Plane stolen 2nd time

By BOB BURTON and MARJ CARPENTER

The 74 Twin Engine Navajo Chieftan which served at one time the principal plane for Trans Regional Airlines has been stolen again.

The airplane was stolen last September from Howard County Airport and was recovered approximately two months later, heavily damaged.

Since that time, it had been in Lubbock being repaired for $70,000 worth of damage. On Monday, R. E. McClure, manager of the former airlines here, went to Lubbock and got the plane and flew it to Meacham Airport in Fort Worth for a possible sale.

On Tuesday night, it was apparently stolen again. A spokesman at the Fort Worth police said this morning, "that airplane was simply flown in and parked and then the next day it was reported missing. When we checked with the owner we discovered that he thought it was still here."

The officer said, "It only had about 100 miles of fuel in it when stolen so it should have either come down or refueled fairly close by. We thought we had located it near Waco yesterday but it turned out to be a different plane."

McClure said, "You can't believe how pretty that plane looked after it was repaired." He said that it was supposed to have been sold to some Canadians this week, but the sale had not been finalized.

"The plane is the size and has the power to be utilized by narcotics smugglers," according to the Fort Worth officer who added, "That size plane is much in demand and often stolen."

McClure said here today, "I just can't believe it's gone again. There was around $70,000 worth of damage when we recovered it before."

Postal Service, unions begin last effort to avoid strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — In perhaps the final effort to avoid an illegal, nationwide mail strike, the Postal Service and unions representing more than a half-million employees today began 15 days of new talks.

The new beginning, 4½ months after the stalemated negotiations began, got under way with the help of a seasoned labor trouble-shooter, James J. Healy, as mediator.

The two sides began with separate meetings with Healy at the offices of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

On his way into the negotiations, the president of the largest postal union vowed, "I'm not giving up a damned thing on the no-layoff clause." Emmet Andrews of the American Postal Workers Union added that he did not expect progress quickly in the new talks.

Joseph Vacca, president of the second largest union, the National Association of Letter Carriers, declined comment as he arrived for the talks.

Meanwhile today, a federal judge extended until Sept. 18 his temporary restraining order barring a postal strike by the two largest unions.

Strikes by postal employees are illegal, and the court order is intended to strengthen enforcement of that law.

U.S. District Judge John Pratt had signed a six-day restraining order at his home last Saturday, but that order expired today.

Attorneys for the unions and the Postal Service agreed to Pratt's extension of the no-strike order. However, union officials have not ruled out the possibility of a strike if the new talks fail to produce a satisfactory settlement.

In the new talks, the unions are expected to seek improvement of the 19.5 percent increases in wages and cost-of-living allowances contained in an earlier agreement which postal rank-and-file workers rejected. This money package is substantially below what coal miners and railroad workers have won this year.

Postal management is expected to try to rid itself of the no-layoff requirement it reluctantly accepted on the last day of the original three-month bargaining period. Postal managers would like to be able to lay off workers during periods when mail volume is low.

On the eve of the new talks, a union source said, "I don't see that there can be any give on the no-layoff clause."

Since the April 20 opening of talks there have been two crises when a possible strike was imminent. On July 21, five hours after the first strike deadline expired, a tentative settlement was reached that appeared to end the strike threat — but it was rejected by union members.

The second crisis was ended Monday when the Postal Service agreed to go back to the bargaining table until Sept. 16. The unions agreed to binding arbitration by the end of that period if there is no agreement.

Healy, a Harvard professor with long experience in labor-management mediation, was called in to try to settle the dispute, replacing chief federal mediator Wayne L. Horvitz, who selected him.

It is Healy who will become an arbitrator and decide any unresolved issues after Sept. 16.

Light showers fall in area

Rain was falling here this morning but no measurement had yet been made at prestime.

Both farmers and ranchers welcome the moisture which may help salvage some borderline cotton crops although many will have to be plowed up for drought disaster payments.

The rainfall today was not a typical West Texas rain but was falling softly instead of in great sudden amounts.

For urban school districts

State aid may drop

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas' privately owned wealth — real estate, personal property and intangibles — totals $464.4 billion, the School Tax Assessment Practices Board reported Friday.

Its data could mean huge drops in urban school districts' state aid in 1979-80 unless the 1979 Legislature changes the law.

Current law, however, prohibits annual increases of more than 25 percent in local districts' mandatory support of the Foundation School Program. The board's figures were double the $232 billion estimate issued two years ago by the Governor's Office of Education Resources (GOER), mainly because intangibles such as bank deposits, stocks and bonds were counted.

Intangibles totaled $154 billion. The value of real estate was pegged $78 billion — or 34 percent — higher than the GOER figures.

Walt Parker, board director, said 82.8 percent of the intangibles were in the 52 counties making up Texas' 26 Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas.

Harris County (Houston) alone accounts for $39.8 billion or 25.8 percent of the intangibles.

Copies of property value figures for each of the 1,080 school districts were mailed to superintendents, and the board expects about a third of the districts will appeal.

Parker used his news conference to plug for the "Tax Relief Amendment" on the Nov. 7 general election ballot. One feature of the proposal would eliminate the rarely observed requirement that intangibles be taxed.

"From a practical standpoint, school districts do not have the ability to tax these items at the present time since they cannot determine individual ownership. Passage of the proposed Tax Relief Amendment would allow the Legislature to clarify the position of local tax administrators related to the taxation of intangibles," he said.

He said he was confident the 1979 Legislature would change the school finance law to avoid adding a crushing new burden to local districts.

"I have confidence the Legislature will come up with a very workable number for the rural and urban areas," Parker said.

He said there was no way to compute the impact of the new property value figures on each district's Local Fund Assignment for the foundation program.

A district's state aid is based on how its wealth relates to that of all the other districts in Texas — the more the wealth, the less the aid.

Ken Graeber, an associate director of the board, said it would be a "very shaky assumption" that the Legislature would not change the school finance formula next session.

Intangibles never have been included in the measurement of school district wealth, but the 1977 Legislature ordered the board to provide the figures for its use and for use in the state aid formula — unless the law is changed later.

Judge denies bond for Davis

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — For the second time in two years, millionaire industrialist Cullen Davis has been told he must stay in jail without bond while awaiting a felony trial — this time because prosecutors allege he solicited the assassination of the judge hearing his divorce case.

State District Judge Arthur Tipps denied bond today immediately after both sides in the case presented final arguments.

The defense rested its case late Thursday after seven days of sensational testimony.

It was two years ago this week — Aug. 27, 1976 — that Davis, facing two charges of capital murder and two more for attempted murder, found himself in a courtroom not 50 feet away from where Tipps is presiding, listening to another judge order him held without bond.

That ruling began a 15-month-long bid for freedom that ended less than 10 months ago with an acquittal on a charge of capital murder in the shooting death of his 12-year-old stepdaughter.

Then and now, a cool mask of inscrutability hides the tempest some witnesses have said simmers inside the unassuming industrialist.

Davis, 44, was arrested again Aug. 20 by state and federal authorities. This time the charges are solicitation of capital murder and carrying an illegal weapon — a .22-caliber pistol with a silencer.

Prosecutors claim he hired a "hit man" to kill District Judge Joe Eidson, who has presided over the bitter, 4-year-old divorce suit filed by Davis' estranged wife, Priscilla. Eidson announced Tuesday he had withdrawn from the case, scheduled for trial Sept. 18.

Taped conversations, allegedly between Davis and police informant David McCrory; photos; a brief videotape; the pistol and silencer; and $25,000 in $100 bills are part of the evidence the state offered during the hearing in an attempt to keep Davis in jail.

FBI agent Ron Jannings said it was McCrory, a self-professed friend and employee of Davis, who was wired for sound during two meetings with the oilman at a restaurant parking lot last month.

During the Aug. 20 meeting, McCrory said he showed Davis a posed snapshot of Judge Eidson's body stuffed in a car trunk and was given an envelope containing $25,000 to deliver to an assassin he never actually hired.

Eidson, who posed at FBI request for the photo that realistically portrayed him as having a shotgun blast in his back, was also a state witness at Davis' murder trial.

Wednesday's testimony by McCrory's friend and fellow karate expert Pat Burleson suggested Davis' attorneys might be considering a revised version of their Amarillo strategy to, in effect, put the state's witnesses on trial. The tactic was described by one prosecutor as the "ABC" defense — anybody but Cullen.

Burleson, who said he contacted the FBI for McCrory, testified that he also met with Priscilla Davis several times in the days before Davis was arrested. However, he said he did not discuss authorities' plans to put Davis under surveillance.

Davis' murder trial — the longest in Texas' lustrous legal history — ground to a halt last November after 4½ months. An Amarillo jury deliberated just three hours before finding Davis innocent of shooting his stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn.

The girl died in a bloody, midnight shooting spree at the Davis' $6 million Fort Worth mansion Aug. 2, 1976 along with Mrs. Davis' live-in lover, Stan Farr, 30.

Davis was barred from the sprawling 181-acre estate by Eidson's order. At the time of the shootings, he was living with another bosomy, blonde divorcee, Karen Master.

Mrs. Davis, then 36, and a chance mansion visitor, Gus Gavrel Jr., 22, were wounded. Both testified at the murder trial that Davis was the dreaded "man in black" who shot them.

Charges are still pending against Davis in connection with the shootings. Before his arrest this month, he was free on $325,000 bond on those charges, but prosecutors had conceded privately that they would likely be dropped.

Tarrant County District Attorney Tim Curry, whose job it has been to prosecute Davis, said he believes the murder-for-hire case "has a better chance" for conviction than the earlier charges. He agreed Mrs. Davis' alleged sorties into what the defense termed a "netherworld" of drugs and group sex wrecked the state's murder case in Amarillo.

Offbeat: Tinkering with language

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A Wichita minister who criticized use of the word "ass" in a production of Peter Pan is off-base, according to a professor of English at the University of Missouri-Kansas City.

Dr. David Weinglass said when author Sir James Barrie had Tinker (bell calling Wendy "a silly ass," he had to mean a donkey because the word means nothing else in England.

Weinglass said the American use of the word to mean the human posterior is a sloppy use of the British term "arse."

The Rev. Ron Adrian, who heads Wichita's Concerned Citizens for Community Standards, wrote a letter to the editor of the Wichita Eagle complaining about the play because the script uses that word.

Outside: Rain

Continued intermittent thundershowers are forecast through Saturday for Big Spring and environs. High temperature today should reach low 80s, low tonight in the mid 80s, and high Saturday in the upper 80s. Winds will be southerly at 10 to 15 mph, decreasing slightly tonight. A 20 percent chance of precipitation is predicted for Saturday.

Housing committee would study impact of decision

The Big Spring Housing Committee will ask the Big Spring Steering Committee for 60 days to study the impact on the local market of the sale of Capehart Housing.

The General Services Administration announced Tuesday that the Capehart Housing Complex on the former Webb AFB may be released for sale in the near future. Members of the housing committee would like the 60 days to assess what might happen to the local housing market if the 460 units are released for sale.

"Putting that many units for sale at one time could have an enormous effect on the cost of housing in Big Spring," noted City Manager Harry Nagel.

