SERGEANT WANTS OUT — SSgt. Little E. "Bill" Douglas is shown in his Army uniform, right, and dressed in a black evening gown and wig. Douglas says he is gay and wore the women's clothing to the mess hall at Fort Carson, Colo., on Friday to protest what he says are unnecessary delays in processing his discharge papers. Douglas is a six-year Army veteran stationed at Fort Carson south of Colorado Springs.

French in a flap; bread going up

PARIS (AP) — Bread is a word that can make the French heart miss a beat. After all, Marie Antoinette's supposed comment on the hungry — "Let them eat cake" — triggered a revolution.

Now, the price of bread is going up, and France is again in a flap.

No one is storming the Bastille this time, but the torrent of editorial comment, talk-show time and official statements being devoted to the issue underline how much bread is a symbol to France.

The price rise, which amounts to two or three cents a loaf, was part of the newly elected French government's major program to streamline the economy by getting rid of subsidies.

The price of bread had been fixed by the state since 1791, when the Revolution's leaders, before beheading Marie Antoinette, resolved that the Staff of Life would never again be out of reach of the poor.

So few Frenchmen thought Finance Minister Rene Monory was oversteating the case when he deregulated the price 187 years later and called his move "a revolution" for France.

Leftist newspapers condemned the action and played up an elderly group's bread protest — the only organized street action reported. The paper Liberation sarcastically predicted a black market in white bread and said the rich might now put their bread in Swiss banks.

Snapped Monory: "The French economy has been a hybrid for too long, with the chiefs of business calling for public help at the slightest pretext. You can't build a good economy on handouts."

Cousin of pope to attend pontiff's Holy Communion

VATICAN CITY (AP) — "People give you strange looks when you tell them you are the pope's cousin," admitted 79-year-old Silvio Luciani, arriving here for the installation of John Paul I. "They move away and think you are crazy."

The retired bricklayer from Marysville, Mich., will be among the first to receive Holy Communion from the hands of his first cousin, the newly elected pope, at Sunday's consecration ceremony in St. Peter's Square.

Although it is more than half a century since he left the tiny village in Italy's Dolomite Alps where both he and his cousin, Albino, were born, Silvio still speaks better Italian than English. He says Romans have difficulty "understanding my Middle West Italian accent and nobody here understands my English."

Silvio, whose craggy face erupts easily into a reflection of the new pope's ready smile, is sure that his illustrious relative will remember him: "We met three times in recent years, the last in 1976 when he was Patriarch at Venice, and I am honored that he has time to see us," Silvio said in an interview.

The pope's first cousin — John Paul's father's brother's son — flew into Rome Saturday a few hours too late to be received in the special audience the pope had for his sister, brother and other relatives. During the consecration Mass, however, he will be among the "intimate family" to whom the pope personally will give Holy Communion, followed by delegations from the three dioceses where the pontiff served as bishop and later cardinal. Also, he and his daughter's family will be given a private audience, probably on Monday, after the installation, unless the pope finds time in his busy inauguration day schedule to fit them in.

Almost 14 years older than the pope, Silvio Luciani remembers him as "a small, smiling boy with big eyes," but they did not grow up together since Silvio, like the pope's father, went off to Germany and Switzerland as a migrant worker.

The two cousins hardly knew each other as children because while Albino was still a toddler, Silvio went off to the front as a rifleman with the Italian Army in World War I. In 1923, when the future pope first entered the seminary at the age of 10, his older cousin emigrated to America, as so many of the Alpine Italian youth did in those post-war depression years.

Associating mostly with other Italian immigrant laborers in the American Middle West, Silvio never forgot his native tongue and, indeed, barely learned the language of the New World. So it came about that when the cousins met again in 1965, at the Bishop's Palace in Vittorio Veneto, near where they were born, they conversed in Italian but drank in American.

"The cardinal ordered Cokes," Silvio recalled with a laugh. "He is a very big man on Coca-Colas."

Industrial push vigorous

By TOMMY HART
A five-member Big Spring delegation will fly to California Wednesday to be oriented on plans of a major industrial firm (aircraft related) to expand its operation.

No commitments have been made but the company has indicated it is very interested in locating a plant here. Representatives of the industry inspected local facilities several months ago and said they were not only impressed by what Big Spring has to offer but expressed open admiration for the openness and honesty of the people with whom they dealt.

The Big Spring Steering Committee will meet again at 10 a.m., Tuesday at City Hall to firm up the sales package the Big Spring delegation will carry west with them.

Should the California firm elect to open a branch here, the city would have to proceed with plans to build a huge hangar at the Big Spring Industrial Park. That facility, of course, could not be undertaken without a government grant estimated at $1.3 million.

Many factors combine to make the future of the Industrial Park look bright. The government is proceeding with designs to open a minimum security correction institute here and is planning to move a cadre of workers here sometime after Oct. 1. Built-Rite, which manufactures vehicle pallets, is solidifying its plan to relocate its plant from Coahoma to Big Spring, having outgrown its facility at Coahoma.

Only last week, Midas International announced plans to occupy Building 75 at the industrial park and could be in operation as early as Dec. 1. Midas manufactures recreational vehicles.

After learning that the General Services Administration had decided to ask for bids on the 460-unit Capehart housing addition, the Steering Committee decided Friday to petition GSA to withhold half the houses for an undetermined period until it could be determined how the housing market here would be affected.

There is no question but that the entire section will eventually be sold, perhaps to one buyer, but the timing of that sale could be very important. It was agreed that, because most of the Man kills youth, then himself

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — The 7-year-old son of a Mount Clemens police officer was abducted and killed by a 23-year-old man who then took his own life, police said.

The dead boy's father was among the police officers who burst into what police called a murder-suicide scene and found the bodies.

Brian Chisholm apparently was abducted from a street corner near his home in this Macomb County seat about 4:15 p.m. by James Lossing, a police spokesman said.

Police said Lossing took the boy to his apartment in nearby Clinton Township.

Maureen O'Hara's husband perishes in plane crash

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands (AP) — A twin-engine amphibious plane crashed in the ocean near here Saturday, killing four of the eleven persons aboard including Charles Blair, the pilot and husband of actress Maureen O'Hara, authorities reported.

Miss O'Hara was not on board the plane, part of a charter line owned by Blair. Miss O'Hara is publisher of the firm's in-flight magazine, "Virgin Islander."

According to witnesses, the craft's left engine appeared to explode as it approached the harbor of Charlotte

The Steering Committee's plans to ask GSA that only half of the housing units be placed on the market was contingent upon a positive indorsement by the Housing Committee of the Chamber. The Housing group went into conference shortly after the Steering Committee ended its session and voted, 7-3, to support the plan.

Jack Watkins, one of the three who voted against the plan, said he was in favor of releasing the entire housing area for sale at one time.

"Why double the hurt?" Watkins explained. "We don't know what it will do to the market until the act is done. It's going to hurt some of the people who have invested in property here. The question is — how much. Since the sale of all the property must take place, the sooner we get it over with the better."

Jack Redding, chairman of the Industrial Committee of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, said Friday that he planned to reopen negotiations in the near future with a Metroplex conglomerate which has expressed interest in local facilities several months ago.

Those who have argued that inertia has gripped the efforts of local teams to promote industry for Big Spring simply are not aware of the vibrant activity going on behind the scenes. Results may have seemed slow in coming but the dedicated effort is there.

Jealous of attention

A female Elvis imitator

ATLANTA (AP) — Erin Rhyne said she was getting tired of the way the girls kept showering attention on boyfriend Jesse Bolt, a touring Elvis Presley imitator.

Bolt said Ms. Rhyne just didn't understand the situation. She does now — they both look like Elvis.

Their faces were reshaped through plastic surgery to be likenesses of Presley, who died last year.

Three other performers who also faced the scalpel to heighten resemblances to dead rock stars also revealed their new look Friday to a national television audience.

Later Friday, the five played the first concert in what promoter Danny O'Day hopes will be a profitable tour of the United States and Europe. The concert was delayed about an hour because of technical problems and because only a handful of fans had arrived by showtime.

O'Day paid for the surgery — he refuses to say how much — and says he has spent nearly $1 million on the project so far.

Of the other three, Duke O'Connell, 30, was recast as Jim Morrison, lead singer of The Doors, who died in 1971. A couple of stitches below the lip was all that was needed for Marc Hazebrout, 28, who said he had often been told he looked like Jim Croce, a singer who died in 1973.

The most ambitious surgical project was transforming Mona Caywood Moore, 27, into Janis Joplin, the throaty songstress who died in 1970. More work is planned on her nose and cheekbones, but it seems likely she will have to rely on her dress and voice.

"She was so close vocally I couldn't refuse her," O'Day said. "I'll give you

In makeup, Bolt already resembled Presley. All he needed was a stitch above the upper lip to give him a permanent Presley sneer.

O'Day recalled overhearing recurrent quarrels between Bolt and Ms. Rhyne about the response to the role he played. "He said, 'I wish you could stand in my shoes.' She said, 'I wish I could, too.' I said, 'Excuse me... anybody got a scalpel?'"

The lady Elvis is the least polished performer and the least enthusiastic about the new look.

"It's all right," she said. "I miss my hair."

Her once-flowing tresses have been clipped, blackened and greased to go along with a black leather outfit. She thinks her show will make Presley's brand of musical sexuality attractive to men as well as women.

"I'm really trying to give the men in the audience what Elvis gave the women, gave everyone really," she said. "I think it's something if Elvis were alive, he'd just have to come see."

AFTER THE SHOW — Erin Rhyne, left, and Jesse Bolt talk to their fans after performing as Elvis Presley look-a-likes in Atlanta Friday night. Both performers had their looks surgically altered to resemble the deceased rock star and made their first performances Friday after the unveiling on national television.

Spring, a description of a prisoner who had escaped the jail in Kermit that morning was given on the radio.

The more they described the escaped prisoner, the more convinced the driver was that he had him as a passenger. Just outside Big Spring, near the old Sahara Drive-In, the driver stopped and let him out. He came rushing into town to the police.

The police responded hastily and brought the wanderer in for questioning. But as the questioning developed, it was found that he was not an escapee and the only thing he knew about the jailbreak was what he heard on the car radio. He was released and caught another ride, probably glad to get out of Big Spring.

Foxx being sued

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Comedian Redd Foxx propositioned a 15-year-old hotel busgirl and called her obscene names when she rejected his advances, the girl's father has charged in a lawsuit.

Charles A. Branda filed the suit Thursday in Clark County District Court on behalf of his daughter, Cheryl, who works at the Silverbird Hotel and Casino.

Foxx was not available for comment on the alleged incident, which, according to the suit, occurred Aug. 19.

The action alleges that Foxx, whose real name is John Elroy Sanford, touched the girl while she was working and proclaimed, "This is the one I want."

Would sell diamond

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor wants to sell the 69.42-carat diamond that her fifth husband, actor Richard Burton, once gave her, but not if it heightens speculation that she and her latest partner, John Warner, are in financial difficulty.

That view comes from Anthony Seymour of Charles Anthony Diamond Investments of Salt Lake City, who was commissioned earlier this year to find a buyer for the diamond, valued at more than $4 million.

"The stone was withdrawn from the market when speculation began that they were in financial trouble," Seymour said of Miss Taylor and Warner, a former Navy secretary who is seeking a U.S. Senate seat from Virginia. "Nothing could be further from the truth. She just couldn't foresee a time when she'd be wearing the diamond again."

Anita is undaunted

BOSTON (AP) — A bomb threat failed to dampen Anita Bryant's enthusiasm for conservative Howard Phillips who she has officially endorsed for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

Miss Bryant, an outspoken critic of homosexual rights, called Phillips "one of the most experienced, articulate, and dedicated Americans running for office anywhere in the nation."

Phillips, founder and director of the Washington-based Conservative Caucus, is seeking the seat now held by Massachusetts Republican Edward W. Brooke.

Eying new record

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Comedian Jerry Lewis hopes to break last year's record on Sunday when he sets out on his annual Labor Day telethon to raise money for muscular dystrophy.

Enrollment at Howard College totaled 902 shortly before operations ceased for the weekend Friday.

College officials expressed confidence that enrollment would pass the 1,000 mark before registration ends in two weeks. Last year's fall registration amounted to 1,050.

The off-campus enrollment passed the 100 mark Friday.

A $100 gift Friday from the Vincent Baptist Church pushed the Bible Fund past the $11,000 mark.

The total now stands at $11,067.64. Objective in the campaign was $10,000. The campaign formally ended a week ago.

Israelis urging concord

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — An estimated 100,000 Israeli demonstrators waving "Peace Now" banners urged Prime Minister Menachem Begin Saturday to show greater flexibility at the Camp David summit meeting with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and President Carter.

One placard in the huge crowd read, "Compromise is not a dirty word."

Begin, in a speech broadcast on national television and radio, did not dwell on specific issues for the summit conference opening Wednesday at the Maryland retreat, but suggested it be followed by continuous negotiations for several months to conclude a peace treaty.

He called the summit "very important," but added it was neither fatal nor the last chance for peace. He said he would also go to the United States in December, but did not elaborate. Begin already has scheduled a trip to Canada at that time.

Begin made no mention of the Tel Aviv demonstration. Israeli Television estimated there were 100,000 persons in the two-mile march to the city hall plaza.

The Camp David summit is expected to last a week, but is open-ended and could go longer.

"We need a reasonable amount of time, a number of months," Begin said in Saturday's broadcast. "I suggest to you, Mr. President of Egypt, let us decide at Camp David: After the end of the conference, let's conduct negotiations every day, except Friday and Saturday, so we can discuss the conditions of peace until ... we can proclaim to our peoples — the wars have ended, we have signed a peace agreement."

While Begin did not refer specifically to Israel's negotiating stance at the summit, the Jerusalem Post reported Friday that Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan, after considering Palestinian opinion on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, was prepared to drop some demands, including one that Israeli troops handle internal security on the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip if a limited self-rule plan is accepted by Egypt.

To combat inflation, the administration has been relying on a program aimed at keeping both wage and price increases in 1978 at levels below the average rises of the two previous years. The Council on Wage and Price Stability has said, for example, that in most cases, prices of construction materials are increasing more than the two-year average.

It is now considered likely that Carter may announce a so-called second phase to his voluntary anti-inflation program in advance of the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund in Washington the week of Sept. 24. Rumors that an announcement was imminent were denied Thursday by the White House, however.

The sense of urgency was heightened following release of the Labor Department's latest consumer price index last week which showed that prices were up a total of 5.4 percent during the first seven months of the year.

At first glance, the report was encouraging to consumers because it was the 0.5 percent increase in July was the smallest of the year and because grocery prices dropped for the first time in 12 months.

But government economists said the more important number in the July index was the 0.7 percent increase in prices of goods other than food — the same as in June and an annual rate of increase of 8.5 percent.

Carter's special inflation adviser, Robert S. Strauss, said inflation probably will be 8 percent this year.

Zoo keepers walk out; others come to rescue

CINCINNATI (AP) — Public relations specialists, secretaries and supervisors are manning the brooms and buckets at the nation's second oldest zoo because of a strike by 47 keepers and gardeners.

"This isn't something I planned to do when I was in journalism school," Janet Ross of the public relations office said Friday at the Cincinnati zoo.

She said after a day of cleaning bird exhibits and feeding fish and the seals that she turned down a seafood dinner.

"Nobody who is not familiar with animals is going to be allowed near them," said public relations director Pepper Wilson. He said many citizens had volunteered to help during the strike.

Negotiations between Local 282 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees and a law firm hired to negotiate for the zoo broke off Friday, said Al Van Hagen, the union's regional director.

He said the union had been working without a contract since July and that wages and the length of the contract were disputed.

Emotions heated up Friday night when zoo officials refused to allow animal keepers in to feed and care for the animals.

Wilson said the union violated an "animal care" agreement in its contract when the keepers walked out. He said many animals required feeding more than once a day.

"This releases the union from responsibility for the animals," Van Hagen asserted, adding: "The supervisors don't know enough about care and feeding the animals over a prolonged period."

The "animal care" clause guarantees the workers will care for the animals during any work interruption, Van Hagen said.

The strikers' present five-year wage scale pays $4.69 to $5.22 an hour, said Van Hagen, adding, "some of my garbage men make a thousand dollars more than these people (the zoo employees) and many of them have to go to college."

Woman taking to mines

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — A few years ago, Mary Maynard was barely surviving on a school bus driver's salary and Linda Triplett was making the minimum wage in a sewing factory.

Like thousands of Appalachian women with high school educations or less, their employment opportunities were limited to jobs usually characterized by low pay and long hours of drudgery.

Coal mining, which provides the only high paying jobs in the region, was an all male institution; it was a world in which females not only were looked upon as being unfit to do the work but one in which they were considered to be Jones whose presence underground might bring a disaster.

Then, in 1973, a few women were given opportunities in the mines.

Today, about 1,500 women have been able to find jobs in the U.S. coal industry. Most of them work in the union mines of Appalachia.

Linda Triplett and Mary Maynard are among that number and their lifestyles and self-images have been transformed.

Each is divorced and has two children. Before they were living on the edge of poverty. Now, each woman earns about $325 a week before taxes.

Linda Triplett as an underground miner and Mary Maynard as a coal truck driver. And they have won the respect of their fellow workers and been elected to lead their respective United Mine Workers local unions.

"I was elected president of my local about 15 months ago," said Ms. Triplett, 31, who has worked at Bethlehem Steel's mine at Century in central West Virginia, for the past three years. "When I was elected, the officials at the UMW district office told me I was the first woman ever to be the president of a local."

