Search for flood victims continues

ALBANY, Texas (AP) — Rain, a commodity West Texans prayed for less than a month ago, washed the faces of weary volunteers here Saturday as the search went on for dead friends and loved ones.

The story was similar 200 miles to the south where three flood-ravaged Hill Country counties had been declared disaster areas. The only difference was that the deadly rains had stopped.

In Albany, as in Bandera, Comfort and Center Point, authorities were of the same mind: the death toll, which was at 21 statewide Saturday, would continue to rise.

The 21st victim was discovered Saturday afternoon along Hubbard Creek outside the Albany city limits as National Guard troops fanned out to search the debris-strewn area.

"I saw one man go under the bridge in a pickup," said Shackelford County Sheriff Billy Jack Riley. "There was another washed off his pickup...It (Albany victims) may total 10, 15, 20, I don't know. There were people seen floating down that river that no one knew."

Albany, where at least five were known dead, was caught unawares late Thursday night when a 20-foot wall of water roared down a near-dry creekbed. The town's 2,150 residents were the latest victims of a wicked weather combination consisting of the remains of Tropical Storm Amelia and a stationary storm front.

Last Tuesday and Wednesday, rumbling storm clouds over Kerr, Kendall and Bandera Counties dumped up to 36 inches of rain on the drought-stricken area. In the early morning hours Wednesday, the Guadalupe and Medina Rivers boiled out of their banks catching riverfront campers and vacationers asleep.

At least 16 were known dead in the picturesque Hill Country. Bandera County Deputy Jackie Doyle winces at the thought, but he is sure there will be more.

Individual horror stories continued to come out of the devastated areas Friday and Saturday.

At 16, Sherry Cooper of Albany watched the swirling waters of Hubbard Creek carry off her mother.

"My mother...she didn't climb the tree with us. We lost her way before we got to the tree," she said in a halting voice. "We were trying to get to a fence. The water was knocking us down."

Sherry's mother, Nettie Mae Cooper, was still missing Saturday.

Wilma Green, 50, was in Wiley White's pickup when the couple tried to cross a bridge over the creek. Fifteen hours after they were swept into the torrent, she was pulled to safety. White's body was recovered.

"We held onto each other as long as we could," she said from her hospital bed here. "I lost him when we came to a barbed wire fence. I don't know how."

Also missing were Loyd and Jane Key, both 65. Department of Public Safety spokesman Jim Robinson said the Key's creek-front house was found three-quarters of a mile downstream. National Guard and DPS helicopters clattered over the vast ranchlands surrounding Albany Saturday trouble areas.

Shackelford County Extension Agent Lawrence Winkler said the deluge had carved a 50-foot-deep hole in the earthen dam at nearby Lake McCarty. However, water pouring through the gap was only two feet deep. A creek south of Albany was bearing the brunt of the runoff safely.

At Throckmorton, where several people were evacuated because officials feared another municipal dam would break Friday night, water was receding. However, like Albany about 40 miles to the south, the fresh water supply was contaminated. Utilities were barely functioning, if at all.

To the south, power was restored in Kerr and Gillespie Counties Saturday. Helicopter searches were discontinued.

"We only know of two still missing along the Guadalupe River around Center Point," said Robinson. "We're not sure how many along the Medina River."

Rainfall in the Hill Country had stopped and most South Texas rivers had returned to their banks by Saturday. However, some flooding was predicted as runoffs continued.

"There will be some over bank flooding on the Guadalupe from below Victoria downstream to Green Lake next weekend," the National Weather Service said. "Low-land flooding will continue along the Medina River as the river falls slowly the next few days. Widespread flooding is expected along the San Antonio River the next several days as a flood crest moves from below San Antonio downstream to below Goliad."

"Widespread flooding is expected along the Nueces River the next few days from Three Rivers downstream to Lake Corpus Christi."

Earlier, officials feared the Guadalupe River would overflow massive Canyon Dam. However, a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers spokesman said Saturday the situation was under control.

Canyon Lake crested 13 feet below the uncontrolled spillway of the earth-filled dam, sparing New Braunfels, Seguin and other downriver areas from serious flood.

Krueger's votes on labor issues lambasted

Tower replies to 'dirty ditch' talk in Big Spring

By BOB BURTON
Republicans mustered approximately 50 persons Saturday to greet Senator John Tower and Congressional hopeful Bill Fisher at the Old Settlers' Pavilion in Comanche Trail Park.

The whistle-stop visit provided the first chance for Tower to endorse the mustachioed Abilene tax attorney who opposes Charles Stenholm for the seat vacated by Congressman Omar Burleson this fall, and the senator minced no words in his official approval.

"We desperately need to change the complexion of the House of Representatives," he said, "and with a dozen men like Bill Fisher there, we can get through a gas deregulation bill next year. I urge you, and I urge you to encourage your friends to vote for Bill Fisher."

Tower is himself on the campaign trail, facing a challenge from Democrat Bob Krueger, and the 17-year veteran of the political wars spoke about his opponent.

He criticized Krueger's position on the Labor Reform Act, recently the subject of hot debate in Congress.

"He voted for the Act itself, and against the amendments which would have mollified its effect," said Tower. "We've built a wall of protection around organized labor in this country."

When asked whether he had considered a debate with Krueger, Tower replied, "A campaign is a kind of debate already, and I'm not surprised that my opponent has stayed so far away from the major issues in this one. He's wrong on so many of them."

Predicted one Tower campaign

Only one gift for Bible Fund

Only one gift for the Bible Fund, that one in the amount of $15 from Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Mitchell, arrived Saturday at The Herald.

That brought the aggregate to $1,133.50, leaving the campaign only a little more than a tenth toward its $10,000 objective.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell gave the gift in memory of J. D. Elliott, Mrs. Maebell Tidwell and E. P. Watkins.

Those planning to support the drive should make their checks out to The Bible Fund and forward them either to The Herald or to Dr. Kenneth Patrick, c/o First Baptist Church, Big Spring. Dr. Patrick coordinates the campaign on behalf of the sponsoring organization, the Howard County Ministerial Alliance.

Hearts 'n flowers

To coin the loot

With Tommy Hart

For a people with an ideology that sneers at the capitalistic concept, the Muscovites are displaying a remarkable level of avarice in their determination to cash in on the 1980 Olympics scheduled for Moscow.

Olympic stamps are already being sold worldwide. Exclusive television rights have been granted to the Japanese and Americans and an American firm has acquired the exclusive rights for soft drink sales.

Several European countries are competing for the manufacture and staffer. "The fact that Tower's voting record is almost 90 per cent and that Krueger's is around 30 per cent will soon come back to haunt him."

Tower also commented on "the hottest issue in Washington," natural gas deregulation.

"The Congressional Conference Committee has released its report on a compromise natural gas bill, but now that the report is out, better than half the conference members won't sign it. I vigorously oppose the bill, along with Sen. Lloyd Bentsen. It provides for only gradual deregulation until 1985, and then the President has the authority to continue price controls through fiat."

"The bill extends both inter- and intrastate regulations, and would virtually assure that bureaucrats would call the tune on when and where our gas would be sold and permit Washington's estimate of a fair price."

Tower predicted that there would be "an extended educational dialogue" on the energy bill in the Senate, and that he expected a motion to recommit the bill to committee where it would languish and die.

On another big issue — taxation, Tower said that the Senate had heard the mandate of Proposition 13 loud and clear. "The members took it as a signal to reduce appropriations," he said.

"The people of California manifested their feelings that we have too much government at too high a price. The people are tired of the Carter Administration, tired of the mentality of taxing more to spend more in big government.

"It is up to Congress to discipline itself to get at the causes of inflation, and a few of those remedies are to stop deficit spending, deregulate to encourage production of gas and oil, and pushing to expand our foreign markets," said Tower.

Tower also said that he felt gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements "has the best chance we've had in a long time to become a Republican governor. He has good qualifications and he is running a well-financed campaign."

Tower also commented later on his

Carter 'weighing down' Stenholm, Fisher claims

Bill Fisher thinks Jimmy Carter is "weighing down" Charles Stenholm and helping Fisher in the rural areas of the 12th Congressional District.

"He (Stenholm) does not have all the farm vote locked up. I think I have a good core of support throughout the district. A lot of traditional Democrats are not pleased with what a Democratic farmer president has done to them."

"Yes, I think Carter weighs him down. I understand my opponent ignored protesting farmers during Carter's visit to Ft. Worth recently. He had to be cornered to get him to talk. I do not think the agricultural men of this district appreciate that at all."

Fisher believes his campaign has run straight ahead on the track he laid out for it months ago, and he is very pleased so far.

"In February we decided to try for doubled name-identification by this time, and we have more than succeeded at that goal," he said. "I'm going to try now to bring up some key issues, to publicize what I stand for."

Fisher said he felt the major issue of the campaign will be inflation. "My answer is that we will have to produce our way out. My opponent has been saying all along that we need to cut spending — his solution is the sunset law. I believe we must have stimulation of the economy."

Fisher also said he supports 100 per cent parity for cotton farmers. "But we're not going to achieve it with a government guarantee," he said. "Farmers need a market in which to sell, and in cotton that includes foreign markets. This country is presently pulling its agricultural salesmen, the agricultural attaches, out of foreign embassies. That can only hurt. We need an aggressive foreign exporting policy."

"Another problem with cotton programs lies in the loan rate. There is only one target price for all cotton, but there are separate loan rates on different kinds of cotton. It doesn't make any sense."

Fisher, who was introduced Saturday by Billy Mac Sheppard, said he would be back through Big Spring several times in the near future. He expressed his satisfaction with the campaign development, and said he has great confidence for the future.

Bus plunges into lake when brakes fail, 41 persons die

EASTMAN, Quebec (AP) — Divers groping along the murky bottom of a lake found the wreckage of a bus Saturday that plunged into the water when its brakes apparently failed, trapping inside most of the 48 persons aboard.

Police said 41 drowned and many of the victims were handicapped persons returning from a theater excursion.

Only the bus driver and six volunteers accompanying the handicapped passengers managed to escape after the vehicle failed to make a sharp turn at the bottom of a hill and shot off the roadway into Lac d'Argent, 50 miles southeast of Montreal.

Officials said the body of a 72-year-old woman was found in the lake. Bodies of the other victims were believed to be still in the bus.

The officials said they did not plan to remove the bodies individually and would hoist the bus to recover all of the victims.

Alain Pouliot, one of the seven survivors, said the vehicle floated for about five minutes before it sank in 60 feet of water.

"Everybody in the bus was yelling, past efforts on behalf of Big Spring.

"When told that his 'bloody ditch' quote was alive and well in Big Spring, he replied, 'I did everything I could to save the air base here, and many community leaders are well aware of the effort I made.'

"I believe that if Ford had remained president, we could have saved the base. But no individual member of the Senate can dictate to the Carter Administration what it should do."

"I have just succeeded in getting an amendment in the military construction bill to require the Air Force to go through the complete procedure required to close a base employing more than 300 civilians. I believe this will help Goodfellow AFB in San Angelo."

Tower said he had originally intended to fly over Albany and nearby Texas towns suffering from recent flooding before landing at Webb, but due to a low cloud ceiling, he said he had been unable to do so on the way to Big Spring. Tower said he would try on the way back.

Action/reaction: Don't pass this up

Q. I ride a motorcycle and I don't always know how to pass a car. Are you supposed to stay in the same lane if there's enough room or should you move into the left lane?

A. Move to the left lane, where possible. Motorcyclists should allow for the same passing margin and distance as other vehicles. For that reason, motorists should not crowd the cyclist when he passes him or suddenly cuts into the lane in front of him. Both motorists and cyclists should use signal lights where possible to make clear their intentions.

SCOTTS BLUFF, Neb. (AP) — Kenneth and Marcia Lowe say they aren't used to precision in their lives.

But their son Brian's birth at 6:58 a.m. Thursday was one minute short of being precisely two years from the birth of daughter Erin.

She was born at 6:57 a.m. Aug. 3, 1976 in West Nebraska General Hospital.

"While we were in the delivery room about 6:40, Ken looked at his watch and said, 'In 20 minutes we'll be right on the dot.' I wanted to tell him to be quiet. I just wanted to get it over with," said Mrs. Lowe.

Dr. Ted Davis, a mathematics instructor at Nebraska Western College in Scottsbluff, said odds of such a coincidence are "so small, in fact, that the figure probably would be out of the average layman's grasp."

Police beat Criminal mischief

Police are investigating a burglary reported Friday morning at The National Supply Company, 207 N. Gregg. Over $2,000 in tools and equipment were apparently removed through the rear of the building Thursday evening.

Two persons seeking to have fake prescription forms filled in Big Spring have apparently abandoned their attempts.

Leonard's Pharmacy and Gibson's Pharmacy Friday reported that a black man and woman had appeared singly in each store, requesting that a prescription for Dilaudid be filled. A San Antonio doctor's name was signed, but irregularities in the prescription form alerted the suspicions of the druggists. Police waited through the day, but the persons never returned to pick up the filled orders.

Dilaudid is a painkiller used in treatment of terminal cancer patients. Usually prescribed in doses of 10 to 12, according to reports, the forms request 90 of the pills.

Four instances of criminal mischief reported Friday kept homeowners all over Big Spring enraged. The north windows of the Howard County Health Department were smashed in by beer cans and rocks Thursday evening, doing $400 worth of damage to the building.

Dickie Partlow, Barcelona Apartments, had an $85 tire punctured on his car when he left it parked in an area where the lights were temporarily out.

window in her house shot out early Friday morning, apparently with an air rifle.

Terry Stevens, Gail Rt., came to town to watch a movie, and reported Friday that long scratches had been gouged into his car, and one tire punctured while he was in the show. Damage was estimated at $125.

David Ayers, 1601 W. 5th, reported two chrome wheels, two tires, and some tools missing from his home Friday. Value of the missing items was set at $600.

Ruby Banks, 714 Lorita, reported the loss July 4th of a window swamp cooler valued at $300.

Three major accidents sent persons to local hospitals.

Earnest Howard Phillips, Rt. 1, Box 7141, is in stable condition at Hall-Bennett Hospital after his car went out of control and rolled at 2:45 p.m. Friday on the south service road of I-20 near Cosden.

Tawanna Yager Bailey, Rt. 1, Box 539 was treated and released at Malone-Hogan Hospital after cars driven by her and Toni Carlene Russell, Pflugerville, collided in the 1400 block of FM 700 at 4:44 p.m. Friday.

Henry Wilson Smith, 3311 Drexel, was kept overnight at Malone-Hogan, then discharged after vehicles driven by him and Jerry Eugene Rickey, Mena, Ark. collided in the 900 block of the north service road of I-20 near Rip Griffin's truck stop. The accident occurred Saturday morning at 1:20 a.m.

Terrorists kill four

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Terrorists firing submachine guns stormed into the Islamabad office of the Palestine Liberation Organization and killed four persons Saturday in the latest round of a week-old international war between pro-Iraqi radicals and the PLO.

Witnesses said the two or three raiders were gunning for Yousaf Abu Hantash, the PLO representative in Pakistan. The gunmen, shouting out his name, apparently were unable to pick him out from among more than a dozen Palestinian exchange students in the office. Hantash was not hurt, but a medical student was killed by a stray bullet.

Tobacco farmers appeased?

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — President Carter came to North Carolina Saturday to try to appease tobacco farmers angered by the anti-smoking crusade of HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr.

