It'll take Bob Speca, the Pennsylvania collegian who reaps dividends from his practical application of the domino theory, the better part of three days to set up 20,000 "rocks" for his demonstration during the first annual Championship Texas-Style Domino Tournament here later this month.

Several television stations likely will send teams here to film the event, a development that should hype the gate.

Herman Kahn, a futurist and architect of U.S. nuclear strategy, says that the Department of Education and Welfare must absorb much of the blame for the state of education in the United States, an institution that has been in decline for the past ten years.

Reading and arithmetic scores have been doing down. When HEW did a study, it decided a racial balance of faculties and the shortage of women principals were largely to blame, says Kahn.

Busing to achieve integration in schools "by sending kids long distances to bad schools" is insanity, says Kahn, who founded the Hudson Institute think tank in New York.

He says the country is being taken over by a neoliberal and humanitarian leftist class, which he refers to as "health and safety fascists."

"You can fornicate in public and that's fine," Kahn says, "but you light up a cigarette, and they shoot you down like a dog... Our national policy (for energy) is coal, but the government says you can't mine it and you can't burn it... Some policy."

I'm checking out the story that Mrs. Paul Revere once said to her husband: "I don't care who you say is coming. This is my night to use the horse."

Xavier Cugat, who at 78 is now recognized as the husband of Charo, first attracted attention at the age of six when he was invited to play with the Cuban Symphony Orchestra.

He later accompanied Enrico Caruso on the great tenor's trips around the world.

If you should go before me, dear, walk slowly

Down the ways of death, well-worn and wide, For I shall want to overtake you quickly And seek the journey's ending by your side.

I shall be so forlorn not to decry you Down some shining highroad when I come, Walk slowly, dear, and often look behind you And pause to hear if someone calls your name.

One of the most unusual episodes in American history occurred in 1776 when a British major named Patrick Ferguson, invariably on target with a gun, had Gen. George Washington in his rifle sights at close range, but elected not to pull the trigger.

It was solely the instinct of chivalry which spared the American Commander-in-Chief.

On advance patrol with two subalterns, covering for the deployment of Knyphausen's division of William Howe's British Army in eastern Pennsylvania, they spotted a mounted Gen. Washington and a hussar officer through the undergrowth, coming toward them.

Ferguson had never seen the American general in the flesh but instantly recognized by his dress that Washington was a man of high station. The Scotsman had seen multiple prints and cheap woodcuts of the general.

Ferguson's impulse was to dispatch both men and he first signaled to his fellow soldiers to fire at the riders. Almost immediately, however, he preemptively signaled for them to withhold their fire.

Ferguson had been raised on the highland grouse moors in the traditional sporting code, where the very idea of shooting a sitting bird was anathema.

Ferguson rose from his place of concealment and called to Washington's aide. Even then, he could have dropped both men with half a dozen shots but, for some reason, withheld his fire. The Americans quickly retreated.

The British and Washington's troops were to skirmish shortly thereafter and the British were to prevail but Ferguson's right elbow was shattered by a rifle bullet. He recovered from the wound but it soon became obvious he would never again be able to use his right arm.

Ferguson returned to combat using only his left arm. It was his fate to be mortally wounded by a group of Mountain Men at King's Mountain in 1780. His body was punctured by seven rifle balls.

Ron Guidry, star pitcher of the New York Yankees, weighs but 152 pounds and looks as if he'd sail away in a high wind. Looks, however, can be deceiving.

Guidry not only is the strongest man on the Yankee club, he's the swiftest. He can bench-press 450 pounds with legs that look something like matching pencils.

He's faster than Mickey Rivers, recognized as the most rapid man in Yankee livery — in fact, he's ranked right up there in New York folklore with Mickey Mantle. In his salad days, Mickey never bent the grass when he ran.

Guidry's career has been meteoric but it could be short-lived. He uses only two pitches — a fastball and a slider. In delivering them, he puts such strain on his arm he could destroy it.

Do people really taste the toothpaste they put in their mouths? A U.S. Navy research team says no, that the flavor never gets back to the taste buds.

A boatload of salts ran out of toothpaste at sea one time and were issued cake soap to dab on their brushes. No one complained.

An expert wood carver once told me that it's a fairly simple process to shape the image of a buffalo from a block of wood.

"All you do," he explained, "is whittle off the part that doesn't look like a buffalo."

The handbag is the greatest clue to a woman's individuality. So say industrial psychologists.

The woman with as many as 29 items in her purse comes off as a compulsive worrier. She's never sure she has everything. Even though she might be listing to starboard, lugging the thing around, she's telling herself she should have brought an even larger valise.

The items she reasons she can't do without include lipstick, powder, cleansing tissues, mirror, comb, brush, a money purse, emery board, pen, stamps, identification cards (including licenses), writing pad, a safety pin, checkbook and sunglasses.

Some women even carry their marriage licenses and the phone number of their lawyer around with them, whatever that signifies.

Children all had their chores

With 16 kids, order essential

By CARLA WALKER
 "It really wasn't difficult. All the kids had their particular chores and they accepted the responsibility. They had a very healthy respect for their father and we never had discipline problems," said Mrs. Bill (Bertie Mae) Robinson, raised 16 children in Glasscock County.

That respect and the hard-working young life of the 16 children on a cotton farm is evident today. Not one of them has ever been in trouble during their school years at Garden City High School or with the law.

"The children knew that if they got in trouble at school, there were going to get in trouble at home unless they had a good, truthful explanation," Mrs. Robinson said. "Sometimes I think parents go to battle for their kids — right or wrong — too much and the kids learn disrespect for all authority, including the parents."

With 16 children — 10 at home at one time — there had to be some organization to accomplish even simple tasks like preparing meals and cleaning house.

