

Smaller tax cut looms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional negotiators are beginning the process of reconciling tentative budgets adopted by the Senate and House with the result certain to contain a smaller tax cut than President Carter wants.

Late Wednesday the House adopted by a cliff-hanging 201-197 roll call a tentative fiscal plan for the year beginning Oct. 1. Its plan calls for spending $500.9 billion. The version approved earlier by the Senate carries a $498.9 billion price tag.

Both versions agree, however, in setting the net tax reduction at $19.4 billion compared with Carter's proposal of $25 billion that later was recalculated at $24 billion. The House measure would put the tax cut in effect Oct. 1, three months earlier than the Senate wants.

A major difference to be settled by the conference is in the defense budget. The House earmarked $115.7 billion, the Senate $116.6 billion, while Carter recommended $117.8 billion. A bigger, but possibly less controversial spread is in the agriculture item — $10.5 billion in the House version, $7.8 billion in the Senate's.

The House budget resolution contemplates a deficit of $57.9 billion, $1.7

billions less than Carter's estimate, largely because of other anticipated revenues. The Senate deficit estimate is $2.3 billion below Carter's.

Rep. John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., the minority leader, said "the majority has demonstrated its program of higher taxes, higher spending and huge deficits." He told the Democrats "your votes today (Wednesday) on this issue will speak far louder to the American people than any speech — or excuse — you could possibly make."

Democrats prepared for the final test on the resolution by wangling a reversal of an earlier vote that had stripped $3.15 billion from Department of Health, Education and Welfare on the ground that certain programs had been shown to be riddled with waste and fraud.

The House defeated an amendment to cut spending by $56 million, the amount of Food for Peace aid for Korea. It was intended to express displeasure at South Korea's failure to make Kim Jong Jo, former Korean ambassador to the United States, available for questioning in connection with allegations of attempts to bribe congressmen and officials.

Flash flooding in San Antonio?

By the Associated Press
Possible flash flooding was forecast in the San Antonio area early today as thunderstorms dumped heavy rainfall in San Antonio and scattered heavy thunderstorms erupted over South Texas.

Heavy rainfall was also reported in Southeast Texas from between Houston and Livingston to points eastward towards the Louisiana border. The heaviest rainfall in Southeast Texas was located just east of Cleveland where forecasters estimated the rainfall rate at near two inches per hour.

The early morning storms came in the wake of heavy thunderstorms that dumped marble size hail in the Eagle Pass area and about .75 of an inch of rainfall in the Austin area during the night. Other points in South Texas also reported rain.

Forecasters said thunderstorms, including some reaching possibly severe levels, could be expected to continue in South Texas and said more thunderstorms were expected in West Texas.

'Down With The Shah!'

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Troops firing tear gas and bullets into the air routed thousands of demonstrators shouting "Down With The Shah!" on Tehran's main street today, the third day of anti-government protests in Iran.

Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi postponed his visit to Hungary and Bulgaria four days, and an informed source said he took personal command of a special headquarters set up to prevent "unnecessary bloodshed."

There were no reports of casualties in the latest demonstration. But at least nine persons have been killed in riots in the holy city of Qum, Tabriz and 32 other cities and towns since Tuesday, scores have been injured, and millions of dollars worth of public property has been damaged.

The troops opened fire today when the mob defied orders to halt and began marching toward the telecommunications building on Nasser-Khosrow Street. There also were reports of shooting on Cyrus Street, east of the Tehran bazaar.

The demonstrators had listened to two hours of anti-government speeches in the Jome Mosque in the heart of the troop-ringed bazaar before taking to the streets.

The official reason for the postponement of the departure of the Shah and Empress Farah for Hungary and Bulgaria was that the Shah had a "cold." They were to have left Friday.

The government also postponed the presentation today of credentials by the Venezuelan, New Zealand and North Korean ambassadors to the monarch.

Incited by ultra-conservative Moslem religious leaders, the mobs are demanding that the government return mosque lands leased to farmers under the Shah's land reform program, close liquor stores and movie theaters, and roll back reforms allowing women into colleges and to appear without veils in public.

The riots erupted in answer to a call by the religious leaders, or mullahs, for demonstrations in commemoration of persons killed in anti-government riots 40 days before. The 40th day after is a traditional day of mourning.

Players have found birdnest on the ground

The chant many big league players have set up on the playing field, which would indicate they have concluded that the things they complain about were dulcet refrains the fans have been waiting to hear all along, is getting monotonous.

show up at the ball parks. They are not unlike petulant children, each jealous of the other, each willing to take a walk if he finds out a team mate or a member of an opposing club is being guaranteed a little more in salary and/or fringe benefits than he is.

million-dollar contracts can be paid only in situations where they play in tax-subsidized ballparks. Sen. William Proxmire, the Wisconsin Democrat who gained a measure of fame with his Golden Fleece awards, touched on this ripoff recently when he pointed the finger at the City of New York and the New York Yankees for living in sin together at the expense of the maligned taxpayer.

rationale is that if clubs can afford whopping salaries they can jolly well pay a realistic rental fee. How do sports teams justify those whopping salaries? They do it by amortizing the cost of acquiring a player or a franchise in figuring their income tax.

Knocking a shrine

Around the rim

James Werrell

Allow me to say a few words about what I think is a big ripoff. Now I know I am desecrating on a Lone Star as sacrosanct as the Astrodome, the Tyler Rose Gardens or the Alamo when I breathe a bad word about Six Flags Over Texas, but I must forge on. That place ain't all it's cracked up to be.

Nuts to that! Besides, we didn't like the looks of those SFLOT men with strange expressions, "fixing" the new coaster track with ballpeen hammers. This wasn't what we wanted our world to be.

SO BEGAN the second worst mistake of the day, the first being our arrival at SFLOT.

WE SHOULD HAVE turned back when they told us to park in the nearest possible space (seven miles away in a field). Skeletons of families who never found a space, some still clutching Kodaks and "I'm With Stupid" buttons, littered the road. Once we had found a space, the Six Flags Over Texas (SFLOT) people sent a little train to pick us up and haul us back to the park proper. That was the best ride of the day.

After waiting for an hour in the open air, a dark opening appeared before us that seemed to swallow up all those who went before us. It was a trick! They had routed us to a pit beneath the ground so that the line would look shorter from above. And the Black Hole of Calcutta couldn't have been worse. The heat was like that of a blast furnace, and the smell of festering cotton candy rose to meet us.

Purge needed

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — There seems to be no end to the Medicaid-Medicare mess. We have reported, in one tawdry story after another, how doctors and dentists have ripped off federal funds intended for the health care of the poor and elderly. Here are a few new Medicaid scandals we have investigated:

waiting to be repaid. One source predicted there'll be nothing left for the taxpayers. Yet the advance Medicare payments could have been stopped, saving at least $18,000 that was simply lost, if the bureaucrats had bothered to request an audit.

—The administrator of a St. Louis hospital dipped into Medicare funds to procure a belly dancer to liven up a staff meeting. He also furnished himself with a Lincoln Continental and a $415-a-month apartment.

Hospital administrator David Babnew, who provided himself with the Lincoln Continental and $415-a-month apartment on top of a $50,000 annual salary, explained to our reporter Josh Levin that the luxurious accommodations were "part of my contract." But he admitted that "in retrospect, they do seem a bit extravagant." He said the belly dancer provided "the best meeting we ever had."

—A New York dentist found a unique way to bilk the taxpayers. The Medicaid law required proof that dental care was needed. So he began drilling cavities in the perfectly healthy teeth of his patients. Then he used X-rays of the cavities he had created to justify the fillings he put in.

FOOTNOTE: OUR reporter Bill Halamandaris has come up with the following items charged to Medicaid: two Cadillac cars used by a nursing home administrator; stone and gravel delivered to the home of a head nurse for her driveway; a complete stereo and intercom for a private residence; landscaping, carpeting, drapery and bathroom fixtures for the homes of medical officials, and the repair of a boat house and swimming pool, as well as the installation of a greenhouse at another private home.

—A CALIFORNIA doctor stole Medicaid vouchers from his patients and used them to repay a loan from another Medicaid doctor. Then the second doctor used the vouchers to legitimize phony bills to the government.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: In the backrooms of the White House, Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal has warned that leaping inflation could rob Americans of their hard-earned cash. He reported to the president that the American appetite for energy, the declining dollar, spiraling food prices and increases in the wholesale price index could fuel inflation. Blumenthal predicted gloomily that inflation could become "the major risk for the next year." The situation, he said, "is serious."

—A New York pediatrician gave his neighbor's dog an antibiotic and then charged it to Medicaid.

—A little-known friend of the consumers is in danger of being fast-shuffled out of his job at the Energy Department. Government economist David Schwartz made the mistake of irritating his bureaucratic bosses over the years by opposing deregulation of the natural gas industry. Now the Energy Department is trying to squeeze him out on an apparent technicality. A spokesman insisted that no one is trying to do a hatchet job on Schwartz and that the courts will decide his case. In the meantime, Schwartz's $36,000-a-year job is being filled by a more compliant economist.

—Kentucky officials discovered the cryptic notation "Fill 25 bill MA 50" posted in one pharmacy. Investigators determined it was an instruction to fill 25 prescriptions and bill Medicaid for 50.

—"Only 18 per cent of the total time children are in lower school is actually spent on scholastic tasks." This is the report, according to the confidential minutes, that Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano recently gave to the Cabinet. Reporting behind closed doors, he also said "there should be more and better testing at lower grades."

—A nursing home administrator in New Jersey billed Medicaid for veterinary charges, boarding expenses and airline travel for his pets. Another New Jersey administrator charged the electric, gas and sewer bills from his private residence to the taxpayers.

—President Carter is optimistic that the Ethiopians, spearheaded by Cuban mercenaries, won't carry their Horn of Africa military campaign into Somalia. He told subordinates behind closed doors, "The Ethiopians have reaffirmed their commitment not to cross the Somali border."

Hovila wins reprieve from his scheduled date with death Monday

'I'd like 100,000 people to come and see me die'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Condemned murderer William David Hovila's invitation reads, "I'd like 100,000 people to come and see me die."

