Summit produces fresh contacts

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — The Middle East summit has produced fresh Egyptian-Israeli contacts but is approaching a deadline at sundown today that could keep it in limbo until next week.

Pursuing his middleman role, President Carter met twice Thursday with Egypt's Anwar Sadat, who later conferred with Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan.

The summit press office announced belatedly that Ezer Weizman, the Israeli defense minister, also met with Sadat on Wednesday night.

Although Carter has not brought Israel's Menachem Begin and Sadat together at the conference table since Sept. 7, it was apparent that all three delegations were involved in a busy round of meetings.

But spokesman Jody Powell said "more progress and more flexibility are essential" if the parley is to succeed.

Powell, the White House press secretary, said Thursday that Carter's strenuous effort to win Israeli-Egyptian agreement on a "framework for reaching peace" in the Mideast has yet to succeed.

However, Powell seemed to drop a hint that participants remained hopeful of fashioning a comprehensive blueprint for continuing negotiations after Camp David.

Acknowledging that a proposed summit-ending document was being considered, he said, "It is certainly more than three or four paragraphs, I can tell you that."

Sen. Richard Stone, D-Fla., chairman of the Senate Mideast subcommittee, said in a telephone interview that he has kept in touch with the talks indirectly and declared, "I have not been dampened in my optimism."

Declining to speculate on how or when the talks will end, Powell said he was trying to "strike a balance" between optimism and pessimism.

"An extreme in either direction is simply not justified by the facts of the matter," he said. "It is a very difficult situation in which we have to deal with a considerable amount of uncertainty."

Reminded that he had said 24 hours earlier the summit was in its "final stages," Powell, who is spokesman for all three governments, said: "How long the final stage will last is a matter of some conjecture. The final stage could be the longest stage."

An American official, who asked not to be identified, said the conference could continue beyond the Jewish Sabbath, a 24-hour period ending at nightfall Saturday.

Responding to a question, Powell acknowledged that "it would be very difficult to end it" before Sunday, at the earliest, should the conference continue beyond sundown today.

Adding to that possibility was the fact that Sadat and his countrymen planned to interrupt their deliberations today for prescribed observances of the weekly Moslem day of prayer.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale flew here by helicopter from Washington late Thursday after standing in for Carter at an Italian-American dinner.

At Carter's request, Mondale canceled a two-day political trip to Nevada and California that was to have begun today.

In Washington, congressional sources said thought was being given to inviting Sadat and Begin to make Capitol Hill appearances after the summit is concluded.

One option would have each brief the Senate Foreign Relations and House International Affairs Committees. Another would call for Sadat and Begin to appear at a joint meeting of the House and Senate.

Up early on Thursday, Carter took an hour-long morning walk with Sadat — an apparent sequel to a meeting with Begin late Wednesday night. Carter and Sadat also got together for a more formal session at the Egyptian leader's quarters Thursday afternoon, then took a second stroll.

Israeli and Egyptian legal experts were known to be working on details of the projected formula for future negotiations.

It was understood that Osama Al-Baz, the Egyptian counselor, met for eight hours Wednesday with Aharon Barak, former Israeli attorney general who has been named to Israel's Supreme Court.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance also met with Begin after a session with the legal experts.

The "framework for reaching peace" that Powell cited would replace a "declaration of principles" that was nearing completion last January when Sadat broke off direct negotiations with Israel.

One of the key issues is how to deal with the future of the 1.1 million Palestinian Arabs now living under Israeli military control on the West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza Strip of the Sinai desert.

Before the summit, Israel indicated its willingness to take up the question after a five-year period of civil self-rule proposed by Begin last December but rejected by Sadat as inadequate.

A compromise was understood to be under discussion. Israel would commit itself to a decision at the end of five years — but not promise any particular course of action in advance.

SUMMER SNOW IN SUNNY MEXICO — An unidentified truck driver digs his vehicle out Wednesday after an unusual late summer snowfall stranded motorists and isolated villages in the mountains outside Mexico City. Up to three feet of snow and hail fell on some passes in the mountains around the Mexican capital, authorities said.

Venezuela denies hostile intentions towards Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nicaraguan commandos backed by armored cars and machine gun-firing helicopters pressed their assault today on the city of Leon. But the rebels there and in two other northern cities appeared to be holding on, and Managua braced for a possible attack to coincide with the country's independence day.

The Venezuelan government, meanwhile, dispatched four warplanes and a military transport to Nicaragua's southern neighbor Costa Rica. Venezuelan President Carlos Andres Perez, who has called for international mediation of the Nicaraguan conflict, denied any hostile intentions, however.

The Venezuelan planes — two Canberra light bombers, two OV-10 fighter-bombers and a C-130 transport — were reported to have arrived Thursday in San Jose, capital of Costa Rica, a democratic nation without armed forces.

Perez also sent his foreign minister, Simon Alberto Consalvi, to San Jose.

Political observers in Caracas interpreted the Venezuelan move as a show of support for tiny Costa Rica, whose airspace was violated earlier this week by Nicaraguan forces pursuing guerrillas. But there was no indication the Venezuelans would become directly involved in the Nicaraguan fighting.

Leon, Nicaragua's second largest city with a population of 100,000, has been occupied since Saturday by Sandinista guerrillas seeking the overthrow of President Anastasio Somoza. The leftist guerrillas and ordinary citizens supporting them also hold two other major cities in northwest Nicaragua, Esteli and Chinandega.

The rebels have lost control of the southern city of Masaya and reportedly were repulsed in an attack on Penas Blancas on the Costa Rican border. However, they were still entrenched in Diriamba, 20 miles south of Managua, Jinotepe, five miles south of Diriamba, and Rivas, 55 miles further south.

Somoza has mobilized reserves of the national guard, the nation's army, to counter the rebel attacks, declared martial law and placed Managua under 8 p.m.-to 5 a.m. curfew. The Red Cross estimates 500 persons have been killed in the week's fighting nationwide, but Somoza admits to only 30 guardsmen slain. Some 38 truckloads of troops rolled into Leon Thursday and surrounded the town. National guardsmen and the guerrillas were shooting at virtually anything that moved.

A small plane flew over the city late in the afternoon warning by loudspeaker that "the national guard is not responsible for what happens if you leave your houses."

Helicopters flew over the city pounding rebel positions with machine gun fire. The streets were barricaded and the fire was being returned.

Two armored vehicles, which carry the same weapons as a tank but have tires instead of treads, were parked in front of the national guard garrison. Guardsmen had been pinned down there for days exchanging shots with the rebels.

Journalists returning from Leon said a Red Cross ambulance was machine-gunned on the highway outside of town and that two Red Cross workers were killed. The Red Cross in Managua confirmed an ambulance was machine-gunned, but said further details were not available.

With hopes of uniting party

Democrats gather today

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Texas Democrats begin arriving here today for the state party convention which gubernatorial candidate John Hill hopes will unite party membership against the Republicans rather than spawn internal party rivalries.

Hill will open the convention with a 6:30 p.m. televised address in the Tarrant County Convention Center. He said the speech will emphasize the need for experienced leaders, interagency cooperation and fiscal prudence in state government.

