

Hotel fire kills seven

JELICO, Tenn. (AP) — Fire raged through a downtown hotel in this northeast Tennessee community early today, and officials said at least seven persons were killed. Most of the hotel's occupants were elderly.

"I've just been told we have seven now," said Dan Sanderford, administrator of Jellico Community Hospital. He said a temporary morgue was being set up in a locker room at the hospital.

"By looking at them, you cannot tell," the identities or even the sex of the victims, Sanderford said. "They're in body bags."

Rescue workers were searching for other possible victims in the rubble of the three-story brick Jenkins Hotel. Officials earlier had said as many as 11 persons were unaccounted for.

Officials said the hotel listed about 20 residents at the time of the fire. Jellico Fire Department dispatcher

Arnold Overton said most of them were "elderly retired people living on pensions and so forth."

The fire, which also damaged a nearby auto parts store and Trailways bus station, was contained about 8 a.m., about six hours after it was reported. Its cause was not immediately known.

A reporter at the scene saw firemen carrying residents of the hotel down ladders from windows. One resident was reportedly hospitalized after jumping from a third-floor window to escape the flames.

Fire departments from nearby communities responded to the blaze in this town located along the Kentucky border in a rural area of northeast Tennessee.

Senate endorses $5 billion warplane deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate approval of President Carter's three-way Mideast arms sales isn't ending debate about the sincerity of the U.S. commitment to Israel, a relationship that began with the birth of the Jewish state 30 years ago.

Opponents of the $5 billion warplane deal for Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Israel questioned the strength of the commitment, and one senator said it has been severed.

But those arguments failed to overcome intense administration lobbying that led to Monday's 54-44 vote allowing the sales to go through.

Certificate lost by Trans-Regional

The Texas Aeronautics Commission, at their Monday meeting, cancelled the Texas Air Carrier Certificate held by Trans Regional Airlines. The cancellation followed on the airline's failure to reinstitute service after the expiration of the temporary suspension granted by the TAC last May.

Trans Regional, by that action, lost their charter to transport passengers on regularly scheduled flights to Dallas.

The loss will not hurt much, as the airline had asked for the year's suspension last May due to dropping passenger loads, and with the impending closure of the county airport, air traffic in Big Spring has dropped to a minimum.

Trans Regional has said that they will continue as a fixed-base operator both at the county and the municipal airports.

Police's union plans discussed

Members of the Big Spring Police Association met with representatives from San Angelo to discuss possible unionization of the local police force, according to Detective John Burson, association president.

"We haven't made a decision one way or another on this, we're just talking to union representatives from other cities to get information," said Burson.

Association members will also meet soon with representatives from Beaumont. The next official meeting of the association will take place on June 15, but it is uncertain whether a decision about unionization will be made at that time, according to Burson.

BARELY A HANDFUL INDIVIDUALLY, TOGETHER, THEY TAKE A LOT OF HANDLING. ...the Best triplets, 1 to r, James Michael, Johnathan, and Jeremiah (I think!)

At home with Best Triplets

There's never a dull moment

By CARLA WALKER

Things are getting busy around the home of John and Holly Best of Coahoma, since the third of their triplets came home May 2.

Telling Johnathan, Jeremiah, and James Michael apart has been fairly easy so far, but that may not last long.

"James Michael still has not gotten his hair back where the hospital shaved his head, and Johnathan and Jeremiah are a lot different in size," said Holly, commenting that those differences would not last long enough to help identify the infants a month from now.

Holly's brother laughingly said that every time he thinks he has them separated in his mind, John and Holly "change the names deliberately to keep me confused."

"It has been really hectic with three," said Holly. "Two kept us occupied, but with three, there is never a dull moment."

At almost six weeks old, Jeremiah is the biggest of the triplets, weighing five pounds, 14 ounces. Johnathan weighs five pounds, six ounces, and James Michael, the "littliest but hungriest," and the last one to come home, weighs five pounds even.

"We haven't gotten a full night's sleep yet, but I guess even parents with one infant this age don't because of feeding two or three times a night," said Holly.

"The problem with three, is that they don't always get hungry at the same time, or if they do, it's never in the right sequence. James Michael always gets hungry sooner than the others."

"If one cries in the night, it is my turn to get up," Holly laughed. "If two are crying, we both get up, and if it is three all at once, we work fast."

When all three of the babies are crying at once, the scene resembles something akin to an old speeded-up movie clip, except that it is anything but silent.

"Always, the more we try to hurry, the slower they eat," said Holly, who says one thing she never has to worry about is formula spoiling.

"The formula is supposed to be eaten within 48 hours, but that is something I never have to worry about. They consume about 14 of the big cans a week, and the quantity is increasing."

"We wouldn't have made it through without the help of all our friends and kinfolk," said Holly, whose husband, John, was at his job with Choate Well Service during the interview. "We weren't prepared for triplets, and certainly not so early."

The possibility of twins wasn't even being seriously considered until about two months before the doctor expected "the baby" to be born. At that time, an x-ray was taken, and three pairs of arms and legs showed up. The doctor recommended that Holly go to Lubbock, which she did, and the triplets were born approximately six weeks prematurely.

"People would call and ask if we needed anything, or would just stop with things, then after I got home, they had the community shower for us," Holly said. "I don't know how we'd have managed to get ready for the boys without the help, especially since I was in the hospital in Lubbock during the three weeks between when we found out we could expect three, and the time they were born."

Living close to their families has also helped, since various family members have helped with taking care of the triplets during the day, and for a few hours several nights.

The triplets have the advantage of having grandparents and great-grandparents to dote over them, and all except one set of great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W.G.

Derryberry of Arkansas, live in the Coahoma-Big Spring area.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. V.E. Best, and Mr. and Mrs. M.E. McCutchan, all of Coahoma, and the great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Hale of Coahoma. Mrs. Elsie Prevo, Sand Springs, and Delmar Powell, Big Spring.

"James Michael is named after my two brothers, Johnathan is named after family members on both my and John's side of the family, and Jeremiah is the name we originally picked out for a child," said Holly.

"Now, if we can just keep them all straight until they're old enough to tell us who they are, we'll be doing okay," Holly added jokingly. "I think we're going to live over it, and it is wonderful to have them home. It would be nice to get some sleep, though."

Berets into community projects

'Bad press' hurts cause

By DUSTY RICHARD

The fact that Sylvia Del Bosque Arguello, a representative of the Brown Berets, was elected Cinco de Mayo Queen at May 5 celebration of the Chicano holiday is proof that the Brown Berets are into the community and constructive projects, said John Hilario, captain of the Berets.

Miss Arguello, a junior at Big Spring High School, was chosen by popular vote by participants in the celebration.

Hilario said that because of "bad press," the Brown Berets are assumed to play a radical role in righting the wrongs that Anglos inflict on Chicanos, when they are in truth involved with many peaceful projects to help the community.

Some of these projects, besides participation in the Cinco de Mayo celebration, include tentative plans for making an area around One-Mile Lake into a park, getting more Chicanos involved in adult education, raising funds for a seminar for children of all ethnic groups at which the culture of the Chicano can be disseminated, giving help such as financial aid to Chicanos who need it, and seeing that Chicanos are not "harassed" by the police force.

"We would like to see that the correct procedure is followed when the police arrest Chicano suspects," said Hilario.

He added that the Brown Berets are not fighting against arresting Chicanos who commit crimes but arrested the way in which they are arrested and the procedures followed after arrest.

"The Constitution entitles us to fair treatment — we're not POW's or something — we don't condone the crimes that Chicanos may commit but the way in which they are treated. I would be the first one on a jury to convict a Chicano of a crime he has committed, but too many Chicanos aren't making it to trial."

Because of the methods that Hilario said are imposed upon arrested Chicanos and the general harassment of the Chicano, the Brown Berets were formed.

"We don't want our kids growing up harassed — that's why we are involved in making things better for the Chicano," he said.

People are speaking up about injustices as radical, said Hilario, but "if they want to say that standing up for our rights is radical, let them."

"We're the Big Brothers for Chicanos — that's our function. If something happens to a Chicano, we'll be there to help him. We will not restrain ourselves from speaking up, because we want what is right for our people. No more taxation without representation."

"The U.S. has always been a country of equal rights, beginning at the time of the American Revolution. The British saw Americans then as radicals, but the Americans went ahead and fought for their rights, just as we are doing."

Hilario said that part of the problem is the fault of the Chicano, since he never spoke up for himself before. One reason why the Chicano movement for equal rights has lagged behind the Black movement is because of lack of leadership and because there are so many different groups of Chicanos, he said.

"There are diverse trends for Chicanos. The Chicanos in Texas are different from those in California, and different from the ones in Arizona, and they all have different ideas about the methods to use in achieving our goals. Until we unite, we will have a hard time of it."

Hilario said that he thought illegal aliens should be allowed to work in the U.S., because they do not deprive Americans of work.

"Illegal aliens do menial labor, the kind that Americans will not do, so they aren't depriving Americans of any jobs. They won't go on welfare," because they are so appreciative of any job they can get, of any money they can earn — they don't take it for granted. They suffer so much in Mexico, they are glad to do anything to make money in the U.S."

TIED RECORD — The 103 degrees, which was the official temperature Monday, ties the record of 30 years ago on May 15, 1948 when it was also 103 degrees. The high temperature sneaked up on Big Spring this year since most May days have had mild temperatures.

Evacuation of Americans from southern Zaire hinted

By the Associated Press

Europeans have been reported killed in the fighting in southern Zaire, and the State Department is considering the evacuation of an estimated 80 to 100 Americans from the area.

Reliable sources in Brussels who declined to be identified said today they could not yet give the number of Europeans slain in southern Zaire, where insurgents are attempting for the second time in 14 months to take over copper-rich Shaba province.

Zambia denied, meanwhile, that the invasion was mounted from its territory.

Department spokesman Hodding Carter said there was little first-hand information about the fighting which began late last week. But sources in Belgium said the invasion army of about 4,000 exiled Lunda tribesmen had captured Kolwezi, a copper-mining center 25 miles north of the Zambian border, and Mutshatsha, 60 miles west of Kolwezi, and was advancing on Kamina, site of an army base 150 miles north of Kolwezi.

Diplomats in Zambia confirmed that the rebels had taken Kolwezi and Mutshatsha. But the Zairean Embassy in Brussels said there was see-saw fighting in Mutshatsha over the weekend, and the Zairean army had retaken the town.

There were also conflicting reports about the Kolwezi airport. Belgian sources indicated the rebels had taken the field, but the diplomats in Zambia said heavy fighting continued at the airport Monday afternoon.

There are an estimated 2,800 Belgians and 400 French citizens in the area in addition to the Americans, Carter said. He said there were no confirmed reports that any Americans had been injured in the fighting.

Carter would not say how the U.S. government might go about evacuating the Americans, but he said it would try to coordinate any efforts with Belgium and France.

Most of the Americans in the Kolwezi area are with the Morrison-Knudsen construction company of Boise, Idaho, which is building an electric power project. The company said Monday its workers and their families were unharmed.

Above that distance, the customer is asked to foot the bill as excess construction. To find out how far you are from cable TV, call Big Spring Cable TV at 263-6302.

Offbeat: Too daring

BONITA SPRINGS, Fla. (AP) — The TV directory listed it as "Daring Game," a Lloyd Bridges thriller set in Latin America. But viewers tuning in WEVU-TV saw instead naked men and women frolicking in a hay loft and shouting obscenities at each other and police.

The movie was taken off the air at midnight Sunday after running a half an hour, said Joseph Buerry, the station's general manager who blamed the incident on a mix-up at the film distributors. The title of the film was not known.

Buerry said the originally scheduled movie was accidentally returned to the distributor and was replaced by the pornographic film which was not previewed before air time.

"The station, 'assumed the distributors had edited the film,' said Buerry.

WEVU-TV was inundated with phone calls, as were several other neighboring television stations on Florida's southwest coast.

A switchboard operator at nearby WINK-TV said she fielded some 10 calls about the film. She said most were from viewers who were upset because the film had been taken off the air.