The 30-year-old Texan has won a reprieve from his scheduled date with death Monday, but he said in a copyright story in Thursday editions of the Dallas Morning News that he won't fight an execution order if the state eventually decides he should die for his crime.

"I'll let the state decide what they want to do with my life," he said, claiming politicians and judges are using his life like a pawn on a chess board.

The clean-shaven, brown-haired convict said he's died in a few of his dreams and he's not afraid of death.

"A man has a right to die," he said. "I don't want anyone living my life. If they execute me it's all right; if not, it's all right."

"I could fight this thing another 10 years," Hovila said. "The death penalty is outrageous. They should kill a man in the county he's tried in, not behind closed walls. How're you going to use it as a deterrent if nobody sees the man die."

But Hovila says he's not seeking publicity for himself.

"I think Gary Gilmore was crazy... He was for publicity. I'm not."

Hovila would have been the first to be executed in Texas by drug injection, but Gov. Dolph Briscoe agreed by telephone Wednesday to grant a 30-day stay after he heard details of the case, according to Jay Floyd, director of the governor's clemency office. He is expected to sign the order today or Friday.

Texas governors traditionally have approved 30-day stays after all court appeals have failed. After the governor's reprieve, an unlimited number of stays can be granted upon recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Paroles with the governor's approval.

Hovila was convicted twice of the murder of Henry J. McCluskey Jr., a Dallas lawyer who was robbed and shot twice in the back in 1973 near a Dallas lake.

Hovila's mother Marion said she has hired an attorney but will not seek a writ of habeas corpus. She said "it will not be necessary," but refused further comment. Her son says he will fight the writ if she files it because "she's taking over my life."

Hovila said he dropped an appeal about a year ago when he decided Death Row was made for quiet killers who prefer life, no matter the circumstances, "and don't want to learn about life after death."

Since then, he has dismissed his attorney and refused all offers of legal assistance, including a recent offer from the American Civil Liberties Union. Hovila referred to the offers as "sick."

They didn't come in at the beginning of my trial. The only came in when I was ready to die."

"Death doesn't bother me one bit," he said in the copyright story in the Dallas Morning News. "You're here on earth to be taught. If you have qualified teachers, you learn about life. We have no qualified teachers. There has to be more to life than going home at night, drinking a beer and watching T.V. The state says I did wrong, but I say I did wrong up to a certain point. Sure I regret what I did. I'll never do it again."

The state's last execution, almost 14 years ago, was by electrocution. Over a 40-year period, 361 persons died in the straight-backed oak electric chair built by convicts.

TOKYO (AP) — China claimed today that 30 Soviet soldiers intruded more than two miles into northeast China Tuesday, shot and wounded a number of Chinese and roughed up 14 others.

"It was only due to the restraint of the Chinese side that the incident did not develop into an armed conflict," the official Hsinhua news agency said in a dispatch from Peking received here.

It said Vice Foreign Minister Yu Chan later handed a strong protest note to Soviet Ambassador V.S. Tolstikov in Peking. Hsinhua said the note declared that the "atrocities of the Soviet troops constitute an organized military provocation against China occurring at a time when the Sino-Soviet boundary negotiations had just resumed. They are a serious infringement on China's sovereignty and territorial integrity as well as a grave, calculated step to create tension on the border and vitiate relations between the two countries."

For years the two countries have been engaged in a dispute over their common border. It erupted into armed clashes in 1969.

The note said a Soviet helicopter penetrated four kilometers — 2½ miles — over the Ussuri River into China's Heilungkiang Province, 18 military boats intruded into Chinese waters in the same region, and 30 Soviet soldiers then landed on the Chinese bank of the river. Hsinhua said.

"They chased and tried to round up Chinese inhabitants, shooting continually and wounding a number of them. Penetrating four kilometers into Chinese territory, they seized 14 Chinese inhabitants and dragged them all the way to the riverside, giving them kicks and blows. Under the repeated protests of the Chinese inhabitants the Soviet troops finally released them," it quoted the note as saying.

It was along the Ussuri that Chinese and Soviet troops fought in March 1969 over the ownership of Chengpaotao, a small island in the river. Japanese

Since then, the Texas Legislature has changed the state's method of execution. Future executions will be by injections of sodium pentothal, a general anesthetic also known as "truth serum."

The injection will cause immediate loss of consciousness and then a progressive coma during which blood pressure and respiration will decrease until death occurs.

W.J. Estelle, director of the Texas Department of Corrections, can perform the execution himself or designate somebody, other than a doctor, to carry out the task. A doctor is prohibited by his oath from administering the injection.

The condemned prisoner is to be strapped to a hospital gurney, with a needle in his arm connected to a tube leading to another room where the executioner will insert the drug.

Junk calls are banned

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Automatic dialing equipment that inflicts non-interruptible advertisements on telephone users has been banned by the Texas Public Utility Commission.

Such calls can't be cut off by the recipient until the message ends. Some devices re-dial a number if the recipient hangs up before the recorded message is fully played out.

The new rule prohibits telephone companies from allowing the calls over their networks.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. indicated such equipment can be connected without its knowledge. It said, however, it would disconnect any such devices it can locate. Bell said customers should report the messages so the equipment can be traced.

Other new rules adopted by the commission require utilities to:

—Inform applicants for residential services of the lowest priced available service upon request.

—Notify customers who are dissatisfied with the resolution of a complaint of the process for carrying the matter to the commission.

READ ALL ABOUT IT — A montage of four London national daily newspapers, Thursday editions, showing the banner headlines on the divorce announcement of Princess Margaret and Lord Snowden.

Princess has no plans to rewed after divorce?

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret doesn't plan to marry Roddy Llewellyn or anyone else after her divorce from the Earl of Snowden, a spokesman says, and her estranged husband has appealed to the British public to take a sympathetic view of her marital troubles.

Buckingham Palace said Wednesday, after the announcement that Margaret was divorcing the photographer she married 18 years ago, that they "naturally will continue to see each other on the same friendly basis as they have maintained with each other over the past two years" during which they have been legally separated.

Margaret, 47, is in a London hospital recuperating from suspected gastroenteritis, an ailment of the digestive tract. Her close association with brewery heir Llewellyn, 17 years her junior, has caused much adverse public comment. But a spokesman for the princess, who is sixth in line for the British throne, said: "Princess Margaret has no plans for remarriage."

When she and Snowden parted in March 1976, she was reported to have told friends she had no plans to remarry because being the queen's sister "makes it difficult, and anyway it would be too much of a bore."

The queen is temporal head of the Church of England, which refuses to marry divorced persons while the other partner of a divorce is still alive. If Margaret remarried, she undoubtedly would have to renounce her rights to the throne, retire from official life and forfeit the $100,000 a year the British Treasury pays her to carry out royal duties.

Gossip columnist Nigel Dempster wrote in the Daily Mail that the princess agreed to the divorce because her 48-year-old husband wants to marry Lucy Lindsay-Hogg, the 33-year-old ex-wife of film and television producer Michael Lindsay-Hogg. But a royal spokesman said the two-year separation would be the grounds for the divorce.

He said the fact that Margaret was suing Snowden for divorce "is a technicality; one party has to start the proceedings."

Housewife, two sons murdered

HOUSTON (AP) — A 28-year-old housewife and her two small sons were drowned Wednesday in separate bathtubs of their north Houston home. Police said they consider robbery a possible motive in the slayings.

Robert Pretty, 35, told police he found the bodies of his wife and children when he came home from work. They were still dressed in night clothes, and police said it appeared someone interrupted them while they were eating breakfast.

The victims were identified as Karen Pretty, 28; Scott Pretty, 7; and Mark Pretty, 5. Mrs. Pretty was in a housecoat and her sons were barefoot and in pajamas when police arrived at their home late Wednesday afternoon.

Half-full glasses of milk and partially eaten toast were on the kitchen table.

A purse on the kitchen table appeared to have been ransacked, police said, as had at least one drawer in a chest in the master bedroom of the three-bedroom brick home.

Officers said Mrs. Pretty had been gagged and bound with telephone cord and her older son had been gagged with a sock and bound with electrical cord. Her body was found in the bathtub of one bathroom, and the boys' bodies were in another bathroom.

Police said Pretty told them he left the house at 6:45 a.m. to go to work. He said he returned from work at 6 p.m. and found the bodies.

Police said no blood was found anywhere in the house. Officers said they were attempting to determine if any of the victims had been sexually abused.

PIGGLY WIGGLY

BIG SPRING — LOOK WHAT YOUR NEIGHBORS ARE SAYING ABOUT PIGGLY WIGGLY

MRS. FLOYD H. SMITH (PAULINE)

I like it because the store is clean, it's easy to find the merchandise, and the clerks are so nice and the checkers are so nice. And you don't have to wait so long. This is convenient too—to where I live.

MRS. O.A. TURNER

I like the people here in the store. I like the meat. It's more of a variety, I like to see what I'm getting. I like the way they have it packed here. Well I have, I've always gotten a good choice of meat here, and it's real good. I've been real happy with the meat...if you get something that happens to be bad all you have to do is bring it back and get it replaced so I've been real happy with everyone here.

ANNA SMITH

I like to come here because of the arrangement of the goods you have on the shelves and the wide aisles. I like the prices and I like the friendly people that wait on me. If I can't find an item that I need they're always willing to show me or get it for me. I like the meat very well. I love the produce. The produce is good and fresh. I enjoy it. I like double stamps, they're a good incentive for shopping.

MRS. JACQUE JONES

I like Green Stamps. I started coming after they changed back to Piggly Wiggly. The vegetables are cheaper, the meat's cheaper and both better—you know what you're getting on both sides—just like they say. They do. Where I shopped before I took meat back before because it looked so bad on the other side, and it made me mad that they hid it, and they don't do that here. And they're really friendly here. They really are. When you see one of the employees they say "Hi" to you—see one of the employees and go the other way they don't just turn around and go the other way like at a lot of places. DOUBLE STAMPS! I need one more book to get something I need and I'll get that today.

