Development of reservoir near Stacy gains support

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has adopted a resolution supporting the Colorado River Municipal Water District in its application to impound a reservoir on the Colorado River near Stacy.

The Chamber cited the fact that the whole of West Texas "is one of the most vital regions of Texas in the production of food and fiber, as well as the production of petroleum, yet it is in this area of the state that only one-fourth of the total rainfall occurs, thus emphasizing the critical necessity of water for the development of the area.

The resolution also focused attention on the fact that the lake would make possible the construction of a major electric power generating plant as well as supply water to cities, emphasizing the claim that "electric power is almost as imperative as water itself for development."

Development of the reservoir as a site for a source of water supply in West Texas has been recommended for nearly two decades by the U.S. Study Commission, the U.S. Corps of Engineers, the Texas Water Development Board and the Governor's Water Task Force, the resolution recalls.

The resolution was duely signed by E. Bruce Street, WTCC president; Everett J. Grindstaff, chairman, Water Development Committee, WTCC; and Planned move from courthouse blocked

Tax appraiser's budget slashed

By BOB BURTON Howard County Comfaced a delegation of 28 farmers during their consideration of Tax Appraiser Earl Dean's $140,000 proposed budget

Among the rural residents of the county attending were newly-elected Commissioners Paul Allen and David

The county commissioners slashed their way through the proposed budget. Eventually, they informed the county's representative on the Tax tinued Watkins.

Bednar, that they would only approve a budget in the amount of $75,000 missioner's Court Monday afternoon which included at least one mapper's salary.

Former Big Spring councilman Jack Watkins also appeared at the meeting, telling the commissioners, "I can't see where this expenditure of $140,000 would bring the county one extra dime.

"Every time we get a tax appraiser. they get wind of a $30,000 windfall in re-evaulation and they're not worth a flip to the county or anybody," con-

Hill gives preview of his activities

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Taxconscious Texans are tired of excuses and want waste cut out of the state budget, Attorney General John Hill told state agency directors Monday.

Hill, the Democratic nominee for governor, gave approximately 35 directors, or their representatives, a preview of what they might expect from him if he defeats Republican Bill Clements in November

They were silent when he invited their questions but applauded the brief presentation of his budgetary philosophy.

"A common complaint on the campaign trail," Hill said, was the rise in property taxes. "It was clear to me the citizens want our state budget brought under tighter control. "We are not going to be able to continue the 15 percent annual budget increases we have enjoyed the last several years, and then make excuses that we tried the best we could to cut but just couldn't do it," Hill said. "Never before has a Texas Legislature faced a stronger demand for stopping government growth," Hill said. . . . "it's time for us to take our medicine, where we can take it," and cut budgets.

Hill has hired Harry Ledbetter, a budget expert who was defeated for Democratic primary, to monitor summer budget hearings.

He acknowledged, however, that the governor has "limited resources" to shape the state budget.

Hill noted that the 1975 and 1977 Legislatures each had more than $1 billion to spend over the existing budget, and he said a similar surplus is expected next year.

Absent from the briefing was State Comptroller Bob Bullock, a Hill critic who must predict how much money lawmakers will have to spend for 1980-

Hill recalled that he has advocated several forms of tax relief, such as eliminating the sales tax on utilities; further homestead exemptions for the elderly; reducing taxes for small farmers and ranchers; and exempting more in inheritance benefits from

He said he favored a state employee pay raise. In his campaign, Hill also committed himself to a teacher pay

"All of this can be done well within projected income," he said.

"There is a strong feeling from taxpayers that government doesn't deliver — that they're not getting their money's worth," said Hill. "I want to assure the taxpayers that we are stretching every tax dollar as far the meeting, was not the only official to take it on the chin.

County Judge Bill Tune told the gallery that the commissioners court could be relied on to hold the lines against expenditure, as opposed to other agencies, because, said Tune, the county sits as its own Board of Equalization, while neither the city nor the school district do.

"It makes it rather easy," said the county judge, "when you can appoint someone to take your place and do your dirty work for you.

Generally, the court agreed that a 71/2 per cent raise should be ample for the tax appraisal personnel, that a $500 contingency fund was better than a $9,000 fund, that moving out of the courthouse at $6,200 expense was unnecessary, that one mapper instead of three could begin the mapping job, and that one extra secretary was acceptable.

In other action, the commissioners considered taking over right-of-way on Jeffries Road, conferred with Sheriff A.N. Standard, on new personnel in the Sheriff's office, discussed putting the child support rolls on the county computer rather than purchasing a new bookkeeping machine, and considered leasing the county airport properties to the Industrial Foundation.

The court also approved $175 car allowance for District Attorney Rick Hamby and Special Investigator Don Richard. The allowance, which will replace the county car presently used by the office, will also substitute for the additional staff requested by Hamby from the three counties in the district and the city of Big Spring.

