CRMWD estimates 12,580 acre-feet

Water demands outlined

AUSTIN — The Colorado River Municipal Water District will need at least 12,580 acre-feet of water by 1980 to meet the water demands of the district's West Texas service area, F. W. Freese, Fort Worth consulting engineer, told the Texas Water Commission here Wednesday.

Freese said he was using 'conservative' projections in testifying for the need of the proposed Stacy Reservoir.

The CRMWD is asking the Texas Water Commission for authority to build the Stacy dam on the Colorado River in Runnels, Concho and Coleman counties.

The Lower Colorado River authority, the City of Austin and four other entities are opposing the project.

Most of Wednesday's testimony centered on Freese's estimate of the district's water requirements for the 1980-2030 period, with opponents verbal points.

Freese said he used Texas Department of Water Resources per capita water-use projections in his study, with that data showing a deficiency of zero in 1980, climbing to 101,430 acre-feet of water in 2030.

He stressed that although the state water agency has high, medium and low projections for per capita municipal use of water, he used the low, "more conservative" series of figures.

A "leveling off" in the per capita use of water occurred in 1974, Freese said. This would be reflected by the water agency's low figures, which he called more "realistic."

LCRA attorney Fred Werkenthin objected to the use of the water agency to substantiate those figures.

The commission, however, allowed Freese to continue, acknowledging that his testimony relating to those figures was to show how he formed his conclusions and not to the validity of the data.

Werkenthin also objected to data included by Freese in his estimates which show the district's Martin County and Ward County well fields dropping from their 1976 combined production of 8,877 acre-feet of water to zero by 2000.

Freese acknowledged he reduced earlier estimates of the remaining supply from the wells after receiving a memo from CRMWD General Manager Owen Ivie that cited high production levels from those fields in recent years.

Freese conceded on questioning by Werkenthin, that he had not made engineering studies of the wells to determine their capacities but rather had relied upon his own experience and the opinion of Ivie in reaching his conclusions.

A map and accompanying data prepared by Freese was introduced showing that while the Colorado River Basin counties above the proposed Stacy Dam site have 40.2 per cent of the basin population, that same area receives 17.3 per cent of total basin runoff.

This, Freese said, would indicate the per capita runoff above the dam site is 0.97 acre-feet per year compared to 3.11 acre-feet per year below that site.

"I can't see the purpose in this," Werkenthin objected.

The map shows "folks in your area have more water per capita than those in West Texas," CRMWD counsel Jim Wilson, Austin, maintained.

The per capita figures are arbitrary according to where the line is drawn between the upper and lower basins, Werkenthin complained.

Wilson countered that anywhere the line is drawn, individuals below that point would still receive more water per capita than those above.

Freese, who also serves as a consulting engineer for San Angelo, volunteered during his testimony that he had previously urged San Angelo to participate as a partner in a reservoir project at the proposed Stacy Reservoir site.

"And I still do," he added.

San Angelo is not a partner in the proposed project, although the district has indicated that negotiations are under way in an attempt to sign up the city as a customer for Stacy water.

The hearing before the three water commission members will recess Thursday afternoon and continue Wednesday, Aug. 16.

County Tax Appraisal Board shuffles wages

By BOB BURTON

Following some salary shuffling, the Howard County Tax Appraisal Board agreed to take an $81,800 budget to its member boards.

The new budget, which is reduced from the original $140,000 proposed budget, includes a staff of five for the Tax Appraiser's office, and does not provide for a relocation of the office away from the courthouse.

The new budget was proposed by Forsan Superintendent J.F. Poyner, who added "although we have cut back everything, we are still over the $75,000 figure the county and junior college said was their maximum."

After discussion, the board agreed that short of cutting the mapper from the budget entirely, there was little else they could do to reduce costs.

On the recommendation of Appraiser Earl Dean, who pointed out that he needed long-term employees to handle the records, $2,500 was taken off the mappers salary and applied to the secretaries salaries to make them comparable to state wages.

Bible Fund drive

nears half time

The 1978 Bible Fund drive, sanctioned by the Howard County Ministerial Alliance for the purpose of maintaining Bible chairs in three county high schools, is approaching the half way mark.

A total of $4,565.64 had been raised at noon today toward a goal of $10,000. Time is becoming critical in the campaign, since school starts later this month.

A total of $746.14 was donated during the 24-hour period ending at noon today. Included among the donations were $114.14 by the Crestview Baptist Church and $100 from Hillcrest Baptist Church.

Checks should be made out to the Bible Fund and forwarded either to Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of the First Baptist Church, or to the Herald. Patrick coordinates the drive on behalf of the alliance.

Competing for Universal Mrs. title

Sherrie Faulkner dances her way to pageant finals

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — Ten women will compete for the title of Universal Mrs., in the Universal World Pageant at the Fontainebleau Hotel here Friday night, one of whom is Mrs. Ben (Sherrie) Faulkner of Big Spring.

The contestants bidding for the first place prize of $1,000, and there were 243 of them originally, are judged on talent, their ability to serve as master of ceremonies of a program and their appearance in an evening gown.

Mrs. Faulkner showed off her considerable talents as a dancer Wednesday afternoon and an informal poll showed she scored very well. Sherrie directs the Faulkner World of Talent in Big Spring.

Winners are also being determined in La Petite, Ideal Miss and Our Little Miss competition.

This is the 16th annual Universal World Pageant. The 1977 event was staged at Niagara Falls, N.M. This is the largest scholarship program of its kind in the world.

The Friday night event will be televised over a regional hookup in the southeastern portion of the United States.

Mrs. Faulkner served as director of the New Mexico Little Miss Pageant for two years before moving to Big Spring. Sherrie is one of two Texas entries who made it to the Friday night finals — the other is from Nacogdoches. Others are from New Jersey, Maryland, Nevada, Kansas, Massachusetts and Oklahoma. Mrs. Kathleen Rose Porter, a

SHERRIE FAULKNER

Massachusetts model, is considered one of the favorites in the competition. President of the pageant is Marge Hannaman.

Friday's program will get under way at 6 p.m., Big Spring time. The Faulkners plan a return to Big Spring Sunday.

Carter approves sale to Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has approved the sale to Russia of a $144 million facility to produce oil drilling equipment, the first such approval since the White House announced new controls on U.S.-Soviet trade.

The approval came on Wednesday in the form of a Commerce Department export license for a $1 million computer-run welding machine, which had held up the entire plant package, according to a Commerce Department official.

The move brought quick criticism from Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who originally had sought to cancel the deal altogether in light of the Soviet conviction of two dissidents — Anatoly Shcharansky and Alexander Ginsburg — last month.

Jackson said he had asked President Carter several days ago to hold off on the export license until his Senate subcommittee could examine whether the Soviets were gaining "certain technological advantages" with the proposed plant.

"The administration made a mistake in going ahead at this time," Jackson said in a telephone interview.

The sale by Dresser Industries of Dallas involves equipment and technology to build a modern plant that would produce bits for oil drilling equipment.

It was the first such approval given by the administration since Carter on July 19 ordered restrictions on the sale of all oil and gas exploration equipment to the Soviet Union. Carter at the time also ordered the cancellation of a multimillion dollar computer sale to the Soviet news agency Tass. The sale has yet to be revived.

Stanley J. Marcuss, the Commerce Department's senior deputy assistant secretary for industry and trade, said in an interview that the State Department had given its final approval earlier in the day and the Commerce Department followed by approving the license.

There reportedly has been a sharp division among members of the administration over the trade restrictions and the Dresser deal in particular. The Commerce Department had pushed to go ahead with the sale, while the State Department reportedly was reluctant and Zbigniew Brzezinski, the president's national security adviser, was opposed, favoring the use of trade for political leverage.

Administration ready to deal with Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration is ready to discuss the establishment of diplomatic relations with Vietnam, but actual talks may be a month off, according to State Department officials.

"It's all a matter of timing," one official said.

The officials, who asked not to be identified, said the response to Vietnamese overtures might occur sooner except that the Carter administration wants to give Congress time to finish work on the 1979 foreign assistance bills.

Until that legislation is cleared, the administration fears any negotiations with Vietnam could prompt the introduction of amendments to tie its hands, just as Congress did on the question of Rhodesian economic sanctions.

With the foreign aid bills presumably cleared by late September, the officials said, high-level talks may begin in New York when Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance attends the opening of the United Nations General Assembly session.

The officials also said that any American eagerness to exchange ambassadors with Hanoi might offend China as an intrusion into its bitter dispute with Vietnam, which has seen the expulsion of thousands of Chinese shopkeepers from Vietnam.

The State Department is weighing the advantages of establishing relations with Vietnam against the possible irritation to relations with Peking such a move could entail.

Hanoi has been signaling loudly in recent weeks that it wants to establish diplomatic relations with the United States.

Thus, Vietnamese officials have been telling interviewers and American citizens that they no longer demand $3 billion in American "war reparations payments" as a condition for establishing diplomatic relations.

The State Department, however, says publicly it is waiting for a formal notice from Hanoi that it has dropped its insistence on reparations.

Besides giving Hanoi leverage in its dealings with Peking, such ties would end the American economic embargo against Vietnam and could mean an infusion of American capital into a country that has been struggling to revive its economy after a generation of war.

While the United States and Vietnam have no formal relations, contacts are maintained through Hanoi's U.N. mission in New York and its embassy in Paris.

Focalpoint

Action / reaction: Citizens patrol legal?

Q. Would a citizen patrol help solve problems in Comanche Trail Park and would it be legal?

A. A citizen patrol would have no real authority, according to Capt. Sherrill Farmer of the city police. However, citizens reporting incidents quickly to law enforcement officers and being willing to stand behind complaints would be a lot of help. A citizen legally can make an arrest when they see a felony committed. However, it might put their life in danger to do so on some occasions.

Meeting of the Big Spring School District Board of Trustees, 5:15 p.m., in the new board room in the high school building.

SATURDAY
The Howard County Library will show four films from 1:30 until 2:30 p.m. They are "Hurry, Hurry"; "The Deer and the Forest"; "The Magic Well," and "The Zoo."

Offbeat: No ordinary proposal

BRECKSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Daniel G. Jenks proposed marriage in the presence of Santa Claus and Cupid, some musicians, relatives and friends, and to make sure they heard it, he used a bullhorn and a giant sign.

Jenks, 23, awakened his bride-to-be, Deborah A. D'Amicone, 23, of Brecksville by broadcasting the proposal and flashing a sign on her lawn saying, "Debbie, will you marry me — finally?"

Jenks of Strongsville said he put together a full-scale production Saturday, starring his sister as Cupid and a friend as Santa. He hired the musicians and invited his parents and six brothers to accompany him to the proposal.

Miss D'Amicone got out of bed and saw from her window the gathering and sign in her yard.

Her answer was "yes."
Jenks said he would have been embarrassed if she had turned him down.

Number in Texas up from last Screwworm cases spreading

MISSION, Texas (AP) — Massive increases in screwworm cases in Arizona and New Mexico apparently are spilling over into West Texas, officials say.

Statistics compiled at the Screwworm Eradication Program show the number of cases in Texas is up from last year, but still comparatively low.

The screwworms, which enter animals through wounds, can cause large-scale livestock loss.

The statistics through July show Arizona reported 1,893 cases — up from 65 for the first seven months of 1977. New Mexico reported 449 cases, up from six cases during a similar period in the previous year.

The Texas chart shows 235 cases through July 1978. That is 200 more than through the same month a year ago, but down considerably from the July 1976 total of 6,772.

A concentrated effort in Texas last year held the 1977 total to 39 cases. The 1976 total was a staggering 29,241.

Dr. Alvis Belcher, area veterinarian for the Texas Animal Health Commission at Brackettville, said there is evidence that "hitchhiking" screwworm flies may be coming into Texas on trucks coming from New Mexico.

A breakdown of the confirmed screwworm cases shows a concentration of cases in West Texas. El Paso County had 27 cases through Aug. 8.

"Of course, Arizona and New Mexico will deny they are shipping their flies to Texas, but when those drivers stop for a cup of coffee at a truck stop, the flies can get on," Belcher said.

Kathy Ellis, information officer for the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, said the Arizona situation is a disaster. Officials here blame a warm winter and some careless ranchers for the vast increase in screwworms in Arizona.

One-third of the 465 July cases studied in Arizona were found in man-made wounds inflicted during routine surgery. In the July cases in New Mexico, 66 percent were discovered in man-made wounds.

Officials here are disheartened at the lack of cooperation among some ranchers.

"It begins to get discouraging when, after hammering away since 1963 at postponing surgery until the danger of attack is the least, nearly half our cases might have been avoided with more consideration given to timing by some of our ranchers," a recent program release said.

Don Nielson, program spokesman, said ranchers should wait until the cooler months to perform the necessary surgery.

Officials here also are alarmed at the number of screwworm cases found recently in dogs. Of 214 cases discovered in June, 19 percent were in dogs.

Ms. Ellis said screwworms can attack any warm-blooded animal. Pets should be periodically checked for small wounds.

Nielson said screwworms were discovered recently in an El Paso child. In the past five years, he said, six cases have been reported in humans, with one fatality.

Two Big Spring girls share honors at rodeo

SNYDER — Sissy Doss and Christi Taylor, both of Big Spring, finished high among entries in the AJRA National Finals Rodeo here Wednesday evening. The show extends through Saturday, after which national champions will be crowned.

Sissy placed third behind Terry Mobbs of Odessa and Gayla Newton of Gail in goat-tying for girls 13-15.

Miss Mobbs was timed in 11.01 seconds, Miss Newton in 11.81 and Miss Doss in 12.02.

In the girls' 12 and under barrel, Shelly Jones of Lamesa placed second behind Paula Keifer of Hamilton. Keifer was clocked in 12.39 and Jones in 12.56.

In barrel racing for girls 12 and under, Christi Taylor, Big Spring, was second to Jamie Watkins, Odessa. Watkins' time was 15.19, Taylor's 15.39.

Talley Griffin, Gail, was second to Shelly White, Lubbock, in barrel racing for girls 13-15. Griffin was timed in 15.07. White's winning time was 14.99.

In ribbon roping for girls 13-15, Sandy Miller, Odessa, was the leader with the time of 10.20 while Sissy Doss was second in 10.47.

Bill Stockton, Big Spring, wound up third in steer wrestling competition, an event won by Darrell Lambert, Abilene, in 3.17. Stockton was clocked in 5.55.

In barrel racing for the older girls, Pepper Echols, Lamesa, wound up third in the time of 15.17. Tammie Mathews of Odessa led with 15.04.

LoVaca gas company to be transferred

HOUSTON (AP) — Coastal States Gas Corp. has set the end of the year as its target date for transferring its troubled LoVaca Gathering Co. to a new and independent company.

Coastal shareholders were told Wednesday they will be summoned for a special meeting before too long to approve the settlement plan that provides for the spin off and the dismissal of $1.6 billion in damage suits customers have filed against LoVaca.

"For Coastal, the settlement means an end to over five years of strife and uncertainty," Harry L. Blomquist Jr., president, told the annual shareholders meeting.

Oscar S. Wyatt Jr., board chairman, said the settlement plan is the best course for Coastal and its security holders.

"In the remaining months of 1978, considerable effort and expense will go into the settlement," he said.

Wyatt said it was too early, however, to predict when the special shareholders meeting will be held.

The Texas Railroad Commission approved the settlement plan July 28.

"Assuming there will be no valid challenge of the commission's orders, we will move as quickly as possible to effect the settlement," Blomquist said.

"If there is no undue delay in obtaining the remaining clearances and approvals, our objective will be to complete the settlement and spin off the new company common stock by the end of this year."

The settlement also must be approved by Coastal's security holders.

LoVaca and certain other smaller subsidiaries with gas utility operations would become part of the new company, Valero Intrastate Transmission.

The stock of the new company will be distributed 13.4 percent to a trust for the benefit of LoVaca's customers and 86.6 percent to the holders of Coastal common stock on a share-for-share basis.

