Positive connection made in Oklahoma murders

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Investigators are searching a crime-ridden Oklahoma City neighborhood today, where two handguns with a "positive connection" to two of the worst murders in state history were found.

Ballistics tests completed Wednesday proved that the weapons, which were found Sunday, were used in the two murders.

Tom Kennedy, Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation director, said the tests revealed that the guns, one of which had an unusual history as a death weapon, were present at the mass murder of six employees of a southside Oklahoma City steakhouse, July 16, and the murder of the Melvin Lorenz family, about three weeks earlier.

He said one of the guns, a .38-caliber Taurus revolver, was taken in a pawnshop burglary in Purcell the day before the Texas family was shot to death along Interstate 35 a mile south of Purcell.

The gun was the only thing reported taken from the pawn shop, but an innocent looking object, which Kennedy said may be another lead in the murder investigation, was left at the shop. A straw, Panama-style hat was found just inside the door of the shop following the burglary.

Kennedy admitted the plain, bandless hat might not be too much help in finding the killers, but "somebody might just remember this hat."

Also, Officers are continuing to search through the Green Pastures neighborhood in far northeast Oklahoma City, where children found three guns under a tree.

Officers speculated the killers may have ties to the area, an idea that caused apprehension among residents.

"Anyone who comes in this yard is going to get the dogs sicced on them, and that includes you cops and everybody," one man yelled at members of a special 20-man police force.

"I've been talked to, talked to, and talked to and I haven't seen anything and I don't want to see anything," the man said. "If we knew who dumped those guns that the neighborhood kids found I'd go after them myself. We're tired of all this crime and rhuhabr."

Authorities said the isolated neighborhood had been a favorite dumping ground for stolen goods and was the site where the body of armored truck guard was found a few years ago after he was killed in a robbery.

The other gun linked to the two mass murders, a .357 Magnum, had previously been identified as the one taken from the pickup-camper of Melvin Lorenz, who was on his way to his mother's funeral in North Dakota when he and his wife and their 12-year-old son were slain on June 22.

The pickup-camper was later found abandoned at Will Rogers Airport in south Oklahoma City, a few miles from where six employees of the Sirlin Stockade restaurant were herded into a meat locker and killed execution-style.

"The first thing we have to do now is solve the burglary where one of the guns was taken in Purcell and then work on numerous new avenues from there," he said.

Kennedy said it is obvious the person who burglarized the Purcell pawnshop "knew who committed these nine killings or was directly involved himself."

He suggested the burglar was "in great danger" and should turn himself over to authorities.

Kennedy said his bureau would seek FBI assistance before week's end in the belief the unidentified killers may have fled the state.

"It's really bizarre," Purcell police spokesman Dave Williams said of the Taurus pistol used in the murders.

The gun was stolen twice from the same pawn shop within a year and each time it became associated in some way with death.

In mid-April, 1977, that the gun was first stolen from Jerry Potter's shop.

In the first burglary, authorities say an unidentified young man took the pistol and later pawned it in Ardmore.

A short time later, while at his father's residence in Stratford, the young man "just up and committed suicide," Williams said.

Traced by police, the pistol was finally returned to the shop in June.

"I only had it for less than 12 hours," Potter said. The gun was again stolen about June 21, the day before the Lorenz slayings.

WAIST HIGH WATER — Residents of a suburb on the outskirts of New Delhi wade through waist high water Wednesday as floods engulfed their homes for the second straight day. The record-high floods were receding today from the area about India's capital city but downstream communities braced for flooding from the Ganges, Yamuna, and other monsoon-swollen rivers. Estimates placed the toll of dead at 860 since late June when the monsoons began.

Carter making talks at summit a secret

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — Anwar Sadat and Menachem Begin are talking face-to-face for the first time since Christmas but President Carter is sealing their words at the Mideast summit in secrecy.

The Egyptian president and Israeli prime minister agreed to meet with Carter this morning for their second joint session in as many days.

Carter brought the two leaders together for nearly two hours Wednesday afternoon on a flagstone patio behind Carter's mountaintop lodge.

But there was no word on any progress. The main sticking points involve control of the Gaza Strip and the West Bank of the Jordan River, lands Israel captured in the 1967 war.

Jody Powell, the White House press secretary and official summit spokesman, told reporters not to expect any substantive announcement until later in the meetings — which could continue for two weeks.

"We are not going to be involved on a daily basis in attempting to characterize or discuss the substance of the meetings," Powell said.

Meanwhile today, two newspapers in Beirut, Lebanon, reported that Syria is proposing to hard-line Arab countries that they enter into defense pacts with the Soviet Union if the United States signs a mutual defense treaty with Israel as a result of the summit.

The papers said Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam is making the proposal during a tour of leftist Arab countries. Khaddam flew to Tripoli on Wednesday to see Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy and then to Algeria to confer with President Houari Boumedienne.

As Carter arrived Monday, he said the participants "will be almost uniquely isolated from the press and from the outside world."

The president said he hoped the secrecy would remove any need for Sadat or Begin to engage in "political posturing."

After the talks, Carter, Begin and their wives hiked through the 134-acre wooded retreat for more than an hour. Mrs. Begin had arrived early in the afternoon, as had Carter's 28-year-old son, Chip.

Sadat, who grew up on a farm, took a 45-minute drive around the rolling Maryland countryside, dotted with picture postcard farms. An official said Sadat, whose wife is in Paris tending to a sick grandchild, had never seen this part of the United States.

Powell had no comment on the first joint session, but said Carter's meetings with Sadat earlier Wednesday and with Begin on Tuesday were informal.

"The style and tone has been quite informal," Powell said. All three government chiefs were in casual clothes, he said. Official photos of the first joint meeting, however, showed only Carter in sports clothes.

The president's intervention marks the first time an American chief executive has met simultaneously with Israeli and Egyptian chiefs of state in hopes of settling the decades-old conflict in the Mideast.

Permits for four new homes, fast-food restaurant issued

Of the 43 building permits issued by the city in August, only five were for new projects.

Permits for four new homes and one new fast-food restaurant were issued, with the rest slated for remodellings, moves or additions.

Total costs for the month also dropped in comparison to the same month last year. The total for the year so far, however, still remains well above that for 1977.

Costs for August 1978 totalled $496,628, compared to $697,285.80 for August 1977. Costs for the year-to-date rose to $5,976,904.25, nearly $2 million more than that for the previous year.

The most expensive new residence will be built by Dr. R.G.B. Cowper at 111 Cedar at a cost of $110,000. Another will be built by David Clinkscales at 807 Highland with an estimated cost of $50,000.

Two other homes, both estimated at $40,000, will be constructed by Heinze and Wrinkle at 4205 Bilger, and by Signal Mountain Homes at 2610 Ann.

The largest commercial construction of the month was a permit for a McDonald's Hamburger franchise to be located at 1110 N. Douglas. Cost was estimated at $89,000.

Multi-million dollar deal

Big Springers, Lockheed executives continue talks

Conversations in Ontario, Calif., between a Big Spring delegation and representatives of Lockheed Aircraft Services Co., concerning a qualified proposal by Lockheed to lease facilities in the Big Spring Industrial Park likely will continue through much of Friday.

Representing Big Spring in the sessions are City Manager Harry Nagel, City Attorney Jim Gregg, Harry Spannaus, manager of the Industrial Park; and Clyde McMahon Sr., a member of Big Spring's Industrial Team.

Any contract validated between Lockheed and the City of Big Spring would, of course, depend wholly upon the awarding of another aircraft modification contract being sought by the west coast firm.

McDonnell-Douglas Aircraft Co., Tulsa; and Vought of the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex are also in contention for the 4½-year multi-million dollar deal.

Bids on the pact will be accepted by the Department of Defense until Oct. 15. It will be awarded Dec. 1.

Lockheed would consider no site other than Big Spring for the operation but any contract approved by the aircraft firm would have to include assurances of construction of a big hangar, which Lockheed spokesmen say could not be delayed beyond March.

The first plane destined for modification would arrive here no later than January, to be followed by three in February and five in March. The Industrial Park has facilities to handle fewer than five aircraft now.

The City of Big Spring must soon take positive action if it is to obtain a $1 million Economic Development Administration grant for a hangar. Obligating itself for the grant means that the city would have to ante up $250,000 toward construction. The method of financing such as expenditure remains to be worked out. Conceivably that part of the contract could be carried directly to the property owners in the way of a bond election.

The opinion was voiced at a meeting of the city council and the Big Spring Steering Committee this morning that the addition of a new hangar at the Industrial Park would make the facility a much more desirable area for rental, even should Lockheed not win the government contract.

Lockheed and the other two firms incidentally, are bidding on a contract to modify the F-4N fighter craft, a Navy plane. A number of other buildings at Webb, in addition to the proposed hangar, would be included in the package deal, including Buildings 613-614-619 which the aircraft firm would use as warehouses.

Q. Would Efran Herrera, the former Dallas place kicker, have been able to play in the American Football League had he not reported to the Seattle club? We would also like to know if Herrera, had he decided to pass up football, could have played soccer in the United States?

A. The American Football League passed out of existence in 1968, when some of its franchises were taken into the NFL. Perhaps you meant the American Football Conference—Dallas is a part of the AFC. No, he could not have played for any AFC team during 1978, unless Dallas released him from his contract. Yes, he could have turned to soccer in the United States. An NFL contract doesn't bar a player from other employment.

Offbeat: Parrott Pirates Parrot

MORECAMBE, England (AP) — When a vaudeville parrot named Gonzo was stolen the thief was quickly nabbed. He's named Stanley Parrott.

Parrott, 31, pleaded guilty Monday to stealing the bird from an entertainment center in this Lancashire seaside resort and was fined $97. Gonzo is valued at nearly $4,000.

Parrott's license number was noted by a parking lot attendant who saw him driving off with Gonzo, now safely back with his trainer. Parrott claimed he found the bird in the parking lot and intended to return it.

Brown guilty of robbery

After 12 minutes deliberating, a verdict of guilty of aggravated robbery was returned today by a Howard County jury against Tommy Steven Brown, 26, 1517 Wood.

Brown was convicted of the armed robbery of a Seven-Eleven Store at 4th and Franklin June 20.

Witnesses called by District Attorney Rick Hamby included Virginia Fuqua, the Seven-Eleven clerk; Jane Thorp, who was working next door at Rudd's Pastries; Lt. Arvin Henry, who made the arrest of Brown shortly after the robbery; Cathy Hatzel, another Big Spring police officer and officer Juan Palacios.

Brown, who has a prior conviction in California, will be faced with sentencing this afternoon in 118th District Court. He was the only witness called by defense attorney Jack Thompson.

1977 tax statement released by Stenholm

Charles Stenholm, candidate for Congress in the 17th District on the Democratic ticket, released his 1977 income tax return in Abilene today.

This followed accusations by his opponent that it had not been made public. Stenholm said in Big Spring Wednesday that he had revealed his 1976 forms in February and back in October had told his net worth, "which hasn't changed significantly."

Stenholm pointed out that this was much more realistic than going out in an election year and saying "I'm waving a wand and we will immediately cut taxes."

Stenholm said, "Cindy and I knew when we started on this campaign that we gave up our privacy and we have been releasing everything required and more."

While in Big Spring, Stenholm outlined his four-point inflation-fighting program. He called for a constitutional amendment requiring a "pay as you go" concept in federal spending and annual phased-in cuts in spending designed to balance the budget by Jan. 1, 1982.

The third point was to have annual phased-in cuts in taxes commensurate with the balanced budget and that initial cuts should be in the Hill stood in line over two hours shaking hands in the Municipal Coliseum where 2,500 persons attended.

Hill attended a poll which shows him way out front of his opponent, Bill Clements, Republican candidate. Hill urged supporters "not to become apathetic in the final eight weeks of the campaign."

Watermelons spice tour

Mitchell crops eyed

By MARJ CARPENTER

It's that time of year when they hold farm tours in the surrounding counties and look over the crops for the year.

There aren't any outstanding crops out there, but Mitchell County puts together an outstanding farm tour every year and this year was no exception.

Three busloads left the Civic Center this morning under a tour planned by Travis Turner, chairman of the crops subcommittee.

They looked over cotton varieties at the Don Latimer farm, Wayne Oliver's, Kenneth Merket's and stopped at watermelon at Custom Ag before touring their research variety fields.

Charles Stenholm, Democrat candidate for Congress, was on the bus with the farmers today, looking over the crops. He also was a special guest at the noon luncheon.

After the traditional watermelon break, the group stopped at the Billy Cornut farm, the Rob and Whit Holman farm and then reported to the Civic Center.

Civic leaders and many other citizens filled the hall for the noon barbecue and heard a talk by Dr. Jarvis Miller, president of Texas A&M. Judge Bill Carter gave the invocation. Bob Benson, Mitchell County agent, introduced guests. Dub Waldrip of Spade Ranches introduced the speaker.

Also today, Dawson County farmers met at 1:30 p.m. at the Forrest Park Community Center and left in a car caravan to tour several farms. They first visited a dryland off-station cotton variety test conducted by Dr. Lavon Ray, Texas agriculture experiment station at the Kenneth Hamilton farm.

They also viewed the cotton variety demonstration at the Quinton Airhart, David Vogler and Choice Shofner farms with the final stop at Donald Voglers.

Stanton and Martin County are planning an agriculture appreciation day next Wednesday, Sept. 13. They do not plan a tour by a noon barbecue at the Martin County Community Center.

The luncheon is co-sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, Mustang Soil and Water Conservation District and the Field Crops Subcommittee of the Martin County program committee.

An educational program on cotton, wheatgrass and marketing will be featured on what is now the annual cotton style show and a 4-H farm skit.

Hughlynn Todd is the director in charge of the event with Preston Fairs, county agent, as master of ceremonies. Alvin Riddle, SCS technician, is also helping with preparations.

Detectives try to discover bacteria cause

NEW YORK (AP) — Medical detectives today are trying to find just what in the teeming garment district of midtown Manhattan caused the bacteria of Legionnaires disease to become airborne, apparently infecting nine persons, three of them fatally.

The mysterious malady, which first surfaced two summers ago after the Pennsylvania American Legion convention in Philadelphia, is confirmed as the cause of death for one person and is suspected in two other deaths. The disease is suspected in six non-fatal cases.

All nine confirmed or suspected victims became ill in mid-August. All worked in the neighborhood of West 35th Street — six "rack boys" who push carts loaded with clothing from manufacturers to wholesalers, an elevator operator.

Stanton pay raise likely

STANTON — The City Council gave tentative approval to a 10 percent across-the-board pay hike for city employees for 1979 when they met Tuesday night.

The council went over the budget for the coming year in detail with Mike Rhea, city manager. The salary increases, along with inflation will increase the budget by about $12,000.

There is no tax hike, but there is a raise in sewer and garbage rates for citizens.

Rhea noted that a big portion of the city's most costly expenditures come from the sewer and garbage departments and that rate hikes should allow the two departments to pay their own way.

The council accepted the resignation of Stacy Payne, councilwoman but no replacement was named.

Malone-Hogan Hospital veteran to be honored

Letha Duke, R.N., reached a milestone Sept. 1, when she marked her 30th anniversary at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

"An employee such as Letha is invaluable," Administrator Norman Knox said, as he commended Mrs. Duke for her years of service to the hospital.

A reception for Mrs. Duke will be held Friday morning from 10 to 11 a.m., in the cafeteria of the hospital. Friends are invited to come by and share this time with her.

Letha went to work at Malone-Hogan in 1948, just ten years after Drs. Hogan and Malone bought the old Bivings and Barcus hospital on Main Street.

"I came here straight from nursing school," Letha said, "and believe it or not, I was hired sight unseen." Nurses were hard to find, and Mrs. Duke had answered a letter which came to all the graduates of St. Joseph's School of Nursing in Fort Worth.

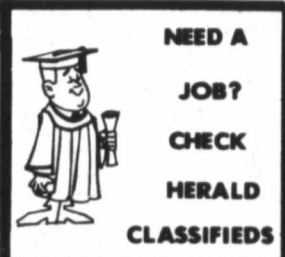

Mrs. Duke worked as a general staff nurse, supervisor of the 3-11 shift, and was Director of Nursing Service for 22 years. She is now Surveillance Nurse for Infection Control.

Her husband, David, is retired. Her stepdaughter,

LETHA DUKE

Amelia, is Head Nurse at Sharpstown General Hospital near Houston.

