Secrecy lid lifted bit at summit

President Carter's Mideast summit has produced progress on some fundamental issues but "substantial differences remain" and the outcome is unclear, U.S. spokesman Jody Powell said Saturday.

Lifting the secrecy lid a bit as Carter, Israel's Menachem Begin and Egypt's Anwar Sadat paused in their deliberations for stock-taking, Powell said all three governments concurred in his assessment

'The focus in the main has been substantive," Powell said. But he again declined to discuss which of the key topics on the summit agenda were yielding to compromise and which were stubbornly unresolved.

"We're not there yet," commented a member of one delegation, who asked not to be identified.

The visiting diplomat said that despite intensive exploration of the unresolved issues, the divergences between Israel and Egypt on these points were sharp. If they persist throughout the conference, Carter's summit may not properly be termed a success, he added.

President Sadat is pushing for Israeli withdrawal from the West Bank of the Jordan River as well as concessions for the Palestinian Arabs. Prime Minister Begin has offered civil self-rule to the Palestinians and has declined to commit Israel to a

"Progress does seem to have been made in some areas," Powell told reporters at the daily briefing in an American Legion Hall at Thurmont, Md., six miles from Camp David.

"However, substantial differences remain on other important issues and there is simply no basis for any in-formed speculation about the final outcome," he said.

Powell said all three governments agreed that his report of some n some fronts but continuing differences on others "was an accurate assessment of the situation.

West Texans share spotlight at convention

Clements clouts Carter

By MARJ CARPENTER

DALLAS - Enthusiasm was the keynote at the Republican Convention here Saturday, as Bill Clements, candidate for governor of Texas, brought the crowd to its feet with the statement, "I want a tough-as-nails governor of Texas who will not stand for northeastern plundering of our energy assets when the inevitable nergy emergency hits."

The crowd rose and cheered again a few moments later when he said, "I want a new president in 1980. I do not want Jimmy Carter. I am unalterably opposed to his policies.

senators.

West Texans are very much in the forefront at the convention with Midland Mayor Ernie Angelo, national committeeman from Texas, introducing Tower.

Winn Brown, a Midland commissioner known to many Big Springers, was commended by Clements from the platform, Saturday morning, for his excellent organization of 45 counties in his region in the Clements campaign. His region includes Howard, Martin, Glasscock and Dawson Counties in the immediate Big Spring area

In a news conference in the Dallas Club, Friday, Clements commended what he called his "Democrats for Clements:" The list included the name of R.H. Weaver, Big Spring.

The behind-the-scenes battles at the convention were over a probable decision to hold a statewide presidential primary, and a battle for the state chairman's post between Tolle sought out Alexander for the job of police chief four years ago and Alexander formally assumed his duties Nov. 11, 1974. Alexander had only recently graduated with a degree in Law Enforcement, the first such man in Texas to so qualify.

Alexander is in court in Breckenridge over a civil matter. He underwent major surgery, later sued Dr. Phillip O'Neill for malpractice. That case has yet to be heard. Alexander said he had no reason to believe his refusal to dismiss the suit had anything to do with his problems with the city commission.

Bonnie Franklin, secretary in law office of Municipal Judge John Coffee, is Democratic nominee for Howard County Treasurer

Evan Evans is still Howard County Democratic chairman.

Private Detective Bob Smith, who was a candidate for Justice of Peace in the recent Democratic primary, is the Democratic nominee for constable in Precinct 1, Place 2

This triple action highlighted an hour and half meeting, punctuated by angry remarks by a few Democratic leaders, Saturday night at the courthouse.

Seven candidates for county treasurer made brief remarks and were quizzed by members of the Howard County Democratic Executive Committee, comprised of precinct chairmen. Mary Ann Roemer, a candidate was unable to attend the meeting.

Mrs. Franklin scored a lopsided victory in the race for treasurer. She received nine votes, Ruth Mitchell, three; Joan Jeter, two; Jackie Olsen, one; Mary Ann Roemer, one; Maxine Shaffer, one, Glenda Brazel, one and Liz Carpenter, one.

The meeting opened with Evans withdrawing from the county treasurer's contest and withdrawing his announced intention to resign as county chairman.

This action was followed by the formal resignation of Mrs. Frances Glenn McKenzie, county treasurer the Several members of the county Democratic executive committee left no doubt they are opposed to commissioners' reducing the county treasurer's salary from its present $15,168 level.

Miss Barker had been considered to be a long-shot for the title in the final days of the pageant. She had not won any of the preliminary competitions.

Armed prisoner seizes jail

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) - An armed prisoner captured two Chatham County jail guards Saturday night and freed 250 inmates who then took over three floors of the facility. Police were preparing to storm the building after rejecting the gunman's demands for four autos

One trusty, identified as John Rowe, was severely beaten and thrown from the jail. He was taken to a local hospital.

The prisoner, identified as Joseph Bennett, was holding one unidentified guard hostage after another guard escaped to the fourth and top floor of the jail, authorities said.

Jail officials did not say how Bennett, being held on federal bank robbery charges, obtained the pistol used to engineer the guards' capture.

The guard who escaped to the fourth floor barricaded himself in a room. Officials, using a wrecker winch, then pulled bars from one of the room's windows to free the man.

None more so than Fred Vegas show girls, it suddenly Silverman, who became president of third-place NBC kids in Las Vegas, called last June after guiding perennial doormat ABC to first place.

Silverman plunged into his new job with such boldness, shuffling programs faster than a deck of cards, that he may be in danger of upstaging his own shows. Which, in fact, may be his object considering that most of the shows he has to work with are either weak and untried or are not of his own

What Silverman did pasting. ABC and NBC have was leap-frog the opposition heavily weighted the odds against the Emmy telecast next Sunday on CBS

Going into the new season, ABC is solidly in first place. CBS and NBC trail in that order. ABC opens its season Monday, and although NBC and CBS don't officially begin until the following Monday, both networks are holding "sneak previews."

The network drama began to unfold last May when ABC was the first to announce its fall schedule. ABC, dealing from strength, added only five shows: three comedies, a private eye caper and "Battlestar Galactica," a big-budget space opera

All this time, even as NBC revealed its own schedule. Silverman was on the sidelines. He couldn't join NBC until his ABC contract expired in early June.

NBC, in its pre-Silverman schedule, introduced nine new shows, including "The Runaways," which had a four-show tryout in the spring under another name and with a different star. After taking office

In other words, around a fourth of all graduates seeking work will have to accept positions which have not in the past required a college degree. Bitterness is bound to set in with those students who have labored through four years of schooling and done well enough to earn degrees, then discovered all too late that there is no demand for their services.