Hamby requested the staff to deal with the deluge of legal work expected with the enactment of the Speedy Trial Law July 1. The court made the allowances effective July 1.

The court also agreed to supply VOE students for the county auditor's office, the county clerk's office, and the tax assessor's office. In addition, they approved more summer help for the tax assessor's office.

The commissioner's court will meet next Monday to begin budget discussions for the coming year.

Bid to ban beer in park nixed

By JAMES WERRELL

Big Springers may still drink alcoholic beverages in Comanche Trail Park, according to members of the City Council at today's regular

A number of citizens had banded together to propose to the council that possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages in the park be outlawed. Several of them appeared at today's meeting. "We all know that there is a traffic problem on the exterior of the park, and I think the drinking problem inside the park is the major cause of this," said David McNary, employe of Airport Baptist Church

"I grew up in Big Spring and have seen the situation develop in the park. It is strewn with broken glass so that a child could cut off a toe. You wouldn't want to take your children to a local bar to play, but that's just about what the park has become," he added.

Hazardous drivers, abusive language, shootings and litter were also attributed to free-flowing alcoholic beverages inside the park.

"The park is dangerous for children. People are actually infringing on our rights by drinking in the park. If the courts would support the police, we could enforce a law that would stop all this," said Karen Sullivan, 2410 Morrison.

City Manager Harry Nagel acknowledged that many of these problems exist at the park, but that a law against drinking there would be virtually unenforceable.

"It's a fine ordinance to pass, but very difficult to enforce. If you want to pass such an ordinance, be prepared to hire six or seven more police to enforce it on Saturday or Sunday," he

Police Chief Stanley Bogard confirmed that at least six police would be required to patrol the park at salaries of $7 an hour, in order to enforce the law. He added that the department would also have to purchase three or four new patrol cars.

City Attorney James Gregg then pointed out that all the offenses mentioned by those who favor the proposal are already against the law.

"All the offenses you have men-tioned are abuses of the law: littering, speeding, abusive language. And if people become intoxicated in the park; that's against the law. But we have enough trouble enforcing these laws, and I can't see how another would help," he concluded. Mayor Pro-tem Polly Mays, who led today's proceedings in Mayor Wade Choate's absence, then asked for a motion. After a pregnant pause and no motions, she herself moved that the proposal be denied, and the rest of the council supported her unanimously.

Council members also approved the first reading of these requests for zone changes, and rejected another at today's meeting.

Initial approval was given to Landvest Inc. for the construction of an apartment complex on a 20.16 acre tract bordered by 11th and Grafa near Howard College. The zone change would be from Single Family-2 to Multi-Family if approved on the second reading.

The first reading of a zone change for property near the intersection of Baylor and U.S. Highway 80 was also approved. The property is presently Retail, and would be rezoned Heavy Commercial for the construction of a wholesale supply business Landvest Inc. again initiated the request. Councilman Ralph McLaughlin, manager of Saunders Company, abstained from voting due to possible conflict of interests.

The first reading of a zone change from Single Family-2 to Neighborhood Service was approved for a plot located from 1406 to 1410 Goliad. John Burgess, local attorney, hopes to construct a dry-cleaning pickup station on the site.

The council rejected a request by Bob Wheeler to rezone property at 16th and Birdwell, from Office to Retail. Wheeler had hoped to construct a restaurant on the vacant lot there, but the idea met with opposition from several members of the adjoining neighborhood, and was not recommended by the Big Spring

Planning and Zoning Board. The council also voted to freeze local electric rates until more studies can be conducted. This move came in answer to a request for a rate hike by the Texas Electric Service Company, represented by Jack Redding, local TESCO manager, at today's meeting. Redding gave a slide presentation and a speech to explain his company's request. As in last year's request, inflation, rising fuel costs and higher cost of construction were cited as reasons for the rate hike.

Redding also mentioned the cost of environmental protection equipment as a major factor in the hike.

Mrs. Davis was treated at Hall-Bennett Hospital for minor cuts and bruises.

"When the Big Brown Plant was built, the cost of air quality control equipment was $4 per kilowatt. Now the required equipment at the Martin Lake Plant costs more than $50 per kilowatt. That's a 1,200 per cent increase, from $4 to $50 per kilowatt in just seven years," he said. "We now estimate that at least $1 out of every $5 of new plant costs is to comply with environmental regulations. That's a full 20 per cent of our costs," he ad-

Nagel informed the council that it could grant the request; deny it, and become involved in an appeal to 118th District Court; do nothing, which would, in effect, allow the rate hike, or suspend rates and join several other Texas cities in petitioning the Public Utilities Commission for a lower hike.