DAVID & AUDREY BATES

We like it, it's cheaper—cheaper than a lot of stores. Like the Green Stamps. Yeah...I'm glad it's back to Piggly Wiggly. The meats seemed like it was a little bit fresher...I found certain meats that you buy here, not only were the prices better, but also it seemed like a better grade. I just enjoy coming down here. I think what really makes us friendlier...we've tried other places but we've always ended up coming back.

Diversification of big oil companies pushed

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's giant oil companies, whose success soon might be measured by how quickly they deplete their supplies of oil and gas, are diversifying into everything from electric typewriters to life insurance. And the oil firms also are represented heavily in other energy fields: They now own about 25 percent of the country's coal reserves, and 20 of the almost 100 firms involved in the mining or exploration of uranium used as fuel for nuclear reactors—are oil companies. This concerted effort to acquire huge holdings in energy-related fields and some nonenergy companies is called horizontal diversification, and it is being watched by Congress and by federal regulatory agencies. But, thanks in part to an aggressive lobbying campaign, no action appears imminent to prevent oil firms from acquiring more subsidiaries or force them to cut loose the ones they now own. The reason oil firms such as Exxon, Texaco, Continental, Gulf and others are buying coal and-or uranium reserves is clear: Government officials appear determined to discourage oil and gas usage in coming years and to encourage the use of coal and nuclear power. While analysts disagree on how long reserves of oil and gas will last, there is no disagreement that sooner or later they will be depleted.

"When you look ahead to the eventual depletion of domestic oil and gas reserves, you realize how important diversification is to an oil company," said one oil-company source. In addition, many oil firms are looking beyond energy-related industries for investment purposes because most analysts are predicting a reduction in the rate of energy growth during the next 10 to 15 years. So, if an oil company wants to keep growing—and it is a basic tenet of capitalism that a healthy company must grow, it needs to diversify into other fields. There has been an accelerating trend recently in which oil companies are looking toward stable consumer-oriented industries and retailing firms as acquisition targets. In recent years: —Exxon, the world's largest oil firm, has acquired 8.4 billion tons of coal and huge holdings of uranium and copper. It also is developing new battery systems and solar-energy devices. But, in addition, new subsidiaries are producing electric typewriters, golf clubs and other consumer products. —Mobil bought Montgomery Ward & Co., a giant retailer, and Container Corp. of America. "The investment community felt for some time that too large a percentage of Mobil's earnings came from overseas and this was a way to get more earnings out of the U.S.," said Ken Peterson, a Mobil spokesman. —Sun Oil acquired the Stop-N-Go grocery chain, two industrial distributors, a trucking firm, a computer firm, a tape cassette manufacturer and an equipment distributor. —Texaco began mining for coal and uranium, and bought a chemical company. It is spending $500 million a year on petrochemicals. —Atlantic Richfield paid $700 million for the giant Anaconda copper firm. It also has bought a British newspaper, a plastics and dyes firm and a solar-energy concern. —Tenneco acquired several automotive firms, Philadelphia Life Insurance Co. and some almond orchards. —Ashland purchased several construction firms, chemical companies, mining firms and a shipbuilding concern.

Conoco commuter van pools to save fuel

HOUSTON — Upwards of 700,000 gallons of gasoline are expected to be saved this year by employee commuter van pools operated by Continental Oil Company (Conoco). According to William R. Fortune, director-special services Conoco's 91 vans now in service remove an estimated 600 automobiles from commuter traffic. "This, in turn, will represent a cut of some seven million vehicle miles this year and a reduction of 475 tons of exhaust pollution," Fortune said. "As the fleet grows, the statistics grow." "Another plus is improved safety by virtue of reduced automobile operations on streets and highways," Fortune added. "The vans also help alleviate parking problems." One of the first companies to start van pooling, Conoco in spring, 1975, bought 10 vans for a pilot program in Houston. Since then, van pools have spread to 19 more locations in 10 states, and the Houston fleet has grown to 42 vans. More than four per cent of Conoco's U.S. employees now go to and from work in the employee-driven vans, most of which carry 12 including the driver. Fortune, coordinator of van pooling within Conoco, also works at promoting the gasoline-saving concept outside the company. He provides an information kit for other companies interested in the Conoco program. He and other Conocoans have led or participated in 43 van pool seminars throughout the United States. And a new 10-minute, Conoco-produced motion picture film, "Pooling Around", is now available on free loan to organizations wanting "how to" information. Conoco van pools now operate at Big Spring, Carrizo Springs, Falls City, Houston, Midland and Pecos, Tex.; Lafayette, Lake Charles and Westlake, La.; Denver, Col.; Costa Mesa, Cal.; Aberdeen, Miss.; Ponca City, Okla.; Casper, Wyo.; Pittsburgh and Washington, Pa.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; and Stamford, Conn. Pools at Westlake, La., serve both Conoco's oil refinery and chemical plant there.

Bill Fisher visits here

Bill Fisher, Republican candidate for Congress, was in Big Spring, Wednesday beginning to put together his organization for the fall campaign. He was busy recruiting volunteers and chairmen for his local campaign and to draw out a base of support since the initial primary is over. "We realize that many people in Big Spring did not get their candidate elected and are now seeking a candidate to support. We will be in Big Spring a lot this month and continue through the summer." Fisher said he will wait until the Democrat nominee is finally determined in the runoff before addressing the campaign issues. His local chairman will be announced at a later date.

Building trades pupils to get on-job training

SNYDER — Students entering the new building trades course to be offered next fall at Western Texas College will benefit from on-the-job experience. The College District Trustees set up an apartment construction fund in their Monday evening meeting in Snyder. The board authorized the transfer of $75,000 from the general fund of the college to launch the program. The funds will be used to erect a storage building and extended utilities to the proposed apartment complex, to be constructed on the southeast corner of the WTC campus. James Lamb, assistant professor of music and chairman of the fine arts division at WTC, submitted his resignation, stating that he planned to complete his doctoral dissertation and teach at Texas Tech, where he has been since taking a recent leave of absence from

WTC. The board approved the resignation. Jane Womack, music instructor who has been teaching on a temporary basis during Lamb's leave of absence, was employed effective Aug. 21 to fill the position vacated by Lamb. Other contracts approved were for Betsy Sandel, instructor in mid-management, effective Aug. 1, and Danny Pounds, instructor-supervisor of residential construction, effective June 1. Remaining business included approval of a policy setting the guidelines and responsibilities of the learning resource center at WTC, and approval of the purchase of $1,500 worth equipment needed to complete the existing security system in the museum building on campus. The 1978-79 budget for the college will be the subject of a work session set for May 30.

Truth about bear lovers bared

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Charles of England took his bear to prep school; Elvis Presley was fond of them; and John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson played with them as children. The Soviets reportedly are featuring a teddy bear known as "Misha" as the 1980 Olympic mascot.

The Good Bears of the World (GBW) — which furnishes teddy bears to children in hospitals — has headquarters in Bern, Switzerland, and publishes a Honolulu newsletter that goes to an adult "underground" of bear lovers around the world.

Austin has its share of arctophiles — bear lovers.

"It's only recently that grown people have been willing to admit their affection for teddy bears," says Jan.

"Men did not show sentiment," says pharmacist Juan Ochoa, 29, "but things have changed."

Jan Meyrick was sitting near a Christmas fire to ward off the Boston cold when her husband casually picked up a worn teddy bear and pointed a miniature cap pistol at the bear's head.

"Jan, look at this," he said, kidding, and pretended to pull the trigger.

"I went white," she recalls.

In Jan's mind, "Cowslip," a silent friend and confidante since she was an infant, momentarily faced death.

"He didn't pull the trigger," she says with relief. It was as if in holding back, her husband had reaffirmed her belief that he was a good man — and saved a life.

Jan, 28, a petite blonde secretary, is a "bear person." She always has been and always will be. To teddy bear lovers, age doesn't matter.

Bear books tell us Prince

He started his collection when a friend gave him "Bubba," a bear that had been hugged by numerous young children during mental health counseling.

After initial embarrassment, he talks of his bears with ease. "Every bear," he says, "was given to me by someone close to me. Besides, bears are huggable and I consider myself a huggable person."

Bear lovers seek each other out for "bear talk," but most are inveterate collectors and are careful not to disclose their sources. Jan, for example, has first refusal rights on bears found by a Massachusetts dealer, but she prefers not to divulge the name.

She once spent $90 trying in an unsuccessful attempt to trace a $30 bear she glimpsed at a flea market.

'Don't move or I'll shoot' with golf club

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Richard O. Sipes noticed a man outside neighbor Orville Sharpe's home and called the police, but he decided to get the drop on the suspected burglar — with a golf club.

Patrolman W. J. O'Neill said he had just pulled up to the home, when he heard someone say, "Don't move or I'll shoot."

O'Neill said he reached for his gun and looked into the darkness near the house where he heard the voice. Seconds later two men walked out.

"When he (Sipes) came out, he had a golf club in his (the other man's) back prodding him along to police," O'Neill said.

William S. Davis, a 20-year-old University of South Carolina student from Union, was charged with attempted housebreaking and possession of burglary tools. He was released on a personal recognizance bond after police told City Recorder Lincoln Jenkins Davis had no previous criminal record.

Crime never takes holiday, Washington deputy discovers

PASCO, Wash. (AP) — Crime never takes a holiday, not even when the crime fighter is in school learning how to catch the crooks.

While William Hansen, a Benton County deputy sheriff, was busy learning his trade in the classroom Tuesday night, a thief was practicing his trade on Hansen's car.

Police said someone broke into Hansen's car, which was parked at Columbia Basin College, and made off with an estimated $542 worth of police-related equipment.

When Hansen returned to the car he found the doors locked, but his citizens band radio, a police radio scanner and a radar detector were missing.