Thursday, he told the State Democratic Executive Committee, "Remember, we've got all the fight we can handle after this convention with the Republicans over who's going to win in November."

Hill said he does not anticipate any problems "that we cannot harmoniously resolve," and that while he has some definite ideas of his own about what the party platform should include, he won't issue any "edicts or orders" that might cause factionalism.

He said he was confident he would be comfortable with the platform eventually adopted, even as liberal factions were circulating a 12-point program featuring some things he doesn't particularly like.

Some rumblings about opposition to Hill's choice of Houstonian Billy Goldberg as party chairman made their way through the Thursday meetings, but party insiders said no serious opposition was expected.

Hill also reiterated his desire for a presidential primary, though some Democrats oppose the issue.

"I think it would be a mistake (not to have a primary)," Hill said. "I would like to see it separated from the regular primary so we could analyze whether we can give Texas some political clout."

Hill said he had not ruled out a separate date for a presidential primary, nor did he exclude a regional primary, in which Texas and other states would participate.

Hill told the executive committee they were "under the spurs of the GOP," which he said will spend between $5 and $10 million campaigning between now and November.

Hill said he hadn't finalized his own ideas for a platform, but expected to finish that project sometime Thursday.

Withdrawal from SS system started

West named school trustee

By BOB BURTON
A new school board member was appointed and school trustees voted to withdraw from the Social Security system Thursday in their regular meeting.

Bob West, 2605 Apache, a Big Spring resident since 1962, was selected as the new board member after an hour's executive session. His appointment to the seat vacated by Delnor Poss earlier this year brings the board up to full strength.

West, a controller at Cosden, has three children in the district; Sam, 15, Todd, 10, and Kourtney, 7. He has been a member of the Band Boosters Board and the Heritage Museum Board, as being involved in other civic activities.

He was born and raised in Borger, and attended West Texas State. His wife, Helen, is an Amarillo native.

In other action, the board voted 3-2 to begin withdrawal from the Social Security system. The nature of the system dictates that a motion to withdraw now will have no effect on the district for two years, and that the district may change its mind at any time during that period.

The motion to withdraw, made by Al Valdes and seconded by Delbert Donelson, passed with the assenting vote of board member Bert Harris. Members Charles Beil and Dr. Jim Mathews voted against the withdrawal.

The action was precipitated by the results of a referendum voted Tuesday by the employees of the district. Of 549 employees eligible to vote, 498 cast ballots, with 243 for the present Social Security system and 255 against. The 12 vote margin represented on 1.2 per cent difference between the two sides.

The results of two earlier referenda were also presented to the board. A vote taken in February, 1978 recorded 219 against withdrawal and 251 for. Another taken in May, 1976 shows 324 against withdrawal and 202 in favor.

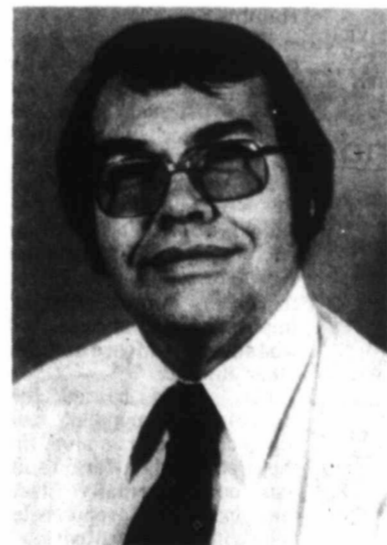

The board discussed at length the impact of such a move on the district and its employees.

Said Valdes, "I doubt if most of the employees who vote for getting out stay with the district two years, but if we vote to get out now then in two years we can look at it again and make a decision at that time. If we don't vote to get out now, we'll have to wait another two years from when we do decide to take action."

Donelson added, "We are not getting dollar for dollar credit from the teachers for the district's contribution to the Social Security system. We are spending an amount of money comparable to other districts, but because they don't see it we appear to be paying less. If we don't remedy this, we will lose our personnel to other districts."

Superintendent Lynn Hise confirmed Donelson's observation, and said, "This is basically the way the (teachers) look at it, simply because there is no option about joining. They view it as any other employee looks at the Social Security his company pays, they don't consider it part of their salary."

Charles Beil differed with the rest of the board. "I believe it is simply a matter of following the majority," he said. "This is an individual situation, affecting each person differently. Some will be hurt if we get out, some if we stay in. But I believe we should follow the majority."

The money saved by withdrawal would presumably be added to the local salary increment.

In other action, the board heard a brief presentation from CETA head Nabor Martinez complimenting the district on the cooperative program for tutoring second and third graders which was selected as one of the five most innovative and most successful programs in the country.

The board also approved carrying over funds for construction projects begun in the last fiscal year to this year.

They approved the school district's share of the revised Tax Appraiser's budget.

The next meeting of the board will be a lunch meeting at 11:45 a.m. Sept. 28 in Rummel's cafeteria.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Bad dog

Q. A dog belonging to a neighbor is vicious and is a constant menace to my kids. The animal is usually penned up but occasionally he gets out. If I shoot the dog, what happens?

A. The law says you commit a criminal act if you kill, injure or poison an animal belonging to another person without the consent of that person. An action for damages could be brought against you. The law also states that the dog can be dispatched if he's caught killing domestic animals like sheep, goats, calves and chickens. So read the laws of Texas.

Supreme Court decision could have more practical impact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court soon must confront an emotionally charged question: "Do private employers illegally discriminate against whites when they give special preferences to minority workers?"

The decision last June ordering Allan Bakke admitted to a California medical school was based on a federal law dealing with discrimination in education. A decision in the new case could carry far greater practical impact — dealing with numerous on-the-job affirmative action plans that affect millions of Americans.

A pair of appeals stemming from the job bias lawsuit of Brian F. Weber, a Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Co. employee in Gramercy, La., arrived at the nation's highest court Thursday.

Government lawyers say Weber's case poses a major threat to federal efforts to improve employment opportunities for minorities. Lawyers for Kaiser and the United Steelworkers union are trying to overturn a lower court's decision that federal law bars Kaiser from voluntarily setting up "affirmative action" programs. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled last November that Kaiser illegally discriminated against Weber, who is white, when an employee training program geared to increase the number of black Kaiser workers in higher paying craft jobs passed him over to take blacks with less seniority.

The Supreme Court, which begins its new term Oct. 2, is not expected to announce whether it will grant full review to the Kaiser and union appeals until Weber's lawyers file written responses. They have 30 days in which to do so.

In a long-awaited decision, a deeply divided Supreme Court ruled in June that a state-run medical school in California illegally discriminated against Bakke, who is white, when it denied him admission.

Bakke had charged that less qualified applicants had been admitted ahead of him under the school's special program aimed at increasing the number of its minority students. Weber's 1974 suit stemmed from a training program, contained in a company-union agreement, which accepted minority and white employees on an equal, one-for-one basis.

Longoria suit could end soon

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — A multi-million dollar feud within the wealthy and powerful Longoria family could come to an end if the Longoria sisters accept a settlement proposal presented to them Thursday by the Longoria brothers.