Murder spurs backlash

ROME (AP) — Christian Democratic gains and Communist losses in a backlash vote protesting the murder of Aldo Moro by the ultra-leftist Red Brigades appear certain to slow the Communist drive to get into the Italian government. Official returns from municipal elections Sunday and Monday in which about 7 percent of Italy's voters cast ballots gave the Christian Democrats 42.5 percent of the vote and the Communists 26.5 percent, a difference of 16 percentage points.

Brutality trial

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — An Alice policeman has testified that an Alice resident started a fight with officers prepared to give him a breath test to determine if he was intoxicated.

The testimony contradicted earlier testimony of Rogelio C. Salazar, whose $900,000 civil suit alleging police brutality continued today in the court of U.S. District Judge Owen D. Cox. Salazar says his civil rights were violated.

He contends former Alice policeman Bernabe Ramirez hit him first after Salazar said he planned to have an attorney "put a suit" on him for violating his rights.

Salazar said Detective Sgt. James Huffman kicked him on the back while he was on a floor, trying to avoid blows from Ramirez. His suit also names another policeman, who Salazar said was standing nearby but failed to stop the "brutal beating."

Lacy feels background is helpful

By CAROL HART

Jim Lacy, Midland, Republican candidate for the unexpired term of retiring railroad commissioner Jim Langdon, feels "people with background" in the oil and gas industry will be best suited to serve on the commission.

The Railroad Commission regulates one-third of the nation's energy, he said.

Lacy feels suited to the job he is seeking because he has been in the oil and gas industry "30 years. I know the oil and gas production business," he said.

At present, "there is no one on the commission with oil and gas experience," Lacy said.

Lacy and his wife, Juandelle, were in Big Spring this morning at a reception hosted by Howard County Republicans. The event was at the Cosden building at the Howard County airport.

Lacy graduated from Texas Tech in 1949 with a degree in petroleum engineering. He worked in various capacities with Kewanee Oil Co., and was later named executive vice president and director of Adobe Oil and Gas Corp. He resigned to become president and chief executive officer for Hytech Energy Corp., a Midland-based oil and gas firm.

Lacy quoted Texas tax figures for 1977, saying that Texans spent $4.4 billion during the year on tax. Of this figure, $2.9 billion was spent by the consumers. $1.5 billion was spent by business. Of the $1.5 billion figure, the oil and gas industry paid nearly $1 billion.

"We can see the impact they (the oil and gas industry) makes in Texas. It is important to keep the industry strong. It keeps the state fiscally strong," he said.

West Texas needs more state representation, also, Lacy said.

"Twenty-five percent of the oil and gas in the nation is produced in the Permian Basin." The area is not represented on the Railroad Commission, and hasn't been in over 20 years, Lacy said.

Concerning the future of oil and gas in the country, Lacy said, "The Railroad Commission will have to deal with shortages. They used to deal with overages."

"There are no simple solutions" concerning the energy crisis, Lacy said. There will have to be "intelligent choices" in the field, he advised.

In return visit here Stenholm attracts crowd

By MARJ CARPENTER

Texas and the 17th District desperately need strong leadership in Congress and I think my track record of leadership makes me the best man to represent you," Charles Stenholm, leading vote getter in the initial Democratic Primary told a crowd of supporters here today.

Over 100 persons filled the Chamber of Commerce meeting room and stood in the hall to listen to Stenholm speak and answer questions for almost an hour.

"Congress has 213 lawyers, 82 businessmen, 45 educators and 14 farmers, with only four of those farmers ones who make their living by farming. I'm a farmer and make my living by farming and I firmly believe that this district is one of the few rural districts left and I could represent it well," Stenholm added.

He also spoke on the issue of energy, backing the popular West Texas stand on encouraging exploration. He stressed that he believed in "less government control in all areas of private lives."

On this issue, he addressed questions which were sent to the candidates by the Texas State Teachers Association recently.

Stenholm said, "A couple of my answers show where I differ from the other candidate. I said in those answers that I was against federal aid to education up to one-third of the educational budget. My opponent was for it.

"I think that the eight percent of funds the federal government gives schools now make the federal government think it gets to run the schools and we sure don't want them getting any additional control," the candidate added.

He also pointed out that he answered differently on the issue of making a separate department of education in Washington. "We don't need any more departments or bureaus — we have enough trouble with such things as EPA and OSHA now. My opponent answered that he would be for a separate Department of Education."

Stenholm did stress that he backed quality education, was strongly for right to work, was against gun control or "any attempt to regulate our lives." "A man has a right to work without joining a union. A man has a right to protect himself," he answered quickly when these questions were posed.

He answered numerous questions on farming and pointed out his four point program for improving the lot of the farmer, offering to discuss it further with farmers at the meeting.

He also stated he was against federal control of the utility industry and for increasing knowledge of nuclear energy and other new forms of energy where America could once again stand on its own in the energy field.

In regard to a Congressional office, Stenholm said, "I have not promised to put an office anywhere — that almost smacks of violation of the election code. I am strongly considering having a traveling office that would be in towns in the district on previously announced dates for constituents to take their problems."

Stenholm emphasized, "I do think a Congressman needs to keep in touch with his voters. I would have enough staff to cover this sprawling district."

Stenholm closed with "Give me a two-year contract, work for me and help me get elected. I will provide the leadership this district needs and if you are not satisfied, in 1980 you can tell me at the polls."

M. R. (Frog) Koger and Clyde McMahon were in charge of the reception with McMahon introducing the candidate to the crowd.

Fire burns off ranch grass

The Wilson Ranch received heavy damage Monday night from a 350 acre grassfire apparently begun by lightning around 5 p.m.

No rain fell with the lightning and the dry condition of the range caused it to spread quickly at the Gunsight Ranch on the Bill Wilson spread.

Friends and neighbors and ranch employees began to fight the blaze as soon as it was spotted, and were joined by the employees of Bill Wilson Oil Co. and then four volunteer fire departments. These included Jonesboro, Luther, Vincent and Borden County. The ranch straddles the county line between Howard and Borden County.

Borden County also furnished a water truck. The blaze was extinguished after a battle which lasted three to four hours.

Party committees reveal vote totals

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The State Democratic Executive Committee said today that Attorney General John Hill took the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by defeating Gov. Dolph Briscoe 932,338 to 753,305 in the May 6 primary.

Republicans also met to canvass their votes from the primary. The SDEC count was the first complete tally of the primary since the final count of the Texas Election Bureau showed 15 counties incomplete.

Other candidates' vote totals in the Democratic governor's race were: former Gov. Preston Smith, 92,088; John Allen Mayo, 20,274; and Donald R. Beagle, 14,785.

The SDEC said it had no final statewide count on the controversial referendum over horse race gambling because its computers were tied up meeting its legal responsibility to canvass returns for statewide office.

Chairman Calvin Guest said results of the referendum as well as the straw poll on small loan interest rates would be announced later.

The returns in the governor's race showed that 1.8 million Texans voted in the Democratic primary.

Results of other contested Democratic statewide races were:

U.S. Senate — Robert Krueger, 853,460 and Joe Christie, 707,738.

Lieutenant Governor — Bill Hobby, 1,070,690; James L. McNeese Jr., 138,263; Troy Skates, 51,952; and John Hill Westbrook, 277,725.

Attorney General — Mark White, 851,030, and Price Daniel Jr., 778,899.

Mrs. Virginia Black, Howard County auditor and president of the Texas Association of County Auditors, will represent her organization at the Municipal Finance Officers Association meeting in Houston May 16-18.

Mrs. Black will be seated at the head table of the banquet Wednesday night at the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

Mrs. Black recently received an expression of gratitude from the MFOA 1978 local conference committee for the contribution from the Texas Association of County Auditors toward the activities of the 72nd annual MFOA Conference on Public Finance.

Griffin Bell, Attorney General of the United States, and Abner J. Mikva (Democrat, Ill.) are two of the major conference speakers.

Syndicated columnist Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak also addressed the general session during the conference.

Since 1963, Evans and Novak have written Inside Report, a daily column carried in more than 250 newspapers in the U.S. and abroad.

They have also written two political biographies, including "Lyndon B. Johnson: The Exercise of Power" and "Nixon in the White House: The Frustration of Power."

Southwest Airlines' fares will go up

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Austin's airport pains are Southwest Airline's pleasure.

In seeking the first fare increase for Southwest in four years, President Herbert Kelleher said Monday Southwest is "solely responsible" for overcrowded parking lots at municipal airport.

Mayor Carole McClellan had requested $75,000 from the aeronautics commission to help pay for a $1 million plan to increase from 800 to 1,700 the parking places at the airport.

McClellan said passenger traffic had increased by 44.2 percent during the first three months of 1978 over the same period last year.

The commission approved the higher fares for Southwest, after Kelleher assured the agency that "absent any catastrophic increases in costs" the new fares would hold until the 1980s.

The July 1 fare increases would result in 98 percent of Southwest's customers paying $5 more per round-trip, Kelleher said.

While Southwest has held the line on increases, he said, air carriers regulated by the Civil Aeronautics Board have had 14 fare hikes.

Kelleher said input costs have risen by 121 percent since Southwest went into operation in June 1971, but the company had offset rising costs with "one of the highest load factors — 66.8 percent — ever experienced by any scheduled carrier."

He cited higher labor costs, the need to expand facilities in Houston, Dallas, San Antonio and Austin and the purchase of new planes as reasons for higher fares.

Southwest fares would go up from 7.5 percent to 20 percent, depending on the price of the ticket. The biggest percentage increase would be a $3 increase in the one-way $15 fare.

"This increase is noteworthy only because Southwest never applies for a fare increase," said Kelleher.

"The evidence is clear," he said, "that Southwest holds the line on fares, does not unnecessarily ask for price increases and, when it can, reduces fares without urging by the commission."

In other action, the commission:

—Approved an application by Tejas Airlines to add Laredo and McAllen to its route, which includes Austin, San Antonio, Corpus Christi and Brownsville.

—Approved an application by Rio Airways to reactivate its authority to fly from Waco to Houston, which was suspended Dec. 22, 1975. In addition, Rio will add a stop at College Station-Bryan and will have the option of flying into Hobby or Intercontinental Airport at Houston.

—Granted a motion by Chaparral Airlines to suspend for two years its routes from Abilene to Midland and Odessa.

—Cancelled the certificate of Trans Regional Air to fly from Big Spring to Dallas-Fort Worth and the certificate of Metroplex Helicopter Airways, Inc., to serve Dallas-Fort Worth for failure to serve.

The staff noted that a hearing on Southwest's application to serve Amarillo, Port Arthur and Beaumont had been set for June 5. A hearing on Big Bend Airways' application to fly to Alpine, Midland-Odessa and Lubbock had been set for May 23.

J. NEIL DANIEL
Neil Daniel on campaign trail again

The duties of his office has kept J. Neil Daniel from touring the district as much as he'd have liked to but Judge Daniel said here this morning he intended to come here more often in the 2½ weeks remaining before the June 3 runoff.

Now 104th Judicial District Judge in Abilene, Daniel aspires to be elected to the 11th Court of Civil Appeals. Although he trailed Bob Dickenson by 1,200 votes in Howard County, Judge Daniel led the Primary vote by a comfortable margin and has to be regarded as a pronounced favorite in the runoff.

A native of Cisco, Daniel has been a district judge since 1969. His professional appointments include a position on the Texas Adult Probation Commission and on the Bar-Press relations of the Texas Judiciary.

He is a retired lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army Reserve, after having served 28 years.

Daniel is a graduate of McMurry College in Abilene and is a Methodist by profession of faith.

He is married to the former Frances Hill. Three children were born to the union. Before becoming district judge, Daniel served as a municipal court judge in Abilene and as that municipality's City Attorney.

Colorful plant in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — At a plant which manufactures buried cable closures for the telecommunications and power industries, the outlook is bright.

What may sound like a financial forecast actually is a description of the interior of the plant here. Gone is the institutional gray of heavy presses. In its place are "gogo gold" and "honey yellow." A hydraulic press is amber here and beige there. Heavy shears range from royal blue to scarlet.

A new employee is permitted to select his or her favorite hue and the machinery is repainted.

The 30-year-old company employs about 300 workers here.