Blomquist said the customer trust also will receive $115 million in preferred stock of the new company and approximately 1.3 million shares of Coastal common stock.

"All securities held by the trust will eventually be sold with the proceeds distributed to settling customers," he said.

Coastal also will be required to conduct a gas search program costing at least $180 million in LoVaca's supply area, dedicate a major portion of the gas developed to be dedicated to LoVaca and sold to the new company at discounted prices.

Police beat Vandals smash windshields

A rash of criminal mischief seemed to break out in Big Spring Wednesday night and Thursday morning as windshields of four vehicles were smashed.

Buddy Claxton, 1806 Marcy, reported that the rear window of his vehicle was broken out by vandals who threw a rock through the window around 4:45 a.m. Thursday. The incident, which caused approximately $150 damage, occurred while the vehicle was parked at the Claxton residence.

Mrs. Ralph Brooks, 2908 Hunters Glenn, reported $150 damage when the back window of her vehicle, parked at her residence, was broken.

Neighbors Billy Hambrick, 1500B Sycamore, and Vicki Daugherty 1500A Sycamore, reported that the windshields of their vehicles were broken, with Hambrick reporting $185 damage to his pickup, and Daugherty $150 damage to her car.

Dick Earhart, 1514 Vine, reported that the windshield of his pickup was also smashed, and that it will require $200 to repair the damage.

Vance McDonald, 705 Ohio, reported that his car, valued at $650, was stolen from the parking lot of the Morning Star Church, 307 Trace, sometime Monday evening.

Car keys and a number of quadrophonic eight-track tapes with a total value of $160 were taken from the glovebox of a car belonging to Jana Hauer, 1800 Winston. The theft apparently occurred between 10:30 a.m. Tuesday and 7:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Another bike belonging to Valerie Henderson, 2008 Scurry, was reported missing from a storage shed behind a business at 1609 Scurry. The theft probably occurred Sunday.

Terry Hansen, 7 Ramsey St., reported that a pocket calculator valued at $40 was taken from a desk drawer in a locked office at the Howard College Computer Center sometime last weekend.

Virginia Sosa, Southland Apt. 2, Bldg. 11, reported that someone entered her residence around 1 p.m. Friday and left with her telephone, valued at $50.

Alton F. Smith, 2701 Oak Forrest, reported that a CB radio valued at $79.95, was taken from his car while it was parked at the Mid Continent Inn sometime after 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Three minor accidents were reported Wednesday, beginning with one at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Furr's parking lot between vehicles driven by Anna Barbee Stephens, 1507 11th, and Lillie Smith Kerr, Box 2102. At 4:45 p.m. Wednesday, vehicles driven by Ina Fryar Kuhlman, Lenora, and Sara Juarez Hernandez, 1003 NW 2nd, collided in the Super Save parking lot on North Gregg.

A vehicle driven by William Arthur Reed Jr., 1503 B. Lincoln, struck a parked vehicle belonging to Francis Cleveland Reece, Wednesday.

Investigation ordered into practices

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gen. Louis H. Wilson, commandant of the Marine Corps, has ordered an investigation of recruiting practices following reports of abuses in the Cleveland area.

Wilson said Wednesday he had directed Lt. Gen. Kenneth McLennan, manpower chief of the Marines, to check the situation in all six of the Corps' districts.

Cleveland newspapers have reported that Marine recruiters falsified school and police records to allow the acceptance of potential recruits. The allegations surfaced after a Marine recruit from Cleveland who attempted suicide charged that recruiters made promises which never were kept.

A Marine general told a news conference Wednesday an investigation of recruiting practices in the Cleveland area showed no evidence of undue pressure to meet quotas.

Brig. Gen. Roy E. Moss, assistant commander of the Marine Recruit Depot at Parris Island, S.C., said the Corps double checks the backgrounds of recruits to control any potentially fraudulent recruiting practices.

Governor taken option

FORT MITCHELL, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll, taking what he claimed was the only option open to him, has called for a special prosecutor to review a grand jury report on the May 1977 fire at the Beverly Hills Supper Club.

Carroll said at a news conference here Wednesday that Attorney General Robert Stephens promised a special prosecutor will be named to review the findings of a special Campbell County grand jury which probed the fire that killed 165 persons at the Southgate, Ky. supper club.

Documentary broadcast

BOSTON (AP) — A documentary about racism in Britain will be broadcast tonight on Public Broadcasting Service's television affiliates, despite attempts by the filmmaker to stop it.

"Blacks Britannica," produced by WGBH-TV as a segment in its PBS "World" series, won a go-ahead ruling Wednesday from U.S. District Court Judge Charles Wyzanski.

Citing the First Amendment guarantee of free speech, the judge denied a motion to prevent the airing sought by David Koff, a Cambridge filmmaker, and Colin Prescod, a participant in the film.

Scaled down version

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Bally Manufacturing Corp. plans to enter the casino gold rush with a scaled-down, 500-room, $45 million hotel casino on its Boardwalk property.

The Chicago-based company, the world's largest slot machine maker, said Wednesday it eventually wants to build a $100 million, 1,500-room luxury casino facility. But faced with a threatened delay in receiving a state environmental permit, Bally said it would open a smaller casino first, by next July.

Resorts International opened the East Coast's first and only legal gambling casino here in May.

Portuguese president asks for new government

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — President Antonio Ramalho Eanes has asked Alfredo Nobre da Costa, an engineer from one of the Salazar dictatorship's great industrial empires, to form Portugal's ninth government since the 1974 revolution. But the angry reaction of the outgoing Socialist prime minister, Mario Soares, clouded Nobre da Costa's chances of lining up a majority in Parliament.

"The president has not lived up to the constitution," said Soares Wednesday night after Eanes informed him he had named Nobre da Costa, a 55-year-old technocrat and political independent, to succeed the Socialist leader.

Asked whether his party would support Nobre da Costa, Soares replied: "Eanes didn't even ask us that."

Soares, who has headed the last two governments, appeared angry because the president did not ask his party, Portugal's largest, to form still another government.

The Socialists hold 102 of the 263 seats in Parliament, 29 short of a majority but enough to prevent Nobre da Costa from getting one if the 40 Communist members also oppose him. Communist party leader Alvaro Cunhal said he did not think Eanes had violated the constitution by naming an independent. But he refused to say whether the Communists would support him.

Soares' first government, a one-party minority cabinet, fell last December. Then he formed a coalition with the conservative Social Democratic Center Party, but the conservatives

Revenue bonds issue endorsed at Lamesa

LAMESA — The city endorsed the amendment to be placed on the ballot in November which will allow cities and counties to issue revenue bonds to create jobs.

This was accomplished at a regular monthly city council meeting Monday evening. The project is called "Jobs for Texans."

In other action, the council passed a resolution appropriating revenue sharing money for purchase of curb and gutter forms, opened bids on fuel, heard the audit report and held an executive session to discuss personnel and legal matters.

The curb and gutter request will take $7,800 from the revenue sharing funds.

The council authorized the city manager to tabulate fuel bids from Hester Oil Company and Flaniken Oil Company and select the best bids for the city.

Deaths

Laura Mary Wylie, 67, died at 6 a.m. Wednesday at a local hospital after a lengthy illness.

Services will be at 4 p.m. today in the Sheppard Chapel of Memories with Royce Clay, minister of the 14th and Main Church of Christ officiating.

Burial will be at Trinity Memorial Park under direction of the Larry D. Sheppard Funeral Home.

Born March 24, 1911 in El Paso, Tex., Mrs. Wylie was a Big Spring resident for the past 17 years.

She was a legal secretary and a member of the Christian Science Society.

Survivors include one cousin, Mrs. Vada Pitzer, Big Spring; and a close friend, Mrs. Marsha Coates.

Palbearers will be Carroll Coates, Carl Ford, Knox Pitzer, Kenneth Pitzer, James Pedigo and David Wylie.

Mary Etta Thorp

LAMESA — Services for Mary Etta Thorp, 95, will be at 10 a.m. Friday in Crestview Baptist Church with the Rev. C. G. Grigg, pastor, officiating. He will be assisted by the Rev. Clarence Howell of Hemphill.

Burial will be in Lamesa Memorial Park under direction of Brannon Funeral Home.

Mrs. Thorp died at 12:45 p.m. Wednesday at Medical Arts Hospital following a brief illness.

The Pike County, Ark., native married George Thorp on Dec. 17, 1904, in Monday. They moved to the Dawson County community of Klondike in 1921 and lived there 30 years. Her husband died on Nov. 19, 1952. Mrs. Thorp was a Baptist.

Bennett Blair

COLORADO CITY — Services for Bennett Blair, 69, of Colorado City, who died Tuesday, were held at 10:30 a.m. today in the First United Methodist Church in Loraine.

The Rev. David Hestand, pastor, officiated with the Rev. W. E. Dugger, minister from Sugarland, assisting. The Rev. Dale Yant, minister from Iredell, also assisted.

Abilene liquor election bounces back in court

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — One of the most hotly debated and confusing issues in this West Texas city is whether voters approved or rejected a local option on legalized liquor sales in a June election.

Wednesday, the subject was bounced back into court by "wet" forces who filed an official protest of the June 17 election.

That election awarded a narrow victory to the wet forces, but the celebration was short-lived. It has been reversed and re-reversed several times since.

Four members of Update 78, a pro-wet organization, filed an 11th-hour challenge Wednesday before 42nd District Judge Don Lane. The protest came at 4 p.m., only an hour before the deadline for lodging a protest of the election. When they filed their protest, the tally was wets-2, drys-2, with the decision still favoring the drys.

The voters of Justice Precinct 1, which includes the city of Abilene and surrounding area, voted for legalized sale of alcohol by a margin of about 100 votes two months ago, but the Taylor County commissioners court in its July 10 canvass refused to count the votes in one box because of residency questions. Their decision favored dry forces.

Later, Lane ordered the commissioners to count all the votes, the disputed box included, a ruling in favor of the wets. But, District Judge Charles D. Mathews of Austin ruled last Friday that Lane's order was null and void, making the area dry, once again.

A hearing will be set on the election protest. The Update 78 members ask that the precinct be formally declared wet and that the commissioners' action in ignoring the one disputed box be voided again.

Mathews' Friday ruling was in response to a request for a restraining order by two Abilene residents who claimed their property values would be irreparably harmed if the sale of alcoholic beverages became legal in the city.

TESCO will ask rate increase at hearings

The Texas Public Utility Commission will begin hearings Aug. 15 in Austin on Texas Electric's request for a 24.4 per cent rate increase.

The $110 million revenue increase is said by TESCO to be needed "so that the company can continue to build new generating plants which use fuels other than natural gas and oil," Bill Marquardt, company president, said in testimony prefiled with the PUC in Austin.

Texas Electric is in the midst of a program to build generating plants fueled by cheaper and more plentiful lignite coal and nuclear power.

"The company's financial condition has deteriorated significantly in the last 12 months and will continue to decline in 1978, even after the full effect of the last rate increase is considered. If we are to provide reliable and economical electric service in the years ahead, this decline must not only be arrested, but our financial condition must be improved," Marquardt added.

In June 1977, Texas Electric filed a request for a 23.6 per cent increase in revenues, which would have lasted the company about

Brass Nail Supper Club expansions announced

The Brass Nail Supper Club is expanding.

This week the new club and banquet room is being completed with the first event inside the new room scheduled to be the American Business Club meeting at noon on Friday.

A wedding rehearsal supper is scheduled in the new facility Friday night and a bridesmaid's luncheon on Saturday as the room on the north of the building gets off to a good start.

Mrs. Beverly Weeks, who is to manage the club room for the Brass Nail owners, Charlie and Joyce Wash,

Weather Texas skies clear, temperatures warm

Isolated, widely scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast across Texas today, but most of the state had clear to partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures.

Early morning showers and thunderstorms dumped light amounts of rainfall early today over portions of Southeast Texas. Some patchy fog was reported in Houston, reducing visibility to about five miles.

Highs today were expected to be mostly in the 90s. Forecasters said highs in West Texas would reach only into the upper 80s.

Elsewhere, skies were clear to partly cloudy and temperatures remained warm. Early morning readings were mostly in the 60s and 70s with extremes ranging from 58 at Marfa to 80 at Austin.

Some early morning readings included 66 at Amarillo, 73 at Wichita Falls, 72 at Texarkana, 73 at Dallas-Fort Worth, 75 at Lufkin, 71 at Houston, 76 at Corpus Christi and Brownsville, 75 at Del Rio, 70 at San Angelo, 68 at El Paso and 66 at Lubbock.

FORECAST

WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy with temperatures slightly below seasonal averages. Highs mid 80s to mid 90s. Lows in the 60s and low 70s.

EXTENDED FORECAST: WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy with widely scattered thunderstorms most sections today and tonight. Partly cloudy Friday with widely scattered thunderstorms southeast.

FARMER HENRY AND HIS COWS — Farmer Henry Mauroy is seen with his cows returning from a pasture of his 123 acre farm south of Brussels, Belgium on Monday, Aug. 7. Despite a large surplus of milk and butter in Western Europe today, farmers like Henry are producing still more milk and butter.

European Common Market bulging with surpluses

BEEZ, Belgium (AP) — With West Europe's stockpiles of surplus milk and butter climbing even higher, farmers like Henri Mauroy are hard at work these days — producing still more milk and still more butter.

The European Common Market countries' warehouses are bulging this summer with 811,000 tons of surplus milk powder — enough to powder over all of Manhattan two inches deep — and 420,000 tons of butter, an all-time record. There are 273,000 tons too much beef, and excess sugar may add up to 1.5 million tons by autumn.

But like many farmers, Mauroy dismisses claims that something is drastically wrong with European agriculture — that the Common Market's agricultural system is wasting money on a price-support system that encourages overproduction and small-farm inefficiency.

In mud-spattered work boots and chomping a cigar, with a beret covering his stubby gray hair, the 54-year-old Mauroy stirs his farm's own cream into a cup of coffee and declares:

"A farmer is a citizen, too, and has a right to live. If you don't have a support policy for agriculture, farming will fall apart and it will just swell the numbers of unemployed."

The Common Market nations — Britain, France, West Germany, Italy,

Conclave will open Aug. 25 to elect Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The conclave of cardinals to elect a successor to Pope Paul VI will open Aug. 25, the Vatican announced today. The site was not immediately announced, but Vatican sources said it will most likely be the Sistine Chapel, as in the past.

The Vatican press office said the conclave will begin at 5 p.m., Aug. 25. That will be 19 days after Pope Paul's death last Sunday following a heart attack at his summer palace in Castel Gandolfo.

Under church law, the conclave must be held between 15 and 20 days after the death of a pope.

The Vatican said 43 cardinals attended today's session of the Congregation of Cardinals, which is running church affairs until a new pontiff is chosen. The congregation is meeting on a daily basis.

Of the 130 cardinals, 115 are eligible to vote in the conclave. Under a decree by Pope Paul, cardinals over age 80 are ineligible.

Dollar value firming up

LONDON (AP) — Dollar values firmed up slightly against European currencies today and dipped slightly against the Japanese yen as gold prices dropped back from record highs.

In Tokyo, the dollar closed at 187.25 yen, down slightly from Wednesday's close of 187.60 yen. Trading was moderate with volume estimated at $412 million, down about $100 million from recent levels.

The five major gold traders in London set the mid-morning price of the metal at $205.85, down from Wednesday's record closing high of $207.25. Wednesday morning's fixing price was a record high $208 in London.

Ireland, Denmark, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg — have long lived with their "butter mountains" and "beef mountains," the surplus produce of the nine nations' joint agricultural policy.

But now, there may finally be enough pressure for substantial change in the way the agricultural system works — largely brought on by Britain and West Germany, which believe the Common Market can no longer afford agricultural extravagance.