If an agreement is reached, District Court Judge Lazaro Garza Gongora said it will be admitted as sealed evidence, and will be read to the jury but not made public.

The Longoria sisters are claiming $400 million in damages in a suit brought against their brothers for allegedly mismanaging the family estate.

Defense attorney Robert Lee Bobbitt moved for a mistrial Thursday after Garza Gongora told jurors exact financial figures were not crucial in the case. Garza Gongora denied the motion.

The court heard final testimony in the suit Wednesday from A. Federico Longoria, the only witness to testify in the case. He was appointed director of Empresas Longoria, the family's enterprises in Mexico, when another brother, Octaviano L. "Chito" Longoria, was asked to resign several years ago.

Defense attorney Horace Hall III entered into evidence a 1965 memorandum from Chito Longoria to his brothers. In the memorandum, Chito Longoria said that he was settling family policy, that his brothers were sole owners of the Longoria estate and that salaries for each brother would be $75,000 a year plus business expenses.

Prior to the memorandum, the brothers had withdrawn

Teague is new bureau chief

LUBBOCK — Pat R. Teague, formerly assistant city editor for the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, has succeeded Mike Patterson as Lubbock bureau manager for the United Press.

Patterson resigned to accept a teaching job at Syracuse University in New York. Teague, 28, is a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin.

Cathey tied for second

Wacey Cathey of Big Spring tied for second place in bull riding competition Thursday in the New Mexico State Fair Rodeo at Albuquerque.

Winner of the event was Bill Jolly of Bastrop, Tex., with a score of 76. Cathey shared second place with Lyle Sanke, August, Kansas, each with a score of 68.

More than 10,000 people crowded into Albuquerque to watch the rodeo. The cowboys are competing for purses totaling $130,750.

Other Texans finishing near the top include Bob Logue, Kaufman, second in bareback riding with a score of 69; Larry Dawson, Gruver, second in steer wrestling, 11.3 seconds; Monty Henson, Mesquite, tied for second in saddle bronc riding, 70 points.

Two New Mexico men, Jim Fisher of Los Lunas and John Thomas, Peralta, finished second in team roping in 13.8 seconds.

Norman Hatfield, Fowler, Kansas, and Larry Trent, Dodge City, Kansas, won the event in 10.3 seconds.

Cathey, who has been on the rodeo circuit much of the summer, ranks among the top ten in national standings in his specialty.

brothers, attorneys said. Jacob G. Hornberger, an attorney for Chito Longoria, said the settlement basically involves the family's holdings in Mexico. Court proceedings were to resume today at 9:30 a.m.

Award named for him

Teague honored by VA

The Veterans Administration is honoring long-time Texas Congressman Olin E. Teague by establishing an annual award in his name to recognize agency employees for outstanding achievement in the rehabilitation of war-wounded veterans.

In announcing the award, VA chief Max Cleland said it was fitting that it should be named for Teague, "one of the most decorated combat-disabled soldiers of World War II and a tireless champion of legislation benefiting veterans."

Teague, an infantry battalion commander who suffered multiple wounds and was decorated 11 times for gallantry, served 18 years as chairman of the House Committee on Veterans Affairs.

Earlier this year, Teague became the one person outside the Veterans Administration to receive the agency's Exceptional Service Award. The award is VA's highest commendation for an individual by the agency.

Cleland cited Teague for "his extraordinary contributions" to America's veterans.

"No person in the history of America has had such a salutary effect on the lives of veterans and their families," Cleland said.

Teague's investigations of shortcomings in the World War II VA education assistance legislation led to his authorship of the Korean era GI Bill and Cleland pointed out that much of the veterans legislation that has been approved by Congress since World War II bears his imprint.

Rep. Teague has announced his retirement from Congress at the end of the current session.

In advising him of the award's establishment, Cleland told Teague that "of all the programs and activities of the VA, none is more meaningful, more challenging or more representative of the distinctive mission of the VA than the rehabilitation of war-injured veterans.

The Teague Award will be made annually to the VA area of rehabilitation involving an outstanding improvement in the quality of life for war-injured veterans or contributing in an outstanding manner to their rehabilitation.

Cleland said eligibility for the award "encompasses the whole spectrum of VA personnel who have dealt with wounded veterans. This includes medical personnel, social scientists, vocational counselors, engineers and basic scientists.

"The accomplishment may be a development of a technique or concept that has in a most significant or direct way materially improved the veteran's ability to function as normally as the present state of the art of physical and psychological rehabilitation can offer," he said.

HEAR ME, MY PEOPLE

Listen to me, my people, my chosen ones! I alone am God. I am the First; I am the Last. It was my hand that laid the foundations of the earth; the palm of my right hand spread out the heavens above; I spoke and they came into being.

Come, all of you, and listen. Among all your idols, which one has ever told you this: "The Lord loves Cyrus. He will use him to put an end to the empire of Babylon. He will utterly rout the armies of the Chaldeans." But I am saying it. I have called Cyrus; I have sent him on this errand and I will prosper him.

Come closer and listen. I have always told you plainly what would happen, so that you could clearly understand. And now the Lord God and his Spirit have sent me (with this message): The Lord, your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel, says, I am the Lord your God, who punishes you for your own good and leads you along the paths that you should follow.

Oh, that you had listened to my laws! Then you would have had peace flowing like a gentle river, and great waves of righteousness. Then you would have become as numerous as the sands along the seashores of the world, too many to count, and there would have been no need for your destruction.

Yet even now, be free from your captivity! Leave Babylon, singing as you go; shout to the ends of the earth that the Lord has redeemed his servants, the Jews. They were not thirsty when he led them through the deserts; he divided the rock, and water gushed out for them to drink. But there is no peace, says the Lord, for the wicked.

Dear Abby

Grandma Wants Teens To Put Off Wedding

DEAR ABBY: I have a wonderful 18-year-old grandson I'll call Sonny, who is going to marry an 18-year-old girl he's known two months!

Sonny was graduated from high school with honors, and got a job right away as an apprentice with a good company. They are sending him to school two nights a week. He makes good wages.

The girl he's marrying had a baby four months ago by a man who skipped the state. She and her baby are living with her parents. Sonny had dated her only a few times when he asked her to marry him. Her people grabbed on to him fast, hired a hall and made plans for the wedding which is coming off in two weeks.

My grandson never smoked, drank or messed with girls. He is an inexperienced kid, and I think he's being taken advantage of.

How can I break them up? Not forever, but just long enough for Sonny to get to know the girl better? It's all happening too fast.

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: Where are Sonny's parents? If he has none, and you are looking after him, enlist the help of a minister, doctor, or a trusted friend to help the boy realize the importance of a marriage commitment. (If Sonny has parents, they should guide him.) If he's not being taken advantage of—and sincerely loves the girl—accept her, and hope for the best.

DEAR ABBY: I kept my mother in my home for nine years. She is senile, babbles endlessly and messes the floor, her clothes, and her bed regularly. What a chore!

When I told my sisters and brothers, who all live out of town, that I wanted to put Mom in a nursing home, you should have heard the howl!

They reminded me of how mother took care of me when I was a helpless baby, now it was my turn to take care of her.