Weather 100 degree-plus forecast issued

By the Associated Press

More severe thunderstorms plus some 100 degree-plus temperatures were forecast today as summer began edging its way into Texas.

A few thunderstorms developed in West Texas during the night, but most of them had dissipated by early morning. But the weatherman said more storms, some of them severe, could develop again in the west.

Abilene, which had a 104 reading Monday, was almost certain to have another 100 degree day as the thermometer sat at 80 degrees at 4 a.m. The weather bureau said it would reach 105 in the Big Bend area. The lowest temperature at 4 a.m. was Marfa, with 54.

The coldest spot in the state today was expected to reach above 80.

Ed Mitchell, director, said officials of the center are hoping for a banner turnout.

Tucson caller 'saves' ship

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — "I want to report a ship at sea in distress. I've just picked up its Mayday signal," Dallas Peyton told an unbelieving Pima County Sheriff's Department radio dispatcher.

"Buddy," the dispatcher replied, "this is a desert town. There isn't a major waterway within a hundred miles of here."

But Peyton was not to be put off.

He told the deputy that he had picked up the call for help Monday on a citizens band radio and urged that he check it out.

The dispatcher related the information to federal officials in Tucson, who contacted the Coast Guard in Key West, Fla.

A few minutes later, the word came back: "Confirmed message. Thanks Tucson. We're on the way."

The Coast Guard reported later that it had spotted and taken into a 30-foot pleasure boat, the Timberlane out of Marathon, Fla., that had begun taking on water with three people on board.

"We didn't hear the Mayday message at all," a Coast Guard spokesman said in Key West.

"We got two calls from people in Tucson and one of the callers talked to people aboard the ship for awhile until the signal faded."

LCRA rates hike urged

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Lower Colorado River Authority, which serves 30 cities and 11 electric cooperatives in South Central Texas, should receive a $2.1 million rate hike, a Public Utility Commission examiner has recommended.

The recommended increase for 1979 is far short of the $14 million increase originally requested by the authority. The utility later reduced its request to $11.8 million.

Suspension of brass knuckles jailer upheld

HOUSTON (AP) — The Civil Service Commission has upheld the indefinite suspension of a police jailer accused of using brass knuckles in a March 18 fight with another officer.

In a 2-1 vote Monday, the commission backed Police Chief Harry Caldwell's action in removing jailer Roscoe Edwards, 29, from the force.

Caldwell's decision came after the fight between Edwards and robbery detective Edwin Beale following an argument in the Central Police Station.

Indefinite suspension is the technical term used when a police officer is fired from his job with the city.

Robert T. Lopez, attorney for Edwards, said the commission ruling was "both surprising and disappointing" and it will be appealed to federal district court.

Detox Center plans program

Two speakers from Austin, described as "outstanding" but otherwise unidentified, will address an opening meeting at the Detoxification Center here at 8 p.m., Wednesday.

Ed Mitchell, director, said officials of the center are hoping for a banner turnout.

Yellow Pages split in two

HOUSTON (AP) — The classified section of Houston's telephone directory is growing as fast as this sprawling city. But unlike the city, which keeps adding on by annexation, the Yellow Pages have split in two.

There are 2,693 Yellow Pages for 1978, 342 more than in the 1977 edition. This year's directory is divided into a 1,346-page A-L section and a 1,347 M-Z section.

Southwestern Bell spokesman Ken Brasel said it would take at least a month to deliver all 1.2 million sets of the nation's first double classified section.

Asked for how many telephones there were in Houston, Brasel replied, "I don't have the exact figures because they've changed since this morning."

Motorists must share roads with bike riders

Our community suffered another tragic loss recently when a child riding a bicycle was struck and killed. Bicycle traffic is increasing on Big Spring streets, although there are those who reason that automobiles should not have to share the thoroughfares with the two-wheelers.

THE LAW permits it so it is imperative that motorists exercise every care to look out for the safety of those riding bikes. It isn't always easy, especially as dusk comes on and it's hard to distinguish between objects that are moving and those that are not. Bike paths might work in certain areas except for the fact that not many bike riders would use them.

The problem is going to grow here and elsewhere because there is a growing trend in cycling and more of us may be forced to that mode of transportation as the cost of fuel becomes prohibitive or the supply becomes more scarce than it now is.

The parents of some young cyclists perhaps have been direct in insisting that their offsprings learn and respect all the rules of safety. Some children, regrettably, are prone to play "chicken" on the city streets, maneuvering about as if they're daring the motorists to run over them.

Some have not equipped their vehicles with lights and reflectors for night riding. Their chances of escaping injury diminishes tremendously if they do not properly equip their bicycles.

EVEN IF all persons using the streets — motorists and cyclists alike — exercise every precaution, the threat of trouble lingers. Bicycles are small and relatively silent. Often they are victims of visual impediment. If they come from a side street onto a thoroughfare, they can often be concealed by shrubbery, a parked car, the shades of evening. Under those conditions, the odds for a bike-car collision invariably go up.

One bike fatality a year in any community is too much. Bikes aren't manufactured to be weapons of destruction but they sometimes turn out that way where one party or another doesn't exercise all the precautions.

Rocks and things

Dusty Richard

Around the rim

Well, Bulgari was back again with all his magnificent jewelry on display at the Midland Hilton Apr. 19 through 22. The reason I say "back again" is because he was here a few months ago and Eileen and I went to see him.

All we knew about the guy was that he had a collection of jewelry he was selling and we wanted to do an article on him, because his history, which Bulgari Inc. had so kindly sent us was fascinating.

It so happened that on the day we were supposed to go interview him in Midland I had the morning off. As I drove to work around one o'clock, I met a car on Scurry. This is not an uncommon occurrence, except that the car was stopped in front of me and I was still going, so that my car met his car quite abruptly in the rear end. And it just so happened that Dusty Choate was there on the scene. So, except for a bruise where my chin hit the steering wheel and a fleeting thought running through my head of "Do they send people to jail for hitting cars?" Well, I'll try to make a run for it," the incident turned out pretty well, and Eileen came to pick me up from the dregs of my car and off we went to Midland. The incident turned out to be an omen.

NOW, IT WAS Eileen's story, but after explaining to her about how much I just loved jewelry, she conceded the interview to me. We got to the Hilton about a half-hour late and rushed to the room where the Bulgari collection was being shown.

We were at the door by about 80 huge Italian men in dark suits and bulges in their jackets at about the armpit level. Who were we, what were we doing here and who told us we could be here, they wanted to know. After I got over my fright and discovered that there were really only about six guys, they just looked like 80, I announced firmly, "I'm with the Houston Chronicle's Big Spring desk and I've come to interview Mr. Bulgari."

Eileen punched me in the stomach and said, "Don't lie, they might shoot us." So I confessed I was in fact with the Big Spring Herald, "The crossroad of West Texas, mister, and don't you forget it!"

The biggest of the thugs (this is what I was calling them in my mind), didn't look overly impressed and called out in Italian to one of the women inside the room. Though I don't speak Italian, I could tell that he was saying, "Ay, Maria, Theresa couple girls outa here wanta talk to Bulgari!"

Maria, or whatever her name was, came out and verified that we were indeed from the Herald and ushered us inside through a room filled with glass cases filled in turn with glittering things in all colors imaginable.

She sat us behind a screen and told us softly to wait one moment please and she would see if Bulgari would accept us. Accept us! Wait a minute yourself, Mafiaosa, we had an appointment and as members of the fourth estate, we "don't wait around for people to accept" us, I said to myself, nodding my head in agreement to Maria with a smile.

She came back out and said that Bulgari was busy at the moment but she would show us the jewelry on display. This was agreeable to me, I said, and Eileen said okay, too, so she walked us around the room with all the men in black silk Italian suits and bulges near their armpits looking at us with grins one might see on a sadistic man who has just finished kicking a dog or mangling an enemy. I was slightly nervous.

They stared at us. There were six of them, I noted, taking in their positions around the room. Each was standing in a corner, except for the two standing by the door. I tried to concentrate on the jewelry instead of their stares. Maria opened a case and took out a bracelet made with four different colors of gold, and diamonds, emeralds, rubies and sapphires and just about every gem I could think of, except I wasn't thinking at the time. I was trying to keep my mouth closed and not letting it fall back on my chest.

I looked around the room at those men, the Bulgari Mafia, I was calling them by now. They stared at me, saying with their eyes, just try it, sister.

I kept my hands in my pockets, not daring to touch the bracelet. Now, while all these thoughts were going through my head, you understand, Maria was going on and on about the piece of jewelry she was dangling in front of our eyes.

Then she said, extending the bracelet to me, "Here, try it on." "Try it on?" I squeaked. "Try it on?" I said in a baritone. "Try it on?" I said in as normal a voice as I could muster.

"YES, HERE" and before I could do anything she had slipped in on my wrist. I held my arm straight out in front of me. I didn't move.

"Take it off." "Look how exquisitely it sparkles." "Yes I see. Take it off." "Bulgari commissioned this one himself. He worked right with the designer and had it made practically under his own eyes." "My, my, my. Take it off." "This piece is one that Bulgari is particularly proud of."

"Yes. Please take it off me. It is very beautiful and I would hate for it to fall off my arm or something. Take the thing off me." "You know how much this one sells for?" and then she quoted a price. I do not remember how much the bracelet was, in my panic, but in the price she stated, the word "million" hit my ears. She could have said "quarter of a million," "half a million" or "a million dollars," but I was so busy calculating that I only heard "million."

Somewhere I had read that during my lifetime, say, 40 working years, I could expect to earn the sum total of $250,000. A quarter of a million dollars. And here I was with a piece of jewelry on my arm that cost at least that much. Maybe, probably, even more.

"If I push Eileen into Maria so that she loses her balance I could make it to the door and split out of here and keep going till I can take out all the gems and sell them one-by-one and get a ticket to Rio and call Don to come meet me or maybe not call him," the thoughts of a get-away were all formed in my head. I looked around. Those six men with their six armpit level bulges stared back at me. I started to sweat. Maybe they're all deformed. Those bulges aren't necessarily pistols, I reminded myself. I started to shake through the sweat. I knew it was useless.

"Take this damn thing off of me please I do not want this bracelet on my arm one minute longer take it off!"

And she did. We proceeded to the next case where she took out a ring with a diamond in it as big as your biggest toe or Danny Reagan's nose. She held it out to me.

"Look at this. This is a perfect, flawless diamond. It costs one million dollars. Would you like to try it on?" "Well, well, well. Oh my. La-de-da." I said in my Diane Keatonish voice. "Just a million. My, my."

"Come on Eileen, let's get the heck out of here," and Eileen and I walked with our hands above our heads past the grumpy guards towards the door. "When the great Bulgari is ready to be interviewed, we'll be sitting in the lobby catching our breaths," I called back over my shoulder.

Abuses in pen

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Like the Germans who pretended not to know what was happening in Adolf Hitler's concentration camps, many Americans would also prefer to close their eyes to conditions in the nation's teeming, tumultuous prisons.

We have smuggled reporters, therefore, into some of America's most forbidding prisons to bring out the story. First, Terry Repak managed to slip into the maximum security Clinton Correctional Facility in rural New York. Then Hal Bernton spent a few days in the tense, cramped barracks of Mississippi's Parchman prison camp.

Now we have sent Jack Mitchell into one of the worst of the federal prisons. With the help of inside contacts, we slipped inside the Atlanta penitentiary, a great, gray-green concrete compound that the inmates call the "Big A." Nine inmates have been murdered there in 16 months. Mitchell tried to find out why.

ALL THREE OF OUR reporters found prison conditions intolerable. The Constitution guarantees that prisoners will not be subjected to cruel and unusual punishment. Yet they are in daily danger of being raped, abused, beaten and murdered.

The guards, who are supposed to protect the prisoners from abuse, sometimes contribute to it. Thus in many U.S. prisons, a sentence becomes cruel and unusual punishment.

Inside the Big A, Mitchell met with a dozen inmates, without the knowledge or consent of prison officials. He heard ugly tales of human rights violations in Jimmy Carter's own backyard. One inmate after another, whispering in hushed tones, related a host of abuses. As one inmate phrased it, the Big A is the "toilet bowl of society."

