New pope keeps chief officials

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul I demonstrated his dedication to the policies of Pope Paul VI today by continuing in office the chief officials of the Roman Catholic Church's central administration appointed by his predecessor.

The new pontiff reappointed French Cardinal Jean Villot as Secretary of State, the equivalent of the Vatican's prime minister, and the heads of the nine Sacred Congregations, the main departments of the Vatican Curia.

Among the latter is Cardinal John Philippon, who heads the Congregation for the Clergy and did not participate in the election of Pope John Paul Saturday because he was hospitalized for eye surgery. He was released from hospital Saturday and is recuperating.

In another affirmation of Pope Paul's policy, the new pope reconfirmed Archbishop Agostino Casaroli as Secretary of the Council for Public Affairs, the Vatican's foreign minister.

The Vatican announcement said all the heads of congregations would serve the remainder of the five-year terms to which they were appointed by Pope Paul. However, this five-year period does not apply to Villot, Casaroli, or Archbishop Giuseppe Caprio, the substitute secretary of state, who are the pope's personal choices.

In addition to Cardinal Wright, the congregation heads are Cardinal Franjo Seper of Yugoslavia, the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, the former Holy Office; Cardinal Sebastiano Baggio, Congregation of Bishops; Cardinal James P. Knox, Australia, Sacraments and Divine Worship; Cardinal Eduardo Pironio, Argentina, Congregation for the Religious; Cardinal Agnelo Rossi, Evangelization of the Peoples; Cardinal Corrado Bafile, Italy, Causes of the Saints; Cardinal Gabriel Marie Garrone, France, Catholic Education; Cardinal Pierre Paul Philippe, France, Oriental Churches.

Vatican sources said the pope may call a consistory this year to appoint new cardinals. Several cities which traditionally have cardinals presently are headed by bishops. They include Tokyo, Dublin and Turin. Also, the pope is said to have promised a cardinalship to Bishop Ernesto Civardi, secretary of the conclave which elected him.

The new pope dug into the business of church administration after pledging to overcome "internal tension" within the church and to continue the work of his two predecessors whose names he took.

All executive appointments in the Curia, the church's central bureaucracy, expired automatically with the death of Pope Paul on Aug. 6. But John Paul had been expected to reappoint most or all of them both because of his commitment to carry on Pope Paul's policies and because of his own lack of Curia experience.

The new pope's only experience at the Vatican was as a member of the executive board of the Congregation for Sacraments and Divine Cult. He has spent nearly all his life in the Venice area, as a priest in his native diocese in the Alps, as bishop of Vittorio Veneto and for the past nine years as Cardinal Albino Luciani, patriarch of Venice.

Elected Saturday on the first day of voting by 111 cardinals locked in the Borgia Apartments of the Apostolic Palace, the new pope will be crowned Sunday. But the Vatican has not announced whether the coronation Mass will be in St. Peter's Basilica or in the square in front of it, where Pope Paul VI held his coronation in 1963.

A surprise choice who doesn't have an international reputation, John Paul is considered by some a conservative but was termed a "moderate" by Cardinal John Dearden of Detroit. And moderation was the keynote of his speech Sunday to the cardinals in which he pledged to carry on the reforms launched by the 1962-65 Vatican Council and the programs of Pope Paul.

He said the church's first duty is evangelization. He also pledged to go ahead with the movement for Christian reunification, "without doctrinal ceding but also without hesitation," to carry forward "with patience and firmness" the dialogue with non-Christians, and to help peace initiatives in "the turbulent world."

He made clear he gives high priority to obedience to the hierarchy. "We wish to preserve the integrity of the great discipline of the church in the life of priests and of the faithful," he said, and he called for "a strict response to our will."

This and his insistence on doctrinal continuity was interpreted as a clear indication that he would continue Pope Paul's controversial bans on artificial contraception, married priests and the ordination of women. But he made no direct reference to these issues dividing the church.

With postal union leaders

No progress reported in talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a strike deadline of midnight tonight, federal mediators met today with representatives of the Postal Service and its unions in an effort to avert the threatened walkout.

However, no progress was reported while the meetings were under way and Postmaster General William F. Bolger restated his hard-line position that union leaders have said leaves them no alternative to a strike. Bolger said he believes a walkout will not materialize.

Chief federal mediator Wayne Horvitz met with the two sides both separately and together, spokesman John Rogers said. But Rogers there was no breakthrough to report.

While the meetings were being held at the mediation service, Bolger made a speech elsewhere in Washington repeating his determination not to sweeten a tentative contract that the unions consider inadequate.

"Having turned down that contract, the unions now want us to return to the bargaining table. But, as far as I'm concerned, we did our bargaining. We gave in on some things we wanted, and the unions gave in on some they wanted," Bolger told the convention of the National League of Postmasters.

The postmasters, who generally are at lower-level management ranks, gave him several standing ovations.

Questioned after his speech about the strike possibility, Bolger again predicted one would not materialize. "I mailed my telephone bill today," he said.

Bolger, as he has frequently in the past, pressed for pursuing the legal steps when a contract is rejected. These steps include binding arbitration if the two sides cannot find an agreement.

Bolger said that he doesn't think that most of his employees want an illegal strike. "They realize that a strike would do permanent damage to the Postal Service."

He said the diversion of much mail to other means of delivery would hurt the unions by reducing the need for manpower in the Postal Service.

"A strike would be the worst possible thing that could happen to the Postal Service," Bolger said.

Meanwhile, one union president is mandated by his members to call a strike by midnight tonight if there is no resumption of bargaining. Another union president, under similar mandate, has a midnight Wednesday deadline.

"We have completed our negotiations as far as I'm concerned. ... I still am not going back to the bargaining table," Bolger said.

He was interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation."

Bolger continued to press for the processes provided by law for instances where union members, as they have in this case, refuse to accept a tentative agreement. Those processes are fact-finding under the supervision of federal mediators and, if a settlement is still not reached, binding arbitration.

The unions, however, have rejected this course, saying the choice for Bolger is to renegotiate or face a strike.

Despite the seemingly dug-in positions on both sides, Bolger continued to predict there would be no strike. "I think most of the postal employees are law-abiding people. They will certainly carry out the intent of the law, and not strike, in my opinion," he said.

There was no sign Sunday of any give in the union positions. Union leaders met on and off with federal mediators and for a time informally with Bolger. A source close to the situation said, "Of substance, nothing really has changed."

The Postal Service, citing the law against mail strikes, got a court restraining order Saturday forbidding strikes by the two largest postal unions. However, neither the law nor a court order prevented widespread local walkouts in 1970.

Members of three unions have voted down a tentative contract reached July 21. They are the 299,000-member American Postal Workers Union, the 181,000-member National Association of Letter Carriers and the 36,000-member mailhandlers division of the Laborers International Union.

The APWU has mandated President Emmet Andrews to get the Postal Service back to the bargaining table by midnight Wednesday or call a strike. For the letter carriers union, the deadline is tonight. The mailhandlers union has no such mandate.

Bomb threat diverts jet

SEATTLE (AP) — A phony bomb threat diverted a United Airlines DC-8 to Canada with 152 passengers and a crew of 7 aboard, authorities said.

In Vancouver, British Columbia, a spokesman for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police said an unidentified woman was being held in connection with the incident and charges would be filed.

United Flight 179 Newark, N.J. and Denver, was approaching Seattle-Tacoma International Airport shortly before 11 p.m. PDT Sunday when a stewardess found a note that said the plane would be blown up unless it were flown to Vancouver, airline spokesman Ron Carlson reported.

Action/reaction: It's illegal

Q. Is it legal to ride in a house trailer when it is in motion?

A. It's against the law. Any abrupt movement of the trailer could toss a person against a dangerous object or cause something to fall on him or injure him. Better that everyone should ride up front.

Offbeat: Clumsy, but faithful

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Some people might have been upset at Tramp, Dolly Heinemann's faithful watchdog. He did burn the house down.

But Dolly's not putting Tramp in the doghouse. He saved her life by rousing her out of bed when the fire broke out.

Mrs. Heinemann said she left a candle burning Tuesday night to serve as a night light for her dog. He got up in the middle of the night, bumped a dresser and knocked the candle into a curtain.

"What would you want me to do?" she asked. "Take him to the pound? You can't blame him for what he did."

Final Starlight Special attracts crowd of 600

An enthusiastic audience estimated at 600 attended the final Starlight Special event at the Comanche Trail Park amphitheater Sunday night, roundly applauding a program directed by Joe Whitten, music director of the First Baptist Church.

Special attractions included a magician's act, impersonations of Elvis Presley and Johnny Cash by a guitar player and "His Children" — the youth choir group from the First Baptist Church. A ladies' ensemble, also from the First Baptist Church, blended its voices in song.

A back-to-school pep rally held last Thursday attracted a turnout estimated at about 2,000. The crowd was made up mostly of Big Spring High School students, parents, friends and patrons of the school.

Winston Wrinkle, offering his Morning Report over KBST Friday, said that this was the largest crowd ever to attend such a rally during his 20 years in Big Spring. Wrinkle also applauded the enthusiasm of the group.

Local schools register 4,600 during first day

The new school year began today in Big Spring, ending the frolic of summer and beginning again the complex workings of the machinery of education.

Superintendent Lynn Hise said shortly before noon today, "Everything seems to be in pretty fair shape. We had a very good in-service week last week, and all the staff has a positive attitude. I think we're headed for another fine year."

Hise said there had been no problems reported in the transportation system thus far, but that Don Green, assistant business manager, had spent the morning "riding herd" on the new routes.

First day attendance, said Hise,

In all, eight Starlight Special programs were presented under the supervision of Frank Wentz, attracting crowds exceeding 5,300. Programs were offered by:

Interstate boosters slate meeting here on Tuesday

Members of the U.S. 87 Association, a group organized to campaign for the location of IS 27 along US 87, will gather at the Brass Nail Restaurant at noon Tuesday.

The association will lobby for construction of the highway, ac-ording to Travis Floyd of Big Spring, president of the association.

Representatives are expected here from Odessa, Midland, Lamesa, Lubbock and San Angelo. The Howard County administration will also have a representation at the meeting. Bill Albright of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce will also be present.

Floyd will offer a progress report on U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's bill to promote the thoroughfare.

Bentsen suggests that each state be allowed to select the route over which the road will travel. Lobbying has been strong to route IS 27 as far east as Sweetwater and Abilene.

The annual U.S. 87 Improvement Association convention will also be held in Big Spring Sept. 29-30.

Bentsen has revealed that the Senate has approved his proposal authorizing construction of a highway demonstration project that would connect IS 27 in Lubbock somewhere along IS 10 to the south. IS 10 runs through San Antonio westward past Kerrville, Junction and on to El Paso.

Bentsen, who serves as chairman of the Senate Transportation Subcommittee, said the provision is included in the 1978 Highway Act, approved by the full Senate last week.

was a low 4,600 students. An additional 80 to 100 students were expected to attend the afternoon kindergarten, and the attendance should increase steadily through Labor Day weekend.

"We deal with the same set of unknowns each year," commented Hise on the student population, "and our distribution this year has remained pretty close to where we expected it. Goliad Junior High, which was a trouble spot last year, appears to be in good shape this year."

"We are tight in one fifth grade class and in one second grade class in our elementary schools, but the situation probably won't stabilize across the district for a while yet."

At VA Hospital here

Volunteers are saluted

The Veteran's Administration Hospital in Big Spring recognized its youth volunteers with a ceremony attended by the volunteers, parents, friends and staff members.

Theme of the ceremony was "Volunteers make a difference," and the table was decorated with carnations which the youth volunteers had given the voluntary service staff.

The youths assisted nursing staffs on each ward, the nursing home care unit, outpatient clinic, dietetics, supply, and pharmacy units within the hospital.

Throughout the summer, the youth volunteers met weekly for training and rap sessions. They discussed the importance of recognition and voted to present special certificates to the hospital employees they worked with.

The certificates read: "Thank you for your interest and enthusiasm in our volunteer program by allowing us to work on your ward and for taking time to teach us by example how to properly care for the veteran patients working with you made our summer mean so much. The certificates were presented to Dorothy Paynes, R.N., Supervisor, Nursing Home Care Unit, Bernice Silene, R.N. Head Nurse and staff, NHCU; Dorothy Bell, R.N.,

Head Nurse and staff, Ward Five West; Terry Sims, R.N., Head Nurse and staff, Four East; Pam Weikle, R.N., Head Nurse and staff, Three West; and Betty Leokowsky, R.N., Head Nurse and staff, Three East.

