Meat prices rose in first three months Government releases figures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is handing out more worrisome economic news, saying meat prices for the first three months of the year jumped 41 percent at an annual rate. Meanwhile other agencies were announcing a 2 1/2-year high for subsidized mortgage interest rates.

suggested that a $19.4 billion tax cut figure accepted by Carter be reduced to $5-to-$10 billion. The President's Council on Wage and Price Stability said Monday that short supplies and strong increases in consumer demand drove up meat prices.

FHA financing for moderate income home buyers and sellers who are the major beneficiaries of FHA-insured mortgage financing," she said.

The Carter administration views the discouraging economic picture as temporary — a factor of the bad winter and one-time market conditions.

In other economic developments Monday:

—HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. blasted doctors and hospitals for not restraining rising costs.

—Robert S. Strauss, Carter's chief adviser on inflation, is predicting the business community now knows it must accept smaller price increases before labor cooperates by demanding smaller wage boosts.

—Business knows they are going to have to step forward first (and) that will have a very, very salutary effect on labor negotiations if we take the right steps over the next few months," Strauss said. —Federal Reserve Board member Henry C. Wallich said, "Unless we do more than the president proposed, I fear we'll find inflation will accelerate." Wallich

But much of the rise in the first quarter compensated for the depressed beef price level in the last two years, the council said in its quarterly inflation report.

Both the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration said Monday their subsidized mortgages would hit a 2 1/2-year high of 9 percent.

The last time the FHA and VA rates reached that figure was the period from September 1975 to January 1976.

The secretary of housing and urban development, Patricia Roberts Harris, said the interest increases were needed "to bring FHA rates in line with other competitive rates in both the mortgage and financial markets.

Five killed in Peru strike

LIMA, Peru (AP) — At least five persons have been reported killed and dozens injured in a general strike against price increases decreed by the military government of Gen. Francisco Morales Bermudez.

Security officials clamped a midnight to five a. m. curfew on Lima and its port city, Callao, and warned the 4.5 million residents that troops have orders to shoot anyone without a special pass.

The Labor Ministry declared the Communist-led strike illegal and ordered workers to return to their jobs. But most observers believed the 48-hour strike will remain strong until it ends at midnight tonight.

Violence shook Lima's slums and the highland cities of Huancavelica and La Oroya Monday when security forces fired tear gas and warning shots to disperse mobs.

Three persons were killed near a bridge linking the international airport with downtown Lima after mobs blocked the road with barricades and pelted police with rocks, witnesses reported.

Highway approaches to the city from giant northern and southern city slums were blocked with debris. Public transportation in these areas was almost nonexistent.

Thousands of workers tried to get to factories but many turned back when they saw mobs on main avenues. Several banks and government offices opened briefly with skeleton crews.

In Huancavelica, 125 miles east of Lima, two persons were killed by security forces after mobs sacked stores and dynamited a power station, a rail terminal and government offices, witnesses said.

Rail, air and long-distance transportation was virtually at a standstill by noon Monday. Scores of tourists were stranded in Lima hotels but none was reported injured.

Price increases of 66 percent for gasoline, 50 percent for basic foods and 50 percent for transportation sparked the disorders. Per capita income in Peru is about $700 a year.

Church rejects homosexuals

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Overwhelmingly rejecting the ordination of practicing homosexuals, the United Presbyterian Church has taken the historic step of welcoming to its ministry gay men and women who seek to become heterosexual or remain celibate.

It was the first such explicit policy on homosexual clergy to be spelled out by a major Christian body.

The action by the church's 190th governing assembly late Monday came after an impassioned day of floor debate, culminating two years of study and wide controversy for the 2.6 million-member denomination. "For the church to ordain a self-affirming, practicing homosexual person to ministry would be to act in contradiction to its charter and calling in Scripture," the assembly declared.

The ordination of practicing homosexuals failed on a show of hands, with an estimated 600 of 650 votes against.

And while ordination of celibate homosexuals passed by about 600 to 50, some delegates objected to allowing any homosexual to become a Presbyterian minister.

It is "a perversion of the gospel of grace," the Rev. Laura Jervis of New York City told the assembly after its vote in the Convention Center, packed with observers and ablaze with television lights.