Fair time in West Texas

It's county fair time in West Texas with the Dawson County fair getting under way on Sept. 12, the Howard County Fair on Sept. 18 and the Mitchell County Fair announced to be held Oct. 5-7 on the Colorado City Fair Grounds.

One of the items planned for the Mitchell County Fair this year is a micro-mini tractor pull, involving toy size tractors, weighing about four pounds. One was held in Roscoe on July 4.

The Big Spring Herald will feature the catalog for the Howard County Fair in this Sunday's Herald. Everybody is urged to save it for reference on entries to the fair.

There's reason for the imbalance

Americans have been portrayed, many by their own kind, as energy gluttons, ready to sacrifice their future for their hedonistic approach to the moment.

Stuart Van Dyke Jr., doctoral candidate in history at the University of Chicago, says the label, laid on heavily by Europeans, is a bad rap.

VAN DYKE cautions that before we cut our consumption of oil in half, it behooves us to examine this comparison. Without denying the necessity for energy conservation or that there is too much waste, there are nevertheless a number of good reasons why the average American needs more fuel than the average European, Van Dyke adds.

To begin with, the most basic cause

—the climate of Western Europe—is much more hospitable to human habitation than our own. Cities like London and Paris rarely experience freezing weather whereas their summers are generally cool and pleasant. There is therefore less need for centralized heating and air conditioning. As a matter of fact, few Englishmen and Frenchmen regard such appliances as utter necessities.

Van Dyke also reminds that civilized living in the northern half of the United States requires an effective system of artificial warmth. Are the people of Buffalo expected to use the same amount of fuel as residents of Amsterdam? Buffalo's weather might be likened more to that experienced by Stockholm.

Many Americans are moving to the Sun Belt but most of this nation's people still reside in the north and east, whereas the heavily populated areas in Europe are to the south, certainly away from Scandinavia, Finland and Northern Russia.

America's winters are cold, its summers are hot. Says Van Dyke:

"To cut back the great advances in air conditioning that have made life more productive and agreeable would be a serious sacrifice."

ANOTHER FACTOR to be considered is that America has developed a far-greater dependence on the automobile and that is something that can't be changed overnight. According to Van Dyke, it's not greater intelligence on the part of Europeans that makes them less dependent, but merely the fact that their cities were functioning superbly before the motorized wagon was invented.

In a century, America has experienced a growth rate of 500 per cent. No European country has grown anywhere near that fast. Those 160 million additional people, says Van Dyke, have accommodated themselves with the aid of the internal combustion engine.

Practically all the country is now structurally dependent on the car in a way unlike any European country. For that reason, we are stuck with it until a long, expensive and disruptive transfer to efficient public transportation can occur.

There's no doubt but that the problem should be tackled. Unless and until it is, America is simply going to need more fuel simply to remain on a par with Western Europe.

Cheers to Danny

Around the rim

Bob Burton

He says he's not going to write one for himself, so I guess I'll have to do it for him.

A farewell rim, of course. It is somewhat of a tradition that persons fluttering unsteadily from the nest of the Herald leave behind a final rim, either as a last droplet of their deathless prose, or just to perversely perform one last time the weekly agony of writing your mind.

DANNY REAGAN, who doesn't deserve all the attention he's getting for this (let's face it folks, he couldn't take the heat here. He's splitting. Abandoning ship. Throwing in the towel, or whatever), is leaving the Herald. In fact, today is his last day.

And now he says he won't write a final rim.

"I won't do it," he said. "You've got to," chorused Burton and Werrell, knowing that if he didn't one of them would.

But Reagan remained adamant, with the same flinty exterior he's shown through all of his years here.

When he first showed up he was just a wet-nosed kid, given to Star Trek shirts and playing practical jokes like turning the blades on the X-acto knives upside down. But he didn't give a damn, you know?

Now, nothing has changed. He's married, of course, and loves to make veiled references to "Fave Spotter". He also picked up on the fact that James Werrell's wife can blush in print, and ever since that day has mentioned her ham mousse with drooling regularity.

BUT WHO can forget the connect the dot rim when (after laboring over the "fifth e in row 61" for 20 minutes) a shaky Dallas Cowboy helmet slowly emerged from the golden prose?

Who can forget the recent rim when the parenthesis came alive and crawled all over the copy?

Who can forget "Two-for-the-road", or the tales of his cat, Starbuck?

Who? Me and everyone else, that's who! Go on Reagan, we love ya.

Always one to interject a heart-broken note into editorial chatter when Tech performed particularly badly, always one to gently break in the tenderfeet with a crawfish in the desk drawer or a phony assignment to call Nalley-Pickle and interview A. Korps.

Reagan was continually mugging. Ask me, because for the entire two years I've been here his desk has been behind me and he's been mugging behind my back.

Who ran that marvelous fishing picture of a half-clad lassie in the surf with a fishing pole...and cropped out the pole? Who dreamed up that marvelous headline "Sooy goes Kablooy in St. Looy"? And who lost over 800 cokes to Tommy Hart, then started to win this year, just before he left? Reagan.

Cheers, fella.

Well rehearsed

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Congressional hearings often resemble theatrical performances in which the story line is rehearsed in advance while the legislators vie for the leading role. But recently, in a particularly sensitive hearing, the entire script was leaked to the star witness by a member of the supporting cast.

The scene was a secret closed-door session of a House Armed Services subcommittee. The meeting was called to hear arguments on the Carter administration's proposed nuclear test ban treaty.

One of the first witnesses at the Aug. 15 hearing was Brig. Gen. Harry Goodall who criticized the treaty on behalf of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Goodall responded with surprising ease to a series of complex questions drawn up by the committee staff. But Rep. Robert Carr, D-Mich., noticed that Goodall appeared to be reading verbatim replies to the technical questions.

CARR DEMANDED to know whether the general had seen the questions in advance. According to sources familiar with the secret testimony, Goodall admitted that he had. Under further questioning, he conceded he had been slipped a copy of the questions the day before the hearing.

The general was reluctant to identify his source, but a key staffer spoke up unexpectedly and took responsibility for the leak. He is Seymour Shwiler, a former Air Force officer who once worked in the nuclear weapons program.

Under stern questioning by Carr, Shwiler acknowledged he had not checked with any member of the committee about giving the general an advance copy of the questions. When the congressman demanded an explanation, Shwiler reportedly said, "I have no reasons, sir."

Shwiler confessed he had not furnished the list of questions to two pro-treaty witnesses from the State Department and the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. This obviously titled the proceedings in favor of the treaty opponents.

In an effort to bring fairness to the hearings, subcommittee chairman Charles Wilson, D-Calif., then passed the questions to the treaty proponents and allowed them extra time to prepare their answers.

Candidly, Shwiler later admitted to our associate Gary Cohn that he had indeed provided the sneak preview to Goodall. He repeated that he had "no reason for doing it." Shwiler contended that this was the first time he had done such a thing and didn't realize he was breaking any committee rules. He added that he doesn't necessarily agree with Goodall's views of the treaty.

But Wilson, while praising Shwiler as a conscientious staff worker, told us that the aide does oppose the test ban treaty. In fact, he said, "all the staff are opposed to it." He added it was wrong for opponents to get a look at the questions as a means of "getting the answers you want," while advocates were deprived of the same advantage.

BUS BATTLE: The nation's elderly and handicapped have been waiting for more than five years for buses that would be easier for them to board. General Motors has been vying with other firms for the right to build the new generation of buses.

Last May, GM appeared to lose when the Transportation Department chose an alternative design. The new "Transbus" would feature low floors, wide front and rear doors, and a six-foot retractable ramp to accommodate the handicapped. All city buses bought with federal money must have this new design.

But GM hasn't given up the fight. The giant automaker has been trying for years to convince the government to adopt its own version, which has higher floors and a rear-door lift instead of a ramp. GM spent $50 million retooling its plants to produce the new buses, and it wants to see a return on the investment. The company has been lobbying furiously to overturn the federal decision against its bus design. Confided one transportation official: "If they admit failure, heads will roll."

GM LOBBYISTS have now convinced a House committee to adopt an amendment the company drafted that would shelve any immediate help for the handicapped. The measure would hold up the entire question until Transbus and the GM version could be evaluated side by side. "Its effect, of course, would be an indefinite postponement of the Transbus mandate," says an internal Transportation Department memo.

GM lobbyist Roland Ouelette told us that "the other side of the story hasn't been told. There are times the ramp will work effectively, but the ramp won't provide total access. That takes a variety of equipment. You're not going to be serving the total population by one method."

Supporters of Transbus, meanwhile, are trying to work out a compromise that would allow local officials to choose which bus would best serve their residents.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Before I became a Christian I thought all Christians were hypocrites. Now I believe in Christ, and I'm sorry to say my life is often hypocritical because I am not perfect. Should I just not worry about it? — E.C.

DEAR E.C.: Your experience is that of many Christians. When we come to Christ we know we have been forgiven, and we have been born again into the family of God. But we find we still are sinners, and often act as if we did not really believe in Christ.

The reason for this is that the old sinful nature we were born with continues to be part of us, even though a new nature has been given us by the Holy Spirit. The Bible says: "The sinful nature desires what is contrary to the Spirit, and the Spirit what is contrary to the sinful nature. They are in conflict with each other, so that you do not do what you want" (Galatians 5:17, New International Version). The Christian, therefore, often finds himself torn between the temptation to follow his selfish desires and the desire to follow Christ. When we choose to follow self instead of Christ, we are (as you have said) hypocrites in the eyes of some people.

But we should never be complacent when we sin. Sin is an offense to God. It is such a serious matter that God sent his Son into the world to die for our sins.

Harsh incident

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — A thrice-repeated but unsubstantiated indictment of Argentina by Assistant Secretary of State Patricia Derian testifying publicly before Congress reveals the shattering impact on U.S. foreign policy of human rights crusading.

Under questioning Aug. 9 by the House inter-American affairs subcommittee, human rights chief Derian responded with language seldom used by one friendly power to another, accusing the Argentine regime of killings, kidnappings and torture. So harsh was her language that the State Department tried to expunge it from the record. But apart from being undiplomatic, there is considerable doubt of accuracy.

The impact could prove tragic for U.S.-Argentine relations and perhaps for Argentina itself. Moderate and pro-U.S. elements within the Argentine junta have been weakened; deterioration of the U.S. position in the strategic southern corner of South America has been accelerated.

THIS CANNOT be dismissed as merely unfortunate ardor by an idealist unfamiliar with diplomacy. Deterioration of U.S. relations with Brazil, Chile and now Argentina too closely follows the scenario of Latin American specialists in the Carter administration who privately predicted the human rights crusade would foster the left in the Western hemisphere.

Concern that the human rights tail is wagging the foreign policy dog is spreading in both the administration and Congress. On Capitol Hill, growing attention is paid to the imminent loss of up to $1.4 billion in sales to Argentina — including $620 million in Export-Import Bank transactions. So, when Ms. Derian testified Aug. 9, she was asked by subcommittee chairman Gus Yatron of Pennsylvania why her human rights office recommended against the Export-Import Bank loans. Even Derian's own aides were taken aback by her answer.

"The reason for our advice was the continuing violation of basic human rights by Argentina. The systematic use of torture, summary execution, disappearance and the imprisonment of thousands of individuals without charge, including mothers, churchmen, nuns, labor leaders, journalists, professors and members of human rights organizations."

Moments later, Derian repeated her indictment, adding "kidnappings" and "unwarranted killings" this time. In her soft Mississippi accent, she read the litany a third time, concluding: "We see nothing to indicate that there is a genuine trend toward human rights."

Horrified officials in the State Department's Inter-American Bureau crossed out Derian's indictment in the transcript, but it was too late. Word had gone to Argentina, where Pat (cq) Derian has become a household word. The U.S. ambassador in Buenos Aires was called in for a stiff protest; the Argentine ambassador in Washington was called home.

The tragedy is that Derian's outburst may well weaken the junta's relatively moderate elements headed by the president, Gen. Jorge Rafael Videla, and strengthen the extreme right. While President Carter's human rights admonitions probably have improved conditions in Argentina, the point of diminishing returns has been reached.

Apart from undiplomatic ravages, was Derian telling the truth? Her office insists the Argentine junta has "executed" 3,000 persons since seizing power in 1976 and at least another 5,000 persons are missing.

... As I was saying, 13's always been my lucky number... on to the White House, boy!

Sudden eye sensitivity needs investigation

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What can you tell me about photophobia? Is this the same as "photosensitivity"? I've had eye trouble for a couple of years now and can't get at the cause. My eyes seem extremely sensitive to light. The pain gets almost unbearable and I can't enjoy the sunshine or even daylight anymore. — Mrs. P.S.

Photopsensitivity and photophobia are unrelated. Photopsensitivity is extreme reaction of the skin to sunlight. Photophobia is sensitivity of the eyes to any kind of light. You have the latter.

Light-skinned people are more prone to the photophobia. It is usually not significant and is corrected by using tinted spectacles or sunglasses when needed. However, unexplained, sudden photophobia such as yours should be investigated. It may represent an internal eye disorder.

One thinks of inflammation of the iris (iritis). The iris is the colored portion of the eye that controls the amount of light entering. Bright light constricts the pupil and stretches the iris. If the iris is inflamed, there can be great pain. Inflammation of the cornea may produce similar symptoms. Another possibility; unexplained eye pain of the kind you report might indicate a budding glaucoma.

Otherwise, if you have been examined by a specialist (as you tell me you have) and if these possibilities have been ruled out, you can lay your discomfort to extra sensitivity which can come with age as the eyes require more light to see. Some photophobia can follow cataract removal.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm 62 years old. I'd like to know why I have problems if I don't douche every other day. I have an odor. I have a complete checkup every year. — Mrs. M.S.

It's possible you are overdoing the douching. The natural processes usually are sufficient to cleanse the area without aids. I suggest you at least give them a chance. For other leads see my booklet, "Vaginitis: The Hidden Ailment." For a copy, send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald. It's possible you are exaggerating the odor problem, a situation I encountered frequently in my practice.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a blood test and my doctor said I was a little anemic. Can you tell me what foods a person can eat when they are anemic? — Mrs. B.C.

It isn't that simple. The cause of the anemia (lack of sufficient red blood cells or iron) must be pinpointed. If it is an iron-deficiency anemia, then obviously foods rich in iron would be helpful; if of folic acid, then foods rich in that or supplements help. It's important to know if the anemia is caused by inadequate diet or by bleeding (as with women who may have heavy menstrual flow) or because of an error in the way the body utilizes the important blood-forming substances in the diet. Sometimes a woman may appear from tests to be a "little anemic" just after her period, and be normal the rest of the month.

So it's up to you to ask your doctor how serious he considers the test findings and what he recommends in your case.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 29 years old and have boils, eczema, ringworm, and now acne and blackheads. I do know that tomatoes seem to make the condition worse. I'm hoping you can help me. — J.Y.

I've never encountered all of these conditions existing side by side, although it is possible. I think you are using terms about which you are not entirely sure. Acne is difficult to treat, but the other conditions you mention can be treated effectively with medicines to attack the specific organisms that cause them. I think you need to consult a skin specialist to find out just which of those terms you are using are appropriate. Tomatoes are a frequent cause of some allergic reactions, so perhaps you should avoid them.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can hair and its strength be improved by using a protein shampoo or rinse? Or can diet alone affect the physical make-up of a person's hair? — C.P.

To the first question, no. To the second, yes, dietary protein can help hair health.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor:

Several months ago your paper received a letter from a young lady named Susan Hoerth. She wrote to you in reference to three young ladies; who had come to Big Spring on a mission of love, and commitment to their God and a city called Big Spring.

Although I am not of these original three who came I moved here in October of 1977 to join them in their quest of capturing the heart of Big Spring. I came here from Massachusetts shortly after spending a year in Michigan doing the same thing these ladies were attempting to do.

The months that followed my arrival were filled with laughter, tears, joys, sorrows, defeats and many victories. And slowly we began to touch the hearts of the people of Big Spring. We came to accept Big Spring as our home and in return we believed Big Spring had accepted us as a part of it. We began to see the heart that beats within and gives life to this place called Big Spring.

And then all too quickly our time here came to an end. And we all left our beloved Big Spring for a Christian homecoming called the Rock of Ages in Ohio. From there we all went our separate ways, one to Michigan, another to New Jersey; and I decided to return to Big Spring for another year. And so I returned to the city that had so captured my heart. Only to find that in my short absence it had changed. Instead of loving, tender hearts I returned to find hearts with walls built around them. Instead of people who accepted me and the love I offered, I found people who were ready to judge me and talk behind my back.