Abby, to compare a child with an elderly senile person is ridiculous.

A child can be diapered in public in a stroller. An elderly person cannot.

A child can be left in a playpen. An elderly person cannot.

A child learns and matures in time. An older person becomes worse.

It's easy to get a baby sitter, but just try to get someone to stay with an old person. Even relatives won't help.

So I went out and found the cleanest nursing home I could afford and took my mother there. I said goodbye with tears in my eyes to someone who didn't even know me.

Then I went home and started being a wife and mother again. I thanked my husband for his willingness to pay for the care of my mother. (It's not cheap.)

Then the letters started to come from my brothers and sisters who had never kept Mom in their homes for one day. They said, "YOU put Mom in a nursing home! How could you?"

I don't need an answer, Abby. I know I did the right thing. I just had to get this off my chest. If you print this, I'll carry it in my wallet forever.

HEAVY-HEARTED IN N.J.

DEAR HEAVY: Here's something for your wallet.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SHOULD I?" No. Don't put him on the spot by asking him to tell you in so many words. When a boy stops calling a girl, he is silently telling her that it's all over. Accept it, and turn your attention elsewhere.

Tween 12 and 20—Young poets provide thoughts for any day

By Robert Wallace Ed. D.

The response to my request for poetry continues to grow. I'm thrilled and delighted at the quality and depth of the poems submitted by you teens.

If you enjoy and write poetry, send one to me and I'll try to get it in print.

Our Sonnet
Whenever I see the bronzed, sandy beaches
I remember the summer when you were mine.
We'd sit and watch the sun as it reached
To pierce our crystals of wine.
Whenever I feel the sea breeze in my hair
I see us holding hands
But as I turn you are no longer there.
Only a memory pressed in the sand
The salty coolness of the sea
As it caresses my feet
Slings in my mind what used to be
But can never be again
And I know as I see the moon
Lying on the horizon
That you are gone.
— Kim Ballinger 17, Colorado Springs, Colo.

the thought for the day
the thought for the day
"give respect," said the teacher.
but my thought for the day is
I love you.
I wrote it on a piece of paper and made an airplane out of it and sailed it across the room over to my true love.
he opened it up and he read it and he smiled.

Women and Law meet slated in San Antonio

AUSTIN, Texas — The 10th National Conference on Women and the Law will be held in Texas in 1979 under sponsorship of the Women's Law Caucus of The University of Texas at Austin Law School.

The dates will be March 29-April 1 at the Convention Center in San Antonio.

More than 3,000 persons from across the nation — including law students, practicing attorneys and law workers of both sexes — are expected to attend the more than 80 workshops.

The purpose of the meeting is to heighten the awareness of law students and practicing attorneys about substantive issues which women face as clients of the law. Such issues may range from health concerns such as abortion and sterilization to discrimination in employment.

Lunch honors Mrs. Robinson

Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Roscoe Cowper, Mrs. Arch Carson, Mrs. Horace Garrett, Roberta Miller, Mrs. Adolph Swartz, Mrs. Andrew Swartz, Mrs. R. W. Thompson and Mrs. Jack Woodall.

Tables at the luncheon were decorated with mixed flowers in fall colors. The hostess gift to the honoree was an imported crystal vase.

Twenty-eight persons attended, including Mrs. G. R. Robinson as a special guest.

Mrs. Robinson, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Erick Schulze, and Robinson, son of Mrs. G. R. Robinson and the late G. R. Robinson, were married Aug. 1 in Hansuh, Germany. They are making their home in Big Spring at the Barcelona Apartments.

Mrs. Walker is greeted

Mrs. S. R. Nobles and Mrs. Merrit Jordan co-hosted a "get-acquainted" coffee for Mrs. Arvie Walker in the home of Mrs. Nobles, 405 Washington Blvd., from 9-11 a.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Walker, the former Birdie Westbrook, was married to Walker earlier this year and was able to meet all her new neighbors at the coffee.

Refreshments were served from a table draped with a lace cloth and centered with a pink and green floral arrangement. Silver appointments were used.

Fifteen neighbors were present to greet Mrs. Walker.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT — Ronnie Yavnieli, 2 gives a startled look to the photographer after he was discovered munching on an apple he helped himself to in a Miami supermarket where his father and other members of the Florida Philharmonic Orchestra were playing selections from classical music. The orchestra played a one-hour concert Wednesday to promote interest in classical music. Ronnie and his father Guri, a violinist, are originally from Israel.

A ban on smoking in public places

And now for Proposition 5

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three months after Californians approved Proposition 13 and helped trigger a national tax revolt, a grassroots campaign to ban smoking in most indoor public places in California has the mighty tobacco industry wheezing.

So far, big tobacco has coughed up about 99 percent of the money for an intense media campaign against Proposition 5 on the Nov. 7 state ballot, an initiative being pushed by a group called Californians for Clean Indoor Air.

Before the campaign is over, the $17 billion industry is expected to spend up to $5 million, a record for a ballot proposal.

"California is considered a bellwether state," noted Jack McDowell of Woodward & McDowell, a local political ad firm that is running the campaign against the proposition.

The industry has reason to worry. The well-regarded California Poll said recently that the initiative, on the ballot after supporters got some 600,000 signatures, is favored by 58 percent of registered voters and opposed by 38 percent.

A few weeks ago Johnny Carson quipped, "Polls show 53 percent of voters are for Proposition 5. The other 47 percent are dead." In fact, the figures closely parallel the estimated percentages of smokers and non-smokers in the country.

Industry fears are that if Proposition 5 passes, it would not only take a bite out of California cigarette sales — 95 percent of the national total — but also inspire similar tough restrictions elsewhere. Eventually, tobacco executives say privately, smoking could become unfashionable and sales could wither.

Last year R. J. Reynolds, the nation's top tobacco company and the campaign's biggest contributor, noted that if every American smoker had one less cigarette a day, Reynolds would lose $92 million a year.

As of June 30, when the latest financial reports were filed, Reynolds had contributed $177,000.

So far Proposition 5 opponents, the self-named Californians for Common Sense, have placed ads headlined, "Have They Taken Leave of Their Senses?" in 47 newspapers. Radio spots are running on 89 stations and commercials on 32 television stations.

There are billboards reading, "They're at it again! Vote No on 5," and tobacco distributors are leaving handfuls of matchbooks saying "No More Prohibition!" on bars and in cigarette machines.

In the other corner, Californians for Clean Indoor Air says it will be lucky if it raises $500,000. It is running 30-second spots on two radio stations here and canvassing people in malls and on streets.

Its biggest contribution — $25,000 — came from the state American Cancer Society chapter, for whom it was the first political contribution. The state Lung Association has donated almost as much.

"We should win — except we'll have $5 million against us," said Paul Loveday, a former pro basketball player who helped write the initiative and is its chief spokesman. He and others say they think the slick ads may backfire and win votes for the proposition.

"It's a risk we've been forced to take," says McDowell, 64, a former Pulitzer Prize-winning newsman who has smoked since he was 19. "If we were not acquainting people with what is in the thing, they would still believe they were voting for apple pie and ice cream."

