DUSTY RHODES, candidate
...and Tammy Wynette at an Abilene rally

Rhodes, Tammy Wynette, fiddlers big hits at rally

By MARJ CARPENTER
ABILENE — Tammy Wynette and Janet Jae lived up to the Civic Center Thursday night before an enthusiastic group of supporters for Dusty Rhodes for Congress.

Rhodes brought in Tammy Wynette, the top country western singer, a band called 'Tweed' from Hee Haw and Janet Jae, the well-known female fiddler, for a rally in Taylor County.

Close to 1,400 persons gathered for the night of music, which was reminiscent of the old days of the bands playing behind the candidates as they stomped across the state.

Rhodes spoke briefly, emphasizing his appreciation for the support of his campaign and asking for the vote of the people at the rally, adding, "You own the seat."

He was introduced by Crews McCulloch, one of the losing candidates in the primary. McCulloch, a Weatherford candidate who ran fifth in the initial primary, earlier endorsed Rhodes.

McCulloch reaffirmed that endorsement Thursday night and stressed, "Dusty Rhodes is an honest man, who is for a strong defense and a free America."

The two-hour program included few political talks. Rhodes introduced his wife, four children and mother-in-law on stage.

At the end of the rally, Miss Wynette walked down front singing "My Man" and pulled the candidate to his feet drawing a standing ovation from his supporters.

They plan a rally in the Dora Roberts Community Center in Big Spring at 7:30 p.m. today on election eve, featuring Johnny Cantrell and Fascination, a Big Spring band. The public is invited.

County judge's race expected to be close

May banner month for local building

May was another banner month for building in Big Spring.

Construction costs came to $747,425 for the month, bringing the total for the year to date to $4,787,176. Although the May 1977 figure was close to this year's at $746,473, last year's five-month total came to only $1,270,852, over $3 million less than this year's.

Over $585,000 of this year's costs for May can be attributed to seven new homes going up soon.

By far the costliest new residence will be built by Gary Turner at 600 Avondale. The home, which will feature a swimming pool, cabana and tennis courts, has been estimated to cost $250,000.

Another home will be constructed by Robert Allen at 2203 E. 25th. It is the next costliest for the month at $110,000.

Other new homes will include ones built by: J. Rodney Lewis, 2804 Crestline, $45,000; Larry D. Sheppard, 2806 MacAuslan, $65,000; Dr. and Mrs. Shelton, 704 Capri, $55,000; Jose Moran, 208 N.E. 7th, $10,000; and Robert McKenzie, 2 Bennett, $50,000.

In addition to residential construction, local attorney Wayne Basden will construct an office complex at 606 Gregg at a cost of $50,000. Also Don Newsom will construct a $20,000 addition to his grocery store at 1910 Gregg.

today in preparation for Saturday's elections.

Four local elections have been thrown into runoff which will be settled at the polls by 7 p.m. Saturday night.

In the county judge's race, which by all accounts will be the closest within memory, incumbent Bill Tune seeks to stand off a strong challenge from attorney Frankie Boyd. Experienced voter watchers say the election margin will be within 100 votes in the hotly contested race, with the outcome uncertain.

The candidates have spent a total of $3,986 to capture the $14,832 slot.

In the Justice of the Peace, Precinct One, Place Two race, incumbent Gus Ochotorena faces challenger Lewis Heflin. Voters who selected third candidate Robert C. (Bob) Smith (who collected over 1,000 votes in the first primary) will find that their votes decide this election.

The candidates have spent $2,995 in their pursuit of the $8,148 slot.

The two county commissioner races are also expected to be close. In precinct two, incumbent Ike Rupard faces Paul Allen. The candidates have spent $1,786 to gain the $7,685 slot.

In precinct four, David Barr and Terry Hanson are battling for the seat vacated by Jack Buchanan. Buchanan saw his political aspirations fade as he ran for county judge and failed to make the runoff cut.

Barr and Hanson have spent $4,583 in pursuit of the $7,685 slot.

Each of the above political offices also carries a $1,500 car allowance.

Election fever builds

With campaign fever beginning to peak today, optimism runs high in the camps of candidates for the 17th Congressional District seat.

A.L. "Dusty" Rhodes and Charles Stenholm profess to be pleased with what they're hearing, seeing and feeling out on the hustings.

RHODES, who will celebrate his 46th birthday three days after the Democratic runoff Saturday, is "plugging hard."

The Abilene attorney and members of his family will share top billing tonight in Big Spring with Johnny Cantrell and Fascination musicians in the Dora Roberts Community Center. The rally kicks off at 7:30 p.m. It had been booked at the amphitheater at Comanche Trail Park — before the rains came.

Rhodes' campaign was perked up Thursday night with the pickin' and singin' of Tammy Wynette and her band at a district-wide "Dusty Rhodes to Congress" rally in the Abilene Civic Center. Supporters from all 33 counties in the huge 17th District attended.

"We're going to win this thing," Joe Hale, campaign manager for Rhodes declared. A key local backer of Rhodes predicted a 65 per cent chunk of "about 4,000 votes to be cast in the county." His margin of victory prediction in the district slipped to 53 per cent.

Stenholm, a 39-year-old Stamford farm, continues to plow hard for votes. His attractive, energetic wife Cindy has cultivated many friends during the campaign.

A veteran political "expert" predicts Stenholm will "sweep" the district by 56 per cent and Howard County by 63 per cent.

THE 22 POLLS in Howard County will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Voters who do not have their new registration cards may still vote as the polling places will be equipped with names of those previously registered, County Clerk Margaret Ray said.

County Democratic Chairman Evan Evans predicted 4,200 votes — if it's not raining Saturday.

Rhodes and Stenholm are fighting hard for a major slice of the 4,814 Howard County votes "plum" plucked by Jim Baum, Big Spring broadcaster, in the primary. Rhodes captured second place with 814 votes in the county. Stenholm received 468.

Stenholm, who set the pace in 20 of the 33 counties, led the district Democratic ticket 36,537 to 34,522 for Rhodes.

Candidates are casting an eye toward the skies today with hopes the weatherman is wrong.

A PREDICTION of cloudy skies and a good chance for rain could take the edge off a near record absentee vote in the county, which hit 606 this morning.

For the voters, Saturday will be a day of decision, and for newcomers to the state, a new experience in politics Texas-style. The two primary elections were conducted by the respective political parties, Democratic and Republican. Voters must choose one, or the other. They cannot vote in both.

And once you have cast a vote in a primary, you can only vote in a runoff race in that party. Republicans voting in their own primary cannot later vote in any runoff races in the Democratic primary. But an eligible voter who casts no ballot in either primary can vote in the runoff.

There are no Republican runoffs in Howard County.

An "inside" report obtained by national Carter delegate Delano Shaw, refused to pick a winner in the Rhodes-Stenholm tiff. However, the special report signaled bad news for the Republican nominee Bill Fisher, Abilene tax attorney.

"THE WINNER of the Democratic runoff will almost certainly win the general," the "insider" predicted.

The "secret" message stated "Sen. Kent Hance, a Democrat, is a slight underdog against whoever wins the GOP runoff between George Bush Jr., Midland, and former Odessa Mayor Jim Reese, who won 45 per cent of the votes against Mahon during 1976" in the 19th Congressional District race.

One area-wide race is for judge of the 11th District Court of Civil Appeals. The two candidates, both from Abilene, are Bob Dickenson and J. Neil Daniel.

Railroad commissioner John Poerner said today he has been endorsed for the Democratic nomination by Speaker Bill Clayton and more than half the Texas House.

His opponent is Jerry Sadler, the 70-year-old former land commissioner and railroad commissioner, who led in the first primary.

THE ONLY STATEWIDE RACE in the runoff is for a two-year term.

Poerner was appointed to the post by Gov. Dolph Briscoe. Poerner is a former member of Briscoe's staff.

Clayton issued a statement saying Poerner "has earned the respect and attention of officials in every level of government."

"He has built a career as a successful businessman, rancher and farmer. I am glad to join with my fellow members of the House in urging Texas to vote for John Poerner on June 3," Clayton said.

Poerner said it made him "feel very proud and humble to receive this recognition from responsible people who are judging me from personal knowledge."

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Racing results

Q. Why has the Big Spring Herald stopped running the results of the horse races at Ruidoso Downs when there are a lot of racing fans here?

A. The wire on which the race results were reported was provided by the management of Ruidoso Downs. Costs kept escalating, according to Dick Alwan, publicity director of the track. When they become prohibitive, the Ruidoso Downs people decided to reduce the number of wire machines. The results are carried on the Associated Press wire out of Albuquerque but not on the Texas wire.

Big Spring Airport fueling airplanes

Thursday was the first day of official operations at the new Big Spring Airport on former Webb AFB property.

Although fixed base operators have not begun business, fuel will be available for planes at the airport, according to Col. (Ret.) Harry Spannaus, airport manager.

The FBO's will set up operations shortly, according to Spannaus. In the interim, basic operations will continue at the Howard County Airport until T-hangars can be moved to the new facility.

Visual flights rules will be observed until the airport's instrument landing system is approved by the Federal Aviation Administration.

"I applied for approval of the instrument system in February. That means that they (FAA officials) are nearly four months overdue, and I am getting sick of the delays," said Spannaus.

He added that he would contact federal officials today in an attempt to hurry the approval.

Extension agents in at least three counties, Howard, Dawson and Mitchell all pointed out that "We will need additional showers after the cotton's up, but moisture is certainly welcome after the long dry spell."

Rainfall today was light out in the Stanton and Lenora area but heavier toward Gail and north of town.

The Big Spring official measurement at the Experiment Station today was .45.

Rainfall in Ackerly was .4 in the recent shower and Stanton has totaled around 1.3 during the past two days.

Lamesa has had two inches this week and it was raining again this morning. Colorado City reported it had rained there all morning and that they have had 2.5 inches this week.

The Lenora-Tarzan area reported .05 in the past 24 hours with an additional sprinkle this morning. Their rain has measured 1.3 for two days with the rainfall in the flats between Lenora and Big Spring up to three inches.

Gail has had an additional two to 2.5 inches during the week with the south of Borden County getting up to 1.5.

Glasscock County reported .5 in Garden City today and around .1 in the west part of the county yesterday.

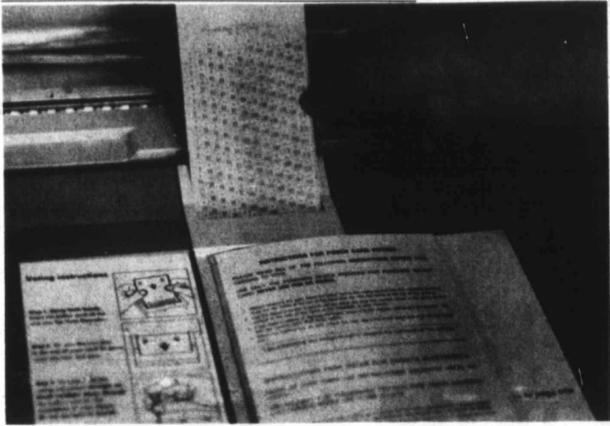

The Lomax area received about .4 with Coahoma .7 and Luther .3 during the most recent shower.

All systems 'go' for Demo runoff

By CARLA WALKER
"We used the computer tabulation voting method for the May 6 primary election, as well as the 1976 Democratic Primary, and it has provided a faster, more accurate way of counting ballots, but voters still have to ask 'How does this thing work?' when they go to the polls," said Howard County Clerk Margaret Ray.

Although the process is simple, many voters seem to have a fear of doing something wrong and therefore having their vote counted for the wrong candidate, or of a computer foul-up messing up the whole election. Both fears are unfounded and the likelihood of either situation happening is small indeed. The computer program for Saturday's primary runoff was checked Thursday by running 55 test ballots—marked in every conceivable way that could foul the computer—and the computer tally matched the hand-counted total, vote for vote.

"We had to make sure that ballots with, for example, both Stenholm and Rhodes marked in the Congressional race, would be not be counted on that race—as the law specifies—but valid votes cast in the other races on the same ballot be counted properly," Mrs. Ray explained. After showing his voter registration card to the precinct polling supervisor, each voter will receive his ballot, actually a numbered computer punch card. The ballot is then inserted into the voting machine, where it will fit in only one way—the correct way.

The two holes at the top of the ballot should fit firmly over the pegs at the top of the voting machine, and as each page is turned, the proper column of the punch card is lined up under the holes in the voting "book" which lists the office and runoff candidates in the two languages specified by Texas law. Using the stylus—a "poker" with a handle—the voter punches out the perforated spot beneath the hole representing the candidate of his choice.

After voting is completed, the ballot is placed in the locked ballot box, with this part of the process representing no change from the old voting process.

From that point, the change in election methods is both drastic and represents a vast improvement over the past voting processes.

The ballots are taken to the computer, located in the office of Tax Assessor-Collector Zerah Bednar, where they are run through to tabulate the final vote count faster, easier, and in most cases more accurately than human count.

"In years past when votes were counted by hand it was normal to get a final vote at 3 a.m. or 4 a.m. the following morning, and once, we didn't finish until almost 10 a.m.," said Ray. "The first time the computer system was used, we completed the counting at 11:30 p.m. in spite of the delay caused when the computer went out and we were forced to get a sheriff's deputy to transport the ballots to Gamco to be tabulated on their computer."

"In the May 6 primary, we had the final tabulation at 10 p.m., and I hope the runoff count will go even faster," Mrs. Ray stated.

The only remaining drawback to the computer voting system seems to be the problem of figuring out how to write in a candidate, and Mrs. Ray was ready with the answer. "Of course, in Saturday's election, since it is a second primary, there can be no write-ins," Mrs. Ry began, "but write-ins were possible in the May 6 primary, and will be again in the November general election, so the question is a valid one."

"Each precinct judge in the November election will have write-in envelopes, available on request. Voters wishing to write in a candidate must simply request the write-in envelope and, like the name implies, write in the name of whomever they wish to vote for," Mrs. Ray explained. The write-in ballots are tabulated by hand, since the computer only reads punch card ballots. Saturday, without the precinct party meetings that were held at the polling locations immediately following the May 6 primary, and without write-in ballots to count, Mrs. Ray hopes to conclude the tabulations early.

"Barring unforeseen and unlikely problems, we are hoping to be through by 8:30 p.m. or 9 p.m. Saturday," Mrs. Ray said. "I hope so; it seems like we've been 'electioning' all year already."

Two-hour jewel auction

NEW YORK (AP) — It took Christie's just 2½ hours to auction off $1.5 million in jewels, including an 18-carat pink diamond ring that went for $330,000, the day's top bid at the Park Avenue showroom.

The pink diamond ring was the last item on the auction list Thursday. Set with a shield-shaped diamond, it's flanked on each side by a tapered baguette, mounted in platinum.

Number 131 on the list, an onyx, crystal and diamond art deco table clock, was sold for $26,400.

Ship searches for modules

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Glomar Explorer, which once went digging in the Pacific for a sunken Soviet submarine, soon will be plying the ocean in search of manganese modules.

The 36,000-ton vessel, built by the late Howard Hughes and used by the CIA to look for the sub in 1974, has been in mothballs since 1976. It was towed Thursday 30 miles from Suisan Bay to San Francisco Bay for five weeks of repairs.

Surgeons sent to Saudi

HOUSTON (AP) — Dr. Michael E. DeBakey says a team from the Baylor College of Medicine and Methodist Hospital of Houston will be sent to Saudi Arabia for a year, perhaps two, to handle heart operations.

DeBakey says two surgeons, along with several nurses and technicians, also will train a Saudi medical staff in heart surgery. The program, started at the request of the Saudi Arabian government, will be paid for by the Middle East nation.

Sight may increase

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Women may be able to see more light on the day they ovulate than at any other time, University of Florida researchers believe.

"We are not talking about acuity or sharpness of vision, but the ability to detect illuminated objects such as far away stars in the sky at night," Dr. William Dawson, professor of ophthalmology, said Thursday.

Races involving a conservative black representative, a lawmaker who fated when his bills didn't pass and a maverick South Texan make Saturday's legislative run-offs at least as interesting as the statewide contest for railroad commissioner.