But I know and believe that my vision of Big Spring will not change. I know that somewhere is that same tender loving heart that captured my heart. It is my hope to once again touch the heart of this city with my life.

Whatever happened to Big Spring someone once asked? It remains to be seen!

Dear Editor: Since I was not aware that the week of Sept. 25 has been set aside as Community Concert Week, may I please take this opportunity to clear up a few statements which appeared in Sunday's Herald.

In the article under the picture of the U.S. Air Force Band, it was stated that the Community Concert Association will at that time begin selling tickets.

Attendance at the concerts is by membership only and no tickets are sold. The week of Sept. 25 is our 'renewal week.' At this time, all persons who were members of Community Concerts during the 1977-78 season will be called on and asked to renew their memberships.

Then during the week of Oct. 2 through Oct. 7, our annual membership drive will be under way, and during this time and only this week will memberships be available.

Our workers will be trying to reach all persons in Big Spring and surrounding areas, but should you wish to become a member of Community Concerts and are not contacted, please phone me. Our 1978-79 series is excellent.

Recent events between U.S.- Russia follows pattern of 1870 and 1911

WASHINGTON (AP) — States. The crackdown on the chain of events is familiar. In Russia, there is a crackdown against Jews. In the United States, American Jews bring pressure on the White House to do something. The president publicly protests, condemning the Russians for human rights violations. The Russian leadership responds that it's no business of the United States. The crackdown continues. Finally, Congress passes legislation revoking trade benefits previously negotiated with the Russians. The hope is that economic leverage can be brought to bear where moral protests were unavailing. It could be a summary of the past year in U.S.-Soviet relations. But all of the incidents above occurred between 1870 and 1911.

The president who defended human rights was Theodore Roosevelt, not Jimmy Carter. The Russian leader who told him to mind his own business was Czar Nicholas II, not Leonid Brezhnev. And the trade agreement Congress revoked was not a product of the detente of the early 1970s. It dated from 1832. This example from history illustrates the fact that this summer's chill in relations between Moscow and Washington was not unique. Periods of cooperation and agreement between the two countries have been rare, particularly since the Russian Revolution of 1917. But the historical pattern also indicates the United States and the Soviet Union may have a fleeting opportunity to improve relations in the next few months, an opportunity that could soon be lost. The Soviets may have signaled they want to seize the opportunity by their decisions to drop a slander case against two American reporters and to seek only a suspended sentence for Frank Crawford, a U.S. businessman accused of currency violations. Since the Russian Revolution, there have been several periods of detente between the two powers — with one notable example the joint fight against Nazism in World War II. That evaporated as soon as the Germans were crushed, and was quickly followed by the Cold War. Another occurred after the Cuban missile crisis. President John F. Kennedy, having stood at the abyss with Nikita Krushchev, made a dramatic 1963 commencement speech at American University. "No government or social system is so evil that its people must be considered as lacking in virtue," he said, adding that both superpowers "have a mutually deep interest in a just and genuine peace and in halting the arms race." That summer saw agreement on a nuclear test ban treaty, a Washington-Moscow "hot line," a ban on nuclear weapons in space, a $250 million grain sale to Russia. But the brief flowering of detente was cut short by Kennedy's assassination, by expansion of the Vietnam War, and by Krushchev's ouster. New Soviet leaders, jockeying for power, adopted a cautious attitude toward the United States and embarked on a spending program to close a strategic weapons gap exposed in the Cuban crisis. The most recent detente, during the Nixon Administration, brought the signing of a strategic arms limitation agreement, increased grain sales, and such joint efforts as the Apollo-Soyuz space flight. That Nixon detente if the early 1970s is all but gone, the victim of tensions raised by Soviet actions in Africa, of Carter's human rights campaign and the Soviet crackdown on dissent, and of the inability, thus far, to come up with a second strategic arms agreement. But relations have not deteriorated to the level of much of the post-World War II era, a period when confrontation and crisis snuffed out nearly every hopeful development. The World War II era of cooperation ended with the Berlin crisis of 1948 and the atomic weapons race. The "Spirit of Geneva" in 1955 died when the Soviets crushed the Hungarian revolt in 1956. The 1960 summit was wrecked by the U-2 spy plane incident. Then followed the Berlin Wall crisis in 1961 and the missile crisis. President Johnson's hopes for arms talks faded because of Vietnam and the Soviet crushing of the Czechoslovakian liberalization in 1968. Nonetheless, Carter administration Soviet experts, speaking privately, find reason in this gloomy history to hope that relations can improve in the near future. They point out that past periods of detente have occurred when both sides had experienced leadership which was unafraid of political challenges from "hard-liners." They feel leaders on both sides need at least a year or two to begin to feel comfortable about the game that one observer, Richard Barnett, has likened to "chess players in the dark, absorbed in a game they can barely see." And leaders must be confident that concessions in negotiations will not harm them politically.

Weather Rain to concentrate in southern Texas

By the Associated Press
Widely scattered thunderstorms, some expected to be locally heavy across the southern half of the state, were forecast for most of Texas today. Forecasters said the showers and thunderstorms were most likely to be locally heavy in Southwest Texas, South Texas, the Lower Rio Grande Valley and along the southern portion of the Texas coast. Highs were expected to be mostly in the 80s and 90s. Some thunderstorms were reported in East and South Texas Wednesday night, but rainfall amounts were light. Corpus Christi had .03 of an inch, McAllen had .02 of an inch and Del Rio had only a trace. Skies were clear to partly cloudy early today with temperatures ranging from the lower 50s in the mountains to the lower 70s in East Texas.

F.B. Esteps to celebrate 50th wedding anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. F.B. Estep of Big Spring will celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary on Sept. 10 with a reception at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Estep, 3608 41st St., Lubbock.

All friends and relatives of the honored couple are invited to attend the open house.

Hosting the event are the couple's children and grandchildren. Children include Mr. and Mrs. Bill Estep, Snyder, and grandchildren are Mark and Kelli Estep, both of Lubbock, and Billy Joe Estep Jr., Stamford.

MR. AND MRS. F.B. ESTEP

Floydada, they bought a farm in the Lakeview community, which they operated for 25 years. They lived in Lubbock for two years after selling the farm, then moved to Big Spring where they owned and operated the Golden West Motel for 17 years before selling it and retiring in 1977. Estep now enjoys refinishing furniture and working in his workshop while Mrs. Estep likes to piece quilts and crochet.

Says writer-teacher

'Women's Lib is scary'

AUSTIN — "Women's liberation is a red-flag term. It scares both men and women."

Dr. Janet Boles, an assistant professor on a part-time appointment with the Government Department at The University of Texas at Austin, made that comment when she talked recently about her course titled "Women in Politics."

A political scientist on one hand and a feminist on the other, Dr. Boles has combined her interests in teaching and research. She first developed her course in spring 1975 when she was a graduate student at UT Austin and since has taught it at a number of Texas colleges.

Also, she is the author of a book about the politics of state ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment. She noted that only nine votes, in various state legislatures, stand in front of ERA ratification.

"You can ask do you support the efforts to improve or change the status of women in society today in a public opinion poll and get a whopping majority who say yes to that question," Dr. Boles said. "But, when you ask if you are sympathetic with the women's liberation movement, support drops by 15 to 20 per cent."

Despite an apparent aversion to "women's liberation," Dr. Boles said there is a strong grass roots movement in support of women's issues. She cited as examples local projects like health clinics, women support centers, centers for abused women and rape crisis centers, all run for women and by women.

Because of strong opposition to the ERA, many observers are predicting the death of the current women's movement comparing it to the earlier suffrage movement. Dr. Boles said the two movements are different and that women's liberation, if that's what you want to call it, is here to stay.

A large number of women who participated in the suffrage movement were not feminists, Dr. Boles said. Also, most were not working women. Their only issue was equal voting rights. Once that was achieved, the movement dissipated.

By contrast, Dr. Boles noted that the goals of today's feminists have not been achieved and change is occurring only slowly. The support, however, is still strong.

On the ERA, for example, at least 50 per cent of the public has always supported it.

On the issues of equal pay for equal work and whether women should work outside the home, the majority of the public is supportive. Also, the stereotypes of women are disintegrating. More people are seeing women as rational, intelligent human beings who make good politicians. At the local levels, women have made good strides in politics, Dr. Boles pointed out. A 1976 survey showed that twice as many women were sitting on school boards as when a similar survey was taken two years before. Also, in state legislatures women have increased their numbers to more than 600 from about 300 in the mid-1960s.

At the national level, however, there has been little change over the last 20 years, she said.

"We're not quite ready to put women in high positions of responsibility and trust," she noted.

But, women's issues are being taken up by more politicians than ever before, she said. Her research has shown that if a politician opposes an issue like the ERA, he considers it to be a political embarrassment.

Women are perceived to have political clout, Dr. Boles said. Traditionally, women have run political campaigns. Politicians who will not support women's issues are finding their volunteers are dwindling.

Dear Abby

Carrying On At The Dentist's

DEAR ABBY: I don't want to disclose my source, but I know for a fact that a certain dental nurse is having an affair and is using her boss's dental office for her rendezvous.

I think she has a lot of nerve taking advantage of her boss's dental quarters in this way, and I'm sure he would have a fit if he knew about it. She has been working for him for quite some time and he trusts her.

Should I tell the dentist?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: When it comes to dentists, the usual advice is to "Open wide." In this case, I say, "Keep your mouth shut."

DEAR ABBY: May I comment on the letter from the wife who felt threatened by her husband's secretary when she and a girlfriend became self-appointed cheerleaders at the company's bowling games. (Very few wives attended, so the girls went to give the men moral support.)

That wife should smarten up and realize that if her husband's secretary is taking her place at the bowling alley, she may be cheering him on in other areas, too.

Perhaps the wife had been invited first, but refused because, "We can't afford a sitter" or "Bowling is so boring."

I finally figured out that my husband's secretary saw him as a handsome young executive who would handle every emergency, while I saw him as the guy who never remembered to carry out the garbage. Small wonder that when his ego needed pampering, he turned to her and they had an affair. When I learned about it, the shock opened my eyes, and I realized that the qualities that I loved in him when we were first married were still there, and that a baby-sitter was cheaper than a divorce. We saved our marriage by working out our problems together.

And I learned how important it was for me to attend the company bowling games.

I think that wife should take a good look at her marriage. Perhaps if the secretary's behavior makes her feel insecure, she has a reason to be. Sign me...

WISER NOW

DEAR WISER: The moral to that story is: "Don't permit a substitute to fill in too often, lest the substitute become a permanent replacement."

DEAR ABBY: In reference to your swipe at this year's fashions: You said, "This year's fashions are intentionally kooky in order to make milady's last year's clothes look completely outdated."

Where have you been? You seem to have overlooked many of this year's styles which are flattering and feminine.

Oh, yes, there are a few far-out, unusual styles, but they are far from kooky and ridiculous as you claimed. A more appropriate description for them is "fun" clothes.

LIKES THE NEW LOOK

DEAR LIKES: I'm not sure I know what "fun clothes" are, but I can tell you that it's not "fun" to pay the prices they're asking for shoddy, unflattering merchandise. Women of the world, unite! Wear what you have as long as you can get the zippers up!

Rebekah Lodge conducts charter draping ritual

Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 met at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the IOOF Hall with June Wiggins, noble grand, presiding.

The 28 members present reported 19 visits to the sick. The charter was draped for 30 days in memory of Brother A.F. Hill and Sisters Tracy Thomason and Daphne Kenealy, past president of the International Association of the Rebekah Assembly.

Fifteen members took part in the draping ceremony under the direction of Sarah Griffith, including Grace Lee Grider, musician, and Marion Savell, soloist. Sherri Wilson, district deputy president, gave a school of instruction reviewing some of the questions used in last week's school.

A program was given in which several members read poetry about friendship. Norma Newton sang "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," accompanied by Mrs. Grider at the piano. After this, all members joined in to sing "School Days."

The program was dedicated to Alma Crenshaw, lodge mother. A card signed by each member attending and gifts were presented to Mrs. Crenshaw. Decorations were of a back-to-school motif complete with notebook, school books, pencil holder with pencils, study lamp, pom-poms, late summer flowers and apples for the teacher.

As this was birthday night, the group enjoyed cake, coffee and tea. Among those celebrating birthdays this month were Delia Sullivan and Mrs. Crenshaw.

The next meeting will be Sept. 12.

Open Play Day slated

The Howard County Sheriff's Posse held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening with Frank Knapp, president, calling the meeting to order and presiding.

Ralph Reinart presented the secretary's report and Geneva Roberts gave the treasurer's report.

The posse received invitations to attend the Brownfield Harvest Festival Parade Oct. 14 and the Abilene West Texas Fair Parade Sept. 9.

The Allreds will be taking the timer to Lubbock to be repaired, it was reported, and Reinart will be responsible for putting wrought iron up on the clubhouse windows.

A thank-you note was received from Bruce Griffin for the posse's help with the 4-H Junior Rodeo.

The posse voted to bring their trophy case to the clubhouse so that all their trophies will be in a central location, and they also decided to paint the trim inside the clubhouse white.

Sept. 16 the posse will sponsor an Open Play Day at their arena on the Andrews Highway. To participate one must register at 1 p.m. and ride at 2 p.m. Events will be fifty cents for each entry and will include barrels, poles, rings and one-bucket flags. For more information one may call 263-3531, 267-7983, or 353-4527.

'Sew It With Cotton' judging event nears

The "Sew It With Cotton" Contest Committee reminds contestants that judging will take place Sept. 12, at 7 p.m., at the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church, 705 W. Marcy Drive.

Contestants and their families should enter through the east doors of the building.

The committee reports that 43 seamstresses have entered the contest.

A panel of judges from an adjoining county will judge the garments on construction as it affects appearance, compatibility of fabric and design, creativity, overall appearance which includes poise, fit and accessories, and representation of current fashion trends.

The winners will be announced during Howard County Fair Week. All of the contestants will participate in a Sept. 20 style show, held in conjunction with the fair, to which the public is invited to attend.

Baby's birth announced

Mr. and Mrs. Lanney Proctor of Midland, formerly of Big Spring, announce the birth of their daughter, Tanya Adelle.

She was born at 5:28 a.m., Sept. 4, at Midland Memorial Hospital, weighing 6 pounds, 3 ounces. She was 19 inches long.

Grandparents of the newborn are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Proctor, Big Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Whitehead, Midland.

Garden council plans leafy luncheon

By DUSTY RICHARD
The Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs is gearing up this week for a scrumptious salad luncheon to take place at noon Saturday in the Dora Roberts Community Center, Comanche Trail Park.

Tickets, which are on sale for $3, can be obtained from any garden club member, or by calling Mrs. Odell Womack, projects chairman, at 267-5126 or Mrs. J.I. Balch, co-chairman, at 267-6737. Tickets will also be sold at the door. Proceeds from ticket sales will go to fund the council's Civic Beautification and Litter Drive.

The council's litter drive will be held during the first part of October this year and during May 1979. Downtown planters and landscaping at the Dora Roberts Community Center, Comanche Trail Park, Potton House and Heritage Museum have been among the council's beautification projects.

At the luncheon, the council will have on sale, at reasonable prices, potted house plants grown by members, Texas Heritage Cookbooks, National Garden Club Calendars and a cookbook compiled by garden club members called "Salad Recipes of the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs."

This luncheon will be a special treat for all those who like salad, plants or just good recipes, and everyone is urged to get his ticket soon.

Members of the club gave the Herald some said recipes to get cooks in the mood of the luncheon. These recipes will not, however, be included in the council's salad recipe books.

CHEER PUNCH
1 cup sugar
1 cup cranberry juice
2 cups frozen orange juice
1 cup pineapple juice
2 cups ginger ale
¾ cup lemon juice or the juice from 4 fresh lemons
Mix together, chill and serve. Fresh lemon or lime slices may be floated in the beverage to decorate.

STRAWBERRY CONGEALED SALAD
1 package strawberry Jello

1 package Philadelphia cream cheese
1 small can crushed pineapple, drained
½ pint whipping cream
1 cup hot water
Nuts, finely chopped
Melt Jello in hot water and let partially congeal. Crumble cream cheese into whipping cream and whip. Add pineapple and nuts and whip with Jello. Let congeal.

