First Lady arrives for Pope's funeral

VATICAN CITY (AP) — First lady Rosalynn Carter arrived in Rome today to head the U.S. delegation to Pope Paul VI's funeral and called the late pontiff a "wise and beloved symbol of the goodness of mankind."

The Vatican, meanwhile, made public a handwritten spiritual testament in which Pope Paul asked "pardon from all those to whom I may not have done good" and said of the world that one should "study it, love it and serve it."

Mrs. Carter stepped off an Air Force plane at Rome's Ciampino Airport, made a brief statement, then got into a waiting car for the trip to the U.S. Embassy residence where officials said she would remain until the funeral Saturday.

"This is a sad occasion, sad because we have lost a wise and beloved symbol of the goodness of mankind," she told reporters. "Pope Paul's concern for the poor and his deep sense of social justice have left the world a better place. We are all richer for his having lived."

"As a man of great spirituality — Jimmy called him a spiritual beacon — he will be missed, not only by American Catholics but by all Americans and by people the world over."

"His memory will live in our hearts. Let us not then mourn his death so much as celebrate his life — a life dedicated unselfishly to the service of his church and to all men everywhere."

In answer to questions, Mrs. Carter said her mother-in-law, Lillian, helped her and the president "feel the presence of the pope" after she returned from her audience with Pope Paul on July 23, one of the last foreign visitors before his death.

The Vatican announced today that Paul's body will remain on view to the public in St. Peter's Basilica another day, until a few hours before the funeral. Five days of public viewing had been scheduled to end at 8 o'clock tonight, and the coffin was to have been sealed for the funeral and burial Saturday evening.

In the 13-page testament, composed in three sections between 1965 and 1973, the pontiff also left most of his possessions to the Holy See and asked that his funeral be kept "pious and simple."

In the first section, written before the end of the Second Vatican Council, Paul recommended that the church listen to "some words of ours which we uttered for her seriously and with love."

He made some general recommendations on the relationship of the Roman Catholic Church with other Christians and with the world.

"About ecumenism: The work of coming closer with separated brothers should be continued with great comprehension, with great patience, with great love; but without deviating from the true Catholic doctrine," he wrote.

"About the world: One should not believe that it is good ... to adopt its thinking, habits, and tastes; but (one should) study it, love it and serve it."

The pope's appeal for pardon came in two pages added to the testament in 1972, and he added three lines in July 1973 stressing again he wanted simple funeral rites.

Following a precedent set by Pope Paul's coronation 15 years ago, the College of Cardinals ordered the funeral Mass to be celebrated in the open, on the broad marble steps of St. Peter's, instead of inside the basilica where previous papal funerals have been held.

The outdoor funeral was ordered for the same reason Pope Paul held his coronation in St. Peter's Square, because the square will hold more than 100,000 people. That is more than three times the capacity of the basilica even though it is Christendom's largest church.

In another first for a papal funeral, the cardinals announced that all of them would join in celebrating the Mass. With at least 100 of the 130 princes of the church expected to be present, it will be the first time in history so many have participated as principal celebrants.

The Mass will begin at 6 p.m. — noon EDT — and will be televised live around the world.

PRAY FOR THE POPE — House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and Mrs. O'Neill make the sign of the cross as they stand beside President Carter during a Pontifical Requiem Mass for Pope Paul VI. The mass was held in Washington's St. Matthew's Cathedral this morning.

Growth of firm triggers move to Big Spring Industrial Park

Troy Fraser, president of Bilt Rite Pallet Inc., announced this morning that the firm's manufacturing plant will be moved to the Big Spring Industrial Park where it will occupy a portion of what was once Base Supply Building 615 at Webb AFB.

Growth of the company dictated a move from Coahoma to larger quarters in Big Spring. Built-Rite is a privately owned Texas corporation established ten years ago by Harold Fraser.

Other officers of the corporation are Dwayne Fraser, executive vice president of the local plant; and Steve Fraser, vice president and operator of another Built-Rite plant in Amarillo.

Fraser noted in a meeting at the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce offices today that their new facility will be approximately five times larger than their present facility. In addition, two new operations will begin at the new facility — re-saw and recycling waste into drilling mud. The corporation expects to grow from the present 60 employees to 100 within the first year. Projected sales for the coming year are $3 million.

The service area for each of the operations is approximately 300 miles from each location and they service such industries as Cosden, Cabot, Rexene, Sid Richardson and have a national account with Texas Instruments serving Dallas, Austin, Houston, Midland and Temple.

The corporation owns its own trucking company, thus enabling it to readily obtain its raw product from East Texas as well as having some shipped by rail from Canada.

The main operation of the plant is manufacturing of shipping crates which are used to move products with fork lifts. They presently manufacture a disposable pallet.

The 10,000 square foot building in Coahoma where the plant was located is on rail site and will be an excellent facility to offer another industry, Chamber officials said.

Last civilian employee departs Significant, melancholy day in history of Webb AFB

This is a significant day, if a melancholy one, in the history of Webb AFB.

The facility lost its designation months ago as a military unit — it is now known as the Big Spring Industrial Park. Today, at 4 p.m., the last civilian employed as part of the base's caretaker force departs the scene.

The limited operation has been under the supervision of Clark Stout, a civilian, since Lt. Col. West, who has been in charge of the caretaker force, departed the community last Monday.

The city of Big Spring entered into a contract with the government to provide fire and security protection for the property, including the Capehart housing addition.

Conveyance of property from the General Services Administration has been delayed until exact boundary lines for the proposed minimum security correctional institution have been established. The Federal Prison System asked for and was granted additional acreage for the facility and is awaiting action in Congress to act on a request for funds needed to make the facility operational. Congress, in turn, is waiting on the start of the new fiscal year to provide such funds. The government's fiscal year changes Oct. 1.

A man who, no doubt, is reminiscing about the dramatic changes that have taken place at the base over the past two years is Harry Spannaus, the retired Air Force colonel who stayed behind to become manager of the Big Spring Industrial Park.

After a careful presentation by Assistant Superintendent for Business Don Crockett, school board members unanimously approved a $9,880,210 budget for the 79-79 school year Thursday.

The budget includes an increase of $651,000 from the 77-78 budget, but according to Crockett, the increase is mostly ($518,000) traceable to additional federal monies already earmarked for specific programs.

The budget will exceed projected receipts, which are expected to total $9,614,457. The deficit will be covered by school district cash reserves, dropping the reserve level from an estimated $719,711 on Sept. 1, 1978 to $449,633 on Aug. 31, 1979.

Revenue from local taxes should add up to $2,961,786 of which $435,556 will be applied to the interest and sinking fund. The remainder represents an increase of $81,167 over 77-78 tax receipts, with the difference traceable to improvements and renovations. Crockett estimated the school district tax roll at $183,392,340.

Crockett also pointed out to the school board that since the Webb AFB closing, student figures have dropped 13.5 per cent, while the reduction in teaching personnel has been figured at 19.5 per cent.

Without closing the five elementary campuses when they did, Crockett told the board, the school district today would be facing a much tighter squeeze on funds.

Crockett also showed the board where the district, since the HEW restriction was lifted, had come into extra funds in their Title I program.

The assistant superintendent for business said that unfortunately the funds would not be applied to the regular school program because of federal restrictions, but that the district had $306,106 left over from its 77-78 Title I program, and was entitled to an additional $377,883 for the 78-79 school year.

In the proposed budget, the 77-78 funds were detailed to provide the regular special education program for Title I students while the 79-79 funds were shunted into buying a computer for the district to assist in remedial teaching and drill duties. The computer has been highly recommended to the board by the district's primary and secondary curriculum coordinators.

Of the total revenues, Crockett told the board, 37.9 per cent will be local funds, 47.2 per cent will be state funds, and 14.9 per cent will be federal funds.

The presentation, which was held as a public hearing, drew no comments and no citizens either to approve or disapprove.

In other action, the board accepted the resignation of Delnor Poss, who had been a board member for eight years.

With a 30-day revocation clause inserted in the lease, the board unanimously approved the leasing of Kate Morrison complex to the Mexican-American Service Council. Chairman Amado Molina appeared before the board with a lease drawn on the same lines as the Gayhill campus lease. Molina presented a list of 11 projects the service council will undertake to coordinate at the building, including 4-H Clubs, adult education, a nursery, and Girl Scouts.

Molina said funds for the center would have to be raised from the community through such events as "El Diez Y Siez De Septiembre" and "El Cinco De Mayo."

One clause in the guidelines presented by Molina prohibited the use of alcohol, even at fund-raising events. This is in line with state laws for school-owned property.

The board also approved a house-building project proposed by Vocational Administrator John Bagnall. The home, a two-story structure designed by Darrell Hohertz, is proposed for construction at 806 Highland Drive for David and Kay Clinkscales. Bagnall said a guess for the cost of the 2,940 square foot house was over $70,000. The project would take a full year to complete, with students doing all the work except foundation and heating and air-conditioning.

Another project, the renovation of the carriage house at Potton House, was also approved.

Board member Bert Harris stipulated that the projects be approved only if there was adequate insurance coverage to protect both the students and the district. Bagnall assured him there was.

Superintendent Lynn Hise detailed the "in-district" transfer policy for board members. Students who wish to transfer to another campus may turn in a written request to the superintendent's office, but the requests will not be considered until after the first week of school. In the first week, the student will attend his resident campus. At the end of the first week, transfer requests will be considered on a "space-available" basis.

Transfers, according to board policy, will be approved only in the interest of the welfare of individual students, and for convenience of the district in alleviating over-crowded classes through group transfer to another attendance area.

The next board meeting, at which a final revised budget will be presented, is scheduled for Aug. 31.

Deficit will be covered by school district cash reserves

Action / reaction: Swim pool closing

Q. I heard the municipal pool may be closing this week. Is that true?

A. The pool will close for the summer after regular 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. hours Sunday, according to Big Spring Assistant City Manager Jerry Foresyth. "All of our life guards are college students, and only one will be attending Howard College in the fall. The others are going to Lubbock or somewhere else, so we won't have enough guards to keep the pool open when they leave for college," Foresyth explained.

Calendar: Tennis tournament

FRIDAY

The Big Spring Tennis Association is holding a Special Divisions Tournament Friday through Sunday at the Figure Seven Tennis Center.

SATURDAY

The Howard County Library will show four films from 1:30 until 2:30 p.m. They are "Hurry, Hurry"; "The Deer and the Forest"; "The Magic Well," and "The Zoo."

The Big Spring Invitational Women's Slowpitch Softball tournament begins at 10 a.m. Saturday at Johnny Stone Memorial Park. Play will continue throughout the day.

SUNDAY

The Chicano Golf Association will hold an ABC Selective Drive Tournament today at Comanche Trail Golf Course with tee off time, 10 a.m. Deadline for entries is 9:30 a.m.

Offbeat: More than nerves

SPOKANE (AP) — It was more than a case of prenuptial jitters and a temporary loss of memory, says Spokane County's marriage license clerk.

A man picking up his marriage license Friday actually didn't know his future bride's last name.

"I said, 'Well, what's the girl's last name?' He said he didn't know. I couldn't believe it," said clerk Magdalene Wirslow.

"He said he has always just known her by her first name," Mrs. Wirslow said.

She found the license by the man's last name.

Outside: Chance of rain

A 20 per cent chance of thundershowers this afternoon should not do much to prevent fair skies and warm temperatures this weekend. High today and Saturday will reach the mid 90s, low tonight in the upper 60s. Winds will be southerly at 5 to 15 mph.