"The older girls had their own duties, helping me cook, wash clothes, clean or watch the younger children. The boys all helped their father, and the girls also did a lot of outside chores," Mrs. Robinson said.

the house, one or two more was no problem and made little difference in the amount of food consumed.

"Becky, Debra and Jerry Don were probably the only ones to ever have a bedroom to themselves, although with the older kids coming to visit in the summers, they still had to share with visiting nieces and nephews who were as old or older than they were," Mrs. Robinson said.

"That was always hard for others to understand," she continued, "that my eleventh child, Loren, was in the same high school class with my grandson, Bert Hilger. By the time Loren was born, Viola was already married and her son, Bert, was born the same year as Loren.

"So, technically, Becky, my youngest, has nephews who are 10 years older than she is. If that isn't confusing, I don't know what is, but we always keep it straight — it's their classmates and acquaintances who get confused," Mrs. Robinson laughed.

To make matters worse, Mrs. Robinson has a daughter and a daughter-in-law named Mary, and the same situation with Betty. She also has a son and son-in-law named Jim.

"We always have to use a middle name when two with the same name are together, or we have to say John's Betty — meaning his wife — or Deanie's Jim, meaning her husband.

"Of course, with so many children, it is almost impossible to get everyone here at once," said Mrs. Robinson, who has 31 grandchildren, six great-grandchildren, and one more of each on the way. Two grandchildren were killed in separate traffic accidents.

"There were 39 here at Mother's Day, and it was quite a houseful," said Mrs. Robinson. "The last time the whole family was together was in 1974 when Bill died."

Mr. Robinson (Bill) died while working on the High School football field when a goal post fell on him. He and Mrs. Robinson had been married over 46 years, having lived all but 11 years of their married life around Garden City. Bill was a county commissioner at the time of his death.

"This town has been good to us," Mrs. Robinson said. "Seems like they always rallied behind anyone who needed help. I remember in December, 1943, our house burned down.

"We think the oil stove exploded in the kitchen, but we were in the other end of the house, and when we discovered the fire, we only had time to get the children out. The house was completely destroyed, and it was early in the morning with a cold norther blowing in. I was eight months pregnant at the time and all our belongings burned with the house so we were really in need.

"The town helped us — I can never forget or repay what they did for us," Mrs. Robinson added. "This is a good place to live."

According to one of the older daughters, the family provided its own recreation for the most part, playing baseball and never failing to have at least one weekend guest. Hard work and fun were just part of living.

"Mother washed on a ringer washer up until five years ago. I guess she just never really thought she needed an automatic washer because she was used to hard work," said Mrs. Robinson's namesake, Bertie Wooten.

"Looking back, I sometimes wonder how we made it," said Mrs. Robinson. "But, all the kids were like their father, hard workers, and they all pitched in to take care of what had to be done. We always managed to keep food on the table. With that many children, though," she laughed, "there sure weren't many scraps left for the dogs."

"I'm just glad to say that I have 16 children and a whole bunch of grandchildren that I can be proud of. A mother couldn't want any more than that."

Defendant's presence ruling made

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A justice of the peace may not proceed with a trial on misdemeanor charges if the defendant or his attorney are not present — except under certain conditions — Attorney General John Hill said Friday.

The trial may proceed in the absence of the defendant or his lawyer, Hill said, if the defendant has pleaded guilty or no contest.

Also, Hill said in response to an inquiry, a defendant's cash bond is invalid and unenforceable unless the defendant has signed his name to the bond.

Energy

Turn thermostat up to cut power costs

Above-average temperatures are driving up electric bills, warned Jack Redding, Texas Electric Service Company manager.

"This summer's temperatures are a lot higher than normal, and that means air conditioners are working harder and using more electricity than normal," said Redding.

"Also, bills are higher this summer because of our last rate increase. Most of the increase is reflected in summer rates," Redding said.

"But there are several things people can do to cut their use of electricity and keep the increase in their bills as low as possible," Redding said.

One of the best ways is to turn the air conditioner thermostat up to 78 degrees or higher. For each degree above 75 an air conditioner uses about five percent less energy.

People with window air conditioning units should rely on a room thermometer to set the temperature control rather than on what "feels right," Redding said.

"Room fans will help a lot in making the higher thermostat settings more comfortable," Redding said. If the house will be empty all day, the thermostat should be raised five degrees or the unit turned off. It cost less to turn the unit back on than to leave it running all day.

"Another good way to save energy is to tighten up your house," said Redding. "Insulation is a good idea, but you'd be surprised what a little weatherstripping and caulking will do."

Doors and windows are the most common places air leaks are found.

"There are a couple of things people can do that won't cost them anything, like pulling the drapes and keeping the doors closed," said Redding.

Pulling the drapes and closing blinds keeps the sunshine from heating up the air inside the house, which reduces the load on the air conditioner.

"The cost of electricity is going up just like the cost of everything else. We're doing our best to keep the increase as low as possible, and our customers can help themselves by conserving whenever possible," Redding said.

Robin named chief geologist in Fina Offshore Division

HOUSTON — Appointment of Royce C. Robin as chief geologist in the Offshore Division of the Exploration Department of American Petrofina Company of Texas was announced here today.

Also in the Offshore Division, the addition of Norm Weingarten as a geophysicist was announced.

Robin, a native of Voth, Tex., joined Fina as an offshore geologist in 1965. He graduated from Texas A&M University in 1954 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Geological Engineering. Robin is a member of the Houston Geological Society.

Weingarten, a native of Sharon, Pa., received a Bachelor of Science degree in Geophysics in 1955 from Pennsylvania State University. Prior to joining Fina, he spent 20 years with Chevron Oil Company in its Geophysical Division. Weingarten is a member of the Society of Exploration Geophysicists.

'Nurse Goodbody' no Flo Nightingale

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Gunilla Hutton, the fetching "Nurse Goodbody" on the television show "Hee Haw," is no Florence Nightingale.