Sexual pressure is so intense, for example, that many inmates are forced to pay other prisoners for protection against the sexual advances of "daddies" on the prowl for new partners. There are many brutal rapes.

Inmates who have appealed for protection said they are advised to procure homemade weapons. Most prisoners conceal shivs or blunt clubs, which have become essential for simple survival. An inmate never knows when one of the borderline psychopaths in the prison population will turn on him without warning or provocation.

Within the massive green walls, more than 2,200 sullen inmates are crowded in dank, musty cellblocks. The harassment and tension lead to frequent fights, which sometimes end in fatalities.

Inmates who are unpopular with prison officials allegedly are subjected to psychological torture. Their visiting rights, personal phone calls or parole hearings may be withheld or delayed. One inmate, whose mother was critically ill, was told cruelly that he could appear either at the woman's deathbed or her funeral.

Stopping wiretaps

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Despite overwhelming approval by the Senate, the administration's proposal to ban all electronic surveillance for national security without a court order is in trouble in the House, partly thanks to candid, though highly secret, warnings from the nation's spy chiefs.

The outlook was changed by testimony behind closed doors May 10 before the House Intelligence Committee. Appearing were Adm. B. R. (Bobby) Inman, chief of the National Security Agency (which handles communications intelligence) and Adm. Stansfield Turner, director of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

Under intense questioning, they departed from total support of the administration's hard line, with Inman courageously taking the lead. The hard line imposed by President Carter would require a judicial warrant for routine intelligence gathering by electronic intercept, even against suspected foreign agents.

FOR EXAMPLE, a court warrant would be needed to intercept communications between the Soviet embassy and another Communist embassy here — or for messages from Communist embassy here — or for messages from Communist delegations in the U.S. to their home governments. Power to authorize the warrant would be vested in a special panel of federal judges to be named by Chief Justice Warren Burger.

An avowed purpose of this new control apparatus is to protect U.S. citizens. But as both Inman and Turner testified, no U.S. citizen could possibly be touched in communications between foreign embassies over "dedicated lines" — communication facilities beyond the reach of the public.

Their testimony raises the probability that the House committee soon will vote to modify at least that part of the administration's stringent prohibitions. House strategists trying to rewrite the new plan are led by Rep. Robert McClory of Illinois, the committee's senior Republican.

A footnote: McClory would like to go much further than merely permitting warrant-less taps of communications solely between foreign powers. But his hopes of keeping overall wiretap authority with the President rather than the courts run into intense political fear spawned by wiretap excesses of past years. The administration and Congress, trying to escape responsibility for permitting taps on their own, want to toss that hot potato to the courts.

FORD STIRRINGS

GERALD R. FORD is showing ever more interest in the 1980 presidential election, but with neither the determination nor organization of arch-rival Ronald Reagan.

Stu Spencer, the Los Angeles political pro who was mainly responsible for holding off Reagan's challenge against then-President Ford in 1976, has conferred with Ford several times about early planning for 1980.

But those conferences lag far behind the 1980 program being drafted in the Reagan camp. Nor has Ford matched Reagan's eagerness for renewing their old struggle.

Moreover, there are signs that Ford underestimates the difficulty of denying Reagan the 1980 nomination.

In Ohio recently, Ford talked about 1980 with his invaluable 1976 supporter, Gov. James Rhodes, plus several Rhodes insiders. The former President said one element in his favor is the probability that two-thirds of the 1976 delegates who nominated him would again be delegates in 1980.

THAT, FORD was quickly informed, is no advantage. Many delegates who voted for Ford were covert Reaganites — especially from Ohio. The Ohioans did not tell Ford their private opinion that Reagan today would be an overwhelming favorite against Ford in an Ohio Republican primary.

Lack of pre-natal care raises odds

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When I was pregnant the first time I got toxemia in my seventh month and lost my baby. Now that my kidneys are back to normal, I would like to get pregnant again. Please tell me what I should do to avoid toxemia again. I am 26 years old, average weight, and never had high blood pressure or kidney problems before. During my pregnancy I saw my doctor regularly and watched what I ate. — D.D.

The cause of toxemia in pregnancy is still a mystery. It is, as the name implies, a poisoning of the blood, which can occur in late pregnancy, usually in the last three months. It's more a symptom than a disease and almost always preceded by weight gain, blood pressure rise, and the presence of albumin in the urine, the latter the result of kidney overwork.

If nothing else, the specter of toxemia should be ample justification for early pre-natal care. Your chance of having it in a second pregnancy are increased slightly. Those monthly urine tests (for albumin) are a guard against developing toxemia. Mothers who get such care run a very slim chance of developing toxemia. The odds shoot up sharply for those who do not seek such care until late in pregnancy.

The chief symptoms (besides inordinate weight gain) are fluid retention (edema) and elevated blood pressure. These are almost always found in women who later develop toxemia. The condition seems to be related to an altered (speeded-up) metabolism during pregnancy. One key to control is to keep weight gain within the range considered normal in pregnancy.

Your previous experience should spur you to be seen early and frequently, so your weight gain and urine can be carefully watched. If you do this you should have no trouble. You should avoid alcohol and tobacco, get a normal diet, ample rest.

If toxemia is not controlled, serious problems can arise for the mother and fetus. Advanced symptoms are fever, headache, abdominal pain, blurred vision, and ultimately convulsions.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have read about bulk-producing capsules one can take before a meal to fill up the stomach so you won't feel hungry and eat less. Is this a feasible way to lose weight? — Mrs. P.E.

Apparently not. For one thing the bulk pills evidently are removed from the stomach rather quickly. They do most of their bulk-producing in the intestines. Hunger sensations originate in the stomach. This would not reduce your hunger. The bulk producers have their proper place in relieving bowel problems, but seem to fall far short as anorectics (appetite suppressors).

Dear Dr. Thosteson: May I offer a bit of non-medical advice for readers who complain of numbness in the hands when operating a power mower. The person should remove the blade and check it on a blade balancer. Also the carburetor may need adjustment. The proper rpm's might also be checked, as well as the body of the mower. A crack can contribute to unwanted vibration and produce numbness.

However, the blade is usually the culprit. I read and enjoy your column daily and just thought I'd add this bit of non-professional advice. — R.A.

Thank you, R.A. I shortened your letter, but the essential point is made for all those summertime numbed-hand patients to note. Many readers suggested this diagnosis.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am eight months pregnant. This is my third pregnancy. I had a legal abortion for the first one, then I had a baby, who is now five years old. Must I tell my new doctor about the abortion, which happened six and a half years ago? Rh factor is involved. A friend says it's important to tell him. I feel humiliated telling. — Mrs. L.K.G.

Your friend is correct in stressing the importance of telling your doctor about the early pregnancy, particularly in the light of the possible Rh blood complication. That becomes increasingly important with each successive pregnancy, so don't play games with it. It also may be important for the physician to know the type of abortion you had. I doubt you would be the first patient he's had with a prior abortion.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Should one take a sleeping pill if one has been out at a party where there was considerable drinking? — A.J.

No. The alcohol is a depressant to the nervous system. So is the pill. The combination is not good because of compounded effects.

Vaginitis can strike any woman at any time in her life. You can find out about the causes — and the cures — for this troublesome complaint in Dr.

Thosteson's booklet, "Vaginitis: The Hidden Ailment." To get your copy, write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am one of those persons you speak of who just seem to form wax in the ears in excess. How often should I have my ears cleaned? — P.L.

Depends on just how fast it builds up, of course. Knowing you are a fast wax-former once a year should be enough. If you have hearing loss or ear ringing, it should be done more frequently.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "The Way to Stop Constipation." For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Editor: After watching a television program concerning anti-religious movies (an example is the Passover Plot).

I suggest we follow our leader's advice in not purchasing tickets to these shows (as well as encouraging other's not to).

Did you know there is a movie being made projecting Jesus as a homosexual? If these movies are continued to be made, we will soon see them on television.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: As a result of my own foolishness I have wrecked my marriage, but I am now back in a right relationship with God and am praying that God will bring my wife and family back to me. Can you give me any advice? — D. R.

DEAR D. R. R.: You have been through some hard times I am sure, but it is thrilling that you have found God in the midst of these. It is also good that you have faced your personal responsibility for your marital problems.

By all human reasoning it would seem right for you to be reunited with your wife and family, and you should seek this while submitting yourself always to the will of God. You will want to let your family know of the fresh start you have taken and of your own feelings about the past.

However, they also will probably want evidence that you have really undergone a basic change and are not just saying that in order to get them back. This may take some time, but it will be the real test of your sincerity.

In the meantime, be faithful in the responsibilities God has given you in your job and in other areas. Also, use this time to grow closer to the Lord through reading the Bible, praying and fellowshiping with other believers. Put Christ first in your thoughts and you will find that God will honor this commitment.

This is a time to hold on to God's promise and assurance that "All things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are called according to his purpose" (Romans 8:28). Continue to pray for your family — not only that they will come back, but most of all that they will find Christ as you have.

Ninety-two piano pupils audition for fraternity

Ninety-two local piano students have enrolled in the National Piano Playing Auditions sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, teacher division of the American College of Musicians. He then studied advanced piano pedagogy at Teachers' College, Columbia University, where he earned a master of arts degree.

In master classes, he has had the instruction of Olga Stroumiol and Ireyné Starikoff in New York, and three summers with Jeanne Marie Darre in Nice, France.

He teaches piano privately in New York and his recitals included the Town Hall there. Chopin, Schumann and Liszt are among his chief areas of interest.

Hausman holds the Artist's Diploma from the guild, and he has been an examiner for the guild for over ten years.

Competent entrants that Hausman will judge will be certified and given a gold, silver or bronze embossed pin and a year's membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians and Piano Hobbyists of the World.

Miss Roman feted at bridal shower

A bridal shower honoring Terri Roman, bride-elect of Tim Blackshear, took place May 8 in the home of Mrs. Bill Draper.

Cohostesses with Mrs. Draper were Mrs. Bob Zellers, Mrs. Noel Hull, Mrs. Cecil Suttles, Shirley Walker, Mrs. Gorman Rainey, Mrs. Joe Fortson, Tacoma Draper, Mrs.

Ernest Welch, Mrs. Harold Hicks, Mrs. R. D. Carpenter, Mrs. Morris Molpus, Mrs. Bill Blalack, Mrs. Roger Miller, Mrs. R. L. Collins and Mrs. Pete Hull.

Corsages of blue and yellow daisies were presented to the honoree, the mothers of the couple, Mrs. Odell Roman and Mrs. Horace Blackshear, and Miss Roman's grandmothers, Mrs. E. L. Roman Sr. and Mrs. T. M. Robinson.

The refreshment table was draped with an ecru lace cloth and was centered with an arrangement of carnations, daisies, spider mums, and baby's breath in a silver epergne.

Hostesses presented the honoree cookware at the shower which about 100 guests attended.

Miss Roman and Blackshear plan to wed May 27 in First Baptist Church.

"Ignorance can no longer be excused and, after six years, further delay cannot be tolerated," she said in a statement.

The 17-member council was created by Congress in 1974 to advise the government on ways to improve educational opportunities for women.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare issued regulations in 1975 barring sex discrimination in its $10 billion education programs.

But the council said HEW never encouraged other agencies to adopt similar regulations, even though the Office of Management and Budget suggested that HEW do so.

The report recommends that President Carter designate the Justice Department as the lead agency to coordinate enforcement of the law's anti-discrimination provisions.

HEW's own enforcement of the law has been controversial. A women's group issued a report last November charging HEW with "lackadaisical" enforcement of the law.

Tennis team is state champ

Daryl Dee Sanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrrell Sanders, formerly of Big Spring and now living in Keller, recently helped her college's tennis team win the state championship.

Miss Sanders is a freshman at San Angelo State where she is attending on a tennis scholarship. Next week, her team will compete in the regional tournament at Arkadelphia, Arkansas.

Mr. and Mrs. Garland Sanders, 1701 Johnson, grandparents of Miss Sanders, had the pleasure of entertaining her as their houseguest Friday and Saturday.

Bath shower honors bride

Kim Hatchett and Brenda Owens were the hostesses of a kitchen and bath shower held for Karen Shirley, Big Spring, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Apr. 27.