ROBERT SHAW

Actor Shaw dies today

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Shaw, the actor known for his portrayals of rugged adventurers in such movies as "Jaws" and "The Deep," has died of an apparent heart attack near his home in Tourmakeady Island near Dublin, his New York press agent reported today.

The 51-year-old actor, who also wrote several books and plays, was driving with his wife Virginia and 1 1/2-year-old son Thomas at about 5 p.m. Sunday when he suffered the attack, said publicist Mirna Post. He died at home, she said.

Born in Lancashire, England, Shaw started his acting career as a member of the Old Vic drama company in the 1950s and performed in numerous productions in England.

The brown-haired, blue-eyed Shaw first came to the attention of the American movie-going public as a villain in the James Bond movie, "From Russia With Love." He went on to appear in such films as "Robin and Marian," "The Sting" and "Black Sunday," but found his greatest acclaim as a fisherman in the thrillers, "Jaws" and "The Deep."

Two films made before his death, "Force Ten from Navarone" and "Avalanche Express," have not yet been released.

In addition, Shaw made a name for himself as a writer. His first book, "The Hiding Place," was published in 1959.

Escapes may be en route to Abilene

Two McCullough County jail escapes were last seen northwest of Brady on U.S. 87 Sunday night, and are believed headed toward Abilene.

David Edward Mullins, 44, a habitual criminal serving a life sentence, and Alejandro Courvier, 20, convicted of burglary, are being sought by deputies and state law enforcement officers after they sawed through metal strips on an inspection door and crawled through a passageway above a wall to freedom. They were being held in McCullough County jail pending transfer the Texas Department of Corrections.

They apparently stole a three-quarter ton flatbed truck from a Brady dealer and drove north.

More donations for Bible fund

Three gifts over the weekend brought donations to The Bible Fund to a total of $10,597.64.

The campaign formally closed on a close Sunday, after the $10,000 objective had been reached.

Latest gifts included $100 from Mr. and Mrs. L. E. McCutcheon, $5 from Bertha Schuchert, in memory of Dr. J. E. Hogan; and $25 from Mrs. Mollie O. Crawford of Boerne, Tex.

Two sentenced by judge here

Two guilty pleas were taken in 118th District Court Friday.

Alberto Sanchez, 18, Juarez, pleaded guilty to burglary and was sentenced to five years in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Robert Knight, 17, 2307 Daphne, pleaded guilty to burglary of a business. He was sentenced to eight years probation by District Judge Ralph Caton.

Two automobile suits filed

Two deceptive trade practice suits were filed Friday in the 118th District Court. The suits, against two area auto dealers, fall under the Consumer Protection Act. Both plaintiffs are represented by attorney Jack Thompson.

The first, styled Jerry Pruitt vs. Ken Olsen, individually and doing business as Downtown Auto Sales, alleges that a car purchased Jan. 9, 1978 for $3,600 with 29,000 miles was actually a fleet car with over 85,000 miles. The suit asks for the repairs necessary and the difference in value as damages, tripled under the statute.

The second suit, styled Melvin Williamson vs. Dewey Ray Inc. et al, asks $2,000 damages for breach of a warranty agreement alleged in connection with a new car.

Fire activity reported light

The Coahoma Fire Department reported a light month for fire activity within the city limits. A total of five alarms, three within the city, one within Coahoma's district, and one outside, kept the department out-of-station four hours and eight minutes.

The department also held two drills during August, one on hydrant use and one on fire department organization.

Employee of Year award is won by Gene Moses

Gene Moses is a man who takes the ordinary, and does it in an extraordinary way.

It most certainly would embarrass him to hear such terms as 'having the patience of Job, the quietness of Andrew, and the perseverance of Moses' applied to him.

But the electronic engineer technician, named as the winner of Malone-Hogan Hospital's employee of the year and Dr. Frist Humanitarian Award 1978, was described also as a man who is both efficient and effective. A man who puts patient care first and himself last. And a man who personifies the ideal, while being the epitome of practicality.

"Gene is the in-house service man for the xeromammogram unit," the ballot reads. "Last January he was sick and was on sick leave. He was under treatment and bedrest, awaiting back surgery the following week. The xerogram machine broke down, and the nearest service we get is from Dallas, and that would take several days."

"We had several patients waiting to be X-rayed, and some were scheduled for surgery the next day. I called Gene to get some information about the unit, so that somebody locally would fix the machine. Even though Gene was sick to the point of being flat on his back, he voluntarily came to the hospital and fixed the machine, so that we could provide the service our patients and physicians deserve."

That's the kind of man Gene Moses is, employees say. Even though his job does not require direct patient care, without his quality performance, patient care facilities would not be the same.

Gene's expertise in electronic engineering, coupled with his ingenuity, has enabled the hospital to operate with a minimum of inconvenience the many pieces of equipment that require intricate adjustments and care. "If Gene is at work, no matter what the problem, we work in confidence knowing that he will fix it. It may be a cardiac or telemetry monitor of

Woman's abuse story checked

A 19-year-old Odessa woman was interviewed Saturday by Howard County deputies after she appeared at the Rip Griffin Truck Terminal at 7:22 p.m. telling a story of sexual assault.

The woman said she was hitch-hiking from Colorado City to Odessa when she accepted a ride from a man who pulled off the pavement, and threatened and abused her. He reportedly released her from the car at the Rip Griffin facility.

Hector Reyes, Northcrest Apt. 50, reported that his residence was burglarized between 5 p.m. Friday and 4 p.m. Saturday with a color television set, stereo, clock, American flag and jewelry, valued at a total of $2,385, taken.

Police beat Nine arrested at park

City police made a number of arrests in Comanche Trail Park, a total of nine over the weekend in an effort to make the park safer. Most of the arrests were for drunk in auto and no driver's license with one illegal alien picked up in the park.

Several off-duty policemen came in this morning and donated their time to work at streets and intersections near schools. The policemen helped students and reminded motorists to obey the speed limits and drive carefully near schools to avoid accidents involving school children crossing the streets.

Hector Reyes, Northcrest Apt. 50, reported that his residence was burglarized between 5 p.m. Friday and 4 p.m. Saturday with a color television set, stereo, clock, American flag and jewelry, valued at a total of $2,385, taken.

John Redding, Vincent Rt., reported to police that he left his car to be repaired at Jack Lewis Buick on June 25, then left town. He returned Saturday to find that the car dealership had not seen the pavement, and assumed that he hadn't left it to be repaired. The lot, apparently stolen before the car dealership knew it was on the lot, was

Clayton worried about 'grievance committee'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A strange thing happened in several Texas counties after the primary elections were held this spring.

Numerous county officials suddenly discovered they were "aggrieved" at their salaries.

They invoked a seldom used procedure, designed to protect maverick officials from vindictive county commissioners.

What they got in most instances were pay raises, with a minimum of heat on commissioners courts.

House Speaker Bill Clayton says this summer's "grievance committee" actions indicate to him the procedure is misused and needs attention from the 1979 Legislature.

"We might have to take a look at that, because that was not the intent. It seems to me like what they were doing was the commissioner court didn't want to face up to the heat of salary increases," Clayton said.

He also said legislators should remove any doubt that county salary grievance committees are covered by the Texas Open Meetings Law.

Grievance committees were built into a 1971 law that made commissioners courts responsible for setting salaries of county officials.

A committee consists of three former grand jury members and the sheriff, county tax-assessor collector, county treasurer, county clerk, district clerk and county attorney.

The county judge presides but has no vote. If all nine members vote to raise a salary, the increase is automatic. A recommendation signed by at least six but less than nine members must be considered by the commissioners court at its next meeting.

Some county attorneys believe grievance committees are not required to post notice and meet publicly.

The Henderson County (Athens) grievance committee met in private on May 22 and voted 9-0 to raise salaries of the officials serving on the committee by $3,000 each.

They had received 7 percent raises on Jan. 1.

In Gregg County (Longview), the grievance committee voted 9-0 on July 18 to grant 15 percent raises to the district clerk, county clerk, tax assessor-collector, treasurer, sheriff, two justices of the peace and two constables.

But after a local furor, the officials agreed to wait until Oct. 1 — the effective date of the next budget — for their raises. The notice for September's budget hearings includes a 15 percent raise for all county officials and employees.

"I don't know why they went this route. My feeling was that you are not going to get this raise ordinarily but by going this route you might be successful," said County Attorney Otis Hill.

In Travis County (Austin), county commissioners waited until after the primaries and then voted themselves, the county judge and other top officials pay raises.

When questions were raised about the legality of raising pay outside the normal budget process, commissioners rescinded the increases and invoked the grievance system.

An 8-1 vote sent a pay raise recommendation to the commissioners, who quickly voted unanimously to put it into effect.

The commissioners and county judge got raises averaging about $4,000 from a procedure designed to protect other officials from them. All other elected officials got pay increases except the sheriff and tax assessor-collector, who didn't request anything.

The grievance committee met in public although County Attorney Jim McMurtry believes it was not required to.

"The public is there. They are represented by those three (former) grand jurors," McMurtry said.

Federal Reserve Board takes steps to help dollar

WASHINGTON (AP)—In another action to help support the dollar, the Federal Reserve Board took steps today to encourage borrowing of foreign-held dollars by American banks.

About $500 billion in U.S. dollars are held overseas. They are called "Eurodollars" because they are outside the control of U.S. banking authorities.

The amount of foreign-held dollars has grown sharply in recent years, in part because of the U.S. trade deficit that sends dollars abroad, and they have frequently been used by speculators to drive down the overall value of the dollar. To encourage use of the so-called Eurodollars by American banks, the Federal Reserve Board today removed the requirement that U.S. banks must maintain reserves equal to 4 percent of what they borrow abroad.

"The effect of the reserve reduction is intended to encourage member banks to substitute Eurodollar borrowings for domestic borrowings as a source of funds," the board said in a statement.

If the action has the intended effect, it would mean some of the foreign-held dollars would be returned to this country for use in domestic lending. This would reduce the amount of dollars held abroad, contributing to overall strength of the American currency.

The action is the third taken in recent weeks by U.S. financial authorities to help strengthen the dollar on world money markets.

Small craft warned to remain in port

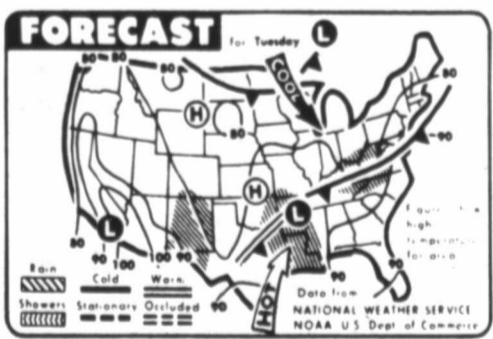

Small craft along the Texas coast today were advised to remain in port due to the imminent arrival of a tropical depression that forecasters predicted could increase to tropical storm intensity before reaching land.

The disturbance's center at 5 a.m. was in the Gulf of Mexico about 100 miles south of Galveston.

It was moving north-northwest at about 10 mph.

Showers were already dampening coastal areas in advance of the tropical depression early today. Tides along the upper Texas coast had risen about one and a half feet above normal, with tides of two to three feet above normal expected later in the day.

President has a lot at stake in talks

The heads of governments of Israel, Egypt and the United States will be meeting at Camp David during September, trying to fashion some agreement on how peace can be attained and maintained in the Middle East.

Let us hope the retreat of president has a soothing effect upon the dignitaries present.

The Daily Telegraph of London says the fact that the Egyptians and the Israelis agreed to meet in the United States bodes hopes that both realize "they have no alternative to peace." Up to now, that certainly hasn't been the case.

THERE IS, of course, an alternative. The trouble is, that alternative is war and the two nations are certainly capable of that.

However, everyone hopes that the Telegram is pragmatically correct.

President Carter is taking no small political risk by hosting the summit at Camp David, and the way his luck has been running lately Begin and Sadat could start arguing over who has the more mannerly grandchildren.

Carter, of course, knows the problems involved. He told U.S. News and World Report that at Camp David he does not plan to be just a messenger boy, carrying notes to Begin and Sadat. He wants to be recognized as a full partner in the talks.

The president said "this administration will not be idle bystanders... we have a national interest in the Mideast itself, so we are legitimately involved in these discussions."