Carter was attending a mock tobacco auction at Growers' Warehouse after a rally in downtown Wilson, a town of about 30,000 people. The rally is for Democratic senatorial nominee John Ingram, whose opponent, conservative Republican Sen. Jesse Helms, has called for the resignation of the secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Earlier Saturday the president was in Norfolk, Va. to dedicate the Navy's newest nuclear-powered cruiser, vowing that he will not allow the Navy to become second-rate, despite his administration's decision to slash the Navy's ship-building plans by half.

The White House said there is no contradiction in Carter's support for tobacco growers while the administration is trying to discourage smoking.

Presidential spokesman Rex Granum said Carter doesn't smoke and doesn't encourage it personally, but recognizes that tobacco is the economic mainstay of North Carolina.

State agriculture officials here say three-fourths of the state's 5,200 farms have fewer than 50 acres of tillable land. Tobacco yields $1,200 an acre under the federal government's system of acreage limitations and price supports while soybeans, to take another example, yield $90 an acre.

Weeg, who is chairman for this committee has issued an urgent appeal to all able bodied persons to donate a pint of blood and has reminded that an individual could not make a more worthy voluntary contribution to his Community.

Greeting cards for new holiday may be scarce

CLEVELAND (AP) — National Grandparents Day will be celebrated next month, but greeting cards for the new holiday may be scarce.

The Sept. 10 holiday was created by Congress, and the legislation was signed by the president on July 28.

"Most (card) companies were unable to do anything about it because there is a six-to-seven-month lead time between designing the cards and shipping them to stores," said Jackie Roddy, a spokesman for the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers.

But Hallmark Cards Inc. was not caught by surprise, and has already shipped out its first orders of grandparents' cards.

"We took a gamble and started production as soon as Congress passed the legislation," said Fred Bokun, a spokesman for the nation's No. 1 greeting card publisher.

The legislation proclaimed the holiday for honoring grandparents only for 1978, and additional legislation will be needed if the observance is to become an annual affair.

Marshall calls Hobby obstacle to tax relief

Gaylord Marshall of Dallas, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, said here Friday that a return to office by his Democratic opponent, Bill Hobby, would only serve to promote more inflation and more taxes.

He predicted his party would make a strong showing at the polls in November "because people are tired of seeing the dollar depreciate in value, of more government spending."

Marshall, who is manager of Conti Commodity Inc., a subsidiary of Continental Grain Co., said the only way to stop an increase in the burgeoning cost of government would be to vote a chance in the administration.

Marshall supporters and members of the news media, who met with him at the Chamber of Commerce office Friday that the lieutenant governor's office is "the most powerful in the state" in that the officer controls the legislative process, deciding what can come before the legislative bodies and what can't.

He said that Hobby, who he identified as an individual who came from conservative shock, had abused that power and he (Marshall) felt that the only thing that would bring about an improvement would be a change as dictated by the people.

Marshall saved some of his best ammunition for the state legislature which, he said, had been given a mandate by outgoing Gov. Dolph Briscoe, to bring about tax reform. Instead of taking a cue from Proposition 13 proponents in California, Marshall said, the legislators had accomplished nothing in the special session.

Marshall was also highly critical of the Democratic standard-bearer for governor, John Hill. Marshall labeled Hill as a man "who promised everything to everybody. His program can only mean adoption of a state income tax."

Hobby is tied too closely to Hill, Marshall said, and Hill is tied too closely to President Jimmy Carter and his policies.

Marshall also said that Hobby was almost inaccessible to the people. "He doesn't like people calling him on matters," the GOP candidate said. Marshall said the philosophy of the liberal wing of the Democratic party had "kept us working from January through May just to pay out taxes."

"Government growth is taking away our individual freedom," Marshall said. He scorned the constant interference of government in business, complaining too many laws and regulations have been approved to restrict business.

Concentrating his fire on his opponent, Marshall said that Hobby was a man "who doesn't care about" the inroads inflation and taxes have made on the average American because "he has all the money he needs." (Hobby is heir to a publishing fortune).

Marshall predicted the state's conservatives would bring about some major surprises in the general election and foresaw as many as two million people going to the polls in the state.

The candidate said he had vainly sought to debate Hobby on television, having issued numerous challenges that have either been turned down or ignored.

Death came to Sewancker Papwa Sewgolum recently and a continent mourns.

Papwa wasn't well known in America but there were few who could outdo him in golf. He dominated the Dutch Open three times, won the Natal Open and dozens of "black open" tournaments. He was measured for a wooden kimono at the age of 49.

Fellow South African Gary Player said of Papwa: "He was, in my estimation, one of the greatest players in the world within a hundred yards of the hole — at chipping, putting and bunker shots."

Sewgolum was proud of his home turf. Extremists tried to use him but he refused to sign inflammatory forms condemning South Africa.

Arthur Wellesley, the Duke of Wellington, was once asked by a person who knew about his lineage if he were an Irishman. To which the Duke, hero of the Battle of Waterloo, replied: "If you were born in a stable, does that make you a horse?"

Plans are being formulated to resume the Miss Big Spring Beauty Pageant (for big girls).

Incidentally, Randy Gatewood, who has served as a judge and worked in other capacities with the Miss Texas Contest, is planning to open a boutique here shortly.

Why is it everytime your child drops his buttered bread, the buttered side always lands on the floor?

Does it distress you to be told that the nations of the world palmed off money at the rate of $750,000 a minute for military weapons in 1976?

The total came to $400 billion, which most of the countries couldn't afford — 2½ times the amount spent on public health.

The United States and Soviet Russia accounted for two-thirds of the weapons exported to other nations, with the Middle East the biggest customer.

Military expenditures in Africa alone climbed from $1.4 billion in 1967 to $5.9 billion in 1976.

Mankind could invest less and find a cure for cancer, feed its hungry millions and devise a system whereby the localities with an overabundance of water could share it with those who never have enough.

But then, by eliminating warfare the human race would be outliving its favorite sport.

You might not want to live like him but you likely admire the style of Frenchman Andre Brurigoux, 35.

He recently returned to Paris after spending 18 years abroad. Six years of that were devoted to hitch-hiking around the world.

During his wanderings, Brurigoux visited 37 countries and spent only one night in a hotel. That happened when the Soviet travel service, Intourist, forced him to get hotel accommodations in Moscow.

In South America he was suspected of being a pirate and a revolutionary. In Israel, he was accused of espionage. He made the bucket six times, was robbed on six occasions and was beaten up in the slums of Rio de Janeiro.

Great Britain's senior inconnoclast, Malcolm Muggeridge, always a man of deep religious conviction, was moved to remark recently:

"People have a religious temperament like people have an artistic temperament. The sense of being a stranger in the world is perhaps the most obvious expression of a religious temperament."

"The great humorists have always been religious people. Religion gives you the sense of the absurdity of human pretension makes the institutions of human beings, to which they attach such significance, really rather fatuous."

Muggeridge has interviewed many of the world's great people — Nehru, Salvador Dali, Bertrand Russell and Mother Teresa of India among them — and says he has found a lot of them excessively boring.

The British savant went to Russia as a correspondent in the 1930s, determined to become a Russian citizen and live out his days there. He was to find he had been disillusioned.

"It was an even more odious example of the same very rundown system," he was to say later.

When the first census was taken in Atlanta, Ga., in 1860, the city's prostitutes outnumbered the police, five to one.

Has the situation changed? Not likely. Atlanta's adult entertainment complex is located within a few blocks of the city's downtown convention hotels. Coincidentally, Atlanta is America's third-busiest convention city.

Prostitution in America is a $10 billion-a-year business. Ladies of the evening are said to take in about $70,000 a year each, making them the highest paid professional women in the nation.

I walked a mile with Pleasure;
She chattered all the way,
But left me none the wiser
For all she had to say.

I walked a mile with Sorrow,
And ne'er a word said she;
But, oh, the things I learned from her
When Sorrow walked with me.

Jupiter Pluvius came roaring out of the isolation ward last week when he dropped up to 22 inches of rain on parts of Texas. In view of what happened, I can only say it's a shame water doesn't run uphill.

Apparently there is no other way we could give our cotton fields the kind of reassurance they need and refill our reservoirs.

Bob Speca, who dropped in here last week to exhibit his skills at toppling dominoes (a game he doesn't even know how to play), says his ultimate aim is to set up 1,111,111 dominoes and start a chain reaction. The preparation might require three months.

Bob has been invited to make an all-expenses paid tour of Australia in the fall.

He never works with ivory or plastic dominoes, says the wooden ones can be counted upon to hold fast once they're anchored whereas the other kind tend to "walk" one way or another.

'Sunny Spain' tourists schedule meet Aug. 14

A briefing session for those planning to participate in the Harte-Hanks-sponsored "A Lively Week in Sunny Spain" tour next month will be held in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Building at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Aug. 14.

The tour gets under way at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport Sept. 26. The tourists return to Big Spring Oct. 4.

The meeting will be open to the public. Color films of the places included on the tour, complete with sound, will be screened. Refreshments will be served.

There are now 32 Big Springers signed up for the trip to Spain, which leaves only 20 vacancies for the local allotment. Those who have made tentative plans to attend are urged to sign up before the plane fills. Cancellation insurance at a nominal premium will protect those who might be forced to cancel due to an emergency.

The hotels to provide rooms for the travelers are the Hotel Las Palmeras on the Costa Del Sol, the Los Lebreos in Seville, and either the Hotel Florida Norte or the Hotel Los Galgos in Madrid. All are highly rated by the Official Hotel and Resort Guide.

Skipper Travel is handling the tour locally. The tour price is $698 per person, based on double occupancy. If such a trip was booked individually, using the best possible excursion airfare and the same first class hotels, the per person cost would rise to $820.05. This would not include the three free sightseeing trips, the meals that are included, and airport-hotel transfers.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — In spite of flooding in parts of southern and central Texas in the wake of tropical storm Amelia, crops in other parts of the state still are suffering from lack of moisture, particularly dryland cotton and sorghum, according to Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Cotton is shedding bolls and growth is at a standstill. Some sorghum is not making enough grain to harvest so farmers are bailing it for hay. In fact, it is the only thing around for hay in some areas since grass growth has been nil, he said.

The livestock picture continues to worsen, Pfannstiel said, as grazing is nonexistent in many areas and stock water is running out. Some ranchers are feeding expensive hay to their stock, he said, while some are culling their herds and marketing animals. Cattle are in generally poor shape across the state, he said.

Harvest operations are under way in south and central sections of the state, but yields will be down in most parts due to the extremely dry weather, Pfannstiel said.

Most of the sorghum is in South Texas and the Coastal Bend and combines are rolling rapidly along the Upper Coast and in South Central and Central Texas. Cotton harvesting is in full swing throughout southern counties and is about to start along the Upper Coast and South Central Texas. Some cotton is starting to open in the Central Texas Blacklands.

Land preparation continues active for fall wheat planting in the High and Rolling Plains and for fall vegetables in South Texas.

Here are reports from district Extension agents:

PANHANDLE: Irrigated crops continue to do well but are using a lot of water. Corn is nearing the roasting ear stage. Onion harvesting is about complete but the potato harvest remains active. Ranges are dry and providing little grazing. The demand for stocker and feeder cattle is good.

SOUTH PLAINS: Dryland crops continue under stress while those under irrigation are making normal progress where water demands can be met. Some harvesting of peaches, cabbage and potatoes remains active. Some alfalfa is being cut for the third time. Cattle and range conditions are generally below average due to dry conditions.

ROLLING PLAINS: Crops continue to deteriorate due to dry conditions. Cotton prospects are dim; rains could still help part of the crop. The dryland sorghum crop is generally a disaster; some fields are being cut and baled for hay. Range fires are increasing due to the prolonged dry weather. Range cattle generally look good.

NORTH CENTRAL: All crops are suffering from hot, dry weather and yield prospects are dim. The sorghum harvest is in progress. Preparations are under way for fall planting of small grains and for fall gardens. Cattle are losing weight due to poor grazing conditions. Stock water is getting short.

FAR WEST: Only irrigated crops are making any progress. The sweet corn harvest continues in El Paso County. The drought is causing pecans to drop in some counties. Some cattle feeding continues; marketing remains light.

WEST CENTRAL: Dryland crops continue to suffer from drought. Irrigated cotton and peanuts are doing well but the demand for water is heavy. Herds are being culled due to poor grazing conditions and lack of stock water. Supplemental feeding continues.

CENTRAL: The sorghum harvest is making rapid progress, and farmers are bailing sorghum stubble for needed hay. Cotton is opening but the crop is only expected to be fair due to the prolonged drought. Some pecans are dropping due to dryness. Grazing is poor so supplemental feeding is heavy. Grasshoppers continue to damage pastures.

Labor's lament

'I'm not going to forgive and forget'

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the AFL-CIO's executive council holds its summer meeting in Chicago this week, the occasion may turn into a wake, or maybe a war council.

Organized labor will decide whether to stand behind or bury the skeletal remains of its labor law "reform" bill, which is being picked apart by a Senate committee.

And some union leaders who are ready to concede defeat want to declare war against big business, which they hold responsible for both the bill's woes and an attempt to destroy the labor movement.

"When a guy goes for my jugular, I'm not going to take it lying down. I'm not going to forgive and forget," said William Winpisinger, the fiery and militant leader of the International Association of Machinists and one of the AFL-CIO's 35 council members who will gather in Chicago Monday.

Winpisinger said in an interview that big business's objective went beyond killing a prolabor bill. "They're trying to kill the labor movement. They want us out of the picture altogether," he said.

Supporters of the bill to revise the nation's labor laws, which easily cleared the House last year, said the measure was needed to plug loopholes that let employers violate workers' rights without punishment.

Turks easing tension in Cyprus

THE TURKS recently began withdrawing another contingent of what they call their peacekeeping forces from Cyprus. The pullback of two battalions, 1250 men, brings the withdrawals in four years to 17,250, a figure representing about 41 per cent of the original 40,000-man force sent to the island after the government of the Greek colonels and caused an uprising on Cyprus which threatened to end in its union with Greece, but instead ended in the throwing out of the colonels.

Even though the colonels are gone from Athens, the Turks have stayed on and thereby fomented a lot of trouble for themselves and all their NATO allies.

IT IS APPARENT that the latest troop withdrawal was timed as a follow-up gesture after Greek-Turkish talks held at Ankara last week between the foreign secretaries of the two countries. It isn't clear that the talks settled anything between the two edgy neighbors, but at least they were in a joint communique to be "full, sincere and constructive" and they will continue in September.

Meanwhile, President Carter is working the Capitol corridors to line up votes for lifting the Turkish arms embargo, which he says is imperiling NATO and American security interests. He is correct on that. Without new American weapons or spare parts for old ones, the Turkish military is badly weakened and the government's stability more and more gravely imperiled.

In a strong editorial entitled "It Didn't Work, Drop It," The Economist observes: "If Congress says no to Mr. Carter, Mrs. Ecevit (Turkey's premier) will retaliate by finally closing down the five American electronic watching-and-listening stations in Turkey. These stations play an important part in checking Soviet missile tests. It will be harder to monitor a new SALT agreement without them..."

VERY HIGH national interests are indeed involved in this battle between the pro-Greek and the pro-Turkish elements in Congress. Some who are in the middle of the fight are saying that repeal of the embargo is as vital to our security interests in the Middle East today as the Truman Doctrine was 30 years ago and that only if the President prevails in getting the embargo lifted can the free world be saved from a possible disaster.