The honoree, bride-elect of Steve Fraser, Coahoma, was feted at the shower held in the Kappa Alpha Theta Lodge, Lubbock.

The couple plans to marry June 3 in College Baptist Church.

Teens turn to others

When young people suspect parental disinterest, they turn to peers or other adults for appreciation, says Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Wife plays role in move

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — More than half of the proposed male executive career changes never take place because the organizations offering jobs fail to consider the wife's interests as well as where and how she wants to live, a national executive research firm based here estimates.

In many cases a wife may determine whether or not an executive will make the move from one company to another, says Ron Kelly, vice president of corporate development for Weatherby Associates.

The selection of a good real estate firm to show people around a new town, Kelly says, is an overlooked but important element in the hiring process. He suggests that corporations give relocation assignments to a competent staff member who will take the time to research thoroughly the religious, cultural, educational and social needs of the prospect and his family, and then pass this information on to the home broker.

Teen Togetherness Is Much Too Close

DEAR ABBY: Can you help us get the message across to our 17-year-old daughter that it is in extremely poor taste for young people to put on a show of affection in public? I refer to the disgusting manner in which a girl will hang on a boy and let him put his hands all over her. Our daughter walks down the street with her arm around her boyfriend's waist and vice versa. And when they drive together in an automobile, she practically sits on his lap! Our daughter says she sees nothing wrong with it. Maybe you can tell her. We can't.

MINNESOTA MOM

DEAR MOM: Hello, young lovers (wherever you are), and for the older ones, too: All the world may love a lover, but he doesn't have to act out his role in public. A boy who respects a girl will keep his hands off her in public, and a girl who respects herself, will make sure he does.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old girl and my problem is my mother. She won't let me have anyone over to the house unless it's in perfect order because she's afraid the kids might go home and tell their mothers that she is a poor housekeeper.

Abby, this is silly, because kids couldn't care less how the house looks. I know I don't pay any attention to the housekeeping when I'm visiting at someone's house. And even if I did notice that a place was a mess, I sure wouldn't go home and tell my mother.

Please put this in your column. My mother never misses it. Thank you.

SANDY

DEAR SANDY: I never give advice to one who hasn't asked for it, but in your case, I'll make an exception and address this to your mother:

There is nothing more reassuring to a mother than always knowing where her daughter is—and with whom. You can insure this feeling by making your daughter's friends welcome in your home anytime. Youngsters take little notice of "housekeeping." In fact, the "perfect" house is not nearly as inviting as the one that looks "lived in."

DEAR ABBY: We have a real problem in our neighborhood. Every morning at 3, our neighbor woman wakes up the entire neighborhood. She is a nurse and has to be at work at 4 a.m., so she leaves her house at 3. When she backs out of her garage, she honks her horn. Then her husband, who is a doctor, waves to her from the window. She honks again, waves back to him and drives off.

This is terribly annoying to everyone, Abby, but these neighbors are such lovely people, we hate to mention it. If you print this, perhaps they will take the hint. I know they read your column.

JANGLED NERVES

DEAR NERVES: All right, I've done my part. If you get any more honking from Florence Nightingale, call her husband and ask him to give you something for your nerves.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters For All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Gossip is negative distortion of facts

COLLEGE STATION — Conversation and sharing through gossip is a negative and unsatisfactory form of communication, a family life education specialist says.

Gossip — often referred as "thought-poison" — attacks the mind as well as the spirit, Dorothy Taylor continues.

It may appear to be subtle, but it accomplishes big things. It warps and twists a person's thinking processes because it is based on a distortion of facts, she explains.

Gossip creates guilt feelings and causes a person discomfort when he meets the person that was the victim of gossip.

Miss Taylor is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

The following gossip quiz can help you determine how prone to gossip you are:

(1) Do I always have good things to say about others?

(2) Do I enjoy spreading rumors?

(3) Do I like juicy reports of a scandal?

(4) Do I tend to judge others on the basis of facts?

(5) Do I encourage others to share rumors with me?

(6) Do I constantly say, "This is just between you and me..."?

(7) Do I keep confidential information strictly to myself?

(8) Do I feel guilty about my report of other people?

(9) Do I deliberately find fault when someone is getting ahead of me?

(10) Do I ever go to the victim of gossip to find out the truth?

Actually, it's all right to talk about people, but keep the facts straight and the conversation positive, the specialist suggests.

Sharing good thoughts is motivating. Jam sessions, shop talk and batting-the-breeze are necessary for social growth, she adds.

Clubhouse

Forum installs new officers

The Modern Woman's Forum met Friday at Kentwood Older Adult Activity Center for a salad luncheon at noon with Mrs. Cass Hill and Mrs. A. C. Bass as hostesses.

Tables were decorated with an arrangement of roses, the club flower.

Mrs. Bert Affleck gave the invocation, and Mrs. Hill led the club collect, opening the business session.

After members pledged allegiance to the flag, an announcement was made that the club will meet Thursday with Mrs. B. M. Keese to make posters for the city-wide litterbug campaign sponsored by Big Spring garden clubs.

A citation of achievement from the General Federation of Women's Clubs was awarded to the forum for community involvement program. The forum also got a citation for 50 years of service from the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

Officers were installed by the outgoing president, Mrs. Hill, who used the "Wheel" as a focus for the service, because it symbolizes progress. It is one of the oldest inventions of man and has possibly contributed more to the progress of civilization than any other invention, she said.

Mrs. Hill continued, "We refer to the wheels of time but they do not turn backward. It is destiny that we go forward and in using a wheel to represent the forward movement of the forum, visualizes with me candles forming the spokes of the wheel."

"In the center is a large candle representing the hub around which we all revolve. The hub must be strong enough to carry the load it carries for without the hub the spokes and the rim have no anchor."

"So the new president, Mrs. Affleck, in lighting this hub candle, assumes the major responsibilities of the club as director," she said.

Other officers, who she likened to spokes of the wheel, will be Mrs. Woody Smith, first vice president; Mrs. Keese, second vice president; Mrs. C. R. Moad, secretary-reporter; Mrs. Hugh Duncan, treasurer; and Mrs. Ed Singleton, corresponding secretary.

Members stood to give their support to the new officers and united in the club collect.

FAREWELL TEARS — Patricia Hearst bids a tearful farewell to an unidentified friend as she entered the Santa Rita minimum-security prison facility at Pleasanton, Calif. Monday. Miss Hearst, accompanied by her four sisters and a bodyguard, appeared at Santa Rita to begin serving the remainder of a seven-year term for bank robbery.

Patricia Hearst enters prison

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst, convicted accomplice of the terrorists who kidnapped her, is back in prison to fill out a seven-year sentence for bank robbery after 18 months freedom on $1 million bail.

Accompanied by her four sisters, a priest and a bodyguard, Miss Hearst surrendered Monday at a federal minimum-security prison in Pleasanton, 30 miles east of San Francisco, just five minutes before a court-imposed deadline.

She fought her way through swarming reporters to enter the prison administration building, once almost being knocked off her feet.

With credit for time already served, Miss Hearst, who had been free during an appeal, will be eligible for parole in 14 months.

Miss Hearst, 24, was described as "extremely depressed" at the prospect of returning to prison. Her parents, Randolph and Catherine Hearst, issued a statement saying they were "devastated."

They also assailed what they called the court's lack of leniency. Alluding to their daughter's 1974 kidnapping by members of the Symbionese Liberation Army, the Hearsts said: "She started out a victim because her name is Hearst and it appears to us that she is ending up a victim because her name is Hearst."

U.S. District Judge William Orrick Jr., who passed sentence on Miss Hearst, had agreed in November 1976 to release her on $1 million bail pending appeal. On March 24, the U.S. Supreme Court refused to review the conviction.

Orrick, in an order signed April 26 but kept secret until Monday, refused to reduce sentence. On May 1, Miss Hearst signed a voluntary surrender statement pledging to turn herself in "by 4 p.m., PDT, on May 15."

Shortly after a picnic lunch at the family home in Hillsborough, 30 miles away, Miss Hearst arrived at the prison, where she was met by a federal marshal and a probation officer.

Miss Hearst was convicted in March 1976 of joining her kidnappers in a 1974 holdup of a residential branch of the Hibernal Bank in San Francisco.

Brothers misused university funds?

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted a former University of Houston financial analyst and his halfbrother on charges of conspiracy and fraud.

Named in the indictment returned Monday were Samuel A. Harwell, fired from the university in November, and his half-brother, Patrick D. Sullivan, 48, of Brea, Calif.

Neither was available for comment. The indictment alleged Harwell and Sullivan engaged in wire (telephone) and mail fraud and knowingly conspired with unknown persons to obtain property by "means of false and fraudulent pretenses, representations and promises."

Each was named on four counts alleging conspiracy and mail and wire fraud against the university and the San Jose, Calif., branch of the Japan-California Bank of Los Angeles.

The indictment alleges Harwell placed about $5 million in university funds in the bank and then gave the bank a letter authorizing Sullivan to use the funds as collateral for loans.

A California court earlier this month turned down a request by Sullivan for a restraining order against the university and the bank. He had asked the Los Angeles court to stop the bank from seizing university funds to guarantee the payment of an unpaid $901,000 loan and to stop the university from withdrawing a certificate of deposit that served as collateral for the loan.

University lawyers have said Harwell also engaged in pyramiding short-term funds in government secured bonds called Ginnie Maes, a practice university officials have said is too risky.

Harwell has said through his attorney that he had appropriate written authority for the investments.

University regents have said that as a result of the investments, the university is in the position to suffer "substantial" loss.

"The investigation is continuing into other aspects of the University of Houston situation and we anticipate further developments in the case," said Michael Brown, an assistant U.S. attorney.

"The FBI is continuing to look into the pyramiding of Ginnie Maes and related activities with respect to some brokerage firms that appear to have been set up specially to handle these transactions."

Brown said Securities and Exchange Commission officials also are actively investigating the case "from their own enforcement standpoint."

Several Laredo cops violating U.S. Customs laws?

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — Laredo police officers assigned to duty along the border may be violating U.S. Customs regulations, according to a police department source.

The highly placed source said a current internal investigation may lead to criminal charges against several officers.

Previous investigations have disclosed that some officers stationed near the international bridges have taken cartons of cigarettes and bottles of liquor from persons legally taking the merchandise across the border.

"Some of the Laredo police have taken this up as a way of life here," said Emilio Davila, an assistant U.S. attorney. The federal prosecutor said only a few officers are believed to be involved in the violations.

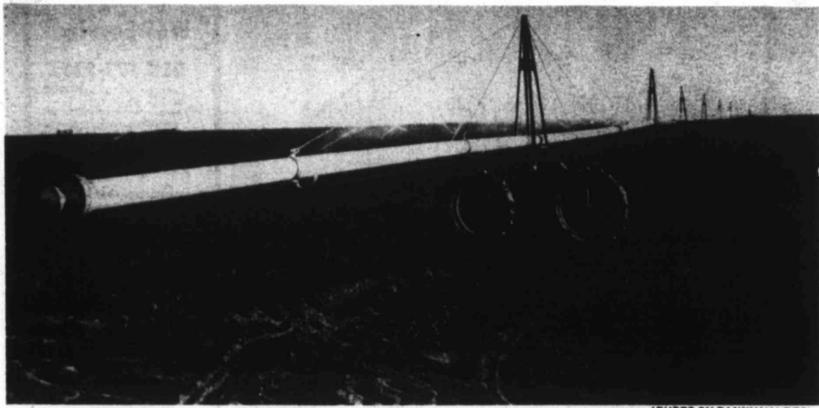

A 1976 investigation by U.S. Customs special agents reportedly had taken cigarettes from a Mexican woman at a duty-free store near the bridge.

Jesus Martinez, special agent in charge, said in a letter to Weeks that the woman complained that officer Ray B. Pena was "taking cartons of cigarettes away from her on a daily basis."

When asked about the allegation, Pena reportedly told customs officials, "Everybody knows we do it and nobody does anything about it. Why do you want to be the only one to do this to me?"

Pena recently refused to talk with a reporter about the incident. The letter from Martinez to Weeks also claims Pena threatened one of the customs officers.