$905 donated to Bible Fund

Donations to the Bible Fund for the 24-hour period ending at noon today amounted to $905, bringing the total to $5,470.64.

The drive remains far short of its $10,000 goal and time is growing short because the opening of school is scheduled later this month.

Among donations reported Thursday of this morning included $200 from the First Assembly of God Church, and $100 each from the Presbyterian Women of the Church and the combined firms of Nalley-Pickle and River-Weich funeral homes.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Kennedy, who had forwarded a check previously to the campaign, wanted it noted that the donation was in memory of Dwayne Ramsey.

Checks should be made out to The Bible Fund and sent either to Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor, First Baptist Church, or The Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring. Patrick coordinates the drive for the Howard County Ministerial Alliance.

J.C. Skeltons to celebrate 50th wedding anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Skelton will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on 2-4 p.m. Saturday at the Knapp Community Center.

J.C. and Mildred Skelton were married Aug. 26, 1928, in Crane. They made their home in Crane, Odessa, Midland and Borden County. They made their living in ranching, farming, tanking and fencing.

The couple now retired resides at Lake J.B. Thomas in Borden County.

Hosting the event will be the couple's children, John C. and June Skelton, Odessa, and Roy W. and May Shaffer, Lake Thomas.

The couple and their children invite all friends and relatives to attend.

New guidelines being worked on

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A top assistant to Attorney General Griffin Bell says new guidelines are being worked out to protect the rights of Mexican-Americans mistreated by law enforcement officers.

He told Mexican-American leaders the Justice Department will be more aggressive in the future regarding allegations of civil rights violations.

Drew S. Days III, head of the Justice Department's civil rights section, said a major stumbling block in the past has been that the U.S. attorney general has learned of many of the controversies months after they occurred.

He urged those at a workshop on police brutality here Thursday to make sure the complaints are forwarded to Washington as soon as possible. The workshop was held during the 30th national American GI Forum convention in Corpus Christi.

Days said the Justice Department is establishing specific guidelines to determine which cases disposed of by state and local law enforcement officials will be investigated.

Days said he will outline specific proposals after he returns to Washington. Among other things, he said he will tell Bell speedier methods should be implemented to investigate and prosecute civil rights violations.

His comments followed a verbal barrage by Mexican-Americans against the federal government's alleged sluggishness in prosecuting civil rights violations and cases of police brutality against Mexican-Americans.

Americans.

Days said Bell directed him to "make assessments and report back to him on the steps I think he should take" regarding the Mexican-Americans' complaints about their treatment by law enforcement officials.

Ruben Bonilla, state director of the League of United Latin American Citizens, called on the Justice Department to allow U.S. attorneys to investigate and prosecute civil rights cases without prior authorization from Washington.

Days was accompanied by several U.S. law enforcement officials in Texas. Nine federal officials met Thursday morning with 10 to 15 state and local Hispanic leaders during a closed session. The U.S. officials also held a private meeting to discuss possible ways to hasten investigations, Days said.

Ruben Sandoval, a San Antonio lawyer, harshly criticized administration efforts in the civil rights area. Only two of the policemen accused in 23 cases of alleged police brutality against Mexican-Americans in Texas have been brought to trial and sentenced, he said.

The audience applauded and shouted when Sandoval added, "Let's not be hypocrites. Let's take action or take the cases off the books."

Federal efforts "almost read like a Christmas gift from Mr. Scrooge — nothing," charged Sandoval, who warned "All hell will break loose" if Mexican-Americans feel forced to take to the streets.

They seek to have the word added to the seven "dirty words" list banned by the FCC as patently offensive.

'Boston Tea Party Odessa-style' perks

ODESSA — A group of Odessa residents who have dubbed their organization the Concerned Taxpayers Committee is making plans to take positive action in protesting a recently completed tax evaluation program in Odessa.

Members of the group said they are planning a "Boston Tea Party Odessa-style."

Ray Britton, who appeared before the city council to voice opposition to higher taxes, said that a meeting of all taxpayers is planned for city hall Monday.

The committee is asking taxpayers to bring their tax notices to the meeting, along with a copy of the 1977 tax receipts. Those items will be placed in a receptacle and burned in public, according to Britton.

"This, of course, is a symbolic expression of the indignation of the people," Britton added.

The group plans to saturate the news media with information about Monday's protest meeting.

The "tea party" is designed to coincide with the beginning of hearings before the board of tax equalization, which starts Monday morning.

City Attorney Joel Roberts said he planned to research the law to see if the burning of tax notices constitutes a crime.

Ridin' fence They call it Monahans with Marj Carpenter

John Thomas Monahans came through the sandhills in 1878, dug a well and departed. From all over the frontier, folks stopped to get water from his well.

There is more than one Big Spring resident who remembers going through the Monahans sandhills in a covered wagon and stopping to get water from the Monahans well.

That was a good stopping place between the big spring and the Davis Mountains, or the Horsehead Crossing on the Pecos River, near Iraan.

In 1887, a promoter set up a town south of the well, called "Trueheart", but settlers disdained calling it this name and kept right on calling it Monahans.

COUNTY COURTHOUSE ...in Monahans

A post office was granted in Monahans on April 16, 1891. Monahans is the county seat of Ward County, but it did not always retain this title.

Ward County was created from Tom Green County in 1887, but was not organized until 1892. Barstow was named the county seat and a permanent courthouse and jail, costing $15,182 were constructed in Barstow in 1893.

Barstow at that time was a big farming center, utilizing irrigation water out of the Pecos River. Their grapes were prize winners at the St. Louis World's Fair.

They also made sandstone bricks from a quarry there, including the sandstones used in the Pottion House here in Big Spring.

The county was named for Thomas William Ward, a native of Ireland, who lived in Quebec and Louisiana and came to Texas with the New Orleans Greys. As one of Ben Milam's volunteers he lost a leg at Bexar but he recruited a company and served the balance of the Texas Revolution under General Rusk. In 1841, he lost his right arm in a cannon accident celebrating Texas independence.

He was at one time mayor of Austin, commissioner of the General Land Office, consul to Panama and an opponent of secession prior to the Civil War. The legislature named the West Texas County for him.

Settlement of the county was increased with the arrival of the Texas and Pacific Railway in 1881. It was a tough and sandy place to live and after nine years, the county had only 77 residents.

Oil activity around Monahans caused the town to grow. At the same time, Barstow began to shrink. In 1939, a county vote moved the county seat and Barstow old-timers still mutter bitterly about the county "who doesn't care about history and heritage." The present courthouse was occupied in 1940 and cost $250,000. The old courthouse still stands in the middle of Barstow.

Barstow in the '60s voted to cross country lines and join their school district with Pecos "rather than be sucked in again by Monahans."

Monahans claims to fame have included the Sandhill county is named for a man who lost an arm and a leg and kept going, because most of the Monahans citizens have this same spirit.

More than once I've nearly been "done in" at Monahans as I arrived with competitive teams from some of their fiercest rivals.

But it's an interesting town — full of good people — and I like to stop there and run down the sand and go into town and visit the folks — when I'm out ridin' fence.

Krueger will visit 15 cities in five days

Congressman Bob Krueger, who according to a poll released August 2 has pulled to within 1.4 percentage points of overtaking incumbent John Tower, will continue his campaigning in 15 cities this week.

Those cities include Corpus Christi, Dallas, Wichita Falls, Gainesville, Jacksboro, Mineral Wells, Weatherford, Granbury, Cleburne, Brownsville, Houston, San Antonio, El Paso, Harlingen and McAllen.

Krueger will spend more time on the campaign trail as the November election approaches. The Pat Caddell-John Henson poll, which consisted of 600 personal interviews statewide, showed Republican Tower led Krueger by a margin of only 42 to 41.2.

Krueger hosted a breakfast in Corpus Christi Thursday for members of the American G.I. Forum, prior to holding a news conference.

The 21st District representative then traveled to Dallas for a news conference at Love Field, and then flew to Wichita Falls for a news conference at Kikapoo Airport in that city.

The Democratic nominee for U.S. Senate will travel to six North Central cities today to meet with friends and supporters at several receptions and engagements. Krueger will visit Gainesville, Jacksboro, Mineral Wells, Weatherford, Granbury and Cleburne.

Krueger will begin Saturday hosting a 7:30 a.m. breakfast for the Texas Women's Political Caucus in Brownsville. The breakfast and meeting will be held at the Fort Brown Hotel there.

The second-term congressman will travel to Houston for a 1 p.m. brunch with Mexican-American political leaders at Los Molcajetes Restaurant.

In San Antonio, Krueger will speak to some 500 high school students at 4:30 p.m. as he participates in a youth conference on voter 11 "For from the rising of the sun, even to its setting, My name will be great among the nations, and in every place incense is going to be offered to My name, and a grain offering that is pure; for My name will be great among the nations," says the LORD of hosts.

12 "But you are profaning it, in that you say, 'The table of the LORD is defiled, and as for its fruit, its food is to be despised.'"

13 "You also say, 'My, how tiresome it is!' And you disdainfully sniff at it," says the LORD of hosts, "and you bring what was taken by robbery, and what is lame or sick; so you bring the offering! Should I receive that from your hand?" says the LORD.

14 "But cursed be the swindler who has a male in his flock, and vows it, but sacrifices a blemished animal to the Lord, for I am a great King," says the LORD of hosts, "and My name is feared among the nations."

Final Admonition

"IFOR behold, the day is coming, burning like a furnace; and all the arrogant and every evildoer will be chaff; and the day that is coming will set them ablaze," says the LORD of hosts, "so that it will leave them neither root nor branch."

2 "But for you who fear My name the sun of righteousness will rise with healing in its wings; and you will go forth and skip about like calves from the stall."

Congress knows how to apply brakes

The United States Congress moves at its own pace and nothing apparently is going to change it.

The legislative body also has its own way of dealing with laws it has no particular appetite for, after which it offers double talk to its constituency on why more positive action wasn't undertaken.

The two most significant bills now before Congress could well be Sen. Muskie's Sunset bill and the Civil Service reform bill being pushed by President Carter.

EACH WOULD offer a chance to save the country a great amount of money, but that is a thought completely alien to the congressional mind. In Congressman Morris Udall's phrase, each would "shake up this government and give managers the ability to manage." Both bills, alas, are being stalled as the date for adjournment, Oct. 1, bears down on Congress.

"The sun is setting on the Sunset bill," reports the Congressional Quarterly. Apparently this promising measure calling for automatic termination of federal programs unless they are specifically renewed after comprehensive review every few years has no chance to get to the floor of either house.

Committee chairmen, jealous of their clout in programs involving great personal interest, are unwilling to see them opened up to periodic scrutiny, as programs of corporations in the private sector are.

Civil Service reform is conceded a somewhat better chance; it is at least still alive and proceeding, though rather battered, through committees. The attention of congressmen begins to wander when they think about all the votes Civil Service represents.

WHEN CIVIL Service was asked at a recent press conference if the bill was not hopelessly snagged, it bravely insisted it was such a "burning issue" in the minds of the American people that members of Congress would hardly dare go home without doing something about it.

It would be encouraging if all the people who reason this is a "burning issue" apply pressure on their congressmen for both measures—but don't hold your breath waiting.

The trouble with reforming Civil Service, observes Common Cause, a strong supporter of the bill, is that it is "unquestionably unglamorous."

Another obstacle is that reform is opposed by all kinds of organizations which like to exert unified pressure against public officials—the independent federal employee unions, veterans groups and all their old congressional allies.

Nearing 1984

Bob Burton

Around the rim

Days are getting shorter. Since mid-June the sunsets and sunrises have been collapsing on the daylight between. We are headed down the pipes toward the shortest day of the year, and though it seems irrelevant in the 90-degree weather of August, fall is just around the corner.

