

Four survive boat explosion

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Two men and two boys tossed into the Atlantic when their 28-foot pleasure boat exploded survived a night floating 300 yards away from where several sharks were tearing at the body of a dead female companion.

As they waited for rescue, bolts of lightning knifed through the sea around them. "Visibility was down to about zero," Coast Guard Chief Boatswain's Mate John Langhorn said Wednesday, hours after the four survivors were brought to Edisto Beach, S.C., where they refused medical treatment.

An Edisto Beach resident had reported seeing the explosion Tuesday night at 8 p.m. The survivors were rescued about 12 hours later. The lightning may have saved the survivors from the sharks.

"It surprised me these four stayed together and didn't get attacked by sharks," said Deputy Sheriff James Craven. "Maybe the only thing that saved them was the sharp lightning we had." Lightning struck the water near the survivors several times during the night, Coast Guard officials said.

Craven said the explosion threw everybody but Larry Coyle, 65, of Charleston from the boat. He jumped in when it was apparent the boat would sink, said Craven.

The survivors tied themselves together in a circle, with lifejackets and floating cushions from the boat. They said that the woman had been killed in the explosion and cut her adrift, Craven said.

The crew of a 41-foot search boat found the survivors still tied together and floating about 5-to-8 miles off Edisto Island.

'We can't stop it' Eighty percent of local crime is drug-related

Ed Kissinger has a sign on the wall at police headquarters. "Every crime you prevent is a report you don't have to make." The average citizen, he told the Downtown Lions Club Wednesday at Howard College, has more incentive than policemen for not getting ripped off. It's costly.

Sgt. Kissinger, crime prevention officer for the Big Spring police department, reminded that Big Spring is no different from other cities — its crime rate has increased by 60 percent in the past five years.

"We can't stop it," he declared. "We've got to have the help of citizens. Most of those who report losses to our station are finding out there is a first time for everybody."

Eighty percent of the crime here is drug-related, he said. That means that burglaries and thefts abound, even more than violent crimes such as assault. Through help of citizens' burglaries were cut 39 percent in June, but for the first half of the year there were 254 of them. Auto thefts jumped to 50 for the first half; vandalism cases rocketed to 263.

"We once had a saying that thieves will steal anything not nailed down — now they steal the nails," he added. He suggested several deterrents to members, particularly those going on vacations. See that grass is kept mowed, mail and newspapers gathered daily, the doors and windows securely locked. Any kind of lock can be defeated, but they can slow down burglars — and wasting time is one thing they don't like," he noted. Another is light.

Sgt. Kissinger suggested that neighbors look out after each other's property and report any suspicious movements. Before leaving on vacation, call his department at police headquarters for a regular patrol; also leave a key with a friend. Finally, make use of PD equipment to stencil your drivers license numbers on valuables (or photograph the unmarkables) and file with the police department.

Morris Rhodes, president, reminded that the Lions Auxiliary is hosting an ice cream supper for members Saturday 7:30 p.m. at the home of John and Averill Quigley at 609 Washington Blvd.

HC offering pottery, macrame, art classes

The Howard College Adult and Continuing Education department has scheduled three art courses for the month of August. Macrame, pottery, and a children's art class will be taught in the Art Building on the Howard College campus.

A basic pottery course will be taught by Linda Fox on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The class will begin Aug. 1 and will terminate Aug. 17. Classes will be held from 9 until 11 a.m. The course will cost $15 and enrollment will be limited to 10-15 people. (Materials will be an extra cost, and the cost will be $5).

Linda Fox will also be teaching a macrame course which will be offered on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. This course will also begin Aug. 1 and end Aug. 17. The cost for this course will be $15, and the material cost will range from $10 to $20, depending on the student's project. Enrollment will also be limited to 10-15 people.

A children's art class for youngsters between the ages of 8 and 12 will be taught by Irene Martinez. Class will be held on Tuesday and Thursday from 9 p.m.-11:30 a.m. The course will begin Aug. 1 and terminate Aug. 24. The cost of the class will be $25 including materials. The class enrollment will be limited to 10-15 people. The class curriculum will include drawing, painting, collage, and clay.

For more information call the Adult and Continuing Education Office at 267-6311, ext. 66. Registration is not complete until fees have been paid to the Adult Education Office.

Weather Thunderstorms bring cool temperatures

Thunderstorms rumbled across a wide band of Texas Wednesday night and this morning, accompanied by a welcome cold front that dropped early morning temperatures in northern Texas into the 60s.

Storms were located from the El Paso area to San Angelo, from the Dallas-Fort Worth area almost to Texarkana, between Del Rio and San Antonio, and near Houston.

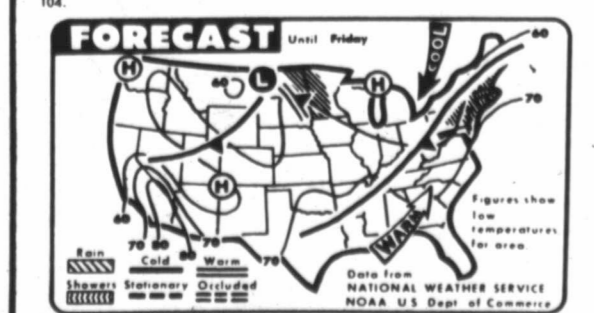

Most of the storms left only light rain behind. The only clear skies in the state this morning were in the Panhandle. The rest of Texas was under partly cloudy to cloudy skies. Scattered thunderstorms were expected to continue today in the east and far western parts of the state. High temperatures this afternoon should be mostly in the 90s, with only points along the Rio Grande reaching high temperatures in the 100s.

At 7 a.m. temperatures around the state included Waco with 79; El Paso, 66; Galveston, 82; Lubbock, 65; Tyler, 77; Amarillo, 65; San Angelo, 69; Austin, 79; and Del Rio, 80.

Dollar takes another plunge

TOKYO (AP) — The dollar plunged to new lows in hectic trading on the Tokyo foreign exchange market today, hitting 192.10 yen and then closing at 193.475 despite massive buying by the Bank of Japan.

The spot trading volume was a near-record $1.123 billion as the slumping state of the U.S. currency kept traders jumping and tourists and others in a continuing state of apprehension.

"What's going on?" asked one American resident. "Is it going down to 100 to one?"

The fall of the dollar was reducing the purchasing power of Americans in Japan almost daily. Since last Friday, the dollar has dropped 4 percent, and since August 1971 the oncemighty U.S. currency has lost nearly half its value in yen.

The dollar closed at 195.05 Wednesday, after plunging through the psychological barrier of 200 yen early this week.

The Bank of Japan was reported to have bought about $500 million today to check the rise of the yen. The bank's governor, Teiichiro Morinaga, said the Japanese market was reacting "too sensitively to speculative views abroad, and calm will be restored sooner or later since the market has gone too far."

There had been speculation that the position of the dollar might improve because Washington announced Wednesday that the United States had its smallest overall trade deficit in more than a year in June, $1.6 billion. But the United States had a $1-billion deficit in its trade with Japan, and the word from Washington did not help the dollar's standing in Tokyo.

Chances for peace excellent, Begin says

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin said Egypt's expulsion of a standby Israeli delegation from Cairo is a minor matter and chances for peace are still excellent.

The delegation of military men, which stayed in Egypt after peace talks between the two countries broke down in January, was to return home today by Egyptian airliner.

President Anwar Sadat asked the Israeli delegation to leave "since there was no need for their presence," the Egyptian government television service announced.

Garbage collector troubles

The sword of unemployment hung over the heads of 245 striking Tuscaloosa, Ala., garbage men who were ordered by the mayor to get back to work today or lose their jobs.

In Detroit, garbage collectors authorized a strike but gave their negotiators until 11 a.m. EDT today to settle a new contract.

And in San Antonio, Texas, where a tough-talking city manager fired 177 striking workers earlier this week, 28 sanitation trucks rolled on their routes Wednesday, each with a police car protecting its flank.