At 40, Miss Maynard spends her evenings driving a 30-ton 8 1/2 truck for Pittston's Elkay mine on Rum Creek.

"I haul coal from the mine up on the mountain to the tippie down below," she says. "It's about a 20-minute run from the mine to the tippie. At first, I used to pull over and let the men pass but now they can't catch me. I haul as much coal as they do."

Miss Maynard was elected president of her union local about a year ago. She says she has extremely good relations with the other truck drivers.

"Oh, they tease me a lot but it's all in fun," she says. "After her days as a school bus driver, she has no intention of ever quitting her job."

Despite the successes of these women and others like them, a project that scrutinizes hiring practices in the coal industry says 99 percent of the jobs in the coal industry are held by men.

The Coal Employment Project, financed through foundation grants, filed a complaint last spring on behalf of itself and other Appalachian women's groups alleging that the coal industry still is "probably the most blatantly discriminatory industry in the country."

Crawford said that instead of paying money for the work on the suits and draperies, he gave small gifts to the seamstress, Ludmila Kiselev, and her husband, Vladimir.

Crawford's American legal adviser, Peter Maggs, said the cashier, Alla Solovoyova, is accused of supplying items to the Kiselevs for sale on the black market, and that there is no apparent connection between the cashier and Crawford.

Crawford was dragged from his car by Soviet police June 13 in a manner that drew a formal protest from the U.S. Embassy. He was held 15 days in Lefortovo Prison until he was freed on the recognition of the American ambassador. That agreement was pegged to the similar freeing of two Soviets accused of espionage in the United States.

The Soviets, employees of the United Nations, are scheduled to go on trial in Newark, N.J. on Sept. 12. Many Western observers here believe the Soviets arrested Crawford to reciprocate for the espionage case.

Since Crawford's release, he has been summoned to the prison repeatedly for interrogation.

Local offices close Monday

Utilities, banks, state offices, city offices, county offices will all be closed Monday for Labor Day.

According to the Chamber of Commerce, some downtown merchants will postpone the decision until the last minute, but most will be closed.

Open will be the police department, fire department, sheriff's department, and for a half day, the Big Spring Herald.

Crawford awaiting his trial

MOSCOW (AP) — American businessman Francis J. Crawford will be tried Tuesday on charges of "large-scale" currency manipulation, allegations he says apparently stemmed from having some suits and draperies altered by a seamstress.

The 37-year-old Mobile, Ala., native, a Moscow representative of the International Harvester Co. of Chicago, disclosed the trial date in a meeting with reporters Friday. He said he would plead innocent and repeated his assertion that "the charges against me are false. I have broken no law in the Soviet Union."

The seamstress, her husband and a cashier in a "Beriozka," a tourist store that deals in foreign currency, are on trial with him. If convicted, Crawford, the seamstress and cashier face possible eight-year prison terms, and the seamstress' husband could receive the death penalty, an attorney said.

Crawford, speaking in his company's Moscow office, said he was served a summons Friday and a copy of an indictment charging him with "violation of rules on currency transactions."

He said he is accused of buying 20,000 rubles on the black market with $8,500, almost four times the official exchange rate, and of buying six samovars, considered an item of antiquity not to be removed from the Soviet Union.

Crawford said that instead of paying money for the work on the suits and draperies, he gave small gifts to the seamstress, Ludmila Kiselev, and her husband, Vladimir.

Crawford's American legal adviser, Peter Maggs, said the cashier, Alla Solovoyova, is accused of supplying items to the Kiselevs for sale on the black market, and that there is no apparent connection between the cashier and Crawford.

Crawford was dragged from his car by Soviet police June 13 in a manner that drew a formal protest from the U.S. Embassy. He was held 15 days in Lefortovo Prison until he was freed on the recognition of the American ambassador. That agreement was pegged to the similar freeing of two Soviets accused of espionage in the United States.

The Soviets, employees of the United Nations, are scheduled to go on trial in Newark, N.J. on Sept. 12. Many Western observers here believe the Soviets arrested Crawford to reciprocate for the espionage case.

Since Crawford's release, he has been summoned to the prison repeatedly for interrogation.

Tower and Krueger

Keying in on poor areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The poorest counties in the country have become key political battle sites as incumbent Sen. John Tower and his Democratic challenger — Rep. Bob Krueger — race toward their November runoff.

Both campaigns are attempting to enlist the support of predominately Mexican-American South Texas, an area saddled with the nation's lowest per capita income but capable of enriching the political fortunes of the U.S. Senate hopefuls.

Tower's campaign has invested heavily in advertisements on Spanish radio and television in the area while Krueger has called on Vice President Walter Mondale and first lady Rosalynn Carter to bolster the Democratic standing among Mexican-Americans.

Both campaigns agree that Mexican-Americans hold the key in a tight race although hispanics comprise less than 20 percent of Texas' voters.

After releasing the results of a Tower poll last week that indicated the state was leading Krueger by 13 percentage points, campaign manager Ken Towery noted that the "hispanic vote is crucial but not so much so with a lead like we've got...I'm not going to say the race is not going to get extremely tight and we are making efforts toward the hispanic community."

"We've gotten a foothold over the years and we've built on that to the point now that we've got about 40 percent (of the Mexican-American vote)," Krueger campaign manager Gary Mauro quickly disagreed.

"Tower's demographics on the brown vote are all screwed up," he said bluntly. "We'll get better than 70 percent. Jimmy Carter got 86 percent of the (Mexican-American) vote in 1976 and you can't name me a Mexican-American leader that didn't support Gerald Ford and is now supporting Tower."

A Krueger poll released in early August showed Tower leading by less than 2 percent with 13 percent of the Mexican-American vote undecided.

The importance of the hispanic vote is reflected in the 1976 presidential race. Carter carried Texas by 129,019 votes with almost 75 percent of that margin coming from voters in Bexar County (San Antonio) and the 13 South Texas counties. The South Texas returns were especially crucial since Carter lost El Paso and Houston, two other areas with high concentrations of hispanics.

But Tower, the highest Republican office holder in Texas since Reconstruction, has successfully defended his senate seat in the last two elections.

"I have a solid and uneredible position in the Mexican-American community," he said. "Mexican-Americans are very loyal people and once they have worked with a person and worked on the same objective with him, they tend not to defect. I've carried El Paso, Bexar, Hidalgo, Nueces, Hidalgo and Cameron counties — in that group."

KEEPING WATCH — Simba, a 350-pound African lioness, peers over the back yard fence of her master, Al Sawyer. The interior designer uses the cat, which is declawed and has had her front teeth removed, as part of a back yard display at his suburban Kansas City, Mo., home for customers who might be interested in having landscape work done.

Is device legal? Matter of eavesdropping

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Carl Nicolai of Seattle listened to his citizens band radio one day, he wondered if he could develop an inexpensive way to keep others from eavesdropping on CB transmissions and maybe even on telephone conversations.

With the help of three friends, Nicolai did develop such a device. But now the four inventors are squared off against the most secret government intelligence agency over whether the device poses a threat to national security.

The U.S. Patent Office has issued a secrecy order against Nicolai and the others, which means they can't talk about the invention in any detail whatever without risking a jail term.

The four are fighting the order.

In the meantime, they are caught in a financial squeeze, because until the legal questions are answered, no one can manufacture the device they spent thousands of hours and thousands of dollars to develop.

"They're ruining us," Nicolai said.

Two important scouting events are scheduled

Two important events for boys interested in the fun of Cubbing and Scouting have been scheduled for this month.

Details of plans for the autumn Roundups were outlined Thursday evening at the Scout district committee meeting headed by Bob Hurt, chairman.

Larry Speck, who will direct the Cub Roundup, listed these dates: Moss elementary school Sept. 11; Kentwood Sept. 12; Marcy Sept. 18; College Heights Sept. 19 (tentatively); Elbow Sept. 21 (tentatively); Washington Sept. 25. Coahoma-Sand Springs and Bauer will be announced later, said Speck.

The sessions, to which all boys 8-9-10 years of age are invited to come with their parents, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the various schools. There will be static displays on activities, literature, badges, etc. and parents and boys will be given a full explanation of Cubbing as a family adventure. There will be opportunity to sign up at the meetings.

The Scout Roundup will be a single affair on Sept. 26 at Comanche Trails Park. A highlight will be a "mystery" stew. Southwestern Bell is providing the meat, and each boy attending is asked to bring a can of vegetables to put in the stew, which will be cooked in a 100-year-old pot. Boys 11 years and up will be invited to come from school to the park, and parents will join them at 7 p.m. for the stew feast. There will be brief explanations about the program, skill demonstrations, and a chance for signing up with various troops, who will have representatives present.

"We want every boy in this area to note these dates and make plans now to attend," said Hurt. Other highlights of the meeting were pegging dates for the Southwest Area IV meeting in El Paso Sept. 15-16; second annual Indian seminar at Howard College campus Oct. 28; Order of Arrow council banquet Nov. 4; District banquet Dec. 1. Planning to attend the area conference in El Paso are Mr. and Mrs. Hurt, Mr. and Mrs. Oren Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Corbin, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Doolin, and Larry Speck.

Jastrow is WT chairman

K. M. Jastrow, Midland, has been named West Texas Area Executive Chairman for The Denver Design, the University of Denver's $50 million capital campaign. Jastrow is an independent oil operator.

Jastrow received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Denver in 1948, after spending the four years between 1942 and 1946 with the U.S. Army. A native of St. Paul, MN, Jastrow has been a resident of Midland since 1951, when he was transferred from Oklahoma as assistant division manager of the crude oil purchasing and sales department of Phillips Petroleum Co. He was later appointed division landman of the Midland Division in 1967, where he remained until 1961, when he became an independent operator.

As West Texas Area Executive Chairman for The Denver Design, Jastrow will help organize and direct the Area Executive Committee in identifying major gift prospects. He will also contact many prospective donors personally and serve as spokesman for The Denver Design in the West Texas area.

The Citizens of Big Spring:

Several people in our community, using the proper and established channels of city government, approached the City Council, requesting that an ordinance be passed prohibiting the consumption of alcohol in the City Park. The Council unanimously refused the request.

The City Council did request and approve an additional patrol of reserve officers for the week-end. Although this action touches upon the symptoms, it does not alleviate the basic problem, in our opinion. The problem, as we see it, is the probability of eventual bodily harm to an innocent person because of alcohol consumption.

We have exhausted the means at our disposal to get an ordinance passed to prohibit drinking in the City Park and, yet, we feel an obligation to share our concern with the community because we do not believe that the City Council acted in the best interest of Big Spring.

Therefore, we call upon you, the citizens of Big Spring, to voice your approval or disapproval of the action taken by the City Council.

We recognize that there are some inherent problems in any kind of prohibiting ordinances, and we have no intention of attempting to legislate morality; but we do think that the consumption of alcohol in a public place where there are large groups of people (especially children), and automobiles is extremely dangerous.

Does Democratic party have death wish?

Some observers think the Democratic party has a death wish.

The Republicans are making political hay by stumping the country in favor of big slashes in income and capital gains taxes.

The voice of the turtle is heard in the land. It belongs to John White, the Texan who is currently the National Democratic Chairman. White is urging the defeat of such proposals.

Other Democrats who haven't received the message that the voters want Congress to do something about the high cost of living, are rallying behind White.

THE REPUBLICANS are active in other attention-getting ways, too. They're wooing the ethnic vote as never before. The GOP is paying a Georgia-based black public relations firm $800,000 to lure blacks into their camp.

Sen. John Tower spent much of his time campaigning in Texas for the Mexican-American vote. Apparently he was telling the Mexican-Americans what they wanted to hear because they turned out in significant numbers for him.

The Republicans can feel a new strength coarsing through their veins and maybe they have good reason. They will campaign solidly against Jimmy Carter and anyone who has shown the slightest inclination to supply the Democrat from Georgia. And they don't lack for presidential hopefuls.

The latest to declare for the nation's highest position was Cong. Phil Crane of Illinois. There's no doubt about Crane getting there 'firstest.' The big question is, will he be able to get the "mostest"? Few voters around the country even know what he looks like, but then two years ago few people in the U.S. could identify a picture of Mr. Carter.

The GOP doesn't lack for presidential hopefuls with solid credentials. Ronald Reagan, despite his age, remains a powerful contender. Besides, Mr. Reagan doesn't act as if he's nearing his 70th birthday.

Gerald Ford, the former president, isn't yet conceding the top spot on the ticket to anyone. He's acting very much like a very confident candidate on his many swings around the nation.

Texas John Connally can't be counted out of the picture, although some say there are enough Democratic votes in the country to fan him out. The implication there is that Connally was once a tremendous power in the Democratic party but one who defected. Many could never forgive him for that.

Howard Baker, the Tennesseean, can't be ignored in the presidential sweepstakes. He compels respect. He has made few mistakes in politics. He got national exposure during the Watergate trials and he seems to always say the right thing at the right time.

It could be a very strange political year — with the Republicans talking about helping the unrich, focusing maximum attention on the burgeoning costs of government and wooing the ethnic blocs.

The Democrats had better respond to the challenge. Silky Sullivan's they're not.

Tastes like radio

Around the rim

Walt Finley

Oilman Roger Beard says he knows a man whose wife is such a poor cook, her TV dinners taste like radio.

I run the above item with the full knowledge that Jim Baum, radio newsman and political whiz, frequently dishes up radio dinners — along with other things.

My calculating cousin, Jimmy Ladd of Los Angeles, reports:

"Dad?"

"Where are all those blackbirds going?"

"Well, they've spent the night roosting in trees and now they're going to the mowed over wheat fields to find some breakfast."

"Will each bird find a worm to eat?"

"Well, we hope so, don't we son?"

"It wouldn't be a very good day to be a worm, would it?"

HERALD AD-VISOR Oliver Cofer provides a quote from Los Angeles columnist John Hall:

"It's not Ewetopia but it seems Ewe Mania, brought on by the debut of the new Ram cheerleaders known as the Embraceable Ewes, has put everyone in a state of Ewephoria.

"Naturally, if they get any more successful they'll form a Eweunion. They drive to games in Eweised cars. Once they went the wrong way and had to make a Ewe-turn. They will vacation in Eweguay, Eweccatan, Ewetah, Ewema, Ariz., or Ewegene, Oregon... Now let's cut this out forever just one step ahead of the demand for Eweethanasia."

"Bathing Beauty," a former Big Spring now residing in Midland, had an unrepeatable experience she tells about in a poem:

While going through the summer

My love and I go swimming nightly.

Through den to Patio we go tripping.

To do a little skinny dipping.

And there, beside our fence so tall,

We take it off and "bare it all."

Dear Editor: I am very proud of our great American system of justice whereby every person is innocent until proven guilty.

I certainly do not condone useless wounding or killing of anything, by guns or any other method.

However, I was greatly distressed to read Chief Bogard's statement in Thursday's edition of the Herald concerning the unfortunate wounding of an apparently immature young man.

How could an officer of the law ascertain the cyclist was not guilty of a felonious crime when flight to avoid apprehension would indicate otherwise?

A vehicle, regardless, of what kind it is, fleeing to avoid police apprehension, certainly, in my opinion, threatens and endangers human lives.

I sincerely hope Chief Bogard, by his statement, has not sent out invitations to any and all thrill seekers in vehicles, to come to Big Spring and enjoy an exciting new game, playing hide and seek with officers of the law.

Dear Editor: In re your editorial on child abuse (8-25-78). The matter under discussion is indeed shocking in our enlightened times, but given the circumstances, is it surprising?

Child abuse as a phenomenon of society is not new. The startling increase in our days is new. We've been told by the proponents of abortion that by legalizing abortion we can help prevent child abuse. Even by its own terms, the argument makes no sense: "Let a woman kill the child in her womb and get it over with, or else she'll just end up abusing and even killing the child after it is born." We used that same argument during the Vietnam war: Destroy the villages and save them from the Communists!

Christianity Today (10-7-77-34) quotes Harold O.J. Brown on "Abortion and Child Abuse." He notes there are some 5 million fewer children between the ages of one and seven in America than there would be if we had not legalized abortion. Since we can logically assume these 5 million babies were the "unwanted" who supposedly would have been the prime targets for child abuse, it would seem reasonable to look for a remarkable decrease in child abuse in the same period of time. But it didn't work out that way.

Maybe that's what the two women doctors mentioned above were talking about. You can hear the screams of the battered babies. You cannot hear the screams of the mangled unborn. It's pretty gruesome, isn't it? But it's happening!

No divorce

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Being a married man, I always believed that single people living together had the best of both worlds. Whenever I met someone in a leisure suit with a gold chain around his neck and a beautiful blonde on his arm, whom he introduced to everyone as his "roommate," I must admit I was wild with envy.

BUT THINGS ARE tough even for unmarried couples — tougher in some ways. I discovered this the other day when Harlequin came to see me without an appointment. Harlequin is 30 years old and until his visit I always believed he had the perfect setup. His "roomie" was a sweet thing named Saralee, and they shared a lovely apartment overlooking the Potomac. They had a pet dog named "Pothead," and the thing they both used to brag to me about was that they had all the benefits of being married, without any of the hassles. That's the part I envied the most.

Therefore, when Harlequin told me what he came to see me about I was truly shocked.

"I want to break up with Saralee," he said.

"That's too bad. But what's the problem?"

"I don't know how to go about it."

"You just tell her, I guess."

"That's easy for you to say," Harlequin said. "But you're married and if you want to break up with your wife you ask her for a divorce. Since we're not man and wife what do I ask for?"