"I faint at the sight of blood," the Swedish blonde said in an interview in the makeup room of the "Hee Haw" set. "But I do charity work for people who are sick and for research and things like the American Cancer Society."

For six years, Miss Hutton has portrayed "Nurse Goodbody," who rushes into "Dr." Archie Campbell's office at his beckon.

"I get asked why I do the part," she said. "I say that it's a spoof — a satire. It's not meant to be taken seriously."

"I'm very liberated," she added. "I've got a good job, and it takes acting skill to play someone that dumb. But the show is chauvinistic, there's no doubt about it."

As "Hee Haw" enters its 10th season this fall, the ambitious Miss Hutton is getting a new spot on the show. "Nurse Goodbody" will stay, but Miss Hutton also will have the role of an exercise leader. She plays a no-nonsense gym instructor in curvy coral tights whose plump pupils include Junior Samples, Lulu Roman and Kenny Price.

"I'm excited about it," said Miss Hutton, who portrayed the daughter Billie Jo on the "Petticoat Junction" television show in the mid-1960s. "It was my idea. I'm a dancer and work out at home so exercise is a natural part of my life. I thought it would be an easy part for me to portray. There are exercise salons, and there could be one in Cornfield County."

For the present, though, she's more closely identified with "Nurse Goodbody."

"When I go on the road, they bill me as 'Nurse Goodbody,'" she said. "It's incredible how many people watch the show. It shocks people that I don't have a Southern drawl. People always want to know if Archie Campbell is a dirty old man. I'd hurt his feelings if I said no."

She said one word describes the secret of the show's success: escapism.

"I get sick of detective stories, violence, tragedy. This is total escapism. It brings back the good of days. Plus, there's beautiful girls and crazy guys. And you don't have to sit and follow it; it's easy to watch."

Killers melt into darkness of 'fun city'

NEW YORK (AP) — In upper Manhattan, a teen-age boy shot a seminary prep student to death, allegedly because he thought his victim laughed at him.

In Central Park, former world figure-skating champion Dick Button's skull was fractured by a rampaging mob of youths wielding clubs and baseball bats.

Across the East River in Brooklyn, two middle-aged winos were hacked to death and a note left beside one of the bodies read: "The Ax Man. (2 down and 9 to go)."

These were among a rash of attacks that have taken at least half a dozen lives within the city this week. Most took place at night, and the killers melted into the darkness.

Gov. Hugh Carey seized on the burning issue of youth crime to prepare a legislative proposal to jail juvenile killers for life. Presently, the maximum they serve is 18 months.

One person was in custody in the series of attacks — a 13-year-old boy, accused of putting a bullet through the brain of 15-year-old Hugh McEvoy last Sunday. McEvoy died Thursday.

Authorities say two youngsters accosted McEvoy and a friend, Peter Maher, 15, near the Columbia University campus. One of them demanded: "What the— are you laughing at?"

Library records cowboy history Rancher's role detailed

By JOHN W. DEATS, COUNTY LIBRARIAN

The role of the rancher in the history of the West can hardly be overstated. He was often the first to become established in a land which offered extremes in weather, hostile natives, and almost engulfing size. The following books are among many, recently published, which attempt to recapture a way of life which became an important part of our national identity.

George F. Ellis was ranch manager for over twenty years at the 130,855 acre Bell Ranch of northeast New Mexico, near Tucumcari. The 150 year history of the ranch begins with the original tract of 655,468 acres granted in 1824 to Pablo Montoya. In 1947, the original Pablo Montoya grant was split into six ranches, largest of which was the Bell. Ellis helps us to sample the daily and seasonal routines of the modern ranch in his book, "Bell Ranch as I Knew It," assisted by the paintings and sketches by the award winning artist, Robert Longhead. In addition, Donald Ornduff gives an interesting account of the problems and triumphs of the ranch during its long history. Probably the most famous of ranches ever to be is the King Ranch, which spread out from its original home in Texas to cover a staggering 13 million acres, worldwide. Toni Frissell has contributed a unique record of ranch life with "The King Ranch: 1939-1944: a Photographic Essay." This work offers more than stunning photographs, as there are many anecdotes

"Heaven" is both good and clean

By the Associated Press

"HEAVEN CAN WAIT" presents Warren Beatty's vision of the hereafter. It is a placid place of dry-ice vapor where the newly departed board a snow-white Concorde under the gentle guidance of Mr. Jordan (James Mason). Since Beatty was not quite dead when plucked from a motorcycle crash, he is allowed to return to earth, first as a powerful millionaire, then as quarterback for the Los Angeles Rams. Such plotting could have proved a heavenly disaster, but miracles do happen. The Beatty-Elaine May script and Beatty-Buck Henry direction are perfectly tuned to the fantasy. They had a good pattern to follow: the 1941 "Here Comes Mr. Jordan" written by Sidney Buchman. The supporting cast is fine, especially Mason, Jack Warden as the football trainer, and Charles Grodin and Dyan Cannon as murder plotters. Rated PG, but the film is as clean as Beatty's "Shampoo" was raunchy.

Jack Webb has facts on UFOs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jack Webb thinks it's possible somebody out there is watching us, but for "Project U.F.O." it's "just the facts, ma'am."

"With millions and millions of planets in space, I cannot believe we're alone," said Webb, once the star of "Dragnet" and now executive producer of the NBC series. "And with the rate we're polluting our planet, we better not be."

"I think there are other lives out there, both advanced and primitive civilizations. We've got to look outward. Just as we had a westward expansion, we've got to have a space expansion."

Webb, however, sticks close to the documents from the Air Force's Project Blue Book in the popular new series "Project U.F.O."

That's not to say, however, that the series isn't hyped with special effects of spaceships and extraterrestrial beings. It is. In fact, a casual viewer might get the idea that the spaceships are for real rather than a re-creation of someone's reported sighting.