AND RIGHT behind fall will be the coming year, 1979. I'm going to get on the new year bandwagon early, because I can remember the hoopla made about 1969—the last year of that decade—and all the predictions involved therein. I fully expect the same kind of hubbub to start cropping up early next year. I am convinced that, on some backlot, one of the major studios is taping "Child of the 70s", a humorous tale of an orphan pursued through a dull decade by a one-armed man.

In 1959, I was all of seven years old. Mrs. Caldwell didn't know it yet, but I was bound for my first and last set of straight A's. I was in the second grade—not exactly a teen angel of the 50s. So while I can't claim intimate familiarity with Bill Haley, Buddy Holly, and the rest, my first record was a Ricky Nelson 45, and I did spend the first quarter of my life in that decade.

I feel much more familiar with the 60s. From the Kennedy assassination to the Beatles to the Vietnam War, I get a warm familiar feeling when someone talks about the 60s.

And now they're going to start touting the 70s. First will come the over-the-shoulder glance. Somebody will run a nostalgia piece, starting with the bombing of Cambodia in 1970 and running through Watergate to the Bicentennial and finishing up with the Red's World Series win this October.

NEXT WILL come the compilers. The people who spend months pushing all the scattered rubbish of the decade into one heap and then insist on rummaging through it, holding up various decayed prizes and cooing, "Remember when? Remember this?"

Unfortunately, I probably do. The 70s weren't much as a decade, and unless we have a limited nuclear war, or the United Nations takes control of Africa, or Nehru jackets come back, the coming year won't make much difference.

If the world appeared to be going to hell during the 60s, then probably the trends continued in the 70s, only we didn't make so much noise about them.

Looking forward, there is only one year that matters—1984. For some reason, even people who never read George Orwell's chilling vision of the future lower their voices when they refer to that year. It will be an election year, and I'll bet that someone runs on the Big Brother ticket. We have test tube babies, we have soma, we have cable TV. We haven't much farther to go.

Human rights conflict

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON—The conflict over President Carter's human rights program broke into an embarrassing boil on Aug. 3 when one of this nation's best Asian friends, Philippine Foreign Minister Carlos P. Romulo, boycotted Assistant Secretary of State Pat Derian's brief appearance at a meeting here of U.S. Asian allies.

As Mr. Carter's human rights spearpoint, Miss Derian wields a sharp weapon which drew blood on her visit to Manila last year. "She was rude to President Marcos," one ranking diplomat told us. "Romulo was boycotting her here as an individual, not as a U.S. government official."

Allies of Derian insist she was only doing her duty in Manila. They insist, too, that the wave of new congressional laws requiring strict human rights accountability before U.S. arms, police equipment or ordinary commercial goods can be approved for export are making her job more complex than it used to be.

True or not, Miss Derian and her rapidly expanding Office of Human Rights and Humanitarian Affairs are under attack—still largely subterranean—from the administration's political and economic specialists, from trade experts in the Commerce Department and from U.S. manufacturers. Thus far, the effect on the dauntless Miss Derian, a veteran of the Mississippi civil rights wars, is not noticeable.

ON JULY 17 she hired liberal arms specialist Stephen Cohen from the State Department's policy-planning staff to supervise all security-assistance exports (arms and police equipment) from the human rights standpoint. Cohen was the 10th top professional named to Miss Derian's staff. At least two more are wanted.

Human rights activists at State argue that new laws linking arms sales to human rights made the hiring of Cohen mandatory. But the Pentagon, jealous about its arms-control powers, is angered. Cohen's new role is also resented by some officials in the office of Lucy Benson, undersecretary of state for security assistance.

More to the point is Miss Derian's zeal as a political activist. High-ranking diplomats report that to push human rights goals of Jimmy Carter, Miss Derian is blunt. She informed the highest leaders of at least one foreign country with a poor human rights record that, as the only assistant secretary of state sworn in by Mr. Carter himself, she possesses special clout. Insiders say she is the only assistant secretary who rates a regularly-scheduled private weekly session with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

Some sins attributed to her may be exaggerated. For example, consider the notorious case of the $411 worth of steel "groin protectors" and helmets for riot police in Indonesia (which has human rights problems but sells the U.S. 9 percent of all our imported oil). In fact, that deal was approved Aug. 4 after a delay of a mere two weeks.

BUT MARK SCHNEIDER, Miss Derian's top aide and Sen. Edward Kennedy's former legislative assistant, apparently disapproved the deal. His initials "M.S." appear on a confidential bureaucratic memorandum on which a lower-ranking official had written "no go" for the "groin" gear. Indeed, the higher-up decision to overrule Schneider may have resulted from press inquiries, including our own, curious over the fate of Indonesia's request.

These "protectors" are significant (except for those who wear them) as a symbol of how encompassing the U.S. human rights role has become. The larger problem is agonizing delays in getting Miss Derian's approval for big, lucrative, commercial deals between U.S. manufacturers and foreign buyers in countries found guilty of human wrongs.

'Life after heart attack' revisited

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A couple of years ago you ran an article about how to live after a heart attack. It was in response to a woman who complained that her husband was living in terror and was becoming a vegetable for fear that the slightest exertion would give another attack. I do wish you would repeat that article, so my husband will know "there is life after a heart attack." — Mrs. P.R.

I dug back through the files to find the piece, which I'm happy to reprint. Here it is:

A heart attack can strike terror and fear in some people. It is not unusual for persons to suffer anxiety. I personally cursed my fate 20 years ago when I had mine. But I resolved to succumb to some other ailment.

Some persons become alarmed, even at the slightest twinge of discomfort above the belly button. Some are afraid to stoop over. They should understand that the heart is a specialized muscle with great recuperative powers after having been injured. The current concept of treatment is more liberal than it was years ago, when we understood less about such things. Patients are encouraged to be active—within their limitations, of course. About 80 percent of coronary patients are able to resume their former occupations. In fact, lack of judicious exercise can be counterproductive.

As long as periodic checkups are being obtained and the patient is adhering to any restrictions imposed, taking prescribed medicine, and following instructions (as in weight reduction, for example) there is no reason why the post-coronary patient cannot break out of his anxiety shell and join the world of the living again. A heart attack has been for some a little blessing in disguise, a timely warning. It need not remain as a sword of Damocles over the head or take all the fun out of life.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please comment on the problem of passing of blood in the seminal fluid. It is a common thing? How serious is it? Is it connected to the prostate? I am a 56-year-old laborer and recently strained myself. — A.S.

Bloody semen is usually due to congestion of the genital tract during intercourse. It can be due to other causes and warrants an examination. Among them are prostate stones or possibly other prostate growths. Your mate should be checked, because the blood may originate in her cervix.

It is unlikely that your symptoms resulted from the strain.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son is 13, has a deep voice, the start of a mustache, and enjoys all the boy-type activities. But he has very large breasts that show through his shirt. This is very embarrassing to him. The first doctor said it was just fatty tissue, and not to worry. The second said they'd go down and to bring him back in six months. Three months have gone by, but they haven't gotten any smaller. Is there anything we can do? — Mrs. A.B.

This is not uncommon in adolescent males, called gynecomastia. If he has a thick chest or is on the plump side, the condition will appear exaggerated. It usually takes some time to disappear. Be a bit more patient. If he observes other topless males his age he will find many with varying degrees of this. Nothing you can do to hasten the reduction process.

CONFIDENTIAL TO R.S.: Among other possible causes of red-tinged urine check out the laxatives you are using. One of the commonest non-ailment related causes of this is laxative containing phenolphthalein, which causes a discoloration. Those containing cascara can cause it, too. You tell me all tests were negative for other possible causes such as infection.

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor: We appreciate the support the employers of Big Spring gave the Howard College Adult Basic Education program last year. Your support and encouragement have given confidence to many employees in the Big Spring area. Many employees received their GED as a result of this support; others improved their reading, English and math skills.

In addition to our basic education program, this department will also be scheduling continuing education courses. We will schedule short courses that will vary in topic and length. We will offer fun courses like Disco Dancing, Western Dancing, Microwave Oven Cooking, and other similar courses. We will offer serious courses such as Preparation for Your Pilot's License, Income Tax Preparation, Business-related refresher courses and others.

We would be glad to talk to you about scheduling a specially-designed course that you feel might benefit your employees. You might have a particular interest that you feel other adults would enjoy learning about; please let us know. We will be broadening our scope of interest for the adult student in the Big Spring area. With a qualified instructor, minimal number of students, acceptable course topic, and adequate facilities, we can schedule a wide variety of courses.

We want to help the adults of Big Spring reach their educational and personal goals; thus, they will be self-fulfilled and make you a better employee. In the near future, an Adult Education representative will visit your office. Please feel free to ask any questions. Our representative will leave Adult Education brochures for your employees at this time.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My job keeps me on the road more than three-fourths of my time. My wife is very unhappy about this, but the job pays so well, I don't see why she should complain. Do you? — J.C.

DEAR J.C.: Yes, I certainly can understand why she is unhappy. From what you say, it sounds like you believe money and things can be a substitute for you and your love. If so, I sincerely hope you will rethink your relationship with your wife.

Because of the nature of my work, there have been many times when I've had to be away from home. It has not always been easy, but both my wife and I know it is because the Lord has given me responsibilities which require it. But I have always tried to make up for my absences in various ways, such as calling my wife whenever possible or making our times together special.

Whether or not you should change jobs is not for me to say. But you need to realize that marriage is a very important responsibility—one that God has given to you. Not only does your wife need you, but your children do too. Only rarely would I advise anyone to take a job that keeps him on the road that much. If you do, you must work extra hard to keep the spark of love in your marriage. I know of one traveling man who calls home once a day wherever he may be in the world and speaks not only to his wife but also to any or all of his six children. Another man places a person-to-person call to each of his children, as well as to his wife, once a week.

Your question about your job reveals a more basic question in your life—the question of your goals. What are you living for? If you are only interested in money, I suggest you are living for the wrong thing. You need to face this honestly, and you need to talk openly about this with your wife. If you love her, it does not mean that you just keep on living for what you want to do.

Your letter does not indicate that you are a Christian. Perhaps God is using this issue to draw you to Himself, so you will commit your life to Christ and seek to live for Him. That will include seeking His will for every area of your life—including your career and your marriage.

POWER RESTORED!

Todd hunted with Robin Hood, and Kristen read CINDERELLA while barrels of rain pelted our windows. Mary prepared our chicken dinner in a deep-fryer which frequently became inaudible as thunder rolled and crashed outside. Light flickered brightly on my newspaper, and the radio crackled as electrical discharges split the sky.

Then, somewhere, a tongue of lightning found its mark. The radio became mute, and my newspaper vanished in darkness. The Merry Men and "Gus-Gus" foundered in the dark, and our supper cooled, half-cooked.

Downed lines! A real problem—whether they are the lines that connect the power station and home, or the lines between God and man.

Through the Church and the Bible, our prayer and worship make God's love for us a two-way line. Come to church this Sunday. Let God say, "Power restored!"

If you have a problem too get problems in our store with a few minutes with the help of our staff. We are the nation's leading in the the Midwest. And we are a part of the 1978 Yearbook.

CAMPING FUN during Girl Scout Fun Week included five days of activities designed to make scouts more aware of the world around them. It didn't take these alert scouts long at all to spot something unusual about

SNEAKING WINKS — A few scouts sneak a nap among the younger children in the Kiddie Corner, operated by volunteers Melinda Corwin, seated in the back, and Lisa Pegan, seated on the right. The girls made it possible for leaders and helpers with small children to participate in Girl Scout Fun Week.