Some 15 Tuscaloosa Sanitation Department supervisory workers manned garbage trucks for limited collections Wednesday as Mayor Ernest Collins gave the workers, who walked out Monday, the ultimatum.

Pickets were set up after Collins and city officials refused to remove a supervisor from his job. Other issues are working conditions and health benefits.

Collins said the workers claimed that timekeeper James Kirby had shoved one of the men and had posted incorrect time sheets on others, resulting in pay losses.

Collins said he asked members of Local 2237 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees for time to investigate the charges, but they walked out anyway.

Officials said so far there was no problem with garbage piling up in the west Alabama city of 65,000.

In Detroit, the workers were angered over mandatory overtime.

Union leaders had predicted scattered walkouts would begin Wednesday among the 650 sanitation workers, but a spokesman for the city's Environmental Protection and Maintenance Department said all shifts reported and trucks were running on schedule.

"I'm sure there is going to be a confrontation," said Lloyd Simpson, executive vice-president of AFSCME's Council 25.

A strike would be in violation of the workers' contract, which expires in 1980, said Mark Ulciny, director of the city's Labor Relations Department.

No incidents of violence were reported in San Antonio Wednesday after City Manager Tom Huebner increased police protection. He also obtained a 10-day temporary restraining order to bar the fired workers from threatening remaining garbage men.

Several rock-throwing incidents and increasing threats Tuesday prompted the move by Huebner, who fired more than 140 garbage men, 22 dog catchers and 15 airport maintenance workers for walking off their jobs in a wage dispute.

Officials planned to again cover about half of the routes today.

The ex-garbage men planned a march today from the southwest San Antonio service center to City Hall.

More than half of San Antonio's 313 garbage men walked off the job Saturday after the city council approved a 6 percent wage hike for all city employees. The garbage men had sought a 9.3 percent hike for its members.

Begin in a TV interview said he received a telegram saying the 10-man delegation should be recalled, and agreed to bring it home. "They don't have a central role. If their hosts don't want them...we'll receive them back here happily," he said. The delegation accompanied Defense Minister Ezer Weizman to Cairo in January when he began discussions with Egypt's defense minister of Israeli withdrawal from Sinai. The talks were suspended when parallel negotiations on the future of the West Bank and the Gaza Strip collapsed in deadlock in January, but Weizman's team remained in Cairo to await the resumption of negotiations. There have been reports that the delegation was used occasionally to transmit peace feelers. After a meeting of Egypt's National Security Council, at which the expulsion of the Israelis apparently was decided, Foreign Minister Mohammed Ibrahim Kamel said his government would resume peace talks with Israel "at any level" if Israel "shows real willingness to reciprocate our peace initiative." And Begin said in spite of the Egyptian move, he sees "excellent chances for the peace process." He noted that U.S. mediator Alfred L. Atherton is now shuttling about the area and that Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance is to visit Cairo and Jerusalem next week. "I believe peace will come out of all this, though it may take some time," the prime minister said.

His rejection of Egyptian demands for Israel's withdrawal from the West Bank and the Gaza Strip and self-determination for the Palestinians in the two territories was bolstered by an overwhelming 70-35 vote of confidence Wednesday in the Knesset, the Israeli parliament.

Chicken's feet, Big Mac, and tea

Hong Kong: blender of cultures

By EILEEN McGUIRE
Family News Editor

Texans are easy to understand, according to one non-Texan in a recent interview.

"I can understand Texans much better than the people of any other state we've visited," said English-born Jenny Peartree who is vacationing in the United States, "because they talk slower."

John and Jenny Peartree and their children Louise, 10, and Christopher, 6, have had the experience of living not only in their native country of England, but in Australia, South Africa, and for the last couple of years, Hong Kong. John has worked for various food companies in each of the countries, servicing hotels, restaurants and most recently, the Queen Elizabeth II when it docked in Hong Kong for supplies.

For the past three weeks, the family has been touring the United States on a month-long vacation. While visiting West Texas, they were houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. James Archer, Sand Springs, whom they befriended when the Archers were stationed in England in the service.

John has been to the United States several times, but this is Jenny's and the children's first trip.

So far they've seen the Rocky Mountains and toured New Mexico and now Texas. From here, they'll leave for the Grand Canyon, Las Vegas, Disneyland and then on to Hawaii and back to Hong Kong.

What most Americans take for granted, has made quite an impression on Jenny.

"It's so big!" she said of the United States.

In Hong Kong there are nearly four and a half million people living within the 32 square miles that make up the island and about 80 percent of those live in the urban areas.

About 100 Chinese a day try to escape to the British crown colony, which includes the Kowloon Peninsula and a group of sparsely-populated islands, the New Territories. About a third of the Chinese successfully immigrate, rapidly expanding the population.

"The volume of Chinese in Hong Kong is astonishing," said John. "About 95 percent of the population is Chinese. A Texan would stand a foot or more taller than most of the people. If he were to walk down main street, he'd look out over a black mass."

"The island isn't very large — you can drive around it in one hour, yet the population density is the highest in the world."

"The Chinese are the most unusual people we've ever met," Jenny observed. "They do everything opposite from what the western hemisphere does. They write and read from top to bottom, right to left, and they even read books from back to front. Most eat with their left hand."

"The way they eat is also opposed to what the Western hemisphere considers good manners. It's considered proper to spit bones out and improper to put your finger into your mouth to remove them."

"The preparation of meals begins with a daily trip to market as the Chinese insist that every ingredient be fresh."

"They buy the chicken fresh, carry it home alive and then slaughter it and pluck the feathers just before they're ready to cook it," Jenny said.

"It's not uncommon to see someone carrying a live chicken on the bus," John added. "Sometimes they have them in plastic bags with a hole punched for the head, but more than likely, they'll be carrying it as is and struggling with it all the way."

"And they waste nothing. They even eat the chicken's feet, including the claws. It's considered a delicacy. It sounds horrible, but it's really quite tasty."

"Along the roadside and beaches, you'll find stands, similar to a popcorn wagon, but instead of popcorn, they offer Chinese delicacies such as chicken's feet and slices of pig's ears."

"The way the feet are eaten is also interesting. There is very little meat and lots of bone. The whole thing is put into the mouth and then bones are spit out. To the Chinese, the mouth is not just a receptacle for food. It's a mincing machine, a separator and a suction device."

According to Jenny, it takes a long time to prepare food Chinese-style. The cooking itself is done quickly, taking only three or four minutes, but preparation takes a long time as each dish includes lots of ingredients which must all be sliced bite-sized.

Also, since everything is served hot, including lettuce, everything must be ready to serve at the same time. Jenny gave the basic recipe that the Chinese use in preparing nearly every dish they consume.

"Everything is fried in a wok," she explained. "First, you heat olive or corn oil with crushed cloves of garlic and some fresh ginger root. The garlic and ginger root are used only to flavor the oil. After they have browned, you remove them and add whatever it is you are serving."

"For example, if you are serving broccoli, it is first sliced length-wise, then fried very quickly for about two or three minutes, while you turn it over and over in the wok. It's served hot, but crisp."

"Just about every vegetable is cooked in this fashion including celery, lettuce and weeds."

"The favorite Chinese dish is chow fan. Chow means food and fan is rice. For this dish, you fry leftover rice and add little shrimps or sliced chicken or whatever you desire."

"Egg is added to everything. You stir it in while it's still cooking and you end up with bits of scrambled eggs mixed in with the meat and vegetables. Sometimes, the whole thing is served over noodles which are par-boiled and then fried quickly."

"And everything is served with soy sauce. The Chinese use soy sauce the way we use catsup."

Jenny demonstrated the traditional place setting for a Chinese meal which consists of a rice bowl, a small sauce bowl for soy sauce placed to the left of the rice, a ceramic spoon for soup, and of course, chopsticks.

"The traditional wooden chopsticks are still used," she said. "Small children start out eating with a spoon, then graduate to chopsticks when they are about two or three years old."

"A spoon is used by adults if the consistency of the food calls for it. Sometimes soup is mixed into the rice."

