$1.5 million funding for low income area likely

By MARJ CARPENTER

The city of Big Spring received approval Wednesday for pre-application for $1.5 million for possible projects in the low income area of the city over the next two or three years.

Since it was the fourth straight year for this type of application from the city, it received routine approval from the Permian Basin Regional Planning Council board when it met at Terminal Wednesday.

Big Spring joins Seagraves, Lamesa and Stanton in seeking the discretionary funds from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

If HUD approves the pre-application, Big Spring must then return with a full application for the funds. Listed in the application as possible projects, all of which are pegged for the North Side and would have to be in a low income area of the city, are park improvement and development, $20,000; street improvements, $195,000; day care center renovation, $20,000; code enforcement, $80,000 and rehabilitation grants and loans, $250,000.

Other fundings pegged include $185,000 for acquisition of property and $255,000 for relocation of poor housing in the area, $90,000 for demolition of structures, $75,000 for administration of the rent subsidy program, $140,000 in contingency funding and ten percent of the total project, as required by federal regulation for two-year administration of the project at $150,000.

The park improvements and day care center renovations for the Northside Day Care Center would be first year projects, with the remaining taking place over the next two years.

The city has received these funds for three years. On two occasions, they have been controversial. In the first year of making a decision on the funds, the council had one council member opposing the funds because of the rent subsidy program which would probably accompany the funding.

On that occasion, Wade Choate, Polly Mays, and Harold Hall took the lead in requesting the funds for the north side of the city. During the first year, funds were used for street and sewer improvements.

The second year's funds were used for sewer extension, rehabilitation, and other projects on the north side. The third year funding stirred up a group of very vocal environmentalists, since the funds at that time were pegged to use in draining One Mile lake. That project was changed to dredging the water flow-off channels of stagnant water to prevent mosquitoes, poor sanitation and possible flooding.

This year's project request was approved by all present members of the council. Lamesa is also requesting $1.5 million for a three-year period, including housing rehabilitation, demolition and clearance, street and water improvements, Head Start programs, engineering and architecture and administration.

Stanton's request is asking for street improvements, park improvements, the administration of the grants, housing demolition and rehabilitation and water improvement.

In the audience at Terminal were three local citizens, none of whom spoke or asked questions during the meeting. One was apparently interested in any environmental projects which might come up and left after the Big Spring grant. The other two arrived near the end of the meeting and missed the hearing on the local grant. Judge Bill Tull attended the board meeting as a member as did Judge Leslie Pratt of Lamesa and Judge Jimmy Mathis of Stanton, representing those grant requests. Paul Feazelle, in charge of Big Spring grants, also attended the meeting in the audience.

A number of other grants received board approval with some opposition expressed on the grant application from the City of Odessa on a Section 8 Housing Project, which received favorable comment only on a split vote of 10-6.

Other grants approved included the Head Start program for Ector County, approval of pre-applications from the city of Fort Stockton, city of Goldsmith, city of Toyah and Midland County for Community Development block grant funds. Midland did not have their funds approved last year after they failed to take part in rent subsidy programs, but the county is applying for paving dirt streets.

The board also approved a request for Midland Regional Air Terminal for construction of a new taxiway. Judge Bill Pigmon from Pecos said they had been told that the FAA was temporarily out of funds and "I will find it difficult to understand if they find funds for Midland."

The board also approved an application from West Texas Opportunities, Inc. of Lamesa for a summer youth recreation program. The board approved the regional drug abuse plan and contract with the Texas Department of Community Affairs.

One killed, nine wounded

Student protest ends in gunfire

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — At least one student was killed and nine others were wounded in a three-hour campus gun battle over the new Panama Canal treaties and President Carter's visit this weekend as the Torrijos government prepared a gala welcome for the U.S. leader.

The shooting erupted Wednesday night at the University of Panama, half a block from the hotel where Carter is to stay. Soldiers of the national guard, Panama's army, surrounded the hotel after the firing began because Carter's advance men were staying there.

A source at the Social Security Hospital said one student, Demosthenes Rodriguez, was killed, and nine others were being treated for gunshot wounds. The source said one of the wounded was not expected to live.

Government sources put the casualty toll at two killed and 10 wounded, but the two additional casualties could not be confirmed.

An explosion during the battle blew the roof off a one-story student center, another university building was burned, and others were sacked, their contents strewn outside. Campus streets were blocked by damaged cars and debris, and three cars were set afire.

Witnesses said pro-government students attacked an anti-Carter meeting by students opposed to the canal treaties. Fist fights broke out, shots were fired and hundreds of students ran for the campus gates.

The anti-government forces retreated to the law school building, and the pro-government students pressed their attack. Both sides made sallies, firing, but were driven back by gunfire. Students crouched behind shrubs and other cover, raising up occasionally to fire. Shadowy figures darted about. Muzzle flashes could be seen at half a dozen points.

Outside the campus, crowds gathered at the gates in the 10-foot-tall chain-link fence.

The national guard did not enter the campus, in accordance with a Latin American tradition that educational premises are off-limits to the military. But about 30 minutes after the last shot was fired, unarmed university security officers moved in and began a building-to-building search.

Students opposing the treaties object to the delay in transferring the canal to Panama until the year 2000 and to the stipulation by the U.S. Congress that afterward the United States can intervene militarily to keep the waterway open.

Several hundred students marched through downtown Panama City earlier Wednesday, painting "Carter Go Home" on walls and vehicles. They occupied a church across from the El Panama Hotel where the president is to stay and plastered the outside of it with "Carter Go Home" banners. They were still there today, broadcasting harangues against the treaties and Carter over portable loudspeakers.

Carter spends Friday night at the hotel after addressing a public rally in the city's Fifth of May Plaza. Gen. Omar Torrijos, Panama's ruler since 1968, invited the entire nation of 1.8 million to attend the rally, and television and radio announcements are telling citizens it is their "patriotic duty" to attend.

Board members opened bids on Midland Emergency Medical Service equipment and turned them over to a Midland committee for study and to award the bids. City councilmen from Odessa publicly thanked Midland for allowing them temporary usage of an EMS unit.

The total budget of $5,032,842 for the planning council was approved. Over $3 million of this is in the manpower program which is now to be handled through the Department of Labor rather than the Texas Department of Community Affairs. In the previous program, the governor could take 20 percent off the top before it was assigned to regions and most of that 20 percent went to the Governor's Office of Migrant Affairs.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Won't sink

Q: Will residential property values be affected in the Webb AFB area when the minimum security prison is located there? We're afraid the value of our house will go down.

A: According to Howard County Tax Appraiser Earl Dean, that is not a problem. "I see no reason for property values in that area to sink," he said, "in fact, the presence of the industry might help keep values solid."

Calendar: Railway meeting

TODAY

Awards winner, Caprock Chapter of the March of Dimes, 7:30 p.m., Western Sizzler.

Meeting of the Retired and Veteran Railway Employees at the Kentwood Older Adult Center at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

FRIDAY

The social security school planned for today at the Kentwood Center under the direction of Mr. Richnow has been canceled. Richnow's federal grant was cancelled recently.

T. W. Bolch, Grand Master of Oddfellow Lodge of the State of Texas, will make his official visit to Mullins Lodge no. 372 Friday at 7:30 p.m. All Oddfellows and Rebekahs are invited.

Offbeat: Husband beating?

A local man appeared at the Big Spring Police Department, 9:10 p.m. Wednesday, after being beaten up by his wife.

According to reports, the victim and his wife, with whom he is separated, had a quarrel that led to a no-holds-barred fight at the Webb Little League Park. Reports stated that "the victim showed scratches, and blood about his nose and mouth," and that "he advised that he would be enroute to a Justice of the Peace."

Tops on TV: Guitar wizard

"The Lords Of Flatbush" (vintage Stallone and Winkler) airs for about the fifth time at 8:30 p.m. on ABC. The historical snorer, "Nicholas and Alexandra," about the Bolshevik Revolution in Russia, repeats at 9 p.m. on Channel 11. But the pearl in this evening's big oyster is PBS' Soundstage which features The Charlie Daniels Band and guitar wizard Leo Kottke. The show opens at 9 p.m.

White House releases report of Cuban involvement in invasion of Zaire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House, facing Fidel Castro's repeated denials that he abetted the Katangan invasion of Zaire, is outlining secret intelligence reports to back up its charge that Cuban troops accompanied the rebels almost to the moment of the attack.

The release of the summary of the highly classified reports came as President Carter reiterated his charge at a news conference Wednesday that the Cubans were deeply involved in the rebel invasion of copper-rich Shaba province last month.

Carter cited a list of steps Castro could have taken to block the invasion and contended that the Cuban leader's failure to stop the attack was, in effect, proof of Cuba's complicity.

The administration's summary, outlined to some of the news media on Wednesday, was described as similar to the intelligence material furnished to several congressional committees. It claims that Cuba had been assisting Angola-based Katangans as early as 1975 and at least until last month's invasion of Zaire.

Some members of Congress have described the administration's evidence as inconclusive although others have said they are convinced that the president is correct about Cuban involvement.

A senior White House official, who asked not to be named, said the president was not disturbed by lingering doubts over his claim that Cuba was involved in the attack. "The president sees it as a legacy of what has gone on before," the official said, referring to what he called widespread public distrust of other recent administrations.

"It (the doubt) comes from a time when more credibility was given to other governments than our own no matter how spotty that country's record (for honesty)," he added.

The official said the administration's summary was based on "reliable intelligence sources," but — to protect the sources — they were not identified even in general terms.

The summary contends that Cubans helped reorganize Katangan troops in Angola as early as 1975 and provided equipment and planning for an abortive invasion of Zaire in March 1977.

After that invasion failed, the summary says, Cubans trained Katangan troops at five bases in northeastern Angola and accompanied them to the launching point for last month's attacks.

However, the summary does not contend — and neither has the administration — that Cubans actually took part in the incursion into Shaba, formerly known as Katanga. The invasion was driven back by French, Belgian and Zairian troops.

The summary also says Cuban and Soviet advisers asked Angola's Marxist government in 1976 to permit raids into Zaire. Cuba has an estimated 20,000 soldiers in Angola and, the administration contends, has considerable influence on the Angolan government.

The summary adds that early this year Katangan leader Nathaniel M'Bumba was claiming Angola's support for his effort to overthrow the government of Zaire.

Castro has said that Cuban forces had helped the Katangans but stopped two years ago. He insists that Cuba has rejected more recent requests from the rebels for support.

Castro also reportedly told a U.S. diplomat in Havana several days after the invasion that he tried unsuccessfully to head off the attack by contacting Angolan leader Agostino Neto.

At his news conference, Carter disputed that claim, contending that since Cuba effectively controls Angola's transportation system, Castro could have stopped the attack had he wanted.

"The fact is that Castro could have done much more had he genuinely wanted to stop the invasion," Carter said.

En garde! you Saxon dog

It was a burglary, sword of Two World War I swords, three and one-half feet long were removed from a storage room next to the residence of John David King, Sterling City Rt. The theft was discovered Wednesday, and is believed by deputies to be possibly a prank because the thieves left more valuable items nearby. The value of the swords is estimated at $100. But the real question is, where will they fence them?

"He could have interceded with the Katangans themselves... He could have notified the Organization of African Unity. He could have notified the world at large that an invasion designed to cross and to disturb an international border was in prospect. And he did not do any of these things..."

"So there is no doubt in my mind that just on the basis of these facts alone my statement is true."

Carter also suggested that Castro and the Angolan government pledge to halt future assaults on Zaire from Angola.

Meanwhile, Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., who interviewed Castro in Cuba three days ago, claims the Cuban leader said he would "reluctantly" use his forces to prevent another Katangan invasion of Zaire.

Solarz and Rep. Anthony Beilenson, D-Calif., who participated in the Castro interview, said Carter's call for Castro to restrain the Katangans was a proper suggestion.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., a vocal skeptic of Carter's claims about Cuban involvement in the Zaire invasion, called the Castro offer "fair enough."

On other topics covered by Carter during his news conference, the president said:

—He would veto a public works appropriations bill if Congress refuses to eliminate money for 28 water projects he wants killed.

—Congress must restrain federal spending in the administration's fight against inflation, saying a failure by lawmakers "will set the worst possible example for our workers and businessmen."

—His administration is watching carefully for ripple effects expected in the capital from Proposition 13, the tax-slashing referendum adopted by California voters last week.

—He owes the government about $160 in back taxes while it has just reported owing him a $5,000 to $6,000 refund.

Texas Supreme Court claims they aren't part of government

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Members of the Texas Supreme Court let it be known Thursday that they do not consider the court a state agency, except for budget purposes.

"The Texas Supreme Court is one of the three independent branches of the government of this state," said Associate Justice Sam Johnson at a budget hearing before the Texas Legislative Budget Board and the governor's budget office. "That independence must be preserved. The judiciary must remain independent and you must not intrude upon it other than to provide things we need to do our work."

Chief Justice Joe Greenhill said the court is now passing on 20 to 25 cases a week plus other writs and requests.

Suspicious ID officer traps El Paso fugitive

A routine record's check at the Big Spring Police Department turned up a fugitive from the FBI, Wednesday.

Domingo Rosas, 46, was picked up on a misdemeanor charge Tuesday night, and spent the night in jail. According to Sgt. Juan Palacios, identification officer, Rosas told police his name was Domingo Domingo at the time of his arrest, and continued to use that name while he was being booked.

"I just got a little suspicious," said Palacios. "I checked through our files and saw the name Domingo Rosas with a red tag. The tag indicates that we should keep an eye out for this guy," he added.

Fingerprints were taken. The Big Spring prisoner's matched those in the Rosas file. A call to El Paso confirmed that the prisoner had been convicted of illegal possession of explosives and was on the run from the FBI.

According to Palacios, he had been "holed up" at a local hotel for the last three months. Authorities are expected to pick up the prisoner shortly.

Hurt installed as chairman of district Scouts council

Robert L. (Bob) Hurt has been installed as chairman of the Lone Star district of Buffalo Trails Council Boy Scouts of America.

He succeeds Clemont Jones, who is moving to Austin to enter computer data work with the Veterans Administration. Jones has held the post for the past year and a half.

Hurt, who is manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, is a product of Scouting, having entered as a cub, and continued through Scouting and Exploring at Odessa where he grew up.

Plans for an intensive boy recruitment effort were discussed Tuesday at the monthly meeting of the district committee, and Sept. 19 was set tentatively as the date for the fall Roundup in various school areas for Cub Scouts. Boys 8-9-10 desiring to have the fun and adventure of Cubbing will be invited to attend with their parents meetings in their elementary school areas. Then, they, together with boys interested in becoming Scouts (11-14, primarily) will be invited to a big celebration the evening of Sept. 21 where they will have an opportunity to join a troop.

Hayes Stripling Jr., chairman, reported on the Sustaining Membership Enrollment, saying that this supplemental financial support was about half way to its goal. Currently, the Lone Star district is contributing substantially less than its fair share of the Buffalo Trail Council cost of providing Cubbing, Scouting and Exploring.

Dearl Pittman, commissioner, is in the process of enlisting a staff of neighborhood commissioners, individuals who will be the contact between the district committee and the packs, troops and posts. He is aiming at having the roster shaped up by mid-July.

Larry Speck, who is handling the Scouting Roundtable, is visiting the various units, and Jeannine Lewis is working with the Cubbing Roundtable. She also reported on a Cub day camp that generated much enthusiasm with Nancy Doolin as the director.

Oren Lewis reminded that the Lone Star District will be host Oct. 28 to the Indian Seminar when perhaps 200 leaders and boys from this area will have sessions in Indian lore, dancing, drumming, etc.

Reports from the camping committee reflects six Scout units participating in the Scout Ranch camp in the Davis Mountains.

GRIEF STRICKEN — The mother and brother of Jorge Camacho sob outside a hospital in Panama City, Panama, early today after they learned that he was one of the students critically wounded in a gun battle Wednesday night between rival groups of students on the campus of the University of Panama, some pro-government and others opposing the canal treaty and the Carter visit.

Relief for night blindness

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Sufferers of night blindness, which often afflicts people with chronic inflammation of the pancreas, may get some relief as the result of research under way at the University of Florida.

Dr. Philip Toskes of the university's College of Medicine says preliminary results of a study of 10 patients indicates large doses of Vitamin A or zinc will improve vision in such cases. The impaired vision was attributed to problems with the gland that secretes digestive juices, he said.

State travel to end

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Gov. Ella Grasso says Connecticut will end most of its official state travel to the 15 states which have not ratified the proposed Equal Rights Amendment.

Trips to those states will be authorized only if the travel is "absolutely essential," the governor said Wednesday. "It is only through economic boycott that we will be able to show to people of other states what our feelings are."

Attorneys try to bar judge

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Attorneys for Dr. William Waddill Jr. are trying to bar Superior Court Judge Robert Rickles from presiding over their client's second trial on charges of killing a baby who survived an abortion.