Vegetarians are people who didn't eat meat even when they could afford it. Middle age is when you've given up everything you can, and you still don't feel good. There's really no reason to be afraid of flying — unless you see the pilot in line ahead of you at the flight insurance counter. We get so many letters telling us we've been selected, it's hard to stay humble. If your cup runneth over, you can be sure the tax people will be there with a sponge. We won't tax your budget at YE OLDE POTTERY SHOPPE, 502 Gregg. Runneth on over and see our beautiful pottery, the fine art and unique Indian jewelry, and the lush healthy plants that set it all off.

Girl Scouts earn badges, learn new skills at camp

If you ventured into the unpopulated regions of Comanche Trail Park this week an effort to get away from it all, chances are you ran into an adventurer trying to discover what it's all about. This week, about 77 Howard County Girl Scouts occupied the area across from the ballpark for Girl Scout Fun Week. The fun included hikes, outdoor crafts, cookouts, games, songs and skits. The Girl Scouts, first through sixth graders, made sewing kits, learned how to tie different knots, and were taught knife and fire safety. One girl worked on her gypsy badge and another worked on earning her compass badge. Directed by Donna Fish, the scouts, leaders and helpers were divided into groups. The girls were permitted to choose between several different activities offered by the leaders. First on the agenda was making nametags out of wood, string and paint. The girls wore them around their necks during camp hours, 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., except for one Robbie Dolan who broke hers but carried it in her pocket to prove she wasn't nameless. Each of the Brownies will be awarded a badge, earned by attending camp every day, around a campfire tonight. And Girl Scout Fun Week will come to a close.

Until next year, memories, badges, objects made at camp, and autographs from Danny Valdes will keep them mindful of the fun they had at camp.

BE A DISCOVERER is the theme for this activity. The scouts are completing workbooks with materials supplied by Jan Keyes, business manager. Assignments include planting a bean and charting its growth, making a sewing kit, and mapping an area of Big Spring. The girls are from Elbow, Immaculate Heart, Moss and Marcy Schools. Leaders, in the back wearing sun glasses, are from left, Arlene Foster, Dale Walters, Ina Pruitt and Mary Dubose.

Keep cool on picnic
This chilling note could save a summer picnic when there's no cooler available, says the September 1 Family Circle. Just fill those empty 6- and 12-ounce frozen juice containers with water, snap on saved plastic lids, freeze and place in your picnic basket.

Home canners can now purchase small lids

To a home canner, frustration is not being able to find the right lid size. One lid, the No. 63 mm, hasn't been sold in stores since major manufacturers dropped that jar size from their lines three years ago. Canners who had already purchased the jar size, and others who had collected small coffee and mayonnaise jars to can jams and jellies, were left with no source for lid replacements. The BFG Co. of Waterbury, Conn., is now manufacturing the lid in addition to their regular and wide mouth lids. They are available on a mail order basis. A minimum order of ten dozen lids may be purchased for a cost of $5, including postage and handling.

The lids have been tested and approved by the Ball Corporation and by the University of California at Davis. Production of the No. 63 mm ring has not yet begun but is expected.

The lids may be ordered from The Gardeners Kitchen Box 412, Farmington, Conn. 06032.

Club warms Swann home

The Coahoma Home Demonstration Club gave a house warming for Mrs. Ray Swann Tuesday morning. Mrs. Swann's home burned in June. Members present to welcome her home were Mrs. Bill Mason, Mrs. D.S. Phillips, Mrs. Fred Adams, Mrs. Bill Tinner, Mrs. Charlie Parrish, Mrs. Rufus Parks and Mrs. A.C. Hale. The next meeting for the HD club will be a salad luncheon Sept. 13. Officers for the coming year will be installed. The Swann home is the meeting site.

Dear Abby

A Way To Keep Love in Bloom

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for you, Abby, for advising the woman who had been saving her sexy nighties instead of wearing them to hurry up and make use of them because it was later than she thought!

My husband is a pastor in the Reformed Church, and about 10 years ago we conducted a marriage seminar for 16 married couples.

When they registered, they filled out a questionnaire which contained the question: "Do you undress in the same room with your spouse—or do you undress in the closet?"

Six husbands said their wives undress in the closet, but only four wives admitted to undressing in the closet. (Only one husband undressed in the closet.)

Of those who undress in the closet, five couples are now divorced, and one couple is separated.

All the couples who undressed in front of each other are still married happily. Doesn't this tell you something, Abby?

PASTOR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Yes. Where there's light, there's usually heat.

DEAR ABBY: I recently became very much attracted to a gentleman who proudly admits to being 75. He's a sharp dresser and is full of fun. I am a middle-aged woman, but this man leaves me in the dust when it comes to dancing, bowling, golf, and any other physical exercise you can name.

He seems very much interested in me. My question: At his age, do you think he's harmless—if you know what I mean?

SOPHIE

DEAR SOPHIE: If you mean what I think you mean, a "harmless" man won't be able to do you any good. But whether he can do you any good without doing you any harm will depend on your condition.

DEAR ABBY: My mother has attempted to shelter me from danger and disappointment all my life. I am 30 now, married and a working woman, but in my mother's mind, I am still her "baby."

She worries about me constantly. Example: I don't get home from my job until 9 p.m., so she keeps after me to give up my job so I won't have to drive at night.

If my mother knows that my husband will not be home when I return from work, she drives over and waits for me to be sure I'll get in the door safely.

Abby, I am well aware of the "risks" of living, and I feel perfectly competent to cope with them, but my mother drives me crazy with her overprotectiveness.

I don't want to be told constantly what to do and what not to do. She always sends me clippings from your column. Please print this with your answer so I can clip it and send it to HER!

GROWN UP IN TAHOE

DEAR GROWN UP: You can't control your mother's actions, but you CAN control the way you react to them. One of the most difficult habits to break is worrying—and your mother's excessive concern is simply an ingrained habit.

Let her know that you appreciate her concern about your safety, but don't let her well-meaning solicitude get to you.

TWEEN 12 and 20

Good advice

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D

Dr. Wallace: I think it's about time that someone stood up to defend the advice you gave the boy who was constantly being called a "priss."

I only wish that your column was printed when I was 15 (I'm now 20). I had the same thing happen to me when I transferred schools and it nearly destroyed me.

At that time I was having severe problems at home and had no one to turn to. Guys were even tearing me down in the classroom even with the teacher present.

I was fat, ugly and had a squeaky voice. The more I tried to forget what was happening, the more they "cut" me up. I was an easy target. Many times after being beaten up, I would cry after the guys left.

I'm now in college, but the scars are still there. I've seen three psychiatrists but that didn't really do me a lot of good. I'm slowly coming out of it, but I've got a long way to go.

If only I had started to assert myself a little sooner. I don't know exactly how to say it but I know you are right. If I had had the guts to stand up for myself, I would have avoided tremendous mental pain. I hardly think standing up for oneself can be labeled violence.

If this boy took your advice (punch the next guy who calls you a priss in the nose) you helped him more than he will ever know. If there is some way you can, let him know that there is someone "out there" who had the same problem and would, if he could, return to the past, and punch a few guys in the nose.—Scott, Springfield, Ohio

Scott: To strike another human is deplorable but we both agree that it is much better than the alternative. Those who advocate turning the other cheek in this kind of situation must never have had it happen to them.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Major social problem

Motorcyclists besiege Caracas

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — The young woman was so frightened by the crowd of motorcycle riders around her car that she leaped atop the auto and began shouting for help.

Passing motorists shook their heads. They knew the cyclist would not harm her and meant only to intimidate her into paying for the damage to the bike that had collided with her car. Still, the scene was a reminder that motorcycles have become a major problem in this city of three million.

By latest count nearly 40,000 registered motorcycles, most with open mufflers, rocket through the narrow Caracas Valley, many carrying bill collectors and messengers for companies that have given up on the city's telephones and mail service.

Periodically, newspapers launch campaigns protesting that the motorcycles cause smoke and noise pollution and an excessive number of traffic accidents and deaths. Critics claim that the cycles are also being used increasingly by purse snatchers, and even bank robbers, for quick getaways in Caracas' traffic choked streets.

"Motorcycles here are a social problem," says transit official Domingo Ricovery Lopez.

"Look, who likes motorcycles? But they're faster and more reliable than the mail service, sometimes even faster than trying to get a phone call through," advertising executive Tibor Somlo says.

Hunched over their bikes' handlebars and hurtling through heavy traffic at 60 miles an hour, many of the city's young motorcycle riders see themselves as future Johnny Cecottos. Two years ago Cecotto won the world motorcycle championship in the 350 cc. category, coming home to a hero's welcome that included an invitation to lunch with President Carlos

Sewing suggestions

To sew with corduroy fabrics, use a size 11 (75) or 14 (90) needle and 8 to 10 stitches per inch.

Reduce pressure on the presser foot to prevent fabric layers from shifting, advises Beverly Rhoades, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Andres Perez. The ease with which motorcycles are acquired is a big cause for their growing use in crime, according to the Caracas police. Because of low downpayment requirements, many youths acquire motorcycles they later have trouble paying for, the police say.

Caracas residents complain about the noise generated by motorcycles. Dr. Octavio Jelambi, a physician who has recorded Caracas' noise patterns since 1962, describes Caracas as one of the world's noisiest cities by actual decibel count and says that one in 10 residents has symptoms of deafness.

He blames motorcycles for much of the noise. He says that 60 decibels are tolerable in an open area but that a single motorcycle zooming past with an open muffler breaks 110 decibels.

Dr. Jelambi says he has presented his findings to successive city governments, "but no one pays any attention."

Poke-Bronc bout is one of pride

DENVER (AP) — A Super Bowl grudge match? No. But not just another pre-season game either.

Saturday's National Football League clash between the Dallas Cowboys and the Denver Broncos shapes up as a matter of pride for most of the participants. And both coaches, while insisting it's important to get a look at their younger players, expect inspired performances from their players.

"The fact that it's a sellout, that it's a Saturday afternoon game on national TV, and the fact that we played each other in the Super Bowl will indicate that there is likely to be a little more fire," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry.

"Naturally there's a little added incentive on the part of our players this week as Dallas did stop us from being world champions," said Denver Coach Coach Miller.

Exasperating turnovers, many of them caused by a fierce Dallas pass rush, wrecked the Broncos' Super Bowl plans in New Orleans last January as the Cowboys walked away with a 27-10 triumph. The Broncos are out to prove they're a better team than that. The Cowboys are convinced the better team won and will do so again.

Still, neither coach has lost sight of the main objectives during the pre-season.

"The important thing in a pre-season game is to play well and improve," said Landry. "This one doesn't put a ring on anyone's finger."

Miller echoed those sentiments, saying that "both clubs are a lot more interested in getting ready for Sept. 3 than they are worrying about what happened last January."

While each team's starters will slug it out in the beginning, many new faces will make their appearances during the course of the game. For some, it will be their last. NFL teams must trim their rosters to 66 players next Tuesday, and both Denver and Dallas currently are carrying more than 70 players.

Landry plans few lineup changes. Second-year pro Andy Frederick will start at offensive right tackle in place of veteran Rayfield Wright, who is bothered by a knee injury. With Efran Herrera still refusing to report to camp, the Cowboys will continue to experiment with aspiring place-kickers.

Miller made five changes in his starting lineup from last week's 17-12 victory over Houston, including the insertion of Bill Bain at offensive left tackle in place of Andy Maurer. Rob Nairne will open at an outside linebacker position, replacing the ailing Bob Swenson.

