2nd major fire in two days here

Turner building destroyed

By MARJ CARPENTER

The second major fire in two days erupted in the early morning hours today at Turner Properties, 111 E. 7th, with a possible half million dollars worth of damage.

Fire officials suggested there was a possibility of arson, since the police officer who arrived first said the front door was unlocked with the curtain caught in it as though somebody had left in a hurry.

This was the second possible arson in two days, with a fire set in four locations in the high school choir room during the night Tuesday.

The possibility of entrance gained by going through the patio area was again considered by fire officials. This was determined to be the means of entrance into the high school in the fire early Wednesday.

Jim Ryals, fire marshal, said "We will investigate further before making a determination as to the cause." Alvie Harrison, fire chief, said, "It certainly might be another case of arson."

The burglar alarm went off at 5:07 a.m. at the police station and Sgt. Mike Pearson went to the building and discovered the blaze.

The drapes over the reception room area were lying on the floor. There was some disagreement as to whether they may have burned down or been jerked down.

The fire had apparently started in the office of Gary Turner, which was the most heavily damaged area of the building. The roof had completely collapsed in that portion of the building. There was also heavy damage in the snack room area behind Turner's office.

The recent addition to the building, which included an office for the firm's attorney, Ben Bancroft, had only smoke and water damage. The office on the front of the building had minimum damage.

The entire hallway burned, with all of the carpet completely destroyed. Some paintings were also lost in the blaze.

The large safe, which held most of the firm's records was intact, but some smaller safe files had apparently been opened, according to Turner.

There will need to be extensive sifting of the records to determine if any are missing.

Original value of the building was $250,000 with at least $150,000 on contents.

Turner worked late at the office Wednesday and his wife came down around midnight. They both left shortly thereafter. They said they knew they had locked the building.

Turner does not smoke and Mrs. Turner remembered mentioning during the few minutes she was there that she had failed to bring any cigarettes. This apparently ruled out a possible blaze from a cigarette.

The fire did heavy damage in rather a short period of time, since it apparently had to have occurred after midnight and before 5 a.m.

Bancroft went to the office around 9 p.m. and walked through the snack bar area to get to his office. To do so, he walked right by the coffeepot and said, "Since it's a pet peeve of mine to see a coffeepot on, I would have noticed that."

Turner Properties will move their offices to their other location on IS 20, with Bancroft to move his records to his other office.

"We'll probably build back from the ground up," the Turners said here this morning. "It doesn't really look like it could simply be repaired."

It was not believed that the two fires had been set by the same persons although the possibility was not ruled out. "One arson sometimes triggers another," one fireman stated.

Briscoe predicting 'landslide' victory

By the Associated Press

With only one day left to campaign, Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Attorney General John Hill continued to take swipes at each other over taxes in their campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Hill told an audience in Abilene that it would cost Texans another $1 billion in local property taxes if Briscoe is elected.

Meanwhile, Briscoe, in McAllen said he would win the Democratic nomination "by a landslide" if only a third of Texas' voters show up at the polls.

Briscoe said Hill is hoping for a small turnout because "this would be the only way Hill could even come close."

Hill charged that local property taxes have increased $1 billion in the five years Briscoe has been in office. "He has done nothing to help property tax payers. That means he will do nothing about property taxes for the next five years if he is re-elected, and that means property taxes will go up another $1 billion," said the attorney general.

Briscoe said Hill's campaign managers say they are confident Hill would win if the turnout on Saturday was only a million votes.

"It is no wonder that John Hill wants a small turnout of voters next Saturday," said Briscoe. "If even a third of the voters go to the polls, he will have no chance to win. And if a majority of the registered voters should cast ballots, there is no doubt that he would lose in a landslide."

Over on the GOP side, William Clements predicted in San Antonio that he would take the Republican gubernatorial nomination over Ray Hutchison.

Clements said he would be a fulltime governor, working as many as 14 hours a day.

The Democratic candidates for U.S. Senate also had new slants to their campaigns.

Rep. Bob Krueger was in Washington Wednesday.

In a statement entered in the Congressional record, Krueger asked for a $5 billion cut in the 1979 federal budget. He proposed an amendment that would limit spending increases for 1979 to the rate of inflation in all but three budget areas — agriculture, defense and energy. Joe Christie's workers distributed small paper leaflets that carried a photograph of Christie as he would appear on a TV screen.

"Please hang this ad on your television set for 30 seconds each hour in the evening, preferably during prime time between 7 and 10 p.m.," read the leaflet. The handbill added that "this card may be the only Joe Christie ad you'll see on your TV this spring."

Democratic attorney general candidate Mark White said he would be a "fighting" attorney general, especially on issues pertaining to energy.

INJURED SON — Mrs. Carolyn Yeager, 1517 Tucson, anxiously bundles her injured son Shane into her car after the eight-year-old boy was struck by a car while riding his bicycle, 7:08 p.m. Wednesday. Fortunately, the injuries were very minor, and Shane was treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital. "He just got some bumps, bruises and scrapes, and is fine today. We both quit shaking sometime this morning," laughed Mrs. Yeager. "I think it shook both of us up pretty good."

Jet sales proposal attacked

WASHINGTON (AP) — After intensively grilling administration officials about President Carter's proposed Mideast jet sale, members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee still are insisting on alterations in the deal. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, told reporters after a day-long hearing on Wednesday that there are several areas in which the administration might compromise to satisfy the panel's concerns. Church mentioned these possibilities: — Altering the proposal to increase the number of F-15 fighters sold to Israel. While questioning administration witnesses, Church suggested increasing that number from 15 to 25.

— Accelerating the delivery dates for the planes sold to Israel.

— Obtaining assurances from Saudi Arabia that it will not purchase additional sophisticated aircraft.

— Limiting the type of armaments that would be sold to the Saudis for use on the F-15's.

Asked if he would insist on written guarantees that the Saudis would restrict the use of the fighters to defensive missions, Church said, "Verbal assurances are not adequate."

The administration opened its formal campaign to gather support for the arms sales by sending Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, Defense Secretary Harold Brown, disarmament negotiator Paul Warnke and Air Force Gen. David C. Jones, acting chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to the Senate committee.

The questioning throughout the hearing was skeptical and there appeared little indication that the witnesses had succeeded in picking up the votes needed for majority committee support.

She plays poker on icebreaker

DALLAS (AP) — How hard is it to find a 16-year-old, red-haired girl slowway aboard the U.S. Coast Guard's biggest icebreaker with a crew of 155?

So hard that they didn't.

Lauren Kim Roche sat down last January to play a few friendly hands of poker with crewmen after the U.S. Polar Star pulled into Wellington, New Zealand on its way from the antarctic to Seattle for repairs.

Wellington is Miss Roche's hometown, and she decided the Polar Star would be a suitable means of transportation for a little international junket that would end up in Arlington, Texas, just outside Dallas.

"I just walked on," she said. "It wasn't that hard to get aboard the ship. No one asked questions. The ship is open to the public when it lands, so I just took one bag aboard and put it in the turbine room."

Later, she left and returned with another bag, played some more poker and then took up residence in a fan space compartment beneath the ship's bridge. "It's so small no one ever bothered to look in there," Miss Roche said. "All there is in there is a bunch of pipes."

"I had a flashlight, but the batteries went out after two days (at sea)...I didn't have a radio. Sometimes I just talked to myself."

While Lauren was talking to herself, officers of the 400-foot ship received a radio report of a stowaway aboard.

Their search wasn't thorough enough to turn up their passenger, and that could be due to three crew members she said helped her during the 12,000 mile, 20-day cruise to Seattle.

READY TO GO HOME — After stowing away for 20 days aboard an icebreaker and then hitchhiking with a rock band from the West Coast, 16-year-old Lauren Kim Roche carries her belongings and deportation papers outside the immigration office in Dallas Wednesday. Miss Roche of Wellington, New Zealand turned herself in to authorities after her 12,000 mile voyage from New Zealand aboard the U.S. Coast Guard's Polar Star and two months of hitchhiking, saying she was really tired and wanted to go home.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Limits

Q. Is there a law stating the length of time one has to pay a bill for goods or services before that bill can be considered past due? And is there a limit to how much fine can be levied when it is past due? I am specifically interested in the city policy of making bills due two weeks from date of receipt, then adding $1 penalty when not paid by that date.

A. There is no such law. The city water billing and fine is a law, however, set by city ordinance which makes it a law in the city of Big Spring.

Kidnapping arrest

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Authorities have begun extradition proceedings in the case of a 16-year-old Manitowish, Wis., girl charged with kidnapping her 15-year-old friend's infant daughter. The teen-age girl, not identified because she is a juvenile, was arrested here Wednesday and was held Wednesday night in lieu of $10,000 bond set by U.S. Magistrate Bill Brister.

The girl allegedly asked to see Christine Bashaw's 10-month-old daughter, Rhonda Lackershire, last Thursday so she could show the baby to her husband, said James A. Abbott, special agent in charge of the Dallas FBI office. She then allegedly took the baby and left Wisconsin, hitchhiking to this West Texas city, Abbott added. She and the baby were discovered at a Lubbock residence.

The infant, who was healthy and unharmed, was being kept in the children's ward of the Texas Tech Health Sciences Center pending her mother's arrival.

Baby shower nets joy

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The four Wedgewood banks from England were appreciated by the Tyson family but the ample supply of training pants nearly brought tears of joy to their eyes.

Staff Sgt. Kenneth Tyson, his wife Penelope, their 3-year-old son Timothy and the Tysons' four infant quadruplets were honored Wednesday at a special Air Force baby shower.

The quads — Nicholas, Kendra, Kelly and Aimee — were the centers of attention of the approximately 35 women who gave the shower at the Kelly Air Force Base NCO Club Annex.

Tyson, 33, a native of Fayetteville, N.C., is stationed at Kelly. His wife, 27, of DeSoto, Mo., gave birth to the quads Jan. 3 at Willford Hall U.S. Air Force Medical Center in San Antonio.

Among the 50 to 60 gifts that overloaded a table next to the Tysons were four Wedgewood banks from a security service base in England, five charms from a unit in Germany and four gold drachmas from a unit in Greece.

But Mrs. Tyson uttered a cry of joy when she opened a box of training pants. "We've been going through 500 diapers a week with these babies," she said. "I can't wait until we put these pants to use."

Collier sentenced

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — A former San Angelo church music and youth director was formally sentenced Wednesday to 25 years in prison after being convicted in the January 19 beating death of his wife.

William Garland Collier, 28, was convicted last month. A jury had recommended the 25-year sentence handed down Wednesday by State District Judge Curt Steib.

Collier, former music and youth director at the College Hill Baptist Church here, was convicted of beating his wife, Jane, to death with a baseball bat and stabbing her with an ice pick.

Collier did not file a motion for a new trial and waived appeal.

FBI chief apologizes

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director William H. Webster has apologized to U.S. Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez and says a reference to Gonzalez as receiving "Communist support" during political campaigns will be wiped from a previously secret FBI file on the San Antonio Democrat.

Gonzalez began celebrating his 62nd birthday Wednesday by releasing an apologetic letter from Webster.

In a scathing April 17 letter to Webster and Attorney General Griffin Bell, Gonzalez blasted the FBI for the reference.

Police beat — Victim is threatened

One of the men who stole $58 from Ronnie Hill, Wyoming Hotel, Wednesday morning, returned Wednesday night to threaten Hill with a knife.

Hill reported to police, 2 a.m. Wednesday, that three men had forced their way into his room, and lifted $58 and a bottle of wine. Hill pretended to be asleep during the theft.

Then, at 9:45 p.m. that day, Hill was accosted by one of the men on the corner of East Second and Runnels. According to reports, the man pulled a knife on Hill and threatened to cut his throat with it because Hill had reported the theft to police.

Hill ran across the street and into a pool hall to escape the man.

A tool box belonging to Ron Huitt, San Angelo, was stolen from the box of his pickup sometime between 5 and 6 p.m. Tuesday. The box contained an assortment of tools, and loss was estimated at $75.

Shane Yeager, 8, 1517 Tucson, was treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital after the bicycle he was riding was struck by a car, 7:08 p.m. Wednesday.

Stenholm says he has met 40,000 people

By BOB BURTON
As his first bid for a major public office draws to a close, Charles Stenholm says he thinks he turned out as good a politician as he hoped when he first hit the campaign trail.

"We're more loose, more comfortable with questions and handling people than we were at the beginning, and that helps," the Stamford candidate says. "I guess I've met 40,000 people since I started, and I've been in 26 towns since Monday."

Stenholm, ranked as a front-runner in the six-way race for the 17th Congressional District, maintains that his support is broadbased. "I can point to any single section of the district, and we'll get support there."

"Of course, I'm strongest in my home county. But we are very proud of the fact that we've raised the greatest amount of contributions from the greatest number of people. We've raised $100,000 from 3,200 contributors. I think that indicates the type of support we have."

Stenholm says he is pleased with the way the campaign has been run. "It's been a good, hard-fought battle. I've got six tough opponents."

"We are all down to the last poll now, though. I'll have to accept the results of the Saturday poll as final."

He says he will continue to Sweetwater today, and wrap up his effort Friday in Abilene, the largest city in the district, before retiring to his Stamford home for the results of the election.

Asked what were the key issues of the campaign, Stenholm said that they only came into sharp focus during recent weeks.

"Federal aid to education, an independent Department of Education, and inflation. These are the big three issues."

"In regard to federal aid to education, I think we need less federal involvement in all areas of our daily lives. If we are to have federal funds, they should flow as directly as possible to the local school district with a minimum of federal control."