"The chopsticks never touch the lips," John said. "The Chinese scoop and suck the rice grains from the sticks one by one, but it's actually faster than eating with a spoon."

"It can also get a little messy, but there again customs differ. In a Chinese restaurant you are given a steaming hot face cloth before the meal and after. If it's a long meal, you're given one midway also."

"And here, if you spill something on the table, you'd be quite embarrassed," Jenny added. "There, spilling on the table is no big deal."

Jenny said that authentic Chinese food is much different from what is served in English and American Chinese restaurants. She also pointed out that there is no such thing as chop suey in Hong Kong. It's not a Chinese dish; it's an American Dish.

Despite their location, the Peartrees eat Chinese food only occasionally.

"It's very good," said Jenny, "but the ingredients make it so difficult to prepare that I serve typical western foods at home. If we want Chinese, we usually go out."

There are two very different lifestyles in Hong Kong. The wealthy Chinese, according to John, live much the same as Europeans, while the peasant population lives the way Chinese have traditionally.

"The majority of Rolls Royces in the world are owned by Chinese," he said. "A Mercedes is also a common sight. From my own observations, the rich live quite the same the world over."

"It's the poor people who are interesting. They don't own cars and will walk miles just to go to the beach to cool off."

"The coolies, which is what the peasants are called," explained Jenny, "are general workers. They carry long bamboo poles with baskets roped on each end and use these for just about everything they do whether it's carrying vegetables home from the market or toting bricks to a building site."

"And the women do all of the same jobs as the men. There is no talk of women's liberation there as the majority of Chinese women have always had to work. They consider the European women as pampered. In the fishing communities, you'll see lots of children working also."

Hong Kong is neither European or Chinese, but a mixture of both cultures, the Peartrees observed. In the rice fields on the islands, women and men work side by side in traditional coolie hats and clothes, while the young women of Hong Kong dress much the same as the western world. The wealthier women dress like wealthy European women.

"The Chinese women no longer bind their feet," Jenny said, "but they still wear the coolie hats to protect them from the sun and you see lots of peasant dresses. All of the women carry umbrellas. The Chinese don't like water or sun on their heads."

"There are lots of blue jeans. In fact, Hong Kong supplies the world with blue jeans," said John. "Vidal Sassoon is there and there's even a McDonald's. The young Chinese love American hamburgers and fries."

"Kentucky Fried Chicken didn't make it because it was pre-cooked. I think McDonald's has been successful because the hamburger is a novelty."

Though English is the official language, only Chinese is spoken in the markets.

"I use sign language," Jenny laughed.

Because the majority of the population speaks only Chinese, few non-Chinese women work, she explained. The best jobs go to Chinese women who have learned English. There is a large demand in big business for bilingual women.

For English-speaking children, there are schools especially for them.

"There are 400 children of 26 different nationalities attending school with Louise and Christopher," Jenny said. "The common denominator is that they all speak English."

Perhaps because he's an amateur photographer, John was particularly impressed by the beauty of Hong Kong and the islands of the colony.

"There are lots of beaches and tree-covered hillsides on the larger islands," he said. "It's a beautiful place to live."

Berries make summer salad

It's the season for Berries Salad! Combine three cups, each, of chilled blueberries and diced pineapple, two cups of thinly sliced, peeled oranges and one cup chopped pecans. Use a separate bowl for the dressing, combining two cartons, eight-ounces each, of plain yogurt, one-half cup of orange juice and three tablespoons of honey. This will give you six servings of one and one-half cups each.

Shanks-Carr vows exchanged

Janet Latrice Shanks and John Louis Carr Jr. exchanged wedding vows in a double-ring ceremony July 22 in the home of the bride's parents.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shanks, 2302 Allendale, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Louis Carr Sr., New York, N.Y.

The couple repeated their vows against a background of white gladiolas with a sprinkling of yellow daisies and blue carnations. Dr. Jimmy D. Law of College Baptist Church officiated at the evening ceremony.

The bride chose a white street-length dress of soft polyester fashioned with an accordion-pleated skirt and a matching long-sleeved fitted jacket. She carried a bridal bouquet of yellow daisies with baby's breath and blue carnations.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Lloyd Waltenbaugh and the best man was Rickie Huckabee.

A reception was held in the home following the ceremony. The table was covered with ivory lace over a yellow linen cloth. An arrangement of yellow daisies was used as a centerpiece. Yellow roses decorated the white three-tiered wedding cake. Serving at the reception table was Mrs. Steve Adams and Phyllis Hart.

DECORATIVE AND USEFUL — The Peartrees brought this hand-painted umbrella from Hong Kong to keep the sun off of their American friend, Ginny Archer of Sand Springs. Made from rice paper and featuring a scene of a pagoda, umbrellas like this one are carried everywhere by Chinese women. The Peartrees will return to Hong Kong with cowboy hats purchased during their visit to Texas.

Overtons celebrate Golden Anniversary with reception

Mr. and Mrs. James J. Overton will celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary with a reception from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at their home in the Lee community.

The couple was wed July 27, 1928 in the home of the late Rev. Sam Horton, a Baptist minister, in Big Spring. A wedding supper was hosted by friends of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. H.O. Phillips, now of Stanton.

Mrs. Overton, the former Fannie Lourena Boyd, daughter of the late Scott and Martha Boyd, was born near Austin and moved to Howard County in 1926.

Overton is the son of the late Roy E. and Sadie Overton, and was born in Midland and moved to Glasscock County in 1924.

The Overtons have resided in Glasscock County since their marriage except for a two-year period in Stanton, where they were engaged in farming. After returning to Glasscock County, they continued farming until their retirement in 1975.

Overton, in addition to farming, has been employed in oilfield work. He is active as a pumper for Richmond Drilling Co. Mrs. Overton served as an election judge in the county for 23 years and has been active in the community clubs, school and church activities for many years. The couple enjoys reading, gardening and working in their yard.

Hosting the event will be the couple's children, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Overton, Sand Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Overton, Maricopa, Ariz.; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Overton, Farmington, N.M.; and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Pike, Big Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Conn, Lubbock.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES J. OVERTON

Members of the houseparty will be the couple's eleven grandchildren, spouses, and great-grandchildren. They are Mr. and Mrs. Glen W. Overton and David Glen Overton, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lee Overton, John Overton, Sonja Overton and Richard Overton Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fontana and Keith Fontana, Brian Fontana and Matthew Fontana, and Donald Max Overton, all of Big Spring.

Others are Mr. and Mrs. Royce Overton, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Sharpnack and Jeremy Sharpnack, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Earl Overton, Mr. and Mrs. Randal Overton, Cynthia Turner, James Pike and Timothy Pike, all of Big Spring.

A gold, yellow and white color theme will be used. The registry table will be covered with a round gold cloth with a 50th anniversary memento serving as the centerpiece. The table will be covered with a matching gold cloth with a yellow overlay. A three-tiered white square cake with yellow roses, topped with a golden anniversary couple, will be decorated by Mrs. Robert Doolin of Big Spring.

The Overtons invite friends and relatives to the event, and request no gifts. Guests are expected to attend from Arizona, New Mexico, and throughout Texas.

Clubhouse Vets attend convention

Ten members of the Veteran's of World War I Barracks 1474, and its Ladies Auxiliary, attended the department of Texas and Auxiliaries 25th annual convention at the Baker Hotel in Dallas July 18-21.

Members attending were Mr. and Mrs. V.C. Barber, Gladny Flynt, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Irland, and Viola Younger.

Others were Virginia Younger, Lucille Jacobs and Bernice Micallef.

The Ladies Auxiliary received several awards during the convention. Winners were Virginia Younger, Americanism, first place; Viola Younger, Auxiliary history, second place; Bernice Micallef, auxiliary publicity, first place and district publicity, honorable mention; and Gladny Flynt, most daughters signed, first place.

The auxiliary also won awards for the most members signed and a 100 percent auxiliary membership.

