

More rain predicted for area

At least 21 dead from flooding

By The Associated Press

Weather forecasters predicted still more rain for Central Texas today, where at least 21 have died in flooding that followed weeks of harsh drought.

The National Weather Service said conditions were favorable for rain to continue drenching flood-ravaged areas for another "three to four days."

Waterways already swollen by the rains threatened areas downstream of the three-county section where at least 15 persons died Tuesday and Wednesday.

Six more were reported dead 200 miles to the north in the small farming community of Albany Thursday night, a Department of Public Safety spokesman said.

The storms spawned by the dregs of tropical storm Amelia set out on a new northeasterly path.

Wary rescue workers resumed their muddy search at daybreak in the Hill Country. Volunteers and law enforcement officers, on horseback and on foot, began combing the newly-accessible banks of the Medina River at daybreak.

"We're pretty sure we'll find some more (victims)," said Bandera police deputy Jackie Doyle. "We wish we weren't so sure."

Hundreds have been left homeless in the Hill Country, and while official damage estimates may be weeks away, the figure is expected to run easily into the tens of millions of dollars.

Authorities struggled to restore communication and transportation links to Albany, where the National Guard attempted to pluck some residents from their rooftop outposts.

At least seven inches of rain fell in the ravaged town, and neighboring Throckmorton County reported a rainfall of 17 inches. A DPS spokesman said accumulated rain water, a rising creek and the drainage system all contributed to the flood.

President Carter Thursday declared Texas a major disaster area, freeing federal recovery funds for the three hardest-hit Hill Country counties — Kerr, Bandera and Kendall. Ironically, the counties were already listed as disaster areas by the Agriculture Department due to drought conditions.

U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Texas, and Gov. Dolph Briscoe drove through Bandera County Thursday to survey the damage.

"Obviously, this area has gone from a drought disaster area to a flood disaster area in a matter of two days," Krueger said. "What we've gotten in the area is a year's worth of rain in only 48 hours."

Briscoe, who requested Carter's declaration, said, "This has to be one of the worst floods in the state's history. The devastation is unbelievable." The FDAA and the state have arranged to establish disaster assistance centers in the flood area and announcements of the locations of the centers are to be made within a few days.

Clean-up operations have already begun in the Hill Country, but elsewhere in the state, flash flood warnings were issued as rainstorms thundered toward the west.

Downstream from the area hardest hit by the flooding Wednesday and Thursday, riverfront residents are bracing for the possibility cresting rivers and streams may claim their homes.

In West Texas, where the storms moved Thursday, U.S. Navy and Marine reserves were coordinating evacuation efforts for two low-lying areas in Abilene. Although some residents returned to their homes during the night, rising creek waters caused the areas to be evacuated again before dawn.

Flash flood warnings were issued

Thursday night for at least 25 West Texas counties, and some were extended until noon today. Officials reported flooding and ordered some evacuations in Callahan and Knox counties.

With communications and travel still hampered, officers struggled to correlate information about deaths and injuries.

Late Thursday, authorities listed 15 persons confirmed dead.

They were: —Bertha Louise Baum, 80, of Abilene. —Mrs. King Buchanan, 70, of Bandera. —Antonio Morales, 83, of Comfort. —Johnny C. Pickett, 60, of Center Point.

—Mrs. Johnny C. Pickett, 60, of Center Point. —Mrs. Claudia Livingston, 70, of Center Point. —Ritchie Carlson, 7, of Center Point. —Timothy Klenstein, 28, of Comfort. —David Sanchez, 11, of Bandera. —Bonnie Bridges, 11, of Center Point. —Alan Jones, age unknown, of Bremond. —Arnold Ervin Watson, 44, of Bremond. —Richard Bridges, 12, of Center Point. —Mrs. Helen L. Woods, 53, of Comfort. —An 18-month old infant, last name McCabe.

OUT OF THE BANKS — More than 20 inches of rain within 24 hours fell on a four county area Thursday night-Friday morning, directing most of its force on Hubbard Creek in Albany. The US 181 bridge leading into the city of 1800 people is nearing a washout. There have been 6 confirmed deaths, with more expected, as many as 10 are missing. A dam southeast of the city (about 25 mi. from Abilene, Tex.) was damaged and contributed to the massive flooding.

Gifts pouring in for Bible Fund

Gifts cascaded in for the Bible Fund Thursday afternoon and this morning. During the 24-hour period ending at noon today, a total of $783.50 was received, bringing the aggregate for the drive to $1,118.50.

Included among the donations was a $300 check from Trinity Baptist Church, which always supports the drive well.

A total of $10,000 is being sought by the sponsoring organization, the Howard County Ministerial Alliance, to maintain Bible chairs in high schools here, Coahoma and Forsan.

Dr. Kenneth Patrick, coordinator of the drive, said he hoped the campaign could be successfully completed before the beginning of school later this month.

Checks should be made out to The Bible Fund and forwarded either to the Herald or to Dr. Patrick, c/o First Baptist Church, Big Spring.

$1.5 million application produces 'participation'

Approximately 25-30 persons attended a public hearing Thursday night concerning an application by the city of Big Spring for a federal grant of $1.5 million for community development, according to Paul Feazelle, director of the local Office of Housing and Community Development.

Feazelle deemed the turnout "very good" and said there was "lots of participation" in a discussion on what should go into application forms for the money.

Money will go toward improvement in the city centered on 35 blocks on the north-side, Feazelle said. Spokesmen from the Brown Berets and the Mexican-American Service Council attended the meeting.

Suggestions included using monies for street-improvement city-wide, Feazelle said.

"The meeting lasted a couple of hours," he said today. "There was a lot of technical explanation" of the proposed grant and of city improvement. "Every aspect of activities proposed were discussed," he said.

Big Spring is asking for a $1.5 million allotment from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, which will span two years of city improvement. Money is allotted on a yearly basis. The two-year request will enable city officials not to have to repeat the application for money again next year. City officials hope that $750,000 will be released for city improvement as of Jan. 1, and the same amount next year.

Applications for the money are to be into HUD offices Aug. 15, Feazelle said. "We just got the forms for application yesterday," he said. "This has put us in a bind." He is hoping that HUD will give a two-week extension on the application deadline.

"It will take until November to get the final word" on the money, Feazelle said. Requirements will then have to be met, such as environment assessment reports, "before we can get our hands on the money," he added.

Feazelle hopes to start the community development program Jan. 1.

Climbs to 6.2 percent

Unemployment rate rises

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment rose sharply in July, climbing to 6.2 percent of the labor force, with teenagers and women bearing the brunt of the increased joblessness, the government reported today.

The nation's jobless rate was 5.7 percent in June, the lowest in more than three years. The July rate of 6.2 percent was the highest since March, when it also was 6.2 percent.

Some increase in unemployment was considered likely because of government moves to slow the economy to help restrain inflation, but the July increase was surprisingly large and was spread throughout most employment categories.

The Labor Department gave the following breakdown in July joblessness compared with the previous month:

- Adult men, 4.1 percent, up from 3.9 percent in June.
- Adult women, 6.5 percent, up from 6.1.
- Teen-agers, 16.3 percent, up from 14.2.
- Whites, 5.3 percent, up from 4.9.
- Blacks 12.5 percent, up from 11.9.
- Full-time workers, 5.7 percent, up from 5.2.
- White-collar workers, 3.8 percent, up from 3.5.
- Blue-collar workers, 6.9 percent, up from 6.5.

The department said overall unemployment rose by 440,000, with teen-agers accounting for about half of the increase. Total unemployment in July was just under 6.2 million, while employment was 94.4 million.

The July increase more than reversed all of the employment gains in June, when unemployment had dropped to 5.7 percent from 6.1 percent in May.

A Labor Department analyst said the July increase in joblessness was "as hard to understand" as the steep June decline, and he said statistical problems could have accounted for much of the change.

"When something goes up so sharply and then falls back in the next month, there is a tendency to think the former figure was aberrant," he said.

The analyst also noted that a separate jobs measurement in July showed that non-farm employment had actually increased, rising by 265,000 jobs, a further indication of statistical problems.

The difference between the two measurements, one taken in a household survey and the other provided by employers, is "not technically explainable ... there is something unreliable about one of them," said the analyst, who declined use of his name.

However, he said the 6.2 percent unemployment rate in July was a good indication of overall joblessness in the economy.

Carter administration economists say the 5.7 percent June jobless rate could turn out to be the best for the year, in view of the moves underway to slow the growth of the economy to combat inflation.

They said they hoped the public would give it credit for doing better than expected in reducing unemployment.

Tower plans press conference here

Sen. John Tower will talk about a compromise bill on deregulation of natural gas prior to a press conference at the Big Spring airport at noon Saturday and then attend a public "brown bag" luncheon at the Old Settlers Pavilion at Comanche Trail Park.

He will be appearing with Bill Fisher, Abilene tax attorney, and Republican candidate for the 17th Congressional District.

Tower opposes the conference bill on natural gas deregulation because it would put intrastate gas under federal regulations until deregulation would take place in 1985, according to a spokesman from his office. A compromise bill is expected to be considered Thursday.

The political rally at the park, scheduled from noon to 2:30 p.m. is sponsored by the Big Spring Republican women.

No school tax hike necessary

The Big Spring Independent School District Board of Trustees met at 5 p.m. Thursday for a 25-minute meeting in which they approved a tax rate equal to that set last year by the board.

The rate, $1.70 per $100 valuation at 75 per cent assessment, had been taken into consideration when the board tentatively approved the 1978-79 budget at their July meeting, according to Big Spring Schools Superintendent Lynn Hise.

The public hearing on the budget has been set for 5:15 p.m. Aug. 10.

Action/reaction: Tax information

Q. I'm starting a small business and I need information about the necessary paperwork for FICA and withholding tax information. Could you enlighten me where I start?

A. You first need to contact the Internal Revenue Service and obtain a form for an employer identification number. That will be the number your business will be identified with in your tax transactions with the IRS. Along with that number, the IRS will send along the necessary forms, tax tables and instructions — too many, granted, but necessary, says your government. IRS's toll-free number, incidentally, is 1-800-492-4830.

Offbeat: 'Barefooting it'

Nora Ford's neighbors got to watch an exciting game of chase as Mrs. Ford, who resides at 703 Lorell, decided to be neighborly and tell a resident who lived across the street about a skunk that was parading in the front yard.

The skunk, however, decided that Mrs. Ford was the intruder and promptly chased the barefoot lady back across the street and into her own house. The skunk then laid down under Mrs. Ford's car and remained there until authorities from the Big Spring Animal Shelter could come and shoot the skunk.

Authorities at the animal shelter said the skunk probably wasn't rabid, and that the city does not pay the $25 fee to have the head sent to Austin and analyzed for possible rabies unless a city employee was bit or scratched by the animal.

Mrs. Ford wasn't bit by the skunk, but she did learn just how fast she could "barefoot it" back across the street.

About Carter's political standing

Democratic Party officials worried

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I don't think up to now, Carter has measured up to the expectations of the American public."
"Basically, people are disappointed."
"He's perceived as failing."
In this time of political troubles for Jimmy Carter, those comments are not from his Republican opponents. Neither are they from a sampling of voters who may or may not have supported him in 1976.