If their job prospects dim, the value of a vocational education has increased in recent years. When careers in white-collar professions have become scarcer, positions in the skilled trades — like automobile mechanic, welders and dental technicians — are opening up everywhere. The supply can hardly keep up with the demand.

The want ads in a recent Sunday edition of a metropolitan daily in Texas included 74 pages of help want-ads — most of them for service-type

Parents who can look at their children and see a budding doctor or a lawyer should face up to the facts: College is not for everyone, and it's not especially because this student or that isn't 'good enough.

LIKELY IT CAN be blamed on the fact that the particular skills, and areas of interest with one individual are better suited to a different kind of education, but one which can also benefit mankind.

It's time society dispelled the last remnants of a stigma that has wrongly attached itself to vocational education. It's time we rethought and redirected our priorities.

There's just as great a need in our society today for the master plumber, the machinist and the mechanic as there is for the physician, the school teacher and the attorney.

'Milk leg' post-pregnancy problem

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: After I had my second child I was told I had "milk leg." Can you discuss this and what is the medical name for it? - Mrs. S.C.

This is inflammation and clotting in a deep vein, specifically the femoral vein that runs from the pelvis area down the leg. It is a form of thrombophlebitis. There are other fancy medical names for it - phlegmasis alba dolens, leukophlegmasia and white leg. It will sometimes follow childbirth, but is seen less today because of the trend toward early mobility after delivery. It has nothing to do with maternal milk. It got its name because of the milky white appearance of the leg.

It is not considered terribly serious pearance usually subside in a couple of weeks, as you have probably already found out. In some cases there may be used for anticoagulant drugs. The danger of the clot traveling (embolism) is slight. The condition can follow childbirth because of pressure on pelvic veins from the enlarged uterus. Reduced activity in late pregnancy may also be

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor tells me I have hypoglycemia. I am supposed to eat lots of protein. I've put on 15 pounds since I've been following the diet. I feel uncomfortable and look like a blimp. I also feel tired and worn out all the time. — Mrs. M.G.

No reason for you to gain weight on a hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) diet. The idea is to eat more frequent meals. That doesn't mean frequent large meals but several smaller ones. The protein emphasis allows slower use of the food sugars. Starch and carbohydrate sugars are used up too quickly, a problem for the hypoglycemic person. I suggest you check back with your doctor and get better diet instructions. Or see my booklet, "Help for Hypoglycemia, which explains it in n ore detail than I can here. For a copy, send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring

The protein rations should be lean, not fried, and small in amount. You did not mention the type or amount of other foods you eat. These may supply surplus calories. I have in mind french fries, potato chips, alcoholic beverages and the like.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We have a lovely, athletic 15-year-old daughter. Her weight is fine and she looks great, except for her terrible posture. She seems to have a swayback and is round-shouldered. We've nagged her for years to put her shoulders back and straighten up, but with little success. I now feel she should see a back specialist. My husband feels it would be a waste of time and money. He thinks it's too late and the damage is permanent. What is your opinion?

I think an examination is overdue for this young girl. There very well might be a spine disorder that causes her to slump the way you say she does. But 15 would not be too late to correct such a problem. Make an appointment with an orthopedic doctor (one who specializes in bone problems). I might add here that there have been some commendable efforts in recent years to include routine back examinations by looking at the naked back. Spine problems seem more prevalent among adolescent girls than boys. We're learning it's unwise to dismiss 'poor posture" as teenage laziness.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is a urethral caruncle? What could cause it? Can it become malignant? Could it have anything to do with using hair dye? - S.C.

A caruncle is any abnormal fold in a mucous membrane. A urethral caruncle is such a fold at the outlet (meatus) of the urethra in women. The urethra is the urinary outlet. It may cause discomfort on urination and, in some, a deviation of the urinary stream. The cause is not known, but it has nothing to do with hair dve. The caruncle can be removed surgically, if necessary.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can the damage caused by glaucoma be repaired? - H.W.

The damage cannot be repaired, a very good reason to detect it early so it can be treated. The point is to control it so that further optic nerve damage does not occur.

Unless properly treated, both glaucoma and cataracts can lead to blindness. If you are afflicted with either of these ailments, or know someone who is, write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for his booklet, "Cataracts and Glaucoma." Dear Editor

Lately, I have received a little flack, concerning our government. But, of our main enemies.

Our government is the culprit that has caused our high rate of unemployment, inflation and un-rest, in this country, by subsidizing other countries with our tax dollars, to compete against all of our markets in the United States.

One thing that affects the American farmers more than anything else, is the imports that are allowed to come into our country. One in particular, that affects farmers here at home, is the importing of palm oil.

In the last ten years, our government has subsidized Malaysia, Indonesia and Nigeria approximately $300 million of our tax dollars and the world bank currently has $40 million in loan requests pending for further palm oil development. The United States is the chief donor of money to the World Bank. This money has been used to clear forests, build highways, build palm oil processing plants and to plant palm tree orchards. This palm oil is imported to the U.S. duty free, no tariffs and no limit on the amount imported in.

All of this works in direct competition with the soybean, cotton, peanut, sunflower and oilseed producers of the U.S. Also it works against the American rancher. The oil from these seeds is used in our cooking oils, soaps, detergents, candy

Due to palm oil imports, the market for soybean and cottonseed oils has been very depressed. So to try and make up some of the difference, a higher price is put on the meal from these two products; therefore causing a too high of a price for livestock

The United States is the only country in the world that allows imported palm oil to enter in without duty, tariff or a quota. While other countries have import quotas and duties, this country is an open dumping market. Other countries impose a tariff of anywhere from 8 to 50 percent on imported palm oil.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I will be getting out of high school next year. I want to do God's will but how do I discover it? - A.D.

DEAR A.D.: I am thankful you asked this question, because there is no greater and higher thing you can do with your life than yield it to God's

The first step in finding God's will is yielding yourself to Him without reserve, telling Him you will be at His complete disposal. Included in this, I believe, is following that part of God's will which you already know right now. I know you are probably concerned about such things as your career and marriage. But are you faithful in the ordinary affairs of everyday life about which the Bible speaks frequently? Are you honest and loving toward others, for example? As we prove our willingness to do God's will each-day, He will show us more and more about His will for

Also, you will want to evaluate as completely as possible your own abilities and gifts — all of which God has given you. Are you a person with great interest in technical things? If so, you will want to take that into account. Are you mainly interested in people and their problems? Perhaps God will want to use you in some type of ministry. Other people — especially other Christians - can be very helpful in showing you where your abilities may be.

Your circumstances may also be used of God to lead you. For instance, if you cannot afford college, it is quite possible God is not leading you toward college, at least at this time. Discovering the will of God for your life is not always easy, and it often takes time. But it is worth it. Approach each decision prayerfully. He has promised to guide you. State District Court Judge Neal Caldwell refused Friday to set a date for her execution by lethal injection. The judge said he would wait until the case is heard by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, an automatic procedure for death penalty convictions in Texas.

Her cell is a death row for women and she is the only one there.

Her home for the next few years, if the appeal system follows the norm, will be in the Goree Unit, where women prisoners are kept on the outskirts of the town of Huntsville. The main prison is fronted by rows and rows of agricultural fields, and passed daily by hundreds of drivers on the way to the big city of Houston, some 70 miles to the south.

Mary Lou Anderson was a loner, someone almost unknown in her native state of Texas until her conviction on a capital murder charge in the kill-for-hire slaying of herfather.

But now she has become the subject of a report from the Vatican that capital punishment is wrong.

Theologian Gino Concetti, in a front page article written for the Vatican daily L'Osservatore Romano, said, "We strongly oppose the substitution of a syringe of penthotal for the electric chair to execute a woman, Mary Lou Anderson, in Texas, not so much for the method which might appear less barbarous to those who propose it, but because of the basic principle of the inviolability of human life."

Concetti said "If humanity wants to free itself of barbarity, it must first begin to fully respect the life of every human being, whatever his social, economic, civil, legal, moral and biological condition...Only God controls life and has commanded us to transmit it and respect

The ash-blonde, 35-yearold woman, labeled by a prosecuting attorney as "a-prostitute for most of her life" will live in a cell about 20 miles from the Texas death row where 94 men now await execution.

The last female sentenced to death in Texas was Carolyn Ann Lima, convicted 17 years ago of the murder of Houston real estate salesman Fred Tones. The conviction was overturned four hours before she was to die. She later was given a new trial and her sentenced reduced to 15

Two other women who once were on death row had their sentences reduced to life in prison.

The only woman executed in Texas was Chipita Rodriguez, hanged Nov. 13, 1863, in the southern part of the state for killing a traveling salesman during a robbery.

Ms. Anderson, who left her home near Sugar Land, Texas, to live in the neighboring state of Louisiana, was convicted Aug. 29 of the capital murder of her father. She also is charged in the slaying of her stepmother.

The jury of nine men and women deliberated for almost four hours on the punishment phase of the trial, a right given jurors in Texas state

The verdict was death. Ms. Anderson was charged with hiring Faryl Granger, 29, of Lafayette, La., to kill her father so she could collect a $5,000 insurance policy that contained a double indemnity clause.

Moisture to help small grain planting in West Texas

COLLEGE STATION. Texas (AP) - Harvest operations are winding down over the southern half of while cotton harvesting remains active in central areas. Farmers are also starting to plant small grains for fall and winter grazing.

Crop harvesting is progressing well due to the open weather, but yields are down in most counties due to the season-long drouth, said Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension

Cotton is opening in the Rolling Plains where the sorghum harvest is active. Early cotton is also opening in the South Plains, and a few bales have been harvested. Sorghum is starting to turn color in the Panhandle and South Plains. Yields from irrigated crops in these areas should be about normal, but prospects from dryland crops are poor. Planting of wheat and oats is getting under way in the plains as well as in most other areas, noted Pfannstiel. Recent rains in some locations should get the crops off to a good start, but more moisture will be needed for sustained growth. Many producers will be relying heavily on grazing from winter pastures due to poor permanent pastures vear and short hay supplies. Some planting of fall and winter vegetable crops continues in the Winter Garden and Rio Grande Valley, while early crops are up and making good progress. Citrus and sugar cane look good in the Valley.

Grazing conditions are improving slightly in areas receiving recent rains, but the forage situation is still critical in many areas of Texas, said Pfannstiel. Some livestock producers are continuing to cull herds closely due to the lack of grazing and stock water and shortage of hay.

Reports from district Extension agents showed the following conditions

Altham's assistant, Paul Goodman, said Moon "was not a regular drug taker. He did take pot (marijuana) but nothing heavy, and as he had difficulty getting to sleep he occasionally took sleeping pills. He drank more whisky than he took drugs, so the news that he died from a drugs overdose came as a shock to us."

Moon died after a party thrown by former Beatle Paul McCartney following the London premier of a film about Buddy Holly, the American singer killed in a plane crash 19 years ago.

Moon's death cast doubt on the future of The Who, rated as one of the world's best rock bands. Altham said it "is almost inevitable" that the remaining three members of the group, Pete Townshend, Roger Daltrey medical source said the drug and John Entwhistle, will work together again.

'Crazylegs' Mondale tipped over outhouses

"Crazylegs" Mondale is coming home.

Not as the star football halfback. Not as the sandyhaired kid who, on occasion, tipped over an outhouse.

He's coming home today as Vice President Walter F. Mondale, 32 years after he left this predominantly Republican corn belt town, population 910.

Elmore, 120 miles southwest of Minneapolis on the Iowa border, is staging its first "Welcome home, Fritz" celebration. Town officials have ordered up bands from 5,000 people from Faribault County are expected to greet Mondale on his first visit here since Jimmy Carter lifted him into national prominerce as his vice presidential candidate.

The town was prepared for Mondale's visit Friday night, with signs all over Main Street proclaiming such things as "Happiness is having Fritz Mondale in Elmore.

During Mondale's fourhour visit, he will walk in a parade, ride down Walter F. Mondale street past his old home - once owned by the Methodist church and now owned privately - and take part in ceremonies at which the school gymnasium will be named after - you guessed it - Walter F. superintendent of schools. This is the most excitement they've had in Elmore in, oh, say, 500 years," joked one Mondale aide as the vice president began his nostalgic journey home by way of political rallies in Vermont Friday night.

On a flight aboard Air Force Two from Vermont to Minneapolis Friday night, Mondate reminisced that on Halloween the Elmore kids would tip over outhouses, called "backhouses" here. One Halloween, a mischief maker's pumpkin got tossed into an outhouse pit in the excitment. Mondale provided an eyewitness account of the event on the airplane

Mondale said that growing up in a small town meant no boundaries, open spaces and unlimited opportunity to wander.

His last visit here was in the spring of 1975 when he spoke at the high school commencement as Minnesota's senior senator. He visited here occasionally during political campaigns.

Mondale was born 25 miles away in Ceylon, Minn., and moved here when he was 6 years old. His father was the minister at the United Methodist Church here.

Downstream opponents attack dam application

Downstream opponents continued last week to attack the Stacy dam application of the Colorado River Municipal Water District on the grounds that not enough water is available, and if it were, the West Texas area served by CRMWD will not need it. Witnesses again testified that the Stacy reservoir would have little effect on the lake system above Austin. On direct examination of Texas Department of Water Resources technicians, Jim Wilson, CRMWD attorney, sought to show there is ample water available for all practical purposes to the year 2030. From Homer Tuck, who heads the agriculture section in the department's planning division, and Dr. Quinten Martin, head of engineering and environmental section, he drew testimony that projections included 410,000 acre feet to satisfy the needs of four major irrigation companies in the lower basin. Both witnesses said irrigation needs have become historically stable and that increased efficiency in use of water will take care of additional acreage in the next 50 years.

Larry Smith, attorney for the Lower Colorado River Authority, tried un-successfully to have the TDWR studies on water availability thrown out on grounds that neither Tuck nor Dr. Martin did all the work on them. The commission overruled Smith's motion, holding again that experts can use the work of other experts in their studies.

The study was simply an opinion, suggested Smith: 'If you put junk into the computer, you get junk he asked. Dr. Martin agreed but insisted that the information in various studies and hypothetical cases (with or without Stacy reservoir) were based on 'reasonable assumptions.''.

Smith also asked if return flow could satisfy half of the upper basin projected manufacturing demands, would it not be possible to fill out any additional water needs with ground water. As in past testimony, the issue of West Texas using ground water was injected, although witnesses had said that well water is a mining operation and will virtually deplete the source over the long haul.

"Are you aware that the basin use more water than you estimate in your report?" Smith asked Tuck, who had testified a 3.24 ac. ft. per acre factor was ample for efficient irrigation. Texas Water Commission Chairman Joe Carter observed that "farmers tell us they need five to six feet, but when we meter the water, we find they get by on three

"Did you take into consideration water rights in your studies?" Smith inquired. Dr. Martin said he had, but that the possible magnitude of the rights was Smith, "our study does not take into account a claim or

At one point, Dr. Martin laid a graph on a transparency showing levels of the LCRA's Highland Lakes without Stacy reservoir over one postulating the levels with Stacy in place. The lines were almost identical. Moreover, he said he had not taken into account channel losses between Stacy and Lake Buchanan, which would further minimize any differences.

He projected theoretical conditions under which downstream water use might have to be curtailed in periods of critical drought,

Bronze sculptures will go on display in Midland

MIDLAND - A hundred bronze sculptures, valued at more than $1,000,000, go on display at the Midland College McCormick Gallery Friday, Sept. 15.

Midland Brought to College by the Shidoni Foundry of Santa Fe, New Mexico, the show includes a variety of bronze cast sculptures by some of the nation's foremost artists. The bronzes range in size from a delicate six inches to a soaring eight feet.

A preview of the show is slated for 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 14, with a number of the artists slated to be on hand. Interested persons are invited to attend the preview and meet the artists. Andy Jenkins, director of the famed Shidoni Foundry, will give a talk and slide presentation on the lost wax process of casting sculpture at 7 p.m.

The show, which will remain on display through Oct. 14, was brought to Midland College with the assitance of the J.W. Parks Gallery of Midland. Ten percent of all sales proceeds go to Midland College to help finance future exhibits at the McCormick Gallery, which is located in the Fine Arts Building. Display hours are 9 a.m.-10 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m.-5 p.m. on Friday.

One of the major casting foundries in the Southwest, Shidoni Foundry has assembled an outstanding and varied collection of represetnative bronzes for Artists represented in the show include: Mary Griffith of Midland, Bryan Forsyth, Dave McGarey, Macky McAlpine, George Carlson, Gary Chew, Clay Dahlberg, Lincoln Fox, Una Hambury, Allan Hüser, Nicolae Fechin, Dennis Silvertooth, Duke Sundt, Lloyd Woodbury, Melvin Warren and Frank Lloyd Wright.

Those artists slated to be on hand for the preview Thursday evening are: Ms. Griffith, Dahlberg, Fox, Ms. Hanbury, Silvertooth, Sundt

Dennis Silvertooth is just 21 years old but has been sculpting the past six years. His works concentrate on Indian subjects, both early Frontier and contemporary.

By LUCY THIXTON Back to the nitty-gritty. Back to the same old grind. Or whatever happens to be your favorite saying for "ANOTHER YEAR OF SCHOOL. There seems to be so much going on at the beginning of each school year that one feels it will never get done: freshmen adjusting to the ever-changing life of high school; greeting new students and teachers; the re-kindling of old friendships; new schedules; seniors making tentative plans for college; football games; pep rallies; and last but not least, learning your new locker combination! I am finding that I dread hearing the bell ring between classes as it means the never ending battle of the lockers is on again.

And amidst all this wonderful confusion, we are supposed to learn??

The Buffalo Band will have an added attraction to its already wonderful half-time show . . . a flag corps. Also there are many new students, too numerous to mention each one individually. But to all new students and teachers, we at Forsan would like to extend good old fashion West Texas "Howdy!"

It had been for years at her house up on Scurry Street and later was at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Cravens on Gregg Street.

It was a swing and not a wing as we reported through a typo in this column one week. I don't think Mother Zinn, a rather colorful early pioneer, had a wing.
The swing was restored by Wayne Burleson at Burleson Welding Shop. It has double seats, facing each other with paneled wood and a wood floor. When you swing on one side, it moves the other side. Anybody sitting in that swing is probably going to swing because it moves very easily on the slightest motion.

The metal part of the frame had been bent through the years, but Burleson straightened it back out. He said that the rust had not caused much damage, and that it seemed to be really good iron in the swing.

It has been cemented down in the Potton House yard because it turns over easily. Those who had this type of swing in the old days said

Ribbon cutting at Fenestra

Fenestra, luncheon establishment at 410 Gregg, plans an open house and ribbon cutting from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday with Florence Poffenbach Luker of Fort Worth, who grew up in the house which Fenestra occupies, in attendance.

Mrs. Luker left Big Spring in 1918. There will be a reception for her at the Heritage Museum following the ribbon cutting. The restaurant drives its name from an oval stained glass window which is part of the original Poffenbach home; Fenestra is a French term meaning window.

The restaurant owners. Jo Ann Kaufman and Katie Kernodle have combined the historical aspect of the house with furnishings which date to the period when the house was occupied by the Poffenbachs to create a unique atmosphere.

ELEMENTS CAN PLAY ROUGH - When storm clouds swirled over Big Spring recently, Mother Nature left this mark to show she can play rough on occasions. Lightning split a tree in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Canning, 2704 Apache, in southwest Big Spring, then dug a hole in the ground. The bolt knocked out two television sets in the Canning home.

But postal workers unlike disciplined rank-andfile members of industrial Auto Workers - cannot be counted on to walk off the job any time their leaders give the signal, postal union officials concede.

For one thing, mail strikes are barred by federal law, a potent deterrent to walkouts. Violators can lose their jobs, be fined and go to jail.

In addition, the current dispute led a federal judge to temporary restraining order barring a postal strike. The judge could order the immediate jailing of workers or union leaders who violate his ban.

National officials of the APWU and two other unions representing more than 500,000 postal workers currently are bargaining with management under a unique arrangement that must produce either a voluntary contract settlement or a settlement through binding arbitration

While the Dallas Cowboys were gobbling up the Baltimore Colts last Monday night, New York Giants Coach John McVay was, it can be presumed, losing his appetite. "They looked extremely impressive," McVay

Baltimore, New Orleans vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee, Atlanta at Los Angeles, Cincinnati at Cleveland, Houston at Kansas City, Oakland at San Diego, Philadelphia at Washington, Seattle at Pittsburgh and the New York Jets at Buffalo. On Monday night it's Denver at Minnesota.

Detroit was at Tampa Bay Saturday night. The Giants are hoping that just because their first game of the season was essentially a rerun of 1977's opener, their No. 2 game won't be a rerun, too. Last year they edged Washington 20-17, this year they topped Tampa Bay 19-13. But after surprising the Redskins, New York wound up on the short end of a

The Cowboys' Tony Dorsett alone racked up 254 yards on offense, 16 yards more than the entire Giants' offense managed against Tampa Bay. Roger Staubach, with four touchdown passes against the Colts, engineered the 583-yard offensive avalanche.

Joe Pisarcik, who began the Giants' first game on the bench but came on when Jerry Golsteyn was injured and passed 67 yards to Johnny Perkins for the tie-breaking touchdown that beat the Bucs, is starting this time against the Cowboys.

Dallas has a couple of winning streaks going — eight in a row in regular season and playoff games in the 10th game of the 1977 season and a sevengame string against the Giants. Not since 1970 (when the scene was Yankee Stadium) has New York beaten the Cowboys at home. One big weekend matchup is Walter Payton vs. O.J. Simpson, one of those moments when individuals transcend teams. They're among the two best running backs active in the league these days (you might get arguments from Dorsett's backers). Payton got 101 yards in Chicago's 17-10 victory over St. Louis while Simpson, in his San Francisco debut, was limited to 78 yards in a 24-7 loss to Cleveland.

The Steers played a more stable game in the second half, but there were quite a few players that didn't get up too quickly due to minor injuries. Logback expressed that the team was not in good condition, and must improve two weeks in playing condition in the coming week.

Big Spring did escape the game without suffering a injury. Robert Wrinkle strained a ligament in his knee and will probably be lost for one to two weeks, but hopefully it is not serious.

The Steers will try to get a win under their belts in the home opener against Hobbs this Friday. Hobbs will sport a 1-0 record, the victory coming in a 26-12 conquest of

Mahaffey lures crowds

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — It looked like Texan John Mahaffey was going to be just another sentimental favorite at next week's $200,000 Texas Open, hoping to use the late 1978 tour stop to secure a qualifying exemption for next season.

That was before he won the coveted PGA Championship last month in Oakmont, Pa., by nailing a 12-foot putt on the second hole of a threeway sudden death playoff. He followed that with a victory the next week in the Pleasant Valley Classic in Sutton, Mass.

The streak suddenly transformed Mahaffey into a top drawing card for Texas Open crowds at the 6,525yard Oak Hills Country Club only about 55 miles down Interstate 10 from his hometown of Kerrville.

Eight of the PGA's Top Ten money winners, in-cluding Mahaffey, defending champion Hale Irwin, No. 2 Andy Bean and Masters champion Gary Player, are in this year's field, making it, tourney officials say, the strongest field since the Texas Open began in 1922.

The only Top Ten players missing will be top moneywinner Tom Watson and No. 3 Jack Nicklaus.

When I started this year. I just wanted to make the top 60 on the money list, getting an exemption," said the 30-year-old Mahaffey, currently No. 10 with $146,709. "And going into the PGA I was 61st, so I felt I was in a good position. Winning was kind of a surprise. Things turned out very well."

The two victories were worth $95,000 and the PGA title meant a 10-year tour exemption.

Mahaffey, whose only other tour victory was in 1973, has struggled through a divorce and nagging injuries

DETROIT (AP) - Phil Mankowski's two-run double keyed a four-run fourth inning Saturday and Dave Rozema picked up his first victory since August 13 as the Detroit Tigers defeated the Cleveland Indians, 5-2.

Rozema, 7-10, scattered five hits to snap a four-game losing streak.

The Tigers, trailing 2-0, began their uprising in the fourth off Mike Paxton, 10-9, on singles by Jason Thompson and Steve Kemp.

Arkansas gets new mascot

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) - The University of Arkansas, without a live mascot since Ragnar died in February, will display a young 200-pound wild hog named Big Red IV in its opening football game Sept.

Big Red IV was captured south of Warren, Ark., by Bill Robinson, who farms near Leola, Ark. He captured Ragnar a year ago when Big Red III, then the university's mascot, escaped from an animal exhibit near Eureka Springs.

Ragnar served as the Razorback mascot last season. Big Red III was later killed by a farmer near Berryville when the wild boar broke into a barnyard. Contrary to the name, the latest Big Red is brown in color. Robinson captured the hog in a river bottom by baiting a trap with corn. "We almost had a much larger hog, one reddish in color," Robinson said. "The bigger hog was actually in our trap, but broke the trap and escaped. We will continue to try to capture the big hog, since we believe he is the son of Ragnar, the hog we captured last year."

Big Red IV will be transferred from Robinson's farm next week and taken to Little Rock's War Memorial Stadium for the Vanderbilt-

When searching for materials in a library, there are basically four 'first' places to look: for books and information, the card catalog; the encyclopedias and other reference books. magazines, and vertical file for information not found in the regular books that check

The card catalog is a row of wooden cabinets filled with 3"x5" cards. On the upper row of the cards in the Author file, the author's name, last name first, is typed. On a card from the Subjects-Titles file, either the title of the book or the subject the book discusses appears. In the upper left corner of each card is a combination of letters and numbers which correspond with those on the spine of the book. For example, F-R633 would lead you to the 'F'iction area, to the "R's", number 633 and books by Rosemary Rogers. And, 347.06-B623 would lead to a shelf marked '301-353', to the number 347.06 and the author of 'B623', Bloom, Murray, and the book, "The Trouble with Lawyers."

Sometimes there just isn't a whole book on the exact topic you want. If you don't know what related subject to look under, look in the encyclopedia. Even if you are not allowed to use it as a source, the encyclopedia is a good starting place. It gives you synonyms or broader catagories under which to look for information. For example, you might discover that an Ashy Petrel is not burned fuel but a greyish bird, or that bromeliad refers to a subtropical plant and not to Alka-Seltzer. The magazines at the Howard County Library are oused in two separate places. The more recent magazines are upstairs around the reading area by the front door. Older magazines, as far back as 1918, are kept in "Abridged Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature" and more recently, the "Unabridged Reader's to Periodical Literature," are kept on a table near the upstairs magazine section. These tools index published articles

Citizens voice complaints over canine chaos

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first of a three-part series on the problem of loose dogs in Big Spring as viewed by both citizens and city officials, and possible solutions. In this portion of the series, citizens of Big Spring and surrounding areas describe their problems with the dogs. Because many of the problems are with neighbors' pets, those interviewed have requested that their names be withheld.

By EILEEN McGUIRE

"We heard dogs barking and a child screaming. We ran to the door and saw a pack of dogs chasing the four-year-old child across the street. The child saw us and started toward the street, but there was too much traffic for us to cross to him. We yelled at him to go back, but he kept on coming. He was terrified.

"His father heard him screaming and ran out of the house. He grabbed the child and pull him over the fence into his yard. The dog that was closest to the little boy looked like he wanted to hurt him. I believe he would have mauled the child if the father hadn't come out when he did."

The incident described occurred on East 15th Street in early August. The dogs involved, according to one of the neighbors, were a mixture of strays and neighbors' pets.

"I've lived in Big Spring, on this street, a long time," she said. "And this is by far the worse problem of loosedogs I've ever seen in this city.

"About a month ago, the Herald published an article that the city was going to start picking up all of these loose dogs. I thought people would start being more careful about turning their dogs loose after that, but the situation has gotten even worse.

"It's not just a problem of a few strays anymore. These dogs are running in packs. Sometimes there are as many as ten of them and half are large dogs. I recognize some f them — they're people's pets. The rest don't seem to have a home."

Since the start of school, more incidents of dogs chasing children have been observed on 15th Street.

"The afternoon of the first day of school, we heard a little girl screaming. Three dogs were chasing her. It happened three more times that same afternoon."

The woman expressed fears that someday an actual case of a child being mauled by a dog would occur in Big Spring. So far the danger has been limited to frighteningly close calls and dog bites, the most recent of which occurred Wednesday evening on Alabama Street when a seven-year-old girl was bitten.

"It was an accidental bite," the mother said, "but it broke the skin and now they're testing for rables."

"The dog was a stray. He'd been hanging around for the last week. Several of my neighbors and I called the animal shelter numerous times—every day for the last three or four days—to pick the dog up, but they didn't get him in time. As far as I know, they drove through the street only once and didn't see the dog.

"After he bit my daughter, we called the police. They shot at him, but it was night time. Either they missed or the tranquilizer wasn't strong enough. This morning the animal shelter came and tracked him down.

own. "We don't know if it had rabies, but it looked like it had some kind of disease. It did have a bad case of mange and was infested with fleas and ticks. The animal shelter didn't want it with the other dogs and neither did the veterinarian. They put it to

According to the animal shelter, the head of the dog has been sent to Austin to test for rabies.

The danger of a dog biting a child is not limited to strays. Last spring, several children were bitten by someone else's pet, according to a woman on 15th Street.

"Before school got out for the summer, a German shepherd owned by a family on this street was crippled by a car. They continued to let the dog run loose. He used to wander down to the school yard where the children were and where I was accustomed to taking walks. The dog bit several children and finally a woman. She pressed charges and the dog disappeared.

The woman said that shortly after the German shepherd incident, she was confronted by a Doberman pinscher on one of her daily walks. "I no longer walk in my neighborhood now. I'm afraid too."

Another neighbor still takes walks in the neighborhood, but she carries a

"I'm not afraid of those dogs," she said. "I hit them off."

According to both of the ladies, though numerous complaints have been made to the city's Code Enforcement Department, the situation has not been improved.

not been improved.

"We've gotten no results. They make records of our calls and that's all. Bill Brown (assistant city manager) says that they are destroying ten dogs a week, but the stray females are reprod .cing faster than the dogs can be destroyed.

"One of the strays on our street is about to have puppies. We don't know what to do."

The problems faced by residents on 15th Street are not the worst in Big Spring. According to the Big Spring Animal Shelter, most of the recent complaints are from the area of Drexel and Auburn.

A resident of Auburn identifies

A resident of Auburn identifies early morning, before the shelter's Code Enforcement team begins work, as the time of day she notices the biggest problem of loose dogs. She also said that most that she has seen are not strays, but neighbors' pets.

"They let them loose and we clean up after them. We don't have a dog, but our yard looks like we do. The biggest problem is alley trash. They're getting into our trash cans. We don,t know how to solve the problem."

problem."
In another part of town, in the Marcy School vicinity, a woman said that her requests to neighbors to keep their dogs out of her yard has netted no cooperation. She said that the problem climaxed during Labor Day weekend when the animal shelter employees were off duty.

"The pack started forming on Friday. I counted seven dogs. By Monday, there were 11. At one time, seven of them were in my yard. Most of the dogs are medium size, but some of them are pretty large. I don't believe they're vicious, but they are destructive.

"I know one of the dogs. It belongs to a neighbor. Another one was apparently left behind when someone moved. He's living in my front yard now like he's waiting for them to come back.

"All of them use my yard for a bathroom. They're digging up my flowers and they pull my trash bag right out of the can and tear it up. There have been some dog fights in my front yard.

"I love dogs, but I don't like cleaning up after other people's and my neighbors don't like it either. I've seen some of them who let their own dogs rom chase others, out of their yards.

tried to call the animal shelter during the weekend, but it was closed. Maybe they should try to catch them at odd hours."

"I don't know what the answer is. I

Many of the people who live just outside of town, beyond the jurisiction of Big Spring's Code Enforcement Department, are having to deal with livestock damage.

Some believe that the damages may be the results of strays from town.

Even if the killing is not witnessed, it isn't difficult to distinguish between the work of a coyote and that of a dog, according to one country resident. A coyote goes for the jugular vein, making a quick and clean kill, while a dog, in most cases, "plays" his victim to death by running alongside it, nipping at it.

One man, who used to raise sheep on the outskirts of town, went out of business from a combination of neighbors pets and strays. He now raises only cattle, but recently discovered a calf killed by a dog.

"The dogs killed my sheep. I was losing 35 to 40 a night. Some of them were killed by coyotes and bobcats, but most of them were lost to dogs.
"I saw some of the dogs. Many of them were tame, well-fed pets. They weren't hungry; they were playing. But when they got a taste of blood, they liked it and came back for more.

"I tried everything I could think of. I hired a full-time trapper, but that didn't work. When I did see a dog after my sheep, I shot it, but more came around. Finally, I gave up and stopped raising sheep. Once I had 5,000 of them. Now I don't have any."

The rancher said that if he didn't shoot the dogs, they'd return the next night bringing more with them.

think they could hurt my sheep, but they always brought other dogs — larger ones — back with them.
"I love dogs. I'm never without them, but other people's dogs put me out of business. If people don't take care of their dogs, they're going to lose them.

"Nights were the worse time. Many people, think, that their dogs, don't ringhts were the worse time. Many people think that their dogs don't leave home at night, they can't believe that they're out killing sheep. When they get up in the morning, their dogs are home sleeping and they believe that they were there the whole night."

Another man, in Sand Springs, said that the problem in his area has also become increasingly worse. He pointed to an enclosed pen, five and six-feet high.

"I used to have goats in here. I had to get rid of them because the dogs wouldn't leave them alone. They couldn't climb over, so they dug their way in underneath. Any dog that comes here now is a dead dog.

"I used to have show hogs, too. A dog chewed up the ear on one of them. I shot the dog that did it and then the one that was with him tried to attack me so I shot him, too.

"I never had trouble with racoons or skunks or any other wild animals, just dogs. I don't know if the dogs were strays or pets. I still see a a lot of them, alone and in packs, crossing these fields.

"I've got a couple of dogs, but they don't leave my yard. I enjoy animals, don't leave my yard. I enjoy animals, but owners have a responsibility to their neighbors and friends. They need to keep them at home. I don't know how else to solve the problem out here."

In the Silver Heels Addition, a warmen who doesn't cheek treaspection.

In the Silver Heels Addition, a woman who doesn't shoot trespassing dogs says that there is nothing that can be done about the situation in the country. She, too, holds owners of the dogs responsible, but many of them won't accept the responsibility.

"A couple of months ago, I lost a little goat to what I'm sure was a dog. The goat was in a pen. There wasn't any way it could have gotten out. One morning, it was gone and I haven't seen a trace of it since. What I did find was evidence that large dogs had been here. I think a dog dragged the little goat off.

"Before that, some large puppies owned by a neighbor cleaned out my chickens. They were just playing, but it cost me 14 game hens.

"My property has a fence all the way around it, but the dogs still get in. My chickens were loose on the grounds. When I told the neighbor what had happened, she said I should have had my chickens in a pen. But she did keep her dogs home after that.

"People from the city move out here so that they can let their dogs run loose. They don't realize what kind of damage they can do. I love dogs. I have some myself, but I always know where they are. I wouldn't think of letting them run around the country.

"When you get outside of the city limits, there's no one to call. People out here have to handle the situation themselves. Many of them shoot the animals.

"If people insist on letting their animals loose, they should have them fixed. That way they'll stay at home. It only costs about $40. "I've got more chickens and more goats, but there's no way to protect the little goats. I thought the one I lost was safe since it was penned in. It's up to the people to solve this problem." Stray dogs and loose pets is a longunresolved problem in Big Spring, though it isn't one unique to the Section C community. It's a large problem in other communities as well.

According to Bill Bouldin, a city editor on the staff of the Laredo Times, an overwhelming problem of dogs in Laredo culminated with an epidemic of rabies beginning in November, 1976. The epidemic was brought to a halt in March, 1977, but cases of rabies are still being reported.

"At the time of the outbreak, it was discovered that there was a population of 20,000 dogs in Laredo. Of those, 11,000 were strays.
"At the same time, there was a

"At the same time, there was a cyclical increase of the coyote and skunk populations. It was never determined how the epidemic started, but many thought it may have been from the wild animals.

"The first case of rabies reported was a little puppy that died on the last day of November. The puppy had been contained in a fenced-in back yard. No other animal was near it. "By the time the epidemic was under control, 50 to 60 people had had children. How do you explain to a small child that he has to have a dozen shots in the stomach?"

Boulding said that the epidemic was controlled only after a massive three-part campaign was launched.

to submit to shots. Many of them were

"First, we instituted a dog pick-up program. Prior to the epidemic, we didn't have an animal shelter. Dog pounds aren't given a high priority in any city, but the epidemic sure lit a fire under city officials here. We've got a good pound now.

Next, we launched a massive vaccination program. In the beginning, rabie shots were given to animals in strategic locations for $3 per animal. Later, the cost was reduced to $1. In the end, the business community underwrote the vaccinations, making them free. We were literally going door-to-door looking for unvaccinated animals.

"The third point was trapping and killing coyotes and other wild animals with M-60 (cyanide) traps.

"We're in pretty good shape now, but rabie cases are still being reported."

Today, Laredo still has a dog problem, but the memory of the epidemic has made that city aware that the problem can't be ignored. It's no longer a low priority problem.

In Big Spring, the problem has not

In Big Spring, the problem has not reached the proportion that it has in Laredo, but it does exist.

Who is to blome and who is

Who is to blame and who is responsible for resolving the problem, if there is indeed a way to resolve it, are baffling questions. People within the city limits are looking to the city's Code Enforcement for answers. People in the country are looking to their neighbors and reaching for shotguns.

Meanwhile, the fear of an attack on a child, the anger over the loss of livestock, and the possibility that a rabies outbreak could happen here as it did in Laredo continue.

Young homemakers form club

By DUSTY RICHARD
A new club is being formed by and for the women of Big Spring with emphasis on the home.

Called, logically enough, Young Homeakers of Texas (YHT) the local chapter will begin meeting at 7:30 Tuesday night in the living room of the home economics department at Big Spring High School.

"It's a national organization," said Virginia

Martin, a homemaking teacher at the high school who will serve as chapter advisor, "but we wanted a local chapter."

She added that she and other interested women have thought about forming a YHT chapter in Big Spring for a long time, but only recently have acted on their desire.

The purpose of the club, Ms. Martin said, is to extend an interest in the home and information about homemaking into the adult community, and it is designed primarily to provide creative opportunities for young adults in maintaining effective personal, family and community life.

Active membership in the club is open to young adults not enrolled in high school and who are not over 35 years of age, she said. Eligible members may be single or married, may be employed in wage-earning occupations, and may be homemakers in small or metropolitan communities or living on farms or ranches.

The organization is formed exclusively for educational purposes with particular reference to the area of homemaking.

Members will learn new skills and gain information contributing to home and family living and community membership, Ms. Martin said. Classes and group meetings will emphasize such topics as home beautification, furniture refinishing, child care and guidance, home care of the sick, consumer buying, management of family finances, planning nutritious meals and citizenship responsibilities.

"Actually, we have not decided on the particular topics we will study as of yet. It is up to members to decide, so it is important that anyone interested in joining this organization attend Tuesday night's meeting so that we can begin discussing the projects we would like to work on this club year," said Ms. Martin.

Assisting Ms. Martin in organizing the local chapter will be Fern Alexander, head of the high school's home economics department; Wanda Lehman, assistant advisor; and Luan Abernathy, one of the club's first members.

Anyone interested in joining YHT is asked to contact Ms. Martin at 267-7461, ext. 48, or attend the meeting Tuesday

MR. AND MRS. JACK H. PIERSON

Ex-Husband Handy Man To Have Around

DEAR ABBY: After 44 years of marriage, my husband moved out of our home and asked me for a divorce so he could "look for another woman to marry." He is 67 and I am

He apparently found one in a hurry, or else he had her waiting in the wings, because he got married one week after our divorce was final. (She's younger than our daughter, who

My problem is that he now lives near me and keeps coming around asking if he can do odd jobs for me as he did before. He is very handy, and I would have to hire a plumber and electrician to do what he does. When he's here I give him lunch, etc., like old times. Our daughter says I shouldn't let the old fool come near me. Our son (he's 38) says I should let Dad help if he wants

What do you say?

UNDECIDED

DEAR UN: Never mind what your children say. How do YOU feel about him? If you really want him around, by all means let him be your handyman. But don't give him lunch, etc., "like old times," unless you want him back, because I think that's what "the old fool" has in mind.

DEAR ABBY: I am not complaining, because my husband provides very generously for me and is a kind and considerate man. The problem is his first wife, who has custody of their two children, 10 and 13. She is now married to a man who has a very limited income, but she acts like she is still married to my husband. She is constantly asking for money over and above the $600 a month the courts awarded her for child support.

My husband never refuses her because he doesn't want to deprive his children of anything. Like I said, he gives me everything I want, but it bugs me to see her take advantage

There may not be an answer to this, but it makes me feel better to talk out my feelings. I never bring it up to him.

DEAR NUMBER TWO: No. Since he can well afford to support two families, say nothing. Your problem is a thorn in the side of almost every woman who marries a man with a previous family. Be grateful that he's the kind of father who is more generous to his children than the law demands.

DEAR ABBY: This is my second letter to you. I wrote to you 20 years ago in care of the Houston Post and asked your advice about marrying a man 17 years older than myself. I was 25 at the time and Mel was 42.

You wrote back and said, "There are no rules about age Some people are 'old' at 30, and others are 'young' at 60. It all depends on their health, attitude and outlook. Well, I felt that Mel was young at 42, so I married him. We will celebrate our 20th wedding anniversary next week and couldn't be happier. Oh, yes, we have two fine sons, 16 and 18, of whom we are very proud.

I thought you'd enjoy knowing how your advice turned out. Thanks, Abby. I sure do owe you a lot.

DEAR WIFE: You owe me nothing. Your letter made my day. Thanks for writing, and congratulations!

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Episcopal rite marries Jane Emerson, Blissard

St. Mary's Episcopal Church was the setting of Saturday night's ceremony uniting Jane Emerson and Michael Wayne Blissard in marriage. The rite, per-formed at 7:30, was officiated by the Rev. Donald N. Hungerford, St. John's Episcopal Church, Odessa, and the Rev. Harland B. Birdwell, St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Big Spring.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Billy George Emerson, 1601 Stadium, and Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Joe Blissard, Garden City Route. The couple exchanged vows before an altar adorned with two vases containing arrangements of blue and coral carnations, white gladiolus, yellow daisy pompons and baby's breath. Wedding music was provided by Charles B.

Parham Jr., at the organ.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Herformal-length gown of white organza, custom designed by Priscilla of Boston, featured full bishop chiffon sleeves over fitted sleeves of beaded floret appliques and English net, accented by tiny covered buttons at the wrists. The molded natural waist bodice was laced and beaded with Alencon lace and seed pearls, accentuated by a scalloped portrait neckline etched in pearls. skirt. I have always wanted To be in Newton's shoes; Walk through the green grass of England, And feel an apple fall on my head. Invent the Calculus, and behold the Universe as something new And different. I have always wanted To be in Einstein's shoes: Sit in a desolate room and Bend space into curves with My infinite mind and imagination. And see the Universe as it Has never been seen before. But maybe it would be better To be in my own shoes: They have never been walked in before. - Walt Kjellander 17, Ambingdon, Ill.

The sky is dark and dreary rain beats against the window of all the shadows I am leary the wind cries soft and low Lightning flashes exposing my thoughts thunder crashes reminding of past wars fought The radio blares its thunderstorm warnings out the window I glare the water rushes, a bird quietly sings All is quiet the trees are still I stonily sit by the window sill Slowly the rain fades a rainbow appears all different shades then vanish all my fears. - Lisa Burton, 15, Oklahoma City, Okla.