Farm

AMONG THE LUCKY ONES — Farmers in the Tarzan area have irrigation on some of their farms and they are among the lucky ones as the days without rain in this area continue to grow. Dryland farmers are desperately in need of more moisture soon if they are going to plant a cotton crop this season.

Wheat target price boosted

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says he will use the provisions of an emergency farm bill he signed into law Monday to boost the target price on 1978 wheat to $3.40 a bushel, an increase of 40 cents.

Carter's action, designed to compensate growers for extra costs involved in idling cropland as a price-boosting measure, could mean $600 million more in income supplements for wheat growers this season.

Food prices should not be affected by the federal payments because they supplement what growers receive in the marketplace for their crops.

The previous wheat target price was $3 a bushel. When average market prices for a specified period fall below the target, subsidy payments are made to bridge the gap.

The new four-year program will help "meet our goal of food and agricultural policies which are fair and equitable for farmers and will maintain our ability to compete effectively in world markets," Carter said.

With Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland in Europe, acting secretary Carol Tucker Foreman said the 1978 loan rate for cotton was raised promptly, as authorized in the bill, to 48 cents a pound from 44 cents. This could increase loans to growers by $100 million a year.

"The higher upland cotton loan rate will provide producers needed added support, but will not bring the minimum U.S. price for cotton to a level that would interfere with U.S. exports," she said.

But Carter called the cotton provision "an undesirable feature of this bill" that might "create problems in future years." He said he will propose legislation to eliminate the higher loan rate.

Uncle Sam hopes to reduce sodium nitrate in bacon

WASHINGTON (AP) — A year from now the government hopes to reduce sharply the amount of sodium nitrite used in making bacon, a chemical which under some circumstances can combine with other substances to form cancer-causing agents called nitrosamines.

The Agriculture Department announced the plan Monday and was heartily supported by President Carter's consumer adviser, Esther Peterson, who said that "for almost 10 years now the safety of fried bacon has been in question."

As a first step beginning June 15, final regulations will go into effect which limit sodium nitrite to 120 parts per million in the manufacture of bacon plus 550 parts per million of other chemicals used as agents to block the formation of nitrosamines.

Although the current regulation allows up to 200 parts per million nitrite, most bacon processors have been within the lower tolerance for some time, according to USDA and meat industry officials.

The second step is a proposal which will have to go through the rule-making process which would reduce nitrite further a year from now to 40 parts per million when used in combination with blocking agents.

Assistant Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman told a news conference that the actions are aimed at carrying out the federal meat inspection law's intent "to prevent the sale of any product containing a substance that may be harmful to health" of consumers.

"We have known for several years that there are cancer-causing nitrosamines in fried bacon," Ms. Foreman said. "We are acting to eliminate them as quickly as possible."

Under questioning, Ms. Foreman acknowledged that "we don't believe there is an imminent health hazard involved" in bacon at the present time, a view shared by the meat industry. She further said that "from time to time" she eats bacon.

Heavy Snow pack lingers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A heavy snow pack lingering on western mountains will produce "adequate to abundant" supplies of water for farm irrigation and community use this summer, according to the Agriculture Department.

In its final report of the season on snow accumulation in the western mountains, the department said Monday that a major storm dumped as much as five feet of snow on parts of Wyoming and Colorado in the first week of May. The survey, by the department's Soil Conservation Service, showed that the additional snow will boost summer water supplies for the region by 10 percent to 50 percent.

Further, in California, cool, wet weather has delayed melting in the Sierra Nevadas, where a heavy snow pack piled up last winter.

"Runoff will be much above normal, reversing the severe drought of the past two years," the report said.

But in the Cascade Mountains of Oregon and Washington, warm rains depleted the early winter snowpack and little additional snow accumulated after December. As a result, the report said, the snow pack is only 30 to 50 percent of normal, and runoff from melting snow will be much less than normal.

"Water supplies are expected to be normal or better elsewhere in the West," the report said. "Supplemental water stored in reservoirs is below normal in Colorado, Nevada and New Mexico but is normal or better than normal elsewhere."

John Birdsall of the American Meat Institute said that the industry-supported group will work with smaller processors to help them meet requirements when the further reduction takes effect a year from now.

Meanwhile, Birdsall — as Ms. Foreman told reporters — said that bacon is not a hazard to eat and that he objected to continual references that it contained "cancer-causing" nitrosamines when tests actually show it limited to laboratory animals.

Civil war buffs to gather

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Civil War buffs will hold their fourth annual National Congress of Civil War Round Tables here Sept. 28-30.

The average price for strict low middling 1-16 inch spot cotton declined 1/16 points to 57.71 cents a pound Monday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Middling afternoon prices were $1.40 to $2.75 a bale higher than the previous close. Jul 60-80, Oct 62-70, and Dec 63-79.

Physicist dies

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Dr. Henry W. Newson, 68, a Duke University nuclear physicist who was instrumental in propelling the world into the Atomic Age with the creation of the first self-sustaining nuclear chain reaction in 1942, died Sunday.

Down here you may be the boss, but out there (pointing toward town), I'm going to get you," he reportedly said.

Martinez' letter said Pena "kept walking in front of the entry way" where the customs officer worked.

An employee at the store where Pena was said to have taken the cigarettes told the investigators he had heard serious offenses.

"These allegations involve the possible smuggling of commercial quantities of cigarettes and liquor into the United States, extracting cash payments from Mexican citizens attempting to export various commodities, and illegally exporting firearms to Mexican territory for resale," a customs report to then Laredo Police Chief William Weeks said.

A source who worked closely with the 1976 investigation said no conclusive evidence concerning the allegations was found.

Weeks had asked the special agents to look into the case of a local officer

Jenkins shows Ranger fans that he's worth 125 BIG ones

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers paid the Boston Red Sox $125,000 in the off season for Ferguson Jenkins, hoping the 35-year-old righthander could help in long relief. Now he's the ace of the staff.

Jenkins earned his fourth victory against a lone loss Monday night with an 8-6 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers and the only thing that kept him from a complete game was bad sleeping posture.

"I slept wrong and put some pressure on my shoulder blade," said Jenkins, who had an ice pack on his back after the game. "I told (Manager) Billy Hunter to get me out after the eighth inning."

Jenkins scattered seven hits and allowed four runs, three of them earned. Sixto Lezcano touched him for a fifth-inning homer, but the Rangers had already buried the Brewers and Bill Travers with a 13-hit attack.

Jim Sundberg collected three hits, Juan Beniquez and Toby Harrah each knocked in two runs and John Lowenstein cracked his first homer of the year.

Travers was making his first appearance of the year after off-season surgery.

"The Rangers told me when they bought me that I would be used in long relief and I personally thought it would be June until I could work my way into the starting rotation," said Jenkins, who won 25 games for Texas in 1974.

"We lost seven in a row and they came to me and asked me to start. I said, 'Sure,' but I don't think I turned the team around. It was just too good not to turn around," he added.

Jenkins has an earned run average of slightly less than 3.00 and has yielded only five earned runs in his four starts.

Travers was far from discouraged, although he was touched for six hits and five runs.

"I thought I had a pretty good breaking ball and maybe

I should have gone to it more," said Travers. "I mostly stayed with the hard slider. I'm glad my arm feels sound. It felt really strong ... maybe too strong. I'll be ready to get back out there in five days."

Hunter said, "It was nice to get some hits for a change, but that happened to us a couple of days ago and just disappeared. I'm looking for consistency."

Asked about his shaky relief pitching, Hunter smiled and said, "It's nice that Fergie was watching. Maybe he'll be able to go three more out next time."

In the final game of the series tonight, Doyle Alexander, 3-1, meets Milwaukee's Lary Sorensen, who is 3-3.

Meanwhile, Astro pitcher wins, but unimpressed Renfro offered Skin ink

HOUSTON (AP) — Although he hurled his second two-hitter of the season and struck out nine Phillies to run the National League leading strikeout total to 66, J.R. Richard was unimpressed with his latest pitching effort.

"I had to pitch better tonight because I didn't have my good stuff," said Richard, who defeated Philadelphia for the second time in the last seven days as the Houston Astros topped the Phillies 5-0 Monday night.

"I had to kick my own tail a few times to get my rhythm going. They hit the ball hard early, but I was lucky because they were hitting the ball in the right places."

Richard, 3-3, pitched 4 1/3 innings of no-hit ball before allowing back-to-back singles by Richie Hebner and Garry Maddox in the fifth inning. After the runners moved into scoring position on a wild pitch, Richard retired the next two batters on a soft liner to short and a fly ball to shallow left field.

"Baseball is serious business," Richard said. "I start concentrating one full day before my scheduled start. It helps me get in the groove each time I go out there."

The Astros tallied a first inning run off losing pitcher Jim Lonborg, 4-3, on a single and stolen base by Cesar Cedeno, a throwing error by Philadelphia catcher Bob Boone and Jose Cruz's double to the left field corner.

A walk to Cedeno and Bob Watson's fifth home run of the season in the fourth inning produced two more Houston runs as the Astros took their third straight victory.

Houston scored its final two runs of the game in the fifth off reliever Warren Brusstar on singles by Terry Puhl and Enos Cabell, a walk to Cedeno and Boone's two-run throwing error.

Hebner, who said last week the 6-foot-8 Richard is so big that when he releases the ball he is so close to the plate that "you can smell his breath," said Richard pitched better in Philadelphia last week.

"I don't think he threw as well tonight as he did the last time, but he still pitched well," Hebner said. "After all, he has given us only six hits the last two games."

Houston, which will play 16 of its next 19 games at home, is in fourth place, five games behind National League West leader San Francisco. Philadelphia leads second place Montreal by one game in the National League East.

DALLAS (AP) — Mel Renfro, former all-pro cornerback with the Dallas Cowboys, has been offered a multi-year contract with the Washington Redskins.

Renfro became a free agent last month. He had met last week in Washington with Redskins coach Jack Pardee and general manager Bobby Beathard.

"We have no problem on contract. They offered me a comfortable package with a raise. They are waiting for me to make a decision," the veteran of 14 NFL seasons said.

Renfro, 36, said he will decide in the next three weeks whether to accept the offer or retire to private business in Dallas.

"Their main goal in signing me would be to shore up the secondary because I'm a guy who can play anywhere," Renfro said.

Washington has a pair of all-pro caliber safeties in Ken Houston and Jake Scott, but is short at cornerback with only inexperienced Gerard Williams and Joe Lavender as veteran players there.

Sonics ready 'to do it'

SEATTLE (AP) — Marvin Webster knows what the Seattle SuperSonics must do Wednesday night — play their game simply and effectively.

"The name of the game is go out and do it," said Webster, Seattle's 7-foot-1 center, referring to the sixth game in the Sonics' best-of-seven National Basketball Association semifinal playoff series against the Denver Nuggets.

"I thought the whole team started slow," he said of Sunday's Sonics' loss, which left Seattle with a 3-2 lead in the series.

"We'd beat 'em three straight. It's awfully hard to beat a team four straight," he said. "We came out flat ... there's no question about that. Wednesday? There's no question about that either."

Sonics Coach Lenny Wilkens says his team will be playing with more intensity in Wednesday's game on Seattle's home court.

"We'll start from the beginning of the game," he said.

The Nuggets, who regained their shooting touch in posting a 123-114 victory Sunday, don't appear worried even though the Sonics boast a 19-game homecourt winning streak.

"They got to win one more game before they can open that champagne," said Nuggets rookie forward Anthony Roberts. "We got to win two. Don't count us out yet."

Sunday, however, things were different. Thompson broke loose for 35 points, Wilkerson hit five of 11 shots and scored a personal series high of 13 points, as well as handing out 10 assists. Simpson came off the bench to hit five of eight field goal attempts and finished with 12 points.

A study of game films, a defensive switch and a different offensive strategy helped Thompson shake his slump.

"On films, I noticed I was shooting the ball on the way up on my jump shots," said Thompson. "I just tried to shoot normally."

Coach Larry Brown decided Thompson should guard Gus Williams, instead of Dennis Johnson, because "Dennis was handling the ball so much for them and we needed more pressure on the ball, but we didn't want David working so hard at both ends of the floor."