They are the comments of Democratic Party officials across the nation, the people who devote their lives to electing Democrats to offices from the presidency to county commissioner.
And they are worried about the political standing of the Democrat who swept out of relative obscurity in 1976 to return the White House to Democratic control after eight years of Republican rule.
There are the public opinion polls, those nagging expressions of discontent. There are the stalemates in Congress on energy and taxes. And the angry outbursts from Ted Kennedy and Thomas "Tip" O'Neill.
A week ago, Kennedy, the Massachusetts senator who has made such a point of demonstrating loyalty to Carter, broke with the president on national health insurance. Kennedy wants the administration to push for congressional action. Carter insists on a slower approach.

House Speaker O'Neill also has played the role of Carter loyalist and played it well. But O'Neill is an old-time Boston politician, with the allegiances that implies, and he publicly complained that he was "deeply hurt" when the White House fired a long-time friend from a top job in the General Services Administration.
Democratic Party officials around the country are reluctant to criticize their president. "I don't like as a party chairman and as an individual to add to the symphony of criticism when he's down in the polls," said Bert Coffey, California Democratic Party chairman.

"This president has tried," he added. "I think he's a very hard-working guy ... But he's perceived as failing."
Part of the problem, as Coffey sees it, was that in his campaign, Carter raised expectations in voters that haven't been fulfilled.
Richard J. Coffey, New Jersey party chairman and an early Carter supporter, said that though he thought Carter was "a man of tremendous ability," he too saw him as falling below expectations.
Not all the comments were pessimistic. Neale Chaney, Washington state chairman, said that "the price of wheat is up so the farmers aren't angry anymore." He noted that 65,000 people turned out when Carter was in Spokane, a huge crowd for that area.
"I haven't seen any Republican that people are enthusiastic about," he added.
In Louisiana, Jesse

Bankston said the Georgia native in the White House still commands the loyalty of the South. "I don't see any great deal of erosion," he said, adding that part of Carter's problem was a media bias against southerners.
"He's a southerner and he going to get a lot more criticism than if he were a Bostonian," he said. "I think he's suffering under the heavy hand of the press."
Claire Rumpel, a leader in Minnesota's Democratic Farm Labor Party, said that when she calls rural areas to assess voter sentiment, she often is told, "Everybody is mad at Carter out here."
The farmers in her state are angry, but she finds no comparable discontent in urban areas.
In Nevada, Didi Carson said Carter's popularity is down because he advocates a halt in nuclear testing, a move she estimates would cost 5,000 jobs in the state. But the Nevada chairman said Carter isn't perceived as failing to live up to campaign promises.

"I honestly think the president is making an effort to do what he said he would do," she said.
But a lot of issues — inflation, energy, health insurance, foremost among them — are mentioned in talks with party officials.
"I would say to the president, I want a health insurance bill," said Bert Coffey.
"His biggest problem is that damned inflation," said Chaney.
Without fail, John White, the Texan who recently became Democratic national chairman, drew praise from party officials as a man who has improved communications between Washington and the states.

"We had reason to complain for quite a while," said Chaney. "Appointments were being made and we were reading about them in the newspaper ... There's been a turnaround due to John White."
There are two more years until the 1980 campaign, but politicians can't resist guessing how candidates might match up.
Could Carter beat Ronald Reagan in Louisiana? Bankston said he would but added, "I don't think Carter could beat Kennedy in Louisiana."
In Minnesota, California, Washington and New Jersey, Kennedy also was cited. But the senator insists he won't be a candidate in 1980.
If party officials have their way, Kennedy will be campaigning in their states this year. They want Carter — even presidents down in the polls draw crowds — but they want Kennedy too.
Coffey was asked which man candidates in California would prefer to campaign for them.

Beef prices to peak, officials predicting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rapid climb in retail beef prices — up 32 percent from last fall — has peaked, the Agriculture Department is predicting.
And in what could be even better news for inflation-battered consumers, a department report indicated on Thursday that beef prices could fall slightly in coming months.

The department was able to make those predictions at the same time it was saying retailers finally have begun passing on to consumers the full impact of soaring beef prices at the slaughterhouse.

That traditional pass-through normally takes only a few weeks but had been lagging in the current spiral. When beef retailers began to show a more normal pattern in June, slaughter cattle prices — which had risen by more than 40 percent since last fall — slipped slightly, softening the blow.
At that point the increase in retail prices was lagging behind by 8 percentage points.
What department forecasters said they do not yet know is when cattle raisers are going to start rebuilding herds so that prices can come down substantially.

Positive action needed in legislature

When thoughts turn to the special session of the Texas Legislature called by Gov. Dolph Briscoe and what has been accomplished compared to what hasn't, we think of what Oliver Hardy used to say waspishly to Stan Laurel:

"Well, this is another fine fix you got me in to."

At a cost of $25,000 a day or thereabouts, the Legislature is shadow-boxing, talking in the same decimal league with Muhammad Ali and delivering punches with the devastating power of a fly-weight.

The total cost of the special session could approach $900,000, money that quite likely could have been put to better use.

THE LEGISLATORS themselves were divided over the need for such an expensive exercise. Some reasoned Gov. Briscoe was just offering his last hurrah, wanting the legislature to restructure the tax situation in Texas that his successor, either John Hill or Bill Clements, couldn't live with. An informal poll among state senators showed that they thought the session was a bad idea.

The subject as projected by Briscoe, that of tax reform, was pertinent and enormously popular right now, coming as it did on the heels of the passage of Proposition 13 in California.

Critics of tax reform as recommended by Briscoe claim that Texans are not burdened with taxes, as have been Californians, therefore no reform is needed. Supporters of Briscoe's move, however, say that the state has a surplus of several billion dollars and that the tax payers should benefit from the largesse.

Briscoe, incidentally, limited the subjects to be covered to seven specific measures but the legislators, always unpredictable, strayed from the summons to introduce bills on such pressing issues as Texas A&M research grants.

reform process, which may be the ultimate aim of some of the dissenters. Parliamentary process as practiced in the legislature has further constricted the movements of the solons.

The State House of Representatives had a chance to suspend its rules so a committee could meet to draft legislation early, but the motion died for lack of a two-thirds majority.

Some of the members of both houses are approaching the problems as if a wealthy state will also be wealthy. Regrettably, that will not always be the case. Any positive action the legislature takes now might head off a lot of problems later on.

All about money

Around the rim

Let there be no mistake about it; America runs on and around money. The hullabaloo about Bakke, about women's rights, about consumer affairs are all directed at one thing — an equal opportunity to get at the money.

From our beginnings, America has been concerned with cash. It was not a political decision which triggered the Boston Tea Party. The cry of "taxation without representation" did not protest George's monarchy, it did not protest the condition of prisons in the New World. It protested simply money. We split with Britain because of economics.

IN THE 1920s, "business as usual" became a cliché, and in the 1930s Silent Cal told the populace "the business of America is business". For every great soldier, statesman, clergyman, philosopher, athlete, I'll show you a successful businessman. Don't point to our GNP, or our military record as signs of our power. Point to our businessmen, who have always had commerce at heart.

Lincoln, you remember, was revered because he walked miles to return a small amount of change to a woman — pointing out that people were astonished even then to find tremendous amounts of integrity in the marketplace.

People today are still as skeptical of the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker as ever. And with the advent of organized labor and the consumer movement, in the last 50 years, the little guy's have found a voice which won't go away.

BUT PROFIT has never been un-American. The original 13 colonies decided to clear out the marketplace for competition. With the first anti-monopoly stirrings, the unqualified freedom of business was clouded; there was such a thing as too much success.

Today, businessmen large and small face staunch opposition from labor groups, consumer groups, and political groups as never before, as well as from the federal boys.

But the dilemma persists. America has just never made up its mind whether value is an inherent quality or whether it is sheer fabrication. Is the orange I buy in West Texas worth a certain amount, taking into account cost of growing, transportation, labor, etc.? Or is it just plain and simple worth whatever I will pay for it?

All I know is that the dollar I take down to the grocers, butchers, bakers is stretched to the breaking point. In theory, I say casually, competition is a good thing, merchants should get whatever they can for their goods. But in practice, I cry, I won't pay it anymore, it is not worth it, rip-off.

This clearing-out of the marketplace has become a clearing-out of my pocketbook. It is getting beyond my self-control and no gleam of hope ahead.

My answer

Travis Reid
Coahoma, Tex.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why do you think Christians get discouraged? Is it the work of the devil? — S.M.

The answer to Elijah's discouragement came in the love of God, reminding him that God loved him and still had a purpose for him. God also met his physical needs by giving him rest and food. His problems did not go away immediately — Jezebel was still on the throne — but Elijah returned to his work with new vigor because he turned his eyes back to God and His inexhaustible resources.

There is a lesson in this for us. Did the devil cause Elijah's discouragement? In a way, yes. But Elijah himself was also responsible. Actually, we don't always know all the reasons why we become discouraged, and the reasons should not be our chief concern. Our concern should be to overcome our discouragement. Sometimes there are practical steps we need to take, like getting adequate rest. Often, we need to remind ourselves from God's Word that we belong to Him, and that He has a purpose for our lives.

Bush and China

William F. Buckley Jr.

The progressive collapse of Jimmy Carter stimulates the political, not to say the patriotic, appetite. And when last week George Bush spoke before the World Affairs Council in San Francisco, it was clear that the audience was listening to a candidate for President of the United States.

Concerning his formal qualifications, there is simply no question. It isn't widely known that when Gerry Ford ascended to the presidency he worked out a point system to help him in the selection of a vice president. At the top of the list, with most points after his name, was — George Bush. Nelson Rockefeller was nevertheless selected, for complicated but by no means inscrutable political reasons.