Don't ponder past.

Shock of recognition

Art Buchwald

(Art Buchwald is on assignment for a few weeks trying to find out if there are any Cuban troops on Cape Code. He left behind his all-time favorite columns.)

Recently, New York City had a blackout which caused all nine television stations in the area to go out for several hours. This caused tremendous crisis in families all over the New York area, and proved that TV plays a much greater role in people's lives than anyone can imagine.

For example, when the TV went off in the Bufkins house in Forest Hills, panic set in. First, Bufkins thought it was just his set in the living room, so he rushed into his bedroom and turned on that set. Nothing.

THE PHONE rang and Mrs. Bufkins heard her sister in Manhattan tell her that there was a blackout.

She hung up and said to her husband, "It isn't your set. Something's happened to the top of the Empire State Building."

Bufkins stopped and said, "Who are you?"

"I'm your wife, Edith."

"Oh," Bufkins said. "Then I suppose those kids in there are mine."

"That's right," Mrs. Bufkins said. "If you ever got out of that armchair in front of the TV set, you'd know who we were."

"Boy, they've really grown," Bufkins said, looking at his son and daughter. "How old are they now?"

"Thirteen and fourteen," Mrs. Bufkins replied.

"I'll be darned. Hi, kids."

"Who's he?" Bufkins' son, Henry, asked.

"It's your father," Mrs. Bufkins said.

"I'm pleased to meetcha," Bufkins' daughter, Mary, said shyly.

THERE WAS an embarrassed silence all around.

"Look," said Bufkins finally. "I know I haven't been much of a father, but now that the TV's out, I'd like to make it up to you."

"How?" asked Henry.

"Well, let's just talk," Bufkins said.

"That's the best way to get to know each other."

"What do you want to talk about?" Mary asked.

"Well, for starters, what school do you go to?"

"We go to Forest Hills High," Henry said.

"What do you know?" Bufkins said.

"You're both in high school."

There was dead silence.

"What do you do?" Mary asked.

"I'm an accountant," Bufkins said.

"I thought you were a car salesman," Mrs. Bufkins said in surprise.

"That was two years ago. Didn't I tell you I changed jobs?" Bufkins said.

"No, you didn't. You haven't told me anything for two years."

"Yup, I'm doing quite well, too," Bufkins said.

"Then why am I working in a department store?" Mrs. Bufkins demanded.

"Oh, are you still working in a department store? If I had known that I would have told you you could quit last year. You should have mentioned it," Bufkins said.

There was more dead silence.

Finally, Henry said, "Hey, you want to hear me play the guitar?"

"I'LL BE darned. You know how to play the guitar? Say, didn't I have a daughter who played the guitar?"

"That was Susie," Mrs. Bufkins said.

"Where is she?"

"She got married a year ago, just about the time you were watching the World Series."

Pleurisy is lung lining irritation

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What can you tell me about pleurisy? What can one expect with it, and how is it treated? —Mrs. L.V.L.

There's a great deal to be said about pleurisy, but I'll try to touch on the major points.

The pleura (PLOOR-ah) is a delicate two-layered covering of the lungs, the inner layer lying against the lung surface and the outer one against the chest wall (thorax). Normally, these two layers are touching each other. Pleurisy is inflammation or irritation of this covering. Fairly simple up to this point. But pleurisy is seldom a disease unto itself. It may represent any of a number of ailments affecting nearby body structures, chiefly the lungs themselves. Inflammation can be the first symptom of pneumonia or of tuberculosis of the lungs. A blood clot within the lungs or a tumor may be involved, or an injury to ribs or to the chest wall (pneumothorax).

"Dry" pleurisy produces more painful symptoms than the other kind, in which large amounts of fluid accumulate in the pleural space mentioned above. The pain of dry pleurisy is stabbing and intense with breathing. The expanding lungs cause friction against the membranes of the pleura. A coughing spell is an agonizing experience.

The type of effusion found (by needle aspiration) is important in learning the cause, whether from a lung blood clot, a tumor or a germ. Infection of the pleura (empyema) may be found with pneumonia or tuberculosis. Heart congestion can be a contributing cause.

Treatment for pleurisy, as you can see, depends upon the underlying cause — antibiotics for an infection, for example. Sometimes relief is obtained by removing fluid from the space. Techniques to assist breathing and coughing are sometimes required. Chest strapping may be needed. Treatment of a cause usually relieves pleurisy.

DEAR DR. THOSTESON: How much zinc should one take each day for rheumatoid arthritis? Please send me some material on this subject. —V.C.

DEAR DR. THOSTESON: I am a 35-year-old female. One thing puzzles me. Why is a Pap test still taken on doctor visits even though I have no uterus? —J.S.

DEAR DR. THOSTESON: I have outer ear trouble, like a red breaking out with itching and burning on my right ear. The doctor told me it was my earwax that hardens. It heals, and again starts itching and bothering me. I seem to be hard good. —H.H.S.

Sounds like a fungus infection. That should respond to proper antifungal ointment. I doubt hardened earwax is causing it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Many times cough medicine bottles say "consult physician if you have a persistent cough." How many days would it have to last for a cough to be called "persistent"? —B.G.

I would call a persistent cough one that continued for a week or two without improvement. After that a person should begin looking for the underlying cause rather than for the temporary relief offered by cough medicine. At this point one should suspect a problem in either the lungs or nasal passages (as post-nasal drip).

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About a year ago a man who specializes in body chemistry prescribed the following tablets — iodine, zinc, manganese and magnesium. He said that because I am fair complexioned I am susceptible to sunburn and that these are the chemicals my body is lacking. Is there any truth in this? —R.B.

Being fair-skinned you would sunburn more easily than a dark-skinned person. These chemical supplements won't have any effect. The ones mentioned are available in an ordinary diet. If your body was lacking in any of them (which I doubt) you would have to be under medical care.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the best way to sleep, flat on the back or curled up? —L.A.

Lying on the side with the knees slightly flexed is probably the best for the health of the spine. However, most of us shift around so many times during sleep that it is a moot point. For those who have discomfort from back problems the on-the-side method might help in getting to sleep.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Regarding the restless-leg syndrome. I used to have this problem of both legs jerking after I went to bed, also cramps in them. Now before naps and at night I lay with my feet on the wall, legs elevated way up for about 20 minutes. No more jerking or cramping. Hope this helps. —Mrs. M.H.

It has helped others, I know.
How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple — write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy of his booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My sister says she is a Christian and believes in Christ, but it really makes no difference in the way she lives; she is uninterested in church or the Bible. Do you think she is really a Christian? —S.C.

DEAR S.C.: Whether or not your sister has truly trusted Christ is not for me to say — God alone is her judge. It sometimes happens that a Christian gets out of fellowship and becomes spiritually cold. However, the Bible tells us if there is no evidence of a changed life, perhaps a person has not actually been born again. "What good is it, my brothers, if a man claims to have faith but has no deeds?..... faith by itself, if it is not accompanied by action,

This year, two $500 scholarships will be awarded in October: One scholarship to be given to a student majoring in Foods and Nutrition; the other to a student majoring in Agricultural Communications. Anyone interested in applying for either scholarship should contact the head of the department offering the specific major.

Musicians will donate time to aid Billy Clark

A number of local musicians will donate their time and talents Sunday to perform at a benefit dance for Billy Clark, victim of a major highway traffic accident between Alpine and Fort Stockton in December.

The Eagles Lodge is sponsoring a barbecue, at a cost of $3 per plate from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday at the Eagles Hall, and the group is also donating the use of the hall for a dance from 7:30 p.m. until midnight Sunday.

Persons who come for the barbecue and remain until the dance begins will be allowed to enter the dance free, but other comers must pay the $3 per head admission fee at the door.

Money from the affair will go to help Billy Clark and his family to pay medical expenses that have already amounted to over $40,000 with several more surgeries and extensive bills still to come.

Clark, a Big Spring plumber, is married and has two teen-age daughters. He has been unable to work since the accident, seven months ago and his condition is such that his wife, Norma, cannot leave him home alone to go to work.

Musicians who have donated their talents include the Desperados from Odessa, a back-up band of local talent Gregg Compton, Buddy Ryerson, Billy Mesker and Paul Newton, and such recognized names in Big Spring as Don Tolle, Dr. Gayle Kilgore, Ben and Jody Nix and many of the West Texas Cowboys, Jim King, Kenny Osbourne and Pet Jenkins. Several others have agreed to perform if they can be in Big Spring the night of the dance.

Blood donors keep pets alive

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ten years ago, an undistinguished puppy of German shepherd and other undetermined heritage was brought into the office of Dr. Raymond Pahle.

The owner did not want the pup and asked the veterinarian to put it to sleep. The veterinarian asked whether it would be all right if, instead of killing the dog, he kept it alive and used it to help keep other dogs alive.

And that's what happened. The once unwanted dog became a blood donor to other dogs at Pahle's clinic. The clinic also has a cat named Joey who is a blood donor.

MAKIN' HER SHINE — Larry Boyer of San Angelo puts the polish and elbow grease on his 1933 Rolls Royce. Boyer was in Big Spring for the antique car show which began Thursday evening and concluded Saturday night with an awards ceremony. Most of the activities centered around the Holiday Inn where the group, which included antique car owners from a large area, gathered.

Three fertilizer plants closed

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) — A fertilizer plant that employed 150 persons abruptly shut down after 24 years in operation Friday, leaving a hole in this Mayes County community's economic foundation.

Company officials closed the Nipak Fertilizer Plant here, as well as plants in Kerens and Littlefield, Texas on Friday.

Nipak's parent company, the Dallas-based Enserch Corp., moved Thursday to "discontinue and liquidate" the three facilities, because of "the vintage of Nipak's plants, and the apparent willingness of gas-rich foreign producers to expand output in large increments has combined to cause fertilizer to no longer be an attractive business."

The impact locally was immediate.

The Oklahoma Employment Service Office was swamped Friday with former Nipak employees seeking unemployment compensation and seeking other employment.

"There are a lot of people with more than 20 years with Nipak," said manager Ralph Agnew. "And they are skilled in their field but if they go into a plant that manufactures something else maybe their job knowledge will be worth something, maybe not."

Onis McHenry, Nipak plant manager, said employees "weren't very happy" about the sudden closing.

The Nipak plant had been in operation since 1954.

Chester Brewer, president of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union Local said union officials and plant personnel would meet Monday to discuss terms of the layoff.

Brewer said the union would try to work out an arrangement of "some type of severance pay" for Nipak employees.

Mrs. Faulkner, pupils provide entertainment

Students in the Faulkner Talent World provided several hundred spectators with a varied evening of entertainment in the high school auditorium here Friday evening, providing once again the cream rises to the top.

The school directed here by Mrs. Ben (Sherrie) Faulkner enrolls children of all ages. The amalgamation of their talents kept the viewers in good spirits for more than two hours.

Members of the dance troops didn't try to sing, at least above the recorded music, other than when little Ginger Brooks came on to vocalize a number entitled "A My Name Is Alice." Ginger was in good voice and perfectly at ease while on center stage.

Solo dance numbers were offered by Jana Hanson, Jill Beall, Valerie Kellar and Leigh Corson. Max L'ondier popped in for a tumbling act that called for great muscle control and an abundance of energy.

Mike Deardorff, acting as master of ceremonies, kept the recital moving at a fast pace and contributed to the success of the program with his light-hearted patter.

Lenita Kellar, Linda Mason, Jerry Buchanan and Carol Hanson were adults who brought chuckles from the crowd with their mimicry during the number "Harper Valley PTA," the song which rocketed Jeanie C. Riley to fame.

Mrs. Faulkner herself appeared in a dance number, emerging as a very disciplined artist executing some very difficult routines.

Sherrie and members of her family departed Saturday for Miami Beach, Fla., where she will compete as a representative of Texas in the annual Mrs. Universe Pageant. A winner in that event will be announced Friday night.

Ben Faulkner, who helps his wife manage the local talent school, announced the school would offer a second recital toward the end of the year.

Councilmen to approve criminal justice grant

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City city council will consider additional areas for the location of mobile homes and approve a criminal justice grant for a police investigator when they convene in regular session at 7 p.m., here Tuesday.

The councilmen will also review a request for funds from the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce for the Railhead Arts and Crafts

Roundup for possible passage and listen to a presentation of the audit report for the 1977-78 fiscal year by Joe Morren.

The officials will also consider a resolution requesting the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department to construct a boat ramp at Lake Champion Creek and weigh the wisdom of paying for an airport feasibility study as projected by Parkhill, Smith and Cooper Inc.

Former phone installer becomes sword broker

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Dick Dodge, a 43-year-old former telephone installer, took out the following advertisement in a local newspaper recently: "Honda, '77 Accord, 5 spd. 12,000 mi., $4,950, or trade for fine samurai swords."

"It's no joke," Dodge said. "I'm a Japanese sword broker. I want to get rid of an extra car, so I figured I'd combine that with work.

There is a large retired military population in San Diego. Many people brought these things back as souvenirs."

Dodge and his Japanese wife, Kayoko, live half the year here and half in Japan, where they trade their wares at auctions.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, AUGUST 6, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day brings some confusion but later you find that you can work it out to your satisfaction. Increase your horizons instead of remaining in a confined area.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Don't go off on a hurried trip now that could spoil the security you presently enjoy. Make sure your activities are well organized.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): You want to improve your appearance but make sure you are going about it in the right way before you make changes.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Use fact in handling a situation at home which has cropped up owing to the wrong actions of an outsider.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): If you clarify an awkward situation between you and a friend, you will gain goodwill and respect. Strive for harmony at home.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): You may not understand why you are in a pinch financially, but if you cut down on expensive amusements, they soon improve.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Personal worries can be removed by clear thinking. Once this is done, be in the company of fascinating people later in the day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Ideal time to go to the services of your lawyer. Plan how to stretch your finances so you have greater security in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Listen carefully to any advice given you by friends you trust since this can be very helpful to you. Enjoy the social side of life.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Use your intuition if unexpected problems crop up today. Make long-range plans to have greater abundance in the days ahead.

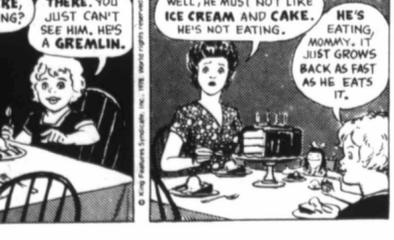

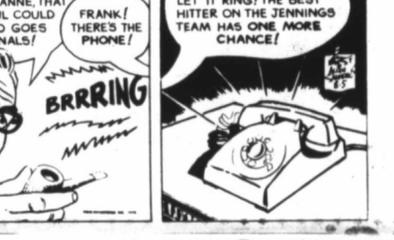

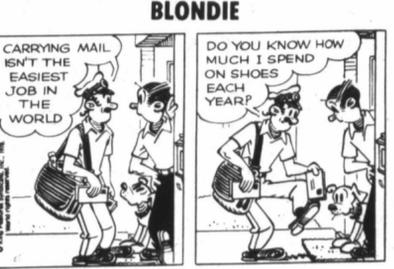

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Use a new method on an activity of long standing can bring success at this time. Think along more constructive lines.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Make sure that you keep promises made to others. Your male may be anxious about something so try to patch up any differences.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Try to clarify any differences you may have with others. Ideal time for meditation and knowing where you're headed in the right direction.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will understand how to turn idealistic concepts into practical reality after studying hard. Don't be perturbed if your progeny spends extra time on details, since this could be the secret of success in the future.