Attorney Charles Weedman filed an affidavit Tuesday in Superior Court, but he gave no reason for not wanting Rickles as the judge. Waddill, 42, is charged with strangling the girl on March 2, 1977, after she survived an unsuccessful saline abortion. His first trial ended in a mistrial May 5 when jurors announced they were "hopelessly deadlocked" at 7-5 for acquittal.

Army Corps makes errors

CINCINNATI (AP) — An official in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers says the Corps made some "errors in judgment" that led to a huge tieup of barges on the Ohio River this winter.

Patrick H. Carigan, chief of construction in the Corps' Ohio River Division, added on Wednesday that "we were up against some unusual set of events and circumstances." Huge ice floes jammed barges behind the Markland Dam for two weeks following a late January blizzard.

Woman can be reinstated

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A federal court judge has ruled that a Mesa, Ariz., woman who was discharged from the Coast Guard for becoming pregnant out of wedlock is entitled to reinstatement.

U.S. District Judge Carl Muecke said Wednesday the discharge violated the constitutional right of Melissa Annette Thierbach, 30, who was discharged in February 1975, to equal protection under the law. She filed a suit against Adm. Owen Siler, commandant of the Coast Guard in February 1976.

Economics, politics controlled by tools

What it comes down to in economics and politics is who owns the tools.

This was the message of Rich DeVoss in a film projected to the Downtown Lions at the Wednesday meeting in the Cactus Room at Howard College.

MMW (man's material wealth) equals NR (Natural Resources) plus HE (human energy times X (tools), he said. Thus, the productivity of a nation is tied to the availability and use of tools — and this is what sets the free nations apart.

It is an illusion that the government can manage and use tools of production better than private citizens who are stimulated by the incentive of personal return or reward. History shows that when government owns the tools, they don't last long and don't produce as much.

DeVoss, president of Amway Corp., noted that history also shows that free economic systems are accompanied by free political systems, but never the other way around. When government takes over as problem

Police beat Burglars hit restaurant

Burglars broke into Carlos Restaurant, 511 N.W. 4th, sometime between 11:15 p.m. Wednesday and 7:50 a.m. today.

After breaking in through the back door of the eatery, the intruders stole 22 cases of beer, two cases of wine, five cartons of cigarettes, assorted candy, $30 cash from the cigarette machine, $30 cash from the juke box and a 20-gallon trash barrel. Including damages, loss was estimated at $480.

Thieves lifted a fireplace hearth from a new home being built at 2600 Coronado for Harold Smith, Coronado Apartments. The item was valued at $350.

A routine inventory at the Don Crawford Pontiac-Datsun Dealership, 502 E. FM 700, revealed the theft of a $3,667 Datsun B-210 from the lot. Owners estimate that the auto was driven off sometime between June 7 and Wednesday afternoon.

Vandals shot BBs through a window at the home of Fred Munoz, 1610 E. 6th, sometime Tuesday night. Damage was estimated at $48.

Three large, drinking water bottles and two cases of beer were stolen from L.J. Jeter's carport, 114 E. 16th, around 1 p.m. Wednesday. Loss was estimated at $36.

Four fender benders were reported Wednesday. Vehicles driven by Yolanda S. Starr, Garden

City, and Evelyn G. Pochall, Gail Route, collided at Fifth and Gregg, 9:57 a.m.

West Texas Press Association schedules Kerrville convention

KERRVILLE — The West Texas Press Association will hold its summer convention Aug. 18-19 at the Inn of the Hills here.

An awards breakfast is scheduled the morning of Aug. 19.

Terry Neill of Stanton, who is in charge of planning for the convention, promises a strong program. He adds families of members will be welcome.

Two dinners are planned, one of them on a dude ranch. Registration fees for members will be $30 if they register in advance. Those waiting until they arrive in Kerrville must pay $35. Pre-registration for non-members will be $35. An extra $5 will be charged for those registered at the convention.

Daughter of ejected bus passenger killed near Coahoma wins suit

The daughter of a 71-year-old man who was struck and killed on a highway after being ejected from a Continental Trailways bus Wednesday won her suit for damages.

The Texas Supreme Court upheld a Dallas Court of Civil Appeals decision rendering a $4,660 judgment for Lucille Lee, daughter of the late Andrew Lee of Fairfield.

Lee was fatally injured by a vehicle on an Interstate highway outside of Coahoma after the bus driver ejected him from the bus at 1:30 a.m. on July 5, 1975.

The bus driver said Lee had created a disturbance, molested passengers and urinated in the front of the bus and on the driver.

The appeals court said there was evidence to support a finding that the driver was negligent in putting Lee off the bus on a dark highway

War of nerves grows stronger over arrests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S.-Soviet war of nerves over arrests of each other's citizens is escalating after a dramatic confrontation between an angry Andrei A. Gromyko and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, a U.S. official reports.

The Soviet foreign minister reportedly threatened to retaliate for the highly publicized arrest outside New York City of two Russian nationals on spy charges and told Vance, "Two can play at this game."

Gromyko's warning late last month, disclosed by the official Wednesday night, apparently was carried out in two separate incidents Monday.

First, the government newspaper Izvestia claimed that Martha D. Peterson, at the time third secretary in the U.S. Embassy, was expelled last July after she allegedly supplied a spy with poison that was used to kill an "innocent" Russian.

Then Monday night, U.S. businessman Francis J. Crawford was yanked from his car in Moscow and driven away by police who charged him with smuggling.

"It's clear the Soviets telegraphed their punch," said the official, who asked not to be named, in referring to the Gromyko warning. The arrests in New Jersey and Moscow ended for now a practice by both countries of quietly sending home suspected spies with a minimum of publicity.

American businessmen in Moscow were stunned by the arrest of Crawford, the Moscow representative of International Harvester, and wondered who among them might be next.

While Crawford remained in Lefortovo prison, more than 40 Americans discussed the situation Wednesday with high-ranking members of the U.S. Embassy.

"Clearly these people are uneasy with good reason," the official in Washington said. The Russian nationals referred to by Gromyko worked at the United Nations Secretariat, and were arrested in Woodbridge, N.J., on May 20 on espionage charges.

The two, Valdik Aleksandrovich Enger and Rudolf Petrovich Chernyayev, pleaded innocent and were ordered held in lieu of $2 million bail. The size of the bail reportedly had Gromyko especially upset during his discussions with Vance in New York, where the two men were primarily discussing prospects for a strategic arms treaty.

Western observers in Moscow expect the Russians will offer to release Crawford, 38, of Mobile, Ala., in exchange for the two Soviet nationals. The war of nerves also included the announcement by U.S. officials late last month that sophisticated Soviet espionage equipment was found inside the U.S. Embassy in Moscow.

Shades of Nixon administration?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shades of Richard Nixon. Executive privilege is with us once again.

Listen to what Jimmy Carter said at his news conference Wednesday: "This is something that has been honored for generations in our government and I think that if there was a possibility that those kind of confidential memoranda would later be made public when they have to be very frank and open and free expressions of contradictory views, there would be a tight reluctance on the part of my subordinates to give me free advice because they would have to assess every document presented to me or every expression of opinion to see whether or not it could stand up to scrutiny later on of public analysis maybe two years later."

"So I think the confidential privilege of having my own subordinates give me free advice without their memorandum being revealed to the public is something that I would have to preserve."

Now listen to Richard Nixon: "In order to make the decisions that a president must make, he must have free, uninhibited conversations with his advisers and with others if the time comes when those who come to advise the president assume that anything they say, even though it is very unpopular at the moment, is going to be turned over later and made public, all he is going to find is a bunch 'Yes' men around him or ones that are going to play it so safe that he isn't going to get the variety of views he needs to make the right kind of decision."

Nixon made his statement in Houston on March 19, 1974, five months before his resignation. The House Judiciary Committee had not yet begun its Watergate hearings but had already requested several hundred documents and tapes from the White House.

Teaching staff vacancies filled at Garden City

GARDEN CITY — School Supt. Don Springer has filled five vacancies on his teaching staff. If there are no summer departures, and indications are there won't be, Springer has his full complement of teachers for the 1978-79 school year.

In addition to athletic coach Tim Taylor, who will handle boys' basketball, Springer has added Mr. and Mrs. Allen Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Lee and Larry Lee to the faculty.

Allen Roberts will teach high school English, Steve Lee high school History. Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Lee will both teach in elementary school.

Larry Lee, who is no relation to Steve Lee, will teach science in high school.

Del Rio city manager suspended for 45 days, refuses to talk

DEL RIO — James A. Hester, Del Rio city manager, has been suspended from office for 45 days but is refusing to talk about it.

Del Rio Mayor Dr. Alfredo Gutierrez said Hester had refused to resign. Hester has been serving at his present position for eight years.

Hester has five days in which to request a public hearing which, by law, must be held from 15 to 30 days after the request is made. Hester will continue to be paid in full.

Numerous charges were lodged against Hester, one of which was for issuing a conflicting public statement concerning the amount of money stolen at City Hall while the matter was under investigation by the Police Department.

Fair skies, warm temperatures remain

By the Associated Press
 Fair skies and warm temperatures were expected today across the entire state of Texas with highs expected to reach the 90s over most of the state.

In Southwest Texas along the Rio Grande, the mercury was expected to reach or perhaps go over the 100-degree mark.

After days and days of thunderstorm activity across much of the state, forecasts made no mention of thundershowers and thundersstorms.

There were some thunderstorms reported early Wednesday night in North Central and Southwest Texas, but they died out during the early evening hours.

Stung by safety criticisms Chrysler defends cars

CHELSEA, Mich. (AP) — Chrysler Corp., stung by safety criticisms of the best selling new cars it has ever built, says attacks on its Omni and Horizon sub-compacts are based on "unreal, abnormal" tests.

"It's kind of a maneuver or a stunt," Chrysler engineering vice president Sidney Jeffe said Wednesday of the steering test that prompted Consumers Union to label the twin Dodge and Plymouth models as "not acceptable."

The nation's No. 3 automaker defended the Omni and the Horizon, which except for body trim and minor differences in body styles are virtually identical, as "the car of the future" and said they are perfectly safe.

Silbergeld, head of Consumers Union's Washington office.

In its attempt to refute the allegations, Chrysler repeated the test for more than 50 reporters and photographers Wednesday. Although the Dodge Omni appeared to remain in control, the demonstration was difficult to interpret because no other makes were tested for comparison.

Labor law backers short two votes to end filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers of labor law revisions are stalled just short of the 60 votes they need to break a long filibuster on the measure.

By a margin of 58-to-41 — shy by two votes — the Senate voted on Wednesday in favor of cutting off the Republican-led filibuster which is entering its 17th day.

With a fifth attempt scheduled for 1:30 p.m. EDT today, both sides responded to the latest vote predictably.

"This is their high-water mark," said filibuster leader Sen. Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah. He called on Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., the majority leader, to concede defeat and withdraw the bill.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall, who watched the vote from a seat in the Senate gallery, said there was "some reason to hope" supporters of the measure would come up with the 60 votes. But he also said further concessions might be necessary.

It was the fourth time opponents of the measure had won, and the vote, billed in advance as a showdown, was preceded by hard, last-minute lobbying of key senators.

New support for backers of the bill came from Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., who had missed Tuesday's unsuccessful vote against the filibuster, and three Republicans who had voted to support the talkathon previously. The three are Sens. John Heinz of Pennsylvania, Charles Percy of Illinois and Ted Stevens of Alaska.

In addition, sources said Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama was prepared to vote to cut off debate if a 60th vote could be found. But the best hopes the supporters had, Sens. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., and Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., again sided with opponents of the measure.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., appeared to be a focus of renewed attempts to swing the vote against the filibuster, sources said.

Brain damage caused by alcohol might be partially reversible

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brain damage suffered by chronic alcoholics, long thought to be permanent, may be partially reversible with abstinence from liquor, researchers say.

The two subjects who continued to drink showed no changes between brain scans.

"But we have evidence that all chronic alcoholics who drink for 10 years or more have signs of cerebral atrophy," he said.

The new Canadian findings indicate some damaged brain cells may rejuvenate and regain some of their function when alcoholics stop drinking.

And the University of Toronto researchers say this could help explain why many severe alcoholics who quit drinking gradually recover some of their impaired memory, coordination, and abilities to reason abstractly and learn new tasks.

"This is the first time anyone has shown reversible cerebral atrophy (wasting) in adult human beings," Dr. Peter L. Carlen, one of the chief investigators, said in an interview Wednesday.

In a report in the journal Science, the researchers say they are not suggesting that entire brain cells, called neurons, regenerate and grow. It is generally believed that these nerve cells do not reproduce in adult mammals.

But they theorize that tiny threads called dendrites, which carry impulses into nerve cells, can recover and possibly grow if not damaged too badly by alcohol. Along with dendrite growth, there also may be increases in other nerve fibers, supporting tissue and small blood vessels, they add.

The researchers base their theory on a series of special brain X-rays taken of eight chronic alcoholics treated at the Addiction Research Foundation Clinical Institute of Ontario. The patients, all with more than 10-year histories of heavy drinking, received no special treatments. As part of the study, six patients stopped drinking while two continued.

The first X-ray scans, which electronically recreate cross-section brain slices, showed a loss of cerebral tissue and large cavities in the brains of four abstaining subjects.

Scans taken months later show smaller cavities and what appears to be more

Grenade kills 17, wounds 7

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP) — A hand grenade thrown from a speeding car into a military transport killed 17 military policemen and wounded seven Wednesday night, an army spokesman announced.

Telephone callers told a radio station that guerrillas of the Army of the Poor made the attack.

Col. Clementino Castillo, the military spokesman, said the attack occurred outside a water distribution plant as military guards assigned to guard it against contamination were being picked up. It was not known how many military policemen were aboard the bus.

Industry planning on holding its island

It may come to the point where no one is allowed to linger in public parks because of the violence that has been recorded within them, where theaters, museums and athletic fields are barred to the rank and file because of the incidence of vandalism and rowdiness occurring therein.

There are certain parts of the country where the hooligans and the vandals have already won, forcing society in general into retreat.

ONE OF THOSE places is in the South Bronx area of New York City. In that blighted sector, which television cameras have visited on occasions, fires have been a regular occurrence. Block upon block of rubble give it the look of a World War II city leveled by aerial bombardments.

The South Bronx is symbolic of what is worse about life as it is lived in some of the great cities these days. People fed up to the ears with robbery, muggings and mayhem, have packed up and moved away, leaving the crumbling ruins to the arsonists.

The fire bugs invariably move in, putting entire buildings to the torch. If firemen dare to show up for the holocaust that followed, they are often stoned and shot at from the darkness.

Crime is epidemic. The people who remain exist largely without hope. It comes as somewhat of a surprise then to learn that a new $13 million project is being planned for the South Bronx. Read on before you get your hopes up, however.

WHAT THE developers plan is a place like nothing that has ever been built before. It would include a 250-room motel, four restaurants, a department store, a bank, plus complete facilities for truck repair, servicing and the like. The potential for business is good, since it is to be located near the Bronx Terminal

Market, the city's major truck terminus. Encircling the entire complex will be a 15-foot-high barbed wire fence. Inside its perimeter, 40 armed guards and 60 guard dogs will be on patrol. The developer brags that it will have all the "accoutrements of an armed camp."

Even now it's easy to visualize some of the elaborate preparations being made by the lawless breed to bleed the industrial effort for all it is worth. If that's the shape of urban renewal in the future of our inner cities, count us out.

Bad news, gang

Around the rim

Danny Reagan

This is bad news, gang. Plum (Santa Rosa) forgot that we're back in the rim business again. And, well, wouldn't you know it...here I am without one. What can I say? I've gotta be fishing in 30 minutes.

So here's what we'll do. I'll take some of that stuff, you know, those thoughts that come to you in the middle of the night and you have to get up and write them down, only you can't find a pen or pencil, and you get up and look for one and step on the cat's head, and you finally find a bottle of shoe polish, you know, the kind with little square foam rubber applicator, so you write whatever it is on the kitchen floor and your wife gives you a tackle box to the paper boy the next day?

WELL ANYWAY, that's what you're gonna get. Hey! Don't tell me you want a rim about the City Council outlawing beer in the Werrell's front room, or about the newly-discovered evidence that the extinction of dinosaurs and "The Big Spring Holdup" have been undeniably linked.

Hey! Okay?! Okay. I mean...face it, if you had anything better to do you wouldn't be reading this. So here goes. A half dozen or so totally unrelated things that you wake up in the middle...oh, you know.

I tried learning bird calls once, but the only one I got down pat was the "I dare you to peck out my eyes" call of the blue-spotted, yellow-tailed Bluffwing.

If there was a man smart enough to read, comprehend and totally commit to memory every word man had ever written about anything, would he be able to glimpse one great truth from it all, and if he did, would he have the world on a string and a bank roll large enough to make a horse blow his lunch? This is my next weekend project.

Speaking of Burton, I hid a tape recorder under his desk one day last week, unbeknownst to him, and let the tape run for 30 minutes. Here are just a few of the puns excerpted from that tape:

"Priest — Do you take this woman for butter or for wurst?"