Is it just extravagance? More than 9 million people in Common Market countries earn their living from agriculture, and have always made up a powerful voting block. The "common agricultural policy" is part of the bedrock of the Common Market and has two related purposes: to shield the nine countries from imports of cheaper foreign food, and to support the prices European farmers get from their production.

As in the United States, this is a time when the survival of small farms is threatened by rising costs and other economic pressures.

With the supports, the Common Market is able to produce 91 per cent of all grains it consumes, 100 percent of the potatoes, 95 percent of the sugar, 79 percent of the fruit, more than enough milk products, 97 percent of the meat. And agricultural exports totalled $11.8 billion in 1976, compared with total farm production of $106 billion.

Meanwhile, price supports cost the Common Market some $12 billion a year, and in Brussels, good-quality steak costs $4.37 a pound, butter $2.27 a pound, milk 53 cents a quart. In New York, the prices would be $2.50 for the steak, $1.49 for the butter, 49 cents for the milk.

European consumer groups have complained about both the prices and the surpluses while other people in the world starve.

But supporters of the policy, led by Common Market Agriculture Commissioner Finn Gundelach, say support payments are less than four-tenths of one percent of the nine countries' total economic output, that much of the money goes to improve farms, rural villages and living standards, and that some food is distributed to needy nations.

Farmers insist they need the support. Raw materials costs shot up 10 percent last year. "And I don't think the stocks are really as big as they seem," adds Mauroy, whose 123-acre farm 40 miles south of Brussels is large by Belgian standards.

"If there was a war or crisis of some sort, we'd need them."

Mauroy, who has about 30 cows, himself takes no support money in butter or milk, because he sells that part of his production to neighbors. But he also grows about 25 acres of wheat, which he sells to a cooperative at a support price fixed by the Common Market.

Opposition to the farm policy is now growing from Britain, Italy and West Germany, but for different reasons. Italy claims more support should go for crops grown in southern Europe. Britain and West Germany — the country which produces most of the surplus butter — are more industrialized than such nations as France, Ireland and Denmark and thus more willing to take some heat from farmers. They are interested mostly in controlling how much money the policy costs.

Common Market officials say they will probably re-examine the policy this fall, an important step with Spain, Portugal and Greece, all big farm producers, joining the Common Market in the next few years.

From World Council of Churches

Guerrillas receive grants

NEW YORK (AP) — The guerrilla groups fighting against an interim settlement in Rhodesia are getting an $85,000 grant from the World Council of Churches, it was announced today.

The WCC said the grant is part of its program to combat racism and specified the money was to be used only for humanitarian purposes — food, health and social-educational programs.

The grant goes to the "Patriotic Front of Zimbabwe," led by Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo. The leaders have spurned a joint council of blacks and whites created in Rhodesia last spring as an interim government, with provisions for democratic elections and a majority government by year's end.

A key figure in the joint council, Methodist Bishop Abel Muzorewa, a long-time leader in the struggle for black majority rule, has sharply criticized the guerrilla groups, saying they seek to disrupt the settlement plan. Guerrilla efforts recently have been marked by heightened violence.

The WCC action is likely to raise church eyebrows even though the money comes from contributions designated specifically for the anti-racism program, rather than from the general WCC budget provided by member Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations around the world.

A decision on the grant was deferred a year ago at a meeting of the WCC's executive committee, leaving final consideration up to WCC officers.

In making the grant, the WCC said the internal Rhodesian settlement "leaves the illegal white majority regime still in effective control and gives it a veto over real change for the next decade."

"It does not provide, as it purports to do, for one man-one vote because of its retention of preferential voting rights for the whites, and of a parliamentary system based on racialist principles...."

"Since March, the regime has vastly increased the scale of its aggression and oppression against those who oppose the settlement....

The consequent heightened military activity by the Patriotic Front has inevitably added to the tragedy of suffering by the people in Rhodesia."

It is the first grant under the WCC anti-racism program since August 1977 when grants totaling $500,000 were made to 35 groups in 14 countries. Grants have totaled $2.6 million since the program started seven years ago.

Deaf Texans seeking improved communication, understanding

DALLAS (AP) — Some deaf Texans are asking to be heard.

"Deaf people really don't want sympathy. They'd like empathy, but there's a big difference," said Karen Master, president of the Parent Professional Section of the Texas Association of the Deaf.

The Fort Worth woman is mother of a 7-year-old child with several handicaps, including deafness.

"The deaf do not want people to feel sorry for them."

That's the last thing," she said. "They're a very brilliant group of people."

As pride among deaf people grows, so does the desire to make the hearing world aware of their special problems.

Daily activities in a world designed for the hearing can prove to be a trying experience. A word thought to be familiar can turn out to be something quite different.

Mrs. Master said a shining example is a deaf couple's experience when buying a car. The salesman's talk of "interest" was understood to mean it was in their interest to buy the car.

When the bills started coming, a big chunk each month was marked for interest — the financial kind. Exposure to a familiar word in a new context came as a complete surprise to the couple.

"That's a very typical problem that happens with deaf people because their language is very limited," Mrs. Master said. "I would like to see the recognition that we do need special help."

Her parent professional group is working to expand a two-week summer camp program for deaf youngsters. Another project is to help children purchase special items they might need, telephone devices or other materials that are often too costly for the average family.

Mrs. Master becomes most enthusiastic when speaking of the Miss Deaf Texas pageant her organization sponsors.

"Just because they can't express themselves vocally does not mean they don't have it inside. I think what we can do is use the Miss Texas and the pageant to show that we have a lot of talent in the deaf community."

Although none of the Miss Deaf Texas winners in the pageant's four-year history have won the Miss Deaf America title. Mrs. Master said the local pageant is able to give a bigger reward than the national one.

This year's Miss Texas won a $1,000 prize. Miss Deaf America took home $500.

The first runnerup in the 1978 Texas pageant was a tawny 27-year-old with sparkling eyes, Billie Don Jordan.

Miss Jordan, a counselor for deaf adults, is particularly interested in education for deaf persons of all ages. She also wants to establish an arts program for the deaf in Dallas.

Her deaf theater group's first production in Dallas was a performance of "The Diary of Adam and Eve," a Mark Twain play.

"Deafness is an invisible handicap, but it requires visible communication," Miss Jordan said through a sign language interpreter.

She thinks deaf people have many needs, but they all boil down to not being limited in their career and everyday choices.

LOTS OF PIES — Mrs. Corline Henry, left, and Mrs. Margaret Reeves, Gilmore school cafeteria cooks, show some of the $1,200 yam pies that have been baked in Gilmer to be served at San Antonio during the Texas Folklife Festival this weekend. The pies are baked all during the summer then frozen and taken to the festival by Gilmer Yamboree delegation.

Working wife calls for reworking budget

COLLEGE STATION — To make working-wife employment rewarding, think through all reasons for and against working, and consider costs of earning a second income.

Working-wife families are likely to save less and consume more than families with non-working wives, says Linda McCormack, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Families often think the wife's earnings lessen their need to guard against the husband's job loss, the specialist explains.

Primarily, wives join the labor force to raise the family income in order to buy more goods and services, rather than to save for future expenses, indicates a recent study.

The study also shows that working-wife families spend more than non-working-wife families on work related expenditures such as transportation, child care, and lunches at restaurants.

In addition, expenses directly related to the working wife's job — clothing, taxes, transportation to and from work, personal care, paid-for help, convenience foods and appliances — account for forty per cent of her gross earnings when the family consists of adults and older children, the specialist points out.

In homes with preschool children, the addition of child care expenses increases the work expenses to about 50 per cent of the gross income, she adds.

Before deciding upon a second job, consider filling in a worksheet to determine the exact costs of employment, Mrs. McCormack suggests.

If two-wage-earner families are trying to save money, they should make definite plans to do so. Some suggestions include:

Start by reworking the spending plan. Think of savings as a fixed expense in the budget.

Make saving automatic through payroll and bank account deduction plans.

Also, remember the other household jobs that will need care.

Inexpensive projects keep children happy

"Mom, I have nothing to do; I'm bored," whines 5-year-old Kathy or 8-year-old Stephen.

During these Dog Days of August, there's probably not a mother anywhere in the United States who has not heard those plaintive words. But what's a mother to do with children who are tired of sandboxes, swings and swimming?

"Find a project for them," suggests Ann Winfield, consumer adviser with F. W. Woolworth. "With a little planning and imagination and a few dollars worth of supplies, you can turn a bored child into a happy, creative one."

Some of the best projects are quite simple and can produce attractive artwork to decorate the child's room, says Winfield.

For example, a "Memories of Summer" poster can be assembled by starting with a large colored poster board and printing in block letters with a marking pen "AMY'S SUMMER OF 1978." Each child will also need a plastic bottle of white glue (to prevent squabbles) and an assortment of treasures collected over the summer.

The treasures will vary with a child's interest, of course, but a typical sampling might include feathers, sea shells, picture postcards, a banner or memento from a trip to an amusement park, etc. Each child can arrange his or her treasures in a pleasing design. To fill in bare spots, dried grass, leaves, twigs and pressed flowers can be added.

Pebbles, and glue are an unbeatable combination, says the Woolworth adviser. "Provide each child with a shoe box to collect a supply of pebbles. Let the children wash the pebbles, and dry them with paper towels. Then suggest several categories of things they can build: bridges, monsters, buildings, animals and people.

A package of colored pipe cleaners from your local variety store can provide the finishing touches. They can be curled around a pencil to form spirals for a monster's feelers or antennae, for example."

For younger children, ages 3 to 5, a variation of Tom

Sawyer's infamous fence-painting project is always a winner, advises Winfield. The equipment consists of a plastic sandpail and a clean brush. "But instead of filling the pails with paint, you simply fill them with water," she says. The pre-schoolers can then "paint" fences, trees, sidewalks and even their tricycles."

On rainy days a well-stocked costume box can keep children entertained for hours.

TwEEN 12 and 20 — Family peace goal of teen

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D

Dr. Wallace: I'm 12 and have three younger brothers, the youngest being 4.

Our problem is that my parents are constantly fighting and are threatening to get a divorce. I've done everything to get them to stop but nothing works. In fact they yell at me.

What should I do? I'm concerned. — Anita, Windsor, Ontario
Anita: First, don't give up. Continue to try to bring family peace whenever your parents go at it. Talk with each parent alone and share how much you love, want and need them. Then in a tranquil moment, talk to both parents together, again stressing the need for them. Hopefully you will reach them.

Dr. Wallace: I am a 14-year-old girl and I think I'm in love. I've known this guy for almost a year and really like him a lot. We once had something going but he decided he liked someone else. Now he likes me again.

Only one small thing stands between us. He says he forgot to break up with his other girl friend but she lives in another city. My mom doesn't like him but I do. What should I do? — Tina, Ukiah, Calif.

Tina: You are not in love, just thrilled that this guy is showing interest in you again. Until you are convinced he no longer has a girlfriend in another city, forget him — now!

If you are convinced — dump him the first time he starts to stray.

Dr. Wallace: Will you please set my mother straight. I like to study with music playing but my mom says that I am not really studying, but instead listening to music.

My grades are good and I enjoy listening to music, so what's the big deal? — Ramona, York, Pa.
Ramona: If you want to convince Mother with scientific data, tell her that research at Southern Methodist University revealed that students' performance on tests concluded that music does have a psychological effect on morale and does increase confidence.

If that doesn't work tell her many large companies have soothing music piped into their offices. You can bet that this music is not hurting performance.

Keep cool with less cost

Electricity bills are rising along with the thermometer, but the midsummer heat doesn't have to leave you either wilted or broke.

According to the Edison Electric Institute, the average annual electric bill for the 12 months end April 30 was $340.86. Average annual electricity usage was 8,785 hours and the average price per kilowatt hour was 3.88 cents.

Individual costs — and potential savings — vary widely, of course, but certain basics apply no matter where you live or what you do.

Look at your cooling system, for example. According to the electric institute, the average room air conditioner, run for 1,000 hours per year, uses 860 kilowatt hours of electricity. (Comparable averages for central air conditioning systems are unavailable.)

Depending on your location, you may be able to cut down your use of air conditioning. Concentrate family activities in one place whenever possible and keep other areas closed off.

Turn up the thermostat. According to the American Society of Heating, Refrigeration and Air Conditioning Engineers, you can cut your air conditioning bill by 4 percent for every one degree you raise the thermostat setting.

Keep location in mind when installing air conditioning. Direct sunlight falling on a room unit increases its work load. If you have a choice, install the units on the north or shady side of the house. Compressor units of central air conditioning systems also should be located away from the sun and should be kept free of plant growth.

Use a fan when possible. The average window fan uses 200 watts; the air conditioner uses 860. You'll save 660 watts for every hour you use the fan instead of the air conditioner.

Install a whole-house fan in the ceiling of your living area or outside wall of the attic. The fan will draw air through the house from open windows. The movement of the air will keep you cooler. (Turn the air conditioner off when you turn the fan on; otherwise you'll simply draw cold air up and out through the attic.)

No matter what type of cooling system you use, there is no point in making it work harder than it has to. Shade windows from the direct sun to keep temperatures low naturally. The National Bureau of Standards says tests show that blinds and draperies can reduce heat gain through windows by up to 50 percent.

Light colored paints and roofing materials cut the amount of heat absorbed by the home. The Bureau of Standards says a dark-colored exterior surface gets as much as 60 degrees Fahrenheit hotter than the air temperature in direct sunlight. The same surface painted white would be only 20 degrees hotter than the air.

ABWA plans fall tea

The American Business Women's Association met Aug. 2 in the home of Thelma Montgomery for a salad supper.

Guests included Margurite Bryan, Ruth Manual, Ada Gonzales and Barbie Wise.

A vocational talk was given by Jerry Dietz. She works for the Big Spring Independent School business office. Her main duties include paying bills, helping sell football tickets and issuing purchase orders.

The Sept. 5 meeting will be held in conjunction with the fall tea at the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

Expertly made iced tea

Whether it's tea for two or ten, the September 1 Family Circle notes that cooking experts prefer the following method for preparing iced tea: Place two heaping tablespoons (5 bags) loose tea in a quart jar and cover with cold water. Refrigerate for 12 hours, strain and pour over ice. Add sugar or lemon.

The big ones don't get overlooked

By EILEEN McGUIRE
Family News Editor

A full tackle box does not insure that a would-be fisherman or "fisherwoman" will be successful, cautions Vic Keyes, who divides his time between work, family, and fishing for bass.

A five-year member of the Big Spring Bass Club and past member of fishing clubs in other areas, Keyes is known for his unusual method in going after the big ones.

The conventional method, casting, is not as effective to Keyes' way of thinking because it calls for aggressive fish.

"Bass are the most difficult fish to catch now because they are the most sought after," he explained. "The aggressive ones are being genetically weeded out. That's why my method works — I go after the ones no one else does."

"The big ones are lazy and won't chase lures, but they will take the bait when it's dropped right on top of them."

I fish in shallow water and use a long rod with no more than eight feet of line at a time. I drop the lure in the middle of some type of structure — weeds or logs.

The part owner and pharmacist of Carver's Pharmacy pointed out that his method, called "dabbling," is catching on as more fishermen try it and find that it works.

"You used to never see it in tournaments, but now it's becoming more popular."

Luck does not figure into Keyes' approach to the sport. Logic directs which method he uses and where he uses it. He contends that this time of year, Oak Creek, near Sweetwater, is the best spot for bass fishing. In the winter, he frequents the lakes at Colorado City.

He explained that the power plant at Colorado City keeps the water warm and the fish from going deep in cold weather.

Keyes indulges in the sport for relaxation, love of the great outdoors, and, he said, because he's addicted. His addiction has been accepted by his wife who doesn't share his enthusiasm.

"My family doesn't care for fish," he said. "I keep a few on hand for myself and for friends who like them, but most of what I catch, I turn loose."

He does, however, have some of his prize catches mounted on his wall at home. His biggest was an 8 pound, 12 ounce bass.