BOGART'S

Newspaper revelations told

By ANNE SMART
Children's Librarian

For many years, people have been fascinated by "What its really like" behind the scenes at a newspaper and a television studio. The personalities of the print and screen journalists are just as important as the news they report. There have been many screen and print accounts of the art of newsgathering. In the 1930's and 1940's, the image of the wise-cracking and hard-drinking newspapermen was brought to the stage and screen in "The Front Page" and "His Girl Friday." The one newspaperman who fascinated the public was William Randolph Hearst. In 1937 Ferdinand Lundberg published a biography of Hearst entitled "Imperial Hearst: A Social Biography." In 1941, Orson Welles' "Citizen Kane" was released. In 1947 Lundberg sued scriptwriters Orson Welles and Herman J. Mankiewicz for copyright infringement. The case was settled out of court. Superman, one of America's greatest comic strip heroes, worked in the guise of Clark Kent, "A mild-mannered reporter for a great metropolitan newspaper," "The Daily Planet."

In the 1960's and 1970's as a result of the Vietnam War and Watergate, interest in newsgathering has returned. There are three books that relate to histories of some of the highest regarded American newspapers. "The Kingdom and the Power" by Gay Talese is "the story of the men who influence the institution that influences the world, The New York Times." Robert Gottlieb and Irene Wolf have written "Thinking Big: The Story of the Los Angeles Times, its Publishers, and Their Influence on Southern California." Chalmers M.

Roberts authored "The Washington Post: The First 100 Years." The deeds of Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein, two former obscure reporters caused an increased enrollment in journalism schools with their investigative reporting in the "Post" and in their best-selling "All the President's Men and The Final Days". They have been portrayed on the screen by Robert Redford and Dustin Hoffman. Kathleen A. Begley is another young reporter, formerly of "The Philadelphia Inquirer." She has written an account of her reportorial experiences in "Deadline".

The personalities of television newsmen are even more intriguing than print journalists because they are seen and heard. Many combine serious journalism with a little bit of show business. Gary Paul Gates described the now-canonical Edward R. Murrow's television career, answered the question, "What is Walter Cronkite really like?" and related the history of "Sixty Minutes in Air Time: The Inside Story of CBS News".

Drama in Colorado City

"All My Sons", an Arthur Miller drama, will be on state next weekend at the Colorado City Opera House, presented by Colorado City Playhouse, Inc.

The three-act drama will be presented at 8 p.m., Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Price of tickets is $3 per person and reservations may be made by phoning 1-915-728-3491 or by going by the Colorado City Opera House.

The box office will be open from 1-5 p.m. this week. The Colorado City Opera House seats 160 persons. The Opera House is air conditioned and provides comfortable accommodations.

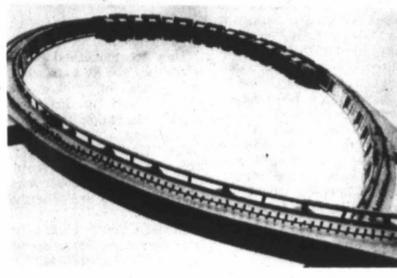

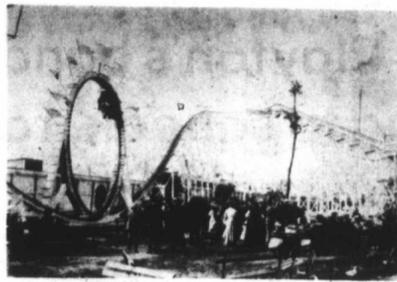

"All My Sons" has been in rehearsal since early June. This is the third production for Colorado City Playhouse this year. The Playhouse season started with the musical, "Annie Get Your Gun," and in the May the comedy "Accommodations" was presented.

The original production of "All My Sons" was directed by Elia Kazan on Broadway and is considered by theatre goers to be a world classic.

The story takes place in the back yard of a home in Ohio in 1947. The story is spun around a couple's son, a pilot, who is missing in action. Everyone but his mother believes the son is dead.

Sub plots include a love affair between the missing son's girl friend and his brother and his father's LOOP THE LOOP — Loop coasters have come a long way since the first loop, (top photo) the Flip-Flap premiered at Coney Island in 1890, featuring four passenger cars and terrifying speeds of 30 miles per hour. The new era of loop coasters flies at Astroworld this year as Greased Lightnin' zips to speeds of 60 miles per hour in less than four seconds, carrying 28 thrill-seekers for a half-minute "flipping" experience.

European star sells himself

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I want America to see me as a combination of the Rev. Sun Moon and a singing star," said Demis Roussos, pressing two hammy palms together resolutely. "That's the image I want them to have."

Roussos, a rich, loud-laughing fat man with an ego to match his 280-pound girth, has come to America to convince as many people as he can that he is all that he says he is. That will be quite a task.

The Egyptian-born Greek says he is a lot of things — mystic, guru, sex symbol and pop star extraordinaire. In that last, at least, Roussos is certainly on the mark.

Roussos is one of Europe's most popular and well-paid pop stars, with about 30 million records sold and the assurance of packed auditoriums wherever he appears. "You cannot imagine what I represent to the rest of the world," Roussos says, suppressing modesty. "But I can understand that because I am completely unknown here." Roussos' sound is a mixture of old country folkore with the pop elements of synthesizers and slick instrumentation. "I am basically a folk singer," he says, "because I'm coming from a part of the earth where folkore means a lot. The Mediterranean is a very old part of the world, and the more a place is old, the more there is folkore."

AUSTIN — House Speaker Billy Clayton's bandwagon for re-election is beginning to squeak and rattle.

Whether Clayton decides to stop for repairs or proceeds as if he doesn't hear the noise may well determine the outcome of his bid for an unprecedented third consecutive term as head of the House.

More than one-third of the House has been meeting to discuss Clayton's handling of the office since he first became speaker in 1975. Those who participate call it "The Group."

Those who would like to stop Clayton are calling it the "Filthy Fifty," as if it were similar to the "Dirty Thirty" organization that picked and jabbed at Gus F. Mutscher until he resigned the speakership in 1972.

But it isn't similar at all. The group is composed both of those who want to oust Clayton and some strong Clayton backers who think some of Clayton's ways need to be changed.

They are concerned about what they see as a growing arrogance of power in Clayton and in his key lieutenants rather than any wrongdoing.

Specific demands for changes in current operations of the House and of Clayton are being prepared.

Should Clayton choose to ignore the demands he would be in political trouble.

The feelings of the participants are quite deep. If their demands are neglected, they will begin to look for a speaker more in line with their image of how a speaker should be.

It is quite similar to a group, composed of many of the same people, that broke from Rep. Fred Head's campaign for speaker in 1974.

The aftermath of that break was the election of Clayton.

Clayton is not politically naive. He already has said he views the group in a positive vein, working towards the same goal as he, the improvement of House operations.

Clayton said he wants to meet with the group for a full discussion. Such a discussion will be healthy for Clayton politically. And it could bring about some needed changes for a more democratic operation of the House.

Guard snakes?

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Burglars broke into a bar here and tampered with a coin operated machine, but they left before finishing the job.

"The only thing we can think of is the burglars must have seen them," owner Joe Lahiff said. "They just have scared them off."

"They" are three boa constrictors. They were on the floor of the manager's office, which was as far as the thieves got.

Lahiff said he normally kept his dog at the bar to ward off intruders, but that morning, the dog was with him and the snakes were just filling in.

The snakes belong to his wife, Mary, and have been household pets for about a year, Lahiff said.

Watson takes insurmountable lead in 60th PGA

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Tom Watson, his mop of red hair glistening wetly in the steadily drizzling rain, pulled away from the field with a gaudy, 4-under-par 67 and established an all-but-insurmountable 5-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the 60th PGA National Championship.

Watson, displaying the fire and finesse that has made him heir apparent to Jack Nicklaus' long-time role as the world's premier performer, left his would-be challengers struggling far behind him with a 54-hole total of 203. That's an improbable 10 shots below the listed par on the hilly, 6,989-yard Oakmont Country Club course, a famed old layout that sent Nicklaus down the road toward home Friday, a victim of the cut for the first time in a decade of competition in the game's four major tests.

And it put Watson, a leader all the way in this weather-plagued event, in firm command in his bid for a fourth major title.

The lead is so large — matching the biggest ever in this tournament — that it appeared highly unlikely anyone could catch him in Sunday's final round. Watson would have to lose it. No one else could win it. A round of par 71 by Watson would require Jerry Pate, his closest pursuer, to shoot a closing 66 just to tie.

Pate, the youthful winner of the 1976 U.S. Open, scored 71 birdies on his way to that score in the third round and had a 208 total.

"My job is to beat the golf course tomorrow, not try to beat any particular player," said Pate. "I'm not going to try to make up anything and keep hurrying along to look at leader boards. I'm just going to try to beat Oakmont. I can't do anything about what Tom shoots."

Pate, whose effort matched the best score of the tournament, could have been as much as 5 shots better. He had that many putts "actually go in the hole and come back out," he said.

Tom Weiskopf and Joe Inman were next at 209. Weiskopf, who spiced his round with an eagle-2, had to birdie the last 2 holes for a 69. Inman milked out the same score, also closing birdie-birdie with his jittery, grasping-closing-putting grip.

John Mahaffey, who lost a playoff for the 1975 U.S. Open and led through 67 holes of the next American national championship, had a solid, no-bogey, 3-under-par 68 that put him at 210.

"You could see a 5 or 6-shot swing tomorrow," he said. "It's that kind of golf course."

But that wouldn't be enough for him. He's 7 behind. Chunky Craig Stadler, with a 67-211, and Lee Trevino, 70-212, were the only others under par going into the final round.

Johnny Miller, who won the 1973 U.S. Open with a final round 63 on this same course, bogeyed his last two holes for a 72-213.

Ben Crenshaw, who has so often challenged but not yet won in a major event, once again saw his chances disappear for the title he needs to confirm his stature in the game. Gentle Ben, tied for second going into the day's play, struggled to an anguished 75 that actually had him pounding his head in dismay. He was at 215.

PGA FOG — Tom Watson of Steamboat Springs, Colo., stands out against the fog in the valleys as he hits from third fairway Saturday during semifinal round of PGA tournament at Oakmont, Pa., Country Club. Watson began today's round well ahead of the field, and finished five strokes in the lead.

Hurr's soccer boom busted

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Hurricane thought it would get in on the soccer boom when it bought an expansion franchise this year in the North American Soccer League. Instead the club lost at least $800,000.

General manager Hans Von Mende admitted the Hurricane will fall into a group of clubs which lost between $800,000 and $1.4 million. It drew only 5,887 fans per game to the expensive Astrodome. "But the owners went into this prepared to lose," Von Mende said.

"We knew we would. Everything was projected toward losing money."

Sports bits

By the Associated Press
The Boston Red Sox officially protested to the American League because umpires did not call Thursday night's game at Yankee Stadium until 12:50 a.m. The Sox claimed the field was unplayable when rain halted play at 11:22 p.m., with Boston leading 8-1.

The Washington Redskins traded offensive tackle Tim Stokes to the Green Bay Packers for an undisclosed 1979 draft choice. Billy (White Shoes) Johnson was in the Astrodome stands along with a sellout crowd of 47,000 when his Houston Oilers teammates played the Denver Broncos Saturday night. Johnson is still holding out for more money, while Earl Campbell's debut sold tickets.

National Basketball Association governors will hold a special meeting next Wednesday in Chicago to clear up the proposed sale of the financially plagued New Jersey Nets to the Silna-Taub group which has agreed in principle to buy the club.

Wichita heavyweight Bob Hazelton claims he offered George Foreman $185,000 to fight but Foreman "ducked it," refusing to say yes or no and cutting off talks. There was no comment from Foreman.

Arkansas was picked by a majority of the coaches as the preseason favorite. "Arkansas will have a dynamite team," said Southern Methodist Coach Ron Meyer. "I'll pick 'em but I can also see a tremendous run by Texas AM, Houston and Texas."

Meyer then said, "By the way, Lou, we brought you a leftover bag of oranges from our last game in Fayetteville. We hope to be in the position some day where we can return the favor."

Teaff said recently in Houston he was "sick and tired" of hearing about Arkansas' problems and the possibility the Razorbacks might leave the conference for the Big Eight Conference.

Teaff said, "My feeling is, if they want out, don't let the door hit them in the rear on the way out."

He said he had received some Arkansas mail since that statement.

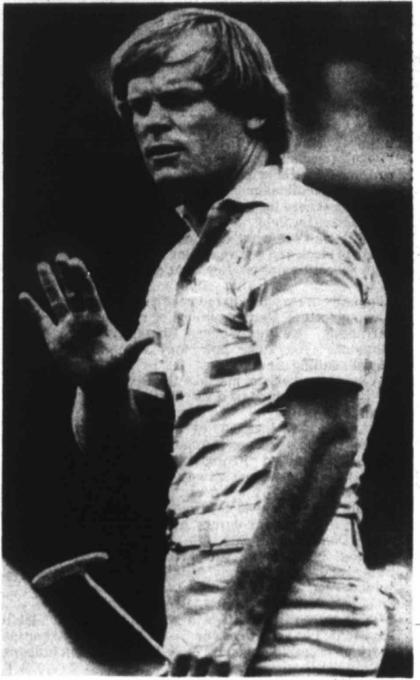

"Some people were irate which I guess you might expect and some had some sound statements trying to explain Arkansas' position," said Teaff. "I really hope Arkansas never leaves the conference."

Teaff said if Arkansas leaves the conference there should be a thorough evaluation before any other team gets an invite.

"It's too big now...I'd like to have four non-conference games," said Teaff. "We should also examine the credentials of schools like North Texas before we make a decision — based, of course, on Arkansas' pulling out. I don't think they will."

Holtz arrived late at the luncheon but performed his usual magic acts to dazzle the sellout crowd.

WHOO! — Johnny Miller of Napa, Calif., holds up his hands as if to slow his rolling putt on first green during semifinal round of PGA tournament at Oakmont, Pa., Saturday. Miller started Saturday's round tied for third place.

Efren will probably be traded

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Dallas placekicker Efren Herrera, who is being fined $500 each day he is absent from the Cowboys' training camp, has asked the team to trade him.

Herrera, who already owes the Super Bowl champion Cowboys $8,500 for his absence so far in camp, told reporters Wednesday the team has failed to offer him a salary commensurate with his standing as the top kicker in the National Football League.

"At this time, I'd like to be traded," said Herrera. "If they don't think as highly of me as I think of myself, it's time to move on."

"It's gone too far. I don't think they have any plans for me here. Maybe it's time to move to another team which appreciates me more than the Cowboys."

Herrera was believed asking a salary of about $80,000. The Cowboys have offered an estimated salary of $45,000.

Herrera said there is no way he would report to camp without a new contract, but said he doesn't want to retire.

Tex Schramm, president and general manager of the Cowboys can accommodate Herrera and at the same time benefit the team through a trade, if he would do so.

The Cowboy position is that Herrera is under contract for an additional year, his option year, and is in violation of that contract.

"His union bargained an agreement which provided for him becoming a free agent and offering his services on the market," said Schramm. "Our position is he should fulfill his contract and the union agreement."