"I guess a separation," I suggested.

"EASIER SAID than done," Harlequin whimpered. "If I do that she'll want to keep the apartment."

"Whose apartment is it?"

"It was originally my apartment, but as far as she's concerned it's ours. Why should I give up the apartment just because I don't want to live with her any more?"

"I know apartments are hard to find, Harlequin, but I'm not a lawyer. When you start talking about property settlements you should seek legal counsel."

"It won't work. When you married people want a divorce, each of you hires a lawyer to thrash things out. Lawyers don't want to have anything to do with single people who are breaking up."

"Why don't you just tell Saralee that you don't want to live with her any more and you want her to get out?"

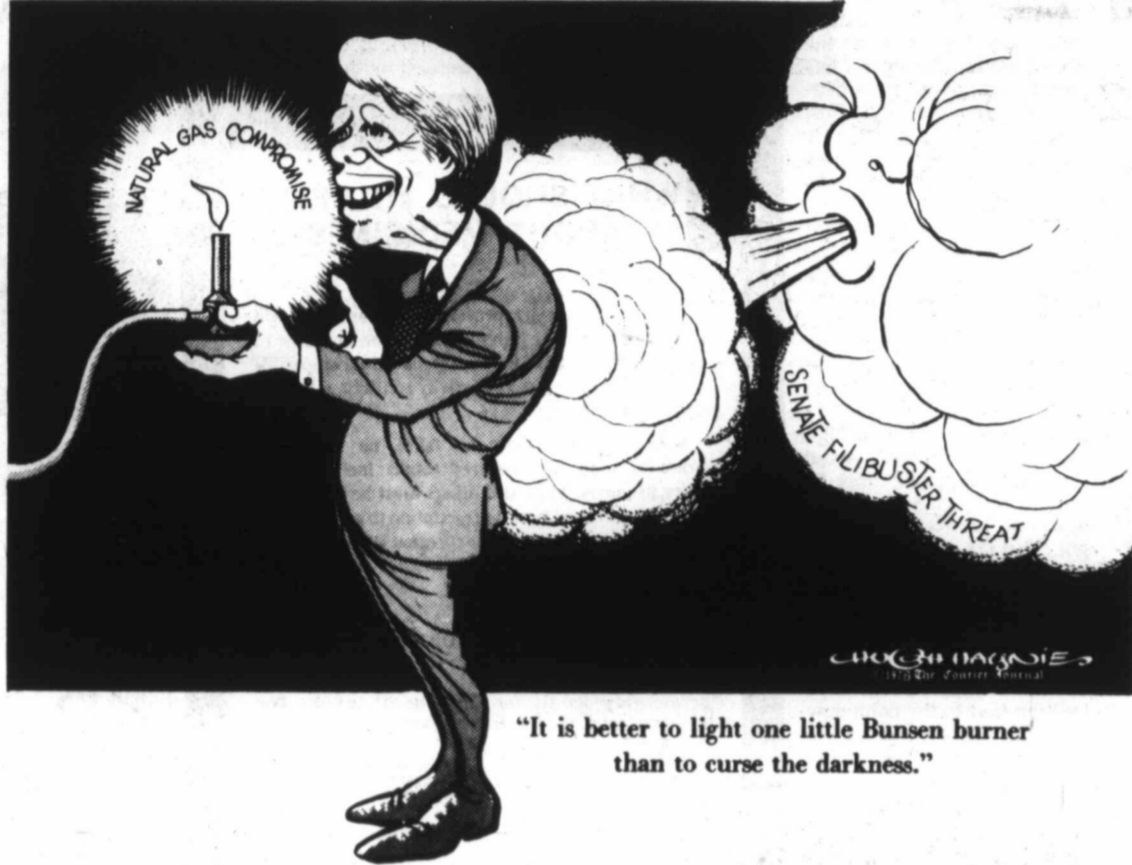

"You don't know Saralee. She looks like a lamb, but she fights like a tiger. She'd throw all my stuff out the window."

"But didn't you have some understanding when you moved in together? That if either party wanted to call it quits there would be no hard feelings?"

"OF COURSE we did. All singles say the same thing. But after you live together for three or four years the vows don't mean anything. The one who is rejected acts worse than the victim of a divorce."

"It's funny," I said. "I thought the singles life was all cream and strawberries."

"Boy, you are dumb," Harlequin said. "I've put up with fits of jealousy that no married man would stand for. When you're married you can at least flirt around with somebody and the other partner doesn't get too shaken up if you don't make a big deal of it. But when you're living with somebody, if you so much as dance with another person, your roomie makes your life miserable. I'm too young to be stuck with one woman," he said, practically in tears.

'Christmas tree' rash can be pityriasis rosea

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Last fall I broke out with what my doctor called "pityriasis rosea." It lasted about a month, and the itching was severe. As fall approaches I am anticipating it again, since the doctor said it seems to appear at that time if you're going to get it. Is this contagious in any way? What is the best treatment? — K.F.

You should not have a repeat bout with this mild skin inflammation. Pityriasis rosea does not usually occur. We don't know what causes it, but the pattern of development is very predictable. It begins with a scaly outbreak in an isolated "herald" or "mother" spot, followed in the next several weeks by generalized outbreak usually on the trunk and upper body, rarely on the face or below the knees. It is not contagious, but may produce severe itching.

In the early stages it may be mistaken for a ringworm infection or a contact dermatitis. One peculiarity is the appearance (on the back usually) of a Christmas tree pattern of lesions. Sunlight may hasten the disappearance, which normally occurs on its own without any treatment in from two to three months. Ultraviolet light can help. A menthol solution applied locally will relieve a mild itch, and prednisone taken orally may be used for very severe itching. Some persons may have a mild headache and slight malaise during the course of the rash. In temperate climates, spring and fall do seem to be prime seasons for pityriasis rosea, and young adults are most commonly affected.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I need a bulk diet following my hemorrhoid surgery (successful). Can you give me some menus for a bulk diet? Incidentally, your booklet on hemorrhoids helped me in what to expect, etc. — Mrs. V.D.

You don't need a special menu for a bulk diet. Continue with your bran cereal, the prunes, both of which you tell me you now use. That along with daily use of fruits and vegetables, raw or cooked, supplies all the bulk you need. The printed material on this subject is still available. For a copy readers should send a quarter to cover printing and handling and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain the cause and cure of hammer toes. I have developed some in the last few years. They are very annoying. My own doctor was not very interested or helpful. — J.R.C.

Most non-foot doctors are not interested in our feet, unless they are obvious factors in other problems. Unfortunately, most patients as well as are not very interested in these seemingly uninteresting anatomical structures until they give them trouble.

As to your hammer toe. It is the kinking of the second toe (usually). It can be a congenial (birth) defect or be acquired through wearing of short shoes and snug-fitting socks. The result is a claw-like deformity. The matter should be treated early before the tissues and joints become fixed in the deformed position. The first line of treatment is shoe adjustment. Sometimes the toe can be straightened by use of an adhesive sling to hold it down. If this is unsuccessful surgery may be necessary.

One annoying complication of hammer toe is the forming of a callus on top of the toe, which can be quite painful. I suggest you see a podiatrist.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would cause a 21-year-old girl to have horrible bunions? She recently underwent surgery for their removal and is confined to a wheelchair temporarily. — D.L.

Bunions are the result of ill-fitting shoes usually, which are too short, too narrow and too tight. It is not a coincidence that most bunions are found in women, although it usually takes longer to develop than it apparently did in this 21-year-old. There may also be some basic foot defect (as in the arch) that contributed to the problem at her age. Some surgery for bunions may involve not only removal, but realignment of the foot itself. This would require a period of inactivity afterward.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any truth in a rumor I've heard that wheat germ oil can keep a man sexually active? — B.G.

I doubt there is any truth in it. "There's an old saying — if your feet hurt, you hurt all over." Dr. Thosteson's new booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," shows you how to avoid and take care of foot problems. To get your copy, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter is to have a "sound" test to determine the date of delivery of her baby. What can you tell me about this test? — G.P.

You are undoubtedly referring to the ultrasound procedure, which will give some idea of the position and size of the fetus. From this the date of delivery might be estimated. It is a commonly done procedure and harmless, since no damaging rays are emitted as in X-rays.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet, explaining what sinus trouble really is and what can be done about it. For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know you have probably answered this before, but I want to know what the unforgivable sin really is. Everybody seems to name a different sin whenever I ask. — N.J.F.

DEAR N.J.F.: I have known several people who felt they had committed the unforgivable sin, and it was a great barrier in their lives. Yet they had not really committed the unforgivable sin and were living defeated lives unnecessarily.

It is important, therefore, to find out what the Bible has to say about this. Jesus mentions the so-called "unforgivable sin" in Matthew 12:31-32: "Every sin and blasphemy will be forgiven men, but the blasphemy against the Spirit will not be forgiven. Anyone who speaks a word against the Son of Man will be forgiven, but anyone who speaks against the Holy Spirit will not be forgiven, either in this age or in the age to come" (NIV).

This passage tells us the unforgivable sin is not a specific sin such as murder or adultery or lying, serious as these may be. The unforgivable sin is "blasphemy against the Spirit." What does this mean?

In this passage in Matthew 12, Jesus had just healed a man who was demon-possessed. But the religious leaders who opposed Jesus said He had done it by the power of Satan, not the Spirit of God. The Spirit of God was testifying to the crowds that Jesus was the Son of God. These men denied the testimony, and in their hardness of heart refused to accept the testimony of the Spirit. This, Jesus said, was blasphemy, and was the sin which could not be forgiven.

We commit this sin, therefore, if we reject the testimony of the Spirit to Jesus Christ. In the Bible is revealed all we need to know to be saved. But when we refused to accept it, and even call it a lie, we are in grave danger. In simplest terms, the unpardonable sin is rejecting Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior of our lives. That is the sin which will eventually send us to hell.

Economy geared to oil

By H.B. (HANK) HARKINS
President, Texas Mid-Continent
Oil & Gas Association

Texas long has been famous as a producer of petroleum energy. Fortunately, its involvement with crude oil and natural gas does not end with production of these resources in their raw state. Petroleum refining and processing, including the manufacture of petrochemicals, strengthen the state's economy as Texas plants upgrade raw petroleum to finished commodities or feedstocks. Although this industry is highly automated, it accounts for one of every four jobs and $1.00 of every $3.00 in wages paid by Texas manufacturers. The U.S. Interior Department notes that in 1977, the mineral refining and processing industry in Texas employed an average of 195,000 workers. Texas refiners and processors paid these workers wages totaling approximately $3.2-billion. The petrochemical industry alone creates about 60,000 direct jobs. It necessitates an additional 300,000 jobs in supporting trades and services in the state.

Texas refinery workers last year numbered approximately 41,250. They earned wages amounting to $844-million.

Texas' 52 refineries have a daily capacity of approximately 4.6-million barrels. This represents 27.2-per cent of the U.S. capacity; 5.9-per cent of world-wide capacity.

During the four years between 1973 and 1978, Texas' capacity to refine crude oil increased 23.2-per cent. But, refining capacity in several other states and foreign countries has increased at a faster rate since the 1973 Middle East oil embargo. The rest of the United States increased its capacity 26-per cent; countries in the Middle East and Africa increased their capacity 25.1-per cent.

As a result, Texas' share of the market is in jeopardy of declining. Increased capacity elsewhere means more competition for available crude oil.

However, the Texas refining industry holds the promise of continuing as a processing center for imported crude oil. Since 1972, a predictable but basic shift has occurred. Prior to that time, Texas refiners refined crude oil from Texas fields almost exclusively. By last year, that percentage had dropped to 49.6-per cent. Some 8.9-per cent came from other states, with approximately 41.5-per cent from other countries.

A pipeline bringing Alaskan crude oil from California to Texas; a natural gas pipeline from Mexican fields to the Rio Grande; large tankers carrying crude oil and natural gas from the Middle East off-loading on the Texas Gulf Coast; these developments, scarcely imagined only a few years ago, offer the best hope for a viable petroleum refining and processing industry in Texas in the years to come.

Water feud surfaces

HOUSTON (AP) — The water controversy between Houston and Pasadena is boiling over once again.

Houston connected Pasadena's water supply to a second delivery point in the Houston pipeline Tuesday, then cut the water off at the delivery point Thursday.

Houston officials accused Pasadena of unauthorized use of a Houston-built water line, and Pasadena Mayor John Ray Harrison compared the officials to "villians in the night."

Houston City Attorney Bob Collie said Pasadena shouldn't have been taking water from the second delivery point because it isn't authorized to do so until an existing contract is amended to cover the point.

Harrison said he was angry that Houston took the action before notifying Pasadena officials.

"Like villians in the night, they snuck up and turned it off," he said.

He said Pasadena has enough pressure from its primary delivery point, so he plans no action on the cutoff.

Pasadena has been paying since January only for Houston water it actually uses. Houston says the city should pay for 18.5 million gallons a day, regardless of the amount used, under a contract signed in 1971.

If the second delivery point were turned back on, Harrison said, the dispute would end because Pasadena then would be getting all of the 18.5 million gallons.

Collie said the dispute won't be ended until a settlement is reached regarding $400,000 Houston says it is owed by Pasadena in outstanding water bills.

Houston filed suit against Pasadena in June to recover the back water payments. Pasadena filed a countersuit challenging the claim.

Press cold to Nixon

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Several newspapers gave front-page coverage today to former President Nixon's apparent decision to visit Australia even though Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser won't see him. One compared him to a conniving cartoon character and said it would be better if he stayed home.

"Invited Or Not, Nixon Is Coming," headlined the Sydney Morning Herald.

"I'll Still Visit You, Says Nixon," said the Melbourne Herald.

The Australian government turned down Nixon's request to meet with Fraser in late September or October because of other commitments but the former president's chief aide, Col. Jack Brennan, said Nixon was coming anyway on a private visit.

In an editorial entitled "Must You Come, Mr. Nixon?" the Melbourne Herald said: "Mr. Richard Nixon is like a comedy cartoon character not discouraged by disintegration let alone by conventional rebuff. The foul aroma of Watergate and the disgrace of resignation from the presidency of the United States appear to have left his ego and ambitions intact."

TO APPEAR HERE — The United States Army Forces Command Band will perform in Big Spring on Monday, Sept. 25 to officially open Concert Week in the city. Several other programs will be included during the week of music.

In City Auditorium Sept. 25

Command band scheduled

The United States Army Forces Command Band will appear in concert at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 25, in the city auditorium.

The free concert, which is being co-sponsored by the Big Spring Herald and the Cultural Affairs Committee of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, will mark the beginning of "Community Concert Week" in the city of Big Spring.

The United States Army Forces Command Band was organized in 1845 in Texas as the 4th Infantry Regiment Band. Its heritage, which includes 26 campaign streamers and two awards of the French Croix de Guerre, spans the Mexican War, Civil War, the War with Spain, the Philippine Insurrection, and both World Wars.

Other honors make the Forces Command Band, also known as the 214th Army Band, a unique unit. It is the only army band which has received a combat distinction from a president of the United States, President Zachary Taylor.

The band was authorized to wear red piping on the uniform in commemoration of distinguished service in the battle of Monterey, Mexico, during which they turned a captured artillery battery against the enemy.

This distinction is the second oldest United States Army Battle Honor. Three presidents — Jackson, Taylor, and Grant — have been directly connected with the band. Martin H. Campbell, the band sergeant in World War I, won the second highest award ever received by an army musician when he was presented with the Distinguished Service Cross. Redesignated the 214th

Army Band in January, 1944, the band became the United States Army Forces Command Band on July 1, 1973, concurrent with the activation of Forces Command Headquarters at Fort McPherson, Ga. The special designation "Forscom's Own" was conferred by Secretary of the Army Howard H. Callaway.

The Forces Command Band serves Headquarters, United States Army Forces Command, which is charged with the readiness of regular and reserve units from its home at Fort McPherson, Georgia. The Forces Command Band is the musical ambassador of the American Combat Soldier.

The Forces Command Band will be the first of two free community concerts to be held during the week-long community concert week in Big Spring.

MD week is proclaimed

Mayor Wade Choate proclaimed this weekend as Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon Weekend.

The Muscular Dystrophy Association sponsors nationwide programs of scientific research and the Labor Day Telethon traditionally united millions of volunteers in the program. It will again be broadcast on Channel 9 television with collectors working in the Big Spring area during the telethon.

Defeat of HR 5289 urged by Dillard

The executive committee of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, at a called meeting Aug. 29, reinstated and reaffirmed its policy supporting total deregulation of natural gas, and in opposition to the presently written bill HR 5289, the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978.

The association's opposition to HR 5289 is based on the fact that it does not deregulate natural gas, association officials says.

They claim that, in fact, it increases regulatory complexities and placed added restrictions on the unregulated intrastate market.

Those factors, according to A. W. Dillard Jr., association president, plus extremely harsh civil and criminal penalties on operators who, for any reason, are not in compliance, automatically eliminate any possible incentives for additional drilling or exploratory efforts.

HR 5289 will mean less, not more, natural gas, says Dillard. It will cost the consumer, (home and industrial) higher prices, with no guarantee of an assured supply. By extending DOE-FERC authority into the intrastate market (even though these agencies are still unable to handle the interstate workload) oil men can only see further delays, interruptions and litigation as the legacy of a "Bad Bill."

The Secretary of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association has been instructed to furnish copies of the Policy Statement to the members of Congress from Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas and certain others, and are being urged to join the association in this position by voting against HR 5289.