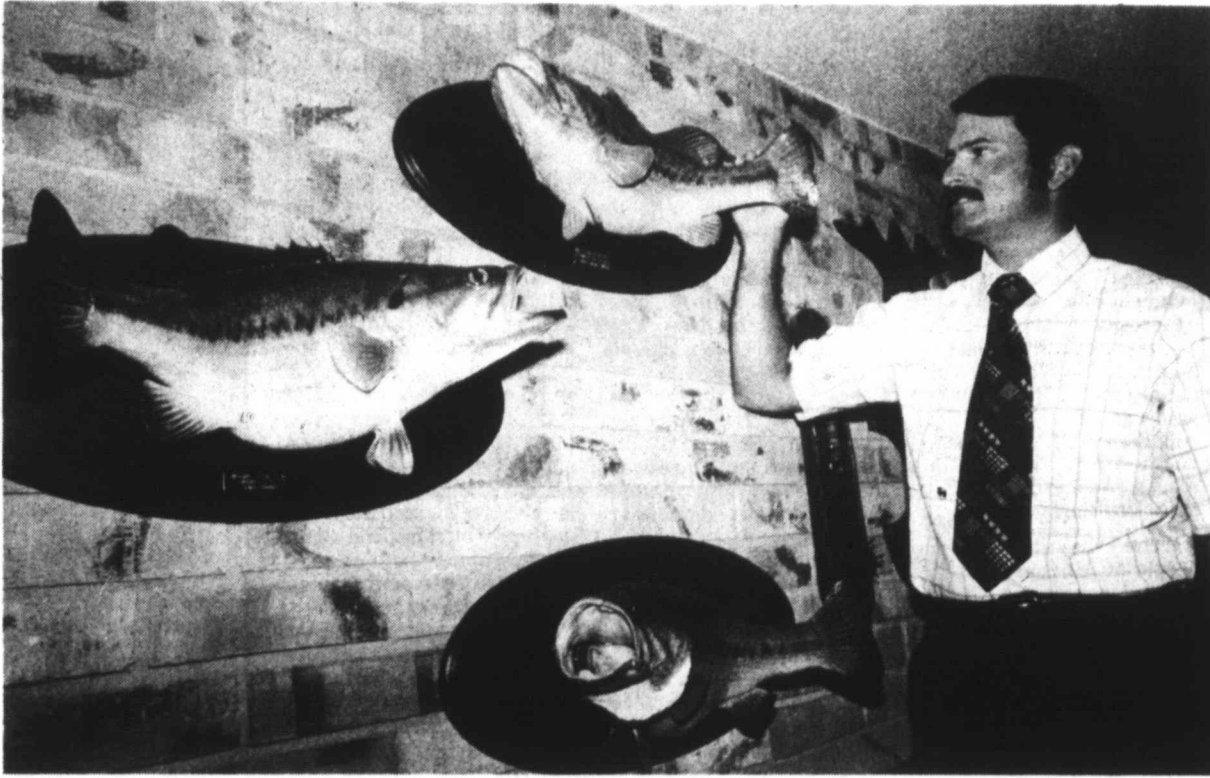

"It's not the largest caught by club members," he said. "Jerry Avery has one larger." Avery's fish is 8 pounds, 13 ounces.

The club adds more enjoyment to the sport because of the competition. The group meets for a business session the first Thursday of the month, then holds a club tournament the second weekend after the meeting.

The sportsman catching the biggest bass has the honor of adding his name to the club trophy and displaying it in his home until the next monthly tournament.

At the end of the year, the trophy is permanently awarded to the catcher of the largest.

In addition to the intra-group tournaments, the club competes with other clubs in tournaments in the spring and fall. The sport is so popular, there's a tournament just about every weekend during those seasons and some during the summer.

BEAT THE REST to the bass is the name of the game played by members of the Big Spring Bass Club. Vic Keyes, shown here with some of his finest catches, attempts to outsmart them all with a different type of fishing method. Any bass fisherman who wants to compete with club members is welcomed to attend their meetings at 7:30 p.m., the first Thursday of each month, at the Kentwood Center.

Belonging to the club keeps each member on his toes, Keyes said, as everyone is trying to outdo each other.

"It's a fun sport," he said. "But the competition is very keen. It kills me when I have to work on the weekend, knowing that the rest of them are out there catching bass."

Asked if club members pool their knowledge to make a better fisherman out of each member, Keyes laughed and said "We lie a lot to each other."

"We do keep a sharp eye on what each other is doing, though. If someone is using a new type of lure that works, the rest of us give it a try."

Keyes' advice to the novice is to fight discouragement.

"A lot of would-be fishermen get started all wrong, especially if their first trip out is with an expert. They watch the expert with his full tackle box and an expensive boat and then they see how apparently effortlessly he catches his fish."

"When the beginner doesn't catch something right away, he goes on to another lure and invests in more equipment thinking that he'll come up with the right combination. He might even buy a boat. When he still doesn't catch anything, he gets discouraged and quits."

"The real difference between the expert with all his equipment and the novice with one or two lures and a pole, is experience. The expert has already found his 'honey hole,' which is the hardest part."

Keyes advises that the beginner arm himself with lots of patience and then stick to one or two lures, no more, until he's mastered them.

"Very few make a great catch on the first few tries. It takes time, patience and experience. Another lure isn't going to make the difference."

Since bass are difficult to catch, even for the expert, Keyes suggests that the beginner might build up some self confidence with easier catches, such as crappies, catfish, carp, and perch.

If the novice tires of "trash" fish, he might graduate to the walleyes, a game fish brought in from the north. According to Keyes, they are fairly abundant at Lake Thomas, but few look for them.

A lot of people, Keyes said, don't consider bass good fish for dinner because they tend to taste bitter.

"Most just don't prepare them right."

His favorite way of preparing them is to get his wife to do it, using cracker crumbs instead of cornmeal.

She says the main thing to guard against is overcooking, which can ruin the best of bass. Here is her recipe for preparing one pound of bass:

Cut filets in small pieces, because the more batter, the better. Beat 1 egg with 1/4 cup milk. Dip fish in mixture, then roll in cracker crumbs. Fry in 1 inch of oil till brown on each side, about 6 to 8 minutes per side.

If deep-frying, immerse fish for only 3 to 4 minutes.

Grandma Is A Good Skate

DEAR ABBY: I just read about that father who broke his nose when he fell off his 14-year-old son's skateboard. I can understand why he would be upset, but I think throwing his son's skateboard in the trash was inexcusable.

I'm a 65-year-old grandmother. Last year I fell off my grandson's skateboard and broke my wrist, but it was my own fault, and I certainly wouldn't punish my grandson for it. It was great fun, and I may even try it again sometime.

I took a lot of ribbing from everyone who knew about it, but I just laughed right along with them.

If you can get in touch with that father, Abby, please tell him for me that a nice move would be to buy his son a brand new skateboard.

SKATEBOARD GRANDMA
LAWRENCEVILLE, ILL.

DEAR GRANDMA: You sound like the kind of grandmas every kid would like to have. However, if all grandmas were to take up skateboarding, they are likely to become a vanishing breed.

DEAR ABBY: I'm going with a wonderful man who wants to marry me. I am a widow, and he's a widower who has lost two wives. We seem so right for each other, but something bothers me.

He still wears two wedding bands. I haven't worn my wedding ring since I started to date after my husband's death. (The sight of it brings back so many memories, and I don't want to live in the past.)

I once told my new love (jokingly) that since he seems so fond of wearing wedding rings, I want a double-ring ceremony, but I don't care to be a part of a "3-ring circus," so to please put his first two rings away.

He seemed to appreciate my little joke, but I notice he is still wearing his rings.

Should I bring it up again? It really bothers me to see those reminders of his former wives.

RING PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: What your "wonderful" prospective husband wears on his fingers is less important than what is in his head and his heart. If he's right for you, and wants to marry you, don't let his jewelry get in the way.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is me. I never know what to say when someone asks me a question that I prefer not to answer. For example, questions of a private family nature, such as, "What happened between your sister and her husband?" Or, "Why doesn't your son marry that girl he's been living with for so long?"

Other questions that aren't all that personal also irritate me, such as, "How much did you pay for those shoes?" I suppose I could say, "It's none of your business," but I don't have the nerve, so I find myself answering a lot of questions I don't really want to answer.

If you have a solution for my problem, please put it in your column because I'm sure I'm not the only one who would like to know.

TONGUE-TIED TERRE HAUTE

DEAR T.T.: When you're asked a question you don't want to answer, don't be defensive or apologetic. Say, "I'd prefer not to answer that."

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that the second child is always better adjusted, emotionally, than the first?

MOTHER OF THREE

DEAR MOTHER: Your question assumes something that is not necessarily true. But in those cases where it is sometimes true, it's probably because the parents have learned something from having raised the first child.

Kitchen yields summer fun for kids

COLLEGE STATION — Knowing how to teach a child about foods and nutrition means kitchen fun for summer, says Mary K. Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist.

Begin with some of the following basic techniques:

- measuring dry or liquid ingredients
- various utensils, pots and pans,
- some simple, basic cookery terms.
- safety tips to prevent accidents,
- the nutritive value of the food prepared, and
- menu planning and serving attractive meals.

Start the lessons with a simple recipe. For example, Raspberry Gelatin Delight is a simple recipe, yet it uses a variety of food preparation techniques, she says.

Mrs. Sweeten is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

In preparing the gelatin, the child will learn about a variety of utensils and measuring equipment and how to boil water for the gelatin. Include kitchen safety by telling the child to turn the pot handle "in" — toward the stove center — to prevent knocking over the hot water.

The child will learn how to recognize signs of gelling and how to beat in the whipped topping with a wire whip or fork, the specialist continues.

Include the basic food group or groups in the lesson. For instance, raspberries are from the fruit group, yogurt from the milk group and gelatin from a miscellaneous group. This dessert is nutritious and provides carbohydrates for quick energy, too.

Also, encourage the child's creativity through menu planning, garnishing the food item and serving the food. In planning a menu, show the child how to use

Raspberry Gelatin Delight several ways — as a salad on a lettuce leaf or as a dessert, Mrs. Sweeten suggests.

Emphasize the importance of garnishing food to make the dish appetizing. For example, save eight raspberries to top the final proud concoction of Raspberry Gelatin Delight:

RASPBERRY GELATIN DELIGHT

1 box raspberry gelatin
1 cup whipped topping
1 cup frozen raspberries
raspberry frozen yogurt

(optional)
Follow directions on gelatin box for making gelatin. Place gelatin in mixing bowl and put in freezer until it starts to gel.

Then, with a wire whip or fork, beat one cup of whipped topping into the gelatin. Add frozen raspberries. Refrigerate four to six hours before serving.

Top with dip of raspberry frozen yogurt before serving. Then garnish with frozen raspberry on top of yogurt. This recipe serves six to eight people.

If raspberries are not available, then use peaches or strawberries with the appropriate gelatin.

Pudding, custards are double duty desserts

Desserts are notorious for being overly sweet, high in calories and low in nutrition. Puddings and custards are known as double duty desserts. While satisfying your sweet tooth, these desserts provide many nutrients often missing in the diet.

Dairy Council, Inc. uses the Four Food Group system to help people make wise food choices. The DCI trained nutritionists place custards and puddings in the milk group because large amounts of calcium, riboflavin and protein are present.

While one cup of custard is equal to one serving from this group, your family could also receive the nutritional benefits from other ingredients. Some healthy ingredients are: eggs, peanut butter (meat group); raisins, fruit sauces (vegetables-fruits group); and rice, bread (breads-cereals group).

COOKING TIPS
Pasteurized or nonfat dry milk does not need to be scalded, but scalding does shorten the cooking time.

Cool your scalded milk before adding it to eggs to prevent curdling. Or, add small quantities of hot milk to eggs to bring them to the same temperature.

Increasing the proportion of egg yolks to egg whites will result in a tenderer custard while more whites will stiffen the dessert.

Bake custards in individual cups set in one inch of hot, not boiling water.

Use thick, glazed, ceramic cups to shorten the baking time. When a knife, inserted near the edge, comes out clean, you can remove the custard. The heat in the thick cups will complete the cooking process.

To test for doneness in puddings, insert a knife near the center. If it comes out clean, your pudding is done.

FAVORITE BREAD PUDDING

1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 1/4 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups cubed, day-old bread
1/2 cup seedless raisins
nutmeg

Combine eggs, milk, vanilla, cinnamon, and salt; stir in bread cubes. Stir in brown sugar and raisins. Dust with nutmeg. Pour mixture into baking dish or individual custard cups; place in larger shallow pan on oven rack; pour hot water to depth of one inch. Bake at 350 degrees for 45-60 minutes for casserole or 20-30 minute for cups. Serves 6.

Hearts heal well

at home

Home is where the heart is. And, in the case of heart patients, notes the September 1 Family Circle, at home may be where they should be.

The magazine points out that a study by Dr. J. Frederick McNeer and other Duke University Medical Center investigators shows that of 67 heart attack patients in the hospital who suffered no complications during their first to fourth day of recovery, 33 were discharged in one week and the remainder after 9 to 13 days.

There were no serious complications in either group within three weeks after discharge and no deaths after six months.

Litton ... the leader in microwaves

LITTON is changing the way America cooks and LITTON has changed the way microwaves are built, with many new innovations.

IF YOU HAVE A QUESTION ON MICROWAVES ... LITTON HAS THE ANSWER!

Can you cook a complete meal in a microwave? With the LITTON exclusive Meal-In-One, you can cook one, two, three foods ... even a complete meal ALL AT ONE TIME.

Is it possible to use metal in a microwave? LITTON even uses a metal shelf in the Meal-In-One microwave.

Does a microwave brown meat? Most meats begin browning in 8 to 10 minutes of microwave cooking. For quick searing and grilling of steaks use the LITTON Micro-Browner.

Can I set the time and temperature on a microwave as I do on a conventional range? YES. All you need to do is adjust the Vari-Cook or the Vari-Temp and you cook by time and temperature as you always have, and at any speed.

Is continuous rotation of food necessary while cooking? No. LITTON's unique stirrer system eliminates this need.

Do LITTON microwaves cost more? LITTON, the most advanced in microwaves, costs no more than an ordinary microwave.

4TH ANNUAL LITTON MICROWAVE SALE STARTING FRIDAY, AUGUST 18.

Albany residents start relief fund

ALBANY, Texas (AP) — A 5½-ton airlift of food and clothing from Albany, N.Y., has added to the stockpile of donated goods this flood-stricken town of 2,000 has received since a 20-foot wall of water stormed through six days ago.

Officials said they are overwhelmed by the generosity of donors.

"It's like Christmas in August," Shackelford County Judge Budd Fincher said as the New York donations were unloaded from two flatbed trucks Wednesday evening at the courthouse square.

"The thoughts of the people of Albany, N.Y., are with you, and our hearts go out to all of you who have suffered," was the message to the town from Mayor Erastus Corning of Albany, N.Y.

With the sympathy note and the tons of food and clothing came a check for $300.

Albany, Texas, Mayor

Richard Fox said the help from New York left everyone "surprised" and "very touched." Fox said most of the food and clothing will be given to needy families in the northwest part of town, the area hit hardest by the flood.

"Your donations will be greatly appreciated," he told Bryan Jackson, news director of the New York radio station which collected the supplies.

The mayor said the town has enough clothes, through donations from several other Texas cities, but can always use money and canned goods. He said bed linens are also needed.

Fox said many of the supplies will be sent to other Texas towns, such as Haskell and Graham, which also suffered flood damage.

Jackson read about the Albany flood Friday on the WOKO news wire and he and other station employees began promoting a city-wide collection of food, clothing and money.

Through the radio appeals, New Yorkers donated enough to require an airlift, which the Department of Defense agreed to finance. By Tuesday, the station began turning away donations, and Jackson and several other WOKO staffers were airborne Wednesday with their gift in a New York National Guard C-130.