On the other side, Sandra Brawders, a Princeton theological seminary candidate for the ministry, had taken the floor during debate to dramatically acknowledge her homosexuality and declare: "We can discover and find ways to share the delicate and lovely rainbow of acceptance under which God offers to meet us all."

Citing Scripture, the assembly said God intended "loving companionship" between male and female or celibacy, following Jesus' lifestyle, and that "the practice of homosexuality is sin."

However, the assembly said the homosexual condition itself ordinarily is not voluntarily chosen and is "more a sign of brokenness of God's world than of wilful rebellion."

Repentant homosexuals able to redirect their desires toward heterosexual marriage or who remain celibate "can certainly be ordained" if otherwise qualified, the assembly declared, adding: "Indeed, such candidates must be welcomed and must be free to share their full identity."

A major ecclesiastical body has never before openly taken that position, although homosexuals are generally assumed to have served as clergymen since ancient times.

On a plea by the Rev. John T. Conner of Eugene, Ore., the assembly added a provision that its ban on ordaining practicing homosexuals would not be used to punish those already ordained.

The assembly's action rejected the findings of a two-year study that favored allowing ordination of practicing homosexuals, a position that had triggered turmoil in the church.

Chaplin's body is reburied

CORSIER-SUR-VEVEY, Switzerland (AP) — The body of Charlie Chaplin was reburied today in a concrete underground vault in the same spot from which it was stolen 12 weeks ago.

A family source said there was no new religious ceremony at Corsier-sur-Vevey village cemetery as the plain oak coffin was placed into the protective vault, built after the stolen remains of the famous film comedian were recovered last Wednesday.

Gino Terni, the Chaplin family butler, said the reburial took place in strict privacy. Only the widow, Oona, some of Chaplin's children and local officials attended the reburial. The family declined to talk to reporters.

The "strong, solid protection" for the grave was ordered by Mrs. Chaplin after the coffin was found buried by its thieves.

Texaco workers continue strike despite court order

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — Picketing lab workers kept up their vigil Monday night despite a court order obtained by Texaco, Inc., to halt the activity at the company's huge plant here.

Some strikers said they would continue to picket unless individually served with court orders.

The wildcat walkout was being honored by other members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers, and the plant was being operated by management personnel. U.S. District Judge Joe Fisher of Beaumont issued the restraining order Monday.

The lab workers were protesting what they said was promotion without regard to seniority. Pickets went up before dawn Monday, representing 180 workers in the products control lab.

Texaco spokesman Larry Bingaman said the personnel changes were "shift reassignments made under guidelines of the collective bargaining agreement."

300 people arrested Protesters vow return

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Hundreds of anti-nuclear weapon protesters arrested for crossing into the Navy's submarine base at Bangor vowed to keep returning until they are jailed.

Nearly 300 demonstrators were arrested and later released Monday after they climbed a 6-foot barbed wire fence at the base being built for missile-firing Trident submarines. The protesters want to "pack the jails" to draw attention to a United Nations special session on world disarmament that began today in New York.

World leaders will be meeting at U.N. headquarters in New York City for the five-week session starting Tuesday to discuss ways of trimming global arms spending, now nearly $400 billion a year.

The United States and the Soviet Union, which together account for more than half the annual total spent on arms, are expected to take the brunt of criticism leveled by Third World leaders, who want a major portion of weapons expenditures diverted to development.

The session is not expected to produce agreements on substantive issues but to provide an agenda to guide future disarmament talks.

Supreme Court strikes down portion of OSHA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, voting 5-3, ruled today that the federal government may not make unannounced inspections of the nation's workplaces.

The court struck down as unconstitutional a portion of the Occupational Safety and Health Act that has allowed Labor Department inspectors to carry out some 400,000 spot checks of factories and other business places since 1971.

The Constitution's protection against unreasonable searches applies to commercial premises as well as homes, the court said in an opinion written by Justice Byron R. White.

Today's decision upheld a 1976 ruling by a three-judge federal court in Idaho that government inspectors must first prove to a judge or magistrate that they have "probable cause" to believe safety hazards exist at a certain workplace.

