Carter budget may be cut again

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's advisers want another $4.5 billion lopped off the administration's tax cut plan as the price Americans must pay for further trimming of the planned budget deficit.

Administration sources, who asked not to be identified, said the advisers want the proposed 1979 tax cut held to about $15 billion, down from a compromise $19.4 billion. Carter originally wanted a nearly $24 billion reduction.

The sources said some of Carter's advisers want to cut an additional $3 billion to $5 billion from the 1979 deficit to demonstrate the administration's commitment to curbing inflation. The deficit now is projected at between $54 billion and $55 billion.

The action is in response to widespread criticism from Congress and elsewhere that huge federal budget deficits are a major cause of the nation's inflation, which has been worsening in recent months.

A cut in the deficit of $3 billion to $5 billion is considered important for psychological reasons because it would reduce the 1979 deficit below that of 1978, which now is projected at $53 billion.

With the economy in its fourth year of recovery after the 1974 recession, economists term as worrisome a deficit larger in 1979 than in 1978.

"They want it to be smaller. I wouldn't be surprised if the administration did not oppose another reduction in the tax cut to get it there," said one administration source, who did not want to be identified.

Chairman G. William Miller of the Federal Reserve Board has repeatedly urged the administration to reduce the 1979 deficit to below $50 billion. He has said the administration needs to reduce the deficit to help control inflation.

Miller also said last week that even though the administration has trimmed the proposed tax cut once, from $25 billion to $19.4 billion, any tax cut at all may be inappropriate in the current situation.

Price statistics last week showed inflation has been running at above 10 percent in the past few months. Economists both in and out of government are beginning to worry that a new recession may be inevitable as early as next year if inflation isn't brought under better control.

The administration source, who predicted Carter may agree to yet a smaller tax reduction, said that may be the only way to reduce the deficit because it will be difficult to reduce actual spending for the 1979 fiscal year, which begins on Oct. 1.

Rather than formally announcing another reduction in the proposed cut, this source predicted that the administration may quietly tell Congress that it would agree to the new cut and let Congress do the actual cutting.

It is unclear how Congress would react to that approach, but it is evident there is general sympathy on Capitol Hill for holding down the deficit and reducing tax cuts.

But the source said Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal and James T. McIntyre, director of the Office of Management and Budget, are looking for ways to reduce 1979 spending without additional trimming of the tax cut.

He said Carter has told them to go ahead "if it can be done."

But he also said that Carter will make a major push to hold spending to the bone in fiscal 1980, the year for which budget planning is now under way.

He said Carter had set a tentative goal for budget deficit of between $35 billion and $40 billion in 1980, with spending hitting about $540 billion, up $40 billion, or about 8 percent, above projected 1979 spending.

One veteran budget planner was quoted as saying the budget may be the "lightest ever seen," pointing out that most of the $40 billion increase would go for things over which the administration has little or no control, such as Social Security, welfare and defense spending.

The administration is expected to announce next month that the government is underspending its 1978 budget by $2 billion to $3 billion, which would make the overall shortfall in government spending near $20 billion.

However, receipts are expected to be lower than originally estimated, so the overall deficit would remain the same at about $53 billion.

Hail hammers cotton in Knott, Tarzan areas

By MARJ CARPENTER

Spotty hailstorms have struck the area during the past two nights and wiped out cotton in the Knott, Tarzan, and Brown areas.

Monday night, baseball-sized hail fell in the Knott and Brown areas at scattered locations. Lowell Shortes reported that it rained between 3 and 4 inches west of Brown with heavy hail ranging from golfball-size to baseball-size.

Back at Cecil Allred's, south of the Brown area, half way in between Knott and Ackerly, baseball-sized hail was reported to be breaking out windows. Lloyd Robinson, Joe Myers, Don Grantham and many others had crops hit by hail in that area.

The rain accompanied the hail and the lakebed east of the Knott gin has enough water to float a motorboat today.

Around Brown, the roads are covered with water and washed out in some locations and the fields look like lakes.

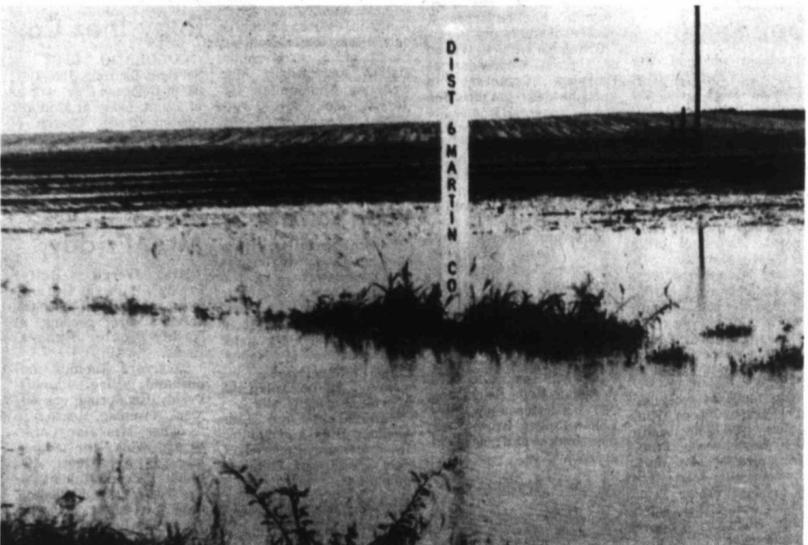

In one area, hail fell hard enough to strip trees. The young cotton has been pounded into the ground in some locations and washed out in others.

However, farmers in the Knott Cop this morning said some farmers were lucky enough to just get rain and keep their stand of young cotton.

Around 4 a.m. Monday, the hail hit the Tarzan area wiping out the new cotton crop at that location. Farmers have time to replant until around June 25, if the fields get dry enough to get into.

RUNNING LIKE A RIVER — Fields in the Knott and Ackerly area were running water through the fields into the ditches this morning, taking young cotton with it. Many farmers in the areas north of Big Spring around Knott and Brown must replant as will the farmers out around Tarzan.

TWO COUNTY RAIN — Rain fell in both Martin and Howard counties near Brown Monday night as is apparent by the large amount of water surrounding the county line marker this morning. Actually, spotted showers and rain fell in over eight West Texas counties Monday night.

Local school board president to resign

School Board President Roy Watkins announced today that he will submit his notice of resignation to the board at their Thursday meeting.

"I've been on over 11 years," said Watkins. "And for several years I have not had the time to devote to the job; I haven't been able to visit schools and check programs."

"I'm going to miss it, but I no longer have a child in the system, and that makes a difference to me."

"There's never a good time to resign," he continued quietly. "Frankly, I wanted to several years ago, but every time I'd consider it, boom, something happened I felt obliged to see through. About two years ago I made up my own calendar."

"But by the same token, if I didn't have complete faith in the board and the administration I wouldn't do it."

"I hope nobody reads any problems into this; just the opposite."

Watkins has served as president for the past eight years, outlasting several superintendents, and many difficult battles. Chief among these has been the spectre of non-compliance with HEW guidelines which has haunted the district throughout the 70s.

His daughter, Tammy, graduated recently from the high school.

Other items to be taken up at the meeting include a reconsideration of the school district's social security policy. The reconsideration was requested by teachers at last month's meeting.

Also up for consideration is the replacement of band directors at the high school. With the loss of Bailey Young from the Runnels program, and subsequent transfer of Bill Bradley, the band program, which normally has four directors, is several hands short.

Repairs at the high school choir room, recently the scene of an arson, will be discussed.

Other agenda items are routine.

Julianne Raines in Washington for Spelling Bee

Julianne Raines of Big Spring is in Washington, D.C., with members of her family where later this week she will take part in the National Spelling Bee.

Julianne, 14, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Raines. Upon their return to Big Spring, the family will be moving to Arlington where Harold has accepted a transfer offered by his firm, Texas Electric Service Company.

Julianne is one of 106 finalists gathered in the nation's capital for the week of activity.

Entrants from as far away as Anchorage, Alaska, and Mexico City ranging in ages from ten to 14 years, are qualified to take part in the National Bee. At stake are thousands of dollars in scholarships.

Of the contestants, 58 are girls and 48 are boys. The National Spelling Bee was started in 1925 by the Louisville Courier-Journal, at which time only nine entries took part.

Last year, 94 spellers competed on the national level. Two years ago, 87 entries took part.

Julianne and the other entries took a trip to Smokey Glen Farm in Maryland Monday where the spellers, their families and escorts had a chance to relax.

Today was to be a day devoted to sight-seeing. The entries were to see such things as Lincoln Memorial, Jefferson Memorial, the Capitol building, Air and Space Museum of the Smithsonian Institute and the Washington Monument.

The actual spelling bee competition gets under way at 8:30 a.m., Wednesday. Pronouncer for the bee will be Dr. Richard R. Baker, a professor of philosophy at the University of Dayton in Ohio. Dr. Baker is a familiar figure around bee headquarters — he's served in that capacity 17 times before.

Spelling bee competition will continue all day Wednesday and Thursday morning, or until a champion has been determined.

The remainder of the week will be devoted to additional sightseeing, including a visit to the White House. Most of the contestants will return home Saturday.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Cheap shot?

Q: Why is there not more press coverage of competitive clay target sports?

A: That's a good question. Traditionally, competitive shooting, unlike most other sports, gets virtually no coverage. Outdoor columns are devoted usually to hunting, fishing, boating, etc. Most outdoor writers don't know enough about the clay target sports to cover them, don't know when or where matches are being held, don't have the time to cover them or don't know they are being held at all. Better news releases by one of the national gun or rifle organizations is probably the answer.

Calendar: Tax unit to meet

TODAY
All youths, age 14-18, curious about hospitals or interested in careers in health care are invited to attend Malone-Hogan's Junior Volunteers orientation at 1:30 p.m. at the hospital classroom. Applications available at the information desk. Must be returned to the hospital switchboard prior to orientation. Call 263-1211, ext. 124, before 5 p.m. or 263-3158 after 5.

WEDNESDAY
Meeting of the Howard County Tax Appraisal Board at 9 a.m. to discuss budget and moving expenses in the county courtroom.

Offbeat: Lonesome javelina?

The lone javelina which eluded city police for a short time last month before its capture apparently wasn't alone, according to Mrs. Noble Welch, 1302 Sycamore.

Mrs. Welch reported that her husband spotted another javelina on the 11th Place extension Monday morning while driving home from Sand Springs. The javelina ran across the road in front of Welch's vehicle near the sewer plant, Mrs. Welch said.

"I thought it was the one they found in Edward's Heights," Mrs. Welch said. She said a friend later told her that the one in the Edward's Heights addition had died following its capture.

She reasoned that the one her husband spotted "might be the mate" of the deceased javelina.

Tops on TV: News show debut

A news magazine show entitled 20-20 News, which inevitably will be compared with CBS's 60 Minutes, makes its debut on ABC at 9 o'clock this evening. The former editors of Esquire and Time magazines are working with the show. How it will come across the screen will be anybody's guess. If you're ready for a film classic, catch a very young Elizabeth Taylor on 'National Velvet' starting at 7 p.m., on CBS.

Inside: EPA fearful

WITH THE PRICE ceilings on gasoline lifted, the EPA is afraid that the price of unleaded gasoline will continue to rise. See page 6A.

ITALY'S ABORTION LAW went into effect today and a majority of the doctors have declared themselves "conscientious objectors." See page 8A.

Outside: Rain

Thundershowers continue likely through tonight with clearing skies and warm temperatures Wednesday. High today is expected in the upper 70s, low tonight in the low 60s, high Wednesday in the mid 80s. Winds will be southeasterly at 10 to 20 mph, gusting along storm fronts.

Farm Taxes, interest costs up

AMSTIN—You'll get no smile out of a Texas farmer or rancher because statistics show that he made two per cent more in May than he did in April. His services, taxes, interest, and labor costs rose one and a half per cent.

Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown commented that the half per cent gain still does not put Texas farm accounts in the black. Even with the recent rises in livestock prices, major Texas commodities remained below parity except for oranges, mohair, and sheep.

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service monthly statistics for average prices received as of May 15 show that as many commodities decreased in price as did those which rose.

Livestock prices provided the biggest boost in the 2 per cent increase. The average for beef cattle was $49.50 per hundred pounds; calves, $59.10 per hundredweight; hogs $45.40 per hundredweight, all prices indicating gains from $2 to $3 over April prices. Lamb prices rose $6.70 per hundredweight, but sheep prices dropped $3.10.

Brown stated that grains are showing slow recoveries in May prices over last year. Grain sorghum averaged $3.93 per hundredweight, wheat $2.70 per bushel, and corn, $2.39 per bushel.

Soybean prices are significantly lower than those of last year with a May average of $6.29 per bushel, contrasted to $9.24 in May 1977.