Aliens will come out of hiding?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter Administration believes that millions of illegal aliens will come out of hiding and register with the government if the president's proposed Alien Adjustment and Employment Act becomes law. Included in the controversial proposal is a provision that calls for establishment of a temporary resident alien status for any alien that entered the country illegally after 1976. The alien could remain "temporary" for a maximum of five years.

aliens after the five-year period, this is not intended merely as a postponement of a major decision; rather it is a part of a step-by-step approach to a major social problem," said Attorney General Griffin B. Bell during testimony Wednesday before the Senate committee considering the bill. "The important underlying question that must be answered is whether, once the facts are presented, the undocumented aliens will decide that its worthwhile to come out of hiding," Bell continued. "We believe that they will because the advantages of the temporary status so outweigh the disadvantages. The most important advantage is the right to live and work in the United States without fear of apprehension by the authorities and without being easy targets for exploitation by unscrupulous employers or landlords." The attorney general also pointed out that the administration's plan also calls for adjustment of revenue sharing formulas to account for the impact of temporary alien residents on state and local governmental services. Bell and Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher testified before a Senate Judiciary Committee session concerning the bill proposed by President Carter in August 1977.

The bill was introduced in the Senate by four Democrats, including Judiciary Committee Chairman James O. Eastland of Mississippi. At the conclusion of Bell's testimony, Eastland invited the attorney general to return to answer questions "when more members of the committee are present." Eastland and another sponsor of the bill, Dennis DeConcini of Arizona, were the only members of the 17-senator committee present during Bell's testimony. Some of the bill's other controversial measures include sanctions against employers who hire undocumented workers and amnesty for illegals who entered the country prior to January 1977.

be able to agree as a government and as a people on what the proper solution should be," Bell added. "I disagree because I have great faith in the ability of Americans to achieve political and social progress through creative compromise. The administration's proposals have been offered as a means of opening the dialogue with the Congress and with the public." "Some may say that not enough is known about illegal immigration to make policy decisions... and, while the exact dimensions of the (illegal alien) population are not known, it is clear what the impacts of this population are," he continued. "Thus, steps must be taken to do something about the problem of undocumented aliens irrespective of whether 2.5 million or 5.2 million are in the nation." "The important fact is that the problem is significant and growing and the forces which cause it are not going to disappear in the foreseeable future."

In responding to the most common criticisms of the proposed bill, Bell said the temporary alien resident concept "is practicable and that the rationale behind it is sound. It is also necessary, I might add, because it is the only way to get the people (illegals) to come out and register. Bell also said there is "no magic" in the Jan. 1, 1977 amnesty date. "It is an attempt to meet legitimate humanitarian and practical concerns without creating incentives for increased migration, which a complete amnesty most surely would do." Christopher said the State Department had contacted officials in countries that contribute most to the illegal alien problem in the United States. He mentioned four specific meetings with officials in Mexico and, when asked by DeConcini if he believed Mexico was cooperating on a "reluctant basis," Christopher replied: "I take (Mexican President Luis) Portillo at his word when he says they want to export their products, not their workers."

Parents who wish to enroll their children in either the kindergarten or head start programs must register them during "Operation Round-Up," today. This will be the only registration since a head count is needed to plan for the number of teachers and amount of supplies. Kentwood — which has a half-day program — has scheduled registration from 2:30 p.m. until 3:45 p.m. At Lakeview, a sign up for the full-day kindergarten or head start program is from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m.

Boy's Club plans Open House Sunday, 3-5 p.m.

Open House ceremonies Sunday from 3-5 p.m. will mark the 10th anniversary of the Big Spring Boy's Club, according to Bert Andries, director of the local club. The local Boy's Club opened in the spring of 1968, following an almost year-long struggle to get funds, Andries said. "We decided to open without the money," he said. The club was first located at 304 Gregg St. and opened officially May 11, 1968. Andries said approximately 50 boys registered with the club on that day. The Boy's Club was moved to 114 E. 2nd for a short period of time prior to moving to its present location at 212 E. 3rd. The club has expanded several times at its present location. The Boy's Club is opened to every school-age boy, Andries said. He operates the club with the assistance of Guy Griffith. Several high school boys also help with the club. The club offers a variety of programs, Andries said. The 3rd Street location houses a library-study room, a game room, offices, an arts and crafts room, a darkroom, a gym, television area, woodshop, a snackbar, and an outdoor playground area. The club also leases a swimming pool and park area on the north side of town, Andries said. The Boy's Club has a membership of over 400. Yearly dues are 50 cents for elementary boys, $1 for junior high and $2 for high school boys. The club is opened from 3-8 p.m. on school days and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekends and holidays. During the summer the club is opened from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Garner Ted Armstrong's TV commentaries will be axed

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The half-hour television commentaries by Garner Ted Armstrong will be discontinued and the 48-year-old Worldwide Church of God evangelist will relinquish his executive titles in the church and its related Ambassador College, his father says.

The four-year, liberal arts school is an arm of the Worldwide Church of God.

The Big Sandy campus had closed last year, and students and faculty were moved to Pasadena.

Board chairman Herbert G. Armstrong also announced Wednesday that he

Farm Participation is sought

Public meetings will be held next week at Stephenville and San Antonio to let interested persons give their views on present soil and water conservation programs and to propose needed changes or additions to present approaches.

The Stephenville meeting will be held May 16 in the Humanities and Business Building on the campus of Tarleton State University. The San Antonio meeting will be in the Fiesta Room of the Convention Center on May 18. Both meetings will start at 9 a.m. with registration starting at 8:30 a.m.

George C. Marks, state conservationist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service and Carl Spencer, executive director of the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board will chair the meetings.

"The meetings are being held as a result of the Resources Conservation Act of 1977, which was signed into law by President Carter last November," Marks said. "The Act recognizes the need for public participation to insure that the conservation programs are effective and responsive to public needs."

"Soil and water conservation programs — from their beginning — have sought public participation, and the RCA Act further insures that conservation programs will continue to be responsive to public needs," Spencer said. The Act reaffirms the need for public leadership and we hope to receive public input so that a meaningful appraisal of grass roots conservation programs will provide the means for their improvement.

"However, the right to private ownership and management of land is one of the most cherished privileges of American citizenship," Spencer stressed. "As the general public becomes more involved with the growing shortage of soil and water resources we see more proposals in legislative form concerning what landowners ought to do in the way of erosion control, flood prevention, protection of wildlife habitat and providing public access to private property."

Tentative look at global crops

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a highly tentative look at global crop prospects in the coming year, the Agriculture Department says that world grain reserves a year from now could be the largest ever or more than 20 percent below their present levels.

It depends on the weather, the department's Foreign Agriculture Service said Wednesday in its first projection of 1978-79 world grain production and use. For the first time, the agency used a two weather-based alternatives in its figures.

For example, with good weather the Soviet Union's 1978 total grain harvest could set a record of 229 million metric tons, compared with 195.5 million last year and the old record of 223.8 million tons in 1976, the report indicated.

Even with poor weather, the Soviet grain harvest this year could be around 191 million tons, the fifth largest in Russian history. Moscow's goal is 220 million tons of grain this year.

The projected Soviet grain figures included 217 million tons of wheat and coarse grains such as corn and barley under the good-weather alternative and 183 million tons with poor weather, the report said.

Not included in the report were miscellaneous grains such as rice, beans and peas which Moscow counts in its over-all grain production statistics. A USDA official said that those could total 12 million tons with good weather and eight million tons with poor weather.

No riddle here

What is Red and White and has 40 legs? Give up. No, it's not a walking newspaper, or some sort of an ambulatory strawberry shortcake. It is, in fact, the 20 returning lettermen that the Coahoma Bulldogs will be flaunting next season.

Back for the Pack next season will be five senior "Above the Call" winners. Fullback Tracy Frazier (190 plus), tight end Randy Phillips, offensive and defensive guard Mike Ritchey and divebacks Tim Childers and Ronald Sundry made a name for themselves last year with their display of courage and willingness to win.

Junior Gary Gee, tall and lanky and reminiscent in that respect of superstar Tim Greenfield, whose shoes he will be filling, will take over in the quarterback slot.

FRAZIER Big back

GEE New QB

Coahoma's inexperienced minions last season quickly matured after tough pre-season competition, and finished second only to senior-riddled Colorado City in conference warfare. This next season, not only will the Pack (Bulldog fans) be back, it'll be stacked with ripened athletes.

Only Class AAA schools are allowed regular spring training with padding, plays and the like, but all non-4A practices, consisting of physical conditioning exercises — no contact work or plays.

Bulldog Coach Roy Winters is not your basic "talk-your-ear-off" kinda guy. In typical non-verbose style, when asked if he considered Gee a better runner or passer, he simply said: "He'll do fine."

I think that just about sums up how the team as a whole will do in 1978. And "fine" can be defined as a 7-3 season or better, and a district championship in the ol' hip pocket. They definitely have the returning guns to pull it off.

SPEAKING OF FOOTBALL, HAMBONE

Yes, I really like talking about football, and while I'm at it, the Dallas Cowboys 1977 highlight film, "The Year the Clock Struck XII," is available free of charge to groups wishing to show it.

Produced by NFL Films, and narrated by John Facenda, the 30-minute, 16mm sound and color movie is sponsored by Braniff International. To reserve a copy for group showings, call Braniff at 214-747-9051, or the Cowboys Executive Offices at 214-369-8000.

By the way, NFL Films' Super Bowl production for SB XII is expected to be available for booking later this month. It also will be a 30-minute, 16mm jobby.

DID YOU KNOW?

Just about anyone who knows what a football looks like can tell you that the first intercollegiate football game was played between Princeton and Rutgers. Question (sorry Tommy's Replay) When was the first intercollegiate baseball game played?

Answer: It was played on July 1, 1859. Amherst topped Williams . . . and get this . . . 66-32! (They must've had Walt Finley pitching for both teams.)

STRANGE BUT TRUE

The St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs played a doubleheader on May 30, 1922. Big deal, right? In the first game, Max Flack played in the outfield for the Cubs and Cliff Heathcote was in the Cardinal outfield. Big deal again, right?

Between games they were traded. Ah, now we're getting somewhere. And so in the second game, Heathcote played in the Cub outfield, and Flack caught fly balls for the Cardinals. (That's a reversal folks!)

Vitas hasn't beaten Borg yet, but he'll try

DALLAS (AP) — Vitas Gerulaitis intends to beat Bjorn Borg if it's the last thing he ever does. And at the rate he's going — eight losses in eight matches — it might be.

"I'll never give up. If I've got to play the guy in the—damned seniors until I'm 80, I'm gonna beat this guy — if it's the last thing I ever do," Gerulaitis quipped Wednesday night after he dispatched Raul Ramirez to set up a semifinal showdown with the top-seeded Borg in the World Championship of Tennis Finals.

"If I have to invite him over to my house when I'm 95 and get him out of a wheelchair, I'm going to beat you. If someone asks me how long I'm going to play tennis — until I beat Borg."

Gerulaitis' hawking play at the net overcame 14 double faults Wednesday night for his easy 6-1, 2-6, 6-2, 6-1 victory over Ramirez.

Borg, meanwhile, won the last 12 games en route to reeling off a 4-6, 6-2, 6-1, 6-0 quarter-final victory Tuesday night over Dick Stockton. Borg, seeking his second WCT title, meets Gerulaitis on Friday night.

The 23-year-old New Yorker was the point-leader this year among the WCT's elite eight finalists, but Borg was selected the tournament's No. 1 seed because of his higher world ranking.

Borg has beaten Gerulaitis five times this year, including the finals of four tournaments. In the finals at Copenhagen, Gerulaitis won the first set 6-2, only to lose the next two sets, 6-4, 6-4.

In fact, Gerulaitis said his plague of double faults against Ramirez was due to his development of a more aggressive serve aimed at beating players like Borg.

"I would be great to play well here, but I'm looking forward on my serve . . . to Wimbledon and Flushing Meadows . . . and to cracking the top three guys," said Gerulaitis. "You can't play defensive tennis against the top guys."

Fred Stolle, Gerulaitis' coach for the World Team Tennis New York Apples, has convinced Gerulaitis to hit a harder second serve as a means of improving his game.

"I go into the match knowing I'm going to try to serve aggressively," said Gerulaitis. "I can afford a couple of double faults."

"Why should it bother Vitas to double fault so much when he still wins the games?" asked Ramirez.

In tonight's two quarter-final matches, Brian Gottfried meets Italy's Corrado Barazzutti and Eddie Dibbs and Ilie Nastase stage a rematch of their volatile 1977 quarter-finals clash.

Three homers? No sweat! Rangers win anyway

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The last thing Billy Hunter needed was another Milwaukee Brewers home run, so when the pressure mounted Wednesday night the Texas manager bypassed Ranger relief ace Len Barker in favor of rusting Reggie Cleveland.

The Brewers belted three more homers, boosting their American League-leading total to 39. However, all three were with the bases empty, and the Rangers parlayed a two-run homer by Bump Wills, a two-run double by Al Oliver and Cleveland's clutch relief pitching into a 4-3 victory, their 11th in 14 games.

Winner Doyle Alexander (3-1) gave up rookie Paul Molitor's third homer leading off the Brewer first, Sal Bando's fourth homer in the sixth and Sixto Lezcano's fifth homer with one out in the seventh.

Cleveland relieved after Gorman Thomas walked following Lezcano's homer. Pinch-hitter Jim Ganter singled with two out, but centerfielder Juan Beniquez threw out Thomas trying to advance to third, and Cleveland went on to earn his first save with 2-3 innings of two hit, four-strikeout relief.

"Gorman just outthrust on that play," Brewer Manager George Bamberger said. "I think he paused at second base and then made his move. You should never be thrown out at third with two outs."

Cleveland, normally a starter or long relief pitcher, said he was surprised Hunter had called on him in a tight short relief situation.

"Len Barker will usually get the call in that situation," Cleveland said. "I hadn't pitched in 12 days, and I think Billy was trying to get everyone in the ball game. You can't let a pitcher sit down for two or three weeks and have him sharp."

"It depends on the ball club he goes in against and the types of hitters he's going to face," Hunter said. "Barker can throw a hard fast ball, but Milwaukee is a good fast ball hitting club, and I didn't want them laying back looking for fast balls.

"They already had put three fast balls in the seats, and I didn't want that again," he said. "That's why I went to Reggie. Reggie is a good breaking ball pitcher. He has a good slider and curve."

Losers Lary Sorensen (3-3) allowed only five hits, but was hurt by two of his four walks.

He walked Mike Hargrove with two out in the third, and Wills lined his second homer just inside the right field line. A walk to Toby Harrah, a fielder's choice, a single by Wills and Oliver's two-run double off the right centerfield wall scored the Rangers' other runs in the fifth.

"Alexander gave up three solo homers, but when we had other chances to score he made good pitches and didn't hurt himself," Sorensen, 22, said. "Maybe that's experience."

Big 'D' keeps 76ers in playoffs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers talked about dreams and positive thinking and tempo and crowd encouragement, but they are still in the National Basketball Association playoffs today because of an unbending defense.

The 76ers, often referred to as the best team money can buy, stuck with their money players Wednesday night and it paid off with a 107-94 victory over the Washington Bullets.

Philadelphia got the job done with Julius "Dr. J." Erving, Doug Collins, Caldwell Jones and Henry Bibby, not only putting the ball in the hoop, but stripping the Bullets of their high-scoring offense.

The best-of-seven series is headed back to Landover, Md., for a sixth game Friday night with the Bullets leading 3-2, but the 76ers confidently are selling tickets for a seventh game here Sunday.

Washington Coach Dick Motta insists there won't be any seventh game, however. "I still like our odds," said Motta. "I'd hate to be down 3-2 against them and coming up here for the sixth game. They ran us tonight, but I still think we're the better team."

Collins and Erving led the 76ers' fast-break offense in staving off elimination from the playoffs. And 7-foot-1 center Caldwell Jones and Erving did the defensive jobs on the Bullets' two big guns, Elvin Hayes and Bob Dandridge.

Crenshaw ready to defend title

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Ben Crenshaw returned to the scene of his most bizarre conquest today to defend his title in the $200,000 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament.

"I really feel pretty good about it," the slender little Texan grinned as he led a field of 102 on the first of a four-day seige across the treacherous Trinity River battleground.

"I'm playing much better than a year ago," he laughed, recalling the madcap 1977 adventure in which he scrambled riotously but relentlessly to a winning 8-under-par 72-hole total of 292.

"I was just telling Lee (Trevino) the way I won here last year was by hitting all the fairways and all the greens," Crenshaw deadpanned.

Gentle Ben hit on occasional fairways and even fewer greens en route to the 1977 crown and emerged from the woods to sheepishly announce: "I felt like someone grabbed me by the hand and led me from the wilderness."

Crenshaw, a non-winner this year, ranks 14th among the current money winners with $65,478 and collected much of that as runner-up to Tom Watson in the Crosby.

Watson and Gary Player, both triple winners this year, headline a Colonial field that also includes double winner Hubert Green and the 1976

Colonial kingpin, Trevino. The Merry Mexican ranks seventh on the money list and twice was runner-up in his last four starts, including a rousing duel last week with Watson in the televised climatic round of the Byron Nelson.

Portions of the third and fourth rounds will be televised this weekend by CBS.

Club officials contend the par 70, 7,170-yard Colonial course, called Hogan's Alley in honor of the five-time champ Ben Hogan, could yield a record low score this year.

"The greens are in the best shape ever and the rough is not as high as usual," tournament chairman Bill Spears said.

BOUTON STRIKES OUT SEVEN — Former New York Yankees pitcher Jim Bouton is pictured in this multiple exposure as he hurls for the minor league's Richmond Braves in an exhibition game Wednesday night in Richmond against the major's Atlanta Braves. Bouton struck out seven batters but was taken out in the sixth inning as Atlanta prevailed 7-3.

Seiz, Mark Law, Mark Stephens, Oscar Cruz, Tim Derrick, Greg Jones, Ricky Cluck, Terry Howell, Jim Carrillo and Marty Terry. Spring drills continue daily at Blankenship Field, and all local fans are invited to attend.

Patriotism program wins ovation

The Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary met March 25 for their Annual Americanism Program at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall in Silver Heels.

Katie Spivey, commander, greeted the crowd filling the hall and told them how proud she was of the turnout, and announced that Gold Star Mothers were special guests. She introduced Mrs. Truett Thomas, president of Gold Star Mothers, who in turn introduced eight of the mothers and three fathers.

Mrs. A.E. True was introduced then by Mrs. Spivey, who turned the program over to her

'Pounding' fetes bride

A bridal pounding for Cathy Rudd, bride-elect of Lonnie Gary, took place Friday in the home of Mary Ann Taylor, 2800 S. Birdwell. Co-hostess were Toni Choate, Marge Hollingsworth and Lora Mae Pollard. They presented Mrs. Rudd an electric hand-mixer. The table was centered with a decorator basket containing wedding wine, assorted cheese and fruit and spider mums. Daisy corsages were presented to the mothers of the honoree and her fiancé, Mrs. Neil Rudd and Mrs. John Gary, along with the bride-to-be. About 50 attended. The couple will wed May 20 at the First Baptist Church.

daughter, Mamie Lee Dodds, who is a teacher at Marcy Elementary School.

Mrs. Dodds read a letter from George Washington to his wife, Martha, telling her that he was no longer president and that he was on his way to a hotel to welcome John Adams, the new president. Thoughts on leaving office and on patriotism ran throughout the letter.

She said that the program, "What is Patriotism?" would be staged by students from the school who belonged to the honor society.

Students participating in the program were Jimmy Cowan, Tonya Stevenson, Greg Elythe, Robyn Mires, Mark Walker, Mesa Rhodes, Michele Warner, Michele Basham, Leric Wagner, Lisa Subia, Debbie Holguin, Annette Rodriguez, Theresa Martinez, Barbara Holmes, Chris Daniels, Mark Garcia, Chris Hicks, Mark Carmichael, Clark Dunnam and Stacy Basham.

One group of students argued about the definition of patriotism and others explained what they thought patriotism was. As the students began to leave, they were stopped by into the Texas State Department of History and will be kept there in hopes of winning a national award this year.

Mrs. Spivey, who presented Mrs. Dodds with a white carnation corsage and each student with a jeweled flag pin. As she pinned the flags on the students, she asked if they would sing a song while she was doing this, and after thinking a moment, the students, completely unrehearsed, sang four songs, ending with "God Bless America." The group in the hall came to a standing ovation and sang along with them.

The hall was decorated with red, white and blue, and fresh flowers were furnished by the Donald Trupps, who have furnished flowers for the past three years.

The crowd was served punch, coffee and cake, which was made in the shape of an American flag.

This event was recorded in pictures which will be sent

Lovey-Dovey With Each Other's Mates

DEAR ABBY: It all started eight months ago when Ron and I started running around with Lynn and Dave. Dave and I would sit in the front and Lynn and Ron would sit in back. It was all in fun. We'd hold hands and hug and kiss once in a while. I sort of liked it at first, then I noticed Ron was overdoing it with Lynn.

I said I thought the whole idea was silly and suggested we get back with our own mates, but Ron and Lynn didn't want to quit. What do I do now. I am sure Lynn and Ron haven't gone any further than hugging and kissing, but I'm worried about where it might lead. I love my husband and I know he loves me. There are 5 preschool children between the two families. What should I do?

RON'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I don't have to tell you how foolish you were to have started this dangerous game—now the fat is in the fire. Tell Ron that if you are going to continue the friendship with Lynn and Dave, there will be no more switches. Then gradually see less and less of them, and more of other couples who are content to stick with the mates they married.

DEAR ABBY: Golf is a great sport, but why do so many people who play the game cheat? I have had the same sad experience with both men and women. They lie through their teeth about their scores.

HONEST GOLFER

DEAR HONEST: People lie about their golf scores for the same reason they lie about anything else. They lack the self-confidence and security to tell the truth. And since golf is a game involving an exclusive and confidential relationship between the player and the ball, the cheating player can usually get away with it.

DEAR ABBY: Please answer this soon as Mom and Dad are planning a trip and we kids will be alone.

We are both young adults. My parents have asked our married brother to "look in on us" while they're out of town. Does that give my brother the right to barge in whenever he feels like it without giving us any warning? Do you think he should have a key to our house just like he did when he lived here? Doesn't the fact that he is now married with a house of his own make him somewhat of an outsider here?

This is causing a terrible fight. We would like your opinion. We are two girls, 18 and 19.

US KIDS IN NEW CANAAN

DEAR KIDS: What "rights" your brother has, can (and should) be clearly defined by your parents. And to avoid any misunderstanding, your parents should tell you in your brother's presence exactly what "looking in on" entails.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BLEW MY TOP IN HORSELL, N.Y.: You blew more than your top. You blew your chances. The test of a man's breeding is how he behaves in a quarrel.

CONFIDENTIAL TO NEW MOTHER: I could write a book on advice to the new mother, but if you want happy, well-adjusted, secure children, never say:

1. "If you do that once more I'm going to punish you."
2. "Why can't you be good—like your sister?"
3. "When daddy comes home you're going to get a spanking!"
4. "If someone calls, say I'm not home."
5. "Go away and don't bother me. I'm busy now."

Bartending is just another profession

By EILEEN McGUIRE
Bartenders have an undeserved reputation for being frivolous, irresponsible, alcoholic people, according to two of Big Spring's newest bartenders.

Danny "Dizzy" Dane and Joe Whittenburg didn't know each other when they moved to Big Spring last January, but became solid friends when Bogarts opened in February with Whittenburg tending the disco bar and Dane tending the lounge bar.

Dane, from Big Lake, has been bartending since 1972 and Whittenburg, from Wichita, Kansas, learned the trade from owning and operating Wichita clubs since 1971. Both see bartending as one step in a career of nightclubbing.

"The public, particularly creditors, have the wrong impression of what bartending is all about," Dane said. "Because we work with alcohol, it is assumed that we are all alcoholics who do nothing but party."

"The truth is, we are probably a better risk than most people because there's a lot of money in this business. Bartenders have a larger income than oilfield workers, yet because of the nature of our business, in order to establish credit, it's necessary to make two or three payments a month on one loan.

Whittenburg conceded that there's probably less chance of a bartender abusing alcohol than someone who doesn't work with it because, "We work with liquor five nights a week. We're just like everybody else — when we get off work, we want to leave our work behind us."

Whittenburg said that they don't even have a bar in the home that they share.

"A lot of people view our work as one continuous party," he said. "It's not a party; it's work. The entire nightclub business is a career, like journalism or teaching or any other career field, with many different steps leading to the ultimate goal of owning and managing your own club."

"There's a better chance for advancement in this business than any other business," said Dane, who started his career as a waiter in a nightclub. "Along with the different jobs you can progress through, there are different types of bars to be owned, starting with the slow and leisurely family-type bar, on to the disco and finally the huge show and dinner club. And with each step taken in this career, there's a large financial adjustment."

Whittenburg plans to get back into owning and managing discos while Dane has his eye on owning a show club.

"As a bartender, I see myself as a perfectionist artist," Dane said. "We have to make drinks fast and without any mistakes. Every drink has to be exactly like the one before."

The two estimated that they make about 700 to 800 drinks each during an eight-hour, Friday or Saturday night "workday". That's one-and-a-half to two drinks a minute for each of them.

Because Bogarts is a high volume club, neither of the bartenders have time to play the role of social worker that bartenders of smaller bars do.

"We hear a lot of gossip in this line of work," Whittenburg said, "but, of necessity, we move too fast to hear the confessions and problems that a lot of bartenders get from their customers."

"We do, however, meet a lot of people in this job, so it's important that a bartender like working with the public which both of us do."

"In this business, you make friends fast," Dane agreed. "Most bar people are transient people, so you end up with a lot of acquaintances and people that you enjoy, but few solid friendships."

One of the adjustments each had to make when they began their careers in the nightclub business was the abnormal lifestyle they lead.

Neither Dane nor Whittenburg were 'night people' until then.

"Our days are upside

FIRST, THE ICE — Danny "Dizzy" Dane, left, shakes up a Pina Colada while Joe Whittenburg demonstrates the art of making a perfect Cubalibra. Recipes for the two drinks are given by them, both bartenders at Bogarts, in the accompanying story. No, the John Denver look-alike on the right doesn't need a shave; he's growing a beard to maintain his own identity.

down," Dane said. "We do everything backwards from 'day people'."

"Days are nights and nights are days," said Whittenburg.

When the 'day people' are getting off of work, Whittenburg and Dane begin their day. Morning to these bartenders is around 4 p.m. with the workday beginning at 7. Their afternoon begins after work at 2 a.m., and by the time the rest of the city begins their day around 6 or 7 a.m., Bogarts bartenders are ending theirs.

On their two days off each week, Dane and Whittenburg said they lead normal lives, getting up in the morning and sleeping at night.

"Of course, those two days that we appear to live normally are abnormal days for us," Whittenburg said.

In preparation for his career, Whittenburg majored in business management at North Carolina State University while stationed at Cherry Point, N.C., in the marines. After Vietnam, he returned to Wichita and began working as a nightclub manager.

Both Whittenburg and Dane moved to Big Spring because this is where their families live.

Dane plans to return to school for a business management degree in the future — one thing he can't do right now because of his upside-down lifestyle.

choice. The other is marriage.

Both divorced, Whittenburg and Dane agree that marriage and working in a nightclub don't mix.

"I don't think they could've mix," Dane said. "The nightclub life is an entirely different world. It's a fast-paced world. You work fast, you meet a lot of people fast, and you end up living not responsibly, but fast."

"It's an exciting way to make a good living and a great way to meet people. A large social life is one benefit of bartending but it also makes it difficult for a marriage to survive. I think a long-lasting, meaningful relationship could survive, but it would take two special kind of people with a high degree of understanding to do it."

Despite the problems that bartending can create in a bartender's personal life, neither of the two plan to ever leave the nightclub business.

"I tried leaving it for a year," Dane said, "but it was already in my blood. That year I spent as a resort manager was the most miserable in my life."

Whittenburg agreed. "I could give up bartending, but I could never give up the nightclub business. I enjoy meeting the public and I like to see people have a good time."

"We don't drink while tending bar, but we do have a good time," Whittenburg said. "You can't help but have a good time when everyone else around you is."

We are actually getting paid for having a good time. While making sure others do.

Dane, with his experience of working bars in cities such as Phoenix, Arizona, New Orleans and Dallas, and Whittenburg, with six years experience of owning and operating discos and nightclubs, both say that Bogarts is the largest and only real disco in the whole Permian Basin.

"This nightclub is the embryo for a long line of Bogarts," said Dane. It's the foundation of a nightlife yet to come to this area. And in the three months since it opened, it's really caught on.

"The disco attracts the younger crowd and single people who want to enjoy other people while the lounge attracts a more mature crowd and couples who want to enjoy each other."

From their "best seller list," Whittenburg and Dane selected the following four drinks that can be made at home, Bogarts-style. Try them the next time you serve cocktails.

Future Homemakers model their projects at banquet

The 1978 Future Homemakers of America Mother-Daughter Banquet at Westbrook High School Apr. 25 began with a meal.

The meal, which was planned and prepared by the FHA girls and their sponsor, Mary Ellis, was served from tables adorned with multicolor paper flowers made by the girls.

Pam Parsons, president, welcomed everyone following the meal, and then introduced the 1978-79 FHA officers. Sharla Rollins will be president, and other officers are Becky Mensch, vice president; Kathy Anderson, secretary; Beth Geiger, treasurer; Lisa Anderson, reporter; and Jane Miller, parliamentarian.

A report of the State FHA Convention in Dallas Apr. 20-21 was given by Miss Rollins and Miss Geiger, who attended it.

Homemaking I girls were recognized for having completed level one of encounter in FHA and were presented a key charm. The girls receiving charms were Miss Rollins, Miss Geiger, Tina Wimberly, Debbie King, Susan Crowe, Sandy Harris and Grace Ellett.

Homemaking II girls who were recognized as having completed level two of encounter in FHA and were presented a scroll charm were Rosemary Lopez, Lisa and Kathy Anderson, Miss Miller, Teresa Dorn and Miss Mensch. Jana Shackelford also received a charm but was not present.

Gifts were presented to the six graduating senior girls, Miss Parsons, Alice Lopez, Pansy Hale, Julie King, Janice Ritchy and Erlinda

Reyes.

Following the meal a style show was given by the girls in the auditorium of the garments they had made for themselves and children.

Miss Lopez was decked out in a red formal gown made by Alice Lopez, and Miss King and Jeran Ware, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maxey Ware, wore green and white floral print cotton sundresses made exactly alike by Miss King.

Miss Dorn and Miss Rollins modeled sundresses made from cotton fabric of blue and white floral print. Little girls modeling with them were Stephanie Matlock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Matlock, and Sheila Hale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Hale. Their dresses were of doubleknit patchwork design material.

Miss Wimberly showed a long pink dress, and Miss Crowe modeled a plaid pantsuit of doubleknit made as a home experience. Lea Shay Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Watson, modeled bright orange doubleknit overalls with Miss Crowe.

Kathy Anderson modeled a cotton blend blue jumpsuit made in class, and Cathy Thurmond displayed an orange shirt. With her was Tracy Lentz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lentz, in a blue overall suit that Miss Thurmond fashioned.

Alice Lopez exhibited a stylish two-piece white doubleknit dress with bright accent scarf, and Miss Mensch was ready for hiking in a brushed denim gaucho suit made at school.

Miss Miller modeled a yellow cotton jumpsuit made in class, and Miss Geiger looked sharp in a blue denim jumpsuit made as a home experience.

Miss Ritchey showed a white cotton eyelet sundress, and Lisa Anderson exhibited a halter-top formal of floral doubleknit.

Miss Ellett and J.J. Ellett, her nephew, showed a stuffed bear that Miss Ellett made for him.

The highlight of the evening were songs and musical numbers to entertain everyone performed by Danny Pennington and his group from Ira.

Pennington is music director at Westbrook First Baptist Church.

TwEEN 12 and 20 Teach your teens about contraception

Dear Dr. Wallace,
I'm not "tween 12 and 20." I happen to be 27, married and the mother of two.

A couple of weeks ago you ran a letter in your column from a young girl, 18, I believe, and her boyfriend who was 19. She couldn't decide if she should "go all the way" with him or not. When I was 19, I had a boyfriend who was 21. After years of saying no to lots of boys, I finally gave in because he said he'd do the "right thing" and marry me if I got pregnant.

Well, I got pregnant, but he didn't marry me. He suggested abortion, adoption, even a home for unwed mothers — everything and anything except marriage.

I kept my baby. Before he was a year old, I met a man who quickly learned to love us both, deeply and sincerely. We were married when our son was 2.

I was lucky. My parents, family and friends were behind me. But, even with all that love and support, it wasn't everything I needed.

The emotional strain on me was astounding. Pregnancy, labor and childbirth were nothing compared to the pain I carried inside me.

I wouldn't cry or let anyone know how I really felt. I just kept smiling.

Even today, eight years later, that pain is still there. It's something I'll never forget.

I think what I'm trying to say is that kids are going to do what they want to do, no matter what! Parents have got to be understanding and realize that times have changed. We have to teach children to protect themselves from everything. Especially pregnancy. And it's just as important for boys as girls to know how not to make babies.

Thanks for reading this. Maybe it'll help some girl — or boy — to keep themselves out of the dilemma I got into.

Mother, Sidney, Ohio

Dear Mother,
Thanks for the enlightening words.

Traitor Benedict Arnold honored in New Haven

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The day began chilly and wet, generally rotten, which some thought generally apt. Soon enough, though, the sun broke through, and under a bright spring sky, with pomp and pageantry, with bugles and banners, with fifes and drums and marching feet, with bands and booming cannon, this town paid honor to a long-remembered son, Benedict Arnold.

Grants will be reviewed

The project review committee of the Permian Basin Health Systems Agency will meet Monday at 7 p.m. in the conference room of the West Texas Education Center at Midland Regional Air Terminal.

Two large grants requested by the Permian Basin Community Centers for Mental Health and Mental Retardation in Odessa will be reviewed.

One is entitled Mental Health Operations and requests $281,345 from DHEW, $375,165 from the state and $243,707 local along with $37,000 for a total grant of $937,817.

The other grant submitted by the same group is entitled "Facility Improvement Grant" and requests a total of $48,820.

The Texas Department of Health has submitted a grant entitled "Improved Pregnancy Outcome Program" for a total of $719,521. The review committee will discuss these grants.

All-star cast for wedding

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Tom Tipton's wedding May 20 will have an all-star cast — Vice President Walter Mondale, singer Roberta Flack, a former Brooklyn Dodger and three Minnesota Vikings.

Tipton, who founded the first black-owned ad agency in Minnesota, asked Mondale to be his best man. Tipton, a close friend of the late Sen. Hubert Humphrey and a soloist at his funeral, said Mondale is standing in for Humphrey, who had always said he wanted to be his best man.

Miss Flack, a high school classmate of Tipton's, will sing at the wedding, while former Dodger pitcher Joe Black will be a groomsmen and football players Alan Page, Carl Eller and Jim Marshall will be ushers.

Ex-grid star guilty of slap

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Actor and former pro football star Jim Brown could go to jail for six months after being convicted of slapping, punching and choking a golf partner.

Municipal Court Commissioner Wardell Moss found Brown guilty of a misdemeanor battery charge Wednesday. He set sentencing, which could be a maximum of six months in jail and a $1,000 fine, for June 28.

Prosecutor Mai Jordan said Brown, 42, assaulted Frank Snow, 33, after they argued over where a ball should be placed on the green during a golf match last fall.

During the two-day trial, Brown said he only shoved Snow away when Snow attacked him with an upraised golf club.

year. "Of course Benedict Arnold was a traitor," Capt. Bob Hunter said. "What we honor is what happened here on this green in 1775 and the man who did it, who was Benedict Arnold."

Capt. Hunter is a member of Benedict Arnold's old outfit, the Governor's Foot Guard of Connecticut.

As other members here gathered for the celebration, the captain was all gotten up in white knee britches, black leggings, scarlet coat, sword, fur hat, a figure in a London travel poster.

The celebration was not, however, held on the anniversary of Benedict Arnold's 1775 exploit on the New Haven green. That happened April 22. What with April's unpredictable weather, the Foot Guard picks a weekend in May for its annual observance, in this case May 5.

(May 5, incidentally, is the anniversary of the Sack of Rome, rarely celebrated, as in the Sack of New London. New London, Conn., just up the road, was Benedict Arnold's birthplace. In 1781, Arnold led the British sackers. (Last Saturday, May 5, was also the day the Veterans of Foreign Wars in neighboring New York picked as Loyalty Day, but one festivity at a time. Back to Benedict Arnold.)

"What Benedict Arnold did late in the Revolution were acts of treason," Capt. Hunter said. "He was a traitor. There is no denying it, and we don't."

"What he did here, though, was an act of patriotism and there's no denying that either. It might be difficult for some to separate the two, but we have no trouble. Powder House Day is a time-honored celebration in New Haven."

That's what it is called, Powder House Day, and here's why.

When Arnold, who was captain of the Foot Guard, the local militia, got news of the Battle of Lexington three days after the event, he asked for the keys to the town's powder house so he could arm his men and rush to the Massachusetts patriots' aid.

The town fathers, however, had voted to stay neutral and refused to give up the keys.

Arnold marched his 65 'Cowlicks' may help identify

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unruly hair called trichoglyphs or "cowlicks" may one day help identify horses much as fingerprints help keep track of people, says the Agriculture Department.

R. Keith Farrell and Mike Conaway, veterinarians at Washington State University, Pullman, say that horses' cowlicks "are much like finger prints, no two are men up and down the green menacingly, demanded the keys and said he would break like," the department said Wednesday.

The two veterinarians have devised a way to make a mold of hair whorls using a clay disc and from it make a cast to keep track of horses' cowlicks. It can then be inked and used to make an imprint for the horse's identification.

Still to be determined is whether horses' cowlicks change with age.

in the door unless he got them. The town fathers gave up the keys. Arnold took the powder and shot and marched to Lexington.

The Governor's Foot Guard has been in continuous service ever since, each year re-enacting that drama on the green. Except that instead of marching to Lexington they march to their armory for a big bash.

Carter's vow to sell jets to Israel faces fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senior members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee say President Carter's promise to sell 20 extra warplanes to Israel will not stop a bruising floor fight by critics of his proposed Mideast jet plane sale.

On the eve of today's committee vote on the issue, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and others said a divisive fight now is inevitable, in part because the Carter compromise did not produce the consensus once expected.

Church also said that a close reading of arms sale law shows that opponents of the sales can kill the deal on the Senate floor even if the committee refuses to adopt a disapproval resolution.

To kill the deal — which also includes sales to Egypt and Saudi Arabia — both the House and the Senate must adopt rejection resolutions by May 28.

Church said the assumption that the sale would go forward if the committee failed to adopt a resolution is incorrect because the law permits members to call for rejection on the floor despite committee inaction.

Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis. and Robert Dole, R-Kan. say they are prepared to call for such resolutions.

In addition to the commitment to sell Israel the additional planes in the mid-1980s, the administration promised to give sympathetic consideration to future Israeli requests for planes.

It also issued a series of assurances to increase confidence that Saudi Arabia will never use the planes to attack Israel.

The original Carter proposal called for selling 11 F-15s and 75 F-16s to Israel, 60 F-15s to Saudi Arabia and 50 less advanced F-5Es to Egypt.

Selling Israel the 20 extra F-15s will bring the Israeli and Saudi Arabian F-15 fleets to 60 each.

Although administration officials described Carter's compromise as his last, some senators, including Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., said they hope more concessions are forthcoming.

He said he believes the administration should adjust the sales totals to match estimates of defense needs originally issued by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

That would mean adding 75 F-16s to the Israeli sale and subtracting 20 F-15s from the planes to be sold to Saudi Arabia.

Key House opponents of the Carter deal also said the compromise offer is insufficient to allay their fears of a possible Saudi threat to Israeli security.

But Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House International Relations Committee, said the real issue is the proposal arouses so many emotions that few members want to go on record as voting on it.

Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., the Republican leader, had been a principal negotiator in the process that saw the Carter compromise become a reality after it was suggested by former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

"I think the last thing we need in the Senate right now is a knock-down, drag-out fight on this subject and I think there ought to be a way to avoid it," Baker said.

But he said he sees nothing that might serve as the basis of an acceptable compromise and consequently is stepping aside as a negotiator. "I tried to be a peacemaker and failed," Baker said.

One member who was convinced by the administration offer was Sen. Muriel Humphrey, D-Minn. "I'm going to go along with the administration," she said.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., called the Carter-Kissinger approach to compromise "fair and reasonable."

But Sen. Joseph Biden, D-

Del., said that no number of additional planes for Israel can win his support for the sales plan because, "I do not believe added arms enhance peace."

Meanwhile, a new Associated Press-NBC News poll shows that 59 percent of nearly three out of five Americans oppose the Mideast jet sale in particular and U.S. arms sales overseas in general. The poll, taken early this month, shows identical results on the Mideast package to a March survey while indicating the overall American objection to arms sales abroad has jumped from 47 percent in March to the current 59 percent.

Rattlesnakes ad draws bites

By the Associated Press

—For sale: rattlesnakes. That's the way Benjamin Roberts' ad read in the Sunday classified pages of the Kansas City Star and he got a number of responses. Some people wanted to buy snakes to cook, some wanted to breed them, some wanted to make pets out of them. One wanted to pit a snake against another rattlesnake, chicken or a bear.

Roberts, 38, scoured the Glass Mountain range near Okeene, Okla., a week ago to search for the elusive Western Diamondback rattler. He said the trip netted seven snakes, ranging in size from 3 feet to 5 1/2 feet. The latter was sold for $35, the remainder for $10 each, Roberts said. One snake, measuring 4 1/2 feet, was kept for the Roberts family to eat, he said.

"One guy wanted snakes that would fight," Roberts recalled. "He said he was tired of bingo and wanted to see a snake fight. I told him rattlesnakes don't fight among themselves, and he asked if they would fight a chicken. I told him the chicken would fly away. Then he asked if it would fight a bear. He asked if I had a bear."

It was Roberts' first rattlesnake-hunting expedition, but he plans to return.

Cottine gets Senate's OK

Bertram R. Cottine, viewed by some as a symbol of over-zealousness by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration was approved by the Senate to serve on OSHA by a vote of 56 to 33.

Voting in favor of the 31-year-old activist lawyer once associated with Ralph Nader serving on OSHA, was Texas Democratic Senator Lloyd Bentsen. Republican Senator John Tower voted against it.

Both Bentsen and Tower voted against a Panama Canal treaty amendment authorizing $8 million for studying the possibility of building a new Panama Canal about ten miles west of the existing waterway. The amendment sought to revive an unfinished study conducted by the Army Corps of Engineers between 1964 and 1970. The bill was rejected by a 49 to 43 vote.

In the House of Representatives, an amendment which would have limited the pay hike slated for military personnel and federal white collar workers to 5.5 percent was rejected by a 210 to 172 vote.

Voting for the amendment which would have saved an estimated $255 million in payroll costs, was Oran Burleson (D-17), Robert Krueger, (D-21) and George Mahon, (D-19) voted against the amendment.

An amendment which would have added $2.4 billion to the 1979 budget for defense spending was defeated by a 262 to 142 margin. Burleson, Mahon, and Krueger all voted in favor of the bill.

Mahon voted in favor of a bill which gave the U.S. attorney general the power to sue to remedy abuses of institutionalized persons. The bill was passed and sent to the Senate. It included wayward children, mentally retarded, the elderly, the chronically ill, and the handicapped, and the emotionally ill. It included adult, but not juvenile prisoners. Krueger and Burleson did not vote.

Peterson needs only 16,550 signatures

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Pete Peterson is only 16,550 signatures away from being an independent candidate for governor but he thinks he will make it.

"I'll use direct mail a lot," he said, "and I intend to visit a lot of colleges and universities. I've already been endorsed by a former candidate, Ray Allen Mayo (of San Juan)."

He said it will take a non-political independent governor to bring peace out of the political chaos in Texas.

"Today we are confronted with a situation of an entrenched government that is pessimistic and confused and voters that are apathetic or disgusted," Peterson told news reporters in announcing that he has started his petition drive to become an independent candidate for governor. He must obtain signatures from 16,550 qualified voters who did not vote Democratic or Republican in the primaries.

"The wrong people are running our government. An independent candidate can give balance where it is desperately needed. We have been dominated too long by an establishment that has proven ineffective."

Peterson, 33, says he has voted Democratic most his life but he thinks an independent leader is needed. He is former owner of radio stations in Crane and Andrews and now operates an advertising agency in Austin.

The Saturday shows

with Marj Carpenter

I just read recently a story about Tom Mix's sister dying. And an entire era poured back through my memories.

Tom Mix, Buck Jones and Hopalong Cassidy. Those were movie stars who were earlier than the singing cowboys, Gene Autry and Roy Rogers.

How many of you out there were Depression children? You remember then that the most fun of all was to get to attend the picture shows on Saturdays — if you had a nickel. And nickels were hard to come by.

Saturdays were different from other days during the Depression, just like Sundays were different from other days.

On Saturdays at our house, you did your chores on Saturday morning. My brother and I dug all of the scatter rugs, most of which were homemade braided rugs, out on the front porch. Then we oil-mopped the entire house on all those dark floors. Then we dusted the baseboards. And you better not skip any.

Then we would go outside and shake the rugs, finally sweeping them with a big heavy broom and taking them back in the house and laying them down very carefully so they wouldn't stir up any new dust and we'd have to dust again.

We were then presented two dimes. One of them would go in the jug to save for Christmas.

The other dime we would take to town and go to the show. The show cost a nickel. The other nickel either went for a bright new toy in Hanshaw's dime store, or candy, or a nickel hamburger at Hampton's. You couldn't have all three.

Some weeks the nickel went for a little new car. Some weeks it went for popcorn, some weeks a hamburger and some weeks a whole sack full of licorice, jaw breakers, and other candy.

My brother and I would run barefoot to town in the summer. It was only a mile and we never wore shoes on Saturday except on very cold days. We had school shoes and we had Sunday shoes, but nobody had play shoes.

The shows were filled up down front, all the way to the front row. There was a news reel, which was boring. We would watch Joe Louis prize fights and the early days of Hitler and would laugh when Hitler's troops would goosstep up the street.

We didn't know that the little boys laughing in the show would be fighting against Hitler's regime. We would cheer when Mickey Mouse came on. And we would cheer even louder when the serial hit the screen. The serial always left you just as a car went over a cliff, a train was headed for somebody tied to the railroad track or at other crucial moments.

Then would come a show with either Tom Mix, Hopalong Cassidy or Buck Jones as the star.

The script was usually the same. The school teacher would arrive in town in the stage coach. The stage coach would be held up, the horses would run away and the hero would jump on the horses and save the heroine.

There was a bad man in the town. He was trying to take over all the ranches and monopolize all the water holes. He was also rustling cattle on the side.

The hero organized the home folks, caught them cattle rustling, chased them over the horizon, freed the water holes and married the school teacher. The only one upset was the saloon girl who also loved the hero. But all growing boys and girls knew that saloon girls never won — not in the '30s they didn't.

After the show, we would clutch what candy was left and go home and drink lemonade. We would go back into town with Mama at 8 p.m. and go shopping for the week's groceries and maybe a new bolt of cloth for a new dress. Then at 9 p.m. we would pick up Dad at the garage. All stores stayed open until 9 p.m. and between 8 and 9 p.m. on Saturday night, you could see everybody you knew in town.

Then you went home, got in the old number 2 wash tub and took a Saturday night bath. Tomorrow was church and Sunday School and there was no excuses.

And you know what? We didn't even know times were tough. Everybody ate beans and mush and citrus because citrus grew in the yards in the Valley. We saw Tom Mix and we went to church and we went to school. What else could one want — in the Depression years, back when I drug a stick along the pickets — out by our fence.

BOYS STATE DELEGATION — J. Roscoe Cone, (L) Howard County Boys State Chairman, gives instructions to the Big Spring High delegation who this year include from (L-R) Barry Rosson, Mike Brooks, Mike Evans and Kevin McLaughlin.

Mark this down to experience

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — George E. Cole III opened the back of a second-hand record player he bought at an auction and thought he had become a millionaire. But the money he discovered was worthless.

Cole found about one million German marks, issued between 1914 and 1923. It was during those years that Germany suffered severe inflation. Germans themselves use the marks to start fires and paper their walls, a currency expert told Cole. The only value they have is historical.

Durham named prexy of TMA

A native Houstonian who now practices medicine one-half block from the house where he was born will assume the presidency of the Texas Medical Association Saturday, May 13.

Dr. Mylie E. Durham, Jr., a general surgeon, is the son of a physician and brings an impressive background of professional and civic activities to TMA's top elected position.

Durham succeeds Dr. John M. Smith, Jr., San Antonio family physician. Installation will take place during TMA's annual meeting being held in San Antonio, May 11-14.

Four from here will attend Boys' State

Four juniors at Big Spring High School were selected to attend Boys State in Austin in June, sponsored by the American Legion Post, according to C. Roscoe Cone, Howard County chairman.

Michael Kent Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brooks; Michael Don Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Evans; James Kevin McLaughlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. McLaughlin and Barry Thomas Rosson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Rosson, were named this year as delegates as outstanding members of the Junior Class.

Boys State is a plan for training in the functional aspects of citizenship. According to Cone, it is a program of education in the duties, privileges, rights and responsibilities of American citizenship.

The American Legion considers Boys State a mythical 51st State with a constitution, statutes and ordinances constructed by its citizens to govern themselves.

A total of 800 boys from high school throughout Texas attend as delegates. They organize into city, county and state government during the time they are there, choosing their own officials in accordance with regular election procedures.

They also introduce and argue their own bills in a legislature. Justice is administered by their own law agencies and courts. The entire conference is formulated on "learn to do by doing."