Already, 33 states and scores of cities have restricted public smoking to some degree, including near-total bans in Utah and Minnesota. But Proposition 5 is stricter and more complicated.

Exemptions include private offices and homes, bars, pool halls and rooms in hotels, motels and college dormitories. Restaurants would have to set up no-smoking sections, although they could consist of as little as one table. Cabbies could smoke only if they had no riders.

Under the measure, smoking by employees would be legal at the workplace if everyone in the room smokes, or if there is a separate lounge — half of which must be partitioned off for non-smokers.

It also allows smoking at rock concerts, professional boxing and wrestling and roller derbies. But it bars smoking at amateur matches, hockey games and jazz or classical concerts in the same places.

Opponents seize upon those discrepancies. A radio ad asks, "What'll they think of next?" then speculates that jogging could be banned on Thursday and humming allowed only for freckled people one hour a day.

Loveday admits the provisions under attack were "a public relations mistake, but legally they were very wise."

"We made a policy decision to exempt those areas because we want the law to work," he said, adding that the initiative would allow the legislature to amend such details.

Most of the anti-5 ads also point out that errant smokers would be arrested. But under the proposal, a violation is like a parking ticket, with a mandatory $50 fine. Supporters say smokers would be arrested only if fines weren't paid and warrants were issued.

"This gives protection to those who really need and want it," says Loveday. "The only reason this is going to work is that most smokers are considerate people."

Ads also attack the proposal as Big Brotherism. Supporters compare it to New York City's new law requiring dog owners to scoop up after their pets in public.

Opponents say it may cost $280 million for required partitions, signs and production time lost to smoking breaks. Supporters say it will save up to $169 million a year in lower health care costs, fewer fires and less employee sick time.

Some striking teachers face jail sentences for refusals

Striking teachers in Dayton, Ohio and suburban San Francisco face the possibility of jail sentences for refusing to obey back-to-work orders, while more teachers in Bridgeport, Conn. entered prison after negotiations there broke down again.

The Bridgeport talks collapsed Thursday, shortly after they resumed at a National Guard camp where some 135 teachers were being held for ignoring a judge's back-to-work order. They rejected us. They just turned us down cold," said Thomas Flynn, school board president, of the city's offer to submit the dispute to binding arbitration. He also said the city offered to put a "no reprisal" clause in any new contract.

Some 13 Bridgeport union officials have been in jail since Tuesday. They were joined by 63 teachers Wednesday and 59 more on Thursday. Superior Court Judge James Henebry has recessed contempt hearings until Monday.

The strike began Sept. 6, forcing the closing of all Bridgeport schools for the second straight day Thursday, leaving 22,500 students out of classes.

The teachers are demanding a 7.5 percent wage hike, a dental plan and smaller classes.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-month-old clerks' strike against a Virginia-based railroad has escalated into a bitter, industry-wide dispute that company officials say might lead to a nationwide rail shutdown.

In recent days, the intensified battle has moved from the bargaining table and picket lines to the courts.

On Thursday, rail management asked a federal appeals court for an injunction to block the clerks' union from striking or picketing 72 other major railroads. The court agreed to review the appeal, indicating it would issue an order today.

The dispute revolves around a mutual aid pact under which the struck Norfolk & Western Railway is receiving about $800,000 a day from other lines.

The railroads' latest appeal came after industry attorneys failed in several attempts to obtain injunctions from federal judges in Washington and Chicago to block the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks from expanding its walkout.

The industry contends the union has threatened to strike or picket "some or all" of the other lines in violation of the Railway Labor Act.

Fred Kroll, president of the 235,000-member union, insisted in an interview he has "no definite plans for a nationwide strike. . . . The railroads are trying to instigate a national strike with such talk."

However, some union sources have indicated privately they would like to extend the strike to at least some other lines in hopes the industry would pressure the N&W to settle.

The dispute began July 10, when 4,600 clerks struck N&W, a major coal carrier, over contract language which the union wants to protect clerks from layoffs due to automation.

The strike has idled 15,000 other N&W workers in 14 states and shut down most train runs except for a few being operated by supervisory crews. In addition, the walkout has idled an estimated 25,000 coal miners in Virginia and West Virginia.

BRAC and N&W have been negotiating since the start of the strike, but there has been no progress and each side has accused the other of refusing to bargain in good faith.

BRAC and the industry's bargaining arm, the National Railway Labor Conference, have been negotiating a new national contract for more than a year. The union has refused to go along with a 35 percent, 39-month wage settlement pegged partly to the cost of living which has been accepted by three other rail unions.

BRAC is seeking a government declaration of an impasse in the talks so it can begin a 90-day legal countdown toward a national strike.

Ban on saccharin delayed, not lifted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although Americans don't hear much about banning saccharin anymore, the controversy has not ended with the warning signs in supermarkets and new labels on diet food.

The proposed ban on the artificial sweetener has only been delayed, not lifted. And scientists throughout the country are busy trying to resolve the dilemma of what to do about the popular food additive, which may cause cancer and for which there is no substitute.

In recent weeks, more studies have been thrown into the controversy but none resolve the issue.

—In an exhaustive 700-page review of every major saccharin study, Dr. Morris F. Cranmer of the Food and Drug Administration concluded that better tests must be done before anyone realistically can determine human cancer risk from the sweetener. Because of the uncertainties, he urged the government to move cautiously on a ban.

—A Johns Hopkins University study comparing the lives of bladder cancer patients with a similar group without the disease found no cancer link with moderate use of artificial sweeteners. A similar Canadian study earlier said it found a positive association between artificial sweeteners and bladder cancer in males.

—A survey of doctors and other health professionals found that up to 70 percent oppose a saccharin ban because they feel that benefits may outweigh known risks and that the data on saccharin is inconclusive.

The National Academy of Sciences, conducting a federally funded study of the nation's food safety policy in general and saccharin in particular, is reviewing these results and much other data. The academy's saccharin findings will be sent to the FDA in November and the complete study is to be finished by February 1979.

The FDA tried to ban saccharin last year, mostly because of a Canadian study linking large doses of it to bladder cancer in male rats and indications of a possible human cancer link. The ban was called for under the Delaney clause, a law requiring a ban on food additives linked to cancer regardless of other benefits they may have.

A loud public outcry followed because saccharin is the only general-use artificial sweetener approved for use in this country. A debate ensued over the wisdom of the Delaney clause in light of the need for an artificial sweetener, not just by casual dieters but by diabetics or others for whom obesity is a health problem.

Congress last November delayed the ban until June 1979, required warning labels on saccharin products and authorized further study.

Of the new reports, most attention focused on the one by Cranmer, former head of FDA's National Center for Toxicological Research.

The Cranmer report, a survey prepared at the request of FDA Commissioner Donald Kennedy, says the benefits of saccharin may be found to outweigh potential harm — something not covered by the Delaney clause.

The agency has not endorsed the report and considers it a working paper. "The Cranmer report at the present time has no status," said FDA spokesman Wayne Pines. "It was compiled by an FDA official and represents an individual's view on saccharin. It is in circulation among other federal agencies for comment."