Feed and hay prices were slightly lower in May than the previous month. Baled alfalfa hay dropped $1.50 to $66 a ton. Cottonseed meal, bran, and middlings were 10 to 20 cents lower, and laying feed was $5 a ton less. Mixed dairy feed remained steady at $140 a ton.

"I think these figures show that agricultural prices simply are not the significant contributor to inflation that some analysts would assume," Brown said. "A recent report on bread price increased implied that higher prices for wheat were the cause of the rise; however, during the three-year slump in grain prices, there were no significant decreases in bread costs. We see this lack of correlation in other foods. Processing and labor costs for the food industry account for much in the higher food bills for the food industry account for much in the higher food bills for families."

Dollar improves in Tokyo trading

LONDON (AP) — The dollar improved today in fairly brisk Tokyo trading and then inched upward in morning dealings on European money markets. The price of gold continued to fall.

The U.S. currency, which dropped below 220 Japanese yen Monday for the first time since April 17, recovered a bit on the Tokyo market to close today at 220.775 yen compared to 219.75 yen at Monday's close.

The dollar was higher as the European financial exchanges opened for business. But a London dealer cautioned that the U.S. currency "is moving all over the place" and said no clear trend had yet developed.

In Milan the dollar rallied sharply against the Italian lira in morning trading after six consecutive downward sessions. The dollar was quoted at 864 lire, up from 861.50 lire late Monday. Dealers attributed the dollar's recovery to technical factors.

Morning quotes for the dollar in other European financial centers, compared with Monday's late rates:

Frankfurt—2.0985 West German marks — compared to 2.0905 Monday.

Man charged with mischief

JIMMY DeLeon, 20, 1101 N. Scurry, was charged with malicious mischief, a felony, Monday. The charges were filed in Justice of the Peace Bob West's office in connection with $207 damage to a door and frame belonging to William Martin. DeLeon was released from the Howard County Sheriff's office under $5,000 bond Monday.

Band members back home from Austin

This past weekend, Big Spring was represented at the Texas State Solo and Ensemble Contest by 21 high school musicians. The annual event was held June 3-5 on the campus of the University of Texas at Austin.

In order to make the trip to state, each student had received a division I rating on a Class I solo at the UIL solo and ensemble contest, which was held in Big Spring this April. Big Spring brought back seven first divisions, eight second divisions and seven third divisions.

Miller to pay $2,000 fine

Three guilty pleas were taken Monday in 118th District Court.

Michael James Miller, 17, 1303 Elm, pleaded guilty to delivery of a controlled substance. He was sentenced by District Judge Ralph Caton to pay a $2,000 fine.

Thomas Lujan, 17, 704 N. 7th, pleaded guilty to auto burglary. He was sentenced to ten years probation.

Terry Gene Griffith, 18, Odessa, was sentenced to ten years probation on auto burglary charges in the same incident as Lujan. Griffith's probation was transferred to Ector County.

Church to show 'free' movies

Free picture shows for children will be featured each Wednesday at St. Paul Lutheran Church, 810 Scurry, starting Wednesday, June 7 at 1 p.m.

Children three years old or over are invited and will be admitted free. The first shows will be Walt Disney's "The Voice of the Deep" and "The Ugly Dachshund."

The movies will be featured from 1-4 p.m. each Wednesday through July 17. The festival will later include some handicrafts for children as well.

The public is invited to bring children to the first show Wednesday, June 7 at 1 p.m.

Murphy named to presidency

The Rev. Charlie Murphy, pastor of the Coahoma Presbyterian Church, was elected president of the Howard County Ministerial Fellowship when they met Monday.

Vice president is the Rev. Bill Henning, pastor of First Presbyterian in Big Spring and the Rev. Bill Smythe, pastor of First Christian, is secretary. The Rev. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of First Baptist Church, is treasurer.

Outgoing officers include the Rev. Harland Birdwell, pastor of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, who served for two and a half years in the post. Rev. Smythe is outgoing vice president; Rev. Murphy, secretary and Rev. Patrick, treasurer.

Retired Feds call meeting

The National Association of Retired Federal Employees will meet Thursday, June 8 at the older adult center, 2805 Lynn Drive at 9:30 a.m.

Coffee will be served with the meeting beginning at 10 a.m. Mrs. Clyde Thomas will conduct a book review following the meeting.

20 percent of UTPB faculty will not return

ODESSA — At least 20 percent of the University of Texas at the Permian Basin faculty will not return this fall but university officials insist the quality of the staff will not suffer.

Several of the group have indicated they are moving because they are dissatisfied with UTPB President V.R. Cardozer's administrative policies.

Cardozer and Dr. J. Edwin Becht, Vice President for Academic Affairs, both conceded that recruiting faculty with doctoral degrees in business would be difficult.

Fourteen faculty members have announced plans to go elsewhere. Of that number, six serve as department chairmen.

WHAT HAVE WE HERE? — The tiny spheres enlarged here 11 times are molecular sieve absorbents manufactured by W.R. Grace & Co., an international chemical company. Acting in a manner similar to a kitchen sieve, molecular sieves remove water, sulphur and other impurities from natural gas. They are also used in dual-pane insulated windows to absorb water and prevent fogging. Grace operates an agricultural chemicals plant (which temporarily has cut back operations) on IS 20 east of Big Spring.

Police beat Woman choker strikes

JIMMY Moore, 115 Lloyd, watched as a resident of N.W. Fifth threw rocks through the windshield and against the left fender of Moore's car. The car had been parked at 407 N.W. 5th, around 5 p.m. Monday.

Officers Troy Hogue and Mike Eggleston arrested the rock thrower, but not before $400 damage had been done to the auto.

A 24-year-old woman reported that she was attacked by a man inside her Sixth Street apartment, Monday afternoon. According to reports, the man tried to choke his victim, but she managed to fight him off.

She received treatment for her wounds at a local hospital, but was not admitted. She is expected to file formal charges against the assailant sometime today.

Two local women were arrested for shoplifting at the Giant Food Store, North Lamesa, 6:30 p.m. Monday. The women had picked up approximately $11 worth of merchandise between them.

Sharon Kershman, 204 Cindy, told police that someone stole $50 cash from her purse while she was working at the D&M Garden Center Monday.

Kenneth R. Jones, 604 E. 14th, reported that his 1966 Ford Fairlane was stolen while it was parked at the Shade Western Lounge, sometime between 6:30 and 9 p.m. Monday. According to reports, there is some dispute about whether or not the car had been repossessed by its previous owner.

Five mishaps were reported Monday.

A vehicle driven by Susan Montgomery, 804 E. 15th, struck a parked vehicle belonging to R. E. Archibald, Route 1, at 1309 Gregg, 1:40 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Henry Ashford, 900 W. 3rd, and Jimmy Hadegee, 806 E. 17th, collided at 1700 W. 3rd, 1:51 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Hollie Peurifoy, 1013 Stadium, and Buford Howell, 1503 State, collided at 600 W. 17th, 3:03 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Marietta B. Hartzell, 1107 E. 15th, and Gregory M. Cline, 1417 E. 6th, collided at 300 E. 3rd, 11 a.m.

A parked vehicle belonging to Janice Fowler, Garden City Route, was struck by a vehicle that left the scene in the parking lot of the Big Spring Post Office, 11:15 a.m.

Clues scarce in murder case

Police do not yet know who shot Rudy Ramirez Jr., 23, as he leapt from his car and attempted to flee on Fifth Street, Sunday night.

Ramirez was felled by a shotgun blast in the back, approximately 11 p.m. Sunday. Police speculate that the victim jumped from his car, whose back window had been shattered by a shotgun blast, and attempted to flee in front of 707 E. 5th when he was killed a few yards from the auto.

"We have been working on this day and night. We have a few leads, but nothing we can prove yet," said Lt. Claude Morris, head of detectives.

Morris added, however, that investigators expect a break in the case in the near future.

Deaths Vidal Garza

Funeral for Vidal Garza, 78, who died at 1:35 p.m. Saturday in a local hospital, will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in College Baptist Church, with Dr. Jimmy Law, pastor officiating. Burial will follow in Mount Olive Memorial Park under the direction of River-Welch Funeral Home.

Palbearers will be James Johnson, Raul Rivas, Jimmy Cantu, Vidal Garza Jr., Lupe Vantura and Benny Garza.

Mrs. Garrett

MIDLAND — Mrs. Annie L. Garrett, 92, died this morning in the McCamey Hospital. She had been a resident of McCamey.

Graveside services will be at 3 p.m., Wednesday at Fairview Cemetery in Midland under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

Mrs. Garrett was born Oct. 20, 1885, in Colorado City. She moved to Midland in 1889. She was married to Al Garrett, a business man who died in 1936. She moved to McCamey in 1926.

Survivors include three sons, Haley Garrett, McCamey, A. H. Garrett Jr., Monahan, and Paul Garrett, Big Spring; four daughters, Mrs. Louis Dunlap, Big Spring, Mrs. Annie Mae Harris, Midland, Mrs. Margaret Nye, Palestine, Tex., and Mrs. Geraldine Hein, Poughsquam, N.Y.; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Lillian Reiger, Brownwood; nine children and nine great-grandchildren.

A.A. Jarrett

LAMESA — Services for Albie A. Jarrett, 66, of Lamesa, will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Branon Funeral Chapel with the Rev. J. P. Jones, a Baptist minister, and the Rev. Billy Bush, pastor of Northside Baptist Church here, both officiating.

Burial will be in Lamesa Memorial Park under direction of Branon Funeral Home.

Jarrett died at 4:45 a.m. Monday in Medical Arts Hospital after a long illness.

The Red River native had lived in Dawson County 47 years where he was a retired radiator repairman. He married Zina Mae (Peggy) Wright in 1936 at Tahoka.

Jarrett was a Baptist.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Nina Singleton of Patricia; a son, Johnny of Lamesa; five brothers, Layne of Mount Pleasant, Lloyd and Carroll, both of Odessa; and five grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Palbearers will be Carroll Jarrett Jr., Maxie Jarrett,

In order to make the trip to state, each student had received a division I rating on a Class I solo at the UIL solo and ensemble contest, which was held in Big Spring this April. Big Spring brought back seven first divisions, eight second divisions and seven third divisions.

These students receiving first divisions were Kim Andrews, tuba solo; Anita Butler, twirling solo; Patty Griffin, piccolo solo; Mark Key, euphonium solo; Paul Ruiz, clarinet solo; Scott Shortes, cornet solo, and Debbie Shroyer, French horn solo.

Receiving second division ratings were Gilberto Chaves, tenor saxophone solo; Gilberto Chavez, baritone saxophone solo; Kent Cook, piano solo; Kim Deel, alto saxophone solo; Jim Griffin, clarinet solo; Blane Hinton, euphonium solo; Toni Myrick, flute solo; and Kathy Timmins, French horn solo.

Third divisions were awarded to Steve Chavez, baritone solo; Cheryl Gillenwater, bass clarinet solo; Prissy Mann, French horn solo; Victor Mellinger, baritone saxophone solo; Sherri Rogers, alto saxophone solo; Liz Ruiz, oboe solo; and Connie Welch, flute solo.

All of the above students were in the Big Spring High School Steer Band and under the direction of Bill Bradley, Steve Waggoner, Bailey Young, and Donna Cheatham during the 1977-78 school year.

Son of beating victim shot twice in left arm

Vidal Garza Jr., 32, 108 Lockhart, was shot twice in the left arm with a small caliber pistol following a fight, 8:45 p.m. Monday.

Houston officers plead innocent

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston policeman and three former officers charged in connection with the shooting death of Randall Alan Webster have pleaded innocent to civil rights violations and cover-up charges in federal court.

Charged in the death of Webster, a 17-year-old Shreveport, La., youth, are Danny M. Mays, 31; Norval W. Holloway Jr., 29; Paul D. Dillon, 37 and Robert S. Bloodworth, 24.

A federal grand jury indicted the men Friday on charges ranging from civil rights violations with death resulting to perjury and conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Mays is accused of striking and shooting the unarmed Webster following a high-speed auto chase in February 1977.

Holloway and Dillon were accused of being accessories for allegedly making false statements to police investigators following the incident.

According to reports, the fight resulted from an argument about the death of Garza's father, Vidal Garza Sr.

The senior Garza was a victim of a severe beating allegedly administered by two Big Spring State Hospital escapes, April 28. He died in the emergency room of Malone-Hogan Hospital, 1:35 p.m. Saturday.

Law enforcement officers await reports of the official cause of death which may lead to charges of murder against the two assailants.

Police reports state that the younger Garza walked uninvited into a Fourth Street home Monday night and began to question the resident about the elder Garza's death. The resident claimed that Garza struck him on the left side of his head when asked to leave.