IF THE END result is failure, Mr. Carter said, he would be personally associated with that failure. The political consequence to him, he said, is obvious. But, he added, the stakes are so great that "I'm perfectly willing to risk adverse political consequences" in the hope of establishing a framework for peace.

Mr. Carter is being pilloried around the country for what his critics perceive to be a lack of leadership. Mr. Carter's courageous statement that he will accept the political risk of Camp David, no matter what the outcome, is to be commended.

It would also be salutary, in this connection, if some legislators could act on such pressing matters between them as an energy bill and civil service reform.

The president, in this case at least, has set an example of putting his political future on the line. For the congress to do less will be something less than encouraging.

Antecedents

Around the rim

Carla Walker

I might not be a Texan if my great-grandfather hadn't shot a man in Mississippi.

Looking up who my ancestors were, what they were like and finding out about their lives is something I enjoy tremendously, and from time to time, I hope to include some of the more interesting tidbits in my rime.

With four families to write about — the Walkers, Tubbs, Carters and Schafers, all of whom are very interesting — I should get a number of rime on the subject, although I don't anticipate doing them all in sequence.

The Walkers were natives of Meridian, Mississippi with my great-grandfather, Mack Walker being one of the first of three families related by marriage — the Pattersons, Franklins and Walkers — to come to Texas.

ACCORDING TO what I can find out, Mack was renting some Mississippi farmland on a split basis — he got part of the profits for his labor, while the owner got the other part. The land owner was notorious for letting the renter work all year, then running him off the land when harvest time came.

He apparently tried every possible way to run Mack off the land, and when he wasn't successful, he began spreading lies about Mack's family. Mack went to a gin the landlord was building on, and shot at him with one barrel of a double barrel shotgun, thinking he had killed the man.

Fearing that his reasons wouldn't be understood by the law, Mack changed his name to Sam and ran to Texas, arriving in Taylor County at Buffalo Gap around 1890, with his wife, Sallie, and several children following later in a covered wagon.

His son, Mack Williams, nicknamed Bud (my great-grandfather) led the way to Howard County driving cattle with Bob and Jesse Robinson Bud's brother-in-law; he arrived in Howard County Dec. 31, 1897. A few days later in 1898, Sam and the rest of the family came and settled three sections located roughly 8 miles northeast of Big Spring.

Actually, Sam was settling two of the sections for his in-laws, one each for the Patterson and Franklin families, some members of whom followed Sam's family to Howard County.

It cost $1 per acre to settle the land, and it had to be homesteaded for three or four years to be considered "claimed." The homesteader had to pay $10 of the $20 down, and then had 40 years to pay out the other $10. The Franklins and Pattersons put up their own $16 each and followed Sam after he claimed the land for them.

Sam went to the Howard County sheriff, explained his past, and told him that if any warrants came from Mississippi that Sam would be glad to move on to another area. No warrants ever came because no charges were filed.

A traveling Watkins salesman by the name of Stallings had come from Mississippi, and he told Sam about a man that had been shot off the top of a gin back home. Sam asked if the man died and the salesman told him no, that the man had just lost an arm in the shotgun blast.

Sam then explained that he was the one who had shot the guy; he said he was glad to know the man hadn't died, although at the time he'd have probably used the other barrel of that double-barrel shotgun had he known the landlord was alive.

IN HOWARD COUNTY, Sam and his family of seven children picked cotton for themselves and their neighbors, putting a little more of their own section into cultivation each year. Most of the land was bald prairie with grass but few trees.

They had to haul cotton by the wagon-load all the way to Colorado City to get it ginned, and then had to carry it up a ladder to the gin stands (where seeds are removed from the fiber) in huge baskets since the gins didn't have the suction tubes used in today's modern gins. It was just possible to make the 40-mile journey in one day, using a wagon pulled by two horses or mules, then it took a day to come back.

The children — Henry, John, Nancy (also called Eveline), Alex, (pronounced Elec), Georgia Ann, and the twins, Mack Williams (Bud) and Queenie (Sis) provided all of the labor needed to work the land. My great-grandfather — Bud, born Aug. 25, 1881 in Mississippi — used to tell about the year 1902 when rains came strong and heavy, causing the cotton stalks to grow taller than a six-foot tall man, which Bud already was by that time. He added, though, that the cotton was all stalk with few cotton bolls, and they produced very little that year.

Sam died Feb. 13, 1916 leaving his children to farm the land, and today, many members of his 200-plus direct blood descendants still make their living by producing cotton. Half of the section Sam homesteaded for himself back at the turn of the century has been passed down and is now owned by two of Sam's grandsons, Carroll and Jerrold Walker.

Veto Politics

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — There is substantial evidence that in his daring veto of the defense bill, President Carter was guided chiefly by a desire to reestablish his presidential virility rather than by fervent opposition to a costly, fifth nuclear aircraft carrier.

"The president was looking for a peg to hang his veto on," one usually pro-Carter Democrat on the House Armed Services Committee told us. "The carrier was his best bet."

By asserting presidential mastery and muscling Congress to sustain his veto after Labor Day, Mr. Carter is following public relations adviser Gerald Rafshoon's get-tough formula. But in getting tough, he has risked losing major defense items obtained as trade-offs for the carrier in the intricate congressional log-rolling process.

NONE OF THE president's military advisers, uniformed or civilian, recommended the veto. There was mirthless laughter in the Pentagon when Mr. Carter told his press conference that he had "had a single adviser who told me that we ought to go ahead with the nuclear aircraft carrier."

By law, the president's "principal naval adviser" is the chief of naval operations. Both the present chief, Adm. Thomas B. Hayward, and Adm. James L. Holloway III, replaced by Hayward July 1, have been strong proponents of the nuclear carrier.

Apart from the president himself, the moving force behind the veto was White House political adviser Hamilton Jordan, along with Rafshoon—not Secretary of Defense Harold Brown.

That came out in Brown's private talks with congressional military specialists, sounding out sentiment before the veto. The defense secretary made clear he had not proposed such drastic action, but that Mr. Carter seemed determined on it.

Talking to one friendly congressman, Brown showed this was politics, not defense. He speculated whether the best way to defend the veto would be opposition to the nuclear carrier or opposition to cuts in research and development and in readiness funds. As it turned out, Mr. Carter used both arguments, emphasizing the carrier.

Politics showed itself when one congressman warned Rafshoon the veto might make the president look anti-defense. Rafshoon's answer revealed how clearly the political tactics had been developed: don't worry; the president can deal with that in the veto message. Deal with it he did by calling Congress anti-defense.

Ignored by Rafshoon and Jordan was the effect of the veto on the delicate log-rolling needed to produce a defense bill. Although the veto probably will be sustained, writing a new defense bill will be no easy task.

A CASE IN point is liberal Democratic Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado, an Armed Services Committee member highly skeptical of big nuclear carriers. Hart agreed in a trade-off with conservative Republican Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina to support the nuclear carriers in return for Helms' backing of a new generation of small carriers favored by Hart.

One day after the veto, Hart wrote all senators urging an override of the veto with this argument: "The Congress produced a carefully crafted, logical and progressive conceptual approach to the question of the future of the carrier. The veto destroys this achievement and puts us back on the treadmill of the carrier question — with no solution in sight."

Routine trade-offs, spun into a seamless web, are at the heart of the congressional defense-budget process. That explains why vetoing a major defense bill is so rare that it has not been tried in this century.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm 70 and am told I have Parkinson's disease. Anything new on this to help us older folks who seem plagued with it? What about certain surgery I've heard of? — J.S.

Although much serious research goes on, I'm sorry to say there are no really new developments in cure or control. Parkinson's affects about a million older citizens in the U.S., according to latest statistics I have.

As you know, the chief symptoms of this are tremor in the limbs, muscle rigidity, instability in walking, and the so-called "pill-rolling" movement of the fingers. A peculiar characteristic is a tendency for the palsy to be worse when at rest.

The reason a cure is so elusive is that we don't know the exact cause. Symptoms may follow encephalitis (brain inflammation) or the use of drugs such as the tranquilizers. Victims are usually in their 60s or 70s, and in fact much of the rise in numbers of people affected might be due to the simple fact of increased life spans.

A deficiency of a chemical (dopamine) may exist in the part of the brain that controls motor functions (movement). From this fact, a new drug called L-dopa-mine was developed several years ago. Acting for that missing brain substance, it has helped many patients. Before that, belladonna was the chief medicine and is still useful in early cases. Amantadine, a similar drug, has been used for mild cases but may have unpleasant side effects.

Controls are about all that are available, and you should not discount the value of physical therapy. See a local rehabilitation unit. Although surgery has been tried, it is limited to a small number of patients. The goal is to eliminate the affected brain cells.

While anything short of a cure will always be second best, most Parkinson's patients can achieve some degree of control, and I hope you get right on with that task.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For quite a while I have been hearing a lot about the need for kidney donations to medical facilities around the world. I never thought much about it until some friends and I got into a discussion about it. I have decided to do it. Many of my friends think it is "morbid" and "morose" to think about dying and giving up my kidneys, especially at my young age. I see nothing morbid about helping someone survive after I cease to problem. As time went by and medicines became more sophisticated I would get prescriptions from the doctor, but the pinworms would always recur. Finally, I had a hysterectomy and my appendix was removed in the bargain. Not once in the 17 years since have I been bothered with pinworms. I am of the opinion that the original infection resulted from my childish hand-to-mouth play, and somehow the parasites invaded and thrived in my appendix, and later the colon. I would be interested to know if you share my deductions. — C.G.

Your observation is correct and has been seen many times. The recurrence of pinworms can be related to their presence in the appendix, where they are apparently not affected by the vermifuge medicine.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Contact the dean of a local medical school or a unit of the National Kidney Foundation for details. You will be given a donor card, a legal instrument in the event you should be killed in an accident. It should be carried at all times. Donor organs have to be removed promptly.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: All through my childhood and adult life I was bothered by pinworms. The medicine in those days was worse than the

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Does God really have any control over human events or does He simply sit back and observe? This is a real problem for me. — S.A.

DEAR S.A.: This is a real problem for many people. Some can't understand why God allows so much evil in the world, if He is really in control of things.

But the Bible tells us God does not sit back and just observe — He is active in human affairs. How do I know this? For one thing, the Bible recounts many, many examples of the ways He has been at work throughout the history of the human race. For one thing, the daily reality of God's love and activity is part of the personal experience of every true Christian. That does not mean God always acts as we think He should, or that we can always tell when He is working. But the eye of faith sees Him at work.

Why is God at work? Because He created us, and He loves us. A divine being who only sat back and observed would not really care about us, would he? But God loves us. That is the staggering fact about God — He cares for us, even when we neglect Him or try to shut Him out of our lives.

The proof that God loves us is that He sent His Son into the world to deal with our greatest problem, sin. Sin has destroyed our relationship with God, but God wants us to be forgiven and reconciled to Him. That is why Christ came, and His life, death, and resurrection shows us beyond doubt that God is not silent. This is how God showed His love among us: "He sent his one and only Son into the world that we might live through him. That is love: not that we loved God, but that He loved us and sent His Son as an atoning sacrifice for our sin" (I John 4:9-10, New International Version).

I invite you to experience the reality of God in your life by coming to Christ. As you repent and turn in faith to Christ, He will make you His child and begin to show you His love every day.

Penny puzzle

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — A penny saved could be $100,000 earned, given the right time and place — and the right penny.

The right time was late 1973, the place was Capitol Hill and the penny was an aluminum model proposed as a means of easing the copper shortage that had developed that year.

Sixteen of the specially minted coins were handed out to members of the House and Senate banking committees by then-U.S. Mint Director Mary Brooks. For a number of reasons — opposition from vending machine companies, aesthetic objections to the flimsy coins and ultimately the evaporation of the copper shortage — the aluminum penny proposal was turned down.

But when Brooks asked for the sample pennies back, only two were returned.

WE FOUND out about the missing 14 pennies three years ago, and suggested that some distinguished members of Congress may have pilfered the rare prototypes. After we broke the story the FBI was called in to investigate.

According to Justice Department documents, the G-men would account for only two of the coins, claiming a recovery value of $50,000 for the pair. With that, FBI officials closed the case.

The reason for sweeping the Pilfered Pennies Puzzle under the rug, of course, was Mint officials' reluctance to risk offending congressional poobahs who oversee their agency — and who might prove to have pinched one or two of the valuable coins. So great was the strain on Brooks, in fact, that it helped send her to the hospital with nervous exhaustion.