FAVORITE CHICKEN SALAD
Juice of 1 lemon
1 cup cooked chicken, diced

½ cup apple, finely diced
½ cup ripe olive
½ cup celery, diced
2 tablespoons mayonnaise, thinned with 2 tablespoons cream, sweet or sour Combine the chicken, apple and lemon juice, mixing lightly. Mix the other ingredients together, using enough mayonnaise to moisten well. Add chicken and apple mixture and toss together lightly. Serve very cold dressed with mayonnaise. Serves 4.

HAM AND SWEET POTATO SALAD
3 cups sweet potato, cooked and diced
1 cup celery, chopped
1 cup ham, cooked and chopped

¼ cup French dressing
½ cup pecans, chopped
6 lettuce leaves
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
Marinate sweet potatoes, celery and ham in French dressing for 30 minutes. Stir in pecans; serve on lettuce leaf and decorate each with ½ teaspoon mayonnaise. Serves 6.

THANKSGIVING JELLO
1 cup sugar
1 cup water
juice of 1 lemon
2 packages cheery Jello
1 can cherries

HOW MANY APPLES IN THIS SALAD? — Mrs. Odell Womack, projects chairman, prepares to chop an apple for the recipe Mrs. L.B. Edwards, right, president of the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs, wants to make. The two ladies are fixing the delicious salad for their luncheon at noon Saturday in the Dora Roberts Community Center. Proceeds from ticket sales will go to beautify Big Spring.

1 can crushed pineapple
1 cup pecans
Boil sugar, water and juice of lemon for 10 minutes. Pour mixture over cherry Jello and stir until dissolved. Add cherries, pineapple and pecans. Pour into an oblong dish and chill in refrigerator until firm.

VEGETABLE SALAD
1 package lime Jello
1 cup cold water
1 cup hot water
Dash white pepper
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 teaspoon salt

1 cup celery, chopped
1 cup cabbage, shredded
½ cup carrots, shredded
2 small sweet pickles, chopped
1 tomato, chopped

2 tablespoons pecans, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
Dissolve Jello in bowl with hot water. Add vinegar, salt, pepper and cold water. Stir well. Place in refrigerator until mixture begins to thicken; then fold in the mixture of vegetables. Return to refrigerator until ready to serve.

PINEAPPLE AND JELLO SALAD
1 package lemon Jello
1 four-ounce package cream cheese
1 small can crushed pineapple
1 cup American cheese, grated
1 cup pecans, chopped
Cream dry gelatin with cream cheese until soft and smooth. Add 1 cup hot water and dissolve. Add 1 cup cold water and refrigerate until firm. Add drained pineapple, grated cheese and pecans. Return to the refrigerator until jelled.

CRUNCHY SALAD
2 packages lemon Jello
2 cups boiling water
1 cup cold water
1 cup carrot, grated
½ cup celery, finely chopped

1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple with juice
1 cup pecans, chopped (optional)
Dash of salt
In a 12 by 18 roll pan mix Jello and boiling water, then add the rest of the ingredients. Place in refrigerator until well set.

TwEEN 12 and 20 — Keep trim at your desk

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I am now working in a large office and I find it impossible to exercise properly. My dad said he saw a booklet that listed exercises that could be performed at your desk in an office.

I'm just starting to become a "work-out" freak and I want to keep at it even though I'm working full time. Can you please give me the name of this booklet? — Janice, Pottstown, Pa.

Janice: I don't know what booklet you are referring to but I did round up a few office exercises courtesy of Dorothy Wevek, University of California. These exercises can be done sitting down or standing up.

Rag doll — relax neck, shoulder and back muscles, and allow your head and arms to drop limply; slowly straighten up.

Deep breathing — draw in a deep breath, tightening stomach and diaphragm muscles, hold, then release slowly and allow your torso to go limp.

Head turns — slowly turn head from side to side, looking back over each shoulder.

Head roll — relax neck muscles and allow chin to drop to chest, then slowly rotate head in a complete circle; repeat a few times, then change direction.

Head wagging — slowly bend head sideways, toward first one shoulder, then the other.

Shoulder shrugging — with elbows bent, lift shoulders and rotate them backward in a circular motion; then switch directions.

Side bends — with back straight and arms at sides, bend sideways from the waist, reaching for floor, first on one side, then the other in a rhythmic motion.

Arm circles — extend arms straight out sideways and rotate from shoulders, forward, then backward.

Arm stretch — extend arms slowly over head, tightening stomach muscles and breathing deeply; hold a few seconds, then relax. (If standing, also rise on tiptoes.)

Back rounding — tighten stomach muscles and push backward to round out lower back; hold a few seconds; relax and repeat.

Ankle flexing — extend one leg and turn foot in circles, first in one direction then the other.

Knee flexing — alternately bend and flex knee, bring foot close to body, then extend it.

Get up occasionally and walk around; stand up to telephone for a posture change. And for more on-the-job exercise: Use part of your breaks and lunchtime for walking; park far away so you have to walk; climb stairs instead of taking elevator.

Dr. Wallace: I know that sharks do not eat as many people as the movie "Jaws" portrays. But what about tigers? Do they really eat humans or is this also overstated? — Roland, Newton, N.J.

Roland: Tigers kill more humans than any mammal. Once a tiger tastes human flesh, he almost always remains a man-eater. One tigress is reported to have killed over 400 humans before being killed by a professional hunter.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I THINK THIS ONE SOUNDS GOOD — is the sentiment Mrs. Paul Guy, left, projects committee member, is expressing to Mrs. James Johnston, also a member of the projects committee, while they select salad recipes to prepare for the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs Salad Luncheon Saturday. On sale at the luncheon will be cookbooks, plants and calendars. Tickets, on sale for $3, may be obtained from any garden club member.

Time management tips for working women given

If you sometimes feel that your job, running your home, and especially those activities of food shopping, food preparation, personal and family nutrition, and entertaining are all closing in on you, then the ideas here are meant for you. They are aimed at the special needs of households of one or two people in which their work away from home consumes a major amount of time and whose activities impact heavily upon family lifestyles.

In two-career households, the trend is toward delegation of duties and role sharing, especially in food shopping and preparation. In this light, male shoppers, as well as working women, will find this advice helpful.

Single people and two-career couples enjoy some special advantages. In many cases they average a higher "per capita" income than the larger, one-breadwinner family. Career-oriented homes have a broad range of friends and acquaintances because they are involved in business and business-related social events. For example, exposure to ideas in the business and social worlds increases a woman's sense of affluence and her zest for creativity in household management — including meals and meal preparation.

Despite the unique advantages, career people have special problems. They tend to entertain more, yet, ironically have less time for meal preparation — either for themselves or for their guests. There's also the tendency to overspend for food because of lack of time.

What then is the answer for working women or for anyone responsible for maintaining a home? An organized approach to housekeeping is your best tool. Think in shortcut terms. Look for ways to pare unnecessary time-wasters. Learn to sift essentials from unessentials. Take a lesson from management specialists. Become an efficiency expert in your own home. You'll soon find that time is one of the best resources. Develop a healthy respect for it.

You may save time by applying some of the following ideas to both business and household tasks, especially those involving food preparation. Here are useful tips:

1. Find out where your time is going. Keep a log of your time for at least a week. This is the way professional time and motion experts tackle a problem. Write down everything that takes time — include telephone calls, food shopping, food preparation and cleanup, moments caught in traffic, etc. You can't budget time efficiently until you know where it goes.

2. Have a plan — plan ahead. This applies to housekeeping, cooking — almost everything. Make your plan flexible — you should run it; it shouldn't run you.

3. Make lists of all kinds — things you'd like to do each day; each week; items to buy; jobs you want to accomplish, etc.

4. Help yourself to "mini-holidays." Five minutes here, an hour there, a day occasionally to do what you want can give you a fresh perspective, help renew your energy. You'll be more relaxed and efficient.

5. "Steal" time to do what you have to do. Avoid making and answering needless phone calls; weed out unnecessary reading matter; urge others to respect your right to privacy.

6. Develop a "do-two-things-at-once" routine. Clear up tasks of a similar nature at one time. Save all hand laundering to do together; do all mending, hemming and altering at the same time.

7. Plan a carefully thought out grocery shopping list. It will save time and money.

8. Keep a pad and pencil handy in the kitchen. As you run low on an item, get in the habit of jotting it down. Organize your shopping list to follow the layout of the store.

9. Shop in one store. This saves time, especially as you become familiar with the store. Hopping from store to store for specials may not result in enough savings to pay for the time it consumes. A 1977 study by Stratamar Research showed 60 percent of working women shop one store, while 62 percent of women without jobs shop in two or more stores.

10. Trade money for time by using convenience foods. A study by Drexel Institute showed preparation of one convenience meal required 32 minutes, compared with 119 minutes for the same meal prepared from scratch. The cost difference was less than one dollar. In this case, the person who chooses to prepare from scratch to save money would spend one hour and 27 minutes to save one dollar!

11. Practice using time slots. As Parkinson's Law says, "work expands so as to fill the time available for its completion." Save time by putting a little pressure on yourself. Try scheduling the weekly grocery trip at odd times around the activities and other people in your life. With limited time to shop, you're likely to do it more efficiently.

Apply this same principle to cooking. Cook late at night, or on one or two evenings each week, and cook a lot. Remember, it takes just about as much time to cook a little as a large amount.

OTHER AREAS STILL PLAGUED WITH STRIKES

Philadelphia teachers reach tentative 'ideal'

Class is still out for half a million students as teachers tend to their own homework — painting picket signs and sharpening pencils for contract negotiating sessions.

Teachers either struck or continued walking the picket line Wednesday in some of the nation's largest districts — Cleveland, Seattle, Chicago and New Orleans. But in Philadelphia, a tentative agreement could send the city's 250,000 pupils back to school.

Strikes were either in effect or threatened by teachers in Washington state, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Louisiana, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Illinois, Massachusetts, Ohio, Indiana, Vermont, California, Idaho, New York and New Jersey.

More pay was the main topic in negotiations with belt-tightening districts, but fringe benefits and a reduced number of pupils per class also were factors in some areas.

Teachers in the debt-ridden, 182-school Cleveland district decided Wednesday to strike after last-minute negotiations failed to resolve employee demands for a 20 percent pay hike.

Classes for the 100,000 public school students had been scheduled to start Friday. Peter Carlin, acting school superintendent, said every attempt would be made to keep schools open, and more talks were set for today.

Cleveland teachers now make between $9,100 and $18,650 a year. They have not had a pay raise in two years, but officials say no funds are available. The district got a $21 million state loan last week to keep the schools operating.

In Philadelphia, 13,000 striking teachers were voting today on the two-year proposal approved Wednesday by the executive committee of the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers. The average Philadelphia teacher's salary would be $22,425 a year under the proposal, up from the current $19,500.

An offer of a 4 percent raise for striking New Orleans teachers has been withdrawn — a move one school official contended would complicate negotiation to end the week-old strike.

"We're really positioning ourselves with some options," Assistant Superintendent Jerry Hart said Wednesday after the board cut its 4 percent pay offer to 1.6 percent. "It will complicate the settlement, but it is not intended in any way as an antagonistic or negative act or an effort in any way to punish the union's posture."

About one-third of the system's 91,000 students have been in the classrooms despite the walkout. New Orleans teachers now earn between $10,096 and $15,250 annually.

A disagreement over the number of hours teachers are required to work has idled 1,450 teachers in Chicago's nine city colleges.

Laetrile results not conclusive

BOSTON (AP) — Federal researchers have found six cases in which cancer victims improved after taking Laetrile, but they say their study does not prove the controversial substance is effective.

The six cases resulted from a nationwide search by the National Cancer Institute for examples of positive results from Laetrile therapy.

The federal agency will use the review to determine whether to begin human testing of Laetrile, the trademark for a substance found naturally in the pits of apricots and peaches and in bitter almonds.

Although at least 70,000 people have been treated with Laetrile in the United States in 20 years, researchers say only 93 cases were submitted for review.

They emphasized no conclusions can be drawn from the study as to the benefits of Laetrile. In the six positive cases, they said, the patients' improvement could have been caused by diet or "the unmeasurable ingredient of hope."

The research was published in today's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

since Aug. 18. The strike affects 112,000 students.

An eight-day strike in Rockford, Ill., the state's second largest district, was settled Wednesday, and 36,000 students were able to open classes. But in Elgin, Illinois' third-largest district, teachers threatened to strike today. About 26,000 students would be affected.

In Boston, teachers reported for classes for the scheduled opening Wednesday, but set a vote for Sept. 13 for a possible strike the next day if school officials and the Boston Teachers Union have not reached agreement. At issue is a 6½ percent-a-year raise over two years and what has been termed a "zipper clause." Henry Robinson, president of the Boston Teachers Union, said the clause would deny the union any right to raise an issue not included in the contract.

"In 10 days or more, we will have an acceptable contract to vote on or we will go on strike," said Robinson. There are 69,000 students and 5,500 teachers in Boston.

About 55,000 students were out of class in Seattle where 4,000 teachers have walked off the job in a wage dispute.

Also in Washington state, a strike by Tacoma teachers kept 31,000 pupils out of school.

Walkouts by nearly 4,000 teachers in districts in Michigan's Lower Peninsula idled more than 100,000 students. State education officials said 180 of Michigan's 530 public school systems did not have their teachers under contract as classes opened.

A judge on Wednesday ordered teachers at Bridgeport, Conn., to end their strike which has closed at least 23 of the city's 38 public schools.

Local artist prefers oils and watercolors

The artist of the month selected to hang paintings in the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce is Mrs. Pat Morgan.

Her paintings, which include watercolor and oil landscapes and still lifes, will be on display there during the month of September.

Mrs. Morgan has lived in Big Spring most of her life since she was a child. She is married to J.T. Morgan and they are members of the First Baptist Church.

She is also a member of the Texas Fine Arts Association and the Big Spring Art Association. Her first art lessons were taken locally from Mrs. Mary Locke and she later took additional lessons from Mrs. Myrtle Lee. "These two teachers really taught me to love art," she recalls.

She has been taking art for the past two years from Mrs. Virginia Whitten and reports, "It has been a most rewarding experience."

Mrs. Morgan said she has taken workshops under well-known watercolor artists, Warren Cullar and Robert A. Gartland.

She also has taken short courses from Don Strond of South Plains College, Dr. Paul Melosevich, formerly of Texas Tech and Leo Smith of Lubbock.

Mrs. Morgan says she paints only originals which are taken mostly from photographs or photographic magazines. "Like most people who paint, I find beauty in almost everything and only wish I could paint them all."

Her paintings are mostly in oils and watercolors, but she has done some pen and ink and pastel paintings.

She really prefers oils to all of the others. Mrs. Morgan is one of many Big Spring artists who really enjoys art. Drop by the chamber and view her paintings this month.

U.S. Attorney Claude Brown said it would be "pointless to question Estes now since he could invoke the Fifth Amendment on grounds that a criminal investigation is pending."

Tuesday, Brewster's February opinion was formalized in a court ruling that would allow the government to seize any property Estes might have.

However, proving Estes owns virtually anything is a matter prosecutors agree will not be easy. Even the comfortable brick home he lives in here was at one time listed in his attorney's name.

The judge also ruled that Mrs. Estes owed $38.4 million, computed from U.S. Tax Court records and not bankruptcy proceedings. He added, "There is no intention that the amounts... be added together."

Brewster said the most the federal government could hope to collect would be the millions levied against Estes, not his wife.

Estes has steadfastly refused to comment about his alleged business dealings with other Texas promoters and financiers. Since his parole in 1971, he has listed his job with his parole officer as "dispatcher" with an Abilene petroleum company.

The $39.7 million allegedly represents income taxes and accumulated penalties owed from 1959 through 1962 when the paper empire built by Estes started to crumble.

Estes' attorney and friend, Jack Bryant, emphasized the ruling involved only one debt, not two, as it appeared in the court order. He said he will have to study the order before a decision is made to appeal.

A proposed settlement reached July 21 was rejected by union members last month.

A nationwide strike was averted only hours before the deadline when the two sides agreed to a limited bargaining session that would require settlement through binding arbitration if the two sides cannot settle on their own by Sept. 16.

The rejected contract gave workers a 19.5 percent pay increase over three years, including cost-of-living boosts, raising the annual salary of a typical postal worker from about $16,000 to $19,100 by 1981.

The unions, arguing that the wage hike does not provide enough protection from inflation, want to remove a ceiling on the cost-of-living adjustments. Under the previous settlement, the cost-of-living raises could not exceed 9.5 percent over the three years.

A negotiated settlement reached before the deadline would have to be resubmitted to postal workers for ratification. But if settlement appears unattainable, Healy would settle the disputed issues himself.