"Groom — "Oh, liver alone, I never sawge a nerve."
King Arthur — "How much'll you take for this armor, Lance?"
Sir Lancelot — "Fifteen cents an ounce, that's first class mail."
—Maybe Bill needed a footstool. People have been known to need footstools as late as 10:15 p.m.

—CLASSIFIED AD: Looking for a few good working men the caliber of those who open the shower door and watch the steam form on the bathroom mirror. No winos or fishermen need apply. Equal Opportunity Employer.

2. Do you mind having the bed made even though you're going to sleep in it the next night anyway?
3. Can you take a shower without getting the floor wet?
4. Do you get these irrational urges often?
5. Can you keep your head while all about you others are losing theirs?

—Every gumball I get out of a machine tastes like Pepto Bismol.
(Next week: James Werrell's review of the book: "18 Famous Brains — What They Weighed and How They Could Have Been Cooked." Chronicles the weights, adventures, disastrous results of leaving home without them, and the most tasty sauces that go with famous people's brains. "Did you know that the average brain weighs 44 oz.?" offers Werrell.

Lord Byron had the biggest brain (82.25 oz.) and historians theorize that it would have gone well with a butter and wine sauce. Marilyn Monroe's was 50.79 oz. (each) and might have been best with a spicy tartar sauce. Janis Joplin's brain weighed 51.15 ounces and was thought to have tasted best with Barbecue Sauce de bon Augure.)
Tune in.

Return of Hawk

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — During the first week of June, Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger hand-carried a top secret letter to President Carter's office that for the first time injected him squarely into the turmoil over arms control and national security within the administration.

Schlesinger's letter to the president aligned him with the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) against the proposed five-year "zero-yield" nuclear test ban treaty — a ban on all underground explosions, including the 150-kiloton tests now permitted. As head of the department assigned the duty of certifying the nation's arsenal, Schlesinger warned Mr. Carter that nuclear testing is essential to maintain warhead reliability. If asked or directed to testify before Congress, he would say just that.

This gave the uniformed military a badly needed cabinet-level civilian to help slow the rush to a total test ban. In a broader sense, it reintroduced a seasoned bureaucratic disputant into the debate over how many national security risks can be taken for the sake of arms control.

Schlesinger's courageous though indiscrete advocacy of higher arms spending in 1975 ended with President Ford firing him as Secretary of Defense. As the only Republican in the Carter cabinet, discretion has been Schlesinger's watchword. He says nothing publicly about national security, and nobody has ever heard him utter one critical word, on or off the record, about Jimmy Carter (in contrast to his sometimes pungent off-duty remarks about Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford when he was a cabinet member for them).

BUT IN fact Schlesinger has been distressed by national security policy, particularly by chief disarmament negotiator Paul Warnke's operations. Schlesinger is perceived by some defense-oriented Democrats in Congress as Mr. Carter's ultimate salvation, whom he eventually will call upon to pick up the pieces. But to do this, Schlesinger must establish a record of having warned the president that present policies lead to disaster.

How can this be done unless Schlesinger throws discretion to the winds and trespasses directly into national security? The answer is that the legal jurisdiction of his new Department of Energy includes the nuclear-testing laboratories formerly under the old Atomic Energy Commission; Schlesinger has the duty of certifying the reliability of the national stockpile.

Schlesinger's experts at the Energy Department began early to obstruct Warnke's push for quick negotiation of a zero-yield test ban treaty. With atmospheric tests barred by the 1963 treaty and underground tests limited to 150 kilotons by the 1974 treaty, the national laboratories say it is already difficult to certify reliability of the stockpile; with no testing it will be impossible. As for the Soviets, only continual on-site inspection could verify compliance with a zero-yield ban, and Moscow flatly rejects it.

Such misgivings by both Department of Energy and JCS experts led to their exclusion from hush-hush Anglo-American talks here in mid-April. Nor were they consulted before Mr. Carter signed Presidential Decision Memorandum 38 on May 20, calling for a five-year "comprehensive" (presumably zero-yield) treaty with the Russians.

Schlesinger concluded that certain high officials — Warnke and to a lesser degree Secretary of State Cyrus Vance — had forced this process too quickly. He felt it was time a high civilian official gave the Joint Chiefs some help. While privately voicing reservations about a five-year zero-yield pact, Secretary of Defense Harold Brown has made no pitch against it. In closed-door testimony before the Senate Armed Services Committee last week, he conceded the difficulties of verification but offered the questionable argument that the treaty would discourage nuclear proliferation.

Physical growth causes voice changes

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 14-year-old son has started his voice change which I understand is a sign of puberty. My husband and I were trying to figure out why these voice changes occur, and we couldn't come up with an answer. Can you help? — Mrs. G.D.

The physical changes of puberty are generalized throughout the body — the genitalia, hair, bones, and other tissue. The vocal cords and larynx are not exempted. The voice peculiarities are a part of learning to adjust to a sudden spurt of physical growth of structures in the area of the cords, which we all use when we speak. Like a musician putting aside his instrument and trying to learn another one. However fast he learns, there will still be a lot of musical clinkers between beginning and professional status. The same with boys and their voices.

Girls undergo the same changes, but their voice box structures are not so large, so their voice changes are not quite so pronounced. They go through it earlier than boys. The boys' cords have a lot more growing to do. At adulthood a man's cords are 1.2 inches long. A woman's only 8-10 of an inch, accounting for the higher pitch of a woman's voice. Near the end of life a person's cords tend to shrink a bit, resulting in yet another change of voice.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have had shingles pain for four months now, and no one has been able to help me. I am 74 and otherwise a healthy female. One doctor started me on some shots, but that hasn't helped. How long should this pain continue? — Mrs. G.L.

There are apparently successful combinations of drugs to prevent the so-called "post-herpetic" neuralgia, a fancy term for the lingering effects of a bout with shingles. One combination (phenothiazine and ametrypyline) seems especially effective. Sorry to say, it is doubtful this would be of much help to you at this point.

No. 1, the drugs help only when given rather early in the game. That would have been back four months ago when you first had the outbreak of blisters. But it's still worth asking the doctor about it.
Secondly, shingles pain duration is usually a matter of age. One study showed that the entire attack ends within a month for persons under 30, longer for those over 40, and can hang on for a year or more in about half of those over 70. My booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," discusses things you might try to lessen the discomfort until the pain subsides. For a copy, send 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

You can begin by being sure you are keeping healthy with proper nutrition and exercise. There is a relationship between general health and the effects of shingles, which, as you know, is a viral irritation of a nerve root, usually in the chest area, limited to one side.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Two questions — what is an "infantile uterus," and would that interfere with my child-bearing? — Mrs. P.V.

An infantile uterus is one that is smaller than normal, a normal uterus being about an ounce and a half in weight. If the uterus is otherwise normal, there is seldom a problem in conceiving and carrying a baby. The uterus enlarges enormously during pregnancy.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do you think dental floss is more effective than toothbrushes to keep teeth healthy? — Mrs. O.Y.

Both are effective when properly used. Dental floss has an edge because it can remove residue from the crevices near the gums. Some dentists recommend the normal floss as better for this than the waxed kind. If the teeth are set too close together, the waxed floss is best.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told I have borderline glaucoma, with eyeball pressure of 25. How bad is that? What is a high reading? — Mrs. L.F.

Slightly elevated pressure is that which ranges between 22 and 30. The pressure may reach up to 70 or higher in an active attack. Thus, I would agree you are a borderline case, and control of it will prevent future increases.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to get diabetes from kissing or from the sex act? — G.R.

No. Unless properly treated, both glaucoma and cataracts can lead to blindness. If you are afflicted with either of these ailments, or know someone who is, write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for his booklet, "Cataracts and Glaucoma." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor: I have just spent two days worrying about our friend, Mr. Jackrabbit. I know he should be protected, but why?

In the middle of a sleepless night, it came to me...it's not the lovely, majestic jackrabbit that needs protection, it's those awful ticks, fleas and lice that hide in his beautiful fur. After all, aren't they the little critters that eat the crops, sneak into the gardens and eat the grass and weeds meant for the beef herds?

And, just maybe, if we leave the old jack alone, he'll feed the wolves and coyotes and they, in turn, will leave alone the beef, sheep, goats, chickens and etc. And just in case no one's noticed the price of meat, we sure can't afford to lose any of the above.

What are the Humane Society's guidelines? Does it even have any? In my small mind, I see members gathered about a large hat. Someone draws a slip of paper. Then comes the announcement: "Today, we protect the mosquito. Tomorrow, the dung beetle."

All this brings me face to face with a terrible problem. Last week my tomato plants gave way above an army of snails. So, in the dark of night, I put out poison for the snails and pill bugs. Am I really guilty of murder? Are they a protected species this week? Is the Humane Society after me this very week?

If we continue in the same pattern, before long everybody will have what they've always wanted. A jackrabbit, a snake, a wolf and a skunk for every household. Goody! Goody!

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My daughter has been attending some meetings at a small church. They use an English translation of the Bible published by their group, and they say it is the only accurate translation. Can this be true? — K.M.

DEAR K.M.: From what you say, I suspect your daughter has become involved in one of the non-Christian cults that pretends to have the real truth about God, but can only back up its ideas by distorting the true message of the Bible. I know of one group, for instance, that has its own translation of the Bible because they do not believe Jesus was the Son of God and fully divine. Only by twisting the meanings of the original words of the Bible can they support their view, since the Bible clearly tells us that Jesus is God in human flesh. "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God...And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us" (John 1:1, 14).

Scholars today have studied thousands of ancient manuscripts of the Bible, especially the New Testament. I know of no serious scholar who would dispute the fact that we know beyond any reasonable doubt whatsoever that the Bible we have today is what was written originally. Furthermore, we know a great deal about the languages in which the Bible was originally written, and scholars have produced many excellent modern translations that accurately give us the meaning of the Bible's text.

WASHINGTON — The story can now be told of the blow-up inside the White House over the sale of our hottest military jets to Saudi Arabia. It was ignited by Jessica Tuchman Mathews, a senior strategist, who gave other White House insiders a secret briefing last February on the military implications of the sale of F-15 fighters to the Saudis.

Speaking for the policymaking National Security Council, she assured the group that the F-15s were "defensive aircraft with very little offensive capability." She also described Tabuk, a Saudi Arabian airbase only 125 miles from Israel, as a civilian installation.

NO ONE WAS listening more intently than President Carter's liaison advisor on Jewish affairs, Mark Siegel. He subsequently learned from the Pentagon, however, that the F-15s are considered the best fighter-bombers in the world and that the U.S. was helping develop Tabuk into a major military base.

Outraged, Siegel resigned in protest. He charged that he had been fed inaccurate information by National Security Council officials. Eventually, Jessica Mathews' name slipped into some new accounts as the official who had misled Siegel. On April 19, she complained in a "Dear Mark" letter that she had become "increasingly distressed" that he was naming her as "the source of information which led to your troubles." She denied calling the F-15 a "defensive weapon" and insisted she had referred to Tabuk as "originally a civilian airfield that has been upgraded." She added acidly: "An adequate understanding of the technical issues involved here requires more than a passing acquaintance with the subject."

Siegel fired back a sizzling letter marked "personal and confidential." It began "Dear Jessica" but quickly exploded: "I have read and reread your letter and find its contents inaccurate and its tone insulting. I find it additionally objectionable that, unknown to me, you have apparently circulated copies of the letter around the White House."

"I do not know what motivates a person to retroactively distort facts and redefine truth. I may surmise that it is your own attempt to justify your behavior and culpability for dissemination of inaccurate information to the public and to the Hill."

Siegel said four others at the Mathews briefing upheld his version of what she said and contended that a subsequent briefing paper was heavily edited. "You did not tell us then, nor mention in your letter to me," he seethingly added, "that Tabuk is heavily protected by American Hawk anti-aircraft missiles and that Hawk triads are currently being installed."

"Nor did you indicate that the United States is helping the Saudis to construct...a modern paratroop training installation and barracks for

Doctor achieves national acclaim

By CARLA WALKER

"If you want to be had enough, you can make the time to do anything."

Such is the philosophy of Dr. Jack Margolis, Chief of Staff at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital in Big Spring.

Margolis is receiving nationwide credit for a medical study on Diabetes Mellitus which he conducted at the VA Hospital and published some three years ago. The local physician was the first to connect skin tags, a small skin growth that appears on the neck, underarms or between the legs and was previously considered completely insignificant, with Diabetes Mellitus, the disease that afflicts a large number of the population of the United States.

"I started noticing, when making rounds with the staff doctors, that there was a number of patients who had skin tags, and the fact that most all of them also had diabetes just seemed to attract my notice."

"That was about seven or eight years ago, but it was not until perhaps four years ago that I began to work on a study to see if my observation was founded in fact," Margolis said.

He took the next 500 admissions to the hospital and examined them for skin tags, also testing their blood for positive signs of diabetes.

Out of the 500 examined, 47 had single or multiple skin tags, and of the 47, 34 had diabetes mellitus that appeared in the blood test. Seven of the patients with skin tags were not aware that they had diabetes before the examination. In addition, Dr. Margolis reported that several patients with skin tags whose blood test showed no evidence of diabetes mellitus during the period of the study, developed disease as shown by later blood tests.

"While skin tags are not an absolute sign of diabetes, they are an early indicator of a possible condition," Dr. Margolis said. "One can almost predict that a male patient will have diabetes if the lesions (skin tags) are multiple, large, hyperpigmented (darkly colored) and bilateral."

Until the study, doctors passed off the skin tags as being of no significance whatsoever, and textbooks indicated the same opinion. However, the tags provide an early indicator of the possibility of diabetes and allow, in some cases, a much earlier diagnosis.

"Normally, a blood test for diabetes would not be performed until the patient began to feel low on energy, or developed several of the other indicators of the disease," Margolis said. "But, with the connection to skin tags, doctor and patient can be aware of the potential development of diabetes and can usually diagnose diabetes much earlier than the already recognized symptoms appear."

The value of early diagnosis can be attested to by any doctor. With an early start, diabetes can be controlled through diet, weight control, and other measures. Simply being aware of the disease is the first big step in combating it and helping the patient to recognize and adjust to the fact.

But, the study was published three years ago in the "New England Journal of Medicine," (one of the most widely respected medical journals), so why is Dr. Margolis receiving letters and telephone calls from across the nation now?

"Some friends in Midland sent me a clipping which ran in the Midland paper in a syndicated column written by Dr. Neil Solomon," Margolis answered. "Apparently the column is run in a number of papers across the nation, because since the article ran about two weeks ago, I have received phone calls from New York and California, and at least a half-dozen letters."

"Also, some long lost New York relatives called me as a result of the column," said Margolis, who left New York 23 years ago to take a one-year position with the Big Spring VA. He had no intention of staying, having been persuaded by a friend against his own personal plans, to take the Chief of Medicine opening for one year only.

Now, 23 years later with a promotion to Chief of Staff, Margolis is still here and has no plans of moving. "The New York cousin — a distant relative I hadn't seen or heard from in all 23 years — called me up after reading the article. I guess they hadn't expected me to stay, if they even remembered that I had come to Big Spring. I never heard of the town until a friend told me about the job opening."

VA HOSPITAL CHIEF OF STAFF DR. JACK MARGOLIS ...his research keeps him busy, gains national recognition

Even with all the responsibilities of his job, Margolis still finds — or makes — the time to do medical research. Since coming to Big Spring, he has published some 25 articles about a variety of subjects including silicosis — sand blaster's disease — and heart diseases and disorders.

Margolis is presently finishing up a study on cotton gin workers. Although not formally concluded, the preliminary results, according to Margolis, indicate that in spite of the dusty atmosphere in which gin workers labor, the occupation is not hazardous to the lungs of workers.

And, the VA doctor hasn't stopped there; he has already begun another study based on observations of patients with liver failure. "Falling body temperature of a liver failure patient seems to be an indication that the patient's condition is deteriorating rapidly, and I am beginning to make a formal study to check out my observation," Margolis said.

The doctor's practice of keeping his mind active is a trait not missed by any of his five children, three of whom were county and regional spelling bee champions. The oldest son, Robert, is a practicing attorney in Austin, while Larry, the next to oldest, has just received his doctorate degree in government from the University of Michigan. Maridene, the only girl, is a senior at the University of Texas in Austin and plans to go to law school after her graduation. David is a 1978 graduate of Big Spring High School and plans to head to the University of Texas in August, while Glenn will be a junior at Big Spring High School in August.

Dr. Margolis' wife, Evelyn, is a nurse at Malone-Hogan Hospital. "I feel that, in order to keep up with my medical practice, I must do a minimum of two hours of reading daily," Margolis said. "The studies are something challenging and exciting, and they serve to keep me involved in medical research in a personal way. "There are a lot of hours in the day for anyone who will use them and I enjoy my research enough to take it home or otherwise make time to pursue the projects."