Voters in two senatorial districts and 13 House districts will return to the polls to finish the job of nominating Democratic legislative candidates.

Republicans are waiting for the Democratic nominees in both Senate races and in eight House races when the November election rolls around.

Rep. Bob Vale, a veteran of seven two-year terms in the House, and lawyer Phil Hardeberger, are tangling for the Senate seat now held by Frank Lombardino, D-San Antonio. Vale led in the first primary election that retired Lombardino.

Vale is regarded as the more liberal of the two candidates to succeed the conservative Lombardino.

The other Senate race matches Don Workman of Lubbock, member of the Texas Tech board of regents, and Rep. E. L. Short, D-Tahoka, both conservatives.

One race that will get a lot of attention is between Rep. Clay Smothers and automotive worker Charles Rose, both blacks, in the Oak Cliff section of Dallas.

Smothers delighted white conservatives in the House with his speeches against such things as a state park in a ghetto section of Houston, where he said winos would congregate.

The House elected him rookie of the year last session.

Another Dallas race pits black Rep. Sam Hudson against Wes Pool, son of the late Congressman Joe Pool and a former aide of U.S. Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Texas.

Hudson starved himself, subsisting on fruit juices, for several weeks last session to protest the slow movement of his bills in several House committees.

Another incumbent with a run-off opponent is Rep. Ernestine Glossbrenner of Alice, who sponsored the bill repealing the requirement that Texans sign their ballot stubs.

Ms. Glossbrenner, a former school teacher, is opposed by Homero Canales of Alice.

Tarrant County's new single-member district arrangement produced three run-offs, Jack Clark and Lanny Hall, Rep. Leonard Briscoe and Reby Cary and Roy C. Brooks vs. Bobby Webber.

The Briscoe-Cary and Brooks-Webber contests both match blacks against blacks.

The Edwards-Womack contest will name a successor to Rep. Anthony Hall, and the Lee-Watson race is to replace Rep. Mickey Leland.

Charles Stenholm, candidate for Congress in the 17th District, on the final day of the campaign before the runoff vote this Saturday, urged voters to turn out and express their preference for the candidate of their choice.

"I know voters are really tired of listening to us and ready for it to be over, but I cannot emphasize enough the importance of each individual's vote. Your voice in Washington is important to you," Stenholm stated.

Leader in the first primary, Stenholm added, "I realize some of the aspects of this campaign, such as the destruction of private property, the harassment, calls to our workers and other things, have been an embarrassment to the good people of this district."

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas has three new members on the Democratic National Committee that will ride herd on the 1980 contest for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The new national committee members from Texas, part of a nine-member state delegation, were elected Thursday by a special meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

They are:

— Sylvia Rodriguez, San Antonio, to succeed Alicia Chacon, El Paso, who resigned to accept a Carter administration appointment to the Small Business Administration. Mrs. Rodriguez is a former member of the state committee and an active worker with Mexican-American political organizations.

— Carrin Patman, wife of Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado, longtime leader in state liberal Democratic circles, who will succeed Jess Hay, Dallas, Briscoe's chief money raiser and campaign organizer in the recent unsuccessful primary effort. Hay resigned shortly after the May 6 election. Mrs. Patman was a member of the national committee in 1969-72 and has served on national party commissions drafting reform delegation selection rules. She is a current member of the state party committee.

— Jesus Ramirez, 27-year-old city manager of San Juan and an active campaign director for Attorney General John Hill, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, and Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Texas, the Senate nominee. He was a coordinator for Jimmy Carter in the 1976 election. Ramirez replaces Joe Bernal, former state senator who received a Carter appointment as regional head of the ACTION federal agency.

Old truck not forgotten

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio (AP) — Floyd Powell was only 11 years old when his father sold the family's 1930 Model AA Ford in 1945, but he remembered the truck so well that he was able to pick it out at an antique auto flea market in Indianapolis last summer.

"When I walked around the rear of it and saw the way the tailgate was constructed, I thought, 'This is it,'" he said.

His father, who died several years ago, bought the truck in 1938. It has been used as a school bus, so a new cab had to be mounted on the chassis. Powell's father and grandfather then sent to a sawmill, got some wood and built a 12-foot bed on the back to haul farm produce to market.

The grain bed is still intact, including the custom tailgate they fashioned for emptying grain.

Powell, a production supervisor for an industrial machinery manufacturer, says he plans to restore the old truck.

Paynes return from son's graduation

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Payne, Jr. recently returned from Washington, D. C. where they attended the graduation of their oldest son, John, from the Georgetown University Law Center with the degree of Juris Doctor.

In August he will also officially complete a Master of Science in Foreign Service from the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service. Both the J.D. and M.S.F.S. degrees are part of a four-year joint degree program set up five years ago by the School and Law Center.

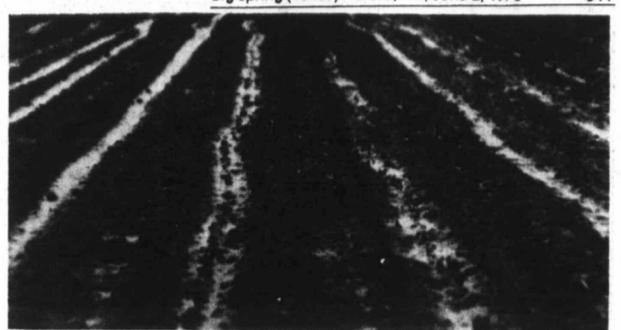

John was graduated from Seguin High School in 1966 where he was a National Merit Scholar. After taking a B.A. from the University of Texas at Austin in 1970 he did graduate study as a Fulbright scholar at the University of the Saar, Saarbrücken, Germany.

Enroute from Washington, the Paynes stopped off in Houston to attend the baptism of their two-month old grandson, Bart Thomas Bedsole. Bart's mother is the former Ruth Ellen Payne of Big Spring. Her father officiated at the ceremony held May 28 at the Church of the Epiphany, Houston.

McEvers attend graduation rites

Mr. and Mrs. D.M. McEvers of 605 Johnson Street have returned from Lubbock, where they attended graduation rites at Coronado High School for their granddaughter, Miss Kenda Kay Henderson.

Very heavy thunderstorms erupted near Odessa early today after at least one tornado, heavy rain, high winds and golf ball size hail struck West and Northwest Texas.

A tornado was sighted Thursday night near Muleshoe. Heavy rainfall was reported across much of the Panhandle. At Amarillo, about two inches of rain fell in a short period of time. Some street flooding was reported at Amarillo and Tulia.

Golf ball size hail struck about 10 miles southwest of Slaton early today and smaller size hail was reported at other locations, including Lubbock.

The very heavy thunderstorm activity was reported east and west of Odessa. Forecasters said heavy rain, hail and gusty winds were expected as the storm in the Odessa area moved eastward.

Elsewhere, some shower activity was reported along the coast and in sections of East Texas. Some fog was reported in North Texas.

Prepare Ye For The Kingdom Of God

And He told them a parable: "Behold the fig tree, and all the trees;

as soon as they put forth leaves, you see it and know for yourselves that the summer is now near.

"Even so you, too, when you see these things happening, recognize that the kingdom of God is near.

"Truly I say to you, this generation will not pass away until all things take place.

"Heaven and earth will pass away, but My words will not pass away.

"Be on guard, that your hearts may not be weighted down with dissipation and drunkenness and the worries of life, and that day come on you suddenly like a trap;

for it will come upon all those who dwell on the face of all the earth.

"But keep on the alert at all times, praying in order that you may have strength to escape all these things that are about to take place, and to stand before the Son of Man."

Minister reappointed

The Rev. Weldon Butler was reappointed minister of the Big Spring First United Methodist Church at the annual United Methodist Conference held in Midland.

Charles Parham Jr. director of music, along with other directors of music in the conference have been designated again this year with a new church title of diaconal minister.

This does not mean they officiate at ministerial functions, but a title in connection with their auxiliary service to the church.

Our friends look to us for help Africa is getting an increasing amount of attention in the world's newspapers. Most of it, lamentably, is the kind that betrays man's inhumanity to man.

The violence escalates almost daily. The Carter Administration has expressed great concern over it and the problem should get priority.

The cause for most of the continent's restlessness and blood-letting, American government officials are convinced, comes from Soviet arms and Cuban troops.

THERE'S NOT much doubt that that these two nations are taking active roles in the hostilities. The Soviets and the Cubans are agitating the situation in Zaire, in Ethiopia's conflicts with Somalia and Eritrea, the black rebel battles in Rhodesia and Namibia.

The only armed conflicts believed to be free of Russo-Cuban influence are those in Chad and Western Sahara, and that may be because the two countries haven't gotten around to those struggles yet.

President Carter recently told bipartisan leaders of Congress he was "gravely concerned" he may be unable to give aid to African allies of the United States due to the restrictions Congress has placed on the granting of foreign military aid.

As an example, Mr. Carter said, he is prevented from dispatching military weaponry to Zaire because of legislation blocking military credit sales to any nation that owes the United States for previous purchases. Zaire reportedly is in debt to the United States to the extent of $400,000.

WHILE RUSSIAN and Cuban buccaneer rove over various areas of the continent, as if it were their private game preserve, this nation cannot effectively assist those governments believed to be friendly toward us, because our laws prevent it.

The situation cannot be dismissed as other than most serious. Mr. Carter's first option is to seek a political solution to the conflicts. Though that would be ideal, it would appear that would now be all but impossible.

No one is advocating America's military presence in Africa. If it takes emergency legislation by Congress to permit the president to ship arms to nations friendly to us, such action should be realistically considered. The freebooters of Russia and Cuba won't be deterred by anything less.

Carter plays Illinois

Evans, Novak

CHICAGO — President Carter finally made an old-fashioned partisan speech to the late Mayor Richard Daley's Cook County Democratic organization, but he scrupulously protected his own downstate political interests in a flashy display of ambiguous Carter-style politics here last week.

The ambiguity was both typical and intentional. With his huge strength in Chicago's teeming black wards a political constant ("Jimmy has a mystical link with blacks," one white legislator from Cook County told us), the president had little need to woo the once-impregnable Daley organization.

Now weakened and facing more troubles in the future as Daley's former lieutenants fight for power, the country's last political machine is perceived by Jimmy Carter's political aides as not quite superfluous but surely as of declining value.

Mr. Carter is a different political breed from such predecessor national leaders as Sen. George McGovern, the late Hubert Humphrey and former President John F. Kennedy. He is not persona non grata downstate, where antipathy for the Chicago Democratic machine is expressed in language unfit for the family dinner table.

HAVING PASSED up last year's annual fund-raising dinner here hosted by Book County chairman George Dunne, Daley's successor as party chairman, Mr. Carter allowed Dunne's invitation to this year's May 25 dinner to languish unanswered on his desk for weeks. That infuriated outspoken chairman Dunne, and led to juicy stories about the president's White House staff work, notoriously sloppy, and his failure to appreciate how dependent he is on Dunne's party organization.

In fact, however, the long delay in accepting Dunne's invitation was deliberate, an indication of the high importance given by the White House to the Baptist belt in downstate Illinois, full of twice-born Christians far removed from Chicago's racial polyglot.

Reflecting the White House mood was this reply by a presidential aide when we asked him about fractured relations with Dunne. "The only trouble with George Dunne," he told us, "is George Dunne."

Indeed it was not until he arrived here that the president finally decided to give the frankly partisan speech wanted by Dunne for his $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner, packed with organization leaders (and a sprinkling of Republican businessmen long allied with Daley). Twice discarding speech proposals portraying himself in a more presidential image, Jimmy Carter at the last minute chose to dish out partisan red meat only slightly disguised by his bland delivery. For the first time in his administration he also departed from his anti-pomp-and-ceremony campaign to give specific approval for the playing of "Hail to the Chief" — a stirring symbol dear to the hearts of Cook County patriots.

BUT JUST 12 hours later, addressing a joint session of the Democratic-controlled legislature, President Carter played a different tune. "I am a very conservative Southern businessman by circumstance," he said in the course of a long, affirmative reply to a legislator's question as to whether he intended to push the labor reform bill through Congress. Such a self-description would have been heresy the previous evening; downstate, it reminded Illinois farmers and small businessmen that Jimmy Carter, like them, is a small-town Southerner. "He wants to remind them that he has a rural background, too, and isn't in with that Cook County crowd," one prominent Democrat told us.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

At this crucial time when much effort is being expended to replace the loss of Webb Air Force Base it is each citizen's responsibility to evaluate the individuals who will be the potential leaders of our community. For instance, the position of County Judge is one of utmost importance and we are faced with a runoff in that office. Both individuals are campaigning vigorously and I am sure have qualifications which merit consideration.

There is an issue over a law degree which one campaigner states makes her the only person qualified for this important position.

The Constitution for the State of Texas declares that county judges "shall be well informed in the law of the state." As a practical matter this means no formal study of law nor a license to practice law is required as a part of the qualifications of a county judge.

Since a law degree is not needed then what is the main qualification? The answer — experience. And who has more experience than Bill Tune? He managed county business as a commissioner for four years and has done an admirable job as judge for three and one-half years. In his official capacity he has had jurisdiction of all misdemeanors, appeals from justice's courts, probated wills, appointed guardians of minors and mentally incompetent individuals, and, to me, most importantly, he has been the presiding officer of a harmonious commissioners court, the active governing body of Howard County, who have been able to continue the regulation of taxation and maintain the budget within the available revenue. He has had equal voting rights with the other commissioners on major issues and has not hesitated to exercise his vote whether there was a tie among the other members of the court or not. Can a person with no experience in business management possible challenge a successful businessman who has already proven himself a qualified judge?

Lastly, Bill Tune is a member of the steering committee, having served since its initiation, along with eight other individuals, to get industry to Big Spring. It is most important that we have faith in these men who are working so diligently for us and let them complete this difficult task. It may be months — it may be a couple of years — but I believe they will make it so let's have the incumbent, County Judge Bill Tune, continue in his capacity so we can get Big Spring back on its feet. Whether you agree or not, get out and vote June 3. — This is a very important election and you should have your say.

Dear Editor:

I've hesitated writing this letter because I'm about as famous in Stamford for my letter writing as Martha Mitchell was for her telephone calls. Nevertheless, may I direct my message to Mr. Rhodes, a congressional candidate from District 17.

Mr. Rhodes: First, nobody but me knows that I'm writing this letter. It will surprise Charlie Stenholm as much as anyone else.

I'm a volunteer and help in Charlie's office once in a while because I believe in him, but this letter is not from Charlie's headquarters as you might try to make people think.

Charles Stenholm does not need to be defended. All of your accusations and mud slings are a bunch of bunk. But as a citizen of Stamford, I just want to tell people who don't know him that Charlie is a statesman, not a politician. Statesmen are born, Mr. Rhodes, not made, although Charlie has been preparing himself for Congress for fifteen years or more. He's been in Washington as president of the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers almost as much as he's been at home. He's very intelligent and is an orator besides having integrity and good morals, plus he's a gentleman. He's like Roger Staubach, he's beautiful.

You must think the people of the area are awfully dumb to swallow your approach as the guy wearing the white hat, who is being persecuted by his opponent.

I really feel sorry for you because you think money can buy Washington for you.

Your remarks belittling Charlie as a farmer, trying to make him look like a do-do and other derogatory remarks are that of a drowning man reaching for a straw.
Que sera, sera.

Dear Editor:

Has this nation completely forgotten the weary battle maimed war veterans and those who gave their life for the survivors may live in freedom?

In 1976 a peanut farmer from Georgia re-kindled that flame of loyalty to the American Flag and that it represented. He promised, if elected to the president's chair, that he would do something for those who sacrificed life, health and family to carry the honor of the American Flag to the destitute people of a portion of the orient. Because of that promise many of the surviving veterans supported him and he was elected.

He did something alright, he gave them a swift kick in the face. His first official act was to release from all obligations and liabilities the draft dodgers, deserters, and dope addicted undesirable discharges and grant to them many of the veteran benefits, and on top of that a guarantee that they would not be discriminated against. Now one of those pot smoking discharges holds a highly paid appointed government office.