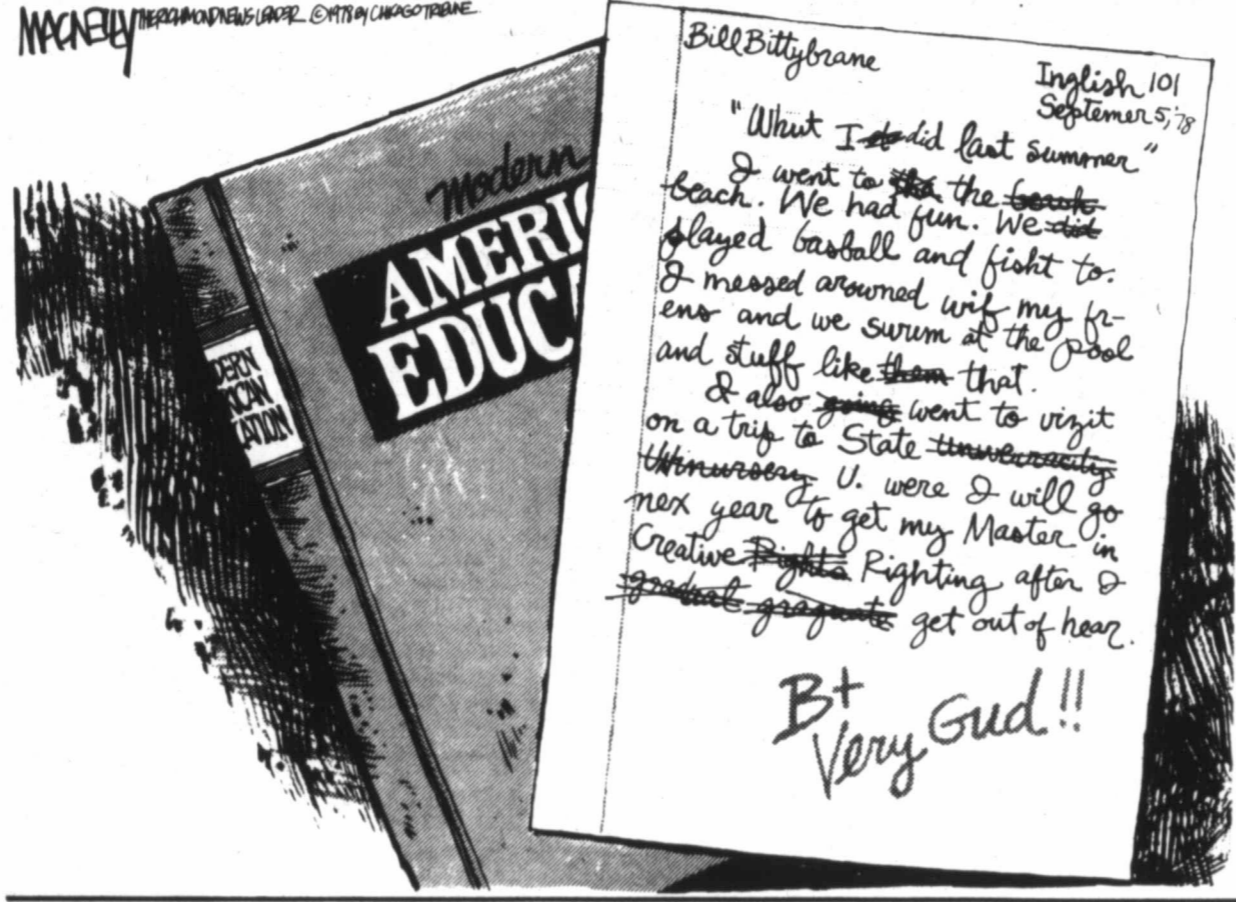

THE POINT system undoubtedly acknowledged the wide experience of George Bush, who is the other Elliott Richardson of the Republican Party. George Bush has managed, in a fairly young lifetime, to serve as Congressman, as United States Ambassador to the United Nations, as Chairman of the Republican National Committee, and as representative of the United States Government to the People's Republic of China. Notwithstanding these qualifications, his principal asset is his genius for making friends. One would sooner look for a needle in the haystack than for someone who, having been exposed to Bush, dislikes him.

He spoke on the subject of the People's Republic of China, and what he said was mostly reassuring to those who believe that the United States must stand by its commitments to Taiwan.

Mr. Bush believes that we should get as close to China as we reasonably can. But he also believes that in order to get close to China, it is required that we behave in such a way as to be both feared, and admired, by China. Feared, in the sense of maintaining the military might necessary to prevail in any world confrontation. Admired in the sense of a disposition to use that might in the national interest. History has obliged us, for the time being, by merging our national interest with that of China — insofar as the Soviet Union is concerned.

But not insofar as Taiwan is concerned. Here George Bush is unequivocal. The three conditions of normalization — that we withdraw our representative from Taiwan, withdraw our remaining troops, and renounce our defense treaty — are intolerable, and yet in one sense providential. The paradox is explained as simply as this: Provided we continue to appease the Communists by agreeing that Taiwan is a part of "China" (after all, East Germany is a part of "Germany"), our refusal actually to turn Taiwan over to China is accepted as testimony to our tough regard for our national interest.

IN ASSERTING that interest, we earn the respect of the governors of China. Their emotional need is not for the occupation of Taiwan, but for an abstract recognition that the two are a single country. This happens also to be the view of the Government of China in Taiwan, so that there is no conflict there.

Antihistamine causes hyperactivity

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our grandson is a love of a child until his mother gets him prescribed antihistamines. Then he becomes a hyper child very bad, misbehaved youngster. This is sad.

When he is not taking the drug he reverts to a sunny disposition and is a joy. The medicine helps his colds and breathing, but after taking it for a day or two he runs about, becomes thoughtless, etc. After the medicine is out of his system, even if his cold is not much better, he reverts to his old self. I wonder if people are aware that some of these drugs make children hyper. Can you comment? — Mrs. R.R.

one kind of food can have twice the amount of calories as a pound of another food. If you take in more calories than you need to maintain your present weight, you will gain. If you don't, you will stay the same.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you please tell me about kidney colic and stones? — R.A.

WASHINGTON — Lobbyists for the natural gas industry have embarked on a safety-be-damned campaign to torpedo a bill in Congress that would protect the public from liquefied gas holocausts and unbridled price gouging.

Volatile liquefied natural gas explodes with the horrifying effect of a giant fire bomb. We've reported previously that existing regulations render many American cities almost helpless against the threat of a devastating fiery inferno.

A CONFIDENTIAL staff memo to Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., describes the industry's lobbying as "virulent if somewhat inept." But the campaign is intensifying against sections of the bill that would control the location and operation of "enormously dangerous liquefied natural gas facilities."

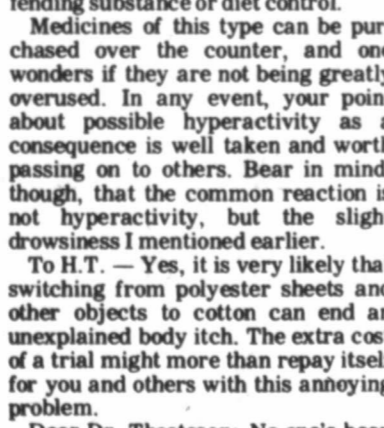

Kidney (renal) colic is pain caused by the presence of stones in the kidney or in the ureters (the tubes leading to the bladder.) Because of the position of the kidneys (near the back) and the tendency of pain to become "referred," the symptom is similar to that of a lower backache. Renal colic is suspected in unexplained back pain that occurs at night during sleep.

Slick industry accountants claim the leakage comes from mismeasurements of supplies due to climate changes. But the memo declares: "Evidence before the subcommittee in no way supports this claim, and consumers are still paying for the losses."

The legislation, sponsored by Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., has progressed to the House Rules Committee, but if the industry lobby has its way, the bill will be pigeonholed before adjournment later this year.

FOOTNOTE: A spokesman for the Interstate Natural Gas Association told our associate Jack Mitchell that he couldn't comment "at this point" on the lobbying allegations. The American Gas Association had not returned our calls by press time.

PEKING'S PLANS: The futuristic world of 1984 may come a few years early in the People's Republic of China. Top officials in Peking recently confided to a congressional delegation led by Rep. Lester Wolf, D-N.Y., that they have inaugurated an eight-year plan to bring China's scientific expertise up to Western levels.

Many of the shipping routes and storage centers lie in densely populated areas where a leak, a fire or an explosion could spell doom for thousands. The General Accounting Office has warned that many of the facilities lie within lethal distance of major U.S. cities, especially on the Atlantic seaboard.

Top officials in Peking recently confided to a congressional delegation led by Rep. Lester Wolf, D-N.Y., that they have inaugurated an eight-year plan to bring China's scientific expertise up to Western levels.

As part of the plan, they are quietly exploring the possibilities of genetic engineering. This is the science of manipulating hereditary characteristics to improve the offspring of plants and animals.

Their final goal, said communist officials, was a full modernization of China by the year 2000, including advancements in national defense industry and agriculture as well as science.

Officials vow to evacuate residents

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — State officials vow to spare no expense to evacuate families from their chemically poisoned homes, but hundreds of frightened residents of the Love Canal district say the rescue is too little, too late.

Gov. Hugh Carey has asked President Carter to declare the neighborhood of small white clapboard houses a federal disaster area. Carey said toxic chemicals dumped there 30 years ago had created a "crisis of horrendous proportions."

Carey's appeal came following a state Health Department report noting a high incidence of miscarriages and birth defects in the area abutting a filled canal once used as a dump for chemical wastes. The state stopped short of ordering an evacuation, but warned pregnant women and families with infants under age 2 to move out.

Carey told President Carter that as many as 500 homes may be imperiled by the chemicals that ooze up from the old canal.

State Director of Operations Thomas Frey promised more than 600 Love Canal homeowners Thursday that the 35 families with pregnant women or infants would be moved into alternative housing "as soon as physically possible."

Frey said that shelter under consideration included subsidized public housing and houses on the private market, either for sale or for rent. He did not elaborate.

Frey said New York officials would meet at the White House next Wednesday to plot strategy with federal disaster, housing and environmental officials.

But the tormented residents of Love Canal were not pacified.

"I don't care how they do it. I want out," said Bonnie Snyder. "My 3-year-old adopted daughter is healthy; thank God, but I want her out of here. I will never feel safe here again."

Burly, bearded Terrence McCartney lives one block from the field that spouts puddles of chemical sewage.

He stormed from the meeting.

"My wife is eight months pregnant. It's too late now. She's been here all the time. What are they going to do about that? If the damage is done, man, the damage is done," he said.

"How do you deal with something like this?" said Jim Burns, a press aide to Carey. "How do you cut across all the agencies and rules and regulations and where do you stop? How many blocks? How far do you go before people are satisfied that they're out of harm?"

The three-hour meeting between Frey and residents was held in the auditorium of the 99th Street Elementary School, which abuts the canal. The board of education said Thursday the school would not open in September because of the chemicals.

Israeli army launches retaliatory attacks

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — "The murderers will be hit wherever they are," Israel warned after an air attack into southern Lebanon five hours after a Palestinian bombing of a Tel Aviv market.

The Israeli military command said its planes hit a guerrilla base at Dahar a-Tutah, 25 miles north of the border, in retaliation for the bomb loaded with nails and ball bearings that killed one person and wounded 48 in an outdoor Tel Aviv market Thursday.

The communique said the base was a "starting point for murder gangs against targets in Israel." It said all the Israeli planes returned safely.

Guerrilla sources in Beirut said six planes attacked a training base in the Zifta Valley of Yasser Arafat's Al Fatah, the biggest guerrilla army in the Palestine Liberation Organization. The sources said damage was heavy.

A PLO spokesman said five civilians were wounded "but our air defenses forced the raiding Israeli planes to leave the area without achieving their goals."

It was the first Israeli air strike into Lebanon since the Israeli invasion in March to drive the Palestinians back from Israel's northern border. The last Israeli troops withdrew from Lebanon on June 13, and two weeks afterward a bomb in a Jerusalem market killed two persons and wounded 47. But there was no retaliatory Israeli attack then, possibly because U.S. Vice President Walter F. Mondale was arriving in Israel the next day.

Arafat's PLO and the rival Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine each claimed it was responsible for the bomb Thursday in Tel Aviv's Carmel Market. The Popular Front, headed by George Habash, rejects any negotiated settlement with Israel while Arafat says he would agree to one if it provided for a Palestinian state controlled by the PLO.

The U.S. State Department said the market bombing was "a savage and brutal act, that nothing can justify. If the Palestine Liberation Organization claims credit, then our condemnation applies to it."