Personal gripes now public demands

Proposition 13 spreading

By the Associated Press

American taxpayers are turning anger into action, spreading the tax-cutting gospel of Proposition 13 with petition drives and legislative proposals.

Private gripes are now public demands. Politicians, from President Carter down, say they are listening. "It is time for a full-scale holy war on taxes," said a gubernatorial candidate in Texas.

An Associated Press survey showed that new proposals to limit taxes or spending emerged in 16 states in the week after California voters approved Proposition 13, a constitutional amendment slashing property levies by more than 50 percent. In all, the AP survey showed, the taxpayers' tea party has spread to 29 states.

Carter said Wednesday that the California vote was "obviously a message that has been well received."

And Georgia's Democratic Sen. Sam Nunn, who on Wednesday became the first member of his party in the Senate to endorse a Republican plan to cut individual federal income taxes by an average of 33 percent, said, "Clearly, the message with respect to levying taxes is: Like shearing sheep, you stop when you reach the skin."

In Delaware, Rep. Gerard H. Cain, a Democrat, introduced legislation on Tuesday to require voter approval of all tax increases or new taxes. "This came about because of Proposition 13," he said, although his plan is different. It deals only with future taxes and would not roll back existing levies, as Proposition 13 does.

TAX DUMPING — California's tax revolt is spreading. According to an AP survey "hold-it-down" proposals have emerged in 16 states following the success of California's Proposition 13.

A South Dakota store owner, Danielle Samuelson, was kept up to date on the California campaign by her brother, who lives there. On the day after the election, she started collecting signatures in an effort to get the tax-limitation issue on the 1980 ballot.

Rhode Island taxpayers' groups met Wednesday to plot strategy. John Assalone, head of the Concerned Parents and Taxpayers of Coventry, said the California measure may be too drastic for Rhode Island. "But there is definitely room in the budget for cuts," he added.

Some of the tax proposals are well on their way to a vote. Others are in the planning stages. All seem to have exposed a raw nerve. "The time is ripe now," said Pennsylvania Rep. Lee Taddonio, a Republican, as he reintroduced a previously unsuccessful plan to limit state spending and freeze tax levies.

Already pending in the Pennsylvania Legislature is a measure, proposed by state Sen. John Stauffer, also a Republican, to eliminate the property tax as a means of financing public education and replace it with a 1 percent boost in the state income tax. "The taxpayers of this country are fed up with excessive taxes and bloated government spending," said Stauffer. "The victory in California ... should send a smoke signal across the nation."

In some states, like Pennsylvania, taxes and spending were an issue long before the California vote, although supporters say the West Coast victory gave them new impetus. In other states, like Virginia, the June 6 election touched a previously unresponsive chord.

The AP survey found proposals directly or indirectly spawned by Proposition 13, also known as the Jarvis-Gann amendment after its sponsors, in Delaware, Florida, Hawaii, Massachusetts, Missouri, Nevada, New Hampshire, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Virginia and Washington.

Citizens seek stricter laws

HOUSTON (AP) — Mexican-American spokesmen want the City Council to make it more difficult for youngsters in the barrio to obtain intoxicating aerosols like a shoe cleaner called "Texas Shine Boy."

Fidel Olmos, a drug counselor at Casa de Amigos health center, told the council Wednesday some grocery store owners are selling the shoe cleaner to minors for up to $5 a can.

"When a merchant sells four or five cans a weekend, he's got to know it's not going to be used for shoes," Olmos said. "Sometimes when a minor only has $2, the merchant will take the money and spray half the can into a cloth and let him have it."

Olmos and several others called on the council to beef up a 1966 ordinance designed to discourage glue-sniffing. The council referred the request to the city legal department, but Mayor Jim McConn said he thought it would be difficult to draw up such a specific ordinance because of the large number of inhalants on the market.

Olmos said youngsters had been sniffing the shoe cleaner and other substances at Moody Park May 7, the day violence erupted following a fight during a fiesta.

He and colleague Daniel Bustamante called for an ordinance that would impose a $200 fine on merchants selling certain sprays and aerosols to minors as well as on adults who buy such items for youngsters.

Conference group working a compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The natural gas pricing section of an energy bill being hammered out in a U.S. House-Senate conference committee would lift federal price controls on all newly discovered gas.

The controls would also come off most gas sold in the intrastate market and gas from wells deeper than 5,000 feet in old reservoirs as of Jan. 1, 1985.

In the meantime, intrastate gas — gas produced and consumed within the same state — would be subject to price regulation for the first time. Federal price controls now apply exclusively to gas shipped in interstate pipelines.

The price ceiling under the proposed formula — and this includes intrastate gas — would start at about $1.93 per 1,000 cubic feet (mcf) and then rise roughly 10 percent each year, assuming an annual 6 percent rate of inflation — until January 1985, when they would be at about $3.72 per mcf. Then the price lids would come off.

As far as allocation is involved, the government could allocate gas in the intrastate market only in an emergency situation, such as the gas shortages that came about during the hard 1977 winter, the compromise states.

Gas would first be allocated away from industries that use it as a boiler fuel, especially those which also have the capability of using coal.

The compromise legislation does not supersede state controls over intrastate gas.

Chose Wrong Man For Her Affair

DEAR ABBY: This is probably just like a million other letters you've received from women who have had affairs with married men. But this one contains a piece of advice that hasn't been emphasized nearly enough.

Last year I started seeing an absolutely fantastic guy from work. I knew he was married, but we played it cool and thought we could handle it. It was terrific while it lasted, but it had to come to an end. (The old story: We got too serious. He didn't want to hurt his wife and kids. Then he got "noble" and told me he couldn't allow me to invest any more time in a man who couldn't marry me.)

I'm not blaming anybody but myself. I'm a mature woman and should have known better. The moral to this story is: If you must have an affair, don't choose someone you will see at work every day. When it's over, the daily contact is torture.

STILL HURTING

DEAR STILL: You seem to have overlooked another "moral" or two: "Thou shalt not commit adultery" and "Thou shalt not steal."

DEAR ABBY: For the man who promised his wife on her deathbed that he would never marry again and then, broke his promise and felt guilty, I urge him to heed these wise and lovely words from the Talmud:

"Man shall be called to account for all the permitted pleasures he failed to enjoy."

"IN LOVE AT 60 IN BURBANK"

DEAR IN LOVE: I knew about the "sins of omission," but that a person shall be called to account for all the permitted pleasures he failed to enjoy is joyous news indeed!

DEAR ABBY: Your advice is desperately needed if my wedding, which is two months off, is to be a happy occasion.

My father is dead and my mother insists that I have my only brother walk me down the aisle and give me away. Abby, my brother is a foulmouthed, ill-mannered, chronic alcoholic who spoils every gathering he attends with his drunkenness. I rarely see him for this reason.

I am marrying a fine man. Members of his family who live out of town are coming to our wedding. I suppose every family has a skeleton in their closet, but I don't want to put mine on display. I am paying for my own wedding and don't want it spoiled.

My mother has made excuses for my brother all his life, and she has given me an ultimatum: If I don't have him give me away, she won't attend. I want my mother there. What should I do?

SOMETHING BLUE (ME)

DEAR BLUE: I think your mother is being grossly unfair by issuing such an ultimatum, but why not issue her one? Tell her that if she will assume the responsibility of keeping her son sober on your wedding day, fine. But you will have someone else waiting in the wings to do the honors—just in case. (P.S. Your brother might rise to the occasion and surprise you—and I sincerely hope he does.)

DEAR ABBY: Your letter from OVER 70 IN MISSOURI certainly touched home with me.

My mother recently passed away leaving no will. Now my father must pay tax on her share of everything that he worked years to provide.

I don't know about the laws elsewhere, but here in Oklahoma we have found that it's very expensive NOT to have a will.

The sad part is that it takes time to handle all these legal entanglements, and this keeps your grief alive while you're waiting.

Everyone should have a will to protect the survivors as well as to insure that their possessions go to the right people. The cost of a will is minimal compared to what you must pay if no will is left.

NOT OK IN OKLAHOMA

DEAR NOT: What's true in Oklahoma is true in the other 49 states.

John A. Kee Rebekahs schedule installation

Members of the John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge 153 met at the IOOF Hall at 3203 W. Highway 80 Tuesday with Francis Loftis, noble grand, presiding.

A Flag Day program was given by Lois Vivian Hood. She was assisted by Lavelle Hill.

The installation of officers will be July 25.

Beatrice Bonner escorted Nelle Williams to the altar and introduced her to the Noble Grand and members as a member of Mispah Lodge 7092, Guthrie Center, Iowa.

A memorial service for all branches of the order was held, followed by a luncheon. Mrs. Lavelle Hill in charge. Assisting her were Beatrice Bonner, Terry Vigus, Brookie Martin, Hattie Belle Boland, Desdemona Martin, Mary Leek, Lois Hood, and Francis Loftis.

Auxiliary meets

The Howard County World War I Barracks and Auxiliary to 1474 met in regular session Saturday in the Kentwood Older Adult Center.

A business session was held, followed by a luncheon. Mrs. C.O. Phillip, commander, gave the invocation.

Plans were made to attend the Department of Texas Convention July 18-21 at Baker Hotel in Dallas. Voting delegates will represent Howard County in state and local legislative matters. The main issue will be a proposed bill to overhaul the pension program for veterans and widows, dependents and children.

Members of the ladies auxiliary served coffee and cake to patients at the Veteran's Administration Hospital recently.

The group will meet at 10 a.m. July 8 in the Kentwood Center for business and a luncheon.

YEP, HE'S YOUNGER — Albert Daniels, 99, always hated his fine, straight hair and that "contrary cowlick." So he went to a beauty shop. Afterward, obviously happy, Daniels agreed with a friend that he looks younger — at least 80.

TIME TO BEGIN — Mrs. Rodney Brooks, Coahoma, Mrs. Lloyd Robinson, Ackerly, and Mrs. Gene Perry, Lomax, look over fruit and vegetables that will later be canned in preparation for the Howard County Fair, Sept. 18-23. Prospective fair participants should begin planning their entries now.

Start planning now

Canned entries should be readied

By CAROL HART
Area residents interested in entering home canned foods in the Howard County Fair should begin planning now, according to several women experienced in home canning, and to several involved in the home canning division of the fair.

The fair is slated Sept. 18-23, according to Janet Rogers, county extension agent.

Ms. Joe Mac Gaskins is general supervisor of the women's department this year. Mrs. John Riffe is in charge of the home canning division.

"Now is the time to start preparing" entries, Mrs. Lloyd Robinson, Ackerly, advised. "You need to think in terms of entering the fair" in what is now being put up for canning, she said.

Mrs. Robinson has competed in the canning division in past years. Mrs. Rodney Brooks, Coahoma, Mrs. Gene Perry, Lomax, and Mrs. Rogers also discussed the canning division.

The women said prospective entrants in the home canning division must use standard jars to can their entries. Entries not in standard jars will be disqualified, Mrs. Rogers said.

Standard jars are those which have been tempered to withstand the high heat required in canning, the women said. The jars also have screwband caps which fit tightly. "Commercial jars are not safe," Mrs. Rogers said. "They will not be accepted for competition."

Rules outlined in the fair handbook also advise that all jars must be labeled as to contents entered, and dated.

The women also had several tips which weren't in the rules, but might add to the quality of the home canned foods.

Mrs. Rogers said that there should only be about two hours from garden to jar for fruits and vegetables. Mrs. Perry added that careful selection of vegetables and fruits is also a must for quality canned foods.

Mrs. Robinson said she prefers not to can anything that has been refrigerated for any length of time. The women agreed that only the amount of vegetables and fruit that can be put up at one time should be collected.

Entries will be accepted from all surrounding counties, Mrs. Rogers said. Area county home economists will judge.

Some items such as pickles and jellies will be judged on taste. Other fruits and vegetables will not be opened, but will be judged on appearance, packing and head space.

Four favorite recipes for canning recommended by the women appear here.

PICKLED BEETS

- 1 gal. beets
- 2 cups water
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup vinegar
- 1 tablespoon cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon cloves
- 1 tablespoon allspice
- Cook beets until tender.

Drain hot water off. Cover with cold water and slip skins. Make a syrup of the water, sugar, vinegar and spices, and bring to a boil. Cover beets with mixture and simmer for 15 minutes. Seal in clean, hot jars.

SUSIE'S CHOW CHOW

- 2 gal. ground green tomatoes
- 1/2 gal. ground bell peppers
- 1/2 gal. onion, ground
- 3 to 4 quarts ground cabbage
- 2 quarts ground apples
- 1-1/2 cups hot peppers
- 5 pounds sugar
- 2 palmfuls salt
- 3 tablespoons black pepper

1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cups vinegar
Heat through, but don't boil. Pour hot chow chow into sterilized jars and seal. 13-15 quarts. Should be sweet, sour and hot.

MIXED PICKLES

- 1 cup salt
- 4 quarts water
- 1 quart 1-inch slices small cucumbers (about 10)
- 2 cups 1 1/2-inch slices pared carrots (3 to 4)
- 2 cups 1 1/2-inch slices celery
- 2 sweet red peppers, cut in wide strips
- 1 small to medium cauliflower, broken into flowerlets
- 2 cups peeled pickling onions
- 1/4 cup mustard seed
- 2 tablespoons celery seed
- 1 hot red pepper
- 2 cups sugar
- 6 1/2 cups vinegar

Dissolve salt in cold water. Pour over prepared vegetable. Let stand 12 to 18 hours in a cool place. Drain thoroughly. Add spices, hot red pepper and sugar to vinegar; boil 3 minutes. Add vegetables; simmer until thoroughly heated. Pack, boiling hot, into hot Ball jars, leaving 1/4-inch head space.

Adjust caps. Process 15 minutes. Yield: about 6 pints.

NOTE: If more cucumbers are desired, increase cucumber measure to 1 1/2 quarts (6 cups) and reduce carrot and celery measures to 1 cup each.

OKRA DILL PICKLE

- 3 lbs. okra
- 3 cups vinegar
- 3 cups water
- 6 tablespoons salt
- 12 heads of dill

Use small tender pods of okra, cut with as much stem as possible. Wash and drain. Prick each pod with pin or fine pointed knife to allow solution to enter pod. Pack okra into sterilized Kerr jars. Place a small bunch of dill in each jar with okra. Boil water, vinegar and salt together until salt is dissolved. Fill jars with boiling brine to within 1/2 inch of top. Put on cap, screw band firmly tight. Process in boiling water bath 5 minutes.

Kosher Dill may be made by adding 1/2 to 1 clove garlic (sliced) and 1/2 teaspoon mustard seed to bottom of each pint jar.

Lost recipe

Cocoa Kiss Cookies found

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: I'm writing to you about a lost recipe. I cut it out of the paper about six years ago. I know this is a long way back, but I'm hoping you have it because I really want to find it. It was for a cookie made from shortbread dough that you shaped into small balls and molded around chocolate kisses. — DETERMINED.

DEAR DETERMINED: I've sent you a copy of the recipe you want. However, I've found a new rule for kiss cookies that I want to share with you and other cookie bakers. In this latest recipe, the shortbread dough is flavored with cocoa and in my opinion these kiss cookies are even better than the original ones. — C.B.

Splash day scheduled

The Big Spring Country Club will end Splash Day Saturday with a Teenage dance from 7-11 p.m. by the swimming pool.

Rocky Stone, local disc jockey, will furnish music for the event. Members and guests are invited.

Mascara tips

—When applying mascara to top lashes, hold head up and look down, brush up for mascara application, says Beverly Rhoades, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

For lower lashes, hold head down and look up — lashes will stand slightly away from face for easier mascara application, she adds.

softened
2-3rds cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 and 2-3rds cups all-purpose flour
1/4 cup cocoa
1 cup finely chopped pecans or walnuts
9-ounce package milk-chocolatekisses about 54
Confectioners' sugar, if desired

In the large bowl of an electric mixer, cream the butter, granulated sugar and vanilla; gradually beat in the flour and cocoa. And the nuts; beat on low speed until well distributed. Chill.

Meanwhile, unwrap the kisses. Shape a scant tablespoon of dough around each kiss, covering it completely. Roll each between your palms to form a ball; place a few inches apart on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until set — 10 to 12 minutes. Cool slightly; with a wide spatula remove to wire racks. Cool completely. Just before serving, dust with confectioners' sugar if you like. Makes about 4 1/2 dozen.

Blue ribbon

Karen Earls wins in state show

Karen Earls, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Earls, prepared "Manicotti" to win a blue ribbon at the State 4-H Food Show June 5-6.

To enter the state event Miss Earls had to win both the local and district 4-H Food Shows held earlier in the year.

Participating in the event were 52 senior 4-H members from all over Texas. The Morrison Milling Company headquartered in Denton sponsored the event by supplying awards and scholarships.

Miss Earls is a member of Lucky Acres 4-H Club and also participates in livestock and clothing projects.

Manicotti (the word means "little muffs" is a Southern Italian favorite).