Dallas whipped San Francisco 41-24 in its exhibition opener last week.

Packers-Redskins kick off second week of 'Pre'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dave Butz is certain he will be the center of attention tonight when the massive middle guard and his Washington Redskins teammates square off against the Green Bay Packers.

And for his services, the 6-foot-7, 294-pounder is demanding a no-cut contract.

"Right now we're in a stalemate," says Butz, who mans the pivotal position in the three linemen-four linebacker defense introduced by Redskins Coach Jack Pardee. "It's a waiting game, but the longer they wait, the more likely it becomes that I'll play my option out."

The Washington-Green Bay matchup is the only National Football League pre-season game scheduled tonight, but 12 are scheduled Saturday and the Philadelphia Eagles meet the Houston Oilers on Monday.

With Butz anchoring the defensive line, the Skins held Minnesota to 2.9 yards per rush last weekend but lost 20-13 because of a makeshift secondary and a bumbling receiver corps.

The double- or triple-team pounding Butz draws from offensive linemen while patrolling the trenches from middle guard dictates the need for a new contract, he claims. "If they're going to be using that 3-4 defense, I'd like some kind of insurance."

Green Bay Coach Curly Lambeau, on the other hand, needs to find a cure for his defensive pains. The porous Packers defense surrendered 5 yards per rush in a 17-14 loss to Kansas City.

"That was disappointing ... our defense can play much better," said Starr, whose Packers are also trying to adopt the increasingly popular 3-4 defensive alignment.

Veteran linebacker Fred Carr won't have anything to do with Starr's hoped-for defensive resurgence, however. Carr left camp early in the week and Thursday was given a 5 p.m. Saturday ultimatum by Starr to rejoin the team or not play this season and not get paid.

A Carr representative said the linebacker would rejoin the club before the deadline but would not participate in practices or games.

The point of argument between the parties is Carr's insistence that surgery for removal of a cyst on his right knee would help him play nearer his capabilities. Starr claims team doctors have deemed surgery unnecessary and vetoed the operation Carr sought.

Joe Theismann is expected to be Washington's starting quarterback for the second consecutive week, but veteran Billy Kilmer — though still bothered by a leg injury — may see some action.

Pardee will give his quarterbacks a new-look receiving corps, however, for the contest in Robert F. Kennedy Stadium.

Redskins tight end Jim Mandich, acquired early this year from Miami, gained a starting nod as Pardee moved Jean Fugett — the Skins' top receiver a year ago — from tight end to wide receiver.

Fugett's 6-foot-4, 140-pound frame and deceiving speed was put to similar use two seasons ago when the Amherst grad played for Dallas.

"I'm going to like it," said Fugett. "I caught more passes as a wide receiver for the Cowboys than I did inside."

Washington has a 17-10 lead in its series against Green Bay, including victories in the past five meetings.

Saturday, Dallas is at Denver in a rematch of Super Bowl XII; Detroit visits Cincinnati; St. Louis is at Chicago; Minnesota is at Kansas City; Cleveland travels to Buffalo; New England plays at Oakland; Atlanta meets the Steelers in Pittsburgh; Los Angeles hosts San Diego; Baltimore is at Tampa Bay; Miami plays New Orleans at the Superdome; Seattle is at San Francisco and the New York Jets play the New York Giants.

The contests are a matter of life and death to the extra players on the rosters of virtually every team. Squad sizes must be reduced to 60 Tuesday.

The Cleveland-Buffalo game may decide which rookie quarterback earns the No. 2 spot to Brian Sipe. Coach Sam Rutigliano plans to split the second-half playing time between Johnny Evans and Mark Miller, and "What Evans does Saturday could determine a lot," said the first-year Browns coach.

The Bengals will seek their eighth consecutive exhibition triumph over Detroit when the teams clash at Riverfront Stadium.

Oiler option story

HOUSTON (AP) —

Houston Oilers teammates Billy "White Shoes" Johnson and Ronnie Coleman both are playing out their options with the National Football League club—they're just taking different routes to reach the same goal.

While Johnson has become one of the most celebrated holdouts in the NFL, Coleman reported to camp at San Angelo to fulfill the final year of his contract.

Johnson will likely watch from the Astrodome stands Monday night while Coleman will be playing when the Oilers host the Philadelphia Eagles in their second exhibition game.

"The Oilers made me an offer that was ridiculous," said Coleman, the Oilers' leading rusher the past two seasons. "It was embarrassing to me. I have one more year to go and then we'll see what happens."

Johnson, the NFL punt return leader last season, has vowed not to report to the Oilers for the last year of his current contract until it is renegotiated.

Coleman would not criticize Johnson for remaining away from training camp on a year when the Oilers think they have a chance to make the playoffs.

"That's Billy's way of handling the situation and I've got mine so I guess we'll just wait and see," Coleman said. "Neither one of us has our money so I guess it's too early to tell."

Coleman and Johnson were integral parts of the Oilers' late season surge to an 8-6 record last season and apparently expected a more favorable response from Oiler management at the negotiating table.

Three Cowboys out

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Trainers have listed three Dallas Cowboys as "definitely out" of Saturday afternoon's exhibition replay of Super Bowl XII in Denver's Mile High Stadium against the Denver Broncos.

Second-year tackle Jim Eidson has a neck injury, second-year running back Larry Brinson has a groin injury, and rookie defensive back Kenny Randle has a neck injury.

Listed as "doubtful" for Saturday's nationally televised kickoff are 11-year veteran defensive lineman Larry Cole (knee), fourth-year running back Scott Laidlaw (ankle) and rookie tight end Frank Dudley, foot.

Coach Tom Landry has indicated he will go with his starters most of the way against Denver, with some playing as much as three quarters.

It will be the second pre-season game for both clubs. After Saturday's contest, the Cowboys will return to Thousand Oaks for their final week of training camp at California Lutheran College.

Reds blue, Blue is red

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As young Bob Welch prepared to walk to the mound Thursday night at Dodger Stadium, one of his teammates suggested that Los Angeles might break out of its slump, that the Dodgers might even score 10 runs.

"I couldn't believe it," said Welch, "and to think the guy was wrong but in the right way."

The Dodgers thundered 16 hits off San Francisco ace Vida Blue and two successors for a rousing 12-2 victory that left Los Angeles and the Giants with identical 67-48 records in the National League West.

While the Dodgers and San Francisco deadlocked in the frantic race for first place, the Cincinnati Reds were clobbered 15-3 by the San Diego Padres, but remained just one-half game off the pace. However, they are now in third place rather than second.

In the only other NL game, the Philadelphia Phillies downed the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1 and upped their lead in the NL East to 3½ games over the Chicago Cubs.

Reggie Smith led the Dodgers' biggest attack in nearly two months with a home run and three singles to account for five runs. Ron Cey slugged his 14th homer and Steve Garvey had a bases-loaded triple, a double and a single. The victory was Los Angeles' sixth in a row.

Blue, 16-5, was knocked out in the fourth inning as his 10-game winning streak came to a resounding halt.

Welch, now 4-0, hurled his second straight victory over San Francisco. He launched the Dodgers on their latest winning streak with a 2-0 shutout of the Giants last Saturday.

Phillies 3, Pirates 1
Dick Ruthven pitched a fivehitter for his fifth consecutive victory, tripled home the tying run in the third inning and scored the winner on Larry Bowa's double. Since coming to the Atlanta, Ruthven has posted an 8-2 record to boost his overall mark to 10-8. One of the Pirates' hits was Dave Parker's 18th home run of the season.

'Different' Connors still U.S. Clay favorite

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Jimmy Connors realizes he's expected to win every time he walks onto a tennis court and he likes the idea.

"I worked 26 years for that role," said Connors Thursday after advancing to today's quarter-finals in the $210,000 68th U.S. Open Clay Court tennis championships.

"I had the other role

(being an underdog) for a long time. The thing about being in my position is it brings out a different level of play. Even if I'm not hitting the ball that well, I'm going to squeak through a lot of matches just because of it."

Connors led a parade of seeded players into the quarter-finals. He was scheduled to play No. 6 seed

John McEnroe in a rematch of their 1977 Wimbledon semifinal in one of today's matches.

Defending champion Manuel Orantes, seeded third, met Jeff Borowiak; No. 2 seed Guillermo Vilas of Argentina battled No. 7 Jose Higueras of Spain, and Italy's Corrado Barazzutti, seeded fourth, met Kjell Johansson of Sweden.

Connors had some of that trouble in Thursday's third round, getting by 10th-seeded Jaime Fillol of Chile 7-5, 6-4.

Connors took a 5-2 advantage in the first set, but Fillol rallied to tie at 5-5, but Connors broke Fillol's service in the 11th game, then held service to capture the set.

Connors said he hasn't seen McEnroe much since their 1977 match.

"I'm too busy taking care of my own business ... I really don't enjoy watching tennis ... It's kind of a drain watching the ball, moving the head. It takes something out of you."

"I don't worry about my opponent. My game can hold up to anyone."

McEnroe advanced with a 7-5, 6-2 decision over Hungary's Balazs Taroczy; Orantes scored a 6-3, 6-1 verdict over Argentina's Jose-Luis Clerc; Borowiak rallied for a 5-7, 6-3, 6-4 triumph over Zan Guerry; Johansson ousted Austria's

Peter Figel 4-6, 6-4, 6-3; Barazzutti overcame a challenge by Italian Davis Cup teammate Adriano Panatta, 5-7, 6-4, 6-0; Higueras eliminated Chris Lewis of New Zealand 6-3, 6-0 and Vilas routed 1977 semifinalist Phil Dent of Australia, 6-1-6-0.

The match was the fifth in four days for Vilas, who had to play twice on Monday to win a tournament at South Orange, N.J., before his opening-round match here.

In women's semifinals, Janet Newberry was scheduled to meet Argentina's Viviana Gonzalez and Jeanne Evert met UCLA team member Dana Gilbert, an 18-year-old who has reached the women's semifinals despite being ranked No. 134 in the latest women's tennis rankings.

Newberry defeated Caroline Stoll 6-2, 6-1; Gilbert defeated Jeanne DuVall 6-3, 6-4; Evert topped Valerie Ziegenfuss 6-7, 6-1, 8-6; and Gonzalez bested Kate Latham 7-5, 7-5.

'HERE'S WHERE' — Steer Head Basketball Coach Tommy Collins shows local athlete Haywood Houston which hospital to visit for his physical examination. All Big Spring athletes received their physicals Thursday for the upcoming school year. New Steer trainer Ben Carbal, center, and Assistant Varsity Coach Tom Koger view the proceedings. The next important date for the Steers is Aug. 16, when they will be issued football shoes and socks.

Local coaching slots filled

All coaching positions in the Big Spring Independent School District have been filled, according to Athletic Director and Head Football Coach Ron Logback.

The latest additions to the local staff include Erwin Bloxdorf, a 14-year veteran coach from El Paso Irvin. Bloxdorf was an assistant coach under Logback when the latter was head football coach at that far West Texas high school.

Bloxdorf will be an offensive receiver and defensive linebacker coach on the varsity program.

David Davis from Alice has been hired as a JV football coach, and Johnny Schafer was brought on as an assistant tennis coach.

Bill Blosskas will be the new head varsity track coach. Blosskas has coached for 21 years, and has led Class AA Tide-Haven to two state championships. He's coming to Big Spring from Kenedy High School.

Blosskas will also be a freshman football coach and head of the cross-country program.

Randy Britton is joining the Steers as a freshman football coach and assistant track coach. He hails from Winters.