Now, this peanut farmer is threatening a further demoralizing blow to the memory of this nation's war dead and maimed with a drastic cut in our military capabilities by depriving it of the essential equipment (planes, ships and other hardware) needed to protect our shores from aggression. He further advocates a full scale normal political relationship with Castro's Cuba. He also supports an intense drive toward detente with Russia, even though it means further concessions to the Russian demands. His civil rights program applies only to those who are friendly to the U.S. and not to its enemies.

Continual submission and concessions of this nature can result only in the eventual downfall and total capitulation of the United States society and our way of life. The program that our forefathers drafted and which, in less than 200 years, made this the greatest nation (financially, economically, socially and spiritually) on the face of the earth. But now we are on the brink of losing it all because a few officials in Washington have neither moral fiber, the love of country nor the intelligent analytical ability to support the hard-line stand that is necessary to insure the survival of this nation.

We still need strong leaders like George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Teddy Roosevelt. Without them the American way of life is doomed. We need more people like Patrick Henry and fewer people like Jane Fonda.

Dear Editor:

I was less than favorably impressed by Dusty Rhodes stand on federal aid to education.

First, all so-called federal money comes from local pockets one way or another but so little of it ever gets back that local money is ten times as productive.

Federal money used to be followed by federal guidelines but now the orders on how to use it come with the check. Rhodes is either fooling himself or trying to fool us when he says we can have local control with federal money.

Federal money has gone hand-in-glove with the steady decline in education. It is not a coincidence that sliding standards, morals and the general crisis in American education came at the same time as federal intrusion into the field.

Why not have a lawyer for our County Judge?

Especially when the person seeking the position is well known for her ability to work in the fields of management and administration, as well as law. This looks like a real bonus plus.

Frankie Boyd is a home grown product, and many of us have known her and her family all of her life. Even while she was away, either going to school, or working to get money to go to school, she and her mother managed to maintain their home here.

Don't worry

Around the rim

Bob Burton

"Did you hear?" the lady at the checkout counter asked the lady with the groceries, "They're bringing that prison in."

"You're kidding," came the answer. "I don't know what the world's coming to. They'll just do anything they like."

"You're right about that. I wish they'd put it to a vote. Then we wouldn't have a prison going up there. Here's your change."

They seemed to be pretty average citizenry. And if the rest of you pretty average citizens are making the same kinds of comments, you'd better think twice about just what you want.

EVERYBODY HAS agreed that since the Air Force lifted her skirts and moved on to greener pastures Webb AFB has needed filling. When Lockheed was sure to come, before Black March sent the contract to MacDonnel-Douglas, Big Spring was getting ready for a party. But it never happened.

Some people say they are fed up with any kind of industry here. "I like Big Spring just the way it is," they say, "and I don't want any more hassles with industry coming in or leaving."

They don't seem to understand that no city ever "stays the same." If businesses and dollars don't move in at the same rate they move out, we end up living in a town like Broomfield.

Like the Red Queen said, "It takes all the running we can do just to stay in the same place."

Now, a prison is nobody's idea of General Motors. But it will employ 100 people (ever wonder how many local law officers will apply for the starting federal wage of around $15,000?) and is expected to pump about 2½ million into the local economy.

THE PRISON will be a minimum security affair, harboring only proven-content cons. There will not be huge concrete walls and people like George Raft, Edward G. Robinson, and Humphrey Bogart running around inside.

Instead, we will get the John Dean, John Erlichman, G. Gordon Liddy, Clifford Irving type of criminal. The kinds of fellows who will commit a little grand theft, but who are strictly hands-off about violence. The Alec Guinness type. Not strictly above board, but then, we've elected that type to President, don't forget.

No, those of you who view Big Spring as the next Alcatraz need not worry.

Besides, it could be worse. At least we know crime is on the upswing, especially white-collar crime. But what if the industry that wanted to locate at Webb was a sawmill? Or a hydro-electric research firm? Would you feel any better about these?

Sans recourse

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — This is the story of an American businessman who is being held for ransom in Nicaragua by its backwater dictator, Anastasio Somoza. There is no other way to describe the detention of Arthur Chariton in a rat-infested Nicaraguan jail.

He has been held for a year without trial. For months, no formal charges were brought against him. He was locked up merely on the "suspicion" of one of Somoza's judges. Apparently, a business associate defrauded a Somoza-controlled bank, so the dictator is holding Chariton until the money is repaid.

Chariton's health deteriorated so alarmingly that the Nicaraguan authorities finally moved him into a military hospital. He managed to escape from his guards and reach the U.S. embassy. He had been badly bitten by rats and insects. He needed special medical attention. His rights had been abused. Yet incredibly, Ambassador Maurice Solau handed him back to Somoza's goons.

THE DISTRAUGHT Chariton testified. The ambassador summoned several Marines who dragged their fellow American, kicking and screaming, out of the embassy. The next day, we placed a telephone call to Chariton and were permitted to speak to him at the military hospital. He sounded weak and depressed. Bitterly, he accused the embassy of failing to protect U.S. citizens. Then he broke down.

"I'm so depressed...I'm just so depressed...I'm just so down and out," he sobbed. He couldn't believe his own government had delivered him to his tormentors. "The way they carried me out, the way they poked me, they twisted me. They tore me apart. They took my heart out."

The State Department is full of excuses. Any refusal to return Chariton, said a spokesman, would have set a bad legal precedent. The spokesman conceded that Chariton had been held improperly without a trial, but explained blandly: "It's not the place of the State Department to pass judgment on foreign courts."

The truth is that Ambassador Solau didn't want to upset the cozy relationship the embassy has developed with the dictator. When Somoza sought medical care, the embassy arranged for a U.S. military plane to fly him to Miami. But Solau turned away an American citizen whose health had been broken by the dictator. Increasingly, the State Department has put its drawing-room relationships ahead of the welfare of the citizens it is supposed to serve.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am a Christian who has some very real financial problems. I do not want to be in debt, but I don't know how to begin to put my life right. What advice can you give? — H. I.

DEAR H. I.: This is the kind of problem that can be worsened by trying to keep it to yourself. Advice from Christian friends can be very valuable at a time like this. Very often financial problems arise through a chance in circumstances to which we have not properly adjusted, and advice may be needed on how to change your style of life so as to live within your present means.

God has a plan for every life, and when a person becomes a Christian, he may find he has to make many changes to bring himself into that plan. The plan that God has ordained may call for further changes to be made later in life as He wishes to redirect our course. Therefore, there has to be a constant checking to insure that we are continuing in God's will.

A good motto to take for yourself just now is: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths" (Proverbs 3:5, 6). You may well find that your problem is not one of trusting in the Lord or acknowledging Him, but rather one of learning how to stop depending on your own understanding. So often we think that we know best, when God may be using our financial circumstances to lead us to a new way of life. Consider this possibility and call in a Christian minister or friend to talk it over with you.

Citizens vote Saturday

Bitter contest to be decided

By the Associated Press

Texas voters decide Saturday a bitter political contest that mixes name identity, past political successes and campaign charges in a mish-mash that has many voters confused.

As a result, a low turnout is expected to decide the state-wide Democratic runoff, between John Poerner and Jerry Sadler for the remaining two years of a term on the Texas Railroad Commission.

Also on some ballots, and expected to increase the turnout in some areas, are six hot district Congressional races — five Democratic and one Republican.

In the Tyler area, there is a runoff for chief justice of the 12th Court of Civil Appeals between Larry Starr and J. W. Summers.

There also will be local runoff races in which Democrats will complete nomination of two candidates for the state Senate and 13 for the Texas House.

There are no Republican runoff races for legislative posts.

If there is a headliner race Saturday it has to be the low-key Democratic runoff between Sadler and Poerner.

The winner meets Republican James W. Lacy, 53, Midland, in November. Sadler led a field of four Democratic candidates in the first primary with 48 percent of the more than one million votes cast. Poerner had 28 percent.

Some have called the current race a replay of 1976 when Sadler led a field of primary candidates but lost to present Commissioner Jon Newton, 531,444 to 272,794, in the run-off.

Sadler called both Newton and Poerner tools of the major oil companies because of contributions to their campaigns. Sadler has spent less than $7,000 against Poerner, only a fraction of Poerner's campaign expenditures. Newton and Poerner each claimed Sadler, 70, was a political has-been whose chief attraction to voters is the name "Sadler" which has been before voters 12 times as candidate for railroad commissioner, state representative and land commissioner.

Sadler, stoop-shouldered and usually with a wad of tobacco tucked back in his jaw, has made infrequent campaign appearances. He has turned down in-depth interviews and refuses to let reporters travel with him.

Sadler was elected to the railroad commission in 1938 and served four years before resigning to enter military service. He lost races for governor in 1940 and 1946. In the 1950s, he served three terms in Texas House from his East Texas district. In 1960, Sadler was elected land commissioner and was re-elected four times before Austin Rep. Bob Armstrong defeated him in 1970.

Poerner, 48, has all of his family and near kin, traveling the state telling voters that the name is "Poerner, pronounced pur-ner."

He stresses his present work as appointed commissioner, effective Jan. 1, 1978, and his jobs for Gov. Dolph Briscoe as head of the committee for the aging and a $5 million study of school finance.

Poerner was first elected to the Texas House in 1969. Sadler said he was a Republican, but Poerner said he was an independent with some Republican financing. Poerner was re-elected twice as a Democrat. He made an unsuccessful race for Congress in 1974.

We're very fortunate to live in Howard County where we have a strong economic base of agriculture, oil, gas and other diversified industry. This healthy economic base has been strengthened by recent acquisitions of new industry and as a result of these positive economic factors Howard County has been in the past and is now an excellent place to live, work and raise a family. To insure our citizens the opportunity to maintain this standard of living, I believe we must have leadership in our County government that recognizes the importance of working for the continued growth and development of Howard County.

I have a sincere interest in the future of Howard County and I feel that we must have competent leadership on the Commissioner's Court. People I have talked to want a Commissioner that is open to their thoughts and ideas and one that can deal with problems effectively and in a manner that reflects sound fiscal management. It is my intention to maintain an open line of communications with the taxpayers and represent their desires as best I can.

During the past few months I have visited with many residents throughout Precinct 4. The one thing that I have found to be most important on their minds is that our elected officials must be available and accessible in order that they may know the desires of the people they serve and carry them out effectively. I urge you to check the availability of your candidates for County Commissioner of Precinct 4. I reside in Big Spring, I am listed in the Big Spring telephone directory and I will be available to work with you.

Former Morton coach files $465,000 suit

LUBBOCK — Dan Smith, former basketball coach at Morton High School, has filed a $465,000 damage suit against the Morton School District and other defendants, claiming he was dismissed without justification.

Cited as co-defendants in the suit were Supt. Marlin Dodds, Mrs. Dodds and four members of the Morton school board. Dodds is a former athletic coach at Garden City.

Smith claims he was fired because he refused to show favoritism to the son of board member Dexter Nebhut.

Smith is asking for actual damages of $225,000 and $240,000 in punitive damages, including $75,000 each from Mr. and Mrs. Dodds. In addition, he seeks $5,500 in punitive damages from school board members Herbert Greener, Robert Yearney and Raymond Lewis.

Dodds reportedly recommended that Smith's contract not be renewed. The vote to terminate his pact came on a 4-3 vote. Smith was hired in 1976. His Morton team was the State Class AA championship his first year on the job.

HEW assigned 138 acres in Martin Co.

The General Services Administration officials assigned 138.39 acres of land with associated improvements located at Webb Air Force Base Training Annex in Martin County to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

HEW in turn, assigned the land to Howard College of Big Spring for educational use. Plans are to eventually use it for agriculture experimental type education.

Ann Doughty, GSA regional administrator in Fort Worth, announced the conveyance of the property.

Stanton recently objected to the property in their county being assigned to Howard College and requested use of the land for a city sanitary landfill, claiming that sites in Martin County were difficult to obtain.

Stevens stressed the difficulty of the GED, and pointed out that we should all set "goals that are unreachable, so that we will always keep striving." He said, "When we approach the attainment of one goal, we should set another goal. He summarized his speech with a quote from Winston Churchill who said, "Never give up, Never, Never, Never."

Dr. Charles Hays, Howard College president, Dr. Don McKinney, board chairman and Dr. Bobby Wright, dean, presented certificates of graduation to the candidates.

Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery, assistant to the president, presented Hunt Memorial Scholarships to Janet Murley, Valedictorian, and Ann Simpson, outstanding student recipients of scholarships from the newly formed A.B.E. TO THE CITIZENS OF HOWARD COUNTY, TEXAS:

I wish to bring to your attention a few points to consider in the qualifications of Judge Bill Tune, presently running for County Judge of Howard County, Texas.

1. Trans Regional Airlines expended an excessive amount in attorney's fees in order to obtain a Fixed Base Operation at Howard County Airport. If you recall, the commissioner's court denied the right of Trans Regional to exercise the FBO operations. It was, thus, necessary that we petition the F.A.A. and request that all future federal funding be terminated at Howard County for the lack of compliance due to the discriminatory aspects of the commissioner's court. Upon a ruling by the F.A.A. that the commissioners were discriminating, the commissioner's court relented and authorized Fixed Base Operations.
2. Trans Regional Airlines attempted to operate an airline from the Howard County Airport, but met objections several times from the commissioner's court. The airline was unable to use the passenger's terminal which was built for the use of commuter airlines and necessitated the use of a mobile home by Trans Regional. Judge Tune and the commissioner's actions were one of the major causes of the termination of the airlines due to lack of cooperation, constant harassment, and excessive administrative costs.
3. At the present time, the Howard County Airport is operating without a manager and there are individuals using Howard County property who are not paying the county for the lease of such property. Further, at the present time, the holders of T-hangars and the hangars of Howard County have not been informed as to which entity to remit rental fees, nor to which individual or entity from which to request the operation of the rotating beacon and runway lights.
4. Being personally involved in a criminal action before the County Court, it was obvious to me that the County Judge had no comprehension of the rules of evidence or the manner suitable for conducting a criminal trial. A judge exercising the capacity as a civil or criminal judge must have the qualifications to enable him to rule upon the motions of defense, as well as the charge to the jury. Throughout the duration of my trial, the judge granted 99% of every objection made by the State and overruled 99% of every objection made by my defense attorney. The trial was a complete mockery to our judicial system.
5. To the best of knowledge, there have been very few jury trials conducted before the County Judge. There have been disposal of cases, but one must question the manner of their disposal. What was the result of bond forfeitures, bond jumping, excessive plea bargaining which has occurred, and the lack of attorneys attempting to try a civil case before a jury in County Court must also be considered.
6. Rather than conserve county funds, it is my belief and experience as a businessman in Howard County that the current County Judge has cost the county excessive expenditures and wastefulness in the operation of the airport and related facilities. An example would be the cost exercised by the commissioner's court in objecting to the suspension of an airline permit with the Texas Aeronautical Commission at a time when it was unprofitable to continue the airline operations. The current County Judge has done more to discourage Trans Regionals operations of a commuter airline and the Fixed Base Operation than any other individual related to the future growth and good will of Howard County.

I respectfully request that you review the above and ask yourself as to precisely what type of County Judge Bill Tune has been for Howard County.

Sincerely,

Robert E. McClure

THE LAST OF PRIVATE BUSINESS — With capitalism formally abolished in Vietnam two months ago this roadside stall outside Ho Chi Minh City, formerly Saigon remains one of the few forms of private enterprise permitted in the country. Bananas are grown on a plot of land behind the stall run by the Vietnamese youth. Photo was taken during a recent visit by a member of a Church World Services delegation.

Saigon revisited

Capitalistic ways disappear

NEW YORK (AP) — The bright lights and life-style of once-wicked Saigon which flickered for three years despite the communist takeover in 1975 have been turned off.

The first Americans to visit the former South Vietnamese capital since a major crackdown on capitalists in March discovered last week that a more austere, provincial city has emerged that is more in keeping with the ideology of the communist authorities who won the war.