In retaliation the resident is reported to have walked into another room, picked up a pistol, and shot Garza twice in the left arm.

Both men filed complaints of assault with police, but neither has filed formal charges against the other. Police are unsure of what, if any, connection the Fourth Street resident has with the beating of the senior Garza.

For the record

The 50th wedding anniversary party of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Underwood was held Saturday night rather than Sunday, as indicated in a story appearing in last Friday's edition of the Herald.

Several friends of the honorees showed up at the Country Club Sunday evening only to be told that the party had already taken place.

The Herald accepts responsibility for the mistake and apologizes for the inconveniences experienced by people.

Labor supporters try to halt filibusters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate supporters of proposed labor law revisions will make at least two attempts this week to break a Republican-led filibuster against the controversial legislation.

Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd filed motions setting up votes for Wednesday and Thursday on whether to halt the debate, now 10 days old.

The bill's backers concede they are not likely to stop the filibuster at first, but they are increasingly confident they eventually will succeed and go on to win passage of the measure.

Byrd filed the motions Monday after a White House meeting with President Carter, who reaffirmed his support for the bill.

Weather More thunderstorms reported in Texas

Most of the northern half of Texas suffered through another night and morning of showers and thunderstorms today.

A flash flood warning was issued for the Wichita Falls area in the morning, and a flash flood watch will continue in effect until tonight in parts of the Panhandle and South Plains.

Skies were partly cloudy to cloudy around Texas.

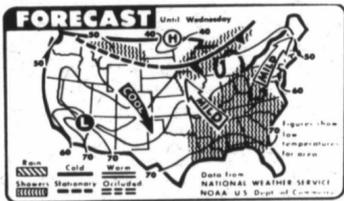

Very heavy thunderstorms were reported along a line from Wichita Falls to Abilene and in an area between Athens and Waco.

A wind gust of 54 miles per hour was registered at the Abilene Municipal Airport. One 30-minute period in Wichita Falls saw more than an inch of rain fall.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 60s and 70s, but the mercury remained in the 60s.

FORECAST — Flash flood watch in effect for central and eastern Panhandle and northeast south Plains today and tonight. Scattered showers, some very heavy and thunderstorms today and tonight becoming partly cloudy to clear Wednesday. Warmer Wednesday. Highs today 70 north to 102 south. Lows tonight in 50s north to upper 60s south. Highs Wednesday 78 north to 102 south.

EXTENDED FORECAST — WEST TEXAS — Chance of thunderstorms mainly east on Thursday and most sections Friday and Saturday. Warmer Thursday. Highs 80s north to 90s south except near 102 lower elevations of the Big Bend. Lows 50s and 60s.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service predicts showers for the eastern part of the nation and along the Gulf Coast for Wednesday. Rain is also predicted for the Great Lakes and showers along the Washington coast.

Energy County oil production disclosed

Howard County, which has had recorded production since 1925, last year produced 14,834,553 barrels of crude oil at the rate of 40,643 barrels per day. Production in 1977 boosted Howard County's production total through the end of the year to 525,153,578 barrels.

In addition to the top five, eight other counties topped 30-million barrels in production last year. They included:

6. Gregg 47,285,684 barrels; 7. Andrews 46,904,788 barrels; 8. Pecos 43,076,484 barrels; 9. Wood 38,309,096 barrels; 10. Refugio 35,859,779 barrels; 11. 35,262,109 barrels; 12. Brazoria 32,235,429 barrels; 13. Harris 30,211,737 barrels.

Gregg County, the first Texas county to produce more than two-billion barrels of crude oil in the history of recorded production, remains the all-time leader with a cumulative total through 1977 of 2,596,793,663 barrels. Ector County, through the end of last year, had produced 2,135,900,495 barrels.

Other counties with cumulative production in excess of one-billion barrels include the following eight:

3. Andrews, 1,850,192,429 barrels; 4. Rusk, 1,599,322,900 barrels; 5. Scurry, 1,443,352,109 barrels; 6. Crane, 1,221,245,826 barrels; 7. Harris, 1,194,610,013 barrels; 8. Brazoria 1,088,141,076 barrels; 9. Yoakum, 1,069,042,174; 10. Gaines, 1,047,937,231 barrels.

PRODUCTION IN OTHER AREA COUNTIES:

COUNTY	YEAR OF DISCOVERY	TOTAL BARRELS	BBLs. PER DAY	TOTAL PROD. TO JAN. 1, 1978

Texas' crude oil output declines

DALLAS—Texas' crude oil production declined last year for the fifth consecutive year. The downward trend continued in spite of another year of production at or near the maximum effective recovery rate in nearly all fields.

The output of the nation's No. 1 oil producing state in 1977 was just over 1.1-billion barrels and pushed the state's cumulative production since 1889 to almost 42.7-billion barrels. But, last year's production was almost 51-million barrels below the all-time peak production year of 1972.

The following table shows the amount of yearly decline in recent Texas crude oil production:

Year	Production (Barrels)	Loss From Previous Year (Barrels)	% Change
1977	1,128,287,453	50,933,639	(-4.3)
1976	1,179,221,092	31,958,079	(-2.6)
1975	1,221,179,171	40,605,785	(-3.2)
1974	1,251,784,956	32,448,893	(-2.5)
1973	1,284,233,849	6,281,104	(-0.5)
1972	1,290,514,953
(Total)		162,227,500	(12.6)
(Average)		32,445,500	(-2.5)

H.B. (Hank) Harkins, Alice, president of Dallas-based Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, blames the continuing decline in large part on federal price controls on crude oil.

"Only increased developmental and wildcat drilling, combined with expensive secondary and tertiary recovery projects, can brighten Texas' oil production and reserves picture, strengthen the state's economy, and reduce our dependence on imported oil. But, we must have the cash flow necessary to finance this activity. It will not come under price control," says Harkins, an independent producer and drilling company executive.

Self-employed total slips

NEW YORK (AP) — The number of self-employed workers in the United States has dropped from 19 percent in 1948 to approximately 8 percent this year, according to the American Council of Life Insurance.

The 1948 figure included 8 percent who were employed in agriculture and the current figure takes in the 2 percent of the work force engaged in farm work.

Black rule is generally accepted in cities

Black rule in some of our nation's greatest cities is becoming the rule rather than the exception. Invariably, it took some effort on the part of the white community to elevate the black politicians to such positions of trust. The combination has, more often than not, turned out to be unexpectedly effective.

So concludes a Wisconsin political scientist in a detailed study of reaction to the black administrations of two of the more important cities — Detroit and Atlanta — of the same 160 where blacks are in political control.

ACCORDING TO Professor Peter K. Eisinger of the University of Wisconsin at Madison, the early prediction that elections of black mayors would turn out to be hollow victories has been proved wrong.

In most cases, the white power elites have gone the extra mile to help the black administrations, and the blacks have looked to the whites for help and advice.

Racism has in general not been a problem and tolerance has increasingly replaced vestiges of "plantation paternalism" in the attitudes of white business and professional leadership toward Negro politicians.

Eisinger believes the comfortable re-elections of Mayors Coleman Young in Detroit and Maynard Jackson in Atlanta confirm the acceptance of the new black political dominance by the white power structures.

Neither mayor has ever been accused of being a puppet of white establishments, Eisinger notes, since as a result of charter refinements they actually exercise greater powers than white predecessors.

THE BASIC REASON for the cooperative relationship is economic self-interest, Eisinger reasons. There is an enormous "brick and mortar investment" in the city which white power blocs are not prepared to write off.

White elites may not have been converted to the belief that "black is beautiful," but they do accept the fact that black political power is legitimate and, having "paid its dues," is here to stay. That, in the long run, is the more effective approach to the racial issue.

Great, not perfect

Around the rim

Marie Homeyer

What is it about being an Aggie that attracts so much attention? And, what is it about meeting an Aggie that makes people want to tell an Aggie joke? Since joining the ranks of the over-joked about, ever-talked about "elite group", I have been at a loss for an answer.

Granted, when the school first opened its doors to the public 102 years ago, the majority of the students were farm boys from small towns. And granted, it was referred to as the "farm college on the Brazos". And granted, too, the students were far from the "sophisticated" alumni of the University of Texas. But is that any reason to pick on them? Or, to pick on the present student body who are anything but "farm boys"?

EVER SINCE THE day I enrolled in Texas A&M University, I have been bombarded by well-meaning people telling me the "latest" Aggie joke that I had heard three times before. Of course, I didn't tell them that. I just smiled, listened attentively and laughed when it seemed appropriate.

If the kidding and jokes had made me mad, then I would have been upset three-fourths of the time. My parents were always giving me a hard time about being an Aggie; but that was their way of telling other people that they were proud of the fact. My friends and acquaintances would whip out a "new" joke the minute they saw me. And my colleagues here have contributed to the mania. "She's an Aggie" is mentioned to every one that I am introduced to. And a friend of a friend couldn't remember my name, but every time he saw me, he bellowed, "She's an Aggie."

I was, and still am puzzled by this behavior. Could it be that these people wished that they, too, were Aggies? Or, could it be that they really don't like Aggies?

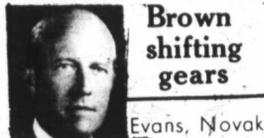

I am totally prejudiced toward the idea of the worth of Aggie spirit, so I choose to think they wish that they were alumni of Texas A&M.

HOW MANY OTHER universities have an event that draws hundreds of people together every year to commemorate the war dead (Aggie Muster)? And how many other universities produce as many military officers as does the Texas A&M Corps of Cadets? Not many I'll wager.

Aggies are great, but not perfect, lest anyone think I totally unrealistic in my opinions. The football team is always "waiting 'til next year"; the Corps of Cadets tend to take themselves too seriously; change is hard to come by; and, the student body is apathetic in school elections.

Despite the flaws, Aggie spirit is catching. Once it gets into your blood, it's hard to get it out. That's why I tend to think that all the jokes and the "giggling" is a way to be a part of that spirit.

And as the saying goes, "Once an Aggie, always an Aggie." So folks, being the true Aggie that I am, I say "Gig 'em" and "wait 'til next year" when we'll see you in the Cotton Bowl.

Brown shifting gears

Evans, Novak

SAN DIEGO — When Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. appeared at a fundraiser here one week before California voters were about to approve massive property tax reduction, he demonstrated an extraordinary political agility which may yet propel him into the White House.

Brown is an avowed opponent of the constitutional amendment (sponsored by anti-tax crusader Howard Jarvis) cutting $7 billion in property taxes, and so was most present at the posh Kona Kai Club who had spent $125 a plate. Nevertheless there was no call to defeat Jarvis. Rather, Brown quietly called it "the latest manifestation of a very serious unease about government" and hoped his response to it could produce a "renewed charter" for government.

That climaxed a week of hasty adjustment by Brown once it became clear the Jarvis amendment would pass. Not only did he switch from all-out opposition to detached ambiguity but resumed the anti-government rhetoric of his early, intensely popular days as governor.

THIS SHIFT may well fulfill what Brown and his political strategists have been seeking: a new approach bringing the governor and his poll ratings out of the doldrums. Ironically, the Jarvis amendment could prove Jerry Brown's salvation, both for reelection this year and his ambitions to replace Jimmy Carter in 1980.

Those ambitions recently had been eclipsed by worries about winning a second term. His closest advisers admitted that the magic of 1975, when Brown entranced a broad spectrum opposing big government and high taxes, had disappeared. Having gradually become the proponent of government programs, he has been sounding more like Nelson Rockefeller than Jerry Brown.

What's more, those same advisers admit the $600,000 statewide media blitz for a Democratic primary campaign in which Brown faced no serious opposition had not really restored his former standing. To the middle class, Brown had become a sectarian advocate against nuclear power, for farm workers, against business and for social reform.

Brown's political touch was particularly shaky on Jarvis. By insisting on tax relief which redistributed income to the poor, he must share with the state legislature blame for inaction that generated irresistible pressure for Jarvis. One of Brown's key advisers conceded to us that, in underestimating chances for Jarvis, "Jerry missed just how much public contempt there is for the political class."

Campaigning vigorously against the Jarvis amendment this spring, Brown committed a rare unmitigated political blunder. He supported a freeze on higher new property assessments just before the Jarvis vote, a transparent gimmick termed "kindergarten Watergate" by the hot-tempered Jarvis. Facing a personal defeat and the headache of confronting the $7 billion revenue loss, Brown seemed headed for disaster.

Two weeks before the election, Brown abruptly shifted gears. His border-to-border (Mexico-to-Oregon) campaign swing against Jarvis was cancelled. Instead, he announced conferences with financial experts to determine strategy following what he now conceded would be the passage of Jarvis.