The complex is made up of 460 units, with 56 of these single-family dwellings, and the rest one, two and three bedroom duplexes.

A meeting of the steering committee was scheduled for noon today, to be followed by a meeting of the housing committee at 2 p.m. today. If the 60-day period is approved by the steering committee, the impact study will begin immediately, according to Nagel.

School attendance still behind 'peak' forecast

Big Spring school attendance has risen 300 students the first week, but still lags 350 students behind the "peak attendance" forecast for late September.

According to Assistant Superintendent Harold Bentley, attendance has risen to 4,982 students the first week, but projections by the district predicted as many as 5,300 students would be in their chairs by this time.

Most of the shortage, said Bentley, is in the secondary schools.

"I'm not sure how to read our low enrollment in the secondary school. Did parents wait until after school ended to move away from Big Spring? That appears to be the only way to figure it.

"We're down about 25 students per secondary grade," Bentley continued, "so the picture is level. And we gained 40 students yesterday, 20 at the high school."

The 20 transfers requested by parents will be approved today, added the assistant superintendent.

"We are extremely pleased with our staff this year," he said, "School has begun very smoothly and we have gotten good cooperation all the way around."

Odessa family offers big reward for girl

Heartbroken parents in Odessa have been trying since July 19 to find their daughter, Catherine Ann (Fifi) Murphy, 19.

CATHERINE MURPHY

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Murphy Jr. have retained a longtime friend of the family, Odessa Attorney Will Hadden, to act as their adviser-spokesman in the search. They have authorized Hadden to offer a $5,000 reward to be paid to the person or persons who first give to him information which is the moving cause, or effective means, of finding their missing daughter.

They have not given up hope of finding Catherine alive. However, because of her failure to contact them or anyone else since her disappearance, they fear she is dead as a result of foul play by an unknown assailant.

Her car, a 1975 2-door Oldsmobile Cutlass Supreme, white with dark blue on back top was found on the parking lot north of Permian Bank and Trust and west of the Safeway Store in the 2700 block of North Grandview in Odessa on the afternoon of Friday, July 21.

The family had the car parked on that parking lot again last week, hoping to refresh somebody's memory as to someone they might have seen parking it there.

When the girl disappeared she was probably wearing a black, spaghetti strap, halter-type dress, probably cotton, black platform heel sandals, carried a brown leather purse, wore a ladies gold watch with gold band, gold ring with small center diamond with small rubies around it; white gold ring with ten single cut diamonds and three full cut diamonds; a gold band with three small

Speaking to reporters at International Harvester's office here today, Crawford again insisted he is completely innocent of the allegations that he engaged in illegal currency speculation.

"The charges against me are false," he said. "I have broken no law in the Soviet Union."

Many Westerners here view Crawford's arrest as Kremlin retaliation for the arrest of two alleged Soviet spies in the United States.

The two, Valdik Enger, 39, and Rudolf Chernyayev, 43, both employees of the Soviet U.N. mission in New York, are to go on trial Sept. 12 in Newark, N.J., on charges of attempting to buy U.S. anti-submarine warfare secrets.

If convicted on the charge of currency manipulation, Crawford, a native of Mobile, Ala., could be sentenced to a maximum of eight years in prison, plus five years of exile within the Soviet Union.

Police discover body of man

BRYAN, Texas (AP) — Authorities who discovered the partially decomposed body of a man on a southeast Texas riverbank are investigating the possibility that the death is linked to the slayings of two motorcycle gang members in different parts of the state Sunday.

The latest body was found Thursday along the Navasota River about 15 miles southeast of Bryan. The victim's hands were tied behind his back.

Brazos County officials identified the body early today as that of Douglas Allen Jones, 22, of Houston. The remains were sent to Dallas for an autopsy.

A tipster who led police to the body said he witnessed the death, and claimed it was connected to the shooting deaths in Fort Worth and Madisonville of members of opposing motorcycle clubs.

But Sheriff Bobby Yeager, who questioned the informant several hours after the body was recovered, declined to discuss the man's statement.

"We want to do some more checking on his story and his background," said Yeager.

"We're pretty sure Jones was not an active member of a motorcycle gang, but we think he was associating with the members. He just hadn't got his colors — he wasn't a true blue 100 percent member," the sheriff said. "We don't know at this point whether he was trying to become a member or was a former member or what." Yeager said three police officers from Houston were in Bryan to assist in the investigation.

Earlier in the day the man telephoned Houston television station KTRK-TV and told news producer John Montgomery he witnessed a murder Sunday. He said the man killed was a member of motorcycle club who had been telling Houston police there would be a gang war between two bike clubs, the "Bandidos," and the "Banshees."

The president of the Fort Worth chapter of the "Bandidos" motorcycle club was shot six times and killed Sunday in Fort Worth as he sat on his bike at a traffic light. Eight hours later two members of the "Banshees" club were shot on Interstate 45 near Madisonville. One was killed and the other critically wounded. The tipster also talked to KPRK newsman Wes Sims.

"He said he was a member of an out-of-state motorcycle club," Sims said. "He said the guy killed had been feeding information about an impending gang war between the Bandidos and the Banshees to the organized crime section of the Houston Police Department. "The Bandidos found out about it and suggested three men go give him a scare," Sims said the man told him.

Sims said according to the informant, the victim was abducted in his apartment in Bryan, tied with ropes, taken to a bluff overlooking the Navasota River about 15 miles southeast of town, stabbed repeatedly by one of the three men and shoved off the cliff.

BODY FOUND — Brazos Co. officials retrieve the body of a man identified as Douglas Allen Jones, 22, of College Station, Texas, near the Navasota River three miles north of Navasota, Tex., Thursday afternoon. Navasota Police chief Billy Campbell received a tip from a Houston television station that the man was murdered Sunday.

Caverns start new schedule

Visitor hours at Carlsbad Caverns National Park will change Sept. 5 as the park moves from its summer schedule to a new Fall and Winter schedule following the Labor Day holiday.

Starting Sept. 5 complete cavern tours will be offered daily from 8:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m., with Big Room trips available from 8 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. The park visitor center will open at 7:30 a.m. and remain open until after the evening bat flight programs which are presently scheduled at 7 p.m. The bat flight programs will be continued through September and possibly into October. Following migration of the bat colony to Mexico, which usually occurs in late October or early November, the visitor center will close at 5 p.m.

Also under the new schedule, lantern tours of New Cave will be offered on weekends only, with two hours available each Saturday and Sunday at 10:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. The New Cave lantern tours are limited to 25 persons each and require reservations. Park concession facilities operated by the Cavern Supply Company will open at 8 a.m., with food service available to 4 p.m. daily and the gift shop, nursery and kennel closing at 4:30 p.m.

Preparations are also being made to resume operation of the cavern's electronic interpretive system, which is operated by a contracting firm, beginning Sept. 5.

The park's entrance fee, which includes use of the electronic interpretive system, is $3 per carload daily, or a $10 annual Golden Eagle Passport, or a Golden Age passport.

Paul Said

10 Finally, be strong in the Lord, and in the strength of His might.

11. Put on the full armor of God, that you may be able to stand firm against the schemes of the devil.

12 For our struggle is not against flesh and blood, but against the rulers, against the powers, against the world forces of this darkness, against the spiritual forces of wickedness in the heavenly places.

13 Therefore, take up the full armor of God, that you may be able to resist in the evil day, and having done everything, to stand firm.

14. Stand firm therefore, HAVING GIRDED YOUR LOINS WITH TRUTH, AND HAVING PUT ON THE BREAST-PLATE OF RIGHTEOUSNESS,

15 and having shod YOUR FEET WITH THE PREPARATION OF THE GOSPEL OF PEACE;

16 in addition to all, taking up the shield of faith with which you will be able to extinguish all the flaming missiles of the evil one.

17 And take the HELMET OF SALVATION, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God.

18 With all prayer and petition pray at all times in the Spirit, and with this in view, be on the alert with all perseverance and petition for all the saints...

Scant hope to slow inflation spiral

The end is nowhere in sight for the inflation spiral. For that reason, Americans might as well get ready for an era of constant rising prices and the battle of the household budget.

It's obvious they're not ready to come out of their cars or do without some of the luxuries they've come to regard as necessities.

Pete Hamill, a news syndicate writer, took a look at the future of the American dollar the other day and wasn't cheered about anything he saw.

HAMILL SAYS he spent a small fortune having his house insulated, as recommended by the utility firms. It's summer but his first gas bill after his home had been sealed came to almost $300.

Hamill remarked he is working 60 hours a week just to stay even. He owns one suit. The feds move in on his pay check and take what they want, after which the state and the city starts to carve him up with their variety of taxes.

The writer says he hasn't had a drink in six years. He doesn't smoke or stuff cocaine up his nose. His vices, in short, don't cost him much money. Still, he says, America is killing him, a dollar at a time.

He drives to the corner gas station and it costs him $11.60 to fill his tank. He found a 1941 grocery bill where the prices seemed something out of fiction: 5 pounds of potatoes for 15 cents, 5 pounds of sugar for 27 cents, 1/2 pound of bacon for 18 cents, 3 packages of Jello for 15 cents.

What has happened to us, Hamill asks, then explains:

"Three wars happened. The military-industrial complex, as President Eisenhower called it, grabbed off a major chunk of life. Jimmy Carter doesn't have to look very far to discover the causes of inflation; all he has to do is look across town at the Pentagon. These people are eating $130 billion a year out of the American economy. They build three nuclear bombs a day to add to our stockpile of 30,000 such bombs (enough to destroy every Soviet city 30 times). In the city of Washington they spend $1.24 million on mansions for generals and admirals. They spend $46.3 million a year for our military bands around the world. And these are just small items.

"NOT A single military dollar produces goods that can be bought by the ordinary citizen. Build a bomb, and you can do two things with it: Store it, or explode it. But the people in the military industries get paid. They add enormously to the problem of too much available money for too few goods. The result is inflation. Compound this with a collapsing dollar, the flood of foreign goods, 11 million people on welfare, millions more on unemployment and you have an economic disaster on your hands. What is Carter's solution? Revive the Cold War. We need another Cold War like we need another plague, but that is what Carter is doing.

"Nobody could be happier about Carter's resort to Cold War rhetoric than the generals. But every citizen should remember that one M-60 tank costs $630,000 which...could build 14 single-family homes at $45,000 each. The prototype of the B-1 bomber will cost $500 million, or the cost of another Co-Op City, which houses 50,000 human beings. One Trident submarine, with nuclear missiles, costs $1.1 billion, the cost of all health services in New York for one year."

Hamill says they're going to try to pin the rap for inflation on working people. They will, he adds, blame the increased costs of Medicaid and welfare and food stamps. But, says Hamill, the single most important factor in the current inflationary ruttiness is a peace-time military machine that is eating at the economic heart of America.

Inflation is inevitable, he says, until the generals and their corporate allies are brought under control, and all that money is used for goods-producing jobs.

The era of the $1 ice cream cone is right ahead, cautions Hamill, getting down to the basics.

Try this little quiz.

You can tell when autumn has really arrived in Big Spring because:

- a) It's still 100 degrees outside.
- b) The leaves on the trees have turned brown.
- c) Dove season begins.
- d) All of the above.