Gone are the prostitutes who hung around the photo kiosks on the street of Flowers trying to pick up visiting Russians and Eastern Europeans. Gone too are the sidewalk blackmarkets that dispensed Japanese radios, electric razors and assorted rusted U.S. PX supplies often hawked by families trying to survive economically under the new regime.

"The good life is no more. The story in the south now is hard work," said Dr. Robert Browne, an economist who is president of the Black Economic Research Center and a member of a Church World Services delegation that witnessed the arrival in Vietnam of 10,000 tons of wheat donated by Americans.

"Many people in the cities don't like that hard work requirement," said Browne. "They know that if they are not producing adequately they will have to go to the country to grow food. That's why so many continue to leave Vietnam and try to come to the United States."

The Hanoi government waited three years to crack down hard on the remaining vestiges of capitalism in South Vietnam.

"Finally, they had to deal with the economic situation," said Paul McCleary, executive director of Church World Services, and a delegation member.

"The intent of the economic reform was to bring the capitalistic system under control, to end the double standard, to bring the economy under the central planning process," he said.

The crackdown started March 23 and foreigners were kept out of what is now known as Ho Chi Minh City until the arrival of the Americans last week.

However, the repercussions had already been sensed. An estimated 100,000 Chinese reportedly have left Vietnam in the past two months and the Chinese government has protested vigorously about what it asserts is the economic persecution of Chinese living in Vietnam.

The American visitors discovered the Chinese section of Ho Chi Minh City, Cholom, drastically changed. The 200-year-old center that bristled with vigorous commercial life seemed to have closed down.

"The big Chinese businesses, and the large shops had been shuttered closed. Only a few restaurants were left open, and some vendors sold soup on the streets," said McCleary.

As in the rest of town, streets once wreathed in the blue haze of car and motorcycle exhaust fumes had become sedate thoroughfares for bicycle riders adopting the transportation method always common to Hanoi in the north.

HIPLEX experiments aided by weather

For most of Thursday the elements seemed to be cooperating with the kick-off of the full scale operations of the HIPLEx weather modification experiments. There was good moisture up to 30,000 feet and a cool front was backing into the area. Prospects were good that more than two dozen participants in the program would get a bona fide workout.

But in late afternoon, the picture began to flatten out. Cloud formations were building up well outside the target area which encompasses the upper watershed of the Colorado River above Lake Thomas and Spence.

Nevertheless, scientists, technicians and pilots spent a profitable day in going over the work plan and the actual mechanics of cloud seeding. Bill Alexander, meteorologist, and Bob Riggio, assistant sectional director, furnished an actual weather briefing, as well as the schedule for daily operations during June and July.

Several top officials from the Bureau of Reclamation's division of atmospheric water resource management in Denver, Colo. were on hand, including Dr. Archie M. Kahan, director; Dr. Bernard Silverman, director of the High Plains Weather Modification Experiment (HIPLEx); Bennie Girado, director of coordinators for the Texas, Kansas, Montana projects of HIPLEx; and Bill Harrison, John Carr, director of the weather modification technical section of the Texas Department of Water Resources; George Bomar, meteorologist; and Charles E. Nemir, assistant executive director of TDWR, were here from Austin for the start of the season's research.

Bob Anderson, representing Meteorological Research Institute of Altadena, Calif., represented his group charged with evaluation of results. Also with MRI was Dr. Eleanora Loble, who will serve as cloud physicist.

Larry Davis, Denver, Colo., president of Colorado Corp. which is furnishing a Lear jet for high cloud seeding, came here with Graham Mather, pilot, Paul Lawson, co-pilot, also Allen Roberts, pilot of a cloud physics plane which will take cloud samples during the next two months.

Representing the Colorado River Municipal Water District, a participant, were

R.A. Schooling, coordinator, and Alan Giacomelli and Charles E. Henry, pilots of the Navajo for top and Aztec for basal seeding of clouds. Until this year, all seeding has been from the base of cumulus cloud cells.

Operations will be centered at the Big Spring Airport where each day at 8:30 a.m. Harold Hancock will furnish information from rawinsonde soundings (wind direction and velocity at various altitudes aloft, humidity, temperatures), and Alexander will use this, together with soundings from Post and Robert Lee, as well as Midland, to arrive at a mesoscale forecast for the target area.

If there has been a mission the previous day, pilots will make their reports at 10:30 a.m., followed by a second briefing at 11 a.m., which is critical for the HIPLEx program. That will include the forecast, reports on status of equipment, critique of previous day's activities, and the prospect for operations that day. If it is a "go" day, pilots standby for developments and will be airborne when prospects are good for seeding.

Thursday's gathering featured a review of the season's work plan; the explanation of technical equipment and its aircraft.

capabilities, and inter-agency job relationships on the project. Another session dealt with methodology, the mechanics of cloud seeding, sampling and deployment of

Representatives to support CRMWD

Representatives from at least 10 West Texas cities and towns, and from as many counties, are expected in Austin Wednesday to support the application of the Colorado River Municipal Water District for a reservoir on the Colorado River near Stacy.

The hearing has been set for 10 a.m. before the Texas Water Commission, and the various delegations will file statements or make presentations attesting to the urgency of the application, according to O.H. Ivie, general manager of CRMWD. At stake is a lake designed to impound more than 554,000 acre feet of water with an annual yield of 113,000 acre feet for municipal and industrial needs. Included in the latter is water for a major coal-fired electric generating plant when the permit is issued.

"We are gratified by this wave of support because it affirms that this is a project that serves an urgent regional need and is not merely another lake on a district system," said Ivie. "If anyone has the mistaken idea that we are asking to impound water that we do not need, these community leaders and officials will put the record straight. Our current supplies will not long maintain the present level of economic activity in the region. To sustain growth patterns and orderly development of the region, we must have this new source of water. For more than two decades every state and federal long-range study has resulted in recommending for development of this region."

An application for a permit for the reservoir which will be on the Concho Coleman County line some 20 miles southeast of Ballinger, was filed last October because of acceleration of water demands, Ivie pointed out. Since the CRMWD last appeared before the commission 12 years ago, the number of cities and towns dependent upon the District for all or part of their water has doubled, and so has the volume of water delivered. The number of industries looking to the District for water has almost trebled.

In addition, Ivie continued, four other cities have asked to execute water purchase agreements with the District, and so have two local water supply districts. Two additional cities have asked CRMWD to include their future water needs in planning for the new reservoir.

Attorneys for the District are hopeful they can introduce testimony and statements by city and county officials and civic leaders Wednesday, although this may require another day. Members of the CRMWD board and District officials also will be on hand for the hearing.

"Response to our application reflects clearly that we have unity of support," Ivie noted. "This deepens our already keen sense of responsibility to look out for the water requirements of this region from Ballinger-Coleman to Sweetwater, and from Midland-Odessa to San Angelo. We welcome any delegations and individuals from this area who can reassure the Texas Water Commission of the utter necessity of developing this source of supply as soon as possible."

Largest labor force feeling price hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, more than 100 million Americans are in the U.S. labor force, but most of them are feeling the increasing pinch of skyrocketing prices — especially at the meat counter.

The Labor Department, which earlier this week reported that inflation climbed by 0.9 percent in April, is set to release its May wholesale price report today. The figures are designed to show whether inflation is easing or deepening.

San Antonio bans 2 books from school

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Two books banned from Harlandale Independent School District high schools because of allegedly obscene language will be returned to library shelves as part of a tentative settlement.

The two books, "Harry and Tonto" and "A Hero Ain't Nothin' But a Sandwich," were banned last month after a group of parents objected to some of the language.

The recommendation to return the books to the libraries of the district's two high schools was part of a proposed settlement approved Thursday by the mediation committee. The committee included three teachers, three administrators and an independent mediator.

The settlement also specified that the books not be required reading and that a written statement be sent to parents at the beginning of the school term suggesting they monitor their children's reading matter.

Dixie Yarbrough, speaking for the 72 teachers and librarians who filed a grievance after the books were banned, said she is pleased with the settlement.

The two sides must meet, however, to determine a final settlement.

Wednesday was the last day of classes for the semester in the district.

Money for seventeen colleges in limbo

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Seventeen Texas colleges have millions of dollars for building funds in the state treasury but they can't touch it until a lawsuit is settled, Comptroller Bob Bullock says.

Bullock said Thursday he has made the 10-year allocation of state property tax money among the 17 institutions, as required by the state constitution, but will not distribute the money until the lawsuit is settled.

He estimated $576.5 million is involved over the next decade.

Bullock said the tax is "under a cloud" because of a suit filed by Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, challenging the legality of the tax, which is used to finance new construction at 17 colleges named in the constitution. No date has been set for a court hearing.

Earlier, Bullock urged Attorney General John Hill not to contest the suit because "our ad valorem tax

Peace force may be lifted into Zaire

WASHINGTON (AP) — American planes, now standing ready to fly French legionnaires out of strife-torn Shaba province, may also airlift a proposed Pan-African peacekeeping force into Zaire, U.S. officials say.

White House officials say orders have been prepared for the airlift of the remaining French troops from the copper mining city of Kolwezi, but that the timing of the flights had not been set. The officials asked not to be identified.

Those same C-141 transports would be used if the administration goes ahead with tentative plans to fly a Pan-African peacekeeping force into Zaire. The force, which has not materialized so far, is supported by the United States, France and other NATO nations.

NATO diplomats, who asked not to be named, said Thursday that France is urging several of its former African colonies to seek wider Western backing for the peacekeeping force.

At the same time, the department is putting out May figures on unemployment, which dropped from 6.2 percent to 6 percent in April.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said last week that the report will show the number of Americans with jobs, or seeking them, passed the 100 million mark.

For the past three years, strong economic growth has been pushed to bring the unemployment rate down from a peak of 9.1 percent in May 1975. Now the Carter administration has shifted emphasis to creating jobs for persons with the most trouble finding work — mainly the young, the poor and blacks.

Government economists say that despite a slow winter, the economy should rebound strongly in the second quarter. Their prediction was backed up Thursday by the government's index of leading indicators, which increased moderately in April.

The index, which is designed to predict economic trends, went up 0.5 percent after declining 0.1 percent the month before.

The biggest increase was in the money supply, which can lead to economic growth as well as soaring inflation.

Much of the inflation since the start of the year has been in food prices, which jumped 1.8 percent in April. Beef prices led all others by jumping 6.6 percent.

Despite earlier talk about easing beef import quotas, President Carter's advisers now are saying they don't think the government can do very much about the increases.

The most extreme action of increasing imports of hamburger meat could save consumers a nickel a pound by the end of the year, according to an estimate by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

"We're just going to have to tough it out," administration inflation-fighter Robert Strauss said Thursday. A day earlier he had told reporters the administration could not allow beef prices to continue their record increase.

system in the state of Texas is being unconstitutionally applied in many ways. This is unquestionably the most inequitable and unpopular tax on the books."

Hill has asked a state district judge here to delay action on the suit until the 1979 Legislature has a chance to act on the issue.

STARVING DOGS—Edrie Watson, and attendant at the (Miami, Fla.) Dade County Animal Control Center holds up one of several dogs that were rescued from starvation by the center after a county judge ruled the owner unfit. 21 pets were originally rescued but many died and those remaining were auctioned off for prices ranging from 1 cent to 3 cents. An arrest warrant was issued for the owner.

Administration ponders idea Propaganda in Cuba?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is thinking about beaming propaganda broadcasts into Cuba in an attempt to spread dissatisfaction among the population over the regime's military role in Africa, U.S. officials say.

The White House also is considering suspension of U.S. charter flights to the island and a cancellation of athletic exchange programs for a similar purpose.

The serious consideration of these measures represents a reversal of what had been steady progress toward normalization of relations between the United States and Cuba, a process that reached a high point nine months ago when the two countries opened diplomatic missions in Washington and Havana.

The administration has no intention of closing down these missions, and it has rejected as "much too extreme" a proposal to blockade Soviet oil shipments to Cuba, according to the officials, who asked not to be named.

The officials admit that U.S. leverage over Cuba is minimal, and that they do not expect adoption of any of the measures to have a dramatic impact on President Fidel Castro's foreign policy. But the officials say the measures would underscore the depth of U.S. concern about Cuban involvement in African tribal disputes.

There are an estimated 38,000 to 40,000 Cuban troops and advisers in Africa, most of them in Angola and Ethiopia.

The administration began considering retaliatory measures after concluding that Cuban troops had trained and equipped Angola-based Katangan rebels who invaded Zaire last month.

Allegations of Cuban involvement have been heatedly denied by Cuba and the Soviet Union, and some State Department officials question the conclusiveness of the evidence available to the administration.

The State Department estimates that U.S. tourism to Cuba will generate almost $3 million in foreign exchange for the island this year.

House passes tuition tax credit legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter may still have his way despite House passage of sweeping tuition tax credit legislation strongly opposed by the White House.

The 237-158 House vote approving the bill Thursday was 27 votes short of the two-thirds majority that would be needed to override a presidential veto, expected if the measure finally clears Congress.

The legislation, which provides credits against college, elementary and seconddary school tuition, now goes to the Senate, which has shown itself even more favorable to tuition credits than the House.

The House-passed measure would allow a taxpayer to subtract directly from his income tax 25 per cent of his tuition outlays, within limits.

The maximum credit in the case of college or other postsecondary tuition would be $100 this year, $150 in 1979 and $250 in 1980, for each student.

On June 3, Texas voters will elect one of two men as the Democratic candidate for Railroad Commissioner:

Jerry Sadler, 70, is a twice-defeated former Land Commissioner. Here's what three of the state's leading newspapers have to say about him:

The Austin American-Statesman: "Voters deserve to know whom they will be choosing between in the runoff June 3. Poerner is not a household name; Sadler is. But Sadler has a sorry record in state government. He is the only person ever censured by the Texas House of Representatives (for failure to cooperate with an investigation). He became notorious for attempting to choke then-State Rep. Jake Johnson. He was defeated at the polls in 1970 and lost to Jon Newton in a race for Railroad Commissioner in 1976. And now he's back again."

The Dallas Times Herald: "Sadler has made Texas government a universal target of ridicule and derision."

The San Angelo Standard Times: "Under Sadler, the Railroad Commission just might become the laughing stock he once made of the General Land Office."

John Poerner, 45, is a respected businessman and rancher. John Poerner was elected to three successive terms in the Texas House before being named Executive Director of the Governor's Committee on Aging and Director, Education Resources of Texas.

His honors include being named "Citizen of the Year" in his hometown of Hondo, receiving a "Distinguished Legislator" award from the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association, and being named to the "Agriculture Hall of Fame" at Southwest Texas State University.

He was recently appointed to the Railroad Commission by the Governor. "Poerner is a solid, competent individual with a record of 10 years of dedicated public service," says the Houston Chronicle. "(We urge) his election."

Predicted by beef industry

Food prices rise 7 percent

By the Associated Press

Grocery prices continued their steady climb in May and shoppers today are finding prices that are more than 7 percent higher than they were a year ago, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

The increases reflect, in part, smaller supplies of beef and had been predicted by industry and government experts who watched cattlemen cutting the size of their herds last year.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973 and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. One item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped from the list at the end of November 1977 because the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

Among the highlights of the latest survey: —The average marketbasket bill at the checklist stores was 7.3 percent higher at the start of June than it was a year earlier; the bill was 5.3 percent higher than it was at the start of the year.

—During May, the marketbasket bill increased at the checklist store in eight cities and declined in five. The average increase was 1.9 percent and the average decline was 1.7 percent. On an overall basis, the bill increased by half a percent during the month.

Doctor's attorney seeking dismissal of murder charges

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Attorneys for Dr. William Waddill, who has been ordered to stand trial a second time on charges of murder, have vowed to seek dismissal of the charge arising from a baby's death after a saline abortion attempt.

Attorney Charles Weedman said Thursday he would argue at a pre-trial hearing Aug. 4 that a new trial would place Waddill in double jeopardy.

Earlier Thursday, Superior Court Judge H. Warren Knight set Waddill's second trial for Nov. 27 and assigned it to a new judge, Superior Court Judge Robert Ruckles.

Waddill, 42, told reporters: "I should never have been tried the first time. I'm not guilty." The prominent Orange County obstetrician was charged with murdering a newborn infant which survived the abortion attempt.

U.S. officials study wiretaps of Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials, after discovering sophisticated electronic spy equipment in a chimney of the Moscow embassy, are assessing the damage it did to American security and puzzling over how the gadgetry works.

One official called the Soviet's use of the espionage equipment a "serious penetration of our embassy," but said the electronic gear would have to be analyzed before deciding if it had caused a major security breach.

The official, who asked not to be named, said the equipment was apparently maintained by Soviet technicians who snuck into the embassy by crawling through a tunnel, which originated on nearby Soviet property, and then climbed up the chimney.

The discovery last week also raised questions about the equipment's possible link to other mysteries involving the Moscow embassy — such as why the Soviets have beamed microwaves at the building for years, worrying U.S. officials about possible health hazards.

Thomas Reston, the State Department's associate spokesman, said Thursday the devices were discovered May 25 and that a protest was lodged with the Soviet Foreign Ministry. Reston declined to give details about the devices or how they were found.

However, another official said the electronic gear — including a large antenna — was discovered during a routine security search.

He said U.S. officials followed a cable from the equipment down the chimney and through the tunnel. They then constructed a barrier in the tunnel to "keep the Russians out," he said.

"There was regular physical penetration of the embassy by Soviets without the knowledge of the United States," the official said. "They would come through the tunnel and up the chimney."

Although the exact nature of the equipment was unknown, the official said it apparently was not limited to eavesdropping devices.

"We're still trying to figure this puzzle out," the official said. "We're doing a technical assessment of the problem right now. But it might take some time to determine precisely how it

(the equipment) works." In Moscow, diplomatic sources said the electronic equipment was found in an upper section of the embassy and could have been there since the 1950s when the U.S. government first leased the building from the Soviets.

One source said the equipment might never have been found if special American crews had not been flown to Moscow to repair damage to the embassy caused by a fire on Aug. 26, 1977.

"They suggested a thorough sweep of the embassy and we're glad they did," the source said.

The discovery has also raised new questions about what Russian firefighters might have done when they entered restricted parts of the building to fight the blaze.

But an official in Washington said a link between the fire and the spy equipment was remote.

The official said a connection between the equipment and the low-level microwaves that the Russians have beamed at the embassy was more likely.

Double reception marks Golden Anniversaries

MR. AND MRS. ALTON E. UNDERWOOD

Reception fetes Alton Underwoods

Mr. and Mrs. Alton E. Underwood, wed June 2, 1928, will celebrate their golden anniversary with a reception from 7 to 10 p.m., Sunday, at the Big Spring Country Club.

Hosting the event will be the couple's children, Bill and Betty Jean Newsom of Dallas and Mr. and Mrs. James Lee Underwood of McKinney.

Attending will be the honored couple's four grandchildren and their spouses, David and Julie Milan of Dallas, Mrs. and Mrs. J. H. Snow III of Austin, and the children of the James Lee Underwoods, Carin and Lee, of McKinney.

Out-of-town guests include Felton Underwood of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Underwood of Rockport, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Underwood of Odessa, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Underwood of Odessa, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Longford of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Collingo of Midland and Mr. and Mrs. White Harrington of Odessa.

The former Alta Lee McDaniel and Alton Underwood were married in the parsonage of the South Side Baptist Church in Abilene by the Dr. J. C. Burkett.

The couple moved to Big Spring in 1929 and have resided here since with the exception of three years spent in Ballinger and two years in Lamesa where Underwood managed Kimbel Wholesale Grocery.

They have been members

Always before you write a word, consider how it is spelt, and if you do not remember it, turn to a dictionary. It produces great praise to a lady to spell well." — Nov. 28, 1783. — from the Virginia Slims Book of Days.

of the First Baptist Church for 46 years. Underwood serves as Director of the Adult 6 Department, sings in the choir and serves as a deacon. He is an active Gideon.

Mr. Underwood taught a Sunday School class for a number of years and currently serves as a greeter.

Mrs. Underwood was on the T. B. Board and Cancer Board and is an active member of City Home Demonstration Club for which she has served in every office.

They are members of the Big Spring Country Club and enjoy playing golf.

Mrs. Underwood and members of the house party will wear corsages of white orchids and Underwood will wear a rosebud boutonniere. Registering the guests will be Mrs. Clyde Johnston. The register table will be decorated with a silver candle holder.

Mrs. D. O. Gray, Mrs. Lennie Coker, Mrs. W. R. Newsom, Mrs. Charlie Sweeney and Mrs. Neal Norred will serve the three-tiered wedding cake, punch and nuts from a table covered with a white lace cloth. Silver appointments will be used and the color theme will be gold and white.

The Underwoods invite all of their friends to join them as they celebrate 50 years of marriage.

The nieces and nephews of Jack and Ethel McKinnon and Ross and Addie Hill will honor them with a reception June 4 to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversaries.

The Hills were married June 2, 1928, and the McKinnons were wed on June 10, 1928. Both couples were married at the First Methodist Church parsonage with the Rev. W. G. Bailey officiating.

The reception will be held at the Elbow School cafeteria from 2 to 4 p.m. All friends and relatives are invited to attend and the couples request that no presents be brought.

The former Ethel and Addie Cotter, daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Cotter, were born in Johnson County and moved to the Elbow community of Howard County with their parents in 1922.

Hill was born near Anson and became a resident of Howard County when his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hill, moved to the Center Point Community in 1905. In 1910, they moved to Elbow.

Hill and his future wife, Addie, were neighbors and schoolmates at Elbow school, the only school Hill ever attended. He has served on the Elbow School Board when the gymnasium was built and also served on the Howard County School Board.

A farmer and rancher until his retirement in 1975, Hill was a Howard County Farm Bureau director for 25 years and served on the Howard County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committees for a number of years.

Mrs. Hill taught at Elbow School during three years of World War II and didn't miss one day of school throughout that period.

The couple now resides at 612 Bucknell.

McKinnon was born at Comanche. He moved to the Elbow community with his parents, the late J. C. and Sarah Elizabeth McKinnon, in 1904. He and his future wife, Ethel, met at an Elbow School party. They have remained permanent residents of that community.

During World War II, McKinnon managed the Texaco Station on Gregg Street, but the majority of his working life — 33 years of it — was spent as owner and operator of Elbow Store with Mrs. McKinnon.

Because of their long residence and services to the Elbow community, Mr. and Mrs. McKinnon are often referred to as "Aunt Ethel and Uncle Jack." An interesting note is the fact that there has been a McKinnon attending the Elbow School each year since 1905.

The Hills are members of the Baptist Temple Church where Hill serves as a deacon and Mrs. Hill is a member of the Gleaner's Sunday School Class. Mrs. McKinnon attends Central Baptist Church at Elbow and her husband is Methodist.

Mrs. Hill and Mrs. McKinnon are charter members of the Elbow Home Demonstration Club which was organized 49 years ago. Each of the sisters has served in every office of the club.

Mrs. Hill's hobbies are reading and knitting. She makes pillows to give away to her friends and so far this year has made 20. Her husband enjoys welding and creates yard windmills. He also enjoys deer hunting and both like to work in their yard.

Mrs. McKinnon enjoys making wedding cakes for friends and says she's made 28 of them. She also enjoys sewing and cooking while her husband is a gardening enthusiast.

Guests expected to attend the double reception include relatives from Arizona, New Mexico and throughout Texas.

The table will be covered with a net over a gold cloth made by Mrs. Hill 11 years ago. The tablecloth has been used for numerous parties and showers. The three-tiered wedding cake will be made by Mrs. McKinnon and a niece, Charlene McKinnon.

Corsages and boutonnieres of crocheted white and gold carnations made by a sister-in-law, Dorothy Cotter, will be worn by the two honored couples.

Malls replace town squares as meeting place for elderly

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Every weekday morning a group of old-timers gathers on a bench in a shopping mall to talk politics and reminisce.

"Malls are marvelous for elderly people in metropolitan areas," says Dr. Richard Thurston, an anthropologist who teaches a course on aging at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga.

"Malls in general seem to be serving the same sorts of functions that town squares used to provide in good weather," he said. "Old people tend to congregate there — it gives them marvelous people-watching opportunities and a sense of personal contact.

"If they can't participate fully in society, they can participate vicariously by watching people."

Thurston said the elderly have problems now they never had before. They tend to live longer, be idled by mandatory retirement and be more isolated from children and grandchildren by 20th-century mobility.

Statistics show America has about 14 million people older than 65. Women live to an average 76, men to 68. That's an increase of 16 years for women and 10 years for men in the past half century.

"An increasing number of programs are concerned with re-integrating the elderly back into society," Thurston said. Examples are foster grandparents programs and committees of retired businessmen who serve as consultants to Small Business Administration loan applicants.

But even there, society has conspired to rob the elderly of some of their value.

"When things were stable, the aged had more to offer," Thurston said. "Now a man of 70 doesn't have much to offer a youth of 20 — his experience isn't relevant in a fast-paced changing society."

"Beyond that, we value productivity and vigor and efficiency," he said. "When the old people can't cut it, they're out. We don't value wisdom as much as efficiency because we're just not a very contemplative society."

Television dancers alarm teen's dad

Doctor Wallace: I am 16 and love to dance but my father will not allow me to attend school dances because he says that dancing has no longer become dancing, but instead it has developed into a suggestive sexual ritual. He forms his opinion by occasionally watching kids dance on television teen dance programs.

While I will admit that some kids on television do get carried away while dancing, I also know most do not. The camera seems to focus more on the "shakers."

School dances are not the same as television dance programs, but I cannot convince my father. Please offer some suggestions because I feel left out of an important part of my high school social life. I often think of sneaking to a dance and lying to him. — Rikki, Springfield, Ohio

Rikki: Admitted that some dancers and dances are profoundly suggestive, but this should not be the rationale for not dancing.

You know that sneaking and lying is not the way to go. Have a favorite teacher or counselor intercede on your behalf. Some schools welcome parent chaperones. Maybe dad could be encouraged to drop in at the next school dance, if only for a few minutes, to "see for himself." Virtually every school would permit this if dad would tell them he would like to observe the dance for a short time.

U.S. population will double, warns group

NEW YORK (AP) — "If present growth rates continue, the U.S. population will double to over 400 million in the next 40-50 years," says Donald Mann, president of Negative Population Growth, Inc.

"Because of natural increase — the excess of births over deaths — coupled with both legal and illegal immigration, the U.S. population continues to increase by over 30 million every decade," he says. Immigration, or people entering the country, should be balanced with emigration, or those leaving the country permanently, the NPG suggests, so that, on balance, immigration does not contribute to population increase.

"Even if this were done," Mann says, "the fertility rate would have to be reduced to 1.0 — meaning an average of one child per family — in order to bring about an immediate halt to population growth in this country."

J.O. Haney's celebrate 50 years of matrimony

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Haney, 1101 Lancaster, married 50 years today, will be honored with a reception Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thomas, sister and brother-in-law of Mrs. Haney, 1809 Stadium.

The reception will also feature Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Haney Jr. of Dallas who celebrated their 25th anniversary Jan. 17.

The 2 to 5 p.m. reception will be hosted by the Haney's other son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hal Haney of Dallas. Children of the younger Haney's, Jan, Joey and Jenna, will also host.

The reception is an open house to which all friends are welcome.

The former Hester Weems and Johnie Haney were married June 2, 1928, at the First Methodist Church parsonage, 400 Scurry. Haney was born near Fort Worth and moved to Big Spring in 1905. Mrs. Haney was born here in 1912.

Their first farm was in the Vealmoore area, purchased when the Slaughters began selling parts of their ranch to others who wanted to farm. The couple later bought a quarter section 20 miles north of Big Spring on which they built their first home of adobe.

MR. AND MRS. J. O. HANEY

ready to enter high school in 1946, the Haney's sold their store and moved into Big Spring where they built the home they still reside in.

Through the years, they were engaged in farming and raising livestock. They are both active members of the Christ Fellowship Center.

The couple's son, J. O. Haney Jr., was married to Patricia Snider on Jan. 17, 1953, at Stephens, Ark. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Snider of Stephens, Mrs. Haney met her husband while he was attending the John Brown University at Stephens and they married during mid-term. The reception Sunday will be a delayed commemoration of their 25 years together.

Don't Keep Mum About Violence

DEAR ABBY: Please reconsider your answer to DEBATING, who asked if she should tell the woman her ex-husband was about to marry that he had beaten her up. (You said, "On the chance that she'll bring out the best in him while you brought out the best in him, keep mum.")

My sweet young niece was married only three months. No one would have believed that the man she married was capable of such violence as he later evidenced. If only someone would have warned that gentle, unsuspecting girl, she might be alive today. She suffered such a beating at the hands of that monster, the undertaker was sickened at the condition of her bruised and battered body.

Wife-beaters sometimes kill. I hope you will change your advice, Abby.

HEARTSICK AUNT IN CALIF.

DEAR AUNT: Thank you for protesting my answer. You are right. My "give 'em another chance" philosophy should not have been applied to a matter as potentially dangerous as wife-beating. I should have emphatically recommended that wife No. 1 warn wife No. 2. I contritely stand corrected.

DEAR ABBY: In regard to LADY PREACHER IN IOWA, she needs to read First Corinthians, Chapter 14 (King James version): Paul says, "Let your women keep silence in the churches: for it is not permitted unto them to speak; but they are commanded to be under obedience, as also saith the law."

The 35th verse goes on to say, "And if they will learn any thing, let them ask their husbands at home: for it is a shame for women to speak in the church."

I am a fan of yours, Abby, and hope that even though you are all for women's rights, you will be fair and print this anyway. Sign me... 23-YEAR-OLD PREACHER, KINGSPORT, TENN.

DEAR PREACHER: Although the printed word remains unchanged, over the years even Scripture has been interpreted in a variety of ways. It is no longer considered a "shame" for women to speak in many churches, temples and synagogues.

DEAR ABBY: I just finished crying my eyes out over something that is not my fault. A very nice boy from school started dating me and I was on cloud nine. I was never popular, and he was like an answer to my prayers.

Well, he just called me up and told me he couldn't date me anymore because his parents have forbidden him to. The reason was they heard that my older sister had a baby out of wedlock. (She did, but, Abby, I have never done one thing out of the way, so why should I have to suffer for something my sister did?) I have even had girlfriends tell me they couldn't go around with me anymore because of my sister's reputation.

I am not like my sister, and I don't see why people should hold this against me. How can I prove that I am a "nice" girl when I have this against me? NICE GIRL IN RHODE ISLAND

DEAR NICE: Don't try to "prove" anything. People who aren't willing to judge you on your own record aren't worth having as friends.

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know," write Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (24 cents), self-addressed envelope, please.

Spicy luncheon honors Fryar

Sheila Fryar, bride-elect of Allen Welch, was the honoree of a bridal luncheon held recently at the home of Mrs. Stanley Haney. Co-hosting the event was Mrs. Arlis Yater.

Special guest was Mrs. W. C. Fryar, mother of the honoree.

Miss Fryar was presented with a different spice from each guest. The hostesses' gift was a spice rack. The group also made rice bags for the wedding.

Various salads were served at a table covered with an ivory cloth and centered with a bouquet of spring flowers.

Miss Fryar will wed Welch on June 3 at Brownwood.

Arnett has served as a pastor in Big Spring, and Big Spring and has substituted at Greenwood. He was Missions Secretary of the area and serves as the encampment administrator. Mrs. Arnett taught school and great-grandparents.

Savings bonds study prompts some answers

Sales of U.S. Savings Bonds are growing at a steady pace, despite the increased array of other investment opportunities for consumers.

The Treasury Department reports Savings Bond sales in the first three months of 1978 topped $2.1 billion, up 4 percent from the first quarter of 1977. The first-quarter total was the highest since the War Bond drive of 1945.

A study conducted for the Treasury Department last year by the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan showed that 35 percent of all families questioned owned Savings Bonds. The study also showed, however, that most people are unfamiliar with the value of their investment. Only 15 percent of those polled said they knew the annual interest rate on the bonds and less than 15 percent gave the right answer — 6 percent when the bonds are held to maturity.

To help you learn more about Savings Bonds, here, in question and answer form, are some of the basics:

Q: What kind of Savings Bonds are sold today?

A: Series E, and Series H. Series E bonds are sold at a discount and can be redeemed at face value when, in five years, they reach maturity. There are eight denominations, ranging in price from $18.75 face value $25, to $7,500 face value $10,000. Series H bonds, in denominations from $500 to $10,000, are sold at face value. Interest is paid semiannually and the bonds reach maturity in 10 years.

Q: What if I want to cash in the bonds early?

A: You must hold Series E bonds for at least two months. After that, you can cash them in at most banks and many other savings institutions. You must provide proof of ownership. You also can exchange Series E bonds for Series H bonds which can be redeemed at face value at any time six months after the issue date.

Q: Can I keep them after they reach maturity?

A: Yes. Both Series E and H bonds may be held for at least 10 years after their original maturity date and you will keep getting interest at the annual rate of 6 percent.

Reclaim yarn and use again

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — If a knitted garment has been outgrown or is no longer liked and if the yarn is in good condition, reclaim the yarn and knit something new.

Roll the yarn in a loose ball as you unravel; then wind the wrinkled yarn into hanks on a large book or box or similar object, being careful to wind loosely and evenly and to leave the end visible.

After carefully removing hank, dip into lukewarm water until thoroughly soaked. Roll in towel to remove excess water. Hang the hank up to dry, putting a light weight in the bottom to remove kinks and wrinkles. When the yarn is completely dry, wind it into a ball.

Q: Many investments offer tax breaks. What about Savings Bonds?

A: They provide several tax advantages. The interest you earn is subject to federal income tax, but is exempt from state and local income taxes. In addition, with Series E bonds, you can defer your federal taxes until you actually cash in the bonds.

Q: What about buying bonds in my children's names?

A: Another potential tax break since the tax due in any given year is unlikely to exceed the child's exemption. The first year you do this, however, make out an income tax form for your child, listing the interest earned. This establishes your intent to pay.

Q: Where can I buy Savings Bonds?

A: Series E bonds can be bought at most banks and other savings institutions or through a Payroll Savings Plan run by your employer. Series H bonds are sold by Federal Reserve Banks and their branches and the Bureau of the Public Debt, Securities Transactions Branch, Washington, D.C., 20226.

Big Spring Postmaster says applications being accepted

Postmaster Frank Hardesty announced today that applications will be accepted at the Big Spring Post Office from May 30 through June 9, 1978 from any resident interested in post office employment.

The written examination will be given to establish a register of eligibles from which future clerk and carrier vacancies on the Big Spring office will be filled.

Any interested person is urged to make application to take the exam since it may not be offered again for a long period.

"The test is given to make up a list of eligibles to contact when jobs do come open," said Postmaster Frank Hardesty. "The last time the test was given was eight or more years ago, so applicants who would consider a job with the Post Office in the next several years should take the exam. When the jobs come open, we

Estes claims prosecutors used 'blackmail' tactics

DALLAS (AP) — Paroled West Texas swindler Billie Sol Estes says federal prosecutors are using "blackmail" tactics to get him to plead guilty to a charge that could lock him up again for five years or more.

In a copyright story in today's Dallas Times Herald, Estes said Assistant U.S. attorney Jim Rolfe had offered to let him "shop around" for his own judge and had said no other members of Estes' family would be indicted if he pleads guilty.

The newspaper interview was the first granted by Estes since his 1965 conviction in a multimillion dollar swindle that triggered political shockwaves from West Texas to Washington.

A federal grand jury has been looking into Estes' activities the past several months, but federal officials had declined to even admit Estes was being investigated.

Estes told Times Herald reporter Lynn Callison the government is developing two criminal cases against him. One indictment alleges fraud, mail fraud and interstate transportation of stolen property and the second indictment alleges violation of internal revenue laws, including "conspiracy to conceal assets."

Estes, formerly of Pecos, Texas, served six years of a 15-year sentence and moved to Abilene, Texas, upon his release on parole in 1971.

Estes accused Rolfe of threatening criminal action against Estes' family members, friends and business associates unless Estes pleads guilty to new charges.

The Times Herald said Rolfe responded Wednesday to Estes' claims: "I'm not denying anything, or affirming anything." He said Justice Department guidelines prevented him from discussing pending criminal cases.

Rolfe acknowledged, however, that his remark could be interpreted as confirmation that a "criminal case" is indeed pending against Estes.

Estes told the Times Herald he learned from his former attorney and friend of 20 years, Jack Bryant of Abilene, that "if I plead guilty, they will not indict my brother John, my daughter Pam, my attorney Jack Bryant and my friend Sue Goolsby."

"I realize I could go back to jail," Estes added. "But I just believe that in this country, if they're allowed to do this sort of thing, that's just going too far. I thought things like this could happen only in Russia."

"I've made many mistakes. The first time I was guilty," Estes said. But he denied any of the charges he believes federal prosecutors are working up on him now.

"I am completely innocent of any charges they can bring against me, and I'm not afraid of them. We're ready to fight this thing."

Estes, who now describes himself as "broke, and not too proud to admit it," revealed a two-page memorandum Bryant wrote to him, summarizing cases that federal prosecutors have prepared against him.

"One indictment involves basically fraud, mail fraud and transportation of stolen property," the memo states. It was on identical charges of mail fraud and interstate transportation of stolen property that Estes was convicted in 1965.

Confusion abounds

Alabama senator dies

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The unexpected death of U.S. Sen. James B. Allen has added more uncertainty to the already confusing political landscape in Alabama.

The 65-year-old senator died Thursday after suffering an apparent heart attack and tumbling down the stairs of a coastal resort condominium at Gulf Shores, Ala.

That created a rarity for Alabama politicians: For the first time in this century there are clear shots at two vacant U.S. Senate seats.

Fellow Democratic Sen. John Sparkman has already announced that he will not seek re-election this year.

And Gov. George C. Wallace, nearing the end of his third term, dropped a political bombshell that surprised even his closest aides earlier this month when he said he had changed his mind and would not run for Sparkman's seat.

Wallace can make a temporary appointment until a successor to Allen is elected in a special election.

In theory, Wallace could step down and ask his successor, Lt. Gov. Jere Beasley, to appoint him. However, a Wallace spokesman said Allen's death would not change the governor's plans to step out of politics, at least for the time being.

Wallace's press secretary, Billy Joe Camp, said it would be some time before Wallace considers appointing a successor to Allen, who would not have come up for re-election until 1980.

A special election is required by law since Allen's death came more than four months before the next general election.

Most state politicians declined to comment Thursday on whether Allen's death would alter their plans in this year's upcoming elections, saying political speculation would be inappropriate and discourteous so soon after Allen's death.

Meanwhile, flags flew at half staff today in Alabama to mourn Allen's passing.

Wallace called the senator's death a "deep personal loss." Allen had served as lieutenant governor under Wallace from 1963-67.

And from Allen's present and former Senate colleagues came praise for his skills as a parliamentarian.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd said Allen "commanded respect with his mastery of the rules and his courtesy on the floor."

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., who often found himself on opposite ends of an argument from Allen, said the senator was "perhaps the greatest parliamentarian ever to sit in the United States Senate."

And former Sen. Sam Ervin, a North Carolina Democrat, said, "We really can't afford to lose Jim Allen. He had intelligence, he had industry and he had the courage to stand up for what he knew to be right."

Allen's most celebrated stand came against the two Panama Canal treaties that were approved by the Senate March 16 and April 18.

Funeral services were planned Tuesday at Gadsden, Ala., Allen's hometown.

What can I say? It's a slow day. You'll have to settle for all that stuff that's not long enough by itself to do anything about. I like to call it "Do you Know?" Some of it, you may like to call "Do you Care?"

Joe Namath is in West Germany now filming a spy movie, "Avalanche Express." So, big deal, you already knew that. But did you know that ol' panthos legs is cast in the role of an American military agent.

Heck, I thought he was going to play another one of those brilliant characters he portrayed in the classic flick "The Last Rebel", a 1971 release about a glassy-eyed western anti-hero — a film many would've liked entitled "The Last Joe Namath Movie."

But Nooooo! He followed that with "C.C. and Company" with co-star Ann-Margaret ("Joe Namath was in that movie too!!" asked Walt Finley), and "Norwood", with equally-talented Glen Campbell. For the latter movie's TV release, it will be renamed "The Woods are full of Nerds."

Namath will also be in a TV series this fall, "Waverly Wonder." The ex-Jet will play a coach of a winless high school basketball team. To supplement, more likely, HIDE, Joe Willie's acting talents, just bet on a bunch of cute little lovelies shaking their fannies in front of the screen.

They should keep fannies and professional athletes off the acting streets and put them on the football fields where they belong.

The only news coming out of Munich these days, where "Avalanche Express" is being filmed, is that Namath's acting is making the West Berliners re-evaluate the relative destructive power of U2 rockets.

—I like Rocky Road ice cream. It's my fave. But if you made me eat it three times a day for a year or two, it'd make me toss my cookies.

Which brings me to the point that in 1962 there were 57 professional sports teams in six leagues — 10 each in the American and National baseball leagues, 14 in the National Football League, eight in the American Football League, nine in the National Basketball Association and six in the National Hockey League.

There are now 136 teams — 14 in the AL, 12 in the NL, 28 in the NFL, 22 in the NBA, 18 in the NHL eight in the World Hockey Association, 24 in the North American Soccer League and 10 in World Team Tennis.

With the increase in interest in the world of sports since 1962, the increase in teams is understandable. But if a sports fan who went into a coma in the late 60's was to wake up today, he'd say, with more than a small degree of disbelief: "You mean the NBA playoffs are still going on? This is June!"

There's a theory I just made up that I haven't checked with the mathematicians yet, but it'll probably hold Gatorade. "The more teams there are, the longer the seasons are. The longer the seasons are, the more crossover of respective sports there will be. The more of what I just said, the more fan confusion of trying to follow all the sports at once. The more, yeah that, the less fan interest. The less fan interest, the decline in teams. This is what I believe they call a circular theory."

Perceive my drift? I think the big daddies could blow their whole bag, man! Bo-de-o-dough. Bowie! Pete! And all their other guys, listen to me before it's too late! Enough! No more expanding. Thank you very much.

Are Supersonics really Bullet-proof?

SEATTLE (AP)—Tonight was the night the Seattle Super-Sonics figured they'd win it all.

Instead, they find themselves deadlocked with the Washington Bullets in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association championship series and another trip to Landover, Md., ahead of them.

The Sonics held a 2-1 lead in the series entering Game 4 Tuesday night at the Kingdome. If the Sonics had won that game, they'd have been playing for the title tonight.

But the Bullets spoiled those plans when they rebounded from a 15-point third-quarter deficit and outlasted the Sonics in overtime for a 120-116 victory that squared the series and snapped Seattle's 21-game home win streak.

So now it's down to a best-of-three series with Game 5 set for tonight in the Coliseum, the Sonics' regular home court, and Game 6 on Sunday at the Capital Centre in Landover.

The seventh game, if necessary, would be played in Seattle on Wednesday night.

"We're ready to go," said Sonics center Marvin Webster. "The loss won't change the outcome of the series, only delay it. I'm still confident. We know we can beat this team."

"We wanted to end it here. We just had to postpone it a couple of days, that's all," said Seattle guard Fred Brown. "Tuesday night was just a minor setback."

A minor setback for Seattle, maybe, but a major step in the right direction for the Bullets.

"No matter what happens

Friday night, we're going back home. I like that a lot," said Washington Coach Dick Motta.

Tonight's game hinges on which team can put its game plan into action.

"If the Bullets play — and I've maintained this from day one — we're tough to beat," said Motta.

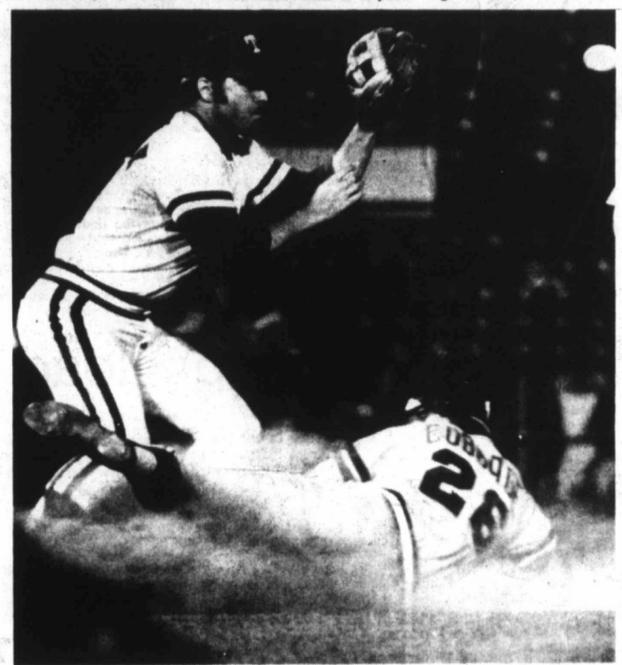

"I honestly feel we are a more versatile team than Washington," countered Sonics Coach Lenny Wilkens. "We have more ways of winning. If we play the way we are capable of playing, we will win."

A significant change occurred in Game 4, however — one the Bullets feel could carry them to the title. After relying almost exclusively on forwards Elvin Hayes and

"They got seven guys involved, and that's trouble," said Brown. "That's way too many people involved."

"It's not what the Sonics do to the Bullets, but what we do to ourselves," said Hayes, the club leader this series with 95 points and 51 rebounds. "When we play our game, we will win regardless of what the Sonics do."

"It's a best-of-three series now," said Sonics forward Jack Sikma. "I'm glad we've got two of them at home."

season with a .262 career batting average.

"I just have to keep swinging and be more selective," said Harrah as he enjoyed the dressing room spotlight once again.

"If you just keep battling, things will come your way," he said.

Harrah's homer capped a four-run Ranger rally in the seventh inning and helped rookie relief pitcher Steve Comer get his first major league victory.

Comer started in the seventh inning with the game tied after the Twins had rallied from a 6-1 deficit with a five-run explosion in the sixth inning.

Comer got in trouble quickly as Butch Wynegar and Glenn Adams hit consecutive doubles, with Wynegar scoring to put the Twins ahead 7-6.

Stan Ford's three-run homer over the 400-foot sign in dead center field capped the Minnesota sixth inning rally to tie.

The Rangers fell behind 1-0 after one inning but scored two runs in the third, one in the fourth and three more in the fifth to build their 6-1 advantage.

Harrah's homer was the first given up this season by Marshall, 1-3, who was the Twins' fourth pitcher and took the loss.

Three Ranger pitchers, including starter Doyle Alexander and reliever Paul Lindblad, surrendered 15 hits to the Twins. Th 10 runs scored by the Rangers marked a season high for the team.

"Lovely, I want to see more tomorrow night and the next night, and just a bunch more," said Texas manager Billy Hunter of his team's hitting and scoring.

It was only the second homer this year for Harrah, who hit 27 of the long balls last year and entered this

Palmer hurls 3rd straight skunk

By the Associated Press

Jim Palmer says rumors that the Baltimore Orioles might trade him are grossly exaggerated.

In fact, Palmer, who tossed his third straight shutout Thursday in a 1-0 victory over the New York Yankees, says he is the source of those rumors.

"I started most of the rumors, so it doesn't affect me," he said. "I called rumor control last night, and they said if I keep pitching like this there's no chance of a trade."

Palmer, now 7-4, yielded only two hits to the Yankees, weak singles by Lou Piniella and Chris Chambliss, in securing his 201st major league triumph and 49th career shutout, one more than San Diego's Gaylord Perry to take the lead among active pitchers.

The 32-year-old, three-time Cy Young award winner was blase.

"Just another shutout," he said. "It was just a win and I just happened to pitch a shutout again. I don't think about shutouts when I go out there. I just try to give up as few runs as I can. It was just a very blah 1-0 game."

Palmer, who walked five and struck out two, has now won four games in a row, and he's still complaining of a stiff shoulder.

"My shoulder has hurt all year," he said. "I thought it was cured when I left Florida but the pain is always there and it never really loosens up. I've had a couple of shots, but they haven't really helped."

Rookie Jim Beattie, 2-1, who had beaten Palmer earlier in the year, allowed four hits in seven innings.

There were no games in the National League Thursday.

Tigers 4, Brewers 3
Ron LeFlore drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and a single, and bullpen ace John Hiller came in to bail out Jim Slaton, 5-2, who got Detroit's third consecutive victory after seven straight losses. Hiller got his sixth save.

Sal Bando hit a two-run homer in the first inning and Robin Yount hit a sacrifice fly in the second to score Sixto Lezcano for Milwaukee, but Slaton settled down. Slaton gave way to Hiller in the eighth after yielding a triple to Paul Molitor and a walk.

Royals 10, Mariners 0
Dennis Leonard, 4-8, who lost five straight games in May, tossed a six-hit shutout that boosted Kansas City into first place by four percentage points over Oakland in the AL West.

Darrell Porter doubled home three runs for the Royals in the second inning, and George Brett also had three RBI on a pair of doubles in Kansas City's 14-hit attack.

Tom House, 3-4, the first of four Seattle pitchers, took the loss.

Rangers 10, Twins 7
Toby Harrah, who came into the game hitting only .201, smacked his second homer of the season, a three-run shot in the seventh inning that snapped a 7-7 tie and gave Texas a season high in run production.

Rookie Steve Comer, 1-1, the third Texas pitcher, was the winner. Doyle Alexander started for the Rangers but gave up eight hits and four runs in five innings.

Twins reliever Mike Marshall, 1-3, was the loser.

Fregosinamed Angels' manager

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Jim Fregosi, an original member of the California Angels, is coming home to be their manager, and he believes he can help inspire the club to greater heights in the American League West.

"We felt the Angels needed more motivation and that Fregosi is the type of individual to fill that bill," said Gene Autry, team president and chairman of the board, in announcing the firing of Dave Garcia and the hiring Thursday of the 36-year-old former infielder.

Fregosi, who played with the Angels for 11 seasons starting in 1961, becomes the eighth manager in the Angels' 18-year history.

"The biggest thing is baseball is a lot of fun and the players should have fun while they're playing it," said Fregosi Thursday night at the Greater Cincinnati Airport before flying to California. "If they have fun, they can win."

Fregosi, who has been a utility infielder with the Pittsburgh Pirates, will take over as the Angels' non-playing manager when they meet the Boston Red Sox in the opener of a 10-game homestand at Anaheim Stadium tonight. He was in Cincinnati because the Pirates open a weekend series there against the Reds tonight.

Fregosi follows Bill Rigney, the late Lefty Phillips, Del Rice, Bobby Winkles, Dick Williams, Norm Sherry and Garcia as manager of the team. Garcia succeeded Sherry only last July 11 and lasted less than a year as the team's skipper.

Garcia, 57, lost his job despite the fact that with a 25-21 record, California is only 1 1/2 games out of first place in the AL West. But the Angels have lost five straight games, including a 17-3 trouncing by the Chicago White Sox in their most recent action Wednesday night.

The Angels' current team batting average is a lowly .244 and the pitching staff's earned run average is a so-so 3.77.

"I was surprised at the news, but at the same time having been in this business for so long, nothing surprises me," Garcia said. "I'm disappointed. I don't get fired too often, but I'm not going into the bathroom and out my throat."

"I have to believe when people do things they do them because they think it's right. I wish I was still there because it's the best job I've had but I'm not going to worry about it."

Fregosi was one of the most popular players in the history of the franchise. He holds 10 club hitting records and was a three-time winner of the Owner's Trophy as the team's most valuable player. His batting average with the Angels over 11 years was .268.

"It was somewhat of a surprise but I'm excited about returning to the Angels as a manager," said Fregosi, who began his major league career with the Angels in 1961, but said he wouldn't miss playing. "It's about that time."

Now Winkles Can Catch Some Winks

THE BOBBY WINKLES walk-away from the job of A's manager is the man-bites-dog story of the year. As in any romance, it's not the breakup that hurts, it's the fact that the other person took the hike. That jabs the ego.

Charley Finley admits as much. "Ordinarily," he says, "I do the firing. He certainly surprised me."

So worried was Charley Finley about having his pogrom-image impaired, he picked up the phone in Chicago, called his three coaches in Oakland, and asked them to talk Winkles out of quitting. They tried for 45 minutes and failed. Had they succeeded, Finley obviously would have fired Winkles the following day.

Wanted to Leave on Top

Finley found it impossible to believe that any living man would walk out on such a wonderful employer, Charley Finley searched for the true reason and came up with it:

"The team is on top and he wanted to get out while he is looking good," reasons Charley O. "If the team took a nosedive, he would look bad."

Most people picked the A's to wind up either in seventh place or in Denver. It is inevitable, if there is any form to baseball's races, that the A's will take the nosedive. Had Winkles remained to be part of it, no one would have interpreted it as making Winkles look bad, any more than they will blame his successor.

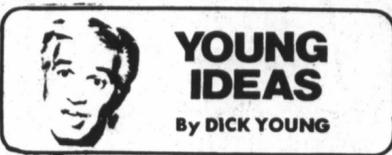

Winkles has to be the only man in history to quit a ballclub while in first place. Why would a man do such a thing? Here's what he says:

"I just couldn't take it anymore," Charles O. Finley is the "it." As the absolute owner of the A's, Finley appointed himself general manager. He would call Winkles every day and tell him how to make up the lineup card. Sometimes twice a day. Or more. There is, unquestionably, a right of ownership. Where does the right become a nightmare; that is the question.

"I had it enough," Bobby Winkles told his coaches. "I hear that I am phone ringing in the middle of the night when it's not ringing!"

Finley operates out of Chicago; Winkles out of Oakland for the most part. Finley would phone at a nice respectable hour, say 9 a.m., awakening Winkles at 7, after a night game. "Get out of bed! Only a whore makes money in bed," Finley would tell him, and laugh.

Finley says that Winkles, upon phoning to quit, asked for a settlement of 10 or 15 thousand on his $50,000 contract.

"You quit, you get crap," Finley quotes himself as replying. "Your pay stops as of yesterday."

Finley said he had told Winkles he liked the way he pulled pitchers, the way he made defensive changes, the way he used pinch-hitters, but he wanted the manager to use what Finley calls "the rabbits" more often. The rabbits are pinch-runners. Winkles preferred to keep his better hitters in the game.

All of baseball is amused by this latest twist in the life of unflappable Charley O, who quickly appointed to the vacancy Jack McKeon, the man he had fired as manager on June 10 last year.

With McKeon's original contract running through this season, Finley retained him as a super-scout for the remainder of last year and had him in uniform, coaching under Winkles this year. Thus does Finley's new/old manager cost him nothing. Charley actually would seem to be saving money on the deal.

Reggie Jackson, one of the world's more prominent Finley-watchers, has come to this conclusion: "Charley should manage the club himself. He should simply phone a different coach each day and make up the lineup with him. That's all he needs, really, three or four coaches."

Hall of Fame Take Note

Since taking over the A's in 1960, Charley Finley has made 15 changes of manager. This is the seventh time he has named a coach during the season, and the fourth time he has rehired a man he had previously fired. This is the first time, however, that anyone has quit during a season on Charley O. Finley, a baseball achievement which certainly merits consideration by the Hall of Fame committee.

Now it is Jack McKeon's turn to wake up in the middle of the night when the phone isn't ringing.

Four birdies embarrass Zarley into Kemper lead

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — From tee to green, Kermit Zarley considered it one of his worst rounds of the year.

But the 36-year-old PGA tour veteran broke out of his putting slump with a vengeance, knocking in four birdies in his last six holes Thursday for a 6-under-par 66 and the first-round lead in the $300,000 Kemper Open golf tournament.

"I'm embarrassed," Zarley said afterwards. "I didn't play that well. I wish I could say I did, but I played pretty bad. I was very fortunate on a few occasions. Everything went right for me."

By his own count, Zarley hit bad fairway shots on all but five holes. After 12 holes, he was only 2-under par — but that, he said, was when his wife, Marilyn, entered the picture.

"I had a 12-foot putt for par, and she said, 'Knock it in, honey.' She said it on every hole coming in, and I holed every putt except one from there to the clubhouse."

Included in that stretch were three consecutive birdies. Zarley completed his day's work by hitting a wedge from the left of the green on the final hole, then sinking a 6-foot birdie putt.

"I just snuck it in there," said Zarley, who bettered his previous low round of the year by two strokes. "I've had eight months, and I'm just coming out of it."

Zarley's highest finish this year was a tie for sixth at the Houston Open. He hasn't won an individual title on the PGA tour since 1970, and he is eyeing the $60,000 first prize at the Kemper.

"I need the money," said Zarley, who is 78th on the winnings list with $18,567 this year.

Also seeking to end a long absence from the winners circle is Arnold Palmer, who finished Thursday's play 1 stroke back on the 7,160-yard Quail Hollow Country Club course.

Palmer knows the course well. He has a wood-frame home overlooking the 15th fairway and has played the course every day since last Friday.

"It helps that I've stayed at home. I've played this golf course more in the last week than I have any golf course before a tournament in years," said Palmer, who won the first Kemper in 1968 but hasn't notched a PGA victory in the past five years.

'Flying Passem' favored in Kansas Futurity

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. (AP) — Flying Passem is favored to capture Sunday's 28th running of the $499,000 Kansas Futurity at Ruidoso Downs and the top prize of $164,502 that goes to the winner.

Flying Passem owns the best record in the ten-horse field that will be vying in the first leg of the Triple Crown of 2-year-old quarter horse racing.

The gelding, owned by Mildred Bowman of Alvin, Texas, shows three wins and one second place finish in four career starts for earnings of $41,755, by far the most of any horse in the field.

Flying Passem and the other nine hopefuls qualified for the 350-yard scramble by turning in the top times during trial races run May 19-19 at Ruidoso Downs.

Oh Jet Van, 18.22, John A. McRae of Ponder, Texas, Keith Asmussen; Song O My Heart, 18.27, Jody Miller of Blanchard, Okla., Jerry Burgess; Mito Easy, 18.28, Morris Cannan and A.W. Moursand of Round Mountain, Texas, Terry Lipham.

Fresh As A Daisy...

... the words instantly evoke a picture of crisp whiteness, of sunny yellow—a kind of jaunty joy. There's nothing depressing about daisies—pick a bunch and you automatically get a lift.

You start remembering old sayings like "Daisies don't tell." I wonder who invented that one. And that old game. "She loves me, she loves me not." Daisies have been flower fortune-tellers for longer than any of us can remember.

Yet daisies, too, have their season. Like everything else in nature, including man, they have a life span. And in their crisp, lilying way they make the most of it.

Do we? Someone once suggested that we should live each day as if it were our last. It seems a sobering thought at first. Yet, what a world it would be if we followed this advice!

Somewhere in the course of that tremendously important day, our steps would surely lead us to church.

Why wait?

EHRlichmans SPLITTING? — Jeanne Ehrlichman, shown here in a 1972 file photo, says she and John Ehrlichman are getting a divorce after more than 30 years of marriage because he "wants to live alone." Ehrlichman is shown leaving prison on a furlough while serving 18 months at the Swift Trail federal prison camp in Arizona for his part in the Watergate cover-up and in the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Ehrlichman's divorce

BELLEVUE, Wash. (AP) — John and Jeanne Ehrlichman are getting a divorce, according to an interview with Mrs. Ehrlichman published Thursday in the Daily Journal-American.

Neither she nor Ehrlichman, 53, who now lives in Santa Fe, N.M., could be reached immediately for comment on the report.

It was not immediately clear whether a divorce petition had been filed, who was filing it or what court would have jurisdiction.

"The divorce is John's idea," Mrs. Ehrlichman said in the newspaper interview. "At this point he wants to live alone."

She said that under the terms of the agreement, she will retain possession of the house they once shared in Hunts Point near Seattle.

"The emotional aspect is over," she said.

However, Mrs. Ehrlichman said she still loves her husband "very much," adding: "John can come home whenever he wants. The door is always open."

The Ehrlichmans have been married for nearly 30 years.

They moved to the Seattle suburbs in 1951 when Ehrlichman was rising to prominence in the area as a lawyer specializing in zoning and environmental cases.

In 1969 Ehrlichman became White House chief of domestic affairs, and the family moved to Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Ehrlichman said that as time went on, he had less and less time to devote to home life.

Non-delivered speech

'It began without you'

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Lines prepared for a commencement address no one asked me to deliver:

"Honorable regents, learned professors, wealthy trustees, bankrupt parents, relatives and friends lured here under duress, women and men and any minority genetic permutations of either or both in the Class of 1978..."

"You are about to walk out into a world withered by Watergate, vitiated by Vietnam, corrupted by Korea-gate, nervous to the point of neurosis over neutron bombs and, if I could think of a suitable alliteration, I'd include the mess in the Middle East too because it's timely, and this is going to be a timely speech.

The only advice I can give you are the words a platoon sergeant with the 1st Division gave to his riflemen heading out on patrol into the jungles of War Zone C west of Saigon: C.Y.A. Cover your A-double-scribble....

"I hate to break it to you this late in the academic game, but the world is not out there waiting for you. They've begun without you.

The dropouts and copouts already have grabbed off all the best jobs, all the best marital partners, all the safest sinecures and cushiest political appointments in the baronies of bureaucracy, which is why so many of you stay with us here on campus year after year, growing old gracefully in the Student Union, hobbling off on your canes and crutches and aluminum walkers to an occasional meaningful demonstration against the entrenched tools of power and a harmless burning down of the president's office....

"Nothing worth attaining in this life comes free, as you will soon learn when you settle your bills at the bur-sar's office before picking up the certified copy of your diploma stamped with the official college seal instead of this crummy empty tube of cardboard that we are handing out today....

"In a few hours you leave these hallowed halls utterly changed.

Railroad line's fortune gaining better status

PARSONS, Kan. (AP) — A continuing upturn of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas (Katy) Railroad's fortunes is leading the line, once beset with all kinds of financial woes, away from its grimmer days of marginal status.

That's the conclusion which close observers of the Katy are reaching as increased revenues provide the fuel for a sharp break with the past.

R. N. Whitman, chairman of the board, president and chief executive officer of the Katy, outlined many of the developments in a visit to Parsons Wednesday night during an inspection trip on the railroad. Parsons is an important operating point on the Katy.

Evaluation of school is open

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A state evaluation report on a private college is public record, Attorney General John Hill said Thursday.

Kenneth Ashworth, commissioner of higher education, requested Hill's opinion on whether to release an evaluation report on Ambassador College in Big Sandy.

The state uses such evaluation reports in deciding whether to certify private institutions to grant degrees.

"It is our decision that the information requested is public," Hill wrote.

Ashworth said Thursday the college is a branch of Ambassador College in California, operated by Garner Ted Armstrong. A private citizen requested the report, which was prepared by faculty members from public and private universities and a staff member from the state college coordinating board.

Ambassador College had objected to release of the report on grounds it would violate the college's privacy.

"The right of privacy is designed primarily to protect the feelings and sensibilities of human beings, rather than to safeguard property, business and other pecuniary interests," Hill wrote. "The information in this report does not infringe upon any individual's privacy interest."

cost of between $6 million and $7 million. The project is expected to take nine months to complete with a crew of 75 to 80 persons.

More significant than the news itself to the railroad's fortunes was the disclosure that the work would be financed by "internally-generated funds." That the Katy is able to spend its own dollars says a lot about the condition of a railroad that has survived on federal loans in the not-to-distant past.

Whitman also said that the Katy had launched a program of spending $250,000 a year for the next five years for improvement of its Parsons terminal. That yard is the key to most train operations on the railroad.

The Katy's overall goal is not an immediate showing of profit, Whitman said, but "the bottom line as long as heavy track work continues for another three years" will be a "first-class railroad with ample (locomotive) power and an improved car supply."

Whitman said that was the objective of both the Katy's management and its owners, Katy Industries Inc. Katy Industries is a diversified concern that controls the railroad together with numerous industrial and service affiliates.

"We have put a lot of money into this railroad," Whitman said, and predicted that more will be spent on reaching its goal.

Whitman was the director of the Federal Railroad Administration before he went to the Katy on July 1, 1970, as its head man. His headquarters are in Dallas, Texas.

A 1978 capital improvements budget of $19 million is the biggest in the railroad's 106-year history, Whitman said. It will include the delivery of 11 new locomotives and an outlay of $8 million for new freight cars. Seven of the locomotives will be delivered to Parsons in August, and the remaining four in October.

While the Katy is getting on its own financial feet, three federally-guaranteed loans for a total of $35.5 million in recent years nonetheless has been instrumental in providing track and roadbed, and bringing about locomotive and freightcar betterment.

The first loan under a new federal program of assisting ailing railroads was made to the Katy in 1975. It was for $19 million. Whitman said $6 million of that loan will be repaid by the end of this year.

By the close of 1978, 60 percent of what the Katy chairman termed its "main corridor" will have been rehabilitated.

Church lobby stands firm

NEW YORK (AP) — Jewish and other ethnic lobbying is "as legitimate as business lobbying, union lobbying, regional lobbying, veteran lobbying, aged lobbying and any other kind of lobbying," but keep it calm, says Bertram Gold, head of the American Jewish Committee.

He told the annual meeting of the community relations organization that "we won't make friends or keep them unless we moderate our public paranoia. Certainly we must stand firm on issues that are important to us. But everyone who disagrees with us is not automatically the enemy."

Trinity Baptists slate school

Daily Vacation Bible School at Trinity Baptist Church will be held June 5-9.

Teachers and workers will be using the theme "Jesus Is Coming." Their purpose will be with scriptures from the Bible and workbooks to teach the children the need to "Therefore Be Ye Also Ready."

Issues eyed by Presbyterians

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Several regional units have petitioned the southern branch of Presbyterianism, the Presbyterian Church U.S., to bar self-affirmed, practicing homosexuals from the ministry, as was done last month by the northern branch, the United Presbyterian Church.

The southern body, which holds its governing assembly June 9-16, also will choose a new moderator from two candidates, one of them a woman, Sara Bernice Mosley of Sherman, Texas.

There will be music and refreshments each day. Awards are to be given in each department and the attendance plaque will be given according to rules set up by the school.

On Monday, the children will line up out front of the auditorium and march in for assembly and then to classes to register.

On Tuesday through Friday, they will go directly to their departments at 9 a.m. Dismissal time each day will be at 11:30 a.m.

Buses will be running and those needing the service may call 7-6344.

Ancient enemies recur

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — "We're fighting the ancient enemies of the Church dressed up in new clothes," said Walter Martin, founder of the Christian Research Institute dedicated to defending the faith against the challenge of cults.

"It is not a negative approach but a positive one. The church is not attacking the world, the world is attacking the church and it is our responsibility to give a reply," he explains.

Over 11 years ago, Martin became concerned about teaching of American youth by Eastern religious cults as well as new sects that have emerged in the United States, sects that claimed traditional Christian beliefs were all wrong.

One of Martin's most well-known battles has been with the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. A ranking Mormon accused him at a public meeting of lying about its doctrines and their historical foundation. Martin sued for slander and the case is pending.

Martin believes the Christian Church was caught off guard by the 20th century proselytization of youth to Eastern religions and the birth in the United States of a number of "new" religions.

"God called me, I believe uniquely, for a specific purpose to bring to the people in the cults the truth so they won't be misled and to strengthen Christians in their faith," Martin said.

"The Christian Research Institute collects information on religious groups, codifies their doctrinal statements and specifies where they deviate from historical Christian faith."

Martin is respected in liberal and conservative theological circles for his research and explanation of cults, and his book "Kingdom of the Cults," is regarded as a major reference work on the subject. But his methods and manner are criticized by some and cause even those who agree with him theologically to shrink back.

Martin, a product of the Bedford-Stuyvesant ghetto of Brooklyn, said he learned early to deal with people straightforwardly. "People want to know the truth. They don't want a lot of flowery words."

THE BOOK — THE BLOOD — THE BLESSED HOPE

Times Have Changed!

OR HAVE THEY? MAYBE TIMES CHANGE, BUT BASIC HUMAN NATURE DOESN'T.

"THE STUDENT COMES TO COLLEGE OFTEN WITH AN UNDISCIPLINED MIND AND AN UNCULTIVATED HEART, AND A SCOWLING CONTEMPT FOR LOCAL AUTHORITY AND WHOLESOME RESTRAINT," WHO SAID THAT? A PROFESSOR AT DAVIDSON COLLEGE IN 1855!

COMPLAINED ABOUT TRAFFIC AND THE RUSH HOURS IN OUR LARGER CITIES LATELY? JULIUS CAESAR WAS FORCED, BECAUSE OF THE TRAFFIC JAMS, TO BAR ALL EXCEPT PEDESTRIANS AROUND THE CIRCUS MAXIMUS DURING THE TEN HOURS AFTER SUNRISE. LADY CHARLOTTERS WERE NOT PERMITTED TO DRIVE IN THE CITY ON SUNDAYS OR DURING TIMES OF HEAVY TRAFFIC!

LOADED DICE WERE FOUND IN THE RUINS OF THE CITY OF POMPEII BURIED BY LAVA FROM IT. VESUVIUS IN 79 A.D. IN 309 B.C. A TEMPLE ORCHESTRA WENT ON STRIKE BECAUSE THEY WERE NOT ALLOWED TO EAT THEIR LUNCHEONS IN THE TEMPLE!

AND THIS IS WHY WE STILL TEACH AND PREACH THE SAME MESSAGE CHRIST AND HIS APOSTLES DID. IT'S GOD'S SOLUTION TO MAN'S PROBLEMS.

THE INTERNATIONALS
 ... at First Church of God

Internationals to appear on Sunday

The Internationals, an ensemble of foreign students now at Azusa Pacific College will be appearing at First Church of God, 2009 Main Street, Big Spring, on Sunday, June 4, at 6:30 p.m.

Representing the 100 international students on campus from 25 different countries, the five team members are under the sponsorship of David Johnson. The ensemble travels throughout the Southern Midwest ministering in churches.

The Internationals present a variety of music from Asia, Africa and America. Through song and testimony they express their commitment.

These young people are attending Azusa Pacific College in order to obtain a Christian Liberal Arts education before returning to minister in their home country in Christian service or as Christian laymen.

Mini-carnival set by church

The youth of the First Church of God will feature booths set up on the church parking lot Saturday for raising funds toward a camping retreat.

Prizes will be awarded to all participants. Bigger prizes go to winners. The public is invited to "come and enjoy the fun" according to the Rev. Alan Tinnerstet.

All who participate in either the mini-carnival, the rummage sale or the refreshment booth will receive a free helium balloon. The carnival and other events begin at 9 a.m. Saturday at 2009 Main in this "family fun event."

Prayer book highlights female God

NEW YORK (AP) — "Blessed is She who in the beginning gave birth," reads a new Jewish prayerbook for the Sabbath, using female imagery for God.

The authors, Naomi Janowitz and Maggi Wenig, members of women's minyan (congregation) at Brown University in Providence, R.I., say the aim is to "sanctify our everyday lives as women."

Other excerpts from the prayerbook published by Lilit, a Jewish women's magazine, read: "Blessed is She whose womb produces all creatures. ... Blessed is She who nourishes those who are in awe of her."

Church of Christ hosts ACU speaker Sunday

On Sunday, June 4, Dr. B. E. (Ed) Davis is scheduled to speak during the evening worship service 6 p.m. at the Church of Christ, 14th and Main Streets.

Dr. Davis came to Abilene Christian University in 1969 from Michigan State University, where he received his Ph.D. in communication. He received his B.A. in speech and Bible from David Lipscomb College in 1963, and his M.S. from Clemson University in Economics and Sociology in 1962.

Dr. Davis is professor of communications at ACU, and serves as director of the Mass Communication program, which includes radio-television, journalism, public relations and advertising. He received the "Outstanding Teacher of the Year" award in 1973, and is widely published in research journals and other publications.

In addition to his teaching duties at ACU, Dr. Davis serves as director of the Center for Research in Religious Communication, director of the annual Mass Communication Evangelism Symposium, and president of the World Christian Broadcasting Corporation.

Dr. Davis has more than 30 years of experience as a minister of the gospel, and has served various congregations in North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Michigan, and Texas. He and his family worship with the University Church of Christ in Abilene.

Dr. Davis is married to the former Frances Dawn Bartlett, of Gallatin, Tennessee, and they have four children. Their daughter, Kathy, teaches art in Big Spring High School.

Following evening services, friends of ACU in the Big Spring area are invited to attend a special program in the fellowship building at 14th and Main. A brief report on ACU, including a film "The Vital Difference," is planned.

Lutheran Seminary poll shows varied excuses

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
 NEW YORK (AP) — "Church people are hypocrites, phonies, fakers." "Going to church doesn't make any difference." "Churches are just looking for the almighty dollar." "They're always knocking each other." "They talk about love but then condemn you to hellfire." "Nuts with that." "I'm self-sufficient."

These are among reasons people give for not being church members as found in a study made by the Rev. Dr. J. Russell Hale of Lutheran Theological Seminary at Gettysburg, Pa.

comments went. "I don't have to go to church to be a Christian... It's between God and me."

—The "boxed-in," people who have quit the church, considering it too confining and restrictive, stifling their independence to do "it my way." "Nobody is going to pressure me," comments went. "I'm a pretty independent guy... I make my own decisions."

—The "burned out" people who feel wearied and drained by church work and want to travel light, relieved at dropping church work. "The church wanted all our time and too much money," one commented.

The "cop-outs," people never really involved in church life, apathetic to it, generally uninformed about it and indifferent. "I could care less."

—The "happy hedonists," people who find fulfillment in a succession of momentary pleasures. "It's either church or recreation, and recreation wins," comments went. "When it comes to priorities, I come first."

Kendrick pageant set in Cisco

CISCO — Reservations are now being taken for the oncoming summer productions of the Kendrick Religious Pageant "The Life of Christ," to be presented each Thursday and Friday night at 9 from June 15 through August 18. Admission is all seats $3.

The summer productions are the same as is presented on Easter Sunday as a pre-dawn service. It is the complete life of Christ from the birth through the resurrection, presented in sixty scenes.

Included with the cast is a grey donkey, a white donkey for the Triumphant Entry of Jesus; sheep for the shepherds in the field; and a camel for the wisemen.

Plan now, and make reservations soon, to attend one of the 20 presentations this summer.

Attend The Church of Your Choice Sunday

Also, Texas' only All Religious Diorama and Museum is located in the pageant grounds. Sixteen scenes from the New Testament are set as realistic as is possible with over 100 life-sized figures. Narration is taken from the King James version of the Bible, and organ background music softly fills each scene.

As you view the scene, you are actually standing right in the midst of the figures, giving you the feeling of being right there with Jesus and His followers. Admission to the event is children $1 and adults $1.50. The event is open daily from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

There is a 10 per cent discount for groups of 15 or more.

Prayer book highlights female God

Other excerpts from the prayerbook published by Lilit, a Jewish women's magazine, read: "Blessed is She whose womb produces all creatures. ... Blessed is She who nourishes those who are in awe of her."

"...AND SAID, VERILY I SAY UNTO YOU, EXCEPT YE BE CONVERTED, AND BECOME AS LITTLE CHILDREN, YE SHALL NOT ENTER INTO THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN, WHOSOEVER THEREFORE SHALL HUMBLE HIMSELF AS THIS LITTLE CHILD, THE SAME IS GREATEST IN THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN." MATTHEW 18:3-4.

Cosby returns as 'spy' Ridin' fence
 They call it Mentone

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Once upon a time, there was a series, "I Spy," with Bill Cosby and Robert Culp as spies. Sunday night, Cosby returns to hush-hush work in a two-hour NBC movie, "Top Secret."

It is different than "I Spy." Cos now is a New York art dealer who secretly does special work for Uncle Sam. When thugs steal 120 pounds of plutonium in Italy, he is sent to Italy immediately.

His contact there is McGee (Tracy Reed), a lovely lady spy posing as an expatriate artist. Cos lands in Italy, takes a cab to the famed Via Scenic Harbor View, sees her painting and makes contact.

They jump in her white VW convertible and start driving. She tells him about the stolen plutonium and adds: "Our job is to get it back fast. My theory is that it was terrorists."

Next scene: Two thugs who stole the plutonium haggle with young folks who indicate they are terrorists. They want to buy the boom stuff, the thugs want more money. Guns are drawn, then put away.

Meanwhile, Cos and McGee arrive at a hamlet. He asks where is the hotel. And is told: "There is no hotel. You're staying with me. Our cover is that we're lovers."

She also berates him. Each time they're in her apartment she berates him. Berate No. 1 is that field spies take all the risks "while you're in Washington eating beef Wellington and stroking the brass...."

They then go to an afternoon party held in the big villa of one Carl Vitale (played by executive producer Sheldon Leonard).

with Marj Carpenter

Like I said last Friday, I'm going to expand out around West Texas a little with this column and maybe we'll all learn a few more West Texas tales.

What better town to start with than Mentone? It's probably the smallest county seat in all of West Texas and one of the most colorful. It's north of Pecos and west of Kermit.

They currently have around 89 registered voters and a population of not too many over a 100.

But there have probably been more election boxes impounded by Texas Rangers in Mentone through the years than in any other Texas county.

For years there were two political elements in Loving County in which Mentone was the county seat.

It was referred to as the Moreheads and the Hoppers like the Hatfields and McCoy's family feuds of the old days.

There were at one time two cafes in Mentone and you could frequent one or the other, but not both. One belonged to one faction and one to the other. There were a lot of stories around that you couldn't get a grand jury indictment, because somebody on the grand jury would hold out against the other faction.

Time has tempered a lot of the feuds. But 15 or 20 years ago, they were really feuding. At one time, one Mentone citizen filed a lawsuit in Reeves County over in Pecos charging one of their "enemies" with slander. The lawsuit claimed that somebody had said one of the family's daughters had to get married and two "ars had passed without a

Inflation rising as officials pass blame

NEW YORK (AP) — We're back to double digit inflation, as if that's any surprise, and everyone from the President to the most insignificant consumer is acting as if somebody else is the culprit.

But there's no mystery about inflation, and the culprits know it, they being the wasters, the handout promoters, the budget-busters, the loafers, the overregulators, the spend-thrifts, the greedy.

You can be even more specific than that. You can call them the President, the Congressman, the consumer, the farmer, the manufacturer, the union leader, the doctor, the lawyer, the banker....

Culprits, and victims too, fighting for survival in some instances, seeking at other times to gain a relative edge, feeding the spiral that eventually winds itself into a vacuum that sucks energy from everyone.

The closer to Carter, the higher the office

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the game of White House watching, the title on the office doors doesn't tell you who's who. Not if the door is in the wrong neighborhood.

And there's only one right neighborhood: the complex of offices closest to President Carter's Oval Office. That's the West Wing, the Boardwalk and Park Place of official offices.

Ten steps from Carter; door is better than 20. And the senior aide who is assigned a spot in the Executive Office Building, across a private street, is deemed to be in big trouble.

It doesn't seem to make much difference that proximity does not necessarily mean power — or that the West Wing complex has been partitioned so many times that some offices are little more than cubbyholes.

"The magnificence of the office is in inverse proportion to the importance of the individual," says one White House aide, who is unimpressed enough to have a fancy office in the far

Harris County Commissioners not to stop gay convention

HOUSTON (AP) — Members of the Harris County Commissioners Court have agreed they have no authority to stop a gay rights conference scheduled for June 25 in the AstroArena.

By a 3-2 vote the commissioners rescinded Thursday an earlier objection to using the county-owned facility for such a meeting.

The Houston Sports Association holds a 40-year lease on the Astro dome and adjacent facilities.