Carole Bartasek, girls' head basketball coach last season, has been moved up to head volleyball coach, and will assist in other aspects of the girls' program as well.

Barbara Moffit will be the head girls' track coach and an assistant in other sports. Joe Allen, who coached girls' basketball in Oklahoma for seven years and has spent the last 10 years coaching at Farwell and Waco in Texas, has been hired as the new girls' head basketball coach.

Ben Carbal, assistant athletic trainer at the University of Arizona for the past six years, has taken the position here as head trainer.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, AUGUST 12, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There are delays and obstacles in almost everything you do during the early part of the day. By evening you have considerable energy to tackle financial matters and social ones also. Be outgoing.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You may not be able to finish all the tasks you planned early, but by late afternoon you find you can make up for lost time. Save amusements until evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Recreational activities are delayed so take time to make yourself more presentable and later all is fine.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Start work on a plan that will help you get ahead and try to perfect it. See what you can do to improve conditions at home. Evening fine for socializing.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You get a slow start in handling errands and shopping chores, but keep at it and finish. Not a good day to have talks with persons in business since they are in an irate mood.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You think you are low in funds, but if you make sure not to spend for unnecessary things, you soon can make your money stretch nicely.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Daytime is not good for going after personal aims, so wait until evening for such. Stop needing others, especially close ties, and be happy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) There may be delays in getting chores done during the day but be philosophical about it. Have a good time with congenials later.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Stick to business during daytime. Entertain friends in the evening, but watch expenditures.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle boring matters early and then do whatever appeals to you most. Follow through with what adviser suggests.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Research new projects thoroughly before putting into operation. Be sure you really understand suggestions partner makes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You may have to spend more time than is necessary in handling obligations, but the effort will pay off handsomely. Try to please mate more and come to a better understanding.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be considerate of those around you and gain their goodwill. An associate could be troublesome if you permit. Be firm.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will prove to be quite successful during the lifetime provided you teach early to work out problems. Permit to choose own profession.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Bowa pops writer?

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A baseball writer allegedly was struck in the face Thursday night during an argument with the Philadelphia Phillies' Larry Bowa over a column critical of the National League All-Star shortstop.

Ray W. Kelly, 37, a baseball reporter for the Courier-Post in Camden, N.J., for 14 years, suffered a slight bruise on the right cheekbone.

Bowa later denied that he struck the writer.

But the Courier-Post said it was considering taking legal action against the shortstop.

The Philadelphia chapter chairman of the National Baseball Writers Association protested the incident.

And Phillies' Manager Danny Ozark issued an apology.

Kelly said he did not see who hit him, but Ray Didingar, a Philadelphia Bulletin columnist, said Bowa's open hand brushed the writer while the shortstop was struggling to get free of Ron Reed, a 6-foot-6 teammate who had restrained Bowa.

"If I can get out of the grasp of Ron Reed, I'm sure a strong human being," said the 32-year-old Bowa after helping the Phillies beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3-1, Thursday night. "I'll see you in court I guess."

Bowa added, "I did not touch a human being, and I'm willing to swear on a million bibles in a courtroom filled with anybody you want."

Braves seek night tilts

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Braves will seek permission from the other National League teams to play Sunday games at night during the three hottest months of the 1979 season.

According to Braves General Manager Bill Lucas, the team wants to play Sunday night baseball in June, July and August in order to the avoid hot, humid afternoon games that hurt attendance.

Lucas said Thursday he expects to get the six votes he needs for the change at next week's league meeting.

"I haven't been lobbying," Lucas said, "but I don't foresee any difficulty. Texas plays all its home games at night for the same reason — the daytime heat."

Under the plan, the Braves would continue to play Sunday day games in April, May and September.

Ex-Aero files suit

HOUSTON (AP) — A former player for the Houston Aeros professional hockey team is suing Hockey Venture Inc. and the World Hockey Association for $149,000 he claims is still owed him.

Frank Hughes filed suit Thursday in district court asking for money he says is due him under a contract he signed with the team before it disbanded due to financial problems and filed a reorganization plan in bankruptcy court.

Hughes' suit said the World Hockey Association took over the obligation to pay him, then Hockey Venture assumed the obligation.

The suit said the defendants breached the contract by not allowing Hughes to play hockey and not paying him money owed him.

LL concludes tonight

WACO, Texas (AP) — North Houston National and Lake Jackson will meet at 8 o'clock tonight for the Texas Little League championship and the right to advance into next week's Southern Regional tournament at St. Petersburg, Fla.

North Houston National eliminated Houston Braes Bayou 9-6 in extra innings Thursday night, while Lake Jackson won its berth in the finals with an easy 14-2 triumph over Gregory-Portland.

North Houston catcher Richard Blake blasted a two-out triple in the top of the sixth to tie the score at 6-6, and his team went on to score three runs in the eighth inning for its victory.

Lake Jackson scored in every inning except the second, pounding out 16 hits to knock Gregory-Portland from competition.

Oil starters named

WICHITA FALLS, Texas — Texas and Oklahoma Oil Bowl coaches have announced starting lineups for the 41st annual schoolboy classic here Aug. 12.

Mike Brannan of Brazoswood will start at quarterback for Texas, and Sherman's Eddie Wright and Phil Weatherall of Greenville will be the running backs.

Texas has a potentially strong passing game, with split ends Robert Mitchell of Houston Worthing and Tony Shelton of Waco.

Quarterbacking the Oklahoma team is Craig Lance of Fairfax, Okla. Claremore's Jay Sturgeon and Mike Swart of Kingfisher are scheduled to start at runningbacks.

Defensive standouts for Texas include Adrian Price of Galveston Ball, Ron Reeves of Lubbock Monterey and Sam Houston of Abilene Cooper.

Oklahoma all-stars Rob Shaff of Putnam City and Ken Muncy of Shawnee will anchor the Oklahoma defensive line.

The Oil Bowl, a charity game benefitting area crippled children, will be played in Wichita Falls Memorial Stadium. Texas holds a 26-6-1 advantage since the game adopted the Texas-Oklahoma format in 1945.

Oklahoma coaches are Dan Sullivan, Larry Coker and Gene Smith. Texas coaches are Charlie Johnston, Tommy Hudspeth and James Odum.

'Chicken Feed Blues'

MANHASSET, N.Y. (AP) — Laura Baugh, who has never been a winner since joining the ladies golf tour six years ago, is getting sick and tired of collecting weekly checks of only $900 to $1,200 for her efforts.

The pretty 23-year-old blonde ranks only 29th on this year's money list with $20,899 after 18 tournaments. Following her 3-under-par 70 Thursday in the $100,000 classic at the North Hills Country Club, Baugh feels things will change.

Laura was three strokes behind Canadian-born Sandra Post, who carded seven birdies and only one bogey on the par-63, 6,413-yard course. Sally Little of South Africa was second in the 72-hole competition with a 68, one stroke better than Kathy Postlewait.

"I haven't shot a really low rounds this year," said Baugh, who is known more for her commercial endorsements than for her play on the golf course.

Cowboys readying for Supe rematch on TV

THIS WEEK — The World Champion Dallas Cowboys (1-0 in pre-season play) visit the defending American Football Conference Champion Denver Broncos (1-0) on Saturday in a nationally televised rematch of Super Bowl XII. The Cowboys opened pre-season action last Saturday night with a 41-24 victory over the San Francisco 49ers, while the Broncos won at Houston, 17-12.

KICKOFF — 1 p.m. MDT (2 p.m. Dallas time) at Mile High Stadium. Crowd: An anticipated sellout. Capacity, 75,087.

TELEVISION — Telecast nationally by CBS (KDFW-TV, Channel 4, in Dallas) with Pat Summerall and Tom Brookshier.

RADIO — KRLD (1080 in Dallas) and the 14-state Mutual Dallas Cowboys Network with Frank Blierer, Verne Lundquist and Brad Sham.

SERIES STANDING — The teams have met only once before in pre-season, the Broncos earning a 13-9 decision at Dallas in 1976. The Cowboys own a 1-0 edge in regular season play, a 22-10 triumph at Denver in 1973. Dallas defeated the Broncos, 27-10, in Super Bowl XII last January 15 in New Orleans' Superdome.

THE COACHES — Tom Landry, the only head coach the Cowboys have had, owns a career record of 149-95-6 to rank sixth among the all-time winningest NFL coaches. His teams have been in four Super Bowls, won two, have been in the playoffs 11 of the past 12 seasons and have built a 124-42-2 record over those dozen years.

Red Miller's first year as head coach in 1977 turned the Broncos' fortunes around. Their 12-2 record equaled that of the Cowboys, and Denver went on to reach the playoffs for the first time in the 18-year history of the club, win the AFC title and advance to the Super Bowl against Dallas.

HOW IT SHAPES UP — Tom Landry was brief in his comments concerning this Saturday's rematch between the Cowboys and Broncos: "I think it's more interesting to have a rematch like this game. I don't think it'll be played like a Super Bowl, though. If it is, I hope they win this one and we win the next one."

Concerning veterans Rayfield Wright, normally the Cowboys starting right tackle but sidelined again so far this year (he missed all but two games in 1977) with a knee problem, and starting left cornerback Benny Barnes, who had off-season foot surgery, Landry said:

"We've been at it (with the veterans in training camp) for two weeks now and I haven't seen any major improvement in Rayfield's condition. The reason we held him out of the 49ers game was because he didn't look good the last couple days in practice last week. He's favoring the leg and he's going to have to push himself and get it to where he can run on it. I guess two-day workouts got him favoring it more."

"Right now Andy Frederick (second-year tackle from New Mexico) is No. 1 at right tackle. Hopefully, Andy will come along. Rayfield will be our No. 1 tackle if he gets the leg in shape because he's too good a football player (not to start)."

"Benny is having trouble with that foot and we're concerned about him. It takes time for it to be built back up and get strong again. We're protecting him right now. I think it'll come around once we get back to one-a-day practices."

Landry cited rookies Todd Christensen, Alois Blackwell (running backs) and cornerback Dennis Thurman as rookies who "handled their situations" against San Francisco. "Dave Kraayeveld (defensive end who scored on a 61-yard interception return) had the big play, and I'm anxious to see if he did anything else when I view the films," he added. "But it's a long way from Milton (Wis.) College to the Cowboys, so we'll see if he continues to show. Maybe we'll be able to wait a year for him to develop."

Landry also said he had no feelings on how any other rookies performed and refused to speculate on how many could make this year's Dallas team: "I never have any idea about how many rookies will make it. There's two openings on the team as I see it (due to retirements of Ralph Neely and Mel Renfro). We have six or seven good prospects in camp. I can't say they'll all make it, but they might." (Landry didn't elaborate on who the six or seven prospects were, in his opinion.)

He had special praise for left tackle Pat Donovan, the four-year veteran who replaced Wright at right tackle last year and moved over to replace Neely this season. "He looked very good (against the 49ers). Pat Donovan is going to get better and better. He can play either side very well."

Landry also indicated that he would switch placekickers against the Broncos with Jay Sherrill entering the game as the No. 1 PAT and field goal kicker and Ove Johansson (who missed a field goal and extra point against San Francisco) handling the kicking off chores. Those roles were reversed against the 49ers.

"The best part of the 49ers game was we came out of it pretty good in jury-wise. Also, we stayed with our game plan and played who we wanted to in the different quarters."

NEXT WEEK — The Cowboys break training camp for 1978 Fri., Aug. 18 and play a pre-season game against the Houston Oilers Aug. 19 in Texas Stadium at 8 p.m.

No lie! Jim Bouton may really be back!