"An independent Department of Education is something we do not need and cannot afford."

For inflation, Stenholm advocates a balanced budget and reduced bureaucracy as the best methods to reduce the spiral.

Typically proud of his organization, Stenholm is confident about the results of the election. "We have a great team. I've enjoyed the effort of campaigning. We'll just have to wait until Saturday."

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Old towns don't die or even fade away. Towns with such forgettable names as Frankenstein, Devils Elbow, Hayti Heights, Northwey, State Line and Wilderness have made a successful fight to get back on the map.

The 1978 Missouri map of highways, waterways and cities includes 56 towns left off previous editions of the map.

All incorporated towns are now listed and unincorporated towns with more than 50 residents are also included.

Sunday has been proclaimed Dr. J. M. Woodall Day in Big Spring.

Woodall retired Feb. 28. He is a native of Hillsboro, and a graduate of the Baylor University School of Medicine.

He served his residency and completed his training at Harper Hospital in Detroit, Mich., Louisville, Ky., and General Hospital and University Hospital in Oklahoma City, Okla. He specialized in pediatrics, and came to Big Spring to begin his first practice.

The doctor will present awards to winners of the Kindergarten Poster Contest at his reception. The mayor will present the honoree with a special Dr. Woodall Proclamation.

He will also be given a special register for guests who have been "Dr. Woodall Babies" as a memoir of the day.

He and his wife, Jean, have a daughter, Linda, who is married to another Big Spring native, Jimmy Simmons. They now reside in Little Rock, Ark.

The couple has three daughters, Susan, Lisa, and Carrie Allison.

JOE BAUCHAM

State Guard looking for 'first helping'

A touching scene: Oliver Twist asks the orphanage for a second helping of dessert, saying "Please sir, could I have some more?" For Joe Baucham of the Big Spring State Guard, the scene is just as touching, except his group has never gotten a first helping.

"Midland, Odessa, Andrews, Monahans. They all have equipment. Trucks, radios, uniforms, boots. We don't have anything. Never have. That's probably why it is so hard to change."

Baucham recently made the rounds again, approaching city and county dads to ask for possible funds.

"We aren't allowed to solicit funds. We can't go asking private individuals for money. We are even limited to $1,000 per individual gift and $100 per month maximum from the city and county."

"We went to State Guard exercises April 9. Unfortunately, it began to rain. We had to go to another unit to borrow raincoats. We had to pay for the trip there and back ourselves."

Baucham says he does not want all the trucks and equipment at once. "With an allowance from the city and county we could save for the heavy expenses," he says. "But right now we have nothing. We don't even have boots."

How important is the State Guard? Why are they worth the money?

"Our primary mission is to take care of the army when the National Guard is called out. But beyond that, we offer our services to the city and county in the event of a local emergency."

"Right now, we have three CB radios in fair condition, a few stretchers, odd-sized uniforms, and school desks."

What Baucham wants is emergency equipment — not playtoys, but flares, raincoats, flashlights. All things you might not miss until you really need them.

"We want stuff other units take for granted."

Baucham says his unit, Company C of the 413th MP Battalion, is supposed to handle up to 17 members. It has 11 now. But he says they need money before they need more people.

"It's kind of embarrassing," he comments, "if someone wants to join, we ask immediately 'How much can you give?'"

"That's what really gets me. Other units around here have tremendous support, good equipment, and a good training program. Why can't we?"

Baucham says the officials he has talked to have all been exceptionally polite — but nothing has happened. He emphasizes that the funds the unit gets are subject to review from the state agency and from other sources. The money won't just go to one man to spend as he likes.

Probably, you will never see the State Guard in action, except possibly at a parade. But if you do see them, it means something serious is afoot. Serious enough to warrant calling out the national guard. Or serious enough to worry the mayor into calling out the State Guard to help with an emergency. And serious enough to demand proper equipment and proper training.

Under the fair skies of summer, it might seem like play. But in a disaster, it will all be too important to pass off lightly, like a second helping of pudding.

Shortage of water nagging problem

The 1970s have been good to Texas, a prospectus authorized by a bank conglomerate reminds.

Exceptional growth in most areas is noted. An expanding population made it the third largest state by 1976. It still had nine million fewer people than the leader, California, and about 4.5 million under that reported by No. 2 New York, but was moving rapidly ahead of the state it replaced in the ratings, Pennsylvania. Texas has added three million people in just 16 years.

Only Florida has grown at a faster rate than Texas since 1970 — 3.65 per cent compared to 1.83 per cent for Texas.

THE STATE ALSO ranks third in construction in the 70s, behind front-running California and Pennsylvania. In 1976 alone, building permits valued at $7,875 billions plus were issued in Texas.

The state, of course, ranks first in crude oil refineries (18.4 per cent of the U.S. total) and first in crude oil refining capacity, far ahead of runner-up California.

It's no contest in oil production. Texas is first, Louisiana second. Between the two of them, Texas and Louisiana produce over 61 per cent of the nation's oil. (Alaska, with its heralded new field) ranked no better than seventh in overall production two years ago).

Texas also is the front runner in natural gas production, in natural gas proven reserves, in drilling and in value of recovered sulphur shipments.

In value of farm products sold, Texas ranks a comfortable third behind California and Iowa. In value of cotton production, Texas has a paper-thin edge over California and the two are far ahead of every other state.

In value of sorghum grain, wool production and cash receipts from sales of cattle and calves, Texas is far ahead. In waterborne commerce, only the ports of New York and New Orleans rank ahead of Houston and the state itself ranks ahead of all other commonwealths in that type of endeavor.

TEXAS WAS THIRD in retail sales (behind California and New York). In commercial bank deposits New York, California and Illinois ranked ahead of Texas.

In total personal income, the Lone Star State ranks no better than fourth (trailing California, New York and Illinois) but has made significant gains against all those states.

Texas appears to have great economic muscle and even greater potential, but it still has one nagging problem. That would be water, or lack of it. We need more water, in fact have to have it if we are to continue to grow.

How we get it is a problem not yet worked out by the best minds in the state. Many years ago, Californians decided the only way to solve its needs for water was to adopt a realistic, hard-headed plan. At the time, many critics said California was too greedy and too ambitious, that it would never need as much water as it planned to trap.

History has proved them wrong. The Californians read the future right and executed their plans accordingly. Texans needs the same kind of realistic approach in alleviating its problems.

Solutions will not come until people in one area stop trying to hamstring the pushers and movers in another area who strive to be visionary and do something about guaranteeing the future against a possible water shortage. Everyone must pull together.

Really haunting

Around the rim

James Werrell

I caught a really spooky movie on TV the other night.

It was called "The Haunting," and featured Julie Harris, Claire Bloom, Russ Tamblyn and things that go bump in the night. I was all alone in the dark with this movie, and, I have to admit, it scared the bejezus out of me.

The special effects were really nothing so special. But the director must have remembered with great clarity the little things that sent shivers up and down the spine when we were kids, and still do for that matter.

IN "THE HAUNTING" stairways and floorboards creak, spirits pound on walls and doors, cold spaces manifest themselves where they shouldn't, gargoyles and statues seem alive and menacing, and everything is in a perpetual state of darkness.

The most frightening scene in the movie really brought back the fears I used to have in the dark as a child. In the scene, Julie Harris is awakened by the sound of a child crying, and she becomes very frightened.

For reassurance she reaches out and grabs what she thinks is Claire Bloom's hand. But when she switches on the light, she finds that old Claire is sound asleep on the other side of the room.

"Then whose hand was I holding?" asks Julie, with a shudder. Gives you the creeps doesn't it?

When I was a kid one of the cardinal rules of the dark was, let nothing, hands, feet nor toenails, hang over the edge of the bed! If you did, you were just asking that thing under the bed to tear it off or use it to pull you down there with it.

THERE WERE several other rules that were never broken:

—As long as the closet door was closed, the ogres that hid amongst your clothes would stay put. If you were foolish enough to leave the door open after the lights were turned off, then, again, you were just asking for it.

—Sheets and blankets provided pretty good protection against the ghouls that lurked in your room. As long as you were well covered (preferably with the sheet over your head with just a small breathing space) you were safe.

—Parents often mistook spirits and vampires for leaking faucets and wind blowing through trees, and could not be trusted in the pinch. When the lights went out, you were on your own.

—Basements (sort of a rarity in Texas) are a favorite hangout for ghosts and other worldly creatures. Occasionally you would let time slip away, working in the basement on a model plane or something, and if you were alone you were in great danger. To turn out the lights before making it safely upstairs was unspeakable.

—Monsters were also in the habit of taking the form of a sweater or a pair of pants carelessly draped over a chair. Then they waited until it was dark and your parents had left the room to move. This was the only real incentive I can remember to fold my clothes when I was a child.

There are, of course, other areas of this topic I could explore, such as the deterrent power of stuffed animals, night lights and transistor radios under the pillow. But most of us know about these already.

So, sleep well, and keep your hand away from the edge of the bed.

Man's inhumanity

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Americans were outraged at the news that German SS men in 1944 had lined up captured American troops at Malmedy crossroads in Belgium and had mowed them down with machine guns. Twenty-four years later, Americans were horrified to hear that their own spooked soldiers had wiped out the defenseless men, women and children of My Lai village in Vietnam.

The Malmedy and My Lai massacres were Sunday School stanzas, however, compared to the retribution the communist conquerors have brought against their former foes in Cambodia. There is stark, staggering evidence that the communists, as one intelligence report put it, began "immediately executing all officers in the defeated army and their families."

THE EXECUTIONS were kept quiet. "Since the KCP (Khmer Communist Party) had not established complete control over the country, the party ordered the executions carried out in such a manner as to not alarm the people." The slaughtering of the officers was followed, as the communists tightened their control by the methodical massacre of enlisted men. Then the communists turned on the civilians. "It was the KCP policy to eliminate everyone in Cambodia who was not from the poor farmer-working class."

The work of death is still going on inside Cambodia. Recent intelligence reports claim it is "a primary party activity to search out and eliminate the last vestiges of the old society...i.e., those who were not from the poor farmer-working class and who had hidden themselves among the people."

The grisly evidence — government documents, refugee accounts, medical records and smuggled photos — staggers the mind. The atrocities have been so monstrous that they can be better understood by focusing on a single, typical incident. This is the story, therefore, of what happened to General Em San and the men who served under him in Siem Reap province. They were shot and battered to death before they had a chance to tell their story. But it has now been told by their executioners who fled to Thailand after a party purge. We have pieced together the story from the scattered accounts of several witnesses.

Although the Khmer Rouge guerrillas did not defeat the General Em San in the field, he ordered his command to surrender on April 17, 1975. Then he met the Khmer Rouge as they entered Siem Reap city. "He was arrested immediately and taken in his own jeep to Kompong Kdei in eastern Siem Reap province for interrogation," the witnesses recall.

His officers down to the rank of major were also rounded up and herded aboard trucks, "together with their wives and children." According to one account, they were told by their captors that they had been "invited" to attend independence ceremonies at Angkor Wat. Other witnesses thought the prisoners had been told "they were being sent to Angkor Wat to attend a special training course." In any event, they got no further than Kompong Kdei where they were unloaded.

Next they were told there was a shortage of trucks so they would travel to Angkor Wat by motorcycle. Each captive officer was instructed to carry a length of rope in case the motorcycle broke down and had to be towed.

They waited until April 23 when a Khmer Rouge officer showed up ostensibly to sign travel passes for them. Each prisoner, as he was processed, was told "it would be necessary to tie his hands behind his back because the high-level officer did not wish to take any risks."

REPORTS AN intelligence summary grimly: "Each man was blindfolded, led to the edge of a ditch and beaten to death with a hoe. The executions took most of the day to complete." Although the first few groups of officers were not aware that they were going to die, the latter groups struggled strenuously to escape since the air was permeated with the stench of blood."

Back at Siem Reap, all officers below the rank of major were told they would be shipped off for "re-education." Four trucks delivered them to the Wat Loley temple. Declares another intelligence report: "When the truck arrived at the temple, it was backed up to the temple entrance. As the officers were off-loaded, the Khmer Rouge instructed them to strip down to their underwear. Their hands were tied behind them, and they were loaded back into the truck."

"The truck was then driven to a location approximately one kilometer northwest of the Wat in a forested area where three trenches were dug. When the truck arrived, the officers were ordered at gun point to jump down one by one into the trench. As they did, they were shot. When the truck was empty, it was driven back to Siem Reap for another load.

"This went on for seven consecutive days. Following the initial period of executions, persons were no longer shot but they were killed by a blow from a hoe against their head."

Finally in mid-May, according to still another intelligence report, General Em San's enlisted men were hauled to Wat Loley for execution. "Four truckloads of men were moved to Wat Loley each day and were immediately executed by firing squads there. The bodies were buried together in large pits. This procedure continued daily for two weeks."

Behind 5-15 fight

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — A high Saudi Arabian defense official has arrived in Geneva, ready to start negotiations with the French government for the Mirage F-1 fighter-bomber — showing why President Carter is risking so much to push his sale of 60 F-15s to the oil-rich monarchy.

If the sale is vetoed by a vote of both Senate and House, Saudi Arabia will begin to unwind an intricate network of economic and military arrangements with the United States. Switching from Washington to Paris for modern fighter aircraft would be only the start.

What makes this so ironic is that if Israel does succeed in imposing the congressional veto, the assured supply of the Mirage F-1 gives the Saudis at least an equivalent number of modern aircraft. Defense Department experts here are warning that the new Saudi-French connection could erode the U.S. role as long-time military supplier to the Saudi monarchy.