"With Nagel's recommendation, the council chose the last alternative. In other business, council mem-subject. In his City Manger's Report, Nagel informed that the Big Spring Industrial Park and Airport is now bringing in approximately $5,143 a month in income

"This is just a rough estimate, but when we had thought the facility would be a $50,000 a month loss, this is pretty good," he said. Nagel explained that the picture could change overnight, however. "When the city takes over caretaking and security at the park, our costs will go way up," he said. Nagel said that a local security contractor will be commissioned by the city to provide protection of property at the industrial park. The security force will be in constant contact with city police in the event of incidents at the site.

Long years ago, the practice was to fight the heat with thick walls and tall ceilings. Ceiling fans have been with us for decades. Electric fans came into popular use in the early part of the century. You didn't ask, but the first fully air conditioned office building in the country was the Milam Building in San Antonio. Detox Center funds okayed

The City of Big Spring received approval for funding the local Detoxification Center for the fifth year.

Paul Feazelle, city grants administrator, attended the hearing last week in Austin at which the facility received $30,000 from the Texas Commission on Alcoholism. The total budget is $75,580.

The Big Spring center has been used as a pattern facility for many Texas and New Mexico cities due to the success of the program here. The grant begins July 1.

At the hearing, approval was also given to the Permian Basin Community Center for Mental Health and Mental Retardation for $19,206 from TCA towards an $82,835 total budget for the detox center in Midland.

Police said the expedition set off in four 22-foot cedar canoes, laden with food and baggage, for Moosonee, Ont., near James Bay 220 miles north of Ville Marie.

'Apparently, when the storm broke, one of the boats got into trouble," said Constable Pierre Rochefort of the Quebec Provincial Police, "Another cance went to the rescue, but also turned over, and the same happened to the third.

The fourth canoe managed to take the survivors to shore, he said, but high winds prevented its going out

The survivors were found Monday on the western shore of the lake after helicopter pilot Gary Smith, on a routine flight, noticed an overturned canoe with the bodies of a boy and a man tied to it. Smith then spotted three more bodies and the other two overturned canoes. He contacted the police, who organized a search.

Jean Laporte, a Ville Marie supplier, said survivors were scattered along an 18-mile stretch of lake, "and there were floating bodies all over. Those youngsters who survived are very lucky. It gets very rough out here. When the wind comes up, the waves get to six feet high."

The bodies of the dead were found as much as two miles apart.

THE GREAT AMERICAN public simply refuses to give up its private automobiles. When it does, it's apt to take not a train but a plane.

Bus operators are acutely aware that one consequence of heavy federal subsidization of rail passenger service has been to undercut their business and are quick to point out that they receive no such assistance.

HOW EFFECTIVE SUCH centers might be in countering the decline would be open to question, but not the overall importance of buses to the national transportation network. The airlines trumpet the fact that they serve 670 communities. The trains stop in 500 cities and towns. Intercity bus lines, on the other hand, link 15,000 communities of all sizes.

In terms of passengers, according to Murphy, trains carry some 20 million annually, the airlines 209 million. But bus companies? They're still far ahead, with 350 million

Even though there are those among us who never "go by bus," it would not be difficult to imagine a country not served by buses — one where absolute chaos is the rule rather than an exception.

Rain differs

Around the rim

Marie Homeyer

It actually rains in West Texas. I thought that when I moved here that I had seen the last of frequent rains that I was so accustomed to. But the day I arrived it rained. And it rained the next day. And it has rained numbers of times since. Some have credited me with bringing the rains with me from East Texas. And the fact that it hasn't been raining that much back home, has made me wonder. But the more I think about it the more I don't believe that's the reason.

THE RAINS are different. Here, it storms and a few hours later the sun has reappeared. In Southeast Texas, when it rains, it's heavy, hard and long. I can recall times when the sun did not shine for at least a week or more. And for the farmers in my native habitat, the rains came when they don't want it and doesn't come when they do want it. ***

In the last year I have become aware of just how many left-handed people there are in this world. Before, the only left-hander that I had encountered was my younger brother. Then when I started working for the college paper, my managing editor was left-handed. And the news editor that replaced me was left-handed. When I began working here I noticed that there were several "southpaws." Tommy Hart and his daughter, Carol, and Bob Burton are only a few of the "elite" group.

I have always been an observant person. In college my professors. taught me to be even more observant because of the nature of the profession I was entering. And, now that I am in "strange" surroundings, that quality has become even more acute. And, one phenomenon that I have noticed to be common among teenagers is the way they spend their spare time.

CRUISING. THAT can be the only word for it. In my home town of 6,000 that's what high school kids did because it was the only thing there was to do. It was common on Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons to get in your car and make the rounds down the two main roads in town. When you spotted someone you were friends with (for everybody knew everybody else) you pulled into one of the closest parking lots and talked. After catching up on the "latest" news, you took to the streets again. There was really no one place everybody congregated.