ATLANTA (AP) — No longer a publicity gimmick, Jim Bouton's summer of content at Savannah may have earned the best-selling author another crack at the major leagues.

Armed with determination and a knuckleball instead of the fastball that earned him the nickname "Bulldog" during the 1960s with the New York Yankees, the 39-year-old Bouton has baffled his detractors and Southern League hitters in chalking up a 9-6 pitching record.

"I feel I have proven myself," the former World Series hero said Thursday of his record with the Class AA Savannah Braves.

"I didn't want to get called up right away," Bouton said in a telephone interview. "I didn't want to be a gimmick. I didn't want it to appear as a stunt. I wanted to earn my chance. That's why I'm glad I was sent down to the minor leagues and allowed to pitch a lot."

"But now, I've had 16 starts and 12 of them have been real good. I feel that now I'm one of their best pitching prospects."

Bouton, author of the best-selling book "Ball Four," was referring to the National League Atlanta Braves and owner Ted Turner, who signed the right-hander in May after Bouton pitched batting practice for the Braves' Richmond, Va., farm club for meal money.

"I'm ready to pitch in Atlanta or anywhere else," said Bouton, who last pitched in the major leagues eight years ago. "I really believe that I deserve a shot. I've proved I could win. I've shown that my age isn't a factor because I've won after all-night bus rides, pitched extra inning games and pitched nine complete games."

The record bears out the controversial Bouton, who gave up a job as a sportscaster for a New York City television station and sold his New Jersey home for a smaller one to concentrate on his comeback.

After 16 starts, Bouton owns nine complete games and an earned run average of 2.73.

"Like I said at the beginning of the season, if Hoyt Wilhelm could throw knuckleballs at 49, then anybody in good shape should be able to do the same thing," said Bouton, who is in excellent shape at 5 feet 10 and 165 pounds.

"I feel I have the potential to pitch in the big leagues for 10 more years," said Bouton, who claims he is not upset at remaining in Savannah despite his success.

"No, I'm not disappointed. I said at the beginning that part of the satisfaction comes just from playing baseball and that I would be fulfilled and happy just to come back," he said.

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — To share the lead with Ben Crenshaw in the opening round of the $225,000 Pleasant Valley Classic.

"I still like to beat the young guys," he added. "I also feel I know more about the game than ever. I'll hang it up only when I lose that competitive desire."

Barber, who has earned more than $1.4 million since joining the pro tour in 1959, carded an eagle and four birdies with only one bogey while sporting tape at the

Career chosen in prison camp

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Like most doctors, Maj. Tom McNish thought a long time before starting a medical career. Unlike most doctors, McNish did his thinking in a North Vietnamese prison camp.

McNish, 36, who spent six and one-half years as a North Vietnamese prisoner after his F105 Phantom was shot down over Hanoi in 1966, is a new family practice resident at a San Antonio hospital.

But he didn't begin thinking about medicine as a future career until his prison ordeal.

"I had always wanted to fly and I loved the Air Force, but I felt I'd better start thinking about what I could do if I couldn't fly again," he said.

"But I wanted to feel useful in doing something for someone else. I chose medicine as the way to go," he added.

McNish was released by the North Vietnamese on March 4, 1973 — exactly six and one-half years from the date of his capture.

"I started harassing the flight surgeon on the flight from Hanoi on how I should go about getting into medical school," McNish said.

McNish was promoted to captain after his release, remained in the Air Force and was promoted to major two years ago. The Air Force paid for McNish's year of pre-med training and four years of medical school at Emory University in Atlanta.

"I wanted to combine my love of the Air Force with my desire to help people," he said. "Four years from now, I'll be a combination flight surgeon and family practitioner. The families of flyers have special medical problems, something I can relate to."

McNish was captured Sept. 4, 1966 when ground fire struck his jet during a mission to bomb fuel storage tanks. He ejected safely over enemy territory.

"After capture, I was marched through several villages on the way to Hanoi," he said. "The people yelled and threw rocks as I was marched through. I thought, 'This is it.'"

He was taken to Hoa Lo prison, known by the POWs as the "Hanoi Hilton," and interrogated and tortured for five days.

McNish spent the next three years at Cu Loc prison on the outskirts of Hanoi after being forced to pose for fake capture pictures. He was moved to a variety of other prisons before being released.

"That picture ran in Time magazine. It was the first time my mother had proof I was still alive," he said.

"During the initial search by the North Vietnamese, they took away all my personal possessions. Except one," said McNish. "It was a key chain my mother had given me just before I left for Southeast Asia."

"The chain had a medallion. On one side, there were hands clasped in prayer. On the other side, the Prayer of Serenity was written. The part of the prayer about things I could not change kept me going. I kept the medallion with me, hiding it from the guards until they found it three months later," he said.

"Having that medallion was no accident. I can't help but feel some bigger force wants me to have it when I needed it. Boy, did I need it then."

"Everything's coming up roses for me now," continued McNish, who has a wife and three children. "Since I got home, things have gone beautifully for me."

Medical school survey shows

Hypertension higher among most air traffic controllers

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Work stress, job dissatisfaction and alienation are associated with a variety of physical and psychological disorders among air traffic controllers, a Boston University School of Medicine study says.

The five-year medical study released Thursday was commissioned by the Federal Aviation Administration and conducted by Boston University researchers.

The study surveyed 416 male air traffic controllers in the Boston and New York areas. They ranged in age from 25 to 49 and had worked at their jobs from 3 to 20 years.

The researchers said air traffic controllers are two to four times more likely to have hypertension than the average for the general population. Of the controllers who participated in the study, 135 had borderline or definite hypertension when the study began and an additional 36 developed hypertension during the study.

However they said results of the study should not be interpreted to mean air traffic control work itself causes hypertension.

The researchers said less than 1 percent of the controllers had physiological symptoms of alcoholism, significantly lower than the national average, and the rate of alcohol abuse was about the same as that of men in other occupations.

However, the report noted a potential health problem in the high use of alcohol in social drinking after work.

Dr. Robert M. Rose, one of the researchers connected with the study, said the younger men who have less experience with the FAA experienced more mild and moderate health changes.

He said the high illness group claimed to have more invested in their work and that their work "cost" them a lot subjectively.

The same group also reported the least satisfaction with management and consistently rated their supervisors as showing less than adequate consideration for others, Rose said.

"The men who were more likely to develop psychological problems or minor illnesses were more likely to be dissatisfied with their job situation and feel alienated on the job," Rose said.

"Also, the air traffic controllers in general expressed a much more negative attitude toward the FAA than did other groups."

Rose said the job dissatisfaction and feeling of job alienation probably were strongly related to a lack of positive feedback concerning work performance.

"If a problem or accident occurs, the plane's tapes (flight recordings) are pulled and the responsibility for the problem is pinpointed," he said.

"Quite often the air traffic controller is blamed. On the other hand, the men we studied often reported a lack of positive reinforcement to let them know they had performed well."

The Professional Air Traffic Controller's Organization, the air traffic controllers' union, may have inadvertently contributed to the job dissatisfaction and low morale, Rose said.

"In representing air traffic controllers in contract negotiations, PATCO has emphasized and obtained higher salaries and increased benefits for its membership," he said. "But money and benefits might not have been as important to air traffic controllers as an overall improvement in the work environment."

The report said air traffic controllers experienced fewer psychiatric problems than average for the general population, except for a relatively high rate of "impulse control difficulties," such as the inability to control anger. It said the problem was chronic with only a few of those studied.

The researchers also found there was a self-fulfilling aspect to "burn-out," the phenomenon whereby some controllers later in their careers feel they no longer can handle the job. The report said burnout is caused more by the belief that it will occur rather than by the difficulties of the work.

Rose said the researchers offered several recommendations.

They suggested the FAA

NWS survey team chief says

Deaths might have been lower

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The death toll in last week's devastating Hill Country flood might have been reduced if the National Weather Service had more monitoring systems in the area, according to the chief of a NWS disaster survey team.

The team made an on-site review of the effectiveness of the service's "total warning system" during the disastrous flash floods of Aug. 1-2 in Banderita, Kerr and Kendall counties which killed 24 persons.

Earl Estelle said the NWS was kept from knowing the magnitude of the record flood due to a shortage of rainfall-measuring stations and river level-measuring stations in the area.

"We knew something was going on," he said. "But only after the fact did we realize we had a monster of a storm on our hands."

If there had been more monitoring stations, Estelle said, "we could have given an accurate warning of what turned out to be the storm of the century there."

Although flood warnings were issued hours before the flood, Estelle said the danger was not adequately stressed, he said. As a result, Hill Country residents, "did not feel sufficiently threatened."

Better warning could have been given — and the death toll reduced — if "the National Weather Service and the local officials had been in possession of more detailed information a few hours earlier," a preliminary report by the team states.

However, the report said, prompt evacuation efforts "helped to keep the death toll much lower than it might have been; hundreds could have died."

"The most serious flooding and resultant deaths took place in the early morning hours of Wednesday, Aug. 2. Many people were asleep as the flood waters rose to record or near record heights," the report stated.

"They had gone to bed with full knowledge that the area was under a warning. The problem was that they did not feel sufficiently threatened. Previous floods with which they had experience never approached the same incredible severity," it said.

The 30 inches of rain which fell within the affected area caused flash flooding of "extraordinary magnitude...alltime record floods occurred at several places," the report said.

As an example of the flood's magnitude, Estelle said an old house built in the 1870s, which the local sheriff said had never been touched by flood waters, no longer exists.

"The house was one of hundreds of homes and trailers destroyed in what is basically a thinly populated area," he said.

At the NWS in College Station, an agricultural weather specialist hesitated to call the deluge anything more than a temporary halt to the Texas drought.

"That's about as far as I would want to go now," said James M. Yates. Croplands hit by the heaviest rains were probably hurt more than helped.

The rains came too late to benefit most crops in South Texas, according to Yates. Many, including sorghum, were already harvested.

The rain also saturated the soil so quickly that only the first couple of inches were any help. "It just couldn't go through, so the runoff didn't help anyone," he said.

TAKING A BREAK — Tired firefighters take a break from the hot line near Cazadero in Northern California Thursday. The lightning-sparked blaze has burned some 10,000 acres of brush and timber near the Russian River community 60 miles north of San Francisco.

Job rating at most depressed level

Carter not tough enough, poll shows

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans don't think Jimmy Carter has shown the toughness they want in the nation's leader, an Associated Press-NBC News poll shows.

This perception plays a major role in the continuation of the public's low rating of Carter's work in the White House. In the poll taken this week, his job rating was at the most depressed level of his term.

The public perceptions of Carter were not all dark ones, however.

People's trust in Carter, as distinguished from their rating of his performance, was up again this month. This continues a trend that began earlier this summer after 15 months of decline.

The latest poll was taken Monday and Tuesday. The majority of the 1,600 telephone interviews were completed before it was announced that Carter would meet with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat at Camp David next month to try to restart the stalled Middle East peace talks.

Two-thirds of those interviewed said that, in general, Carter has not been tough enough as president in trying to get things done. About 25 percent said he has set the right tone and 3 percent said he has been too tough. Six percent were not sure.

This perception is related to Carter's low job rating.

Among those who think Carter has set the right tone in the Oval Office, his job rating is a split 49-49. But among those who say he hasn't been tough enough, his rating is 19-80.

Overall in this week's poll, 26 percent of the public gave Carter a "good" or "excellent" job rating. But 73 percent labeled his performance "only fair" or "poor". One percent were undecided.

In the June AP-NBC News poll, 27 percent gave Carter good or excellent marks while 70 percent rated his work only fair or poor. Since the error margin for a poll of 1,600 people is 3 percent, it cannot be said that this change is a significant one.