MANICOTTI
Creme batter:
6 eggs at room temperature

1 1/2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups water
Combine all ingredients in a medium bowl and mix well with a rotary or electric beater until smooth but not frothy. Let stand 1/2 hour or longer, even overnight. Makes about 24 crepes (cook to individual crepe pan directions.)

Filling:
2 lbs. Ricotta cheese (or cottage cheese if Ricotta is not available)

1 package (8 oz.) Mozzarella cheese, diced
1-3rd cup grated Parmesan cheese

2 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese (to be sprinkled on top)

1 large jar of prepared Italian tomato sauce (with or without meat)
Mix all ingredients except 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese and a commercial Italian sauce in a large bowl; beat with wooden spoon to blend well. Spread about 1/4 cup of filling down the center of each crepe shell and roll up, spread prepared Italian tomato sauce with or without ground meat. Spoon about 1 1/2 cups of sauce into bottom of two 12x8x2 inch baking dishes. Place eight rolled manicotti, seam side down, in a single layer; top with five more, cover with remaining sauce; sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake uncovered 1/2 hour at 350 degrees or until it bubbles in conventional oven — 1/2 hour in electric skillet and in a microwave oven about 5 minutes uncovered. Serves 12.

Energy cost: oven — 27 cents — microwave — 1/2 cent — electric skillet — 2 cents.

To freeze: Line baking dish with large piece of foil, assemble as directed. Fold foil over to seal, and freeze in dish. When frozen, remove dish. To serve: unwrap; place in baking dish, and let stand 1 hour to thaw. Bake uncovered 1 hour in 350 degrees oven, electric skillet 1 hour at 350 degrees. Cook frozen in microwave for 10 minutes.

Note: I have found that stacking the five manicotti over the eight can cause problems with serving.

Although the recipe advises doing this I try to keep the manicotti in one layer, especially for freezing. They freeze real well.

Wrigley's won't like this, but...

Dear Doctor:

At our high school, the individual teachers set the rules on chewing gum in class. Every teacher except one allows gum chewing.

The class has begged and pleaded to be allowed to chew gum but to no avail. We even promised to supply her with a free pack every week.

Our last hope is you, Dr. Wallace. Tell us something good about gum chewing so we can share it with our teacher. It might help.

Gumless in Math, Joliet, Ill.

Dear Gumless: Outside of exercising the jaw, I find nothing else good about chewing gum. The person chewing never seems to know how repulsive it looks to the people watching. Besides the popping, cracking, snapping and blowing, many chewers, when finished, deposit their spent gum in unusual places and most of it appears to wind up on my shoes. Three cheers for your math teacher!

Dear Doctor:

Pioneer sandwich

Mini-Reuben tarts "hit"

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor

The pioneer Reuben Sandwich — corned beef, Swiss cheese and kraut on rye — was started in New York City by a restaurateur named Arnold Reuben. I've encountered the Reuben in New England and the Southwest, but I didn't know it had invaded the Deep South until a recent visit to Shreveport, La. There I found it on the room service menu of my motor hotel.

As a result, when two young Shreveport women asked me for a new recipe for an hors d'oeuvre, I thought of devising Mini-Reuben Tarts. It was an idea that worked. My tasters liked the Mini-Reubens so much they came back — again and again and again — for "seconds."

MINI-REUBEN TARTS

1/4 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup chili sauce
1/2 cup tightly packed, thoroughly drained and squeezed out sauerkraut (see Note below)
1 cup loosely packed, finely chopped cooked corned beef
3/4 cup loosely packed, grated medium-fine Swiss cheese

Unbaked Tart Shells, see below

Extra mayonnaise and paprika

In a small bowl whisk together the 1/4 cup mayonnaise and the chili sauce. Add the sauerkraut separating the strands, corned beef and cheese; mix well. Spoon 1 level tablespoon of the mixture into each unbaked tart shell, filling to the top but not over the edges. Spread the filling with a little extra mayonnaise; sprinkle with paprika.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until browned — about 30 minutes. With a small metal spatula loosen edges on all the tarts. Insert

We are going through a period at home where mother no longer uses dishes to serve the meals. Instead of china and glasses she has substituted throw-away plastic cups and plates. Last week she went to a supply outlet and bought 1,000 plastic cups and 1,000 plastic plates.

Once in a while it is nice to eat on plastic plates if we are having hamburgers or hotdogs, but I don't like eating meat and potatoes on plastic. I even think she is planning on plastic utensils.

Mom has an automatic dishwasher, so washing china and glass is no real problem. Have you any suggestions for me so I can lay them on mother? I don't want a year of feeling like I'm eating at a picnic.

Paula, San Rafael, Calif.

Dear Paula:

Did you ever consider that maybe mother is getting tired of scraping dirty dishes, loading the dishwasher, and putting the dishes and glasses away, maybe three times a day, seven days a week? You didn't mention if you help in any way.

Surprise mother tomorrow by setting the table with china and glasses, then you scrape the dishes, load the dishwasher and put the clean dishes away.

I think this alternative is better than a year of picnic in the dining room.

P.S.: When was the last time someone took mother out to dinner?

Memorial presented

Members of the Big Spring Rebekah Lodge 284 met recently with Norma Newton, noble grand, presiding.

The charter was undraped for Smokey Burgess. Participating in the ceremony were Marion Savell, Norma Newton, June Wiggins, Mildred Collins and Gracie Lee Grider.

A Father's Day program with Malinda Blackburn and Norma Newton was presented. A.F. Hill, lodge sweetheart, was presented with a gift. The lodge joined in singing "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

A cross was made by Rosa Lee Hill, Mildred Collins, June Wiggins, Erroline Bailey, Leona Hughes, Delia Sullivan, Lona Crocker, Sue Nielsen, and Rae Davis. Marion Savell was reader. Norma Newton and Malinda Blackburn provided music.

Also participating in the memorial were Lola Majors and Lillian Rhyne.

A certificate of perfection was presented to Sue Nielsen by Marion Savell, lodge deputy.

the spatula at one side of a shell and tilt the tart; lift out, with the spatula and your fingers, to a hot serving plate or electric tray. Quickly remove all the tarts the same way. Serve at once.

Makes 24.

Note: A small can of sauerkraut about 8 ounces, drained well and then the remaining liquid entirely squeezed out, will make the 1/2 cup called for.

UNBAKED TARTSHELLS

1/2 cup butter, softened

3-ounce package cream cheese

1 cup all-purpose flour

Beat together the butter and cream cheese until blended. Gradually stir in the flour to form a dough. If very soft, cover tightly and chill. Using a scant tablespoon of the dough for each, shape into 24 balls. Press each ball over the bottom and sides up to but not over the top of small ungreased muffin-pan cups, each 1 1/4 inches across the top and 3/4-inch deep. These muffin pans come with 12 cups in each. If not used at once, cover tightly and chill; may be kept refrigerated before filling as long as a week or two. Makes 24.

Won't he feel great if you Remember

NURSING IS HER WAY OF LIFE — Leilani Wolverson is shown with the late Mayor Richard J. Daley, right, in 1957 as that year's Easter Seal Poster Child. Leilani, paralyzed from age 18 months, when polio paralyzed her from the neck down, was told she would never walk. This week Leilani — now Mrs. Bob Logan — walked up and received her nursing degree from a Chicago nursing school (left).

Former poster child earns nursing degree

CHICAGO (AP) — From age 18 months, when polio paralyzed her from the neck down and doctors said she would never walk, former Easter Seal poster child Leilani Wolverson spent much of her life with nurses. "They were always optimistic about the future, always helping me not give up hope," she said. Now the Easter Seal poster child of 1957 is herself a nurse. Leilani — now Mrs. Bob Logan — received her nursing degree this week from St. Anne's School of Nursing. She is moving to Missouri, where she will work at Lake of the Ozarks

General Hospital. "I'm just the type of person who will try everything," said Mrs. Logan, 27, whose only disability today is a slight limp. "I didn't find it difficult at all physically." "I kept saying, 'I don't believe it. I'm done and I just don't believe it.' I keep picking up my diploma and reading it," she said. "The toughest part was my freshman year, because there was so much coming at you. As far as seeing patients in dreadful conditions, that didn't bother me. I had seen a lot from my own hospitalizations."

Doctors had told Mrs. Logan's parents she would never walk after polio struck her at 18 months of age and left her paralyzed from the neck down within a month. But they refused to accept those predictions. "My parents were very determined that I was going to walk again. They arranged their work schedule around me," she said. "My dad started teaching me swimming as soon as I got out of the hospital. He got a bunch of handicapped children together, took us to the pool and taught us how to swim. "Through the swimming I started taking those few steps without the crutches now and then. Then when I was 3 or 4, I tried walking without the braces, but that was almost impossible at that point. After several operations (at age 11 and 12) I was finally able to get rid of all the braces and crutches." At her graduation from high school in 1969, teachers and high school counselors warned her that her handicap would stand in her way if she enrolled in nursing school. But jobs at a newspaper and an insurance company taught her that she "didn't like being behind a desk."

Federal judge fines Texas International

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — A federal judge has ordered Texas International Airline to pay a maximum $100,000 fine for conspiring against Southwest Airlines in the lucrative intrastate Texas passenger market. U.S. District Judge Edwin Hunter levied the fine as punishment after Texas International decided Thursday not to contest a two-count federal grand jury indictment. The maximum fine was $50,000 on each count. The heavy fine was levied despite arguments by Texas International lawyers that the company now has new management which was not connected with the alleged conspiracy.

Sam Coates, Texas International's vice president and general counsel, changed the company's plea to no contest, replacing an earlier plea of innocent to the charges. Braniff, which also pleaded innocent, was not involved in Wednesday's court action. Hunter, who ordered that Texas International pay its $50,000 fine on each of two counts by Aug. 1, asked the company's lawyers to make their appeals within five days. The company indicated it would appeal the fines.

"There was no challenge. ... I was in a go-nowhere position," she said. "I was very discouraged ... knowing all along that I wanted to be a nurse, and knowing that I could do it myself."

Hunter, who was assigned to hear to the case from the Western District of Texas, said a lesser fine "would in my judgment fail to take due account of the gravity of the offense."

Texas International and Braniff Airways were charged by a 1977 grand jury with conspiring during 1972-73 to keep passengers off Southwest, which began operating in Texas in June 1971. At the time, Southwest was able to offer tickets in its Texas-only service area, at rates substantially below those of Braniff and Texas International. Since Southwest is an intrastate carrier, it was regulated by the state and not by the federal government like the two bigger airlines.

Fourth of July rites planned

The All Veterans Council set plans for Fourth of July memorial services when they met Monday night at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post Home.

On the Fourth, a Veterans parade will form at 8 a.m. at 5th and Main by the Post Office and walk down Main two blocks to the veteran's memorial marker east of the courthouse.

In brief ceremonies, Jack Spivey will be master of ceremonies. Local boy scouts will raise the flag. C.D. Phillips will give the invocation.

The Gold Star Mothers and All Veterans Council will each place a wreath at the foot of the memorial. A guest speaker will be named at a later date.

A coffee will follow at the VFW Post on Drivers Road. Next meeting of the council will be held July 10 at 7 p.m. to elect officers for the coming year.

Cuba aided rebels report says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba assisted Katangan rebels for three years up to the jumping-off point of last month's invasion of Zaire, a White House official said Wednesday in releasing a summary of U.S. intelligence reports.

The summary, based on what the administration official describes as "reliable intelligence sources," dates Cuban involvement with the rebels to 1975, when U.S. intelligence says Cuba equipped and reorganized the Katangan exile forces in Angola.

The White House also says that Cuban and Soviet advisers asked Angola's Marxist government in 1976 to permit raids into Zaire and that Cuban and East German personnel trained the rebels at Saurimo air base in Angola.

The summary was described as "sanitized" to protect U.S. intelligence sources. The White House official, who asked not to be named, would say only that the intelligence sources were not Zairian.

The summary was described as similar to the intelligence material furnished to several congressional committees, but which failed to convince some members of Congress of President Carter's repeated assertions that Cuba was intimately involved in the Zairian invasion.

TW the gra you car

With almost 100 games remaining, here's my prediction for the American League. The Boston Red Sox and Texas Rangers will win their respective divisions.

The Rangers will be riding high throughout the summer regardless of a slump here and there. After all, just like the Yankees last year, they are forming one of the best teams money can buy.

Now, the Red Sox have a couple of oil barons on their club, but that's not the reason they'll continue with their success (six games ahead of the pack), and sew up their pennant earlier than anyone. It's their bench that'll do it...and I don't mean another Johnny, either.

I hate to give compliments to the Bosox, because they are the fave of "Mousse" Werrell, who would sell her cats, fish and husband (not especially in that order), to get within 10 feet of Carlton Fisk. "Oh Pudge, Pudge!" she pines whenever they are on the tube.

But, disgusting as it is, the Bosox have the best backup lineup of anyone in the league. Only a dozen times in the past 60 or so games have the Red Sox fielded their top eight guys who were ready to go in spring training.

Known around Boston as the "Leper Colony" or the "Dirty Half Dozen" during spring camp, the Redlegs are off to their best start since 1946. And no way could they have done it without all 25 guys.

Unlike most teams in the majors, Boston uses more than 12 or 14 of their top players. Ever heard of Bob Bailey, Bob Montgomery, Fred Kendall, Frank Duffy, Jack Brohamer or Bernie Carbo? Well, you will.

They're the main reason Boston went 23-7 in May, despite injuries to George Scott, Butch Hobson, and Luis Tiant not to mention a suspension given Fred Lynn. With guys like Jim Rice, Carl Yastrzemski, Bill Lee, Mike Torrez, Carlton Fisk ("Oh Pudge!"), and Dennis Eckersley joining the talented benchmen, at least half of my prediction is a sure shot.

FYI Mousse et al Bosox fans: Jim Rice's home-run surge in May created a statistical oddity. Of his home-run total of 18, the last 11 came either with the score tied or put the Red Sox ahead to stay.

NOT WITH MY WIFE YOU DON'T! Golfing trick-shot specialist Paul Hahn, who ex-Sports Exec Tommy Hart used to pal around with in his salad days, could hit the ball 200 yards with a clubhead attached to a length of garden hose while standing with one foot on a chair.

Hahn had one trick, however, which caused some trouble. He used a beautiful girl; she lay flat on the ground with the golf ball resting on her lips. Hahn swung and hit the ball without touching the girl.

He soon had to give up showing the trick, though, when he found out that some youngsters were trying to copy the trick using their own girl friends.

Giant pitching staff solid

When Vida Blue was pitching for the vastly depleted Oakland A's in recent years, the running wisecrack was usually, "Blue, then who?"

Now that he's pitching for the San Francisco Giants these days, nobody asks such questions.

The Giants have one of the best staffs in baseball and those infrequent times when Blue is in hot water, there's usually someone efficient like Randy Moffitt to bail him out.

Like Wednesday. "That was a super job, just beautiful," said Blue after the Giants' ace relief pitcher preserved a 2-1 victory for the Giants over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Blue was aiming for his first National League shutout before running into trouble in the ninth. Pinch-hitter Dave Johnson doubled and scored on Jerry Martin's single and after Martin was moved to second base on a sacrifice, Moffitt came into the game.

Moffitt didn't waste any time, striking out two dangerous batters in Mike Schmidt and Greg Luzinski on a total of seven pitches.

In other National League games, the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Chicago Cubs 3-1, the Los Angeles Dodgers stopped the New York Mets 5-3, the Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the Houston Astros 6-4, the Atlanta Braves downed the St. Louis Cardinals 7-1 and the San Diego Padres took a doubleheader from the Montreal Expos, 6-2 and 1-0.

Reds 3, Cubs 1 Manny Sarmiento, making only his third start of the season, teamed with two relievers on a four-hitter to lead Cincinnati over Chicago. Sarmiento, one of the Reds' most effective relievers this year, struck out four and walked two in five innings of two-hit ball. Dave Tomlin and Doug Bair blanked the Cubs the rest of the way with Bair recording his 11th save.

Dodgers 5, Mets 3 Bill Russell's two-run, tiebreaking double in the seventh triggered Los Angeles over New York. Steve Garvey belted two home runs off loser Jerry Koosman, his second homer tying the game in the sixth inning.

Padres 6-1, Expos 2-0 Gene Tenace knocked in two runs and Dave Winfield hit a solo homer to pace San Diego's first-game victory over Montreal. Eric Rasmussen pitched 6-1/3 innings to gain the victory.

Braves 7, Cardinals 1 Jeff Burroughs and Dale Murphy belted home runs to power Atlanta over St. Louis. Adrian Devine, making only his second start of the year, stopped the Cardinals on five hits before giving way to reliever Rick Camp in the eighth inning.

SMILING LEE — Lee Trevino has a big chuckle with fans on the 8th tee at the Cherry Hills Country Club course Wednesday during practice round for the U.S. Open starting Thursday. Trevino goes for his third U.S. Open crown, having won in 1968 and in 1971.

