Italian moderate elected as 263rd pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Cardinal Albino Luciani was elected Saturday as the 263rd pope, a surprise choice as spiritual leader of the world's 700 million Roman Catholics. He took the name of John Paul I, combining the names of his two predecessors.

Luciani, 65, regarded as a moderate, was elected by the 111 cardinals voting in a secret conclave in the Sistine Chapel. His choice of a name indicated he planned to follow the footsteps of his predecessors, Paul VI and John XXIII.

The son of a socialist glassworker, Luciani was born near Belluno in northern Italy. He was ordained a priest at age 22, became Patriarch of Venice nine years ago, and a cardinal in 1973.

The papal election was clouded in confusion for the world watching outside the sealed chapel and depending on puffs of smoke from a chimney for first word of an election.

White smoke signifies the election of a new pope, but the smoke that fluttered from the chapel roof ranged from white to black to grey. Black would have meant the ballots of an inconclusive vote were being burned, as they were after two unsuccessful votes Saturday morning.

The confusion ended at sunset as the doors of the main balcony at St. Peter's Basilica opened. Cardinal Pericle Felici emerged and made the traditional announcement in Latin: "Annuntio vobis gaudium magnum. Habemus Papam." — "I announce to you great joyful news. We have a pope."

He was followed to the balcony by Luciani, already clad in the vestments of pope, who offered the traditional blessing, "Urbi et Orbi" — "To the city of Rome and the world." The new pope waved with both hands to the throng gathered below in St. Peter's Square.

The new pontiff appeared 67 minutes after the first puff of smoke rose from the chimney.

The bells of all churches in Rome began 10 minutes of chimes to salute Pope John Paul I.

The new pope holds a degree in theology. During the 11 years he was bishop of Vittorio Veneto he gave priority to pastoral activities in his diocese.

Luciani's surprise election recalled that of John XXIII in 1958, one of the new pope's predecessors as Patriarch of Venice. John Paul, like John XXIII, was not considered a leading candidate.

Unlike his three predecessors, John Paul has no diplomatic experience. He appeared also to be the first pope to take two names.

Paul VI died Aug. 6 at age 80 after 15 years as pope.

While bishop, Luciani was fond of bicycling around his diocese.

During the second Vatican Council, when most Italian bishops clashed with their German and Dutch peers over progressive proposals, he kept open a dialogue between both sides.

Luciani's lightning election — recently only Pope Pius XII was elected within 24 hours — confounded most pre-conclave predictions.

The new pope is thin, wears glasses and has short cropped dark hair.

He drew cheers from the crowd in St. Peter's square as he emerged for the first time in papal vestments, which had been tailored in three sets in advance to fit any likely candidate.

His high-pitched voice cracking with emotion, the new pontiff gave his first blessing to thousands gathered in St. Peter's Square and to millions of others watching on a worldwide television hookup.

Luciani became a cardinal after 11 years at Vittorio Veneto in the foothills of the Alps near Venice. He distinguished himself by his works on catechism, or Catholic education.

As Patriarch of Venice he greeted Pope Paul on one of his trips to Udine in 1972 on the occasion of an Italian eucharistic conference.

The actual vote of the cardinals is sealed in secrecy by an oath taken when they first began the conclave on Friday. Traditionally the winner must have received a majority of two-thirds plus one, but on orders from the late Pope Paul, all ballots and personal notes were to be burned after the election.

The pope is believed by Catholics to be the successor to St. Peter, who according to church tradition, was chosen by Christ to head his church on earth.

It took one day of voting to elect Pius XII in 1939, three days for John XXIII in 1958 and two for Paul VI in 1963.

THE NEW POPE — Pope John Paul I, smiles and waves to crowd filling St. Peter's Square Saturday afternoon standing on the balcony of St. Peter's Basilica after the 65-year-old patriarch of Venice, Cardinal Albino Luciani had been elected as successor of Pope Paul VI by the conclavists.

Judge orders restraint

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge issued a restraining order Saturday barring the nation's two largest postal unions from striking, a U.S. Postal Service spokesman said.

U.S. District Judge John Pratt signed the six-day restraining order at his Maryland home Saturday afternoon, according to Michael McManus, a Postal Service spokesman. Pratt set next Friday as the date for a hearing on the restraining order.

Pratt refused to issue a restraining order Friday, saying he wanted to let the negotiating process continue. But he added that he might reconsider his decision over the weekend if a strike appeared imminent.

Officials of the Federal Mediation Service met with both sides Friday night but reported no progress in resolving the dispute which threatens to disrupt delivery of the nation's mail as early as Monday.

The judge's order restrained the 299,000-member American Postal Workers Union and the 181,000-member National Association of Letter Carriers from striking or engaging in a work slowdown, McManus said.

However, it was not immediately clear what effect the judge's order would have on the possibility of a nationwide strike that has grown as those two unions and a third smaller union rejected a month-old tentative contract settlement.

Fast foods, service make impression on visitor

"My father was a prisoner of war before he was as old as I am," Karin Schulze-Langendorff, 19, said while visiting here from Germany.

Her father was only 18 when World War II ended but had been sent to the front in the waning days of the war for Germany and was taken prisoner.

Karin came to visit Michelle Coffee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Richard Coffee, and said, "I like it here. People are wonderful and everyone has been so nice to me."

Michelle originally visited in Germany two years ago under a Youth for Understanding program. It was then that she became acquainted with Karin. She invited her to come visit her in the States.

The soft-spoken Karin speaks excellent English and said, "I have taken it nine years in the schools. We have to take English."

Michelle said, "I couldn't speak German. It was wonderful for me that protracted strike against three of the country's largest newspapers.

The strike began 18 days ago when the men who operate the newspapers' presses walked out after the publishers posted new working conditions which ultimately would have meant the loss of jobs for nearly half the 1,550 members of the union local.

Since then, no progress has been made in sporadic talks between the publishers and the pressmen — indeed, the key issues have hardly been discussed — and four other unions have officially joined the strike.

No negotiations are scheduled. And although it is likely that talks will be held in the coming week, some of the key participants say privately that they doubt any serious discussions will take place until after Labor Day.

The void created by the missing 3.3 million daily copies of the New York Times, Daily News and New York Post has spawned three strike dailies, with a fourth scheduled to debut Monday. None of them is expected to survive beyond the strike.

But the three established dailies may have trouble recapturing business now going elsewhere. Some suburban dailies have increased circulation and picked up additional advertising, and existing weekly publications in the city have shown dramatic increases. In previous strikes, these publications have held onto some of their gains.

In 1962, there was a 114-day strike against nine daily newspapers. Today, there are only three established dailies and none is an investor's dream.

The afternoon New York Post, owned by Australian Rupert Murdoch, reported it lost $10 million in 1977 despite a circulation of 620,000.

almost everyone over there spoke English."

Karin will graduate from high school this year and plans to study medicine. "Our schools have 13 years," she stated.

Her father is a dentist. She said that she was born in Sweden and lived there until she was 11 years old.

"There were more opportunities for dentists in Sweden after the war," she stated. "Then taxes got so high there that Father went back to Germany."

She is from Osterode, 50 miles south of Hanover in West Germany.

She said the things that have surprised her here the most have been "the fast foods and fast food service. We don't eat that quickly in Germany," she laughed.

She also admitted that the thing she liked the least "is the heat." Michelle laughed, "I'm glad you didn't come in July. It was really hot then."

"Oh my," Karin answered. "But I do so like the people," she added. "People in Big Spring are wonderful."

McAlLEN, Texas (AP) — Vice President Walter Mondale, speaking to a Saturday noon rally in one of the nation's poorest regions, said the Carter administration supports a measure that would pump $30 million into school construction on the Texas side of the international border.

Mondale, his forehead dotted with sweat on a sweltering South Texas day, drew loud support from the crowd of some 1,500 when he announced the appointment of a Texan, Dr. Jose Gonzalez, as director of the office of bilingual education in the U.S. Office of Education.

Despite the enthusiastic response, workers in Bob Krueger's senate campaign said they were somewhat disappointed by the turnout at a city park here.

Mondale said the administration backs the $30 million construction program proposed by Krueger, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and U.S. Rep. Kiki de la Garza, D-Texas.

"You see what happens when you elect good Democrats to Congress?" Mondale told the rally.

The $30 million would be used to finance construction in school districts flooded with legal alien students. Mondale said the program would provide relief without forcing increased property taxes.

The vice president, on the final day of a two-day Texas swing, is in the state to support Krueger's effort to unseat veteran Sen. John Tower. After the two-hour stop here, Mondale headed north to Corpus Christi.

"You have one senator I work with all the time. His (Bentsen's) roots are deep here in the soil of McAllen, Texas, but you're entitled to two strong senators, not just one,"

Action / reaction: Notify FCC

Q. My reception on both TV and radio is being jammed by what seems to be a CB operator in the Terry Road and Miller Road area of Sand Springs? My neighbors are having the same problem. What agency can we appeal to correct the problem?

A. Obviously, the offender is using too much power with his system and should be made to account for it. The Federal Communications Commission, which has an office in Midland, should be notified of the violation. You should know that cases have backed up on the FCC, so it may be a while before the agency gets around to your complaint.

Many find road back difficult

Drug culture started in 60s

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the last of a three-part series dealing with drugs and their effect on the individual, family, and society as a whole.

By CARLA WALKER
 "There is no question that we have a drug problem in our society, and that includes Big Spring; the only questions to be answered are how did it come about and how do we deal with it," said 118th District Judge Ralph Caton.

"I personally believe it started in the early 1960s with attacks on the cultural and moral fiber of our nation. Religion, the church, marriage, the family, law enforcement, government, the industrial complex, education—all came under fire in what was termed 'peaceful disobedience'."

Judge Caton said. "With the changes in the Beatles—and the subsequent imitation of the Eastern culture following the Beatles trip to India to study transcendental meditation, a subculture reminiscent of the East and the hair-to-the-shoulders Indian priests began to be evident.

"Because the east was drug conscious, with widespread use of hashish—the refined resin of the marijuana plant which is some 12 to 15 times stronger than the plant leaves—began to be evident. The subculture or youth cult, again imitating the East, became drug oriented, advancing to use of heroin, cocaine, amphetamines, barbiturates, and hallucogenics.

"The trend even evidenced itself in the music—hard rock with screaming, a loud beat, and the ever-present stage effects of groups in concert. The whole act resembles something that might result from use of a hallucogenic drug—the unrealistic make-up, stage effects and other parts of the road show of a number of popular rock groups," Judge Caton theorized.

"The only way we can get out of the dilemma is to find a way back to our traditions and the correct way of implementing change—change through peaceful and lawful methods, not the 'peaceful disobedience' that was a stepping stone to the riots of the 1960s. Trends are headed that way, but for now, we have to deal with the social hangover left by the past decade."

Many of the side effects of that hangover are evident in the rising crime rate, and much of that crime is either directly drug related, or the offender is a drug user to some extent.

When felony violators in Big Spring are caught, they usually end up before Judge Caton in 118th District Court, and are sometimes placed on probation under the supervision of Adult Probation Officer Guy Talbot.

"The law, particularly that dealing with narcotics, is becoming increasingly more complex, causing trials to be longer and more involved," said Judge Caton. "It is getting harder to convict drug law violators, and that is especially true with juveniles. The law is inadequate to control drug crime—especially in the case of juveniles; and probably over 80 percent of non-violent crime— theft, burglary of habitation or vehicle and larceny of all types—is committed by individuals who are under 25."

"I would estimate that 65 percent of the 18 to 25 year old group of probationers under my supervision are drug abusers (those who use heroin, amphetamines, barbiturates, hallucogenics or cocaine on a serious basis excluding marijuana) and at least 90 percent of that same group use marijuana," said Adult Probation Officer Guy Talbot, adding that he has around 85 probationers that are complicated by a drug problem.

"If a guy comes in with a drug problem, we will do our best to give him help through the drug related programs available to us across the state," Talbot said. "We exhaust all drug abuse rehabilitation possibilities open to us unless the individual commits a crime against the community.

"Then, of course, we have a responsibility to the community and to law enforcement to send him to the Texas Department of Corrections (TDC). Each case is individual, and we have to look at it that way when figuring out what options are open."

"Understanding the drug abuser is a big part of deciding how to administer justice fairly with the community's interests and the offender's interests in balance.

"A drug abuser is an emotionally immature individual fulfilling his needs in an equally immature manner. He is pleasure-oriented, has a love of his own self-worth, no realistic goals and little trust in himself or others. He has never grown up. He chooses to run; and what he chooses to run from are all the feelings and responsibilities that have been difficult for him.

118th DISTRICT COURT JUDGE RALPH CATON
Tries to administer justice

"He runs by using the security of any drug which will provide a temporary relief from reality—the loneliness, frustration, fear and work. A drug abuser feels these pressures but will refuse to admit that they are even present. He becomes increasingly withdrawn from society, indulging more and more in his own hopelessness and suicidal existence," Talbot explained.

"For that reason, it is necessary to look through the facade the abuser puts up. The way his mind is conditioned, he needs to build up his own self-confidence and self-worth, so he rationalizes and excuses his conduct even to the point of fantasizing. In his own mind, things really exist the way he tells them, even if they are out and out lies," Talbot said.

Talbot added that it would be impossible to sort out the truth from the fabrications in an addict's story, and that doing so would not be beneficial in most cases.

"We have to take into account the abuser's own concept of himself, and things aren't always black and white, clear-cut issues anyway. Many times there will be a grain of truth, sometimes complete truth in the abuser's story, but we can't know exactly how much to believe," said Talbot.

"When we have exhausted all we can do for the abuser, or when he commits a crime against the community, we have to send him to TDC, and they have a 'kick' program that lasts from nine months to as long as three years in some cases. We recommend a sentence long enough for the individual to receive full advantage of the TDC program and just hope beyond hope that he can come away clean.

"If he doesn't, then he'll be right back there, right back in trouble and in Judge Caton's court, because nine times out of 10 they return home. It isn't a problem just for the abuser. It affects the whole community—every individual—and a total awareness of the problem is needed.

"Trials cost money that comes from taxes, drug habits are expensive, so the abuser uses theft or burglary to finance his habit, family problems—all provide a direct connection from the drug abuser to every individual member of the community," Talbot said.