ALTHOUGH PUTTING French instead of American aircraft in Saudi hands would seem to undermine Israeli security, the Israeli government takes a different view. To break up the U.S.-Saudi alliance is worth the risk, in Israel's opinion.

A confidential Pentagon memorandum, written for the State Department, says that the Saudis could immediately start buying the Mirage F-1, a highly sophisticated aircraft only marginally less dangerous to Israel than the F-15. Yet Israel publicly bases opposition to the F-15 sale on the menace to its security.

If the Saudis are forced to turn to Paris, Israel would lose the benefit of U.S. controls over Saudi use of American weapons. There is no reason for France to impose restrictions on the Saudis such as the U.S. ban on transferring weapons to a third country.

Worse yet for Israel's security requirements, there would be no limit on the quantity of Mirages the Saudis might buy. Some highly-informed U.S. officials believe the French want to set up a French-Saudi consortium to build more advanced fighters — the Saudis providing the money, the French the technology.

ISRAEL IS flooding Congress with security arguments against the F-15 sale. Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan last week used his own great prestige here in private sessions with Senators, hammering home Israel's vulnerability to the F-15. Given the immediate availability of the French Mirage, administration officials suspect that Israel's real purpose in trying to block the sale is not its security but its desire to split the intimate U.S.-Saudi connection.

Defeat of the F-15 deal would certainly erode that connection. In addition to advanced aircraft, driving the Saudis into French arms would jeopardize up to $15 billion worth of other military supplies either in the U.S. pipeline or under U.S.-Saudi negotiations. Government officials say that many of these arms can be obtained from France and other European countries; they undoubtedly would be if Congress vetoed the F-15 sale.

That would be welcome news for the Israelis. Beleaguered in the Arab world, Israel has long feared the depending economic and military ties between the U.S. and Saudi Arabia. A recent unleashing of the pro-Israel lobby to damage this relationship came in the battle to end the anti-Israel Arab boycott (though in fact the new anti-boycott law was moderate and acceptable to the Saudis).

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor: The recent Harte-Hanks candidate poll prompts my concern and this comment aimed at the state race for the Court of Criminal Appeals, Place 2, with Jim Vollers, current holder of the judgeship, facing Sam Houston Clinton.

The poll shows Sam Houston Clinton to have a comfortable lead over Judge Vollers. Both men have the qualifications to serve on the bench, but qualifications are not the sole element judgeships require. Jim Vollers has a history of being very much on the side of law and order, both in his capacity as State's Attorney and as Judge on the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Mr. Clinton, on the other hand, has chosen to occupy himself in the past as a lawyer for the American Civil Liberty's Union, an organization, in my opinion, not noted for its strong stand against the criminal. If the poll is correct and reflects the choice of an informed electorate then my sole comment is that I disagree; but my fear is that the electorate knows nothing about either candidate and is too apathetic or lazy to inquire. My fear is that Sam Houston Clinton will garner votes cast not by an informed electorate but by those who simply like his name. That sort of thinking elected Don Yarbrough.

I admonish all of us to inform ourselves of a candidate's qualifications and background and suggest it is better to cast no vote in a particular race than to cast a careless uninformed one.

Dear Editor: It was brought to my attention that I was not mentioned in the April 28 Herald as being part of a political forum at the amphitheater. As you know, I am offering for the Justice of Peace office.

Not only was I present, I was the only Justice of Peace candidate asked any questions from the floor. The question, I believe to be of importance.

"What do you mean by special interest groups?" I was asked. My answer was:

"Although I have had a great deal of financial support throughout my campaign, I have promised no more or no less than fairness and equality for anyone brought into my court when elected Justice of Peace May 6. No one can buy or influence the honesty and concern I feel toward "justice for all the people" of Howard County.

Dear Editor: My letter concerns the upcoming 17th Congressional election, and Jim Baum, a candidate for said election. I became acquainted with Baum as I served along with him as a youth representative on the YMCA board of directors.

I quickly learned that he was a man who looked into the future and took action early, before action was required. This past year, our YMCA Youth & Government Club planned and advertised a disco dance to help raise money when we learned that the contracted disco would be unable to play on the advertised date. Baum, then affiliated with a local radio station, learned of our problem and very graciously helped us get the necessary equipment and personnel to make our project a success.

Afterward, (as if he had not done enough) he arranged it so that we paid only $40 for what was initially going to cost $200. This is just one of many such instances which have occurred within the very short time which I have been acquainted with Baum. I personally feel that this shows Baum's awareness and concern for others and their problems and merits support in the May 6 primary.

It is evident that our district has suffered greatly with the announcement of Omar Burleson's retirement, and I know that Baum is a go-getter who can quickly regain the political clout that we so sorely need. Another factor which assures me that Baum is the best choice is the manner in which he has conducted his campaign. He is the only one of the leading contenders that did not begin the campaign with an abundant supply of money. Why then, is his campaign so successful?

First of all, he took the campaign and its issues to the individual where the office belongs, and secondly, he made good use of his resources; mainly money. (Something which the federal government could stand a great deal more of in the future.)

I truly regret that (due to my age), I will be unable to cast my vote for

Baum this Saturday, but I trust that all eligible voters will allow me the opportunity to vote for him in the November election. I guess I regret it more because he stresses the individual and importance of their vote as indicated in one of his campaign slogans: "I campaign for the voters one at a time because that's how they are counted."

Texas Youth Lt. Governor

Dear Editor: It is too bad that Jim Gregg feels that a debate between the candidate for the office of District Judge would be a "waste of time."

It is difficult for the voters to learn enough about the candidates in the various races to make intelligent decisions at the polls, and too often the candidates hide behind vague excuses to avoid providing this information to the voters. Even if, as Gregg claims, he would be limited to a promise of faithful and impartial performance of the duties of the office and a debate on qualifications, this would certainly be of interest to the voters.

Gregg states that his qualifications have been adequately described in his campaign advertisements, but his ad is the same issue as his letter contained only twenty words, including a plea to vote for him. This hardly seems an adequate discussion of his qualifications for his most important post.

A close reading of the Code of Judicial Review, as quoted by Gregg, does not reveal a prohibition against debate between the candidates. If Gregg does not care to debate George Thomas, that is his choice, but why not just say so?

Ms. Francene Minchew

Dear Editor: Having recently moved from the Big Spring area, I must take this opportunity to endorse George T. Thomas for District Judge. A successful jurist must possess not only brilliance and dedication to the law but also decency and compassion in his interpretation. George T. Thomas is such a man and would be a wise choice May 6.

Thank you,

Plans for bigger fair taking shape locally

Plans are under way for a bigger and better Howard County Fair, with the dates set for Sept. 18-23.

The board of directors met Wednesday, with Delbert Donelson, president, presiding and began making plans for the annual event.

This will be the sixth year of the re-activated fair which began anew in 1973 after being closed down for several years.

This year, the Shrine Circus will again be held on the opening night of the event and the Horse Show and Roping on the closing night. Other events will be announced.

The board did vote to discontinue the rabbit, chicken and pigeon show due to lack of interest.

The agriculture division will be directed by Bruce Griffith, assisted by Andy Vestal and Gene Perry. Skipper Driver will be in charge of the horse show and roping.

Lloyd Underwood, president elect, will head special events with Paul Hopper and Esco Hamlin on the committee with him.

general manager and urges people to reserve their booth space soon. For inside booth space, call J. Arnold Marshall at H.W. Smith Transport. For outside exhibit space, contact M.A. Snell at First National Bank.

Jimmy Bailey will be chairman of the food and carnival concessions. Mrs. Joe Mac Gaskins of Ackerly, will again head women's activities.

Trail ride is slated here

Weather permitting, the Howard County Youth Horsemen will have their first overnight trail ride of the year Saturday and Sunday on the Turner Ranch, and anyone wanting to come along is welcome.

Horsemen can explore the area on horseback, before supper, a Weiner and marshmallow roast with each family bringing enough food for its own members.

Overnighters should bring a bedroll, horse feed, and ropes and halters. Sunday morning, the group will have church services followed by more riding time. The trail ride will break up at noon.

For additional information, contact Janie Lusk at 263-7519, or Lana Brewer at 263-8075.

Income tax cut seen as best bet

WASHINGTON (AP) — A majority of the House Ways and Means Committee is tentatively supporting a proposed $9 billion income tax cut its backers see as the best bet for salvaging part of President Carter's imperiled tax plan.

The package that has emerged among committee Democrats is well below Carter's $24 billion net tax cut proposal. But unlike the Carter approach, it also would include at least a $4 billion rollback in Social Security payroll taxes.

A knowledgeable committee source said Wednesday that the panel's chairman, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., who has been pushing the compromise plan, believes he has the 19 votes needed for passage. But the source emphasized it's "a very loose package" and "there isn't total unanimity" among the Democrats.

There has been no preliminary vote on the proposal. "We knew...we couldn't get the whole Carter package through. We knew that it can't all be done, so we decided to drop back and regroup," said the source, who asked not to be named. Ullman was expected to approach Republican members of the committee on the proposal, but Rep. Barber B. Conable, R-N.Y., said he had not heard of the plan. He said generally the plan does not provide a large enough tax cut.

Energy Former Big Springer promoted by Pioneer

AMARILLO — Pioneer Corporation president, K. B. Watson, has announced the promotion of two officers in the distribution operations of the Pioneer Natural Gas Company division.

LARRY SHORTES VERNON CLEM

Larry R. Shortes, who has been vice president and division manager for Pioneer Natural Gas Company in Lubbock, assumes duties as vice president over company distribution operations, and will move from Lubbock to Amarillo. Vernon Clem, manager of Pioneer's Plainview district, becomes assistant vice president and West Texas division manager. He will move from Plainview to Lubbock.

Clem is a director of the Westridge Water Corporation of Plainview and is a member of the Texas Manufacturing Association. Community activities include the Plainview Chamber of Commerce, the United Way of Plainview, the Salvation Army, the Wayland College Industrial Board. He is also a member of Rotary International and the Lions Club of Plainview.

Shortes has been with Pioneer and predecessor companies since 1953. He was a Pioneer sales representative in Big Spring, when he was named manager of Pioneer's Brady office. He served in that capacity until 1966, when he was named assistant manager of the Amarillo district office.

He was later named manager of the Odessa district office and in 1973 was transferred to Lubbock and elected a vice president in charge of the West Texas division of Pioneer Natural Gas Company.

Shortes is a Rotarian, member of the board of directors of the Texas Tech Foundation, board member of the United Way of Lubbock, member of the Chamber of Commerce and active in the Industrial Foundation of Lubbock.

He and his wife, Jo Ann, have two children.

Clem has been with Pioneer and predecessor companies for 32 years, and has been manager of the Plainview district since 1968. Clem joined the company as a compressor station operator in Taboka, and legislation would shift financing of hospital insurance or disability programs to general revenue. Carter opposes any changes in the Social Security laws this year. Under a law passed in December, Social Security taxes will increase starting next year by more than $227 billion over the coming decade.

CAMPAIGN TRAIL — A final reception for Dusty Rhodes, candidate for Congress, was held Wednesday afternoon in the chamber office. The happy looking group includes Clara Brown, Mrs. Rhodes, Rhodes, Roger Brown, local campaign chairman and Shannon Mullen.

Fully staffed office promised by Rhodes

"Big Spring is the second largest town in the 17th Congressional District and I think it deserves good representation. This is why I have said from the first that, if elected, I would put a fully staffed office in Big Spring as well as in Abilene," Dusty Rhodes, candidate for the Congressional seat, said here Wednesday.

Rhodes came through Big Spring for his final visit prior to the primaries Saturday

Lower gas bills for three months

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston City Council and Entex have reached an agreement which means Houston residents will be paying slightly lower natural gas bills for the next three months.

Entex agreed Tuesday to reduce the amount it charges customers to cover the higher prices it has to pay at the wellhead to prevent an "over-recovery" or over-payment by Houston customers.

and thanked Roger Brown, his local coordinator, and others who have worked for his campaign here.

He urged everyone to vote, stating "I think we are going to have a good turnout across the district and this is wonderful."

He pointed out that the original American Revolution was for the right to vote and everyone should vote.

He stressed the importance of choosing a candidate that can best represent the interests of the district. "It is important. We

Property tax 'break' hiked

HOUSTON (AP) — The property tax exemptions for persons over 65 has been increased by the Houston City Council.

It was estimated the Tuesday action will save 32,000 elderly taxpayers about $1.3 million in payments to the city when it goes into effect next year.

The current $10,000 exemption was raised to $15,000 under provisions in state law.

'Women love' hot wheels

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Buddy Alvis, 17, peddling barefoot with six companions, says his quadracycle is "the ultimate bike."

The four-wheeler, built by patching together nine bike frames, was constructed by Buddy, his brother, George, their grandfather, George Paulin, and a friend, Ken Stevens, 16.

Despite some early problems, Buddy says the experiment has proven worthwhile because "women love the bike."

On one trip, the bike, with its seven test pilots, came down a hill so fast the sprocket grease caught fire and "then the rim folded just like that."

"We had to bring it home on a station wagon," Buddy said.

DON'T LET ORGANIZED CRIME GET A STRANGLEHOLD ON YOU!

The gambling promoters will tell you that state control of horserace gambling will keep out organized crime. Don't you believe it!

Legalized gambling creates a climate to gamble. People who would never have even thought of betting on the horses are suddenly betting on football, basketball or baseball with illegal bookies.

Why? Because the bookies give better odds, they take bets over the phone, they'll take bets on credit and most important of all... the bookies will not report winnings to the IRS.