A joint morning session was held July 18 with Travis Gafford, department commander, giving the welcoming address. Other speakers were Lydia Prescher, auxiliary president, George W. Fowler, national junior vice commander; Adam F. Medvecky, senior vice commander; and Ernest Roper, chaplain.

Other national, regional, department and auxiliary officers were introduced. Department elections were held on July 20.

Elected were Gladys Randles, president; Etoi Malhews, senior vice president; Betty Foss, junior vice president; Frances Hechinger, treasurer; Eula Norman, chaplain; Hattie Box, conductress and Hattie Crow, guard.

Veterans elections were held, with the following members selected, Adam F. Medvecky, department commander; Elmer C. Gates, senior vice commander; E.J. Niedermair, junior vice commander;

E.L. Sprague, quarter-master; George B. Nicholas, judge advocate; Ernest Roper, chaplain; and Marion Irland, 10th regional legislative chairman.

Irland introduced a resolution asking that Congress grant a pension of $150 a month to the World War I veterans and widows.

A Grand March of couples who were married more than 50 years was the highlight of the reception and dance held to honor the incoming and outgoing officers. The Shroder Dance Studio also entertained the members with skits.

Master of ceremonies at the July 20 banquet was Travis Gafford, department commander of Texas. George W. Fowler, Kansas, National Junior vice commander, spoke during the luncheon.

Dr. June Welch professor of history at Dallas University gave the main address. He read excerpts from several books which he has written.

Quigleys to host Lions

Mr. and Mrs. John Quigley 609 Washington Blvd., will host the Downtown Lions Club and their wives at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Homemade ice cream will be served by the Lions Auxiliary on the lawn.

Family matriarch feted on birthday

Fannie Johnson Kent, 1608 E. 5th, celebrated her 79th birthday Sunday with all four of her children attending. It was the first time her children had been together in eight years.

Those present included Mrs. Alvin Benningfield, Kermit; Mr. and Mrs. Stanton E. Johnson, Odessa; Mrs. Burnis Mason, Big Spring; and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Johns and family, Odessa.

Others were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Robinson and family, Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie King, Odessa; Mrs. Oma Jeffrey, Kermit; Mrs. Larry Robinson Sr., Big Spring, and Mrs. Thomas Worley, Big Spring.

There were four generations of Mrs. Kent's family together. Representatives of the fifth generation were out of town.

Visitors in her home over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Stenduson, Dallas, and Melvin Mason and son, Port Arthur.

Dear Abby

Wives Worry About Husbands' Weekend

DEAR ABBY: This year, as in previous years, my husband has invited his sales team to our mountain cabin for a weekend of fishing.

This year, unlike previous years, his sales team now includes a young, unmarried woman who happens to be very attractive. (All the men are married and middle-aged.)

Abby, would you believe that some of the wives are making a big fuss because they feel that it is improper for a single girl to sleep under the same roof with their husbands?

Our cabin is a six-room chalet with sleeping accommodations for 12, and this trip involves five men and one girl.

All the wives respect your opinion, so please tell us what you think.

D.M.'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: The woman member of the sales team is entitled to the same benefits as the men. If your husband excludes her in deference to nervous wives, he'll be guilty of sexist discrimination. So relax. It's a new, new world, Ma'am.

DEAR ABBY: I have a sister-in-law who really turns me on. I know it's not love, it's just a physical attraction. Every time she touches me unintentionally, I go up the wall.

My problem is I don't know if I should go ahead and try something or just lay back. If I lay back I'll go crazy, and if I go ahead, I run the risk of having her refuse and then telling my brother, and I sure don't want that.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Lay back. Lay WAY back. And in self-defense, do your best to remain untouchable.

Hearing loss nation's number one disability

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Excessive noise has made hearing loss the nation's number one disability, says Joseph J. Rizzo, director of the Better Hearing Institute, in Seventeen Magazine's August issue. More than five million Americans under eighteen have permanent hearing disorders, and the number's climbing.

In addition, noise is a hidden health hazard that can cause headaches, nausea, tension, and anxiety. And researchers are linking prolonged noise with mental disorders, indigestion, ulcers, heart disease, and impaired learning ability.

While you're awake, noise interrupts concentration. During your sleep, it robs you of rest by pushing you out of the dream state or preventing you from reaching it. Over long periods, it affects various bodily functions, such as heart rate and blood pressure.

Another alarming fact is that the rate of hearing loss is speeding up. What once took a lifetime now only takes one third as long. In a survey of more than 4,000 freshmen, the University of Tennessee's Noise Study Lab discovered that 60 percent of them suffered from some hearing impairment.

Some warning signs to watch for include:

Consistent failure to catch words or phrases; Inability to follow conversation in a group; Improved comprehension when facing a speaker; Ear discharge, pain or irritation; and, Dizziness, loss of balance or head noises.

TwEEN 12 and 20

Dear Doctor:

I am 20 and I have had a bad case of acne since I was 12. The acne has now subsided but I am left with deep scars that look awful.

I have been told that there is a process that will eliminate these scars. Will you please tell me what the process is?

Rick, West Covina, Calif.

Dear Rick: Actually acne scars can be treated in three different ways: by dermabrasion, by chemical peeling, or by the fibrin foam method.

With dermabrasion, the skin is lightly sanded by machine.

In the fibrin foam method, blood is drawn from the arm and fibrin (blood protein) is extracted. The fibrin is then injected beneath the acne scars, separating the squeezed layers and filling in the scar depression.

With chemicals, different ones are used to peel away upper skin layers which include the scars.

No 100 per cent cure

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

You must remember that none of the processes can give you a total cure, but a 50 per cent to 70 per cent improvement can be expected.

Dear Doctor: A 77-year-old man lives with our family and here is my problem. Every time he goes somewhere, he always says "Do you babies want anything?" or "Can I bring you kiddies anything home?"

I am almost 13 and my sister is almost 11 so I wouldn't consider us babies. I try to ignore him but it still bothers me. Can you please help?

Trudy, Michigan City, Ind.

Dear Trudy: You really don't have a problem. You are overlooking the important aspect: that of a 77-year-old gentleman being thoughtful and kind to your sister and you.

If being called baby or kiddie bothers you that much, politely tell the gentleman to call your sister and you young ladies. And don't forget to say please and thank you!

Dear Confidential: Thanks for your concerned letter. I'm sure teens throughout the United States will use your information — ALA-TEEN works!

GOING UP — The third floor of the new Canterbury Retirement Home is well on its way to completion. The building, located at 16th and Lancaster, is an Episcopal Church project, and is expected to reach completion by May, 1979. (PHOTO BY DANNY VALDES)

Chinese building room for Chin Dynasty army

HSIYANG VILLAGE, China (AP) — Beyond orchards of pomegranates and apricots, and a few lily ponds, the People's Republic of China is building a room vast enough to house an army.

Indeed, the room will do just that, covering more than 6,400 life-sized pottery figures of soldiers, cavalrymen, war chariots and horses that were buried here 209 years before the birth of Christ.

The army has been called the archeological find of the century. Each figure has an individual face representing soldiers of the Emperor Chin Shih Huang, who first united China and built the Great Wall.

The soldiers wear different, appropriate uniforms and the horses look alert. Indeed, the entire formation appears ready to do battle at the slightest provocation.

A single-span roof measuring 238 feet by 673 feet will arch over the archeological site in Shensi Province in central China. The site, which was accidentally found by well diggers in 1974, was seen in last April's National Geographic magazine.

Since 1974, second and third burial sites of life-sized figures were found nearby. Seventeen test holes led to the belief that there are 1,100 more figures inside the second site. The sites have been reburied to protect the pottery figures until the roof is finished.

All three sites are to the east of the tomb of Emperor Chin, founder of the Chin Dynasty. Historical writings suggest that the tomb, whose outer wall is almost 25 miles in circumference, exceeds that of Egypt's King Tut in riches.

Records show it took hundreds of thousands of workers 38 years to build the tomb, which includes palaces, rare treasures from different parts of China, a ceiling in which stars are represented by pearls and a map of China on the floor, with streams of mercury for rivers.