The report said a review of previous data indicates saccharin is a weak carcinogen, or cancer-causing substance, itself. However, it said, saccharin may be more hazardous as a cancer "promoter," a substance that boosts the cancer-causing effect of another carcinogen.

Cranmer said better tests should be conducted to see if there are "safe" intake levels below which some carcinogens would not cause cancer. He added that he thought it "likely to be possible" to set a safe limit on saccharin.

But Cranmer mostly emphasized how much was not known about testing chemicals and applying these results to determine human risks. He noted that it "isn't enough to identify a chemical which has the potential to produce cancer."

He said the Delaney clause was inadequate because it didn't allow for assigning a relative risk to carcinogens and balancing these risks against possible benefits from using these substances.

Cranmer said in an interview that he formulated several examples to show how much isn't known about interpreting data from animals overdosed with potential carcinogens.

Tests conducted in England found that high doses of the natural sweetener xylitol caused tumors in male rats. But interestingly, Cranmer said, control rats in the test given 20 percent regular sugar — called sucrose — had a 10 percent incidence of kidney tumors.

Rats given 5 percent saccharin had a 30 percent incidence of bladder cancer and since saccharin is 500 times sweeter than sugar, Cranmer calculated the cancer risks of equivalent sweetness.

"The risk of cancer in animals is 375 times higher for sucrose if they received saccharin and sucrose at equivalent 'sweet doses,'" Cranmer said.

"I don't believe this is true or that we can say either saccharin or sucrose causes cancer from these test results," Cranmer said. "Twenty percent sucrose and 5 percent saccharin in my opinion exaggerate toxicological data so much that the results are shaky."

The game is almost over, and this is the critical moment. The final score hangs on what Ken does with that ball. If he is successful, he will be the hero of the day. If he isn't, people may not entirely blame him, but even so . . .

Throughout our lives, even if we never touch a football, we cannot avoid coming up against moments when the "final score" depends upon our actions.

Decision-making is never easy, especially when the decision involves others as well as ourselves, and major decisions almost always do. This is when we need a place to go where we can empty our hearts and souls and let the peace and understanding which is God's flow into us . . . that place is the church.

Senator Bentsen believes

Carter looking for scapegoat

APPEAR IN MIDLAND TONIGHT — The Captain and Tennille, stars of a network TV show a couple of years ago, will appear in concert at the Chaparral Center in Midland this evening. Probably the couple are best remembered for the song, "Love Will Keep Us Together," which sold 2½ million copies and wound up winning the Grammy Award for the "Best Record of the Year."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen believes President Carter "will be looking for another scapegoat to explain the weakening of the dollar" should the Senate pass the administration-backed natural gas compromise.

"The root cause of our economic problems are inflation, a huge federal deficit — which adds to the $600 billion already held in foreign hands — too much government regulation, a tax structure that discourages investment and a growth rate that exceeds that of our trading partners," began the Texas Democrat in a Senate speech delivered late Thursday afternoon.

"These factors, when combined with policies that discriminate against American exports, are primarily responsible for our balance of trade problems," he added.

Bentsen also noted that the Department of Energy (DOE) has asked for an increase of $87 million in its regulatory budget in anticipation of the bill's passage.

The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission would "literally cave in under the weight of all that new red tape," should the Senate approve the compromise, Bentsen told his colleagues.

The controversial compromise, which would deregulate most newly discovered natural gas by 1985, was hammered out during the past 10 months in a House-Senate conference committee. The measure has been the subject of intense lobbying by top administration officials including Carter, Vice President Walter Mondale, DOE Secretary James Schlesinger and Chief Trade Negotiator Robert Strauss.

Bentsen, who co-authored along with Sen. James B. Pearson, R-Kansas, the natural gas pricing bill that passed the Senate in October, claimed the compromise bill "actually deregulates less gas in 1985 than would be deregulated under current law."

"Projections made by the Energy Information Administration, an independent branch of DOE, shows that in 1985 the compromise bill will deregulate 37 percent of all flowing natural gas but under the status quo 55 percent would be deregulated. Under the Bentsen-Pearson bill 73 percent of all gas would be freed from federal control," continued Bentsen.

In response to arguments advanced by compromise advocates that the bill is needed to bolster the weakening dollar by demonstrating America's ability to solve its energy problems, Bentsen said, "I have great difficulty crediting this line of reasoning."

"Passage of this compromise will have virtually no impact on our balance of trade and I cannot believe the leaders of nations like Japan and West Germany believe that it will," he said. "These leaders know that last year we imported about half our petroleum needs while the Japanese imported virtually all their oil. Yet Japan had a trade surplus while we had a whopping trade deficit of $26 billion."

"Passage of this legislation will be taken as a symbol by some, but its effects will be little more than symbolic and short lived. If this legislation is adopted, within a week they will be looking for another scapegoat to explain the weakening of the dollar."

Ancestral castle owner is actually a Texan

DROMOLAND CASTLE, EIRE (AP) — Most of the guests, including the cardinal from Los Angeles, don't realize it but the leprechaun-faced lord of the ancestral castle that has become Ireland's most elegant hotel is actually a Texan who lives in Parkersburg, W. Va.

Himself, as the locals call him, is Bernard P. McDonough. He bought Dromoland Castle, ancestral home of the O'Briens, five minutes after he first saw it between planes at nearby Shannon Airport in 1962.

Sir Donough O'Brien, the 16th Baron of Inchiquin and a direct descendant of Brian Boru, the High King of Ireland, was sitting on the front steps when the American millionaire drove up.

McDonough, whose grandfather had traveled past this very castle exactly a 100 years before to emigrate from County Galway and work on the railroads in America, asking Lord Inchiquin how long his family had lived there.

"For more than a thousand years," his lordship replied.

"Then," McDonough picked up the story over breakfast," he rattled off a price and I said I'd take it. I thought it would take $250,000 to fix up — it took $2 million."

An army of 485 workmen, including 70 carpenters, 65 painters, 30 pipefitters and the Dorothy Draper interior decorating firm — the largest such work force ever assembled in Ireland — set about the miracle of transforming the drafty old castle with only eight antique bathrooms into a luxury hotel with 67 baths for each of the 67 guest rooms in less than six months.

Now jet-setters from all over the world flock to Dromoland Castle for the shooting, the golf, the salmon and trout fishing, the horseback riding and the deep-sea fishing off the spectacular County Clare coast.

The Texas-born magnate, who made his money in construction — not counting his 200 shoe stores, his ship building firm and other enterprises, says he has only one hobby.

"My hobby is never being poor again," said McDonough, as he looked out the big picture window over Dromoland's emerald expanse of lawn, bog and winding river.

At age 14, McDonough went to work in a West Virginia foundry at 15 cents an hour. "Thirty years later I bought it for $3 million. Nothing in life gave me greater pleasure, not even the law school building that Georgetown University named after me. They let me out after three years with a hard-earned law degree. Forty years later when I gave them a million dollars, on top of the million I'd already given them when they called the building McDonough Law Hall, it sounded like I bought it."

President Nixon stayed at Dromoland during his search for Irish forbears. The Beatles are frequent guests and so is Cardinal Timothy Manning, the Irish-born archbishop of Los Angeles.