Marshall returns, hours later, gets first win

By the Associated Press

Mike Marshall has been away from the major leagues for a while, but has lost neither his velocity nor his vitality.

"He was like a young colt out there," enthused Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch after watching Marshall's triumphant return to baseball in a Twins' uniform Monday night.

The 1974 Cy Young Award winner was signed Monday afternoon by the Twins and a few hours later helped them win a 9-6, 10-inning decision over the Baltimore Orioles.

Marshall, who last pitched for the Texas Rangers last June, hurled 12-3 innings of hitless ball while striking out two and walking one. He retired the side in the top of the 10th before Willie Norwood hit a three-run homer for Minnesota in the bottom of the inning.

Marshall appeared to be finished with baseball after injuring his knee with the Texas Rangers last year.

In other American League games, the Boston Red Sox beat the Kansas City Royals 3-1; the New York Yankees turned back the Chicago White Sox 4-1; the Texas Rangers trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 8-6; the Oakland A's edged the Cleveland Indians 3-2; the Detroit Tigers stopped the Seattle Mariners 4-2.

Norton frustrated, ready

GILMAN HOT SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Ken Norton would rather have won the heavyweight boxing championship in the ring, but he vows to prove that the World Boxing Council did not make a mistake in stripping Leon Spinks of the title and giving it to him.

"The most important thing about my fight with Larry Holmes is to win it," the 32-year-old ex-Marine said intently.

Training at this Massacre Canyon site for his June 9 defense in Las Vegas against the undefeated Holmes, Norton shows his pride, some frustration and determination to uphold the WBC's action.

"Damn it," he almost shouted when he slipped during a sparring session with ranking heavyweight Stan Ward. And he kicked a water bucket when Ward eluded him in a corner.

Norton drives a Lincoln Continental to his workouts, but from then on, he is a man in grueling training for a battle to prove himself.

He thinks Muhammad Ali will beat Spinks, the 1976 Olympic champion, and regain the World Boxing Association version of the championship, but fears Ali wants no more of Norton.

"I hope he does, but I don't think he will," Norton said. "I don't think Ali wants to put his heart into it any more."

The WBC champion terms Holmes, of Easton, Pa., "a cheap imitation of Ali" and bristles when it is suggested that the 26-year-old Holmes might have the best left jab in their fight.

"You wait and look," he said.

"Basically, what I'm working on is my jab to nullify his jab. I think he is a very good fighter with a very fluid jab. I think mine is harder. I'm working on cutting the ring in half. I'm working to make him fight more. I'm working on my power."

"Basically, I'll use the same techniques I used against Ali. I've been fighting that way too long now to change. I can alter a few things, but in the heat of battle, you revert to what you know best."

Norton broke Ali's jaw and won a decision the first time they fought. Ali won a split decision the second time they met, both fights coming before Ali regained his championship. The third meeting went 15 rounds in New York, with Ali winning a disputed decision. Norton thinks he won all three times.

He was supposed to meet Ali again after outpointing Jimmy Young last year. The WBC supported that fight, but gave the champion permission to fight Spinks after both Ali and Spinks signed statements that the winner's next bout would be against Norton.

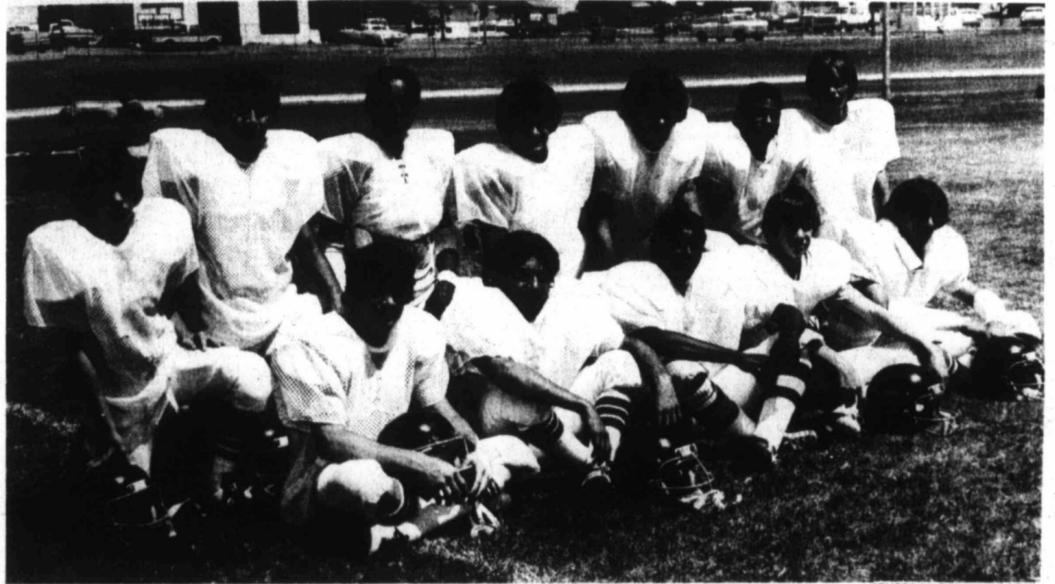

When Spinks then signed to fight Ali in a return bout, the WBC took away his title.

"That means I have most of the title," Norton said. "It means I stuck by the rules. I did everything I had to do. I kept my end of the bargain. And it means $2.3 million rather than $200,000."

He had signed a contract for a title fight against Spinks for $200,000 just to get the opportunity to win the crown.

DETERMINATION — WBC heavyweight champion Ken Norton demonstrates his determination to be in shape for his upcoming title fight against Larry Holmes as he works out on the punching bag at his Gilman Hot Springs training camp recently. Norton vows to prove that the World Boxing Council did not make a mistake in stripping Leon Spinks of the title and giving it to him.

RECEIVING CORPS — Expected to be snagging the pigskin from the airways next season are the flankers and wide receivers for the Big Spring Steers in 1978. Seated, left to right: Bill Kothman, Johnny Doport (no longer in program), Carbet Newton, David Bordofski, Carl Trevino; kneeling, Todd Darden, Cesar Espinoza, Mike Domino, Rocky Torres, Mark Knight, Joe Willie Jones and Ronnie Richard.

Steers prepare for big game

By DANNY REAGAN
Sports Editor

The 73 members of the Big Spring Steer spring training corps are busily preparing themselves for Saturday's "Black and Gold" intrasquad game to be held at Memorial Stadium.

The contest, which spells a conclusion of the three weeks of workouts for the locals, is sponsored by the Big Spring Quarterback Club, and tickets to the 7:30 p.m. scrimmage are $1 a head.

Proceeds will go to settling the debt incurred this year by the Quarterback Club's sponsorship of the two Sports Banquets. A concession will also be operated by the Club to raise money for the same purpose, and Co-Captains Jerry Foresyth and Wayne Henry and Secretary Jan Foresyth will be in charge.

Monday, Don Robbins' charges concentrated on the various phases of the kicking game. Left-footed Robert Wrinkle, a senior letterman, is top candidate for kickoff duties, while Steve Painter, a junior, will probably keep his foot busy on point-after-touchdown conversions and field goals.

David Altom has been bothered by an abscessed tooth recently and has missed workouts. Rusty Touchstone (sprained knee) and Terry Conway (jammed finger) have been the only casualties to injuries so far, and neither are hurt seriously.

Seniors Ricky Cluck and Ricky Myers will return experience and skill to the punting game for the Longhorns next season. Before Cluck left in 1977 due to a back injury, he booted 29 punts for 1,167 yards and a 40.0 average.

Myers, in relief, punted the ball 29 times for 948 yards and a 32.7 per clip showing. Between the two, they had 58 punts for 2,115 yards and a 36.5 average, respectable in anyone's book.

In the return phase of the kicking game, one senior letterman and three juniors appear to be top choices. Senior Mike Evans, and Danny Larez, Mike Domino and Joe Willie Jones have looked promising in that category.

"Our first concern, of course," said Robbins, "is to get someone who can catch the ball first, like Kent Rice did for us last year." The four players mentioned above have shown the most "dependability" in that most crucial requirement.

The passing game hasn't been stressed that much in spring camp, and senior lettermen and prime candidates for the helm starting role next year, Ricky Myers and Billy Ray Johnson, have been termed "equal" in that position by Robbins.

Newcomer Kevin McLaughlin, with just one week of drills under his belt, is "working very hard and making us a hand" at the quarterback slot, according to Robbins.

By virtue of their speed and quickness, lettermen Eddie Puga, and Dennis Morrison are increasingly showing more potential at the halfback slot.

Ricky Cluck, Doug Archer and David Altom are improving rapidly from their linebacking positions, and Cluck, along with Greg Jones at fullback, promises to be a two-way starter in 1978.

Saturday's game will be the first chance for the home town crowd not only to see the future football stars, but a new officiating system as well. Five referees will be on the field for the game, a preview of the method of officiating in games next year.

APPEARING IN NEW YORK — Actor Telly Savalas, known for his role as television detective Kojak, dances Monday in New York with a woman identified as Tracy. They were attending a wrapup party marking the end of work on the movie "King of the Gypsies," at Regine's, a Manhattan night spot.

Bad actors' paying for tips
Most lawyers suffer 'Pure stage fright'
 CHICAGO (AP) — Most lawyers are bad actors likely to fail before juries who expect a Perry Mason to cajole them into a verdict, says a Chicago dramatist who gives acting lessons to attorneys.
 Many suffer from "pure stage fright," said Joseph Guastaferra.
 "Their hands get clammy, their legs shake. It's almost comical," he said. "If you worry about yourself like that, you're not going to be able to concentrate."
 Guastaferra, 34, a teacher and director at DePaul University's Goodman School of Drama, gives private acting lessons to about 15 attorneys. He also works with several other actors at the Court Practice Institute, a Chicago organization that has offered seminars in various trial skills to about 900 lawyers in the last 4 1/2 years.
 Although diction, presence, projection and movement are critically important to success as a trial lawyer, many attorneys begin practicing law knowing almost nothing about them, Guastaferra said.
 Arnie Saks, 28, a film director who coordinates the acting skills portion of the institute's program, said that many lawyers do a disservice to their clients by failing to inject feeling into their arguments.
 "Say you have a case of a dog biting a mailman, and the mailman sues the owner of the house," Saks said. "The attorney is likely to feel that it's no big deal. But he can't show that feeling... We tell him to pretend that this dog bite case is the most important thing, perhaps that the dog bit off the mailman's leg."
 Guastaferra teaches his students to use physical movement.
 "A nervous lawyer frequently will pace the floor, and the rate and tempo of his own movement will add to the nervousness of the witnesses," Guastaferra said.
 "Under cross-examination, if he wants the witness to flounder and flutter, he can pace the room," he said. "On the other hand, if it's his own witness, he might remain still, to make his witness look as good as possible to the jury."
 While some question the relevance of acting to the practice of law, Guastaferra is not defensive. "I don't work miracles with people who don't know what they're about in the courtroom. They have to have the law already well under control," he said.
 "There are people who have rejected my approach as outside the law, as having nothing to do with the pristine intellectual nature of their work. Fine. I'm just trying to help those who want to do a better job."

Transition to new faces
Arkansas primary May 30

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arkansas, which four years ago boasted one of the most powerful state delegations in Congress, will complete its transition to new faces this month in a Democratic donnybrook for the Senate seat of the late John McClellan.
 Gov. David Pryor and two members of the state's four-member House delegation — Reps. Jim Guy Tucker and Ray Thornton — are squaring off in the May 30 primary. When the dust clears, the state will be left with only one Democratic congressman who has been in office for more than four years.
 The change in Arkansas is typical of the youthful political transformation throughout the South, which slowly is losing the powerful grip it once held on the House and Senate largely because of the seniority system.
 Just seven years ago, Southerners chaired eight of the 17 Senate committees and nine of the 21 House committees. This year, Southern-held chairmanships have slipped to one-third of the 15 Senate committees and six of the 22 House committees.