"We're not saying they're from outer space," Webb said. "We can't say that and the U.S. government can't say that until one lands. But I think people are more willing to accept the fact that it could be machines from another planet."

"Project U.F.O." premiered earlier this year, riding a crest of interest in space and UFOs spurred by such movies as "Star Wars" and "Close Encounters of the Third Kind."

Buffet earned his stars with scars

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jimmy Buffett came by his reputation as a genuine good-time rock 'n' roll rowdy the hard way — he earned it. No publicist's invention, this boy.

In a day when it seems all you need to be a pop star is a little luck and a lot of hype, Buffett makes you think again. He's a Mississippi-born, Alabama-raised, hard-living, loud-laughing rock music man who got to the top by working at it.

Last summer Buffett hit the big time for keeps with his happy hit, "Margaritaville," and now his albums are gold as soon as they hit the record stores. But for years, Buffett earned his keep by playing a lot of slop joints throughout his native South.

Curious thing is, he enjoyed it. He thought the big-time was Trader John's club in Biloxi, Miss. Could there be a finer retreat than Elsie's Bar ("great cheeseburgers and 25-cent drinks") up the road in Gulfport?

Buffett liked the life, and it shows.

Hester inks with Caprock

Jeannie Hester, former girls' head track and cross country coach at Big Spring High School, has accepted a similar position at Amarillo Caprock in the Texas Panhandle.

Hester signed the contract Friday and will begin her duties at the Class AAAA school later this summer.

Baseball mob peaks earliest

NEW YORK (AP) — Major League Baseball attendance reached 20 million Friday, the earliest date in history that milestone has been achieved.

And at this near-midway point in the season, the total of 20,295,862 is 4 percent ahead of last year's record pace for the same number of dates for each of the 26 teams.

Los Angeles is the pace-setter in total attendance with 1,668,249 fans in 41 dates, an average of 40,689. Los Angeles is 61,748 fans ahead of the single-season major league record of 2,955,087 it set last year.

Havlicek offered position

BOSTON (AP) — John Havlicek, who retired last season after 16 years as a superstar with the Boston Celtics, has been offered the job as general manager of the new San Diego entry in the National Basketball Association, The Associated Press learned Saturday.

An informed source, who asked not to be identified, told The AP the job is Havlicek's if he wants it, although money could be a key hang-up. Havlicek earned more than $250,000 a year as a player.

Irvy Levin, owner of the San Diego team, reportedly made the offer to Havlicek with actual contract talks to come later.

Martin chooses coaching help

SAN DIEGO (AP) — New York Yankees' Manager Billy Martin has chosen Kansas City Royals Manager Whitey Herzog and Boston Red Sox pilot Don Zimmer to serve as coaches for baseball's All-Star game Tuesday.

As manager of the American League's defending champions, Martin will manage the league's all-stars for the second consecutive year.

Herzog's Royals won the AL Western Division crown in 1976 and 1977, and Zimmer's Red Sox currently are on top of the league's Eastern division.

Martin's appointments were announced Saturday by Bob Fishel, vice-president of the American League.

Borg will lose stubs

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Bjorn Borg was to shave off his stubby beard and buy Fred Perry dinner to celebrate his victory over Jimmy Connors Saturday for the Wimbledon men's tennis championship — his third in a row.

"We made the agreement after Bjorn won at Paris," said Perry, the last man to win three successive Wimbledon. "I told him if he matched my record at Wimbledon he'd have to shave off his beard and we'd have dinner together."

"He agreed. I stipulated it would have to be a private affair with no Lennart Bergelin (Borg's coach) or Mariana Simionescu (his fiancée).

'Bum' blasts short camps

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers Coach Bum Phillips says the shorter National Football League training camps and longer regular seasons will hurt the weak teams and help the strong ones.

And he doesn't think the Oilers will be hurting. "We are no longer one of the have-nots," Phillips said as he prepared to greet his rookie corps on the Angelo State University campus. Houston's veterans report July 22. "I don't know if we're 'have's' yet but we have more depth this year than ever before."

Allen makes official return

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — George Allen returns officially as coach of the Los Angeles Rams Monday when training camp opens for quarterbacks and rookies with 48 players expected at California State-Fullerton.

Allen has been here before. He coached the Rams from 1966 through 1970 and Fullerton has been the training camp 11 of the past 12 years.

Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of the National Football League team, rehired Allen after he was dismissed by the Washington Redskins. And Rosenbloom set a high and immediate goal.

Blalock still leading

WHEELING, W.Va. (AP) — Cool, poised Jane Blalock, seeking her second consecutive victory on the women's pro golf tour, withstood three rain delays and fired a sizzling fiveunder par 67, opening a seven-shot lead after the second round of the $75,000 Wheeling LPGA Classic Saturday.

Dropping in seven birdie putts through the raindrops as the rest of the 93-player field fizzled, Blalock finished two rounds with a 135 total.

Sandra Post, the only other golfer under par after 36 holes, birdied the last two holes for a second straight 71 and a 142 total.

Saturday baseball

Mets blank Cubs, 7-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Len Randle capped the Mets' three-run third inning with a two-run double and left-hander Kevin Kobel picked up his first major league victory in nearly four years as New York blanked the Chicago Cubs 7-0 Saturday.

Kobel, 1-1, went 6 1/3 innings, allowing only four hits before he got into trouble in the seventh, giving up a one-out single and walk before Dale Murray relieved.

John Stearns led off the third with a double and scored on Elliott Maddox' single. Doug Flynn singled and center fielder Bobby Murcer overran the ball, allowing Maddox to go to third and Flynn to second. Randle followed with his double to the wall in right-center.

The Mets scored in the first on Lee Mazzilli's solo homer, his 10th of the season and fourth in the past six days.