The answer, of course, is: e) None of the above. It's a trick question. Big Spring has no autumn. It goes straight into the windy-dusty season, then a few weeks in the cold-horrible season, and then back to the inhumanly-hot season.

BUT IT was a tricky way to announce that today is the OPENING DAY of dove season! And, as Custer said just before arriving at Little Big Horn, "Boy, I'm psyched. I think we're going to see some feathers fly this time!"

This year, however, I have been developing some methods to make the season a little more challenging and to give the dove a fighting chance.

The first method is known as Cuatemalan Dove Fishing. First you stand in the corner of a deserted field throwing ears of corn into the air.

When you see a group of four or five hungry doves approaching, quickly throw a weighted net in front of them. If you're lucky, you'll have your limit in two throws.

For a variation, try spearfishing for dove, or setting out a trot line baited with rolled oats.

Another method that shows promise is Viennese Dove Hypnotism. All you need is a shiny object and a voice that puts people into a catatonic state.

GO BACK to the deserted field and dangle the shiny object in front of a herd of incoming doves. Then recite, "Your little bird eyes are growing heavy. You have eaten too much grain and all you want to do is lie down in a deserted field and go to sleep."

Once the doves have dozed off, tiptoe around the field and collect them in a large burlap bag.

Hypnotism is also helpful later on when you get hungry. Get your shiny object and plant the suggestion in the birds' brains that it is so hot that they should pull off all their feathers and go swimming.

Have a pot of boiling water standing by.

This is known in some circles as Kamikaze Dove Soup.

There is one method that a friend tried that is not recommended. Don't dress up like a dove!

When my friend tried it, four hunters pumped him full of number eight shot and pulled off his head before he had a chance to cry out. His remains were found inside a Brown 'n' Serve bag with traces of carrot and potato slices.

It was horrible! The least they could have done is wrapped him with bacon!

Kemp phenomenon

Evans, Novak

COLUMBIA, S.C. — A new escalation for Rep. Jack Kemp was reached here Aug. 24 just before the Buffalo, N.Y., congressman's speech to a fund-raising dinner when he talked to fabulously rich South Carolina textile magnate Roger Milliken.

Kemp and Milliken conferred in whispered tones at a cocktail party for big contributors before the dinner. Kemp revealed to Milliken what he had not made public: he is about to create a PAC (political action committee) authorized under law to collect contributions. Milliken quickly volunteered that he wanted to be among the first to contribute.

No bridges were burned on either side. By setting up a PAC, Kemp does not commit himself to running for president or any other office. By contributing to Kemp's PAC, Milliken does not commit himself to a Kemp presidential campaign. Nevertheless, there are the seeds of commitment from each of them.

Kemp's PAC (to be run by broadcasting executive Frank Shakespeare) presumably will bring order to the congressman's coast-to-coast meanderings — without speechwriter, advance man, research aide or even coholder. Although the PAC's ostensible purpose is to boost Kemp's tax reduction crusade, it is the essential first step toward seeking the Republican presidential nomination in 1980.

MILLIKEN, LONG a quiet but bountiful contributor to conservative campaigns, was a major giver to Ronald Reagan in 1976. But he privately questions whether Reagan ought to run in 1980 at age 69. So Milliken is looking closely at Kemp, some 25 years Reagan's junior, as the alternative.

This was the pattern of two hectic days' campaigning by Kemp Aug. 24 and 25, while Reagan and Rep. Phillip Crane (the first announced presidential hopeful) were vacationing. Despite Kemp's shortcomings in both technique and substance, there were twin surprises of volunteered presidential support for Kemp and lack of enthusiasm for Reagan. It is significant because Kemp, after starting the swing in Cincinnati, moved into Reagan country: South Carolina and Mississippi.

This is the Kemp phenomenon. While senior Republican colleagues in the House consider the former football quarterback as much too pushy, Kemp is the instant hero on the Republican banquet circuit by virtue of his tax cut gospel. He need not, as Jimmy Carter was still doing in 1975, explain who he is; no stop was free from spontaneous urgings for a Kemp presidential campaign.

Kemp's charisma coexists with confusion. Without an aide to push him along, Kemp missed commercial flight connections from South Carolina to Mississippi. He flew into each stop oblivious of local situations and many local leaders.

A potentially more serious problem is obsessive stress on tax reduction as the philosopher's stone to save Western civilization. During two days, Kemp carried on a non-stop economic seminar on a tax reduction — in speeches, press conferences, meetings with politicians, and in just plain bull sessions. Sooner or later, he must broaden his message.

"First, the good news! We're finally holding prices down!!!"

...Then there's the (choke!) other news...

Body rebels against disease

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told I have Sjogren's syndrome. Could you enlighten me about this? My eyes are very dry and I must use artificial tears often. I also have a very dry mouth — especially at night. I experience "low" periods and feel weak, listless, and have aching joints. Does this syndrome affect other parts of the body? What are the symptoms? I am 52, a female. Are there tests for this? — V.P.

Sjogren's syndrome is named for the Swedish eye doctor (Henrik Sjogren), who described the symptoms in 1933. The chief ones are dry eyes, dry mouth, and arthritis. Not all patients have the arthritis. Apparently from your letter you do. Although not much is known about Sjogren's, it is classed as an "auto-immune" disease — that is, one where the body rebels against itself. Other tissues besides those of the eyes and mouth have been shown to be affected, particularly the so-called collagen tissue, which accounts for the arthritis symptoms. The thyroid, pancreas and liver have also been involved, and in some instances even the nervous system. The disease usually affects women after age 50. Why this is so is not known, but hormone deficiency, has been suggested.

A weak solution of the methylcellulose used for your dry eyes can also be used as a mouthwash to relieve the mouth dryness. Talk to your doctor about this. You might also discuss other possible avenues in treatment of other complications, which you may have. Female hormones can be tried, since this does affect women after menopause. If thyroid tissue is affected, consideration might be given to supplemental thyroid hormones. The thyroid involvement might account for your listlessness.

There are sophisticated blood tests, which along with tissue analysis can verify Sjogren's syndrome, but the usual symptoms of dry eyes, dry mouth and mild rheumatism are enough to make a diagnosis.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you become addicted to nose spray? I seem to use it all the time, and some days I need more than other days. If I don't use it when my nose gets stopped up, I can't breathe through my nose. Could this be sinus, an allergy, or have I just become hooked to the spray? — O.P.

Addiction is not the word. Rather, it is a matter of the mucous membrane of the nose becoming less reactive to the spray. In fact, in some cases there may be the well-known rebound effect. That is, the membrane may shrink upon use of the spray, then rebound to a greatly swollen state.

An examination of the nose will reveal any abnormalities such as a crooked septum (the partition between nostrils), a swollen membrane from allergy or a discharge related to sinus disease. I rather suspect an allergic situation in your case. So rather than dabbling with nasal sprays for your congestion I suggest you be examined to find out why you are congested. Sprays have their place for relieving a temporarily congested nose, but repeated use over weeks and months is to be avoided, and for the reasons mentioned above.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a lump about the size of a dime on my left wrist, below the thumb. It does not hurt. A nurse told me it was ganglion. Is this dangerous? — C.B.

A ganglion is a painless swelling in a tendon fiber. The wrist is a favorite spot for one. It is not serious. They tend to grow very slowly. It may eventually become a nuisance because of its size. If so it can be removed surgically. Unless the excision is complete they tend to recur.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor:

In last Tuesday's Herald, an article was run that told of David Lee Mesker's plea of guilt, in the midst of jury selection, to a 1976 burglary of Dibrell's Sporting Good Store. Therefore, I wonder if you'd also let the public know why, after 2 1/2 years, a 28-year-old man would plead guilty to something that happened while he was not in full command of his faculties. Later, he helped Mr. Dibrell locate all the things that were taken, apologized to him personally, and paid for the damage to his store. All of this he did even though he wasn't the only boy involved. Mr. Dibrell has expressed his desire to release David from any further obligations to him, and has offered to testify on David's behalf.

David has no prior criminal record. In fact, he isn't a thief and never has been. The only thing he was ever guilty of is perhaps drinking too much at parties, which I'm sure plenty of us have found ourselves guilty of at one time or another. Since the time of that burglary David has learned better.

David had a competent attorney hired for the first year or two, but because he was hospitalized several times, in futile attempts to restore an arm injured while he was serving his country in the Vietnam war he has been unable to afford the cost of a lawyer.

Therefore, David asked the court that it appoint an attorney for him. The man assigned him promptly told David he didn't know how to defend him.

David was advised by several attorneys what should be done, but since he didn't have any money they told him they couldn't do it for him. They also advised him to ask for a different lawyer. He was subsequently denied that right.

After being badgered by the state's attorney, David seemed to lose heart in his long struggle. He pled guilty to an offense that netted him three years in prison. What sort of justice is that, coming from a court that permits individuals accused of far more serious crimes to go free or escape with probated sentences just because they can afford good attorneys.

My question is this: Have we turned our heads so long that the judicial system has become such that a man is no longer innocent until proven guilty and that freedom goes only to those who can afford it? If all of this is true, then what else could David have done but to plead guilty and take three years of confinement?

David is the fourth victim in a family of five who have found themselves in this same situation. Two spent three years in prison and one was forced to leave town only to make infrequent visits here to his mother, thereby avoiding any further involvement with the law here. Now, a mother must watch as our judicial system snatches her last son from the town where she was born and raised and her parents and grandparents before her since this town began, for an offense that has no victim, which he paid for dearly, in the past 2 1/2 years. While the real criminals still run our streets, burglarizing our homes, destroying our property and terrorizing our children. If this is an example of Big Spring justice, then this town will never grow, and I pray, "God save my children from this town."

Norma J. Clark (wife of Billy D. Clark, ex-convict holding a Governor's pardon; sister of Billy Mesker, ex-convict on parole; sister of Robert Mesker of Houston, Tex.; sister of David Lee Mesker, present victim).

Indians ambushed

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — An unlikely Indian fighter has been rallying the bay-window brigade on Capitol Hill to defend the inalienable right of white exploiters to swindle the Indians with impunity.

Like the ghost of Gen. George Armstrong Custer, Rep. Jack Cunningham, R-Wash., has been blasting away at the Indians with his legislative six-guns. Through all the gunsmoke, however, he has neglected to mention that he's defending his own spread in Arizona.

CUNNINGHAM arrived on Capitol Hill 15 months ago after spending over $400,000 to win the House seat that Transportation Secretary Brock Adams gave up. The newcomer is a stolid, if crusty, conservative who looks like the successful businessman he was and the father of nine children he is.

Yet he immediately opened fire, Wild-West style, on bills that would redress some of the ancient treaty wrongs committed by the U.S. government against Indians. His obsession with Indian affairs puzzles many of his colleagues, since he represents a suburban Seattle constituency where tom-toms are never heard.

The land records in Arizona, however, may explain why he's still out there winning the West. It turns out that his family owns more than 1,000 acres in Yuma County, Ariz., where the Indians are seeking a share of water now irrigating Cunningham's farm parcels.

The Cunningham crop land, leased out to farming companies, would be nearly worthless if bereft of water. The records in the county assessor's office show that, as of last January, the Cunninghams owned 994.5 acres valued at $215,138, plus half of an 80-acre farm worth $27,689.