Meanwhile Wednesday, Cowboy Head Coach Tom Landry told a morning news conference he would start the 1978 pre-season with the same lineups that opened Super Bowl XII in New Orleans last Jan. 15, with the exception of offensive tackle Ralph Neely, who has retired.

Neely's place at left tackle was taken in Saturday's Texas Stadium opener against the San Francisco 49ers by Pat Donovan, who played right tackle a year ago in place of the injured Rayfield Wright.

Wright, attempting a come back at age 33, thus becomes the only lineup change as he moves in at right tackle.

Rutherford turns in best time

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Johnny Rutherford had the best time Saturday in practice runs at the Texas World Speedway here in preparation for qualifying rounds and the Texas Grand Prix, both of which are set for Sunday.

Rutherford posted a speed of 205.362 mph in his Indy-style race car.

Nine drivers, including Pancho Carter of Brownsburg, Ind., with a speed of 203.966 and Tom Sneva at 203.332, broke the 200-mph barrier.

Saturday baseball

Expos decision Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Gary Carter drove in four runs with a single and a bases-loaded double, and left-hander Ross Grimsley won his 13th game Saturday as the Montreal Expos defeated Chicago 7-4. The loss snapped the Cubs' four-game winning streak.

Carter's RBI single gave the Expos a 1-0 lead in the second inning and his three-run double capped a six-run uprising against loser Dave Roberts, 4-7, in the fifth inning.

Chris Speier drew a walk to open the Montreal fifth but was forced at second on Grimsley's grounder. Dave Cash singled and Andre Dawson doubled to drive in Grimsley. Roberts issued an intentional walk to Ellis Valentine to load the bases before Tony Perez sent a sacrifice fly to deep right field to make it 3-0.

Larry Parrish was walked intentionally to reload the bases for Warren Cromartie, who beat out an infield single and drove in the third run of the inning. Carter then doubled down the right field line to clear the bases and give the Expos a 7-0 lead.

Dodgers end streak

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers broke a six-game losing streak behind the shutout pitching of rookie Bob Welch, beating the San Francisco Giants 2-0 Saturday on run-scoring singles by Bill Russell and Ron Cey in the eighth inning.

Welch, 3-0, scattered nine hits, walked two and struck out three in his first complete game as a major leaguer. Welch had to pitch out of a jam in the ninth. After he yielded a one-out single to Terry Whitfield and walked pinch hitter Mike Ivie, he struck out Jackie Clark and got Heity Cruz to fly to left.

The Dodgers managed only five hits off Giants right-hander Ed Halicki, 5-6, but three of them came in the eighth. Russell singled to left field with two out, scoring Johnny Oates from second base to break a scoreless tie, and went all the way to third on some sloppy fielding.

Bosox bomb Brewers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jerry Remy and Dwight Evans lined two-run homers, and Carl Yastrzemski added a solo homer and an RBI single, leading the Three Cowboys were declared out of Saturday's game by team doctors. They were veteran running back Charles Young (knee), tackle Jim Eidson (neck), and rookie defensive back Kenny Randle (shoulder).

Eidson and Randle were flown back to Dallas Wednesday to be further examined.

Teaff says Okies OK if Arkies want out

DALLAS (AP) — Baylor Coach Grant Teaff said Friday he hopes Arkansas never leaves the Southwest Conference, but added Oklahoma would make a good addition if the Razorbacks do pull out.

"I hope Arkansas stays in the conference forever, and I don't expect them to leave," said Teaff shortly before an SWC kickoff football luncheon. "I have a great relationship with the people of Arkansas. Frank Broyles (now Arkansas athletic director) was my boyhood idol and (head coach) Lou Holtz is a great friend."

"But if they do leave Oklahoma would be a great boon. We have to look at it from the standpoint of what can that team do for the conference. Oklahoma could do a lot with its record and football program."

Teaff said recently in Houston he was "sick and tired" of hearing about Arkansas' problems and the possibility the Razorbacks might leave the conference for the Big Eight Conference.

Teaff said, "My feeling is, if they want out, don't let the door hit them in the rear on the way out."

Rangers to try shrink

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — If a psychologist was good enough for the Texas Longhorns, then the Texas Rangers figure some sage advice might pump some life into their sub-.500 American League team.

Lou Tiche, whose clients have included the SWC champion Longhorns, the Wyoming Cowboys of the Western Athletic Conference and the Phoenix Suns of the National Basketball Association, will come calling today.

He will be introduced to the Ranger team and front office personnel by Fred Akers, head football coach at Texas.

"Akers has been thoroughly impressed by Mr. Tiche and will introduce the gentlemen to the club," said beleaguered Ranger Manager Billy Hunter after Texas trimmed the Cleveland Indians 8-0 Friday night.

"Anything is worth a try. I'm anxious to spend some time with him myself."

"Anything that would bring togetherness to this club has a chance to be successful. When I got here last year, we had togetherness. But there has been a series of things that has rendered us apart. If we can salvage that, it might not be too late to win the whole thing yet."

The Rangers, who are dead last in hitting in the American League despite a million dollar payroll, trail Kansas City by eight and one-half games in the AL West.

The big clubhouse topic was the acquisition of Tiche's services by majority owner Brad Corbett and executive vice president Eddie Robinson.

"He's even going to talk to the wives in two, four-hour sessions," said Hunter. "In the past couple of months we've had some motivation experts wanting to talk to us — for a fee. They had a feeling it (Texas) was a good place to come."

Hunter has had his problems in his first full year as a big league manager. Roger Moret went into a catatonic state, Dock Ellis openly defied Hunter's rules, Bert Campaneris questioned Hunter's strategy, and all but a few starters have been sidelined at different times with injuries.

"I believe this has a good chance for success," said Hunter. "I know our people are sincere about it."

Asked if he thought the Rangers had tried everything, Hunter pondered a moment and said "No, we haven't tried a hypnotist. Bill Vecek tried that for the old St. Louis Browns one time and it didn't work."

Mayotte takes crown

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Second-seeded Tim Mayotte of Springfield, Mass., captured the juniors title of the Western Boys 16-18 Tennis Championships Saturday.

Mayotte defeated fourth-seeded David Dowlen of Houston, 6-3, 7-6, 7-5 for the championship.

In the 16-and-under boys finals, eighth-seeded Fabio Mion Bet of Caracas, Venezuela, defeated unranked John Davis of Los Angeles 4-6, 6-3, 9-7.

Both of the losers had upset the top seeds earlier in the tournament. Dowlen eliminated No. 1 John Couze of Atlanta in the quarterfinals and Davis tripped top-seeded Mike DePalmer of Palmetto, Fla., in the semifinals.

In the doubles, second-seeded Jeff Arons of Portola Valley, Calif., and Mike Howard of San Francisco defeated the team of Scott Bondurant of Kendall, Fla., and Jeff Turpin of Los Alamitos, Calif., 6-7, 6-2, 8-6.

In the 16-and-under doubles, the third-seeded Santa Barbara, Calif., team of Mark Basham and Mark Woodridge defeated George Myers of Chevy Chase, Md., and David Perlmutter of Potomac, Md., 6-3, 7-5.

Rollins named director

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rich Rollins has been named director of administration of the Cleveland Indians, it was announced Friday.

The one-time star third baseman will be in charge of sales, among other things, the Indians said.

Rollins, 40, became the Minnesota Twins' regular third baseman in 1961 and helped the Twins win a pennant in 1965. He later moved to Seattle and Milwaukee and wound up his playing career with the Indians in 1970.

Rollins served as a scout and a minor league instructor with the Indians before joining the club's sales staff in 1974.

Horses may run again

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP) — Horsemen may vote today to resume entering their harness horses at Monticello Raceway, which has been dark since Tuesday.

Acting Sullivan County Court Judge Eugene Hanoffe decided Friday that the horsemen would have to return to court Monday to face an eviction action brought by Leo Doobin, track president.

Doobin has said he would drop the eviction, if the horsemen end their boycott of the track.

The dispute began soon after the recent formation of the Mid-Atlantic Horsemen's Association, which the track has not yet recognized as a bargaining agent for the horsemen.

Gazo, Kudo sign pact

AKITA, Japan (AP) — Eddy Gazo, the World Boxing Association junior middleweight champion from Nicaragua and Japanese challenger Masashi Kudo signed a contract Saturday for their 15-round title match Wednesday.

The fighters later attended a reception where Gazo said: "I will fight my best to retain the title for my people and my country."

Kudo, the WBA's No. 3 contender, said "I am fully prepared to go the full 15 rounds."

The 28-year-old Nicaraguan army officer is defending his 154-pound crown for the fourth time. He won it on points from Miguel Angel Castellini of Argentina in March 1977 at Managua.

Kudo, a 26-year-old orthodox boxer, will be the third Japanese to challenge Gazo for the title. It will be the undefeated Kudo's first shot at a world championship in 19 professional fights.

Caulkins wins title

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) — Jesse Vassallo says he was entirely too calm Friday night prior to the finals of the men's 400-meter individual medley race at the Amateur Athletic Union Long Course Swimming Championships.

"I asked the coach to put on some music while I was on the rubdown table but it didn't do any good," Vassallo said. "I guess when they started the introductions, I sort of just went crazy."

Vassallo, representing the Mission Viejo, Calif., Swim Club, continued his craziness in the water by zooming to a world record 4:23.39 clocking for his second victory of the meet.

Who's really better, Rose or Dimag?

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Joe DiMaggio-Pete Rose debate is on.

Never mind that Rose's 44-game hitting streak ended 12 games shy of DiMaggio's "unbreakable" record of 56 straight.

The assault on baseball's Oklahomans control rodeo

HURON, S.D. (AP) — The 30th annual National High School Rodeo Finals continued to be an Oklahoma show Saturday as Ladeana Matteson of Moorland roped her breakaway calf in 2.54 seconds for the fast time of the rodeo in that event.

Oklahoma first grabbed the lead in points during the rodeo's fourth performance and showed no signs of relenting its dominance during the 11th performance Saturday. Texas continued to hold down the second place spot.

Other Oklahoma prepsters had the fast time of the performance in goat tying and steer wrestling as well as second and third place in pole bending.

Kathy Fletcher, a senior at Dayton, Wash., had a pole bending time of 19.71 seconds for the fast time of the rodeo. Miss Fletcher leads the average in pole bending and cow cutting and leads in the girls all-around points.

J.R. Clark of Alliance Neb., grabbed back the lead in the boys all-around standings after losing it earlier in the week.

Lopez back strong

SUNNINGDALE, England (AP) — Nancy Lopez and Betsy King, both in their first year as professionals, Saturday moved to the top of the field in the European Women's Golf Championships here.

Lopez, 21, has already won seven major tournaments this year. King, who will be 23 in one week, hasn't won one yet. But Saturday she surged through the field from her 2 under par starting point, at one time was 7 under, and finally finished at 217, 5 under.

Lopez teed off Saturday 4 under and only one stroke behind joint leaders Vivian Brownlee and Sally Little. But both Brownlee and Little faded during the day, leaving Lopez with a clear run to the top.

Lopez had an adventurous round that mixed six birdies with four bogeys and proved conclusively she has fought her way out of her recent slump.

She started with a pair of birdies through the first three holes, aided by putts of seven and 10 feet, got herself bunkered twice for a couple of bogeys and finished the outward nine with a birdie on the eighth. That was the hole where she took a triple bogey in the first round.

"It owed me that," she said. Coming home, Lopez was on the green in two and two-putted for a birdie on the par-5 10th, then hit a fine tee shot on the 295-yard, par-5 11th, used a pitching wedge from the edge of the green to run up to the cup but failed to run the ball more than a couple of yards.

She then two-putted for a 5, "the dumbest bogey you ever saw," she said in disgust.

King started off like a champion with four birdies in the first five holes. Then she momentarily lost her putting touch.

Connors draws top clay seeding

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Wimbledon runner-up Jimmy Connors was given the top-seeding Saturday in the 68th U.S. Open Clay Court tennis championships which open at the Indianapolis Racquet Club on Monday, Aug. 7.

Tournament director Stan Malless announced last year's Grand Prix point leader Guillermo Vilas of Argentina was seeded second, ahead of defending champion Manuel Orantes, who has finished first here in three of the last five years.

Last year, Orantes easily defeated Connors 6-1, 6-3 in a nationally televised match for the tournament title.

"It was a tough decision making our top seedings," said Malless. "We use various criteria in making the seedings. World rankings are one of our major factors, however."

Connors, who finished first in the tournament in 1974 and 1976, drew Australian Rod Frawley as his opening opponent. Vilas, the 1977 Grand Prix point leader with 14 victories, plays Australian Dick Crealy.

Orantes begins defending his title against Billy Martin of Palos Verdes, Calif.

Italian Davis Cup star Corrado Barrazzutti was seeded fourth, followed by Poland's Wojtek Fibak and 1977 Wimbledon runner-up John John McEnroe, who turned pro after winning the 1978 NCAA championship.

Spain's Jose Higueras was given the No. 7 seed, with veteran Ken Rosewall, making his first appearance in the tournament here, seeded eighth. Great Britain's John Lloyd and Jamie Filliol of Chile complete the top 10 seedings.

The champion will be determined in a nationally televised match, CBS-TV, on Sunday, Aug. 13.

and didn't have to face fresh relief specialists armed with a vast arsenal of "out" pitches.

"If someone wants to make comparisons, that's fine. But I'm not going to," said the Cincinnati Reds star.

"I will say this. Joe DiMaggio had to be a great hitter. I think he was good enough that he could do it against today's pitchers."

"But the guy who beats him is going to have to be a guy like me — a guy with the advantage of being a switch hitter who makes contact. When you've got guys like Houston's J.R. Richards and Steve Carlton around, it almost has to take a switch hitter."

"It's possible, but not probable. It takes a hell of a lot of luck," said Rose, who maintains he had little of the latter during his bid.

Ironically, both started their streaks after wicked slumps.

Rose's batting average had plunged to an uncharacteristic .267 by mid-June. "I was tired, it was right after the 3,000-hit uproar and we had been on the road a long time. I got back home, got some extra batting practice and the hits started coming."

The Reds had just played 13 of 18 games on the road when Rose torched the streak with two hits off Chicago's Dave Roberts on June 14.

Six weeks and 43 games later, the second longest hitting streak of the century ended against rookie Larry McWilliams of Atlanta and Gene Garber, a bearded, sidearming reliever who fanned Rose to end the game. It left the 12-time All-Star in a tie with Wee Willie Keeler, who accomplished it in 1897.

"I definitely think my streak was more difficult than Keeler's. In his day, foul balls were strikes and base on balls were hits," said Rose.

However, historians note that Keeler had a legitimate hit in each of the 44 games of his streak.

DIDN'T MAKE CUT — Jack Nicklaus watches his shot from trap near eighth green roll off course Friday during second round of PGA tournament at Oakmont, Pa. Nicklaus shot a 79 on Thursday and a 74 on Friday for a 153 total for 36 holes. The cut in the field for the final two rounds was made at 148.

Steinbrenner slapped with $3.1 million suit

CLEVELAND (AP) — Charging that George Steinbrenner has frustrated their attempts to sell their stock in the New York Yankees, Gabe Paul and Francis J. "Steve" O'Neill have filed a $3.1 million suit against Steinbrenner.

Paul was president of the Yankees until late last year, when he returned to Cleveland to join O'Neill in taking over the Cleveland Indians. Paul and O'Neill were members of the group that bought the Yankees in 1973 with Steinbrenner.