The bomb was in a black briefcase planted under a stall selling T-shirts and children's clothing. The market was crowded by shoppers preparing for the Jewish Sabbath which starts at sundown today.

Police rounded up a number of Arabs from a section of the market where Palestinians from the occupied Gaza Strip come with produce. A crowd of angry Jews shouted, "Give them to us! Death to the enemy!" Police held the crowd back and took the Arabs away for questioning.

From White House staff

Advisor on women's issues resigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders in the women's movement expressed public regret over the resignation of presidential aide Midge Constanza. But some are now expressing relief and saying they want stronger leadership in the White House.

"To my way of thinking, she failed to be a proper advocate for women in the White House," said Anne Zill, head of the Women's Campaign Fund.

"It wasn't enough to arrange meetings with White House officials. Policies to benefit women needed to be developed, and that didn't happen.

"I thought she was wind blowing, and I hope the new replacement is more substantive," she said.

Meanwhile, Rosalynn Carter's press secretary Mary Finch Hoyt, said the first lady would be playing a role in choosing a successor for Ms. Constanza, who resigned Monday as President Carter's adviser on women's issues.

"I don't know if it will be a major role, but I know she will be discussing it with the president's staff," Mrs. Hoyt said.

When Ms. Constanza resigned, Mrs. Carter said in a statement: "I'm sorry Midge is leaving. She has been energetic and capable in dealing with a wide range of issues. She will be hard to replace. She is one of my very good friends, and I'll miss her."

The White House also has said Ms. Constanza also will have a voice in choosing her replacement.

Many of those who feel that women's issues have been downgraded in the Carter White House say it's now up to Carter to show that he cares about women's problems.

"Midge's resignation clears the air," said Holly Knox, head of the Project on Equal Educational Rights. "It's now up to the president to show in some visible way in the White House that women's issues are important to him."

Should teen spend legacy?

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

I'd like to introduce our guest teen writers. From Everett, Wash., comes Janet Wilcox, 18; and Louis McConkie, 18, hails from Sacramento, Calif.

Our letter comes from 18-year-old Sara Ohl of McAllen, Texas.

Dr. Wallace: Grandfather died last month and left me over $1,000 face value in old silver coins. I'm sure the actual value is over 10 times the face value.

My problem is this. I need the money to pay off my car and to use for my college tuition but my parents think I should not sell the coins but should keep the collection in the family. I think I know what I'm going to do. I just want your opinion. For your information, I'm 18. — Sara Sarah: The coins are yours to do with them what you want. My only advice would be to keep a few of the more rare coins as a remembrance of Grandfather, and it might be nice to give them to your children, when and if.

Hi, Sarah: You are very fortunate to have these coins. I would first get the coins appraised and then sell only enough to pay off your car. Then sell off enough to pay college costs whenever that time comes. Try to keep as many coins as possible. — Janet

Hello, Sarah: Coins are only money and money is meant to be spent. Cash in the coins and have a blast after you pay off your car, and put away your tuition. Then give $1,000 to your favorite charity to help those not as fortunate as you. — Louis

Teens who would like to be guest writers, please write to me in care of this newspaper, stating your age and sex.

Says Marriage Is Bad for Romance

DEAR ABBY: DESPERATE IN DENVER complained because her relatively young husband had lost all interest in sex. You replied, "Your husband needs to see a physician. If it's not physical, it's mental, and there are cures for both."

Sorry, but it won't help. The problem described by this unfulfilled 40-year-old housewife probably goes back to the time when the institution of marriage began.

Even though I am a heart surgeon, I have known countless male patients (and friends) who strike out at home, but score like crazy at the office. This particular paradox is probably an allergic reaction to the marriage certificate—regardless of whether it's printed on rice paper, papyrus, tapestry or whatever.

If that poor love-starved woman in Denver would dissolve her marriage, take up belly dancing, and then live in sin with the same guy she divorced, it would probably solve her problem.

NEW YORK SURGEON

DEAR SURGEON: You maintain that marriage destroys romance simply because it's legal.

Nonsense! Romance's mortal enemy is the rigor mortis that sets in when a relationship becomes boring, monotonous and stale.

Nurturing romance is a 50-50 proposition, or a joint effort.

Want empathy not sympathy

Pride among deaf people growing

DALLAS (AP) — Some deaf Texans are asking to be heard.
 "Deaf people really don't want sympathy. They'd like empathy, but there's a big difference," said Karen Master, president of the Parent-Professional Section of the Texas Association of the Deaf.
 The Fort Worth woman is mother of a 7-year-old child with several handicaps, including deafness.
 "The deaf do not want people to feel sorry for them. That's the last thing," she said. "They're a very brilliant group of people."
 As pride among deaf people grows, so does the desire to make the hearing world aware of their special problems.
 Daily activities in a world designed for the hearing can prove to be a trying experience. A word thought to be familiar can turn out to be something quite different.

 Mrs. Master said a shining example is a deaf couple's experience when buying a car. The salesman's talk of "interest" was understood to mean it was in their interest to buy the car.
 When the bills started coming, a big chunk each month was marked for interest — the financial kind. Exposure to a familiar word in a new context came as a complete surprise to the couple.
 "That's a very typical problem that happens with deaf people because their language is very limited," Mrs. Master said. "I would like to see the recognition that we do need special help."
 Her parent-professional group is working to expand a two-week summer camp program for deaf youngsters. Another project is to help children purchase special items they might need, telephone devices or other materials that are often too costly for the average family.

 Mrs. Master becomes most enthusiastic when speaking of the Miss Deaf Texas pageant, her organization sponsors.
 "Just because they can't express themselves vocally does not mean they don't have it inside. I think what we can do is use the Miss Texas and the pageant to show that we have a lot of talent in the deaf community."
 Although none of the Miss Deaf Texas winners in the pageant's four-year history have won the Miss Deaf America title, Mrs. Master said the local pageant is able to give a bigger reward than the national one.

This year's Miss Texas won a $1,000 prize. Miss Deaf America took home $500.
 The first runnerup in the 1978 Texas pageant was a tawny 27-year-old with sparkling eyes, Billie Don Jordan.
 Miss Jordan, a counselor for deaf adults, is particularly interested in education for deaf persons of all ages. She also wants to establish an arts program for the deaf in Dallas.

 Her deaf theater group's first production in Dallas was a performance of "The Diary of Adam and Eve," a Mark Twain play.
 "Deafness is an invisible handicap, but it requires visible communication," Miss Jordan said through a sign language interpreter.

BEATING THE HEAT — Tommy Cervantes, second from top, and his cousins and friends put two vinyl "Slip n' Slides" toys together, turned on a yard hose, and cooled off recently in San Bernardino, Calif.

Kentucky soldier to get military compensation

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Donald Coe, a former Kentucky soldier who says his leukemia was caused by exposure to atomic blast tests, has won his fight for military compensation, which may amount to $1,000 a month.
 Coe had contended for over a year that he deserved service-connected compensation after contracting leukemia that he says was caused by witnessing atomic bomb blasts 21 years ago.
 The Veterans Administration originally refused Coe's claim, but the Board for Veterans Appeals reversed the decision Thursday following lobbying efforts by Rep. Tim Lee Carter, R-Ky., and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"I was bitter then," said Coe in recalling the initial rebuff. "But who wouldn't have been, the way they (VA) were handling it? I got kind of angry... But I'm not bitter now."
 Coe, 44, and father of seven children, is dying of the same disease that killed at least one other former GI who witnessed the nuclear test "Smoky" on Aug. 31, 1957, at Yucca Flats, Nev.
 Coe and Paul Cooper, of Emmett, Idaho, claimed they were deliberately exposed to the blasts. Cooper won his fight for benefits, but died this past Feb. 8.
 Earlier this year, several days of congressional hearings were devoted to the atomic blast test series between 1945 and 1963 in Nevada and the Pacific during which thousands of servicemen and an unknown number of civilians were exposed to radiation.
 Coe was in the 12th Infantry, stationed at Ft. Lewis, Wash., and "they told us that we were picked as top secret men. I've seen several nuclear blasts, maybe 15 or 20, I don't remember."
 After the explosion and resulting heat wave, Coe said the men were told to "get up and watch the mushroom. It just felt like something real hot touching you."
 The VA, in refusing Coe benefits, said there were no records that he was treated for radiation exposure during his nearly eight years in the Army and that he wasn't eligible for service connected disability benefits.

After several visits to Vanderbilt University Hospital in Nashville, Tenn., for treatment, Coe said his health has improved.

Abilene dodges school tax hike

ABILENE — Thanks to a fund transfer and surgery done on the budget, Abilene tax payers will get by without a tax increase this year.
 The tax rate is now $1.65 per $100 evaluation. Administrators had previously predicted a tax increase would be necessary to pay for the $23 million budget.
 Basically, the budget was balanced by moving one cent from the $1.37 tax rate normally used to raise the local maintenance funds to the 26-cent tax rate used for the interest and sinking fund used to retire bonded indebtedness.
 More revenue was then budgeted from Public Law 874 funds to eliminate the deficit in the local maintenance part of the budget.
 PL 874 funds essentially are property taxes paid by the government for military installations like Dyess AFB of Abilene.

Republican candidate sets nomination record

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like it or not, running for president these days is a game for the early bird.
 "And I'm not necessarily sure that that's a good thing," conceded Phil Crane, as he nevertheless set a record this week by announcing for the 1980 Republican nomination 19 months in advance of the first primary.
 But the facts of political life being what they are today, he had little choice.

A combination of reform rules over the past decade, the proliferation of primaries and the success of recent early bird candidates have made it more risky to wait than to rush in.
 And while political pros and exhausted candidates continue to complain about the marathon presidential campaigns, Crane's announcement proves the trend is accelerating if anything.
 George McGovern started it when he announced a year ahead of time for the 1972 Democratic nomination and won it. That record was beaten when Morris Udall announced in November of 1974 for the 1976 nomination, followed by only a month by the eventual winner, Jimmy Carter.

All three of these men were little known nationally when they began their campaigns, but getting into the field early enabled them to overcome the handicap. Facing a similar prospect, Crane, a conservative Illinois congressman, hopes to do the same.
 If a person is not well known, traveling around the country running for president is a pretty good way to get known. And if you are the only candidate out there running, you are more likely to get attention than if you wait until there are a lot of other candidates on camera.
 There are a number of other Republicans with presidential visions who are just as active politically as Crane, speaking to party functions, supporting GOP candidates or helping to raise funds. But the mere fact that Crane is a "presidential candidate" is going to make him a more interesting attraction.
 The early bird also has first call on his party's pool of campaign workers. Later entries may find the best people already taken. And the sooner a candidate starts his organization, the more keenly it will be honed when the actual campaigning starts.