Then about three months ago, a Sonic opened in town. It soon became 'the place" to be seen. But only on the "cool" side. I found that out rather quickly one weekend. I was home from college and offered to buy my 18year-old brother something to drink. I inadvertantly parked on the "wrong" side. My brother lost no time in telling me that I was supposed to park on the other side but that it was alright this time because I didn't know any better.

I have been told and seen for myself that the same situation prevails here. Shortly after I arrived, a friend was showing me the town. "The thing to do is cruise the Sonic," he said. And as we stopped for some refreshments, he said, "This is the 'cool' side. The other side is where the 'nurds' park." My, how familiar that sounded. And how familiar to see all the cars drive by just because it was "the" thing to do.

Opening battle

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON - The tax rebellion in California is merely the opening battle of a nationwide revolt against oppressive taxes and government extravagances. We have warned in past columns that it was coming.

These budget battles are usually won by the bureaucrats. They strike back by eliminating services and programs that are calculated to outrage the public. This causes a backlash, and the budget cuts are quietly restored.

In California, the bureaucrats undoubtedly will try to slash projects that are dear to the voters' hearts. You can bet the bureaucrats' own perquisites and pet projects will be the last to go.

BUT OUR soundings indicate that this time. They don't begrudge money for legitimate government needs, but they hate to see it wasted. They have lost patience with government agencies that squander their money for frivolous purposes. California's Gov. Jerry Brown, therefore, can make or break his political career by the way he handles this sudden, severe revenue loss.

If he stops the misspending, he could become a formidable candidate for president. But if he lets the bureaucrats manipulate him and cuts out vital services, he could lose the governship in November. The man he would like to displace, Jimmy Carter, has already been by the Lillputians. This is bound evident in the Pentagon where waste has reached its most alarming peak.

Enormous amounts have been fought and perquisites that should never have been permitted. All too often, the main purpose of a new appropriation has been to provide some military chief with better accommodations, more men to command and more gold braid on his uniform.

Occasionally, a lonely hero appears like A. Ernest Fitzgerald, the Air Force cost analyst, who exposed nearly $2 billion in cost overruns in the C5A jet transport program. As his reward, he was hounded out of the Pentagon An Air Force memorandum, dated

Dec. 10, 1968, and hidden from the public all these years, contains instructions from then-Air Force Secretary Harold Brown to hold back the embarrassing figures from both Congress and the General Accounting

THE MEMO was actually signed by his executive assistant, Col. Brian S. Gunderson. But it clearly implicates Brown in the coverup of the overruns. The memo also shows that Brown personally criticized Fitzgerald for speaking out about the $2 billion waste and set in motion the first inquiry that led to Fitzgerald's later ouster by the Nixon administration

It took Fitzgerald four years of costly court battles before he was cleared of the smears. The court ordered the Air Force to restore him to his job and pay him his back salary. But the Air Force has carefully kept him away from any files that could be used to embarrass the brass.

As a presidential candidate fresh from the peanut fields, Jimmy Carter criticized the Republicans for firing Fitzgerald. He solemnly promised, i he should be elected to the White House, "to protect our federal employees from harassment and dismissal if they find out and report waste or dishonesty by their superiors or others."

Carter declared earnestly: "The Fitzgerald case, where a dedicated civil servant was fired from the Defense Department for reporting cost overruns, must never be repeated.

Once Carter was ensconced in the White House, aides sent word to Fitzgerald that the new president would intervene personally to stop the harassment. It was indicated that Fitzgerald would be assigned as a watchdog to keep a sharp eye on major weapons expenditures.

BUT THE promises were never kept. The president, meanwhile, appointed Harold Brown as Defense Secretary. Obviously, the president is taking his advice on Pentagon spend ing from Brown, not Fitzgerald. And Brown doesn't want a watchdog in the Pentagon. Not even the powerful Sen. William Proxmire, D.-Wis., has been able to get Fitzgerald in to see Brown.

A spokesman for the Defense Secretary said they have been unable to find a copy of the embarrassing 1968 memo. But we have seen a copy.

WASHINGTON - While all the publicity in the past few weeks has been devoted to the new National Gallery East Building, there is another structure in this town deserving of our attention.

It's the J. Edgar Hoover FBI Building just down the street. Each day a new revelation comes out that alleges another crime the former FBI director committed. Some of the charges made against him have been blackmail, illegal wire tapping, using public money for private gain, feeding confidential information to help politicians win elections, dirty tricks, condoning forgery, break-ins, etc., etc. In sum, we are discovering that J. Edgar Hoover was not a very nice man.

THEREFORE IT behooves us to admit that we may have acted too fast when we named a building after him on one of Washington's main thoroughfares. J. Edgar Hoover, when alive, had enough power to see that no one could tarnish his image. But now that he has gone to that big FBI in the sky we have to ask ourselves, "Do we want our tax dollars to honor a man who didn't give a hoot about protecting everyone's freedom in this country?