Yang Chen-Ching, head of the preparations office for the Museum of Battle Troops of the Emperor Chin Shih Huang, told an interviewer there are no present plans to dig up the pyramid-shaped tomb.

Since discovery of the first pit, now being roofed over, and the two others, workers have found pottery figures of officials to the west of the tomb and buildings to the north. To the south is a hill.

Yang said up to 500 men worked in the initial building of the protective roof and some 200 men are now finishing the job. Next year, archeologists plan to unearth the figures beneath it, digging up a breathtaking exhibition which has been in place for 2,180 years.

By Communist China's 30th birthday, on Oct. 1, 1979, Yang hopes the museum will be open. Visitors will find ranks of troops, accompanied by horses and chariots, facing them as they enter from the east.

Yang said some 960 life-sized figures of soldiers, each with individual faces and differing hair styles, were found in the first two pits. Test diggings in the second pit unearthed wooden chariots, drivers, a general, pottery horses, cavalrymen and foot soldiers.

The soldiers were originally brightly painted judging from bits of paint found around the figures and from tests made on the carefully moulded uniforms.

In the second pit, found in May 1976, there are also crossbows and bronze arrowheads.

The swords, made of a mixture of 13 alloys, are virtually rust free. An intricate mechanism housing the trigger for a crossbow is one of the relics Yang is keeping to display in the museum.

Officials from American museums visited the site this spring and gave Yang copies of the National Geographic feature. Asked if there were plans to ship some of the soldiers to the United States, Yang said that would have to be worked out in Peking and Washington.

To date three of the figures, two men and a horse, have been sent to a museum at Peking's Forbidden City. One soldier is on display in Hong Kong, and others are in the local village museum and at Sian, the 3,000-year-old walled capital of Shensi Province, which is in central China and is bounded by the Yellow River and the Great Wall.

Tax bills could save Texans over $1 billion

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — House members have muddled the tax relief waters with votes to prohibit income taxes and to spare one car per family from property taxation.

Both the House and Senate were scheduled to work today on their separate versions of a package of constitutional amendments designed to ease the burden of real estate taxes.

House members worked seven hours on their proposal Wednesday, quitting at 7:30 p.m.

LI Gov. Bill Hobby said the package before the Senate, along with bills repealing the state sales tax on utilities and increasing inheritance tax exemptions, would save Texans $1 billion over the next three fiscal years.

"This will give some genuine relief to taxpayers, and we can go home," Hobby said Wednesday.

Each version would tax of agricultural land on productivity instead of market value; give taxpayers some leverage against local property tax increases; drop the rarely obeyed constitutional requirement that intangibles — such as cash, stocks and bonds — must be taxed; and provide some kind of homestead exemption from school taxes.

If the voters are to have a chance to make a decision on property tax relief at the Nov. 7 election, both chambers of the Legislature must approve a single package with a two-thirds vote in each house.

Severe thunderstorms cause 2 deaths in North

By The Associated Press

A line of thunderstorms swept across the Midwest, leaving at least two persons dead and causing widespread power outages.

Thunderstorms prevailed from the lower Great Lakes to northern Texas. A half dozen tornadoes also touched down, mostly in the upper Mississippi valley.

Wind damage occurred at numerous places from Terre Haute, Ind., to Vinita, Okla. Vicious thunderstorms accompanied by torrential rain, winds of 80 mph and hail raked Lower Michigan Wednesday evening, leaving at least one person dead and three others missing when two sailboats capsized in the Detroit River.

Detroit Edison Co. had damage "scattered all over the place," according to spokesman Fred Sullivan, who estimated 30,000 Edison customers were blacked out. Half of those were in Detroit, he said.

Consumers Power Co. estimated at least 20,000 of its customers were without electricity because of downed power lines.

A seven-story parking garage under construction at the Renaissance Center in downtown Detroit collapsed during the storm. There were no injuries.

In Huron County, deputies said a 15-year-old boy was hospitalized in critical condition after wind blew over the tractor he was driving, pinning him beneath the machine.

At least one death was blamed on violent weather that swept across much of Illinois, knocking out electric service in numerous areas and causing scattered damage.

The storms that hit Wednesday afternoon and evening brought high winds, torrential rains, hail and the threat of tornadoes to many areas.

Funnel clouds were sighted in the Chicago, Springfield and East St. Louis areas, but authorities said none of the tornadoes touched down.

Gerald Mariana, 33, of Mount Prospect, drowned in Lake Michigan off Wilmette while trying to pull his motorboat back to its mooring in a heavy wind.

The storms halted air traffic briefly at O'Hare International Airport and knocked out power to several Chicago suburbs, including Park Forest South, where the power failure stopped rush-hour trains on one of the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad's commuter lines.

The National Weather Service at Springfield's Capital Airport said it lost power for about an hour.

Electric power was knocked out to all or parts of a number of communities surrounding Springfield and in the central Illinois area, a spokesman for Central Illinois Light Co. said.

The storms left the upper Mississippi valley today and concentrated over western Kentucky, western Tennessee and Arkansas. Scattered thunderstorms were also reported over northern Texas and the lower Great Lakes. Showers continued in the Pacific Northwest, parts of Nevada and Arizona.

Skies were mostly clear from the plains of Kansas northward and in the upper Great Lakes region. Widely scattered showers persisted over Florida and Louisiana.

New England and the Atlantic coast states reported partly cloudy skies.

Early morning temperatures around the nation ranged from 52 in Arcata, Calif., to 96 in Blythe, Calif.

Final trial arguments heard today

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A state district court jury was to hear final arguments today in the theft trial of Brownsville insurance man Robert Massey, who is charged with stealing more than $10,000 from a Harlingen union.

Massey was one of 19 persons indicted by a Cameron County grand jury following a controversial court of inquiry at Brownsville into the local use of federal manpower funds.

Judge Harry Lewis, presiding at the trials which were moved to Corpus Christi from Brownsville, recessed the Massey proceedings Wednesday after defense lawyers rested their case.

Massey testified earlier Wednesday that he repaid all of the $10,502.17 he is charged with stealing from the Harlingen-based Plumbers and Pipefitters Union Local 823.

However, bank records, entered as evidence during cross-examination of Massey, showed the money was not dispersed until after Massey's business dealings with the union became the subject of the court of inquiry late last year.

Massey is charged with diverting the money from a $31,820.42 health and welfare fund he administered for Local 823 of the union during late 1975 and early 1976.

This Saturday?

I don't want to get you guys excited or anything, but the 57-game preseason schedule of the NFL opens this Saturday, 2:30 p.m. Big Spring time, on national television (ABC).

It'll be the annual Hall of Fame game from Canton, Ohio, pitting the Philadelphia Eagles and Miami Dolphins against one another. Shula's club is picked by everyone but Walt Finley (he says New England) to join the Dallas Cowboys in Supe XII.

Besides being the first game of the season (hotdam), the contest will mark the debut of a seventh official, the "Side Judge", on a permanent basis. That makes the first addition of an official since 1965, when the Line Judge was added to make six.

Also this year, the seven nationally televised preseason games will be a proving ground for instant replay as an aid to game officials. The "dry run" study will be evaluated and a report made to member clubs following the 1978 season.

Here's how the IR study will go: —League representatives will chart the game from a booth, which will be equipped with a monitor of the network telecast.

—The representatives will note any replays which might have aided the officiating crew.

—The time required to reach a decision via instant replay will be tabulated.

—There will be no communication with the game officials.

Let's hope the findings are favorable. There's no reason why the NFL shouldn't use instant replay to better officiate a game, especially a game that has added importance (e.g. playoff games). After all, didn't track meets go to cameras and electronic timing to better judge an athlete's performance here?

The same consideration, that is... keeping up with the times (progress), should be given the football athlete. He hates to be cheated by a bad call too. And refs are only human, even Ron Douglas, and I'm sure they would appreciate the pressure-relieving extra eye of the camera to help them in officiating.