Pirate rally sinks Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Consistency, according to Pirate reliever Kent Tekulve, is what Pittsburgh has been lacking all year.

"Our bullpen has been on and off all season," said Tekulve, who hurled four scoreless innings to nail down his seventh save of the year in the Pirates' 6-4 triumph over the Houston Astros Wednesday night.

"Our team seems to have a good stretch and then a bad stretch, but if we can put it together like I think we can, we'll take off."

The Pirates, who won 96 games last season, but who have been struggling to reach the 500 mark this year, overcame a four-run deficit to take the victory.

A solo homerun by Ed Ott and a three-run blast by Dave Parker paved the way for a four-run Pittsburgh rally in the fifth inning against losing pitcher J.R. Richard, 5-7.

Pinch-hitter Manny Sanguillen followed with a run-scoring single in the sixth and Willie Stargell drove home the Pirates' final run with a seventh-inning double as Pittsburgh prevented the Astros from collecting their first three-game sweep of the year.

Houston scored a first-inning run off Pirate starter Don Robinson on a single by Cesar Cedeno, a stolen base and Jose Cruz' RBI single.

One inning later, Jimmy Sexton drove hom Joe Ferguson with a fielder's choice, preceding a two-run third inning sparked by Art Howe's runcoring single and Dave Bergman's sacrifice fly.

Ed Whitson, 1-1, who came in relief of Robinson with one out in the third inning, pitched 2 2/3 innings of scoreless ball in his longest stint of the season.

"I felt good out there and could have gone longer," Whitson said. "I was glad to see the team bounce back from the two losses in the last two nights. But give Tekulve credit, he saved us."

Chicago White Sox are two games below the 500 mark. But Manager Bob Lemon isn't complaining because the Sox 29-30 record puts them just 2 1/2 games out of first place.

"I don't care about 500. To be in first place and be 490 that's all right with me," Lemon joked after Ron Schueler and Jim Willoughby teamed up Wednesday night to three-hit the Texas Rangers, 4-1. It was the Sox' 16th victory in their last 18 games.

"It's a blessing" to have such a mediocre record and be so close to the division lead, said Texas Manager Billy Hunter. "I just feel that all the clubs (in our division) are not doing near their potential... We just try to make it interesting for the fans. The only thing is, it kills the manager."

"I think everybody's had their pitching carrying the club. The hitters haven't got it going yet," said Lemon.

Schueler, 2-1, carried the load for Chicago. Making only his second start for the White Sox after being signed as a free agent in the off-season, he no-hit the Rangers until Toby Harrah's one-out single in the sixth. And he shut them out until center fielder Henry Cruz spiked himself going for John Lowenstein's deep fly and fell as Lowenstein circled the bases for an inside-the-park homer in the eighth.

"After the sixth inning, Lemon asked me if I was tired. I said 'a little, but keep me in there.' I had a good seventh inning" when he struck out two, said Schueler. His best pitches were a sidearm curve to overhand hitters and an overhand curve to lefties.

"I asked him at the end of seven. He said, 'I'm out of gas but I've got good stuff.' If

Trevino wants 100 Open degrees

DENVER (AP) — Although the temperature during practice rounds had climbed unseasonably and uncomfortably into the 90s, Lee Trevino said he hoped it would get to 100 for the 78th U.S. Open Championship, which was scheduled to get under way today.

The heat was good for his back, now almost fully recovered from surgery in November 1976. Trevino's game, meanwhile, already was sizzling.

There was no mistaking the confidence of this two-time Open winner. And, while this year's event had no clear-cut favorite, it was hard to overlook the stocky Trevino as a top choice.

"I'm playing the best golf of my life right now," said Trevino following a practice round Wednesday. "I've won $160,000 and the Open is just starting. I haven't done that in 12 years."

"I feel very confident. That 65 I had last week really gave me a boost. I almost stole that tournament," he said, referring to his final round in the Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic which vaulted him into the lead for a while. He finished second, losing to Andy Bean on the first hole of the playoff.

Cherry Hills is the longest Open course ever at 7,083 yards. But the thin air at Denver's mile-high altitude has afforded the players 7 to 10 percent more carry on their shots, whittling the course down to something more like 6,400 yards.

Because of its relative shortness, as well as the narrow fairways and treacherous rough, the players planned to use irons off the tee on many of the par 4s.

Jack Nicklaus, for example, said he probably would pull out his driver less than five times a round.

Because of the preponderance of iron play off the tee, Trevino felt the longer hitters must be favored in this year's Open. "They're capable of hitting their 1-or 2-irons out to 270 yards, so they don't need to use the driver," he said.

Nicklaus, golf's all-time leading money winner and holder of 14 major titles, falls into that category, of course. He's overdue, too, not having captured a major tournament since 1975.

Carew won't be traded

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Rod Carew showed up at Metropolitan Stadium Wednesday night wearing a 10-gallon hat and a western-style jacket, but the six-time batting champion won't be leaving the Twins and riding off into the sunset — at least not this season.

Minnesota owner Calvin Griffith said he was terminating efforts to trade the 32-year-old first baseman because offers made by other American League clubs were not "satisfactory."

"We couldn't see anything satisfactory in the offers we received from other teams," said Griffith, who had many of the other league owners drooling this week at the prospect of picking up the league's Most Valuable Player in 1977.

"And, of course, we thought Rod could help us," said Griffith, who is well aware of Carew's .388 batting average last season and his .335 lifetime mark.

Carew, who spurned a $2 million offer over five years by Griffith last week, hinted that it might be better for all concerned if he was traded before tonight's midnight deadline. But Carew also said he wasn't surprised that a deal was not made.

"I really felt there wasn't enough time," he said. "If you're going to make a big trade you have to really get involved and get the players that you need."

"If Mr. Griffith had made trade just for the sake of making a trade I don't think I would have accepted it," said Carew, who can veto any trade.

Griffith said he received offers from New York and Kansas City. The most banteredabout deal had the Yankees offering the Twins pitcher Dick Tidrow, first baseman Jim Spencer, cash and a minor league player. But Griffith quickly turned that down.

Kansas City's offer was refused because Griffith said it didn't include rookie first baseman Clint Hurdle.

Carew, who is being paid about $190,000 in the last year of his three-year contract, said he was not adverse to going to the National League, but if a reasonable contract could be worked out, he would prefer to end his career in Minnesota.

"A lot has been taken off my shoulders and I really feel good right now," Carew said.

A TWIN FOR AWHILE — Minnesota Twins star Rod Carew limbers up with a practice pipe prior to batting practice Wednesday night after learning that Twins president Calvin Griffith had terminated efforts to trade Carew. The Twins went on to defeat Cleveland 8-2.

Scofield is leaving Steer coaching ranks

Rex Scofield, an assistant coach here for nine years, will soon be accepting a similar post at Lamar Consolidated near Houston.

Scofield, who was an assistant baseball coach and receiver coach in football for the Steers in recent years, joins two former Steer assistants at the AAAA school which serves the towns of Richmond and Rosenberg.

Tommy Moss and Mike Caraway, assistants under Bob Burris when he was in Big Spring, are also assistants for Lamar Head Coach Jimmy Keeling. Keeling is formerly of Andrews and took Estacado to the state championship in 1970.

Scofield also has a chance to become head baseball coach at LCHS. Keeling reportedly doesn't like to have other duties, but he is thinking seriously of hiring the affable Scofield for that top spot as well.

Scofield has been interested in a head baseball coaching position for some time.

Big Spring Athletic Director Don Robbins indicated that Moss and Caraway had been contacting Scofield by phone numerous times in recent weeks, asking their fellow North Texas State University alumnus to join them at the south Texas school. Lamar Consolidated now has an almost 100 per cent coaching staff that graduated from NTSU.

Scofield, who came to Big Spring nine years ago straight from NTSU, is married to Indiana native Debbie, and they have two daughters, Tiffany and Darcy.

Lavon Webb, Don Childs and Garland Braun have also resigned recently from the local coaching staff. Webb will be a head football coach in New Mexico, and Childs and Braun are going into private business.

Ranger loss a blessing?

Chicago White Sox are two games below the 500 mark. But Manager Bob Lemon isn't complaining because the Sox 29-30 record puts them just 2 1/2 games out of first place.

"I don't care about 500. To be in first place and be 490 that's all right with me," Lemon joked after Ron Schueler and Jim Willoughby teamed up Wednesday night to three-hit the Texas Rangers, 4-1. It was the Sox' 16th victory in their last 18 games.

"It's a blessing" to have such a mediocre record and be so close to the division lead, said Texas Manager Billy Hunter. "I just feel that all the clubs (in our division) are not doing near their potential... We just try to make it interesting for the fans. The only thing is, it kills the manager."

"I think everybody's had their pitching carrying the club. The hitters haven't got it going yet," said Lemon.

Schueler, 2-1, carried the load for Chicago. Making only his second start for the White Sox after being signed as a free agent in the off-season, he no-hit the Rangers until Toby Harrah's one-out single in the sixth. And he shut them out until center fielder Henry Cruz spiked himself going for John Lowenstein's deep fly and fell as Lowenstein circled the bases for an inside-the-park homer in the eighth.

"After the sixth inning, Lemon asked me if I was tired. I said 'a little, but keep me in there.' I had a good seventh inning" when he struck out two, said Schueler. His best pitches were a sidearm curve to overhand hitters and an overhand curve to lefties.

"I asked him at the end of seven. He said, 'I'm out of gas but I've got good stuff.' If the fellow hadn't slipped in center field, he might have got out of that inning," said Lemon.

Willoughby came on after Jim Sundberg singled and got his seventh save by retiring all five batters he faced.

"Schueler was good. I haven't really determined whether it's the pitching or the hitting. We got one hit last night and three tonight," Hunter said.

"What's the answer? I don't know," said Texas' Richie Zisk, who played for the White Sox last season and struck out twice Wednesday night. "If I had the answer I'd tell Billy Hunter. I'd go out and buy six cases of it immediately."

Chicago scored in the first when Ralph Garr walked and was forced out by Alan Bannister. Loser Jon Matlack, 5-7, had Bannister picked off, but second baseman Bump Willis dropped first baseman Mike Hargrove's throw as Bannister slid in safely. Chet Lemon's single scored Bannister.

A single by Garr, a triple by Bannister, who had three hits, and a single by Lemon added two runs in the third. Garr's double and Bannister's single finished Chicago's scoring in the seventh.

Lowenstein got credit for his second homer of the season when Henry Cruz, who had just come in as a defensive replacement for Bannister in center field, slipped trying to get his deep fly.

Jim Sundberg followed with a single and Willoughby replaced Schueler and retired the next two batters. Schueler, signed in the off-season as a free agent, struck out seven and walked one.

Harrah's single in the sixth sent Bert Campaneris, who

Ain't Soccer fun, guys!?

ONE ALONE FOR AUSTRIA — Austria's Obermayer, left, scores his country's only goal against Holland Wednesday in World soccer cup match at Cordoba. Holland's goalie Schrijvers right, goes up, but fails to prevent the score. The Dutch nevertheless went on to crush Austria 5-1, topping the Group A standings with two points.

THEY BOTH MISSED — Houston Hurricanes goalie Keith Van Eron (1) makes a valiant attempt but the kick by Oakland Stompers Andy Atuegbu gets past him during the first half of the soccer game in Oakland Wednesday. But it didn't matter that Van Eron missed because the kick went wide.

GETS HIS KICKS — Italy's Gaetano Scirea, left, heads the ball away from German player Harald Konopka in Wednesday's World Cup soccer match between world champion West Germany and Italy.

AIR ATTACK — Poland's Zbigniew Boniek leaps over Argentina's captain Daniel Pasarella Wednesday as they go after ball. Argentina's Luis Galvan, right, also heads for the action. Scene took place during Argentina versus Poland match of the second round of the World soccer cup at Argentina's Rosario stadium. Argentina won, 2-0.

Tennis stars shining on

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — Sweden took a 2-1 lead over Yugoslavia after winning their doubles match in the European Zone Davis Cup tennis quarterfinal round.

The Swedish doubles team of Bjorn Borg and Ove Bengtson defeated Yugoslavia's Zeljko Franulovic and Zoltan Ilin 4-6, 6-2, 6-0, 6-0.

Earlier, Zeljko Franulovic completed a singles victory over Sweden's Kjoel Johansson 3-6, 11-9, 7-5, 7-5.

CHICHESTER, England — Tracy Austin of the United States routed Glynnis Coles, the British No. 4 seed, 6-2, 6-2 to move into the quarter-finals of the Keith Prowse tennis tournament.

Another American youngster who gained the quarter-finals was 16-year-old Barbara Potter, a 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 winner over Laura Dupont, another American.

Australian Evonne Goolagong scored a 6-1, 6-1 victory against Michelle Taylor of Britain.

Australian Cynthia Doerner also gained the quarter-finals by downing Marjorie Blackwood, the Canadian No. 1, 2-6, 6-3, 7-5.

NFL teams will hold 45

NEW YORK — National Football League teams will dress 45 players for the 1978 season following agreement by the NFL Players Association to accept the roster limit change, it was announced.

Barons-North Stars merge

MONTREAL — The Cleveland Barons and Minnesota North Stars officially merged, with the new club operating out of Bloomington, Minn. The agreement came after three days of negotiations at the NHL meetings in Montreal.

The rosters of the now-defunct Barons and the North Stars will be combined, with a special dispersal draft of excess players to be conducted. The top 10 skaters and two goaltenders will be exempt from selection.

Nets' owner given time

CORONADO, Calif. — The National Basketball Association's Board of Governors voted to give New Jersey Nets owner Roy Boe until July 28 to get his financial house in order or else face the prospect of losing his franchise. The NBA's Advisory and Expansion Committee, meanwhile, decided to postpone for up to 20 days any action on the proposed shift of the Buffalo Braves.

The governors, in the first session of their summer meetings, also adopted a series of rule changes that included the addition of a third referee, a ban on hand-checking and a strengthening of the prohibition against zone defenses.

Jones scores double play

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Baltimore Colts quarterback Bert Jones and his wife, Danielle, took their new babies home from the hospital Wednesday.

The twins, Molly and Tram, were born prematurely on May 31 in Monroe, La. They had been transferred to Ochsner Foundation Hospital suffering from respiratory distress.

Molly weighs 3 pounds 12 ounces; Tram weighs 4 pounds 13 ounces.

'Bama guard breaks neck

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Alabama offensive guard Dale McMillan is in satisfactory condition in Huntsville Hospital after surgery on his neck, which was broken in a Monday boating accident.

Asked whether McMillan would play football again, his father, Ronald McMillan of Scottsboro, said Wednesday, "We just don't know about that."

McMillan was hurt when the inner tube he was riding behind a boat swerved into a dock. More than 100 stitches were required to close cuts on his head and face.

Cosmos offer mil pact

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The New York Cosmos reportedly have offered Argentine defender Alberto Tarantini a million-dollar contract, but the 22-year-old World Cup player is holding out for more money.

"I don't want to give a definite answer yet because I believe my value will go up as the World Cup matches continue," Tarantini told the newspaper Clarin Wednesday.

Another member of the Argentine team, right wing Daniel Bertoni, has already signed a million-dollar contract and soccer officials fear his transfer to Spain's Club Sevilla may be the first of a mass player exodus after the World Cup.

Heaslip signs as free agent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mark Heaslip, a right winger who began his pro hockey career in the Los Angeles Kings' organization, has signed with the National Hockey League team as a free agent.

Heaslip formerly was captain of Los Angeles' Springfield farm club. He was traded to the New York Rangers in 1975.

A 5-foot-10, 190-pounder, Heaslip played without compensation last season with the Rangers and New Haven of the American Hockey League.

Heaslip, who scored five goals and had 10 assists in 29 games for the Rangers last season, originally signed with the Kings in 1973 out of the University of Minnesota-Duluth.

Terms of his new contract with Los Angeles were not disclosed.

Holland is the team to beat in World Cup

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Goals win the World Cup of soccer. Johnny Rep of Holland, Dirceu of Brazil and Mario Kempes of Argentina each scored two as the second round started, and hopes of their teams went sky-high.

Holland scored five against Austria, and suddenly became the new favorite Wednesday. Goals can lift a team's spirits like champagne. "Holland is the team to beat," said Italian Coach Enzo Bearzot. "It gives a team a big psychological advantage to win by a big margin (5-1) as Holland did today," said Claudio Coutinho, manager of Brazil.

On the other hand, West Germany, the defending champions, appeared pleased to hold the highly rated Italian team to a 0-0 draw. It was the Germans' third scoreless tie in four games since the tournament started — and Coach Helmut Schoen went out of his way to deny it was part of a plan. "Our strategy is not purely defensive," Schoen said. "We very much wanted to win. It would be false to claim that we set out to defend." But Sepp Maier, Germany's 34-year-old veteran of three World Cup campaigns, is the only goalkeeper in the tournament who has not yet conceded a single goal.

The second round is played in two groups of four teams, with the top team in each group going into the final at Buenos Aires' River Plate stadium June 25.

In Group B Wednesday, Brazil beat Peru 3-0, and Argentina defeated Poland 2-0. The best goals of the day were scored by Kempes of Argentina. They allowed his team to prosper despite an almost continuous bombardment at their goal.

Nicklaus sore at revampers

DENVER (AP) — There are golf tournaments and there is the U.S. Open. Any resemblance between the two is purely coincidental. "I don't know why they can't leave traditional golf courses alone," complained

Jack Nicklaus, preparing to tee off today in the 78th U.S. Open Championship over the revamped Cherry Hills course. "Everything is done to keep making courses tougher and tougher. There's no sport where players are not bigger, stronger and better, yet golfers keep shooting the same scores in the Open."

That's the reason you normally can hear the pros screaming from here to Nantucket. "The fairways are so narrow that you have to walk them Indian fashion single-file.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

THAT OPEN LOOK — Jack Nicklaus, a pre-tournament favorite to win the U.S. Open at Cherry Hills Country Club, had this look Wednesday as he teed off in practice round. The Open is scheduled to get underway today at Cherry Hill. Nicklaus, then an amateur, was runnerup to Arnie Palmer in 1960 when the Open last was played at Cherry Hill.

He and other big hitters of the modern game would have cherished the opportunity to drive the 348-yard, par-4 first hole, as Arnold Palmer did in the final round in 1960 to trigger his dramatic winning surge from 7 shots back.

But they won't get the chance. Since that day, the hole has been lengthened 50 yards, the tee set back to form a dogleg and the green put out of the reach of the best sluggers, including Tom Weiskopf and Andy Bean.

New strategic hazards have been sewn into the layout since Arnie made his now legendary charge 18 years ago. The U.S. Golf Association

National League streakers on run

By The Associated Press

Streaking may not be very popular these days elsewhere, but it's the craze in the American League.

Actually, the streaking by the Baltimore Orioles, Milwaukee Brewers, Chicago White Sox and Boston Red Sox has been done fully clothed and with the approval of everybody in the league except their opponents.

The Orioles remained unbeaten in June by taking their 13th straight game and 12th this month, a 5-2 decision over California Wednesday as Jim Palmer won his sixth in a row. Palmer, 9-4, hasn't been scored on by anyone except the Angels since May 20 and has a 0.30 earned run average since then.

Despite their triumphant ways, the Orioles have gained just 3½ games on first-place Boston in the AL East.

The Red Sox increased their latest winning streak to six with a 9-0 whitewashing of Oakland, while Milwaukee extended its victory skein to eight with a doubleheader sweep of Toronto, 7-5 and 5-0, and the White Sox won for the fourth straight time and the 16th in 18 outings with a 4-1 beating of Texas.

At the other end of the streaking spectrum, Seattle dropped its seventh in a row, an 11-9 10-inning loss to the New York Yankees, Cleveland's David Clyde saw his four-game win string snapped by Minnesota, 8-2, and Kansas City stopped Detroit 7-1 to edge into first place in the AL West by .001 percentage points.

Red Sox 9, A's 0
Oakland's winless skein reached seven as the A's slipped from the top in the West. The Red Sox used Luis Tiant's four-hitter and homers by Jim Rice and Carl Yastrzemski to capture their 16th victory in the last 20 games.

Brewers 7-5, Blue Jays 5-0
Milwaukee swept Toronto with Gorman Thomas smashing his 14th homer of the year in the Brewers' opening-game victory and Six to Lezcano getting three hits to back the shutout pitching of Jerry Augustine and Randy Stein in the nightcap.

Yankees 11, Mariners 9
Seattle looked as if it was about to win for the first time at Yankee Stadium, taking a three-run lead into the eighth and then grabbing a 9-7 edge in the 10th on Leon Roberts' pinch-hit homer and Ruppert Jones' sacrifice fly.

It was Paul Blair, however, who ended a negative streak and gave New York the game. Blair had been 0-for-23 against right-handers when he hit a three-run homer off Enrique Romo with his team down 9-8 and two out in the 10th.

Godine leaving Aggies

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Karl Godine's controversial basketball career at Texas A&M has ended, according to the former schoolboy All-American, who says he'll transfer this fall to an NIAA school.

Godine, one of two former Houston Kashmere stars declared ineligible two years ago by the Southwest Conference because of illegal recruiting, told the San Antonio Express that he didn't feel he was playing enough.

Texas A&M basketball coach Shelby Metcalf said Wednesday that Godine's decision not to return for his senior season is "a wise one."

The 6-3 Godine would have a year and a half of eligibility at an NIAA school after sitting out the 18-week waiting period.

Godine and high school teammate Jarvis Williams, who combined to lead Kashmere to 75 consecutive victories and three straight Class 4A schoolboy titles, signed in 1975 to play for the Aggies.

But in February 1976, the SWC declared them ineligible for a season because Texas A&M was found to have given them illegal inducements.

The two players returned to play last fall, but Godine suffered a knee injury on Jan. 28 that finished the season for him. He had been hitting 9.6 points in just an average of 17 minutes per game before the injury.

Williams, meanwhile, said he plans to remain at Texas A&M.

"The knee is coming back," said Godine, who averaged 13.2 points per game before being declared ineligible during his freshman season. "I'm running a little now. It will be on the right track by the time school starts."

"That first year I enjoyed it because I got a chance to play and we were winning. The next year we couldn't play, but we got to practice quite a bit. The third year they didn't really give me the playing time I needed," he added. "I feel like if I went back they would probably give me the same amount of playing time and that wouldn't be enough to show people what I can do."

Metcalf said, "I think it was a wise decision. Two years of work would be best for Karl."

Garden City A's

GARDEN CITY — The Garden City A's pony league club dropped two decisions last week, a 27-2 loss to Bronte, and 13-4 defeat at the hands of Sterling City.

Erby Lopez was the losing hurler against Bronte, as Randy Lister hit a homer in that game, and Allen Winn, Victor Medrano, Robbie Patino and Lopez all hit safely as well.

Against Sterling City, Randy Lister took the loss from the mound, as Victor DeHoyas powered a homer and Lister, Winn, Medrano and Patino all hit safely again.

Ten cowboys to pick up $62,500 in Nebraska

North Platte, Neb., will serve as host city for the Winston Rodeo Awards first-half payoff June 20. The top ten money winners for the first half of the 1978 rodeo season, in each of six Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association events, will be awarded a total of $62,500.

"We paid a total of $55,000 to the first-half winners last year," Kelly Riley, assistant manager of the Rodeo Awards program, said. "For 1978, amounts for the 'bottom five' cowboys have been increased. For example, last year the 9th-place cowboy received $350; this year, he will be awarded $475."

The bonuses awarded for each position will be: First, $2,500; Second, $1,950; Third, $1,300; Fourth, $1,000; Fifth, $800; Sixth, $700; Seventh, $650; Eighth, $600; Ninth, $475; Tenth, $450.

The 7:30 p.m. awards banquet will be preceded by a cowboy golf and tennis tournament at 10:00 a.m. Singles and mixed-doubles rounds will be held, with prizes awarded to the winners.

"The North Platte rodeo committee has worked hard to make this a successful event," Riley said. "They have helped design it so the cowboys can come and enjoy themselves before beginning the big Fourth of July rodeo run."

Winston rodeo bonuses also are awarded to the 10 cowboys who win the most in each event during the second half of the season. When the World Champions are determined at the National Finals Rodeo in December, there is a $5,000 Winston Bonus waiting for each of the titlists. The World All-Around Champion has a $10,000 bundle to look forward to.

"Winston awarded a total of $150,000 to PRCA winners in 1977," Riley said. "For 1978, the bonuses have been increased to total $175,000."

On top of the change in the fifth- to tenth-place disbursements, the increase includes a new $5,000 bonus for each roper of the World Champion team (the award was split between the two in years past) and a new $5,000 bonus to the World Champion Steer Roper.

The Winston Rodeo Awards program came into being in 1971, and PRCA members were given the awards for the first time the next year. At that time, the bonuses totaled $105,000 and paid just the top five cowboys in each event. The first-place cowboy earned $2,000; second place, $1,500; third, $750; fourth, $500; fifth, $250.

"The program has been beneficial to both sides," according to the assistant manager. "Winston executive directors decided it was a way to help the professional cowboy earn what he deserves. Now we're constantly looking for ways to improve the program, and increase exposure for pro rodeo and its athletes."

During the six years the Winston Rodeo Awards have been in existence, a total of 194 professional cowboys have received the bonuses. Tom Ferguson, reigning World Champion Steer Wrestler and All-Around Cowboy, leads the pack in bonus earnings with $61,150 through 1977.

"Winston bonuses have pushed Ferguson over the $100,000 mark each of the past two years," Riley added. Ferguson, Miami, Okla., was the first and only cowboy in professional rodeo history to garner that much in a single year.

Leo Camarillo, Clements, Calif., ranks second on the Winston bonus list with $45,659. Joe Alexander, Cora, Wyo., with $44,300 and Don Gay, Mesquite, Tex., with $39,100 are third and fourth. Division leaders:

Judge agrees to keep beach accesses open

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A state district judge here has approved an agreed judgment that prohibits a South Padre Island developer from building anything that would hamper public access to the beach.

Judge Darrell Hester Wednesday signed the judgment submitted by an assistant state attorney general and lawyers for First Financial Development Co., Inc., of Dallas.

The suit was filed by Jose Uranga of the attorney general's open beach task force.

Man gets bronze medal after 35 years

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — James H. Osborne got a Bronze Star recently for bravery in combat. But there's a catch. He hasn't been in combat since he fought in Italy and North Africa more than 35 years ago.

And Osborne, a 59-year-old retired Army medic, is not exactly sure what deed earned him the medal.

"I was quite surprised, I sure was," Osborne said Wednesday.

"I never thought about receiving a Bronze Star for duty back in World War II."

He theorizes that officials reviewed Army records and determined that combat medics during that time had been overlooked. But he said that's only a guess.

Last January, Osborne spotted a notice in a newspaper for retired Army veterans that medics who served during the bitter fighting in Italy and North Africa might be eligible for a Bronze Star.

"I just thought I'd write in and see if I was eligible. I didn't know if I was or not," he said.

About two months later he got a copy of an Army order awarding him the Bronze Star. The order did not add any details. The medal arrived in the mail last week.

"I think it was because I was a combat medic during that time. That's what I guess it's for. Maybe they were just reviewing records," he said.

"They did say in the notice that the people who might be eligible had been awarded the Combat Medical Badge. I was awarded that medal."

He received service medals and the Combat Medical Badge, but had never been awarded any other medals for valor.

Aggravated sexual abuse convictions affirmed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ruled today that rape testimony at William King's Cass County trial for alleged sexual abuse was proper although he was not charged with rape. King had four convictions for aggravated sexual abuse, and the trial court assessed a life sentence in each case. The appeals court affirmed the convictions and punishment. King filed a motion to exclude all evidence of rape, but testimony was admitted over objection. Court records show that in

Texas Supreme Court upholds trial ruling

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that the Legislature took away the state's right to appeal decisions in favor of juveniles whom prosecutors contend are delinquents.

The court upheld a trial judge's summary judgment dismissing a state petition alleging two Dallas youths had committed a theft and should be declared delinquent. The state had not responded to the youngsters' motions for a summary judgment, based on their own sworn statements.

Summary judgments, in effect, throw a case out of court without a full trial. The 5th Court of Civil Appeals at Dallas had ruled that the state could appeal because juvenile proceedings are civil, not criminal matters.

In reversing the trial court, the Dallas appeals court said the Family Code was intended "to protect juveniles from the taint of criminality and to treat and rehabilitate them. Whether a juvenile has engaged in delinquent conduct and consequently is in need of supervision or rehabilitation cannot be adequately determined by affidavits."

Further, the appeals court said, a summary judgment "is not permissible in a proceeding to ascertain whether a juvenile is in need of supervision, or whether the juvenile has engaged in delinquent conduct."

The Supreme Court said the Family Code allows a youth to appeal from a court order but denies that right to the state. "This omission is particularly significant," the Supreme Court said, when compared with previous juvenile laws "which granted the right of appeal 'any party agreed.' We conclude that by this omission the Legislature did not grant the state the right to appeal from adverse judgments in juvenile delinquency proceedings."

In other cases, the Supreme Court: — Granted $4,660 in damages to Lucille Lee, whose 71-year-old father was struck and killed on an interstate highway near Big Spring, after he was ejected from a Continental Trailways bus.

State awards contract to child service

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Parenting Services Inc. has been awarded a $20,000 state contract for a training program to benefit mothers and expectant mothers in Randall and Potter counties. Funding will be used to train volunteers to work with mothers referred by various local agencies. The volunteers will provide one-to-one counseling in child development, parent-child relationships and community programs for children and families.

The program will be funded through Dec. 31 by the Early Childhood Development Division of the Texas Department of Community Affairs. One of the two small language parties in the coalition, the Front for the Defense of the French-

Belgian coalition breaks down

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Prime Minister Leo Tindemans' four-party government coalition broke up today, and government sources said he would submit the cabinet's resignation to King Baudouin later today. The government collapsed when Tindemans' Christian Democrats and the Socialists, the two biggest parties in the coalition, could not agree on a new budget and tax bill. The Socialists refused to agree to a proposal by Budget Minister Marc Eyskens, a Christian Democrat, to limit unemployment allowances to the needy.

Speaking, also threatened recently to refuse to support the budget and tax bill unless the government went ahead with a bill to divide the country along language lines, into a Flemish-speaking northern sector, a French-speaking southern region and bilingual Brussels. Tindemans' coalition took office on June 3, 1977, following a general election six weeks before. For weeks it has been trying to work out financial legislation reducing government expenses and tapping new sources of revenue.

Another look: Plea bargaining in Boulder

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — A plea-bargaining reform program instituted by the district attorney here in January has increased the number of felony trials, distressed defense attorneys, burdened judges and cost the taxpayers some money.

It has also begun to increase public confidence in the criminal justice system, says District Attorney Alex Hunter, and that is what it was intended to do.

"Everywhere I go I'm having people pat me on the back and tell me to stick in there and fight the defense lawyers," says Hunter.

Plea bargaining is the practice under which a criminal defendant is allowed to plead guilty to one charge in exchange for the dropping of more serious charges or the promise of a lenient sentence. It is widely practiced in Boulder County by overworked district attorneys, and widely criticized.

Hunter announced late last year that his office would no longer engage in plea bargaining. Defendants would be charged appropriately, plead guilty and go to jail, or go on trial.

There have been 29 felony trials in the District Court here so far this year. There were 23 trials in all of 1977.

"I projected that we would triple our trials this year, and that is where we are headed," Hunter said in a recent interview. "The public wants it and deserves it."

Not everyone is as enthusiastic as Hunter, 42, who is in his second term as the elected district attorney in Boulder County, a county northwest of Denver with a population of 200,000.

"I've been working my tail off," said Rex Scott, chief judge of the District Court. "I don't think I'm going to be able to cope indefinitely."

To help cope, Scott has assigned felony criminal trials to judges in the civil division of the District Court and judges in the County Court, who usually handle only misdemeanor cases.

In the public defender's office, which represents 65 percent of the criminal defendants in the county, staff attorneys at one point worked 30 days without a day off.

The defender's office did get money to hire one additional investigator, at a

Tax breaks for students pointed out

If you are a student or are a parent of a student who is planning to work this summer, you may be entitled to some tax breaks, the Internal Revenue Service says.

The IRS points out that students who expect to gross less than $2,950 in 1978 do not have to pay Federal withholding taxes if they did not pay income tax for 1977. Also, a married student does not have to pay taxes if he or she expects to gross, with spouse, less than $3,600. The Form W4, which employers can supply, is used to stop withholding.

The IRS advises parents that they may claim their son or daughter as a dependent regardless of how much income their child earns providing he or she meets basic dependency tests and are full-time students for any part of five months of 1978. One of the main dependency tests is that the parents must furnish their son or daughter more than one-half total support.

On the liability side of the ledger, students employed in businesses where they may receive tips of $20 or more a month at any one job are reminded by the IRS that such income is taxable. The amount of these tips should be reported to employers, and a daily record of tips should be kept showing the employer's name, date and amount of tips received.

Agents recover explosives

HOUSTON (AP) — Federal agents, who recovered about 700 pounds of stolen dynamite Wednesday in Texas and Louisiana, say they believe 80 pounds of the high-grade explosive may still be missing.

Daniel Carrasco, acting resident agent in charge of the Houston office of the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, said more than 1,000 pounds of the substance was stolen from a Louisiana seismicographic company several weeks ago.

About 350 pounds was recovered last week near New Iberia, La., but officers Wednesday found most of the remaining dynamite at scattered locations in eastern Texas and Louisiana.

The recoveries came following the arrest late Tuesday of James Shotwell, 19, of Huntsville, Texas, on a warrant issued last week by Louisiana state police.