The court's ruling virtually guts the Labor Department's strategy of keeping private employers alert to safety needs by holding over them the possibility of a surprise visit by government inspectors.

President of oil company resigns

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Gary Davis has submitted his resignation as president and chief executive officer of the troubled Commonwealth Oil Refining Company, Inc.

The company's directors made the announcement Monday and also disclosed two proposals aimed at easing financial problems.

Management was instructed to study proposals by Charter Oil Company, a subsidiary of the Charter Company of Jacksonville, Fla., and Roger Tamraz, who represents a group of private investors.

Corco directors said both proposals would be studied, but no further commitments were made and the company will continue to entertain all proposals from any other interested parties.

Charter proposed a merger that would provide cash, debt and equity securities for Corco creditors and equity securities for Corco shareholders.

Tamraz proposed a substantial investment in Corco by his group and a restructuring of its long-term indebtedness.

Davis' resignation will include his seat on the board of directors, subject to severance arrangements satisfactory to both parties.

Edward Doherty, vice president, general counsel and secretary of Corco, was elected president and chief executive officer on an interim basis.

Circuit Court rules Environmentalists upset about forests

DALLAS (AP) — A ruling by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that in effect allows clearcutting of timber in East Texas national forests is under fire from environmentalists.

The Texas Committee of Natural Resources has asked the appeals court to re-hear the case.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler had issued an injunction preventing the controversial form of timber harvesting. It was that injunction that was overruled by the circuit court.

TCNR head Ned Fritz, a Dallas lawyer, asked Monday that the case be re-heard.

"The undisputed evidence, including a letter written by the superintendent of the National Forest Service in Texas, shows that the Forest Service was engaged in a program to clearcut 556,458 acres of the national forests in Texas. This comprises all of the timber in the Texas national forests available for timber management purposes," Fritz said.

The appeals court said that its decision "is not a wholesale license to clearcut in Texas forests," Fritz said.

"Yet the court ordered the district court's injunction dissolved and required no environmental impact statement to be prepared on the Texas clearcutting program. That is tantamount to a wholesale license to clearcut the Texas national forests."

Angry owners write protests to Bureau

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms recently asked for public comment on proposed new gun regulations, project officer James A. Hunt thought perhaps 7,000 firearms owners would write letters to the bureau.

But the bureau has been hit with a blizzard of mail. More than 150,000 letters have been received to date, and each day letter carriers bring thousands more.

The overwhelming majority of writers are angry gun owners adamantly opposed to the proposed regulations, which they view as a step toward national gun registration.

"I invite you personally to try and take my gun away — you might get it, but it will be when you pry my cold dead fingers from it," said a Californian.

"We certainly don't need any more red tape, expense and paperwork where firearms are concerned, and we certainly don't need a national firearms registration program of any kind," said a Nebraska resident.

The proposals would require all new weapons to carry a federal serial number. Gun dealers would be required to promptly report all gun thefts and file quarterly reports stating the disposition of each firearm under their control.

Information from the reports, which would not include the name or address of private purchasers, would be stored in a Treasury Department computer.

Treasury officials repeatedly have denied that the proposals amount to gun registration.

Officer slain Monday

PORT ISABEL, Texas (AP) — A 29-year-old policeman was shot and killed late Monday as he and another officer approached a house where a family disturbance had been reported.

James Ralph Turner, 29, of Port Isabel died en route to a hospital at Brownsville, about 15 miles southwest, police said.

Melchor Salinas, 38, was arrested and charged with capital murder. Justice of the Peace Bud Emmons of Port Isabel denied bond and ordered Salinas held in the Cameron County Jail at Brownsville.

Filibusters provide information

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's filibuster time in the Senate again and thank goodness. How else would we find out about the Tiger Rag, the origins of jazz and the 1906 riot in Vancouver, British Columbia?

And the attempt to talk to death the so-called labor reform bill has only begun. Before it ends, millions upon millions of irrelevant words will fill the Senate record.

Opponents of the bill are assigned speaking time to fill and it was Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., who offered the little known facts about the Tiger Rag, jazz and Vancouver.

"I should like to explain how jazz was born," said the California senator. "This is a very strange subject to bring up in this context, but it really is a fact."