Postal talks producing minimum agreements

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a bargaining deadline nine days away, officials of the Postal Service and three unions are continuing contract talks that so far have failed to narrow their differences.

Special mediator James Healy planned to first meet separately with the two sides today and then call them together for another round of face-to-face bargaining.

Sources close to the negotiations said the unions, which represent 516,000 postal workers, spent Tuesday and Wednesday arguing their case for a larger pay raise before management bargainers.

The Postal Service did not respond to the unions' wage demand, said the sources.

"There's nothing happening to report," one union official said after Wednesday's session. He declined to be named.

Estes owes $39 million in back income taxes, district judge says

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — If paroled swindler Billie Sol Estes ever admits to having any extra cash or property, it will likely go toward the $39.7 million income tax debt a federal judge says he owes the government.

The paunchy, bespectacled ex-promoter, object of state and federal scrutiny for the past two years, was adjudged bankrupt in 1962, a year before he was convicted of masterminding a multi-million dollar mail fraud scheme.

However, he was not discharged from his fiscal responsibilities and a $21 million income tax assessment was filed against him.

Last February, U.S. District Judge Leo Brewster issued an opinion in favor of the government that Estes and his wife, Patsy, jointly owed $45.8 million.

The opinion came about eight months after authorities renewed their efforts to track Estes' alleged business activities through allegations made by several people who claimed they were swindled by him. A grand jury is currently probing the allegations, but no indictments have been returned.

U.S. Attorney Claude Brown said it would be "pointless to question Estes now since he could invoke the Fifth Amendment on grounds that a criminal investigation is pending."

Tuesday, Brewster's February opinion was formalized in a court ruling that would allow the government to seize any property Estes might have.

Optimistic Steers open 78 at Andrews

By NATHAN POSS
The Big Spring Steers will travel to Andrews Friday night with an air of mysterious optimism. The mystery of the Steer situation, however, is universal in most of the high school camps throughout the state. It is a time when all coaches become very apprehensive in regard to how their troops will perform under live game pressure. Some average players in practice suddenly rise to be great "gamers," and vice versa. This condition is intensified by the fact that it is also Ron Logback's debut here.

He expressed confidence that his experienced performers would relax once the first contact was made, but hopes his inexperienced personnel would adjust with relative ease.

The inexperience factor of the Andrews Mustangs will also pose a question. The Mustangs return only three offensive starters from their district championship team of a year ago, but this can be very deceiving.

Jay McWilliams, who replaced the legendary Booger Brooks in playoff competition, is not listed as a returning starter, even though he performed admirably in his role as offensive conductor.

Logback is also impressed with sophomore speedster Van Percy, a running back more commonly known for his exploits as a multi-talented track star. Ronnie Bohannon and Johnnie Lopez round out what could potentially be a very dangerous Mustang backfield.

The strength of the Andrews defensive will be in the line. Coach Bill Shipman, in his initial year in Mustangland after successful tenures in Denton, Abilene, and Lewisville, will rely on All-State candidate Steve Kolb, a 220-pounder, with help from another returning starter, 200-pound Randy Bartly. The rest of the defense is comprised of unproven players.

Andrews has had the benefit of two scrimmages. In the first, against San Angelo Lake View, the Mustangs relied on their ground attack. The second scrimmage, a three touch-down to two loss to Midland Lee, found Coach Shipman's crew passing.

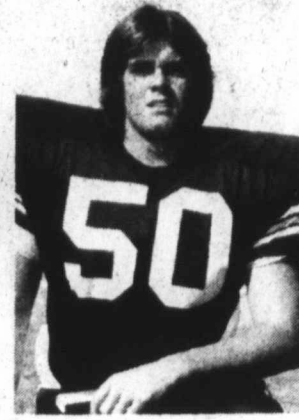

The Bovine camp believes that much of the serial display against the Rebels was due to the heft of the Rebel defensive interior. This fact causes concern to the Longhorn mentor, as the Steers possess both size and strength up the middle, but lack experience in the defensive secondary and were somewhat suspect there in the Lamesa scrimmage last Friday.

The Steer secondary will be comprised of Mike Domino and Randy Hurrington at the corners, with Billy Ray Johnson positioned at the strong safety slot and Mike Evans, a heady performer, at the free safety.

Domino and Evans drew praise for their performances last week, but there were some overall breakdowns that would be very harmful if taken advantage of by the opposition in game situations. Kevin McLaughlin is also expected to see action at free safety.

Logback, who is in charge of the defensive backs, knows that they are all good athletes and in time will work cohesively with each other. How soon is the immediate question?

Up front the Steers will run what appears to be a six man front with a middle linebacker. The team will boast plenty of muscle, both offensively and defensively, on the line, with such stalwarts as Steve Tipton, Mark Young, Doug Archer, Jack Odom, Matt Harris, Johnny Hardeman, Steve Painter and Robbie Wrinkle.

The new coaching staff is in the process of changing the front from a stunting, penetrating look into a high pursuit defense emphasizing playing technique by reading keys.

Offensively, Logback is excited about a running attack that shows promise of becoming the best at BSHS in the seventies. The starting backfield of Ricky Myers, Ricky Cluck, and Eddie Puga compliment each other with the ability to throw, run inside and dart outside with consistency.

Another youngster that has shown commanding abilities is sophomore fullback Greg Jones, an impressive physical specimen at 6'1", 216 pounds.

Evans has the most experience of the receiving corps. Others expected to see action include David Manley, Byron Harris, and Joe Willie Jones.

CLUCK

PUGA

The depth situation at quarterback would help most any coach rest assured. Billy Ray Johnson has game experience to go with starter Myers, and Kevin McLaughlin is also a most capable backup. If Johnson spells Myers at QB, then Myers will replace Billy Ray in the secondary. Logback has confidence in feeling any of the three could play the glory position without detracting from the team's effectiveness.

Logback hopes to be able to snap the football 60 times every Friday night, with over 75 per cent of the plays being on the ground. He does not think that the Steers will be able to blow the Mustangs out, but simplicity of play selection and patience in the running game eventually opening up a complementary passing attack.

The Steers ran 87 plays in the Lamesa scrimmage, with only one fumble and no penalties in the span, and if this can be achieved Friday night it could be a very long and frustrating night for the Mustangs.

The superior Steer kicking game could very easily be the strong suit of the team. Punter Cluck returns after averaging over 40 yards a kick in '77 as a junior.

He could also pose as a quick kick threat from his fullback position. Steve Painter appears to be Mr. Kickoff after booming a few 5 yards deep into the end zone in a Tuesday practice session.

Logback expects a tight struggle throughout the contest and will be surprised if one side runs away from the other. He feels that the Steers don't realize what a good team they could have.

He stated that "there is no question mark that they have worked hard enough, in the past with Coach Robbins or this year. But there is still the question mark in their minds of work showing signs of productivity. All we (the coaches) can ask them is win, lose, or draw, to go play like hell."

Hopefully, that question mark can be answered in a positive and winning fashion tomorrow night at Andrews.

Nielson is ready

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips left practice scratching his head Wednesday and rookie quarterback Gifford Nielsen was carrying a movie projector in the wake of starting quarterback Dan Pastorini's latest injury.

Pastorini suffered bruised ribs in Sunday's 20-14 loss to Atlanta, spent Tuesday night in a hospital for observation and was listed as doubtful for Sunday's game at Kansas City.

If Pastorini can't play Sunday, Nielsen would get his second chance to start because of a Pastorini injury. Nielsen was impressive during preseason when he led the Oilers to a 27-13 victory over Dallas while Pastorini was sidelined with a hip injury.

Phillips isn't ruling Pastorini out yet however. "We won't know what to do until Dan gets back and we can see what he can do," Phillips said. "If I know Dan, he's going to want to play but it will depend on what he can do."

Phillips said doctors told him Wednesday that Pastorini would be available for workouts Friday and Saturday. "We'll wait until then before deciding on doing anything else," Phillips said.

"This is just like the Dallas game for me, I don't know yet if I'll be starting," Nielsen said, as he left practice with a stack of game film and a projector.

"All I can do is be ready."

Pastorini suffered the rib injury in the third quarter just after completing an eight-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Rich Caster. Pastorini was struck in the ribs by linebacker Greg Brezina's helmet.

Pope costs TV million

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer
Both NBC and CBS bit the bullet Sunday, pre-empting the opening of the National Football League season in favor of live coverage of installation ceremonies for Pope John Paul I.

It was a costly decision, giving up expensive commercial time for a news event. The networks expected the Papal Mass to end about 1:30 p.m. EDT, but it lasted almost an hour beyond that time. Both networks stayed with the mass until the end and their combined losses could run to about $1.5 million.

CBS had five games

starting at 1 p.m. EDT and one at 2 p.m. The Mass wiped out the first halves of all five 1 p.m. games and part of the 2 p.m. contest. Commercial time goes for about $55,000 per 30-second spot on CBS and about 11 minutes of commercials would have appeared in the first half. That's about a $1.2 million loss for the five early games.

Martina cruising in Open

NEW YORK (AP) — They'll tell you the same clichés, but don't be fooled. After No. 1 seed Martina Navratilova and second-rated Chris Evert have played all those other matches "one match at a time," they expect to be facing each other across the net at the U.S. Open.

At stake will be the women's singles championship, a No. 1 ranking and as much pride as these two combative women can muster. You don't rise to the top in a very competitive sport without having a special feeling inside that says No. 1 is the only numeral worth having.

And there can only be one No. 1.

"I'm not any more confident than before that I'm gonna get into the finals," said Navratilova, the Czech expatriate who wasn't pushed too hard Wednesday in downing longtime Eastern European opponent Virginia Ruzici of Romania 6-3, 6-2.

"I'm just taking one match at a time," the 21-year-old resident of Dallas said with barely a trace of an accent. "I'm just getting closer (to the finals), that's all."

Evert was tested a bit more in her match against 15-year-old phenom Tracy Austin of Rolling Hills, Calif., proving stronger and steadier, and prevailing 7-5, 6-1.

"In the second set I played very, very well," said the 23-year-old Floridian, who is bidding to become the first woman in more than 40 years to win this event four straight times. "I'm very pleased, especially with my serve. I'm getting better with every match."

The semifinal opponents of the top two seeds were to be decided today when 16-year-old Pam Shriver, the No. 14 seed from Luthersville, Md., met Leslie Hunt of Australia and No. 15 Kathy May of Beverly Hills, Calif., played fourth-ranked Wendy Turnbull of Australia.

Later today, No. 1 Bjorn Borg plays No. 8 Raul Ramirez of Mexico and No. 2 Jimmy Connors meets No. 6 Brian Gottfried in men's quarter-final action.

In the men's singles Wednesday, a pair of native New Yorkers waltzed into the semifinals. No. 5 seed Vitas Gerulaitis volleyed deftly in crushing jittery Johan Kriek of South Africa 6-2, 6-1, 6-2. No. 15 John McEnroe polished off giant-killer Butch Walts of Phoenix 6-1, 6-2, 7-6.

Kriek, who had a relatively easy draw into the quarter-finals, had his serve broken eight times in the match, double-faulting 16 times.

A record night crowd for the Open, 15,794, showed up for the Gerulaitis-Kriek match, creating a record total for one day — 30,580.

The doubles action heated up Wednesday with the American duo of Marty Riessen and Sherwood Stewart ousting heavy favorites Frew McMillan and Bob Hewitt of South Africa 2-6, 6-2, 7-5. After match point, the volatile Hewitt threw a temper tantrum, pounding his racket three times against the top of the net.

Rangers clip Angels twice

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — If the California Angels are unsuccessful in their bid to win the American League's Western Division championship this year, they'll certainly remember the events of Wednesday, Sept. 6.

The Angels entered the day trailing first-place Kansas City by only 1 1/2 games. But after the Royals turned what appeared to be a certain defeat into a 12-inning victory in the afternoon, California went out and got clobbered in a doubleheader at night.

Thus the Royals have a three-game advantage over California on the eve of their big four-game series with the Angels at Anaheim Stadium.

The Royals are idle today and a lot of them will probably be on hand to cheer for the Texas Rangers tonight when they complete a four-game series against the Angels.

The Rangers, who entered play with a team batting average of only .249, made mincemeat of California's pitching staff Wednesday night, rolling up 20 runs on 21 hits on their way to 11-5 and 9-2 victories. Earlier in Oakland, Kansas City overcame an early 7-0 deficit for an 11-8 triumph over the A's.

California's starting pitchers, Nolan Ryan, 6-12, and Paul Hartzell, 6-9, were anything but effective. Ryan gave up seven runs, eight hits and five walks over 6 2/3 innings in the opener while making his first appearance since he suffered a rib injury Aug. 20.

Hartzell allowed six runs, four hits and five walks in two innings of the nightcap. And it could have been worse for Hartzell, who faced three batters, all of whom reached base and scored, in the third.

The Rangers' John Lowenstein lost a home run in the third when plate umpire Bill Deegan called time out because a paper airplane landed on the field as Hartzell made his delivery.

Lowenstein hit the pitch over the right field wall, but the blast was disallowed. He then drew a walk.

All told, six California pitchers issued 17 walks and the Rangers stole eight bases.

Prior to the start of the Rangers-Angels four-game series, Texas Manager Bill Hunter held out hope that his team was still in the race.

"We still have time," Hunter insisted. "We'll know in the next 10 days. I'd like to say when we leave town we're back in the race. We need to win three out of four here and everywhere the rest of the year."

A victory tonight would give the Rangers three out of four, but they still trail the Royals by 7 1/2 games.

Steve Comer, 8-3, was the winning pitcher in Wednesday night's opener. Doyle Alexander pitched the final 21-3 innings. Ferguson Jenkins, 14-8, fired a seven-hitter in the nightcap.

Ryan departed in the seventh inning of the opener after a two-run single by Richie Zisk gave the Rangers a 6-3 lead. Dyer Miller came in and walked Jim Sundberg. Toby Harrah then clinched Texas' victory with a three-run homer.

"The rib felt all right," said Ryan. "I didn't have any pain and I thought I threw the ball well. I make some mistakes and they hit them all. I didn't get away with anything."

READY AND WAITING — Texas Rangers Toby Harrah is tagged at home by California Angels Terry Humphrey in the 3rd inning of the second game at Anaheim Wednesday. Texas swept a doubleheader 11-5 and 9-2.

Bufs debut '78

The Forsan Buffaloes go to Bronte Friday night to meet an old rival in their season opener.

Up until a few years back, Bronte always soundly whacked the Forsan Buffaloes, but the shoe has been on the other foot in recent years.

A lot of folks think Forsan may not be as strong in their 5A District, but it's a cinch they will be strong after Bronte in their opener.

And Bronte had better not give them many chances at the goal line. With veteran backs such as Rancy Cregar, and Rusty Henderson, sparked by Joe Kinder, quarterback and Weldon Nichols and Dale Earnest alternating for the other spot, Forsan is going to score some points and may bring home the whole bag of marbles.

Coach George White is taking a "wait and see attitude" with the Bufs this year, but the boys are ready to play football. Game time is 8 p.m. in Bronte.

Goose named PoW

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Yankees reliever Rich Gossage, who picked up a win and three saves in four appearances last week, was named the American League Player of the Week for the period ending Sept. 2. AL President Lee Mac-Phail announced today.

The big right-hander picked up saves No. 19, 20 and 21 and lowered his earned run average to 1.95, holding the opposition scoreless in five innings of work.

The highlight of Gossage's week came Sunday when he entered a game between the Yankees and Seattle Mariners with none out, runners on second and third and New York clinging to a 4-3 lead. The "Goose" struck out the side on 11 pitches.

Gossage was hard-pressed for the award by Kansas City pitcher Larry Gura, 13-4, who pitched two complete games.

Several batters received consideration in the voting. Ben Oglivie of Milwaukee hit .440, Rico Carty of Oakland batted .375, Boston's Jim Rice hit .429 and Seattle's Ruppert Jones batted .412.

Walton still wants out

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Bill Walton still wants to leave the Portland Trail Blazers after reconsidering his request to be traded.

Harry Glickman, general manager of the National Basketball Association club, said Wednesday the 6-foot-11 center's meetings with Blazer owner Larry Weinberg last Saturday and Tuesday in Los Angeles were amicable. He said Walton agreed after the meeting Saturday, which one of his agents had requested, that he would reconsider his intent to leave the team.

"He thought until Tuesday, and he and the Trail Blazers mutually agreed to pursue a trade," Glickman said.

NBA sets new skeds

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association isn't giving the Washington Bullets much time to rest on their laurels.