FYI: The full 14-game preseason schedule kicks off the weekend of Aug. 4-7. Quickly... Friday — San Diego at Seattle; Saturday — San Francisco at Dallas (four Heisman winners there), Cincinnati at Tampa Bay, Oakland at Chicago, Kansas City at Green Bay, Washington at Minnesota, Philadelphia and New Orleans at Mexico City, New England at Los Angeles, St. Louis at Miami, Pittsburgh at Baltimore, Denver at Houston and Buffalo at Detroit. The Jets host Atlanta and the Giants travel to Cleveland Monday night to round out the weekend.

One last NFL note: Big Spring's Tony Taroni, whose brother-in-law's brother-in-law is the coach of the Chicago Bears, wonders why the Bears have to train in Chicago, while the Oilers get to go to San Angelo. Hmmm.

REMARKABILITIES

"There goes some more lost luggage." — JACK BUCK, St. Louis broadcaster, while doing a Cardinal-Met game from Shea Stadium as jets from nearby La Guardia Field roared overhead.

"It means no. 51 is next." — GAYLORD PERRY of the San Diego Padres, when asked about the significance of his 50th career shutout.

"The government can't stand too many days of that." — DICK YOUNG, referring to Reggie Jackson's loss of $2,500 a day in pay during his suspension.

Just what 'Doc' ordered, 8-game skein cured

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Doc Medich, who saved a life this month, also saved the Texas Rangers Wednesday night from further embarrassment in the American League. Medich handcuffed Boston on two hits and, thanks to a tworun homer by Bobby Bonds, the Rangers ended an eight-game losing streak with a 2-0 victory over the Red Sox.

"Maybe there is a law of averages," said Medich, 5-5, after he outdueled Dennis Eckersley, 11-4. It was Texas' sixth straight victory over Boston and the Red Sox seventh loss in their last eight games. Eckersley allowed only six hits but made a big mistake to Bonds in the bottom of the eighth inning. "I shook off (catcher) Carlton Fisk who wanted a curve ball and Bonds hit an outside fast ball," said Eckersley.

THROWN OUT AND THROWING MAD — Texas Rangers' Jim Sundberg reels back to throw a piece of equipment onto the playing field at Arlington Stadium Wednesday night. Sundberg was thrown out of the game by home plate umpire Mike Reilly for arguing a called third strike in the first inning of the Rangers' game against the Boston Red Sox. After being restrained at the plate by manager Billy Hunter, Sundberg threw an assortment of bats, helmets and gloves onto the field on his way to the locker room. The Rangers won the game, 2-0.

think down." Boston lost more than just a game. Left-fielder Carl Yastrzemski aggravated a back injury and will be lost from three to five games, said Boston manager Don Zimmer. Medich retired the last 14 batters in a row, but added, "I was really getting tired. I just didn't want to come out. I kept the ball down and when you think Boston you happening to us. You start thinking about life and death and it puts baseball in perspective." He added, "I was a little lucky. We played great defense and they're in a slump." Bonds said, "It felt good to win. It's been a mighty long time. We finally got a break." Said Ranger manager Billy Hunter, "Boston brings out the best in us. I just wish we had more than one game with them left. Maybe we do." In the wrapup game of the series tonight, John Matlack, 7-8, of Texas, meets Boston's Luis Tiant, 7-8.

Cowboy drills are lengthy

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys, in the longest practice sessions of summer camp so far, worked on goal line situations and held passing scrimmages Wednesday between the first offensive and defensive units.

expected to miss much action, doctors said. Free agent kickers Ove Johansson and rookie Jay Sherrill, bidding to replace missing All-Pro kicker Efren Herrera, concluded the afternoon workout with field goal attempts. They did not distinguish themselves, observers said. Herrera still has not reported to the Cowboys' camp at California Lutheran College. He was due last Thursday evening and is being fined $500 for each day he is absent. Herrera wants to renegotiate his contract, which is in its option year.

The National Football League champions ran a total of 45 plays from scrimmage, with the first 15 being goal line carries by fullbacks Robert Newhouse and Scott Laidlaw and tailbacks Tony Dorsett and Doug Dennison. Running back Preston Pearson sat out Tuesday's two workouts with strains of his back, groin and hamstring, team officials said.

In passing drills that followed the goal line workout, the Cowboys' veteran defensive unit, working on its 4-0 alignment for passing situations, picked off five aerials — two each by Cliff Harris and Thomas Henderson and one by Randy Hughes.

During the passing drill, tight end Billy Joe DuPree, already practicing with a fractured left thumb, had to leave the workout when he split the webbing between two fingers on his right hand while catching a pass. Although the injury required nine stitches, DuPree is not

UIL rule opponents finally win a skirmish

HOUSTON (AP) — At 6-11, 250 pounds, schoolboy star Greg Kite doesn't appear to need help in pursuing a basketball career, but U.S. District Judge Finis Cowan has given him a helping hand anyway.

"In five years I think you will see a tremendous upgrading of high school basketball in Texas," Steffey said. "I think (Kite) has opened the door for other high school athletes too. You can't let Greg go and nobody else."

In a move that could eventually change the future of high school basketball in Texas, Cowan Wednesday issued an injunction that prohibits the University Interscholastic League from punishing Kite for attending two summer basketball camps next month.

"I'm just happy I'll be able to go to the camps and I that maybe other athletes will now have a chance to go to camps and improve themselves," said Kite, who averaged 19 points and 15 rebounds as a junior last season on Houston Madison's district championship team.

Kite filed suit against the UIL, claiming the league's ban on varsity athletes participating in summer basketball camps violated his right to improve his skills. But Cowan's helping hand so far only is extended to Kite.

Marshall said he foresees trouble ahead if summer camps eventually are approved for Texas. "We know other states have less restrictive rules and they've had trouble with it," Marshall said. "The youngsters are pressured to attend. It won't solve the problems just putting restrictions on the camps."

Cowan was careful to point out that his ruling applied only to Kite and UIL Director Bailey Marshall warned that any other Texas schoolboy who attended a summer camp would be in violation of the UIL rule.

While the Kite case has been the central topic of the 46th annual Texas High School Coaches Association coaching school under way here, the allstar football and basketball teams continued preparing for their weekend North-South clashes.

"We hope all the youngsters throughout the state realize this rule was just for this one youngster and anyone else who might go to a summer camp would be in violation of the rule," Marshall said.

Marshall said the UIL's next move would be to try to formulate some type of rule that would permit summer camps with restrictions and try to get it approved.

UIL punishment for violation of the summer camp rule is loss on one year's eligibility. Despite Marshall's warning, Kite and his attorney Dean Steffey, saw the ruling as opening the gates for other athletes to attend camps.

Three weeks ago, on June 29, he was informed that the Chicago White Sox no longer required his help in their dugout, making up lineups, plotting strategies and doing all the other little things managers do to kill time.

Then, 26 days later, on Monday, July 24, he was informed that the New York Yankees now required his help in doing those very same little things.

Kratzert is the defending champion in the $210,000 Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open. He captured the $42,000 first prize last year with a 19-under-par 265. It was the last victory on the Professional Golfers Association tour for Kratzert, who is now in ninth place on the 1978 money-winners list with $134,140.

If the locals win tonight, they would play Sweetwater, 6 p.m. Friday. A win there would send them into the limelight. An opening-round loss would pit them against the loser of the Odessa-Sweetwater contest. That game would be played 8 p.m. Friday.

Kratzert is confident he can repeat his GHO performance this year, but his mind may be on other things besides golf. His wife, Cheryl Ann, is home in Fort Wayne, Ind., expecting their first child "any day now," Kratzert said.

Good-bye Billy. To replace the volatile Martin, the Yankees chose a placid Lemon, who lost his job in Chicago to Larry Doby right around the time Steinbrenner was telling the world that Martin was safe in New York through the end of the season. George, of course, didn't take into account the terminal attack of loose lips that would force an early departure for his manager.

Only one golfer has ever repeated at the GHO. Billy Casper won the tournament in 1963, 1965, 1968 and 1973. No golfer has won the title in consecutive years.