Mexico boasts vast reserves

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico would replace Saudi Arabia as the country with the world's largest known oil reserves if estimates given by President Jose Lopez Portillo prove correct.

In an annual state of the union address Friday, Lopez Portillo said Mexico has a potential oil reserve of 200 billion barrels and that it has trillions of cubic feet of natural gas as well.

Up to now Saudi Arabia has been considered the world leader in oil reserves with 170 billion barrels.

"The caprices of old seas and jungles left a generous print on the greater part of our republic," Lopez Portillo said. He said nearly 7,000 square miles along Mexico's coasts and 10 times that offshore are potentially rich in crude oil and natural gas.

The quirk of nature apparently created a pool of oil and natural gas under much of the Mexican coast along the Gulf of Mexico. There is even some evidence the oil stretches across the Sierra Madres to the Pacific coast.

Oil experts in Mexico City said the new government increase in the reserve estimate is very significant because officials at PEMEX, the government oil monopoly, have for years been extremely conservative in plotting the oil reserves.

In early 1977, it announced 17 billion barrels in proven reserves at a time when foreign experts said the figure was closer to 100 billion barrels.

Mexico nationalized foreign oil interests in 1938. The current find is underneath a field that was producing in 1938, but most wells were closed until PEMEX went back four years ago and drilled some deepest wells.

Lopez Portillo said the production of crude oil and derivatives is now 1.4 million barrels a day, about 50 percent higher than PEMEX estimated it would be when the last estimates were released six months ago.

U.S. energy planners have believed for a long time Mexico would be an abundant source of petroleum and natural gas.

The hope is that Mexico's supplies, combined with oil from the North Sea and Alaska's North Slope can alleviate or solve the U.S. energy crisis and break an oil and price monopoly held by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Mexico has refused to join the cartel claiming it has its own oil and does not need the protection of a group like OPEC.

Just five years ago, Mexico was still importing crude oil and petroleum products. But those days are gone, and many experts see the country riding a wave of prosperity from revenues of exported oil and petroleum products.

One question still remains to be resolved with the United States — the sale of natural gas. The United States wants to pay the same price it pays for Canadian gas — $2.16 per thousand cubic feet, but Mexico demands $2.61.

The talks to negotiate the price have been stalled by several things including the failure of the U.S. Congress to agree on President Carter's energy bill.

VISITS CHAMBER — Bill Fisher, candidate for Congress as the Republican nominee, is shown talking to Tracy Logsdon at the Big Spring Chamber office Friday afternoon.

Fisher says opponent is against tax cut

Bill Fisher of Abilene, candidate to replace retiring 17th District Congressman Omar Burleson, said Friday that opponent Charles Stenholm was opposing a 30 per cent income tax cut measure.

Fisher was in Big Spring for a press conference and was also honored at a reception at the Brass Nail Friday afternoon with the West Texas Republican Women as hostesses for the event.

farmers, are barely surviving now," Fisher continued. "We need the government to get its hand out of our pocketbooks," Fisher said.

But Stenholm is going the other way, says Fisher. "At least, he's consistent," Fisher said, "he was a key Carter campaign worker, and now he wants to be one of his rubber-stamp votes in Congress."

Fisher indicated that he would be working in the western portion of the district this week, would attend the state GOP meeting in Fort Worth next weekend and then would be back in the Big Spring area in mid-September with a probably "big name in GOP circles" helping him with his campaign.

Fisher said Friday that the Democrat candidate "instead of supporting a 30 per cent tax cut measure joined Pres. Carter in opposing the idea and favoring a weak, worthless proposal for political reasons."

"Stenholm has already made his political bed with Carter and he hasn't even gotten to Washington yet," Fisher said. The tax cut legislation, which Fisher favors would reduce every individual's income take by ten per cent a year for three years.

"Those of us who are middle-income, like most of our self-employed and our

Ray enters Demo race

Jane Ray of Big Spring is seeking election as 30th District State Committee woman for the Democratic Party.

She is running against the incumbent committee woman from Roscoe and a candidate for Paducah and possibly others. She announced her candidacy to party delegates this week.

Mrs. Ray said in her announcement, "I am 40 years of age and have resided in Howard County most of my life. I am married and have a son and daughter-in-law. For the first 15 years of my life, I lived with my parents on a farm."

"At the present time, I am employed at a multi-specialty clinic as patient coordinator for a group of 23 physicians. I have been associated with this clinic 22 years and have the support of my employers in my political endeavors."

"Due to the nature of my profession, I am in a position to communicate daily with people from all walks of life. Also, I compose and print a monthly newsletter."

First Lady For Cullen Davis will visit in state

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — First Lady Rosalynn Carter was due to arrive here Sunday night for Monday's Labor Day campaign swing through Texas on behalf of Democratic congressional candidates and U.S. Senate candidate Bob Krueger.

Mrs. Carter is scheduled to appear at a $25-per-person Bexar County Democratic brunch here Monday morning before visiting the Dallas area and Houston.

Fired San Antonio garbage workers, who were dismissed after July's short-lived strike over wages, have vowed to stage a protest rally during Mrs. Carter's visit Monday morning at the downtown Menger Hotel. She is scheduled to spend Sunday night at the hotel.

While Mrs. Carter is appearing here on behalf of Krueger and congressional candidate Nelson Wolff, former Texas governor John Connally will be staging a Labor Day barbecue in Kerrville for Wolff's Republican opponent Tom Loeffler.

Former President Gerald Ford has already visited the 21st congressional district on behalf of Loeffler and former California Governor Ronald Reagan also plans a campaign trip to the district later this month.

Wolff, a Leon Valley businessman, and Loeffler, a Kerrville businessman, are competing for the congressional post to be vacated by Krueger. Krueger opposes Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, in the November election for the U.S. Senate.

In Dallas, Mrs. Carter is scheduled to participate in the Garland Labor Day Parade and appear at a Dallas shopping center on behalf of first-term Congressman Jim Mattox. Mattox is facing a strong challenge from Republican Tom Pauken.

The First Lady is due to appear Monday evening in Houston at a Democratic Funfest fundraiser, a fundraising reception for U.S. Rep. Bob Gammage, and a rally by Gammage campaign workers before returning to Washington Monday night.

Can magic work again?

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The trick worked once for Thomas Cullen Davis. Now, the question is whether his imaginative, energetic and expensive lawyers can pull him off the hook again.

While the millionaire Fort Worth industrialist sits in the Tarrant County Jail here today, he can be comforted himself with the thought that if there is a way out of his latest predicament, his lawyers will probably find it.

That predicament is a charge that Davis solicited capital murder by trying to hire a hitman for $25,000 to assassinate the presiding judge in his bitter, four-year-old divorce case.

The evidence thrust forward during a two-week-long bond hearing that ended Friday laid out what appeared to be a nearly ironclad case against the 44-year-old Davis.

Prosecutors are armed with a star witness who claims he was the go-between in dealings between Davis and a hired killer. They have what they say are tape recordings, videotape and photographs of the meetings between Davis and the star witness.

Certainly, things look dark for Davis, who showed no emotion as he strutted from the courtroom Friday after visiting Judge Arthur Tipps refused to set bond and ordered Davis jailed pending trial.

But Davis does not now find himself in entirely new surroundings.

Two years ago, Davis sat in the Tarrant County jail, accused by another star-prosecution witness of being the "man in black" who killed two people and wounded two others, including his estranged wife, during a shooting spree at the $6 million Davis mansion.

Today, Haynes, who reportedly received as much as $1 million for defending Davis in the lengthy and expensive murder trial, is called upon to perform his magic show again.

Bond was refused for Davis and the state's case looked virtually airtight.

For national distribution Local program filmed

By MARJ CARPENTER
A Big Spring group was filmed this week for a movie that will be shown all over the nation where Manpower Programs are being discussed.

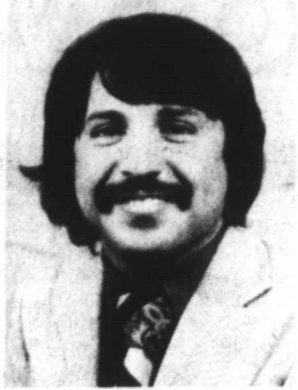

Because of the success of the local "Youth Tutoring Youth" program here in Big Spring under the Community Affairs programs, the local unit was selected for the film.

The local project is being used as an exemplary demonstration project, which serves a two-county area. Nabar Martinez is the local director.

The Department of Labor in Washington, D.C. contracted with John J. Prescott Associates, Inc. to produce the film and minigraph of five exemplary projects across the nation. The others were in the Pacific Northwest and the Minneapolis-St. Paul areas.

The Youth Employment and Demonstrations Act (YEDFA) of 1977 emphasizes research and experimentation. The Act seeks to provide a knowledge base for more comprehensive youth employment policies with one primary aim being to catalogue exemplary projects, of which the Youth Tutoring Youth in Big Spring is one.

This didn't mean anything to the teenagers who were doing the tutoring and learning in the process or the children being tutored.

But they did not know that they were on camera Tuesday as lights were set up and big cameras began to roll. And they were quite excited about it.

But most of the summer has been spent in the teenagers in the Manpower program helping the young children learn to read. It has helped them too and this is why the program is being used as an example for others across the nation.

To the students, the lights and the cameras and meaning, the announcement that "This Youth Tutoring Youth program is one in the Balance of State in Texas identified as exemplary by the National Department of Labor for inclusion as a "demonstration project" as defined by the ACT."

Specifically, the program will be described in the movie in terms of the accomplishments and the effectiveness of the program for the community and for the youth involved. The message to other prime sponsors will be in relation of the uniqueness of the design and the administrative.

The local programs, under the direction of Martinez, have had some other recent successes.

It also looks as though they will serve as a key project for a study being done by North Texas State University in the near future.

Martinez said that "The programs have been a success because we have a really good staff and because the Big Spring schools have cooperated with us. Supt. Lynn Hise and his staff have been very helpful, and especially Jim Beam at Washington Elementary where we filmed this program.

Chess match adjourned

BAGUIO CITY, Philippines (AP) — Defending world chess champion Anatoly Karpov and Soviet defector Viktor Korchnoi adjourned their twice-postponed 18th game Saturday in the world chess championship.

Karpov, playing white, asked chief arbiter Lothar Schmid of West Germany to shut off the television monitor before he sealed his 41st move suspending the game until Sunday.

Karpov apparently wanted the monitor off so that nobody could see what he wrote on his score sheet. Karpov, 27, leads Korchnoi, 47, by 4-games-to-1. The first to win six games wins $350,000 and the title. The loser gets $200,000.

And Soviet parapsychologist Vladimir Zoukhar, whom Korchnoi said was trying to hypnotize him, stayed in the rear of the auditorium.

School strikes leave schedules uncertain

By The Associated Press
With school teachers on strike in nine states, the Labor Day weekend arrived with nearly one million students and their parents not sure when the last of summer's holidays would end.

Pay disputes were simmering from coast to coast, with most of them centered in industrial northeastern states.

In Michigan alone, 190 districts with 400,000 students have not settled on contract terms with teachers who were due to start classes after the weekend.

In Philadelphia, 250,000 students are waiting for resolution of contract talks involving their teachers.

Cleveland's financially-plagued district with 100,000 students is awaiting the outcome of intensive teacher-administration bargaining set for today.

On Friday, New Orleans city schools completed a third day of operations in spite of a teachers' walkout, but two-thirds of the system's 91,000 students were absent.

Strikes also have been called in Rhode Island, Washington, Illinois, Vermont and Indiana.

Teachers in three small Michigan districts, Orchard View, Pontiac and Holly, went into the weekend on strike. Four others have authorized walkouts for Tuesday's opening day of classes. The state's largest district, Detroit, with 233,000 students, has a tentative pact covering its teachers, who will vote on the contract after Tuesday.

The 21,000 members of the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers began a strike

Friday after rejecting a 6 percent wage hike that would have come in the second year of a contract. Classes in the nation's fourth largest city are due to begin Wednesday.

Bus drivers, maintenance and cafeteria workers apparently are supporting a walkout by New Orleans' teachers, but administrators were planning to keep school doors open with non-union personnel after the holiday. Student attendance slumped to 35 percent on Friday as drivers refused to operate buses.

Even with a $20 million emergency state loan to start the school year on Thursday, the beleaguered Cleveland district is faced with a walkout threat by 5,000 teachers who haven't received a negotiated pay raise in two years. Teachers are seeking a 20 percent pay hike in today's bargaining session.

The summer vacation has been four days longer than expected for the 36,000 students in Rockford, Ill., the state's second-largest system. Their teachers have rejected the latest administration offer and no new bargaining is scheduled.

Schools in the Indiana cities of Marion and Rockford were hit by strikes before the holiday weekend. Marion's striking teachers were ordered to appear in court Tuesday and Wednesday to show why they shouldn't be jailed for not working. Eight of their leaders remain jailed on contempt of court charges, although they were escorted by deputies to a fruitless bargaining session on Friday.

Program has openings for several students

The Head Start School Program for 1978 has openings for several more students, it was announced this week by Dr. Steve Morgan, director of the Head Start Program. Any parents of children in the 3½ to 5-year age group as of Sept. 1 may be interested in investigating the advantages of enrolling their children in this program, Dr. Morgan added.

"While there are certain economic guidelines that must be met for eligibility in the Head Start Program," the director continued, "the requirements for level of income varies with the number of children in a family. There are so many advantages offered to the children in getting them ready for school, that it is well worth everyone's time to investigate. The Head Start Program cuts across ethnic lines and makes a special effort to assist children for whom English is a second language."

The services offered to children in the Head Start Program include initial dental and physical examinations, free of charge. The program also offers emotional counseling as an aid to youngsters who are separated from the home environment for the first time. Additionally, the nutrition program includes breakfasts and lunches for the eligible participants.

"School buses pick up the children between 8:15 and 8:30 and bring them to Lakeview school," Dr. Morgan stressed, "and they return the children to the pickup areas after 2:30 p.m. when the day's schooling ends. We are looking for eligible students in any of these target areas: Cedar Crest, Airport, Bauer, Boydston, Washington, College Heights and Marcy districts."

Parents who desire more information about the program or about the eligibility of their children may call Lakeview School, 267-6721. Anyone who knows of children who may need this help to prepare for school would render a service by notifying the parents of its availability, Dr. Morgan concluded.

AWARD FOR HEROISM — Rudolph Norwood, formerly of Big Spring, was honored this week by the Dallas Fire Department for heroism in saving three persons from a fire in March. The fire chief (left) presents a certificate to Norwood, shown with Mr. and Mrs. Francis Perez, two of three persons they pulled out of a fire in their home.

Ex-Big Springer honored

Alertness save 3 lives

By The Associated Press
By MARJ CARPENTER

Because of the alertness of a former Big Spring boy, three lives were saved in a Dallas fire last March.

This week, the Dallas Fire Department selected Rudolph Norwood, 22, son of Mrs. Gail Schafer of Big Spring, to receive its annual award for heroism.

Rudolph and his sister Deborah both attended high school here. Deborah still resides in Big Spring but Rudolph had gone to work in the Dallas area.

He had suffered a fall and fractured both his elbows and was at home incapacitated in March. That particular day, he was walking for exercise, bored with staying in his apartment. He passed a house that was on fire and as flames licked at the roof, it occurred to him, for some reason, that somebody might be inside the home. He rushed in and awakened three people, leading them out.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Francis Perez and their grandmother. All three were taking an afternoon siesta while the house was going up in flames.

When the award was presented, the fire department made the presentation at the scene of the damaged home which has never been repaired.

Norwood told relatives here that he really didn't know what made him suspect that somebody might be inside. "Nobody was crying out or anything. I just had a feeling that somebody might be in there and there wasn't any fire department or neighbors or anybody around. So I just ran inside. I'm glad I did," he added.

Man earns his diploma; eyes more schooling

By MARJ CARPENTER
"I've got myself another chance," Willie Greenwood, 31, said at the Veterans Administration Hospital Thursday.

"I quit school over at Carver in Midland back in 1967 and went in the army and went to Nam," he recalls.

"Ever since I've been home, every thing has kind of fallen apart," Greenwood stated.

"I had trouble getting jobs because I didn't have a high school education. I had family trouble and finally I had trouble with alcohol," he related.

"Then I ended up here in the hospital for a rather lengthy stay," he added.

One of the counselors in the VA Hospital got him interested in completing his requirements for a G.E.D. diploma for high school graduation equivalent.

Through programs at Howard College and tests, Greenwood obtained his G.E.D.

"Do you know what this means to me?" Greenwood asked. "It means that I can go to college and really do something with my life," he continued.

"You know Vietnam veterans aren't heroes. Everybody shrugs off that conflict, but it was real. I had a lot of friends killed out there," he stated.

"I like children," he added. "I don't know yet what I will study, but I'm going to go to junior college and try to figure out something I could take where I would work with children," he stated.

And then he added a second time, "I've got myself another chance."

'30'

This is my '30' column... the final one. It'll be short and sweet. Well, maybe not too sweet.

Let's get the sour grapes over with first. One scene repeatedly stuck out like a butchered thumb on our travels around the area in preparation for the "Football 1978" tabloid.

That was the unbelievable number of all-weather tracks surrounding the football fields in the various communities around Big Spring. Even six-man Grady had a resolute track. All but one of the schools had a better track than the one that encircles the field at "Old Memo" in Big Spring.

And Big Spring is the only Class AAAA school of those Valdes and I visited.

To me, that fact stinks. I mean, even if you doused it with perfume, it would still smell like a warehouse with overflowing toilets.