The NBA announced Tuesday that its 902-game regular season 1978-79 schedule will start Oct. 13 with nine games, including a match-up between the defending champion Bullets at home against the New Orleans Jazz.

The regular season, the earliest opening in NBA history, will conclude Apr. 7 with each of the 22 teams playing 82 games before the top teams start the playoffs, which last about two months.

Will Bonds leave Rangers

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland pitcher Rick Waits says he'll be happy to have Bobby Bonds on his side — assuming that the Texas slugger really is coming to the Indians.

The Indians announced last week they were trading outfielder Johnny Grubb to the Texas Rangers, but the other side of the deal is being kept a secret until after the American League baseball campaign has ended.

However, Cleveland sports writers are saying flatly that the player coming from Texas is Bonds.

Waits was accused of deliberately throwing at Bonds in a recent game, but he says the incident won't affect his relationship with Bonds.

"I did what I had to do and now it's over," said Waits. "I hope he feels the same way. I look forward to playing with him. He's a good ballplayer."

Cleveland General Manager Gabe Paul, who has traded for Bonds before, won't confirm the current deal.

In 1974, when Paul was GM of the New York Yankees, he traded Bobby Murcer for Bonds. A year later, Paul traded Bonds to the California Angels for Mickey Rivers and Ed Figueroa.

Bonds, 32, has been with the Giants and the Chicago White Sox as well as with Texas, California and the Yankees.

If Bonds comes to Cleveland, the Indians will have an impressive lineup of home run hitters. Bonds had 25 homers through Tuesday's action. Two Indians have been hitting homers at a good clip this year. Andre Thornton has 29 and Gary Alexander has 23.

Just spell his name right

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The San Francisco Giants manager looks forward to the day when people will stop calling him "Johnny Antonelli or Joe Botticelli" or other names that, while similar, aren't his.

Joe Altobelli, who has done probably one of the best managing jobs in the major leagues this summer, figures that when people finally get his name right, it will be after some extended national exposure — like in the World Series.

"Nobody really knows this team very well," Altobelli said, his voice raised over the country and western music blaring from the clubhouse radio prior to Wednesday's game against the Dodgers. "People don't know who many of the players are, and they never heard of me."

"Most everybody's heard about many of the Dodgers. Much of that recognition coming because they've been in the World Series. And they know a few players — Willie McCovey, Vida Blue — on our team. But players like Jack Clark and Darrell Evans still aren't very well known yet."

Sis-boom-bah vs bump-and-grind

By BRUCE LOWITT

AP Sports Writer

If you watched Dallas cheerleaders cavorting about last Monday night, you probably noticed a couple of things.

When ABC's cameras weren't ogling the girls, you saw the Cowboys clobber the Baltimore Colts 38-0.

When they were, you saw sexism officially kicking into high gear in the National Football League, to the chagrin of some of today's more outspoken women.

Cheerleaders have always been a part of football, from the pee-wees to the pros. But, as the name implies, they're supposed to get people to cheer, not salivate.

These days, in the NFL, sis-boom-bah has been replaced by bump-and-grind.

The big numbers used to be 6-6, 265. Now they're 38-24-36.

Some pro teams have had women prancing along the sidelines for many years. But it was the Cowboys who, a few seasons back, mated pro football and Charlie's Angels.

Since then we've witnessed the creation of the Denver Broncos' Pony Express, Philadelphia's Liberty Bells, the Houston Oilers' Derrick Dolls, Chicago's Honey Bears, the Seattle Sea Gals, the Cincinnati Ben Gals, the St. Louis Cardinals' Big Red Line and more, including — heaven help us — the Los Angeles Rams' Embraceable Ewes.

In many instances it's becoming a case of less and less uniform and more and more cheerleader — and those aren't pompons the girls are shakin' at you.

"I think it could get out of hand but I don't think it is to this point," says Commissioner Pete Rozelle. "I think the clubs have gotten an awful lot of attention and I think for the most part they've handled that part of their show in good taste. I think they've become increasingly aware of the importance of conducting it with good taste."

Says Shannon Baker, one of the Cowboys' cheerleaders: "A lot of people have said, 'We don't need those girls on the field,' but, hey, there's also a lot of nice looking men on the field — the players.

"If anything, we're getting away from the sexual thing," she adds. "Our uniforms might be revealing, but I've done professional dancing and I've danced in a lot less. It's all in good taste."

But that, quite frankly, begs the question.

"It's just another example of the stereotype," says Gloria Steinem, one of the nation's most outspoken feminists. "You know, like it used to be the servants were always black and the employers were always white. These days the stereotype is that the women are always the secretaries, the researchers — yes, and the cheerleaders, too — and the men are always the principals.

"You'll notice you don't see male cheerleaders at women's sports events."

Pirates still screaming

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

A plane ride last month really got the Pittsburgh Pirates off the ground and they haven't come down to earth yet.

"We were in Philadelphia and had just been humiliated and were 11½ games behind," Pirate Manager

Chuck Tanner recalls. "But on the plane after the trip I knew right then that we were going to start winning."

How did he know?

"We were healthy," says Tanner. "We had seven pitchers capable of starting and we took off from there."

The Los Angeles Dodgers, meanwhile, stretched their lead to three games over San Francisco in the NL West with a 9-2 victory over the Giants. Elsewhere, the Phillies kept their slim edge in the East by trimming the Chicago Cubs 8-1; the Montreal Expos tripped the New York Mets 8-2 and the San Diego Padres turned back the Atlanta Braves 5-3.

No more discos for Gerulaitis

By VITAS GERULAITIS

NEW YORK (AP) — Vitas Gerulaitis is skipping the discos this week and hoping for a shot at Wimbledon champion Bjorn Borg in the semis at the U.S. Open tennis championships.

"They've closed Studio 54 for 10 days, so I've got nowhere to go, anyway," the cheery blond said of his favorite New York disco.

Gerulaitis won a semifinal berth with a victory Wednesday night over young Johan Kriek, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2. Borg, the top seed, was to play Mexico's Raul Ramirez today in a quarter-final match, and the Swede was heavily favored.

Gerulaitis, who is seeded fourth, obviously had little doubt that his next opponent would be anyone but Borg. He noted he had lost their last five meetings.

"But maybe this time Lady Luck will be with me. She wasn't with me the last time I played him."

Gerulaitis isn't known as one of the most dedicated, hardworking players. He has spent much of the year looking for someone to provide some guidance. He seems to have found it in Fred Stolle, an Australian who won the U.S. title in 1966 and who is player-coach for the New York Apples of World Team Tennis.

Gerulaitis is the star men's singles player for the Apples.

Stolle says he's strictly an adviser; Gerulaitis jokes about being reined in.

"Fred goes out to all these places, saying he wants to make sure I'm not there. So he's the one staying out all night," Gerulaitis said.

Stolle says he's working to improve Gerulaitis' forehand, once a powerful weapon but now not as disciplined. But more than that, Gerulaitis wants to shore up his notoriously poor second serve.

"I'm still a long way off, technically speaking," he said of his game. "But mentally I'm about as ready as I'll ever be."

Irish redress

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent

Notre Dame knows how Muhammad Ali felt back in 1967 — today the champ, tomorrow just another chump, the title taken away before an angry punch can be thrown in defense.

Voted No. 1 in national college football rankings after some wild upheavals in the bowl games, the Fighting Irish woke up a few months later to learn they had been dropped to No. 5 by the pollsters.

On top: Alabama, which felt it should have been there in the first place.

So Dandy Dan Devine and his talented South Benders set out this week to redress some grievances — with spirit and punch.

Meanwhile, the country gets an early feel of strength in the Pacific 10, spawner of the Rose Bowl, with UCLA-Washington in the headliner but Stanford picked to pull the upset of the week.

Last week: 7-3 for .700. This week's version of Russian roulette:

Notre Dame 30, Missouri 14: They say the Irish have a fullback named Heavens, who can't wait. Missouri is known as the "Show Me" state. Okay, Dandy Dan, show 'em.

UCLA 23, Washington 17: The Huskies are Rose Bowl champions on an impetus kick, but UCLA is determined to halt the pendulum of league supremacy swinging to the north. UCLA has a back named Bashore, which is not a real estate development. He just covers a lot of it.

Conference might form

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Eight small basketball-conscious universities will meet in Dallas Sept. 19 to discuss joining a new conference.

Dr. Jesse Fletcher, president of Hardin-Simmons here, said the prospective league would also include Oklahoma City, Houston Baptist; Pan American of Edinburg, Texas; Centenary of Shreveport, La.; Northeast Louisiana of Monroe; Samford of Birmingham, Ala.; and Mercer of Macon, Ga.

All of the schools would qualify for the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Division I.

A basketball tournament after the 1979-80 regular season would be the league's first activity if it is formed, Fletcher said.

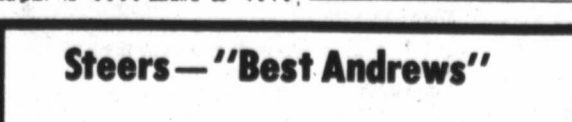

"Everyone is committed to trying to organize a conference," he added. "Half the schools are still in the process of gaining full authority of putting their names on the line."

Police have no clues to bombings

SPEEDWAY, Ind. (AP) — The bomber "has got to be caught," says a friend of the man and woman injured in the eighth explosion to rock this central Indiana community in six days. But police say they have no suspects and know of no motive.

Wednesday night, for the first time, a bomb exploded where people were present, in the parking lot of Speedway High School just four blocks from the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Carl David DeLong and his wife, Sandy, both 39, were injured as they waited for their son, Steve, to shower after a freshman football game.

The bomb was believed placed in a paper bag and DeLong may have kicked the bag, setting it off, officials said. He was in critical condition today at Wishard Memorial Hospital where doctors said he might lose half his right leg. Mrs. DeLong was in fair condition.

"I knew something like this was bound to happen," said Marlin Snyder, 37, a friend of DeLong and one of an estimated 200 persons who attended the game. "The bomber has been lucky before tonight and nobody's been hurt. That person has got to be caught."

A group of businessmen prepared to offer a reward today for information about the bomber. Authorities theorize the bombings are the work of one person.

The device in each case was composed of a six-volt battery, a cooking timer, gunpowder packed tightly in a 12-ounce beverage can wrapped in a towel and a coil, believed to be part of a timer.

The first four explosions came Friday night, starting about 10 p.m., and early Saturday. A car was damaged and plate windows were shattered. One of the Saturday bombs was set outside the high school.

Two more blasts went off Sunday at a bowling alley, the first again coming at 10 p.m. The seventh exploded about the same time Tuesday night, wrecking the unoccupied car of an off-duty policeman outside an apartment complex.

Because no people had been endangered before, police originally theorized the explosions were part of a prank.

Cullen Davis pleads 5th amendment often

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Attorneys for a man wounded outside Cullen Davis' mansion two years ago questioned the jailed industrialist Wednesday, but Davis reportedly invoked the Fifth Amendment repeatedly.

Grover Swift, who represents Gus (Bubba) Gavrel Jr., 24, interviewed Davis in the Tarrant County Jail here in the presence of a court reporter. Davis, jailed last month on murder-for-hire charges, gave his name and said he was an officer of Ken Davis Industries, but he refused to answer other questions.

Gavrel was shot in 1976 and is partially paralyzed as a result. He has filed a damage suit against Davis, who is also charged with attempted murder and murder in connection with the mansion shootings.

The millionaire was acquitted of the murder of his 12-year-old stepdaughter after the state's longest and costliest murder trial last year in Amarillo.

School refuses to close down

CHICAGO (AP) — Students at St. Mel's, the last remaining Catholic school in the black West Side ghetto, are told to believe in themselves, to try to succeed despite the grim world outside.

St. Mel's has followed its own teachings, refusing to become another inner city casualty, despite an edict to close from the archdiocese.

Principal Paul Adams, who led the black high school away from the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago this summer, greeted 400 students in classes this week and said Wednesday he's already working to raise money for next year.

"The cardinal vetoed our staying alive last spring, but I think God overrode his decision," said teacher and basketball coach Julius Walker.

St. Mel's was ordered to close earlier this year. It was one of 28 schools closed or merged by the archdiocese in the last seven years.

Of the 28, 17 were in black or racially mixed neighborhoods.

The church justified closure on financial, enrollment and religious grounds, noting few Catholics live in black neighborhoods. The archdiocese's direct subsidy to schools dropped from $2.26 million in 1976 to $2.12 million in 1977.

Officials said the burden of school finance would increasingly be the responsibility of the 451 parishes.

Among parochial schools, St. Mel's was a leader. Half of each entering freshman class dropped out because of tough academic standards. Those who remained were serious students. About 85 percent of its graduates went on to college.

Drugs, gangs, fighting and other ills associated with Chicago schools weren't found there.

Congress may rebuke Carter's veto power

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter faced the first possible rebuke of his veto power today as the House neared a showdown vote on whether to authorize construction of a $2 billion nuclear-powered aircraft carrier over his objection.

Both opponents and supporters of the carrier claimed to have enough support to carry the vote, expected about midday.

Carter vetoed the $37 billion defense authorization bill featuring the nuclear

Company given time to test proposed fine

HOUSTON (AP) — Burton Shipyard Inc. of Port Arthur has 15 days to challenge a $40,000 fine proposed by the Labor Department for alleged violations of federal safety regulations by the company.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration turned up four alleged violations in an investigation prompted by the death of a shipyard worker in March, the Labor Department said Wednesday.

A department spokesman said a painter working on the deck of a vessel at the shipyard died when he stepped backward and fell over the side.

OSHA alleges the shipyard failed to provide guard rails, flotation devices, an accessible life ring with line or a portable ladder long enough for employees to use in climbing to safety.

The shipyard may contest the citation and proposed penalty with the Occupational Safety and Health Review Commission.