"More widespread understanding of the problem and a swing back toward the values and morals that have made this country great could prevent much of the problem before it occurs, beginning in the home," Judge Caton asserted.

"And, that same awareness," Talbot noted, "could help the abusers. Aid from family, friends and the community in the way of constructive contact rather than condemnation can help an abuser develop the will to help himself."

"Until he develops that will, he won't have a personal motivation to seek treatment, and any treatment he receives won't help. When, with the help of those around him, he develops a genuine desire to help himself, then he'll quit. Not imprisonment, not treatment, not anything else will help.

"We do all we can, but when probation abusers will go to the extent of putting the needle under their tongue or between their toes to keep me from finding the needle marks, it is difficult to help them. I have to see some of them daily to watch for symptoms of drug use, and even when I see it, I can't help the guy until he wants help for a personal reason," Talbot said.

Then, when he does decide he wants help, it is a tough road and he may need lots of help to make it. "We—Talbot myself, and others in the county and district—will always be available for anyone—criminal or otherwise—with drug problems," Judge Caton concluded.

Whatever the answers, it will require more than an icebag and a darkened room to rid society of this "social hangover." With clinics, hospitals, law enforcement and administration officials, and a concerned and aware community working together, perhaps the problem can be solved.

Police beat Felony charges considered

A fight in the parking lot of Bogart's nightclub in the Webb Industrial Complex Saturday night led to three arrests on misdemeanor charges, with the possibility of felony assault charges awaiting the approval of the District Attorney.

According to reports, two men began a brawl in the parking lot at approximately 2 a.m., and when two police officers responded to the call, the battlers apparently carried their fight to the men in blue. Officer Joe Diliberto, occupied with subduing one struggling youth, was kicked repeatedly in the ribs and head from behind by the other, who shortly thereafter assaulted another officer trying to arrest him, according to reports.

This alleged assault on the police officer will be presented to District Attorney Rick Hamby for consideration Monday, according to police.

The two pugilists were arrested for disorderly conduct and public intoxication. Another man was arrested for hindering the apprehension of the pair, and for resisting arrest himself.

In other police action, two burglaries were reported over the weekend. Jimmie Dean, 4040 Vicky, reported the loss of $202 worth of items from his home. The missing articles include silver coins, and several gold-filled necklaces. Dean told officers the theft had apparently occurred prior to August 17.

Cecil Ford, 1200 Mulberry, reported the loss of $330 worth of items from his home Thursday night. Missing were a .22 caliber pump rifle, a 12 inch Silvertone black-and-white television, a pocket calculator, and jewelry. The burglars apparently forced a bedroom window to make their entry. Twin thefts of Ford rims and Goodyear tires struck Jack Griffin, 1320 Stadium, and Carl Rihard, 1604 Kentucky, Friday afternoon. Both wheels were removed from the rear of their pickups as they sat in front of their respective homes.

Gary Dewayne Frank, Jacksonville, Fla. reported the loss of a Fuzzbuster radar detection unit and four eight-track tapes from his rig as it was parked at Rip Griffin's Truck Terminal Friday night.

David Garcia, 2001 Runnels, reported the rear window of his car smashed Friday when a passing car hurled a beer bottle at the parked vehicle. Several minor accidents also occurred over the weekend. Vehicles driven by Adalberto Deleon Jr., 312 NE 8th, and Coy Joe McCann, 510 Goliad, collided Friday at 10:53 p.m. in the 200 block of Gregg St.

A vehicle driven by Maria Graciela Garcia, 815 W. 7th, collided with a parked car belonging to Pablo Tovar, 1809 Hamilton, at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the 1200 block of Douglas.

Vehicles driven by Juan Limon Jr., 4206 Birch, and Gregorio Silguero, 1309, Spence, collided in the 800 block of Goliad at 7:14 p.m. Friday.

Petitions certified

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Petitions to put a proposed right-to-work constitutional amendment before Missouri voters in November have been certified by Secretary of State James Kirkpatrick.

The petitions from the Freedom to Work Committee contained more than the minimum number of signatures required by law in eight of the state's 10 congressional districts, or one more district than needed to get the measure on the Nov. 7 ballot, Kirkpatrick said Friday.

Ride malfunctions

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Seven people were treated for minor bruises when a ride at Disneyland's Space Mountain malfunctioned, a spokesman at the park said.

Space Mountain, a roller coaster, consists of two rocket-styled cars that are connected. The rear rocket came loose from the front one during a ride Thursday night, Disneyland spokesman Bob Roth said. The malfunction activated the safety system, which brought the first rocket to a stop and the second rocket bumped into it, he added.

Prisoner badly burned

STARKE, Fla. (AP) — A Union Correctional Institution prisoner was severely burned when an unknown person covered him with flammable liquid as he slept and lit it with a match, officials said.

Johnny Wayne Lumley, 27, was engulfed in flames from head to toe when guards found him early Thursday, prison authorities said Friday. By the time guards unlocked his cell, Lumley had doused most of the flames, but was seriously burned over 75 percent of his body, the prison said.

Boys less bored

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — A study of 350 children here turned up the fact that while 38 percent of the boys were described by their parents and friends as never bored, less than 1 percent of the girls fell into that category.

The survey by the Mental Health Center of Boulder County said 52 percent of the girls were described in the category of being bored "pretty often" compared to 9.2 percent of the boys. The report said girls had more sleeping problems but had a higher level of self-esteem and better grades in school. Boys were more likely to have behavior problems, temper tantrums and lower grades.

Young viewers harmed?

ATLANTA (AP) — The positive way in which drinking often is portrayed on television may be harmful to young viewers, says the director of home protection for the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

"I would be hard put—and I think most people would be too—to name many programs that don't portray drinking as the thing to do," Ethel Fortner of Mount Vernon, S.D., said Friday. Mrs. Fortner was one of several speakers at the WCTU's 104th annual convention. The 250,000-member organization is meeting here through Monday.

Gregory Peck to attend Bob Krueger fundraiser

Academy Award Winner Gregory Peck will be the featured guest at a Houston fund-raising event Sept. 8 for U.S. Senate nominee Bob Krueger, according to Democratic National Delegate Delano Shaw.

Peck, remembered most recently for his leading role in the feature film "MacArthur," will be attending the reception at the Galleria Plaza Hotel from 6 to 8 p.m. to "express his support for Krueger in the congressman's bid to unseat the incumbent Republican John Tower," Shaw said.

"MY CAREER has taken me many times around the globe," Peck said "and I have seen that America has best been represented in our world affairs by the strong, articulate and intelligent leaders in the U.S. Senate. I know Bob Krueger has those qualities of leadership that will give Texas and our nation a strong voice in the U.S. Senate."

Peck won an Academy Award for his portrayal of Atticus Finch in the well-remembered film, "To Kill a Mockingbird." He has been the president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences and is now on the Board of Governors of that association. He is also a former chairman of the American Film Institute.

In 1968, President Lyndon B. Johnson presented Peck with the Medal of Freedom Award, the nation's highest civilian decoration.

THE FAMOUS actor, whose career has spanned several decades, will play the leading role in a feature film "The Boys from Brazil" to be released in September or October of this year. Recent polls indicate that the race for the Senate seat is now a dead heat between Tower and Krueger.

Krueger will be in Big Spring Tuesday to attend a noon luncheon at Jobo's. The meeting is open to the public.

"A press conference will be held in the restaurant following a brief speech by Krueger," Shaw said Saturday.

The second-term congressman began meeting with people in both large and small communities across the state soon after his May 6 primary victory, in preparation for his November confrontation with Tower.

KRUEGER KICKED OFF his fall campaign drive against Tower at an "Old-Fashioned Picnic and Rally" at his home in New Braunfels July 4. More than 4,500 friends and supporters turned out for his "reannouncement speech there."

"It will take the combined efforts of all Democrats, Republicans and Independents dissatisfied with the representation we now have in Washington to replace our silent senator," Krueger said. "I want to make sure people know they have a real choice—they can have more than just a vote in the Senate; they can have a voice."

Krueger won the primary when he captured 55 percent of the vote, carrying 210 of Texas' 254 counties.

The 21st District representative first entered politics in 1974, after he resigned from Duke University where he taught Elizabethan literature and served as associate professor, vice provost and dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. He returned to his hometown to assume business responsibilities after the death of his father and later chose to run for the U.S. House of Representatives.

Defeating five other candidates in the primary and two in the general election in 1974, Krueger won election to his first term in the House. He was re-elected with 72 per cent of the vote in 1976.

KRUEGER QUICKLY became known in Washington as well as at home in Texas for his intelligence, speaking abilities and reputation for deciding the issues on their own merits. From the time he first announced for Congress in 1973, Krueger has called himself an "independent Democrat."

"I am an independent of power politics and party factions. I listen to different points of view on a particular issue and then vote in a way which I feel will benefit all Texans and all Americans," Krueger said. "I believe this is what most Texans expect from their representatives." During the first term, the energy plan and according to viewer responses won that debate.

Krueger has supported legislation aiding the American farm family, co-sponsoring the Flexible Parity Act and sponsoring a Meat Import Bill requiring specific labeling and stricter inspection of imported beef. As a rancher, Krueger is sympathetic to the needs of today's farmers and ranchers.

The congressman has also been an outspoken advocate for the rights of all Americans, consistently speaking for equality in business and hiring practices and equal access to financial credit in stores and banks.

"I BELIEVE each individual should have the opportunity to develop his or her fullest potential, and I have worked, and will continue to work, through our political process to see that this can occur. Krueger said.

"To represent Texas is to represent the richness that is America. I believe that the dream of a better nation for all people still lives all across America, and I want to ensure that dream never dies."

And here we go with a few more "hot shots." President Carter told a bunch of editors and broadcasters that Ted Kennedy is "a good close friend of mine."

Of course! Just the other day, Teddy sent Jimmy a card that said:

"If you're ever in a jam, here I am."

I read somewhere that people on the White House staff no longer are referred to as being "in" or "out" of favor. They're uppers or downers.

Water district repeats 'wringing out' process

In 1970-71 when the Colorado River Municipal Water District was "wringing out" its two lakes, no one thought the process would have to be repeated. But here it is seven years later and the "stretchers" have again been applied to Lake J. B. Thomas.

This time, however, there is a substantial difference. The pump-back at Lake Thomas and Lake E.V. Spence in 1970-71 was to keep from running out of water. Today, with a reserve of 125,000 acre feet in Lake Spence, quality of water is the main consideration.

By the end of August, the District will have recovered 17,300 acre feet of water from Lake Thomas which would have been written off by most reservoir operators. Another 3,000 to 5,000 acre feet may be recovered, assuming no inflow, before the lake is functionally exhausted.

At the beginning of the decade, CRMWD recovered 21,000 acre feet of Lake Thomas water after it was considered "dry." Then, just as the last lift on the pump-back was completed, rains poured 70,000 acre feet of water into the reservoir. District officials are hoping that will happen again this autumn.

If it doesn't, there is no foreseeable danger of running out of water. For one thing, the Lake Spence reserve is available; for another, the District did not have the Ward County well field in 1970-71, but today it can deliver up to 24 million gallons a day to the west end of the system. These, with a greater reliance on city wells, should see the District through until the Stacy reservoir becomes a reality.

Should Lake Thomas be depleted in the next several months, the District plans to pump water from Lake Spence via the Moss Creek intermediate storage to the upper end of the CRMWD's Sun pipeline and on to the Snyder pump station at Lake Thomas. There the Spence water will be mixed with Thomas water and delivered to Snyder and other essential on-line customers. Snyder wells will be available for peaking.

At certain times of the year, pumping Spence water to Thomas could result in lowered levels in Moss Creek Lake, which is maintained with water from Lake Spence. Other parts of the system will operate essentially the same, except that more reliance will be put on well supplies in lieu of the amount of Spence water diverted to Snyder, said O. H. Ivie, CRMWD general manager.

When the level at Lake Thomas dropped below the Big Spring-Odessa intake, the District plugged the river channel below the pump station and set a barge in the lake 2 1/2 miles downstream. A pump on the barge boosted water into a canal, which flowed back and around the river plug to maintain a pumping pool at safe level. On Feb. 14, however, the lake had dropped to a point that the barge pump was about to "suck air," so a second lift was installed on the north side of the lake and connected by a three-mile canal to the Big Spring-Odessa intake.

With the level about to recede from the second lift, a third barge pump was installed downstream Aug. 22, delivering its output via a two-mile canal to the No. 2 station, which boosted it to the No. 2 canal. Thus, by literally stair-stepping water up hill, the lake was being wrung out. But another operational inconvenience looms ahead with the necessity of putting a coffer dam around the Snyder intake and boosting water over it to maintain an adequate pumping pool.

The 40 feet total lift in the three-stage pump-back calls for that much extra electric energy. If it becomes necessary to pump Spence water to Snyder, this will call for an additional 250-ft. lift. This additional cost will be piled on top of energy costs which already are up 38.5 percent this year.

The financial condition is aggravated further because oil companies were cut off from Lake Thomas as a conservation measure early this year, having been curtailed prior to that, at a cost of three-quarters of a million dollars in revenues to the District.

So long as practical, Lake Thomas water — which is perhaps the best quality of all in West Texas — was mixed at Big Spring with Lake Spence water to improve quality of the total volume. In recent months, however, the only delivery into Big Spring has been to the industrial complex.

Water quality in West Texas, Ivie pointed out, almost parallels lake levels. Far more than pumping, evaporation is the factor which pulls lakes down, and every foot lost by evaporation simply concentrates minerals in the remaining water. Lacking that "super" rain, Lake Spence had never attained its target quality before the drought, and now a prolonged period of meager runoff has compounded the quality problem.

Why has Lake Thomas been flirting with exhaustion? The amount and type of rains have resulted in runoff being far below normal; it has amounted to only 9,000 acre feet in the past 24 months. This means that while four gallons have been pumped out, only one flowed in — and that doesn't include evaporation loss. This condition, said Ivie, hopefully, has to change — and when it does, water taste and quality will change too — for the better.

An additional $102 in gifts for the Bible Fund have been reported, bringing the aggregate to $10,476.64. Objective in the drive was $10,000.