On a tour of black churches in Los Angeles May 28, Mayor Tom Bradley harangued audiences to vote against Jarvis. But not Brown. He hardly mentioned the issue in the first two churches visited, then in the third church undercut the anti-Jarvis claim that its passage would halt vital government services.

"ALL THESE things will be done," said Brown, "by the people themselves if not by the government" — a return to his discarded 1976 call for "voluntarism" replacing government.

Approach surgery positively

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Should one eat solid food the night before having stomach surgery? What can I expect the morning of surgery? My surgery is way off yet, but I'm beginning to get the creeps thinking about it. Can you ease my mind? — J. L.

You will be instructed to eat a liquid supper the night before your surgery, although you very likely will be in the hospital and this will be arranged for you by the hospital dietitians.

The other preparations are pretty similar to those for any surgery. You will have an enema the day before and probably a sleeping capsule that night so you will be fresh in the a.m. The more relaxed the patient the less anesthetic required for surgery. Also, your skin will be prepared with any necessary shaving to make you squeaky clean for the surgeon. A special tube may be used to drain fluid out of your stomach, you will be given a shot (injection) in the arm to send you off to dreamland. All these are painless precautions.

The surgeons are already pretty aware of your situation and know what they are looking for before they set to work. Try to allay your fears with the sometimes comforting thought that such doctors have done this kind of surgery several times a week, hundreds of times a year, perhaps already many thousands of times in their careers. You are fortunate to have the advantage of all that experience. All of the modern developments in anesthesiology, nutrition, post-surgical therapy, etc., are at your disposal for this important chapter in your medical life. For a brief hour or two you are the center of the universe for some of the most highly-skilled individuals in your community.

There. Now don't you feel fortunate?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible for a person who has had asthma for years (I'm 72) to improve their condition by exercising, walking, jogging, or some such therapy? I find it difficult to walk up steps and even get short of breath when I walk a city block. — Mrs. A. S.

Your problem may be more one of emphysema than of asthma. Careful exercise can improve your breathing, but I would exclude jogging. Medicine to dilate your bronchial tubes may be in order. Your physician or a lung specialist can advise you more specifically. The reason I suspect emphysema more than asthma is that you seem to have your breathing problems all the time. Asthma tends to come in attacks. Emphysema usually develops gradually over years (as with heavy smokers) and causes continuous difficulty. See my booklet, "How to Control Emphysema," which will provide more detail. Send 35 cents to cover printing and handling, also a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Two years ago my son had mononucleosis. Now he is away at school and has it again. Your booklet says nothing about it recurring, but he had had a positive test for it. Our family doctor said he didn't think you could get it twice. He hasn't felt badly enough to be down, but he does tire easily, has leg aches and his throat is sore. Should he be tested for anything else? — Mrs. D. B.

It is rare for mononucleosis to occur a second time. But you cannot rely on the blood test for one who has had it. The test can be positive for years after an acute bout. Those who had such attacks may experience fatigue for a long time afterward.

Infectious mononucleosis symptoms must be differentiated from those of Hodgkins disease or leukemia, both of which involve the lymph nodes. Blood count, physical examination, and biopsy of a lymph node settles this question.

There is no specific medicine for mononucleosis. As with other viral diseases it runs its course, with recurrence a rarity, since the initial attack appears to provide future immunity. Your son should be examined for other causes if this listlessness continues.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Does cystitis mean a person has cysts in the urinary bladder? — J. A.

One might think so, but it doesn't. Cystitis means inflammation in the urinary bladder — not cysts. Your confusion arises because the Greek word for bladder is "cystis." Doesn't mean there can't be cysts in the bladder, however.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How much would one have to pay to have a total hip replacement? — G. L.

Quite a bit. This remarkable surgery can cost anywhere between $5,000 and $10,000 depending on the complexity. An acquaintance had total hip replacement done at a cost of $7,000. He can now walk around normally, so it was worth it. The success rate is quite high in carefully selected candidates — better than 80 per cent. The usual reason for it is, of course, arthritis.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 33 years old and suffer extreme discomfort, lack of energy, and depression just prior to my menstruation and during the first few days of it. A specialist gave me various medicines (three) to take. To my pleasure the medicine improved my well-being 90 per cent. I called my family doctor regarding another matter and happened to mention the three medicines I am taking. He strongly advised me to throw everything away in the garbage. I am confused. Which doctor should I listen to? — J. O.

I hope you didn't throw the medicines away, and further, that you plan to return to the specialist. Sounds as though you are in a distressing communications triangle. The medications (which you name elsewhere in your note) are prescribed for endometriosis — the growth of uterus-like tissue outside the uterus in the pelvic cavity. That would account for the menstrual distress you report.

When you get back to the specialist, have him contact your family physician to explain this diagnosis and therapy.

National disgrace

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — America has condemned tens of thousands of its most helpless citizens to a living death. We refer to those retarded Americans who are forced to live in overcrowded, archaic institutions.

These are often nothing more than human warehouses; a few can be classified as snakepits. They have pleasant names like Applecreek, Forest Haven, Rosewood, Sonoma. But they are more like concentration camps, where society quietly hides away its mental misfits until they die.

FOREST HAVEN, for example, is located near Laurel, Md., in the shadow of the nation's capitol. It is close enough to the source of federal blessings to be a model institution. But for many of its residents, Forest Haven is more a hell than a haven.

Today, Justice Department lawyers will argue in federal court that the institution has violated the constitutional rights of its patients. With proper care and training, most retarded people can become contributing members of society. But the attorneys will present evidence and testimony that inhuman treatment at Forest Haven has caused the deterioration rather than the development of patients.

The case of a young patient named Joy Evans will be cited. An affidavit from her mother declares: "Joy resided in Dogwood cottage ... Dogwood was a veritable snakepit. I once witnessed a nurse open the cottage door only to find 80 half-clad screaming women come running to the door; the nurse quickly shut it."

Continues the affidavit starkly: "On one occasion we found Joy's entire back raw. A nurse asked if Joy had a blood disease which may have caused it. When we took Joy to a private doctor, however, we were informed that her back injury was caused by urine burns from being restrained on a rubber sheet."

JOY'S SUFFERING is over; she died at a premature age. Another Forest Haven resident, Bertha Brown, also died recently. She suffocated from eating her own feces. The woman suffered from a disease, which caused her to eat almost anything in sight. Yet she was tied to a toilet and left unattended. She bit through the restraining garments, ate her feces and choked to death.

Still another young patient, Earlene Thornton, died last March under curious circumstances. A confidential report by U.S. Park Police stated: "There was no suspicious or criminal activity in relation to this death." Yet the report adds: "During the autopsy, there was a bruise discovered on the right side of the subject's head, which resulted in severe hemorrhaging within the skull. There was a fracture of one of the subject's fingers."

It is the living, however, who should be mourned at Forest Haven. One worker told us: "It is hard to grieve when somebody dies here, because the real tragedy is the slow deaths of almost all the patients here. The people here are forced to sit and do nothing all day, not able to grow, only to deteriorate."

Forest Haven officials refused to allow us to make an unrestricted inspection of the premises. But workers smuggled our reporter, Murray Waas, into the facility for an unauthorized tour.

One place he was taken was the Curley Building, which houses many female patients. Workers said that a year ago he would have found more than two dozen women, many in diapers, others naked, strewn across the bare floor. This was how they spent the day, sprawled on the floor with nothing to do.

Waas found the patients properly dressed, sitting in neat rows of new, plastic chairs. But the changes, workers said, were merely cosmetic.

"They may be wearing clothes instead of being naked. They may be sitting on chairs instead of on the floor," said a nursing aide. "But they are still forced to sit here all day with nothing to do, except vegetate."

WAAS ALSO spoke to patients who weren't retarded at all but had been transferred to Forest Haven from a nearby orphanage that closed in 1974.

For convenience's sake, 20 orphans were deposited at Forest Haven, and their classification was simply changed from "orphan" to "retarded." Now some of them function at a retarded level as a result of their treatment.

Our reporter visited with several residents who have spent most of their lives at Forest Haven. One elderly woman, Thelma Hall, came to the institution in 1927. "Please take me out for a ride," she pleaded pathetically. A nursing aide doubted that the old woman had left the facility more than half a dozen times in the half century she has been institutionalized.

Waas' tour ended with an inspection of the "seclusion rooms," 6 by 8 feet, with nothing but mattresses and toilets as furnishings. Patients may be confined in these bare, cruel rooms for the most minor indiscretions against those who watch over them.

Other patients are "chemically restrained," that is, they are given large doses of the dreaded drug Thorazine. This leaves them sleepy, lifeless, still.

The conscientious workers, who showed our reporter around, were outraged over the way helpless patients are treated. It is easy to understand their frustration, their quiet rage.

GANG OF FOUR: The Turks have borrowed a phrase from the political lexicon of the Red Chinese. They have taken offense at four U.S. lawmakers who are unabashed supporters of Greece. The four are Sens. Paul Sarbanes, D.-Md., and Tom Eagleton, D.-Mo., also Reps. John Brademas, D.-Ind., and Benjamin Rosenthal, D.-N.Y. Whenever a Greek-Turkish issue arises, they are the first to their feet to defend Greek interests. Thus the Turks have started to refer to them as "The Gang of Four."

Today, your body is worth more

The difference between $5.60 and 98 cents is 32 years.

Back in 1936, the chemical substances composing the human body were valued at 98 cents. Today, in terms of a re-evaluation reported by the American Council of Life Insurance, the same materials — principally calcium, phosphorus, magnesium, sulfur, iron, oxygen, hydrogen and nitrogen — are worth almost six times as much.

It just goes to show how democratic inflation can be — increasing everyone's personal worth equally.

PARADING PARISHIONERS — Parishioners of the Christ the King Catholic Church in southside Kansas City paraded and waved signs in front of the bishops residence Saturday to protest the transfer of their pastor. The bishop of the diocese says the transfer of Monsignor Vincent Kearney, who has been pastor for 21 years, is to allow other members of the Kansas City-St. Joseph diocese to enjoy Kearney's talents. The parishioners say it is an attempt to liberalize their staunchly traditional church.

Carter policy to give governors more power

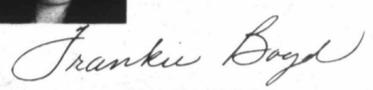

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is unveiling a new federal water policy designed to give Western governors greater influence over dams and irrigation projects in their states. "The new policy will bring the states into water policy more so than they have ever been before," said an Interior Department official who asked not to be named.

Under the new policy to be announced today, states will pay 10 percent to 25 percent of the cost of new projects. This will be the first time states and possibly localities and other users of federal water facilities will share a substantial portion of the cost — now financed almost exclusively by federal taxpayers. But the policy also will permit governors and legislatures to "vote with their dollars" for projects they favor, an idea the governors themselves have endorsed.

Western governors were consulted extensively during the formation of the new policy and were generally expected to endorse it, with the possible exception of Colorado Gov. Richard Lamm, who is involved in a tough re-election fight. "It's beginning to look like a love feast," said a state official who asked not to be named. The new policy is aimed at controlling some of the political damage the president caused himself last year when he proposed killing 30 federal water projects in the drought-stricken West.

Murderer wants taxpayers to pay for plastic surgery

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A thick gauze bandage covers the lower portion of what was Gary Hastings' face. He cannot speak and breathes and eats through tubes. He requires heavy doses of pain killers and the attention of a team of paramedics and nurses at a suburban prison.

Hastings, 33, a former bank vice president, killed his wife then tried to take his own life by turning a shotgun on his throat, but he survived. Now he wants the taxpayers of Chester County to pay for plastic surgery, an operation he hopes would allow him to feed himself and breathe normally, although it could not make him look normal.

Recently, through hand-printed notes, he told a reporter why he wants the county to pay for the plastic surgery. "I paid over $1,500 in taxes to Chester County while I lived here five years, in addition to donations to charities," wrote Hastings, who added that all his assets were transferred to his wife's estate after the guilty verdict for her murder.

Under the new policy to be announced today, states will pay 10 percent to 25 percent of the cost of new projects. This will be the first time states and possibly localities and other users of federal water facilities will share a substantial portion of the cost — now financed almost exclusively by federal taxpayers. The new policy is aimed at controlling some of the political damage the president caused himself last year when he proposed killing 30 federal water projects in the drought-stricken West.

Carter's initial try at containing the political uproar backfired. He trimmed the list to 18 projects and announced he would draft a comprehensive

He also noted he owes the Wilmington Medical Center more than $65,000 for medical care and surgery following his suicide attempt. "I feel I have already served enough punishment. It was an accidental shooting, not a crime of passion or an intentional act. I feel that I am guilty of involuntary manslaughter."

he said. But a Chester County jury felt he was guilty of third-degree murder in the slaying of his wife, Margaret, in her suburban Chadds Ford home. Hastings was convicted last November. Hastings testified at the trial, again by writing, that the shotgun had gone off accidentally when his wife pushed him. But his 10-year-old twin sons and 12-year-old daughter, who witnessed the shooting, testified they had tried to restrain him.