Energy Re-entry in Martin County scheduled

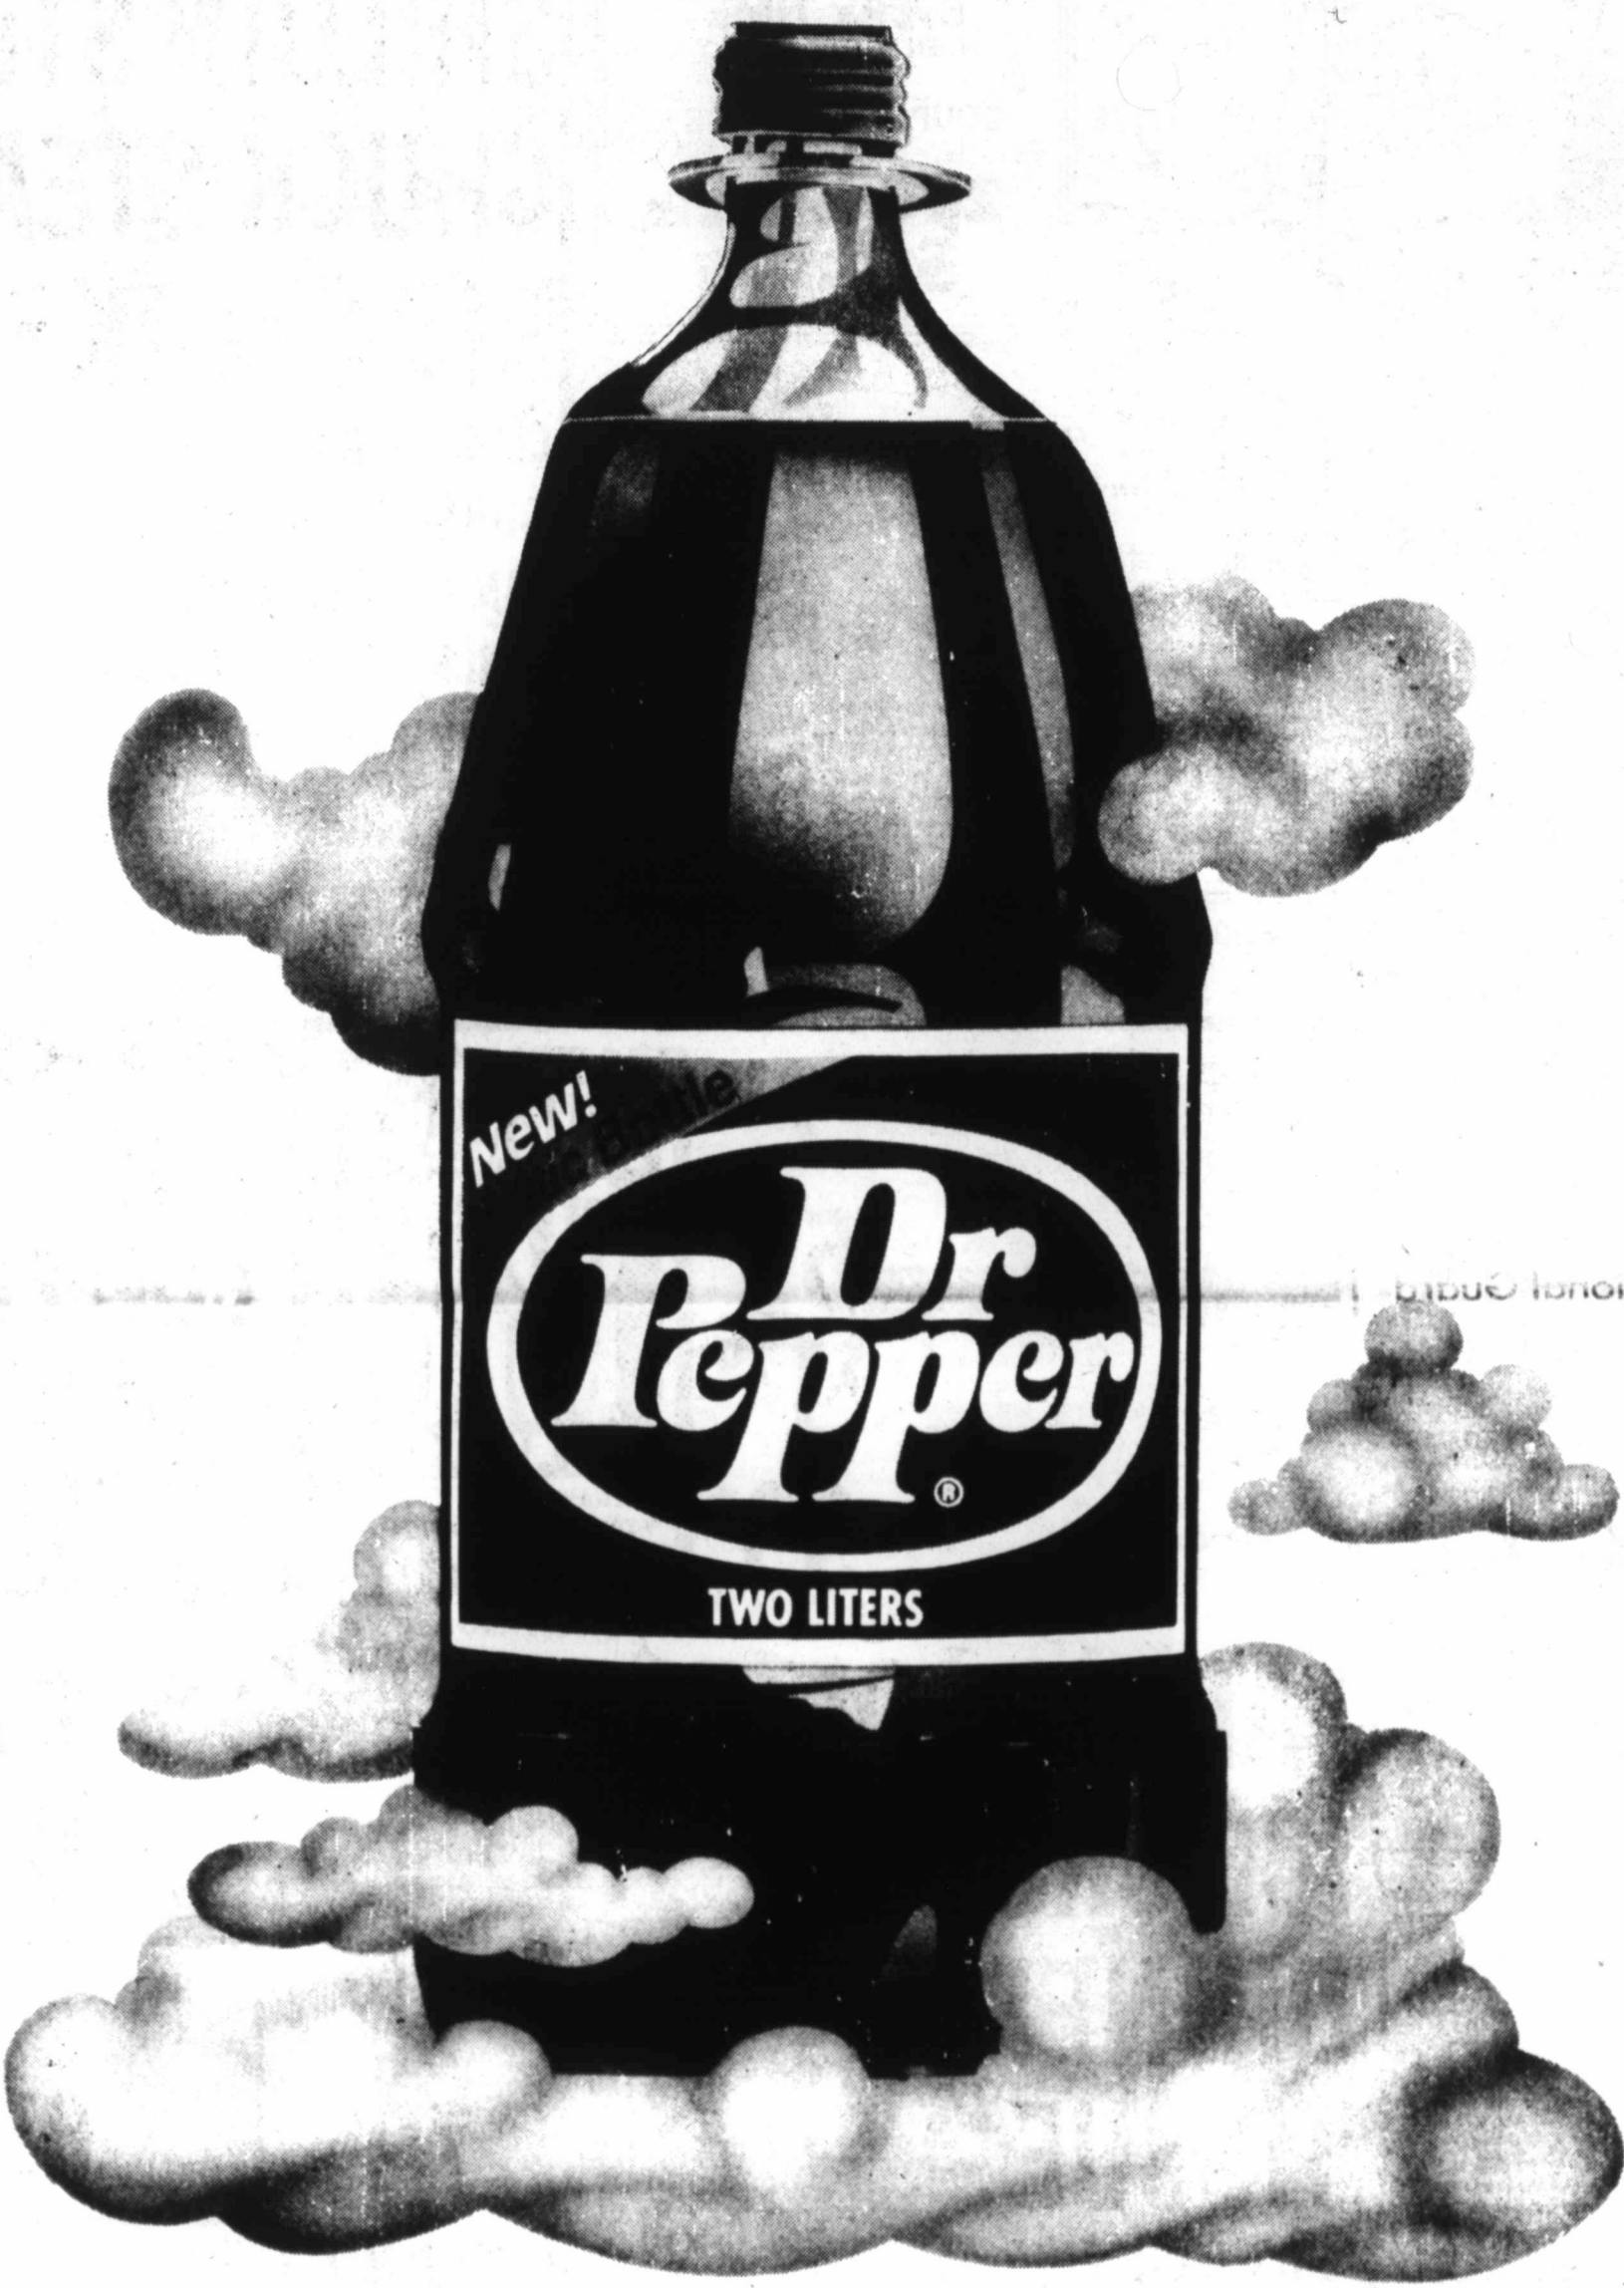

A re-entry in Martin County was scheduled this week in the oil patch. Miller Exploration, Inc., Midland, will re-enter and plug back to 8,600 feet for recompletion attempt as a five-mile southwest extension to Spraberry production.

It is in the Breedlove multipay field at its No. 1 Earl Heald, opener and lone producer in the Bizco (Mississippian) field of Martin County, 1 1/4 miles west of the nearest production in the Sulphur Draw (8790 Dean) field, but separated by depleted producers, 2 1/2 miles south-southeast of the four-well Spraberry area of the Breedlove, East (Spraberry and Siluro-Devonian) field, 4 1/4 miles northwest of production in the Spraberry Trend Area and one mile south of Three League.

Drilled to 12,200 feet, it was finished Nov. 30, 1977 to pump 80 barrels of 39 gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 2,351-1 through perforations at 11,002-081 feet.

Location is 660 feet from the south and west lines of 6-36-3n-T&P.

OUR NEW PLASTIC BOTTLE MAKES TWO LITERS LIGHTER.

The only way to make Dr Pepper's great taste easier to pick up on, is to make the bottle easier to pick up.

So that's exactly what we did. With a new non-returnable plastic bottle that's a whole lot lighter than a glass bottle. Shatterproof, too.

What's more, our new bottle has a special neck grip which also makes Dr Pepper easier to pick up. Easier to pour.

All in all, what could be better? You get our new, lighter two-liter bottle. And inside, 67.6 ounces of our great tasting original soft drink.

So, be a Pepper. Drink Dr Pepper in the new plastic bottle.

Future risks for gambling stocks look good

NEW YORK (AP) — Speculators have been placing some heavy bets lately on the future of the legal gambling business in this country.

Their hopes that the gambling industry can win approval to spread out from Nevada and Atlantic City, N.J., and accelerate its already strong growth rate have inspired a much-publicized bull market for stocks with links to the business.

Wall Street investors, of course, are always busy trying to catch a ride on the wave of the future. This has led to a steady succession of stock-market fads — bowling, mobile homes, CB radios and many more — most of which eventually collapsed.

But the fact remains that a lot of money has been made, at least on paper, in the gambling stocks. According to figures by Barron's magazine, the aggregate market value of 12 gambling-related stocks increased by $2.26 billion in the first eight months of the year.

Caesars World shares gained more than 600 percent in price; Resorts International and Golden Nugget each rose better than fivefold; Playboy Enterprises and Bally Manufacturing tripled; and Ramada Inns, Del E. Webb Enterprises and Harrah's more than doubled.

Most of these stocks have been heavily traded, contributing to a record pace of activity for the year to date on the New York Stock Exchange. Such a booming market would appear to be a stockbroker's dream, since it helps generate extra commission dollars, which are still a basic source of revenues for the securities industry.

But many Wall Streeters profess wariness or downright concern over the periodic outbreaks of "gambling fever" that have hit the market. And in the past few days leading exchanges and brokers have limited or barred altogether any buying of the stocks on credit.

"With recent prices five or 10 times this year's low quotations, anyone who calls these things 'investments' probably thinks a lottery ticket is as sure a thing as a certificate of deposit," said William LeFevre, an analyst at Granger & Co., in a market commentary.

The gambling stocks also have acquired a reputation for depressing the rest of the market whenever they have one of their runups. Because they are speculative, brokers say, they scare some conservative money managers away from the market.

And even though the market is usually thought of as an amoral mechanism that concentrates on dollars and cents and leaves value judgments to others, many brokers evidently feel more comfortable putting their customers into steel or computers than into gambling.

In fact moral, social and aesthetic questions, not just sheer economics, are closely involved in the industry's long-range prospects, just as they are in debates over whether gambling should come to Miami Beach, New York City or other possible sites.

Clements seeks votes in Midland

Bill Clements, Republican candidate for Governor of Texas, stopped briefly at the Midland Air Terminal Wednesday on a flying tour across West Texas.

He plans to be in Big Spring sometime during the month of October. His present tour will climax Tuesday night in Dallas where he will hold a big fundraiser for his campaign.

Speakers at that event are to be the former President Gerald Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Ford flies on to Big Spring the day after the Clements fund-raising event.

Clements told a group attending a press conference in Midland Wednesday that "Our polls show that we are constantly gaining in the governor's race and that many of the backers of Dolph Briscoe are continuing to work for Clements for Governor."

Clements local campaign chairmen are R.H. Weaver and John Currie.

National Guard called in to fight fires

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Gov. Meldrim Thomson says National Guard troops will man fire stations in New Hampshire's largest city as long as firefighters participate in a "sickout."

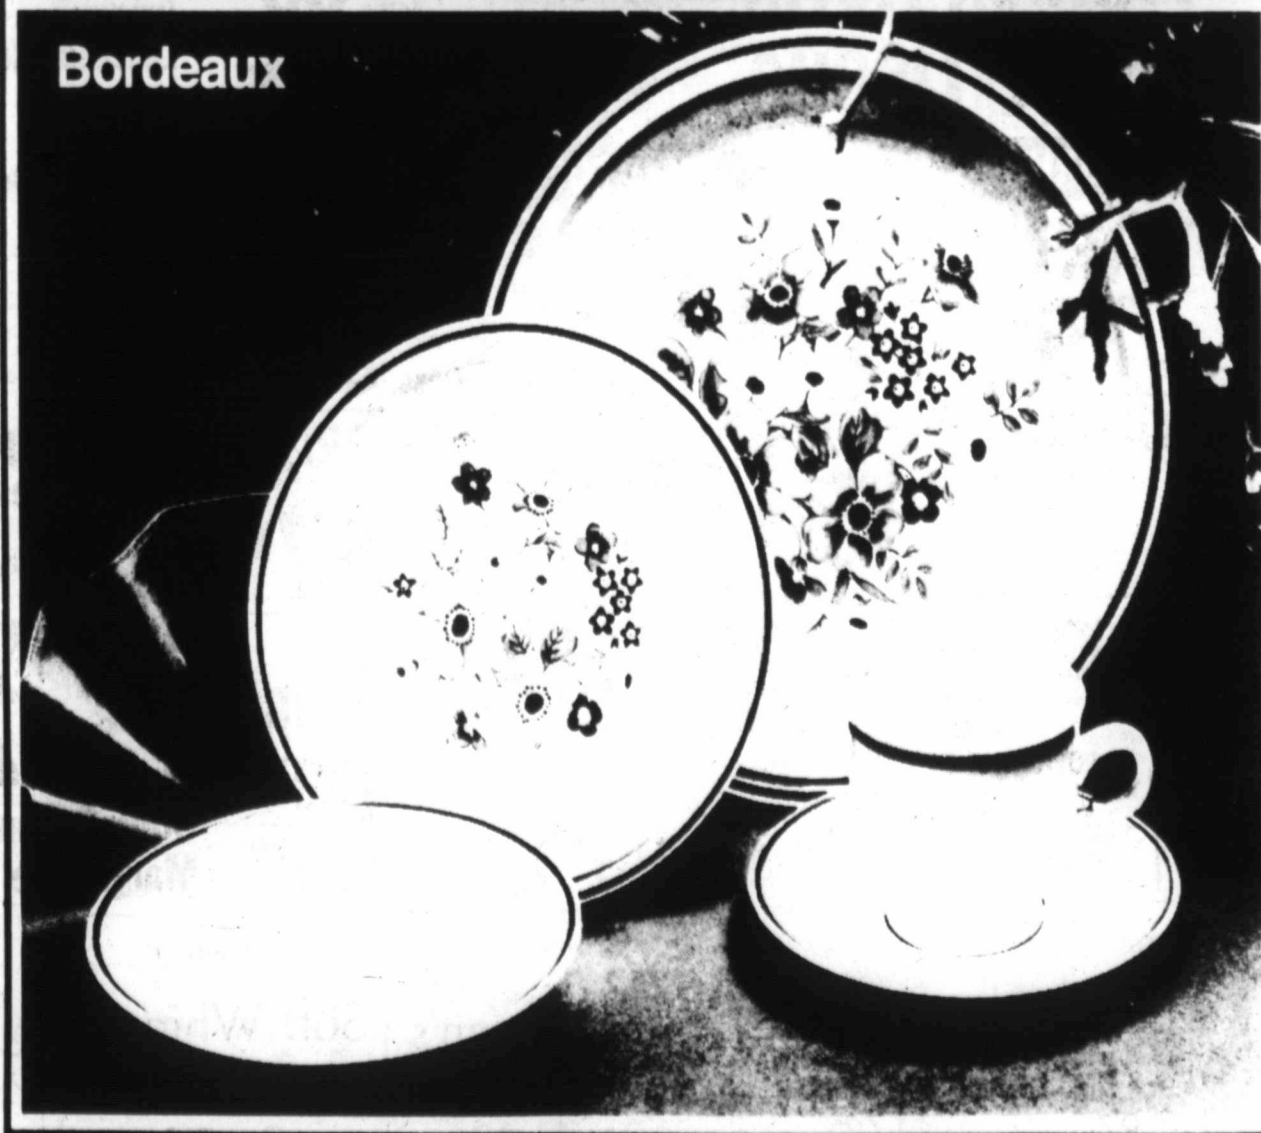

Thomson called in 35 National Guardsmen, untrained in fighting fires, for Concord and Peterboro Wednesday night after the entire night shift of firefighters called in sick.