I don't mind, but Turblain, a colleague who was a victim of Mr. Hoover's dirty tricks, does, and he believes the FBI will never have a new image until they chip J. Edgar's name off the building. "I know the conservatives will scream bloody murder, but how can you have a building in Washington bear the name of a man who committed so many crimes in the name of law and order?" he asked.

"But," I protested, "you can't just chip the two-foot name of a man off a concrete building."

"There is precedent for it," Tur-blain said. "They did it to Stalin when discovered what a no-goodnik he was. Whole towns obliterated his name. All I want to do is take J. Edgar's name off one lousy edifice. But it would be so expensive."

"I knew that's what you'd say," Turblain told me. "I have a solution which will not only save money but will also keep the conservatives from jumping on Congress' back. We change the J. Edgar Hoover Building to the Herbert Hoover Building. Then we'd only have to drop that J. and the Edgar and substitute Herbert. The name Herbert would fit perfectly and no one in future generations would ever know that J. Edgar had ever been there.

"Herbert Hoover?" "Why not Herbert? He was an honest man, a good man, He just had a little bad luck to be serving during a depression. It could have happened to anyone. There's nothing in Washington of value named after Herbert Hoover, and it's about time we did something about it.

TURBLAIN CONTINUED, "Don't you see what a snap it would be? All the secretaries would have to do is type out J. Edgar's name on the stationary and substitute Herbert's

"It would still be known to FBI agents as the Hoover Building, but they wouldn't have to choke up every time they went there in fear that J. Edgar's ghost was still hanging around the water fountain. "How can you get a federal building's name changed in Washington?"

"Congress has to do it." "But won't they be afraid to because of all the people who still believe J. Edgar was a great patriot?"

'Cold after cold' can mean allergy

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Help! I am a 37-year-old woman. All my life I have had an unbelievable number of terrible colds and upper respiratory infections. (Maybe they are one and the same?) When I see a doctor I get the antibiotics, etc., etc. More than once I have gone to the hospital for complete physicals, head to foot. They pronounce me in wonderful condition. But how can someone in great shape have at least 9 or 10 really sick colds a year? It is very discouraging. What can I do? I am not talking about the sniffles. - L. M.

With all of the medical attention you have been receiving it is surprising the possibility of allergic rhinitis has not been suggested. That is a swelling of the mucous membranes of the nose as part of an allergic reaction. It can also cause swelling of membranes elsewhere in the respiratory tract. This provides easy access to any of the "flu bugs" that may be lurking around in your environment. You may, in fact, not be experiencing virus infections at all. The allergic reactions from the substances to which you are sensitive can cause all the symptoms of a cold, from wheezing and coughing to chills and

I suggest you see an allergist next time. Most cases of allergic rhinitis are due to food substances and inhalants — too large a list to complete here. The chief symptom is the "cold after steady succession of Antibiotics have no effect whatever on the cold virus. If allergic rhinitis is diagnosed, then antihistamines would be in order for you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have always been pretty predictable in my menstruation. One month was pretty much like another all my life. I am 49 now, and lately I have noticed that one month the flow might be heavy and the next rather slight. Is this a part of the menopause? Have you material on the general subject? — Mrs. P. T.

Could be. This might be related to alternating hormone production of one ovary vs. the other from month to month. The lower production of the ovaries might account for the scant flow on alternate months. Ovaries do tend to split up duties this way. It is probably related to approaching menopause_See my booklet, "Making Menopause Easier," for which send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald. Dear Dr. Thosteson: After a complete physical my test results came back today saying all was normal except for an elevation of triglycerides in my blood. My doctor wants me to make another appointment to discuss this but, frankly, don't feel like paying for another office call after the $107 examination. I have been on medication for high blood pressure for almost a year and am trying to lose weight. I am 41. My blood pressure was down to 145-90.

It's nice that you have brought your blood pressure down to acceptable levels. The level of circulating triglycerides in your blood is another matter, and I would advise you make that follow-up appointment.

Armed with knowledge of your blood pressure difficulties and of your high blood fats the physician can suggest practical ways to combat both. The triglycerides may have contributed indirectly to the pressure problem. A low-fat, carbohydrate diet along with your weight reduction can combine to bring the fats down. Also, it is wise to be checked periodically while taking blood pressure medicine to measure its effectiveness. All in all I believe the cost of the office visit would be justified for you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How can a mother break a three-year-old girl of the embarrassing habit of always putting a pillow between her legs and making obscene gestures? - K. A.

You can start by having the doctor examine the child for worms or a vaginal infection, the most common cause of such actions. Dear Dr. Thosteson: What medicine is good for constant gas after a gall bladder operation? — J. F.

My answer

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have just read a column of your which I feel was pointed to me personally. It was about the home. I want a united home, but the more I try the worse it gets. I do want to be respected as a parent, yet I'm trying to be a partner to my children, too. - W. C.

DEAR W. C.: The family is man's oldest institution. It is also its greatest and its holiest.

I'm glad you are concerned about your role as a parent. Many ignore this responsibility in their quest for personal gain or pleasure. If you want guidelines for successful family living, just go back to the fifth, seventh and tenth Commandments (Exodus 20).

However, I don't know if you can be both a "partner" and a "parent" during a child's formative years. I realize the value of identifying with your children in play and problems, but the dignity and the control of the parental role must not be diminished.

Often what is needed to restore harmony and happiness in the home is for the parents to be God-fearing, Bible-reading, churchgoing, praying individuals. Since God is the one who established the family, He's the only one who can make it function at its

Mother No's Ring-in-Nose

DEAR ABBY: My mother won't let me get my nose pierced. It's really not dangerous—it's no more dangerous than piercing your ears. All my girlfriends are doing it and I think it looks neat. Some of the guys have even done it. Nose piercing has been done for hundreds, maybe thousands of years in Egypt and Africa. You wear a little

DEAR ABBY: Last year, the manager of our son's Little League baseball team screamed, yelled, jumped up and down on his cap and turned purple in the face every time one of the boys made a mistake. I've seen him get so worked up I was afraid he'd have a heart attack. He constantly belittled the boys, and I've seen him humiliate some to the point of tears. Most of the kids are afraid to get near him when he's angry.

I don't think 8- and 9-year-olds should be subjected to this kind of tension and abuse, do you?

I told my husband that I didn't want our son to play in Little League with that manager anymore. My husband says there is good and bad in all sports, and since we can't change the manager's disposition, we should accept it and

How do you (and others) feel about this INDIANA MOM

DEAR MOM: I think you should have a meeting with the parents of the other boys in Little League and discuss it. You may not be able to change the manager's disposition, but you can change managers.

DEAR ABBY: I am marrying a man who has three daughters (5, 7 and 9) by a previous marriage. My fiance wants his daughters to attend our wedding, and I don't think they should. The girls live with their mother, who will not be at my wedding, so my fiance will have to look after them during the ceremony. Perhaps I should mention that his daughters are ill-mannered and boisterous; they fight among themselves and don't obey their father, and I'm afraid they might disrupt the ceremony. This is my first wedding and I want it to go smoothly, Abby.

Also I don't know whether the girls' mother has poisoned their minds against me, but they don't seem to like me very much, which makes me uncomfortable. Please don't use my name, initials or town, just tell me how to handle this. Thanks.

GETTING MARRIED

DEAR GETTING: In order for a marriage to succeed, candor and communication are essential. Start now by telling your fiance exactly how you feel about his daughters attending your wedding. If you can't be completely honest with him now, prepare for some very difficult times ahead.

ment says that 2.8 million erosion or "blow" season ended May 31. That was only acres reported damaged in the 10-state Great Plains area in 1976-1977.

According to figures released Monday by the department's Soil Conservation Service, the wind damage to land the past season was the least since 1972-1973 when 1.9 million acres were reported.

The agency considers land damaged by wind if enough soil is removed or deposited on it to cause a further erosion hazard or impair its capacity to grow crops.

During dry spells over three years prior to the last seven-month season, Great Plains wind erosion damage climbed above five million acres annually for the first time in 20 years.

Also, the report said that farmers in some areas had not planted protective cover crops because of earlier drought. Strong winds during the winter also removed protective snow cover, and in some areas soil moisture was still too scant to support vegetative growth needed for protection.

Reviewing the 1977-1978 season, the report said that more than 1.4 million acres of the damage — 49 percent of the total — occurred in Texas. The least damage was in Kansas where 21,090 acres were reported.

The report was based on surveys in 388 counties of the 10 states which make up the Great Plains. Those counties are "those in which wind erosion is prevalent or is expected" during the season, dust in the Great Plains. itsaid.

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) Jewish militants say they will put thousands of marchers in the streets of Skokie to block a planned Nazi demonstration that has gotten clearance from the U.S. Supreme Court.

But a Nazi leader said the Supreme Court's action is a step toward cancellation of the demonstration because two of three demands the Nazis said would get them to call off the June 25 rally have been met.

With Monday's Supreme Court ruling and the Illinois Legislature's refusal to limit or ban the demonstration, the only unmet condition is removing a $60,000 bond requirement for a rally on-9 in Chicago's Marquette Park, said Richard Tedor, spokesman for the National Socialist Party of America. A federal court hearing challenging the regulation is scheduled for June 20.

Tedor said the demonstration in Skokie, home to several thousand Jewish survivors of Hitler's World War II death camps, was designed to call attention "to the fact that Nazis are being denied their free speech rights in Chicago.

The one she tied, four consecutive victories by a woman pro, may be the most important to her. "Now that I've won four in a row, I'd really like to break that record," she said. JoAnne Carner calls Lopez the greatest putter ever to come on the LPGA tour. The 21-year-old from

"I owe it to my putter," she said after playing her last 41 holes in one stretch without a bogey in this

With all those gold-plated arms on the New York Yankee pitching staff, a player who is earning less than any of them has emerged as the diamond of the bunch.

Ron Guidry doesn't command the lofty salary of, say, a Catfish Hunter, Don Gullett or Sparky Lyle. But he currently sports the richest record in the major leagues.

"He's the best we've seen in the American League,' Oakland Manager Jack McKeon said Monday night after the unbeaten Guidry won his 10th straight game with a 2-0 triumph over the "He was over-

Bearzot, manager of the Italian team, thinks it could be "The Dutch are the No. 1 team in our group in the second round," Bearzot said. "The Dutch can play any game. They know how to attack, and they know how to slow down the game to keep it under control. If they need a tie, they stack up their players in midfield and sit there for 90 minutes. Italy, Holland, West Germany and Austria are in Group

A, playing for a place in the finals, scheduled for Buenos Aires' River Plate Stadium June 25. The other finalist will be the winner of Group B, comprising Argentina, Brazil, Peru and Poland. The professional know-how of the Dutch team, praised by Bearzot, took it to second place in the World Cup of 1974, even without Johann Cruyff, the superstar of that tournament who has now retired. Holland showed many of its 1974 qualities in the first round here.

Many critics believe Holland's best soccer in Argentina is still to come. The Dutch played all their first-round games at Mendoza, on a soft field pitted with holes. In the second round, they will play twice at Cordoba and once at River Plate - both firm fields which should suit their speedy style. "On that field at Mendoza, you need to play with a square ball," Dutch Coach Ernest Happel quipped.

The eight teams still in contention have two days of rest in which to treat injured players before starting the second round Wednesday.

Italy is one of the worst hit teams. Mauro Bellugi, a defender, has a leg injury and is very unlikely to play against West Germany at River Plate. Five other stars defender Gaetano Scirea, midfielder Romeo Benetti and forwards Roberto Bettega, Paolo Rossi and Franco Causio — are nursing injuries. Leopoldo Luque, star Argentine striker, has his arm in a cast and may not be able to play again for the rest of the championships. He will certainly miss the game against Poland at Rosario Wednesday.

Brazil's veteran midfield star Rivelino is another doubtful starter. He missed the last game Saturday when Brazil overcame Austria 1-0 for its frist win of the tour-

The victory was a costly one for the Rangers. Centerfielder Juan Beniquez suffered a broken left hand when struck by a pitch from starter Doug Bird. The hand was placed in a cast and Rangers spokesmen said he would be sidelined indefinitely.

Known primarily as an outstanding defensive specialist, Beniquez has been enjoying one of his most productive seasons at the plate, batting .265.

Who'll get Carew?

A year ago, it was Tom Seaver.

Now it is Rod Carew. The more things change, the more they stay the same.

The June 15 trading deadline is closing in and the word from Minnesota is that it is entirely possible that Rodney Cline Carew, the very best hitter in baseball, could be wearing a different uniform by Friday.

In another time, that would not be possible. But times and baseball have changed and so, when a star collides with management, as Seaver did last year and Carew has now, he is invited to work elsewhere. In Carew's case, there are WAITING GAME -Minnesota Twins Rod Carew passes time holding a bat as he waits for the rain to stop prior to the Toronto Blue Jays-Minnesota Twins American League game in Toronto Monday night. Earlier, Twins President Calvin Griffith announced there is a "good chance" Carew will be traded before Thursleague trading deadline.

The next question is what constitutes a bonafide offer? How much could the Twins get for a Carew? How much should they get? What would be a fair exchange?

"Every team likes to offer a row boat for a battleship. noted one general manager.

A battleship of Carew's dimensions should bring at least a package of row boats similiar to the mini-team of seven players that Charley Finley got from San Francisco this spring in exchange for Vida Blue. It should be noted that the small Giants expedition force also carried $400,000 of San Francisco money with them across the bay to Oakland.

That brought the transaction in under the Bowie Kuhn guidelines which limit cash transactions between teams to that amount. Apparently, you can send as many players as you want on their way, but don't try to substitute dollars for bodies. The commissioner just won't sit still for it.

Cub Holtzman happy

The vacation may be over for Ken Holtzman, but the newest member of the Chicago Cubs isn't complaining. Holtzman, a forgotten man during the past two seasons with the New York Yankees, returned to action Monday night, pitching three innings and chalking up his first save of the year in the Cubs' 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati

"I feel young again," the lefthander said after com-bining with Rick Reuschel on a fourhitter.

"I got into it for the first time in a long time. It felt good to have the game on the line," said Holtzman, who had not pitched in four weeks and appeared in only five games with the Yankees before being traded to the Cubs over the Holtzman relieved Reuschel in the seventh after the big right-hander's arm stiffened up. He allowed two runs, including a solo home run to George Foster, as he made his first appearance in a Cubs uniform since 1971. "I didn't think Herman (Chicago Manager Herman Franks) would use me this early," Holtzman said. "But I guess his philosophy is for a player to get his feet wet right away... and I couldn't be happier."

Diego clipped New York 3-2, San Francisco shaved Montreal 1-0 and Atlanta scalped St Louis 2-1. Giants 1, Expos 0
Right-hander Ed Halicki pitched a one-hitter and teammate Jack Clark rapped a runscoring double in the sixth inning to give San Francisco its victory over Montreal and hard-luck pitcher Steve Rogers.

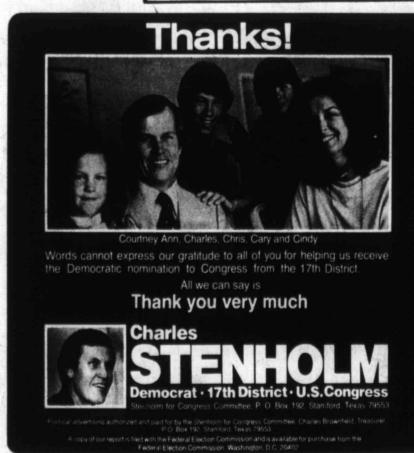

The only Montreal hit off Halicki was Ellis Valentine's single leading off the second inning. Braves 2, Cardinals 1

Jeff Burroughs' sixth-inning home run broke a 1-1 tie and Mickey Mahler fired his first career complete game, a sevenhitter, as Atlanta edged St. Louis. Burroughs' homer was his seventh of the season, while Mahler fanned nine and didn't walk a batter. Dodgers 6, Phillies 5 Dusty Baker crashed a grand slam home run and Rick Monday added a solo shot, leading Los Angeles over Philadelphia and offsetting a pair of homers by the Phillies' Greg Luzinski.

With the Dodgers trailing 2-1 in the sixth inning, Baker connected off Phillies starter Jim Lonborg to give Burt Hooton his fifth win in 10 decisions. Mike Schmidt also homered for the Phillies. Padres 3, Mets 2 Fernando Gonzalez's single to center field scored Dave Winfield from second base as San Diego rallied for two runs in the bottom of the ninth inning to defeat New York.

Bonds earns money already

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - It didn't take Texas Rangers rightfielder Bobby Bonds long to start earning his new $2 million contract.

Bond's and his lawyer, Rod Wright, agreed to terms of the contract late Sunday and Bonds then aided the Rangers' cause by slamming a home run in the 6-5 victory over Kansas City Monday night.

"This club will win the pennant with me or without me," Bonds predicted before it was announced that Wright and Rangers owner Brad Corbett had reached agreement on the contract.

The Rangers obtained Bonds in a trade with the Chicago White Sox, who received outfielder Claudell Washington from the Rangers.

Paultz came to the Spurs in 1975 from the New York Nets of the old American Basketball Association. He has never averaged less than 15 points per game in his three seasons in San Antonio.

Paultz flew in from his offseason home in South Laguna, Calif., inked the contract at the San Antonio International Airport, got back on an airplane and returned to the West Coast.

One-eyed hockey jock loses

BUFFALO, N.Y. - A U.S. District Court judge has ruled against a one-eyed hockey player in his bid to force the Buffalo Sabres to let him try out for the National Hockey League team.

Gregory Neeld, a 23-year-old defenseman drafted by the Sabres in 1975, contended that an NHL bylaw barring from competition persons with only one eye violates a state law prohibiting discrimination against Judge John Elfvin dismissed the suit on grounds that Neeld, who has use of his right eye, is not legally blind.

Dallas-Braves flirt

DALLAS (AP)-John Y. Brown doesn't understand Dallas Mayor Bob Folsom sometimes.

"He wants an affair on the first date," said Brown Monday about the possibility of moving the Buffalo Brave National Basketball Association franchise to Dallas. "You have a persistent, aggressive mayor." And sometimes Folsom doesn't think he understands John Y. Brown. "You can't pin him down...he worries about so many small things...like where are the players going to park? Does the press have to pay to park. Asked why his decision whether to move to Dallas or six other cities had taken so long, Brown said Monday:

to the committee," said Brown after another long session with a smiling Folsom. Once the committee gets a recommendation then it will pass on the facts to the NBA Board of Governors. "It could be 10 days to possibly two weeks before the Board of Governors' act," said Brown. Folsom said "I'm encouraged. Maybe it is a false feeling but I think we accomplished a lot. We made some slight changes on our lease." Brown said he still didn't get the parking and concession arrangements he wanted but concluded "It's something we can live with.' Club President Norm Sonju said Monday "I still stand on my recommendation. Nothing has made me change my mind about another city. Dallas just has too much going