They added three more in the fifth as Cubs starter Ray Burris, 5-6, walked Randle, yielded a single to Tim Foli and walked Mazzilli before Dave Geisel relieved.

Cardinals blank Pirates

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rookie right-hander Silvio Martinez allowed just one hit—a first-inning single by Omar Moreno—while Ted Simmons and George Hendrick powered home runs for St. Louis as the Cardinals scored a 4-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday night.

Martinez, 3-3, winless in his previous six starts, walked seven and struck out one.

Rookie Don Robinson, 5-3, gave up both Cardinal homers.

Simmons led off the St. Louis fourth with his 10th homer. An inning later Hendrick blasted a 440-foot shot after Jerry Mumphry had reached on a fielder's choice.

The Cardinals scored their last run in the fifth when Ken Reitz singled home Keith Hernandez, who had fumbled. Ed Ott was the only Pirate to reach third base. He walked in the second and when he stole second, catcher Ted Simmons' throw went off shortstop Garry Templeton's glove for an error, allowing Ott to advance one base.

Girls get 'Camp of Champs' for first time

By DANNY REAGAN

Sports Editor

The "Camp of Champs" week-long basketball school offered by Howard College Coach Harold Wilder enters its sixth year of existence with a new look. For the first time, a girls' camp has been added to the agenda.

Over 40 girls between the classifications of fifth and ninth grade have already pre-registered for the camp which runs Monday through Friday at the local junior college. Official registration for the camp will be from 9

Mt. Pleasant coach resigns

MOUNT PLEASANT, Texas (AP) — Mount Pleasant High School football coach and athletic director Donnie Laurence has resigned to accept an assistant coaching position at Texas Tech University.

Laurence submitted his resignation to the school board here Thursday night. A spokesman at Texas Tech said Laurence would work with defensive ends under new Red Raider Coach Rex Dockery.

During seven years with the Mount Pleasant Tigers, Laurence, 33, posted a 66-11 football record with three district championships and a co-championship.

"In keeping with the recent ruling by the ULL," said Wilder, "the camp will be run on the five-person, full-court style. We still have the morning hours, with special events scheduled for the afternoons.

Bowling, golf, special films and free-throw competitions will be held in the afternoon. League games will take place at night (6:30-10:30 p.m.), and Wilder invites the public to attend.

"We'll have some good games," he predicted. "The girls will be divided into two divisions according to age, American League and little League."

Camp instructors will be Western Junior College Coach of the Year Don Stevens, head mentor for the Hawk Queens; David Middleton, coach of Brazoswood at Lake Jackson; Dorothy Smith, Angleton coach; Sharla Jameson, member of the championship Hawk Queen club last season and Bubba Stripling.

Stripling, former Steer roundball star, has been involved in all six "Camp of Champs"...first as a player, then as helper, counselor and now full-fledged instructor.

SIGNING UP — Howard College Hawk Coach Harold Wilder pre-registers Shanna Hohertz recently for the Camp of Champs to begin here Monday for girls in the fifth through ninth grades. Registration will be held from 9 a.m. until noon Monday in the lounge of the men's dorm on the HC campus.

time Tommy Lasorda, skipper of the NL champion Dodgers of 1977, selected the 35-year-old left-hander although he was only 9-6 this campaign.

"Tommy's been pitching in tough luck," commented Lasorda whose Dodger club won the pennant in his rookie managerial season with the big help from the southpaw. He's been much better than his record indicates."

An appreciative pitcher commented, "It's very meaningful. Very few players have made it in both leagues."

Some who did it were Frank Robinson, Andy Messersmith, Ron Fairly and Jim Bunning. Vida Blue is another former AL All-Star who hurls for the rival league this season.

The National League leads the All-Star series 29-18 and has won the past six games including a 7-5 triumph last season. The New York Yankees' Billy Martin, who piloted that AL squad, will again be at the helm for this game with its 6 p.m. PDT starting time in San Diego Stadium which seats 48,460.

Fans select the players to start the game except for the pitching staff which is selected by the managers—the two whose clubs reached the past World Series.

Ron Guidry, the little lefthander who set a Yankee club record by winning 11 games without defeat starting this year, probably will start for the AL with a pitching staff including his teammate Rich Gossage, Jim Palmer and Mike Flanagan of Baltimore, Frank Tanana of the California Angels, Oakland's Matt Keough and Cleveland's Jim Kern.

The National League staff has John, Tom Seaver of Cincinnati, Blue of San Francisco who formerly starred with the Oakland A's, Steve Rogers and Ross Grimsley of Montreal, Bruce Sutter of the Chicago Cubs, Rollie Fingers of San Diego, Pat Zachry of the New York Mets and Phil Niekro of Atlanta.

The batting orders of both clubs have power, but the fans apparently overlooked some hurting stars of 1978 in choosing the starting lineups.

Cincinnati's catcher Johnny Bench and second baseman Joe Morgan have both been out with the injuries, but led their positions in the balloting. Their back-up players could be seeing a lot of service.

Minnesota's first baseman Rod Carew, also hurt part of this 1978 season, led the balloting for the AL with 4,010,136 votes.

Blue Jays taint White Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Clancy, making his first start in his hometown, stopped the Chicago White Sox on three hits with relief help from Mike Willis Saturday, and Rick Cerone homered to lead the Toronto Blue Jays to a 3-0 victory.

Rick Bosetti doubled and scored in the first inning and Cerone added an insurance run with his first homer of the season in the eighth inning to give Clancy, a 22-year-old right-hander, all the support he needed. Clancy, 6-7, gave up a one-out single to Henry Cruz in the third inning, a leadoff single to Jorge Orta in the seventh and a single to Bob Molinaro with two outs in the eighth, when he was relieved by Willis.