Dyess personnel arranged for Department of Public Safety-escorted convoys to take newsmen from the two states and Air Force personnel from Abilene to Albany.

The convoy of newsmen beat the trucks by an hour and got a tour of the $16 million flood damage from Shackelford County extension agent Lawrence Winkler.

Other Albany volunteers pitched in to help Dyess officers unload the flatbed trucks arrived, a moving van with relief supplies pulled into town from Harker Heights, a suburb of Killeen, Texas. Harker Heights policeman Jerry Springer said the truck contained clothing and about 1,000 pounds of canned goods. The town also donated $250 for flood victims.

Before adding the recent checks into the Albany emergency fund, the mayor said the fund had reached $4,000, with another $4,565.25 coming from a relief fund started in Abilene by the Abilene Reporter-News.

"You can't believe it," Fox said of the donations Albany has received. "We've already had eight trucks from this area (Texas)."

By Wednesday afternoon, the American Legion hall was almost full of supplies. Across the street, an old ice house, being preserved as a historical site, was spilling over with clothing. The grade school gymnasium in Albany and at least one church are full of donated items. Fox said the First Christian Church may be used to store additional supplies.

Thousands viewing Pope's body at Basilica's altar

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The body of Pope Paul VI was removed from its coffin during the night and put on a low catafalque in front of the great altar of St. Peter's Basilica to be viewed by thousands filing past it.

Vatican officials hurried the mourners 12 abreast past the bier. But at noon, 4½ hours after the great bronze doors of St. Peter's were opened, there was a 20-minute wait in line, and the crowd was growing.

Although the body had been embalmed, deterioration appeared to be setting in. The facial features were deformed, and the skin had a brownish tinge.

Four ventilating fans were installed around the catafalque.

The plain oak coffin was brought to Christendom's largest church early Wednesday evening from the papal summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, 13 miles south of Rome, where the 80-year-old leader of the world's Roman Catholics died Sunday night after a heart attack.

The coffin was closed before it left Castel Gandolfo, and Vatican officials said earlier that it would remain sealed. But cardinals and other prelates arriving from abroad asked that it be opened so they could pay homage.

Lines began forming at dawn in St. Peter's Square, commencing two days of public homage before the funeral and burial Saturday. The great bronze doors of the basilica opened at 7:30 a.m., and the crowd walked silently along a corridor of barricades.

Four Swiss guards,

More and more cardinals were arriving in Rome for the funeral Saturday, the nine-day mourning period afterward, and their conclave to elect Pope Paul's successor which will begin sometime during the week of Aug. 20.

More than 4,500 police and security men lined the route and guarded the motorcade against attacks from the left-wing terrorists who have plagued Italy for months. It was the biggest concentration of security forces since the kidnapping and murder of former Premier Aldo Moro.

As helicopters buzzed overhead, the 11-car motorcade stopped briefly at the Basilica of St. John Lateran, the pope's cathedral as bishop of Rome where Pope Paul prayed three months ago for his murdered friend Moro. Cardinal Ugo Poletti, the vicar of Rome, read the prayers for the dead before a crowd of several thousand, and the motorcade got under way again.

Cloth-draped barricades held back a one-third-capacity crowd of 35,000 as Vatican ushers in formal dress bore the undraped coffin through St. Peter's Square. A group of cardinals and several hundred other prelates holding burning candles chanted the litany for the dead as the body was placed before the altar where Pope Paul and his predecessors had said Mass.

Mismanagement allegations to be investigated soon

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Allegations of mismanagement and favoritism in the State Insurance Department will be explored next week by the House General Investigating Committee.

Two former Houston insurance agents are expected to contend they lost their licenses because the department let them take the blame for a scheme hatched by Gulf Atlantic Life Insurance Co.

"New evidence has come to light," said Daniel Hurlbut, one of the agents whose licenses were revoked in 1975.

Hurlbut and A.C. Hovater went to the committee this spring after failing to win reinstatement.

"We want to develop the full facts of the complaint and Mr. Hovater have made. . . . If the information is detrimental to you, we are going to be just as harsh on you as on the insurance board," committee chairman DeWitt Hale, D-Corpus Christi, told Hurlbut Wednesday.

The committee set a hearing for Monday at 2 p.m. and planned to continue it Tuesday and Wednesday.

Committee members also planned a hearing later this month into complaints about the Corpus Christi State School, where a resident recently drowned in a shower.

Hale said committee investigators had searched complaint files at the Richmond State School and planned to delve into those of the school.

Hale said an Austin grand jury that investigated the insurance department last summer believed "there were administrative deficiencies . . . that would warrant this committee probing further."

State Insurance Board files show Hurlbut and Hovater sold health insurance policies to some 260 groups, including the Pasadena Independent School District, in the name of Nation-Wide Health Insurance Trust.

Former board lawyer Hector DeLeon reported that evidence showed Nation-Wide "was an unexecuted document," meaning it didn't exist.

Hurlbut and Hovater told the insurance board they were the fall guys for Gulf

Atlantic. They claimed Nation-Wide was established by Gulf.

Further up the line, they said, was Nationwide Corp., parent of Gulf Atlantic.

The alleged Gulf Atlantic set them up in Houston, paid for their telephone, secretary and rent and, furnished them an office.

But insurance department investigators said they could find no evidence of any connection between Gulf Atlantic and Nation-Wide, other than the Hurlbut and Hovater accusations.

Gulf Atlantic since has merged with West Coast Life and closed its Texas home office.

Board files contain a notarized statement by Hurlbut saying several department officials had "been guilty of gross incompetence and possible malfeasance of office in their dealings with" Nationwide Corp., Gulf Atlantic, West Coast Life and Nation-Wide Health Insurance Trust.

Officials of the board say they have never found any proof of the allegations.

Poll reveals inflation, taxes, energy big issues

Texans believe that inflation, taxes and energy are the most crucial issues facing America, a recently issued statewide poll shows.

The poll was designed by nationally known pollster Pat Caddell of Washington, D.C., and John Henson of Austin for the campaign staff of Senate challenger Bob Krueger in his race against John Tower.

Seventy-seven per cent of the 600 respondents polled rated inflation as a very important problem; 65 per cent termed high taxes a very important issue; and energy was considered as a very important problem by 60 per cent.

The poll also showed that 59.2 per cent of the people opposed the Panama Canal treaties although they have been ratified. Both Krueger and Tower opposed the treaties.

The poll, drawn from a computer-selected sample of 600 persons, also showed that a majority of the Texans believe politicians are good people.

In response to the question, "It may be fashionable to criticize politicians, but most of them are good people," 60.9 per cent agreed.

But they were more pessimistic about the future with 75.7 per cent saying they feel the "worst of economic times" are still ahead of us.

A substantial number also indicated they feel it is time to cut back on federal spending, even for programs "which help people who need it." Forty-nine per cent favor a cutback while 33.8 said more should be spent.

In questions specifically addressing Tower's status, the poll showed that 35.7 per cent of the people still have questions as to why Tower had to remove himself from the Senate Ethics Committee while it was investigating Koreagate. Tower, who under questioning by the Ethics Committee admitted accepting jewelry from Tongsun Park, had removed himself because his friendship with Park was scrutinized by the committee.

Sixty-six per cent of the respondents said they did not know enough about Tower to say anything good or bad.

Three New York City newspapers shut down

NEW YORK (AP) — The city's three major newspapers are shut down today, their publishers unifying in a tough stance against printing pressmen who struck in a dispute over proposed staff cuts.

The two morning papers, the Daily News and the Times, and the afternoon Post, ceased publication late Wednesday when negotiations with 1,550 pressmen failed to win relief from what the publishers see as overstaffing.

The three papers have a combined circulation of about 3.25 million.

The dailies carried through with a threat made two weeks ago that they would post new work rules at a specific time if no settlement was reached to replace a contract that expired March 30. The rules institute an attrition program to reduce pressroom workers by as much as 50 percent over several years. The pressmen warned that such unilateral action would result in an immediate strike. The newspapers countered that they would not publish if the pressmen struck.

About 6 p.m. Wednesday, the publishers posted the rules and members of the Printing Pressmen's Union

No. 2 walked out. Kenneth Moffett, deputy director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said he expected no further negotiations today.

The pressmen threw picket lines around the News and Times and ordered similar action today at the Post. Seven other craft unions and most members of the Newspaper Guild then working immediately closed ranks and left the buildings. Delivery trucks returned to their garages and truck loading bays were sealed with city police stationed as guards.

The strike is the latest in a rash of labor disputes which in the last 16 years have killed half a dozen New York City dailies. The longest and costliest resulted from a strike by Typographers Union No. 6 which started Dec. 8, 1962, and lasted 114 days.

"One of the most excessive costs has been in our pressroom," W.H. James, publisher and president of the News, said as the Thursday issue of his paper sat silently on the idle presses.

Martin Fischbein, speaking for Post publisher Rupert Murdoch, said, "What we are seeking to do is not revolutionary." He said the attrition program the papers want to institute "has been done successfully in more than 160 cities across the nation." The program would include job guarantees for most full-time pressmen and wage increases over a three-year period.

The union views the attrition program as a threat to the livelihood of part-time employees who work when needed for peak periods and fill in for regular pressmen absent from work. The part-time workers have votes in the union.

The Times and News — but not the Post — had offered an initial $23 increase to the pressmen's weekly base pay of $350.18 on the day shift and $361.41 nights.

All three papers offered $23 more weekly for the second year and $22 more in the final year.

Uganda is off limits to producer

NEW YORK (AP) — Exotic wildlife has lured Marlin Perkins to the world's most remote regions to film documentaries for "Mutual of Omaha's Wild Kingdom." But Perkins says not even the rarest of animal treasures could induce him to return to Uganda while Idi Amin is in power.

Uganda is off limits, the 73-year-old TV host said, because reptiles and mammals apparently fare as poorly as humans under the notorious dictator-producer. "Wild Kingdom," a syndicated weekly program about animals in their native habitat, begins its 17th season in September on a network of 225 stations. Air times vary from city to city.

Perkins, in a telephone interview from his St. Louis home, said his sources reported that Amin and cronies got "roaring drunk" at a big bash recently and shot crocodiles in a park from a lodge overlooking the Nile River.

They also killed an elephant named Lucy who used to beg handouts from lodge guests on the southside porch, he said. "Of course, what happens to people is worse," Perkins said in reference to reported executions in Uganda.

Perkins insisted he did not intend to return to what "used to be a beautiful country" as long as Amin is in power.

China, however, is another story. Perkins said he has been seeking permission to go there for years.

"We've made application to film the giant pandas," he said. "For four or five years they (the Chinese) didn't even answer our letters. We've tried political angles — nothing works."

Over the years, "Wild Kingdom" has covered subjects ranging from the cheetahs of Tanzania's Serengeti Plains to the sandhill cranes in Nebraska.

"We tell the true biological story," Perkins said.

Perkins, who's been bitten three times by poisonous snakes and often is seen neck-to-neck with wild beasts, said experience has enabled him "to read the attitude of an animal by looking at it."

"Just because an animal has the ability to attack, it doesn't mean he's going to do it," he explained.

Through the TV show, Perkins has publicized animals threatened with extinction around the globe. Off camera, his pet project is wolves, which much to the zoologist's chagrin, recently were removed from this country's endangered species list.

Perkins argued that wolves have "the highest social organization of any North American animal. They mate for life; they are not lustful as most people think they are; they kill only to eat."

He and his wife, Carol, are involved in the work of The Wolf Sanctuary at Washington University in St. Louis to ensure that the population of 1,000 wolves left in the states outside Alaska doesn't dwindle further.

"ALL MINE FROM THE START" — Actor Van Johnson is shown with actress June Allyson during the taping of television's "The Love Boat" in Los Angeles Wednesday. The two play a married couple for the Thanksgiving episode. Allyson noted "Usually, I didn't get him until the end of the picture. This time, he's all mine from the start."

Children's story hurting restaurant chain

BROCKTON, Mass. (AP) — Almost 80 years after "Little Black Sambo" first lulled children to sleep, the tale about a boy who watched tigers turn to butter is tripping up a national restaurant chain.

Pickets, political debates, outraged petition drives and threats of court suits have popped up since the chain decided to branch into the Northeast. And all because of its name — Sambo's.

"Sambo" is offensive, the opponents say, because the word was once an insulting nickname for black people.

When the California-based string of restaurants began putting up Sambo's signs in New England, protests followed. Now, one town is holding up its permit while officials consider banning the name. Another has the town lawyer looking into the same thing.

Because of the opposition, the chain has changed the names of 13 of its restaurants to "Jolly Tiger." But Sambo's does not like to do that because these restaurants cannot take advantage of Sambo's national advertising, says the chain's spokesman, David Severson.

The chain, though aware that some find "Sambo's" insensitive, says it has a legal right to keep its name and plans to do so.

Opponents say the issue is more than a matter of nursery stories. They worry that Sambo's signs will stir up racial trouble.

"What if black people opened a restaurant and put a sign in the window that said 'kike' ... Wouldn't the Jewish community be upset?" asked Rudy Santos of Brockton, a leader of the opposition.

Severson said Sambo's has been operating for 21 years,

(AP WIREPHOTO)

EXPANSION PLANS SLOWED — The expansion plans of a national restaurant chain "Sambo's" is being tripped up by the bedtime tale "Little Black Sambo".

but the name brouhaha is new. "We're expanding all over the country, and the Northeast is where the objections have come from," he said.

Sambo's was started in Santa Barbara, Calif., has restaurants in 47 states and plans to open its 1,000th next month. Severson says the name does not come from the children's story but was a combination of the names of the founders, Sam Battistone and Newell Bohnett.

However, the chain capitalized on the coincidence. Signs at its older restaurants show a little black boy and a tiger. Murals from the book decorate the walls.

Now, however, Severson says that tigers are the only vestige of the story left in the new restaurants' decor.

The anti-Sambo's movement has gained intensity in New York and New England, but it seems to be strongest in southeastern Massachusetts, a mostly white area of mill cities, fishing ports, wealthy suburbs and trendy ocean resorts.

In Brockton, a mill city south of Boston, the License Commission is withholding the restaurant's license while the city solicitor decides whether the commission can order Sambo's to change its name.

"When we issue a license, and we see that the name is going to cause problems, it is our business to look into it," said Matthew A. Vogterchian, one member of the commission.

At a meeting packed with Sambo's foes, the City Council voted 8-1 to ask the commission to ban the Sambo's name.

If the restaurant eventually wins city approval, Santos says, the opponents will try to get a court order to block it.

On Cape Cod, selectmen in Hyannis also have asked the town lawyer to see what can legally be done to get the name changed.

In Raynham, a town with four black families, the new Sambo's was picketed when it opened this summer. And nearby in Rockland, people are organizing a petition drive against a Sambo's planned there.

In two other communities, North Dartmouth and Fall River, Sambo's agreed to rename the restaurants "Jolly Tiger."

One Urban League branch requested the state attorney general to prohibit use of the word on restaurant signs.

"Using the word 'Sambo' is tantamount to yelling fire in a crowded theater," said Emergency N. Jackson, president of the Urban League of Eastern Massachusetts. "It stirs up such hostilities."

Jorge Lobaton of Brockton's Association San Martin de Porres said people of mixed black and Indian blood are called "Sambo" in the Caribbean. "Right now," he said, "that word is unknown to most people. But I assume that if we have Sambo's restaurants, it's going to be a common term to use against black people."

Most of the critics of "Little Black Sambo" said they had not read the story since childhood and could not exactly remember its plot.

The 1,000-word tale, written by Englishwoman

Helen Bannerman in 1899, is about Sambo, a young boy in India. Tigers snatch his new clothes, argue over them, race around a tree and turn into butter. Sambo's mother makes pancakes with the butter, and the lad eats them.

"We want to see that very negative story wiped off the face of the Earth," said the Urban League's Jackson.

Tennis anymore?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Don Richard is assistant District Attorney for the 118th Judicial District.)