Shotwell was employed at the seismicographic company until about two weeks ago. Police said he was arrested on a Huntsville car lot after crawling into a car to spend the night. He was being held for Louisiana authorities. Carrasco said that agents early Wednesday, acting on information they received, recovered about 85 pounds of the missing dynamite in southeast Houston. Another 230 pounds was found near the same location later Wednesday.

Carrasco said officers also recovered about 30 pounds at two locations near Conroe, Texas.

And, finally, agents in Baton Rouge, La., recovered another 350 pounds of the dynamite in a field near Lafayette, La., Wednesday evening.

Carrasco said blasting caps, which also had been reported stolen, were found with the dynamite each time. He said the dynamite was usually found near a road, covered in some brush.

He said about 10 pounds of the dynamite is believed to have been exploded already.

The dynamite—contained in bright orange plastic cylinders about 22 inches long and 2 1/2 inches in diameter—is used by oil drillers to take seismicographic soundings from the ground.

Japanese help Carter's speeches

WASHINGTON (AP) — If President Carter's speech-making style seems improved lately, and many observers agree that's the case, part of the credit should go to Japanese technology.

Carter began to worry about his somewhat leaden delivery about six months ago and set out to do something about it.

His solution: to tape his practice recitals of speech texts, both for timing and delivery. By listening to the tapes, he often detects rough spots in time to polish his presentation before facing an audience.

Initially, Carter read his texts into large, professional recorders manned by technicians of the White House Communications Agency.

But he soon discovered that if he wanted to listen to the tapes in his living quarters after normal working hours, he had to summon the technicians and their bulky equipment.

Seeking a more convenient system, the president got himself a small Japanese-made recorder — the kind that fits in a suit pocket and uses tape cassettes about the size of a book of matches.

Now reporters can tell in advance when Carter is planning a speech he considers important. His tiny recorder usually has a prominent place on his office desk.

Press secretary Jody Powell opened his office refrigerator to get ice for a cooling drink at the end of a long day last weekend. But the stench coming from inside the box drove him away.

It seems one of Powell's aides, Randy Lewis, had caught two bluefish on Chesapeake Bay two weeks earlier and had expected them to remain perfectly preserved indefinitely in his boss' refrigerator.

An angry Powell summoned Lewis by telephone to remove the offensive remains. A chastened fisherman entered the office with his head hidden in a paper sack that had holes only for his eyes.

At Powell's insistence, Lewis not only got rid of his catch but also scrubbed out the refrigerator.

Year-old James Earl Carter IV, accompanied by household employee Mary Fitzpatrick and a Secret Service agent, walked to the presidential helicopter at Camp David, Md., on Sunday while his grandfather followed in a limousine.

A Marine in dress blues greeted the trio of hikers with a snappy salute. Since agents and staff members don't generally get saluted, it presumably was for the baby.

Fiesta del Concho Talent showcase booked at Angelo

SAN ANGELO — Miss Texas, Lori Smith, will be one of the featured entertainers during the popular Fiesta del Concho Talent Showcase here. Acts ranging from singing and dancing to comedy and musical will provide several great evenings of entertainment for audiences.

Preliminary talent events are set for June 21 and 22, with finals planned for June 24. All will begin at 8 p.m. each evening in the Sarah Bernhardt Theatre.

All types of talent are welcome and entries may be groups or singles. This year's contest will include two big divisions. In teen-age and adult divisions, awards to be presented are $150 for first place, $100 for second, and $50 for third. Children and Junior high age participants will receive prizes and certificates.

Audience tickets for the preliminaries are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. Tickets to the finals are $2 for adults and $1 for children. "I feel we have more talent than ever," commented Marion Szurek, Fiesta stage chairman. Last year there were 50 entries in the talent show.

Numerous local television and radio personalities will alternate during the evening as emcees introducing the acts.

Fiesta del Concho '78 will also offer persons with the showbusiness itch a chance to do their own thing by getting involved in the free stage — which is free to both participants and audience alike.

The Free Stage will be featured at 6 p.m. June 17 as part of the Festival at Old Fort Concho and at 10 a.m., June 24 and 12:30 p.m. June 25 in the river area.

A barber shop quartet, puppet show, gospel group and several bands are just a sample of what will be offered to the audience's entertainment.

All a group has to do to become a participant in the Free Stage is to reserve a time during the featured days by contacting the Chamber of Commerce or mailing in a form found in the San Angelo Standard-Times. Groups must be booked by June 17.

Sixteen floats will make up the annual Fiesta del Concho '78 River Parade, planned for 9 p.m. Friday, June 23, along the Concho River.

Viewers will be able to see the parade by gathering along the river in Santa Fe Park. There will be six commercial floats and 10 civic floats.

Miss Texas, Lori Smith, and the 22 Fiesta del Concho ambassadors will be featured riders on the parade floats.

New show to air on WWII

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The late Ernie Pyle gained considerable fame and respect in World War II with his brilliant reports on the common soldiers, sailors and airmen fighting in the war.

Now, Arthur Holch, a documentary-maker, is taking the same approach 33 years after the war's end with a new syndicated series airing this fall. The show is "World War Two: G.I. Diary."

"I don't think we could ever top Ernie Pyle, but that's the direction we're going," says Holch, whose series, made for Time-Life Television, already is bought by TV stations in 79 markets. "Diary" consists of 25 half-hour shows, all narrated by actor Lloyd Bridges. It blends combat footage from World War II with recollections of those who actually fought in the war.

"We're going from personal interviews with the people who have stories to tell," Holch said by phone from New York, where he began the project last October.

"But it's not the kind of documentary where you have a strategic overview of the war as told by generals." Instead, those sent by the generals into combat are the "stars" of each show.

He says the combat veterans whose tales are told in "Diary" were tracked down through various wartime reunion groups, veterans' organizations and with ads placed in military publications.

Holch has no estimate of how many vets were interviewed, "but our office has been literally inundated by people with stories to tell. Our file cabinets are bulging with letters and photographs."

Each "Diary" averages three stories. The series covers every major wartime theater, from China to North Africa, Italy and Europe.

Citing examples, Holch said one show is about Christmas for GIs during different war years, how it went in North Africa or during the Battle of the Bulge. Another is about a B-29 raid on Tokyo.

Another, about B-17 bombing raids over Germany, includes footage from the wartime aviation classic, "Memphis Belle," plus the personal accounts of the plane's surviving crew members.

Much of the combat footage acquired from the military and the National Archives is in color, he adds, most of that by Navy and Marine photographers "who shot almost nothing but color."

Gas station owners celebrates Maryland's 1974 law upheld

BALTIMORE (AP) — Charlie Gladstone thought he might be serving hot dogs when the Supreme Court finished with a Maryland law forbidding oil companies from operating their own gas stations.
Instead, he served champagne.
"I just want to share my excitement with all the people that helped me and let them know I care," said Gladstone as he poured a glass of the bubbly at his Citgo station in north
Baltimore Wednesday.
Hours earlier, the Supreme Court had ruled 7-1 that Maryland's 1974 law was legal and does not interfere with interstate commerce, as the oil companies had argued.
Gladstone, then an officer of the Maryland Independent Service Station Dealers Association, had helped convince the General Assembly of a need for such a law after the gasoline shortages that accompanied the 1973 Arab oil embargo.
The measure prohibits oil companies from operating retail gasoline service stations. Delaware, Florida and the District of Columbia, like Maryland, reacted to the 1973 shortages by enacting similar laws. Similar legislation is being considered by 32 other state legislatures.
Once Maryland's law was passed, the statute was immediately attacked by eight oil companies and the Petroleum Marketing Corp.
Gladstone said he was convinced the law was just, but he started looking at other lines of employment just in case.
"I let tire stocks at my station run down because I

Baltimore, Md., service station.

didn't know what I'd do if the law was thrown out," he said. "I seriously considered going into some other line of work. I thought maybe I'd sell hot dogs."
Striking down the law would have spelled disaster for independently run stations, which make up about 95 percent of the gasoline outlets in Maryland,
Gladstone said.
"There's no way a small retailer could compete with the big oil companies," he said. "Not when they're controlling the product from the wellhead to the nozzle.
They can say what price will be charged."
One oil industry analyst, Dan Lundberg, publisher of an authoritative industry newsletter, said the court's ruling may have a "momentary" effect on prices at the gas pump, but Maryland Attorney General
Francis B. Burch said it ultimately lead to lower gasoline prices.
Gladstone also said the decision would lead to lower prices for motorists, although he stopped short of predicting a return of the gasoline price wars of the 1960s.
"This is just a very refreshing decision," said Gladstone, who offered the champagne to all visitors and five gallons of gasoline free to the first 40 drivers who stopped by his station
Wednesday afternoon.

Farm Agriculture Department reports are pessimistic

WASHINGTON (AP) —
Although the idea of making fuel from grain still has its advocates, the Agriculture Department is circulating reports which present a pessimistic view that large portions of the corn crop will never be used to run the family automobile.
Two publications distributed this week include items explaining gasohol — the term used to describe a fuel mixture of grain alcohol and gasoline — and the problems of developing a widely used energy source from grain.
The articles are based on a report called "Gasohol from Grain — the Economic Issues" which was prepared for the Task Force on Physical Resources of the House's budget committee.
One was included in the current issue of Farm Index and the other in Agricultural Situation, both published by the department's Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service.
Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan.,
meanwhile, said this week that he continues to support gasohol research as an alternative to conventional fossil fuel.
"Up to now, it has been uneconomical to produce gasohol because the calories used to make the alcohol exceeded the amount of calories produced by the finished product," Dole said.
"It also takes fossil fuels to produce the alcohol."
The USDA report noted that a mixture of 10 percent grain alcohol — also called ethanol — and 90 percent regular gasoline can be used as fuel without engine modifications.
"According to some studies, if grain alcohol is to replace 10 percent of the gasoline used for fuel, 40 percent of the total grain harvest must be diverted to ethanol production," the report said.
If this were done, it said,
"such a slice out of the grain supply would mean either supplies of grains for food and feed would be very tight — resulting in higher consumer prices — or farmers would have to boost acreage substantially."
Dole and many other farmbelt Congressmen have supported gasohol research also on grounds that it could lead to a much larger, more profitable market for grain farmers.

Nations' border passes through woman's bed

BEEBE PLAIN, Vt. (AP) — When she wants to leave the country, all Aurore Mosher has to do is turn over in bed. The U.S.-Canadian border passes smack through the middle of it.

"To other people, it may seem strange," the 72-year-old Mrs. Mosher says. "But I've been here 44 years. I don't know the difference anymore."

The differences are many. When one's house is in two countries at once, simple things — like paying bills — become complicated.

"I used to have two telephones, one in the bedroom and one in the dining room," Mrs. Mosher says. "But my bedroom is in Canada, so I had to have a Canadian phone in there.

And my dining room phone belonged to the American phone company."

The result: two telephone numbers — and two service charges. Mrs. Mosher gave up her bedroom phone. "It just got too expensive."

Two sets of income taxes paid with two types of currency are not the least of Mrs. Mosher's worries now. Whenever she goes out, she carries two wallets; one with American money, a second with Canadian.

She uses Canadian money to pay for American water provided by Canada. "The water is a strange one," she says. "It comes from Vermont Springs, which carry it downhill to Beebe, Quebec. From there, it's brought back into Vermont."

The house, which Mrs. Mosher shares with her 84-year-old husband, Leon, once was the U.S. post office for both Beebe, Quebec, and Beebe Plain, Vt. Because their front door is in the United States, the Moshers are considered Vermont residents.

The towns would flow together were it not for two customs houses and a gaudily painted border crossing, masquerading as a crosswalk.

The Mosher's granite house forms the apex of an unlikely triangle with the customs houses across the street.

Mrs. Mosher, a native of Beebe, Quebec, is a talkative, friendly woman, who looks younger than her years.

Ridin' fence — Ran a local motel

Mrs. Ina Lee Baldrige is 88 and is living quietly here in Big Spring, not bothering anybody.

But she has a wealth of memories of Big Spring even though she didn't move here until 1941.

Because when she moved here, it was the beginning of the war years. The Bombardier school soon went in and Big Spring was booming.

Mrs. Baldrige and her husband Percy B. were in a business where they noticed the action. They were running the Mayo Ranch Motel.

In those days, that was one of the busiest and one of the most modern motels in the area and it was located right on the highway, since the highway came straight through Big Spring on 3rd and 4th Streets.

"We had come from Memphis, Tex., and this was really a swinging place," she recalled.

She also had lived in Dallas for a number of years, serving as a fitter for Neiman-Marcus. She also designed dresses for 12 years at a dress factory and had taken a course in fashions.

"It's interesting how many different things you can get into during a lifetime," Mrs. Baldrige stated.

She said her father came to the Waco area, which is where she lived when a child. "My father was Irish and my mother French," she recalled.

She said her husband, "Percy Baldrige was as English as plum pudding."

She related that her nephew from Dallas originally built the old Mayo tourist camp here and then when "people began to travel more and demand better overnight facilities, we remodeled it twice."

She said that they finally sold it during 1972 after her husband had a stroke and could not operate it anymore.

"Motels are one thing that really changed every decade for awhile," Mrs. Baldrige recalls.

She said, "In the 30s, tourist camps were just a room, a shower and a clean bed. Nobody demanded radios or telephones and swimming pools."

Mrs. Baldrige recalls that it was during the 40s that swimming pools began to be popular at motels and that "Everybody liked to stop where there was a pool. It was the thing to do."

Then, she said, "In the 50s, the motels began to put telephones in every room and soon everybody had to do it. They wanted air conditioning. They were not tourist campus anymore. Starting with World War II, they all became motels to compete with the big hotels."

Mrs. Baldrige said, "By the 60s, everybody wanted a television, and coffee served in the morning. Even though most motels had not even had a radio in the room, suddenly people wanted a television — said they couldn't go to sleep without it," she laughed.

"By the 70s, they wanted air conditioning, telephones, television, swimming pools and piped in music," she added. "And they really like to have a club room and some places even have movies in the rooms, I understand."

Mrs. Baldrige paused. "But the motel business was good to us and we enjoyed our 30 years of running the Mayo here in Big Spring — in the swinging days of World War II and after."

And Mrs. Baldrige has been around here a long time with most of her years spent out by the motel fence.

Roadblocks to check truckers

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Tuesday his agents will set up roadblocks in South Texas this month to check truckers' permits to make sure they comply with motor fuel and other state laws.

The roadblocks will be on major highways south of a line from San Antonio to Victoria, Bullock said in a statement.

"If a trucker doesn't have a permit, I suggest strongly that he get one because the chances are good that we are going to ask to see it," Bullock said.

Greeting card poets living close together

RIDGEFIELD, CONN. (AP) — Dolph Simons, publisher of the Lawrence, Kansas Journal-World, tells me there's a suburb of Kansas City where the poets laureate of the greeting card industry live side by side, street after street like a living anthology of rhyme, reason and rose bushes.

I dream about this blissful bit of suburbia all the time, its orderly lawns indented by driveways in their metered poetic flow, the two-car garages repeated in tasteful couplets, here and there a development of 14 mock-Tudor mansions for the sonneters and three rows of tiny-Japanese-style condominiums, 17 in all, grouped together on Haiku Heights, as the Realtor so charmingly named it.

In my mind's eye I have been there a thousand times. I can recognize most of the neighbors on sight, gathered about the frozen rhyme counter at the supermarkets, swapping cheerful stanzas on the street corners, chuckling over a bit of X-rated birthday verse.

Like the stage manager in Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," I sometimes imagine myself leading strangers around this unique Poets Corner on the outskirts of Kansas City.

There in that cute red and green house on the corner with the iron reindeer on the roof and the peppermint stick holding the mail box live the Christmas card laureates, a whole rollicking jolly family of them straight out of Dickens. The door chime tolls the first eight notes of "White Christmas". All year long the tall Norwegian pine on the lawn blinks with colored lights, and most days the parcel post van drops off bag loads of gaily decorated packages.

"Season's greetings, buen natale and a cool Yule," sings out the cherubic little man riding up the driveway in his motorized snowplow in the hot June sunshine. He trips an electric eye and the garage door swings open to reveal an enchanting miniature train layout.

That scholarly looking chap in the cap and gown, heading off to the supermarket with his grocery list furled in a blue ribbon, has got to be the valedictorian versifier. And the thatched cottage over yonder with the shamrocks carved in the shutter, begorrah, must belong to the bard of St. Patrick's Day.

Down at the bottom of Lover's Lane that ivy-covered cottage where the roses are always red and the violets always blue belongs to you know who: old lover boy himself, the poet laureate of St. Valentine's Day.

Can't you tell by the cupid on the weathervane and the greyhaired couple on the porch swing harmonizing to the ukelele thump of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart"?

The Only "For Sale" in the whole happy suburb is on the house that belonged to the fellow who wrote those overdue and remittance cards for the local bank.

He defaulted on his mortgage and had to sell his rhyming dictionary for a song.

Neighbors are getting together to send him a card.