Prices for Texas products slip

AUSTIN — Prices for Texas agricultural products slipped down one per cent during the past month's survey period, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown reports.
 Lower prices for wheat, soybeans, grain sorghum, potatoes, and all hay contributed to the decrease. Beef cattle, hogs, and lambs also brought less at the market during the mid-June to mid-July period.
 "Wheat, potatoes, and grain sorghum prices decreased in response to a leveling usually experienced at the beginning of the harvest season," Brown said. "Also, the carryover stocks of both grains have created some caution in buyers."
 The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service cited the average price for wheat at $2.82 a bushel, five cents lower than that in June; for sorghum, $3.70 a hundredweight (cwt.), 26 cents lower than the previous month's average.
 Beef cattle prices also declined with $48.50 per cwt., down $1.40 from June. Hog prices were $1.10 less, and lambs were $1.00 lower at $62.10 per cwt.
 Poultry products experienced increases.
 Hay cost more in Texas during this period than it did nationally. Alfalfa hay sold for an average of $63 a ton, $8 higher than the national average. Other baled hay decreased from the June price of $52.50 to $50 a ton, 80 cents higher than the average elsewhere in the U.S.
 Average prices for feed increased only for corn meal and mixed dairy feed.
 "Overall the index which includes livestock and crops showed improvement over last year with a 16 per cent increase, mainly due to better cattle prices."
 The farm bill has improved the outlook for many producers. "Export orders are coming in now with the slippage of the dollar in world trade, but we are going to have to watch the market very carefully to halt any continued downtrends in prices," Brown added.

GENDER LOVING CARE

Scriptures selected by The American Bible Society
Copyright 1978 Keister Advertising Service, Strasburg, Virginia

Esther has the most beautiful flowers of anyone I know. Every plant she touches seems to grow magically. When her sister discarded some seedlings, Esther rescued it. Within months the plant had grown until it reached the ceiling.

Houseplants must be tended regularly. They must receive water and food. The earth in which they grow must be loosened periodically.

If Christians are to survive and flourish, they must receive the nurture that comes from worship. God's Word, prayer and meditation strengthen and fortify them for a rich life. God's help is OUR tender loving care.

Find it in church this Sunday.

and Friday, the 17th and 18th, open house hours will be from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday, August 19th, hours will be 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. Accelerated Christian Education is a curriculum stressing individualized instruction, performed in a Christian environment. More than 2,500 schools internationally are using this broad-based, systematic study technique.

Realizing that every child is unique, Accelerated Christian Education identifies the child's present level of scholastic accomplishment and then develops a program that is oriented to the child's individual needs. Classes for the Big Spring Christian Academy will begin on Monday, September 5. Pastor Mullins and Principal Hinshaw invite the public to the open house activities.

Focus on family values needed

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Leaders of six Christian denominations have appealed to organizers of the 1979 White House Conference on Families to keep its focus on traditional family values and not let it be diverted to promoting "alternative lifestyles."

The Protestant and Roman Catholic leaders said they recognized that "families must adapt to cultural change" but that "powerful forces" now active in U.S. society may try to use the conference to portray marriage and parenthood as "outworn or obsolete" although they remain essential pillars of social stability.

The statement, signed by leaders of five Protestant bodies and the U.S. Catholic Conference, was submitted by Southern Baptist social-concerns executive Foy Valentine to Joseph Califano.

Religious freedom award

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1978 Jim Merrell Religious Liberty Memorial for the best newspaper writings advancing the cause of religious freedom has been awarded to Laurence Cohen, editorial writer for the Hartford (Conn.) Courant.

Americans show confidence in institution of church

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans have more confidence in the churches than in eight other key institutions of society, an extensive study has found. But church-goers trust organized religion much more than those not involved in it.

The study, the first to examine broadly the differing attitudes of the "churched" and the "unchurched," found that 80 percent of church participants have a "great deal" or "quite a lot" of confidence in organized religion — more than feel that way about any other major institution, from big business to the U.S. Congress.

In fact, Congress and television rated the lowest in public confidence both among the churched and the unchurched. Among the unchurched, 73 percent had at least "some" confidence in organized religion, but they ranked it fifth, below banks, public schools, the military and the U.S. Supreme Court.

Since the "unchurched" make up only 41 percent of the adult population, the overall average gave the highest credence to religion among major institutions. It was ahead even for "unchurched" people of big business, labor unions, Congress and TV.

This was only one aspect of a vast array of comparative data gathered by the Gallup poll organization for an ecumenical coalition of 29 Protestant and Roman Catholic denominations in a joint project arranged by the National Council of Churches.

With initial results released this week, Peggy L. Shriver of the NCC's research office, said analysis of the vast accumulation of data "has only begun" and that further implications derived from it "may prove even more instructive."

The unusual element of the study, she noted, is that it digs into attitudes of those whom the churches know little about — "the people who don't ever come to church" — and brings out their views in comparison with those of church-goers.

Intriguingly, most of the church-goers said that when they were children, their parents attended church frequently, while this was not the case with most of the presently "unchurched."

That Don't Matter None

Paul Harvey told about a lad who made an "A" in English. His parents, while pleased, were somewhat puzzled about it. They explained to the teacher that he was a poor speller, and didn't express himself very well. The teacher replied, "Oh, that don't matter none."
This story makes me think of some men who claim to be ministers of the Gospel. They give everyone an "A" in their daily living. No one can do wrong. Misconduct, bad language, and cheating are never condemned. They grade on the curve. They preach little sermons to little Christians who smoke their cigarettes. They see men disobey the laws of God. They see men add to or subtract from or even substitute for God's Word. Their attitude is, "Oh, that don't matter none."
God may not care whether we preach the Word with correct grammar or not, but He does expect us to speak "plain English" when it comes to the truths of His Word.
How about you? Does God's will matter to you, or is your attitude "Oh, it don't matter none?"
We think it matters.

Mother, children leap to death

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Seven children who plunged 11 stories from a hotel balcony had lived in $90-a-day luxury with a father who thought he was God. The children never went to school and rarely spoke to strangers, eating meals in their suite and shunning the hotel pool.

The father, Immanuel David, 39, had committed suicide two days before his wife shoved their children or urged them to leap off the balcony with her Thursday in a bizarre murder-suicide that left only one child alive.

Thirteen-year-old Elizabeth David was in critical but stabilizing condition early today.

Despite pleas from horrified people who watched from the sidewalk Thursday morning, Rachel David helped or pushed her children, ranging in age from 5 to 14, from the balcony. Police said at least three jumped willingly, but witnesses said the younger ones struggled and tried to grab the railing.

After all the children had fallen, officers said some of the onlookers yelled for Mrs. David to jump. She did.

Dead were Mrs. David, 38; Rebyca, 5; David, 6; Joseph, 8; Debbra, 9; Joshaha, 10; and Rachal, 14.

Elizabeth was in surgery 10 hours Thursday with a team of 15 doctors. Spokeswoman Karyn Haeckel at LDS Hospital said the girl had multiple compound fractures and abdominal injuries.

The family had secluded itself in the suite for 14 months. Hotel employees said the children spoke to strangers only with their parents' permission. They said the children stayed in the suite most of the time, never used the hotel pool and never went to school. They were taught by their parents.

Hotel staff apparently didn't question the arrangement because David had told them he had teaching credentials, said hotel manager James Bradley.

David grew up as Bruce Longo and joined the Mormon church after an Army hitch, according to his brother, Dean Longo, who was interviewed by telephone at his Vero Beach, Fla., home.

Longo said he hadn't seen David since their father died nine years ago. Their mother lives in Vero Beach with Longo.

He said he got sporadic phone calls over the years "which may have been his way of retaining some semblance of a family relationship." He said he knew only the two eldest children.

Penny McDonald, a desk clerk at the hotel, said meals were either sent up from the hotel coffee shop, or David would bring food home. She said he paid the $90 rent every day with a $100 bill.

FBI spokesman Bob Davenport said David paid for about $30,000 in food and lodging at the International Dunes.

Police Sgt. Brent Davis, who said he knew David personally, said he never knew the 6-foot-4, 300-pound man to have a job. He said David believed he was God.

An excommunicated member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon), he had formed his own religious cult, consisting mostly of his immediate family members and a few friends, Davis said. Church officials would not comment on the excommunication report.

Police Lt. Roger Kinnersley said Mormon officials had complained that David frequently asked to see church authorities to proclaim upcoming calamities or demand a share of church revenues.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Steve Snarr said he believed the cult leader may have lived from money given him by his followers. One follower, Matthias David, was sentenced to five years in federal prison in May for wire fraud, said Snarr.

Snarr said Immanuel David was under investigation for wire fraud, as were some of his followers.

Household gas, electricity to be exempt from sales tax

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe had something to show today for his special legislative session on tax relief — a bill exempting household gas and electricity from the state sales tax.

It would knock $4 off a $104 summertime electric bill.

Meanwhile, Senators hoped to tinker enough with their version of a constitutional amendments package (HJR1) on property tax relief to win House approval without needing a conference committee.

Speaker Bill Clayton, trying to improve his standing with House members, said he would stay out of efforts to persuade representatives to buy the Senate version.

"But it's one way to get us out of the special session and back to business," he told reporters Thursday.

Both measures grant homestead exemptions from school taxes. Both would tax all agricultural land on its income-producing ability, not its market value. But the House would reimburse school districts for lost revenue and passed a bill Thursday setting up a $450 million "School District Reimbursement Fund." The House package would require countywide property tax appraisals under state standards, but that's an idea the Senate has voted down.

Thursday's big event was final passage of a bill (HB1) repealing the 4 percent state sales tax on residential gas and electric bills and boosting inheritance tax exemptions.

The measure, reducing the expected treasury surplus and growth revenue by $491.4 million over the next three years, was viewed in advance as the easiest part of Briscoe's program to pass.

Senators approved the compromise bill written by House-Senate conferrees, 28-0. A few hours later, the House followed suit with a 129-2 vote.

The bill raises the inheritance tax exemption for Class A beneficiaries from $25,000 per heir to $200,000 per estate. The exemption would increase to $250,000 in 1982 and $300,000 in 1985. In no case would a single heir's exemption be less than $25,000 — the Legislature's recognition that some persons might have eight or more heirs.

Class A beneficiaries include spouses, children, daughters and sons-in-law, grandchildren and other lineal descendants.

The present $25,000 exemption was set in 1923. Farm and ranch groups particularly have worked to increase it. They say some heirs have had to sell land that has been in their families for generations in order to pay inheritance taxes.

"...AND SAID, VERILY I SAY UNTO YOU, EXCEPT YE BE CONVERTED, AND BECOME AS LITTLE CHILDREN, YE SHALL NOT ENTER INTO THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN, WHOSOEVER THEREFORE SHALL HUMBLE HIMSELF AS THIS LITTLE CHILD, THE SAME IS GREATEST IN THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN." MATTHEW 18:3-4.

State declared disaster area Flood relief being established

WASHINGTON (AP) — State and federal officials are arranging to establish disaster assistance centers in the Central Texas Hill Country where devastating floods have killed at least 15, left hundreds homeless and caused tens of millions of dollars in damage.

President Carter Thursday declared the state a major disaster area, freeing federal agencies to lend assistance to the stricken area and releasing recovery funds for emergency relief.

Following the presidential order, William M. Wilcox, administrator of the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration, designated the counties of Kerr, Bandera and Kendall eligible for assistance.

Ironically, prior to the flooding the counties had been designated disaster areas by the Agriculture Department due to severe drought conditions.

Announcements of the location of the flood relief centers are expected within a few days. The centers will be staffed by representatives of federal, state and volunteer agencies which will provide individuals with the opportunity to apply the following assistance and information:

—Homeowners and businessmen who suffered property damage may be eligible for Small Business Administration loans. Interest rates range from 1 percent to 6 percent, depending upon the amount of the loan.

—Those out of work because of the disaster also may apply for special unemployment compensation program available through the U.S. Department of Labor as administered by the State of Texas.

—The Internal Revenue Service will advise disaster-affected citizens on special tax provisions that may provide quick tax refunds.

—Personal needs of individuals (assistance) can be obtained from the state and volunteer agencies represented at the disaster assistance center.

—Individuals or families with disaster-caused serious needs for necessary expenses not covered by other programs may apply for a financial grant from the state of Texas.

Joe D. Winkle of Dallas has been named federal coordinating officer as part of the disaster declaration.

Winkle said residents of the flood-ravaged area can determine their eligibility for one or more forms of advice or assistance by visiting the disaster assistance centers.

He said the FDAA will conduct briefings for local governments wishing to apply for federal financial assistance for the repair or replacement of damaged public facilities. In the meantime, Winkle urged local officials to maintain careful records of expenditures that may be eligible for federal reimbursement.

The FDAA said this was the 28th presidentially declared major disaster for Texas in the last 25 years, during which time over $85 million has been expended or obligated from the president's disaster relief fund in the state.

Carter firm on opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is holding firm in his opposition to income tax breaks to offset the cost of college and private school education even though the plan's backers have scaled it down to cut costs.

"The president continues his strong opposition" to tuition tax credits, White House spokesman Rex Gramum said Thursday after the Senate Finance Committee approved the slimmed-down proposal.

The committee measure would provide a tax credit of up to $500 a year to offset the cost of college tuition, and up to $250 a year to defray tuition at private schools, including parochial institutions.

Congressional aides said the program, when fully in place, would benefit an estimated 12.3 million students, with about 70 percent of the benefits going to defray the cost of college educations and about 30 percent going to offset the cost at private schools.

Backers of the proposal also say it would cost the government an estimated $2.8 billion in the fiscal year beginning Sept. 1, 1982, down from an estimate of nearly $5.3 billion under a measure the Finance Committee approved earlier this year.

The credits permit taxpayers to deduct money directly from taxes owed the government. Current law does not give taxpayers a break on the costs of education, but the idea has been gaining popularity in Congress in recent years.

Salty Dog . . .

"Toot! Toot! Clang-a-clang! We're mizzin the main mast! All sails abaft! I beberg dead ahead mateys!"

These and assorted other appropriate nautical commands were filtering through the door of the Business Office Thursday morning as Brigadier Admiral Don Green (ret.), commander of the U.S.S. Ticket Sales, prepared to set sail on the chartered seas of the 1978 Steer football season.

Last week, letters were mailed out to all 1977 Steer football season ticket holders. At this very moment, Green and his crew are filling mail order requests from those very letters.

"Last year's season ticket holders have until Aug. 18, that's a Friday, at 5 p.m. to renew by mail their option on the seats they had last year," hallooed Green, while harpooning a killer whale that had snuck in through the water cooler.

"In addition to the postal extrapolatory method," bellowed the burly Jack Tar, "last year's seasoners can re-up over the counter from Aug. 14 through Aug. 18."

"And then," said Green, his unpatched eye glinting with the fever of battle as he ducked a round of grape shot fired through his window from a 1963 Chevy passing by on 11th Place, "all remaining tickets will go on sale to the general public Monday, Aug. 21 at 8:30 a.m."

"Season tickets will remain on sale until the first home game," reminded the fiery commander, as he pulled a bullet from his shoulder with his bare teeth.

"This year, the District 5-4A committee has raised the price of season tickets from $10 to $12.50," chanted the weathered leatherneck. "That's still a savings of 50 cents on single game tickets," he yelled, as a shorn-off rudder went crashing through Bentley's office.

"There are still a lot of good seats left," Green indicated, as the roar of musketry muffled his closing comments.

"Oh, by the way," he said, as the smoke cleared and the sound of the waves returned, "Did you know that Big Spring Savings sponsored the ticket printing this year?"

With that, the veteran sea dog returned his reddened sword to its scabbard and headed for the galley and its waiting salt pork and limes. "Can't get scurvy, you know, me lad," Green quipped as he left the room.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Ticket sale stories are no fun if you do them straight. Anyway, Green insisted on wearing the pirate costume.)

Watson leads PGA pack

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus and Mother Nature, maybe the two most potent forces in golf, both accommodated Tom Watson as he took the first-round lead in the PGA National Championship.

Nicklaus did his part Monday by hooking his opening tee shot into a ditch and staying in a rut the rest of the day to finish with an 8-over-par 79.

"It was not my day, and this is the kind of golf course where you can shoot a bad round," said the winner of more major tournaments than anybody in the history of golf.

"The course is very difficult, but I think the rain will make it easier this afternoon," added Nicklaus, who was playing No. 16 when thundershowers brought the first of two rain delays.

The water did soften Oakmont Country Club's previously hard, bouncy greens, making them more vulnerable to accurate irons like the ones wielded by Watson.

"Obviously, the rain affected the whole golf course," Watson said after he managed a 4-under-par 67, which put him 12 strokes ahead of Nicklaus and one ahead of runnerup Dave Stockton at 68.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

TREVINO REACTS — Lee Trevino of Dallas, Texas sticks his tongue out at missed birdie attempt on 11th green Thursday during first round of PGA tournament at Oakmont, Pa. Trevino managed a two-under-par 69 for the round and is just two strokes off the pace set by Tom Watson.

"We could throw the balls right at the greens," added Watson, who also sank birdie putts of 30 and 35 feet.

It was also a woeful day for South African Gary Player, and he began it with four putts on the first green.

"You do that and you get scared. You're afraid you're going to miss from everywhere," admitted Player, who double-bogeyed the third hole and eventually finished with a 76, which tied him with U.S. Open champ Andy North and Ray Floyd.

Tied for third at 69, only 2 shots out, were Lee Trevino, Dave Hill, Ben Crenshaw and Johnny Miller.

Trevino, who played in a threesome with Stockton and Watson, got close with a birdie on the final hole.

Miller, mired in a puzzling, two-year slump returned to the scene of his 1973 U.S. Open triumph.

He had a share of the lead at 4-under until he bogeyed the 16th and 18th holes. His 69 was six shots more than the course record 63 he shot here in 1973.

Ten players were clumped at 70, including defending PGA champion Lanny Wadkins, who played in a threesome with Nicklaus.

The six players who finished at 71 included Hubert Green and Wally Armstrong, who had a special first-hole problem when his caddie failed to show.

Armstrong had his bag toted for the first hole by the youngster assigned to carry the score sign for the threesome. The regular caddie arrived on the second hole.

"I couldn't fire him," said Armstrong. "He's my brother."

Jack blows up

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — It was a dejected Jack Nicklaus who soberly considered the various misadventures that produced an 8-over-par 79 in the first round of the PGA national championship.

"Today, I was not sure the golf ball was round," said Nicklaus, who was expected to tame the terrors of Oakmont but instead fell victim to the demands of the old course in this, the last of the year's four major tests of golfing greatness.

"It was just one of those days. I guess everybody has them," Nicklaus said. "I felt I was playing reasonably well coming in, but I just couldn't get with it, couldn't get with the program."

But Nicklaus, winner of the British Open and the Philadelphia Classic in his last two starts, declined to count himself out of the event he has won four times.

"They're going to say 'Nicklaus shot 79 and took himself right out of the golf tournament,'" he predicted. "But if I shoot 66, that's 145 (for two rounds) and 145 is not a bad score at Oakmont."

He paused a moment and allowed himself a wry smile. "Obviously, however, I have yet to shoot the 66."

The 79 was not his high effort in a major tournament. "It's not 80, and I've been in the 80s a couple of times," he said.

But he had to make a good putt on the final hole Thursday to stay in the 70s.

Nicklaus, generally considered the finest player the game has seen, started out by driving into a ditch, making bogey.

He got it into the trees on the second hole and had to take his second swing left-handed under a tree. That only advanced it further in the woods. He eventually reached the green in four and two-putted for a double bogey.

"Right about then I was pretty sure it wasn't going to be my day," he said.

A BIRD ON THE 10TH — Tom Watson of Steamboat, Springs, Colo., reacts to crowd's cheers after he birdied the 10th hole in first round of PGA tournament at Oakmont, Pa., Country Club Thursday. Watson shot a four-under-par 67 to take the first-day lead.

NFL action starts tonight

By BOB GREENE AP Sports Writer

Two improving teams clash tonight while the National Football League's preseason takes on a South of the Border flavor and a Super Bowl I look on Saturday.

All 28 NFL teams swing into action in the next few days, with the San Diego Chargers opening play by taking on the Seahawks at Seattle tonight.

"It should be an interesting game," predicted San Diego Coach Tommy Prothro, "because both teams are improving."

The Chargers posted a 7-7 record last year and Prothro, beginning his fifth season at San Diego, says his team might be ready to challenge Oakland and Denver in the American Conference West.

Seattle, under Coach Jack Patra, won five of its 14 regular-season contests last year, an NFL record for a second-year expansion team.

On Saturday, the Philadelphia Eagles and New Orleans Saints clash in Mexico City, the NFL's first venture into Mexico; Cincinnati is at Tampa Bay, Washington travels to Minnesota, San Francisco is at Dallas, Los Angeles plays host to New England, St. Louis goes to Miami, Pittsburgh is at Baltimore, Denver travels to Houston and Buffalo meets the Detroit Lions in the Silverdome at Pontiac, Mich.

Another Saturday clash has the Kansas City Chiefs traveling to Green Bay to take on the Packers in a rematch of Super Bowl I. The Packers, then under the late Vince Lombardi, won that first title clash. Now, both teams are looking for respectability instead of championships.

Atlanta meets the New York Jets at East Rutherford, N.J., and the New York Giants travel to Cleveland in Monday night games.

With luck, officials say the first American professional football game to be played on Mexican soil will be sold out when the Eagles and Saints clash Saturday. Ticket sales have been brisk and the cheapest tickets, costing about $2, have already been sold out.

The teams will battle in the 40,000-seat Ciudad de Los Deportes.

Philadelphia rookie quarterback Mike Cordova of Stanford, who is part Mexican, is expected to get an opportunity to play before some of his relatives.

Oakland will be without safety George Atkinson, a 31-year-old Atkinson, a 10-year veteran, was placed on regular waivers Thursday.

"The Raiders don't give a damn about me as a human being, just as a football player," said Atkinson, who felt he should have been placed on injured waivers because he re-injured the ring finger on his left hand.

"I've played in pain for them for 10 years, gave them all that I had, but I can't go through the pain any more."

Cardinals Coach Bud Wilkinson will be making his pro debut. The former University of Oklahoma mentor said of his entry into the pro ranks: "I think it's going to be a lot of fun."

Cowboys prep for 1st game

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys staged two light workouts Thursday, then prepared to return to Dallas for their National Football League preseason opener Saturday night against the San Francisco 49ers.

Three Cowboys remained definitely out of the game. Halfback Charles Young has a knee injury, offensive tackle Jim Eidsen a neck injury and rookie cornerback Kenny Randle a shoulder injury.

Fullback Larry Brinson, suffering from a groin injury, was listed as questionable for the Saturday game and defensive tackle Dave Stalls remained questionable with a lower back problem.

Wide receiver Golden Richards and linebacker Mike Hegman, who practiced Thursday, are listed as probable for the 49ers game.

The Cowboys announced that fifth-round draft choice Rich Rosen, who had been waived Monday and then recalled, was traded to the New York Giants for an undisclosed future draft choice.

Offensive tackle Pat Donovan signed a contract which he had agreed to last week. Terms of the multi-year pact were not disclosed.

Poke contest on TV? your guess good as . . .

Will the Dallas Cowboy-San Francisco 49er game be televised? That's the $64 question right now.

Earlier, it was thought that KMID-TV in Midland, channel 2, would carry the game, since the NBC affiliate in Dallas was broadcasting the game. But a call to KMID Thursday proved otherwise.

"No, we're not carrying it," said a spokesman from the Program Director's office, "I believe Channel 4 is televising it."

A subsequent call to Channel 4 (ABC) brought the following: "No, we're not televising it. Channel 2 is."

That left one network, CBS in Odessa, channel 7. No one answered there Friday morning.

One last hope may be that Channel 8 out of Dallas, on the cable, will broadcast the game. But that situation would only eventuate if the game is sold out.

"No sir, we have plenty of tickets left for the game," confirmed an individual in the Cowboy ticket office this morning.

So, it doesn't look promising Cowboy fans. But you never can tell. Perhaps a prayer would get it televised on Channel 6. Other than that, you'll have to wait until 8 p.m. Saturday like everyone else and flip the channels over and over again to see if it indeed did make the boob tube.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Channel 4 and 9 (ABC) will telecast the delayed version of the game Sunday night at 10 o'clock. That's something, at least.)

Only one seed falls

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. — Top-seeded Eddie Dibbs ousted 11th-seeded Jaime Filliol 6-4, 6-1 to advance to the quarter-finals of a $175,000 international tennis tournament.

Second-seeded Brian Gottfried was the only seeded player to lose, bowing to defending champion and ninth-seeded John Alexander of Australia 6-2, 3-6, 7-6.

Third-seeded Manuel Orantes of Spain overcame Chile's Hans Gildemeister 4-6, 6-0, 6-3. Orantes will meet seventh-seeded Wojtek Fibak in the quarter-finals.

In other action, Corrado Barazzutti of Italy, the No. 4 seed, defeated Hank Pfister 6-2, 3-6, 6-4 and fifth-seeded Harold Solomon advanced to a quarter-final meeting with Dibbs by defeating Tom Gullikson 6-4, 6-4.

The remaining two spots in the quarter-finals went to Heinz Gundhardt, a 6-4, 6-4 victor over 12th-seeded Tim Gullikson, and Gene Mayer, who ousted Bruce Manson, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4.

Little leads, Lopez news

SUNNINGDALE, England (AP) — For a woman who claims she has never had a golf lesson in her life, 21-year-old Nancy Lopez hasn't done too badly for herself.

Currently she is the top money winner on the U.S. circuit with seven wins to her credit, and she is trying for an eighth in the European LPGA tournament here on Sunningdale's 6174 yard, par 72 course.

She has been having trouble with her swing, but she claims she's cured it now — all by herself.

"I've never been taught, so I don't know what I am doing wrong — I have to figure it out for myself," she said after posting a 1-under-par 73 in the first round Thursday.

"I did watch a golf clinic once, and I tried to follow what they were talking about — but it was no use. I don't like getting bogged down in theory."

By contrast, Sally Little, the blonde South African who is leading the field of 80 with a first round 5-under-par 69, believes very much in theory.

"I've got a video machine, and I always watch myself to see where I am liable to go wrong — then I talk about it," she said. "Before coming here I wasn't happy about my swing but the video has helped me correct it."

Little, with a string of six birdies and only a single bogey to mar her card, led throughout the opening round Thursday and confessed she likes it that way.

"It is a good feeling to be in front. I feel I have got more chance to win and I certainly don't mind being a frontrunner," she said.

But Little didn't have it all her own way Thursday. Laura Baugh, the sunny and photogenic American, is snapping at her heels after a 4-under-par first round 70 that included a blistering run of five birdies in a row.

Baugh, who said she was stale after playing far too much golf in the early part of the year, came to Sunningdale after a week of lazing about — "just sitting in the sun reading and cooking, it was great" — and quickly got back into top form.

Caulkins calming down

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) — Put Tracy Caulkins in a pool or puddle of water anywhere and she'll likely set a record so the Nashville, Tenn. schoolgirl can be forgiven for getting over-confident at the Amateur Athletic Union Long Course Championships.

But she doesn't forgive herself.

"I've been a little over-confident the last two days," Caulkins said Thursday night after she narrowly got into the finals of the women's 100 meter breaststroke. "I'd been thinking it was going to be easy but when I got into the pool it wasn't."

"I really wasn't mentally prepared this morning (in the preliminaries) so I got off by myself before tonight's race and got mentally prepared to race."

Caulkins got into the championship finals only after a swim-off with Patty Waters, Miami, Fla. when both swimmers tied in qualifying for the final position.

Caulkins, representing the Nashville, Tenn. Aquatics Club, recovered nicely by Thursday night's finals when she set an American record of 1:10.97 in the finals of the 100 breaststroke.

It was one of three American records set in the second day of the AAU meet.

Joan Pennington, one of Caulkins' teammates, set an American record of 1:00.58 in the women's 100 meter butterfly and Cynthia Woodhead of the Riverside, Calif. Swim Club, lowered her own 200 meter freestyle American record to 1:59.49.

"I've been second so many times it's nice to win for a change," said Pennington, who finished second Caulkins' world record performance Wednesday night in the 400 meter freestyle. "I felt real strong so I tried to go out hard and have something left at the finish."

Woodhead said a tip from former U.S. Olympian Pokey Robinson helped her.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose, with tributes of his 44-game hitting streak still pouring in, faces the hometown fans tonight for what could be one of the greatest salutes of his career.

The 37-year-old Cincinnati Reds star is making his first appearance at Riverfront Stadium since tying the all-time record.

The 'Hawk' feels strain

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — The long and lingering shadow of the Hawk continues to hover over the young Texan once ordained as golfs' "New Ben Hogan."

"Sure, I feel the pressure — heavy pressure. I suppose it will remain with me until I win a major title," commented Ben Crenshaw after firing a 2-under-par 69 in the rain-interrupted first round of the PGA Championship.

"Maybe I've been pressing too hard."

Crenshaw, still only 26, seems to have fallen victim to the undergraduate jinx that plagued the great Ben Jones in his developing years, which became known as the "Seven Years of Famine."

Young Crenshaw came out of Texas' golfing hotbed to join the pro tour in 1973 and immediately measured up to expectations by winning the San Antonio Open.

His credentials were imposing, three times winner of the national collegiate title (the last one shared with teammate Tom Kite) and hailed as one of the brightest prospects to come along in decades.

It was only natural that comparisons should be made with another Texas homebred, Hogan, winner of four U.S. Opens, two Masters, two PGAs and the only British Open in which he competed — in 1953 at Carnoustie when he completed the pro "Little Slam."

They had the same first name. There were striking physical similarities, neither awesome in size but Crenshaw slightly bigger at 5-9 and 163 pounds.

"Unfortunately, there were few parallels in our games," Crenshaw admits modestly. This is the truth.

Hogan, dubbed the "Wee Ice Man" by adoring Scots, "Blue Blades" and "The Hawk" by compatriots, became a cold, methodical machine once he applied a Vardon Grip to a club shaft.

He was a fine striker of the ball, without unusual power, and so disciplined that rivals said he played out of his own divots. He was a mediocre putter, in later years an atrocious putter.

Crenshaw is a personable, pleasant youth who has earned the nickname, "Gentle Ben." A wild jungle explorer off the tee and an inveterate scrambler, he has the sensitive touch of a surgeon on the greens. Many say he is the best putter in golf.

In his rookie year, besides winning the San Antonio Open, Crenshaw finished second in the $500,000 World Open, earned more than $76,000 and compiled a 69.9 stroke average for nine tournaments.

Pats on back have only just begun for Pete

National League hitting streak Monday night in Atlanta. The streak ended Tuesday night when rookie Larry McWilliams and reliever Gene Garber dealt Rose his first hitless game since June 13.

A crowd of more than 40,000 is expected to shower Rose with a thunderous ovation when the Reds face the streaking San Diego Padres.

Meanwhile, his hitting feat — second longest of alltime — has triggered a avalanche of fan mail.

"It's comparable to the crush we had when Johnny Bench had the lung cancer operation and after Tom Seaver's trade," said Bernie Stowe, equipment manager of the club.

Rose, one of two Reds to show up for an off-day workout Thursday, opened a handful of the 450 letters that arrived in the morning mail.

"You are Mr. Baseball," said a telegram from Philadelphia.

"Can I say I'm sorry?" wrote a nun from Cincinnati. "You should have had Sherman with you. He didn't have trouble taking Atlanta," said another letter.

They came from political leaders, entertainment celebrities and adoring fans.

"You didn't have to reach 56 games to prove to us that you are as great as Joe DiMaggio," wrote one youth. In addition to almost every state in the union, the postmarks read Paris; Guadalajara, Mexico; Hong Kong, and Seoul, South Korea.

Several letters came addressed "Pete Rose, Great Athlete" or "Pete Rose, Complete Player" and "Pete Rose, Three Rivers Front Stadium."

From Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn came a gushy greeting: "Dear Pete: I'm so darned proud of you that for once words fail me. I'm sure every one else in baseball feels the same."

From former major league pitcher Vern Law: "Baseball needs more like you."

A fan from Mexico handwritten a long letter — entirely in Spanish.

Others came from Speaker of the House Thomas "Tip" O'Neill, New York Gov. Hugh Carey and Dom DiMaggio, who had a 34-game streak.

Asked if he had received a congratulatory message from President Carter, Rose shook his head. "But a man like that is too busy to be messing around with this kind of thing. Besides, it's not an election year," he said, with a grin.

A Lakeview, Ohio youth wrote how Rose's gritty style had inspired him to walk after doctors predicted he would spend his life in a wheel chair.

(AP WIREPHOTO) FROM ALL REALMS — Pete Rose reads a telegram from New York Gov. # East pennant race getting serious

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

The pennant race in the American League East gets serious in the next couple of weeks — with the contenders all facing each other — and Boston Manager Don Zimmer is glad the Red Sox have finally ended their home run drought.

The Red Sox stretched their lead by two games on New York Thursday night, beating the Yankees 7-5 in the completion of a 17-inning game suspended after 14 frames the previous night and clobbering the World Series champions 8-1 in the regularly scheduled game.

Mike Torrez, 43-6, pitched a six-hitter against the Yankees in the regularly scheduled game, and Bob Stanley, 6-1, pitched three perfect innings after the suspended game resumed in the 15th inning to get that win.

The Red Sox won the suspended game in the top of the 17th on RBI singles by Rick Burleson and Rice, who wound up with five RBI in the two-game series.

Orioles 3, Brewers 2
Eddie Murray smacked his 21st home run of the season, a solo shot with two out in the bottom of the 10th inning, to lift Baltimore past Milwaukee. Dennis Martinez, 8-8, struck out a career-high 10 batters for the victory, scattering seven hits in a pitching duel with Jerry Augustine, 10-10. Augustine gave up eight hits in the 92-3 innings he pitched.

Ron LeFlore singled with two out and the bases loaded in the bottom of the 10th inning of Chicago reliever Lerrin LaGrew, 2-4, for the winning run, and Rusty Staub and Milt May homered for the Tigers.

Bob Sykes, 6-5, got the win in relief of Detroit starter Dave Rozema, who yielded Eric Soderholm's 16th home run of the season, a fourth-inning solo shot.

May's homer, his ninth, in the fourth inning gave Detroit a 2-1 lead, and Staub's solo homer, his 17th, boosted the Tigers' lead to 3-1 in the fifth.

Angels 8, A's 1
Right-hander Paul Hartzell, 3-6, tossed a three-hitter for California, striking out two and walking three. Rookie Jim Anderson drove in three runs with a bases-loaded double in the third inning, and Ken Landreaux gave the Angels a 2-0 lead (AP WIREPHOTO) SMILIN' LIKE A FOX — Boston Red Sox manager Don Zimmer sits in the manager's office at Yankee Stadium and smiles after beating the New York Yankees in two crucial games Thursday. Zimmer brought the slumping Sox into the Bronx just holding on to first place in the American League East, but they rallied to stop the hot Yanks 7-5, 8-1.

San Fran bruised, but 'Bums' cuffed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants show the bruises, but the Los Angeles Dodgers are on the ropes after a fifth straight loss.

"This is a rough game. We don't wear any pads," said Terry Whitfield, who scored from second base on Darrell Evans' ninth-inning single to give the Giants a 5-4 victory Thursday night.

Whitfield, the team's left fielder, is playing with 20 stitches over an eye from a baserath collision in Houston early this week. Center fielder Larry Herndon and right fielder Jack Clark are nursing injuries suffered in a collision that gave Lee Lacy a controversial inside-the-park home run in the top of the ninth Thursday night.

"We beat the Dodgers twice, once when Larry caught that ball and once on Evans' hit," insisted Clark.

The Giants, leading the National League's Western Division by a game over Cincinnati, would have dropped into second by percentage points had they lost. The third place Dodgers, defending champions, now trail by 3 1/2 and face the Giants' pitching ace, Vida Blue, tonight.

In Thursday's only other National League game, the Chicago Cubs beat the St. Louis Cardinals for the 12th time in 12 tries this season, winning 3-2 on Bill Buckner's tie-breaking single in the seventh. The Cubs, second in the East, are now 3 1/2 games behind the idle Philadelphia Phillies.

The Dodgers' Lacy freak homer to right-center came off Giants starter Jim Barr with the bases empty and 'two out. Herndon caught the ball just before running into Clark and it popped out of his glove after he fell to the artificial turf and rolled over.

"I thought I had it long enough," said Herndon, and Manager Joe Altobelli, who felt the same way, got kicked out of the game for arguing the point.

Some fans among the 42,064 at Candlestick Park for the opener of a four-game series displayed their displeasure by throwing beer and other things as Lacy returned to the Dodgers' dugout.

Earlier, they had the opportunity to cheer Willie McCovey's 504th career homer, a two-run blast off Don Sutton in the first.

Randy Moffitt, 7-4, relieved Barr and got the final out in the ninth. A leadoff walk to Whitfield led to the downfall of Los Angeles reliever Terry Forster, 3-4, in the bottom of the inning.

Heity Cruz, in the game for Clark, sacrificed Whitfield to second and Mike Ivie was walked to set up Evans, who said, "If I could have written the script, this is how it would have ended." Cubs 3, Cards 2.

Buckner singled home the eventual winning run off St. Louis starter Pete Vuckovich, 8-9, in the seventh inning, giving Chicago its 12th victory without a loss this season over the Cardinals.

Farm Cattlemen still culling herds

WASHINGTON (AP) — It may be winter before feedgrain growers, food wholesalers and retailers, consumers and government inflation watchers know where the beef market is headed, Agriculture Department forecasters now suggest.

Cattle raisers, who took it on the chin with four years of depressed prices before last summer's market upswing, are still culling herds, they said in an assessment Thursday.

Until last September, that liquidation meant large supplies of beef and stable prices. Since then, demand has outpaced the supply. Before slipping last month, returns to farmers came within pennies of a new record high.

Largely because of that, retail prices are running more than 30 percent above a year ago.

By July 1, the number of cattle and calves was down 7 percent from a year earlier. But still the farmers and ranchers are sending heifers in record numbers to slaughter, instead of holding them for breeding.

Until that stops, the supply on the hoof will keep dwindling and prices will keep rising. Once it stops, it will take 27 months to 70 months for the herds to return to the size of recent years.

The new outlook said, "It may be after cattlemen sell this year's calves at higher prices before liquidation ends." Most of those sales occur in the fall.

If that happens, it said, the Jan. 1 inventory could be 110 million to 112 million head, the smallest in nine years and 15 percent to 17 percent less than when the cutback started in 1975.

The end of culling will itself sharply raise prices — cows that have been going to slaughter will become breeders, reducing the beef supply.

Another department report Thursday gave the first strong indications that retailers have begun to pass along in full measure the higher costs of beef. They had been lagging behind this spring.

While retail prices are easing off this summer because of "specials," retailers and wholesalers accounted for 38 percent of the record $1.813 a pound June national average price for choice beef. That compares to 32.3 percent in May and 36.5 percent in March.

Pork prices in June, that report said, were up 10.4 percent at the farm and 14.7 percent to the consumer. The middleman share was 40.3 percent of the average retail price of $1.442 a pound, compared to 37.9 percent in May and 41.9 percent in April.

For the entire market-basket of 66 foods checked by the department, the spread between farm prices and retail prices widened by 3.2 percent between May and June.

The forecast report noted that broiler chicken prices are moving up in response to consumer searches to a cheaper meat than beef or pork.

The forecasters predicted rapid expansion of production in that sector through December — enough to keep total U.S. meat production slightly above 1977 levels despite the projected 4 percent decline for beef and only a slight increase in pork production.

They also said that they expect cattle, beef, hog and pork prices to average just about where they are now — perhaps a little lower — for the rest of this year.

They said that retail beef prices should finish up 20 percent to 25 percent above 1977 averages; pork prices, 10 percent to 12 percent.

At the farm, they showed an average $55.06 per 100 pounds for Choice steers at Omaha in the April-June quarter, the midpoint of their summer projection and the high point for fall.

The same pattern was predicted for the seven-market average for hogs, with a $47.84 per 100 pounds in the spring quarter.

They call it Ballinger

with Marj Carpenter

One of the most unusual things in Ballinger is the statue of Charles Noyes on the town square. A lot of folks wonder what in the world the statue is all about. He was born on the family ranch near Menard on Dec. 29, 1896. He was the son of Gus and Lulu Noyes, early day ranchers. Charles spent his early life on the family ranch and moved to a ranch near Melvin in McCulloch County when he was in his teens. He attended the little Noyes school.

The family moved to Ballinger about 1910 where Charles graduated from high school. He entered Draughon's Business College in Abilene and completed a business course there. But Charles loved ranch life and loved it around Ballinger and planned to be a rancher.

The Noyes ranch near Melvin was a large rambling place which employed several cowboys. On Feb. 17, 1917, Charles started out as usual on his day's work with his men. They rounded up a herd of 500 head of cows and calves and were holding them in the calf pasture. They were to separate the weaning calves from the cows. Charles and some cowhands were holding a small herd of calves when five or six broke away.

Charles reined his horse after them, and as he was turning the calves, one continued in a straight course. Charles' horse ran into the calf, throwing both horse and rider. The horse struggled slowly to his feet and moved a few steps away, but Charles never moved again. The cowboys who had been powerless to prevent the accident now surged forward. One by the name of Kirkendahl reached the fallen cowboy first and discovered that his neck was broken. Gus Noyes grieved for Charles and felt cheated. To perpetuate the memory of his son and every Texas cowboy, he gave the bronze statue that now stands on the Runnels County courthouse square.

The first site considered was the place where the accident occurred a mile from the little station of Lightner on the Frisco lines near Marco. The Melvin cemetery was considered. However, Jack McGreggor, Ralph Erwin, John Guion and other Ballinger citizens feared that in the years to come when the Noyes name was only a memory, there would be no one to care for the statue or appreciate the value and sentiment attached. So Mr. Noyes accepted the request of the Ballinger citizens to place the statue on the courthouse square. It is a life-size statue of a cowhand standing by his horse about to mount. Sculpturer was Pompeo Coppini of Chicago. The solid bronze statue cost $22,000 in 1919.

The base is three pieces of solid Texas granite from Burnett County's granite mountain near Marble Falls. Charles Noyes' hat, boots, spurs, rope, bridle and saddle were shipped to Chicago to be copied. The monument was shipped to Ballinger by train. Frank Wood moved the heavy monument to the square with horse-drawn equipment.

The unveiling was held Oct. 25, 1919. Music was furnished by Pat Passur's orchestra and Ballinger school children. Speaker was Judge A. K. Doss. Other judges participating were M. C. Smith, O. L. Parrish and John I. Guion.

The sculpture was an honored guest. The original Noyes saddle had been made in 1916 by a Ballinger saddlemaker, R. L. Schaefer. The horse Charles was riding the day he was killed had been sold to him in 1916 by Stan Carmeron, an early-day cowboy.

The statue is one of the most unique in all of West Texas. And it's in Snyder — the Runnels County seat — where I go through occasionally when out ridin' fence. Illusions of prosperity: consequence of inflation

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the diabolical consequences of inflation is that it encourages people to live an illusion of good times. It's happening now, every day, all about us. People who know better muffle their conscience and breadwinners gets a 6 percent raise, rationalizing their debts by telling themselves they've waited long enough. "Isn't this what it's all about?" they say. "This is America. You work hard and you deny yourself until you can afford it. When the raises come you owe it to yourself to climb up the ladder." To do so, of course, you must ignore the reality of 10 percent inflation, which leaves you 4 percent worse off than you were. No matter: credit is automatic. Easy credit is resin on the ladder. That guilty conscience will not, however, permit rest. And so the individual puts some money in the bank. If not for the rainy day then for the needs of the future — education and retirement, for example. The banks, the mutual funds, the stock market promoters all describe the benefits of doing so. You've seen the ads: son or daughter holding diploma while parents beam; youthful-looking retirees in Florida. Reality? Unlikely. Illusion? Quite likely. At least while inflation rages. Savings accounts bring 5.25 percent, mutual funds perhaps the same, stocks more or less than that depending upon the choices made. But little is likely to beat 10 percent inflation, which is about the present rate. It means you lose on savings and many investments. It means you might not be able to pay for education or retirement.

The Investment Company Institute just published a booklet with the usual suggestions and ascending graphs. Then it announced that in the 10 years ending in 1977 the average total return was 4.3 percent. Poor enough, but consider that this is before deducting for inflation, which exceeded the rate of return. Purchasing power of the dollar actually was halved, and that's before taxes. The net? A loss. Mutual funds or banks or stock brokers aren't entirely to blame, even if they do paint those exhilarating scenes of future bliss. They too are victims of inflation. Everyone is.