TWEEN 12 and 20 Don't punish self to destroy mother

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: My mother is driving my sister and me bananas and it is driving me insane. My sister can get away by hopping into the car and going to her boyfriend's house but I've got to stay home and try to hide from her.

I punish myself for allowing her to do this to me by constantly cutting school, smoking pot and drinking. I'm going nuts. Please help. B.A., Lodi, Calif.

Dear B.A.: Can anyone inside your family help? Maybe your mother has a sister or brother who could offer assistance. If not, talk to a clergyman or your school nurse and explain exactly what is happening. Do you have a father at home?

Remember that you are only destroying yourself when you "punish yourself." Why not punish yourself by going to the library, attending school functions and by attending church?

Dr. Wallace: A week ago my mom found a "joint" in my shirt pocket.

The next meeting will be July 24. The meeting place will be determined at a future date.

Use heat detectors only as supplement

COLLEGE STATION — Use heat detectors only as a supplement to residential smoke detectors — not as the sole method of early warning fire detection in the home, advises a consumer information specialist.

These types of fire detectors differ in their reaction time to the different stages of a fire, explains Claudia Kerbel with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Smoke detectors require only that smoke trigger the alarm as it passes over the unit. Smoke reveals the presence of fire much sooner than heat does. In addition, smoke detectors respond to a broad spectrum of fires and sound an early warning in a high percentage of cases.

These devices are best installed between the sleeping area and the rest of the house, the specialist says.

There are two types of heat detectors. The first type is called a fixed temperature device. It sounds an alarm when the temperature of the air reaches about 135 degrees F.

It wasn't mine; I was holding it for a friend so his mother wouldn't find it. Now Mom thinks I smoke pot and says she will press charges and ground me until I tell her who the joint belongs to.

I love my mom very much but a promise is a promise and I can't break it. No one believes me and I might be grounded forever. Please tell me what to do! I need help. Janet, Piqua, Ohio

Dear Janet: In almost 100 percent of the cases I would tell you to honor a promise, but not in this case. Tell Mother what she wants to know. I don't need to go into a dissertation on how stupid you were to carry someone else's marijuana. You learned an expensive lesson.

Dr. Wallace: I have a problem with my mother. I'm 16, very active in school and pretty picky about my friends. I'm now dating a really nice guy who happens to be one year younger than I am. Because of this, my mom is upset and doesn't want me to see him. When I ask why, she only says that she doesn't want me to date a boy younger than I am, and that there is no other reason.

I'm a junior and he is a sophomore. It's not like we are planning to get married. I like this guy and want to date and see him. What can I do? A.J., Sacramento, Calif.

Dear A.J.: Mother is wrong in this instance. If the boy were several years younger, I could see Mother's concern, but not for a one-year age difference.

I'm not sure anything will change Mother's mind, but contact your school counselor and explain the situation to him. Have your counselor call Mother and put in a good word.

Many times a parent will totally ignore the pleas of a teen-ager but will take a school authority's word as gospel.

Questions may be sent to Dr. Robert Wallace, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The right tie adds flair to appearance

COLLEGE STATION — To help in selecting the "right" tie to give the finishing touch to a man's appearance, follow a few guidelines for color and quality, advises Beverly Rhoades, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

She suggests the following guidelines for selecting a tie:

- Coordinate tie widths with jacket lapel width. Fashion width for lapels and ties are currently on the decrease.
- Coordinate tie color and design with shirt and jacket. Place all items together as they will be worn. Combine prints, plaids, stripes, solids, but do this carefully. Check for total pleasing effect. Look for design that complement — not compete with — each other.
- Coordinate ties with different shirts and jackets — they're wise consumer choices.
- The prices range from inexpensive to very expensive. Price is not always a guide to quality, although more expensive ties are often higher quality. Brand names or designer names often relate to quality, but brands may manufacture various qualities of ties.
- Judge a tie's quality by the fabric, the interfacing or interlining used, and by the construction workmanship. Higher quality and more costly ties have fabric with higher yarn count — more yarns per inch — and are more closely woven, Miss Rhoades explains.

Identify interlining or interfacing weight by checking inside the tie from the back side. Color of stripes on the interfacing indicates quality. Interfacings with gold stripes are superior to those with silver stripes, she says.

Other marks of quality include hand slip-stitching down the center back, hand rolling and bartacking to reinforce tie opening.

Quality interlining or interfacing fabric enables ties to maintain shape, knot easily, and resist wrinkles. Interlining weight is coordinated with the weight of the outer material. Number of stripes on the interlining fabric indicate weight — the more stripes, the greater the weight.

Heavier fabrics may require lighter weight interlinings, while lightweight fabrics need heavier interlinings to maintain shape.

Dad will not run, Susan Ford reveals

NEW YORK, N.Y. — "My father does not plan to run for President again. He'll be sixty-seven in 1980, and that's a little old to be running," Susan Ford, 20, reveals in the July issue of Seventeen Magazine.

"Besides, my mother would divorce him. You can't be divorced and run for President at the same time!"

As for Susan, she has no interest in politics. "I took government and foreign policy courses in college. But even so, it's difficult to understand what's going on," Susan notes. "I sometimes wonder if the President and Cabinet always understand what's happening."

However, Susan, who dropped out of the University of Kansas, feels that she learned more in two and a half years in the White House than she would have in four years in college. "I grew up quickly during those years," she says. "Sometimes I stood in for my mother, and I learned a lot just observing."

Currently pursuing a career as a photographer, Susan recently worked on the set of the new film "Jaws 2." "I admit being Gerald Ford's daughter has done me a lot of good. Without the name, it would have taken me longer to get where I am," Susan claims.

Springs make mattress last

COLLEGE STATION — Specially designed mattresses or platforms will give the quality performance consumers desire for the pedestal-type look.

A regular mattress put on a platform will have about half the life of one used with box springs because they get much more wear and tare, explains a housing and home furnishings specialist.