"Just like Seabrook, the guard will stay to protect the lives and the property as long as it takes," Thomson said Wednesday night.

The city solicitor plans to file contempt of court citations today in Hillsboro County Superior Court against firefighters participating in the sickout.

A temporary injunction forbidding any job action was ordered Saturday. Strikes by public employees are illegal in New Hampshire.

Thomson said the court also would be asked to require the firefighters union to reimburse the state for the cost of the National Guard callup.

Big Spring pledges $4,237 to fight MD

Locally, Muscular Dystrophy telethon workers raised $4,237.07 in pledges and collections, topping previous Big Spring totals for the annual Labor Day weekend fund raising.

The national total was $29,974,405, setting a new record and topping last year's $26,841,419 by over $3 million. The South Plains area, which last year raised $135,644, also set a new record with $137,331.

The Big Spring effort to raise funds to fight muscular dystrophy, a crippling disease that strikes children and adults, was sponsored by the Big Spring REACT group.

"We want to thank the employees of KWAB-TV for their courtesy and assistance and courtesy during the telethon, and issue a special thanks to all the merchants who donated food and drinks for the telethon workers," said Deloris Albert, telethon coordinator.

Businesses contributing refreshments included Meads Bakery, Rudds Bakery, Pizza Inn, Al's Barbecue, Big Dipper Donuts, R.C. Cola Co., Dr. Pepper, Coca-Cola, Morton Foods, Winchells' Donuts and Safeway Stores.

"The volunteers — children, young people, and adults were great. We had more than last year, and they really worked hard bringing in those pledges. Evelyn Barber, Dean Woods and Jean McGuire did an outstanding job of organizing the telephone operators, adding machine operators, and food and drink collectors, and I'd like to personally thank them.

"The REACT members all performed whatever task they were asked to do and

Evening Lions Club barbecue

In keeping with a custom of many years, the Big Spring Evening Lions Club will hold its annual barbecue in the High School Cafeteria Friday, Sept. 15, preceding the Big Spring-Hobbs football game.

Serving hours will be from 5 to 8 p.m. Plates can be prepared to go. The charge will be $3 a plate.

Members of the club are selling tickets. President of the club is Milton L. Kirby, who can be contacted through the Howard County Sheriff's Department. Tickets will also be sold at the door.

Proceeds will be used for eyesight conservation work and for other Lions' Club charities and civic work.

Registered Hereford sale

Leland Wallace has set Oct. 20 as the date for his annual production sale of registered Hereford cattle.

The sale, which begins at 1 p.m. at the ranch, will feature a minimum of 46 cattle, 30 bulls and 16 heifers from the Wallace ranch.

Youth stays afloat for 14 hours

PORT ARANSAS, Texas (AP) — A tanker nearly ran him down during the night, but an 18-year-old Port Aransas youth stayed afloat 14 hours in the Gulf of Mexico after falling off a fishing boat, according to Coast Guard officials.

Homer Roberson III, a deck hand on a charter fishing boat, fell into the water about 6:30 p.m. Sunday and wasn't rescued until the next morning, when he was hauled in by a San Antonio auto dealer who was unaware of Roberson's disappearance.

Roberson said Wednesday that he used his inflated pants to keep himself afloat during the ordeal, filling them with air and tying knots in legs and waist. He had no life preserver.

Two Coast Guard helicopters and about 30 other boats unsuccessfully searched the area about 10 miles from this coastal town.

"I knew they were looking for me. I could see the light from the helicopters on the horizon and all the boats out there looking for me," he said.

Early Monday, Roberson said he saw a boat approaching and thought it was a rescue boat.

"But then it began getting bigger and bigger and bigger. All of the sudden I saw it was a tanker. I had to swim like the devil to get out of its way," said Roberson.

The youth tried to keep from splashing to avoid attracting sharks. "I knew if I splashed around too much, the sharks would be all around me," he said. "So I didn't move my arms and tried to dog paddle towards shore."

At one point, Roberson said he felt what he thought was a shark brush against his leg.

"I put my arm out to push it away and I felt its real rough hide. I knew it was a shark and it was plenty big," he said.

Eddie Littlefield, 42, of San Antonio, his two sons and a friend spotted Roberson about 8:30 a.m. Monday.

"My boy saw something splashing out in the water and we thought it was a sailfish. We started in that direction and when we got a little closer, we thought the fish had something in its mouth," Littlefield said.

Roberson suffered no injuries from the ordeal, officials said.

Universities given $1.9 million

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than $1.9 million in research grants has been awarded by the Agriculture Department to universities and other institutions under the government's new policy of allocating the money on a competitive basis.

Until now, the department has allocated research money to states according to formulas for distribution to land-grant colleges and universities and state experiment stations.

But last year Congress authorized creation of a competitive grants program so new basic research and accelerated work in existing research could be stimulated through competitive applications.

The new program is not restricted to the traditional landgrant system but is open to any institution or individual scientist that has a project in mind.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland announced on Wednesday the first 21 contracts approved under the competitive system. In all, $14.4 million for about 190 such projects is expected to be awarded in the next few weeks.

The first grants included 13 for basic research in plant science and eight in human nutrition, a field specified by Congress in authorizing the program.

Mason E. Miller of the department's Science and Education Administration, the agency that handles the grants, said land-grant schools continued to dominate the money allocation, getting more than half the first $1.9 million.

In all, he said, 1,109 applications for grants were received under the first year of the competitive program. Thus, the 109 contracts approved represent less than 10 percent of the applicants.

Additionally, Miller said, about $143 million is available in cooperative federal-state research grants under traditional procedures to provide money for work conducted at the landgrant schools and state experiment stations.

Barrel racer earns awards

Gay Greenfield has earned a place in the junior division of the West Texas Barrel Racing Association standings for the second time in one year, finishing second in barrels and first in flags.

Gay and her horse, Texas Gambler won the average for barrel in October, November, December, February and April. At the opening of the world championship, Greenfield and Gambler had a second in juniors on Saturday and won on Sunday.

The pair have won numerous rodeos during the summer, being proudest of their first place win at the Sweetwater American Quarter Horse Show where they raced against some of the toughest barrel racers from five states.

The barrel racer will receive her awards at the Round-up and Banquet at Stanford, Sept. 16-17.

Gay is the daughter of Billy and Lillian Greenfield of Big Spring.

Moderate increase in potato exports expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Potato farmers may see a moderate increase in exports because of an expected cutback in crop acreage in some foreign countries.

The Agriculture Department said on Wednesday that farmers in Western Europe, Canada and Mexico have planted "moderately smaller" areas for the 1978-79 harvest in the wake of a bumper global crop of potatoes and lower prices.

Canada is the largest foreign market for fresh U.S. potatoes, and exports "should increase significantly" in the potato marketing year that will begin Oct. 1, the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said. Farmers there have cut plantings 5 percent from last season.

Mexico's output is expected to be down marginally because of reduce yields, the agency said.

Most European countries ban imports of U.S. fresh potatoes because of a fear of introducing new plant diseases. But the report said there is a possibility of exporting more processed potatoes such as frozen french fries and dehydrated mashed potatoes to Europe.

Government wants hints on cotton

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is asking for public comments on what to do about next year's cotton program.

Officials said on Wednesday that comments are being sought on whether to have an acreage set-aside program for cotton next year, levels for price support loans and target prices and other factors relating to the program.

Under law, next year's upland cotton loan level must be announced by Nov. 15 and the national program acreage by Dec. 15. There is no deadline for setting loans and payment rates for extra-long staple cotton.

Ridin' fence

He just closes doors

with Marj Carpenter

Early one morning in London on my recent vacation, my daughter said I could ride in her cab as she went to work and then go on to Liverpool Station and catch a train out to Hampton Court, which I was wanting to visit.

That seemed like a noble plan, so we took off. I had a schedule in my hand of what time the trains left for Hampton Court and when they returned and we made plans to meet at a restaurant near Piccadilly at the end of the day.

But when I got to the Liverpool Station, I couldn't see Hampton Court on any of their many signs and schedules. So I went to information. "You need to be in Waterloo," a man with a clipped English accent told me. "I beg your pardon?" I said.

When I finally realized that my daughter had hastily sent me to the wrong station, I was a little dismayed but determined to catch the train. I asked how to get to the other station in the tube (underground) and the man gave me a map and marked all the subway trains I must change.

So off I went. It was my second venture into the tube and my first by myself, but by pulling at lots of coat tails and asking lots of questions, I got to Waterloo.

I had a Brit Rail pass so I didn't need a ticket, so I found the proper gate and charged through. And to my confusion, there was a commuter train both on my left and on my right.

Both trains have one door after another, as there is a door into each little compartment all the way down the train on the commuters.

A man to my right was going down the train, slamming shut the doors, which the commuters had left open when they got out. I ran up to him and said, "Does this train go to Hampton Court?"

Slam — Slam — Slam — Slam went the doors, then he turned and said tiredly, "I don't know where any of them go. I just close the doors."

It was exasperating. I ran back to the gate and found somebody to tell me which train. But as I finally settled in my seat to head for Hampton Court to see those beautiful gardens, the castle and the most lovely tapestries in the world, I thought, "How sad — to just close the doors."

As I sat there thinking more about it, I thought about all the people I have known who just close the doors. There are the parents who constantly criticize the schools but never volunteer to help at PTA, serving on the board, attending booster clubs or in any other fashion.

There are the politicians who get themselves elected to office simply to be against every measure that comes up. They can always find something terribly wrong about it.

There are the reporters who delight in exposing bad things and delighting in "burning people" whether justified or not.

There are the power-seekers, who will do anything or hurt anybody to gain more power.

There are the church-goers, who, instead of trying to help others in Christian love when there are so many people out there seeking help — they constantly take strong stands against this or against that, and piously quote scripture as they do it.

There are the doers, who have quit trying to show concern for the learning child, like many of their fellow teachers do so well, and simply go through the motions of teaching.

There are the successful, who want growth to cease because they have already made their's when there are other successful people who still want to help somebody on the way up.

There are the unsuccessful who whine and complain that the government needs to take from the rich and give to the poor, and who make fun of those who work hard for what they have.

Slam — slam — slam — slam — go the doors and the people closing them so often feel no responsibility toward their fellow man. "I don't know where the train is going," he said. "I just close the doors."

And so do lots of other folks, and sometimes, if we're honest, we catch ourselves doing it too — out where I ride fence.

SHORT ON TREASURE — Marie and Tom King of Elephant Butte, N.M., spend their time searching public parks with metal detectors and spent Labor Day in Comanche Trail Park hunting old coins and other metal items. "You keep a clean park," Mrs. King stated. "We've had lots better luck finding items than the others in West Texas. She said that the metal detectors cost them "around $450. We've had a lot of fun and found a lot of coins and other items through the years."

'Living-Learning' lures BSIS grad

Celeste Moore Grenier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Skalicky, 2700 Apache Drive, Big Spring, and John R. Grenier, Middle Haddam, Conn., has entered Southern Methodist University, Dallas, as freshman geology major.

Celeste, a May graduate of Big Spring High School, has been chosen to take part in the new "Living-Learning" program, an innovative concept in education.

Celeste is the ninth member of the Moore side of her family to attend SMU. Her mother, Mary Moore Skalicky, was awarded two music degrees from the Dallas school.

The students participating in the Living-Learning program, according to James Hayes, director of Housing and Residences Life at the school.

"All freshmen are eligible to apply. Those with the best all-around high school backgrounds are chosen."

The idea of the Living-Learning program, Hayes said, is to create a common atmosphere conducive to study and fellowship by conducting a few classes in the dorm.

"It's like a nice little family of 60 people. The students learn to give and take by sharing courses and activities," said Hayes.

Intangibles could nearly triple BSISD tax roll

A state study shows that if the Big Spring Independent School District levied taxes on all property in 1977 it would have had a tax base of $663,320,047.

But, according to Assistant Superintendent for Business Don Crockett, that means exactly nothing until the state legislature takes some further action.

The State School Tax Assessment Board, which made the 1977 Legislature to determine what tax base each school district in Texas would have if it used 100 per cent market value for levying taxes.

Preliminary study results are being mailed to each of the state's 1,080 school districts for comment.

Crockett said that the school district itself has assessed against a fair market value of approximately $244 million. The state for the past two years has used a value set by Dolph Briscoe's office (and called the Governor's value) of $339 million.

The study shows that if agricultural land were taxed on productive rather than market value and if special tax exceptions were given to those over 65 and disabled veterans, the tax base for Big Spring ISD would have been $645,580,952 in 1977.

The 1979 Legislature will consider whether to require market value of taxable property be used in the formula that determines how much state public school money each school district gets.

"In that figure," said Crockett, "they have intangible personal property listed at $277,840,071. Certainly that is where the biggest jump has taken place."

"But the purpose of the values is simply to determine the wealth of the districts, and if all the districts have been increased on the same scale, then I am not sure it will affect our state funding at all."

Crockett pointed out that the figure doubles the Governor's value for this school district.

"But the big question is what the state does with these values. I believe Big Spring fared as well as anybody in this."

This year, the state applied a factor of 18 cents to the Governor's value to arrive at a foundation program budget of about $5 million here. Of that, $610,000 is assigned as the local district's share of the program, or local fund assignment. Unless the state finds an angle which will affect Big Spring, and not affect the other districts across the state, the local district is effectively hidden in the crowd. They can't do anything drastic here without doing it statewide.

Turner ges Vulcan tips

FORT BLISS — Pvt. Billy W. Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ocie A. Turner, 2901 Lawrence, Big Spring, recently completed a Vulcan crewman course at Fort Bliss.

During their training, students learned all phases of the firing and tracking systems of this air defense system.

The Vulcan is a 20mm automatic six-barrel gun mounted on a self-propelled armored personnel carrier and is designed primarily for anti-aircraft defense. Turner entered the Army last May.

The annual Open and Youth Horse Show held in conjunction with the Howard County Fair will be on Saturday, Sept. 23, with Wanda Driver as chairman. The entry fee will be $3 per class and all exhibitors in the registered classes will be asked to present registration papers or photostats thereof. All registered horses will show in the proper age group regardless of breed. Halter and performance class entries will not be limited. Entries will be accepted on the grounds Saturday, Sept. 23 at 9 a.m. and the show will start promptly at 9:30 a.m. All rules not included in the catalog, which will be published with the Big Spring Herald, Sunday, Sept. 10, will be posted as special rules or the rules from the AQHA will be followed. The management may combine or eliminate any class as it deems it necessary. The youth division is for all youth, 18 and under, unmarried and never having been married. Birthdays are determined the day of the show. No stallions allowed in the youth division and youth performance classes will be run together, according to the individual age. An open barrel race will be held at 2 p.m. Classes include:
