry Bethea from Michigan State.

Ticket sales worrying

Big Spring Athletic Director Don Robbins is concerned that a sufficient number of adults and parents won't be purchasing tickets for the annual spring Sports Banquet to be held at the High School Cafeteria next Tuesday night.

"These kids deserve a good turnout," he said this morning, "but the ticket sales are going very slowly." The Quarterback Club, the sponsoring organization for the yearly event, faces the possibility of going further into the red column if ticket sales aren't a sell-out.

Ducats can be purchased for $3.50 from any coach, member of the Quarterback Club, or by contacting the Athletic Department at 263-2271. Players do not have to purchase tickets as they are the guests of honors. The Banquet will be held May 9 at 7:30 p.m.

Player to try 4 out of 5

DALLAS (AP) — Gary Player will try to start a new streak and Lon Hinkle will try to build his first one this week in the 72-hole Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

"It was a great thrill winning three in a row and trying to win four," said Player, whose streak was snapped by Hinkle last weekend in the New Orleans Open. "I'd love to try it again,"

76ers face Bullets

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers are faced with a double dilemma tonight. They have to beat the Washington Bullets in the second game of the best-of-seven National Basketball Association Eastern Division finals or go to Landover, Md., for Games 3 and 4 down 2-0.

In addition, owner Fitz Dixon and General Manager Pat Williams would like to see all of those 18,000-plus Spectrum seats filled. It's bad enough that Elvin Hayes scored 28 points, picked off 18 rebounds and blocked six shots in a 122-117 overtime loss on their own court, but the 76ers have not been drawing in the playoffs.

Steers draw closer to title

ODESSA — The Big Spring Steer baseball team, playing in its third extra-inning league game in their last four outings, rolled across two runs in the top half of the ninth inning Tuesday against Odessa High to up its conference record to 5-1 in the second half.

The 4-2 win over the Broncos sets up a showdown between the Steers and the San Angelo Bobcats this Saturday in Steer Park. A win by the locals would probably put them in post-season play. A loss would no doubt end the season. The Tuesday game was the

Tips for young baseball players

A few follow-ups on hitting, given by big stick Rod Carey, include:

- CONFIDENCE — You have to have this, which I consider the primary ingredient in hitting. You must feel you're the best hitter there is. Put the idea in your head that you're not just an easy out for the pitcher.
- CONCENTRATION — I have seen many batters not hit because they didn't concentrate on the main area of the field — the pitcher's mound. A lot of hitters see an overshift or a hole and immediately their concentration moves from the pitcher, the point from which the ball will be delivered.

Instead, they try to place the ball in that area, which is very difficult to do. Watch the pitcher from the time he steps on the mound until he delivers the pitch.

- STANCE — There are three basic stances that are taught... a) closed, b) medium and c) open. I use at least five different stances in batting because I really think you should move around a little so you can adjust, according to the way a pitcher might be pitching you.

Experiment a little. This way you can adjust to certain pitchers and pitches. Then you will be able to handle that certain pitch when the time comes. Be comfortable — relax physically — be mentally alert.

- STRIKE ZONE — The strike zone is from the belt to the knees. Most people think it's from the letters to the knees, but actually after you've gone into a slight crouch, you automatically lower the zone from the belt to the knees. Up and down, in and out — learn these areas while standing at home plate.

I go out of these zones constantly and I'm still able to hit a lot of pitches. Pitchers will not constantly throw you strikes to hit, so sometimes you have to learn to adapt to other pitches.

Sensitive Prince wants jewel

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Training horses for Triple Crown events usually isn't Allen Jerkens' thing. But his presence at Churchill Downs makes unbeaten Sensitive Prince one of the leading contenders for Saturday's 104th running of the Kentucky Derby.

Jerkins has built an outstanding reputation over the last 28 years, mostly mastering the Hobeau Farm of Jack Dreyfus and pulling upsets over the likes of Forego, Buckpasser, Kelso and Secretariat.

Now he faces the task of attempting to win the Derby from the more highly-regarded Alydar and Affirmed.

"I'd give up my 10 percent share if I could win it," said Jerkens Tuesday. In his only other appearance here he saddled Round Stake, who finished 11th to 1975 winner Foolish Pleasure.

There is some feeling that Jerkens will attempt to steal the 1 1/4-mile race by sending Sensitive Prince to the front at the start and hope that he will hang on under jockey Mickey Solomon.

Sensitive Prince, a bay colt by Majestic Prince-Sensitive Lady, won his only start as a 2-year-old and five starts this year, including the Hibiscus Stakes and Fountain of Youth at Gulfstream Park. In his last start, the Calumet Purse on April 18 at Keeneland, Sensitive Prince equaled the track record for 11-16 miles.

The colt, who will be carrying the colors of Joseph Taub's Top of the Marc Stable, is the most lightly tested competitor in the field which is expected to number 10, bypassing the traditional, major Derby prep races. But Jerkens is an unconventional trainer whose methods are unorthodox and unpredictable.

Jerkins received permission from Dreyfus to train Sensitive Prince for Taub.

Jerkins managed to play six innings but had to stop without a score when the rains came. R.J. Harrison had a no hitter going for the Travelers when the game was called.

San Antonio and Amarillo never got started. Their game in San Antonio was postponed when rain and heavy winds struck the city.

Tonight, Midland is at El Paso, Amarillo is at San Antonio, Tulsa hosts Shreveport and Arkansas remains in Jackson.

Here are the standings going into the third week:

After two weeks of action in the Big Spring Industrial Slow Pitch League, the Athletics and Cave-Bolen of the American League are on top, while the Merchants lead the National League.

All Tuesday games were postponed due to rain, and are scheduled to be made up Monday, May 8. Tonight's games should be played according to schedule.

Sensitive Prince wants jewel

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Training horses for Triple Crown events usually isn't Allen Jerkens' thing. But his presence at Churchill Downs makes unbeaten Sensitive Prince one of the leading contenders for Saturday's 104th running of the Kentucky Derby.

Jerkins has built an outstanding reputation over the last 28 years, mostly mastering the Hobeau Farm of Jack Dreyfus and pulling upsets over the likes of Forego, Buckpasser, Kelso and Secretariat.

Now he faces the task of attempting to win the Derby

from the more highly-regarded Alydar and Affirmed.

"I'd give up my 10 percent share if I could win it," said Jerkens Tuesday. In his only other appearance here he saddled Round Stake, who finished 11th to 1975 winner Foolish Pleasure.

There is some feeling that Jerkens will attempt to steal the 1 1/4-mile race by sending Sensitive Prince to the front at the start and hope that he will hang on under jockey Mickey Solomon.

Sensitive Prince, a bay colt by Majestic Prince-Sensitive Lady, won his only start as a 2-year-old and five starts this year, including the Hibiscus Stakes and Fountain of Youth at Gulfstream Park. In his last start, the Calumet Purse on April 18 at Keeneland, Sensitive Prince equaled the track record for 11-16 miles.

The colt, who will be carrying the colors of Joseph Taub's Top of the Marc Stable, is the most lightly tested competitor in the field which is expected to number 10, bypassing the traditional, major Derby prep races. But Jerkens is an unconventional trainer whose methods are unorthodox and unpredictable.

Jerkins received permission from Dreyfus to train Sensitive Prince for Taub.

Jerkins managed to play six innings but had to stop without a score when the rains came. R.J. Harrison had a no hitter going for the Travelers when the game was called.

San Antonio and Amarillo never got started. Their game in San Antonio was postponed when rain and heavy winds struck the city.

Tonight, Midland is at El Paso, Amarillo is at San Antonio, Tulsa hosts Shreveport and Arkansas remains in Jackson.

TV doesn't cause illiteracy

ATLANTA (AP) — Television doesn't cause illiteracy — it simply reflects the language in popular use, according to retired CBS correspondent Eric Sevareid.

During a luncheon meeting Tuesday of the American Newspaper Publishers Association's annual convention, Sevareid lambasted newspapers for applying double standards in their criticism of broadcast media.

"Television has been accused of all sorts of crimes," he said following a speech. "People say television is causing illiteracy in America. I've heard it from people like Alistair Cooke, who should know better."

"Everyone didn't walk around speaking perfect Shakespearean English before radio and television came along. Before radio and television, there were tens of millions of people in the hinterlands who had never heard decent English in their lives."

Sevareid, who retired in late 1976 after more than 35 years with CBS in both radio and television, said television "picks up the 'going lingo.' It doesn't start things; it reflects things. People claim that television establishes cultural levels. I don't believe that."

RECOVERY?

Former President Gerald Ford says the recovery of his wife from alcohol and drug related problems will be a factor in deciding whether to run for the presidency in 1980.

During a seminar for the publishers Tuesday, a newspaper executive said polls which show many readers distrust what they read in the press may be inaccurate because of the way the questions are worded.

The news industry should examine such polls to see if the respondents were asked how they felt about 'newspapers' or 'the press' in general, rather than about specific newspapers, said Lee Porter, publisher of the Shawnee (Okla.) News-Star.

The polls likely would produce different results if they asked readers how they felt about their local newspaper, especially in smaller communities where there is more personal contact between newspaper staffers and readers, he said.

At a Newspaper Advertising Bureau meeting Tuesday, bureau president Jack Kauffman said newspapers probably will end the year with record advertising revenues totaling $12.3 billion — up 11 percent over 1977 figures. "One thing in our favor is a growing dissatisfaction with the cost efficiency of television," Kauffman said. "The old unit of sale, the 60-second commercial, has been cut in half, but the cost of the 30-second commercial has now risen to the same level. Even the 10-second spot is now up to 65 to 70 percent of the 30-second unit. "With all this subtraction, advertisers get more clutter, they get less non-competitive 'cushioning,' they get less value — and they get mad."

Missent mail woes grow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two of every 100 letters dropped in the nation's mailboxes are delayed because they're routed to the wrong post office, an internal Postal Service study says.

Assistant Postmaster General Pete Dorsey related the survey's findings to the service's governing board on Tuesday when he said the routing errors arise from mechanical and human mistakes as well as improper ZIP codes.

"Oh, yes," Dorsey replied when a board member asked him if there were fewer routing errors before machines replaced human hands at the sorting table.

As an example, he said, "a letter from New York City to Washington might wind up in Cleveland. You then have to send it from Cleveland to Washington. It will be at least one day late."

He said routing errors are a main factor in service's inability to live up to its delivery standards.

"Mail used to be sorted twice, and that gave you two chances to catch errors. Now, you only have one shot at it," he explained.

With machines, a device brings one letter to a position in front of a postal worker. The worker has one second to punch the five digits of the ZIP code into a keyboard on the machine. The numbers punched tell the machine where in that city or to which other city the letter should go. The device then shoots the letter into the appropriate mailbag.

If the clerk punches a wrong number the letter ends up in the wrong location. Sometimes the machine will make a mistake by itself.

The machines enabled the Postal Service to eliminate jobs.

"I don't think the public is ready to handle a million people on our payrolls," Postmaster General William F. Bolger said. The Postal Service, which has about 650,000 employees, would require hundreds of thousands more workers if mail was sorted by hand, he added.

Bolger said he doesn't want to give up on mechanized mail sorting. A new optical character reader that may replace some of the existing machines likely will reduce the number of mechanical errors, he said.

Dorsey said citizens can blame themselves for about 15 percent of the mistakes because they use incorrect ZIP codes.

The survey was done in 30 major cities. Dorsey said there would be an expanded study in October.

Couple claiming 'torture' files $3.5 million suit against city

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A Texas City couple has filed a $3.5 million suit in federal court here against the city of Texas City, its police chief and two policemen, claiming "torture" by one of the officers and violation of civil rights.

Linwood John Hebert, 51, and his wife Daisetta said in their suit Sgt. John Ho-Gland arrested Hebert Jan. 10, 1977 in a public restroom and took him to jail but refused to say why.

The suit says Ho-Gland threw Hebert against a steel door breaking his glasses, beat the handcuffed man with a nightstick, breaking his upper left arm and then hoisted him by the handcuffs, breaking Hebert's left elbow and wrist.

The suit says patrolman William Wilson was a witness to the beating and that Police Chief Rankin DeWalt was either present or close by.

Hebert was subsequently charged with felony assault on a police officer, the suit says, but a Galveston County grand jury dismissed the charge.

According to the suit, Ho-Gland then filed misdemeanor assault, misdemeanor driving while intoxicated and resisting arrest charges, all later dismissed by the courts.

Should You Take Lessons Before You Buy A Used Car

Don't pay a lot of attention to the way the paint shines or how clean the motor is - that may be the only thing the dealer does to the car. You want the name, address and phone number of the owner. He can tell you just how good the car is, how many wrecks it's been in, and many times, just what repairs it needed when he traded it off. The owner can also tell you WHAT KIND of miles are on the car. That's just as important as HOW MANY.

ask them for the prices, or we'll be glad to let you use ours! Why don't dealers put prices on used cars? Well, its part of the program at most dealerships to keep the customer as much "in the dark" as possible. The less the customer knows the less he can compare to start the trade with. Then too the dealer can "adjust" the price to suit the customer and his trade-in.

Dewey Ray has prices on all used cars and trucks. USED CARS IN STOCK

Vets' Council meets Friday

The All-Veterans Council will meet in the VFW Post Home at 7 p.m. Friday. Plans for the council's participation in Memorial Day ceremonies will be completed at the time. Council members plan to place flags on the graves of deceased veterans in both local cemeteries.

The Heritage Museum chuckwagon supper is one of my favorite events each year. And the Heritage Museum is also one of my favorite locations to visit in town.

You all already know that I'm a history nut. But I even enjoy the museum news letter and read it with a fine tooth comb because it is filled with good ideas for "fence" columns. Not that I'm short on ideas. I have a stack of good ideas for fence columns and probably a lot of people out there are calling me ugly words because I haven't gotten to their suggestion yet. If you think you've waited long enough, call me back. As my fellow workers can tell you, my desk eats notes which I make to myself.

But back to the museum newsletter — last summer was this little item. It said "First Courthouse — 1883."

And then it told that on Dec. 2, 1882, the gift of all block 21 of the original township site (that's the courthouse square for those of you who do not deal in technical terms) was made from the Texas and Pacific Railway Co. The gift was made through W.H. Abrams, land commissioner, for courthouse purposes.

This was across the street from the frame building which had been erected where the library now stands. In other words, it was the present courthouse square.

The frame building which had been used as an early courthouse was replaced at that location by a post office which was later replaced by another post office. And the present county library moved into the post office building when the present post office and federal building was constructed. Are you confused? Fine. I stay that way.

But anyway, the court led a movement for a new courthouse "not to exceed $40,000 in cost." On Feb. 14, 1883, the contract was awarded J.H. Miliken and Company to construct the building which also was to house the jail in the amount of $35,700.

The fact that the contract was let on Valentine's Day did not insure that there would be love forever after in the courthouse.

Everybody was very happy that the bid included a jail. Because on August 14, 1882 the court had closed a trade with J. Speight for $487 to construct a calaboose, because prisoners had either to be guarded here or taken to Colorado City.

Now you have to remember that in the late 1800s, Colorado City was the biggest municipality between Ft. Worth and El Paso. It was soon to be outstripped and outdistanced by both Pecos and Big Spring. These communities were later outdistanced by Midland and Odessa.

Anyway, the town needed a new hogsgow and they had been after Speight to hurry and finish it. But the new pokey was unsubstantial and they were afraid all of the prisoners would get out.

They were quite thrilled at the prospects of having a jail inside the stone courthouse. The new courthouse had an extra office, so they let Dr. J.W. Barnett Sr. have his doctor's office inside the building while he was serving as county treasurer as well.

The present courthouse, incidentally, was constructed in 1954 with people moving into it in 1955 and it was completely paid off in 1976.

So it's all ours. It may have some air conditioning problems and roof problems now and then, but its paid off, brothers and sisters. And that's something.

That courthouse holds a lot of interesting tales, like the love letter filed by the Texas

Thomas takes Corpus post

John Richard Thomas, a native of Big Spring, has resigned as managing editor of the Paris (Tex.) News to become city editor of the Corpus Christi Times, Thomas, 31, will join the Times May 15.

Pat M. Bassano, publisher of the News, did not immediately name a successor to Thomas. George Kimbrough will serve in that capacity temporarily.

The Times is an afternoon newspaper serving the seventh largest city in Texas. Both the Corpus Christi and Paris papers are members of Harte-Hanks Communications Inc.

Robert E. Rhodes was recently named executive editor of the two Corpus Christi papers, the Caller and the Times.

Thomas started his newspaper career at Corpus Christi in 1970. He later worked for the Abilene Reporter-News. He has been managing editor of the Paris paper since 1972.

UN troops on red alert

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — All U.N. troops in south Lebanon were put on red alert today following a series of ambush and mortar attacks by Moslem extremists in which one French paratrooper and a Palestinian officer were killed, three French troops were missing and seven were wounded, U.N. sources reported.

Col. Jean Salvan, the commander of French forces in Lebanon, was among the wounded. Salvan, who lost an eye in the Algerian War, was wounded in the leg.

The U.N. sources said the U.N. peacekeeping force of nearly 4,000 French, Senegalese, Iranian, Nepalese, Swedish and Norwegian troops was ordered to return fire from any source and forcefully prevent guerrilla infiltration across its lines toward territory still occupied by Israel to the south. French forces in the biblical port of Tyre were hit Tuesday night by three ambushes and a mortar barrage against their barracks on the outskirts of the city. It was the most serious challenge so far to the U.N. force and raised the total number of peacekeepers killed to six since the arrival of the force in late March to replace the Israeli invasion army.

Snow continues to pop Rockies

By the Associated Press
Snow continued to fall on the southern Rockies today, leaving accumulations of up to 17 inches, while thunderstorms struck parts of the South.

Travel advisories were in effect over the San Luis Valley of Colorado and the mountains and eastern portions of New Mexico.

In the South, thunderstorms rumbled on from south Texas into southeastern Oklahoma, northwestern Louisiana and Arkansas. Wind gusts in some areas have been as high as 72 mph.

More rainfall was expected today, and a flash flood watch continued for southeastern Texas.

The storms were generated along a stationary front that reaches from south Texas along the Gulf Coast through northern Florida. The front also produced thunderstorms in southern Mississippi.

The only extensive areas of clear skies reached from the Carolinas and the Virginias across the Ohio Valley and the Great Lakes region.

Cold temperatures continued from the mid-Mississippi and Ohio valleys into the Virginias. Frost or freeze warnings remained posted from northeastern Missouri, across most of Illinois, north and central Indiana and all of West Virginia into Maryland and extreme northwestern Virginia.

In addition, a frost warning was in effect for the northwest portion of western Texas.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 28 in Bradford, Pa. to 78 in Key West, Fla.

Today's forecast called for showers and thunderstorms over the Gulf Coast states as well as Oklahoma and Arkansas. Scattered shower activity will extend into southern Kansas, southern Missouri and the Tennessee Valley. Rain showers also will be scattered over the northern Rocky Mountain region, while a few snow flurries will dot extreme northern New England.

Cool temperatures again are in store for parts of the country, especially in the rainy areas over the southern Plains. It will be mild in the Pacific Coast states and Florida.

No new taxes. What does it mean to you?

Dolph Briscoe understands that the surest way for a government to strangle its economy is to overburden its taxpayers. In contrast, his most active opponent in this year's Democratic Primary does not. That opponent — by nature and by his own admission — is an activist intent on becoming an activist governor. That means only one thing. It means government regulating our lives with bureaucratic red tape. And it means a governor whose reckless spending promises, if kept, would result in the imposition of a State income tax on you in 1979.

Governor Briscoe has pursued — and throughout his tenure as Governor will continue to pursue — a firm policy of no new taxes. This policy has served the people of Texas well. It has produced the strongest economy in the United States today. And in the process it has enabled the extension of more and better state services to our citizens than ever before in our history — without new or additional taxes.

When Dolph Briscoe became Governor, he set a course of making state government better without new taxes.

In 1972, the experts — as well as Dolph Briscoe's opponents in this year's Governor's race — said it couldn't be done.

Dolph Briscoe proved that it could. He proved that saying "no" to new taxes is saying "yes" to economic prosperity.

Since Governor Briscoe has been in office:

- 1,200 new industries, representing an annual economic impact of more than $11 billion, have moved to Texas.
- More than 850,000 new jobs have been created.
- Texas has been universally acclaimed as having the best political climate in the world for economic investment and growth.

To keep Texas on this course of prosperity without a State income tax, let's keep the candidate with a proven record. Let's keep Dolph Briscoe as our Governor.