Meanwhile, the numismatic world buzzed with speculation on the elusive pennies' whereabouts, with experts placing the value of the coins at astronomical figures. When the FBI closed its files with 12 of the coins still missing, the coin pros appraised the remaining pennies at five-figure values.

RECENTLY, HOWEVER, our associates Les Whitten and Jack Mitchell did some digging and discovered that four more of the rare coins had been accounted for, leaving only eight as potential prizes for wealthy collectors.

Informed of this, one knowledgeable coin dealer informed us that just one of the aluminum pennies could command as much as $100,000 if a transaction could be arranged. Here's how the six recovered pennies turned up:

One was quietly returned to the Mint in July, 1975 by House banking committee staffer Orman Fink. "It's quite simple," he explained. "Brooks was passing out samples and I got one. The first time she asked me to return it, I did... I wasn't 'sticky-fingered,' as you've reported in the past."

Two more were recovered that same year from the office of Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del. A former staff aide had tossed them into a drawer and forgotten all about them. Later, when the FBI investigation began, she found them with some personal belongings she had taken with her and returned them to the Mint.

Strangest of all was the fate of the penny Brooks had given to Charles Holstein, an aide to former Rep. Leonor Sullivan, D-Mo.

"I carried it in my wallet for a long time," Holstein recalled the other day. But when he heard of the investigation in the summer of 1975, Holstein called Brooks and asked her what the Mint intended to do with the penny if he gave it back. When told the coins would be destroyed, Holstein, a man with a taste for Americana, declined to turn his penny in.

Instead, he quietly deeded it over to the Smithsonian Institution. Mint officials didn't learn of Holstein's gift for months; when they did, they decided to let the Smithsonian preserve the coin for posterity.

The last of the six slippery cent-pieces that we know about turned up earlier this year, quiet by chance. Rep. Thomas Steed, D-Okla., was cleaning out his office and moving some belongings back to Oklahoma when he came across two of the pennies in a little-used drawer. They were still taped to the letter Brooks had sent to Steed's office nearly five years earlier.

Except for the one Holstein gave to the Smithsonian, all the recovered aluminum pennies have been destroyed. This naturally makes the eight still unaccounted for more valuable than ever.

Footnote: A Mint official told us they would still like to recover the missing pennies, but they're not conducting further investigations. After all the uproar over the years, it would be highly embarrassing to anyone caught holding one. And bureaucrats are loath to embarrass a member of Congress — even a penny-pinching one.

Westbrook news

Voters support conversion

WESTBROOK — In an election Aug. 12, Westbrook solidly supported converting from a rural high school district to an independent school district. The decision was unanimous between the 59 voters.

The reason for conversion is that, according to state law, as of Jan. 1, 1979, the office of county superintendent will no longer be funded by the state. The office will be abolished in Mitchell County.

Bookkeeping duties handled by the superintendent's office will be moved to Westbrook in the near future and taxes will be collected at the tax office now under construction next to the post office.

According to Supt. Dawson, the change from a rural to an independent district will not mean any changes in school operations. Westbrook has been a rural high school district since the 1940's.

Dawson presented the election results for canvassing at Monday's monthly meeting of the Mitchell County Commissioners.

WESTBROOK School is hosting an area inservice workshop Sept. 1. It'll be the first inservice for Westbrook teachers. Schools invited to participate are Ira, Hermitage, Hobbs, McCauley, Trent, Blackwell, Divide, Highland, Loraine and Roscoe.

Westbrook School classes begin at 8:45 a.m., Monday.

FOR THE first time in 36 years, Mr. and Mrs. Buford Rich will not have a child attending Westbrook School. All eight of their children attended no other school but Westbrook. The couple are retired farmers of the Conaway Community.

Their children are Mrs. Johnny (Agatha) King of Clyde, Buford Joe (Buzz) Rich of Colorado City, Mrs. Johnny (Retha) Elisser of Ohio, Cleburn Rich of Westbrook, James Rich of Colorado City, Brenda Braugh of Colorado City, Larry Rich of Westbrook, and Gary Don Rich of Westbrook.

ADAN DURAN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Duran, is home on furlough from the U.S. Army. Recently returned from Germany, Duran will next be stationed at Fort Hood.

Mrs. C. L. Clemmer was dismissed from Root Memorial Hospital, Colorado City, on Monday.

Eddie Ranne and daughter Amy returned to their home in Lewisville Saturday after spending the week with her parents.

Stephen Hines has been visiting with his mother, Mrs. Pete Hines, before entering the fall semester at A&M University.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Byrd, Westbrook, and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hart, Roswell, spent a weekend in Clifton where they attended the Golden Wedding Anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Railsback. The Railsbacks are retired teachers of Carr School.

Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Conaway and Mr. and Mrs. Travis Conaway and daughter Laurie visited in Roby Sunday afternoon. They picnicked at Snyder Park where they also attended a Youth Fellowship of the First Baptist Church of Snyder.

V.F.W. lifts ban on women

BELTON, Texas (AP) — A former Army nurse and Vietnam volunteer who has wanted to join the Veterans of Foreign Wars for 10 years was finally accepted Thursday as the first woman in the local V.F.W. post.

Patricia Peel, 47, of nearby Morgan's Point, Texas, said she resented being refused admittance in previous tries to join the group.

"I felt insulted because I served just like a man," she said. "They send us overseas, they let us get captured and killed — but they won't let us belong to their damned old organization."

Delegates to the V.F.W. national convention in Dallas Tuesday lifted the ban, prompting Mrs. Peel, whose father was an Army general, to apply again for membership. She says she wants to be the first woman in the nation to join the organization.

Mrs. Peel, who served eight years in the Army including a volunteer tour in Qui-Nhion, Vietnam, will be sworn in as a member of V.F.W. Post 4088 Sept. 15.

Pastor of the church is the Rev. Ken Anders, a former pastor of the Westbrook Baptist Church.

One of the speakers was Randy Gressett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gressett of Odessa and grandson of L. E. Gressett and Mrs. Orlean Cool of Colorado City. He is a student at HSU in Abilene and served as youth director at the Snyder church during the summer.

MRS. T. A. Rus is a patient at Malone-Hogan Hospital, Big Spring.

Karen Ann and Mark Wayne Dawson of Odessa spent Monday with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Dawson. Mark was enroute to Austin where he will be a senior at Texas University. Karen will attend Texas Tech in Lubbock where she is a freshman. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Dawson.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Houk and their children of Grand Prairie were guests of Mrs.

Houk's grandmother, Mrs. A. C. Moody, Saturday. They also visited her father, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Moody in Colorado City.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Self were Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Self and William Rankin, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Reed of Sidney, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Self of Odessa and Laura Hallbrook of Lake Colorado City.

Wants To Ban Most Teachers

DEAR ABBY: Since statistics show that 98.3 percent of all child molesters are heterosexual, I'm organizing a crusade to prohibit heterosexual teachers from instructing children of the opposite sex.

I don't want my daughter molested by a heterosexual male teacher, or my son seduced by a heterosexual female teacher. I'd appreciate your comments.

CONCERNED PARENT

DEAR PARENT: Your statistics are correct, but banning all heterosexual teachers on the chance that one might molest a child is unfair. However, if you proceed with your crusade, be sure to enlist the help of Anita Bryant — since she wants so desperately to "save" our children.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 38 years and my problem is my mother-in-law. Mums has been a widow for 10 years. She lives 400 miles from here, and spends most of her time and money just traveling around visiting relatives.

We have a guest room, but Mums prefers to sleep on the living room sofa where she can see and hear everything. And she snores so loud we can't hear the TV.

She complains about my coffee, my cooking, our children and our grandchildren. She soaks her false teeth in one of my best china cups, and when she leaves I have to throw the cup out.

We never know when she's coming. She just calls us from the bus depot and tells us to come and get her. If we had plans to go out of town ourselves, it's too bad. We can't leave her in our home alone because she never locks a door. She's not forgetful — just troubling.

I have a strange feeling she's headed this way and I don't think I can stand another one of her visits. When she comes she stays anywhere from three days to three months. Help!

HAD IT WITH MUMS

DEAR HAD IT: A telephone call to Mums would put you at ease. Call her and find out what her plans are.

Next time she comes, tell her where you want her to sleep and where to soak her false teeth, and also set a time limit on her visit. And while she's in your home, be firm with the crusty old girl. She sounds like she'd rather enjoy going a few rounds with her family.

DEAR ABBY: Timmy and I have been married for six years and have two cute kids. We've had our fights, but nothing serious.

Timmy's mom has never really liked me because before I met Timmy he was serious about a girl named Doris, and his mother wanted him to marry HER.

Well, last week Doris came to town. She's divorced (no kids), and I heard (from one of Timmy's sisters) that his mom arranged for him to meet Doris at her house twice! I don't know the purpose of those meetings, but if Timmy had told me he wanted to see Doris, I'd have been happy to invite her over here.

I am boiling mad at Timmy's mother for that sneaky trick. When I told Timmy what I thought of the whole business, he said I was making a mountain out of a molehill. Am I?

FUMING IN NEW ORLEANS

DEAR FUMING: No. If you think Timmy's mother is deliberately trying to undermine your marriage, you have a right to complain. But Timmy's not entirely blameless. He cooperated (twice), if what you heard was true. Take it up with Timmy.

Not always fulfilling

'Job equals glamour' is myth

There she goes — that glamorous American working woman.

On the other hand, there she drudges — the "overworked" American housewife.

Only it ain't necessarily so, reports the American Council of Life Insurance.

According to James D. Wright, associate professor of sociology at the University of Massachusetts, the picture of the completely fulfilled working woman is a fraud.

In fact, he told the Council, "national surveys have shown 'homemakers' are just as happy as women who work, and little purpose is served in denying it."

So, don't be taken in by the romantic notion that the typical working woman is "a young, well-educated professional pursuing a successful and enriching career." He explains:

"For every successful woman professional there is another whose work consists of:

"Running a punch press eight hours of every working day.

"Another whose work amounts to making beds and cleaning rooms in the expanding service sector.

"And another who spends her day typing letters and filing correspondence in the large, impersonal offices of America's bureaucracies."

Says Professor Wright: "Some of the women involved in these jobs no doubt find themselves liberated by these experiences. Others would no doubt prefer fulltime house-wifery if only the family's economic circumstances allowed it."

Professor Wright, who is also the associate director of the Social and Demographic Research Institute, bases his claims on six national surveys conducted by the University of Michigan and the National Opinion Research Center.

In a paper published by the National Council on Family Relations, Professor Wright contends that being a housewife can be as satisfying as a career in business, sometimes more so.

"In my own circle of upper middle-class women," he says, "women who don't have outside work are embarrassed by it — they feel incomplete and less of a person because they keep house. Understand, this is not necessarily so."

Nonetheless, more women are holding temporary or permanent jobs today than ever before.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports 46.4 million women aged 16 and older were employed at some time during last year, raising the percentage of working-age women who work to a record high of 56 percent.

The figures are consistent with previous reports showing more women working because of greater interest in careers and to supplement family incomes.

The advantages of working, says Prof. Wright, is that women "enjoy an outside income and some increase in independence."

But he adds: "I'm not exactly sure a woman's life is improved by working eight hours a day."

First-time college students can anticipate homesickness

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — If "home is where the heart is," then some students beginning their college careers this fall will feel out of place on campus, says a Purdue University administrator.

"Our experience with students show that homesickness involves a lot of factors," says Barbara Cook, associate dean of students. The Office of Dean of Students counsels students on virtually every type of problem which may arise during the college years — including homesickness.

"Sometimes a student has never lived away from home before," says Ms. Cook. "Occasionally we get students who haven't been away from home for even a night, or those who don't want to come to college anyway. And sometimes the student must leave a boyfriend or girlfriend at home."

The majority of students who withdraw from Purdue do so during the first month of the semester, says Ms. Cook. And she believes a lot of the withdrawals can be attributed to adjustment difficulties.

"I think it's a natural feeling," she says of being homesick. "Knowing it's all right to feel that way can help."

However, she remarks, sometimes parents can aggravate the situation by calling frequently or telling the student how much he or she is missed at home.

"Parents have to let go, too," she advises. "It's important the way parents handle this."

John Sautter, manager of Harrison Hall, a Purdue residence hall, says there are ways for parents to help students make the transition from home to college.

"Parents should always listen and communicate very closely with their son or daughter," he says. "Write those letters, send those care packages."

Parents should talk positively about the campus and become familiar and comfortable with themselves. Also, emphasized Ms. Cook and Sautter, parents should be especially attentive during the first few weeks of college, as they may be used as a "pressure valve" until their sons or daughters can make some close friends.