The land is listed mainly in the names of his wife, Margaret, and their children. But the congressman has a stake in the property under three different entries: J. E. Cunningham, John E. Cunningham III and John Cunningham III.

AT IMMEDIATE issue is a claim by the Ak-Chin Indian tribe to water rights, probably to be drawn from the Colorado River, which supplies Cunningham's land.

Legislation was sponsored in Congress to settle the Ak-Chin water fight. The settlement also would have opened the way to ending disputes with five other tribes in Arizona. But Cunningham did his best to tomahawk the measure on the House floor.

William Strickland, attorney for the Ak-Chin band, told us Cunningham had devised a series of bizarre amendments to kill the bill. He told us he met with the congressman in an effort to convince him that his amendments "were not even logical."

Nonetheless, the absentee landlord persisted in pressing for two of his amendments. One of minor import was adopted but another was rejected by voice vote. This would have completely revised the intent of the bill.

His killer amendment would have lent government money to compel the Indians to dig wells for their water in lieu of drawing it from the irrigation project that waters Cunningham's acreage. Significantly, the project manager, Bob Smith, explained to our reporter Vicki Warren that the congressman's land was watered by wells before Cunningham tapped the government's irrigation ditches.

Thus it would be more convenient for him than for the Indians to rely on wells for irrigation, except that "the quality of well water is not as good."

Meanwhile, Cunningham has come out against just about every piece of legislation with the word Indian in it. "He has voted 100 per cent against every Indian bill," said Frank Ducheneau of the House Interior committee.

The maverick from Seattle has gone to the extreme of introducing a bill that would direct the president to abrogate every treaty the United States has ever entered into with Indian tribes.

Katherine Tijerina of the Senate Select Committee on Indian Affairs blamed opposition by non-Indian property owners in Cunningham's Arizona neighborhood for having spiked a proposal by Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., that would have allowed a blanket settlement of the Indian's Arizona water claims.

There is honest dispute among water experts as to the extent that the settlement bill would affect Cunningham's land. A spokesman for the congressman said his land would not be involved in the abrogation legislation but acknowledged that his interest would be affected by the Kennedy version.

But for the benefit of his colleagues who have wondered over Cunningham's Indian-fighter crusade, Gerald Wilkinson of the National Indian Youth Council summarizes: "One thing is clear. He owns vast amounts of land that won't be worth a thing if the Indians assert their water rights."

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am taking a night course in psychology at our local community college. I really would like to witness to our instructor, because he does not seem like a very happy person. How can I do this? — Mrs. J.B.

DEAR MRS. J.B.: Your instructor sounds like he possibly has studied his subject hoping to find some answers to his personal needs, and yet has not found anything lasting which can satisfy him. For the reason, he may be very open to the Gospel, because he knows (if he has faced the truth) that the real answers to life are not to be found within man. Only God, who created us, can remake us into the people He intended us to be.

Much will depend on the personality of your instructor and the class situation. You will want to pray not only for your instructor, but for personal wisdom as you seek to witness for Christ. For example, your instructor may be open to a dinner invitation with your family, during which you could express your personal faith in Christ. There may be points in classroom discussion, or in discussion after class, during which quiet testimony could be expressed. There may well be points at which you disagree with him because he is not a Christian. For example, persons in his situation may disagree with his Christian analysis of mankind's sin and need of redemption. While a classroom is not the place to start an argument, you may find it helpful to indicate your disagreement, either in person or in papers he may assign you to write. You must be careful, however, not to be argumentative or judgmental, but to be loving.

Rating of public schools drops

WASHINGTON (AP) — The public's rating of American public schools dropped again this year, but most parents whose children actually attend these schools give them good grades, a new education survey discloses.

The annual Gallup Poll on education found that 36 percent of those surveyed gave public schools an A or B rating, while 19 percent gave D or F (for failing) grades.

In last year's poll, 37 percent gave the schools top marks and 16 percent awarded the lowest rating. In 1974, 48 percent gave A or B grades and only 11 percent rated them D or F.

The poll, financed by the Charles F. Kettering Foundation and published in Phi Delta Kappa magazine as the school year opened, followed a government forecast that America's colleges and public schools will cost an additional $11 billion to operate this year, despite a 1 percent drop in enrollment.

The National Center for Education Statistics said on Thursday that 59.8 million students, down from 60.2 million, will attend classes from kindergarten to graduate school at a cost of $155 billion, up 7.6 percent over last year.

Counting 3.3 million teachers and 300,000 administrators and staff, the center said 63.4 million Americans will be involved directly in education this fall, or three out of every ten.

In the Gallup survey, 51 percent of public school parents gave A or B ratings and only 15 percent gave D's or F's.

The parents of children in parochial and private schools took a more critical view of public schools. Only 23 percent gave them A's or B's and 32 percent gave D's or F's.

The harshest critics of public schools were blacks living in the North. Of these, 43 percent rated the schools D or F and only 27 percent gave an A or B. By contrast, 35 percent of Southern blacks gave top ratings and only 14 percent gave the worst.

People in the West were least satisfied with public schools, as 22 percent gave A's and B's and 27 percent

D's or F's. Elsewhere, 40 percent gave top grades while 16 percent in the Middle West and South and 21 percent in the East gave D or F.

Lack of discipline continued to top the public's list of concerns about public schools in the 10-year-old Gallup survey.

Discipline was cited by one in every four of the more than 1,500 adults polled in late April. Next on the problem list were use of

Grocery prices down

August brought a little bit of relief to consumers struggling to make both ends meet at the grocery store, an Associated Press market-basket survey shows. The cost of a selected list of products dropped by an average of more than 1 percent at the stores surveyed.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973 and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. One item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped from the list at the end of November 1977 because the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

The latest survey showed general declines in regular prices last month as well as a number of special sales. In Providence, R.I., for example, the regular price of coffee at the checklist store declined from $3.05 a pound at the start of August to $2.95 a pound today. Shoppers taking advantage of a pre-Labor Day sale at the store could buy coffee for $2.19 a pound.

The AP found that the marketbasket total increased at the checklist store in five cities during August, up an average of 1.9 percent.

Indian guide meeting set

The Big Spring YMCA will hold an organizational meeting for those interested in either the Y-Indian Guides and Indian Princesses, 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Y.

The Y-Indian Guides is a father-son program for boys in the first through third grades. Camping, trips and swimming are just a few of the activities.

The Y-Indian Princess is a father and daughter program for girls in the first through fourth grades. They will also be participating in swimming, camping and many other events.

For those interested in attending the meeting please bring your swimsuits and towels. For more information call the YMCA at 267-8234.

Midland grows at healthy rate

MIDLAND — The Midland Chamber of Commerce says Midland's population has increased by 15,205 since 1970.

Population of the city in 1970 was 59,689. The present head count is estimated at 74,894.

The city is growing at the average rate of about four per cent a year. At that rate, the population would pass the 100,000 mark within the next decade.

Kiwanians tour HC coliseum

The Big Spring Kiwanis Club got the first tour of the new coliseum Thursday when members took a sneak preview look at the facility.

Dr. Charles Hays, college president, conducted the club on a tour of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum which is to have an open house for the public Sept. 10.

Harold Canning was program chairman for the day and introduced Dr. Hays to the club, which meets at the college.

Don Yates of Area I Realtors, was welcomed as a new member of the organization, which is making plans for its Golden Anniversary in the year coming up.

The bill decreased in eight cities — including Providence — down an average of 3.1 percent.

On an overall basis, the marketbasket bill at the 13 checklist stores was 1.2 percent lower at the start of September than it was a month earlier. During July, in contrast, the marketbasket bill rose an average of half a percent.

The August decrease was not enough to offset earlier rises in food costs. Comparing today's prices to those at the start of 1978, the AP found the marketbasket bill at the checklist stores had increased an average of 5.1 percent.

The ups and downs of retail grocery prices this year generally can be traced to ups and downs in supplies. Beef prices, for example, rose sharply because there were fewer cattle on market. Coffee prices dropped because of an abundant supply of green beans.

weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk, frankfurters and granulated sugar. The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Ga., Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Sarah Weddington to represent women as Carter's assistant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sarah Weddington, a Texas attorney and advocate of abortion rights, was appointed Thursday to a $51,000-a-year job handling women's issues at the White House.

Press secretary Jody Powell specified that her job will differ from the one held until recently by Margaret "Midge" Costanza, the feisty, outspoken aide who resigned July 31 after her $56,000 position was downgraded in duties but not in salary.

Ms. Weddington's new title will be assistant to the president, while Ms. Costanza's title was special assistant to the president. Ms. Costanza's duties initially included responsibility for minorities as well as women.

Powell said Ms. Weddington will meet with White House aides beginning next week, but that she will retain her present title as general counsel for the Agriculture Department while winding up her responsibilities there during the next month.

Powell said Ms. Weddington will have an office within the White House, but said he did not know if it would be the same basement cubicle relegated to Ms. Costanza shortly before she resigned.

In an interview earlier Thursday, Ms. Weddington said President Carter asked her to draw up a definite strategy for the administration to win points with women.

"He wants to think in strategy terms," she said.

Ms. Weddington, 33, a native of Abilene, Texas, has been general counsel at the Agriculture Department for the last year. In her new job, Ms. Weddington said she plans to:

—Head the newly organized Interagency Task Force on Women.

—Work closely with first lady Rosalynn Carter, who first offered her the job, as well as coordinate plans with top White House aides, Tim Kraft, Anne Wexler and Stuart Eizenstat.

—Represent the administration at various meetings around the country.

—Keep a list of women's names who are qualified for administration appointments.

Ms. Weddington differs strongly with Carter on the abortion issue. She said she discussed these differences with the president during a half-hour meeting just before he left for his western vacation.

"I raised it because I felt it was important for him to know how I felt," she said. "He said I would be free to present my views to the administration, but that once a decision had been made he expected I would abide by it."

Carter has said he opposes abortion for religious reasons and he opposes using federal funds to pay for abortion. As a private attorney, Ms. Weddington represented "Jane Roe," the pregnant Texas woman whose lawsuit led the Supreme Court to strike down state antiabortion laws.

Ms. Weddington was later named president of the National Abortion Rights Action League.

Asked if she expects to change the president's position, Ms. Weddington, smiling broadly, said, "I didn't think it an appropriate time to ask, but I do think it's important for me to present my views. ... My way of dealing with those I work with is to be very up front about everything."

Ms. Weddington said she plans to meet with Carter on the abortion issue.

Ms. Weddington enjoys deer hunting and horseback riding and is an avid country and western music fan.

Summer Senior Seminars Senior citizens sample college life

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Eighty-seven-year-old Anna Brand got up at 8 o'clock every morning to learn the "Jersey hustle" in her exercise class.

The former New York City kindergarten teacher was one of about 500 elderly persons attending summer school at 15 colleges and universities around New York state this year.

The students, who must be at least 60 years old, are part of Senior Seminars, a program that begins in May and runs until September. Skidmore College offered five non credit, week-long seminars attended by 255 students. As in all participating schools, students paid $110 a week plus a $10 registration fee for room and board and three classes a day for five days. No outside reading or homework was required.

Besides being a fun vacation for seniors, the program allows the schools to receive money for previously idle facilities and brings them a whole new group of alumni.

"It's like being marriage brokers for happy clients," said Skidmore President Joseph Palamoutian.

Program coordinator Sharon Arpey said the courses were no different from those offered to 18 to 22 year olds.

"We don't want to teach old people to be old," she said. "The idea of the program is to give senior citizens a taste of college life. They sleep in the dorms; and they eat in the dining halls."

Mrs. Brand says she enrolled because she heard the program attracted a "good group." This was her first summer, and she says she knows "it won't be the last."

Augusta and Thomas Mann of New York City signed up for a second year of three weeks at three separate universities.

The 70-year-old former city school system administrative assistant said she and her husband "joined to get the experience of living on a college campus. We've had no formal education, and we wanted the experience of being with younger people."

Mann, a former accountant, says he doesn't necessarily read more material at college, but "when I go home, I'll go look in the library. I feel reactivated."

The 74-year-old enrolled in a mythology course. "I once took a trip to Greece and saw all the ruins. Now I know what I was looking at," he said.

Mark Gelber, dean of special programs, says the students as a rule are "healthy for their age group; they're risk takers, they're interested in learning, and they tend to be articulate. We have more women, possibly because they tend to live longer."

Gelber says the school doesn't actually make money, but "it prevents us from laying off staff during the summer, and it helps keep tuition costs down."

Another side benefit, he says, is that teachers "seem to be invigorated" by teaching people who have seen history. It was a first for one professor who "didn't have to mention that it wasn't Eugene McCarthy he was talking about."

Lynne Gelberg, who teaches a course on mythology, says old people are not blasé. "They're very happy to be learning. So

Jealousy, Curber Is Hard To Find

DEAR ABBY: I'm 28 and my husband is 33. We've been married for six years, and our life would be beautiful if it weren't for his jealousy, which is so intense it borders on insanity!

He has tried everything from psychiatry to prayer meetings, but nothing has helped. I have never given him any cause to doubt me, but for some reason he doesn't trust me out of his sight. The only thing I can think of that would give him complete peace of mind is a chastity belt!

Will you please tell me where I can get one? I know they haven't been used since the Middle Ages, but there must be one around somewhere. Or perhaps someone who works in metals could make one for me. Whatever the price, it will be worth it.

Please rush your answer to me. This is no joke.

SYLVIA IN GREENWICH

DEAR SYLVIA: The only chastity belts I have ever seen are in museums. But if there are any around for sale, or if I hear of a metalsmith who is willing to fashion one for you, I'll let you know.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and overweight, but everyone tells me I have a pretty face. I've had only two dates in my life, and you just can't imagine how much I'd like to have a boyfriend.

One night at a school hop one of the most popular boys in school took an interest in me. I was in heaven. He offered to take me home and we parked on the way and he kissed me. It was wonderful. We kissed a lot, and finally I got scared and made him stop.

He said he wanted to see me again, but next time he didn't intend to stop at a kiss. He told me to get wise, that any fat girl can be popular if she will go all the way. I was shocked and asked him to take me right home.

He told me to think it over and call him when I changed my mind. That was two months ago, and I have been thinking it over. I don't want to be a bad girl, but I want a boyfriend. Should I pay the price?

FAT AND LONELY

DEAR FAT: The price might be more than you're prepared to pay. That boy wants to use you. "Fat girls can be popular," he says, "if they will go all the way."

Brilliant! So can THIN girls, with the kind of boys who use girls, and then go on to fresher game.

He is not for you. And neither is any boy who feeds you that kind of line.

(P.S. Please look into Overeaters Anonymous. They're terrific for girls with your problem.)

DEAR ABBY: My girlfriend went to a bridal shower that was held in the home of another girl she barely knew.

While she was there, someone stole $50 from her coat pocket. That was all the money she had. (I've lent her some money so she can buy groceries this week.)

When my friend told her hostess that she had been ripped off, all the hostess did was say she was very sorry.

Don't you think the hostess should have offered to replace the money?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: The hostess, in giving a shower for a friend, may not have known all the girls her friend invited. Therefore, the hostess could hardly be held liable for the loss. The moral: Take no chances; always keep your cash with you.

ABWA kicks off fall enrollment

The Scenic Chapter of the American Business Women's Association will hold a fall kickoff at 7 p.m. Sept. 5 in the Reddy Room of the Texas Electric Service Company, according to Delores Le Vier, president.

The Kickoff theme will focus on meeting personal and professional goals through A.B.W.A. membership; the event promises to be a festive highlight of A.B.W.A.'s new member enrollments this fall.

A.B.W.A. Enrollment Events are held semi-annually to introduce A.B.W.A. and local chapter to business women in this area. Throughout this period similar events will take place across the country by more than 1,500 other A.B.W.A. chapters.

"The goal of A.B.W.A. is to help women in business advance through education, increased competence and upgrading of professional skills and business attitudes," said Mrs. Le Vier.

The association, founded in Kansas City, Mo., in 1949, now has more than 96,000 members. Last year, A.B.W.A. members throughout the United States

Cheerleaders have no cheer

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I am a cheerleader, and my problem concerns our cheerleading squad. We just don't get along too well. There are six of us and when we have disagreements, it's always three against three.

Our football season is coming soon and we have a really good squad. We must get along for the good of the team. We've tried talking it out but it just doesn't work. Any advice? — A.A., Springfield, Ohio

A.A.: In all my years of education (15), I have never seen a group of cheerleaders work in total harmony. It seems they resemble the New York Yankees... good, but always bickering. Elect a captain and whenever the vote is three to three, the captain's vote is law. It won't work, but I'd give it a try!

Dr. Wallace: I'm not writing about my problem but that of a friend. She is only 14 and I'm worried that she might be getting into a drug problem.

She has eight brothers and sisters, five of which are living at home. She claims her parents don't let her do a thing she wants, but she goes out about four nights a week.

I know she already drinks, and smokes cigarettes and marijuana, but I'm worried that she might get into something worse. Knowing some of the people she hangs around with, I wouldn't be surprised if she did get into trouble. She won't listen to what I have to say and her parents are not only ignorant of the problem but wouldn't believe it if they knew.

I know it's none of my business but she's the best friend I ever had and I don't want anything to happen to her.

How can I help her? — Claire, Seattle, Wash.

Claire: If your 14-year-old girlfriend drinks, smokes and is on marijuana, she's not going to get in trouble, she is already there.

Share what you know with your mother and ask her to contact your girlfriend's mother.

I know some will say that you are "finking" but in reality you are a true friend and are helping.

Dr. Wallace: I'll be traveling in Mexico soon and I know they have a "water problem." My girlfriend got sick just by brushing her teeth with Mexican water. Any tips on how to clear up this unsafe water? — Bruce, So. Lake Tahoe, Calif.

Bruce: To purify water — even for brushing teeth, add two drops of 6 percent liquid chlorine laundry bleach per quart of clear tap water and let it stand 15 minutes. It will keep Montezuma from having his revenge.

Womens lib creates dreams

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The feminist movement has promised to fulfill women's wildest dreams. And, according to recent research, it may be creating them as well, reports the September issue of Seventeen Magazine.

"Women's dreams used to reveal a great interest in marriage and motherhood," says Dr. Robert Van de Castle, director of the Sleep and Dream Laboratory at the University of Virginia, in Charlottesville.

"Today, women are more concerned with careers. Their dream characters are more likely to be identified by occupation. Women also seem to be more comfortable with aggression in their dreams and are more often the initiators than the victims of it."

Dr. Van de Castle's observations are the result of 30 years of dream study. During the late 1940s, females' dreams usually were found to take place indoors, in familiar settings with people known to them.

In studies conducted during the past decade, however, women's dreams have displayed more assertive themes, with the action taking place outside the home. Though all women have changed to a certain degree, these dream trends are particularly prominent among openly feminist, assertive women.

"Books and the media are increasingly presenting women in professions and in sports," Dr. Van de Castle explains. "And whatever takes up our waking attention also appears in our dreams. Though we're asleep, we're still involved."

According to his findings, as more women wake up to the fact of liberation, more of the old attitudes — and dreams — will be laid to rest.

One to kidnapping of Patty Hearst

Harris pleads guilty on four charges

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — William and Emily Harris pleaded guilty to kidnapping Patricia Hearst, then made it clear they did it to insure their release from prison by 1983 and a "return to the streets."

"Within four and a half years, Bill and I will be back on the streets," Mrs. Harris said in an emotional statement to the court and spectators Thursday. "We will return to the streets as people committed to change. They cannot destroy us."

Holding hands, the Harris entered surprise guilty pleas on four charges in return for dismissal on nine other counts.

If convicted by a jury, they faced the possibility of life in prison with no chance of parole. Harris said the aim of the prosecution had been "to bury us alive."

Mrs. Harris, 31, her face pale and puffy from three years behind bars, fought back tears as she spoke in the Alameda County Courthouse, not far from the federal correctional institution at Pleasanton where Miss Hearst is serving time for armed robbery.

Miss Hearst was unavailable for comment, but one of her attorneys, George Martinez, said she expressed "relief that the events finally have been resolved."

The Harris had kept secret the surprise they planned for Thursday's court hearing — their admission for the first time they were among the Symbionese Liberation Army "soldiers" who burst into Miss Hearst's Berkeley apartment Feb. 4, 1974, and dragged her screaming into the night.

"Today we take full responsibility for our participation in the first political kidnapping in this country — the kidnapping of Patricia Hearst," Harris said as he faced spectators in the hushed courtroom.

The slender, mustachioed Harris, 33, appeared to be fit. His voice was firm and controlled in contrast to his volatile courtroom outbursts earlier in the case.

He sat on the edge of a counsel table to face supporters whose applause exploded in the packed courtroom. Those who entered the courtroom were subjected to an intensive search.

"The plea does not mean we have feelings of remorse," Harris explained. "Instead, we feel pride in what these actions were able to accomplish."

He spoke just short of three years to the day that he and his wife were arrested jogging on a San Francisco street. Miss Hearst was captured the same day, Sept. 10, 1975.

At their plea hearing, the Harris stuck to their contention that Miss Hearst, now 24, willingly converted to the ranks of her terrorist captors as "Tania" the urban guerilla.

"Patricia Hearst was kidnapped," Harris said. "She was not brainwashed, beaten, tortured or raped. She was not locked alone in a closet for days and weeks on end. She was not coerced into rejecting her family and remaining with the people who made up the SLA."

Harris added, "One of the most serious mistakes of the SLA was to let Patricia Hearst stay with us as an armed combatant."

Outside court, Harris's attorney Leonard Weinglass revealed further details of Miss Hearst's activities, according to the Harris.

"Patricia Hearst was contained in a small area that functioned as a closet," the attorney said. "She ate with the group, she took a shower a couple of days a week. The door to the closet was kept open most of the time...She was not raped, she was not injured."

Weinglass stressed that the Harris do not contend it was pleasant to be kidnapped, but they feel the facts have been distorted by Miss Hearst.

Mrs. Harris's attorney, Susan Jordan, said the Harris' pleas would benefit Miss Hearst in her campaign to win early release from prison.

Armed youth halt Nicaraguan guard's attempt to gain control

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Youths armed with pistols and a few rifles and shotguns poured heavy fire from behind sandbag barricades and halted a national guard drive to regain control of Matagalpa, Nicaragua's third largest city.

Fighting or bombing also was reported in Esteli, Jinotepe, Diriamba and Leon as the new drive to bring down the 41-year-old Somoza dictatorship went into its 11th day today.

More businesses joined a growing strike in Managua and elsewhere aimed at forcing the resignation of President Anastasio Somoza, whose family has ruled Nicaragua since the U.S. Marines put his father in power in 1937.

The national guard, Somoza's 7,500-man army, began its drive into Matagalpa, 100 miles north of Managua, before noon Thursday, but by early evening had advanced only a few hundred yards into the city of 40,000 people, witnesses said.

They said an armored car in the street a few hundred yards from the Red Cross headquarters was firing a cannon at the rebels in an attempt to dislodge them from behind barricades. The youths appeared to be holding their positions, the sources said.

Two platoons of national guardsmen made the initial advance, flanking a front-end loader and a road grader a block apart.

"The guy on the road grader was shot in the shoulder. The guy on the loader took off running and I saw a bullet hole in his hat," said one witness.

Somoza sent 300 troops and eight armored cars to relieve the local garrison, which had been under siege since Saturday. Intense firing was reported most of the afternoon Thursday, and the Red Cross said 28 dead had been confirmed from Wednesday evening to Thursday evening. But it said there may have been many more.

A reporter who spent two hours with the rebels said most of them were teen-agers armed with a variety of pistols, some rifles and shotguns.

Work Force

You can make good money at things like riveting or welding, but it isn't always a fun job. There's a tension to it that takes its toll of nerves and muscles.

Lots of jobs aren't fun, aren't even fulfilling. They're just necessary, both for the doers and for the rest of us, who profit by their services.

So what comes after work? Staying home and watching TV, or perhaps a little bit of nothing. It shouldn't be that way; not all that way, certainly.

People do have three facets—mental, physical and spiritual. It's the spiritual part that is the most apt to get shortchanged today, more's the pity. Because that's where the miracles begin.

Start finding that out by going to the church of your choice.

Concert scheduled by St. Mary's Church honoring Harland Birdwell Sept. 10

The Rev. Harland (Steve) Birdwell, who has been rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church since Aug. 1, 1968 will be honored on his tenth anniversary with a special concert at the church at 4 p.m., Sunday, Sept. 10.

The concert will be open to the public and will include a combination of orchestral and choral works. Jack Funkhouser, Jacksonville, Fla., will conduct the performance.

One of the most significant works to be performed in the Brandenburg Concerto N. 4 in G. Major by Johann Sebastian Bach.

The concerto will feature David and Dell Graham as recorder soloists and Eugene Purdie as solo violinist.

Highlighting the anniversary concert will be the organ accompaniment by Miss Linda Lassiter of Midland. A graduate of the University of Florida, Miss Lassiter has been organist and choir director at St. Mary's since 1973.

Guest vocal soloists for the performance are to be Jane Huddleston and Billie Petersen of Midland; Sue Oldham, Houston; and Roy Lee Osborne, Big Spring.

The entire concert and reception which follows will honor the Rev. Birdwell.

While in Big Spring, the Rev. Birdwell has served as President of the Howard County Ministerial Fellowship, helped organize the Howard County Family Service Center and the Detoxification Center, worked with "Firehouse

Book review is success

The Women of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin (Episcopal) met at 3 p.m. Sunday in the parish house with Carol Hunter, president, in charge.

After the Rev. Harlan Birdwell gave the opening prayer, Riette Kionka presented a resume of the year's events and read the treasurer's report in the place of Jean Lancaster, who was absent.

Among business discussed at the meeting was the Anniversary Concert, which will take place at 4 p.m. Sept. 10 in the church, in honor of Fr. Birdwell's tenth anniversary at St. Mary's.

Lellah Adkins introduced Mrs. Herman Smith, an English teacher at Big Spring High School. Mrs. Smith presented a book review on "God is a Verb" by Marilee Zdenek, with action pictures by Marge Champion.

The title of the book comes from the literal translation of the Spanish gospel according to St. John: "In the beginning was the Verb, and the Verb was with God, and the Verb was God."

The book, dedicated "To you, Lord," is a collection of prayers in poetic form which Mrs. Smith read to the assembly.

Refreshments of cake, coffee and tea were served by the officers of the Women of the Church.

Webb Air Force Base Community Council, served as director of the Big Spring Halfway House.

Presently, the Rev. Birdwell serves his diocese as a Trustee of the Episcopal Seminary of the Southwest in Austin. In the community, he serves on the Patient Consent Committee at the State Hospital, the Salvation Army Board, the Board of the West Side Community Center, of which he is past-president, the Howard County Council on Aging, the Detoxification Board.

During his 10 years at St. Mary's, the Rev. Birdwell has also been Headmaster of the Day School, and conceived the idea and with others led the church in obtaining the HUD funding for and construction of Canterbury, a retirement apartment complex now being completed.

Church bookstores select awards

DENVER (AP) — In an unusual switch, religious bookstores themselves — 13 of them — served as judges along with book reviewers in picking winners of Gold Medallion Awards of the Evangelical Christian Publishers Association.

The awards, presented in five designated categories, went for inspiration to "Where is God When it Hurts?" by Philip Yancy (Zondervan); for biography to "A Severe Mercy" by Sheldon Vanauken (Harper and Row); for Bible study-theology to "Eerdman's Handbook to the History of Christianity" edited by Tim Dowley (Erdmans); for fiction to "I Came to Love You Late" by Joyce Landorf (Fleming H. Revell Co.), and for juveniles to "Jesus, Friend of Children" (David C. Cook Co.).

NEED $9,999 MORE — Vance McDonald is shown with the first dollar donation toward the Morning Star Baptist Church's building program. They have set Nov. 1 as a deadline to attempt to raise $10,000. Donations or checks may be sent to the church at 307 Trades Street, by calling McDonald at 267-1973 or placed in a fund to the Morning Star Baptist Church at First National Bank.

Staked meet set

Officials of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints invite the public to attend the Stake Conference to be held at the local church at 10 a.m. Sunday. Presiding over the conference will be Roland Hamblin of Odessa and his counselors, Jack Jordan, Odessa and Elton Wallace, Big Spring.

Courts rule media don't qualify as injured persons

Two different courts have told news reporters in Abilene and Beaumont they cannot sue city governments over private meetings because newspapers and television stations do not qualify as injured persons in such cases.

News media in both cities had tried to sue their local governments to force them to open private meetings which the press claimed should be public under the Texas Open Meetings Act.

But the 11th Civil Court of Appeals in Eastland, Texas, said Thursday the Abilene Reporter-News and KRBC-TV failed to show they had suffered a special or peculiar damage not shared by the general public.

The newspaper and television station sued when their reporters were barred from a meeting held by Abilene's Equal Employment Opportunity Board last November.

A District Court ruled in January that all meetings of the city council and any of its boards must be open to the public. But the appellate court overturned that ruling, saying the news media lacked "standing" to bring suit.

The plaintiffs argued the Texas Open Meetings Law allows "any interested person" to sue. However, the appeals court said the phrase "any interested person" in this case means a person who proves he has been injured other than as a member of the general public.

In the other case, the publisher of the Beaumont Journal and Enterprise sued when a reporter was told he could not sit in on contract negotiations between the city and the firefighters' union.

But District Judge Jack King ruled the publisher has "no particular interest" in the labor negotiations.

Reporter Jeff Clark, who was ousted from bargaining sessions Aug. 10, argued Texas law entitled him or any citizen to sit in on joint negotiations in which public dollars are at stake.

But the court agreed with City Attorney Ken Wall, who said the newspaper has no special right to observe the contract negotiations unless it can show it would suffer actual damages if it did not.

Association says of Tower

Fight not for constituents

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. John Tower's fight against a bill regulating electronic fund transfers served the American Bankers Association, not his constituents, the Texas Consumer Association says.

Jim Boyle, the association's executive director, held a news conference Thursday to denounce Tower for opposing the bill.

Tower said he voted in committee against sending it to the Senate floor because Congress doesn't know enough about EFT yet to regulate it properly.

He denied he was threatening a filibuster, but he has formally notified the Senate leadership of his opposition.

"My understanding is the leadership is not going to bring it up for debate," Tower said.

Boyle said Tower's "hold" was fatal because the Senate leadership is reluctant to bring up controversial legislation that would delay other bills as this session of Congress winds down.

Boyle said the EFT bill has a high priority with consumers.

"Consumer groups across the country are vitally concerned about this," he said.

EFT is used mainly for automatic bank deposits, such as Social Security and payroll checks. All it takes is a simple electronic signal from computer to computer, he said.

Protection is needed, he said, because of computer malfunctions and computer thefts.

"By killing this piece of legislation, Senator Tower is denying to consumers of this country the right to receive monthly bank statements of all deposits or withdrawals which have occurred by electronic means or with an electronic funds transfer stolen EFT card.

Other protections sought by consumer groups include limits on personal liability for withdrawals made with a

"It is time for Senator Tower to quit standing tall for the American Bankers Association in Washington, D.C., and start standing up for his constituents — Texas consumers," Boyle said. A constitutional amendment exempting EFT from the general prohibition against branch banking was defeated by the voters last year.

Nixon will make stop in Australia anyway

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard Nixon is making one thing perfectly clear to Australian officials: he's not going to let their rebuff of his request for an official visit stop him from going Down Under.

A Nixon spokesman said an Australian stop was planned on Nixon's forthcoming round-the-world trip because "scores of Australian citizens" have asked him to come.

Nixon's San Clemente office was told Wednesday by the Australian embassy in Washington that an official visit would be "inopportune" because of other official visits during September and October, although the only other visit mentioned is that of a cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, Princess Alexandra.

An aide at the Nixon compound here, Col. Jack

Brennan, said Thursday the former president "fully understands he will not be able to see Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser. President Nixon has had great respect for the Australian people since World War II when he served with Australian military units."

Brennan said Nixon has heard from Australian citizens in recent years asking him to visit, thus he will make the trip, which will begin in late September. The length has yet to be determined.

There was no immediate comment from Australian officials on Nixon's plans to go ahead with a visit.

Nixon did not make an Australian visit during his 5½ years in the White House. He last visited there in 1965 as a private citizen. That stopover also came during a trip around the world.

Weather Rain concentrates on Central Texas

By the Associated Press
Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast for most of the state today as Texans prepared for the long Labor Day holiday weekend.

Most areas of the state except Northwest and Northeast Texas were to have the showers and thunderstorms, forecasters said. The showers were to be most numerous in central and east central portions of the state.

Highs were expected to be mostly in the 80s with extremes ranging from the 70s in the mountains of Southwest Texas to the 90s in South Texas.

Widely scattered thunderstorm activity was reported early today across much of the state after a night of showers and thunderstorms mainly in central and southern sections of the state.

Fact of life in NFC: Dallas has too much talent

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

The more things change, the more they stay the same in the National Football Conference.

Half of the NFC's 14 clubs hired new coaches during the off-season and one of them — the Los Angeles Rams — hired two of them just to make sure. But all the shuffling had little effect because none of it can change the basic fact of NFC life which is that Dallas has too much talent for the other 13 clubs.

The Cowboys enjoy intricate little playbook wrinkles like the flex defense and shotgun offense. But most of all, they like their history of success — 11 trips to the playoffs in the past dozen years. Coach Tom Landry, the league's senior coach and the only one Dallas has ever had, directs a virtual All-Pro team that should have no trouble repeating as conference champion and will try to be the first club to win three Super Bowl titles.

In the other divisions, aging Minnesota ought to survive again in the Central and Los Angeles, revived from its case of temporary coaching shock, should be the best of the west.

Here is how the conference looks before the fact:

EAST DIVISION
Dallas Cowboys
Washington Redskins
New York Giants
Philadelphia Eagles
St. Louis Cardinals

DETROIT LIONS
Tampa Bay Buccaneers
Green Bay Packers

WEST DIVISION
Los Angeles Rams
Atlanta Falcons
San Francisco 49ers
New Orleans Saints

CENTRAL DIVISION
Minnesota Vikings
Chicago Bears

Dallas has a frightening collection of top quality talent. Start with quarterback Roger Staubach, running backs Robert Newhouse, Tony Dorsett and Preston Pearson and receivers Drew Pearson, Butch Johnson, Golden Richards and Billy Joe DuFreese.

If it's defense you prefer, how about up front talent like Ed (Too Tall) Jones, Randy White and Harvey Martin, linebackers like Bob Breunig and Tom Henderson and backs like Cliff Harris and Charlie Waters?

Scary, isn't it?

The rest of the East Division belongs in another class. New Coach Jack Pardee will find out just how far over the hill Washington's gang of elderly Redskins is. New defensive talent like Coy Bacon and Lemar Parrish, both acquired from Cincinnati, are sufficiently old to fit right in.

Philadelphia's hope for progress in the standings is encumbered by a difficult schedule that includes 11 games against teams with winning records. "The Eagles haven't beaten a winning team since I've been here," said Coach Dick Vermeil.

The New York Giants remain a tough defensive team with solid names like Jack Gregory, Brad Van Pelt and John Mendenhall in search of some offense to make their jobs less taxing. They're still looking. St. Louis will try to reconstruct things under new Coach Bud Wilkinson, who's wearing a whistle around his neck for the first time in 15 years.

In the Central Division, Minnesota's stock rose with the apparent full recovery of quarterback Fran Tarkenton, who suffered a fractured leg last season, and the acquisition of running back Rickey Young from San Diego in exchange for guard Ed White. Still young linebackers Matt Blair and Jeff Siemon are the key to an otherwise aging Viking defense.

Chicago's hopes rest on a healthy Walter Payton, the league's No. 1 running back. Neill Armstrong is the new Bears coach and he'll try to keep Chicago in front of ambitious Detroit.

Youth movement in Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oiler secondary coach Bob Gambold and his youthful band of defensive backs have their hands full this season trying to keep opposing receivers' hands empty of the football.

The departure of 12-year veteran cornerback Zeke Moore in the final cuts will leave the Oilers with a full-blown youth movement in the secondary when they open the regular season Sunday at Atlanta.

The old man in the secondary is eight-year vet Willie Alexander, who will start at one cornerback position. Fourth year pro Greg Stemrick returns from an injury to fill the other corner.

They'll be backed up by rookie J.C. Wilson of Pittsburgh, who beat out Moore for a spot on the team.

"Wilson is definitely a prospect," Gambold said. "Good cornerbacks are hard to find and we feel fortunate we got him in the eighth round. Zeke just started slow and when somebody like Wilson comes along you'd have to think long before giving up on him."

Alexander, who started every game last season, has escaped the youth movement for the present.

"Alexander may not be as gifted as some cornerbacks but he plays smart and he's always looking," Gambold said.

Although Oiler pass coverage was spotty during a 1-3 exhibition season, Gambold also feels secure with his two safeties, Bill Currier, with one year's experience, and Mike Reinfeldt, a three-year pro.

"The safeties are starting their second and fourth years and they are very stable," Gambold said. "That's a heck of a start. Now is we can just get some good work out of the corners."

Backing up the safeties are fifth year pro C.L. Whitington and free agent signee Kurt Knoff.

The Oilers hope to get their offensive guns untracked against the Falcons with Dan Pastorini starting at quarterback and assisted by running backs Tim Wilson and No. 1 draft choice Earl Campbell.

Pastorini did not see much action during the exhibition season but showed signs of getting the rust off in the second half of last week's 17-3 loss to New Orleans.

The Oilers will likely be without kick return ace Billy "White Shoes" Johnson, who still is sidelined with a knee injury despite a series of acupuncture treatments.

The Oilers play at Kansas City Sept. 10 before playing their regular season home opener Sept. 17 against San Francisco.

Big Spring Herald SPORTS Friday

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SEPTEMBER 1, 1978

SECTION B

SECTION B

And now...who'll win the openers

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Lydell Mitchell now is in San Diego, O.J. Simpson now is in San Francisco and George Allen, last seen in Los Angeles, now is in limbo.

Presenting the National Football League's new look for 1978.

Half of the 14 National Conference teams are equipped with new coaches and one, the Los Angeles Rams, set a record by hiring a new bench boss — Allen — and then firing him before he could do very much damage. The American Conference just about stood pat with only three new coaches but some significant player moves including the transfer of Mitchell from Baltimore to the Chargers and the departure of Simpson from Buffalo to the 49ers.

And how will all the shuffling affect things? Not much, really. Don't look for any instant changes this season, except in this corner where the crystal ball seems much clearer than it has been before. And so, bravely plunging ahead, here is how the first weekend looks from here.

N.Y. Giants 14, Tampa Bay 10

The Giants do it with defense. Tampa Bay's attack doesn't scare anybody, even with two straight victories at the end of last season. They did, remember, lose 26 straight, mostly on merit, before that.

Dallas 21, Baltimore 7

Dallas opens defense of its World Championship. The Colts won't be easy pickin's although the absence of Lydell Mitchell and Bert Jones makes the task somewhat simpler for that awesome Cowboy defense.

San Diego 27, Seattle 14

The Chargers are all charged up over the addition of Mr. Mitchell to their backfield and the chance to try out their souped-up attack on Seattle's sorry defense.

Oakland 17, Denver 14

A tough start for two tough teams. We like the Raiders, probably from habit. You don't really think Craig Morton can make magic again, do you?

Chicago 24, St. Louis 10

The Cardinal defense makes one laugh. Walter Payton will enjoy the joke most. Bud Wilkinson's return to football will be painful until St. Louie patches those holes.

New England 24, Washington 3

The Redskins will spend the season seeking that elusive fountain of youth, never realizing that Allen took it with him when he left town.

Cleveland 17, San Francisco 7

San Francisco needs more than O.J. Simpson to juice up its offense. Cleveland's no powerhouse but the Browns ought to be able to handle the 49ers.

Houston 17, Atlanta 7

Atlanta has a defense that can play with the best of them. The Oilers, however, could be one of those best, with new additions Earl Campbell and Richard Caster giving some punch to the offense.

LA 27, Philadelphia 14

The Eagles are improving, but so is their schedule. They play 11 clubs with winning records and haven't beaten one of those winning type teams in two years. Sorry about that.

Detroit 10, Green Bay 7

Somebody probably will win this one but there is little to choose between these two havens. Overtime, however, would not be fair... to the fans.

Pittsburgh 20, Buffalo 10

The Steelers are only a shell of their Super Bowl past. The Bills, however, are only a shell, period.

Cincinnati 24, KC 14

A soft start for the Bengals, even without Kenny Anderson. Marv Levy has been hired to rebuild Kansas City and there's plenty of rebuilding to do.

Miami 24, N.Y. Jets 14

The Dolphins went to the Super Bowl after Bob Griese spent most of 1972 in a cast. His absence at the start of 1978 won't be devastating to the young Dolphins.

Minnesota 27, New Orleans 7

The Saints have a new coach but the same old team.

Umpires ordered to stay on job

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A federal judge has ordered major league baseball umpires to remain on the job while lawyers try to untangle a complicated legal rharb.

The umpires staged a one-day walkout Aug. 25 after charging both the American and National leagues with unfair labor practices.

The stoppage spread to 13 major league cities before U.S. District Court Judge Joseph L. McGlynn Jr. ordered the officials back to work, replacing college and retired professional umpes who had filled in.

Thursday, the judge extended his temporary restraining order indefinitely, giving both sides until Sept. 15 to file legal briefs which will clarify their arguments.

That came after a two-day hearing on a league motion for a temporary injunction, aimed at keeping the umpires on the field once the temporary restraining order expires Sept. 4.

Richie Phillips, attorney for the 52-member Major League Umpires Association, had made it clear the arbiters would resume the strike if and when injunction expired.

The dispute, brewing since spring, came to a head Aug. 16 when the association sent an eight-page telegram to AL President Lee MacPhail and NL President Chub Feeney demanding 21 improvements in a contract that doesn't expire until 1981.

The demands included cost-of-living benefits, job and union security and adjustments in travel expenses.

Walton may stay with Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Bill Walton will meet with Portland Trail Blazers owner Larry Weinberg in the next few days to discuss a possible reconciliation with the National Basketball Association club.

Walton, voted the Most Valuable Player in the NBA last season, has asked to be traded to the Golden State Warriors, and Trail Blazer officials said they would try accommodate him.

He cited the team's medical policies, specifically regarding the use of pain-killing injections to keep injured players in the lineup, as a reason for wanting to leave.

But the possibility of Walton's return to the team he led to the NBA championship in 1977 surfaced, Thursday when the 6-foot-11 center's friend and agent, Jack Scott, revealed the planned meeting with Weinberg in interviews with the Portland Oregonian and television station KATU.

Trail Blazer publicist John White confirmed the report, saying Walton had asked Weinberg, through an intermediary, to meet with him.

Scott, who was in San Francisco when he revealed the planned meeting, said Walton and Weinberg would meet in Los Angeles, "one-on-one, with no agents around."

"If they have a meeting of the minds," Scott said of Walton and Weinberg, "it's quite possible that next week, Bill Walton will be a Portland Trail Blazer again and everything will be fine. It's possible there will not be a meeting of the minds. There's no way to predict."

White said Glickman told him that Walton's intermediary asked for the meeting in a telephone call from San Francisco Thursday.

The team had announced Aug. 4 it had agreed to the 6-foot-11 center's request to be traded to another NBA team. After talking with representatives of several teams, Walton announced, through Scott, that he had chosen the Golden State Warriors.

Walton has made no public statements since the team's Aug. 4 announcement.

Scott added, "I give Bill the information; he makes his own decisions."

"I'M SO PRETTY" — Muhammad Ali distorts his face and shakes a fist as he pleases a New Orleans crowd with his remarks Thursday after arriving to get ready for his rematch with Leon Spinks. Ali said Spinks was "too ugly to be champion." (AP WIREPHOTO)

Farm Index prices drop again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by lower prices for cattle, corn and several other commodities, the government's index of prices received by farmers dropped in August for the second straight month.