Paul said Friday he and O'Neill have a buyer for their Yankee stock but Steinbrenner has refused to approve the deal.

"We have a signed agreement with the purchasers, but it requires approval of the general partner (Steinbrenner)," Paul said. "The papers are signed, and the money's in escrow."

Under terms of the agreement completed June 1 the sale becomes void if Steinbrenner's written approval is not received by Aug. 13, Paul said.

"I'm sorry it had to come to this, but it's got to be resolved," Paul said.

The Indians president said the $1.1 million sale to a group of New Yorkers had been approved by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and the president of the American League.

Paul said the breach-of-contract suit filed in Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) Common Pleas Court includes $2 million punitive damages plus $1.1 million compensatory damages.

The petition also seeks an order to force Steinbrenner to approve the sale, saying his refusal could place Paul and O'Neill in violation of a major league rule prohibiting anyone from having an interest in more than one club.

"Not that there are any deals pending or that we could make one, but as it stands right now, we are prohibited from dealing with the Yankees until the sale is final," Paul said.

Steinbrenner was reported to be in Tampa, Fla., and could not be reached for comment.

O'Neill, an investment banker, is co-founder of Leaseway Transportation Corp.

Lawyer Robert G. McCreary, said the case was assigned to Judge Daniel O. Corrigan but no date was set for a hearing.

Texans and Okies prepare to meet

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — Texas and Oklahoma schoolboys are due to report here Sunday to begin preparations for the 41st annual Oil Bowl football game to be played Aug. 12.

All district quarterback Mike Brannan of Brazoswood will call signals for the Texas squad and Randy Page of Oklahoma City Southeast will quarterback Oklahoma.

The Oil Bowl is played annually at Wichita Falls Memorial Stadium, and attracts top high school players from Texas and Oklahoma.

Texas holds a 25-6-1 advantage since the Oil Bowl adopted the Texas-Oklahoma format in 1946.

Included on the Texas roster are Ron Reeves of Lubbock Monterey, Brownwood's Eddie Gill, Willie Wright of El Paso Burgess, David Bandy of Austin Anderson, Texas City's Mark Weber, Adrian Price of Galveston Ball, Paul Kerestine of Denton and San Antonio Churchill's Tom Randol.

Oklahoma squad includes Rob Shaff and Kelly Phelps of Putnam City, Steve Holmes of Yukon, Shawnee's Ken Muncy, Tulsa Washington's Charles David, Bruce Scott of Oklahoma City Western Heights, Derwin Cantley of Broken Bow, Ada's Brian Butler and Sam Shelby of McAlester.

Early Oil Bowl arrivals include Charles Lewis, a running back from Burk Burnett, Texas; Houston Worthing wide receiver Robert Mitchell; offensive lineman Jack Tynes of Dallas Highland Park, Henry Williams, a running back from Lawton, Okla.; Eisenhower; and Prague, Oklahoma, linebacker John Parker.

Both teams will begin two a day workouts Aug. 7. Charlie Johnson of Childress is the head coach for Texas.

Q. How are pro football referees paid? By the gate take, the year, or the game? And what is the average salary?

A. The men in stripes are paid between $6,000 and $12,000 a season, according to their experience and their seniority ranking. This includes 20 games, normally, and they do receive additional revenues for post-season games. The average salary is somewhat less than $10,000 a season, which figures out to $500 a ref. a game.

Nicklaus, Palmer lost wind in sails

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — The pro golf tour is not all gold, glamour and glory. It is also pain and frustration.

Listen to the boys in the horizontally-striped shirts, peacock slacks and gleaming shoes tell it like it is — sometimes, as in the 60th PGA Championship.

"I felt like I wanted to throw up," said Arnold Palmer after shooting 10-over-par 152 for two rounds and missing the halfway cut.

"The wind went out of my sails at No. 12," said Jack Nicklaus, the winningest champion of all-time, after 3 double bogeys that sent him to the sidelines with 79-74-153. "I was 3 under par for the day after 11, and I hit a good drive at the 12th but the ball kicked left into a bunker. Then I hit into a ditch, chopped out onto the green in 4 and 3-putted."

"I wasn't concerned with missing the cut. I was concerned only with getting back in the tournament."

After skying to a rare 79 in his opening round, Nicklaus quipped: "For a while, I wondered if the ball was round."

Slump-ridden Johnny Miller, who fired a record last-round 63 in winning the U.S. Open on this same Oakmont course in 1973, said the skies no longer look as rosy.

"If somebody had told me golf was going to be this tough I would have taken up tennis," Miller said after shooting a 72 for 141. "That stinking driver. I'm not ready. I tried 20 different things on my swing — open stances, closed stances. I'm my own worst enemy. If I were a betting man, I wouldn't bet on me."

Joe Inman, whose 68 put him in a tie with Tom Weiskopf and Ben Crenshaw for second place after 36 holes, 4 behind pacesetter Tom Watson, said:

"People who achieve greatness must go that extra yard — football and basketball players, businessmen, even sports writers. I haven't been able to go that extra yard. I've got to be more motivated. My potential would be better."

Added Weiskopf: "I like this course. It has variety. It keeps me interested. The importance of a major tournament like this is to let it become exciting and hold interest."

Moaned Crenshaw, who felt his second-round 71 should have been better: "It was kind of a struggle all day. I never really got in position. It was a poor day for me. When I hit the greens I was too far away."

Hubert Green, only six shots back at 142, warned about the sickness of the greens, especially No. 11. "You won't see many guys going to the 12th tee singing 'The Star Spangled Banner,'" he said.

Even the leader, Tom Watson, was not exhilarated. "I didn't hit the ball that well," he said. "I sank two putts of 20 feet and holed out 70 feet from a trap. I was saved by my golden putter. Everything seems to be going my way."

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — An ailing and angry Bill Walton says he wants out of the team he helped to lead the 1977 National Basketball Association championship.

And the Portland Trail Blazers, taken by surprise, say they'll try to accommodate him.

Ailing with an unhealed foot injury and angry over the way the team handles injuries, Walton was not around Friday when the announcement came from the Blazer office.

In a typically Walton manner, he left a prepared statement with friend-turned-agent Jack Scott and secluded himself with his family.

"He's very angry that he has to leave the best teammates and fans he will ever have. He's angry that the situation was created where he had to do that. I have never seen him so upset and angry," Scott said.

"Money had nothing to do with it. The Trail Blazers offered him a guaranteed contract for whatever he wanted. If they didn't think his injury was going to heal, they wouldn't have offered that."

He said Walton would like to play for one of seven teams — San Diego, Los Angeles, Denver, Philadelphia, Boston, New York or Golden State.

"It's not just Bill," Scott said. Injuries are a part of sports. It's the care and treatment of injuries that are Bill's concern. An athlete's career is very finite. Bill has three or five years or so at his prime to play and he just made the decision that he had to be in an environment that maximized his opportunities to play as a skillful player, which he is."

Walton's statement was anything but angry. It lauded his teammates and the Portland fans.

"This is the most difficult decision I've ever had to make regarding my basketball career," it read. "The tremendous loyalty and support of my teammates and Trail Blazers fans have made the decision that much tougher."

"My only hope is that when I return as an opponent and a visitor that Trail Blazer boosters will treat me with the same respect and love as they always have," the statement said.

Missing from the statement were plaudits for Coach Jack Ramsay, General Manager Harry Glickman or other team officials.

"I think by omission he expressed his feelings," Scott said. "Who he left out expressed his concerns."

Team officials had no comment other than a one-sentence statement: "The Portland Trail Blazers announced today that Bill Walton has asked to be traded prior to the 1978-79 season and the club has informed him it will attempt to abide by his wishes," it said.

Ramsay, returning from a Hawaiian vacation, said he was "totally shocked." He said the last thing Walton had said to him was, "Coach, have a good trip. See you when you get back."

Walton's brother, Bruce Walton, said in San Diego that he believed Bill was bitter about pressure to play while hurt.

"He was a little disappointed in the way the foot thing came down. The trainer and doctor said everything was fine and as it turned out he ended up playing half the basketball game on a broken foot."

Walton is represented by Scott and Portland attorney John Bassett. They said Walton made the decision at least a month ago while resting at a health resort in Arizona.

No decision has been made as to where Walton might go, Scott said, although speculation centered on San Diego. Walton is from the San Diego suburb of La Mesa, Calif., and has in the past

Levin no hero anymore

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Irv Levin was a hero in Boston not long ago, but recently — and suddenly — Levin's popularity has hit rock bottom in the East. It's risen just as rapidly in the West.

Levin is the Beverly Hills movie mogul who swapped the Boston Celtics for the Buffalo Braves and moved the Braves to California.

"I was a great hero in Boston until the middle of last year," said Levin, majority holder of the new San Diego entry in the National Basketball Association.

"I remember back in 1976 when we won the world championship and there were 300,000 lining the streets cheering our motorcade. But last year somebody had to take the heat and it was the owner."

The 56-year-old attorney was the owner of the Celtics for three years before completing that controversial swap with Braves owner John Y. Brown that brought the club here last month.

As a result, after seven years of starvation, San Diego basketball fans have a team to replace the ABA Rockets who fled to Houston in a hail of controversy.

The transfer of team ownership between Levin and Brown — complete with its accompanying seven-player deal made worse by the possible exit from Boston of Sidney Wicks — gave Levin the status of a leper in New England.

One Boston journalist recently wrote that Levin was "a con man who had sweettalked Boston, (then) slid a knife in Red Auerbach's ribs." But Auerbach, the Celtics' president and general manager, says he harbors no ill will.

"Believe me, I've had a lot of owners and Irv Levin is a good guy," Auerbach said in an interview last week from his Washington, D.C., home. "He never stuck a knife in my back. I don't lie. That's not my reputation. We're the best of friends."

"Irv is a businessman but he's also a fan," Auerbach continued. "He stayed cool and kept his head last year when a lot of things went bad and a lot of owners wouldn't have done that."

But that won't wash in Boston. And here's Levin to add fuel to the fire.

"Everybody up there thinks I raped Boston and stole their best players," Levin said. "I think I did, I think I outmaneuvered John Y. Brown, but I was only following the pattern designed by Red Auerbach. I tried to do exactly what Red would have done."

Levin admits he's a hard working businessman. And after holding minority interests in the San Diego Chargers and the Seattle SuperSonics before latching onto the Celtics, he says he isn't fooling around. "I'm not in this business to win a popularity contest."

UT coaches to get bonus

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Longhorn coaches in all men's sports will get 8 percent salary bonuses if their teams appear in post-season games under a policy adopted Friday by the University of Texas Board of Regents.

The regents extended a 1962 policy that only applied to football coaches leading teams to bowl games.

It was not clear Friday whether the policy would be made retroactive to include Abe Lemons, whose basketball team captured the National Invitational Tournament championship in New York this year.

The bonus is aimed at rewarding coaches who "have assumed more than normal mental, physical and time loads and who have achieved an outstanding team performance," the policy states.

Missing from the statement were plaudits for Coach Jack Ramsay, General Manager Harry Glickman or other team officials.

"I think by omission he expressed his feelings," Scott said. "Who he left out expressed his concerns."

Team officials had no comment other than a one-sentence statement: "The Portland Trail Blazers announced today that Bill Walton has asked to be traded prior to the 1978-79 season and the club has informed him it will attempt to abide by his wishes," it said.

Ramsay, returning from a Hawaiian vacation, said he was "totally shocked." He said the last thing Walton had said to him was, "Coach, have a good trip. See you when you get back."

Walton's brother, Bruce Walton, said in San Diego that he believed Bill was bitter about pressure to play while hurt.

"He was a little disappointed in the way the foot thing came down. The trainer and doctor said everything was fine and as it turned out he ended up playing half the basketball game on a broken foot."

Walton is represented by Scott and Portland attorney John Bassett. They said Walton made the decision at least a month ago while resting at a health resort in Arizona.

No decision has been made as to where Walton might go, Scott said, although speculation centered on San Diego. Walton is from the San Diego suburb of La Mesa, Calif., and has in the past

First love

with Marj Carpenter

So many of you enjoyed the column I put together last month on first date, that I thought I'd venture into first love.

The first time I remember noticing a boy as anything but a nuisance was at the very tender age of eight in the third grade.

Suddenly I had a boyfriend. And his name was Mack George. We were both in Mrs. Rice's third grade section and she was a thundering dragon.

When we would pass notes back and forth, she would thunder and storm like a hurricane and threaten to read them before the entire class.

Jack lived in a two story house and in the town I lived in there were only about five of those. South Texas is prone to low Spanish architecture and not colonial style homes. But he lived in a colonial style home. I had visited there with my mother on many occasions.

It was really an adventure to run up the stairs and slide down the banister to the landing. It was more glamorous and exciting than any house in town.

Another thing, Mack had a shiny red bicycle with a bell. At our house, we had no bicycle at all. My brother and I walked home from school, but suddenly one day, I began to get to ride on the Summer band rehearsals.

Summer band rehearsals for all high school band students will begin Monday, at 6:30 p.m. at the high school band hall. All students involved in the high school band program are requested to attend.

Bill Bradley, Runnels Jr. High School band director, has also announced all band students attending Runnels school meet at the Runnels band hall Tuesday from 10-11 a.m.

Tuesday is also the date of a very important Band Booster Meeting. All Big Spring Band Boosters are asked to meet at 7:30 p.m. at the high school band hall.

back of Mack's shiny red bicycle. My brother had to walk behind kicking rocks. He hated Mack George.

He told us he hoped the bike would have a flat tire. He told us he hoped we would fall in a mud puddle.

For two long weeks, I rode home in style. Valentine's Day came along. Mack George brought me a Valentine. It was the prettiest I have ever received - before or since. It was big and pink with lace and butterflies and blue birds and red hearts. A shiny red heart had a lump under it. Underneath the seal was a quarter. Now, you have to understand, those were Depression Days. Giving a third grade girl a quarter was an unheard of extravagance. My Dad even began to be a little suspicious of Mack George at that point. But I carried the Valentine and the quarter around until dark and propped it up on the bedside table.

But that ecstasy was short-lived. When I went to school the next morning, Mack George's desk was empty. I thought he was sick. I

The next day when I came to school, all of his books had been turned in. He had moved. His father was an engineer and had been sent suddenly to some far off place and nobody seemed to know where.

I asked everybody. Mack George was gone. My high flying days of riding home on the bicycle were over. Walter, my brother, and I went back to walking.

The Valentine was placed inside a dresser drawer and the quarter was dumped into a Mexican pottery bowl where I kept whatever other nickels and dimes I could save. The quarter was no longer magic. It was just another quarter.

I returned to hating boys and throwing rocks at them and at times swinging a stick at them as we walked home in the evenings.

Everything was back to normal. First love had been brief and rather startling. And I never did find out what happened to Mack George...out where I rode fence - a long, long time ago.

Energy

Gas conservation rule boiling

HARLE HARKS, Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Texas Railroad Commission this month will consider revising a major natural gas conservation rule in an attempt to keep the conserved gas in Texas.

The rule, adopted during the energy crisis of the early 1970s, requires electric generating companies and other industries which use natural gas to fire boilers to reduce gas consumption 25 percent by 1985.

A staff-prepared amendment would give companies that reduce natural gas consumption certificates of entitlement to the gas they don't use. They could sell those entitlements to companies that use gas in making clothing, fertilizer and medicine and in other ways.