Hastings told jurors he became obsessed with retaining custody of the children because his estranged wife was having an affair.

Americans developing aversion to risks

NEW YORK (AP) — Futility is revealed between the lines of the New York Stock Exchange study of American investment attitudes, and it could lead to extreme anger against the nation's political leadership. It is a sad story of people worried about the decay of their capital and buying power, and who then seek to preserve it through investments in passbook savings, U.S. Savings Bonds and life insurance.

Since such repositories cannot possibly prevent erosion of capital and buying power during inflation of the 1978 variety, the "no risk" refuge that is sought offers little protection at all. Passbook savings pay a maximum of 5.25 percent interest. Savings Bonds yield 6 percent if held for five years. Interest paid on the cash value of life insurance varies, but falls far short of the inflation rate.

Besides, the face value — that is, the value of the policy on maturity or on death or disability — is defenseless against the assault of inflation, which cuts buying power into little fractions. A major finding of the exchange study of financial decision-makers, begun after a decline in the number of individual stock buyers and released today, is that Americans have developed an aversion to risk.

$15 million of cocaine recovered by police

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The U.S. attorney's office has asked that bond of $1 million each be set for two Colombians arrested in a $15 million cocaine smuggling attempt — which resulted in the largest cocaine seizure in local history.

Three Equadorian seamen arrested in that case were assessed bonds of $250,000 apiece by U.S. Magistrate Ingard Johannesen. Agents seized 28 pounds of highly refined cocaine, the Drug Enforcement Administration said Monday. The five were arrested without incident after an undercover agent picked up 12 packages of the drug at a ship docked in New Orleans, agents said.

In a separate case heard Monday, Johannesen set bonds of $100,000 for three men arrested on a shrimp boat loaded with 35 tons of marijuana valued at $24 million.

Proposition 13 goes before voters today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Indicating a California taxpayers' revolt in the making, pre-election polls pointed toward victory today for Proposition 13, the ballot initiative that would cut the average property tax bill by more than half.

Proposition 13 is strongly supported by homeowners, because it would slash the average annual property tax bill from $1,400 to $600. It also would mean enormous tax savings for some of California's biggest landowners, the public utilities. Three companies alone — Pacific Telephone, Pacific Gas & Electric and Southern California Edison — would get a combined tax cut of $280 million.

But because the tax cut would reduce property tax revenue for cities, counties and schools from $12 billion to $5 billion annually, the issue has been criticized by many labor and business leaders.

Among its opponents is Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., running against token opposition in a nine-candidate Democratic gubernatorial primary field. Brown has endorsed Proposition 8, a more moderate tax cut plan.

The tax issue overshadowed other contests on the ballot, which included the Republican primary gubernatorial race between conservative Ed Davis, the former Los Angeles police chief, and GOP moderates Evelle Younger, Ken Maddy and Pete Wilson.

The initiative would limit annual property taxes to 1 percent of market value. The average California homeowner's property currently is valued at $60,000, and annual property taxes now range from less than 1 percent to almost 3 percent.

The measure — an amendment to the state constitution — also would roll back assessments to 1975 figures and then would allow increases of no more than 2 percent a year, except when property is sold.

If Propositions 8 and 13 are both approved, Proposition 13 would become effective on July 1. Enabling legislation for Proposition 8 contains a clause saying that if Proposition 13 is passed, Proposition 8 becomes void.

Eight primaries conducted today

Voters in eight states pick candidates today, but no office-seekers are involved in the contest of most interest — the vote by Californians that could drastically reduce their property taxes.

Several primary races involve public personalities — basketball star Bill Bradley's race for the U.S. Senate in New Jersey and Wayne Hays' comeback attempt in Ohio are two. But nothing has captured national attention like California's Proposition 13, which both proponents and critics see as a revolution in the state's tax structure.

The proposition, brain-child of 75-year-old tax crusader Howard Jarvis, would put a ceiling on property taxes of 1 percent of assessed valuation and roll back assessments to 1975 levels.

With assessments in Southern California tripling and quadrupling in the past five years, the proposition is expected to pass easily. Opposition from Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. and other leaders only seems to have enhanced its anti-establishment appeal.

The Jarvis plan has played a role in the four-man Republican gubernatorial primary. Attorney General Evelle Younger and former Los Angeles Police Chief Ed Davis, the front-runners, both support it. Assemblyman Ken Maddy's fast-starting campaign leveled off after he came out in opposition and San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson, running last in most polls, is also against it.

Davis and Younger also have moved up in the polls in relation to Brown, who has only token opposition for the Democratic nomination, but has been campaigning regularly, both in his own behalf and against Proposition 13.

In New Jersey, Bradley's future in politics has been a subject of speculation since the mid-1960s, when the 6-foot-5 all-America basketball player from Princeton won a Rhodes Scholarship.

Bradley, now 34, postponed his political debut until he finished his professional basketball career, but he seems to have started well.

EPA worried about rise in gas prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Energy Department prepares to lift gasoline price ceilings, the Environmental Protection Agency says it is worried the move might increase the cost of unleaded gas and prompt motorists to use the dirtier leaded fuel.

Energy Department spokesman Jim Bishop said Monday night the deregulation proposal is expected to be sent to Congress shortly — "as soon as the regulations are prepared" — but no date has been set.

Under law, both the Senate and House must block the move within 15 working days or it automatically goes into effect.

The ceilings, a vestige of the 1973 Arab oil embargo, have been felt unnecessary by the Energy Department, especially with gasoline now abundant. The department says it does not anticipate an immediate across-the-board price increase because most current prices already are well below the cutoff point.

But the EPA and a Ralph Nader consumer group, the Center for Auto Safety, believe deregulation could make more difficult their efforts to convince motorists to use unleaded gasoline.

Late-model autos require unleaded fuel, but motorists have been known to illegally alter the car so unleaded gas can be used.

Critics of the deregulation plan say the cost of unleaded gasoline might go up because it is close to the ceiling price right now, while leaded gas would remain the same, causing the gap between the two to widen.

Ben Jackson, an assistant EPA administrator of enforcement, and Clarence Ditlow, of the Nader group, said if the gap increases it might lead to further illegal fuel switching.

EPA studies show about 10 percent of the motorists with cars requiring unleaded gas use the leaded variety because of cost savings. A recent American Automobile Association study said that the average price of unleaded gasoline was nearly 4 cents higher than leaded regular.

Other surveys showed the difference in some areas was as much as 9 cents a gallon.

"We really don't know which way it would go and nobody has done a detailed analysis to conclude exactly what will happen," said Jackson.

San Antonio to purchase four vintage buildings

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The San Antonio Museum Association will purchase four turn-of-the-century vintage buildings to complete a museum complex north of downtown, officials said Monday.

The museum association will take possession of the buildings, the site of the old Lone Star Brewery, by Aug. 1, 1979. Officials refused to reveal how much the buildings will cost.

The $6.1 million San Antonio Art Museum, which is scheduled to open in the spring of 1980, will occupy two-thirds of the total complex.

The four new buildings will be developed as funds are raised, said Nancy Negley, president of the museum association.

The buildings are currently occupied by a wholesale sundries distributor and an automobile body repair shop.

Check Gibson's first for many purchases

Check at Gibson's before you purchase many family needs. There are many departments in the Gibson's store and they all feature good buys.

Across the street on the parking lot is a garden center with plants and yard tools and fertilizers.

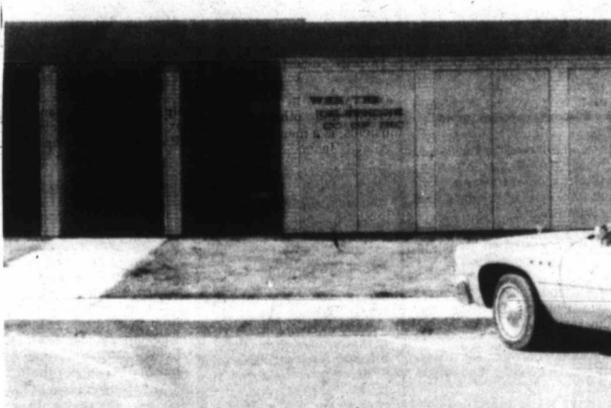

Inside the main store are such items as home appliances, summer camping, fishing and swimming needs, hunting equipment, grocery staples, jewelry, clothing, and many, many more items.

You can purchase oil and anti-freeze for your automobile. You can select fabrics or baby clothes or gift items or selections from the pharmacy.

They have a slogan, "If you didn't get it at Gibson's, you paid too much."

Next time you are hunting something for an economical price, shop Gibson's. It's on the south end of Scurry Street.

West-Tex Telephone serves eight counties

West-Tex Telephone Co-Op Inc. serves portions of over eight counties.

These were areas which at one time had no telephone service at all.

The Stanton based co-op has served them now for many years. The original subscribers in these areas were very grateful for telephone service and appreciative for the service.

Like many other things, from generation to generation the demands increase. And West-Tex Co-op works constantly to keep up with the demands and improve the service. Where at one time there were eight parties on some of the rural lines, they now find it a rarity if there are more than two or three and there are many single party lines.

Equipment has improved. The selection of telephones has improved. They also offer such items as bells that will ring out in the barn in rural areas and long extension cords.

Their idea is to serve these areas to the best of their ability. Check with them for new improvements and ideas they have for better service. Call 756-3393 in Stanton or drop by their headquarters building on West 80.

It's Still Best To Tell Mother

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in reference to the letter from the young girl who said that her foster father had been making advances toward her. You advised her to tell her foster mother at once!

Abby, I know you meant well, but I have learned after many years of experience as a child protection worker in a public welfare agency that telling the mother is useless. In most cases, the mother would think the child is lying. And in other cases, if the girl is believed, the mother will refuse to bring charges against her husband for fear of the family's reputation and what the law might do to her husband. Then, too, if he's sent to prison, her breadwinner is gone! So she resolves all this by pronouncing the girl a liar and ingrate.

I would recommend that the girl tell her social worker or school counselor. They are trained to help the girl and her foster family.

N.Y. SOCIAL WORKER

DEAR SOCIAL WORKER: Whether she is believed or not, I still think it is imperative that the child tell her foster mother first. Then, if the situation doesn't improve, I always advise the child to seek help from a trusted teacher, adult relative, school counselor, clergyman or neighbor. Otherwise, when the father is confronted, the mother will know that the child has gone to "outsiders"—instead of coming to her—which could create even more difficulties in the home.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a woman who would take a job as a "housekeeper" for a single man? Part of the deal is that the housekeeper has to LIVE on the place.

If a woman sells all her own household goods, and sells (or rents) her own house so she can move in with a man and keep house for him, how do you think that looks?

What does the community think of a woman who would hire herself out this way? And what do YOU think?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: Personally, I couldn't care less. But if I were to give it one moment's thought, I would assume that the housekeeper is KEEPING—not PLAYING—house. Now, what's YOUR problem, lady?

DEAR ABBY: Some new neighbors moved into our area, and we share a two-party line. Abby, this woman speaks as good English as I—I have heard her. But when she talks on the phone she always speak a foreign language! I consider this an insult to me. What do you think of a neighbor like this?

INSULTED IN PENNA.

DEAR INSULTED: She's smart. She speaks a foreign language because she suspects that someone may be listening. And obviously she's right!

Are your problems too heavy to handle alone? Let Abby help you. For a personal, unpublished reply, write: Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Stitching trends change

Trends in decorative topstitching change along with other fashion changes in women's clothes.

This spring there are several fashionable ways to use topstitching, says Margret Ann Vanderpoorten, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Outline the edges of collars, cuffs, yokes, lapels and hems with topstitching.

Use small stitches and match sewing thread to the garment. The effect is subtle because the topstitching isn't obvious, she suggests.

Multiple rows of topstitching are effective on collars, belts and pockets.

Use five to seven rows to give a trapunto effect. Again, use matching sewing thread and small stitches, the specialist continues.

The quilted look is popular, too, with rows of topstitching forming a pattern of parallel lines or diamonds throughout the garment.

The newest trend is toward using buttonhole twist for quilted effects, Miss Vanderpoorten explains.

For a truly decorative look, topstitch the seams of a lining before sewing it into a jacket or coat.

Use thread to match the lining fabric for an expensive appearance, she adds.

Bluebonnet Girls' State calls local delegate

Cynthia Cowan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James W. Cowan, has been selected as a representative from Howard County to attend the American Legion Auxiliary's Bluebonnet Girls State.

CYNTHIA COWAN

Girls' State will convene at Texas Lutheran College in Seguin on June 13. The event will run through June 23.

Purpose of American Legion Auxiliary Bluebonnet Girls' State is to educate young women in the duties, privileges, rights and responsibilities of American citizenship.

Girls' State is a mythical 51st state where the citizens organize their own city, county and state governments. They choose officials in accordance with regular election procedures. They learn the duties of the various city, county and state offices, and introduce and debate their own bills in a legislature. Law enforcement agencies and courts are also put into use by the citizens of Girls' State.

Miss Cowan will be a senior next year at Big Spring High School. She has been a twirler for the Steer Band, corresponding secretary for the Student Council, calendar girl for the Key Club, vice president for the French Club, and a member of the Meister-singers.

She has also been a member of His Children, a participant in Campus Review and other school musicals, is a member of the National Honor Society, and will be a cheerleader for high school for the coming year.

Kevin McLaughlin slated to attend conference

Kevin McLaughlin, 1978-79 student council president at Big Spring High School, is one of 1,300 council leaders and advisers selected to attend the 42nd annual National Conference of the National Association of Student Councils and Student Activity Advisers, to be held June 25-29 at Hurst.

McLaughlin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill McLaughlin, 803 W. 14th. He is a senior at Big Spring High School.

Delegates to the conference will represent every state, the U.S. territories and several foreign countries. The theme "Accepting the Challenge," will guide delegates' participation in challenging sessions on educational, leadership and social issues.

L. D. Bell High School in Hurst is host for the 1978 edition of this leadership conference.

Delegates will visit Cowtown in Fort Worth for a Texas barbecue and rodeo, and Six Flags Over Texas, in addition to work at the conference.

Meador attends school

Steve Meador, son of Jo Meador of Austin and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Raley, 809 E. 15th, is currently attending the U.S. School of Professional Paperhanging in Vermont.

The school is the only one in the United States which specializes in wallcovering installation and instructs students in both historical and contemporary styles. Meador plans to bring his skills to Big Spring following graduation and will specialize in residential remodeling.

He is a graduate of Big Spring High School and a 1976 graduate of Howard College.

The student council and student activity adviser associations are sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals, a 35,000 member professional association of school administrators, headquartered at Reston, Va.

He's worried about drivers high on pot

By ROBERT WALLACE, Ed.D.
Copley News Service

Dr. Wallace: You give plenty of print to those individuals who are turned off on marijuana. Why not give equal space to someone who is turned on by marijuana.

I really dig pot and I know it makes my life better. I'm a college student and I do my best work when I'm stoned. It clears my mind for knowledge and creativity. Music sounds better, foods taste better and paintings come alive.

Let's face it, marijuana is here to stay. Why don't you get on the case of smokers and drinkers and give us "pot heads" a break. — High, Ukiah, Calif.

High: First, I am not that naive to think that marijuana usage is a horrible crime. I would agree that a certain degree of indulgence, alcohol is every bit as harmful and dangerous as marijuana. In fact alcohol could be worse.

My biggest gripe about pot smokers is that many (not most) drive while high. Now, my family and I are involved if we happen to be on the highway.

In California, the state is nearing completion of a study on marijuana and driving and has found that one driver in five in 1,800 cases showed evidence of marijuana usage. Blood was taken from drivers suspected of drunk-driving and analyzed.

There is no way we will ever eliminate the use of marijuana. Let's hope those who use it stay off the highways, skyways and byways when they are high.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a basketball player, and a friend of mine is on the football team. I believe basketball and he thinks football is hardest physically on the human body. What high school sport is the hardest on the player? — Don, Little Rock, Ark.

Don: All forms of athletics are demanding on the human body, especially basketball and football, but coaches usually agree that cross-country and wrestling are the most physically demanding.

Dr. Wallace: I've got a problem and my parents said you can be the judge. So — please?

I share a room with my sister who is 11. I'm 15. I have another sister, 9, and a brother, 4, and they have rooms to themselves.

I tell my parents that I should have a room of my own and that my sisters, 11 and 9, should room together because I want and need some privacy. Until now they have refused my request. Please. — Karen, Goshen, Ind.

Karen: You are very polite and courteous to keep saying please, but even if you hadn't I still would say, "Mother and Father, the time has come for Karen to have her own room." — You're welcome.

Send questions to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 24-cent stamped, large, self-addressed envelope to Dr. R. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

Quilt designs divulge history of country

HOUSTON (AP) — Quilts have come out of the attic, out of storage and gone "outta sight" in price, says Diane Giles, proprietor of a quilt shop in Houston.

"Your Aunt Jane's pride and joy has reached an apex in decorating, to the delight of those of us who revere our heritage, as well as to collectors of America folk art," says Mrs. Giles.

For bed coverings, wall hangings, to use as throws and as tablecloths, quilts add the personal, handmade original touch to home interiors — a look coveted by decorators, both professional and amateur, she adds.

The first patchwork quilts were not beautiful like the ones we see today, according to Mrs. Giles, past president of the Houston Quilt Guild and proprietor of The Quilt Collector shop here.

"The Pilgrims had only drab, sturdy cloth for patching worn coverlets they brought with them from England. But they were the beginnings of the beautiful piecework patterns of the 1700 and 1800s — original designs which chronicle the history of the settling of North America," she explained.

Quilt patterns recall important political figures and events (Whig Rose, Clay's choice, Lincoln's Platform); daily life of early America (Indian Trail, Bear's Paw, Log Cabin; religion (Jacob's Ladder, Star of Bethlehem, Joseph's Coat), and the westward movement (Cowboy's Star, Road to California).

The areas of America which were settled first have the best examples of fine old quilting, Mrs. Giles found on a recent quest for quilts, during which she traveled to 19 states.

Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri and Maryland have especially high standards and keen competition among quilters," she said.

Good contemporary quilts are found all over the country, she added, especially among the Amish and Mennonite people who continue to live the lifestyle of their ancestors, so the tradition of handwork has been unbroken in their communities.

Antique and old doll and baby quilts, a size especially desirable for use as wall hangings, are becoming difficult to locate, Mrs. Giles says.

New collectors may wonder why antique quilts are so thin in contrast to the newer puffy quilts. Mrs. Giles explains that the cotton batting used as traditional filler required fine, close stitches.

"In the North and Northeast, the practice was to pull the batting thin for tiny stitches — the thinner the batting, the better the quilting."

The Dacron batt used as quilt filler today does not have to be quilted so closely and "you will only find it in contemporary quilts — meaning quilts made in the past 10 years or so."

Country quilts found throughout the United States have a thicker, heavier batting and consequently large quilting stitches placed farther apart. They are usually quilted in all-over designs such as fans, half circles or simple grids that do not follow the pieced pattern lines.

Abortion law in effect today

Italian doctors protest

ROME (AP) — Scores of doctors declared themselves "conscientious objectors" to this Roman Catholic nation's first abortion law as it took effect today, denounced by the church and facing the possibility of a repeal referendum.

The law was passed by Parliament May 18 at the urging of feminists and with support ranging from Communists on the left to the Liberal Party on the right. The Vatican and the ruling Christian Democratic Party vigorously opposed the law, one of the most liberal in Europe.

It permits free abortions on demand to women aged 18 or over in the first 90 days of pregnancy. The law supersedes a Fascist-era statute which barred abortion in order to protect "the purity of the Italian race" but which, abortion proponents said, gave rise to an estimated one million illegal operations a year.

The new law faces at least four obstacles:

- Reluctant doctors. Doctors who refuse to perform abortions on moral or religious grounds have 30 days to register as objectors with municipal health authorities. The Rome Medical Association predicted 90 percent of the doctors in the metropolitan area eventually would register.

"To perform abortion goes against my principles as a believer," said Prof. Piero Pesando, head of the gynecology section at the public hospital in Ivrea, northern Italy. "I won't attempt to stop it if my assistants want to perform it, but I won't do it personally. I can't kill a human life even if the law authorizes it."

—Church opposition. Pope Paul VI has deplored abortion as an "abominable crime." His protege, Cardinal Giovanni Benelli of Florence, said abortion is a "mortal sin" and everyone involved in one — the pregnant woman, the man in the case, the doctor and the nurses — will be excommunicated.

—The possibility of a repeal referendum. The Italian Bishops Conference declared, "The Church has not resigned itself," and the

Six charged in Italy with murder of Moro

ROME (AP) — In its first major breakthrough in the Aldo Moro case, the Italian government has charged five persons in custody and a sixth still at large with the kidnap-murder of the former premier.

Police are also still searching for nine other suspects.

Enrico Triaca, Teodoro Spadaccini, Giovanni Lugini, Antonio Marini and Gabriella Mariani, all in maximum security jails to guard against attempts to free them, and fugitive Mario Moretti were charged Monday with abducting and assassinating the president of the Christian Democratic Party and with killing his five police bodyguards during the kidnapping.

March 16.

All are believed to be members of the Red Brigades, the urban guerrilla army which boasted that it seized Moro in a Rome street ambush and killed him seven weeks later after the government refused to free 13 jailed terrorists.

Triaca, Spadaccini, Lugini, Marini and Miss Mariani were arrested three weeks ago in a raid on Triaca's print shop in northern Rome. Investigators said they believed the Red Brigades' communiques while they were holding Moro were printed in the shop.

What they investigators learned after in questioning the five was not revealed.

Eduardo di Giovanni, an attorney for Lugini, said the charges were "ridiculous."

all constitutional means to overturn it.

That is 150 less than the estimated number of daily clandestine abortions.

Colombian president considers not keeping campaign promises

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — President-elect Julio Cesar Turbay Ayala, who campaigned promising to end his Liberal Party's 21-year governing arrangement with the Conservatives, now indicates his winning margin was so slim that he may continue the coalition.

"I will maintain with this second political force the spirit of agreement called for at this time," Turbay Ayala, 62, told a news conference Monday after the election board declared him the winner over 56-year-old Belisario Betancur of the Conservative Party.

The board said that with 95 percent of the votes counted from Sunday's balloting, preelection favorite Turbay Ayala had 2,226,163 votes to 2,137,987 for Betancur, a margin of only 88,176 votes.

The other four candidates, an army general and three leftists, trailed far behind.

Betancur, who had declared himself the winner as the lead seasawed in early counting, refused to concede defeat. A spokesman said he might contest the election, the closest in this South American nation since 1970, when a Conservative won office by 60,000 votes.

Conservative partisans took to the streets Monday shouting, "Fraud! Fraud!" and "Betancur or a military coup." Dozens blocked traffic with sit-ins at major intersections. Troops patrolled the city, and there was no violence.

The president-elect, ambassador to the United States until 1976, rejected accusations that his victory was stolen, saying: "My triumph was clean and it honors Colombian democracy."

Turbay Ayala is to be inaugurated Aug. 7 for a four-year term. He will replace another Liberal, President Alfonso Lopez Michelsen, who was barred by the constitution from seeking re-election.

The Liberals generally have followed a middle-of-the-road social policy to the left of the Conservatives. It is believed that Turbay Ayala, like Betancur considered a pro-American moderate, will continue in Lopez Michelsen's path.

Colombia has been ruled by Liberals and Conservatives almost without interruption since independence from Spain in 1810. Their rivalry resulted in a civil war from 1948 to 1958 in which more than 200,000 persons were killed. The war was ended by an agreement in 1957 to govern in coalition, with the presidency alternating between the two parties, but the coalition was partially dismantled in 1974 and the separation was to be completed with the new government.

FIGHTS RETIREMENT — Margaret Mulac, who has been advising people on the ways to enjoy retirement, is battling against her own mandatory retirement from Cuyahoga Community College. She became 65 last September.

State funds may have been used illegally

HOUSTON (AP) — A Harris County assistant district attorney has confirmed a county grand jury is investigating allegations that state welfare funds may have been used in the unsuccessful U.S. House campaign for Anthony Hall.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Bob Shults confirmed he appeared before a grand jury Monday to present an overview of his investigation into the complaint but declined to discuss the case further.

Shults said he waited until Monday to go before a grand jury because he didn't want premature publicity to unfairly affect the outcome of Saturday's runoff election.

Hall, a state representative, lost the Democratic primary runoff to Mickey Leland, also a state representative, in the race to fill Barbara Jordan's 18th Congressional District seat. Miss Jordan is retiring.

The Houston Post says the probe centers around allegations that funds from a $65,000 grant by the Texas Department of Human Resources to the Houston based Human Enrichment of Life Program, were used to pay salaries for workers in Hall's campaign.

Hall denied the allegations and added "someone might have come up with a rumor" because his campaign treasurer Quinton Mease, is also director of the HELP program.

Hall said he persuaded Gov. Dolph Briscoe to support backing for the contract with the welfare department.

"There was nothing wrong with my fight to secure funding for that thing," Hall said. "I'd do that again."

Hill files charges against distributor of handguns

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Attorney General John Hill said Monday he has filed suit here against a Dallas wholesale distributor of handguns for allegedly violating state anti-trust laws.

Hill's petition alleges that Dave's House of Guns, Inc., a major distributor of Smith & Wesson handguns, has required retailers to buy certain quantities of ammunition and other products — such as shotguns, holsters and belts — in order to obtain handguns.

The violations have occurred since at least Jan. 1, 1975, Hill's suit alleges. The suit asks the maximum civil penalty of $1,500 per day for each day of violation.

Lemongello trembling after getting thumb

CHICAGO (AP) — Mark Lemongello was furious and at first insisted "I'd better not say anything or I might never play baseball again."

The 22-year-old Houston right-hander had been ejected from the game Monday by umpire Dutch Rennert for questioning a fourth-ball call to Gene Clines which loaded the bases in the ninth inning.

After Rennert gave Lemongello the thumb, Joe Sambito came in from the bullpen and yielded a run-scoring single to Ivan DeJesus which gave the Chicago Cubs a 2-1 victory over the Astros.

"He said he had warned me previously but he never said anything to me," fumed Lemongello. "All I did was take three steps off the mound and he threw me out. All I was going to do was ask him where the pitch was.

"I ask one question in a crucial situation and he throws me out of the game," said Lemongello. "I've never been kicked out of a game before. I know they're going to miss a call now and then but are they that great that you can't even question them?"

Rennert, very calmly, explained, "The minute he charged off the mound was when he got ejected. It's automatic. It's in the rules. He had asked me about pitches earlier and I had signaled to him where they were. All pitchers do that."

"But when he shot off the mound, that was it," said Rennert. "He didn't have to say anything and if he had, I couldn't hear him over the roar of the crowd. But you can pretty well figure out what he was saying even if you have to be a lip-reader."

Houston Manager Bill Virdon also was calm and said, "I think he (Rennert) missed the pitch. But the rules say you can't argue over a ball or strike call whether you are the pitcher, the batter or the manager."

"I think Mark might have been asking him where the pitch was but the way he went about it was wrong," added

Virdon. "It was a good game and it will bring the people back, I guess."

The Astros scored a run in the third on a double by Art Howe and a single by Terry Puhl and the Cubs tied it in the fifth when Manny Trillo singled for the first hit off Lemongello, went to second on a sacrifice and scored on Dave Rader's single.

Steve Ontiveros opened the Cub ninth with a single and took second on a sacrifice. Joe Wallis was given an intentional walk before Clines ran the count to 3-2 and took a walk on the questionable fourth ball to set the stage for DeJesus' winning blow.

It was a bit of deja vu for DeJesus, who also came up in the seventh inning with the bases loaded and one out only to hit into a double play.

"Everytime you come up it's a new time at bat," said DeJesus. "You can't worry about what you did before."

The victory was the fourth straight for the first-place Cubs, who now have won 12 of their last 15 games and nine in a row at home. They close their Houston series Tuesday when they send Dave Roberts, 2-0, against Joaquin Andujar, 3-2.

ROCKETT'S TEMPER FLARES — First base umpire Andy Olsen stands between Pat Rockett of the Atlanta Braves and Kent Tekulve, the Pirates' pitcher Monday night in Pittsburgh. Rockett ran over Tekulve as the Pirate pitcher tagged him in ninth inning action. Both benches emptied before peace was restored. The Braves won the game on a ninth inning grand slam home run by Dale Murphy. The final score was 8-4.

Sonics claim ad-in Wednesday

SEATTLE (AP) — It's a situation the Seattle SuperSonics have faced before in National Basketball Association playoffs — being crushed by a foe on the road and needing a win at home to come back.

They were in a position to oust the 1977 NBA champion Portland Trail Blazers from the playoffs on April 30 in the Portland Coliseum, but lost by 24 points.

"They could've finished off

Denver in Game 5 of the semifinals in Denver on May 14 — but the Sonics were never in it and trailed by as much as 18 points in that game.

In the case of Portland and Denver, the Sonics returned home and played near-flawless ball to win the NBA Western Division crown.

On Sunday, the Sonics were beaten badly by Washington, 117-82, to tie the series. The best-of-seven championship series is down to the final game, Wednesday night.

The Sonics consider Sunday's embarrassment a temporary setback, like 24-hour flu, that will go away.

"We'll have the advantage playing at home," said Sonics Coach Lenny Wilkens. "And you can be sure we'll play better than we played Sunday. That was the worst game we've played in a long time and it's not going to happen again. We had nothing, but we were so bad, it's easy to snap out of a game like that."

"They've still got to win one more," said Sonics forward Paul Silas. "And ain't no way in hell they're going to do that."

But Washington forward Elvin Hayes noted the Bullets' big win might have a lingering effect.

"Maybe we needed this to bring out what kind of team we are," Hayes said. "In any case, they'll have to think about it. They'll have to think about a lot of things."

Bullets Coach Dick Motta went into Sunday's game with a last-minute change that helped — a lineup of one guard and four front-courtmen. It was a move of necessity because guard Kevin Gravey's sprained wrist.

The strategy confounded the Sonics, who shot 33.7 percent and were outrebounded 69-49.

"We had used that alignment during the regular season," said Motta. "But we didn't practice it for this series. We decided to go with it at the last minute, because Gravey had spent some time in the hospital and his arm was so stiff. We hadn't practiced it before, but we will on Tuesday — and will probably mess it up."

Motta could afford to joke. His Bullets were flying.

"That's the real Bullets," Motta said. "We played like that against San Antonio and Philadelphia (in earlier playoff rounds) and I was wondering when we'd get another good one."

Pep pill scandal hits World Cup

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Scotland's soccer team has saved itself from possible disqualification from the World Cup by sending home Willie Johnston, the star who took forbidden pep pills.

"I don't think we could take any action against Scotland now, since the Scottish football association itself has punished the player," said Helmut Kaeser, secretary general of the International Soccer Federation (FIFA).

"It was an exemplary decision by Scotland, and the most logical that we could have hoped for."

Johnston was ordered home Monday and told he would never be allowed to play for Scotland again. He admitted taking two pills before his team lost to Peru 3-1 in Group 4 of the tournament at Cordoba last Saturday.

Doctors had reported traces of fenfamin, a forbidden drug, in a urine sample taken from Johnston after the match. The World Cup organizing committee had the power to disqualify Scotland. But the Scots jumped in quickly, conducted their own investigation and dismissed Johnston.

Kaeser said that if Scotland had defeated Peru, and the doping offense had been proven, Peru would have been awarded the game.

"Scotland has taken the right measures against a player who could have done much harm to his team," Kaeser said.

The doping discovery occurred after each of the 16 teams had completed one game. Already two Hungarian players had been ordered off the field at the end of a savage match against Argentina, so the image of the tournament is stained before it is one-quarter completed.

Soccer officials came to Argentina worried about possible disruption of the World Cup by terrorists. Instead, the trouble has come from inside the game itself.

TIME OUT — Tennis star Jimmy Connors takes time out in the line judge's chair at Beckenham, England, Monday as he waits for compatriot Peter Pearson to resume play in their men's singles match in the Beckenham Tennis Week series. Connors, who has not played tennis for two months due to a blood disorder, won the match 6-2, 6-1.

Tom finds 'terrificness'

By the Associated Press

Tom's terrific again. "I think he's the old Seaver — with improvement," says Cincinnati pitching coach Larry Sheppard of Tom Seaver. "He's been coming on in the last five or six ballgames. He's just been fantastic."

The return to form of the Cincinnati ace has been marked by a five-game winning streak, including Monday night's six-hit, 2-1 beauty over the St. Louis Cardinals.

That improved Seaver's record to 6-4 after a horrendous start that took him until May 6 to gain his first victory.

"My timing was not very good," noted Seaver, ever the perfectionist. "Up until the last two innings, I was struggling."

The classy right-hander finished in style, striking out five of the last six batters.

While Seaver continued to win, the Los Angeles Dodgers were going in an entirely different direction. The defending National League champions lost their fifth straight game, a 9-8 decision to the New York Mets.

The defeat was especially galling for the Dodgers, since they had the Mets by 8-2 at one time. The loss kept them 5½ games behind front-running San Francisco in the NL West.

The Giants held onto first place by a half-game over the Reds after a 4-3 loss to the Philadelphia Phillies.

Mets 9, Dodgers 8
Bill Russell's wild throw on Doug Flynn's grounder with two outs in the ninth inning enabled Tim Lincecum to score the winning run as New York beat Los Angeles.

The Mets scored three times in the ninth of the third Dodger pitcher, loser Terry Forster.

Phillies 4, Giants 3
Rookie Jim Morrison hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning and Bob Boone followed with a pinch-hit shot to rout Vida Blue and give Philadelphia its victory over San Francisco.

Blue had pitched a two-hitter until the eighth and led 2-1 in the nationally televised game before the Phillies scored three runs with no out and assumed a 4-2 lead en route to their fourth straight triumph.

Braves 8, Pirates 4
Rookie catcher Dale Murphy broke a tie in the ninth with a grand slam home run to boost Atlanta over Pittsburgh. Murphy's drive into the left field seats, his third homer this season, came with none out off reliever Kent Tekulve.

Expos 4, Padres 3
Andre Dawson hit a two-run homer in the second inning and later scored the go-ahead run in the seventh to pace Montreal over San Diego. Winner Rudy May scattered nine hits before needing last-inning relief help from Mike Garman.

GO AHEAD RUNS — San Francisco Giant pitcher Vida Blue lowers his head after watching the ball clear the left field fence for a home run by Phillies' Jim Morrison who trots around the bases in the background. The two-run home run by Morrison in the 8th inning put the Phillies ahead as they won 4-3 Monday night in Philadelphia.

Best of all worlds?

NEW YORK (AP) — "Why play ball? It is truly the best of all possible worlds."

So says a promotional pamphlet distributed by major league baseball, which is fighting a constant battle against football and basketball for America's blue chip athletes.

Many of these scholastic sportsmen were to be selected today in the annual summer free agent baseball draft. And if they're talented enough, some other sport will also court them, driving up their financial value.

One such player is Kirk Gibson of Michigan State, who has scouts from two sports drooling for his services. A record-setting flanker at MSU, Gibson has avoided serious injury in three varsity seasons and has caught a school record 17 touchdown passes.

At 6-foot-2, 220 pounds with blazing 4.3 speed for the 40-yard dash, Gibson is the fastest man on the football team. He's also the fastest player and hardest hitter on the baseball team, a squad he joined as a junior this past season.

"If I had to compare him with anybody, he's like Mickey Mantle," said Paul Snyder, the Atlanta Braves' minor league administrator. "You don't see that combination of speed and power very often."

The Braves, who had the leadoff pick in today's draft, would love to see Gibson hitting 500-foot home runs and beating out choppers to second base for them, but were expected to pass on this top prospect.

"One of our scouts talked to him and he said he liked baseball, but he loves football, and that's the difference," said Snyder.

Bob Fontaine, once San Diego's scouting chief and now the team's general manager, knows about drafting all-around athletes. He made Dave Winfield the Padres' first selection in June five years ago. Winfield, from the University of Minnesota, was drafted by pro football, basketball and baseball, but he preferred the national pastime.

"The thing that baseball always has to sell is that athletes normally sustain careers longer in baseball than in some of the other sports," Fontaine said. "Baseball requires skills that must be perfected over time. But once the athlete attains that skill, he keeps it longer."

"Baseball has a different kind of contact than football. Injuries are not generally as serious. We have a lot of fine players well beyond 35 and I don't think you'll see that as readily in the other sports."

But, Fontaine pointed out, "it's awful hard to talk a fellow into going to the minors."

The colleges don't serve as proving grounds for the major leagues, as they do in basketball and football. Because the Padres were inexperienced, Winfield went directly to the major leagues and has stayed there. But he is the rare exception and not the rule."

"I definitely want to play my senior year in football for Michigan State," said Gibson, who played in 48 college baseball games, slugging 16 homers, driving in 52 runs and batting .390. He also swiped 21 bases in 22 attempts.

A Wimbledon quarterfinalist, the tenth-ranked singles player in Texas, and the eighth-ranked doubles team in the state will take the court Saturday at the Figure Seven Tennis Center in Comanche Trail Park.

Organized by pro Barry Stephens as the first West Texas Invitational Tennis Tourney, the finest tennis seen this year in this area gets underway at 10 a.m.

Keith Diepraam, a South African nationally-ranked pro from the Midland Country Club will headline the string of athletes competing for $100 first prize in the single elimination tourney.

Diepraam is nationally ranked in the men's 35s division, and looks to put on the best show for the gallery. Another racketman appearing is Kimm Ketelsen from San Angelo, ranked number 10 in Texas and a playing friend of Cliff Ritchey. Ketelsen is a former All-American from Southeast Oklahoma State. Also, from Abilene Steve Buck and Danny Haddox will show the eighth ranking doubles team in Texas.

A total of ten pros are expected to participate, with $100 first and $75 second prize.

"This is the first tournament we've tried to put on like this," said Stephens, "and we need all the support we can get. These are high quality tennis players, and if we have a successful round this year, then trying to get people in here for exhibition will be that much easier next year."

Entry fee to the matches will be $1, which will benefit the tennis center. Finals are scheduled for 1 p.m. Saturday.

Stephens also expressed his thanks to the local sponsors of the tourney, First Federal Savings, Big Spring Savings, First National Bank, Security State Bank, State National Bank, Berkley Mobile Homes, and City Pawn Shop.

Costello is new Bulls coach

CHICAGO (AP) — Larry Costello, whose total of 407 victories as a National Basketball Association coach ranks fifth on the all-time list, is returning to the game to coach the Chicago Bulls.

Costello compiled a 407-249 record in nine seasons with the Milwaukee Bucks before resigning early in the 1976-77 season. He has since served as a scout with the Houston Rockets.

The Bulls announced the selection of Costello Monday and said he would be presented to the press at a news conference today.

Costello, 47, replaces Ed Badger, who resigned before the final game of the 1977-78 National Basketball Association season to take the head coaching position at the University of Cincinnati.

Only Red Auerbach, Tom Heinsohn, Red Holtzman and ex-Bulls Coach Dick Motta have more victories than Costello as an NBA coach.

Hogs-Horns on tube again

DALLAS (AP) — The Oct. 21 Arkansas-Texas football game will be televised once again, a spokesman for ABC television said Monday.

Donn Berrnstein, ABC's coordinator of college football, said that the 1978 contest between the Razorbacks and Longhorns would be televised, but that no decision had been reached as to whether it would be shown nationally or regionally.

"Arkansas is the hottest team in the country for TV purposes," Berrnstein said during the American Football Coaches Association golf tournament. He cited Arkansas' Orange Bowl upset of Oklahoma, its returning nucleus and the charisma of coach Lou Holtz as reasons for the Hogs' TV pulling power.

The Razorbacks are scheduled to play Texas at Austin. Kickoff is set for 2 p.m.

Aztecs get new coach too

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The struggling Los Angeles Aztecs have a new coach today, something that Larry Friend, president of the North American Soccer League team, said had to be done.

"We feel this move to be in the best interests of our club and the fans in general," said Friend Monday in announcing that Terry Fisher was out as coach and Tommie Smith was in on an interim basis.

The Aztecs are winless in seven home games and 5-8 overall.

The season has been marked by feuds between Fisher and Aztecs' star George Best, with Best being suspended on one occasion.

Smith, 33, had been listed as a playing assistant coach on the Aztecs' roster. Friend said that Fisher will remain with the team and has been reassigned to player personnel.

Fisher, 28, took the Aztecs to the playoffs in each of the past three years, the only NASL coach to do so. He had a 39-31 record as coach of the club going into this season.

Braves gamble on draft

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Braves, now seriously contemplating a move to Dallas, are playing a poor hand in the poker game known as the National Basketball Association draft, so the club will draw as many as it can, says its general manager and president.

"Our first two picks are number 38 and number 41 in the second round, and obviously that's not real encouraging," Braves executive Norm Sonju said Monday. "But the draft is not until Friday, so it doesn't preclude any changes. "We've met in strategy sessions and made our recommendations to Mr.

(John Y.) Brown, and you can count on the fact that we'll be strengthened by Friday."

Sonju declined to say in what areas the Braves were seeking personnel improvement through trades.

Sonju said his involvement in the draft forced him to cancel plans to travel today to Dallas for a personal inspection of the Convention Center arena where he would like the team to play in 1978-79 as the Dallas Express. He had been expected to make an announcement concerning the basketball team.

"I just don't think it's possible," he said. "We are still talking to teams and have a world of things to go through."

The Braves broke their lease on Memorial Auditorium last month. The team is expected to ask the NBA Board of Governors on June 12-14 for permission to plant the franchise somewhere else.

Sonju said he has continued to recommend Dallas to owners Brown and Harry Mangurian. He said last week the city is the best available in fan and growth potential and the television market.

Brown, a 50 percent owner but the controlling partner, will make the final decision.

"We don't want to drag this thing out and I was planning to go to Dallas tomorrow. I'm very embarrassed because I did tell some people I was going to be there. There are several things to take care of that require my physically being there (at the arena)," he said.

"But it's impossible now because of final preparations for the draft."

Sonju said he doubts there will be an announcement of a new coach until after the draft. The Braves lost Cotton Fitzsimmons to the Kansas City Kings not long after breaking the lease.

He said he had received final figures on leasing the 10,000-seat coliseum, which recently underwent "between $500,000 and $600,000 worth of renovation."

"It's a nice arena and nothing like when the Chaparrals (of the American Basketball Association) were there."

Dallas is building a new 17,000-seat Special Events Center, but the facility will not be ready until 1980. If the franchise move is approved, the Braves would try to play their 1978-79 and 1979-80 games in the convention center, Sonju said.

He said the team's front office and the city had worked out arrangements for housing teams, referees, trainers and special guests and would have storage and other rooms in the building.

BASEBALL'S PAIN — New York's Cliff Johnson, 41, shows the pain of baseball after he got hit by a foul tip Monday in the Yankees game against Seattle. After some smelly salt and some rubbing, Johnson returned to action.

Cubs win in 13

By the Associated Press
A wild throw with the bases loaded by Jackson first baseman Keno Perry ended a 13-inning Texas League marathon at Midland Monday night as the Cubs dropped the Mets 4-3.

In the only other league contest, San Antonio knocked off Shreveport 6-2.

El Paso was rained out against Tulsa, and Arkansas-Amarillo suffered the same fate.

Perry threw wildly on a ground ball by Mike Gatlin to give Larry Groover his second win against no losses. Dan Smith was the loser and dropped to 0-2.

Steve Macko and Eric Grandy each chipped in three hits for the Cubs.

Epps qualifies for Open

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Medalist Charlie Epps of Houston led 10 golfers into the U.S. Open Monday by taking sectional qualifying honors at Shady Valley Golf Club Monday.

Epps fired 68-71-139 to lead the 72 golfers who survived local qualifying.

The Open will be played June 15-18 at Cherry Hills Country Club in Denver.

Other qualifiers are Mark Wallach, Fort Eustis, Va., 140; John Fought, Tualatin, Ore., 140; Jim Fetters, Port Arthur, Texas, 140; Bob Byman, Raleigh, N.C., 140; Randy Sommer, Lafayette, La., 140; Robert Imaglia, Rochester, N.Y., 141; Sale Omohundro, Sherman, Texas, 141; Benny Parsons, Fort Worth, Texas, 141; and Nate Stark, St. Petersburg, Fla., 141.

Bayman's second-round 66 set a course record.

Eight players also finished at 141, but four were eliminated in a playoff and will be alternates. They are Jacobs Ferenz, Broadview Heights, Ohio; Steve Boardwell, Detroit; Rives McBe, Irving, Texas; and Jim Knoll, Palo Alto, Calif.

Is Esposito leaving Rangers?

NEW YORK (AP) — It was June, the sun was shining brightly and Phil Esposito was happy.

All the disappointments, the injuries, the lack of production of the previous season seemed to have disappeared for Esposito, the captain of the National Hockey League New York Rangers. He was looking forward to next season and the debut of Fred Shero as Ranger coach.

"Fred did wonders with the (Philadelphia) Flyers," said Esposito of the man in Madison Square Garden everybody would play one-minute shifts and they did. And we all played better because of it.

"After the game, I went up and shook hands with him. I had to, he did such a superb job. And I never shake hands with the coaches like that."

Since Shero was hired last week by the Rangers there has been talk that Esposito would be forced to relinquish his captaincy or perhaps even be dealt away because he does not fit the Shero mold.

The 36-year-old center was noncommittal on the captaincy but scoffed at a trade possibility.

"I have two years left on my contract plus an option for a third, at my option, which means I'll be here for the next three years," he said. "Fred is a progressive coach and he'll build a team in his style. I can play his system...we all can.

Gee City A's split games

The Garden City A's of the Pony League downed Robert Lee 14-8 Monday night, as Randy Lister took the win from the hill. The A's were beaten the week before by Wall, 31-5, as Erby Lopez took the loss.

In Monday night's game, Victor Dahoyas garnered a homer and singles, while Jody Kingston, Robbie Patino and Randy Livingston all had two hits apiece. Joe Lopez, Greg Kingston and Victor Madrano also had hits.

In the Wall loss, Erby Lopez powered a homer, as Dahoyas, Randy Lister, and Greg and Jody Kingston had hits as well.

Weir cops Motocross race

By JIM FIERRO
A large number of riders from West Texas and New Mexico participated Sunday in the High Noon Optimists monthly Motocross.

Danny Weir of Big Spring had a good day as he won the 250 expert class. Weir beat a strong challenge from John Laney of Midland who came in second. Weir finished third in the tough 125 Expert class.

The 125 Expert class was the most exciting race of the day. Morris Baker of Marfa and Mel Newman of San Angelo had the fans cheering them on by their close race.

In their second heat, the lead changed back and forth five times. But Newman, who has been out of action three months due to injury, pooped out to finish second.

Ronna Tyler of Coahoma, riding in the Open Junior class, had the lead for a while and looked like a sure winner. But her bike gave out and Tyler couldn't finish the race. Ronna had a lot of bad luck in the last three months here.

Mike Walcott of San Angelo was very successful Sunday. Walcott captured two classes, winning the 100 class and also the 125 Intermediate class.

Ernie Kerr of Coahoma had to come from way back in the pack to capture third place in the 125 class.

The High Noon Optimists Moto-cross track will close for the months of July, August and September. Racing will resume in October.

Other finishers Sunday included:
100 class — 1) Mike Walcott — San Angelo; 2) Steve Howard — Midland; 3) DeWayne Bennett — Midland.
125 Novice — 1) Ron Workman — Cisco; 2) Ron Bryan — Midland; 3) Aaron Haire — S. Angelo.
125 Int. — 1) Mike Walcott — S.A.; 2) Steve Howard — Midland; 3) Randy Henshaw — Sweetwater.
Open Jr. — 1) Cliff Herr — Kermit; 2) Jay Stockton — Kermit; 3) Tony Morgan — Tulsa.
Open Sr. — 1) Pete Tanner — El Paso; 2) Alan Spry — Abilene; 3) Kenny Williams — Littlefield.

Sports briefs

TENNIS — Defending champion Guillermo Vilas whipped American Arthur Ashe 4-2, 6-2, 6-2 to move into the quarter-finals of the $400,000 French Open tennis tournament.

Dick Stockton also moved into the eighth man quarter final with a 7-5, 6-1, 6-3 victory over West Germany's Rolf Gehring.

SOCCER
No. 5 seed Manuel Orantes of Spain eliminated American Tim Gulikson 6-3, 7-6, 7-6, and Chile's Hans Guildermeister outlasted Australia's John Alexander 7-5, 6-4, 3-4, 4-6, 6-3 in other matches at Roland Garros Stadium.

AMERICAN FOOTBALL — Jimmy Conors began his return to the tennis circuit with a 6-2, 6-1 opening round victory over fellow American Peter Pearson in the Beckenham grass court tennis tournament.

SOCCER
Scotland — Jim Gabrielsen of Atlanta led 12 Americans into the second round of the 1978 British Amateur golf tournament.

Altogether, 45 of the 79 man U.S. contingent played on the par 72, 7,564-yard course. The remaining 34 play Tuesday, with some second round matches also on the schedule.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — A doping scandal hit the World Cup soccer tournament as Willie Johnston, 21-year-old Scottish star, was sent home and banned from his country's team for life.

Ridin' fence
Headed for a pallet
with Marj Carpenter

Bill Fishback, elementary principal at Coahoma, is retiring after serving at Coahoma for 25 years and is headed for a pallet.

Their second son, Bobby Gene is majoring in music at West Texas State. Benny Ray is a policeman in Coahoma.

BILL FISHBACK

Well, not exactly, but if everything works out, he is going to work at Bill-Rite Pallet Company the day after he retires.

They have a way about them down there at Coahoma. They have a fierce community pride, which actually centers more around the school than the community itself.

This really speaks well for the school system and for the administrators that have not only helped educate students but also have helped develop that pride.

When the Fishbacks first moved to Coahoma, their oldest son, Billy Don was nine months old. He is now business manager of Lakeview Campus in the Dallas County Community College.

As the school year ends down in Coahoma, along is 20 just a skip and a hop before you get to Mitchell County, we would kind of like to salute the entire school system and the spirited bunch that they constantly bring out of those schools.