According to Hayakawa, "Before and during the Civil War and thereafter, there existed in the South, especially in New Orleans, a large class of Negro workmen, skilled workmen, craftsmen, people who were literate, people who could read music and belonged to fraternal societies and burial societies and played band music."

"After the Civil War and as the union movement grew and grew in the South what happened was this: The illiterate lower-class Negro drifting in from the fields, learning to play band instruments and getting jobs in nightclubs and at houses of ill repute and so on, constituted part of the entertainment life of New Orleans."

"As the trade unions became stronger and stronger, what happened next was that the white trade unions drove out of their occupations the Negro plasterers, cigar makers, hat makers, masons and so on," said Hayakawa.

The next step was that "these literate, moderately well-educated amateur musicians, who could read French classical band music, were thrown together with the illiterate musicians" and, according to Hayakawa, the result was jazz.

As for the Vancouver riot, it was aimed at Japanese immigrants, regarded as a threat to jobs, and it took place the same week that Hayakawa was born in that

Woman killed in police chase

COLUMBIA, Tenn. (AP) — An 18-year-old woman who allegedly stole four candy bars worth 80 cents from an all-night grocery store died in a car wreck while trying to elude police, authorities said.

Brenda Goetz, a dispatcher with the Columbia Police Department, said the manager of an IGA store reported that a young woman took the candy bars without paying for them early Monday. He told police the woman fled the store when he approached her.

According to police reports, the woman, identified as Kathy Wimberly of Clarksville, pulled a friend from a car parked in front of the store and sped away, wrecking it two blocks away.

After abandoning the car, the woman ran to a nearby house, told the man living there she had been in an accident and that she needed his help, police said. After they got into the man's car, she told him she had a gun and forced him out of the vehicle, police said.

Four blocks from the store and with police in pursuit, Miss Wimberly drove the second car into a tree and was pinned inside. She died soon after at Maury County

United Nations meets Arms race discussed

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Proposals calling for specific goals and new machinery to end the arms race will be taken up by the General Assembly in its first special session on disarmament in the 33-year history of the United Nations.

The opening program, set for this afternoon, centers on election of Yugoslav Deputy Foreign Minister Lazar Mojsov to preside over the special session as he did over the 1977 regular session.

Upward of 20 heads of government and 50 cabinet ministers are to speak in a two-and-a-half-week debate starting Wednesday. A committee will put the proposals in shape for the assembly's adoption.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance's and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko's appearances in the assembly will be a prelude to their resumption of talks on a new strategic arms limitation agreement.

Jury selected in murder trial

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — A panel of seven women and five men were chosen to hear the murder trial of Kerry Rodney Lee after seven hours of questioning by attorneys and District Judge Maurice Sanchez.

The judge kept the court in session until 10:30 p.m. Monday in an order to get the jury seated for the trial of Lee, accused of the 1974 mutilation death of University of New Mexico student William Velten Jr.

The 12 jurors and four alternates were selected from a group of 120 prospective jurors who crowded into the courtroom in the first day of the trial. The potential jurors were questioned individually in the judge's chambers as well as in the courtroom.

Some of the questions put before them concerned their feelings on homosexuality, psychiatrists, mutilation and born-again Christianity.

Lee, 27, allegedly made a statement in connection with the Albuquerque killing of Velten after undergoing a religious conversion in South Carolina.

The alleged statement, which Sanchez had ruled earlier Monday can be introduced in the trial, helped gain freedom for four members of a California motorcycle gang convicted by an Albuquerque jury of the Feb. 66, 1974, slaying.

Sanchez said he hopes to have the trial, which was moved to Santa Fe from Albuquerque on a change of venue, concluded by Friday.

Defense attorneys Ray Hamilton and Bruce Kelly asked each prospective juror concerning any feelings about homosexuality that would impair reaching an impartial verdict.

Both sides asked jurors if they would be influenced for or against a defendant who was a born-again Christian and asked some of them, particularly the females, about their emotional ability to handle physical details of the case.

Hamilton also asked jurors their feelings about testimony from psychiatrists or psychologists.