In two recent speeches, Commissioner Jon Newton has pointed to plans by California to take the gas saved by the conservation plan and use it for boiler fuel, the low-grade use Texas is trying to stop.

Newton told the Texas Industrial Commission:

"It is unfair to the people of Texas for the Railroad Commission to mandate a costly change-over to coal or nuclear if the gas is going to be wasted. We cannot allow Texas Consumers to make the economic sacrifice necessary to replace existing facilities and then watch the freed gas be piped to California or any other state to be burned in their boilers."

Newton told the State Bar annual convention the proposed amendment to the rule "will encourage greater use of Texas gas within our state."

"Obviously, it is in the public interest to reduce the use of gas as a boiler fuel.

But our conservation efforts are not in the public interest if we are the only state making that effort," he said.

The other two commission members have been less enthusiastic about the proposed amendment.

Chairman Mack Wallace told the Federal Interstate Commerce Commission Texas may reconsider the order directing a phase down of use of gas as a boiler fuel.

But his objection centered on proposed high railroad rates to transport coal from Wyoming to Texas generating plants.

The high freight rates and resulting increase in charges for coal-generated electricity may force a reopening of the boiler fuel question, he said.

"Our commitment to coal conversion is not unequivocal."

Wallace implied the RRC might drop the whole boiler conversion requirement.

Commissioner John Poerner fears the entitlement program. Poerner says a large staff would be required to properly supervise the program, and while he hasn't prejudged the proposal, he has doubts about its wisdom.

"Among honorable utilities we would have no problem, but among those that would abuse (entitlements) we would have to have people monitoring" the program, he said.

Joe Piotrowski (cq), director of the RRC Gas Utility Division, said the staff first proposed the entitlement amendment to the commission in the spring.

The commission directed Piotrowski to send the proposal out for comments. Those have been received, and Piotrowski said he would be presenting the proposed amendment by the end of August.

Army helicopter crash kills all four aboard

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Investigators were trying to determine today what caused an Army helicopter to crash and burn on the McGregor Range killing all four aboard.

The Army Huey helicopter crashed on the range about four miles northeast of Chaparral Friday killing the pilot, Maj. Hubert C. Carter, 34, of Wilmington, N.C., and his three-man crew.

The other victims were identified as Capt. Thomas M.D. Butler, 29, Alice, Texas; Chief Warrant Officer Rodney G. Goheen, 28, Hereford, Texas; and Sgt. Jeffrey L. Kildow, 22, Adrian, Mich.

Military officials said Carter was a seasoned chopper pilot with 17 years of service.

Lt. Col. Vincent Carifano said all the victims were members of the 3rd Army Cavalry Regiment stationed at Fort Bliss.

The chopper was participating in a field training exercise that began Tuesday, Carifano said.

He said Carter joined the Army in 1961 and served as a helicopter pilot in Vietnam. The co-pilot, Goheen, also flew choppers in Vietnam, Carifano said.

The bodies were taken to William Beaumont Medical Center in El Paso while investigators probed the wreckage in an effort to ascertain what caused the crash.

Pioneer Corporation declares dividend

AMARILLO — The board of directors of Pioneer Corporation has declared a regular quarterly dividend of 44 cents per share, payable Sept. 6, to stockholders of record August 17, 1978.

Consolidated net income and earnings per share for Pioneer Corporation for the second quarter of 1978 were announced today. Consolidated net income for the quarter was $10,256,778 compared to $9,923,713 for the same period in 1977. Earnings per share for the quarter were $1.11 compared to $1.07 for the same quarter of 1977.

For the first six months of 1978, consolidated net income amounted to $20,779,759 compared to $21,518,081 for the same period for 1977.

Earnings per share for the first six months of 1978 were reported as $2.24 compared to $2.31 for the first six months of 1977. The quarterly report of Pioneer

Corporation will be mailed to stockholders about the 20th of August.

At a meeting of the directors, Edward S. Morris, president of Amarillo Oil Company and Pioneer Production Corporation, reported that the production companies have participated in a total of 42 wells during the first six months of 1978, yielding three oil wells, and 25 gas wells. Morris said this leaves the companies with a success ratio of 66.7 per cent on a gross well basis and 65.3 per cent on a net well basis.

As of July 1, the companies reported 17 wells drilling and two additional wells ready to start.

The Brown 1-6 well in the Buffalo Wallow Field of Wheeler County, Texas, has been completed, Morris said, and the results indicate this well is the best well completed to date in this field. Amarillo Oil Company owns a 50 per cent working interest in the well, which should have recoverable reserves in excess of 30 billion cubic feet. The Brown 1-6 has been dually completed with pipeline deliveries of up to 14 million cubic feet per day from one zone and seven million cubic feet per day from the other zone.

The onshore gas wells completed during the first half of this year are capable of delivering into their respective pipelines approximately 128 million cubic feet per day, of which 54 million cubic feet per day is attributable to the companies' working interest.

"Prices for this newly connected gas," Morris said, "range from $1.75 to $2.10 per million Btu."

Pioneer Corporation, through subsidiaries, explores for and produces gas, oil, uranium, and natural gas liquids. Other subsidiaries are engaged in contract drilling for oil and gas, manufacturing and worldwide distribution of oilfield equipment.

AIDING RADIOLOGY SCHOOL — The duties of Malone-Hogan's Junior Volunteers go beyond helping patients. Assigned tasks take the girls into every department and acquaints them with every function of the hospital, including the radiology school. Here, from left, Melody Choate, Janet Bowers and Robin Daniels stop to take a look at some of the books they are cataloging for the school. They also set up films for student exams.

FIRST COMMUNITY PROJECT — Formerly only a summer program, the current group of Junior Volunteers have opted to continue aiding the hospital after school begins. They'll be extending their services to the community this week by committing every Thursday afternoon to calling Big Spring blood donors. Every Monday will be Community Blood Donor Day at Malone-Hogan's Blood Center. Here, Laura Moore practices telephone manners learned at an inservice session while, from left, Elizabeth Cevallos, Darlene Battle and Mishell Fuller get ready for the busy week ahead.

Teen volunteers get hooked on helping others

By EILEEN MCGUIRE
Family News Editor

Long-awaited summer vacations do not always turn out to be the utopia that students visualize. Sometimes, they are just plain boring, according to a group of ambitious teenagers who have discovered a way to turn empty hours into a valuable experience.

Most of the girls who make up the 1978 summer staff of Junior Volunteers at Malone-Hogan Hospital cited "nothing better to do" and "boring summer vacation" as their reasons for joining the program.

But personal motivations also entered in, causing them to choose nonpaying work over pastimes that might have been more profitable or more fun.

More than half of the girls say they are interested in a career in the medical field and their volunteer work is giving them an opportunity to see what it's like from the inside. Others, including one aspiring actress, are planning careers unrelated to nursing but dependent on their abilities to work well with other people. The program is giving them a chance to find out if they can.

The program requires that the girls work in four-hour shifts, though most of them have opted to work more hours. Some JV's work every day of the week, all day.

They work below all other hospital personnel, many times working beneath both an R.N. and a nurse's aide. Their job is to help wherever they are needed, doing whatever needs to be done.

Tasks include making up and serving meal trays, making beds, providing the patient with water, distributing mail and flowers, doing and xeroxing paperwork in the business office, helping patients get around, answering the intercom, serving refreshments, keeping hospitalized children entertained, and aiding the hospital staff in any capacity they can.

They've acted as receptionist on the information desk, fed patients who could not feed themselves, filed charts, made up dismissal charts, catalogued books for the X ray school, set up films for student school exams, and operated the giftshop.

SURPRISING THE STAFF seems to be what the current group of Junior Volunteers are best at as they continue to take on more and more responsibility for the program. These girls are JV officers, elected by their peers in a surprise election when Lauretta Glass, adult chairman, wasn't looking. They are, from left, Dolores Tercero, secretary; Jill Cunningham, president; and Diane Lopez, vice president.

The girls are acquiring skills, such as being responsible for a schedule and getting along with others, that will aid them in school, in future careers and in day to day living right now.

They are meeting new people, making friends, and building self confidence. Those who were shy before entering the program, have overcome it through their work.

"Stepping in where you're needed wears off on you," said Dolores Tercero, JV. "You start helping others automatically, even off-duty. I would have been too shy to offer assistance to a stranger before, but now if someone needs help, I do it without thinking about it."

Not only do they work without pay, but they invest in their own uniforms, representing a commitment on the part of the JV according to Emily Ward, public relations and volunteer director.

The pink and white uniforms worn by the girls identifies them as "candy strippers" to some of the patients, though the girls themselves prefer being called Junior Volunteers.

"We wanted to get away from the name 'candy strippers' which is what they would be called in similar programs at other hospitals," Ms. Ward said. "We wanted to make our program an original one."

KEEPING PATIENTS HAPPY is the most important challenge JV's meet. Ken Ingham, who was hurt in the recent Howard County Junior Rodeo, smiles despite his discomfort from all the attention he's getting from Tonya Krause, left, and Patty Garner. They can always be counted on to deliver flowers and distribute reading material with a smile.

She described the current group of JV's as "the most highly motivated we've ever had."

She attributed part of the motivation to Lauretta Glass, JV supervisor, who, on her own summer vacation from teaching, has seen each new group of girls through orientation and inservice sessions, and has supervised their work.

"But most of the credit goes to the girls themselves," she said. "They've chosen to be responsible for themselves and for the success of this summer's program. They've surprised all of the hospital staff with their eagerness to take charge."

"Even the doctors are impressed," Ms. Glass added.

One of the first indications that this was no ordinary group of girls was what Ms. Ward and Ms. Glass described as a "surprise election."

"We had devised a system for electing officers among the girls," Ms. Ward said. "We were going to let the girls run for office and have the others sign up for who they wanted at the nurses' station. When we went to tell the girls about it, they announced that they'd already elected their officers."

Elected were Jill Cunningham, president; Diane Lopez, vice president; and Dolores Tercero, secretary. Robin Daniels has since been named scrapbook chairman.

For the first time, the JV program will be continued through the school year. Most of the girls plan to work one afternoon a week after school to promote Community Blood Donor Day and some are talking about working weekends and holidays at the hospital.

The girls will begin this week to call Big Spring blood donors from a computer list of past donors who are now eligible to give again. Blood donations will be made at the hospital's Blood Center each Monday.

Other projects planned include operating the fishpond booth at the Malone-Hogan Hospital and Clinic picnic in September and helping to man the Blood Donor Booth at the County Fair, also in September.

Though the girls receive no monetary compensation, they were still rewarded for their achievements at an awards luncheon and swim party Saturday at the Big Spring Country Club.

Each girl was recognized for her best quality through individual rating by the supervisory personnel and the JV with the highest number of nominations in each category was declared the Outstanding Volunteer.

The judging committee was composed of all ward clerks and other hospital personnel who had overseen the girls' work during the summer. They included Ms. Ward and Ms. Glass; Kathy McDiffitt, third floor ward clerk; Joyce Hare, fourth floor ward clerk; Lucy Griffith, RN, Obstetrics; Anna Brooks, Business Office; Marianne Davidson, X-ray.

"There were a lot of close ties in every category," Ms. Ward said. "And when it came to naming an outstanding volunteer, that was difficult because each of the girls are outstanding. But it was Diane Lopez who came out on top."

Diane, described as a natural leader by both Ms. Ward and Ms. Glass, often fills in for Ms. Glass when she's not available and also trains the other JV's.

Robin Daniels was recognized for adding creativity to the program. Ms. Ward explained that Robin, reluctant to enter the program at first, works on her school paper. When she joined the JV's, she came up with an idea for a scrapbook, the first ever maintained in the program.

Other awards went to Dolores Tercero and Mishell Fuller for dependability; Carrie Little, courtesy; Darlene Battle, initiative; Patty Garner, Elizabeth Cevallos, and Tonya Krause, cooperativeness; Melody Choate, sensitivity; Jennifer Shirey and Janet Bowers, efficiency; and Jill Cunningham and Laura Moore, enthusiasm.

The girls were also recognized for each one's hours of service in the volunteer program. Those who won't be working during the school year will continue building onto their hours next summer. All of the girls say they are coming back and they encourage others to join them.

"It's fun," said Elizabeth Cevallos. "You learn all kinds of things and you make lots of new friends. It's a great way to spend the summer."

MOST MOTIVATED GROUP is the award these girls would have received if a group award had been given at their awards luncheon and swim party Saturday. Seated and kneeling, from left, are Dolores Tercero, Elizabeth Cevallos, Robin Daniels, Diane Lopez, Darlene Battle and Patty Garner. Standing, from left, are Lauretta Glass, JV adult chairman, Jill Cunningham, Mishell Fuller, Melody Choate, Laura Moore, Tonya Krause, and Janet Bowers. The girls are admiring the first scrapbook ever kept by a group of JV's, an idea that earned Robin Daniels an award for creativity. Not pictured are Jennifer Shirey and Carrie Little.

Focus on family living

Obesity blamed on fallacies

By JANET ROGERS, COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT
For years, major efforts in nutrition have focused on assuring a balanced diet with the recommended servings from the basic four food groups.

Now, the major problem in this country is not getting enough nutrients, but consumers eating too many nutrients. As a result, one-fourth of the population is believed to be overweight or obese.

Food fads have been quite rampant because people really don't know the facts about foods and nutrition.

Most people are interested in foods and nutrition, but just don't know enough about the contributions of some food items such as fiber, cholesterol fats, vitamins and minerals. Instead, they resort to various nutrition information which is often based on fallacy.

Nutrition has gained importance on the local, county, state and national levels. More and more legislation is directed toward nutrition, especially as it relates to one of the causes of the major diseases.

Currently, the USDA is conducting a Food Consumption Survey to determine what the major problem areas in nutrition are.

Many nutrition programs — such as Women, Infants and Children's Program, Food Stamp Program and programs for the aged — have been formed to meet the ever-increasing nutritional needs of the population.

By the year 2030, it is projected that older adults will comprise one-fifth of the population. Nutritional problems of the older adult include osteoporosis and anemia.

Diet can improve 75 per cent of the cases of osteoporosis affecting 25 to 30 per cent of women and 15 to 20 per cent of males. Twenty-five per cent of older adults also have anemia due to lack of iron, protein and certain vitamins.

Effective nutrition education must focus on problem areas. Contact the local county extension agent (home economics) for further information concerning questions about foods and nutrition.

Also, start planning meals on a balanced diet based on the four food groups. If overweight is a problem, then plan meals on the lower caloric foods in the four food groups.

Handicrafters plan projects

The Newcomer's Handicraft Club met July 26 in the home of Wilma Grice.

Projects for the coming months were discussed. The club will start on Christmas projects in September.

The next meeting will be at 9:30 a.m. Aug. 9 in the home of Becky Mathews, 600 W. 16th.

Mrs. Mathews will demonstrate basic techniques used in ceramics.

Desirable height

Window sills 30 to 32 inches high are desirable for elderly — bending to open windows is reduced, falls against glass are minimized and they serve as an easy escape in case of fire, says Sue Young, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Notify these when changing name

COLLEGE STATION — Although some women are choosing to keep their own name after marriage, the great majority are following tradition and adopting their husband's name.

If you decide to change your name, remember to notify those listed below, recommends Claudia Kerbel, consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Women should notify their employer, doctor and dentist, insurance company, and organizations they belong to. Names should also be changed on driver's licenses, credit cards, charge accounts, bank accounts, social security cards, voter registration certificates and wills and legal contracts.

Hart-Howell vows exchanged Friday

Wedding vows were exchanged between Tamera Denise Hart and Buford Ladell Howell at an 8 p.m. ceremony, Friday, at the Hillcrest Baptist Church. The Rev. Phillip McClendon, pastor of the church, officiated.

The former Miss Hart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Lee Hart, 2500 Alabama. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Buford Ladell Howell, 1107 Lloyd.

Church decorations included a large arrangement of white ball mums and white gladioli enhanced with green palm trees. Two seven-branched candelabras with white wedding tapers and a kneeling bench completed the scene.

Wedding music was rendered by John Zimmerman, vocalist, of San Angelo and Karen Franke, pianist, also of San Angelo.

The bride chose a formal gown of white imported voile. A deep ruffle, edged with imported Venice and cluny lace, enhanced the bodice and open neckline. A fitted natural waistline emphasized the fullness of the three-tiered skirt which was edged in lace. The tiers dipped in the back to form a chapel-length train.

Ruffled lace edged her large picture hat of voile featuring Venice lace rims. Lace streamers fell from the crown.

She carried a nosegay of yellow daisies and streamers. Her maid of honor was her sister, Debra Leigh Hart. Bridesmaids were Patricia Edna McCraw, Coahoma, and Mary Ellen Gressett, Forsan.

The best man was Randal Moore of Ackerly. Terry Howell, cousin of the groom, and B. L. Howell Sr. served as groomsmen. Ushers were John Randall Hart, brother of the bride, and Gary Howell, cousin of the groom.

A reception feted the couple in the fellowship hall of the church after the ceremony. The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and is currently attending Angelo State University. The groom graduated from high school in Austin and is employed with Frenchy's Lawn Service.

Following a wedding trip to Lake Buchanan, the couple will make their home in San Angelo.

Appliances need care

COLLEGE STATION — Washers and dryers merit special cleaning care, says Linda McCormack, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University system.

When the porcelain enamel in the washing machine basket becomes dull in appearance — when it loses its shininess — a build-up of calcium carbonate is occurring, she explains.

To remedy this situation, try one of the following procedures:

- (1) Scrub the basket with a mild scouring cleanser.
- (2) Use a phosphate detergent in several washings — this will also remove a build-up on clothes.
- (3) Use a package water conditioner.
- (4) Or, use an all purpose heavy duty liquid detergent.

The primary care needed by a dryer is to make sure that the lint screen is always kept free and clear of lint, the specialist says.

Air must flow freely through the dryer in order that it may operate properly — a clogged lint screen will prevent this.

Cleaning the exhaust ducts yearly is also important for free passage of air. If the dryer has an outside flapper, check periodically to make sure it is moving freely and that it is not clogged by leaves.

If nothing but clean clothes are put in the dryer drum, the drum will need no care, Mrs. McCormack points out.

Wipe off the drawer cabinet as needed and wash it off with a liquid detergent if non-phosphate detergent has been splashed on it.

Bahama honeymoon follows Everett-Fitzgerald rite

Pamela Jane Everett and Bobby Dan Fitzgerald exchanged wedding vows Saturday evening in the First Baptist Church, Tyler, Dr. W.M. Shamburger, Tyler, officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Derle W. Everett, Tyler, formerly of Big Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fitzgerald, Tyler.

The couple stood before a brass arch banked with greenery. Also accenting the altar were brass candelabras accented with greenery, a topiary tree of boxwood with white doves and yellow magestics, foot ferns of jade, and a kneeling bench and unity candle.

Mrs. Bill Propes, organist, and Mrs. Bill Huff pianist, provided music. David Rucker was vocalist.

The bride wore a formal-length gown of white satin organza designed in a princess silhouette. The molded bodice was veiled in a deep V yoke of Nottingham lace embroidered in pearls and framed to the outer edge in a wide lace ruffle.

The same treatment reappeared as a shape accent for the yoke which was squared to the back. Long lace sleeves were elaborately embroidered in pearls from the shoulder to the wrist where the length was accented with a narrow lace ruffle.

The Princess A-line skirt was enhanced with appliques of Venice florals centered with pearl clusters and three dimensional flowers. A lace embellishment of snowflaked florals appeared over the skirt front and the attached train which was caught by a Cottillon back.

A deep lace flounce served as a length encasement for the skirt at slipper level and continued to the back of the gown as a chapel-length accent for the attached train.

Complementing the gown was a waltz-length mantilla of bridal illusion overlaid with a fingertip tier framed in Nottingham lace caught to a lace-covered camelot cap.

The bride carried a bouquet made of silk white carnations, yellow rose buds, baby forget-me-nots and baby's breath.

MRS. BOBBY DAN FITZGERALD

Maid of honor was Susan Everett, sister of the bride, Tyler. Bridesmaids were Ruth Irwin, Cindy Fitzgerald, sister of the groom, both of Tyler; Cindy Ashworth, Dallas, Molly Owings, College Station.

Best man was Ben Fitzgerald, father of the groom. Groomsmen were Scott Burch, Tyler; Mike Loftis, Scott O'Neal, and Buster Fitzgerald, brother of the groom, all of Tyler.

Darrell Ellis, Grand Saline, was an usher, as were Dickey Grimes, Kevin Halbert, Gary Arnold, all of Tyler.

Flower girls were Larissa Burns and Allison Burners, Tyler.

Blake Wilson, Dallas, was ring bearer.

Candlelighters were Wendy Fitzgerald and Susie Efturd.

Following a wedding trip to Freeport, Grand Bahama Island and Nassau, Paradise Island, in the Bahamas, the couple will reside in College Station, where they both will attend Texas A&M.

The bride is a 1976 graduate of Robert E. Lee High School and a 1978 graduate of Tyler Junior College. The bridegroom also graduated from Robert E. Lee High School and Tyler Junior College.

A reception honoring the couple was held in the Woman's Building Reception Rooms in Tyler following the ceremony. Centering the bride's table was a silver candelabra of blue carnations, yellow fiji mums, white daisies and baby's breath. Her cake was four tiered decorated with blue roses and yellow forget-me-nots, topped with wedding bells.

The groom's table was set with a chocolate cake. Brass serving appointments were used.

Individual tables were set up around the serving area which was decorated with white wicker baskets filled with daisies in blue and white and yellow. Each table contained a votive candle entwined with blue bows, leather leaves and yellow daisies.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted in the Willow Brook Country Club Friday evening by the groom's parents.

Tasty idea for waffles

If you'd like something really delicious on waffles, pancakes or warm biscuits, try Strawberry Butter. It's made by combining one cup (two sticks) butter with one-half cup of chopped, fresh strawberries and three tablespoons of confectioners' sugar in a blender or food processor with a steel blade. Whip until light and fluffy. This yields one and one-fourth cups and keeps well when refrigerated.

Wrong to have baby for selfish reasons

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 15 and my boyfriend is 18 and we want very much to get married. I asked my father and he said no; not until I am a senior in high school (two years away). I promised him that even if I was married, I'd finish school but he still said no.

My boyfriend and I won't wait that long. We have been talking about having a baby but my dad said he would not help us out one bit if this happens.

What can I do to get my father's approval? We will have the baby if that is the only way. — Callie, Michigan City, Ind.

Callie: Being the father of a teen-age daughter, I can understand how your father feels. If you do decide to get pregnant so you can marry, there is nothing that I can say to help you. But, to bring a child into the world for purely selfish reasons is wrong.

To answer your question honestly, I know of no way to get your father's approval.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ira Methodist Church scene of July 30 rite

Tanya Sue Sterling and Terry LaRoy Shafer exchanged wedding vows the afternoon of July 30 in the Ira Methodist Church. Mike Ezzell officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J.M. Sterling, Vincent Community, and Mr. and Mrs. LaRoy Shafer, Coahoma.

The altar was decorated at either side with white carnations and greenery placed in brass urns on brass columns.

Mrs. Ralph Walker was pianist.

The bride wore an A-line princess dress of white knitted polyester organdy over bridal satin. The gown featured ruffled Chantilly lace which formed the scoop neckline. The cap sleeves were made of lace as was the border of the extended train.

Lace roses were appliqued at intervals on the skirt and the waist. Her head piece was of small silk flowers. She wore a gold necklace belonging to her grandmother Mrs. J.E. Sorrells. It was an engagement gift that belonged to Mrs. Sorrells great-grandmother, Ernestine Stahrenberg, who received it from Christian Sieske, her fiance. She also wore an old bracelet borrowed from the groom's mother, Mrs. Alma Shafer.

The bride carried a nosegay of blue and white flowers tied with tiny white ribbons.

MR. AND MRS. TERRY SHAFER

Tami Shafer, sister of the groom, Coahoma, was maid of honor. Best man was Tony Shafer, brother of the groom, Vincent. Brett Sterling, Vincent, was an usher.

Following a wedding trip to Acapulco, Mexico, the couple will reside on the Vincent Route, Coahoma.

The bride is a graduate of Coahoma High School. She attended Texas Tech and Western Texas College. She is employed by the Forsan Oil Well Service.

The groom graduated from Coahoma High School and attended Texas Tech. He farms with his father in the Vincent Community.

A reception honoring the couple was held in the Martha Ann Club house in Snyder. Pianist was Teresa Sterling, Snyder, cousin of the bride. Registrar was Carolyn Tucker of Meadow, cousin of the bride.

Serving at the bride's table were Mrs. Jimmy Sterling, sister-in-law of the bride, Vincent, Mrs. Mike Barnes, sister of the bride, Ira, and June Sterling, sister of the bride, Lubbock.

Serving at the groom's table were Mrs. Geary Williams, Big Spring, and Mrs. Joe Harding, Vincent, cousins of the groom.

Boy Scouts recognized for camping achievements

Boy Scout Troop No. 187, sponsored by the Church of Latter Day Saints, were cause for a Court of Honor at the church upon their recent return from scout camp.

The court was held to recognize achievers of 13 required awards and two skill awards.

Phillip Harrison and Don Smith were tapped out for the Order of the Arrow. Harrison was one of 12 boys at the camp who went on the Mountain Man Trek, leaving the comforts of camp to test his skills at survival in the woods for a week.

Some 40 miles were covered during the hike to the furthest parts of the camp where they swam in the cold spring water and lived off of wild mint, walnuts and other plantlife to supplement the dehydrated stew they backed on their backs.

They also caught fish and smoked them over campfires. Phillip caught a lizard smoked it, and decided it was not the choicest cut of meat but definitely edible.

Sleeping shelters were made from weeds and branches.

They learned how to identify edible and poisonous plants and how to prepare and purify drinking water.

The difficult trek is not an easy award to earn and not often undertaken by a group of boys.

Two other scouts, John Brown and Jim Bradley, attempted their first long hike, covering 25 miles. They hiked the furthest in the hiking competition.

All of the boys were impressed with the camp which was operated by Rick Wilkins, camp director, and Phil Corbin, scout executive. Slides from Norman Rockwell paintings of scouting from 1925 to present day were shown to the scouts and their parents by Larry Miller, scout executive from Snyder.

Guest speaker was Glen Jones, who told the boys that their future was on much surer ground if each one holds the prize of Eagle Scout. He said they should remember each word of the pledge of allegiance because in many foreign countries young boys are not allowed the privilege of being scouts. Jones is a retired Lt. Col.

of the air force and was a pilot stationed at Webb. He spent several years in Korea and Thailand as an instructor.

The new scoutmaster of Troop No. 187, Randy Rister, was introduced. He awarded the merit badges and ran advancement pins.

Awarded were Jimmy Bradley for astronomy, orienteering, and first aid; John Brown for astronomy, canoeing, first aid, and orienteering; Paul Brown for lifesaving and canoeing; Phillip Harrison for camping, canoeing, citizenship in the nation, fish and wildlife management, swimming, and wilderness survival; Jeff Hurlbut for astronomy, first aid, geology and orienteering; Randy Menges for canoeing, environmental science, geology, horsemanship, lifesaving, orienteering, and sports.

Jimmy Bradley and John Brown were advanced to Scout while Phillip Harrison and Randy Menges earned Life.

Phillip was also presented his "On My Honor" award, which is a church award by Bishop Lloyd Loveless.

Dear Abby

80-Year-Olds Have It Made!

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine is giving her father an 80th birthday party. Her invitation read: "No gifts, please. But do bring an appropriate poem or piece of philosophy to place in a scrapbook to commemorate the occasion."

About four or five years ago, you had a letter in your column from a man who was glad to be 80 because it served as an excuse for everything. I thought it was so good that I cut it out, and now I can't find it. That letter would be ideal for my friend's scrapbook. Please, Abby, try to locate it and run it again. Thank you.

PHOENIX READER

DEAR READER: A sharp-eyed secretary located it. And here it is—with pleasure:

DEAR ABBY: We oldsters sure do get away with a lot just because we've managed to keep breathing longer than most folks. I have just celebrated my 80th birthday and I've got it made.

If you forget someone's name or an appointment or what you said yesterday, just explain that you are 80, and you will be forgiven. If you spill soup on your tie, or forget to shave half your face, or take another man's hat by mistake, or promise to mail a letter and carry it around in your pocket for two weeks, just say, "I'm 80, you know," and nobody will say a thing.

You have a perfect alibi for everything when you're 80. If you act silly, you're in your "second childhood."

Being 80 is much better than being 70. At 70 people are mad at you for everything, but if you make it to 80, you can talk back, argue, disagree and insist on having your own way because everybody thinks you are getting a little soft in the head.

They say that life begins at 40. Not true. If you ask me, life begins at 80!

GOT IT MADE AT 80

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a husband who spends two nights a week in a life-painting class scrutinizing the anatomy of a young, voluptuous, female model, when he knows that his wife is strongly opposed to it?

My husband insists that he is a serious artist, but even in the name of art, a nude woman assuming various seductive positions under soft lights with background music can be a turn-off for most men—even artists.

This is causing a lot of dissension in our home, and I need your opinion on this thorny problem. We are practically newlyweds, having been married only two years.

JUST PLAIN JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: A serious art student is not likely to be turned on by a model; but if your husband is, and he goes directly home after art class, you will be the beneficiary of the fallout, so why complain?

DEAR ABBY: You told some woman whose husband had lost all interest in sex to take him to a doctor.

Well, my husband lost all interest in sex years ago, and he IS a doctor?

Who should I take him to?

HILLSBOROUGH WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Some other doctor. A physician who tries to treat himself has a fool for a patient.

Flotation popular

COLLEGE STATION — Improved quality and more readily available waterbeds add to the popularity of flotation sleeping, says Glenda Moore, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Most people currently buying waterbeds are young — 21 to 35 years old — but other age groups are taking a serious look at flotation sleeping, she continues.

Furniture manufacturers are offering case goods or foundation frames in numerous designs and styles to match almost any bedroom decor — from early American to ultra-modern.

There are even two basic types of waterbeds on the market, the specialist reports.

One type is the water mattress that sits in a liner in a frame.

A newer type is the hybrid waterbed. A hybrid has an insulator pad over the water mattress and is completely covered with conventional type mattress padding.

When shopping for a waterbed, look for specific features and services, she advises.

Select a water mattress and safety liner made of high quality polyvinylchloride.

Look for a support frame preferably made of metal.

The unit should include or allow the use of a heater approved by the Underwriters Laboratory (UL). A heater is a must since the cool water pulls heat from the body.