To get the full life from a mattress and still have the platform look, include the use of a box spring foundation, she suggests.

World's smallest museum endangered

WESLACO, Texas (AP) — Every new telephone installed here brings Robert Majors a bit closer to a day he dreads — the day when the "world's smallest museum" may have to go the way of the hand crank telephone.

In 1975, General Telephone Co. scored some large public relations points by converting a landmark little building into a telephone museum.

"Yes, it will work out fine until our growth here in Weslaco forces us to use that property," Majors, a GTC division manager, said with a nervous smile. "I've never tried to compute when that day will come."

The museum is housed in a unique 53-year-old native stone building. It was built as a residence by a local carpenter who impressed his neighbors by topping the 12-foot by 16-foot structure with a 2-inch thick rounded concrete roof. The unsupported roof is still something of an engineer's oddity.

The building is also emblazoned with its construction date—recorded on the west wall by the bottoms of glass bottles worked into the stone edifice.

The carpenter eventually abandoned his little home and it remained vacant for 40 years. This Rio Grande Valley city grew rapidly around it — leaving the building tightly nestled between the phone company's local switching facility and an old supermarket.

The phone folks bought the building in 1955. In 1967, a local literary club began sponsoring exhibits in the 18-foot high structure. Then, in 1975, GTC opened its permanent exhibit of old telephone equipment donated by area residents and company employees.

the city taking over the facility and moving it.

He also said he has not determined — yet — if the building can be moved in one piece.

"I don't know but I'm certainly going to explore it," he said.

The hidden museum can be tracked down by following road signs here. During the summer it's open by appointment only.

But when the winter Texans arrive, it's sometimes packed.

Of course, it only takes about three persons to make a capacity crowd.

'Hot lines' solve problems

By JANET ROGERS
County Extension Agent

Call toll-free "hot-lines" to solve problems quickly and conveniently without spending a dime.

Here's a list of eleven helpful hot-line numbers to keep by the phone:

Consumer Product Safety Commission: 1-800-638-2666. Call this toll-free number to report a potentially dangerous product or a product-related injury. Also, request free fact sheets on a wide range of products. The CPSC investigates all kinds of products, from toothpicks to tricycles—but, they don't regulate the safety of cars, boats, airplanes, food, cosmetics or drugs.

Solar Hot-Line: 1-800-523-2929. Dial this number for information and brochures on solar heating and cooling. The National Solar Heating and Cooling Information Center staffs this line.

Housing Discrimination Hot-Line: 1-800-424-8590. This toll-free number is provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. They investigate charges of housing discrimination based on race, color, sex or national origin. But, the hot-line cannot help if the discrimination is based on marital status.

Auto Safety Hot-Line: 1-800-424-9393. Call this number to find out whether a car has ever been recalled because of safety defects. Also, report hazardous aspects of a car and request free brochures and fact sheets. This hot-line is staffed by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Lawyer Referral Service: 1-800-252-9690. This service—provided by the State Bar of Texas—will provide the name of a local attorney who specializes in a particular problem. Then, call that lawyer and set up a 30-minute consultation for a nominal fee.

Appliance Hot-Line: 1-800-621-0477. The Major Appliance Consumer Action Panel (MACAP) provides this number for people with unresolved complaints about refrigerators, ovens and other large appliances. The panel suggests first trying to settle the problem at the local level—but, if still not satisfied, give them a call.

Education Hot-Line: 1-800-638-6700. This hot-line is staffed by the Office of Education, Department of Health, Education and Welfare for information on federal grants for undergraduate college students.

Operation Venus: 1-800-523-1885. For questions about venereal disease, call this hotline. They'll give the name of a local free testing clinic.

Travelers Hot-Line: 1-800-323-4180. Dial this number for information on travel anywhere in the United States or its possessions. The U.S. Travel Service will give a run-down of accommodations and attractions at the spot you'd like to visit. They also send free travel brochures.

MRS. DARIN SEAN TUCKER

Miss Williams weds Tucker in home rite

Cathy Ann Williams and Darin Sean Tucker exchanged wedding vows in a candlelight ceremony held at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Tucker, Vealmoore, on June 3.

Officiating at the 7:30 p.m. ceremony was Charles D. Williams, brother of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams, 2305 Allendale, are the parents of the bride.

The couple repeated their vows beneath an arch entwined with blue flowers and greenery and flanked by candelabras and baskets of white mums with blue ribbons. Serving as candlelighter was Kevva Tucker, sister of the groom.

The "Wedding March" was played by Maurine Hanks, the groom's grandmother.

The bride chose a white formal gown of polyester organza featuring a square neckline and empire bodice, both edged in Chantilly lace. Chantilly lace also graced the tiered full skirt and the wrist of her full chiffon sleeves.

Her veil was of matching chiffon. She carried a bouquet of blue and white carnations.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Craig Medley, wore a blue and white cotton dress with spaghetti straps and carried a bouquet of blue and white carnations.

Serving as best man was Jack Watson.

Jennifer Prater, niece of the bride, served as the flower girl and wore a blue and white checked dress with a blue and white dotted swiss apron trimmed in lace.

The ring bearer was the bride's nephew, Ricky Prater.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home. An arrangement of blue carnations and white daisies were centered on the refreshment table.

The two-tiered cake, decorated with blue roses and topped with wedding bells, was served by the groom's sister, Mrs. Monty Smith. Champaign and punch were served by Kevva Tucker, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Tom Kuykendall, sister of the bride.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Gary Prater, sister the bride.

The bride is a 1976 graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Howard College. The groom attended Borden County High School and is employed by Sonny Tucker Transport in Vealmoore.

The couple traveled to Dallas and then flew to Acapulco, Mexico, for a week-long honeymoon. They've made their home at 514 Dallas.

Don't spend to save money

COLLEGE STATION — Don't spend money to reduce energy consumption this summer — there are many ways to save energy without sacrificing comfort or the pocketbook, says Glenda Moore, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Miss Moore is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

To accomplish no-cost energy saving, follow these measures:

- Clean the air conditioner filter frequently.
- Close the fireplace damper tight and seal off the firebox opening.
- Turn off the furnace's pilot and gas supply to gas heating systems.
- Turn up the thermostat to the highest comfortable setting. Each increase of one degree saves three to five percent of energy used.
- Turn off air conditioners when the house is unoccupied and at night. Use natural breezes on cooler days.
- Keep drapes, shades and blinds closed to keep direct sun out. This can reduce heat gain up to 50 percent.
- Turn off the "instant on" feature on television sets.
- Other no-cost actions that are worthwhile but difficult to measure are turning off unneeded lights, television and radios, the specialist suggests.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old girl who has been in trouble ever since I can remember. In the last two years I have been kicked out of seven schools. My trouble started when I began to skip school, make up lies, etc. I lost my temper and hit a teacher and had to face an assault charge last month.

My parents have disowned me, and I will probably spend the remainder of my teen years in institutions and group homes. (Right now I'm in Booth Brown Hall in St. Paul, Minn.)

Even though I want terribly to finish high school and go to college, I don't have any high school credits.

I hope there will be room in your column to print this message to teenagers who are on their way to having the same kind of problems I am now facing.

If any of you teenagers want to make something of your lives, please stay in school and make the best of it. Going to school is much easier than sitting behind locked doors watching the rest of the world live and learn, and wishing you could.

FINISHED AT 16

DEAR 16: Your letter bears an important message for other teens. But don't abandon your hopes for college. If you really want to go, you can get those credits by working hard, and with determination you can also work your way through college. Nobody is "finished" unless she quits trying.

DEAR ABBY: I agree with the advice you gave to that woman who said her husband kept all his money in the refrigerator. It's not a very good idea to keep too much cold cash on hand. However, I think you should have told her husband that she should keep his money in the freezer, so if anybody hit him up for a loan, he could truthfully say, "Sorry, but all my assets are frozen."

J.V.G. IN SUN CITY, ARIZ.

DEAR J.V.G.: If it's not a good idea to keep too much cold cash on hand, it's a worse idea to keep one's assets frozen. And with inflation climbing, it could be painful to sit too long on a frozen asset.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband died six months ago, a very nice-looking man attended the funeral. He said he had been a very good friend of my husband's. I never saw the man before, but he couldn't have been nicer to me. He kept calling on me to keep me company in my sorrow, and I invited him over for Sunday meals and so on. I will leave out a lot of details because they are rather personal, but here is what I want to get across:

It turned out that this man had never known my husband! He makes a practice of reading the newspapers to find out where funerals are, how old the deceased was, where he lived, the number of children, some of the lodges he belonged to, etc. Then he calls on the widow to get acquainted, saying he had been a good friend of her husband's.

If I hadn't accidentally found out that he did this to other widows, I might have gotten even more seriously involved than I did. And it would have cost me a lot of money, too. Please print this as a warning to other suspecting widows.

HOUSTON READER

DEAR READER: Forewarned is forearmed. Thanks for writing.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MEL TORME: I seldom read novels, but I picked up "WYNNER"—written by you—and I couldn't put it down until I finished it. What a fascinating experience; I was truly sorry when it ended. You are a gifted writer as well as a talented musician, and your "Wynner" deserves to be a winner.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Situation is critical Erosion devouring U.S. coastlines

WASHINGTON (AP) — Along the sand and rock beaches of the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, the high bluffs bordering the Great Lakes and the low barrier islands of the Gulf — wherever Americans play this summer — the story is the same.

Erosion is devouring the shoreline, and modern man has quickened the pace.

Today, according to the Army Corps of Engineers, erosive forces are creating some degree of problem on nearly half the U.S. coastline outside Alaska, some 15,000 miles of shoreline out of about 35,000.

And, they say, the situation is classified as "critical" along about 2,600 miles of shore. It is in those areas that federal experts become concerned enough to step in.

Erosion has been altering the shoreline since the dawn of time, a slow, never-ending process. But 20th century man has accelerated it, and the forces of erosion play no favorites.

Private and public beaches, sandy playgrounds for rich and poor, disappear into the sea. Owners of small cottages and high-rise condominium apartments cast apprehensive glances as waves crash further inland — feeling as powerless to stop the tide of destruction as a small child who watches a wave advance on his sand castle.

But some things can be done, and the corps is now developing projects along all coasts, including the Great Lakes, to demonstrate ways to slow or halt the destruction.

Sand can be dumped on a beach, a process called "periodic nourishment." After nature removes the artificially placed sand, more is added.

Landowners can build groins — concrete, rock, steel or wooden barriers extending out from the beach — to slow currents paralleling the beach that carry away the sand.

Enedina Garza mayor for now

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Enedina Garza is now mayor of the city of Hidalgo.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe had commissioned Mrs. Garza after incumbent mayor Ed Vela failed to post a required bond in an election contest suit. Vela had defeated Mrs. Garza by one vote in the April city election in the Hidalgo County town.

State District Court Judge Harry Lewis upheld Mrs. Garza's appointment Thursday. He had previously ordered a new election for Thursday. Under Thursday's ruling, Mrs. Garza will serve as mayor until the election.

Today, the corps has 10 public works erosion projects under way, ranging in size from a $65 million effort to rebuild 10.2 miles of beach in Dade County (Miami), Fla., to a $12,000 project to stop erosion on Lighthouse Point Park in Connecticut.

The worst erosion problems, says John Housley, an erosion planning specialist for the corps, are in the highly-populated Northeast — places like Atlantic City, N.J., and Ocean City, Md., where the ocean is rapidly advancing inland.