For every dollar bet legally at the track, three to five dollars is bet illegally with the bookies. And bookies are set-up, financed and controlled by ORGANIZED CRIME!

I like the Green Stamps. I like the meats... better than where I was shopping. It's tender and well, and the meat's not all fat and everything when you take it out of the package. They're friendly, if I ask for something they'll usually go back in the back and get it for me if it's not on the shelves.

FRANCES CASSELMAN
I like the employees first of all, I like the merchandise, the store's clean, I like the meat very much, they have the best meat of any store in Big Spring. The meat is fresh and it's always tender and any cut of meat that you want cut special or anything if you ask they'll do it for you. You can bet on the bottom piece of meat being the same as the top piece of meat whether you can see it or not. You know it's gonna be the same.

Aid package advances

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise aid package for wheat and cotton farmers is before the House for final congressional action.

The Senate on Tuesday accepted with a quick voice vote the measure drafted last week by House-Senate conferees. President Carter is expected to sign it even though he is said to dislike a portion that raises the cotton support price.

The measure would give the president new authority, in years when he asks farmers to idle some cropland as a priceboosting measure, to raise the federally guaranteed rate of return on wheat, feedgrains, upland cotton and rice.

Those returns, called target prices, are guaranteed through a cash payment of the difference between the target and a lower average post-harvest market price. Current law allows them to be changed only once a year, based on changes in average production costs in the most-efficient region for a given crop.

Carter has said he would raise only the wheat target, from $3 to $3.40 a bushel, because growers of other crops, involved in this season's acreage-idling programs are being compensated in other ways for their cooperation.

That would mean up to $600 million more in target-price payments to wheat growers this season, if the average price is $3 this fall, the Congressional Budget Office said.

The measure also would raise from 44 to 48 cents a pound the rate at which the Agriculture Department lends cotton farmers money with the harvested crop as collateral until it can be sold in the market at a higher price and the loan repaid.

That would add $100 million to the total cotton loans this season, CBO said. The complicated and farmer-opposed formula for setting cotton supports, a trade-off between European and domestic prices, would be revised to give the U.S. prices more weight.

USDA studies show that, not counting land costs, it takes between 55 and 66 cents a pound to produce cotton, the main competitor of which is synthetic fiber selling around 57 or 58 cents a pound.

Other sections of the bill would allow California cooperatives that sell raisins under a federal marketing order to use members' funds for brandname advertising and would raise from $14.5 billion to $25 billion the USDA's borrowing authority for farm-income programs.

Food stamp program overhaul proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has officially proposed new rules to overhaul the $5.5 billion annual food stamp program later this year.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland announced the proposals Wednesday and called for public comment through June 16. He also said the revised food stamp program is expected to be in operation "late this year" but set no firm date.

Previously, Bergland and other officials hoped that the food stamp revisions could be put into effect on July 1. But that timetable was ruled out because of the time required for federal rulemaking and to coordinate the changes with state and local welfare agencies.

"We expect the changes to be of particular benefit to the elderly and working poor," Bergland said in his announcement. "More elderly and low-income working families will now be able to participate and improve their nutrition."

The plan calls for tighter eligibility requirements for those on the higher end of the poverty scale and for easier access to the program for poorer people and the elderly.

"The changes would assure that those with the highest incomes — and therefore not significantly in need of food stamps — would no longer qualify, while we do a better job of reaching those who truly are in need," Bergland said.

All persons on state welfare rolls qualify automatically for federal food stamps. Others whose incomes fall within government poverty standards and meet other qualifications also can get stamps.

The proposals carry most of the reforms ordered by Congress in the Food and Agriculture Act of 1977.

About 17 million persons shared in food stamp benefits in February, the most recent month tabulated by USDA. On the average, a qualified family pays about $4 of its own money and gets $10 worth of stamps to spend at grocery stores.

The current program allows a family of four having an adjusted monthly income of $250 to $270 to get $174 in food stamps by paying $71 for them, a bonus of $103, for example.

Grass judging team places

The Howard County 4-H grass judging team placed third in District 6 in an elimination contest held April 20 in Ozona.

Members of the team included Scott Robinson, Knott 4-H; Rory Buchanan, Coahoma 4-H and Sammie Don Buchanan, Coahoma 4-H.

The beef cow herd, which is the nation's factory for producing beef, has been trimmed to about 50 million head from 57 million a few years ago, McDougal said. With prices going up again, producers will start keeping heifers to rebuild breeding herds.

But it takes up to four years from the time a heifer is selected for future breeding until her calf is mature enough for slaughter. Further, McDougal said, there are around 1.5 million farmers and ranchers who own beef cows and those make individual decisions and expand at their own paces.

Farm Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures No. 2 were higher in midday dealings today.

The average price for strict low middling 11-16 inch spot cotton advanced 2 points to 55.42 cents a pound Wednesday for the 18 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Midday afternoon prices were $1.00 to $1.20 a bale higher than the previous close. May 57.00, Jul 58.72, and Oct 60.57.

Twisters rake Alabama

By the Associated Press
The New Orleans area, where three persons died as a result of flash flooding, and other parts of the South struggled to recover today from heavy rainfall, high winds and at least eight tornados.

In New Orleans, 9 inches of rain fell Wednesday, clogging streets with flooded vehicles and making travel almost impossible except by improvised watercraft.

Police said two persons drowned and one was electrocuted in a flood-related accident.

The National Weather Service said it couldn't tell exactly how much rain fell because its gauge broke.

Before breaking, the gauge recorded 8.67 inches of rain.

A line of heavy thunderstorms was moving across northern Florida this morning, and a tornado watch was in effect for northern and central Florida and adjacent coastal waters.

Flash flood watches were in effect for eastern Tennessee, western North Carolina and the mountains and midlands of South Carolina.

Two tornados were reported in Alabama on Wednesday, and one touched down on a schoolhouse in Covington County, but no injuries were reported.

"We were extremely lucky," said Murray King, county school superintendent.

More than 4 inches of rain fell on several Alabama towns, and Mobile recorded 6 inches.

Weather bureau radar picked up two tornados in southern Georgia late Wednesday, but there were no reports of injuries or property damage.

Officials said 1.31 inches of rain fell on Columbus, Ga., and high winds knocked down power lines and small trees in both Columbus and Atlanta.

One-inch-thick hail pelted Waycross, Ga., the weather bureau said.

Four tornados were reported in Mississippi but none touched down.

Heavy thunderstorms rumbled through northern and central Florida, flooding roads and canals, felling trees and causing sporadic power blackouts. No injuries were reported.

Meanwhile, a rare May snowstorm struck western Kansas, leaving up to 8 inches of snow near Elkhart.

Snow also fell on parts of Oklahoma and Texas, but most of it melted quickly.

Around the rest of the nation, showers fell over Washington state, the south and central Rockies, the western Dakotas and from Kansas across Missouri into the lower Ohio Valley. Snow fell in Laramie, Wyo.

Temperatures were in the 20s and 30s in parts of the Northeast, the northern Great Lakes region, the Rockies and the western parts of the south and central Plains.

Blood pressure 'break'

BOSTON (AP) — Doctors who have successfully tested a new pill that lowers high blood pressure without the unpleasant side effects of medicines now prescribed say it is one of the most promising breakthroughs in treating this common illness in two decades.

The drug, called SQ14225, will lower blood pressure so high it cannot be treated by traditional methods. The doctors say it someday may replace the drugs used to treat most forms of this illness.

High blood pressure, sometimes called hypertension, is one of the most common diseases of adults. It is caused by narrowing of the blood vessels and contributes to such killers as heart attack and stroke.

About 23 million Americans — 15 percent of all adults — have high blood pressure, and the prevalence increases with age. One

Coliseum roof repels rain

"The main room of the new coliseum did not leak during the rain this week and we were quite pleased," Dr. Charles Hays, Howard College president, said here this week.

"We had some leaks in the corridor, but not as many as we anticipated with a new roof in West Texas. We are pleased to get a rain so we could tell what was happening," Dr. Hays added.

He said that the new inside floor had been laid "and it appears to be a real good job."

College officials have been plagued with months of delays on the construction of the coliseum. "It begins to look as though the end is in sight," Dr. Hays said here this week.

quarter of all whites and half of all blacks between ages 55 and 64 have this illness.

The researchers say it will be at least two years before SQ14225 is cleared for widespread use.

They gave it to 12 victims of high blood pressure at Boston University Medical Center. Four were so ill they could not be treated with conventional drugs.

However, the researchers said that SQ14225 lowered all their blood pressures to normal levels.

A report on the research was published in today's issue of the New England

Journal of Medicine.

The new medicine apparently does not cause the side effects of pills currently prescribed for high blood pressure, such as depression, drowsiness and impotence.

Instead, it uses the body's own chemistry to fight the disease.

Dr. Irene Gavras, one of the Boston University researchers, said, "This new drug does not interfere with the nervous system at all."

The drug, developed by Squibb and Sons, is made from amino acid, the building block of protein.

PLANT CERTIFIED

For Higher Cotton Yields

Yields from certified cotton planting seed were up to 18 percent higher than yields from caught or non-certified seed according to research by Dr. L. L. Ray at the South Plains Research and Extension Center in Lubbock, Texas. Certified seed has not undergone genetic deterioration in the field. Volunteer plants and undesirable cross-pollination are eliminated. And certified seed from Pioneer is free from pests and weeds which often accompany non-certified varieties. See your ginner or Pioneer brand seed dealer for these certified varieties.

Dependable even in dry country!

Certified LX571*

You can't control the weather. So, you need a hedge against drought. . . . and that's where the Lankart variety LX571 fits in. It consistently produces top yields of high quality cotton . . . even under tough, dry conditions. And you don't have to give up anything to get this outstanding drought tolerance, either. LX571 produces fairly long, strong fiber . . . with micronaire normally in the premium range. And storm resistant bolls strip well in one pass through the field. Add up all the good things about LX571 . . . then it's easy to see why this is one of the most planted cotton varieties in the Rolling Plains, Central Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma.

*LX571 is a U.S. protected variety (Plant Variety Protection Certificate No. 7200018). Unauthorized propagation and unauthorized seed multiplication prohibited by law. LX571 cotton-planting seed can be sold by variety name only as a class of certified seed. It is unlawful to sell non-certified seed of this variety.

Long-time favorite.

Cotton growers in Texas, Oklahoma and Eastern New Mexico have relied on certified Lankart 57 for consistently high yields for years. This variety has vigorous plants with short main stems and short fruiting branches. Leaves are large and dense. And this medium-early maturity cotton has storm-proof bolls. Lankart 57 is a good stripper cotton, too. . . . well-adapted to Texas and Oklahoma dryland production.

Certified LANKART 57

Certified LANKART 611

High yielding, early variety. This cotton variety was developed for the early maturity needs of dryland farming . . . especially in the Blackland and Rolling Plains of Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma. Vigorous plants with short main stems and close fruiting branches produce large bolls of high quality lint. A good stripper cotton for the Southern High Plains on wilt-free soil.

WORLD'S LARGEST — The 100,000 square foot casino at the MGM Grand Hotel — larger than two football fields — is the biggest in the world. The Reno, Nev., hotel opened for business Wednesday. It has 1,015 rooms, 2,000 slot machines and 102 "21" tables.

Advises Fike Godfrey

'Get head out of sand'

By CARLA WALKER
"We must do whatever possible to maintain a strong national defense which includes policies both to update our fighting planes and keep our farmers in business," said Fike Godfrey, 17th Congressional district candidate in a press conference this morning.

"Every other major power considers its national food and fiber policies part of its national defense and it is time we got our head out of the sand and did the same, for food and clothing would be necessities to keep an army in the field," said Godfrey.

The candidate added that it is a widely recognized fact that without the family farm system, America would become increasingly dependent on other nations for its food and fiber supply.

"If our farmers go out of business and we are forced to import 40 percent of our food and fiber needs, we will have the same situation as we now do with oil — the suppliers will charge exactly what they want, knowing we will be forced to pay it," Godfrey said.

"That is why I have offered proposals that I feel will provide a solution to the problem," said Godfrey. "It allows the farmer to have total control over his own marketing decisions, and provides financial relief that is immediate and does not cost the taxpayer."

The basis of the proposals are contracts between the farmer and the civil defense bureau which would be negotiated at a cost plus a fair profit based on production costs in each individual area.

"Contract administration and the price determinations would be made by a board composed of producers, marketers, and the agriculture department, and each contract would be for a specific amount of produce. Whatever the farmer wishes to do in terms of producing over his contract amount, is his own decision, as is the decision of what to do with the produce," Godfrey said.

"If a farmer wants to save it against the next year's contract, it is a form of cheap insurance — storage costs only — against a possible crop failure next year," Godfrey explained.

"Or, if he wishes, he can sell it on the world market — as agriculture products are presently sold — for whatever he can get for it."

"The real beauty of the proposal is the way national reserve stockpiles are handled," Godfrey says. "In the past, government dumping of agriculture stockpiles has played havoc with the farmer's marketing and crop planning efforts."

"At a time considered politically or economically beneficial, national reserves would be dropped unannounced on the world market, knocking the bottom out of prices received by farmers by exceeding the supply-demand balances," Godfrey explained.

"Under my proposals, the civil defense bureau would have to notify the public at least one year in advance of dumping reserves, giving farmers time to adjust their advance plans for crop planting."

The proposal would give the program a national security-safety designation. Godfrey claims to be the first of the 17th District Congressional candidates to "go beyond generalities" in proposing real solutions to what he calls a "crisis in American Agriculture."

FIKE GODFREY

"We cannot play Russian Roulette with our national defense, and modifying the B-52 bomber will be more costly financially and much less effective than modifying the F-111," Godfrey said.

"The B-52 has served well, but it is neither right nor in the interests of national security to make our young men fly the same planes that their fathers fought in a generation ago."

"The F-111, which would be modified and called the FB-111H if approved by Congress, would do a better job, allowing our fighting forces to take advantage of more advanced and sophisticated equipment, while at the same time, being cheaper than modification of the B-52 bomber," Godfrey asserted.

Should Congress choose to modify the F-111, the Fort Worth-located plant which manufactured the planes would be chosen as the modification site, offering 7,000 to 8,000 jobs that West Texans could take advantage of.

"And, if more expansion is made, the Big Spring Industrial Park would be a very competitive site for location of another modification plant," said Godfrey.

"I want to offer the 17th Congressional District concrete plans to solve the problems of this area and of the nation, not make general inexact promises," Godfrey concluded.

7-year-old child murdered Police 'couldn't do anything'

BALTIMORE (AP) — Willie Godfrey says the trouble began after he refused to allow 15-year-old Joseph Nolan Jr. to date his stepdaughter because she "wasn't old enough."

A police source, who asked to remain unidentified, said the boy is believed to have been alive when he was lowered into the water tied to a board. The source said the boy may have struggled to grab floating logs but his assailants threw rocks at him until he went under the water.

Charged with murder, kidnapping and extortion are Nolan, who lives a few doors from the Godfreys in a quiet northwest Baltimore neighborhood, and Michael Evans, 16. Nolan was held in lieu of $50,000 bond and Evans in lieu of $25,000 bond, said police.

Over the last two months, Godfrey said, windows in both his two-story brick home and his van were smashed, the back door of the house was kicked in and his children were beaten. Nolan, Godfrey alleges, once tried to drag his stepdaughter, Sharon, 14, out

One jockey killed, two injured

BALTIMORE — One jockey was killed and two others were injured in a spill at Pimlico Race Course. One of four horses involved in the accident had to be destroyed.

Robert Pineda, 25, the jockey on Easter Bunny Mine in the second race, was pronounced dead at Sinai Hospital of "multiple internal injuries," a hospital spokeswoman said.

Rudy Turcotte, the jockey on Easy Edith, who had to be destroyed, was in stable condition with a fractured collar bone.

The third jockey, James Thornton, was hospitalized with a fractured vertebrae of the neck and chest injuries.

Spinks signs for exhibits

EDMONTON (AP) — Promoter Nick Zubray announced Wednesday night that world heavyweight boxing champion Leon Spinks will participate in three exhibition matches in Western Canada next month.

Spinks, guaranteed $50,000 for the three appearances against opponents to be named, is scheduled to appear in Edmonton on June 6, Calgary on June 8 and Vancouver on June 10.

Zubray produced telegrams from Chris Dundee, one of Spinks' advisers, approving the series.

Hockey magnates 'courting'

NEW YORK — Roy L.M. Boe, principal owner of the New York Islanders and the New Jersey Nets, won a four-week adjournment Wednesday of a $10 million damage suit filed against him by Thomas J. Thornton, a limited partner in the National Hockey League franchise.

Meanwhile, financial records of the hockey team were subpoenaed for examination as part of Thornton's suit filed in Supreme Court in Mineola, N.Y. In the action, Thornton charged Boe with diverting $3.5 million in Islander funds to himself or the Nets of the National Basketball Association. The action also alleged that Boe concealed financial information from the other partners and called on them for additional cash investments to "cover up," for the cash drain.

Simpson inks with Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — Keith Simpson, the Seattle Seahawks' No. 1 pick in the National Football League draft, has signed a series of contracts with the club extending through the 1982 season, General Manager John Thompson announced Wednesday night.

Simpson, a 6-foot-1, 195-pound defensive back from Memphis State, was the ninth player selected Tuesday in the first round and the first defensive back chosen.

"I'm just proud to say I am a Seahawk," Simpson told a news conference after he formally signed five one-year contracts. "I'm relieved and exhausted, but I'm rather excited. I'm ready for the season to start and practice to begin."

Bullets' PR man dies

LANDOVER, Md. — Marc Splaver, the director of public relations of the Washington Bullets for the past five years, died of leukemia Wednesday in George Washington University Hospital.

Splaver, 29, was first hospitalized last June, and most recently was readmitted last Tuesday after his remission ended. A spokesman for the National Basketball Association club said Splaver died early Wednesday after going into a coma.

Volleyball clinic set

A volleyball clinic for all interested girls in grades 6th through 9th will be held Friday and Saturday at the Physical Education gyms on the campus of Big Spring High School.

The clinic, only available to those girls who will not be competing on varsity level next year, will be run by Texas Tech University Head Volleyball Coach Janice Hudson, who won state three years while at Monahans.

Times are 6:30-9:30 p.m. Friday night, and 8:30-11:30 a.m. and 1:30-4:30 p.m. Saturday. Fundamental drills and techniques, as well as "court sense" will be the topics of the clinic.

Almost 60 players have already pre-registered, and if any other girls are interested, they should contact Nancy Deason at the high school.

Tech, which has one of the top five volleyball programs in the state, will also be sending down a few varsity players to help run the clinic.

NEW HAWK QUEEN — Robbie Freeman, Trent High School basketball star, has signed scholarship agreements with Howard College. The 5'8" stand-out is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Freeman. While at Trent she was All-District all four years and won numerous all-tournament honors. Her career high point production for one game was 55 points. "We feel that Robbie's abilities will greatly strengthen the play of the Hawk Queens in the coming season," said Coach Don Stevens.

Youngest Derby trainer may find roses

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — At age 32 John Veitch is the youngest Kentucky Derby trainer for Saturday's 104th running of the classic, but he hardly feels he's lacking in experience.

"I feel I got a 15 to 20 year head start because of my father," the balding Veitch, who will be saddling Alydar, said Wednesday. "I learned the business from him starting as a kid. Otherwise, I'd be mucking stalls today."

The elder Veitch, Sylvester, trained for the famed C.V. Whitney Stable, was chosen to the Racing Hall of Fame, but he never trained a Derby winner, something John has a good chance of doing on Saturday at Churchill Downs.

The 1 1/4-mile first leg of the Triple Crown for 3-year-olds, with a purse of $125,000 added, is expected to be a battle between Alydar of Calumet Farm, Affirmed of Harbor View Farm, Top of the Marc Stable's Sensitive Prince and Hickory Tree Stable's Believe It. The rest of the field, expected to total 10 today when entries were submitted, are regarded as outsiders.

MIDLAND — The Midland Lee Rebels maintained a tie with the Big Spring Steers in second half District 5-4A baseball action by virtue of a 2-0 victory over the Abilene Eagles Wednesday.

If the Rebels beat cross-town rival Midland Saturday, they will become the league champions and will advance to the state playoffs. Other conference action today includes San Angelo at Permian and Midland at Abilene Cooper.

STANTON — All boys and girls, ages 8-12, who plan to play in the Stanton Texas Teenage Baseball League this summer, must fill out an application form before the tryouts and draft this Saturday, May 6, according to league officials.

Mike Rhea, one of the league's three commissioners, said Monday that only 50 local boys and girls have filled out applications for the league, some 70 short of the player total for past years.

The 21-year-old Lopez is this year's leading money-winner with $54,756 and is the only pro to have won two 1978 tournaments. She has consecutive victories in the Bent Tree and Sunstar classics but did not enter last week's Lady Tara after finishing well back in the two previous LPGA events.

The remainder of the field was expected to consist of Esops Foibles, Darby Creek Road, Dr. Valeri, Chief of Dixieland, Hoist The Silver and Raymond Earl.

For his first Derby, young Veitch will be pitted against such crafty veteran trainers as Laz Barrera, Allen Jerkens and Woody Stephens, who will be sending the other top contenders to the starting gate in the nationally-televised race (ABC, 5-6 p.m. EDT) which figures to draw a crowd in excess of 100,000.

Alydar has won all four starts this year, including the Blue Grass Stakes, the Florida Derby, and Veitch says Alydar's best race may still be in the future. "Alydar always has speed when you asked for it," Veitch said. "He can go that last quarter in 24 (seconds) any time."

A Derby triumph by Alydar would be the first for Calumet, once a racing powerhouse, since 1968 when Forward Pass was awarded the victory after Dancer's Image was disqualified. Veitch said he didn't feel Derby pressure because the Calumet owners, Admiral and Mrs. Gene Markey, "are in racing for the sport."

Q. Do you think the Texas Rangers are a "night" team or "day" team? I heard someone say "Texas can't play in the sun." Are there statistics anywhere to prove one way or another?

A. Sounds like that someone may have been out in the sun too long. The stats are very close, too close to draw a judgment either way. In 1977, the Rangers won 23 and lost 18 day games (.560), and took 71 night games, compared to 50 losses (.560).

Since 1972, the Rangers stand at 109-132 during the day (.452) and 355-386 in the night games (.464). That gives a slight edge to business after sunset, but I wouldn't go putting my chips down somewhere because of it.

Women's IGT opens today

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — A rainy, blustery weekend that could skyrocket scores is predicted for the 68 entrants in today's opening round of the third annual Women's International Golf Tournament.

The 59 pros and nine amateurs face a tough enough time with the Devil's Elbow course at Moss Creek Plantation without having to battle the elements. The lagoon-laden layout is playing a tricky 6,100 yards for the tournament and is susceptible to shifting sea winds that can change from hole to hole.

If the foul weather prediction holds up, the best bet is that one or two strokes off the 36-36-72 par for the full 72 holes will be enough to take the winner's $12,000 share of the $80,000 offered.

The tournament record of 281, 7 under par, is shared by both previous champions, Sally Little of South Africa and Sandra Palmer.

They are in a field that also includes every other winner of Ladies Professional Golf Association tournaments in 1977 and thus far in 1978, with the exception of current LPGA champion Chako Higuchi. The list includes four LPGA Hall of Famers, veterans Patty Berg, Carol Mann, Kathy Whitworth and Mickey Wright.

But two of the tour's youngest players, Nancy Lopez and Hollis Stacey, are considered top contenders to conquer Devil's Elbow this year.

The 21-year-old Lopez is this year's leading money-winner with $54,756 and is the only pro to have won two 1978 tournaments. She has consecutive victories in the Bent Tree and Sunstar classics but did not enter last week's Lady Tara after finishing well back in the two previous LPGA events.

Peacekeeping force promised troopers

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The U.N. peacekeeping force in southern Lebanon has been promised a 50-percent increase in strength following attacks by Moslem extremists on French troops in the biblical port of Tyre.

The U.N. Security Council authorized 2,000 more troops for the 4,000-man force at a meeting in New York Wednesday. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim had requested the reinforcements before the fighting Tuesday night, and approval had been expected. But the clashes made council approval a certainty.

The council resolution deplored the attacks on the U.N. force and demanded respect for the peacekeepers. It also called on Israel to complete its withdrawal from southern Lebanon "without any further delay."

The Israeli forces who advanced 12 to 18 miles into southern Lebanon in mid-March to drive the Palestinian guerrillas from SOLAR NACHOS ANYONE? — Allison Bryant of the Nex Mexico Solar Energy Association cooks a tray of nachos in a solar oven which was part of Wednesday's Sun Day activities in Santa Fe. Ms. Bryant had little trouble generating interest in the solar oven, especially one that turns out free nachos for those passing by.

Plan to help clean up air in cities unveiled

DENVER (AP)—Mountain, near suburban Golden, the president saw President Carter, beginning a day's busy round of nine appearances in three states, today announced a proposed five-year, $675 million federal program to help clean up the air of inland cities.

Happily for Carter, the day ended on an upbeat note as Colorado Democrats whistled and cheered to mark his arrival at a fund-raising affair for Sen. Floyd Haskell.

Haskell saluted the president as coming "in support of the state of Colorado." Carter called the Colorado Democrat "one of the great senators of all time."

Saluting the senator's backers, Carter said a lot of hard work would be needed in Haskell's campaign.

"This will not be an easy election year for democrats like Haskell," the president said.

The Haskell party followed a dinner the president had with solar energy supporters at Rick's Cafe, a spot popular with the Denver singles crowd. The place is owned by a man named Phil whose nickname is "Whitey."

Once a service station, the cafe was chosen for the meal because it has a solar-heated dishwasher.

Carter's major appearance of the day was at the planned site of a federally-financed Solar Energy Research Institute near Golden.

There he announced that $100 million is being shifted from one section of the Energy Department's budget to another so it will be earmarked for solar energy development and research in other areas of renewable energy.

Thirty-nine respond to request for blood

A total of 39 Big Springers gave the "gift of life" at the weekend Blood Donation Marathon.

The marathon was held from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Four volunteer donors were deferred for medical reasons.

In order to meet an emergency that might arise in Big Spring, a supply of over 60 units of blood is maintained in the local hospitals at all times. This is over twice the amount of blood normally transfused in a week's time, but it must be available to insure an adequate supply of any specific type that might be required.

The West Texas Blood Service is anxious to provide programs about the need for donations for any service club or organization. Any business or group that would like to sponsor a bloodmobile is encouraged to contact the service.

Several Big Spring businesses donated items to be used as door prizes during the marathon. They were: Alberto's Restaurant, Big Spring Hardware, Burger Chef, Chute Number One, College Park Cinema, Faye's Flowers, Firestone, First Federal Savings, First National Bank, Goodyear, Inland Port, La Posada, Mead's Auto Supply, Montgomery Ward, Quigley Floral, Security State Bank, Skateland, Wards Western Wear and Western Auto.

Shocker on ballot

AUSTIN — Some persons are fascinated with the political process. They follow politics the way others follow professional football. For lack of a better term, we call them "political observers."

I've always considered myself in the group. It has even been my good fortune to find a profession that pays me to keep up my membership.

Thus, it was with some confidence that I entered the voting booth in the Travis County courthouse to vote absentee this week. And it was with some shock that I discovered a race on the ballot that I knew nothing about.

I had a choice between two names for justice of the peace. That's all they were to me — just names. I remembered seeing both of them on some small signs tacked on utility poles. How could I vote for one on that basis?

I couldn't. For the first time that I can remember, I skipped a contested race.

A short time later a friend telephoned and asked for some advice on the statewide judgeship races: Texas Supreme Court and Court of Criminal Appeals. The candidates were all just names to him.

The Texas long ballot has long been the subject of textbook discussions.

Improvements, such as four-year terms for many state officials, have been made. Others, such as cutting down the number of elected positions, have been proposed.

But for the time being there's nothing to do but make a special effort to base your vote on something more than recognizing a name. I blew it.

House Speaker Billy Clayton's concern about lobbyists surveying candidates stems from questionnaires from some Houston labor councils.

Clayton asked the attorney general's office for a ruling on whether such surveys are violations of state law.

The request was kicked off my Clayton's belief that the labor groups' questionnaires imply that political support or opposition will be based on the legislators' answers.

The speaker seems to think such pressure by lobby groups could constitute coercion of candidates. More by Clayton's belief that the to the point, Clayton is concerned about questionnaires to determine positions on speaker candidates.

He asks whether such questionnaires could be considered legislative bribery.

The Texas Coastal and Marine Council can't be accused of playing down criticism.

The Austin American-Statesman last month ran a story about four state agencies that distribute news summaries at taxpayers' expense.

Cited in the story were the Legislative Reference Library, Texas Education Agency, the governor's office and the Texas Coastal and Marine Council.

In the council's next news summary, among clippings on beaches and pollution, was the American-Statesman's story on news summaries.

Impact liquor oasis case returned

WASHINGTON (AP) — An anti-trust suit involving the West Texas liquor oasis of Impact is going back to the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals for "further consideration."

Impact is a town born of necessity for the thirsty residents of nearby Abilene and the surrounding area. The nearest competitor where off-premises consumption is allowed is Stamford, 38 miles away.

The U.S. Supreme Court vacated the lower court judgement Monday and directed the appellate court to consider the case in light of a decision handed down last month.

That decision, on a 5-4 vote, ruled that cities, like corporations, can be prosecuted and fined heavily for violations of federal anti-trust violations.

Edgar Whitworth, who purchased a lot in the tiny community in 1967, brought the suit. Whitworth's property was zoned residential six years earlier. However, in 1975 — the same year he brought the suit — Whitworth applied for a wine and beer off-premises retail permit. The city secretary turned it down.

The application was denied because the property was zoned for residential use.

Whitworth sued, alleging the city had denied his application to restrict competition in the retail liquor business. At the trial level, the court ruled the city's valid zoning ordinance bars recovery regardless of whether its actions otherwise violate anti-trust laws.

The 5th Circuit, however, reversed the trial court's ruling. The court said the mere presence of the zoning ordinance does not necessarily insulate the defendants from anti-trust liability where the assertion is made that the enactment of the ordinance was part of a conspiracy to restrain trade.

The city then appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Jerry Lee Lewis is sentenced

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Entertainer Jerry Lee Lewis has been given a 30-day suspended jail sentence for driving while under the influence of drugs.

Judge William Williams handed down the sentence Wednesday after a brief hearing in Criminal Court. A jury which convicted the 42-year-old entertainer April 15 levied a $200 fine, leaving the question of a jail sentence to the judge.

Lewis, arrested June 22 near here, was accused by police of driving his Rolls Royce erratically down U.S. 72. He told authorities that he had taken drugs prescribed by his doctor.

After leaving the courtroom, Lewis told reporters he was leaving next week for a tour of Saudi Arabia. "I feel fine," he said.

Eight good men want to be your next Congressman.

How can you make sure you select the best man for the job?

You pick a man with mature, sound judgment, a man with a record of outstanding achievement.

Dusty Rhodes.

You pick a man who is intimately acquainted with the problems of three industries vital to the economy of the 17th Congressional District, a man with interests and experience in farming, ranching and the oil industry, a man who has the ability and experience to keep these industries alive and well, to protect the livelihoods of thousands in our District.

Dusty Rhodes.

You pick a man whose experience in business has helped him understand the dangers of government interference, which affects every person in our district, which contributes to soaring inflation that eats away your paycheck.

You pick a man who is used to fighting against odds—and winning—whose experience as a lawyer has thoroughly equipped him in the knowledge and procedures of law—a man who is not afraid to fight even when the cards are stacked up against him.

Dusty Rhodes.

You need a man in whom the indomitable spirit of the frontier—your spirit—is still alive—love of family, trust in God, achievement through hard work, honesty, concern for fellow men, courage and initiative—a man who is opposed to government interference in your life and your rights.

Dusty Rhodes.

Eight good men. But there's only one with the maturity, knowledge, experience, ability and fearless determination to serve you best of all.

Mondale vows U.S. will accept 25,000 more refugees

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale reaffirmed to Thai leaders today that the United States would honor treaty commitments to defend Southeast Asia against Communist aggression and said America will accept 25,000 more Indochinese refugees a year for an indefinite period.

Mondale, arriving here from the Philippines on the second leg of a five-nation Far East tour, met for two hours with Thai Prime Minister Kriangsak Chomanan.

Mondale, on a two-day stopover, is the highest-ranking American to visit Thailand since the end of the Vietnam War three years ago. He said on his arrival that the visit underscores the importance President Carter attaches to U.S. relations with the nations of Asia and the Pacific.

After their meeting, Kriangsak, a military man who seized power in a coup last year, told reporters Mondale said Washington would honor the 1964 Manila Pact and its protocols, which pledge America to defend Southeast Asia against "armed Communist aggression." A U.S. official in the Mondale party confirmed the statement.

A number of Thais have expressed concern that Washington had forgotten its longstanding allies in the region in the post-Vietnam War era.

In Hanoi, the Vietnamese government today accused the United States of hatching a new "military plot" in Southeast Asia by trying to retain military bases in the region.

A Radio Hanoi commentary taken from the official Vietnamese Communist newspaper said the United States also was trying "to block the establishment of good friendly relations between Vietnam and its neighbors in Southeast Asia."

Mondale's press secretary, Albert Eisele, said Kriangsak urged Mondale to step up U.S. acceptance of Indochinese refugees, about 100,000 of whom are scattered in camps throughout Thailand, creating an economic and security burden for the Thai.

Eisele told reporters the Carter administration would make a commitment to accept a total of 25,000 Vietnamese, Laotian and Cambodian refugees a year. Most are expected to come from Thailand, and a U.S. Embassy refugee officer said the program could begin soon.

In Manila, the vice president said President Carter is determined that the United States will "continue to play a strong role in the Pacific." But some Thai Foreign Ministry officials expressed doubts privately about how specific Mondale would be about U.S. military aid to Southeast Asia in times of emergency.

"It would be a good thing to learn from Mondale the definite U.S. policy with regard to the region," one diplomat said. "Thailand has been in a difficult position since the end of the Indochinese wars. It has been accused of being a front for the U.S."

Thailand was a major rear base for American forces in Indochina, and pro-American feelings are still strong.

The English-language newspaper The Nation said editorially this week that the United States is still bound by the Manila Pact of 1954 to help defend Thailand against aggression. It said although American troops are no longer needed, the country wants American weapons at "concessional terms" and a clear statement from Mondale of American aims and policy toward the Association of Southeast Asian Nations.

Prime Minister Kriangsak Chomanan told reporters this week his government may ask to purchase more F-5E jet fighter-bombers from the United States, which next fiscal year will cease all military grants to Thailand and only provide $30 million in foreign military sales credits.

Kriangsak and other officials are also certain to press Mondale for American acceptance of more of the 100,000 refugees from Laos, Vietnam and Cambodia now in refugee camps in Thailand.

About 18,000 Indochinese refugees have been admitted to the United States from Thailand since April 1975, and Thai officials say the U.S. government bears a major responsibility for permanent resettlement of the refugees.

The drug traffic through Thailand figure high on the agenda because experts say as much as two-thirds of the world's supply of heroin passes through the country from the opium fields of the "Golden Triangle," the area where Burma, Thailand and Laos meet. The Thai government has pledged to step up efforts to eliminate trafficking.

DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

How do you rate as a Superwoman?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Dr. Joyce Brothers Asks: How Do You Rate as a Superwoman?" is the title of a brochure being plugged by America's No. 1 celebrity psychologist.

The brochure includes a series of suggestions by Dr. Brothers and tips from the aerosol industry. The Aerosol Packaging Council of the Chemical Specialties Manufacturers Association recently hired her as a consultant, at what she calls "a nice sum."

Dr. Brothers, who according to a recent Gallup poll is the ninth most admired woman in the world, says the tips are intended to "help make your life easier" if you're juggling a career with marriage, motherhood and pillows.

One suggestion on how to enhance a marriage is: "Sweep him off to a weekend hideaway. (Tip: When he's not looking, spray a touch of your favorite aerosol cologne mist on bedsheets and pillows.)"

Dr. Brothers, who was here for radio and television appearances, does a daily radio show and syndicated advice column and appears occasionally on television shows like Hollywood Squares, Police Woman and soap operas.

"Even in situations like Hollywood Squares, everything I say is valid psychologically. It's an opportunity to get little tips in," she said in an interview.

Mrs. Frank Brandon was rushed to Malone-Hogan Hospital today suffering from an apparent heart attack.

New Orleans reeling from deluge

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — This sea-level city is a sodden city today, still reeling from a 9-inch deluge that flooded streets, washed away cars, shorted out telephone service — and killed three persons.

Police said two persons drowned and one man was electrocuted in a flood-related accident.

The National Weather Service said it couldn't tell exactly how much rain fell because their gauge flooded out. It recorded 8.67 inches before it broke. Forecasters said the total probably exceeded nine inches.

The flooding was the city's worst in 50 years, except for devastating hurricanes such as Betsy in 1965.

New Orleans sits like a saucer between the Mississippi River and Lake Pontchartrain. Because much of the city is as much as five feet below sea level, all excess rainfall must be pumped over the seawall into the lake.

The city's intricate drainage system, with 17 pumping stations and 200 miles of canals, is designed to handle six inches of rain over a nine-hour period. But G. Joseph Sullivan, superintendent of the city water board, said there was "no way in the world" to handle Wednesday's downpour.

In suburban Jefferson Parish, the pumps can handle only four inches in 24 hours. Many areas there were still under water today.

Public schools were closed today, but officials hoped to reopen them Friday.

Streets this morning were clogged with hundreds of haphazardly parked automobiles, abandoned by commuters who were amazed to find themselves stranded on streets that became canals.

In the central business district, water lapped over the sidewalks and soaked carpets on the ground floors of offices, restaurants and the Grand Hotel on Canal Street.

Businessmen in pin-striped suits walked through the streets barefoot, their pants rolled up to their knees, with briefcases in one hand, shoes and socks in the other.

In narrow French Quarter streets it was wall-to-wall water. Antoine's restaurant and several shops had water on their floors.

The hardest-hit areas were suburbs on the west bank of the Mississippi River, in St. Bernard Parish and low areas in the Broadmoor and Uptown sections near Tulane University.

Some people used canoes, makeshift flatboats and other emergency transportation.

"I was wading down the street through waist-deep water when a fellow gave me a ride on a pirogue," said

Tom Gregory. "We had to move over to let a catamaran get by."

Several hundred prisoners had to be evacuated when the basement of the Orleans Parish Prison was flooded. They were transferred to an older prison building a block away. Sheriff Charles Foti said it would be crowded for a few days, but that everything was going smoothly.

Decorator files $43,000 suit

NEW YORK (AP) — Joanna Carson, wife of "Tonight" show host Johnny Carson, owes a decorator $43,000 for refurbishing her apartment, according to a suit filed by Stephen Mallory Associates.

In the suit filed Wednesday, the firm claims that the total cost of its work was almost $124,000, but that about one-third of it remains to be paid.

The apartment address was listed as 201 East 67th St., where it was learned Mrs. Carson's mother resides. Mrs. Carson was also listed as residing Bel Air, Calif.

Weather snags corn planting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cool, weather continued to hamper planting of corn and other spring crops as April ended, according to the Agriculture Department.

"Planting plodded along far behind last year, in the northcentral states, behind normal by 30 percentage points but in some states as much as 50 points," the department said Tuesday in a weekly weather review.

The report, which covered the week of April 24 to April 30, said that soil moisture was "adequate to surplus" with the exception of parts of Florida, Oklahoma and Texas.

Only 10 percent of the nation's corn was planted by April 30, less than one-third of last year's pace on the same date and only half of the longtime average for April 30, the report said.

However, about 29 percent of the cotton was planted in the southern states, ahead of last year and the long-time average.

Winter wheat was rated in "fair to mostly good" condition except in the southern Great Plains where non-irrigated stands were poor, the report said.

"In Kansas, wheat development lagged. Fifty percent was jointed, compared with 70 percent last year. The crop condition deteriorated in western Kansas because of dry soils in spite of recent rains."

Buckingham suicide

LONDON (AP) — A servant at Buckingham Palace who took an overdose of drugs in her room at the palace committed suicide because she was depressed about having to retire and leave the palace at the end of the month, coroner Arthur Davies ruled.

The body of Ilse Fairall, a 59-year-old widow who worked eight years in the linen room distributing the royal laundry, was found Sunday.

Beside her was a long note on the palace's light blue stationery and her will. Neither was made public at the inquest Tuesday.

Reporter is guest speaker

The Big Spring Chapter of the Business and Professional Women's Club met the evening of Apr. 25 for their monthly dinner meeting.

Hostesses for the evening were Marie Affleck and Lavell Hill, and the meeting was called to order by Edith Gay, president.

After a few announcements were made, Ms. Hill introduced the evening's special guest and speaker, Marj Carpenter. Ms. Carpenter, area editor at the Big Spring Herald, spoke to the group on "Why Be A Reporter." She coupled old stories about her years in the news business with information on why freedom of the press is still basically important to all Americans. She also discussed freedom of the press versus the privacy acts.

May will be "World Affairs Month" at B&PW with chairperson Mary Newell and her committee, Ruby Billings, presenting the programs at the business meeting May 9 and the dinner meeting May 23.

Farm women have been ignored too long, says UT professor

AUSTIN, Texas—If Dr. Frances Hill has her way about it, farm women may not remain the forgotten women of America much longer.

The University of Texas assistant professor of government is engaged in a research project to unearth some of the largely ignored views of rural women.

Armed with tape recorder and the insight gained from having been a child on a Wisconsin dairy farm, Hill is trying to find out how women feel about being farmers and how that has affected how they feel about being women.

Dr. Hill, whose specialties include comparative international politics and agrarian political economy, spent 1976-77 on a Rockefeller Foundation grant, traipsing across the upper Middle West talking to a wide cross-section of farm women. She will go back this summer on a National Endowment for the Humanities fellowship to poke among farm women's diaries and letters found in county historical societies.

She eventually plans a book on her studies which will range from the 1890's to the present.

"I never had a woman whom I had contacted refuse to talk to me and talk extremely candidly about a whole variety of subjects," Dr. Hill reports.

She recalls that one of the farm women told her: "We've never talked about ourselves, but that's only because nobody ever asked us before."

Dr. Hill observes that while contemporary feminism says women have been forced to become "prom queens and cheerleaders" and to be passively feminine, "farm women have never been passively feminine."

"They've never had the luxury of being a prom queen and a cheerleader and wearing pink hair ribbons," she says. "They've always been working."

One aspect of farm life which Dr. Hill hopes her study will shed light on is why "women's work on the farm has always been hidden from history."

She says the Department of Agriculture does not collect statistics on women's labor inputs into the farm, "even though it will collect statistics on men's labor inputs and adult male children from time to time."

As far as the Department of Agriculture is concerned, the UT scholar continues, farm women are "simply there...but not working."

"I wanted to find out why women should have been ignored when they have been the more urban-based women's liberation movement in terms of providing that role model of the competent woman. And really, who's more competent than a farm woman?"

Even with the great advances in technology and communication that have made farm life less arduous and less isolated, Dr. Hill says the American farm woman is still "not an agrarian princess."

"The labor strains and demands on farm women in the United States are still heavy at times, and women have to rally to help," she says.

MY KINGDOM FOR A HORSE — The troubles of the crown seem to weigh heavily on King Chris Mason in Kentwood Elementary School's presentation of "The Search for the Sky Blue Princess" Tuesday. The cast of 38 boys and girls has performed for the other students, the May Kentwood P.T.A. meeting and two nursing homes. Props and scenery were made by the children, along with costumes, with the help of their parents. Martha Bres and Linda Wilson are the main directors of the play, which is set in Holland. All characters are Dutch children.

Dr. Hill recalls there was a time in the 1950's when the goal was to make a farm mother "a suburban housewife."

"She was supposed to stay in the house and be neat and clean and tidy and do all the things that Doris Day taught us all to want to do, and the rest of the family was supposed to farm."

"Of course, this very rarely happened," she explains. "Now, in the 1970's it's still rarely happening, but no one is uptight about it any more, and some of the women even attribute this to

TWEEN 12 and 20
Teens are curious about effects of pot

Dear Teens:
I have received hundreds of letters from teens across the nation wanting to know about marijuana and its effects. Let me present a few of these letters:

From Tacoma, Wash.: What are the possible effects of marijuana? — Len Wilks

From Merced, Calif.: When someone is "high" on pot, how long does it last? — C. R.

From Valparaiso, Ind.: Is marijuana addictive? — R. W.

From Zanesville, Ohio: Where does marijuana come from? — Theresa T.

From San Mateo, Calif.: Is marijuana considered a drug? — Bill Thresher

From Winter Haven, Fla.: I heard my older brother talking to his friend and he said that some pot is stronger than others. Why is this? — J. L.

As space permits, I would like to answer these questions and maybe a few more not mentioned.

Most of the marijuana smoked in the United States is grown here, in Mexico and South America. And because of soil and climate, that grown in the United States is considered to be the least potent.

Marijuana is a psychoactive drug that when taken in small doses tends to produce restlessness and an increased sense of well-being, followed by a carefree state of relaxation; change of perceptions in the senses including a more vivid sense of touch, sight, smell, taste and sound; and a craving for sweets.

Moderate doses may result in a state of intoxication that intensifies everything that I've mentioned so far. The user may experience rapidly changing emotions, shifting sensory imagery, a flight of fragmentary thoughts with disturbed associations with an altered sense of enhanced insight.

High doses can result in distortions of body image, loss of personal identity, fantasies and hallucinations.

Despite reports to the contrary, scientific journals lately have stated that marijuana has dependency-producing properties, and that the withdrawal syndrome is characterized by loss of sleep, irritability, decreased appetite, hyperactivity, sudden weight loss and increased salivation.

The average "high" from using the drug is from two to four hours.

If there is something you still want to know or discuss, please write to me and I will be pleased to correspond with you.

I hope what I have written has set you straight as to what marijuana is and does. Peace and happiness,
Dr. Robert Wallace

Bar ired over do-it-yourself divorces

HOUSTON (AP) — Divorce, once a social stigma and a word only whispered in polite society, has become a way of life during recent years and profitable for both attorneys and do-it-yourself organizations.

As more and more states approve uncontested divorce laws, attorneys and those firms offering cheap, non-legal advice have become financial and legal enemies.

The Divorce Services of Texas, a segment of an organization that has extensive operations in California, Colorado, Florida, and Texas, is being challenged by the State Bar of Texas. The Bar has been granted a temporary injunction in state district court stopping the offer of a do-it-yourself divorce for $95.

Van Royce Vibber, president of the organization, said the State Bar is a "monopoly and they are acting like one. The public knows the primary function of the Bar is to protect the astronomically high income of lawyers. The Bar Association is nothing more than a high-priced, feather-bedding union."

John Graml, who represented the Bar Association in the case, told The Associated Press, "the divorce services, which advertise in the news media, are not hurting the lawyers of Texas. It is simply a fact that the public is being had. This service answers to nobody. It is like buying a car for $50 and the damn thing doesn't run. It isn't worth anything."

Graml said some of the work on the divorce cases "is so sloppy that the judges are getting irritated. There are divorces prepared by this service being rejected. There are people who don't know whether they are really divorced or not."

James Greenwood, a prominent Houston attorney, told The AP, "The service is giving legal advice without a license. I'm not against them, but it is like writing your own will or preparing your own income tax.

"You can make a mistake without an expert there to help you and you can be in trouble," he said.

ANOTHER DASH OF SALT — Cooking up something special in a musical play, "The Search for the Sky Blue Princess" presented by children in grades one through five at Kentwood Elementary School are, from left, Brenda Shirey, Kristy Davis, Cynthia Mason, Brian Hamby, Alexia Bres, Lara Cunningham and John Box. This play is part of the school's Parent Involvement Program, in which parents, teachers and students join together in interesting and fun learning experiences for the benefit of all.

Wife Floored By His Sleep Style

DEAR ABBY: When I married my husband, I thought he was a charming, polite gentleman. After one month, I still feel the same way—except for one thing: he insists on sleeping on the floor!

He is a forest ranger, and he believes that sleeping on the floor is healthy. We have an arrangement whereby I sleep on the floor with him three nights a week, he sleeps in bed with me three nights a week, and on Tuesday we retire to our respective corners.

I can't take this much longer. My back is killing me. My husband and I agree to abide by whatever you decide. My husband is sure you will agree with him because you will know that sleeping on a hard surface is healthier. I say you will agree with me because a husband should be loyal to his wife. What do you say?

BRUISED IN GOLETA

DEAR BRUISED: I say it's "healthier" to sleep on a firm surface, but for those of us who are accustomed to sleeping in beds, the floor is too "firm" for comfort. Compromise. Get an extra-firm mattress (or a bed board for your husband's side of the bed) and sleep together full time.

DEAR ABBY: Am I a dope to accept an engagement ring from a guy who admitted it was the same diamond he gave a girl three years ago? I didn't ask him any questions because I never knew him when he was engaged to her, and I figured it wasn't any of my business. Right?

Well, a very good friend of Alan's said she thought I was a dope for accepting a second-hand engagement ring. But, Abby, he had the diamond reset, so it's not like it was the same ring. Do you think I was a dope?

PENNY

DEAR PENNY: No. If Alan can fell two birds (chicks, that is) with one stone, there's no harm done.

(P.S. Keep your eye on that "good friend" of Alan's who thought you were "a dope"—just to make sure she doesn't take you for one.)

DEAR ABBY: I met a very wonderful man a year ago. He's been a widower for three years and I'm recently divorced. We got serious about four months ago, and I moved into his home which is very beautiful.

I love him very much and he says he "cares for me," but he doesn't want to marry again.

He rarely speaks of his late wife, but this house gives me the creeps. It is a museum of mementos, with pictures of his dead wife in every room. I just hate waking up in the morning to be greeted by pictures of her in our bedroom!

Do I dare suggest that he put them away?

M. I. UNREASONABLE(?)

DEAR M.: If you want to continue the relationship, don't make any suggestions. Perhaps you need to be reminded that the house is HIS, and YOU moved in.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think a man who would cheat on his expense account would cheat on his wife?

WILMA

DEAR WILMA: Only a man who can't resist nice round figures.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters For All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Second marriage can be financial problem

Though love, as the old ballad rhapsodizes, may be "lovelier the second time around," it can also be a financial problem.

Unfortunately, it often works out that way when "the second time around" means a second marriage, and a complicating second group of money decisions, says the American Council of Life Insurance.

U.S. Bureau of Census data show that 2 in 5 American marriages now end in divorce. But 4 in 5 of those involved will remarry.

And that's where the financial problems begin.

One starts when the second wife learns that her husband's earnings are not enough to support two families.

That means that second wives often have to work to help support the household. Further, if her husband is out of work for a while, part of her salary may go to continue that support.

There also may be less financial security the second time around, says the Council.

If children are born to the second marriage, the husband may not be able to afford all the life insurance he needs to protect two families.

If he dies or becomes disabled, his insurance as well as his Social Security benefits will spread among the children of both families, leaving less for everyone.

If the second wife is younger, as is often the case, she is likely to be a widow for many years, so she may have to face the prospect of supporting herself in later years.

Then there is the question of drawing up a will, normally important, but even more so in second marriages. Both the husband and wife in the second marriage should have wills to make sure the distribution of their estates will be according to the needs of their various dependents.

So, besides being aware of the lovely aspects of love the second time around, you must also pay attention to some of the financial pitfalls.

Secrets of crepe-making revealed at club meeting

The art of making crepes was demonstrated to the City Home Demonstration Club at their meeting April 28, at 2 p.m., in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Gas Company.

Serving as hostesses to the 14 members present were Corene Lancaster and Mrs. James Johnston.

The guest speaker, a crepe expert, was the gas company's home economist Janice Rabenaldt. Based in Midland, Ms. Rabenaldt puts on demonstrations throughout the district which includes Ozona, Big Spring, and the Midland area.

According to Ms. Rabenaldt, crepes, a form of man's first bread, was originated by farmers in Brittany.

Made from milk, water, eggs, flour and butter, three crepes provide 12 per cent of an adult's daily requirement of protein at only 65 calories each, 55 if made with instant powdered milk instead of whole milk.

In addition to being nutritious and low-calorie, crepes are economical, costing only about one dollar to make 20.

Crepes may be used as appetizers, main dishes or desserts. Ms. Rabenaldt told the group, and are easily made with electric crepe makers though other pans, costing three to four dollars, work just as well. A good crepe pan measures 6 to 8 inches in diameter and features sloping sides and a non-stick surface.

If seasoned properly to insure a non-stick surface, cast iron crepe pans work well. The pan should only be used for making crepes to prevent the need for re-seasoning.

A gas flame, she explained, provides the most easily regulated flame for crepe-making which requires a moderately hot temperature.

Club members were treated to a sampling session of different kinds of crepes following the demonstration. Here are a crepe and two filling recipes to make your own "sampling session."

PATE CREPES

1 cup cold milk
1 cup cold water
4 large eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups sifted flour
4 tablespoons melted butter

Either whirl all ingredients in electric blender at high speed about one minute or beat ingredients into flour with mixer or spoon. Refrigerate batter 1 to 2 hours so flour particles will swell and soften for lighter textured crepes. If instead blending four is used, batter may be used immediately.