The athletes of Big Spring deserve better. Someone should get off their collective cans on this, and soon, before the school becomes a laughing stock when the District 5-4A track meet is held here in the spring.

Okay, that's that. Now... there are a few people I'd like to thank for their help, cooperation and general "good gummanship" which helped this job flow smoother.

Top award goes to Tommy Hart. He's a living sports encyclopedia. Then there's Danny Valdes, Marj Carpenter, Bob Burton and James Werrell for their invaluable aid. Outside the office... Harold Wilder, Don Robbins, Jack Woodley and Jim Baum win all awards for "Cooperation without Hesitation."

There's also a few bars I'd like to wing some people's way, but I promised to be nice. All you people know who you are anyway so... C.M., D.S., B.H., J.W., etc., blow it out your bloomerleg!

I've enjoyed it most of the time. I hate to leave the Steers on the verge of their 6-4 season, however, but that's life.

P.S. My replacement is a good one. Fresh out of college, he's a former all-district football player for Big Spring, and he knows the territory.

I'll see you. Don't take a any wooden columns.

Kite leads BCers

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Byman looks like a young Jack Nicklaus and on Saturday he golfed like one as he moved into contention for the winner's share of the $225,000 B.C. Open with a 3-under-par 68 over the En-Joie Golf Club course.

Byman takes a 4-under-par 138 into Sunday's third round to challenge leader Tom Kite who entered Saturday's second round 5-under-par.

Byman, 23, has been successful overseas in the past year, but the B.C. Open is only the fourth American tournament for the young golfer.

"This is it. If you want to play professional golf, this is where it's at," said Byman, a winner of $75,000 on last year's foreign tour.

Byman was within reach of Kite's 5-under-par performance until he bogeyed the last hole of his second round, but he said he was happy with his performance.

"I'm very pleased to be where I am," Byman said. "Another golfer pleased with his second-round performance was Texan Bobby Waiel who carded his second 3-under 69 of the tournament to match Byman's 4-under-par performance after two rounds.

Defending champion Gil Morgan also pulled into contention with a 4-under performance after 36 holes.

Bob Purizer, who shared the first-round lead with Kite dropped back after shooting 2-over-par Saturday.

The 150-golfer field was to be cut down after Saturday's second round with the 72-hole tournament scheduled to conclude Labor Day.

NFL season kicks off today

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

The National Football League's American Conference starts off Sunday right where it left off last New Year's Day — a mile high.

The NFL schedule-maker, obviously not one to build suspense, is sending the Oakland Raiders into Denver for a rematch of last season's AFC championship game, which the Broncos won 20-17. Craig Morton threw two touchdown passes to Haven Moses in the game while Ken Stabler connected with Dave Casper for a pair of Raider scores.

U.S. Open alive!!

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Connors survived his first real challenge in the U.S. Open tennis championships Saturday, as he struggled hard to get by little-known American Pat Dupre 7-5, 4-6, 6-3.

The third-round match was a close battle from the start, with No. 2-seed Connors failing to break service until the final game. Then, for the first time in the tournament, Connors, who was 26 on Saturday, himself was broken in the third game of the second set.

It was a truly impressive performance by Dupre, a 23-year-old American who was once pegged a promising junior prospect before he gradually slipped from the picture.

Earlier, Guillermo Vilas and Vitas Gerulaitis survived their third dangerously close matches. Vilas, the defending champion, outlasted former champion Stan Smith 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 and Gerulaitis barely pulled out a 6-4, 3-6, 7-5 squeaker over Rhodesian Andy Pattison.

In night matches, the Wimbledon champions were to play. Topseed Bjorn Borg was to meet Heinz Günthardt of Switzerland, and No. 1 Martina Navratilova was to play Marie Pinterova of Egypt.

In sharp contrast to the paths of the No. 1 and 2 seeds, Borg and Connors, who've had easy early opponents, Vilas and Gerulaitis have had to struggle.

Vilas had a difficult time against Cliff Drysdale in the first round and American Bill Scanlon in the next. Gerulaitis also was stunned by the big fight he got from young Frenchman Pascale Portes in his first match and then from American Victor Amaya.

In other matches, No. 4 Wendy Turnbull had little trouble getting past American Barbara Hallquist 6-2, 6-3, and No. 5 Eddie Dibbs scrambled to beat Hungarian Balazs Taroczy 7-6, 4-6, 6-3 in a second-round match.

Two of the seeded players fell in day matches. American Bob Lutz dumped No. 13 Jose-Luis Clerc of Argentina 6-3, 6-2 and American Butch Waltz eliminated Poland's Wojtek Fibak 6-4, 7-5.

No. 8 Raul Ramirez of Mexico had a stiff third-round fight from Britain's John Lloyd, but ultimately showed that he has better control, as he won 6-2, 6-3.

No. 6 Brian Gottfried easily defeated former U.S. Davis Cup player Erik van Dillen 6-1, 6-0. No. 11 Roscoe Tanner got by fellow American Eliot Teltscher 7-6, 6-2 in the third round. No. 12 Harold Solomon beat American country man Gene Mayer 6-4, 6-2, and No. 16 Arthur Ashe eliminated another American, Terry Moor, 6-3, 6-4.

Country Clubbers matching each other

Two past Country Club champions are among those who won in the match flight championship round Saturday on opening day of the annual Labor Day Weekend Club Championship.

Dan Wilkins, who has been champion twice, beat Wally Slate and will play Bernard Rains who took out Jimmy Welch.

Mike Hall, a two-time champion, went down to Howell Martin, who will meet Don Osborne who defeated R.P. Nicholson.

Jakie Thomas, a former club champion, beat Richard Terry and will meet Mike Weaver who defeated Fred Wilkinson. Weaver has been an invitational tourney champion.

Pat Weaver, who has been runner-up three different times, beat Novis Womack and will meet Carlton Young, who defeated Daryl Hohertz, also a former tournament champion.

Drake nips UTA

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Quarterback Steve Drexler came off the bench in the second half to engineer three long scoring drives and Dwayne Ball ran for two touchdowns to lead Drake to a 25-23 victory over Texas-Arlington Saturday.

The only scoring in the sluggish first half came on field goals of 24 and 31 yards by Drake's Mark Mendenhall after Maverick fumbles.

Texas-Arlington bunched all its scoring in the third quarter as quarterback Roy Dewalt ran one yard for a touchdown, passed for another less than a minute later and later sprinted 49 yards for a TD.

The difference was that Denver's other six points came on a Jon Keyworth TD plunge while the Raiders' other three came on a field goal by Errol Mann.

The Raiders, who had won Super Bowl XI, watched as Denver lost Super Bowl XII to Dallas, ending the AFC's five-year domination of the NFL title game.

The Cowboys host Baltimore on Monday night, with the Colts sending untested Mike Kirkland against Dallas' Doomsday Defense in place of injured quarterback Bert Jones.

Sunday's other games are Miami at the New York Jets, Kansas City at Cincinnati, Green Bay at Detroit, Houston at Atlanta, San Francisco at Cleveland, Los Angeles at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh at Buffalo, Minnesota at New Orleans, Washington at New England, St. Louis at Chicago and San Diego at Seattle.

Tampa Bay opened the season Saturday night against the visiting New York Giants.

"Oakland's coming in here looking for what they've always had — that's the AFC championship," Broncos wide receiver Rick Upchurch said of Sunday's game in Denver's Mile High Stadium. "We've got it now — but we're going to have to fight like dogs to keep it."

"It's going to be a tough, hard-hitting, close game. The team that gets the big break or the big play will win it. Both teams are big-play teams and their momentum goes from there."

Kirkland of the Colts is only one reserve quarterback pressed into action by injuries or other developments. He's actually No. 3 in Baltimore but both Jones and Mike Trout are hurting.

Don Strock will lead the Dolphins against the Jets in place of Bob Griese, who suffered a knee injury in Miami's exhibition victory over Tampa Bay. The last time Griese suffered a serious injury, in 1972, Earl Morrall took over and the Dolphins wound up winning all 17 of their games that year, including the Super Bowl.

Cincinnati will be starting John Reaves, a seven-year journeyman, in place of Ken Anderson, who broke a finger in his right hand last weekend. Green Bay, which had hoped to have Lynn Dickey back in action but had to settle for David Whitehurst in the exhibitions, may have to settle for Neil Graff now since Whitehurst has a mild shoulder separation.

Two other youngsters are getting starts because of poor showings by veterans. June Jones III, a free-agent rookie from Portland State last year, replaces disappointing Steve Bartkowski for Atlanta. In 1977 Jones attempted one pass and completed it — for minus one yard.

The league has 10 new head coaches — Chuck Knox at Buffalo, Marv Levy at Kansas City and Sam Rutigliano in the AFC and Neill Armstrong at Chicago, Monte Clark at Detroit, Ray Malavasi at Los Angeles, Pete McCulley at San Francisco, Dick Nolan at New Orleans, Jack Pardee at Washington and Bud Wilkinson at St. Louis in the NFC.

Knox was head coach at Los Angeles for five years, guiding the Rams to the NFC West title each time but never getting them into the Super Bowl. Clark was a one-year wonder in San Francisco.

Among the changes which the NFL has undergone since last season is the expansion of the regular season from 14 to 16 games, the addition of two more wild-card play-off teams and another round of play-offs, the addition of a side judge, a seventh official on the field (to cut down on the mayhem perpetrated on tight ends and other receivers who wander into what used to be a blind spot in the short secondary), a loosening up of restrictions against offensive linemen trying to protect their quarterback, and a tightening up of the rules regarding downfield bumping by defenders against potential receivers, the last two tactics designed to open up the offense a bit more.

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SEPTEMBER 3, 1978

ALI SPARS — Muhammad Ali spars Saturday during one of his 13-non-stop rounds in preparation for his Sept. 15 fight with Leon Spinks.

Ali... forever!?

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Muhammad Ali says his heavyweight championship fight with Leon Spinks two weeks from now may not be the last dance after all.

Ali, who only minutes before had repeated his plans to regain the championship and retire, said he may fight Larry Holmes instead.

"Maybe I'll stay around six months or so," he said. "Give the people a chance to see me as champion."

Spinks arrived here Friday evening and almost immediately underwent another episode in his recurring problems with automobiles in traffic. Before he ever got out of the airport parking lot, one of the motorcycle policemen in his escort party ran into the back of his $35,000 limousine and caused minor damage.

It was the seventh time in seven months that Spinks has been involved in traffic problems, but the second time in a row that it wasn't his fault.

Late in July, Spinks' car was hit at Hilton Head Island, S.C., where he was in training. No charges were filed. But in March, April and June, he was stopped for traffic violations five times. In the April incident, he was also charged with possession of cocaine and marijuana. The drug charges were dismissed, although he did pay a traffic fine.

Ali arrived a day earlier, describing his Sept. 15 fight with Spinks as "the last dance," a description he repeated Friday as he entertained reporters and fans with a rhythmic monologue in his dressing room.

Then — in almost an offhand fashion — he said that if he wins the World Boxing Association's portion of the crown from Spinks, he might go after the World Boxing Council title held by Holmes.

He said he would expect an Ali-Holmes fight to be worth about $6 million.

Ali's workout Friday was supposed to include three rounds of shadow boxing, then two rounds of boxing with each of five sparring mates.

He moved briskly through the shadow boxing session, then changed plans.

After one round with amateur heavyweight Tony Tubbs, Ali leaned over the ring ropes and told one of his handlers that he didn't feel well, that he had apparently not waited long enough after lunch to begin working.

He then went two more rounds against Tubbs, looking sharper as the workout progressed. After the third round, he curtailed his workout.

In his dressing room, he said he had done too much roadwork earlier in the day and that he was tired.

Both fighters were scheduled to work today, using the same facilities two hours apart.

Chris finds world

NEW YORK (AP) — Times have changed for Chris Evert, who has discovered at the tender age of 23 that there's a wide world beyond that rectangular patch of clay or grass, dissected by white lines and adorned with a net across the middle, known as a tennis court.

"My mental approach to tennis has changed," she reflected. "It's not a life or death thing for me whether I win a match. There's more to my life now than tennis. That was not always the case."

"Look, I've done it all. I've accomplished all there is to accomplish in tennis. I've won all the major tournaments, I've been No. 1 — what else is there?"

What else, indeed. Since bursting upon the tennis scene as a 16-year-old in 1971, when she reached the semifinals of the U.S. Open, Evert has achieved everything possible in the sport.

She's won the Open in each of the last three years. She's won Wimbledon twice, the French Open twice, the Italian Open twice, the Virginia Slims championship four times... the list is virtually endless. She has not lost a match on clay, her favorite playing surface, in more than five years, winning 118 in a row. Since 1971 she has won 92 percent of her matches — a monumental statistic if ever there was one.

But at the Open a year ago, while Evert was tearing through the field with her customary ease and aplomb, her mind occasionally wandered. She spoke of retirement, a desire to get away from it all, to break away from the grind of weekly tournaments in strange cities and living out of a suitcase.

So in mid-November, after competing for the United States in the Wightman Cup, she went on an extended vacation. She took four months out from competitive tennis, her first extended vacation in years, and when she returned it was with a more casual, laid-back attitude.

TAKES A BREAK — Chris Evert catches her breath between sets Friday night at the U.S. Open tennis championships. Chris Evert beat Donna Ganz 6-0, 6-4.

Pokes face shodless Colts

DALLAS (AP) — You'll be able to recognize the World Champion Dallas Cowboys Monday night, but where did all the defending American Football Conference Eastern Division champion Baltimore Colts go?

The first nationally televised Monday night game will feature a Baltimore team wracked by numerous personnel changes.

"Sure we have problems, and we will have more problems, but the only people who don't have problems are dead," says Baltimore Coach Ted Marchibroda.

The Colts have so many problems they certainly aren't dead.

For starters, one thing that isn't 100 per cent alive is quarterback Bert Jones' good right arm—injured in a nasty spill during the Colts' final National Football League preseason game. Jones won't play.

Mike Kirkland, known as a steady quarterback at the University of Arkansas, will get the call over Mike Troup, who also was injured last week.

And, lo, who's that at wide receiver? Could it be Roger Carr, who missed most of the 1977 season due to a knee injury? Carr caught only 11 passes in 1977.

That's the good news for Colt fans because 1,000-yard gainer and pass receiver superb tailback Lydell Mitchell is gone in a bitter salary dispute which had Mitchell claiming the Colt management used "racism in negotiations."

He was traded to San Diego.

Joe Washington, described once by Texas Coach Darrell Royal as possessing the ability to jump through a keyhole, will join Don McCauley, Roosevelt Leaks, and Don Hardeman in the Colt backfield.

Tight end Ray Chester questioned Colt offensive strategy in the off-season and was traded so look for Mack Alston and rookie Reese McCall at that position.

In the offensive line, Ken Huff replaces retired Elmer Collett at guard. Injuries have hobbled tackles George Kunz and David Taylor. Wade Griffin and Bob Van Dyne look to be possible starters.

Defensively, the "Sack Pack" will have two new faces, Derrel Luce at linebacker replacing the retired Tom MacLeod and Doug Nettles ahead of Nelson Munsey at cornerback.

The Colts were 1-3 in the preseason while Dallas was 3-1.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry juggled his lineup very little. Tony (The Thrill) Hill, a second year receiver from Stanford, beat out veterans Butch Johnson and Golden Richards for the receiving spot opposite Drew Pearson. Andy Frederick is starting at right tackle and Pat Donovan has switched to left tackle.

The placekicker is new, Rafael Septien, replacing the traded Efran Herrera.

Landry is worried about the short preseason because of the new 16-game schedule. "We're where we normally are after four games," said Landry. "If we do well against Baltimore and the New York Giants the next two weeks, we'll be very competitive. Right now, our defense looks good and our passing game is ahead of our running game."

Bring out all the old football cliches now

"A tie is like kissing your sister." Bear Bryant, 1961.

"I'll dance with the one who brung me." Darrell Royal, 1968.

"Win one for the Gipper." Knute Rockne, circa, Golden Twenties.

"A football takes funny bounces." Amos Alonzo Stagg, 1932.

"Three yards and a cloud of dust." Woody Hayes, 1965.

The crazy season is upon us again. Cliches and cliches. Old acorns and alumni anxieties. Pom pom girls. Marching bands. Bitter rivalries. Emotions unharassed.

Football doesn't arrive gracefully any more. It just busts through the front door and says "hello" without knocking. Television is the culprit. You have to give people an early appetizer, even if it means putting the national championship on the line the first week.

This week's appetizer: Alabama vs. Nebraska.

Our longtime football prognosticator, Operative X-9, emerges from five years of hiding—weighted down with crystal balls, calculators, tea leaves, Ouiji boards and biorhythm charts—and plunges fearlessly into another season's work.

Alabama 32, Nebraska 21. It was the Cornhuskers who jarred Alabama's national title aspirations with the team's only setback a year ago and let Notre Dame sneak into the mythical college championship. Bear Bryant hasn't let his minions forget it. Among other things, the Alabama team is known as the Red Elephants. Elephants don't forget, regardless of color.

Arlington (Texas) 27, Drake 14: You can't walk a mile in the Lone Star State without tripping over a cactus or another relatively obscure but tough college football team.

Mississippi State 17, West Texas State 7: Our spies in the Southeastern Conference say the Bulldogs have the best set of receivers below the Mason-Dixon line. We assume there's somebody to throw the ball.

Arkansas State 30, Tulsa 19: It will take time for Tulsa's Hurricane to rally from its losing 1977 season. Arkansas State is too tough a team to catch so early.

East Carolina 25, Western Carolina 13: A back yard spat. East Carolina is thinking in terms of national polls and post-season bowl recognition. Good team speed.

North Texas State 21, El Paso (Texas) 6: "North" is a dirty word in El Paso even if it's still in Texas, but rebel blood can't boil hot enough in this one.

Eastern Michigan 25, Northern Michigan 14: The Mid-American Conference plays a good, underrated brand of football.

Southern Mississippi 18, Richmond 3: The Virginians are still too young to shave.

Utah State 33, Idaho State 20: A Sunday game in Osaka, Japan.

NFL says: 'It's a record!'

Unlike major league baseball, which turned "asterisk" into a four-letter word, the National Football League has decreed that a season is a season and a record is a record and that's all there is to it.

Bravo!

Roger Maris has had to live with the stigma of a parenthetical note which somewhat accusingly points out that he hit his record 61 home runs in a 162-game season while Babe Ruth's 60 were hit in 154.

The NFL expands its season from 14 to 16 games this year and, just as when it went from 12 to 14 games in 1961, every number in the record books is up for grabs without reservation.

So whoever shatters any of the league's single-season records like O.J. Simpson's 2,003 yards rushing, Joe Namath's 4,007 yards passing or Charley Hennigan's 101 passes caught—or Dan Pastorini's 17 fumbles or George Blanda's 42 intercepted passes, for that matter—won't have to share his record, statistical purists notwithstanding.

That irks Hennigan, a subscriber to the asterisk principle. In fact, he thought there'd be one in the books.

"I'm proud of the 101 passes I caught," Hennigan said, "but I'm even prouder of my other record (1,746 yards gained receiving). And both of them are real special now 'cause I know they'll never be broken, 'cause they were set when they played 14 games and there'll be something to point that out."

Sorry, Charley. "Oh," he said, then paused. "Well, that's a real shame. Hey, if I'd had two more games to play in '64 (when he caught his 101 passes) then maybe I'd have caught 120 or 130 or something."

It might be noted that the yardage record he broke—in 14 games—had belonged to Elroy "Crazy Legs" Hirsch, 1,495 yards—in 12 games.

"Well, yeah," Hennigan admitted, then quickly insisted, "but I passed him in 12. It didn't take me all 14."

Simpson, conversely, says he won't feel cheated if his 2,003 yards are blattered. "So what?" O.J. shrugged when someone mentioned the possibility of his rushing record succumbing to a longer season. "It won't make any difference to anyone else in 10 years whether I hold a record or not—and it won't make any difference to me, either."

"I feel the same way," said Blanda, who owns a lot of passing, scoring and longevity records along with his 42 interceptions. "Most of my records more than likely will be broken and that doesn't bother me. Heck, when I broke somebody else's records it didn't change my life—and when somebody broke one of mine it didn't affect me, either."

BYU gets N-O-D

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Brigham Young University is a near-unanimous choice to capture the Western Athletic Conference football title this fall in a preseason poll of writers and broadcasters on the WAC Skywriters Tour.

BYU received 20 of the 23 first-place votes cast by the media members at the conclusion of the tour here Thursday. San Diego State was a distant second and Colorado State third.

Marc Wilson, BYU's record-setting quarterback, and Mike Bell, CSU's All-America defensive tackle, were expected to be the outstanding offensive and defensive players, respectively, in 1978.

The Cougars, who tied for the WAC title the past two seasons, totaled 158 points in the voting, with 7 points awarded for a first-place vote, 6 points for a second-place vote, etc.

San Diego State, new to the WAC this fall, received two first-place nods and 121 points, while CSU had 111½ points.

New Mexico received the remaining first-place vote and 86 points for fourth place.

Wyoming finished fifth in the voting with 79½ points, followed by Utah with 69 and Texas-El Paso with 23.

Wilson was named on 10 ballots, edging New Mexico running back Mike Williams, who had nine votes. Wyoming running back Myron Hardeman received the other three votes.

Bell gathered 19 votes, and Wyoming linebacker Ken Fantetti got the other three.

The media also predicted that Keith Lee, CSU quarterback, and Jeff Lyall, Utah defensive end, would be the top rookies. Lee and Lyall each received six votes. UNM running back Mike Carter got five votes, Utah defensive tackle Steve Clark four and BYU wide receiver Kent Tingey one.

Utah was named as the "team which most changed the media's opinion in a positive manner," receiving 11 votes. UTEP got 4½, New Mexico 3½, San Diego State 2 and CSU 1.

Suit filed for fems to play ball with boys

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A suit was filed in federal court Thursday to allow high school girls to play varsity baseball with boys.

The American Civil Liberties Foundation of Texas, Inc., (ACLFT) and Women's Equity Action League filed the class action suit on behalf of Pamela Jacobs, 15, a sophomore at Wells High School in Cherokee County.

The suit challenges a University Interscholastic League rule that permits only boys to play baseball, as well as football. The UIL provides softball programs for girls.

In the Wells district, however, the only girls' sports are basketball and track.

ACLFT lawyer John Buckley said the suit is directed solely at opening up baseball to girls.

U.S. District Court Judge Woodrow Seals of Houston ruled in the spring that Linda Williams of Houston Wheatley could play on the boys team, but the UIL said the ruling applied only to Williams.

Williams, the UIL said, batted nine times without a hit, striking out eight times and grounding out once. She made five fielding errors as an outfielder and quit before the season ended, the UIL said.

ACLFT said Jacobs made the first baseball team organized at Wells, a Class B school, as a ninth grader this past spring. She was forced off the squad after three games, ACLFT said, by a UIL directive that the Williams ruling did not mean that all girls could play baseball.

UIL director Bailey Marshall's letter said superintendents should discourage parents from going to court "since the next judge may go beyond deciding for one school with a definite set of circumstances."

ACLFT said Wells school officials asked Jacobs to leave the team so that the school could retain its eligibility in baseball.

But Supt. Thomas Fields of Wells said in a letter to the Texas Education Agency that the girl quit "because she feared she would jeopardize our UIL membership if she played."

ACLFT said the league rule discriminates on the basis of sex, which is forbidden by the U.S. and Texas constitutions—specifically the state equal rights amendment—the federal civil rights act and the state discrimination law.

It attached a letter from Gilbert Conoley of the state education agency stating that the UIL rule seems to be "contrary" to federal law (Title IX). Conoley suggested that Fields contact John Bell of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Dallas for clarification.

Marshall was not available for comment Thursday, but UIL athletic director Bill Forney said, "Some people just don't want to be told no."

WOLF PROWL — Two senior lettermen returning for the Colorado City Wolves this season will be Jim Shoemaker (6-0, 200), left, and Martin Molina (8-0, 205). Shoemaker returns as guard, while Molina will fill in again at tackle both ways. The Wolfpack opens its regular season Friday at home against Slaton.

How to tell a golfer from athlete

Upon reaching the age of sporting awareness, many young men are forced to make a difficult decision. It is a decision that might shape their lives, both professionally and socially.

They have to decide whether to be athletes or golfers.

One of the myths long perpetuated by sportswriters is that golf is an athletic endeavor. It is very easy to understand why sportswriters have knowingly lent credibility to this falsehood. Golf permits sportswriters to live the good life.

Most important golf tournaments are held at fashionable private country clubs. Usually, these clubs are not located in the barrio. The great majority of them have hot and cold running water, food, booze, and an overabundance of well-dressed, well-coiffed suburban women.

Generally speaking, the country clubs invite the reporters to avail themselves of all the facilities of the club, except, naturally, the golf course.

This is just fine with most of the sportswriters, because they are only interested in seeing that part of the course which can be viewed on the television monitors that are almost invariably set up in the present or on the veranda, both of which, naturally, are equipped with hot and cold running water, food, booze, and those suburban women.

Anyway, because, as the late Frank Graham once noted, most sportswriters are people who never want to be millionaires but always want to live like them, they keep reporting about golf as if it were a sport just like boxing or football, baseball or basketball, hockey or auto racing, tennis or track and field.

It is not, of course, and so deciding what to do about golf is a singularly important moment in a young man's life.

In order to make reaching that crucial decision easier, the following guidelines are offered:

GOLFER	ATHLETE
1. Perspires.	1. Sweats.
2. Wears only pastel polyester that he does not like to get soiled.	2. Figures that a wet, disgustingly filthy uniform is an indication that an honest day's labor has been put in.
3. Discusses the stock market, the commodity market, and the flesh market between shots.	3. Discusses the previous shot between shots, when he is not gasping for breath or playing defense.
4. Cheats.	4. Hustles.
5. Walks.	5. Runs.
6. Is nicknamed Chip.	6. Is nicknamed Gus.
7. Likes to wear saddle shoes or Hush Puppies.	7. Wears sneakers, spikes, or cleats.
8. Has a caddy.	8. Was a caddy.
9. Plays bridge.	9. Plays poker.
10. Drinks martinis.	10. Drinks anything.
11. Still likes Ike and defends Nixon.	11. Respects Jerry Ford and votes Democratic.
12. Says things like: "Retire? Then what am I going to do? Fish and play golf?"	12. Worries about his pension.
13. Gulps for breath when he bends over to pick his ball out of the hole.	13. Gulps for breath when someone slugs him in the solar plexus.
14. Wasn't athletic enough to make his prep polo team.	14. Was war lord of his high school gang.
15. Thinks Nassau is a kind of bet.	15. Thinks Nassau is a Caribbean island.
16. Thinks Julius Boros is a great athlete.	16. Challenges Julius Boros to a stip contest.
17. Thinks a driver is something in a bag.	17. Thinks a driver is something in a cap that rich people have.
18. Complains about the rough.	18. Is rough.

Dorsett's through with error, on & off field

DALLAS (AP) — Anthony Drew Dorsett just thought Tom Landry's playbook would be the hardest thing he would have to learn in the National Football League.

Nobody ever told him that fame usually brings its share of trouble.

During his first year in professional football, he punched a bartender over a racial slur and cursed a policeman who was arresting a girlfriend.

The kid from a Western Pennsylvania steel town had no retreat in his system. The Dallas Cowboys were unhappy and so was Dorsett.

"My biggest concern after those two incidents was that people would label me a troublemaker on the level of Duane Thomas or something," said Dorsett. "I'm not like that."

Thomas had once called Cowboy Coach Landry "a plastic man." He had openly flaunted Landry's rules during Dallas's 1970 Super Bowl season. Landry had vowed he would never acquiesce to another player.

"I learned my lesson," said Dorsett. "Both incidents could have been avoided if I just walked away from them."

Dorsett, who signed a million dollar contract after his sensational career at Pittsburgh, and moved to Dallas and quickly discovered that even Heisman Trophy winners can be baited in bars.

With charges dropped, he arrived in California for his first NFL training camp. Reporters wanted to know two things: 1. How many yards he expected to gain? 2. What about his night life?

"I made some mistakes and went through some hassles," said Dorsett. "But the press had a job to do."

Dorsett overcame a knee injury to gain 1,005 yards, establish a club touchdown record, and lead the Cowboys to victory in Super Bowl XII.

Then he had his second brush with the law. Again, no formal charges were filed.

But the fretting Cowboy front office called upon

'Earl the Pearl' debuts today

ATLANTA (AP) — Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell makes his National Football League debut Sunday when the Houston Oilers take on the Atlanta Falcons, who will be guided by an unknown free agent quarterback with the unlikely name of June Jones III.

A crowd of 58,000 is expected for the 1 p.m. EDT kickoff at Atlanta Stadium.

"We are extremely pleased with his progress," said Houston Coach Bum Phillips of Campbell, the NFL's No. 1 draft pick who led the league in pre-season rushing with 255 yards on 47 attempts, a 5.6 yard average and two touchdowns.

The 5-foot-11, 224-pound former University of Texas runner will start as the tailback in Houston's I-formation attack along with running back Tim Wilson, a second year player from Maryland and veteran Dan Pastorini at quarterback.

The Oilers, who were 1-3 in pre-season, will be going against an Atlanta defense that set an NFL record a year ago, allowing only 129 points.

"Atlanta is a very aggressive, reckless football team. They come at you with a lot of blitzes, and in that sense are a reckless team. But their defense held up very well last year and we expect them to be as good this year," said Phillips, whose club has been picked by many to win the American Football League's Central Division.

As for defending Jones, Phillips admits he knows very little about the second-year player from Portland State who passed only one time in his rookie season but won over 1975 Rookie of the Year Steve Bartkowski for the quarterbacking job this season.

"I know nothing about him except what little bit we have of him on film," said Phillips.

Jones played the entire contest in Atlanta's final pre-season victory over Washington and closed out the exhibition season with 18 completions in 37 pass attempts for 297 yards and two touchdowns. He also guided Atlanta, which finished the pre-season at 2-2, to its only other victory, a 20-17 triumph over the New York Jets.

"I believe that he has proven he can play in the NFL, however, I am also aware there will be much more pressure on him this week," Falcons Coach Leeman

Bennett said of Jones.

Bubba Bean, Atlanta's No. 1 draft choice in 1976, who missed the entire 1977 season with a leg injury, pulled a hamstring against the Redskins but will start at running back alongside veteran Haske Stanback.

Bennett also is aware that Houston is known for its quick starts which includes three consecutive shutout victories in its openers.

"Houston couldn't be a more difficult team to open with. They have a history of opening strong," he said. "The Oilers are one of the most physical teams in the NFL, and I don't think anyone would question that they are also among the very best."

All-American Futurity Monday

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. (AP) — Vespero's chances of earning nearly a half-million dollars Labor Day look excellent now. But for a second about a week ago it didn't appear the speedy gelding would even get the chance.

Vespero is the horse to beat, the one the other nine horses will be chasing but probably won't be able to catch Monday at Ruidoso Downs in the 20th running of the All-American Futurity, billed as the world's richest horse race.

But there were some anxious moments for the owners and backers of the 2-year-old quarter horse during 25 time trials held Aug. 25 to determine which 10 of the 249 All-American hopefuls would qualify for the race that carries a gross purse of $1.28 million.

Vespero burst from the gate, was way out front and looked like he would breeze to victory in his heat with a time that probably would be the best of the day. But then it happened.

"His hind legs slipped out from under him," said trainer Marilyn Asmussen,

"but he was able to regather himself and start again."

She said Vespero didn't go down completely but gave up precious ground and time that can be fatal in a quarter horse race where it takes far less than a minute for the entire race to be run.

The pride and joy of owners Gordon and Juanita Crone of Lakin, Kan., regained his stride and blazed down the track to finish strongly, in second place a half-length behind Osage Juana.

Vespero's time was 22.23½ seconds, which ended up as the third best qualifying time behind Osage Juana's 22.16-second clocking and Moon Lark's 22.18-second effort.

His top competition for the $437,500 top prize in the nationally televised All-American should come from Osage Juana and Moon Lark with Gentlemens Feature being the top threat among the outsiders.

Here is the field for Monday's All-American Futurity for 2-year-old quarter horses with owners and qualifying times: Osage Juana, Thomas Ballenger, Thousand Oaks, Calif., 22.16; Moon Lark, Paul James and Sam Howard, Coppell, prominent sports personalities to give Dorsett a buzz. To enhance his image, Dorsett helped police work with youth in several Texas towns.

Dorsett later moved to the small Collin County town of Wylie (it's motto splashed on billboards: "Wide Awake Wylie") to escape the public eye.

"It's the greatest thing I ever did," said Dorsett. "I can relax out there in the country. I'm used to the idea now that parts of my life will always be for public record. It's just part of the job. If my next door neighbor had those (off-the-field) problems no one would ever know."

Dorsett has openly thanked the press, saying "They wrote their story and didn't enlarge it. Up in the east, they would have tried me for murder."

Dorsett certainly doesn't dodge interviews. He usually answers his own telephone and will call back.

"I've never refused an interview unless I was really late to be somewhere or had a conflict," he said.

The articulate Dorsett admitted he was a lot more at home in the NFL this year.

"I'm a lot more relaxed. I know the system and I don't have to worry about where the play is going. I don't feel the pressure on me that I did last year. I certainly feel more advanced in professional football."

Dorsett said his sophomore season should be much more productive.

"If I stay healthy, it's highly probable I'll get 1,500 yards," he said. "I don't think that would be asking too much. I remember that was my goal last year and I haven't forgotten that goal."

"Of course, I really just want to be consistent. If I'm consistent, my yards will take care of themselves."

Media attention has drifted away from Dorsett but he said "I don't feel like a forgotten man... I feel more like a proven man."

And Dorsett would like to prove he's in the same league with O.J. Simpson, the first NFL runner to gain over 2,000 yards. "I really admire O.J. Simpson," said Dorsett. "What a tremendous achievement to get 2,000 yards. And that wasn't with a team as good as Dallas."

BIG FISH — Phillip Ritchey of Coahoma (right), is shown here with a 5'6", 87-pound tarpon he caught recently near Port Aransas. The young angler caught the fish on 30-pound test, using a ribbon-fish for bait, and the battle lasted three hours. He was fishing for Kingfish. Brother Mike, veteran player for the Coahoma Bulldogs, indicated that the fish cleared the water three times. Such a catch is a rarity in that part of the gulf.

Spence reports finless

Fishing reports from Lake E.V. Spence during the week have been skimpy, but there's nothing skimping about the 35-lb. yellow catfish hauled in by Johnny Mesa, Eunice, N.M., and John Dubose, Kermit.

Reports did reflect some handsome catches of white bass and channel catfish.

Included were:

Wildcat Fish A Rama — C. W. Hash Jr., Crosbyton, 8-lb. striper.

Paint Creek Marina — Ron Meyers and Brant Moss, Midland, 30 white bass; Sandra Westball, Odessa, 4-lb. striper.

Hillside Grocery — William Amis and Dennis Morgan, Abilene, 51 channel catfish to 4 lbs., seven stripers to 5 lbs., and two black bass to 5½ lbs.

Coogs untank Tigers

ABILENE — Abilene Cooper gave Snyder a lesson in offensive football in a scrimmage here Thursday evening, outscoring the Tigers five touchdowns to one.

Terry Orr, all-district as a sophomore last fall for Cooper, led all rushers with 49 yards in eight carries.

Snyder, which opposes Big Spring in its third game last week, 1-0. A 15-yard pass from QB Clay Johnson to tight end Mitch Mackey produced Snyder's lone touchdown against Cooper.

Ice Capades If you check the library will start Sept. 14

Research papers a breeze

By REBBECA TAYLOR Reference Librarian

Ice Capades will offer a wide range of entertainment, from the days of knights in shining armor to today's colorful generation, when it opens a week's run in Odessa's Ector County Coliseum Thursday, Sept. 14. Eight performances are scheduled.

The show's all-new theme is an invitation to "Make a Wish" to be answered in a variety of elaborate productions. The opening number, "A Royal Welcome," features Ladies "Waiting and their Gentlemen all lavishly dressed in costumes from the Elizabethan era. A Minstrel Man and several court jesters add to the humor of this grand occasion.

When school starts, students begin to encounter the problem of how to fill assignments with the least amount of effort. You can cheat, scrape 'something' together at the last minute, not do the assignments and fail the course, or dig right in and give yourself a chance to "do good."

Many problems involving research papers, short essays, reports, book reviews and others are best solved by a trip to the library. This is not at all "painful" if one remembers a few simple "keys to success."

more than two books. In the first place, the next fellow won't have a chance. For example, it is ridiculous for one person to have two copies of the same book on wildflowers when he really only needs one good field guide for identifying the plants.

In the second place, you probably can't use more than two good source books for research in three weeks. The more books you take out the greater the risk of losing one...or two, and the greater the overdue fine if their late. Third, if you are more selective in choosing these first books, you will waste less time sorting through the material when you sit down to work on the assignment.

The third "key to success" is ASK. Do not assume there is no information available or no answer to your question if you can not find it right away. Give the library staff a chance to work on the problem. If what you find is not exactly what you want, don't be bashful, ask again! It is smarter to ask a dumb question than to remain ignorant.

Music reaches all races, nationalities

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Pop singer Doble Gray, who recently returned from a five-week concert tour of South Africa, says despite racial problems in the country, "they all understand music."

Gray, best known for hits like "Loving Arms," "In Crowd," "Drift Away" and "Look at Me," was among the first black entertainers to tour South Africa after the recent opening of theaters to racially mixed audiences.

"It would be good for most artists to go there," Gray said in an interview. "We don't realize how starved for good entertainment they are or how big American artists are over there. And the money was so good, I couldn't pass it up. It was a terrific experience."

Accompanied by a three-piece band, Gray said he performed 50 shows before audiences totaling 125,000, with 45 of the shows sold out. His concerts were in Cape Town, Johannesburg, East London, Port Elizabeth and Durban.

"I sympathize with the situation there," Gray said. "It's very complicated and more than just white and black."

Gray, who also toured the country in 1976, noted a different atmosphere this time.

"People seemed to be more in a hurry now," he said. "There was more tension in the air than last time. But still, they bogie and have a good time. Maybe it's because of the pressures of outside aggression."

He described his audiences as equally mixed between blacks and whites, most of them "common people."

Little Mo is smash hit on TV

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC calls it "Sneak Preview Week," and what it means is that the worst summer television drought in years is coming to an end.

Starting this Tuesday with the movie "Little Mo," NBC presents first-run movies, specials and sneak previews of its fall series. ABC and CBS also will be doing the same thing, but not as extensively.

ABC will premiere its new shows on Monday, Sept. 11, and NBC and CBS will hold their fall debuts the following Monday.

Method Mr. Webb protests too much. It is without a doubt the best thing he's ever done. And with a woman as feisty as Maureen Connolly you're not going to get vanilla.

Miss Connolly, played by Glynnis O'Connor, won the women's singles tennis championship at Forest Hills at the age of 16, Wimbledon at 17, and the following year she won the Grand Slam — the American, British, French and Australian championships.

She suffered a disabling injury at 19 while horseback riding and was forced to retire from tournament tennis. She died of cancer at the age of 34 on June 21, 1969, on the eve of Wimbledon.

Ms. O'Connor spent two months preparing for the role, playing four or five hours a day with Nancy Chaffee Kiner, a former top player and frequent opponent of Miss Connolly.

She picks up the role at the age of 9. "They put a girdle around my chest. It was a little uncomfortable to play tennis in," she said.

Girl Friends is a great first try

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What made Claudia Weill think she could make a feature movie?

"I was just nuts, I guess," explains the 31-year-old New Yorker. "But I wanted to try it. I had made documentaries, short films for 'Sesame Street,' film assignments for television stations, all kinds of shorts. I wanted to try something different."

She succeeded. Warner Bros. released her "Girl Friends" to splendid business in New York City despite the newspaper strike. Characteristically, Claudia Weill went into the Manhattan streets with her star, Melanie Mayron, to distribute handbills advertising the film.

Why not? "Girl Friends" has been a one-woman crusade since its beginnings three years ago. Unlike most such film projects, this one has a happy ending. "Girl Friends" has rough edges, but they contribute to the convincing quality of the film.

It is the story of Susan Weinblatt, an eager young photographer trying to carve a career in Manhattan.

Participation being urged

The Howard College Community Theatre Group is holding tryouts for its first Fall Production Tuesday and Wednesday nights, Sept. 5 and 6, in the college auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Director John Gordon is again urging persons in the community interested in joining the group to come. "You do not have to be a Howard College student," Gordon pointed out.

He said that scripts for four plays are available. "Play selection will depend on the number of people who show up and the talent available."

Colorado City added a population of around 5,000. The first production is scheduled for Oct. 5 and 6.

Ridin' fence Billy The Kid

with Marj Carpenter

Often referred to as the Robin Hood of Lincoln County, Billy the Kid was a walking legend that has been immortalized in books, stories, songs and movies.

You can visit in Lincoln, N.M. and walk the streets almost as if you were in a land almost one hundred years old where Billy the Kid has been immortalized.

Probably the most revealing of the old Lincoln County productions was the John Wayne Movie, "Chisum" which told part of Billy's tale. It's not historically perfect, but what is after a number of years?

Recently, Kenneth Hart brought me a magazine that included the article in the Las Vegas Daily Optic of Fort Sumner, N.M. on July 18, 1881.

This is the way it read: "Pat Garrett, the terror of all evil-doers in this loser country, planted a ball with his unerring deadly aim in the heart of Billy the Kid last night about midnight.

"Pat had come up to Sumner on account of so many rumors reaching him that the 'Kid' was lurking in that place or vicinity. About the hour mentioned, he rode up near the town and in company with John W. Poe and T.M. McKinney, started on an exploring expedition.

"Pat went into Mr. Pete Maxwell's room to get what news he could of the 'Kid,' and he had been there two minutes before the 'Kid,' in his stocking feet, entered the room and walking up to the bed (on the edge of which Pat was sitting talking to Maxwell) and had a pistol (self cocker) in one hand and a big butcher knife in the other.

"Pat reached behind him for his pistol and at the action, 'Kid' dropped his pistol on him and asked in Spanish 'Quien es? Quien es?' This delay in firing on the Kid's part gave Pat all the time he needed, and the words were barely uttered before Pat's dauntless courage had driven a ball through the center of the 'Kid's' heart. He died in a moment, almost without a groan.

"The belief is that the 'Kid' had received intelligence of Pat's presence and was searching for him at the time, or that he had gone to murder Maxwell in his bed.

"An inquest was held on the body today and the verdict of the jury was 'justifiable homicide,' and that Pat Garrett ought to receive the thanks of the whole community for his indomitable courage and energy in ridding the country of this deperado and that he is truly worthy of a handsome reward."

That was the news story when Billy the Kid was shot. Through the years, the hero has not become Pat Garrett — but Billy. In a matter of minutes, the Maxwell home was surrounded by a crowd that looked on with mixed emotions as Celsa cradled the head of her fallen lover in her arms.

The official inquest statement was signed by Jose Silva, Sarah Gutierrez and Lorenzo Jarmillo, along with Anto Saavedra, Pedro Anto Lucero and M. Rudolph. It was signed on July 15, 1881, almost 100 years ago.

The appointed inquest jury went to the scene and issued the following verdict, "We of the jury unanimously find that William Bonney has been killed by a shot on the left breast near the region of the heart, the same having been fired with a gun in the hand of Pat F. Garrett and our verdict is that the deed of said Garrett was justifiable homicide and we unanimous on the opinion that the gratitude of all the community is due to the said Garrett for his deed and is worthy of being rewarded."

So that was that. But in Fort Sumner where Billy the Kid is buried and in Lincoln County where Billy the Kid lived and fought — the winds blow free and the people who come by come to honor — not Pat Garrett, nor the inquest jury — but "Billy the Kid."

And that's the way it was — out where one of America's best known outlaws rode fence.

"It scared the hell out of me. I still feel shook up about it." He added it would be "a couple of days, I guess," before he recovered from the shock.

Police attached the dynamite to McCartney's parked car during a training session with dogs which sniff out explosives. Officers had not expected a parking lot attendant to return the car to its owner with the explosives still attached, airport director Leonard L. Griggs Jr. said.

The attendant said he turned the car over to an elderly couple. Police, searching a list of 1,700 incoming passengers, apparently overlooked McCartney because only married couples were being contacted.

McCartney, a widower, said he and a friend had just returned from a vacation. John Clouse and Ed Philippe, the airport police canine officers, said they notified toll gate personnel that a valet parking lot would be used in the dog training exercise. Passengers leave their cars with attendants in valet lots, which are closed to the public.

Family living in park gets variety of offers

FREEHOLD TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — The Edward Erving family has received offers to give up a campsite in the park home and go live in an apartment, a mobile home and a farm in Nebraska.

The Ervings and their five children have been living in a pitched tent in Turkey Swamp Park since losing their Hightstown home through foreclosure on a second mortgage.

When they could not find another place to live because landlords refused to accept a family with five children, they resorted to camping. The Ervings have lived outdoors since Aug. 3.

But things are looking up — they have received so many offers of assistance they are not sure which way to turn.

"This has showed us that there are people who care and really do want to help you," Mrs. Erving said. "Now I want to get everything together so that my husband and I can both make a decision."

At least four people have offered apartments and mobile homes and others have said they would donate food, clothing and money.

The family is not eligible for social service funds because Erving's income as an employee in a home for the elderly is just above the maximum limit to receive aid, the family said.

Early Thursday the couple received their first offer of a home — from Frances Golden of Piscataway, who said she wanted to donate a two-bedroom mobile home.

"I feel sorry for the people," Mrs. Golden said. "I have my own grandchildren and I would not like to see them living like that."

An offer of a farm came from an Allen, Neb., resident, relayed through the local police department.

A florist from Los Angeles told Mrs. Erving he put a check in the mail for the family. Shoes for the children, who will soon be starting school, were offered by an area merchant.

The family may have to move from their campsite this weekend because it has been reserved by other campers for the Labor Day holiday weekend.

However, Bruce Gollnick, superintendent of the Monmouth County Parks System, said the family would not be forced out of the park, despite the rule that camping permits are issued for only 15 days.

"We would like to try to see if we can accommodate them," he said.

Park manager Frank E. Biddle Jr. said the family probably would be moved to another campsite in the park "if we are not going to throw them out," he said.

Farm Spending in rural areas is lagging

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new government report says federal spending in rural areas continues to lag behind that in more urban parts of the country.

The report, issued Friday by the Agriculture Department, said federal spending in the 1976-77 fiscal year averaged about 22 percent more for each person living in metropolitan areas than for one in the countryside.

Looking at nearly 700 selected federal programs involving $314.5 billion in spending that year, the study said outlays averaged $1,555 per capita in metropolitan areas and $1,271 in non-metropolitan areas.

The report was the first in a series planned by the department's Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service.

J. Norman Reid, one of the report's three authors, told a reporter that a similar study was sent to Congress early in 1977 and that the new one indicates similar spending trends.

Earlier versions were intended as presidential reports to Congress on the availability of government services to rural America, and were not quite as broad as the new compilation.

Looking at the entire $314.5 billion spent in the programs examined, the report said more than 76 percent was spent in metropolitan counties which accounted for 72.8 percent of the U.S. population.

Thus, it said, per capita spending ballooned for the metropolitan areas.

"Federal outlays data are not a completely adequate measure of government services," the report said. "This is true first of all because spending levels result from a number of factors including not only the quantity of services provided but also their quality, local variations in their costs and differences in their exact nature."

Another reason is that consideration of federal spending alone excludes what state and local governments and private organizations spend on public services.

"It is also becoming increasingly clear that federal policies toward local areas are not fully reflected in expenditure totals," it said.

Hospital employees donate needed blood

By DUSTY RICHARD

Blood. Most of us have little cause to think about the life-giving fluid which courses through our veins, that is, until an emergency arises in which we, or one of our loved ones, need it.

According to Emily Ward, public relations director at Malone-Hogan Hospital, in June, 1978 alone, 207 units (pints) of blood were needed at the four local hospitals, but only 113 units had been donated.

"The need for blood is urgent and great," Ms. Ward emphasized. "It's estimated that, in addition to the mobiles that are scheduled periodically in the business community, 20 donors are needed weekly."

Unfortunately, donations of blood in the Big Spring community have averaged only 10 units a week, a deficit of 10 units a week which may not seem like much on paper, but which add up to a lot when someone is in desperate need.

To help fill this gap, Monday has been designated "Blood Donor Day" or "D-Day" at Malone-Hogan. However, Malone-Hogan merely serves as a site for donations, because it is a community blood center, and the blood drawn there is used by all hospitals in the Big Spring area.

Technicians from the West Texas Blood Service in San Angelo come to Malone-Hogan from noon to 7 p.m. every Monday to draw blood from potential donors. Because of the Labor Day holiday, they will be there from noon until 6 p.m. Sept. 5.

Aug. 28 was a special blood-donor day, though. Called "Chicken Day" by Malone-Hogan Hospital staff, employees of the hospital staged a blood drive among themselves to have a reserve of the precious fluid on hand for the Labor Day weekend with its usually staggering need for blood.

Starting weeks ago on their project, posters promoting the event were made by each department within the hospital, such as Lab, X-ray, Maintenance, Volunteer and Emergency Room, said Ms. Ward.

To encourage full participation, department heads scheduled their employees so that each person wishing to donate blood could do so without conflict. The hospital itself gave a free meal to each donor, including those who tried and were deferred due to medical reasons.

Said Ms. Ward, "Hearing about the 'Chicken Day' at Malone-Hogan, the local Kentucky Fried Chicken fast food establishment volunteered free lunch coupons to all donors this Monday. And the eleven-year-old Living, Caring, Sharing Volunteers, the group who made headlines weeks ago because they wanted to serve the community, made 'Chicken' favors for the hospital."

The result of Malone-Hogan's "Chicken Day" was a total of 69 units of blood drawn and 16 deferrals.

Director of Donor Development for West Texas Blood Service, Ray Perkins, said that this local blood center is committed to the "totally volunteer donor base concept."

"This means that all donors give on a completely volunteer basis and the possibility of any commercialism is eliminated in the acquisition of human blood."

The cost of one unit of blood, according to Ms. Ward, is about $35. This charge reflects only the blood center's actual cost for drawing, processing and distributing the blood. The patient is not charged for the blood itself since it is given freely by concerned volunteer donors, she added.

THIS IS EASY — Bonifacio Salazar, a registered nurse at Malone-Hogan Hospital, demonstrates that donating a pint of blood is as easy as lying on a table and squeezing a pipe during the hospital's recent "Chicken Day" blood drive. A total of 85 employees at the hospital participated, and were rewarded with free lunches from both the hospital and the local Kentucky Fried Chicken, bumper stickers and participation pins proclaiming that the wearer is not "chicken" but a blood donor.

The patient who needs blood is not the only one who benefits from donations; the donor, in addition to helping fulfill a vital community need, receives a thorough pre-donation interview, said Ms. Ward.

"A careful medical history is taken and temperature, pulse, blood pressure and hemoglobin are checked. After the blood is drawn, it is typed and tested for diseases which could be transmitted to the recipient. Should any of these tests indicate the need for medical attention, the donor is notified and referred to a physician," she said.

She explained that generally healthy men and women who are 17 through 65 years old, weigh at least 110 pounds, and have waited eight weeks since their last donation of blood qualify as blood donors.

Persons who are ineligible to donate blood are those who, at the time of the potential donation, have epilepsy, acute heart disease, tuberculosis, infectious skin disease, a current infection, or rheumatoid arthritis. Also those who have had major surgery in the past six months or have been pregnant in the past six weeks; those who have had malaria or who have been on military duty in Southeast Asia within the past three years; and persons who have ever had viral hepatitis, jaundice or any form of cancer other than skin.

Each potential donor, Ms. Ward said, will be asked more specific questions during an interview prior to giving blood for the protection of the donor as well as the recipient.