Weather

Weather conditions could produce floods

Forecasters warned today that moist air and unstable upper air conditions over a vast area of South and Southwest Texas, including the Texas Hill Country, could trigger another round of flash rainfall producing heavy rain.

A flash flood watch remained in effect today for an area within a line extending from Laredo to the coast near Palacios, north to College Station, west to Junction and back to the Rio Grande at Del Rio. Forecasts called for widely scattered showers and thunderstorms over the southern half of the state. Highs were expected to be in the 80s and 90s.

First Baptists eye bids for additions

Bids have been authorized by the congregation of the First Baptist Church for major additions which would complete the church's masterplan.

Working drawings have been completed by Gary and Associates, architects, and prospects are that bid openings will be around the last week in October. Once the bids are in, the congregation will be asked to make a final decision on the proposed project.

Included in the plans are the addition of a chapel on the northeast quadrant; a family life-center with gymnasium and auxiliary room facilities; and an extension of the present

Jehovah's Witnesses conclave

C. L. Lunsford, presiding elder from the Big Spring congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses returned home late Sunday evening from Lubbock, where they had attended a Christian Synod.

The Saturday morning session of the conclave saw 22 new members of Jehovah's Witnesses in this area submit to water immersion in a baptism ceremony.

The highlight of the convention was presented by W. S. Brandozzi, a traveling lecturer for Jehovah's Witnesses. Brandozzi's entitled lecture, "Meeting the Test of Christian Loyalty."

In quoting from the World Almanac of 1977, Mr. Brandozzi stated that in 1976 of the 987,000 marriages in the United States there was recorded in the same period, 538,000 divorces.

Regular meeting schedules at the local Kingdom Hall will resume this week.

"A Farthing's Worth" IF GOD IS GOOD.....

If God is good, and if He loves us, why is it that eternal sunshine does not light our path of life? Why is it that the brightness of the day is followed in endless round by the darkness of the night? Why is our path blocked by thorns many times instead of strewn with roses?

Why is it, that when we have about ascended the hill, something always seems to overtake us and send us hurtling to the bottom? If God desires our well-being, why does pain, sickness and weakness assail us?

Does everything hap as the will of God? Do tragedies and misfortune come at the command of God? Are the things that happen to us punishment for our sins?

In my present Sunday morning sermon series I am answering these and other questions that people have asked. This Sunday I will be speaking on "THE HIGH FIFTEEN". Some of your questions may be answered. How about visiting the Christian Church this Sunday?

Rhodesian Prime Minister Smith refuses contact with guerrillas

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith has branded Joshua Nkomo a "monster" for the deaths of 48 persons after the downing of a civilian airliner and ruled out any further contacts with the black guerrilla leader.

Speaking at a news conference Thursday, Smith also announced a crackdown on local chapters of foreign-based guerrilla outfits. About 300 Nkomo supporters were reported arrested in the roundup ordered by Smith.

Nkomo, whose forces are based in Zambia, and Robert Mugabe, whose guerrillas operate from Mozambique, are allied in what is called the Patriotic Front. They have been fighting for six years to take over the Rhodesian government.

In March, Smith and three black moderates formed a transition administration to bring black majority rule to Rhodesia by the end of the year. But the prime minister said the elections would be delayed now.

Rhodesia says 18 of the 56 persons aboard the Rhodesian airliner shot down with a missile near the Zambian border Sept. 3 survived the crash, but 10 of the 18 subsequently were murdered by Nkomo's guerrillas.

Nkomo admitted the guerrillas shot down the plane, saying Rhodesian civilian aircraft sometimes are used to ferry troops and supplies. He denied, however, that his men killed any of the survivors.

But Smith said, "This man has put himself beyond the pale... his action has disclosed him as a monster of no mean proportions... When I use the word monster, I am not referring so much to his physical condition as to his spiritual and mental condition."

"Certainly I haven't left any doors open and I sincerely hope I don't have to have any truck with the gentleman concerned."

Smith said his administration is going ahead with plans for elections leading to a black government, but he conceded the transition would be delayed "a few months" beyond the Dec. 31 target date.

"The whole thing depends on whether the British and American governments have got the will to push for a settlement," the prime minister said. "We know they have the muscle."

Routine interviewing continues in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Routine interviewing by Oklahoma City police in an attempt to identify a gun holster found last week with two weapons believed used in the mass slayings of nine persons, including three members of a San Antonio, Texas family.

Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation Inspector Al Abernathy went to the airwaves with a red holster found with two guns used in the mass slayings of six persons at the Sirolo Stockade in Oklahoma City and the killings of the three members of the Melvin Lorenz family on Interstate 35 near Purcell.

Officials confirmed last week that the guns used to kill the three members of the Texas family were also used in the slayings of the six restaurant workers.

Abernathy appealed to the public for clues to the identity of the owner.

Investigators hope the holster, which contained a .22-caliber automatic pistol will be recognized by someone willing to identify the owner.

He said the weapon was sent to U.S. Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents in Washington for processing a possible identification.

A rental car stolen from a Will Rogers World Airport parking lot is also being sought by authorities trying to solve the most mass slaying in state history.

Weather modification program to continue

One of the last major obstacles in the way of continuing the HIPLEX weather modification program at Big Spring has been removed by the announcement that the Colorado River Municipal Water District will have use of a FPS-77 radar through 1979.

The unit, used in cloud seeding operations, formerly was part of the operations equipment at Webb AFB before its closure. Gen. Joseph Meis, deputy assistant secretary of defense for installations and logistics, according to his special assistant Abe Belous, has determined that the radar unit will serve the national interest better in the research project than by being moved to some other installation.

The District had joined the City of Big Spring in a presentation for making use of the highly sophisticated equipment, which has been in use this year.

O. H. Ivie, general manager of CRMWD, said that assurance of the radar practically clears the way for continuing the weather modification program.

Raza Unida claims planned effort to destroy party exists

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe wasn't just acting out of pique when he persuaded President Carter to block a million-dollar grant for Zavala County, two Raza Unida Party officials said Thursday.

They said Briscoe's successful run at the Zavala County Economic Development Corp. grant was just one part of a "concerted effort" by Democrats and Republicans to kill the Raza Unida Party in Texas.

Zavala County and the economic development organization are dominated by Raza Unida.

"We feel there is a planned, concentrated effort to destroy the Raza Unida Party and its power base among the Mexican-American community," said

Robert Maggiani of Austin, a member of the state executive committee.

Veletz said in some counties Raza Unida candidates are arrested, then the charges are dropped after election day.

He also said the Legislature stacked the deck in 1973 by raising the percentage of votes a party must get in order to have a primary from 2 percent to 20 percent.

"This was a direct effort to stultify our efforts, and it did. We appealed to the Justice Department and it took resources we couldn't afford," Veletz told a news conference.

Maggiani said that at one time there were 30 lawsuits against Raza Unida activists in Zavala County, where the party controls local government in Crystal City but not the district court.

He said the attorney general kept a three-man staff in Crystal City full time for more than a year in an attempt to find evidence of wrongdoing. He said three persons were indicted but all were acquitted or the charges against them were dropped.