The campaign, which provides money to sustain Bible chairs in three high schools within Howard County, officially comes to a close this weekend, although late gifts will continue to be acknowledged.

A $10 gift announced earlier as a gift from Juanita Maude Hill was, in fact, a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hull.

The Stenholm Steering Committee consists of Sonny Lee, Annette Donnelly, Benley Baize, Cyrus B. Miller Jr., Don West, Don Sealy, Dan Cotton, Bill Seale, Henry Clark, Billie Mills, Bill Dryden, Hugh (Brud) Boren, Ned Underwood and R.J. (Buddy) Trevey.

Also Harold Lack, Ben Brock, Robert Clinton, Tom Chorn, C.A. (Mac) McCown and Mal Donelson, all of Snyder, and Charles Henderson of Hermligh.

Stenholm, a farmer-businessman from Stamford, won the Democratic nomination with a two to one, landslide victory against his opponent in the June 3 runoff. The Democratic nominee is seeking the post being vacated by veteran legislator Cong. Omar Burleson who is retiring at the end of the present term.

Stenholm, 39, received his M.S. from Texas Tech University. It was then that he began a career in agriculture and related activities. He has operated the family farm since 1962.

Stenholm has taught vocational agriculture, worked as general manager of Stamford Electric Cooperative and is a director of the First National Bank in Stamford.

Revenue sharing talks scheduled One in hospital following wreck

LAMESA — County commissioners will hear a report on the steps necessary to comply with revenue sharing requirements for the 1979 budget when they convene in special session here at 10 a.m. Monday.

The commissioners will also acknowledge a notice from Lyntegar Electric Co-Operative to place utility lines across a county road, hear a group of citizens discussing law enforcement and other county functions, approve senior citizens and mental health reports and set a date for the budget hearing.

The officials will also approve the joint use agreement between the Texas Highway Department and Terra Resources Inc.

Prescription needed for U.S. problem

Big Spring is in a better way for medical doctors than almost any community its size in the state.

Malone-Hogan Clinic, for instance, has 25 physicians and psychiatrists each of whom has privileges at the adjoining hospital.

Big Spring also is blessed with three smaller private hospitals — Hall-Bennett, Cowper's and Medical Arts, each staffed by able men and women.

In addition, there are professionals trained in medicine at both the Veterans Administration Hospital and Big Spring State Hospital.

IN SOME Texas communities, people suffering with physical ailments sometimes have to travel great distances before they can be examined and treated by physicians.

Although it doesn't mean they will be equally distributed, Dr. James E. Lewis, dean of the University of Oklahoma's Tulsa Medical College says that by the year 1985 an oversupply of physicians is likely to force substantial cutbacks by medical schools.

That isn't especially good news for the country as a whole. The major urban centers, says Lewis, will continue to enjoy large—and growing—concentrations of medical talent, whereas the situation in the boon-docks likely won't improve materially.

OBVIOUSLY, SOMETHING is wrong here. What is needed is some means by which physicians can be lured to sparsely populated places, if only for periods of limited duration. Alas, there is not a patented way to do this.

It's possible a system of federal education grants tied to rural service might work. Possibly, a network of rural medical cooperatives is the answer.

Certainly with the amount of money the federal government in funneling into the medical schools, it should be able to exert some leverage. It had best begin trying now. If the government waits until the anticipated dropoff of medical school graduates materializes, its agents will have their hands full trying to cope with the problem.

No Samoa

Around the rim

Walt Finley

The government has 86 million doses of swine flu vaccine stored in 12 states, and two cities in Samoa. It's tested periodically for potency "in case there's a call for it again," a government physician said.

In view of what happened last time, I don't think there are many people who want Samoa.

MY MOTHER has had a run of bad luck recently. So I will be in Durant the next five days trying to show that I love her.

She was sitting in a chair feeling pain from two broken bones in her left leg Friday when her telephone rang.

It was a salesman offering her a reduced price on a cemetery lot.

Ex-Alpine cowboy, Jay Sanders, now rounding up words for the Herald, tells of several coffee drinkers at a restaurant on Gregg Street.

One man said he didn't think the candidates for governor had charisma.

"What's charisma?" one asked. "Some kind of disease?"

A third man said no, charisma was a thingamajig you can buy at several local stores.

"YOU'RE BOTH wrong," another said.

"It's a special kind of sex appeal. If you've got it, women don't leave you alone."

At which point somebody put the matter at rest by saying:

"Whatever it is, we ain't got it so let's forget it."

Heralded courthouse reporter-golfer Bob Burton, who celebrated his birthday last Sunday, hit the green with the following short shot:

Man, playing golf in his pajamas, says to his partner:

"My wife thinks I went out to pick up the morning paper."

That travelin' man, Kenneth Hart, rolls out four minigags:

Husband: You can see right through that dress.

Wife: Not when I'm in it.

Slicker: Why doesn't that funny looking cow have horns?

Farmer: Because it's a donkey.

New employee: I'd like a raise — I just got married.

Boss: Sorry, we're not responsible for accidents outside the refinery.

Wife: Where did all the empty bottles come from?

Husband: Don't ask me, I never bought an empty one in my life.

SOMEbody in broadcasting once said "Never underestimate the bad taste of the public" and things that have gone on since Elvis Presley's death seem to prove that observation.

The wire service reports of the first anniversary of his death couldn't begin to tell of the many really gross things that took place when Graceland, Presley's former home and the site of his grave, was opened to the public in Memphis.

My bright cousin, Dr. George Ladd, vacationing in Dixie, sent a story from the Nashville Tennessean which said:

"Hawkers of every age and description pushed a variety of Elvis souvenirs from vans, tables, shopping bags and shops. Hare Krishna followers sold flowers. Memphis newspapers sold at 30 cents, double the regular price.

"There seemed to be no end to the profit making. Wastebaskets, dinner plates, jewelry, clothing and other articles were snapped up by the visitors in a carnival atmosphere. Some fans traded personal souvenirs and Elvis bubble gum cards were popular.

"A promotional brochure and order form for Vestor Presley's book on Elvis, which sells for $10, was handed out to each visitor to the grave. Vestor, Elvis' uncle, has been gatekeeper at Graceland for 21 years.

"After the gates were closed, several hundred fans converged under a 50-foot cross for a memorial service and barbecue.

ROBBI CROW, you know the daughter of Backshop Boss Bob Rogers, who celebrates her birthday Monday, says lumberjacks saw logs, prizefighters get a little shuteye, flirts grab a few winks, tailors toss fitfully, acquaintances nod, bakers doze, models repose and drinkers sleep tight.

The guest joke of the day is from fast fingered Sandra Green. Herald word maker and musician, presently vacationing in Norman, Okla.

Jack Benny told of the time he carried his violin case to the White House to play for the president. A guard stopped him and asked:

"What's in the case?"

"To be funny, Benny replied, 'A machine gun.'"

"Thank goodness," dead-panned the guard. "I was afraid it was your violin."

Forgive her, Sandra uttered the above nonsense Tuesday — her birthday.

AN AMBULANCE service, protesting competition from another company, charged that the competitor's service was based on the premise:

"You call, we haul, that's all."

Long to the rescue

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Chatting on Constitution Avenue outside the Russell Senate Office Building with the Treasury's top tax expert, Sen. Russell B. Long set forth a homely analogy to save President Carter and his policy advisers from themselves.

The topic of conversation between Long and Donald Lubick, assistant secretary for tax policy, was capital gains. But here of all things was the senator talking about duck hunting. Aim directly at the duck flying by, and you're sure to miss him, said Long; aim a little ahead of the duck, and you have a chance to hit him.

The meaning of Long's analogy: If you measure the tax yield of a reduced capital gains tax rate by simply applying the lower rate to existing gains, you are sure to miss the mark; but if you estimate the larger yield that would result from many more transactions under a lower rate, you have a chance of hitting.

WHETHER THE administration takes the advice has far-reaching political and economic consequences. As chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Long is offering the president a way out of the tax corner he has painted for himself. Oddly, the key to that escape is accepting Long's conviction that reduction of capital gains rates could increase, not decrease, total revenue.

The reason: Long approaches Mr. Carter's complaints that the House-passed tax bill provides excessive tax relief to upper brackets by proposing more to the poor, not less to the rich. But to keep this largesse within budgetary strictures, Long must persuade the administration that the bill's capital gains section will not lose revenue.

Nothing so illuminates the disparate political styles of these two sons of the Deep South. The president has grudgingly but steadily given ground for 18 months on his rigid insistence that tax changes must soak the rich. Having lost control over the House version of the bill, he now faces a choice between a politically disastrous veto or a new set of principles.

The president's would-be rescuer is not bound by doctrinaire adherence to income redistribution. Long likes tax cuts for everybody, from millionaires on down. Whereas the president has cram-course knowledge of the internal revenue code gained since January 1977, the senator has spent 25 years exploring its infinite varieties. "He is a genius at innovation," says one administration official.

Genius begins this time by giving the House bill a less plutocratic, more populist look, not by taking from the rich but by giving to the poor. Long wants to compensate taxpayers in all brackets for new Social Security tax increases, and then give enough help for taxpayers reductions to $19.4 billion. How can Long cut individual taxes so generously, and still have money left over for the deep capital gains reductions that he wants? Whereas the Treasury estimates a $1.9 billion revenue loss from capital gains taxes alone in the $16.3 billion House bill, Long wants much more radical cuts. He would, in effect, put the top capital gains rate at 19.5 per cent, compared to the present 49 per cent.

He would soften this with populist flourishes. He would crack down on the two (repeat two) remaining millionaires who escape all tax liability through shelters. He would increase the capital gains rate to 30 per cent for millionaires escaping other taxation. He might even seek part of that old standard of tax reformers: taxing capital gains at death.

BUT MOSTLY, Long would use a sharp pencil to correct the Treasury's horrendous but artificial revenue loss. The chairman cogently argues that locked-up capital assets — securities or real estate — would be unlocked by his proposed low tax rate.

She sucks her thumb--at 20

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My fiancée has me worried. She is 20 years old and she still sucks her thumb when she's alone. I'm not joking. I've tried everything to persuade her to stop, but I feel that there must be other people around with the same problem.

Can this really hurt her? She has the idea that by pushing back hard on her teeth inwardly she can somehow compensate for this and prevent development of buck teeth, which she already has. — J.C.

There's at least one other adult thumbsucker out there.

In my years of writing columns, this is the second letter I've received on the subject. The other was from a housewife, somewhat older, who sucked her thumb during the day when alone at home.

Anyone has a problem with sucking the thumb at 20. Her notion that she can push her teeth back into position is incorrect. In fact, the buck teeth may be a subconscious emotional cause of her thumbsucking. She should see an orthodontist. Permanent teeth restrainers are required, and I think they might still be effective at her age.

I don't need to tell you or her of the unhealthfulness of this practice, fingers being the notorious germ carriers they are. There may be some other emotional burden that is causing this immature behavior. If you feel strongly about the matter it should be settled before the marriage.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a 26-year-old female in good health. I have let my hair grow for ten years now, but I have seen no growth at all in the last four years. My husband and I love long hair and this is very frustrating. It is past my shoulders, but not nearly as long as it should be. I don't color my hair at all, but I do some teasing and use electric curlers. Will this harm my hair? Is there anything I can do to get my hair growing again? — D.Y.

Your hair is on schedule. It takes normal hair from two to six years to reach maximum length, which in your case would have been four years ago. Maximum length varies with the individual. Yours seems to be where it is now. You must remember that hair, as attractive as it can be, is inert material. So it is not surprising that the ends (the oldest) deteriorate and break away. This is what is happening to you. The teasing and curling, if done too vigorously, adds to the loss.

You could wait another ten years and still have the same length you had four years ago. Be satisfied with what you have.

You may have a special interest in my booklet, "Good Health for Your Hair," which is available by sending 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of The Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like your opinion about a frail little eight-year-old boy who has bronchial asthma. Is there a slight chance that he'll get over the bronchial asthma as he grows older? Or is everything stacked against him for life? — Mrs. M.D.

I can only speak generally, of course. It is risky to predict whether or not childhood asthma will be "outgrown" — a touchy and debatable question. But since asthma is often closely linked to allergies of various kinds, and since allergies might tend to subside somewhat with years, the chances are this youngster could improve. But he may never completely shake his predisposition toward bronchial disturbance. Newer drugs and therapies improve the outlook for him compared to the situation only a couple of decades ago.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

It is my understanding that the City of Big Spring is actively seeking Chaparral Airlines to serve Big Spring, particularly to Dallas-Fort Worth Regional.

As an active member of the aviation community, I am, of course, in favor of such service, assuming it will be, on the whole, an overall plus to the City of Big Spring.

What concerns me, is that the City will use Chaparral or the mere fact that we might get Chaparral in here, to spend taxpayers dollars unwisely. I will back up my concern over needless spending later on, but first let me address another subject related to Chaparral Airlines.

I am fearful that they will consider an active control tower operation at the Big Spring Airport. A control tower is undesirable both from capital outlay and service for dollars paid. I have been flying for over ten years and have yet to see a town the size of Big Spring justify a control tower on their airport. The fact is that there is not enough traffic now and there will never be, in my opinion, to justify the cost of operating and maintaining a control tower.

It is interesting to note that when the City had commuter airline service to Dallas-Fort Worth, they did not back it and, in fact, it appeared to me that the City and County were instrumental in their demise. Now that we have lost the airline, you want another one in here and are willing to consider some sort of subsidy. Our former airline asked for no subsidy. As a taxpayer and citizen, I do not want to subsidize an airline to get them in here. They are going to have to stand on their own, and I truly hope they can.

I am very concerned, as a citizen of Big Spring and as a pilot and aircraft owner, over the apparent needless spending that is taking place at the Big Spring Airport.

First, the move to Webb was not at all well-timed and I am sure much more costly than the City Council was originally led to believe.

Secondly, the cost of moving the T-hangers and their location required a larger chunk of taxpayers' dollars than necessary. From an engineering and economics view, the City could not justify putting the T-hangers on new foundations when all that beautiful concrete at Webb already exists.

Furthermore, the chosen location for the T-hangers clearly indicates the City is ashamed of having the general aviation community on the field. The casual observer would surely think we are a plague.

The expense of "cleaning" the old rubber and paint off Runway 17 left was so totally unnecessary. That maneuver is affordable only by the U.S. Government at Air Force bases. In my ten years of active flying and association with general aviation, I have never heard of such a thing. I can find no such requirements in the FAA to remove rubber from runways. As for danger to light aircraft on landing when it is wet, let's face it — that is a highly unlikely occurrence (runway being wet) — and I assure you light aircraft land daily at Dallas-Fort Worth, O'Hare, Kennedy International, etc., and they have more rubber and more rain and they do not blast the rubber off their runways. In my opinion, there is no safety problem connected with the rubber on the Webb runways.

As for needing to remove the rubber from the runway for painting, it did not need painting in the first place and in the second place, there are many fine industrial paints on the market that would have gone right over the skid marks.

I surely hope the City does not plan on wasting any more money on removing rubber or painting Runway 17 Right.

In closing, I would like to assure you that I am all for Big Spring having a fine airport, an Industrial Park, and prospering beyond our wildest dreams — but not at the expense of unnecessary and unwise spending.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I believe I am basically a good person, and I've tried to raise my children to be polite and to respect others. Now I'm wondering if that is saved? — Mrs. G.C.

DEAR MRS. G.C.: It is well that you are asking this question, because it is the most important question in life anyone can ask. Unfortunately, many people in your position continue to trust in their own good works all their lives, and they never realize the truth of the Gospel.

No, you cannot be saved by good works. It is commendable that you have sought to be a good mother, but the Bible is very clear in saying that our good deeds can never win God's favor. Why is that true? For one good reason: God is perfect and holy, and nothing less than perfection can please Him. And yet every one of us has sinned. The Bible says, "There is no one righteous, not even one" (Romans 3:10, New International

Businessman freed

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — There has been a happy ending to the ordeal of Arthur Chariton, a frightened American businessman who was held prisoner for a year without trial or charges by the regime of Nicaragua's banana dictator, Anastasio Somoza.

Chariton is now back home in Miami. But he was allowed to leave Nicaragua only after undergoing a scarying cat-and-mouse game with Somoza's lackeys while U.S. embassy officials stood by.

What happened to Chariton apparently could happen to any American traveling abroad. The State Department is more interested in maintaining its cozy relationships with foreign governments than in protecting American citizens who get in trouble overseas.

THE STRIPED-PANTS set apparently has forgotten that under the Constitution the people are the sovereigns. The State Department is supposed to serve the sovereigns, not its own constituency.

We began chronicling the Chariton saga on June 2, and he tells us the column "caused an explosion" in Nicaragua. It was also picked up by several U.S. congressmen whose protests helped prod Somoza's judicial system. Less than a month later, a Nicaraguan judge cleared Chariton of any fraud. He flew home to Miami on July 4.

Yet for four days after he was cleared, he lived in fear of being re-arrested by Nicaraguan police and thrown back again behind bars. On the day of his release, he went to immigration officials seeking an exit visa. Smirking Nicaraguan officers refused, insisting the judge's exoneration order didn't really mean he could leave the country.

He returned the next day with a lawyer and presented a second court order declaring Chariton had "unrestricted liberty" to go as he wished. They were told Somoza's police commander had ordered that Chariton was not to be allowed out of the country.

Caught in a Kafkaesque trap, Chariton has no recourse but to go to the U.S. ambassador who earlier had thrown him to the wolves. Ambassador Solau went through the motion of contacting the Nicaraguan foreign minister who assured Solau that Chariton would be set free as soon as a few bureaucratic details were ironed out.

My answer

Billy Graham

Version) — and in our hearts we know that is true. The Bible also tells us, "All who rely on observing the law are under a curse, for it is written: 'Cursed is everyone who does not continue to do everything written in the book of the Law.' Clearly no one is justified before God by the Law" (Galatians 3:10-11, NIV).

Does that mean you cannot be saved? No! God has provided the way through Jesus Christ, His Son. God loves us, and in His love, He sent Jesus Christ into the world to die for our sins. Our sins were placed on Him, and He took the punishment for them that we deserve. By trusting in Christ (instead of ourselves), we can be saved. It is God "who has saved us and called us to a holy life — not because of anything we have done but because of his own purpose and grace. This grace was given us in Jesus Christ... who had destroyed death and has brought life and immortality to light through the gospel" (2 Timothy 1:9-10, NIV).

Soil test might serve to improve your garden

How well did your garden do this year? Several things hindered gardening in Howard County, according to Bruce Griffith, extension agent. One of these things might be fertilization. "A soil test, after your garden is harvested might be one of the solutions," Griffith said.

A properly prepared and fertilized garden soil is the real key to a successful garden in Howard County. "You can't look at the soil, taste it, smell it, or feel it and tell whether it is properly fertilized or not. You have no way of knowing whether your soil is low in nitrogen, high in phosphate or may be just right. One way to help overcome the mystery and avoid confusion when it comes time to purchase fertilizer is to have your soil tested," the agent added.

Vegetables don't do well in improperly fertilized soil, whether it be too fertile or not enough. "The soil test report will tell you the level of nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium that is available to your garden plants. It will also indicate the PH of your garden soil. For the most part, this is all you need to know to properly fertilize to help insure a good harvest."

"The sample can be taken anytime after the crop has been removed. To take the soil sample, use a spade or sharp-shooter and make a hole about a foot deep. Throw out the first spade full of soil. Then from the back of the hole, cut a 1/2 to 1 inch slice of the soil. Be sure the slice is at least 6 to 7 inches in depth and fairly even in width and thickness. Place this slice in a bucket or container.

"Repeat this procedure four, five or six times in different spots in the garden. Thoroughly mix the composite of the soil and put about a pint in the box to be tested," Griffith concluded. Soil test boxes and information sheets are available in the county extension office in the basement of the courthouse.

Plans crystalize for celebration

The newly elected major of the Big Spring Brown Beret chapter, Prospero Yanez, is coordinator of the 16th of September Celebration here this year.

Anyone wishing to participate in the festivities can contact him at 505 NW 7th Street or by dialing 3-1527.

Already at work on plans for the fete are Lydia Molina, Julia Correa and Amado Molina.

The history of the event dates back to 1810 when a priest by the name of Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla rang the church bells and gave the rallying call, "el grito de dolores," beckoning the Mexican people to rise in protest against Spanish rule for racial equality and redistribution of land and wealth.

From that day forward, the 16th of September has been celebrated as Mexican Independence Day not only in Mexico but also in the five Southwestern states of Aztlan.

The Chicano is, of course, no longer a citizen of Mexico but maintains cultural and ethnic ties with the Mexican.

Dances are scheduled Sept. 2 and didates for queen will be presented during the first dance while the queen will be crowned at the Sept. 16 event. Both dances will take place in the Howard County fairbarns.

Sept. 14 will signify the beginning of the festivities, starting with the formal opening of the Northside Community Center, formerly Kate Morrison School.

There will be art and cultural displays during the festival. Refreshments and Mexican food will be available. Literature will be available and other entertainment will be offered.

Persons wishing a display booth can contact one of the coordinators.

A parade will take place Sept. 16 and prizes awarded to top participants. Rules and regulations governing the parade will be made available through a coordinator.

The various Mexican-American organizations are inviting all the people of Big Spring and those in surrounding communities to join in an all-out effort to make this celebration the most memorable of all the 16th of September held.

Any student in grades six through 12 who will be attending the Klondike schools for the first time should complete registration and pick up class schedule forms in the principals' offices on the days and between the hours mentioned previously.

Any student attending Klondike schools for the first time in grades kindergarten through five will be registered during the first day of school.

Wins truck: wasted $5

"I bought two tickets, and I guess I wasted one of those $5 bills, because I really only needed one, if I'd have known which one to get, I could have saved $5," said Robert Nichols after hearing that he had won a new pickup in an American Agriculture Movement fund-raiser.

"They said some 3,600 tickets sold for the drawing in Texas, and somehow they pulled mine out of the pot," Nichols said. "Some friends of mine who went to the AAM meeting in Irving told me that I had won, but I thought it was a joke. I began to believe it when I started getting calls from AAM people in Ackerly, and official word came from the Hereford office yesterday."

Nichols goes to Amarillo Tuesday to pick up his $8,200 pickup. The fund-raiser brought in some $18,000 to the AAM, which will be used in their efforts to improve the prices given farmers when they sell food and fiber they have produced.

DAVs to meet about benefits

The Big Spring Chapter of the Disabled American Veterans will hold an Open Meeting, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday at the V.F.W. Hall on Driver Road.

The meeting is open to any veteran, and will seek to answer any questions about federal benefits to which he may be entitled. Trained officials representing the DAV federal office in Washington, D.C. will be present.

Benefits for veterans and dependents will be discussed, and advice on obtaining evidence necessary to develop claims will be given. Officials will meet privately with veterans who wish to.

For more information, call George Kunkle at 267-5165.

Councilman appointed

LAMESA — Benny Lybrand has been appointed a Lamesa city councilman, following the resignation of Ricky Smith.

Smith quit so that his law firm can represent the City of Lamesa on legal matters. Lybrand offered for a position on the council last year but was defeated in the election. Lybrand's term of office ends March 31, 1979. Lybrand and his wife, Carole, have two sons, Keith and Phillip.

The package deal, which starts Sept. 26, sells for $698 and includes nightly lodging in first class hotels as well as several meals, guided tours and other items.

The trip starts at Dallas-Fort Worth airport the afternoon of Sept. 26. Those who desire can book round-trip flights Tuesday morning out of Midland for $56. The tourists will climb aboard a chartered DC8 and land in Spain early Wednesday morning. An hour's refueling stop will be made either at Hartford, Conn., Bangor, Maine, or Gander, Newfoundland going and coming. The passengers will be asked to depart the aircraft while the refueling takes place.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGNER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, AUGUST 27, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You feel fed down during the early part of the day to some long-standing duty or obligation that hangs on and on. However, by being conscientious in carrying through with it you find the later hours bring much pleasure for you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... He or she will be most practical and will understand home and property affairs well, although appearing to be somewhat slow in being thorough and painstaking. There can be much success here, whether in real estate, manufacturing of products, or selling them. Some musical talent here, also.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Do whatever will bring more accord with your mate, and don't argue at all. Handle duties in a most efficiently way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Come to a better understanding with a person you want to be associated with in the future. Take no risks with money.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You can make the right arrangements for carrying through with your obligations. Take time to improve your health.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Arrange early for recreations that most appeal to you, and then get busy on career affairs. Show true devotion to loved one.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... He or she will be interested in the field of merchandizing and the education should be directed along such lines. Give religious training early in life so this will not become a life empty of emotions and feelings.

'Moral instruction' unifies fables

By JOHN W. DEATS
County Librarian

In the words of the famous English lexicographer, Samuel Johnson, "a fable seems to be, in its genuine state, a narrative in which beings irrational, and sometimes inanimate, are, for the purpose of moral instruction, feigned to act and speak with human interests and passions." Most of us immediately think of creatures such as the ant, grasshopper, lion, and mouse when we recall the fables told to us as children. Perhaps Johnson's elaborate definition allows for all members of the animal kingdom as "beings irrational," although it can be argued that the wily fox as portrayed in most fables is "rational" enough to outsmart the crow, the fish, or the monkey. However, the idea of "moral instruction" seems to be the unifying element of the fable, or as Bruno Bettelheim describes it, it is a "cautionary tale."

The fable as an art form can trace its roots to the same impulse which caused the prehistoric cave artist to favor the stags, boars, and elephants as subjects rather than the hunters, themselves, according to G. K.

Chesterton. Man began to see these creatures as expressions of the forces of nature, and, frightening as they might be, they were predictable. Animals were much better suited to illustrate fundamental human attributes, and thereby we came to have industrious ants, inventive crows, noble lions, and the like. The first great compiler and voice for the fable was a Greek orator of the sixth century before Christ, Aesop. He is credited as the source of most of the fables on which we were weaned. The library has one of the best editions of "Aesop's Fables," one illustrated by the "Dean of Fairyland," Arthur Rackham. His vivid renderings add much to the story.

Have you ever heard about the monkey and the dolphin? There is an old legend that dolphins have rescued many a drowning sailor by carrying them safely to shore. Well, it seems that a ship foundered in the Mediterranean ages ago, the sole survivor being a monkey who was mistaken for a man by a nearby dolphin. After hoisting the monkey on his back, the dolphin struck a conversation with the "old man," who boasts of his prominence on the mainland. However, shortly before arriving at the shoreline, the monkey makes a tactical error, upon which the dolphin laughs, realizing the deception, then plunges the monkey to his death.

'Ol' Waylon' got his start as a disc jockey

Waylon Jennings was four when Japan bombed Pearl Harbor. His family picked some cotton and guitar and made it through. One of four sons, Waylon picked more guitar than cotton.

Jennings' first tune was "Good Time Ladies Man". He was 14 at the time. It was composed just months before he became a disc jockey on KNOW in Littlefield, Tex.

Jennings met Willie Nelson in a Phoenix motel room.

"We were instant friends," Nelson said. "He asked me for some friendly advice on moving to Nashville... giving up a good job (JD's) with a higher than average income, to dig for some gold in Nashville's 16th Avenue concrete. Naturally, I told him to stay where he was. Fortunately, he did not listen."

Near the end of 1958 he recorded "Joel Blon" B-W "When Sin Stops," his first and last solo on the Brunswick label.

He left Texas when Trend Records of Lubbock offered to record him in Phoenix. He hasn't lived here since then.

Jennings' band, The Waylors, has changed members but still has one of the originals — drummer Richie Albright.

"He's been through the same years and paid the same dues as I have," Jennings said. "He was always there; without him, I couldn't have made it."

Jennings' music moved from Phoenix to Hollywood and A&M Records. He was signed by Herb Alpert and Jerry Moss. The album was "Don't Think Twice."

In 1965 he signed with RCA Records and has produced 36 albums for them.

In October, 1969, Jennings married Jessi Colter. She's "the one who helped me through those times... seems like every time I have a problem, Jessi helps me through," he said.

In July, 1972, Jennings joined Willie's picnic in Dripping Spring, Texas. After that he returned to Nashville to produce and record on his own.

Although most of his vistas are seen from hotel suites, Jennings is actively concerned by the need for all Americans to aid in environmental protection. He has teamed with Robert Redford to plan benefit concerts for the cause of the Citizen Action Fund.

Motion pictures and television appeal mostly to his musical interests. He has provided scoring for "Nash-

Jennings to appear in Odessa concert

Top country star, Waylon Jennings will appear in concert Friday, September 1, at the Ector County Coliseum. Show time is 8:00 p.m. and tickets are $6.50 and $7.50.

Waylon Jennings' first album on the RCA label was released in 1965 and thirty-five have followed. His latest LP, released in January of this year, titled "Waylon & Willie," is a combination of efforts by both Waylon and Willie Nelson. Waylon currently has a single riding high on the charts titled "There Ain't No Good Gangs." This is a duo effort with Johnny Cash.

Jennings, married to country star Jessi Colter, began his career as a teenage disc jockey in Littlefield, Texas. He then moved to Lubbock to become a DJ for a local station there and then was offered a recording contract with Trend Records in Phoenix. His music traveled across the desert to Hollywood and he was signed by A&M Records and then with RCA in 1965.

Journalists and broadcast media wishing concert information should contact the Ector County Coliseum, 42nd & Andrews Highway, Odessa, Texas, (915) 366-3541.

Bucs' streak ends as Dols, 49ers, Eagles, Falcons win

Now you didn't think the Tampa Bay Buccaneers would win all their preseason games, did you? The team that debuted in the National Football League in 1976 by losing all 14 regular season games, then lost its first 12 last season before defeating New Orleans and St. Louis, had won all three of its exhibition encounters before Friday night.

But the Bucs met their old friend, defeat, at the hands of the Miami Dolphins, who took the Battle of Florida 24-20. "We do walk away with a lot of respect for Tampa, especially Doug Williams. Tonight he proved just how good he was," said Miami Coach Don Shula.

While Williams, the All-American quarterback out of Grambling, completed 16 of 34 passes for 216 yards and a touchdown, Bob Griese threw for three scores, including a 66-yard bomb to Nat Moore to put Miami on top to stay.

Shula was especially pleased at the Dolphins' defense in the final minutes. "It was a great job by our defense, especially on that goal-line stand," he said, alluding to Miami's stopping the Bucs on four plays inside the 3-yard line with a minute left to play.

Tampa Coach John McKay admitted he was ready for the regular campaign, which the Bucs open Sept. 2 against the New York Giants.

"We didn't play very well, our special teams are pitiful, but we will change some of it. I really think this is enough preseason," McKay said.

Lydell Mitchell has been freed

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Running back Lydell Mitchell has signed with San Diego and "the first time I talked to him," says Chargers Assistant General Manager Tank Younger, "his initial statement was, 'I've been freed.'"

The Chargers came to terms Friday with Mitchell, who was acquired Wednesday in a trade with the Baltimore Colts for running back Joe Washington and a fifth-round draft choice.

Mitchell, the American Football Conference's second-leading active rusher with 5,487 yards in his six seasons with the Colts, is expected to come to San Diego Sunday after settling business affairs in Baltimore.

The Chargers meet the New York Giants in their preseason finale tonight in East Rutherford, N.J., but whether Mitchell plays in the opening regular season game in Seattle on Sept. 3 will depend on his condition, said Chargers Coach Tommy Prothro.

"I'm very pleased it's finished," said Prothro. "I would anticipate he is in pretty good condition but not in football condition. There are two ways we could work this. We could work his tail off and in two weeks he would be ready. I'd say we will work him into it gradually."

Chargers owner Gene Klein said: "We are happy with Lydell and Lydell is happy with us. It isn't often that a team can acquire a player of Lydell's caliber in trade. He is an All-Pro Runner who will give our offense a tremendous boost."

The Chargers did not disclose terms of their agreement with Mitchell. But Younger said the halfback signed a series of one-year contracts based on suggestions by the National Football League's Management Council and the league's Player-Club Relations Committee.

Those groups met last week in Washington, D.C. to discuss Mitchell's grievance against the Colts. Mitchell had charged the Baltimore club with racism in negotiations, negotiating in bad faith and illegally fining him for failing to report to training camp.

Guided by the Management Council and the PCRC, Mitchell and the Colts reached an agreement calling for contracts of $175,000, $200,000 and $225,000. A year ago, he played for $99,000.

POWER — That's the word when Colorado City fullback Gary Hulme (6-1, 200) takes the handoff from quarterback Ricky Sanchez (6-0, 165), in 1978. Both lettermen (Hulme will letter for his fourth year) are expected to give the Wolfpack respectable strength on the ground. The Red and Black troops from Cee City open their season Sept. 1 against Slaton at home.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Both Hulme and Sanchez were injured in Friday night's scrimmage with Lubbock Friends, and were held overnight in Lubbock's Methodist Hospital. Hulme suffered a shoulder separation and will be out of action for three to six weeks, and Sanchez was in for a mild concussion. Center Mike Womack was also hospitalized for a pinched nerve in his shoulder, but was treated and released.

Riot in Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — A riot that followed middleweight Vito Antufermo's 10-round decision over Willie Classen Friday will have no impact on the future of boxing at Madison Square Garden, said Michael Burke, the arena's president.

The incident hospitalized at least 10 spectators and caused four to be arrested by New York City police.

"It's just one of those things," said Burke, "it happened and it's gone." When pressed on whether the outburst by pro-Classens supporters in the crowd of 11,204 would have any negative effect on the Garden's boxing plans, he said, "absolutely not."

As soon as the decision was announced, the crowd began to boo and then showered the ring with bottles, umbrellas, and other debris, driving the principals, their managers and officials out of the ring. Most of them dove under the ring to avoid pieces of flying glass created by bottles which shattered as they struck the ring posts and the flooring around the ring.

Fans then charged into the ring, one of them taking the microphone to deliver a speech denouncing the decision. As more fans surged toward the ring, they knocked down barriers and chairs, throwing them wildly around the arena. Garden officials were unable to provide an immediate estimate of physical damage to the facility but it was felt that the concert scheduled for Saturday would be held.

Quarterback Club will meet Monday

The Big Spring Quarterback Club will hold its organizational meeting Monday night in the BSHS conference room, 7:30 p.m., according to Co-Captain Jerry Foresyth.

All interested parents are invited to attend. Foresyth indicated that suggestions for operation are requested.

"We'll have a few comments to make," said Foresyth, "on what we want to get done, but we also want the people of Big Spring to tell us how they would like the Club run. We want to generate some enthusiasm this year."

The Quarterback Club is the local booster organization and meets weekly throughout the football season.

UT hires fem coach

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Philip Delavan, former head track coach for men's and women's teams at Emporia State University in Kansas, has been hired as the University of Texas' women's track coach.

Delavan, 42, succeeds Jack Daniels, who resigned. Delavan is a graduate of Iowa State and also coached there and at Central Missouri State.

Owls name captains

HOUSTON (AP) — The triccaptains for the 1978 Rice Owls football team were named Saturday by head Coach Ray Alborn.

The captains, elected by their teammates, are David Houser and Don Parrish, both of Dallas, and Doug Cunningham of San Antonio. All three are seniors.

Cunningham, a split end, is repeating as captain this year. He was elected to serve as team captain last year, but ended up sitting out the season after an injury in the opener against Idaho.

Houser is a wide receiver and Parrish is a cornerback.

Irwin holds off Tom's Fame surge

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Defending champion Hale Irwin had to fire a 2-under-par 69 Saturday to hold off Tom Watson's charge and retain a 1-stroke lead in the third round of the $250,000 Hall of Fame Golf Classic.

Irwin, tied first by Tom Kite and later by Watson in the hot, humid weather, birdied two of his last three holes for a 54-hole total of 205, 8 shots under par on the No. 2 course at Pinehurst Country Club.

Watson, gaining for his fourth victory of the year and the leading money-winning sport, had a second consecutive 67, including a 30-foot birdie putt on the final hole. He was a single shot back at 206.

"I made everything I looked at," Watson said.

Kite put on a birdie-birdie-birdie finish for a 70 that left him in strong tie-contention at 207, only 2 back going into Sunday's final round of the chase for a $50,000 first prize.

"From being almost out of contention, I put myself right back in it," Kite said.

It was another 3 shots back to Curtis Strange, in fourth at 210 after a 69. Howard Twitty had 73-211 and Bill Kratzert and Jerry Pate, at 212, were the only others under par after three trips over the famed old course in the Carolina sandhill country. Pate had a third-round 72 while Kratzert closed up with a 67.

Arnold Palmer shot 69-215.

Irwin, who had taken the lead Friday with a brilliant 63, bogeyed two of his first four holes and had to birdie the seventh to regain a share of the lead.

"I put myself against the wall with that kind of a start, but, fortunately, everyone else was making bogeys then, too," Irwin said.

He rolled in an 18-foot putt on the 10th hole to take the lead alone, then was tied by Watson on the 13th. Tom scored from about six feet on the 12th and from twice that distance on the next hole.

Irwin, however, pulled away down the stretch. He had a 10-foot par-saving putt on the 15th, exploded a long bunker shot to about 6 feet and made birdie-4 on the 16th, then hit what he called "a ringer shot."

That was a 3-iron that hit the flagstick on the par-3 17th and slipped about two feet by. He made that one to go to 2 ahead.

Area teams have mixed luck in scrimmages

By DANNY REAGAN

All but two of the Herald Country's "Big 13" football teams engaged in their first scrimmages this weekend. For some clubs, there were a few pleasant surprises. Other teams experienced a few mildly unpleasant surprises, and for some squads the surprises were downright scary.

COLORADO CITY 2, FRENSHIP 1

In the scary department, Coach Mike Farida saw three of his top players wind up in Lubbock's Methodist Hospital after Friday night's scrimmage in Woolforth against Frenship.

Highly-touted fullback Gary Hulme suffered a separated shoulder on a diving tackle from his linebacker position, and should miss from three to six weeks of action as a result. Quarterback-tailback Ricky Sanchez was popped on the head, and that collision resulted in a mild concussion for the one-year letterman. Both stayed overnight in the hospital.

Center Mike Womack pinched a nerve in his shoulder. At first, Cee City staffers feared his arm was broken.

The good news is "We were very well pleased with their performance," indicated assistant Mike Easterwood Saturday. Because of the injury situation, positions were shuffled around somewhat, and senior quarterback Gene Carter came on to do a fine job, while Sanchez, also a helmsman, performed admirably from the tailback slot, according to Easterwood.

Martin Molina and Britt Chaney at defensive tackle and outside linebacker Mike Womack also drew words of praise for their efforts. In highlights, tight end Jay Feaster caught a 60-yard pass for one score, and Hulme rambled 10 for the other.

COAHOMA 4, DENVER CITY 2

"I was real pleased with the work we got out of these people in our first scrimmage," Coahoma Coach Roy Winters said Saturday morning.

"Offensively, James Devers and Jerry Roever (linemen) looked real good," Winters added.

The Bulldogs scored once from the open field and three times from goal-line position, while Denver City managed a goose egg from the open field and two spots from the goal stands.

In JV action, neither club scored, while the Dogpack subs failed to cross the double stripe while allowing Dee City only one tally.

FT. STOCKTON 1, SNYDER 0

Not much information here, but it must have been one heckuva battle between the state's number one ranked AAA team (Ft. Stockton) and the powerful Tigers, who are ranked sixth in most polls statewide.

IRAAN 1, STANTON 0

"Not very good," is the word from Stanton's head coach David Thompson, when questioned about how his club's scrimmage with Iraan Friday night.

"They (Iraan) took the scrimmage as a game, and we took it as a scrimmage," Thompson added, "and when you get in a situation like that, you're not going to look very good. Scrimmages don't mean anything, except maybe a hurt ego every now and then."

Individually, running back Todd Smith gained 58 yards in 14 carries and Mitch Elmore rolled for 25 markers in five attempts. Quarterback Tommy Morrow completed four of nine passes for 52 yards.

"We just weren't real sharp," concluded Thompson, referring mainly to the five Buffalo fumbles.

BETHEL-CHRISTIAN AT GRADY (Cancelled)

Wildcat Coach Richard Gibson only found out Thursday that his scheduled bout with Bethel-Christian of New Mexico had been dropped because that club wasn't leaving their home state this year.

Grady did scrimmage Marathon Saturday afternoon, and will host the same club next Friday night at 7 o'clock on Tunnel Field.

"I wasn't kidding you when I said we were green," explained Golden Top Coach Julian Bush after his club's meeting with the Indians.

"The more we play, the better we'll be," he added. "This was our baptism. It's the first time most of our kids have seen themselves on film. We didn't do good."

Bush did single out all-district linebacker Armando Morales, however, but said that he and his staff were just now looking at what the inexperienced players can do.

CLONDIKE 2, FORSAN 0

Cougar coach Mickey Finley was "tickled to death" with his club's defensive efforts against the Forsan Buffaloes.

"We looked exceptionally good," he said. "Our timing on offense was not where it should have been. We got down to their goal line three other times and should have scored."

David Cox scored on a 70-yard run, and Julian Vasquez tallied the other on a two-yard plunge. Mike Holcomb and Tommy Hayes were also mentioned for outstanding performances from the linebacker slot.

WINNING TOSS — Chao-Min Pan, Taiwan Little League pitcher, is tossed into the air by his teammates after they defeated Danville, Calif. 11-1 in the championship game of the Little League World Series at Williamsport, Pa. Saturday. Pan was the winning pitcher and also hit a home run.

"There was hard-hitting on both sides," said Finley. "And that was something to see...two teams hitting like that at this time of the year."

BLACKWELL 5, IRA 3

According to Coach Gary Fox, his club didn't do too bad, but then again, they didn't do too good.

"We played in spurts," he explained. "We'd have a good play, then we'd have two bad ones to wipe it out. We didn't look too strong on offense, but that's understandable with a new offensive system. The timing was off."

Fox indicated that a few of the freshmen performed very good and would make the older players hustle to keep their positions.

SANDS 2, BORDEN COUNTY 2

"We were well-pleased with this first performance," judged Coach Dickie Leopard Saturday. "They looked real good and really got after it. We've still got a long way to go, but we're getting there."

Van Gaskins scored for the Mustangs on a 15-yard gallop and David Mosley tallied the other score for the Ponies on a 10-yard run. David Long from his defensive end position was also singled out by Leopard. Borden County scoring plays were unavailable.

Sands hosts Greenwood next Saturday at 6 p.m. in their final scrimmage, while the Coyotes are idle.

GARDEN CITY 0, GRANDFALLS 0

"Our defense was pretty good," Bearkat Coach Jesse Smalley indicated, "but our offense was a little sluggish. We only have 21 kids, which really hurts us, but the ones we have have a good attitude." Smalley explained that his squad may increase with the start of school.

Jose Garza, Jorge Patino, Larry and Mark Halfmann, Kevin Hirt, David Wooten and the entire defensive squad was praised for its stoppage of a Grandfalls drive. The Bearkats stopped the opponent on four different occasions from the one-yard line.

Klondike scrimmages Sunday, 10th-ranked in the state Harris poll, next weekend, while Forsan hosts Sterling City.

Hogs lose Bobo

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.

(AP) — The University of Arkansas' premier pass receiver, Donny Bobo, suffered a pulled knee ligament during Saturday's football scrimmage and may be lost for the season.

UA Trainer Dean Webber said a ligament in Bobo's left knee was pulled away from the bone. He said Bobo will be reexamined Sunday, but it appears that he will have to undergo surgery.

Webber said if surgery is required, Bobo will be lost for the season.

Bobo helped Arkansas amass an 11-1 season record last year by catching 22 passes for 450 yards and five touchdowns.

A junior in eligibility this year, Bobo may not be red-shirted because he was considered a hardship case as a freshman.

Associated Press chooses top prep teams

By the Associated Press

Garland in Class 4A, Brownwood in 3A, Mount Vernon in 2A and Grapeland in A have been named the teams to beat in their classifications in the Associated Press Preseason Schoolboy Football Poll.

The real picking starts the weekend of Sept. 3 when the gigantic Texas schoolboy football season starts another campaign.

Garland narrowly missed the playoffs last year with a 9-1 record but seniors on the Owl team have lost only once in 28 games and expects to challenge for the title this season.

Saturday baseball

Cubs rally past Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bobby Murcer cracked a bases-loaded single and scored when Cincinnati center fielder Cesar Geronimo let the ball get past him Saturday, sparking a six-run inning and carrying the Chicago Cubs to an 8-6 victory over the Reds in a rain-delayed game.

A storm stopped play for one hour, 55 minutes with the Reds ahead 4-2 after the seventh inning. Greg Gross led off the Cubs eighth with a single, Rodney Scott was walked and Bill Buckner singled, loading the bases.

Dave Tomlin relieved Doug Bair, 6-5, and Murcer lined a single over second which skidded through Geronimo and went to the wall.

The Cubs added two runs when Ivan DeJesus tripped to score Manny Trillo, then came home on a groundout by Tim Blackwell.

Brewers strip Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — Light-hitting Buck Martinez drove in three runs with a bases-loaded walk and a pair of singles Saturday as the Milwaukee Brewers snapped Jack Billingham's winning streak at nine games and defeated the Detroit Tigers 9-5.

Martinez walked to force in a run in the Brewers' three-run second against Billingham, 14-6, who didn't finish the inning. Martinez singled runs home in the third and fifth off Dave Tobik, who was making his major league debut.

Ben Oglivie drove in two Milwaukee runs, one with a single in the second inning and the other with a double in the eighth off Bob Sykes. Oglivie scored on a single by Larry Hisle.

Paul Molitor accounted for the Brewers' other second-inning run with a fielder's choice grounder, Don Money homered in the fourth and Gorman Thomas connected in the ninth, his 28th home run of the season.

Astros trounce Pirates

HOUSTON (AP) — Bruce Bochy's two-run double capped a five-run Houston first inning and J.R. Richard hurled a six-hitter for his 14th victory as the Houston Astros trounced the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-2 Saturday.

Richard, 14-11, struck out eight to run his major league-leading total to 244 as the Astros extended their winning streak to five games. The Pirates, who had a 10-game winning streak snapped Friday night, dropped their second in a row.

Houston scored five unearned runs in the first inning with the aid of three errors: Art Howe's run-scoring single, right fielder Dave Parker's throwing error, an RBI single by Dennis Walling and Bochy's two-run double provided Richard with all the support he needed as solid No. 1 pick by a 153-120 margin over runnerup Dumas but Friendswood is third with 119 points followed by fourth place Gregory-Portland at 106.

Brownwood Coach Gordon Wood took the Lions to the state finals last year before losing to Dickinson, led by quarterback Donnie Little.

Mount Vernon, which returns 13 starters this year, and No. 2 ranked Bellville, both were victims of eventual state Class 2A champion Wylie last season.

Wylie defeated Mount Vernon in the quarter-finals and beat Bellville in the championship game. Newton, Muleshoe and Tahoka round out the top five teams.

Grapeland, a perennial playoff team, got the preseason nod over runnerup Brackett and No. 3 Farmersville in another close race in Class A. Brackett got second place by a 135-134 margin over Farmersville.

None of the defending champions was named to the preseason top 10 although Plano, the defending titlist in Class 4A, gained two first place votes and narrowly missed the rankings. Dickinson, the 3A champ, and East Bernard, which won the Class A crown, were not mentioned on any ballot.

Wylie received two votes for seventh place among the 2A ballots.

Challenge to Cowboys has lessened (some)

DALLAS (AP) — The severity of the challenge would appear to diminish somewhat for the World Champion Dallas Cowboys in the National Football Conference East Division this year.

George Allen isn't around Washington anymore to accuse Tom Landry of coaching illegal crackback blocks and Terry Metcalf isn't at St. Louis where he bedeviled the Cowboys with his scintillating touchdown runs.

The New York Giants and Philadelphia Eagles are on the rise but certainly haven't reached a World Championship altitude.

The National Football League schedule has been expanded to 16 games which gives a deep team like Dallas even more of an edge.

Tony Dorsett actually knows the plays this year although he gained over 1,000 yards in his rookie year with Dallas as an instant.

What about complacency?

Defensively, it will be the same old dose of Doomsday II with Ed "Too Tall" Jones, Harvey Martin and Randy White even more devastating in the pre-season than they were in the 27-10 Super Bowl XII victory over Denver.

"The defense should be better," says Landry. "Ed Jones came into his own in the three playoff games and White and (middle linebacker) Bob Breunig should benefit from an additional year of experience. We have the two best safeties in the league (Charlie Waters and Cliff Harris)." There are coaching changes at both Washington and St. Louis, chief rivals in the annual Cowboy march to the playoffs.

Jack Pardee, an Allen disciple, takes over the Redskins helm while Bud Wilkinson, who led Oklahoma to many a Big Eight title in college, is the new voice at St. Louis, replacing Don Coryell.

Coaches Dick Vermeil and John McKay return at Philadelphia and New York, respectively, to handle those rebuilding programs.

Pardee, who guided Chicago to a 9-5 record and a wild card playoff berth last year, inherits a team that finished 9-5 with victories in its last three games.

"We are going to have that kind of effort again," said Pardee, who used to play under Allen.

Pardee plans to carry on the Allen tradition of great specialty teams and solid defense.

Pardee said, "We have a good running game, and you have to have that in the NFL to be a good team. I think our offensive line has got to make a big improvement from last year."

It will still be Billy Kilmer and Joe Theismann battling for the quarterback job.

Former Cowboy Calvin Hill announced his retirement from the Redskins while another former Dallas player, Jean Fugett, has been switched from tight end to wide receiver.

Tommy Reamon, a World Football League refugee, could add punch to the Redskins ground game.

At St. Louis, Metcalf has made tracks for the Canadian Football League, causing glee in the Cowboy camp. But there is the thought that the 62-year-old Wilkinson, who had a 145-29-4 record at Oklahoma, might spring some surprises.

Wilkinson says his first experience in the pro ranks is about what he expected.

"The fundamentals of the game remain the same," he said.

The Cardinals drafted Arkansas punterplacekicker Steve Little in the first round and his powerful leg should aid the Cardinal field position, an aspect of the game dear to Wilkinson's heart. Jim Bakken is still around to kick clutch field goals.

Philadelphia was 5-9 last year but with luck could have been 9-5.

"I think we're going to be a better football team though I'm realistic enough to believe that it will be hard to show it in the win-loss column because of the schedule," said Vermeil.

"It's going to be tough because we'll be playing 11 winning teams and we haven't beaten a winning team in the two years that I've been here. Before we can be successful in Philadelphia, we're going to have to start beating the teams that we've lost to."

Quarterback Ron

Ijaworski threw 18 touchdown passes last year and Eagle hopes ride with him again.

The Giants were 5-9 last season when three rookie quarterbacks took turns acquiring some painful experience. Two of them, Jerry Golsteyn and Joe Pisarcik, will fight it out again for the No. 1 job this year.

New York only averaged 12.9 points per game in 1977, but the defense was the eighth best in the NFL and third best against the rush.

'Schmoo the Whale' is asset to Mustangs

DALLAS (AP)—His coach calls him "Schmoo the Whale."

With his 17-inch neck and 236 pounds of girth and 6-feet, 3-inches of height Mike Ford certainly could pass for an offensive lineman or a linebacker.

He is none of the above.

Ford is the sensational sophomore quarterback for Southern Methodist and there's a lot of him love as far as head coach Ron Meyer is concerned.

"I'm not so sure he's not the best quarterback I've ever been around," said Meyer Wednesday on the Southwest Conference football press tour. "He kind of reminds me of Sonny Jurgensen, the old Washington Redskins quarterback."

Meyer said "He is big and his weight is up. I would like for him to play at around 220. But he ran 53 100-yard runs yesterday. He is in great cardiovascular condition. He does like to eat. But for a big guy he can really move his feet."

Ford, who hails from Mesquite, Texas, showed up for press day in fairer overall benefit of a shirt. He looked like he stepped directly off the cast of "Hee-Haw."

He took all the kidding about his weight good naturedly. "I'm just a big dude," he said. "If I worried about my weight as much as everyone else said I'd have a heart attack."

Someone suggested to Ford that perhaps he had been pouring down too many suids.

"I ain't had a beer in three weeks," he corrected.

Meyer said that while Ford needs to shrivel his waistline there's certainly nothing fat about his good right arm.

"He's not your typical sophomore quarterback," said Meyer. "What he knows about this game is uncanny. And he can rifle the ball."

Ford played most of last year with a hyperextended elbow but still led the league in total offense and passing. He hit 50.8 per cent of his passes for 2,064 yards—17th in the nation.

"I'm throwing harder than I've ever thrown in my life," said Ford. "The arm is stronger than it has been since I was a junior in high school."

"He's an intelligent player and I don't care if you do have to clock him in the 100 with a calendar," said Meyer.

"We'll do much more offensively this year because Mike has progressed so fast," said Meyer. "He just sees so much more out there on the field now. He had some interceptions last year when he should have eaten the ball."

Meyer was just speaking literally, of course.

DOGPACK HELMSMAN — Coahoma junior quarterback Gary Gee is expected to lead a highly-experienced squad of Bulldogs in the 1978 District 6-AA campaign. The 5-10, 150 pound letterman follows in the footsteps of 1977's Tim Greenfield, an all-district quarterback for the Redmen. Gee has drawn praise for both his running and passing abilities.

Pee Wees signing up

All youngsters in the fifth and sixth grades interested in playing pee wee football this season are urged to sign up Monday or Tuesday (4-8 p.m.) in the Student Union Building at Howard College.

Each prospective participant should be accompanied by a parent or guardian, and bring their birth certificate. Registration fee is $5, which includes a team jersey.

Fifth and sixth grades from Big Spring, Coahoma, Forsan and the surrounding area are welcome. Individual team practice sessions begin Aug. 31.

This year's coaching array includes Bob Schooler (Packers), Leo Williams (Cowboys), Buster Gartman (Dolphins), Joe Oregan, Jr. (Oilers), Jerry Robinson (Bulldogs) and Mike Faulkner (Vikings). Some of the team sponsors are the greater Big Spring Rotary Club, Damson Petro Services, American Legion and Cosden.

League play is slated to begin Sept. 23, with three games every Sunday.

L.A. Olympic story draws to a close

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The long saga of Los Angeles' bid to stage the 1984 Olympic Games will reach its climax this week in an 18th Century mansion house on the shores of Lake Geneva.

The nine-man executive board of the International Olympic Committee (IOC), meeting from Tuesday through Thursday, will say yes or no to Los Angeles' attempts to keep within the Olympic rules without losing a bankful of money.

If it's yes, the United States will be host to the Summer Games for the first time in almost half a century. The last time was in Los Angeles in 1932.

If it's no, the IOC will probably choose between Munich, Mexico City and Montreal as an alternative site — unless some other city comes up with an unexpected bid.

The dispute between Los Angeles and the IOC has been dragging on for six months. At one stage Mayor Tom Bradley said he would advise the Los Angeles City Council to withdraw its bid to stage the Games — but the IOC kept the debate open.

Rule 4 of the Olympic Charter says the host city and the National Olympic Committee of the host country shall be jointly responsible for arranging and financing the games.

Bradley says he will not risk landing the city in heavy debt.

The U.S. Olympic Committee (USOC), which is not a wealthy organization, has offered to guarantee losses. But the IOC is not yet satisfied that this would be in accordance with the charter.

That is what the executive has to decide this week.

National college biggies different in 1978

SCHL NISSESON
AP Sports Writer
When the 1977 season ended, Coaches Bear Bryant of Alabama, Lou Holtz of Arkansas and Fred Akers of Texas all were actively campaigning for college football's national chamionship.

But now that the 1978 season is about to open, they're talking differently. Despite a 35-6 walloping of Ohio State in the Sugar Bowl, Alabama had to settle for the runner-up spot behind Notre Dame's 1977 national champs. "I don't know of anyone that saw us practice in the spring that's picked us No.1," said Bryant. "But I sure saw us, and I didn't pick us No.1."

Arkansas finished No.3 after trampling Oklahoma 31-6 in the Orange Bowl. The Razorbaks are favored to be high in the rankings again, but Coach Holtz is moaning that "we've got more question marks than any team with a chance to be nationally ranked."

Texas, the only team to go through the 1977 regular season with a perfect record, blew its chance to be No.1 by losing to Notre Dame 38-10 in the Cotton Bowl and slipped from the top to No.4.

The Longhorns not only lost Earl "Heisman Trophy" Campbell and Brad "Outland Trophy" Shearer but, said Akers, "We failed to solve two of our biggest problems in the spring — replacing our offensive line and having a quarterback come to the front."
Notre Dame, Alabama, Arkansas, Texas and No.5 Penn State all finished with 11-1 marks last year, and the 1978 race also could be a five-way struggle. Notre Dame's Dan Devine and Penn State's Joe Paterno are not complaining.

UCLA and Southern California in the Far West. Kentucky, Oklahoma, Pitt, Michigan and Washington rounded out the 1977 Top Ten.
LSU's chances of unseating Alabama depend largely on Charles Alexander, the nation's second-leading rusher a year ago with an SEC record 1,686 yards. Kentucky has plenty of talent despite the loss of quarterback Derrick Ramsey and All-American defensive end Art Still.
Most of Arkansas' problems are on the offensive line. The skill positions feature talented players like quarterback Ron Calcagni, running backs Ben Cowins and Roland Sales, and several nifty receivers.
Texas may have lost Campbell and Shearer, but the Longhorns return nine regulars from a stingy defensive unit, plus standout placekicker-punter Russell Erleben. Most of last year's quarterbacks went down with injuries, but someone else always stepped in and did the job.
Texas A&M, Houston and Baylor also are given a shot at Southwest Conference honors.
Notre Dame lost such standouts as Ken MacAfee, Ross Browner and Willie Fry and the Irish are counting heavily on quarterback Joe Montana, running backs Vagas Ferguson and Jerome Heavens and linebacker Bob Golic to help defend their national championship.
Oklahoma is heavily favored to win their seventh consecutive Big Eight crown. "If you didn't make Oklahoma the favorite, everybody would collapse."

Michigan and Notre Dame haven't met in 35 years, but the winner of their Sept. 23 clash will be a top prospect for national honors.
As usual, it figures to come down to the Michigan-Ohio State windup before anything is settled in the Big Ten. "We can be as good as last year," said Ohio State's Woody Hayes, relishing the return of quarterback Rod Gerald and All-American linebacker Tom Cousineau.

WANDERLUST AMONG FISH

Some species of fish travel migratory routes which have been imprinted on their brains over many thousands of years of genetic transfer.
Among these are chinook salmon and steelhead trout, both tagged and identified in the Columbia River and later recaptured more than 2,500 miles away in the Gulf of Alaska.
The availability of food is another factor which causes fish to travel. Many saltwater fish—like marlin, tuna and striped bass—are known to range along coasts for hundreds of miles feeding on forage fish as they move about.
Inherited migratory traits and the pursuit of food are two valid reasons why fish travel, according to the Mercury outdoor fishing pros.
But they wonder about the motives of some touring carp. A few years ago, a carp tagged in Louisiana traveled up the Mississippi, turned west at St. Louis into the Missouri River, and was finally brought to net halfway across Missouri nearly a thousand miles from home.
Next, a carp tagged in Nebraska took a three-stream, thousand-plus mile journey south before being caught in Arkansas' White River.
More recently, other tagged carp have turned up from 420 to more than 600 miles from where they were first caught.
No one knows why carp travel. They don't migrate to spawn and they don't depend upon a mobile source of food. Perhaps they're just on vacation or out visiting relatives.

Visitors from Rhodesia

with Marj Carpenter

AFRICAN VISITORS — Mrs. Grace Currie, John Currie, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Erasmus and Mrs. John Currie are shown this week while the Curries were hosting the couple from Rhodesia on their first trip to the States.

It is becoming more and more common for folks to have visitors from other countries...but you very seldom run across anybody from Rhodesia.

One reason for this is that it is very difficult for a Rhodesian to even get a visa to visit in the United States because of the present political situation.

Ben and Irene Erasmus, who farm in Rhodesia, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Currie this week. Currie had been to Rhodesia last year and met many persons there.

But it's easier for an American to visit in Rhodesia than it is for a Rhodesian to visit in the United States.

Ben, who farms corn, cotton and other crops on 1500 acres, said that the farms are about the same size as Texas farms and many of the ranches are around 20,000 acres like some Texas ranches.

Erasmus is a first generation Rhodesian but comes from a fourth generation South African family. Originally his ancestry was Dutch.

He pointed out that the longtime landowners and colonists in South Africa and Rhodesia are, of course, uneasy about many of the current trends.

He said that a quarter million whites pay 98 percent of the taxes in Rhodesia while 7 1/2 million blacks pay two percent.

"Our income tax begins at 15 percent and there is also a sales tax, property tax — and all are heavy since the unrest began."

Rhodesia, named for Cecil John Rhodes who owned the British South African company which did so much colonization during the 19th Century, has seen many changes in recent years. Since the terrorist action, the army draft and mobilized troops have been greatly increased.

Temporary agreement was reached in 1976 between their prime minister, the prime minister of South Africa, Henry Kissinger of the United States and others setting up a proposal for a biracial temporary government.

There are graded schools in Rhodesia, but very few colleges, according to Erasmus. He said that in religion there is Christianity, Moslems and a kind of mixture of Christianity with some of the old African religions.

They were enjoying their visits in the States, which was their first and anxious to see as much as they can during the month they will spend here.

Erasmus also grows some tobacco which is one of the country's exports along with copper, asbestos, apparel, meats, chrome and sugar.

"It's roomy like West Texas, but it's greener and has more rainfall," Erasmus pointed out.

He was interested in learning about agriculture, business, and politics in America and even attended a political luncheon with the Curries where he heard Rita Clements, wife of the Republican nominee for governor.

The young couple could easily pass for West Texans until they speak. They are slightly tanned like West Texans, but speak with the British accent which is common in the English speaking in Rhodesia and South Africa.

But they were really very interested in all of us West Texas — out where I ride fence.

Full calendar of events

Pieces are falling rapidly into place for the 1978 Howard County Fair, Sept. 18-23, with a full calendar of special events along with conventional and commercial exhibits.

Drought may thin the horticultural exhibits, Bruce Griffith told directors at their pre-fair meeting Wednesday at the Dora Roberts Fair Barn, but there would be a sufficient volume. Homemaking has been moved back to the Dora Roberts building, since scheduled renovation of the east building had not materialized.

Delbert Donelson, president, said the directors established the gate admission fees at $1 for adults and 25 cents for children, with an option for a $3 season adult and $1 season children's ticket. Senior citizens (65 and older) will be admitted free, and so will official elementary school groups.

Hours for the fair will be from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily except for a 3 p.m. opening on the first day of the fair.

Other general chairman reporting, other than Griffith, were LaVerne Gaskin, who has all chairmen named and ready to go; Jimmy Bailey, who has the concession situation in hand; Janet Rogers, who mentioned plans for the 4-H Girls omelette supper Sept. 21. All booth space has been rented (except a few reserved for special use), and most of the outdoor exhibit areas. Special events, announced by Loyd Underwood will include the Shrine Circus the opening evening, possibly a band night Tuesday, also the agriculture appreciation barbecue, which has been set for 5 p.m. that day; an American Indian Exposition; the Buddy Baer show, horse show, roping, and possibly a pet show.

Fair plans firming

Miscellaneous special contests include waffle pitching and tobacco showing, also a domino tourney, old fiddlers contest and musical entertainment each evening.

Donelson said that the concrete slab will be poured on the remaining half just east of the Dora Roberts building. Eventually, the Fair hopes to take this section under roof.

Single parents need other single parents

Somewhere between the single person and the married parent lies a special group of people who fit neither category. They are the single parents.

They have problems similar to other singles and parents, but they also have some additional problems unique to their own special group as they try to combine single living with family living.

Parents Without Partners, Inc., a national organization with chapters convenient to almost every locality in the United States, was formed for the sole purpose of helping the single parent.

The Big Spring Chapter No. 619 of Parents Without Partners claims 40 members within its ranks. The members are varied in age, occupation, and background, but all have one thing in common — they are single parents with single parent's problems.

Founded six years ago, the purpose of the group is to provide mutual help for the parents and the children. Belonging, according to the members, helps to not only cope with the problems, but helps make the experience of being a single parent an enjoyable one for both the parent and the child.

Activities for the parents include informal coffee and conversation meetings, discussion groups, educational meetings with knowledgeable speakers, conferences, and social activities such as dances, concerts, and out-of-town trips.

For the family group, there is bowling, miniature golf, covered dish dinners, picnics and other activities that parents and children can enjoy together.

To join, a member must be single either through divorce, death of a spouse, or never having been married, and the member must have at least one living child. A parent does not need to have custody of the child to join.

"This group is particularly beneficial to the newly singled parent and to single parents new to town," said Bill Adams, a father of four who joined the organization several years ago when he was a newcomer to Big Spring.

"A single parent needs friends who can relate to and understand his or her situation and no one but someone who's been there can."

According to membership chairman LaRue Divinye, the newly singled person often discovers that the only friends he or she has are married friends. And many of those, because they can't understand or feel uncomfortable with the situation, will drop the single friend at a time when friends are needed most. Parents Without Partners offers a way to make new friends who will understand.

"When someone becomes widowed," Adams said, "Others feel sympathetic and try to understand. But when you get a divorce, people react quite differently."

"What a lot of people don't understand is that the divorced person

BENEFITS BOTH — When a single parent is in control of his problem, he's better able to enjoy his child. Here, Jim Taylor, president of the local chapter, enjoys a visit with his son, Mark. Taylor pointed out that a parent need not have custody of a child in order to be a member of and benefit from Parents Without Partners.

Says young PWP mother

Single parenthood can work

"Single parents have to work harder at being parents," according to one young local mother, Rose Hodnett.

As a social worker for the County Child Welfare Unit and as a single parent herself, Rose knows the extra pressures that go with the role.

She has two sons, Bradley, 8, and Chris, 2.

"I felt isolated at first," she said. "I was living in Lubbock and decided to do what a lot of us do when we become single parents. I moved back to Big Spring to be near my family."

"Some single parents can't solve the isolation problem the same way I did though. Some remain where they are, away from relatives who might be able to help, because of a job or another reason. Those are the parents who need Parents Without Partners the most."

Rose first learned about PWP in Lubbock. When she moved to Big Spring, it was Bill Adams, a co-worker, who introduced her to the local chapter. Rose said she doesn't attend as many of the meetings as she'd like because of the responsibilities that go with rearing young children.

"The biggest problem of being a single mother of young children," she said, "is child care. I'm lucky. It's easier for me because I'm near my family. You can't work full-time when you have to worry about the kids and getting them to and from school and all of their other activities."

According to Adams, the ones who have the most trouble getting to PWP meetings because of small children and child care, are probably the parents who need PWP the worst.

In their work, Adams and Rose have both seen the child neglect and abuse that can result from too much isolation and frustration. Parents Without Partners gets the parent out of the house and around other adults who provide support in learning how to overcome the frustration by coping with the problems.

"It helps to know that there are other people with the same problems," Rose said. "When you're married, you tend to surround yourself with couples. When you're single, you need people who are familiar with that lifestyle."

One of the youngest members of the local chapter, Rose says there's no gap because of age.

"Every member of the PWP group have had children. They know the problems. A lot of them have already raised their children so I'm able to benefit from their experiences. When I have a problem with my children, they sometimes are able to see things that I don't."

"There are a lot of people in this particular group who are concerned about people in general. Right now, there are more older than young, and more women than men, but you don't join PWP to find a partner; you join to find friends who know your problems."

One of the features of PWP that Rose finds most helpful is the "Single Parents' magazine which is a bonus for all PWP members. The self-help articles cover every aspect of parenting from finding child care to helping the children adjust to a step-parent.

Though PWP's emphasis is on succeeding as a single, the possibility that some of the members might remarry is an aspect of being a single parent that's not ignored.

According to Rose, the children can benefit as much from PWP as the parent.

"Anything that benefits me, benefits them. My older one enjoys the family-oriented activities that I've taken him too. The activities are geared for a single parents income, too."

One of the things that Rose values most about PWP is the fact that the members can sympathize with her situation, but they don't feel sorry for her as so many married people are tempted to do.

"I resent that 'Ah, that's too bad' attitude. I feel that two parents are always the ideal situation, but we each have to do the best we can with what we have.

"Single parents may have more problems than married parents, but a lot of us have made it work. You find a way to make it work. And it's not all bad. There are some advantages, such as fewer conflicts."

One of the major disadvantages of being a single parent, she pointed out, is that the counter-balance offered by a partner is lacking.

"That's another way PWP helps. You find a counter-balance to your own views on how to handle the children."

In many cases, a single parent will try to handle everything alone, attempting to be a "super parent." According to Rose, rather than try to handle it all by themselves, these people should seek out people who can help them handle it.

"When you're married, you depend on each other. When you're single, you have to find a substitute to provide some of the balance you get in marriage. The ones who don't find a substitute in their families, need PWP."

NOT ALONE — A feeling of isolation was one of the problems identified by Rose Hodnett, single mother of Chris, 2, and Bradley, 8. In the accompanying story, she reveals how important it is to find other people who understand the problems and suggests that Parents Without Partners is a good place to start.

BIG SPRING, TEXAS,
AUGUST 27, 1978

IMPROVED OUTLOOK is what Tom Everett is grateful to PWP for. Here, Tom is shown with the children of Anne Burchell who was not available for pictures. There are Kyle Maddin, 16, and Melissa Maddin, 14. According to Tom, there's no reason for a single parent to feel like an "oddball" when there are so many others in the same situation. The problem is how to go about finding them. About 40 local single parents can be found at PWP.

and the widowed person go through the same phases. The divorced also grieves, though not as strongly as the widowed, and the widowed feels anger, though not as strongly as the divorced."

Adams, who is employed as a social worker with the County Child Welfare Unit, said that a lot of the people are withdrawn when they first come to Parents Without Partners. Through the deep friendship and acceptance they receive from others who have "been there", they are able to emerge from their selves and become whole people again.

Jim Taylor, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Coahoma and president of the Big Spring Chapter of PWP, explained.

"When you become single, you realize how few single people you know. You find that you and your married friends are now talking from different points of view and you now have different interests and needs. It's very easy for the single person to suddenly feel like an oddball and start withdrawing from other people."

"One of the strong points of PWP is that it serves as a kind of therapy. As you discover your ability to make new friends, you start coming out of yourself and sharing yourself with others again. You discover that you are not an 'oddball' and you are not the only one in the world who's felt like one."

Marianne Gilbert, decorating consultant for Sherwin-Williams agreed that the "fifth wheel" feeling is one of the initial problems of the formerly married.

"With other people, you may feel out of place," she said, "but in Parents Without Partners, you're all in the same boat. The group becomes a kind of replacement family. Here, you feel that you're part of something instead of an extra."

All of the members say that they'd like their group to include more single parents, but that many prospective members have the wrong idea about PWP.

"Many people think we're some kind of dating service," said Adams. "They come once, look over the crop, and leave. They have the wrong idea of our purpose."

"One of the nice things about belonging," said Lois Stuart, an employee of Dunlaps, "is that there's no dating pressure here. We're just single friends."

Though remarriages have occurred between people who met at a PWP meeting, according to Taylor, the typical relationship is more like brother and sister. And the fact that the group includes both men and women makes it even more effective in helping members cope with problems of divorce.

"When you get a divorce," Ms. Gilbert said, "you tend to generalize — 'all men are bad' or 'all women are bad.' Here you learn that they aren't all bad. You learn to talk to the opposite sex again. The whole spectrum is available here."

PWP helps take the bitterness out of divorce, the members agreed, because the men hear the women's side of divorce while the women hear the men's.

"It helps you understand the problems your ex-spouse are up against," Taylor said. "No one ever feels that they get what they should in a divorce, but by hearing the other side, you see the position that the other party is in, too."

Tom Everett, manager of Payless Shoe Store, pointed out that there's a tendency for newly single people to isolate themselves from others when they find that they no longer fit in with their former friends.

"It's easy to feel alone when no one else around you seems to understand or care about what you're going through. Most of the time, you don't even understand it yourself."

"The other members here give you the support you need while the educational lectures give you the methods for improving your situation. You're whole outlook on life improves. The lectures have done a lot for my attitude."

Parents without Partners offers the social support that can help make the process of transition from married to single parent a more successful one. Every member has experienced the process and the problems that go with it. Their goal is to find ways of coping with the problems and to put life back into the life of the single parent.

Anyone who'd like to find out more about PWP is invited to attend any three functions of the group as their guest. Their monthly calendar of events will be published in the Sunday edition of the Big Spring Herald on or preceding the first day of each month. Further information can be obtained by writing the local chapter at P.O. Box 1904.

Dues are $14 per year. Members receive a membership card entitling the holder to attend any PWP meeting anywhere in the U.S., a monthly newsletter and calendar of activities, and a subscription to "Single Parent" magazine.

The local chapter is particularly interested in expanding their group to include more young parents. More members with a fresh input of ideas will make the group a more effective one, but the real reason PWP wants members, according to Ms. Stuart, is because they really want to help.

The bride chose a floor-length gown of beige linen featuring a lace-edged scooped neckline, an empire-style waist which tied in the back, and an A-line skirt. Sheer lace panels enhanced the long fitted sleeves and lace also adorned the front of her gown.

Her waist-length veil of illusion was attached to a beaded cap. She carried a bouquet of carnations, roses and baby's breath.

Dear Abby

Has He a Right To Dad's Estate?

DEAR ABBY: I was born an illegitimate child, and while an infant I was adopted by the most wonderful couple in the world.

Eventually I learned who my "real" parents were, but I had no desire to intrude on their lives. I always felt that they had a right to the lives they had chosen, which did not include me.

I recently read that my "real" father had died. Perhaps I should mention that he had made an outstanding success in business and was well known in his community. In reading his obituary, I discovered that he had no wife or children, only one surviving sister.

I was told that even though I am an illegitimate son, I have a legal claim to his estate.

How do you feel about my coming forward now and demanding what is legally and rightfully mine?

Your answer will help me with a decision I must make soon.

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: A lawyer can tell you whether or not you are legally entitled to anything.

As for your coming forward now and demanding what you think is "rightfully" yours: If you had learned that your "real" father had died deeply in debt, would you come forward now and offer to pay off his debts?

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a millionaire businessman who insists on holding all his business conferences in his private sauna?

N. IN BEVERLY HILLS

DEAR N.: Maybe that's his way of sweating out the best deal.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very personal problem I need help with, but I want to be sure you get my letter. Where shall I send it? Thank you.

DEAR NEEDS: Write to Abby, P.O. Box No. 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. And please enclose a stamped (15 cents), self-addressed envelope for a personal reply.

Good word on lenses

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I want to switch from glasses to contact lenses, but my parents think I'm vain and foolish. I just feel self-conscious when wearing my glasses.

What are your thoughts? — Alice, Delphos, Ohio

Alice: I'm with you and so is the Journal of the American Optometric Association who reports that among teens who made the switch, two-thirds reported improved social and athletic lives. And 60 percent said they got significantly higher grades. Maybe this will help your parents change their minds.

Dr. Wallace: I am 16 years old and my boyfriend is 23 and married. The problem is I am pregnant. Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mom says I have to get married or give the baby up for adoption.

My boyfriend knows I am pregnant, but he said it's my problem, because he is married and has a 2-year-old daughter.

I want to keep my baby but Mom says I can't. What should I do? — Susan, San Diego, Calif.

Susan: Your only choice is to give the baby up for adoption. After you have made that choice, wise up. You were being used.

It's amazing what some girls will do just to hear the words "I love you." Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, in

Compare auto loans

By JANET ROGERS
County Extension Agent

Shop carefully for an auto loan to keep from wasting money saved by comparison shopping for the car.

To save money, decide in advance how much down payment to make. Make the down payment as large as possible and plan to repay in the shortest period possible.

Many consumers are attracted to loans stretched over several years because the monthly payments are lower. However, the total cost is much higher, so compare finance charges before signing a contract.

Next shop for APR or annual percentage rate. The Federal Truth-in-Lending Act requires lenders to state the true annual interest rates exactly. Don't let a lender cloud the picture with any other interest rates — discuss the annual percentage rate only.

Take time to investigate interest rates offered by several lenders. Consider borrowing from one of the following:

Passbook loans: For the consumer with a savings account at a savings and loan, savings bank or commercial bank, it's often possible to borrow against that savings. One disadvantage is that the individual can't withdraw money from the savings account while it's used as collateral. However, the account continues to earn interest.

Life insurance loans: Generally, it's possible to borrow against the cash value of a whole life insurance policy. Interest rates are quite low — perhaps as low as five per cent. However, if the borrower dies before the loan is paid, the unpaid balance of the loan is subtracted from the amount to be paid to the beneficiary.

Credit union: Credit union members can investigate the terms their union offers. Some individuals may find it worthwhile to join a credit union just to finance their car — provided they're eligible to join the credit union. Credit union rates are usually lower than commercial banks.

Commercial banks: Call a loan officer at several banks and inquire about their rates. They sometimes give special rates to account holders.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Brooks, 2908 Hunters Glen, and Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Turner, 1710 Yale Ave.

Colonial arrangements of sonia roses, apricot carnations, snowdrift poms and baby's breath lined the wedding aisle.

The altar was adorned with quadruple commanding arrangements of gladioli, mums, roses, and palmetto fan. Cathedral tapers in spiral and arched candelabums, and jade foliage trees completed the setting.

Vocalist Margaret McGee, and organist Charles Parham provided the wedding music.

The bride wore a classic gown of candlelight colored Silesta jersey accented with guipure lace. The softly molded bodice featured a high keyhole neckline framed with pearl beaded lace centered in a camelo lace medallion and hand run Brussels lace.

The long tapered sleeves were also embellished with guipure lace with lace medallions falling over the hands. The draped skirt was complemented with a wateau train caught to a lace yoke at the back.

Her veil was attached to a camelo capulet covered with guipure lace. The sheer veiling fell to fingertip length and was completely encircled with guipure lace.

She carried a single white rose.

Mrs. Cooper Proctor, sister of the bride, served as the matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. John Richard Sparks, Mrs. Gary Turner, Cindy Cheatham, Mrs. Eddie Henderson and Mrs. Craig Medley.

The attendants wore sleeveless floor-length gowns of ginger colored jersey knit featuring scooped necklines with pleated flounces. The natural waistlines were belted and defined with pleated peplums. A self-fabric flower was attached to each belt.

Each attendant wore a wide brimmed picture hat trimmed with a halo of daisies, tropicana roses and baby's breath. Each carried a basket of sonia and tropicana roses, daisies, gladioli blossoms, and baby's breath.

Best man was Gary Turner, brother of the groom.

Groomsmen were John Richard Sparks, Archie Kountz of Houston, Greg Brooks, Mike Brooks and Craig Medley.

Ushers were Don Sauls, Cooper Proctor, Gary Hopper and Kelly Guinn.

Matthew G. Turner, nephew of the groom, served as ring bearer.

Following the wedding, a reception was held for the newlyweds at the Big Spring Country Club.

The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth. The centerpiece was a silver candelabrum holding a white wedding taper and surrounded with gladioli, tropicana and sonia roses, and jade foliage.

The white on white 4-tiered wedding cake, made by Mrs. Bob Blum, aunt of the bride, was topped with a real bouquet of white roses and baby's breath.

The groom's table was laid with a brown tablecloth and centered with a brass candelabrum holding a white wedding taper and enhanced with jade foliage. A copper and brass coffee service was used. The chocolate cake was also made by Mrs. Blum.

Guests were registered by Tresa Hohertz and Shanna Hohertz and served by Andra Hohertz, Mrs. Jo Pat Harding, Mrs. Rodney Ferrell, Layne Stallings, Mrs. David Chambers and Suzanne Smith.

Other members of the houseparty were Mr. and Mrs. Ron Medley, Louise Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Thurman, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Stallings, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy McCann, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Talbot, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Spence, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spannaus, Mr.

Lubbock; Earl Louder of Lubbock; and Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Brooks of El Paso.

Pre-nuptial activities included a bridesmaids' luncheon at Fenestra on Aug. 19. Hostesses were Mrs. Daryle Hohertz, Mrs. Marcus Stanley and Mrs. David Grant.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Big Spring High School and attended Howard College. She is employed by Howard Oil Company and he is employed by Blum's Jewelers.

The couple is currently on a wedding trip to San Antonio and Acapulco. They plan to make their home in Big Spring.

East 4th Street Baptist site of Dunagan, Webb rite

The East 4th Street Baptist Church was the setting of the Saturday evening wedding of Dianne Dunagan and Bob Webb. Dr. James Shields, professor at Howard Payne University, officiated.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Rafoad L. Dunagan, 1606 E. 12th. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Webb, 1603 Tucson, and the late Laverne Webb.

The altar was accented with an archway and columns decorated with white and apricot daisies and baby's breath and lace bows. Swirl candelabras and seven-branched candelabras accented with brass stands and green plants were also placed at the altar. The church entrance was adorned with marble columns and urns filled with green plants.

The pews were marked with lace bows, greenery and baby's breath.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Oliphant provided music at the organ and piano. Mike Harris, Brownwood, played the guitar and served as vocalist. Bobby Bradshaw, Lubbock, also served as vocalist.

The bride was attired in a chapel-length gown of sheer organza with short ruffled sleeves and a high neckline. The empire bodice and ruffled hem were trimmed in Venice lace. The back was accented by tiny self-covered buttons. The single layer veil was of voile and trimmed in Venice lace, with a pearlized headpiece and sheer blusher.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white daisies, apricot roses and baby's breath on a Bible which had been carried by the bride's mother in her wedding.

Maid of honor was Kathy Hester, Big Spring. Other attendants were Brenda Bradshaw, Lubbock, Patti Swindell and Mary Webb, sister of the groom. The attendants each carried a bouquet of white daisies, apricot carnations and baby's breath. They were dressed in floor-length dresses of apricot.

MRS. BOB WEBB

Donald McKee, Odessa, was best man. Groomsmen were Bruce Webb, brother of the groom, Freddie Franklin, Dallas, and Mickey Cunningham, Brownwood. Ushers were Rob Lackey, Brownwood, Phillip Sorais, Brownwood, Tim Viertel, Brownwood and Ronald McKee.

The couple plans a drive to Midland, followed by a trip to San Francisco, where they will spend four days before the groom enters seminary in Mill Valley, California.

The couple will reside on the campus of the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Mill Valley, Calif. The seminary is located across the bay from San Francisco.

The bride is a 1976 graduate of Big Spring High School. She attended Howard College and Baylor University.

The groom graduated from Big Spring High School in 1973. He is a 1978 graduate of Howard Payne University, and attended Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth. He was employed at Custom Builders and Woodworkers this summer.

A reception honoring the couple followed in the fellowship hall. The bride's table was draped with a white floor-length ruffle and was covered with an apricot-colored polyester cloth and over-layed with a white hand crocheted cloth which belonged to the bride's grandmother, Mrs. L. E. Taylor.

A crystal candelabrum held apricot-colored tapers and the bouquets of the female attendants formed a flower arrangement on the table. The five-tiered wedding cake with fountain had double rings and doves as top decoration. It was adorned with apricot and white roses.

The groom's table was covered with a brown polyester cloth, overlaid with white lace. Silver appointments were used. The chocolate cake, shaped into double wedding bells and bearing the names of the bride and groom, was decorated with chocolate iced roses.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Royce Rainey, Mr. and Mrs. Joey Canterbury, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Canterbury, all of Louisiana, and the groom's sister, Mrs. James Wildner, Okinawa. Other guests attended from San Antonio, Brownwood, Arlington, Doole, Midland, Quitman, Shallowater, Lubbock and Hereford.

A casual rehearsal dinner was served for the wedding party and guests in the backyard of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Franklin.