The perception of a lack of toughness in Carter's actions goes beyond this country's dealings with the Soviet Union — the area usually mentioned in relation to presidential toughness.

Fifty-three percent said Carter has not been tough enough with the Russians, while 4 percent said he had been too tough. Thirty-four percent said he has set the right tone. Nine percent were not sure.

The major bright spot for Carter is the public's trust rating.

Forty-seven percent said you can trust Carter to do what's right at least most of the time. Half said you can trust him only sometimes or almost never.

That 47-50 split compares to the 45-53 trust rating found in the June survey. Prior to June, the rating of the president who had made trust a major campaign pledge had fallen steadily since he took office.

Another major finding of the poll was a substantial base of generalized opposition to a Carter re-election bid in 1980.

Half of those questioned said they do not want Carter to run for re-election. Thirty-eight percent said they would like to see him run. Twelve percent were undecided.

Several councilmen shocked by size of airport study bill

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City city council has voted the engineering firm of Park Hill, Smith and Cooper $5,492 for an airport study which the council received in April this year.

Several members of the council expressed shock over the size of the bill, which included a study on needed improvements at the present city-county airstrips, on repairs and improvements needed at the city's new air facility, once a landing and takeoff strip for Webb AFB; and costs of a new airport.

The council has also voted to give the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce $1,000 for advertising purposes to promote the annual Railroad Arts and Crafts Show. The money is taken from a tax on hotels and motels.

Baptist group slates picnic

The Big Spring Baptist Association will meet on Saturday, Aug. 19 emphasizing a theme "Family — It's Worth the Effort."

The event will include an old time picnic, softball, golf, horseshoe games, dominoes, washers and other events.

It will center in the Old Settlers' Pavilion in Comanche Trail Park and will start in the morning with golf at 8 a.m. in the municipal golf course. Other events, such as volleyball, arts, crafts, cooking and canning display begin at 1 p.m.

There will also be an old-fashioned swap shop. Stew will be served, along with homemade ice cream and other food from 6-7 p.m.

A talent show will follow at 7 p.m. with the Rev. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of First Baptist Church, acting as master of ceremonies.

The show will include skits, songs, solos, and a puppet show. There will be no speaking or preaching.

Sam Robertson,

brotherhood director for Big Spring Baptist Men, said that 31 churches will be involved from Stanton, Coahoma, Tarzan, Garden City, and Big Spring.

This is the first time, it has ever been tried and between one and two thousand Baptist are expected. It will include everything from games to watermelon cutting and fun for the entire family.

Youth lead revival here

Youth will lead a revival at Phillips Memorial Baptist Church from Aug. 10-13.

The church is located at 5th and State and services will be held four nights at 7:30 p.m. led by the local youth director.

Rick Davis will be visiting evangelist and Allen Danton will lead the singing.

The public is invited to participate in the event.

Primary fair held by Mormons

The young children of the primary department of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints celebrated their 100th birthday by giving a special program for their parents, grandparents and other visitors.

They had been studying the customs of foreign lands, and along with their teachers, came dressed in native costumes of these countries they had studied. Represented by different age groups, they were dressed as Hawaiian, Indian, Japanese, Spanish, Holland Dutch, and American Indian and pioneers.

They sang a special birthday song in German, French, Spanish, and American. This song was written especially for the primary children all over the world to sing at birthday times, whether it be for an organizational function, or an individual child's birthday.

Their closing song was "I Love My Land America", and they were joined by their parents. The primary colors are red, yellow, and blue, and they have flags in these colors to salute, and a song telling what these colors stand for.

Refreshments of homemade graham crackers, homemade bread, jelly and jam were served. Arts and crafts made by the children throughout the year were displayed for the parents to see.

A centerpiece of the World Globe and dolls dressed in foreign costumes was used on the main table. Mrs. Don Forner is the president of the primary group and her counselors were Mrs. Marshall Horn and Mrs. Lloyd Lovelless.

The first primary event was held 100 years ago in Farmington, Utah on August 25, 1878. Children who attend primary are from the age of 3-12 years. The emphasis of primary is to teach the children to understand and have pride in their heritages, to reaffirm their basic principles of faith in God, obedience, prayer, punctuality and good manners.

They are taught a small portion of genealogy, simple sewing and cooking, club scouting, cleanliness in both mind and body, pride in their ability to work. They are often taken to the stake farm with their parents and allowed to help with the work taking place there.

They help beautify by removing rocks and collected trash that distract. They are taught to help in food preparation, drying or canning, so they might know the value of nutritional foods for their body.

"A Farthing's Worth"
WHERE HAVE I HEARD THIS STORY BEFORE ???
Feeling footlose and irksome, a leather-brained fellow forced his fond father to look over his farmings. He flew far to foreign fields and littered his fortune, feasting fabulously with faithless friends.
Finally facing famine and fleeced by his fellows-in-lolly, he found himself a feed-finger in a filthy farmyard. Fairly famishing he faint would have filled his frame with foraged food from the fodder fragment.
"Foooo, my father's flunkies fara far fancieri!" the frazzled fugitive fumed feverishly, frantically facing facts.
Frustrated by failure and filled with forberding he fled forthwith to his family. Falling at his father's feet, he floundered forlornly. "Father, I have flunked and fruitlessly forfeited family favor!" But the faithful father, forstalling further flinching, frantically flapped the flunkies to fetch forth the finest falling and fix a feast.
The fugitive's faith-finding frater, frowned on the flicts forgiveness of former folsard. His fury flashed but fassing was futile. The far-sighted father figured "such filial fidelity is fine but what forbids fervent festivity for the fugitive is found. Unhurl the flags! With fan-fares flaring, set fun and frolic freely flow." Farmer failure is forgotten, belly forsaken. Forgiveness forms the foundation for future fortune.
(You may well want to read Luke 15:11-32 and see how well the parable is recounted above.)

Robertsons resign post at College Park Church

O.D. Robertson, pastor of College Park Church of God resigns effective August 13 to accept a position of State Director of Youth and Christian Education for the Church of God in Texas.

He will be living in Weatherford, and traveling throughout the state. The family moved here July 4, 1969, from Plainview. The membership doubled during this time. Property value increased from approximately $20,000 to $200,000.

During his term, the church relocated the congregation from 4th and Galveston to present location at 603 Tulane. In July the church recently finished a Sunday School annex of classrooms, and offices. They also purchased a parsonage at 3301 Cornell.

The Robertsons have two children, Gina, 16 and Aubrey, 12. The Robertsons said, "We have thoroughly enjoyed our stay in Big Spring, and found very warm and generous people. We will miss all the friends made in the church and community, and expect continued growth and prosperity for the area."

The Rev. Earl Akin, from Blossom will be serving as pastor of the College Park Church of God here.

Rev. and Mrs. Akin have three children, one daughter who is married and living in Paris, Texas, and two sons, Delane and Tommy, 11 and 12. The Akins will be in service August 20 for their first Sunday.

Liberation without precaution: Illegitimate birth rate rises

WASHINGTON (AP) — Population experts blame the dramatic increase in the number of illegitimate children in America on the fact that many of today's unmarrieds consider themselves liberated but don't use proper birth control methods.

"One thing that bothers people is the high fertility among young teen-agers," said Dr. Paul Glick, head of the Census Bureau's population division. "They're liberated, but they don't know how to prevent having babies."

Glick was referring to a new fertility report released Thursday showing the annual number of illegitimate births in the United States had more than quintupled between 1940 and 1975.

The figures show that the annual number of births occurring outside marriage went from 90,000 or 3.6 percent of all births in 1940 to 448,000 or 14.3 percent of all births in 1975.

Glick, one of the country's leading authorities on population control, said the inflationary economy and high unemployment also have contributed to the high illegitimacy rate.

"They've (those factors) made it harder for young people to get married and set up housekeeping," he said. "As long as young people are postponing marriage and still engaging in an act that used to be more limited to married people, this is what happens if they don't take advantage of the excellent family limiting devices."

Glick said the high illegitimacy rate for teen-agers, which increased by 60 percent from 1962 to 1975, represents a generation gap.

"Young people didn't used to let themselves get into this," he said. "Also, the church has lost its force in many quarters."

Martin O'Connell, a statistician in the Census Bureau's fertility branch, said another reason the number of illegitimate children has increased is that many men no longer feel compelled to marry a woman they have gotten pregnant.

"A major consideration is that many illegitimate births used to be legitimized by the man marrying the pregnant woman," said O'Connell, a coauthor of the report. "Now a man is no longer required to take an oath before intercourse."

He added that studies about illegitimacy show that some pregnant, unmarried women are deciding they don't want to marry the unborn child's father.

The report showed also that wives are having fewer children than they used to, but that not many married women expect to remain childless.

Memphis police out on strike

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Sheriff's deputies patrolled the streets of Memphis today after 1,100 police officers walked off their beats and onto picket lines.

Mayor Weth Chandler said a state of civil emergency existed and that National Guard troops would be brought in to help protect this city of 650,000, Tennessee's largest.

National Guardsmen were used five weeks ago when firemen struck for three days.

The walkout came as thousands of tourists flocked to Memphis for a week of activities marking the first anniversary of rock 'n' roll idol Elvis Presley's death Aug. 16.

David Baker, president of the Memphis Police Association, said Thursday night that the presence of tourists and Presley fans in the city had been a consideration in the decision to strike.

The strike was ordered Thursday night in a secret session of the union's executive board after members rejected a city wage offer. Police and firefighters have been without contracts since July 1.

Picket lines went up at police headquarters and all four precinct stations and police headquarters at 11 p.m. CDT, 4½ hours after officers voted 528-266 against the pay proposal.

The offer called for a 6.653 percent increase retroactive to July 1 with raises of $22.50 a month and 7.5 percent by Oct. 1, 1979. The package would have boosted a veteran officer's monthly pay from $1,148 to $1,224 immediately.

Chandler asked citizens to stay home unless travel was absolutely necessary. During the firefighters' strike, he imposed a dusk-to-dawn curfew after hundreds of fires broke out.

Major Gen. Van Nunnally, Tennessee deputy adjutant general, said he would meet with his staff before deciding which National Guard units would be brought to Memphis. The entire Tennessee National Guard is in summer training at Camp Shelby, near Hattiesburg, Miss., but the training was to end today.

"We have enough troops down there to swamp Memphis... if we need them," Nunnally said.

Shelby County sheriff's deputies switched to double shifts when the strike was announced. "We had contingency plans in the event of a police walkout," said administrative officer Ron McKinney. "Reserves are on standby. We will act as the sheriff sees fit."

Pan American workers back on the job

NEW YORK (AP) — About 7,500 ground employees of Pan American World Airways, worried that automation was threatening their jobs, have returned to work after a brief walkout.

"Terms of the agreement were not announced, pending ratification by the union membership," a Pan Am official said in announcing the end of the strike. Employees were back at work 15 hours after the strike started.

The employees, members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, include personnel who handle reservations, sales, passenger services, cargo, medical facilities and supplies.

Union spokesman Ronnie Belpanno said issues in the dispute were job security in connection with automation, pension improvements and cost of living protection.

The walkout caused delays of up to three hours on some international flights Thursday, but a Pan Am spokesman said most of the carrier's 235 daily overseas flights were in the evening or at night and departed on time or close to schedule.

Also involved were 900 maintenance employees, mechanics, laborers and others who walked out at Cape Kennedy as members of the Transport Workers Union honored Teamster picket lines. The action did not interfere with Thursday night's scheduled launch of a Trident missile.