To store crepes, stack between layers of waxed paper or foil. Makes 10-12 crepes. Defrost by heating at 300 degrees in a covered casserole.

RED RASPBERRY CREPES

1 4-ounce container whipped cream cheese, softened
1/4 cup almonds, toasted and slivered
1 10-ounce package frozen raspberries, thawed
cranberry juice
1-3rd cup sugar
4 teaspoons cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons orange liqueur (optional)
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Spread cream cheese over unbrowned side of crepe, leaving 1/4-inch rim around edge. Sprinkle with almonds and roll up as for jelly roll. Repeat with all remaining crepes. Cover crepes and chill.

BROCCOLI CREPES

6 tablespoons margarine
6 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
3 cups milk
1/2 cup shredded sharp American cheese
1/4 cup dry white wine
1 2 1/2-ounce jar sliced mushrooms, drained.
1 10-ounce package frozen chopped broccoli
2 cups finely chopped cooked chicken

Melt margarine in medium sauce pan. Blend in flour, salt and add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until cheese is thickened and bubbly. Stir in cheese and wine. Continue to stir until cheese melts. Remove 1/2 cup of sauce and set aside. Stir mushrooms into remaining sauce.

Cook broccoli according to package directions. Drain well and add chicken along with the 1/2 cup of reserved sauce.

New vaccine foils mumps

Mumps can do a lot more than merely cause swelling and fever.

The Health Insurance Institute reports that medical data show it can impair hearing—and is one of the leading causes of deafness in children.

Its most common complications are associated with the nervous system causing inflammation of the brain and leading to encephalitis, encephalomyelitis and meningitis, say medical authorities.

Further, reports the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the belief that mumps is not dangerous to girls and women is a myth. Brain inflammation, hearing impairment and other complications can occur in females as well as males.

Overall, says the HEW, 10 to 30 deaths are reported each year from the complications of mumps.

And most of this could be avoided, says the HEW, through the use of a "live" virus vaccine.

Since it was made available to the public about six years ago it has been found to be among the safest and most effective vaccines in our preventive care arsenal.

It is known to produce antibodies needed for protection in 97 per cent of vaccinated children, according to the HEW, and millions of doses have been administered without serious complications.

Reports the HEW: "The people who were vaccinated during the trials of the live virus vaccine more than six years ago, still have the protection-giving antibodies in their blood. This indicates that protection may be permanent."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MAY 5, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good time to re-evaluate your attitudes where your romantic and emotional life is concerned. Strive for more harmony in the days ahead. Be alert to wise changes.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get together with congenials for mutually pleasing recreational activities. Show appreciation for devotion of loved one. Avoid one who could be a troublemaker.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Spend a little more money than usual on pleasures and derive more joy, especially with one you love. Having a talk with a trusted adviser brings good results now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan recreations now for the coming weekend. Know what your personal desires are and how to gain them.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get into community work that will gain you the favor of bigwigs and get good results. You are able to get ahead faster where your career is concerned. Be careful of strangers.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan that trip where you will be able to get the data you need. You can meet contacts who can be most helpful to you in the future.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make necessary payments, clear the slate for bigger ventures ahead. Spend some time with a loved one, but avoid spending too much money for pleasure.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Talk over details with an associate and come to a better understanding easily. A civic matter comes up that can mean more prestige for you. Show more devotion at home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Your work will be better and will show more profit if you are more enthusiastic about it. Be more courteous with a co-worker.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try something new in the way of entertainment and relieve tensions. Cement better relations with loved ones.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do whatever will please kin and add to harmony at home. Do some entertaining at home, but don't invite the party-pooper.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Show partners how much you enjoy being associated with them and gain further goodwill. Take care of correspondence you have been pitting off for too long.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have good ideas at this time and can add appreciably to present abundance. Improve whatever it is you now own. Take no chances with greedy persons who are without principles.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will, at an early age, understand how important it is to be constantly striving and expanding in order to make a big success in life, since the potential here is great. Stress theory and practice for best results.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Diabolical handiwork packaged
 By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
 AP Special Correspondent
RIDGEFIELD, CONN. (AP) — In these parlous times, with the dollar's rise and fall more unpredictable than the barometer's, I wish no slackening of any segment of our economy, but the packaging industry does seem to have progressed beyond its potential to please the public.

The new birthday shirt, unveiled today after 20 minutes travail, came skewed with 22 pins, a record in my experience. Six of the old shirts, done up by a hotel laundry, produced a pile of tissue paper, cardboard, collar tabs, polyethylene wrapping and decorative debris that now stands knee high to this typewriter.

"It was the Unedea biscuit in the air-tight package made the cracker barrel obsolete, obsolete," sang "The Music Man" to his fellow drummers in that parlor car arriving at Mason City.

Now the parlor car is all but obsolete, but the biscuit comes packaged tighter than ever on the passenger planes that have replaced it. Have you ever managed to zip open the little red ribbon securing the cellophane cracker packet without winding up with a handful of crumbs?

Sometimes I can get all the way from New York to Omaha before I work the knife and fork and pepper and salt out of their plastic casing. By this time the pepper is well distributed over the ice cream and I am ready to pour the salad dressing into the coffee, as I have on a number of occasions, which isn't as jarring to the digestion as mistaking the freshening up toilette for a tea bag.

The ground-bound folk catering the airline food seem to take secret delight in making helpless, raving idiots out of the unseen patrons who hours later and miles higher will be battling, all thumbs, to unpackage their diabolical handiwork.

Bruce Jenner I'm not, but it's still a humbling experience to ring the call button and have the stewardess unscrew the top on a vodka shot bottle that some food handler has tightened with a lug wrench.

I still have a screw driver in the basement that I cannot extricate from its plastic shell. I bought it to pry loose the plastic-enclosed dry cell batteries that I bought for the flashlight that I can't open the back of somehow.

Education workshop is scheduled here May 13
 A Texas Medical Record Association District IIB workshop will be held Saturday May 13 from 8:30 a.m. until 4:45 p.m. at the Big Spring Holiday Inn Patio Room, according to district director Deborah Roberts of Big Spring.

The meet, a professional continuing education workshop, will feature speeches on "How to Succeed as a Middle Manager," "Medical Audits," "Our Local Health System Agency," and "Concepts of Reality Therapy in Management."

Theron Lee, head of the Technical Professional division at Howard College, and Joette Hanna, RRA, associate director of Medical Records services at the Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas will be the morning speakers for the workshop.

In the afternoon, Jeanne Kaferle, public information coordinator and Ron Schroeder, data manager, both with the Permian Basin Health System Agency in Midland will speak. Final speaker for the day will be Ferrol Dodd, assistant administrator for the alcoholism program at Big Spring State Hospital.

Approximately 40 to 50 people are expected to attend the workshop, representing local chapters of the statewide organization. Registration fee is $15 per person until May 10, and $20 for those registering late.

For more information, or to mail in registrations, contact Deborah Roberts, ART, 538 Westover Apt. 162, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

Army leaks plug ordered
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is ordering new restrictions to plug leaks of internal studies that could influence policy. But the warning was itself leaked within a day of its distribution.

A copy of the memo was handed to a reporter, without comment, on Tuesday by a person presumably unhappy with what it had to say.

Leaking documents before they are officially approved — an old Pentagon problem — "creates confusion and misunderstandings about Army goals, objectives and policies," a staff message said.

Army sources indicated the order was issued with the approval of Army Secretary Clifford Alexander and Gen. Bernard W. Rogers, chief of staff.

Alexander reportedly was annoyed recently by leaks from a study that suggested women soldiers are absent from duty nearly twice as often as men. The authors of that study have been told to take another look at their data, according to sources who asked not to be identified.

The staff message complained that, in many cases, study results have been leaked before decision-making officials had a chance to consider them.

Horse race betting opponents file brief
 AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Opponents of horse race betting have asked the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals to order a full trial to determine if the Texas Democratic Party acted legally in placing the referendum on the May 6 ballot.

The request has no effect on the Saturday balloting since the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals refused last month to stop the printing of Democratic ballots.

The non-binding opinion survey question also is on the Republican ballot Saturday.

"I don't want to keep people Texas from registering their opinion on pari-mutuel gambling," said Harold Hammett, Fort Worth, one of those bringing suit against the state Democratic committee. "The real question is whether a political party is defenseless to prevent a raid of its primary election ballot in the form of petitions signed by people not registered to vote as required by law."

Hammett and the others claimed that the petitions forcing the vote to be placed on the ballot were far short of the required number of valid signatures.

Austin attorney Randall Wood said the brief filed with the court asks that the court instruct a state district court to hear the case on its merits. The district court earlier said it had no jurisdiction to interrupt an election process already under way.

The appellate court gave no indication when, or if, it would act on the request.

Populist campaigning on shoestring scores
 RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — In their primary contest, five incumbent Democratic congressmen turned back challengers. But one of them, 11th District Rep. Lamar Gudger, led produce wholesaler R.P. "Be" Thomas by just 34,164 to 33,339 with 288 of 392 precincts reporting.

Other Democratic winners were Rep. Walter B. Jones in the 1st District, Rep. L.H. Fountain in the 2nd District, Rep. Charles O. Whitley in the 3rd District and Rep. Ike Andrews in the 4th District.

In the only Republican congressional race, Roger Austin defeated Larry Harris for the 8th District nomination. Austin will face Democrat Rep. Bill Hefner in November.

Inflation outlook dims as food prices skyrocket

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices jumped 1.3 percent in April, the biggest increase in 3½ years, as the inflation outlook failed to improve, the government reported today.

Wholesale prices of consumer goods rose 1.9 percent, continuing a four-month surge that has hit shoppers' pocketbooks.

The figures, compiled by the Labor Department, measure the prices of goods paid by retailers and others just before they reach the consumer. The higher prices usually show up at retail stores shortly afterward.

The April increase of 1.3 percent was the biggest since a 1.9 percent rise in November 1974, also at a time of rising food prices. Wholesale prices of finished goods had risen 0.6 percent in January, 1.1 percent in February and 0.6 percent in March before the latest 1.3 percent gain.

If the four months of wholesale price increases continued at the same rate all year, they would total about 15 percent for 1978. Government economists are counting on volatile food prices to ease up later in the year and for the inflation rate to be about 7 percent for 1978, up from an early high of about 6 percent.

Even with the big increases so far this year, wholesale prices have gone up only 7 percent since April of last year.

The government said 30 percent of the entire April increase was caused by higher jewelry prices, reflecting a sharp increase in the price of gold.

The wholesale food prices rose 1.1 percent in January, 2.9 percent in February and 0.8 percent in March before gaining 1.9 percent in April. Because of a downturn in prices last summer, finished consumer food prices were 8.5 percent higher in April than they were in April 1977.

Prices for processed poultry and pork turned up in April after declining in March, the Labor Department said. Fresh and dried fruits and vegetables and dairy products rose more than they had the previous month.

Prices for beef and veal and processed fruits and vegetables continued to increase, but less than in March. Milled rice and refined vegetable oil declined at the wholesale level after increasing in March.

Prices rose more than in March for jewelry, automobiles, floor coverings and household furniture and appliances. Prices also rose sharply in April for shoes, tires, health products, gasoline and home heating oil.

The Labor Department's producer price index for finished goods stood at 191.4

indicating that it cost $191.40 to buy what $100 would buy at wholesale in 1967. A year ago, the index was at 178.8.

Before today's wholesale figures were released, the Agriculture Department already had bad news for consumers: the food price outlook is not good.

Prices that farmers received for their products rose 4 percent last month. It was the seventh straight month that farm prices had risen, the department says.

Consumers can expect the higher prices to be passed along to them, but some of the higher costs may have shown up at the supermarket already.

Shortages of beef and storm-damaged to vegetables crops have forced farm prices up 19.5 percent since last September. In the first three months of this year, retail food prices have risen about 5 percent.

As part of his anti-inflation program, President Carter has considered vetoing bills that would keep out imports of sugar and beef. If more imported food were allowed into the country, retail food prices would go down.

THE VICTIMS — The nation's Supreme Court has ruled that Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald must stand trial on charges of murdering his two children Kristen Jean, left, Kimberly, center and pregnant wife Colette, in 1970 at Fort Bragg, N.C. To a large extent, the high court ruling is the result of a personal campaign by Alfred Kassab to punish the man he believes responsible for the murders of his step-daughter and her children.

A grieving father in New Jersey determined to remember. A popular physician a continent away trying to forget.

Haunting them both, the memory of a brutal night in North Carolina eight years ago.

Those forces are behind Monday's Supreme Court decision that Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald stand trial for the 1970 murders of his pregnant wife and two children, overturning a Circuit Court dismissal of the case.

For Alfred Kassab, 56, the high court ruling is further vindication of an unprecedented personal campaign to punish the man he believes is responsible for the stabbing murders of his step-daughter Colette, 24, and her daughters, Kimberly, 5, and Kristen, 2.

"It has been tremendous personal pressure to have someone running around loose that you are convinced killed your daughter and grandchildren," Kassab said in a telephone interview.

Disco divorce not 'nasty'

SURREY, British Columbia (AP) — Cathy Lenz got a divorce, then immediately held a party, complete with decorated cake and disco music.

More than 200 guests showed up. Single men among the crowd identified themselves with garter-like armbands; single women wore carnations in their hair.

Cathy, whose last name was Tomlinson, but now uses her maiden name, said her ex-husband, whom she married in 1975, would have been welcome had he decided to show up.

"It wasn't a nasty split-up, so that's why I don't think this party is a mockery on marriage or anything like that," she said. "As a matter of fact, the reason I got the divorce is so that he could get married again."