"Listen when the student calls home and says the bed spreads don't match," advises Sautter. "Those are very real concerns at the time."

The hall manager says it is usually easy to spot the homesick student. The person tends to be a loner, may eat by himself or mope around and perhaps cry a little. Sautter says he and his staff make a special effort to make the student feel more at home by eating meals with the person occasionally or by writing a cheery note.

Keeping busy is the best way for students to overcome their longings for home, says Ms. Cook. "Throw yourself into activities. We try to give suggestions. Keep busy, job, exercise — and try not to think about it."

MAKES HER OWN CAREER — (AP WIREPHOTO) Carlene Carter, shown in Los Angeles recently during an interview, said she didn't want to ride on the fame of her mother, June Carter Cash, and her step-father, Johnny Cash. Country music recording studios held open doors for her; but she said, "I want to know I can do it myself in the rock 'n' roll music field."

Travel tips given club

Members of the Cactus Chapter of the American Business Women's Association were given tips for economic traveling at a recent meeting.

The guest speaker was Bill Ragsdale, who became manager of Skipper Travel Inc. shortly after his retirement from a 40-year career with the railroad.

He stressed to the group the necessity of shopping for tours and taking advantages of group tours and off-season travel. He also warned the group to get tips organized and make reservations far in advance. His talk included tips on making pleasure cruises economical.

The vocational talk was delivered by Gail Earls, secretary to the county extension agent. Mrs. Earls told about various phone calls she receives for advice.

The staff's purpose, she said, is to try to help each individual. They work with Home Demonstration Clubs, 4-H Clubs and homeowners. She informed the group that pamphlets are available on requests.

Guests attending from the Scenic Chapter of ABW were Delores Albert, Helen Ball and Lou Thompson. Another guest was Kathy Lloyd, a scholarship recipient.

LaVeta Speck was installed as a new member and Marie Horton was reinstated.

Mrs. Earls announced that the Fall Festival Sale will be Nov. 18 at the Highland Shopping Center. The sale will feature homemade articles.

The Cactus Chapter Enrollment Tea will be Sept. 17, at the Dora Roberts Community Center with Margaret Wise serving as chairman.

Women work more hours

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women not only work harder than businessmen, they also work longer, according to the American Council of Life Insurance.

The council — citing a study made by the University of Michigan — says men also spend more time "goofing off."

It says Professor Greg Duncan, senior study director of the University's survey research center, offered the following explanations:

— Women end up in jobs more likely to be supervised than men, and in that position would tend to stay busier.

— Unlike men, a larger proportion of women don't hold paying jobs. But those women who do "may be more motivated."

Should teachers spank students?

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I am a 16-year-old girl and I'm happy and proud to say that corporal punishment is not allowed at my school. But my poor cousin Sheila isn't so lucky. She's 16 too and paddlings are common at her high school, even for girls!

Last spring Sheila and two other girls skipped too many classes and got sent to the dean of girl's office. The dean made them bend over in a row with their bottoms sticking out. Then she gave them 10 swats each with a wooden paddle.

Sheila said that all of them cried from the pain and humiliation of it and I don't blame them!

Do you think it's right to paddle high school students, especially girls? — Patty, Davis, Calif.

Patty: I don't think any student whether a boy or girl, should be suspected to physical punishment. Schools already are expected to perform enough functions that should be handled in the home.

Dr. Wallace: Help! Once I got caught for smoking and my parents told me to wait until I was 16. Now I'm 16 and smoke around my friends and my boyfriend.

I want to tell my parents but I don't know how. Please help. — P.E., Columbus, Ohio

P.E. The fact you don't know how to tell your parents you smoke, shows me that you know they won't approve. Smoking is a filthy, dirty, nasty, unhealthy, expensive habit. I cannot think of one good reason to smoke.

Shock me by writing to me and telling me you had the courage and conviction to stop! Then you will be eager to tell your parents the great news. I am aware I evaded your question!

Dr. Wallace: I'm 13, overweight and I smoke marijuana. I want to lose weight but I'm afraid if I stop smoking pot that I will gain weight instead of lose it.

Is this true? — Jayne, West Covina, Calif.

Jayne: Only proper dieting and exercise can cause a weight loss. Overeating produces weight gain. Smoking (marijuana or tobacco) neither adds nor removes weight.

Give your body a break. Lose weight and stop smoking, everything.

Send questions to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent-stamped large, self-addressed envelope to Dr. R. Wallace in care of this newspaper.

Nixon entertains 400

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon, sponsoring his first political event since resigning the presidency four years ago, entertained more than 400 Republicans at a fundraising reception at his seaside estate.

State Rep. Robert Badham said Nixon limited in his brief speech Sunday to reminiscences about his Orange County past, including the early years when he practiced law in La Habra.

Badham, representing the United Republican Finance

Committee of Orange County, said Nixon gave no indication of plans for his own political future. Nixon resigned as president in August 1974 because of the Watergate scandal.

Nixon, with his wife, Pat, at his side, greeted the 420 invited guests as they arrived at La Casa Pacifica, once known as the Western White House. The dinner was closed to the press.

The Republicans were served Alaskan king crab and Mexican food and some were given tours of the grounds. The guests were entertained by a strolling mariachi band.

The $250-a-plate affair raised more than $100,000, Badham said.

Meanwhile, Newsweek magazine reported Sunday that Nixon is among the dignitaries expected to attend a memorial service in New York on Sept. 13 for Elmer H. Bobst, a pharmaceutical executive and philanthropist who died a few weeks ago at the age of 83. The magazine said Nixon had developed a close relationship with Bobst during their 25-year friendship and had been asked to deliver one of the eulogies at the service.

GOOD SAMARITAN — Leo Heinege started feeding four pairs of ducks at Mirror Pond on the campus of the University of Connecticut over ten years ago when the president of the college, Dr. Homer Babbidge, decided to place them there to give the pond a little life. Today, over 500 ducks await Heinege's 5 p.m. appointment at waters edge every afternoon, 365 days a year. "The only day I missed was the day of the blizzard last winter," says Heinege. He pays for the feed out of his own pocket.

Before Kennedy assassination

Five persons claim they met Secret Service men

DALLAS (AP) — Five persons claim they met men who identified themselves as Secret Service agents in Dealey Plaza just before the assassination of President John Kennedy, though the Warren Commission claims none of the 28 agents protecting Kennedy were on foot at that time.

In a copyright story in Sunday editions, the Dallas Morning News said all but one of the encounters were in the parking lot of the Texas School Book Depository, from which the commission concluded Lee Harvey Oswald alone fired on the motorcade.

Gordon L. Arnold said he was moving toward a railroad bridge over the nearby triple underpass to shoot movies of the motorcade when he was approached by a man who flashed a badge and claimed to be a Secret Service agent.

After taking up a position on the grassy knoll adjacent to the depository, Arnold said he "felt" a shot come from behind him.

"I had just gotten out of basic training," he said. "In my mind live ammunition was being fired. It was being fired over my head. I hit the dirt."

He said the first two shots came from behind a fence behind the knoll.

During a re-enactment for acoustic analysis recently, the Assassinations Committee ordered rifles and pistols shot from that position as well as the depository.

Arnold said he turned his film over to a policeman but never reported his story because "I heard after that there were a lot of people making claims about pictures and stuff and they were dying sort of peculiarly."

Two Dallas policemen were assigned to guard the railroad bridge, keeping unauthorized persons off the structure, but were not assisted by federal agents, according to the Warren Report.

"If there was one (Secret Service agent) up there, we didn't know it," said officer James C. White. "He wasn't on that bridge. I know that."

But, a railroad signal supervisor, who aided the officers in identifying railroad personnel on the bridge, said he thought "a plainclothes detective or FBI agent or something like that" was helping the officers guard the bridge.

About 9:30 or 10 a.m., Julius Hardie of Dallas was driving a truck on Commerce Street when he noticed three men on the bridge.

"I looked over on the railroad bridge and I saw three men," Hardie told The News. "And I thought I saw two of them carrying guns, long guns. I glanced to my left to check for traffic and then looked back, because even in Texas it's unusual to see people carrying long guns."

"Now I can't tell you whether it was rifles, shotguns or what. But two of them had long guns."

Minutes after Arnold's encounter with the "agent" on his way to the bridge, Mrs. Jean Hill witnessed the assassination from a few feet away from the presidential limousine.

She saw a man dashing into the parking lot adjacent to the depository before other stunned spectators began to rush up the knoll past Arnold, she said.

She ran after the man and was met in the parking lot by a "tall and slender" man in a business suit who "whipped out" identification claiming he was a Secret Service agent, Mrs. Hill said.

"I thought he was trying to get away," she said, "but evidently he wanted me to keep from getting away (and pursuing the fleeing man). He identified himself, supposedly, and I took it that he was. I just figured they (Secret Service) were shooting back."

Mrs. Hill, now remarried, said agents from the CIA, FBI and Secret Service interviewed her in the following year and told her the man she met in the parking lot with the Secret

GSA to accept Cee City offer

The General Services Administration today announced that it plans to accept the application of the City of Colorado City, Texas, for the Colorado City Auxiliary Field, located near Colorado City, Texas.

Ann Doughty, GSA Regional Administrator in Fort Worth, said this property will be used for an airport.

Kids prone to injury in vehicle accidents

An injured child instinctively turns to the safety of mother's arms for protection. But in an automobile accident, even the strongest of arms are incapable of protecting a child from death and injury, warns the Texas Medical Association. Infants and children, due to their short legs and large, heavy heads, are much more likely to be thrown about the car upon impact than are adults.

In a 20 m.p.h. collision, a 15 pound baby is thrown at a force equal to 300 pounds.

Attitude promotes pluses

Industrial Growth and Development

Several of our economic indicators continue to push upward!

Retail sales tax, one of the most responsive of all indicators, showed a 12 per cent gain over the same period last year. Allowing for inflation, such an increase still reflects a healthy economy and continues to surprise most of our neighbors and even some of our own people here at home.

for additional business establishments — some nationwide chains have carefully examined our record and our potential and have decided to locate a facility here. The mere fact that they have analyzed our economy and found it to be sound is a really big plus for us.

Expansion of our existing industries continues at a healthy rate however, the glamour of such growth is not nearly so great as announcement of a brand new industry. Yet, on the average, 4 out of 5 new jobs come from such expansion of our own existing industries.

is truly on the grow and just think how many of you have had a hand in it.

What it really proves is something we mustn't become complacent about or take for granted. It's the positive attitude that is so vital to any successful venture. Optimism is highly contagious and we have demonstrated that our energies are better used in pulling together — rather than pulling against one another.

Look at the figures for July one year ago and compare them with last month. We find that bank deposits are up $7 million; Savings & Loan assets are up $16½ million and postal receipts are up 10 per cent. Federal treasury tax deposits which include payroll withholding and social security taxes are also up, indicating more people being employed. But the big gain is reflected in building permits which shows 400 per cent increase over July a year ago. Building permits for the year to date are running about $3½ million ahead of last year.

The Big Spring Industrial Park continues to attract and acquire businesses and industries and the Howard County Industrial Park is on its way to a productive utilization with announcement of its second manufacturing plant.

On the "visitor" side of our economy, new restaurants have opened and others are about to announce. Additional overnight facilities are being planned for the very near future and the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum promises to be the scene of many conventions and conferences. Big Spring

These figures should make folks proud as can be, but there's more! There are numerous new businesses in town. And there's considerable plans under way

List of aid to cities likely done by computer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sooner or later it had to happen. The pork barrel has been computerized.

This latest marvel of the computer age may have reached its height of folly when the White House released a list of 12,000 counties, cities and villages that might be eligible for aid under President Carter's new national urban policy.

A list that size brings new dimensions to pork barrel — projects included in a bill that provide money for home districts and assure that enough members of Congress will vote for the bill to get it passed.

The urban aid would provide funds for such things as neighborhood rehabilitation and industry recruiting. The hope was most congressmen would be pleased to grab some of this for their districts.

In hindsight, however, some White House strategists concede the list may have been a mistake that helped dig a grave for key portions of the program. But they say it was nonetheless unavoidable.

Only a computer could have produced such a list. It screened every community in the United States according to the eligibility criteria in the Carter plans, and then printed out the 12,000 that passed.

Immediately the list caused problems.

Places like Shaker Heights and Mercer Island showed up on the list of eligible communities. Shaker Heights, outside Cleveland, and Mercer Island, a Seattle suburb, are two of the best heeled communities in America.

Jazz dance course set

The continuing education department of Howard College will be offering a course in jazz dance beginning Sept. 7. The class will run through October 26. Classes have been scheduled on Thursday from 7-9 p.m. during this eight-week period of time.

The class will be held in the Hawk gym and will cost $20 per student. The students must be at least 16 years of age or older. There must be a minimum of 25 people in the class.

The instructor for the class will be Helen Chambers. Mrs. Chambers is a recent graduate of Southern Methodist University. She received a degree in fine arts with a major in dance. While at S.M.U., Mrs. Chambers was actively involved in campus dance productions. She has studied dance for 17 years.

Mrs. Chambers will be teaching the Luigi form of jazz which has been used nationwide in different settings. The dance was created by a dancer named Luigi who was in a car accident. Luigi invented the dance method for regaining his skills in dance.

The dance form tones your body, helps build coordination, and encourages self-expression. It is a developmental form of dance that can help the beginner to the advanced. A wide range of music will be used in the dance class. The instructor has requested that participants wear leotards or loose fitting attire. Ballet or soft-soled shoes are required.

For further information contact the continuing education office at Howard College by calling 267-6311, ext. 66.

Okie brags!

By WALT FINLEY
Guest Columnist

I think it was Marj Carpenter, Eddie Acri, Jerry Foresyth or Evan Evans who asked two extremely intelligent questions:

"Wait, how were you able to finish so far ahead in the Herald's Crystal Ball contest last year? And how were you able to bat nearly .800 in the pro football predictions?"

I'm going to answer those questions. But fans, please, pretty please don't reveal my winning formula to Las Vegas mobsters.

After studying win-loss records, weights, wind variations, passing percentages and the average gate — I count the number of Okies on each team's roster. The team with the mostest Sooners I pick and bet a bundle. If the competing pro teams have the same number of Okies — I pick a tie.

However, I will confess the Super Bowl has been less than a showcase for the Oklahomans as anticipated in football's most glamorous game. But Oklahoma has had a representative — a player or an assistant coach — in each of the 12 ballyhooed games, and on the winning team 10 times.

AMAZINGLY, the three Oklahomans who came closest to being Super Bowl heroes were from Tulsa. Two of 'em shared soda pop with me while I was "slaving" on the Tulsa World.

Safety Randy Hughes, whose interception set up Dallas' first touchdown and who recovered two Denver fumbles in Super Bowl XII, was the third player from Tulsa to at least make a significant contribution to his team's success.

Don Chandler, Green Bay kicker, was the first. Chandler kicked four field goals to help the Packers defeat Oakland in Super Bowl II. It was Chandler's and Vince Lombardi's final game for Green Bay.

Like Hughes, of Tulsa Memorial High School and OU, Chandler was a native son who prepped at Tulsa Rogers prior to a collegiate career at Bacone and Florida.

HOWARD TWILLEY was an adopted son of Tulsa, who, seven years after completing an epic career at Tulsa University, caught a pass for Miami's first touchdown in a victory over Washington in Super Bowl VII.

Larry Czonka and Bart Starr, on merit, kept Twilley and Chandler from getting the big toasts. The Dallas offense, without merit, diminished Hughes' role.

Had the Cowboys capitalized on Hughes' two fumble recoveries and blown to a decisive early lead, Randy might have found himself in a lead car when the champions were honored in a parade at Dallas last January.

But Dallas did not have a lot more offense than Denver. The essential difference was that Dallas did a better job of covering its fumbles. Otherwise, Dallas was appallingly ragged; more so probably than any Super Bowl team that won comfortably.

The Cowboys owe everything to Hughes and their defense. If Denver had a defender as alert as Hughes near the ball where a punt that should never have been fielded was fumbled at the beginning, who knows; Denver might have won.

Whatever, it was a soothing and remarkably productive day for Hughes, who plays only on long yardage situations.

It may have alerted some to a point Tom Landry and secondary coach Gene Stallings have repeatedly made.

Which is, Dallas does not just have the two best safeties (Cliff Harris and Charlie Waters) in the NFL, but the three best safeties.

Regrettably, it takes a turnover game for a Hughes to get attention.

DALLAS HAS NOW WON and lost in the two most erring Super Bowl games. Baltimore won Super Bowl V when Craig Morton was also the interception victim, then in a Dallas uniform.

One of the costliest turnovers for Baltimore was made by flanker Eddie Hinton, of Lawton, Okla., and OU, who fumbled after a long pass completion and might have been the goat had the Colts not rallied.

Another Oklahoman scored Minnesota's only touchdown in Super Bowl IX, on a turnover. Safety Terry Brown of Marlow and Oklahoma State scored on a blocked punt, against the Steelers, who had in their line the best man at Brown's wedding and OSU roommate, Jon Kolb of Owasso.

Kolb and Chandler played on the only 2-0 Super Bowl teams.

TWILLEY, 2-1, is the only Oklahoman to have played in three Super Bowls. Twilley did it in successive years. The Dolphins lost to Dallas in Super Bowl VI, then defeated Washington and Minnesota in VII and VIII.

Two assistant coaches with Oklahoma State backgrounds have been in five combined Super Bowls. Neill Armstrong, defensive coordinator for Minnesota, has suffered three of the Vikings' four defeats. Buddy Ryan, defensive line coach, was with the Jets when they stunned Baltimore in Super Bowl III and joined the Vikings in time for their loss in Oakland last year.

Oh well, unlike one of my leaders, Tommy Hart, and co-worker Danny Reagan, I prefer college football to pro games anyway!

UT kicker really passer

NEW YORK (AP) — placekicker-punter in college football history, a certain first-round choice in next spring's National Football League draft.

But don't be surprised if the Seguin, Texas, product does double duty with some NFL club as a kicker and emergency quarterback.

"They kinda looked at me a little bit as a kicker, but I was recruited as a quarterback," the 6-foot-4, 218-pound Erxleben said Monday at the start of the annual NCAA-ABC college football promotion tour. "I was mainly recruited as a passer because I was too clumsy to run the option. That's why I was recruited when Texas recruited me."

"I suffered a shin injury during my freshman year," he continued. "I didn't want to sit on the bench, so I started working out as a punter and placekicker."

All parents and sports fans are urged to attend tonight's meeting, and offer suggestions for club operations during the coming season.

Honesty best policy (to finish 2nd)

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — A self-imposed penalty for an infraction no one else saw cost Tom Kite a chance for a victory and let Tom Watson escape with the title Sunday in the Hall of Fame Golf Classic.

Watson, who once held a five-shot lead, had to hang on in the face of a triple challenge and eventually emerged with a one-stroke triumph, his fourth of the season.

Kite, with Hale Irwin and Howard Twitty, tied for second.

And Kite would have had a share of the lead and a playoff opportunity had it not been for the one-stroke penalty he called on himself on the fifth hole.

He had missed a 15-foot birdie putt and walked up to the little tap-in par putt of some six inches. As he soled his putter behind the ball, it moved a tiny fraction of an inch. Neither Irwin nor Twitty saw it.

"I immediately stepped back and told Hale I was calling a penalty on myself," Kite said. "The ball moved just that much," and he held his thumb and forefinger less than one-quarter inch apart. "That cost me the tournament. I've never had anything like that happen," the disconsolate Kite said and then responded to a question: "Yes, you're damn right it hurts."

Watson was unaware of the incident until he'd watched both Kite and Twitty miss 18th-hole birdie attempts that would have sent it into a playoff.

"He has to be the unhappiest man in town," Watson said. "That's very disheartening. It's something you have no control over."

Watson's triumph enabled him to regain the season's leading money-winning spot and established him in strong position to repeat as Player of the Year.

The tough-minded Watson claimed this one with a closing 71 and a 77 total, 7 shots under par on the toughened, revamped No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club.

The victory, which went with his earlier titles in the Bing Crosby, Tucson Open and Byron Nelson Classic, was worth $50,000 from the total purse of $250,000 and pushed his year's earnings to $303,429.

Texas teams fare poorly Royals 4, Rangers 2 Pirates 8, Astros 5

Darrell Porter and Amos Otis hit solo home runs in the seventh inning and Porter hit another in the ninth as the Kansas City Royals beat the Texas Rangers 4-2 in Arlington and moved back into first place in the American League West.

Dennis Leonard, 15-15, with last-out help from Al Hrabosky, scattered nine hits to pick up the victory for the Royals, who snapped a four-game losing streak and climbed one-half game ahead of the California Angels, who lost to Boston. The third-place Rangers, who had won four in a row, fell 5½ games off the pace.

Texas starter Doc Medich, 78, had a three-hitter until the seventh when Porter led off by hammering a pitch over the right-center field fence to tie the score. Medich retired the next two batters but Otis then pounded his 16th homer of the season to right field.

Willie Stargell drove in three runs with a single and his 19th homer of the season and scored two runs as the visiting Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Houston 8-5, snapping the Astros' five-game winning streak.

Grant Jackson, 6-3, picked up the victory after relieving Pittsburgh starter Don Robinson in the fifth as the Pirates took their 11th triumph in the last 13 games. Kent Tekulve, who set a Pirate club record by making his 73rd appearance of the season, secured the final four outs for Pittsburgh to notch his 26th save of the season.

A single and stolen base by Omar Moreno, Dave Parker's run-scoring single and Stargell's two-run blast into the right-field seats, stacked Pittsburgh to a 3-0 first-inning lead against losing pitcher Mark Lemongello, 9-12.

Penn State is thinking No. 1

Since Joe Paterno took over as Penn State's head football coach in 1966, the Nittany Lions have had one second-place finish in The Associated Press rankings, along with one third, three fifths, one seventh, one eighth and two 10ths.

Obviously, something is missing. And the Penn State fans aren't looking to add a fourth, sixth or ninth-place standing to Paterno's glittering 112-24-1 record. The only thing on their minds this fall is No. 1.

And you can bet Paterno is thinking along those lines, too, even though he isn't about to get overly excited before the demanding 11-game schedule begins.

A 11-1 mark last year was the same as that of Notre Dame, Alabama, Arkansas and Texas, all of whom finished ahead of Penn State in the final ratings. But, warns Paterno, "We should be better than we were last year," when the only blemish was a 24-20 loss to sixth-ranked Kentucky.

Only two things are better than 11-1. One is 11-0-1; the other is 12-0-0. Either log would be a formidable accomplishment with a schedule that includes road games against Ohio State and Kentucky and winds up with three Bowl winners — Maryland, North Carolina State and Pittsburgh.

The Lions have 32 returnees from last year's top 44 players, led by record-breaking quarterback Chuck Fusina.

However, Penn State is not even a sho-in for the mythical Eastern championship. The Pitt Panthers, according to Coach Jackie Sherrill, expect to have "another outstanding football team." And it probably will come as a surprise to learn that Pitt has the best record in the country over the last two seasons — 12-0 and a national championship in 1976, 9-2-1 last year.

"We put together a great football team by the end of the year," says Sherrill, who must replace 12 starters, including standout quarterback Matt Cavanaugh and defensive tackle Randy Holloway.

Whoever succeeds Cavanaugh — sophomores Rick Trocano and Lindsay Delaney or transfer Scott Jenner — will have one of the top receivers in the nation in Gordon Jones. The running game should be stronger and so, despite some major losses, should be the defense, led by Hugh Green, the brilliant freshman end of 1977.

Local tourney held

The team of Viola Gonzales and Eddie Acri took a first place in the Big Spring Chicano Golf Association Partnership Tournament, Sunday.

Gonzales and Acri shot a combined average of 66 to take the trophy at the Big Spring Municipal Golf Course.

Sam and Johnny Subia fought it out with Ben Garcia Sr. and Manuel Correa in a playoff, with the Subias taking second place honors. Both teams shot a 67 in regulation play.

Just one shot behind, the team of Robert Rodriguez and Juan Ramirez took fourth place with a 68.

The next competition, an ABC Scratch Tournament, will be held Sept. 10.

WATSON WINS HIS FOURTH TOURNAMENT — Tom Watson, from Stea boat Springs, Co., reacts to a missed putt on the 15th green during Sunday's final round of the Colgate-Hall of Fame Golf Classic played at the Pinehurst Country Club. Watson won his fourth tournament of the year with a 7-under-par score of 277. The $50,000 first prize makes Watson the tour's leading money winner.

Horned Frogs to get respect?

FORT WORTH (AP) — Texas Christian Coach F.A. Dry headed west immediately after a disastrous 2-9 season to sign some fast junior college defensive backs.

The Horned Frogs could pass pretty good last year but they couldn't stop any opponent using the overhead game.

Now, there's optimism that 1978 may be the year the Horned Frogs gain respectability after many, many seasons in college football's wilderness.

"We should have a faster and more solid secondary and a more mobile defensive front," said Dry. "This is the area of greatest concern. We must show the most improvement on defense."

Dry, a high respected coach who had some excellent teams at Tulsa, has an excellent senior quarterback in 6-foot-2 Steve Bayuk, who completed 114 of 250 passes for 14 touchdowns in 1977.

"We should have better balance than a year ago with better running and more balance passing," said Dry. "We have a veteran returning at quarterback to build around. We also have an experienced but young offensive line."

Fourteen junior college transfers will be on the TCU scene.

"You never know about junior college transfers," said Southern Methodist Coach Ron Meyer, who opens with TCU. "There could always be an O.J. Simpson in there. That's where Simpson came from — out of the junior colleges."

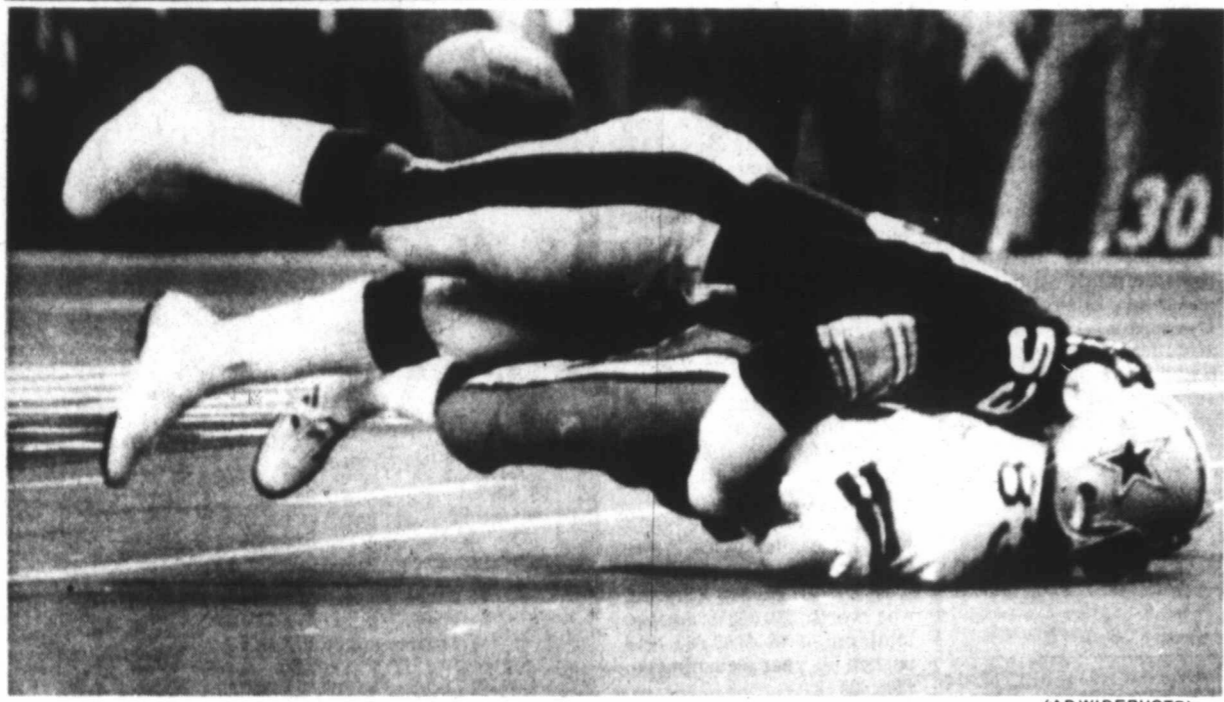

Dry said, "I'll tell you this — we'll have as good a quarterback as any in the conference. Maybe, just maybe we can be a factor in the race."

LOST IN THE CRUNCH — A loose ball pops up behind Pittsburgh Steelers linebacker Dennis Winston (53) as he lands on top of Dallas Cowboys' wide receiver Golden Richards (83) in Saturday night's exhibition game at Texas Stadium. The fourth quarter pass from Cowboys' quarterback Roger Staubach fell incomplete. Dallas won a comeback victory, 16-13 after two fourth quarter touchdowns.

O.J. predicts California rivalry

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Home grown O. J. Simpson has joined the San Francisco 49ers, who are aiming to dethrone the Los Angeles Rams as National Football Conference West Division champion.

"I know the Rams are the team we have to beat," said Simpson, who attended high school and junior college in San Francisco before winning the Heisman Trophy Award at the University of Southern California.

After then, Simpson starred for the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League. The Bills traded Simpson to San Francisco after the 1977 season.

"Here we have a lot of question marks, but I think we could win and win big," said Simpson.

Meanwhile, in Los Angeles, the Rams appear more concerned about winning the Super Bowl than beating the 49ers for the first place in the division.

Rams Coach Chuck Knox resigned under pressure after the 1977 season and took the job at Buffalo, and Los Angeles owner Carroll Rosenbloom hired former Washington Redskins Coach George Allen.

Allen lasted two games — both exhibition losses — before being fired.

Veteran players had walked out of training camp prior to the preseason setbacks before Allen was deposed. Assistant Ray Malavasi took over, and the Rams won their next game 26-7 over Seattle.

"We all respect Malavasi," said Rhodes Scholar quarterback Pat Haden, who was surprised, along with a majority of the Rams, when Allen was dismissed before the first year of his three-year contract really had begun.

NANCY LOPEZ ANNOUNCES WEDDING PLANS — Golfing sensation Nancy Lopez announced today on NBC's 'Today' show, her engagement to Tim Melton, right, a television sportscaster from Harrisburg, Pa. Miss Lopez said that the wedding is planned for April 14, 1979.

NFL (Nailed, Fractured and Lamed) QBs hurt

This year the National Football League didn't even wait for the season to begin to start knocking off its quarterbacks.

In 1977 it wasn't until the ninth game of the regular season that Fran Tarkenton, Lynn Dickey, James Harris, Bill Munsen and several other signal-callers had their numbers come up, resulting in a variety of broken bones and other injuries.

This time the season isn't even under way and already the quarterbacks are dropping like incomplete passes. Last weekend, Bob Griese of Miami, Bert Jones of Baltimore, Ken Anderson of Cincinnati and David Whitehurst of Green Bay suffered injuries that will keep them out of at least a game or two in the regular season, which gets underway next weekend.

Griese's injury was the most serious — torn ligaments in his left knee suffered when he was tackled after throwing a pass during Friday night's 24-20 victory by the Dolphins over Tampa Bay. It'll put his leg in a cast for at least three weeks, then the team will decide whether he can play or must undergo surgery.

It recalled the 1972 season when Griese was injured early in the season and didn't return until the American Conference championship. The Dolphins, with veteran Earl Morrall at quarterback most of the way, wound up with a 17-0 season.

Don Strock, who threw only four passes all last season (2 completions, 1 interception), will start for Miami next Sunday in New York against the Jets. "I am hopeful that Griese will rehabilitate and be able to help us the second half of the season," coach Don Shula said.

Jones sustained an incomplete separation of his right shoulder when he was tackled during Baltimore's 17-3 victory over Detroit. The Colts said he would not need surgery, but wouldn't guess how long he would be sidelined.

Bill Troup or Mike Kirkland will take Jones' place in next Monday night's opener against the Cowboys in Dallas.

Cincinnati beat Green Bay 17-14 Saturday night with each team losing its No. 1 quarterback. Anderson suffered a broken right index finger and Whitehurst suffered a mildly dislocated left shoulder.

"I don't know when Kenny will be back," said Bill Johnson, coach of the Bengals who start their season Sunday against Kansas City. John Reaves is Cincinnati's No. 2 passer.

Whitehurst was hopeful that he might be able to play in Green Bay's opener at Detroit. "I had that happen to my right shoulder in college. I played the next week, although I was limited," he said.

There were some less debilitating games Saturday.

Cubs lose squeaker

Jeff Ellison slugged his first home run of the year Sunday for Amarillo as the Panhandle team dusted off San Antonio 5-2 in the Texas League.

Meanwhile, Midland missed its chance to move up on Western Division leader San Antonio by losing a 5-4 squeaker to El Paso. The only other league game was Tulsa's 4-3 victory over Shreveport.

Ellison's two-run homer capped a four-run eighth inning for Amarillo.

Winning pitcher Gary Lucas, 8-16, allowed only four hits. Rick Sander, 9-11, was tagged for the loss.

San Antonio is one game up on Midland. El Paso cut the gap to three games behind the Dodgers with Sunday's victory.

Is Aggie hallucinating?

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Considering the lumps the Texas Aggie defense took last season, defensive coordinator Melvin Robertson may be accused of hallucinating.

But the likeable Aggie assistant swears there are two players on the current roster that remind him of former Aggie linebacking greats Ed Simonini and Garth TenNapel.

"Mike Little reminds me a lot of Simonini and that Doug Carr makes me think of TenNapel," Robertson said. "We didn't have much movement at our linebacker positions last year but that's going to change and we're going to be quicker and better everywhere."

is where Robertson hopes Little comes in.

"He's from Las Vegas and he's a wrestler just like Simonini," Robertson said. "And he's just as crazy as Simonini. He's a little short on techniques but he'll play like a crazy man. That's the kind that win games for you."

"We won't coach him too much. Just show him a few things like where to line up and let him go."

Robertson is projecting Little into the strong side linebacker position and thinks Carr will fit into the weak side.

"Carr is a wild man too," Robertson said. "He's quick and he's tough. He's probably going to beat out Floyd Randle (a returning starter). Little will battle Cal Peveo for the strong side linebacker position when fall practice starts."

The Aggies moved the football well offensively last season but had trouble stopping the opposition.

"We'd play soundly for awhile and then we've give up the big play," head coach Emory Ballard said. "I don't think we got hurt by sustained movement. It was the whole ball of wax."

Robertson says improved play at the linebacker and cornerback positions this fall will cure that problem.

"If you don't have good outside people, they'll make the big play on you," Robertson explained. "We just weren't that good last year."

"We had more depth at running back going into this season than we ever had at Texas A&M," Ballard said. "When we moved Brothers from halfback to fullback, it not only affects depth at fullback but halfback too."

HURDLING HARRAH — Texas Rangers' short stop, Toby Harrah, taking the pitch from Rangers' second baseman, Bump Wills, easily completes the double play on Kansas City Royals' left fielder, Steve Braun and Royals' George Brett. The action took place at Arlington Stadium in the sixth inning, Sunday night. The Kansas City Royals are on to win the contest 4-2 moving them into first place in the American League West.

Economists foresee trouble for consumers

NEW YORK (AP) — Economists manning the lookout posts for signs of a business slowdown have sighted evidence of possible trouble in the area of consumer spending.

Their accounts differ considerably, however, on whether this dark speck on the horizon is likely to become any kind of serious navigation hazard.

After a strong early spring showing, retail sales have flattened out recently, rising by just 0.2 percent in May, 0.1 percent in June and 0.2 percent in July.

"Consumer spending has undergone a discernible change over the past few months," New York's Bankers Trust Co. noted.

"But whether the consumer will continue marking time for a while, as has happened on several previous occasions since the current business expansion began, or whether a real retrenchment in buying lies in the offing is far from certain."

"The available data isn't much help in making the picture clearer. On the plus side, government figures showed personal income — naturally a central factor in spending plans — rising faster than inflation in July, following slight declines in the inflation-adjusted figures for the two previous months.

Less favorable indications come from the survey of consumers sponsored by the Conference Board, an independent business research organization. Its index of buying plans, calculated from a survey of 5,000 households nationwide, dropped last month to its lowest level in more than three years.

Merrill Lynch Economics Inc. bases its generally negative forecast on the tendency of both consumers and businesses lately to accelerate their spending in anticipation of continuing inflation — buying to beat expected future price increases.

The firm foresees a sharp slowing of consumer spending, leaving businessmen with excess inventories by the end of the year. The likely result, it says, is a recession in 1979 "of about average duration and magnitude for the post-World War II period."

Lamesa plant is shut down

LAMESA — The Seminole Garment Co., which assumed the work force of Dotty Dan Manufacturing Company nearly a year and a half ago, has closed plants both here and in Seminole.

Upwards to 100 machine operators have been laid off, according to the most reliable sources.

Leroy Olask, president of the Lamesa Industrial Foundation, said his committee would make every effort to find another firm to make use of the equipment, pointing out that the work force idled by the closing is already experienced.

Permits climb

ODESSA — Building permits issued in Odessa represent construction totaling $30,656,125, including $472,855 authorized last week.

The Chinati light

with Marj Carpenter

There is nothing more exciting to folks than a mysterious ghost light, unless it's a glowing grave. A lot of folks will swear and declare that they've seen a glowing grave in one nearby county, but the natives frown on folks poking around over there hunting it.

But the unsolved mystery of the ghost light in the Chinati Mountains near Marfa is quite a tale.

A woman named Marge Crumbaker wrote an article in the Houston Post about the light back in 1968 and recently a former Houston resident brought me a copy of it.

I became interested in the tale and called my good friend, Pat Ryan, publisher of the Big Bend Sentinel and also attempted to talk to the incoming county judge, C. W. Henderson, who surely has spotted the light in all those years of border patrolling around that part of the world.

Pat says that he has often seen the glow of the Chinati light close to the top of the Chinati Mountain. That ghost light is as mysterious as it was back in 1883 when the late Robert Ellison family got their first glimpse of the light in their second night in that beautiful country of rolling hills and brilliant skies.

Ellison told his daughter, Julia Plumley, who told her children, "My daddy said they unloaded their cattle at what is now Alpine and started driving west toward Marfa. When they came through Paisano Pass and got on to the flats where you can see for a great distance, they saw the light."

Rumors flying in Hermleigh

HERMLEIGH — Rumors are circulating here that some friends of the Hermleigh school district will seek to consolidate it with the Snyder school system.

Classes began in Hermleigh the past Monday. A petition endorsing the consolidation reportedly is being circulated and will be presented to the school board after tax notices have gone out.

The school board is considering an increase in the school tax rate, which would be boosted from 42 cents per $100 valuation to 70 cents per $100 valuation, implemented at 100 per cent ratio.

A budget of $356,125 has been adopted for the 1978-79 school year. If the consolidation becomes a reality, a majority of voters in both Hermleigh and Snyder would have to approve it.

At that time, her father thought it was a campfire of Apache Indians, who weren't too friendly in those days. But as he searched the countryside by horseback, he finally began to realize it wasn't a campfire or a ranch house light.

Almost everyone in Marfa has seen the light at one time or another. The late Joe Bunton, a one-time sheriff, used to consider the light his friend. At one time he said, "I used to take care of that country on horseback and the light was comforting."

The light apparently glows as softly as a star to some who have seen it. To others, it has divided or moved a bit from right to left or brightened to the glare of a spotlight, then dimmed to nothingness.

Surveyors have gone into the mountains hunting its source. Pilots stationed in Marfa during World War II have dropped flour bombs in the spot where they saw it and returned the next day hunting it to no avail.

There is also a group who see what they now call Marfa Lights out near the old airbase. But Pat Ryan says he has checked these out and they are probably nothing more than cars coming off the Divide from Presidio.

"But there's no use saying the old Chinati light is caused by headlights. Because people have seen the light since way before there were automobiles," Ryan added.

Some folks have theorized that the light is from luminous gas, such as swamp gas. Others argue that swamp gas would be difficult to see from so far away.

Others say the light is a mirage. But a mirage is usually a reflection of distant lights and years ago when the early settlers first viewed it, there were only lanterns.

Some think it is a reflection of the moon shining on an undiscovered mica vein. But others say, if there was a vein that large, it would have been discovered by now. Anyway, the ghost light gleams — even when there is no moon.

Others think it is foxfire, which would be an organic luminescence from decaying wood. There is a story that it is a cowboy riding through the mountains carrying a flashlight. But if so, he's been doing this since 1883.

The most romantic story is that an old Apache Indian Chief became separated from his people as they traveled through the Chinati Mountain country.

According to the legend, the chief still roams the hills, lighting fires in hopes of signaling his lost tribe. There is even one story that on the nights when you cannot see the light, if you listen carefully, you can hear the chief moaning with the wind.

I've never heard the moaning, but I saw the light once years ago after visiting friends near Marfa — out where there aren't many fences.

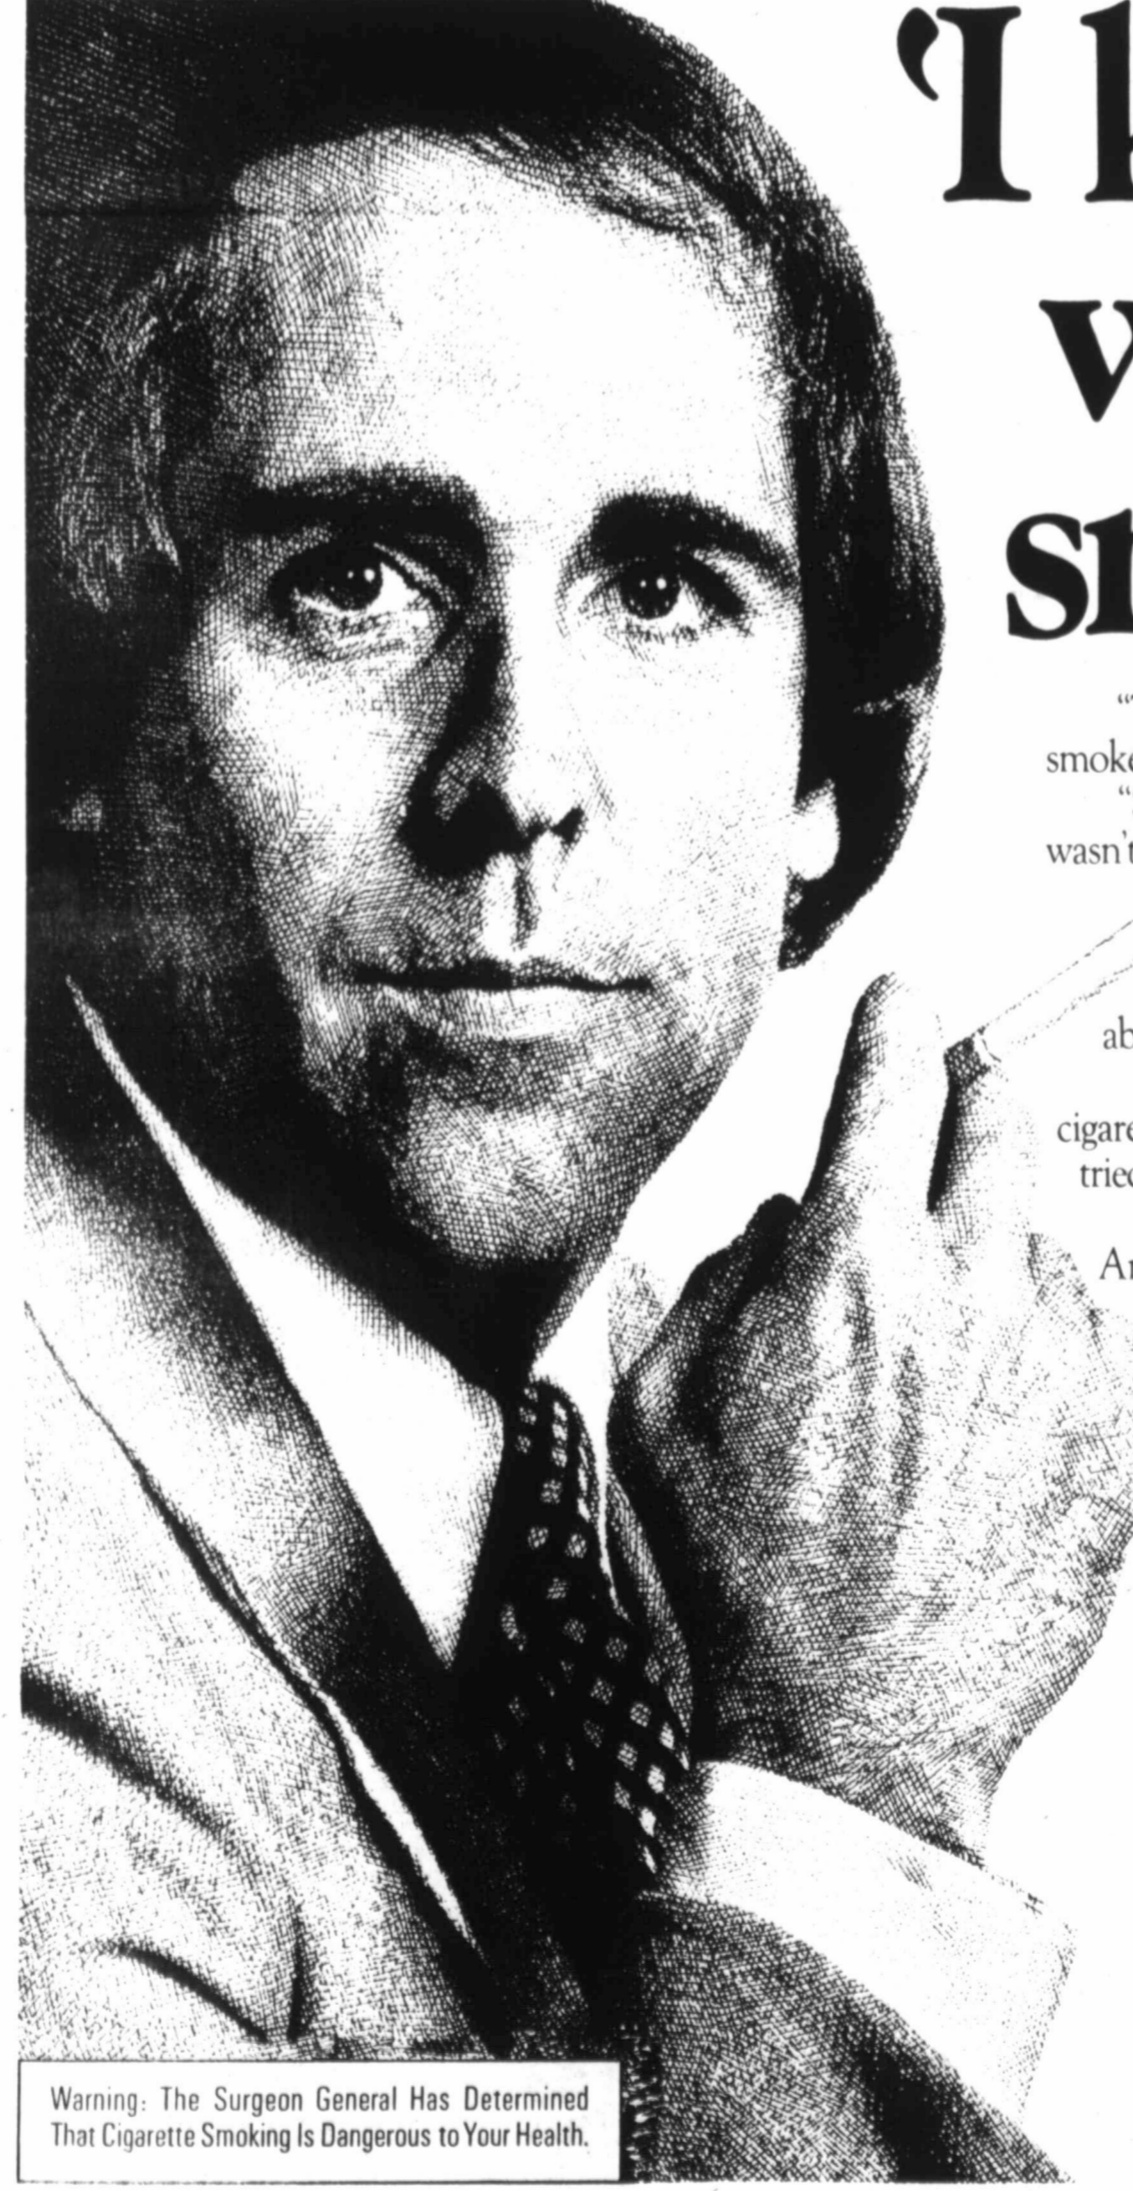

SILENT STARES — Robed Ku Klux Klansmen watch from sidewalk Saturday as black demonstrators march through Okolona, Miss., to demand increased minority hiring. There were no major incidents reported between the 36 Klansmen and some 300 black demonstrators. The marchers said they intend to continue a boycott of area stores, which has been in progress over the past week.