There are nine former GHO champions in the field this year at the 6,354-yard they put three guys in the shortstop hole, I still should be able to get a hit." The Reds had a day off today but Rose wasn't going to sit idle and ponder his next assignment: extending the streak against Philadelphia's ace lefthander, Steve Carlton, in the opener of a two-night doubleheader Friday.

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Rose says it's too early to start talking about Joe DiMaggio but he doesn't mind one bit if you mention Ty Cobb.

"We have an optional batting practice," noted Rose, who broke Tommy Holmes' modern NL record of 37 consecutive games with a hit on Tuesday. "I'll take hitting, try to get me at least one base hit in batting practice. I want to keep the adrenaline flowing."

Rose extended his modern National League consecutive game hitting streak to 39 Wednesday with a fifth-inning double in the Cincinnati Reds' 12-3 loss to the New York Mets. DiMaggio holds the major league record of 56 games, set in 1941, but looming just ahead is Ty Cobb, who hit in 40 straight contests in 1911.

"I haven't gotten a hit off Carlton all year. He'll be pitching in twilight, so I have my work cut out. I'm due against him. I'm swinging good. I feel like I'll hit every game."

"I have to be optimistic. I figure if I get five shots, I'll get a hit. If I don't get one in five shots, I don't deserve to keep the streak."

Ironically, in the 32nd game of the streak, Rose failed to get a hit off Carlton. In his fifth atbat of the night, facing reliever Ron Reed with two outs in the ninth, he bunted for a hit.

"People ought to be revved up Friday," Rose said. "We're coming home. I haven't hit Carlton, and games with the Phillies are more fun to me than games with the Dodgers."

"He got a pitch inside," said Rose. "I knew right away it was a double or a triple."

"On the first-inning ground out, Lenny Randle was where I had gotten three hits the other nights, in the shortstop hole. I signed a ball before the game for him and his wife, then he robbed me of a hit in the first."

"Nobody on defense can dictate where I'll hit, though. If

Angelo chosen first

KINGSVILLE, Texas (AP)— Angelo State University has been selected to win the Lone Star Conference football title in the Texas A&I Sports Information office's annual preseason poll. The poll includes votes from coaches, athletic directors, sports information directors, trainers and news media representatives in the state. Abilene Christian was second and Texas A&I was third. East Texas was fourth followed by Southwest Texas, S.F. Austin, Sam Houston and Howard Payne.

Norman's bid rejected

SAN DIEGO (AP) — For the second time, a Superior Court jury has rejected former San Diego Chargers tight end Pettis Norman's bid for compensation for alleged negligent treatment by the team physician for the National Football League club.

Following a civil trial before Judge George A. Lazar, the jury Wednesday absolved Chargers physician Dr. E. Paul Woodward of any negligence. The trial was in connection with treatment of a 1974 injury that eventually forced Norman's retirement from pro football.

Norman was seeking $500,000 in damages. During the trial, Robert Baxley, his attorney, maintained that Woodward misdiagnosed Norman's ailment and that Chargers trainers encouraged Norman to play despite the knee injury.

In an earlier trial, jurors found Woodward blameless but that verdict was overturned after several members of the panel reported racial slurs by one of their number.

LITC seeds advance

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Top-seeded Brian Gottfried defeated Mike Cahill 6-4, 6-3 and second-seeded Eddie Dibbs ousted Bruce Manson 6-2, 6-0 in the second round of the $175,000 Louisville International Tennis Classic.

In an earlier match, unseeded Patrick Cornejo of Chile upset fourth-seeded Roscoe Tanner 6-4, 6-3.

Among other seeded players to advance, third-seeded Manuel Orantes beat Ivan Molina 6-1, 6-2; fifth-seeded Harold Solomon defeated Bernard Fritz 7-6, 6-7, 6-1; sixth-seeded Dick Stockton bested Ricardo Fagel 7-6, 6-0; ninth-seeded Jose Higueras of Spain beat Billy Martin 6-1, 6-3; 13th-seeded Phil Dent defeated fellow-Australian Peter McNamara 6-2, 6-1; and 16th-seeded Victor Amaya beat Victor Pecci of Paraguay 1-6, 6-3, 6-0.

Stan Smith, seeded 11th, lost to Terry Moor 6-4, 7-6. Hans Gildemeister of Chile, seeded 12th, lost to unseeded Rod Frawley of Australia 5-7, 6-1, 6-4.

Barnes wants discipline

MIAMI (AP) — Marvin Barnes, the enigmatic forward whose basketball career has been marked by chaos and unfulfilled promise, is putting his $950,000 contract on the line in an attempt at self-discipline.

In a telephone call from Austin, Texas, Barnes told The Associated Press he has asked Boston Celtics owner John Y. Brown to remove the guarantee from his three-year contract. Barnes' move may be unprecedented in the National Basketball Association, and is even more notable considering he has walked out on three different teams because of contract problems.

"A man knows what he needs, and I need this challenge. I know I can be a great player, and I have no fear of losing my contract. This will make me work harder," he said.

Barnes averaged 24 points and 16 rebounds in his rookie season with the defunct St. Louis Spirits, but most of his headlines since have come from off-court activities.

Five years ago he said, "I'd rather work in a factory" when the Spirits balked at renegotiating his contract. He later went AWOL from the Detroit Pistons and Buffalo Braves for similar reasons, and spent three months in jail for violating probation set when he assaulted a Providence College teammate.

Brothel owner owes $7 million in taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service claims a Nevada brothel owner owes more than $7 million in taxes but concedes that he can deduct prostitutes' salaries as a business expense.

Joe Conforte, challenging the assessment in the U.S. Tax Court here, said the IRS should also let him deduct rebates to cab drivers plus his brothel's legal fees and linen costs.

In an appeal made public Wednesday, Conforte said "the deductions for salaries and wages of prostitutes, rent, utilities and taxes and licenses (allowed by the IRS) are substantially understated."

Prostitution is legal in Nevada's Storey County, where Conforte owns Mustang Ranch, the state's largest brothel. The IRS makes little distinction about the legality of a business when it assesses taxes or allows deductions.

Conforte is also suing the IRS, charging the assessment was "unreasonable and excessive."

On June 2, U.S. District Judge Roger Foley of Las Vegas rejected Conforte's suit, describing him as a

"despoiler of women" and "a pimp sitting on the banks of the Truckee River thumping his nose at the U.S. government."

Three days later, however, Foley reversed himself and dismissed Conforte's complaint "without prejudice," meaning Conforte could continue the suit in another federal district court.

Conforte's attorney said Wednesday that Conforte and his wife, in joint returns, had claimed smaller profits from the brothel but had not calculated the salaries as deductions.

However, Tax Court records showed that the IRS, in figuring his taxes from 1973 to 1976, deducted the prostitutes' salaries as business expenses.

The IRS said in documents filed April 4 that the brothel near Reno had gross receipts averaging $2.7 million yearly for the four years. In figuring his taxes, the IRS deducted about $1.2 million per year in wages and salaries for prostitutes as part of $1.4 million in expenses. His net brothel income subject to taxes averaged about $1.3 million, it said.

The IRS calculated part of Conforte's income from papers found in a trash bin in the summer of 1975. One "trick sheet" bore the names of 38 women and the amounts they made in a 24-hour shift. They ranged from $10 to $736.

Conforte's attorney, Harvey D. Tack of Los Angeles, described the IRS assessment as "grossly excessive" and asked for a trial in Los Angeles.

In the appeal filed in Washington July 14, Conforte said, "The expenses which have intentionally not been considered by the IRS... include legal fees..., insurance, cleaning supplies, laundry, linen, rebates to cab drivers, office supplies and fuel."

The IRS said, however, that "all or part of the deficiency in the income tax... is due to fraud with intent to evade the income tax." It asked for about $5.5 million in taxes plus penalties bringing the total to $7.3 million.

Conforte and his wife, Sally, are appealing the Sept. 16 conviction of four counts of business income tax evasion in U.S. District Court in Reno.

Computer security tightened

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, concerned about reports that government files on millions of Americans aren't tamper-proof, is clamping down on computer security, an administration source says.

The source said the Office of Management and Budget is planning, probably next week, to issue a directive requiring tighter precautions to safeguard against unauthorized people having access to the government's computers.

President Carter had asked the OMB in February 1977, to study the problem.

The federal government is the country's largest user of computers with an estimated 10,000 of them processing everything from tax returns to crop reports.

Although essential elements of the directive have been completed, some details still may be changed, the source, who declined to be identified, said Wednesday night.

The White House move comes amid increasing concern by some members of Congress about the easy access to information in some computers — a situation which, critics say, constitutes a potential invasion of privacy and opens the system to fraud.

The General Accounting Office issued a report earlier this month critical of computer safeguards in the Social Security Administration, which maintains medical and financial records on 170 million Americans.

The GAO, the investigative arm of Congress, said computer terminals often were not locked and could be used by almost anyone with access to them. The GAO said in many cases there was unlimited access to the terminal by employees.

Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., a co-author of the 1974 Privacy Act, also has charged that the availability of the Veterans Administration's computerized files is too broad and that such files should be safeguarded under more stringent security.

An internal audit by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare revealed last November that computer "systems security in HEW was far from meeting minimum acceptable standards."

Both HEW and the Social Security Administration since have moved independently to increase computer security, but the White House directive is expected to put added emphasis on the problem.

The source said the directive will order the Commerce Department to compile new security standards and guidelines, and will require the General Services Administration, the government's landlord, to establish new regulations for physical security of computer rooms.

The directive also will order the Civil Service Commission to re-evaluate and set standards on screening, including background checks, of employees working with government computers, the source said.

The government's computerized files, especially those held by the Social Security and Veterans administrations — contain a broad range of information including data on a person's earnings, real estate holdings, medical history and marital status as well as whether an individual has had problems with drugs or alcohol.

STOP INFLATION fighting inflation?

There are some ideas customers have adopted, which we are happy to pass along. You are probably doing many of these already, and possibly others not listed (we'd be glad to hear about further suggestions).

- Try new recipes, new meal ideas. Recipes using everyday, inexpensive familiar staples such as corn meal, macaroni, root vegetables, etc. can be delicious as well as economical.
- Try brands that may be new to you. Chances are you'll find items in Safeway brands which can save you money and be equally as satisfying to you and your family as your present brand.
- Buy in quantity if there is a sale... but buy only what you can use, freeze, can or preserve.
- Use Safeway's unit price tags. They allow you to compare the cost of various brands.
- Check the Open Dating on perishables. It's your guide to freshness to get maximum storage life for your money.
- When you buy fresh meat, think in terms of several meals that will last one. Buy ahead, cook ahead, freeze ahead. Your cost per meal will go down substantially.
- Substitute. There is a saving. Flour for yeast mixes... cabbage for lettuce... dry milk for fresh milk, etc.
- Check Safeway's food ads for the Specials, the Best Buys — things that are plentiful supply and reduced in price. Food ads give the shopper a handy way to compare value, plan economical meals and be aware of weekly bargains.
- Make out a basic shopping list, but be open-minded to unadvertised specials. These can often be the bargain of the week for you.
- Try more, one-stop shopping. More and more customers are coming to Safeway for health and beauty aids, toiletries, housewares and appliances, garden supplies, etc. This can save time and gasoline.
- Rediscover the pleasures of eating out at home.

Two London doctors caution infertile women

LONDON (AP) — Britain's two pioneer test-tube-baby doctors are cautioning infertile women not to raise their hopes too high yet and advising foreigners seeking their treatment that they and Britain can't take care of them.

The birth of 5-pound, 12-ounce Louise Brown, the first authenticated case of a baby born after conception outside the womb, was "the end of the beginning, not the beginning of the end," Dr. Robert Edwards told a news conference. "We wish to be very modest about what we have done. We have a lot to learn."

"It is obvious this is not immediately available to everybody," said Dr. Patrick Steptoe, his colleague in the 12 years of research and experimention that culminated in the birth of the baby Tuesday to 30-year-old Lesley Brown.

Steptoe said the facilities he and Edwards have been using are inadequate and are no longer available, that they are now looking for new quarters and financing to continue their research, and that Britain has no facilities for would-be mothers from abroad. But he added a note of hope for the childless:

"There are a number of teams already starting this work. We think that within a fairly reasonable time, given the proper facilities, this could be made applicable all over the world."

The London Daily Express reported that doctors at London's St. Thomas's Hospital also are experiment with test-tube fertilization and that a woman underwent an egg-extraction operation there Wednesday.

Mrs. Brown came to Steptoe and Edwards two years ago for help because a blockage in her fallopian tubes that prevented conception could not be corrected. The two doctors took an egg from one of her ovaries, fertilized it with her husband's sperm in a laboratory dish and implanted the dividing cell into her uterus, where it developed normally. Mother and daughter are reported in fine condition.

An estimated 40 percent of infertile women have the same problem as Mrs. Brown. But research on test-tube conception in the United States has been curtailed since 1975, when the Department of Health, Education and Welfare barred federal funding for it unless the projects were approved by the Federal Ethics Advisory Board.

The board, which has been marking time on the issue, announced after the British gathering information next month on such controversial related matters as the discard of fertilized eggs, donor eggs and using surrogate mothers to carry fetuses.

"I think we're going to be very cautious about this," said the board's vice chairman, David Hamburg.

U.S. doctors are also likely to be extremely hesitant about laboratory conception because of the $1.5 million damage suit a woman has brought against New York's Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center because one of its doctors destroyed a culture she claims was to have been implanted in her womb.

However, a spokesman for the American Medical Association, Frank Chapell, said lawyers for the organization "don't see any significant ethical problems. This is an extension of artificial insemination and sperm banks, which we've had for years."

Religious reaction was divided but muted so far.

The Vatican's spokesman, the Rev. Pierfranco Pastore, said the Roman Catholic Church considers artificial insemination illicit because "fecundation must be carried out according to nature and through reciprocal and responsible love between a man and a woman."

Experts on Jewish and Moslem law said they considered fertilization outside the womb legitimate as long as the father and mother are married.

Giles Eccleston, secretary of the Board for Social Responsibility of the Church of England, said he "welcomed the development" because the birth of Louise Brown represented an advance in meeting the problem of childlessness for married couples.

Along with the ethical issues, a commercial storm was brewing over the birth. The Browns have sold the exclusive rights to their story to the London Daily Mail for about $600,000 and got a British government film crew that filmed the birth to sign an agreement not to release its movie for 28 days.

The government, which paid for Mrs. Brown's treatment and the birth through the National Health Service, said it could not accept the agreement and was prepared to make the film available commercially "subject to the views of the parents." But Mrs. Brown's lawyer, Paul Vincent, said it was unlikely she would agree.

Reporters asked Edwards and Steptoe if they thought the world's first test tube baby could expect a normal life.

"That depends upon you and your colleagues," Edwards replied.

'Pay as you go' government

State Representative Mike Ezzell joined 97 House colleagues in co-sponsoring HCR 13 by Von Dohlen calling for an amendment to the United State Constitution requiring a balanced annual federal budget and the amortization of the federal debt. The resolution was passed unanimously by the House Thursday.

The resolution has the active support of all major state officials, including Governor Dolph Briscoe, Lieutenant Governor Bill Hobby, Speaker Bill Clayton, and Attorney General John Hill. The resolution specifically requests the members of the Texas Congressional delegation to sponsor the amendment and work for its submission to the States.

Representative Ezzell said: "The federal debt has increased by $177 billion in the past three years alone. Runaway spending at the federal level is largely responsible for the inflation that has gripped this country for years.

The disgruntled attitude Texas taxpayers have today is aimed more at their frustration with what is happening at the federal level than problems here in Texas. It is past time that we Texans, with our history of a "pay as you go" government, take the lead in making the federal government act responsibly and live within its budget as each of us must do."