According to information supplied by Ms. Ward, the normal human adult of average weight has about ten to 12 pints of blood in his body, or about eight per cent of his body weight. Of this amount, he is able to donate one pint about every two months without ill effect. The body replaces this fluid in only about 24 hours because the reserve of plasma proteins and fluids is large.

Blood carries oxygen, water and food to all body cells, and is comprised of four parts — red cells, white cells, platelets and plasma. The main function of red cells is to transport oxygen from the lungs to the tissues and to transport carbon dioxide from the tissues to the lungs.

The main function of white cells is to fight infection and to help the body develop immunity, and the main function of platelets is to control bleeding.

By dividing whole blood into its components, Ms. Ward said, physicians can administer the particular component or components needed by the individual patient. In this way several patients can benefit from each donated unit of whole blood.

Whole blood is used for persons who have sustained a massive blood loss, and red blood cells can be used for patients undergoing surgery. The use of white blood cells alone is still in the experimental stages, while platelet concentrate goes to patients with leukemia or blood disorders. Plasma is used for burn or shock victims, and another blood component, cryoprecipitated anti-hemophilic factor, is used for persons suffering from hemophilia, a bleeding disease.

In 1971, 94 per cent of all blood transfusions were whole blood. In 1976, whole blood transfusions amounted to only 33 percent, while the rest of the donated blood was separated into components for transfusion to multiple patients.

There are four main blood groups — O, A, B, and AB. Also, there is an Rh factor present in the blood of about 85 per cent of the population. When it is present, the blood is referred to as Rh positive; when absent, as Rh negative, Ms. Ward said.

The most common blood type is O positive, which is present in 37 per cent of the general population. The least common is AB negative, which appears in only about one per cent of the population.

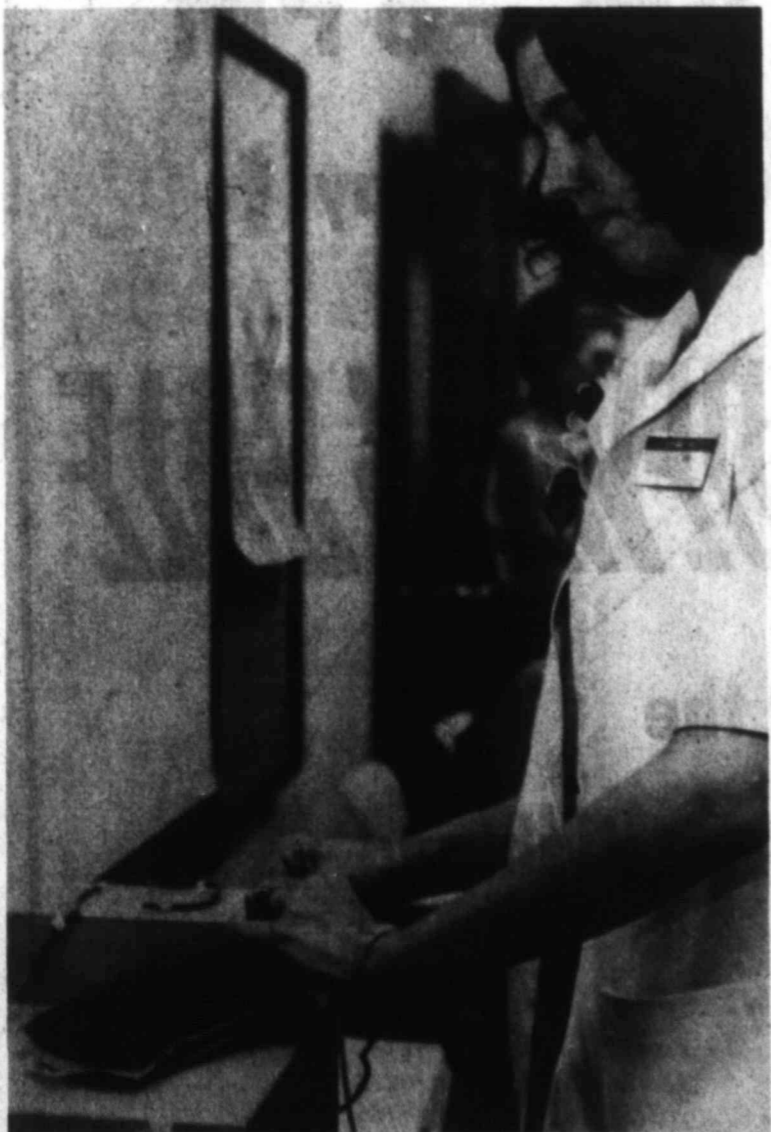

Some people mistakenly believe that if they have one of the more common blood types, their blood is not needed, said Ms. Ward. Actually, she explained, the more common the blood type, the more often it is needed because more patients need it.

"I cannot stress enough that all blood types must be available at all times; that whole blood and red blood cells can only be stored for 21 days, and platelets last only 72 hours; and finally, that the demand for blood is constant and the need is often critical, so that every donor is a lifesaver in the truest sense of the word."

"I would like to remind every Big Spring who is contemplating donating blood that blood centers do not need blood...people do. And we never know when. Blood is a community resource, not a commercial product to be bought and sold. There is no substitute for it. Blood is life itself."

I'M NOT CHICKEN — Sherry Wilson, West Texas Blood Services technician, checks the amount of blood that Kathy McDiffitt, left, a Malone-Hogan Hospital employee, has donated. Blood Donor Day at the hospital is each Monday from noon until 7 p.m. For more information, one may contact Emily Ward, Malone-Hogan Hospital, at 263-1211.

ONE DOWN BUT LOTS TO GO — West Texas Blood Services technician Debbie Wilde seals off tubing on a pint of donated blood with a machine called a "hematron". The blood in the tubes is used for testing before it is transfused into a patient. The blood service is stationed at Malone-Hogan Hospital from noon to 7 p.m. every Monday, except for Sept. 5, when it will be there from noon until 6 p.m. because of the Labor Day holiday.

JUST A STING — Linda White, left, of Malone-Hogan Hospital Nursing Service, doesn't even flinch while Raelene Adami pricks her fingertip with a needle to get a drop of blood to be tested for the iron level. Adami, a West Texas Blood Service technician, also tested potential donors' blood pressures, pulses and veins in a pre-donation interview for the protection of both the donor and recipient.

MUTT AND JEFF — They may be mutts, but both of these animals have something special about them. The large black and tan male, approximately two years old, has an unusual pair of eyes — one is blue and the other is brown. The white female part-poodle about 1½ years old, is extremely friendly and very playful. Both are scheduled to be destroyed Tuesday unless adopted. The Big Spring Animal Shelter also has in its possession two part German Shepherds and a variety of other mutts, often the best kind of pet. See them from 8 a. m. - 5 p. m., Monday through Friday, at 911 E. 2nd St.

Runaway tells it like it is

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

By ROBERT WALLACE, Ed. D.
Copley News Service

Dr. Wallace: I hope my story can help a young lady who has thoughts of running away from home.

Ten years ago when I was 16, I ran away from home over a petty hassle with my parents.

I met a big good-looking guy on a bus and after a few months, he dumped me in a strange town, broke (he stole all my money), bruised (he had beaten me), and pregnant.

For over a week I wandered from bus station to train station and to various businesses trying to find him; find work; and trying to find food and shelter. I had lived in Sacramento, but I was now in Colorado Springs.

Finally I was spotted by two nuns when I went into a church to get warm.

They fed me and nursed me back to semi-health (I had a broken rib from the beating) and gave me bus fare back to Sacramento.

Too embarrassed to return home I went to live with a girlfriend who was also pregnant and without a husband.

I had my babies (twins) and just to give them food and shelter, I went through garbage cans looking for aluminum cans and returnable bottles.

Our early life consisted of welfare offices, hand-me-down ragged clothes, rickety rundown shacks in slum neighborhoods. We shared these with cockroaches and rats. Needless to say, these "homes" were void of heat in the winter or air conditioning in summer.

I am now 26 and have a responsible husband. He brought his son and daughter into our marriage and together, we have a 3-year-old set of twins.

Sir, I believe you are doing a great job — hopefully not a thankless one. I wish you would have been available to help me when I was 16.

Now at 26, I hope and pray that by sharing my story, I can help a teen who is about to run away. — Joanie, Lodi, Calif.

Joanie: Thanks for taking time to share your experiences with us. Because you care.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 19 and negative. I don't think I'll ever get married. Every girlfriend I have that married is either divorced or planning on it.

Are there any stats on marriages that last? I'll bet they are very low. — Mary Ann, Great Bend, Kan.

Mary Ann: Don't bet too much on it. According to the American Council of Life Insurance, 62 couples out of each 100 marriages remain together.

Dear Abby

Girl's Lifestyle Embarrasses Mom

DEAR ABBY: I am heartsick about my daughter. She is 33, attractive, popular and well educated, but to get to the point, I am ashamed of the fact that she is living with a man.

Whenever I ask her if she plans to marry him, she insists that marriage is not important to her and she is very happy with things as they are. (Abby, how can she be happy?)

She has a good position and so has he, and I imagine that they share expenses. I can't understand why they don't get married.

Abby, I am just a normal mother who wants to see her daughter happily married with a family.

I want to die when my friends ask me about her. And I'm a wreck trying to keep it from the relatives. She was raised in a good Christian home, went to Sunday school and church regularly, and had good examples to follow. I don't know where she got these loose, immoral ideas.

How do parents cope with a situation like this?

SICK AT HEART

DEAR SICK: Parents are not responsible for the actions of their grown children. Please get over the notion that you owe friends and relatives an explanation for your daughter's lifestyle. You don't.

DEAR ABBY: In a column, you used the phrase, "You can insure this feeling by..."

The word is ensure, unless one can insure feelings as Betty Grable's legs were insured.

Ensure means to make sure, to make more probable. Insure means to provide for indemnity or reimbursement in the event that something happens. And, for good measure, assure means to promise. Example: The salesman assured him that insuring his life would ensure his family's financial security.

Words are our professional tools, and we do well to keep them sharp.

WILLIAM H. HEWITT: WHITTIER, CALIF.

DEAR MR. HEWITT: My Webster's New International Dictionary (Second Edition; unabridged) shows that "insure" is a synonym for "ensure" and vice versa — (Betty Grable's legs notwithstanding).

Hawaiian rite unites Jarratts

Marcie Camille Hamilton became the bride of Michael Taylor Jarratt, M.D., Aug. 5 in a morning ceremony on the island of Kauai, Hawaii.

Officiating was Father Leroy Fox of St. Catherine's Church, Kauai, Hawaii.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Hamilton, Alexandria, La., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Jarrett, 1506 Phillips Rd.

The altar was adorned with tropical flowers, including antherium and bird of paradise.

The bride wore a white on white Hawaiian print gown featuring a fitted bodice and full flounced skirt. She wore a flounced capelet. She and her bridegroom wore matching double vanda orchid leis.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Sally Hamilton of New Orleans, La.

Best man was the groom's father.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held on the Queen's Terrace at Coco Palms Hotel, Kauai. The wedding cake was decorated with fresh vanda orchids.

After the reception, the couple left for the island of Maui to begin their wedding trip which included a tour of all the Hawaiian Islands.

The bride attended

Louisiana State University, New Orleans, and is currently enrolled in the University of Houston.

The groom attended Southern Methodist University and the University of Texas Medical School. He spent his internship at Stanford University at Palo Alto, Calif., and his residency at Harvard Medical School at Boston, Mass. He is currently an associate professor of dermatology at Baylor College of Medicine, Houston.

The couple is making their home at 611 Marshall, Houston.

Popcorn is good snack

Popcorn — a healthy snack food — supplies fiber and nutrition, and its starch digests easily, say Mary K. Sweeten, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

However, the extras — butter, oil, carmel, salt — could be diet hazards, she cautions.

Miss Kerby, Coleman wed Saturday

Gayla Jane Kerby and Reggie Coleman exchanged vows in a candlelight ceremony performed Saturday evening in Midway Baptist Church with the Rev. Sandy Sandlin officiating. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Kerby, Rt. 1 Box 190, Big Spring, and Dr. and Mrs. Woodie Coleman, Lubbock.

The couple stood before a large heart archway adorned with candle sconces, yellow and white daisies, yellow roses, baby's breath, carnations and jade greenery with a memory candle placed in the middle of the heart.

On either side of the large arch was a smaller heart decorated with small candle sconces arranged with yellow and white daisies, yellow roses, mums, carnations, baby's breath and jade greenery. The altar was adorned with spiral candelabras holding wedding tapers and arranged with white and yellow daisies, yellow roses, English ivy and yellow and brown streamers.

Soloist Dwayne Edwards, organist Mrs. Bill Fryrear and pianist Mrs. Jarrell Barbee provided the wedding music. The groom's father sang "The Lord's Prayer."

After the bride's father gave her hand in marriage to the groom, the couple took their first communion out of communion cups made of olive branches from the Mount of Olives, Israel, a gift from the groom's mother.

The bride was attired in a George Maurer original floor-length gown of silk organza featuring a five-tier skirt, a scalloped neckline and Juliet sleeves ruffling out to the hands. The gown was trimmed in silk scalloped lace and accented with pearls and sequins. A matching veil fell softly from a headpiece of silk scalloped lace accented with tiny pearls.

She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow china roses, yellow and white daisies and baby's breath centered around a catalpa orchid and adorned with matching satin streamers.

The bride's something new was her dress; something old was a handkerchief belonging to the bride's grandmother; something borrowed was a pair of pearl earrings which belong to the bride's mother; and something blue was the bride's garter. The bride's father gave her a 1956 penny to place in her shoe, and she wore a diamond cross necklace given to her by the groom.

Sharon Ann Chrane, Big Spring, served as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Les Lester of Oklahoma, cousin of the groom; Mrs. Troy Leon Kerby, Temple, sister-in-law of the bride; and Mrs. Dusty Choate, Big Spring.

The bride's attendants wore sleeveless floor-length gowns of sunny yellow eyelet featuring empire waists, ruffled hemlines and attached capelet overlays trimmed in white lace.

Each attendant wore a wide-brimmed picture hat in sunny yellow trimmed with a halo of white ruffled lace and carried a votive-cup nosegay of white and yellow daisies and baby's breath with matching streamers of yellow and brown.

Flower girls were Tracy Mitchell, Lubbock, and Shelly Holmes, Austin, nieces of the groom. They wore floor-length dresses styled with empire waists and scalloped hemlines and white silk ribbon ties.

Their hair was adorned

Registering guests was Mrs. Ricky Baker. She presided at a table draped with a brown ruffled cloth and centered with a memory candle holding a picture of the bride and groom. She held a brown basket of wedding scrolls for the guests from the nuptial couple. Guests signed the registry with a golden yellow quill pen.

Following the wedding a reception took place in the fellowship hall of the church. Jay Phiney entertained guests.

The bride's table was draped with a yellow ruffled tablecloth with a white lace overlay. The centerpiece was a six-cup spiral candelabrum adorned with white and yellow daisies, yellow china roses, baby's breath and jade greenery.

The wedding cake was four-tiered with white on white decorations and was centered with a fountain. It was decorated with miniature stairways on each side holding figurines of the groomsmen and bridesmaids, the bride and groom figurines entering a gateway to the fountain.

There were four heart cakes branching out from the cake with daisies and English ivy adorning them and the fountain. The cake was topped with double yellow satin wedding bells with lace and baby's breath. The cake was made by Janie Horman, Big Spring, and the bride's service was of crystal.

The groom's table was covered with a brown ruffled cloth with an overlay of cream lace matching the bride's table, and was centered with a brass candelabrum holding five brown wedding tapers enhanced with yellow and white daisies, yellow roses and yellow and brown streamers. A brass coffee service was used, and a double-heart chocolate cake was served. The cake was made by the groom's sisters, Mrs. Tim Mitchell, and Mrs. Troy Donahoo, both of Lubbock.

Blind faith not enough

Shop around for good college

NEW YORK, N.Y. — "In most cases, the choice of a college involves an act of blind faith," observes John P. Roche, a professor and dean at Tufts University, writing in the September issue of Seventeen magazine.

"I had been assuming a fair degree of rational choice by high school seniors," he admits, "but I'm afraid most of their decisions are made on quite random bases." Many students, he found, have selected their colleges for such dubious reasons as, "My best friend is going there."

In other cases, Dr. Roche discovered that seniors blindly have followed the enthusiastic recommendation of "a charming guidance counselor" in their school. "High schools these days seem to be infested with guidance counselors whose qualifications are a bit obscure," he says. "I suspect their problem is that they believe the college catalogs they read."

The fact that "Mom and Dad met" at the school is a reason given by many legacies. In general, though, the choice lacks any significant rational basis except that the college is a "good school."

There are a lot of good schools, Dr. Roche acknowledges. "But the fact is, most of them have a number of bad departments. It seems to me that most frustration among students comes from arriving at a 'good' college eager to work in, say, philosophy, and suddenly discovering that the philosophers are a crew of 'consciousness-raisers' who either have never heard of Plato or dismiss him and other masters as 'irrelevant.'"

Taking a variation on this theme, a student who selects a college because of its renowned, award-winning professors may find that these professors are "violently allergic to teaching," and until the third year in school, instruction may be handled by teaching fellows and junior faculty.

Grades, inspection marks are two different things

USDA beef grades are different than USDA inspection marks, reports a consumer marketing information specialist.

All meat must be inspected for wholesomeness by either federal or state inspectors and bear the familiar "Inspected" mark, says Gwendolyn Clyatt with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Beef grading is a voluntary service to help you determine quality, the specialist explains. Inspection for wholesomeness is mandatory.