The Agriculture Department said on Thursday that lower prices for potatoes, broilers and apples also contributed to the decline. But higher prices were reported for hogs, milk and eggs, the department's Crop Reporting Board said.

Overall, the August farm price index was down almost 3 percent from July, when it dipped 1 percent. Before that, farm prices on the whole rose for nine consecutive months.

The August price index still was 20 percent higher than it was a year ago, the report said.

Meanwhile, prices that farmers pay to meet expenses held steady in August but still averaged 9 percent above a year ago.

With a record 6.5 billion-bushel corn crop estimated for harvest this fall, corn prices at the farm nationally averaged $1.99 last month, down from $2.16 in July.

Wheat prices dropped just a penny during the month to a farm average of $2.79 in August, based on the preliminary figures.

Beef cattle — which includes all types sold for beef — brought $48.80 per 100 pounds, down $1 from July. Hogs, at $47.50 per hundredweight, were up $2.30 from a month earlier.

The parity ratio last month was 70 percent, down from 72 in July. A year ago, the indicator — which theoretically at 100 percent would give farmers the same buying power they had at the turn of the century — was 64 percent.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Salesmanship by a Maryland farm couple Thursday resulted in Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland's buying a few more tomatoes than he had asked for.

Bergland, an early customer at an open air farm market outside the Agriculture Department, made his first purchase at a pickup truck laden with tomatoes and other produce where Mr. and Mrs. Warren Welsh had set up shop.

After looking things over, Bergland said he wanted "about half a bag" of tomatoes but decided to take more after Mrs. Welsh explained they were five pounds for a dollar or 25 cents a pound if he wanted less.

The one-day event was sponsored by USDA to help promote direct farmer-to-consumer marketing. A spokeswoman, Kate Alfriend, said 17 trucks from Maryland and three from Virginia initially offered wares to federal workers and occasional tourists and others.

Later, however, two more trucks appeared to take advantage of the thriving market, officials said.

Bergland spent $17 in all as he made the rounds, buying a wide assortment of produce, part of which he intends to donate to a neighborhood cook-out this weekend in suburban Annandale, Va., where he resides.

Although no exact figures on the day's proceeds were available, a department spokesman, Ted Crane, said it appeared that sales averaged about $250 a truck. Thus, 22 trucks were thought to have sold about $5,500 worth of produce during the day.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirty-eight cattlemen have been selected by a lottery as the first importers to use the new Harry S. Truman Animal Import Center at Fleming Key, Fla.

The center was built so animals from disease-prone areas of the world can be isolated and given clean bills of health before they are allowed to enter the mainland proper.

Department officials said on Thursday the successful applicants to use the center are from Arkansas, California, Indiana, Mississippi, Nebraska, Ohio, Texas, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

The cattle will be imported from South America and Europe to help improve breeding stock in the United States. Breeds include Brahman, Zebu, Simmental, Pinzgauer, Charolais, Saler and Tarentaise, the department said.

Registration is ending today

Educational requirement for obtaining a Texas real estate license increased from six semester hours to 12 semester hours Jan. 1, 1978.

Howard College has been notified that individuals who complete the required courses during this fall semester may have a letter signed by the college to the effect that they have satisfactorily passed the required courses.

The letter is to be sent with the completed application for the state examination and must reach Austin by Dec. 31, 1978. A similar procedure is to be used by those completing college hours for license renewal and applicants for Broker's license.

Courses scheduled for Howard College in Big Spring include: Principles taught by Wally Slate; Real Estate Math and Real Estate Appraisal to be taught by Rufus Rowland; Real Estate Law taught by Mike McKinny and Marketing Investment with Bobby McDonald as instructor.

Registration for fall semester at Howard College ends today in the Anthony Hunt Library.

For further information call Theron Lee at 7-6311, extension 78 or Jim Melton at extension 70.

For the second time this year, the Bill Wilson ranch, located near Luther, suffered a grass fire. They lost almost half a section of grass Monday night when some 15 fires started along FM 669 and burned across the ditch on the Wilson Ranch and one neighboring ranch.

Around 50 friends and neighbors brought sprayers and shovels and fought the blaze along with fire departments from Borden County, Luther, Vincent and Jonesboro. Borden also brought water trucks.

Bill and Nell Wilson said today, "There is no way to thank the people enough who helped. They saved our house and property and we are extremely grateful."

The blaze began around 5 p.m. and the fire fighters worked until 11 p.m. to extinguish the blaze. The light shower which fell later also helped quench sparks on the ranch.

Liquor administrator wants out of squabble

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State liquor administrator Sherman McBeath says he's caught in the middle of the Abilene wet-dry election squabble and wants the Texas Supreme Court to get him out.

The court on Thursday set a Sept. 20 hearing on McBeath's plea to set aside District Judge Charles Mathews' order leaving Abilene "dry" for the time being.

A July 10 canvass showed "drys" had won Abilene's June 17 liquor election.

But a second canvass held on July 20 under orders from an Abilene judge changed the result. The county clerk then certified that Abilene had been voted "wet" for all alcoholic beverages.

Drys went to Mathews, who knocked out the second canvass and said the first one — showing drys had won — was valid unless overturned in an election contest suit.

McBeath, administrator of the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, said he has received several applications for liquor licenses in Abilene, backed up by the county clerk's certificate that the city was now "wet."

Yet he also has Mathews' order saying, in effect, that the "wet" certification was based on a void order of the commissioner's court resulting from the second canvass.

McBeath said that while he was "not subject to the pains of contempt in the present posture of the case, he is subjected to public scorn" if he ignores Mathews' order.

Texas liquor law prescribes the method for contesting a wet-dry election and it has no room for Mathews' order, McBeath asserted.

Carriers, to the head of the Class!

BIG SPRING HERALD

IT'S SMART to be a newspaper carrier!

We always knew it. A new study of our schools now tells you why.

It's not that youngsters aren't learning today. It's just that they don't know how to use in every-day life what they learn in the classroom every day on the route.

That is the conclusion of the National Assessment of Educational Progress after a massive study of schools. It is the problem every parent must take seriously. But less so the parent of a young newspaper carrier.

Lessons on Route

A carrier applies the knowledge and skills he or she gains in the classroom every day on the route.

One example: arithmetic. The youngster who makes change and keeps records and does the bookkeeping for the thriving business which a newspaper route can be, knows how to use arithmetic.

And a carrier makes practical use of other classroom studies. Writing orders, communicating with customers, reading instructions from the office. Which may be the basis for the conclusion of another survey we have seen. Successful carriers do better at school.

Learns Business Methods

Your carrier has another advantage. This young person gets guidance from specialists in this newspaper's circulation department and the benefit of their knowledge and help. In short, a course in business practice. Which can be useful all through life, whatever field the young person enters.

Almost nowhere else we know of, except in managing a newspaper route, is such an opportunity for training with profit (which can be saved for college tuition) available to a youngster today. It makes today's carrier brighter. And sharper. A special youngster, whom we salute on International Newspaper Carrier Day this Saturday.

It's an education there are 3 E's in the word "Carrier".

Ridin' fence

They call it Kermit

with Marj Carpenter

Kermit's located out in the sand hills northwest of Monahans, west of Andrews, east of Orla and not too many miles from the New Mexico state line.

The town is the county seat of Winkler County and at the time the county was organized in 1910, it was the only town in the county. The area was full of sand and desolation and even though Winkler County had been cut away from Tom Green County in 1880, there were not enough people to organize a county until 1910.

There weren't too many then, and there were even less after a severe drought from 1916 to 1920 and the 1920 census showed 81 persons in the county with only seven school-age children. All the county officials had moved out of the county to make their home elsewhere. There were six legal voters left inside Winkler County in 1926 and it looked as though Kermit and Winkler County were going to die out. Then somebody discovered oil.

Now Kermit had been named for Kermit Roosevelt son of President Theodore Roosevelt. Kermit Roosevelt was a hunting enthusiast, like his father before him, and at one time had come through that area hunting — what I don't know.

The county was named for North Carolinian, Clinton M. Winkler, who moved to Franklin, Tex. in 1949 and later served as a lieutenant colonel in Hood's Texas Brigade during the Civil War. Later he was an appellate judge and somebody in the legislature liked him and named the county after him in 1880.

But anyway, in November 1926, with six registered voters left in the county, Westbrook Thompson Holding Corporation discovered oil on the T. G. Hendrick Ranch. Overnight, a new town sprung up. It was named Wink and it was a rip roaring oil boom town, like Borger and Desdemona or some of the other infamous ones.

Kermit was quite small, but it was a county seat and it took a spurt of growth along with Wink. Within four years, the county has 6,784 folks. The present courthouse replaced a smaller one in 1929 at the cost of $190,000.

Kermit is the gateway to the portion of New Mexico referred to as "Little Texas" which includes Jal and Eunice and other little New Mexico border towns that are more like their oilfield counterparts in Texas than they are like New Mexico towns.

Winkler County has $200 million per year in petroleum industry revenue. And a few ranchers. They have a zoo out in the country on a ranch between Kermit and Mentone. A highway patrolman, who was not aware that Kermit had a zoo, almost turned himself in to the Big Spring State Hospital when he saw a kangaroo, who had escaped and was hopping down the highway one hot summer day.

Kermit has a nice park at the edge of town with an old wooden oil rig. It was donated by the Wheat Family out at Mentone.

Bill Beckham, publisher of the Winkler County News, is the grandson of the late Joe Hollebeke. Joe was a cowhand who came out to West Texas from Denmark in the late 1800s and had the distinction of shooting out the first neon sign in West Texas when he fired a bullet into the sign in Midland. He said he "thought it was alive" and spent a year's salary to pay for it a little bit at a time.

Kermit's fine high school is double A, although it was a roaring force in AAA for a couple decades. They have been state champions in football on one occasion and were strong in basketball, baseball and track for many seasons. The Kermit Yellowjackets had a mighty sting and were properly hated by their arch rival surrounding towns of Andrews, Monahans and Pecos.

Their band and the Pecos band for many years shared a halftime show which was one of the most unusual presented anywhere. They would both learn half the production and then practice together briefly right before the game.

Kermit has had their share of notorious West Texas crimes, including a disappearing young housewife whose mutilated body was found out in the oilfield months later. They've had their share of oilwell fires including a big blowout on a well out near the New Mexico line in 1967.

They have a sandhill park east of town on the Andrews Highway. It's not a state park but a lot of people enjoy picnics and sand buggy rides there and they have a ghost story about the Indian maiden who can be seen walking across the sand dunes in moonlight nights crying for her Indian brave.

It seems that a sandstorm came up and the brave tied her to a tree so that she would not blow away and went for help. When he returned, the tree and the Indian maiden had been completely covered with sand — according to the legend.

Kermit is an oiltown and never has claimed to be anything else. It was named for the son of a Republican president and has always had its share of die-hard West Texas Republicans.

It has had a fighting spirit and has fought back twice from fear of dying out and may have to do it again if oil ever becomes obsolete. But they have a tenacity befitting to a town named for the son of a Rough Rider — in Kermit — where I've ridden fence on many occasions.