He is an avid sports fan, and he digests a daily diet of newspaper sports sections, magazine articles and television broadcasts dealing with that wide world.

His guest columnist has appeared before in this space, and most sports enthusiasts will no doubt agree with what he has to say about the ever-increasing mishmash that is today's professional tennis scene.)

By DON RICHARD
Guest Columnist

Is it just me or has professional tennis become impossible to follow? Except for Wimbledon and a handful of other major tennis championships it is impossible to keep up with this sport. For example, the list of men's tournaments include the Grand Prix Circuit, World Championship Tennis, World Team Tennis, in addition to all the invitational tournaments which are sponsored each year. There are tournaments for grass and those for clay in addition to the myriad synthetic surfaces.

Last week was fairly typical of the current state of tennis. The Grand Prix tour played simultaneously in New Orleans, La., and South Orange, N.J., while a $175,000 "International" tournament was being held in North Conway, N.H. In addition, members of World Team Tennis flailed away at one another all week.

The "names" at New Orleans included Roscoe Tanner, Dick Stockton and Erik Van Dillen (you see how rapidly the quality diminishes under multiple scheduling). In South Orange they paid "big bucks" to see Guillermo Vilas, John McEnroe and (get this) fourth-seeded Balazs Farczy of Hungary. Finally, in North Conway, the "seeds" included Eddie Dibbs, John Alexander and Cliff Drysdale.

Under these conditions the promoters (and fans) must hold their breaths through the early rounds and hope that the "names" are not eliminated by the no-names before they meet.

et al. spread this

The second incident shows how play can be affected by uncontrolled scheduling. An invitational tournament was being played in Forest Hills, N.Y., in which the finalists were Vitas Gerulaitis and Ilie Nastase. On the eve of the finals, World Team Tennis had scheduled its All-Star Match and the men's singles pairing was (you guessed it) Gerulaitis vs. Nastase.

So, to placate all the sponsors and satisfy none of the fans, the contestants left N.Y. after their semifinal victories and flew to Las Vegas. There they played the one set men's singles match (that's the WTT format) and flew back to N.Y. on the "red-eye special." Later that day they staggered through the finals at Forest Hills.

It is significant that this debacle took place at the former home of the U.S. Open. The promoters felt that this famous facility deserved to host a major tournament once again. It will be interesting to see if they have the heart to try again next year.

I usually resent one who criticizes an existing system without offering an alternative, however, I can offer none here. My despair stems from the belief that the top players will not submit themselves to the jurisdiction of any governing body. (In 1977 Jimmy Connors made $922,000 and Guillermo Vilas $800,000 by playing when and where they liked.) These prodigal off-spring of Rod Laver and Ken Rosewall will only be slowed by the natural attrition that comes from pitiful tournaments which cause problems for promoters, sponsors and networks.

As for the fan, while he waits for the natural law of supply and demand to return a semblance of reason to this great sport, he can look forward to those few annual events when all the "big kids" show up for something other than money.

No 'Watch the Birdie', just flush the Rangers

DETROIT (AP) — Many of the 30,515 fans at Tiger Stadium Tuesday night came to see Mark Fidrych, but they left talking about Kip Young and Tim Corcoran.

Young, who was given the start when Fidrych was unable to make his long-awaited return because of recurring shoulder miseries, picked up his fourth straight complete game victory and Corcoran slammed his first homer of the season, an eighth-inning grand slam, as the Detroit Tigers beat the Texas Rangers 5-2.

Corcoran had won several spring training exhibition games with home runs the last two seasons, but became the last regular outfielder in the American League to connect for the circuit when he deposited a Jim Umberger curve ball in the upper deck in right field with the bases loaded in the eighth inning.

Umberger, 4-7, replaced Texas starter Fergie Jenkins at the start of the inning and Rusty Staub greeted him with a double. Jason Thompson singled and Steve Kemp walked to load the bases. Milt May fanned but Corcoran connected on a two-strike pitch.

"With two strikes on me I choked up on the bat a couple inches because I just wanted to make contact," Corcoran said. "He hung a curve ball and I got all of it."

Corcoran has been platooned with Mickey Stanley or John Wockenfuss most of the season, and he thought Manager Ralph Houk might pinch hit for him with the lefthanded Umberger on the mound.

"I didn't think Umberger was pitching that well tonight and I knew if I pulled Corky they would bring in a righthander," Houk said.

"I used to get frustrated when I hit the ball well, but wasn't getting the hits," Corcoran said, "but (Tiger batting coach) Gates Brown has been working with me to keep my confidence up."

McEnroe sees the light, Connors, other seeds bud

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Nineteen-year-old John McEnroe says he is playing in the 68th U.S. Open Clay Courts tennis championships, with a new attitude designed to make him more popular with fans who have booed his antics around the world.

"I regret a lot of things I've done," said the 1978 national collegiate champion who joined the pro ranks this summer. "Before, I always thought I should question a linesman's call when I felt it was wrong. But now I realize they (the fans) don't want that."

McEnroe, a semifinalist at Wimbledon as an amateur in 1977, made the comments Wednesday after advancing to the third round in the men's portion of the $210,000 tournament.

McEnroe, of Douglaston, N.Y., seeded sixth, defeated Victor Amaya 5-7, 6-2, 6-3 on a day all seeded players in the men's tournament advanced.

Top-seeded Jimmy Connors, No. 2 Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, No. 3 Manuel Orantes of Spain and No. 4 Corrado Barazzutti of Italy, each scored straight set victories along with No. 7 Jose Higueras of Spain, No. 10

Jamie Filloj of Chile and No. 16 Phil Dent of Australia.

No. 11 Adriano Panatta of Italy and No. 12 seed Balazs Taroczy of Hungary both advanced in three sets.

In the women's bracket, seven of the eight quarter-final spots were filled by sixth-seeded Jeanne Evert, eighth-seeded Jeanne DuVal, Argentina's Viviana Gonzalez, Kate Latham, 17-year-old Caroline Stoll, Val Ziegenfuss and Dana Gilbert.

Gilbert, who was listed 138th in recent rankings by the Women's Tennis Association, upset second-seeded Virginia Ruzici, the 1978 French Open champion from Romania, 6-3, 6-4.

"I'm going to do the best I can to change the fans' attitude toward me," said McEnroe. "I told myself that last week after the crowd really got against me in South Orange (N.J.)."

An observer remarked that McEnroe's antics had earned him a comparison with Romania's Ilie Nastase, who is currently under suspension by the Association of Tennis Professionals for his actions.

"I've always admired Nastase, but not for his behavior. I want to be known for my tennis ability, not for my behavior."

"I'm an emotional individual. It's not going to be easy fighting them, but I realize temperamental outbursts are distracting from my game. It doesn't make sense for me to do that," he said.

Yank soap opera reruns

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Martin is still annoyed with Reggie Jackson, but all of a sudden, less than two weeks after their latest kiss-and-make-up session, the New York Yankees appear annoyed with Billy Martin.

And just when it seemed that all was going to be peaceful and serene until Martin reassumes the managerial reins in 1980, the turmoil and controversy that has turned Yankee Stadium into a second Bronx Zoo resurfaced all over again.

The latest furor ignited Wednesday when Martin, with the knowledge of club President Al Rosen, summoned a handful of hand-picked writers to a question-and-answer luncheon session.

And over the spaghetti, ravioli and steak pizzaiola, Martin said that anger over Jackson's actions upon his return from a five-day suspension prompted him to resign as manager of the Yankees and to utter his ill-advised "liar" comments about Jackson and owner George Steinbrenner.

At the same time, Martin again said he was sorry that he described Steinbrenner as a "convicted liar" but he refused to back down from his statement that Jackson is a "born liar."

"I'll have to ask my parents if I was born a liar," Jackson said wearily Wednesday night, "but other than that on ommt I've been saying all year — I have no comment and I have nothing bad to say about anybody."

However, the controversial slugger was summoned to Steinbrenner's office less than an hour before Wednesday night's game with Milwaukee.

"He did the talking and I listened," Jackson said. "I respect George Steinbrenner and that's all I'm gonna say. I know what I said and what I feel but what he told me he told me in confidence."

Reached at his New York hotel early today, Steinbrenner said his talk with Jackson was "strictly for encouragement because he was in a 2-for-23 slump and the team needs and depends on him."

All Steinbrenner would say about Martin's luncheon remarks was that they "didn't accomplish a darn thing."

Asked if the Jackson situation was the reason he resigned, Martin replied:

"Basically, that's true — that and a slip of the tongue, saying something I didn't want to say and didn't think would be printed."

Mahaffey still on 'Cloud PGA'

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — John Mahaffey, still on "Cloud Nine" after shooting from virtual oblivion to pro golf stardom, made his debut as the new PGA champion today in the opening round of the $225,000 Pleasant Valley Classic.

"It's still a little hard for me to believe, but it's a great feeling," Mahaffey said after checking into Pleasant Valley fresh from winning the 50th PGA tournament Sunday at Oakmont.

"The hardest thing to believe is how your life can change in just four days," he said. "My travel plans have changed drastically. Instead of taking a couple of months vacation next winter, I think my wife and I are going to be sort of world travelers."

Mahaffey, 29, just missed winning the U.S. Open in 1975 and 1976. Then, beset by injuries and personal problems which included a divorce, his career dipped to an all-time low. He considered quitting golf last year but decided to stick with it, even though he had to join the "rabbits" and qualify for tournaments.

Suddenly, last weekend at Oakmont, he put everything together once again. Cheered on by his new wife, Suzie, he rallied from seven strokes back to defeat Tom Watson and Jerry Pate in a two-hole playoff for the coveted PGA championship.

The $50,000 boosted his 1977 earnings to $91,754. The victory also spelled the end of qualifying play. He now has a 10-year exemption from qualifying for PGA events.

"It's great to win a major tournament, especially the way I did it," Mahaffey said. "I feel I won it outright. It's something I've always wanted. I just think that if you win a major tournament you'll never be forgotten."

"I had a lot of people, including players, pulling for me the last couple of years," he said. "They stuck with me through thick and thin. They're true friends, not fair weather friends."

Pokes will employ starters vs Denver

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys will go with their starting lineup most of the way in their battle Saturday in Denver in a rematch of Super Bowl XII, Coach Tom Landry says.

"Some of the regulars will probably play as much as three quarters. I think the national television and the 'Orange Crush' crowd make this a little different from most pre-season games," Landry said.

Landry said he probably will go with quarterback Roger Staubach the first half and alternate among Danny White, Glenn Carano and possibly rookie Ken Smith the last half.

Although he said veterans will play much of the game in the effort to beat Denver, Landry added that the new players will see action. With 71 players in camp, plus holdout kicker E'ren Herrera also on the roster, Landry must cut the roster by 12 players next Tuesday to meet NFL 60-player limits.

"This makes Saturday's game extremely important for a lot of our guys, especially the rookies and young players who are battling for back-up jobs," Landry said.

"Even though I'm going to give the starters a lot of work, we'll need to look at those younger players as much as possible during the Denver game."

Skip Butler, the No. 2 all-time scorer for the Houston Oilers in the six seasons he spent there, was in the Cowboys camp Wednesday for a tryout as a kicker.

Baseball wants more $$$

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

Major league baseball, riding the crest of a successful season, is making a pitch for more exposure and more dollars from the television networks.

The current deal with NBC and ABC does not run out until the end of next season but baseball, striking while the iron is hot, has already launched negotiations.

Armed with figures showing increased attendance and higher ratings, baseball would like nothing better than to get all three networks involved and add more prime time exposure in the bargain.

NBC's Saturday afternoon game is averaging a 7.4 rating — reflecting percentage of TV homes — and 29 share — percentage of sets in use — this season. That is up from 6.7 and 27 last year at this time, an increase of about 10 percent. ABC's Monday night game is up from a 12.6 rating and 23 share to 12.8 and 24, an increase of about 2 percent.

But all is not rosy for the National Pastime. Baseball, during the regular season, has not been a success in prime time. Despite ABC's increased ratings on Monday nights, baseball still draws a considerably smaller audience than football and Monday night remains one of the two nights the network consistently loses to entertainment programming on the other networks.

This has prompted speculation that ABC is considering dropping Monday night baseball. Tom Villante, baseball's executive director of broadcasting, insists that ABC "very definitely wants to continue with the Monday night game." ABC officials are playing it close to the vest, saying it would not be proper to talk about such a thing while negotiations are under way.

But a reliable network source says that if Fred Silverman had stayed at ABC, the network would have dropped baseball. Silverman is now president of NBC and has kept his views on baseball to himself of late. Villante, asked if it is possible there will be no prime time network baseball in 1980, said: "It's a possibility but it ain't gonna happen."

Baseball's strongest cards are, of course, the World Series, playoffs and All-Star Game. But none of the networks feels it is worth carrying prime time games for three years just to get one shot at the crown jewels. And at least two of them doubt the wisdom of carrying prime time for a shot at the biggies once every two years.

BIRD'S EYE VIEW — Detroit Tigers' injured pitcher, Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, takes photographs from a front row seat in Tiger Stadium Wednesday night during the game with the Texas Rangers. Fidrych, who was to have pitched Wednesday night, but Tuesday the Tigers announced he would be out for the remainder of the season recovering from an injured shoulder. Detroit won the game, 5-2.

CONNORS LUNGE — Top seeded Jimmy Connors lunges for a short lob from Heinz Gunthardt of Switzerland in the second round of the U.S. Open Clay Court tennis championship in Indianapolis Wednesday. Connors returned the shot and downed a stubborn Gunthardt, 6-4, 6-4, in search of his third title.

NFL lottery in NY

NEW YORK (AP) — A new lottery based on points scored in professional football games will be operated by New York State during this fall's National Football League season, and the NFL is none too happy about it.

The lottery, unveiled Wednesday by John Quinn, director of the state lottery, will be a form of numbers game in which winning is determined by the points scored each week by the state's three teams — the New York Giants and Jets and the Buffalo Bills — plus the two teams that meet in the Monday night game.

The lottery tickets, going on sale beginning Aug. 22, will cost $1 each. There are three prize categories: $20, $200 and $10,000. A winner of a $10,000 top prize also gets a free football weekend: air fare, hotel, meals and two tickets to a major college football bowl game.

Quinn said he had hoped to get support or endorsement for the new game from the NFL, but the league's executive director, Don Weiss, said pro football disassociates itself from this lottery as it does from all other forms of sports betting.

Quinn regretted that the NFL would not give its blessing and pointed out that the lottery was not based on who wins or loses or makes a point spread.

But, Weiss said, "Even though it's not direct betting, we don't like it. Our main concern, as with any proposal like this, is the public's perception of our association with it. We made a very strong disclaimer to the lottery people prior to their coming out with it. We flatly disassociate ourselves from it."

The football lottery will run for 16 weeks, the length of the NFL season. Each ticket has five spots to be rubbed off, revealing a number beneath.

LL state tournament

WACO, Texas (AP) — Four teams of Little Leaguers, including two from Houston, are still alive in the 1978 State Little League Tournament after quarterfinal action here Wednesday night.

North Houston National took a slim 1-0 win over Laredo while Houston Braves Bayou whipped the Crockett All-Stars 8-3 to set up an all-Houston semifinal match.

Lake Jackson blanked Fort Worth Westside 7-0 to advance with Gregory-Portland, winners over Waco Northwestern by a 5-3 count.

Play continues Thursday at 8 p.m. as North Houston National meets Houston Braves Bayou and Lake Jackson faces Gregory-Portland in semi-final games.

Mahaffey helped Kimball

MANHASSET, N.Y. (AP) — John Mahaffey may not realize it, but he did a great deal to boost the confidence of Judy Kimball, a veteran of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, by capturing the PGA Championship last Sunday.

The 40-year-old Kimball, who turned pro in 1961, has won only four titles since then and has not finished first since winning the LPGA four-ball crown in 1971.

"It has been extremely disappointing," said Kimball Wednesday following her round in the Pro-Am of the $100,000 tourney that starts Thursday morning at the North Hills Country Club.

"I can't put my finger on it. Technically, I am playing better now than ever. What I have to do is make a mental comeback. I think I can still win. If I didn't, I'd quit.

"Winning these days isn't all that easy. I don't know if the younger players around now are any better now than when I started but there are more of them. There are definitely more potential winners."

Kimball, 30th on the LPGA's all-time list of money winners with $158,858, then spoke about Mahaffey on the second extra hole in a three-way playoff last Sunday.

"Mahaffey's win proved that it can be done," said the University of Kansas graduate. "He had all kinds of problems and he made a comeback."

"It was a real credit to him and very inspiring for me. One thing about golf, it can be great and it can be cruel. Jack Nicklaus found how cruel it can be when he didn't make the cut in the PGA."

Laver attributes long life to beer

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Celebrating his 40th birthday, Rod Laver wondered why all the commotion? But after twice winning the Grand Slam of Tennis, the Rockhampton Rocket wants another title, the World Team Tennis crown.

Celebrating the milestone Wednesday at his Newport Beach home, Laver attributed his youthfulness to "all this beer drinking and clean living I have."

"Otherwise," he said in a telephone interview, "it's competing. I think that's half the importance, being able to continue on. It's the desire. It's wanting to win."

The 5-foot-8 Australian is the coach of the San Diego Friars and, quite unexpectedly, San Diego captured the WTT Western Division championship. One wonders how long Laver will want to go on battling.

He has won Wimbledon three times, twice won the Grand Slam that includes the U.S. Open, Wimbledon, French and Australian championships, and was the first player to earn $1 million on the courts.

Thursday night, the Friars take on Indiana with a shot at the record of winning 16 consecutive sets, established earlier this season by Boston. San Diego has won 12 straight, whipping New York and Phoenix and taking the final two sets against Anaheim.

"It'll be a birthday gift for the Rocket," said the Friars Ross Case.

But Laver wants the championship.

"I think it's a nice feeling that we might go a fair distance because when we started off they looked at us and everyone was surprised because we were winning more than our share," said Laver.

"I think it's quite an achievement that we are here in the playoffs."

ROD LAVER
Grand Old Man

Laver likes the one-set format of team tennis. After 20 years at the summit in tennis, he no longer has stamina or motivation to play five-set matches against youngsters like Bjorn Borg and Jimmy Connors.

He's still formidable, however, and recently won his singles match against Vitas Gerulaitis in New York. He still toys with the idea of playing a tournament.

It's a little early to speculate, he says, whether he might play the Grand Masters circuit for ancients over 45 against old foes like Pancho Gonzales, Rex Hartwig and Frank Sedgman. "But we've been contemplating trying to organize a 35 and over type of tournament. At this point, though, I think the World Team Tennis circuit is quite solid enough for me."

Henny Youngman! Take my pennant... please!

By the Associated Press

Some comedy writer must have gotten hold of the script for the American League East Division pennant race. A few changes here and there, and — voila — the Boston Red Sox are playing like the Boston Sweat Sox, there's trouble brewing for Milwaukee and the Baltimore Orioles are becoming the official bird of the State of Shock.

What's going on here?

—The first-place Red Sox, who dropped a 5-1 decision to the Cleveland Indians Wednesday night, have lost 13 of their last 21.

—The Brewers, in second for all but one day since June 28, gave up five fifth-inning runs to New York and suffered an 8-7 defeat — "My worst game in 57 years," was how Milwaukee Manager George Bamberger put it.

—First-inning homers by Don Money and Larry Hise represented the first offense in 26 innings for the Brewers, who have lost their last four and 11 of the last 14.

—The Orioles managed to lose 2-0 to Kansas City although pitcher Scott McGregor retired the first 20 Royals batters. The setback was their fifth in a row and the eighth in 11 games.

Magically, with all this going on, the Red Sox' lead is 7½ games — a margin that would seem comfortable if unseem gremlins weren't so intent on fouling things up and if the Yankees weren't in the same division.

The Yankees, of course, are used to chaos and seem to thrive in spite of it. Rudyard Kipling once wrote, "If you can keep your head while all about you are losing their and blaming it on you...then you'll be a man, my son."

That seems to be what's going on. The victory over Milwaukee, the Yankees' fourth in a row and sixth in the last nine, sent them into second place for the first time since July 6. Under new manager Bob Lemon they are a modest 11-7, but with everything else going on, New York has stayed in the thick of a battle that may well get more intense as days pass.

In other American League games Wednesday, the Toronto Blue Jays blanked the Chicago White Sox 8-0, the Detroit Tigers slammed the Texas Rangers 5-2 and the Seattle Mariners downed the Minnesota Twins 4-1.

Rick Wise, acquired by Cleveland from Boston in the Dennis Eckersley deal, beat his former mrd time the third time this season on the strength of Andre Thornton's 22nd home run and two hits by Gary Alexander, including an RBI double in the sixth.

A run-scoring double by Ted Cox, another former Bostonian in the Eckersley deal, an inning later handed Bill Lee — trying a fifth time for his 11th victory — his eighth loss in 18 decisions.

"Cleveland always plays us tough," said Boston catcher Carlton Fisk. "Maybe because half their club is from the Red Sox."

Through trades and other transactions, the Indians also have acquired Bernie Carbo, catcher Bo Diaz and pitcher Mike Paxton.

Cecil Cooper's ninth-inning home run, Milwaukee's third of the game, seemed to be icing on the cake: If given the Brewers a 7-3 lead.

Glue-fingered Astros nip butter-fingered Giants

By the Associated Press

A major league fielding record was tied in Candlestick Park. But — surprise — it wasn't the San Francisco Giants who did it.

Usually a team with a lot on the ball defensively, the Giants had a hard time holding onto it and as a result, dropped a 6-5 decision to the Houston Astros Wednesday.

The Giants committed a balk and two errors in the first inning, helping the Astros take a 4-0 lead. Then the National League West leaders made a costly four-base error in the seventh inning. Altogether, the Giants committed four errors.

By contrast, the Astros' fielding was of championship caliber — particularly that by winning pitcher Mark Lemongello. He tied a major league fielding record for pitchers by making five putouts.

The right-hander tied the putout record shared by many by covering first base once in each of the first five innings and taking throws from first baseman Bob Watson.

"All I know is that I was running back and forth to first base a lot," said Lemongello. "I should have had a sixth putout, on Jim Dwyer's hit in the third. I got over there in time, but when I took the throw I missed the bag."

In the other NL games, the Cincinnati Reds beat the Atlanta Braves 10-0; the Los Angeles Dodgers stopped the San Diego Padres 3-0; the Philadelphia Phillies whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3; the Chicago Cubs defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4 and the New York Mets turned back the Montreal Expos 10-3.

After hitting the leadoff batter in the ninth, Lemongello was replaced by Ken Forsch, who got his fifth save. Lemongello, 8-10, had given up eight hits.

San Francisco starter Jim Barr balked to send Terry

But Mickey Rivers cracked a two-run shot to whittle New York's deficit to two runs. Then Chris Chambliss mashed a monstrous drive to center with two men on that missed being a game-winning homer only because Gorman Thomas leaped above the fence to keep the ball in play and hold Chambliss to a double.

But it only forestalled a gloomy end for the Brewers. Reggie Jackson, batting with the bases loaded, was hit with a pitch to force in the tying run and when catcher Buck Martinez mishandled Lou Piniella's squeeze bunt on the next pitch, Chambliss stormed in from third to win it.

Royals 2, Orioles 0

McGregor needed just 66 pitches to retire the first 20 Kansas City batters. A perfect game was just seven outs away.

"My heart was beating like crazy," said the left-hander, who lost everything moments later, starting when the Orioles' Ken Singleton appeared to misplay Hal McRae's opposite-field double off the right field wall.

Al Cowens followed with a check-swing single and scored on singles by Amos Otis and Johnathan.

Larry Gura, 10-2, pitched a four-hitter and got the final out of his fifth straight victory when Eddie Murray was thrown out trying to steal third in the ninth.

Blue Jays 8, White Sox 0

Rico Carty cracked three doubles — the first of which opened a six-run Toronto second inning — and powered the Blue Jays past the White Sox. Carty's bat backed a three-hitter by Jesse Jefferson.

Nets' buyers get extension

CHICAGO (AP) — A group that has a tentative agreement to buy the New Jersey Nets has been given another 16 days to finalize the deal. And a major investor thinks it can be done.

"If I wasn't optimistic I would be a fool" to have worked so hard on the transaction, Alan N. Cohen said Wednesday after a four-hour meeting of the National Basketball Association's Board of Governors.

His sentiments were echoed by NBA Commissioner Lawrence O'Brien, who said he had a reputation as a pessimist, then added, "even in that context I have a reasonable degree of optimism."

By unanimous vote, the governors authorized O'Brien and an NBA advisory committee to fold the financially troubled Nets if the deal outlined Wednesday is not wrapped up by 12:01 a.m. EDT Aug. 26.

O'Brien said that in the meantime the league would not draw up a new schedule excluding the Nets. He also said the deadline would not be extended.

At their annual summer meeting June 14, the governors gave Nets' principal owner Roy Boe until July 26 to straighten out the franchise's financial situation or face league sanctions.

But on July 26, an agreement in principle to sell the team to a group including Cohen and New Jersey businessmen Joseph and Daniel Taub for an undisclosed amount was announced. A special meeting was set for Wednesday, at which the governors had hoped to give final approval to the deal.

But they found several matters unresolved and told O'Brien and the advisory committee to approve the deal by the new deadline or fold the franchise. NBA counsel David Stern said the governors will not have to meet again on the matter.

The Nets' debts have been estimated to be as high as $19 million, including costs of entering the NBA from the American Basketball Association two years ago and territorial indemnities to the New York Knicks.

Cohen, former president of the Madison Square Garden Corp., said his group has some important loose ends to tie up, including a lease to play in a proposed Meadowlands arena in 1980.

Cautchen sidelined

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Steve Cautchen, the first jockey to earn more than $6 million in purses and the rider of 1978 Triple Crown winner Affirmed, has a slight shoulder separation that may jeopardize his ride in the upcoming Travers Stakes.

Cautchen was injured in a spill at Saratoga Wednesday when taken to Saratoga Hospital where X-rays revealed no definite fracture. Dr. William Newey, the hospital's chief of radiology, said. The 18-year-old jockey was then released and taken to his family's summer residence in Saratoga.

"Steve Cautchen suffered a slight separation of the right sterno-clavicular joint," Dr. Newey said. "No definite fracture has been determined at this time. Steve has been released from the hospital and no further report will be issued on his condition until Thursday at 9 a.m. (EDT)."

Cautchen and his mount, Cute As A Button, went down at the quarter mile pole as the pair were battling Frank's Ego for the lead in the third race. The 3-year-old filly, who set the pace in the six-furlong race eventually won by Judging Man, suffered a compound fracture of the cannon bone and had to be destroyed.

Dr. Newey would not speculate on how long the injury would sideline the young jockey. Cautchen was scheduled to ride Affirmed in the Travers Stakes Aug. 19 at Saratoga where Affirmed will renew his rivalry with Alydar, the horse that finished second in each of the Triple Crown races.

SMILING SPINKS — Heavyweight champion Leon Spinks flashes a big smile for the press, as he arrived in New Orleans Wednesday night for a visit to promote his rematch with Muhammad Ali in the Superdome Sept. 15.

Doesn't resemble any of Carter's plans

House schedules debate on tax proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven months after President Carter called for a $25 billion tax cut to boost the economy, the House is scheduling debate on three options — none closely resembling the administration proposal.

But any of the three bills, if chosen by the House and eventually enacted, could save middle-income families up to hundreds of dollars on income taxes. That would at least ease the bite of higher

Social Security taxes next year.

And the Senate is likely to sweeten whatever package the House adopts.

Acting after months of wrangling and stalemate among House tax writers, the Rules Committee on Wednesday cleared for consideration:

—A $16.3 billion tax cut bill approved by the Ways and Means Committee with partisan support, but distasteful to Carter mainly because of its reduction of capital gains taxes.

—An amendment to substitute an $18.1 billion tax cut package worked out with Treasury Department assistance. It would be slightly tougher on capital gains and direct other tax savings more toward middle and lower incomes. The administration has accepted this compromise but without visible enthusiasm.

—The official Republican Party measure calling for a one-third slash over three years in income tax rates. The committee, however, gave the GOP only a relatively limited opportunity to offer this bill. It would be allowed as a substitute at the end of debate on the main bill and amendments.

The committee, which sets procedures for full House actions, also allowed consideration of a measure that would simply continue the tax cuts voted two years ago and scheduled to expire this year, without any further reductions.

The committee also proposed that the House might vote on one other change in the Ways and Means bill, deleting a provision that would adjust capital gains taxes after 1980 to allow for inflation.

It denied, by an 8-7 vote, an opportunity sought by liberal Democrats to add to whatever tax package is approved a partial offset to the higher Social Security taxes going into effect next year. Without the provision, they contended, the contemplated income tax cuts could be less than the payroll tax increases, meaning that many families would end up with heavier tax burdens in 1979 than in 1978.

But whatever the House adopts will have little resemblance to the elaborate tax package Carter sent to Capitol Hill early this year.

The administration retreated step by step from its goal of a $25 billion reduction and changes in the tax code in the name of reform. In the face of congressional opposition and long periods of stalemate in the tax-writing committee, Carter finally agreed to the $18.1 billion compromise.

The bill Congress is expected finally to enact before adjourning, however, could come closer to the administration's totals, if not to its reform recommendations.

Wholesale prices at standstill?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices may have stopped climbing or even have dropped slightly in July, says a private economist whose projections are generally close to government figures.

The prediction comes from Donald Ratajczak, of Georgia State University, who bases his reports on nationwide surveys.

A decline in wholesale prices, or even a slower increase, should encourage consumers, because those prices usually are reflected later in retail stores.

The government's wholesale price report for July was set for release today.

Ratajczak's mid-July sampling shows a 1.4 percent decline in food prices, which account at the wholesale level for 25 percent of the overall inflation figure. His July figure for food was 0.4 percent greater than the government's report which showed a 1 percent drop.

That decline was the first for wholesale food prices in nine months.

The main reason for the improvement in the wholesale price outlook was a larger supply of livestock, fruit and vegetables.

The Agriculture Department said prices declined during the month for cattle, hogs, corn, soybeans and lettuce. However, analysts said it may be September before the decline shows up in supermarkets.

Even though wholesale food prices declined in July, the Agriculture Department's Crop Reporting Board said those prices were 19 percent higher than they were a year earlier. In June, the prices had hit their highest point in nearly five years.

So far this year, consumer prices have risen at a rate of 11.2 percent, if averaged over an entire year.

The Agriculture Department has said food prices should rise 10 percent this year but that most of the increase has already occurred.

Ground crew union strikes in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 7,000 unionized ground employees across the nation struck Pan American World Airways at 12:01 a.m. Thursday because of a contract dispute, according to a Teamsters union spokesman.

Pan Am officials said the airline's operations would not be immediately affected because of undisclosed contingency plans.

But a protracted strike by the workers could severely curtail the airline's operations, even with its contingency plans. It was not immediately known whether pilots would honor Teamster picket lines.

Pan Am has 235 overseas flights daily at this time of the year.

Personnel involved in the dispute included reservations, sales and passenger service employees, as well as cargo, medical and supply workers at international airports along both U.S. coasts and in Washington, Chicago, Hawaii and Guam.

Others affected were Pan Am employees at the Cape Canaveral, Fla., missile launching complex.

Contract talks reportedly were continuing at the Pan Am building in Manhattan, according to Ronald Belbenno, an official of the local. He said pickets were up at the Pan Am building, at Kennedy Airport and at Pan Am's offices in Rockleigh, N.J.

Now a tropical storm Hurricane Cora reclassified

MIAMI (AP) — Cora, still speeding westward across the open Atlantic, was reclassified from a hurricane to a tropical storm today with highest sustained winds estimated at 65 mph, the National Hurricane Center said.

Forecasters said the storm was about 700 miles southeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico, moving westerly at 20 to 25 mph. The storm was estimated early today at latitude 12.8 north and longitude 56.2 west. Gales extended as far as 100 miles from the storm's eye.

Cora was expected to pass near the Barbados Islands and through the Grenadines chain later today, hurricane forecaster John Hope said.

He said no appreciable change in strength was expected during the day. Cora became the first Atlantic hurricane of the 1978 season on Tuesday and had reached winds of up to 80 mph. A disturbance is classified as a tropical storm if its winds range from 39 to 73 mph and becomes a hurricane if its winds exceed 73 mph.

White collar crime study

NEW YORK (AP) — Law enforcement agencies have a difficult time battling white collar crime due to a lack of adequate information, according to an American Management Association survey.

A substantial grant has been awarded to the AMA by the Justice Department's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration to conduct the nation's first study of white collar crime.

The AMA says it has created a "Crimes Against Business Council," which is to develop instructions for managers on how to prevent these crimes and what to do about them.

Farm Promotion idea in trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department's promotion of farmer-to-consumer marketing is in trouble in Congress, even though a survey last winter found that 58 percent of the population buys some food directly from farmers at roadside stands and the like.

The law to revive that kind of shopping came in response to consumer demands for fresher foods and complaints by both farmers and consumers that the 60 percent or more of the food dollar that goes to "middlemen" is too much.

Under the law, the Agriculture Department approves and underwrites plans submitted by state agriculture agencies to develop new projects—from conferences where farmers share marketing ideas to bringing consumer co-ops and small farmers together to setting up inner-city market stalls.

About 13,000 direct-marketing outlets were in operation when the measure was passed in late 1976, the department says, compared to three times as many regular food stores. It did not have 1978 figures.

Direct sales account for only a small part of the food sold in the country, the department says—3 percent of the fruits and vegetables, for example.

But some small farmers make sizeable portions of their annual incomes that way. For example, spot checks of roadside stands in 17 states in 1976 found $288 million in gross sales. Last year, supporters such as incoming House Appropriations Committee Chairman Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., and Rep. Frederick W. Richmond, D-N.Y., proposed to make the expansion program permanent. That plan became a bid to extend it for six years and then for three.

Now the House Agriculture Committee has approved, 26 to 6, a one-year extension, to Sept. 30, 1979. The Senate has passed an identical measure.

The committee said it intends that ongoing projects be completed and no new ones started. The Carter administration budget-makers didn't want even that.

The spending level will be the same $1.5 million a year. Republicans such as Rep. Charles Grassley of Iowa and Steve Symms of Idaho led parliamentary hit-and-run operations against the extensions.

When they commented at all, they said the aid to farmers' markets and street sales from trucks was a form of government interference in food retailing.

Democrats such as Rep. Dawson Mathis, D-Ga., said no one knows where the $2 million so far has gone or whether farmers have been helped.

Barbara Schlei, head of the Agricultural Marketing Service, was told to be present Tuesday when the committee acted, to answer the questions. No one asked any.

A four-page fact sheet on the program published Wednesday by the department says that roadside stands and pick-your-own operations dominated the outlets in 1976.

The department has spent the $2 million on new projects in 23 states and Puerto Rico, it said.

The largest grant was $219,186 for an Oregon-Washington program of education, finding farmers who want to sell that way and testing mini-markets operated by growers in rotation.

The smallest, $24,978, went to Alaska for producer-consumer education and a market at the Fairbanks fairgrounds selling radishes, cabbage, potatoes and other short-season crops.

Other grants have gone for testing door-to-door produce selling, printing handbooks, compiling regulations on direct marketing, films and other promotions.

The recently released department survey found that about 38 percent of U.S. households went to a country roadside stand, half as many went to a pick-your-own farms or orchards and 16 percent patronized a city farmers' market.

Traffic and other travel hassles were the major complaints cited by both those who do and those who don't take advantage of direct marketing.

Payment rates have risen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal payment rates for farmers whose cattle herds have been hit by brucellosis have been raised by up to $150 a head by the Agriculture Department to more closely reflect market values of lost animals, officials said.

Paul Becton, director of the brucellosis-eradication program, said that rates are now $250 for registered cattle, up from $100; $150 for unregistered dairy cattle, up from $50; and a new payment of $25 for heifer calves. The $50 rate for unregistered beef cattle wasn't changed.

Cantor becomes vice president

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard Cantor, vice president of the Farm Credit Banks of Springfield, Mass., becomes deputy governor for finance of the independent Farm Credit Administration on Monday.

Before taking the Springfield job in 1974, Cantor was an officer of American Standard Products Inc. for 20 years.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, AUGUST 11, 1978
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Daytime not good for taking chances with anything important in your life, so be sure to act with restraint. Evening is splendid for a whole new approach at building a better set of circumstances for yourself.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good time for socializing, but don't spend too much money. Handle problems as they arise. Be more sure of yourself.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Let that argument blow over between a close tie and a partner. The day is apt to be tense, but by the end all is smooth sailing and you can have a good time with congenials.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Accept a communication that could prove important even if it means getting less work done. Handle money matters intelligently.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Instead of putting off routine tasks, get busy and make a good impression on a bigwig with your good mind for facts, figures. Keep promises, but forget those made in haste.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't argue with others during the day. Take time to sit down with allies and plan better for the future. Don't try to get your own way with kin.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A personal problem could deter you from progressing as you wish. Be with good friends, but avoid the temperamental ones.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Put more order into your life and things work out more easily and profitably for you. Get together with bigwigs, also. Do some community work at which you are most adept.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Give special attention to any important business matters before you consider going out socially. Listen to suggestions of bigwig and follow your own counsel.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Do not permit a personal problem to keep you from studying into new interests that could prove lucrative. Relax in the evening.

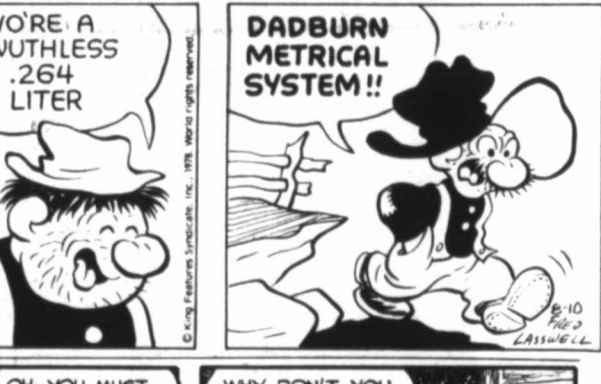

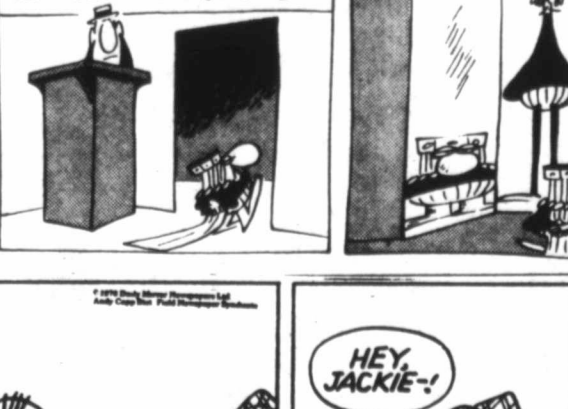

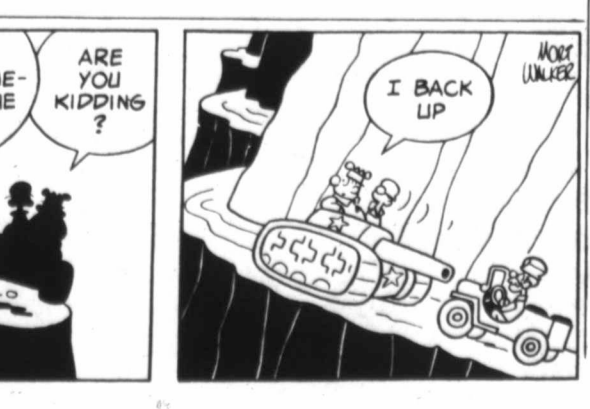

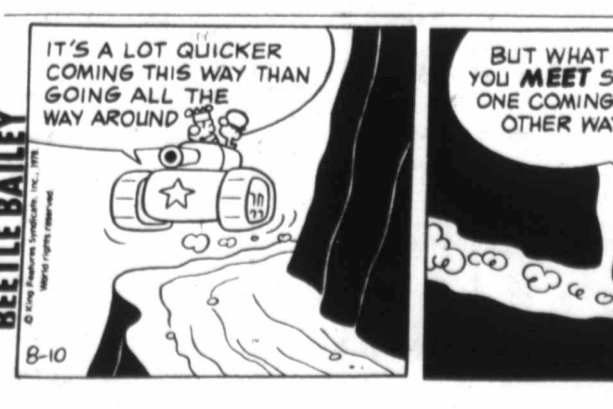

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Keep promises you have made and gain the respect of others. Show particular thought for loved ones and pave the way for better understanding.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't come between an associate and the bigwig while arguing or you could be the one to get hurt. Get busy at your work and schedule it properly. Follow hunches and build up health.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you schedule your time, you can easily handle work and also look into something new and interesting. Use good judgment in handling a co-worker. Be happy with loved one in the evening.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will quickly understand how to solve the problems of others and should have the education slanted along such lines, whether in law, medicine or in police work. Youth could be rather difficult but the latter part of life will be rewarding and happy.

No more water fights in White House halls

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are no more water pistol fights in the corridors outside President Carter's Oval Office.

There are no more gags, such as White House aides sending to each other a ticking, old-fashioned alarm clock wrapped in a box, pretending it is a time bomb that may explode at any moment.

"No sir. No fun and frolics," reported one White House staff member hired within the last year. "They must have been before my time."

The fun and frolics, actually, reached a height during one week last summer when the president and his wife left the White House and steamed Washington for the rustic, and cooler, climate of Camp David, Md.

That was when a blazing gun battle erupted near Carter's office when junior staff members shot each other with water from squirt guns.

The first family has already taken one vacation at Camp David and is planning another break from Washington later this month. But apparently, the pranksters have already disappeared.

In Moscow, Kremlin watchers scan Pravda and Izvestia to see whose star is rising in the Soviet hierarchy. In Peking, the wall posters tell the tale. In Washington, keep an eye on the bumper stickers.

One of the architects of U.S.-Soviet policy, Zbigniew Brzezinski, has been immortalized on a number of cars seen each day along the narrow, limited-access street adjacent to the White House West Wing where top-level staff members park.

Blue bumper stickers proclaim in white lettering: "God Bless Zbigniew Brzezinski."

They were sent to Carter's national security assistant by a woman in Miami who sent him a fan letter, an aide said.

The moon and Venus

The moon and Venus, which appeared in the sky Monday night created quite a stir in Big Spring.

The information given by a David Pinkston, assistant director of the Noble Planetarium in Fort Worth on Associated Press, created an additional stir here.

I had just gotten home Monday night from a trip to Britain to visit my daughter. I had been up around 22 hours when I got to the house and was dragging with jet lag, frustration and pure old fatigue.

The telephone began to ring. Several people, who certainly had no idea that I had a good case of the jet lag, called to tell me to look out at the moon.

I appreciated it, in a way, because if they hadn't called I would never have turned my eyes skyward. Because I was simply dropping suitcases in the middle of the floor and hunting for the bed.

But I did get out on the porch and look at the moon and the star sitting right on top. And I called Danny Valdes, who had already been alerted and gone forth to get a photograph which we ran on Tuesday in the Herald.

But the worries did not stop there for John Beasley, director of the local planetarium.

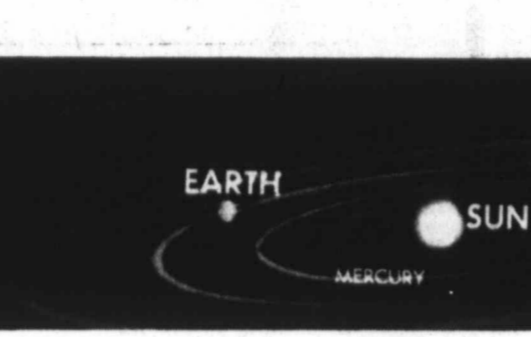

He said that the picture that Valdes took was magnificent, because the moon is brighter than the planet and it is difficult to take a photograph that shows both in detail.

He also said that the information put out by the fellow in Fort Worth was pure hokus and that it did not happen every 22 months, not where it can be visible to the naked eye. He's had a lot of calls since the cutline and picture came out in the Herald from people who know that there is something wrong with the statement.

He said that Venus is around 50 million miles from the moon and never gets closer than 33 million miles.

The moon and Venus

with Marj Carpenter

WHO KNOWS ...things are always moving around up there

He said they pass each other in the sky often, but it is not visible to the naked eye.

Well, how about that? Do you reckon they look up in the sky and saw Venus sitting above the moon and said, "Say, Associated Press says that happens only every 22 months."

I notice that our clever cutline writer said the phenomenon had already been linked to the death of Pope Paul, inflation and the Texas Rangers' loss to a bunch of minor leaguers.

Added to that, I must say, was the fact that this was the very first time I had ever ventured overseas and I had just arrived home safely on my front porch when the moon and Venus posed together. And the phone began to ring.

Well, I'm glad somebody called. I'm glad I saw it and especially if it's a 5,000 year phenomenon.

If it's every 22 months, I plan to go out on the porch on June 7, 1980 and look to the west and see who's right.

But personally, I like the 5,000-year theory. And I think it was pretty-whatever else it meant.

Thanks for calling — out where I came back home to ride fence.

More typical is the experience of the Bank of Virginia, a statewide institution that in five years traced 7,300 new accounts, valued at $30 million, to its program.

SOS: helping dead peoples' families

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Walker's heart always will be bigger than his wallet, and that says a lot. Bill isn't poor. "You can't help people without helping yourself," he says. "That's my motto."

Eight years ago, when Bill was selling life insurance — more than a million dollars worth a year — a good friend died, leaving behind the usual confusion of records for his family to work through.

Somebody, he thought, should make a career of helping survivors determine their benefits. The idea possessed him, and so on Jan. 28, 1971, he founded S.O.S. in his hometown of Athens, Texas.

Walker puzzled for months over how to market his idea before offering to train bank and savings and loan personnel.

More than 900 institutions now offer the service free. On learning of a death in the community, the local institutions' S.O.S. advisers contact the deceased's survivors, who generally can use the help.

The dimensions of the idea have grown, too. The Walkers now offer a "pre-organizational" service in which record-keeping materials are supplied to newlyweds. A pretirement program is in the works.

Working from a fact-filled manual, and using skills learned at S.O.S. training seminars, advisers determine Social Security, insurance, pension and other benefits, some of them unknown to their clients.

"We find thousands of dollars people didn't know they had," says Helen Walker, a trim, outwardly serene home economics grad whose organizing ability complements her husband's sales instincts.

In the manual are names and addresses of places to write for copies of birth, marriage, divorce and death certificates, and details of veterans, railroad, teachers retirement and union benefits.

So armed, Marian Kueck, adviser at the First Bank of Commerce, Columbia, Mo., got thousands of dollars in Social Security benefits for a widower's children. He thought no benefits were available.

In another instance a widow worried about repaying $17,000 in loans by her deceased husband. The S.O.S. adviser found the loans were covered by credit insurance the widow might never have learned about.

The Walkers benefit from exclusive territorial contracts with the banks and savings associations, renewable automatically after three years, with the fee based on the institution's trading area.

Almost invariably the institutions receive their payoff in goodwill and new accounts. One recipient, a widow, returned the expression of goodwill with a Texas-size deposit — $1 million.