Of the five Southern committee chairmen in the Senate, two are retiring at the end of this year — James Eastland, D-Miss., of Judiciary and John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., of Foreign Relations. Among the six in the House, three are retiring. They are George Mahon, D-Texas, of Appropriations; Olin Teague, D-Texas, of Science and Technology, and John J. Flynt Jr., D-Ga., of the ethics committee.
 The same trend is evident in the Arkansas delegation, which only four years ago included boasted three powerful committee chairmen, Sen. William Fulbright, Foreign Relations; Rep. Wilbur Mills, House Ways and Means, and McClellan, Senate Appropriations.
 McClellan died last November. The rest of his term is being filled by Kaneaster Hodges, an appointee who cannot run for re-election.
 Currently leading in the race for McClellan's seat is

Teen killed in car trunk
 AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A front-to-rear auto accident Saturday killed Russell Luecke, 14, of Del Valle, who was riding in the trunk of a car that was struck from behind.

Two other youths riding in the passenger compartment of the car were unhurt.
 Firemen had to use special tools to open the crushed trunk and remove Luecke's body. He was pronounced dead at the scene. Emergency Medical Service workers said he suffered neck and internal injuries.
 There was no immediate explanation of what Luecke was doing in the trunk.

Gov. Pryor, a former representative who gained national attention in the early 1970s on the issue of care for the elderly. He gave up his House seat in 1972 to challenge McClellan but narrowly lost.
 Pryor is facing strong opposition from congressmen Tucker and Thornton.
 Tucker, a whiz kid of Arkansas politics with strong ties to the consumer movement, is a former freelance reporter in Vietnam who was elected state attorney general at 29 and entered Congress at 33.
 Thornton, a three-term congressman and nephew of W.R. Stephens, once regarded as a kingmaker in Arkansas politics, also is a former state attorney general. He gained national television exposure as a member of the House Judiciary Committee which voted impeachment proceedings against former President Richard M. Nixon.

Unlike McClellan, a conservative symbol of the old South, all three candidates are considered moderate to liberal, with broad appeal that cuts across racial lines.
 Both independent and private polls by the candidates give Pryor the lead at this point, even though both Thornton and Tucker had outspent him 2 to 1 as of April 10. But Pryor's lead is small and a runoff is considered highly probable.
 All three have been relying mostly on Arkansas voters for their campaign funds, although Thornton has received some money from out-of-state oil and gas interests as well as large amounts of cash from his relatives.
 None is receiving much support from national political action committees, according to Federal Election Commission records. Organized labor, which bankrolled Pryor heavily during his 1972 race against McClellan, apparently is sitting this one out.

Thornton, a three-term congressman and nephew of W.R. Stephens, once regarded as a kingmaker in Arkansas politics, also is a former state attorney general. He gained national television exposure as a member of the House Judiciary Committee which voted impeachment proceedings against former President Richard M. Nixon.

Cornball comedy called 'Hokum'
Hemingway's first book

NATICK, Mass. (AP) — A frothy, cornball comedy called "Hokum" — never published and only recently discovered — is believed to be the first professional work of Ernest Hemingway, who co-authored the play at the age of 21.
 "This is Ernest Hemingway's first book," said William Young, the rare book dealer who hunted down the play. He said the three-act play is a "terribly important" discovery because of Hemingway's position among 20th century authors.
 Princeton historian Carlos Baker, a Hemingway biographer, said he has found a letter written by Hemingway to a friend in which Hemingway wrote that he and Morris McNeil Muselman were doing a 50-50 collaboration on a play.
 "The fact that Hemingway did collaborate on this hitherto undiscovered thing does give it some significance. His name alone on it is apt to create something of a stir," Baker said in a telephone interview.
 But Baker cautioned that Muselman — a high school chum of Hemingway in Oak Park, Ill., who became a successful film writer in Hollywood — probably wrote more of the play than Hemingway.
 "I would be skeptical that Hemingway did half of it," said Baker. "But how can you tell who did what in a collaboration?"
 Until now, historians believed Hemingway's first book was "Three Stories and Ten Poems," published in France in 1923.
 "Hokum," copyrighted June 4, 1921, concerns a starving artist's scheme to wed a rich society girl.
 "It's cornball," said Young, who is publishing a limited edition of the play. But he says it has flashes of Hemingway's famous style: "His bitter vernacular is evident here in its infancy stages."
 Hemingway, who committed suicide in 1961, won the Pulitzer prize for fiction in 1953 and the Nobel prize in literature a year later. Among his most highly regarded novels are "The Sun Also Rises," "A Farewell to Arms" and "For Whom the Bell Tolls."

CANYON — Barbara McLeod of Big Spring was among 60 individuals recently honored by the West Texas State University School of Business.

The WTSU School of Business recognized the outstanding students in each of the school's five departments of accounting, business administration, business education and office administration, computer information systems, and economics.

It also presented 40 scholarships for the upcoming 1978-79 academic year. These scholarships went to 23 top students in each department, and 17 high school students who are scheduled to attend WTSU next year.

Miss McLeod, daughter of Lloyd R. McLeod, received a $200 AMOCO award for the outstanding computer information systems major.

Ridin' fence

People wonder why newsmen become cynics and those who have been in news business any length of time become hardened cynics.

But I'll tell you why. No matter what people try to do to help, somebody criticizes them.

It just gets to the point where it's really humorous if it wasn't so bad.

Case in point: Why did local organizations get down in the city streets and try to provide a little musical entertainment for the population?

That's not an exact quote out that was the sentiment of the angry reader who wrote a letter to the editor last week.

After all, if there had been an emergency, somebody might have had to drive around the block. It's difficult to believe there could be an emergency taking anybody down Main Street between third and fourth streets between 7 and 9 p.m. at night; but if there had been, I'm sure they would have been glad to clear the way.

Of course, one night we did have an emergency there. A fellow jumped out of the third story jail window. But I say this, if he had jumped down into the middle of that musical, he may have wished himself back in jail.

James Werrell says he could just see the headline "Jailbird captured by Songbird." Beep Beep!

I, for one, would like to commend the Big Spring Music Club for holding the program.

I was trying to remember what terrible events have been held to block off that street during the last year. The Big Spring Herald will have to admit their guilt because one of the terrible monument honoring the war dead. Why would anybody allow veterans to do such a thing? Who do they think they are? Do they think they are special just because they put their lives on the line for their country? Now isn't that ridiculous? Of course, they're special. I personally think they are among the most special people of all.

It kind of reminds me of the time I lived in a nearby West Texas town and I was helping with a teenage center so the kids could have dances. One man sent the police and said we were a noisy nuisance. Police checked all the homes in the vicinity of the center and could not find the object. He lived 17 blocks away.

The city, right now, is a good example. There are people angry with them because somebody cleaned up the Big Spring, for which the town was named. There are people angry with them because they provided the Roy Anderson Baseball Parks and they saw a weed out there.

Whoever told us the city, state and national government owes us recreation, medical care, beauty, food, music and love?

Of course we're cynics. We know that nobody can do anything right and it doesn't matter how hard they try — out where I ride fence.

events was the "What Ever Happened to Big Spring? We took a picture in which we invited people to stand in the middle of the street.

And not only did we not provide professional entertainment, but we provided no entertainment at all unless you enjoyed watching Danny Valdes and Barry Callen go up in the fire truck extension.

One of the big events there was the pep rally before the homecoming football game. That was a really evil occasion when students marched all the way down Main Street playing football songs and carrying torches and rah-rahing in the street. It may have woken up a few people, but it sure didn't block any emergencies.

The Brown Berets had a rally there and they walked in the city streets all the way from the north side across the viaduct and up to the courthouse square. But the street was never blocked completely and they really did not impede anyone's progress for very long.

Mercy, we even had horses clogging down the street and around the courthouse square. Now there were some professional cowboys here for the rodeo, so maybe that qualifies for professional entertainment.

But possibly, somebody didn't like that either.

There was homecoming parades, with floats and people throwing candy and gum and little children walking down the street with balloons. That was really a bad day.

I was trying to remember what else we held there. Oh yes — the veterans came marching down Main Street on Armistice Day, carrying flags and laid a wreath at the auditorium.

I also recall one time, one city held a square dance on the tennis courts. It was wonderful fun. Everybody was happy except one disgruntled citizen seven blocks away who insisted the group was keeping him awake.

I love the chimes at Howard College and First United Methodist Church. But we had at least one reader who angrily called them the Bells of St.

Howard's" which interfered with his daytime slumber because he worked at night.

There is nothing new under the sun — and there is nothing anybody can try to do for people, without being criticized.

The city, right now, is a good example. There are people angry with them because somebody cleaned up the Big Spring, for which the town was named. There are people angry with them because they provided the Roy Anderson Baseball Parks and they saw a weed out there.

Whoever told us the city, state and national government owes us recreation, medical care, beauty, food, music and love?

Of course we're cynics. We know that nobody can do anything right and it doesn't matter how hard they try — out where I ride fence.

monument honoring the war dead. Why would anybody allow veterans to do such a thing? Who do they think they are? Do they think they are special just because they put their lives on the line for their country? Now isn't that ridiculous? Of course, they're special. I personally think they are among the most special people of all.

It kind of reminds me of the time I lived in a nearby West Texas town and I was helping with a teenage center so the kids could have dances. One man sent the police and said we were a noisy nuisance. Police checked all the homes in the vicinity of the center and could not find the object. He lived 17 blocks away.

Bill to block Amtrak Slash rolling along

WASHINGTON (AP) — Passenger trains that the Transportation Department wants to eliminate starting in July, 1979 would operate at least until Oct. 1 of that year under legislation before the full House.

The bill sent to the floor Monday by the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee attempts to postpone the department's planned elimination of one-third of the 27,000-mile Amtrak system.

Transportation Secretary Brock Adams says Amtrak can prevent huge deficits by eliminating the routes, including one that passes through the Keyser, W.Va. hometown of the commerce committee chairman, Democratic Rep. Harley O. Staggers.

Staggers said the bill would allow Congress more time to study the costs and benefits of each route.

The measure would require that the House and Senate approve the transportation secretary's final recommendations before they go into operation. The recommendations are due by next Dec. 31.

The House bill would give Amtrak $613 million in subsidies for the next fiscal year compared to the present $510 million. The measure also provides for $130 million in capital improvements.

A Senate bill would authorize $510 million for Amtrak and $120 million in capital improvements.

The differences may eventually be settled in a House-Senate conference committee.

Elderly health care to be discussed here

A state legislative panel will hear public testimony on health care for the elderly and disabled May 26 in Big Spring.

The public hearing will start at 9 a.m. in the Dora Roberts Student Union Building at Howard County Junior College.

Persons in Big Spring, Midland, Odessa, Abilene and surrounding areas are being encouraged to attend the hearing, one of seven being held across the state.

The panel, jointly sponsored by the Texas Department of Human Resources (DHR), is chaired by Senator Chet Brooks of Pasadena.

Created by Senate Bill 548 to study the needs of Texas' elderly and disabled citizens,

Chamber board set to meet

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors will have its regular monthly meeting Wednesday at 4 p.m. in the Chamber conference room.

On the agenda for the meeting are planning for the Christmas decoration, organizational planning, and viewing of membership accounts. Board members will get an overview of the master plan for Texas Tech, and consider the 1979 program of action.

The energy committee will report to the board, as will four of the Chamber councils, organizational affairs, public affairs, economic development, and community development.

the panel will reports its findings and recommendations to the 66th Legislature.

Members of the panel are Senator Brooks, Senator O. H. (Ike) Harris of Dallas and Senator Bill Meier of Euless; Representative Mike Ezzell of Snyder and Representative Buck Florence of Hughes Springs; DHR members are Emmett Grett; M.D. Merie Springer and Lloyd Sterling.

The panel's staff, provided by DHR, will evaluate programs that provide care to the elderly and the disabled in their homes and communities. Home and community care will be compared with nursing home care. Last year DHR spent $50 million on home and community care while paying $450 million to nursing homes.

The study will answer a number of questions about the programs. Do home and community care reduce nursing home admissions? Are they a suitable substitute for some kinds of nursing home care? Is there still a need for nursing homes in the minimum-care category? Results will influence future legislation and program priorities.

The public hearings are aimed at making sure all parties interested in home and community care get a chance to be heard. Testimony is expected from service providers, service recipients and their families and various authorities on the subject.