Energy Stalemate on Carter's plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — An end to the long stalemate on President Carter's energy program appears at hand, but congressional staff aides say it may be months before the legislation can go to the president's desk.

House-Senate conferees are meeting today to act on a proposed compromise on the difficult natural gas pricing part of the plan. Leaders on both sides claim they now have enough votes to approve the measure — if narrowly.

Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, the top House negotiator, said there are 13 firm votes for the plan among the 25 House negotiators. And the Senate conference leader, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., predicted a 10-7 margin among Senate conferees.

House conferees were caucusing at mid-morning, with a meeting of the full committee set several hours later.

Acceptance of the compromise would finally break the logjam that has stalled action on the president's energy program since the congressional negotiators took up natural gas pricing last Dec. 2.

The compromise would lift federal price controls from newly discovered natural gas on Jan. 1, 1985, while providing an annual price increase of about 10 percent in the interim.

Congressional economists say the bill would cost consumers about $9 billion more through 1985 as opposed to the status quo.

Schlesinger is 'charming'

WASHINGTON (AP) — While there is still, a year later, much disagreement in Washington about the president's energy plan, there is impressive agreement about the man he has chosen to administer it.

The consensus seems to be that James Rodney Schlesinger is a man with an acutely incisive mind and an utterly resistable personality.

"He's erratically brilliant," says a man who has long known the secretary of energy. "He's arrogant, secretive, probing, tough, brutal, and his best kept secret is that he can be charming."

Confronted with such adjectives, Schlesinger says, "I regard myself as quite easy going." This may be his dry humor, about which there are many testimonials and few examples.

Farm Ag. Department plans equal rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department, after delaying for six years, has proposed rules which would give women equal rights with men in educational programs it helps finance.

The proposal, for example, would allow girls in 4-H clubs to participate in events that for boys, such as automobile rodeo competitions. In a proposal signed May 3, before he left for an overseas trip, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland directed his agency to abide by a section of a 1972 law which provides for "sex non-discrimination regulations in certain education programs and activities getting financial aid from the U.S. Department of Agriculture."

The proposal, officials said Monday, would make USDA the second federal department to have such regulations in force. The first was the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Poisoned moonshine cause of death?

ATLANTA (AP) — Four people are dead in west-central Georgia because a moonshiner may have tossed an old car battery into his mash, poisoning the home brew with lead, says Dr. James Collins.

But relatives of those victims and seven others who have become ill will not help him find the still, Collins said Monday.

The doctor said he first noticed the symptoms about eight months ago, and the first victim died about two months later. The most recent death was three weeks ago.

The homemade whiskey may be poison because the moonshiner "condenses it in car radiators, which have lead in them," the Manchester physician said. Or "he may throw an old auto battery in it."

"The sulfuric acid makes the mash work off better. People who don't know any chemistry don't know there's lead in those batteries."

The victims are all from the same area, the doctor said in a telephone interview. "There have been two or three in one family, brothers and sisters, maybe a sister-in-law, all heavy drinkers."

Meriwether County Sheriff Dan Branch said: "The relatives say they don't know where it came from and they won't tell you anything. They won't talk to Dr. Collins."

He said he called in state agents, but so far they have not been able to find the still.

"I have personally tried to convince the father of the family involved that I'd get involved, go beat the bushes, find out who sold the whiskey," Collins said. "He acts like he doesn't care. I know he cares, but he doesn't know what to do."

Victims of lead poisoning become pale, irritable and constipated over a period of time, depending on how much and how fast they drink, he said.

The lead affects the brain, leading to death or permanent mental disorders.

Killer whale bites legs of trainer

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A lucky animal trainer walked away with minor wounds after a 7,500-pound killer whale chomped down on his legs at Sea World Marine Park.

Winston the whale was only acting "playfully" when he nipped trainer Greg Williams on Monday, park spokesman Bill Seaton said.

The 20-foot whale, which has been at the park since October 1976, took the trainer's legs in its mouth during a training session, Seaton said.

"The whale released Greg Williams almost immediately and nudged him over to the stage as is routine during the act," he said. "Williams walked off the stage unassisted."

Williams, 29, was treated at Mission Bay Hospital for several small puncture wounds.