Briscoe's action against the U.S. Community Development Administration grant to the Zavala County organization was another example, he said. Briscoe portrayed the grant's purpose as creation of a "Little Cuba" in South Texas.

LONG SERVICE — Gene Simpkins (right) received a watch and pin commemorating his 20th year as an employee of the Firestone Company. Low runoff tightens financial picture Abnormally low runoff into Lake J. B. Thomas is being reflected in a tighter financial picture for the Colorado River Municipal Water District. Through August, revenues of $4,833,656 were $30,412 less than for the corresponding period in 1977.

Oil companies, which have been cut off from surface deliveries since May 1, had paid $1,205,193, down $515,363 from the first eight months of last year. Offsetting this to a degree was municipal sales of $3,287,171, up $219,191 from a year ago. The District would be much shorter in revenues were it not for $271,673 earned on trust funds, a source made possible by the refunding issue of last year.

Operating expenses for the first eight months were up sharply in reaching $2,166,842, a $401,479 gain for the period. Most of this, or $339,756, was in increased energy costs which amounted to $1,241,866, or up 37.7 per cent, for the period. Administrative-general and recreational expenses both

"The Battle of New Orleans"

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — There has to be one final minuscule miracle left in the magical, almost mystical life of Muhammad Ali. Realism dictates "no." Sentimentality screams "yes." In a world where make-believe sometimes transcends cold logic, where people worship at the shrines of Cinderella, Tarzan of the Apes and Superman, we have to cast a vote for the latter.

ALI WEIGHS IN — Muhammad Ali weighs in for his fight with Leon Spinks in the Superdome Friday night. The event is being billed as The Battle of New Orleans.

Bosox do or die vs Yanks, Guidry

The schedule maker couldn't possibly have known it when he did his work so many months ago, but he set a virtual "do-or-die" scene this weekend for the second-place clubs in both American League divisions.

The Boston Red Sox, who have lost 12 of their last 15 to fall 1½ games behind the East-leading Yankees, limp into New York for a three-game weekend series. And the California Angels, battling to stay within 3½ games of the first-place Royals, visit Kansas City to start their crucial weekend.

"At this point," said Red Sox Manager Don Zimmer, "we have to have three." He meant victories over New York, which sends Ron Guidry — the fellow with 21 victories in 23 decisions — against Luis Tiant, 19-7.

"We've got to do it ourselves over the weekend, one way or another," said Zimmer. "We can't wait for somebody else to do it." The Cleveland Indians trimmed Zimmer's Red Sox 4-3 Thursday night, holding on to their lead when Boston stranded the tying run at third base in the ninth.

The Yankees, meanwhile, powered to their eighth triumph in nine games — a 4-2 decision over Detroit — on the strength of two home runs by Graig Nettles.

In other AL games Thursday night, Los Angeles beat Texas 16-1, Kansas City downed Oakland 5-1, the little educated Louisville kid who licked a hostile world and dazzled pharaohs and kings, Ali must be conceded a last hurrah. Don't ask how or why, just accept it. Muhammad Ali to win in eight.

Money changers in Las Vegas make him a 2-1 favorite, but they're swayed by the man's magnetism — the belief he wasn't trying when he lost to Leon Spinks in Las Vegas last February. The public is in Ali's corner. But most of the hardened fight writers pick the younger Spinks to win the return battle tonight at the Superdome.

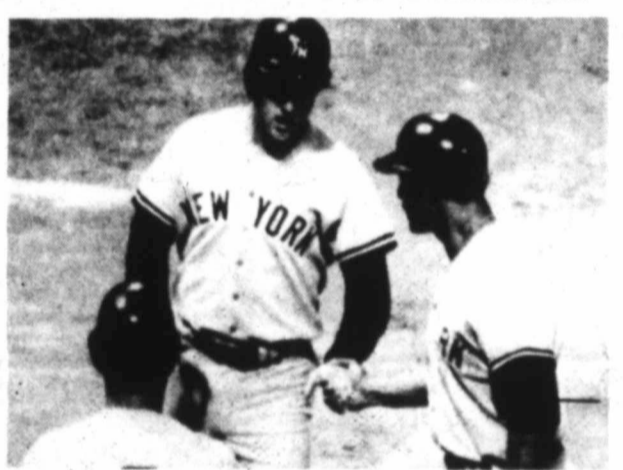

Their reasoning is sound. This is an aging, punch-weary Ali giving up 11 years to a fearless, street-tough kid with a seemingly inexhaustible store of stamina and guts.

The Ali whose "float like a butterfly and sting like a bee" wizardry baffled the awesome, heavy-handed Sonny Liston in Miami Beach in 1964 is a dim memory. He hasn't danced in three years — not since his brutal victory over Joe Frazier in the Battle of Manila in 1975.

Abnormal punishment from the fists of peers and inferiors alike has damaged his nerve tissue and dulled his reflexes. He remains a striking physical specimen on the surface but on the inside he is a tired, battered old man.

These are physical flaws — obvious to everyone who has watched him lumber and stumble through training sessions. Even his mind has lost some of that steeltrap sharpness.

But there are intangibles in Ali which remain unflawed — a fierce,

Bouton silences Giants, critics; LA, Phils romp

Atlanta Braves to a 4-1 decision over the San Francisco Giants with late relief help.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Dodgers moved closer to the NL West pennant with a 2-1 victory over the Houston Astros; the San Diego Padres stopped the Cincinnati Reds 8-1; the Philadelphia Phillies trimmed the Chicago Cubs 11-5; the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 7-4 and the New York Mets edged the Montreal Expos 7-6.

Dodgers 2, Astros 1 — Dave Lopes and Ron Cey slugged home runs to lead Los Angeles over Houston as the Dodgers established an all-time major league at-SPINKS JINX? — Heavyweight champion Leon Spinks sneers at a poster predicting the third heavyweight title for Muhammad Ali in tonight's fight in the Superdome. Spinks will defend his crown against the two-time champion in what has been billed as The Battle of New Orleans.

AP picks Oilers, Steelers; Pokes over LA

Oakland 27, Green Bay 17 — After last week's close call against San Diego, the Raiders better not fool with the improved Packers. But if it comes down to Ken Stabler vs. David Whitehurst, you'd have to stick with Stabler.

Cleveland 13, Atlanta 7 — The Falcon offense is missing and the Browns, no scoring powerhouse either, will manage enough points to take advantage of the absence of an Atlanta attack.

Pittsburgh 23, Cincinnati 7 — The winless Bengals need a victory and soon, but they won't get it against the Steelers, who are playing like the Super Bowl team of a couple years back. Chicago 19, Detroit 14 — The Lions had no cakewalk against puncheon Tampa Bay and will find the Bears, winners of two straight games, a lot tougher than the Bucs.

There is great temptation here to pick the underdog Seahawks, who beat the Jets a year ago. But New York played that game without Richard Todd at quarterback. He makes a big difference.

Washington 24, St. Louis 7 — Redskins have won five of the last six in this series and are riding high after upsetting New England and outlasting Philadelphia. The Cardinals are banged up.

Sand Hosts Wink

The Sands Mustangs will host the tough Wink Wildcats tonight at 8 o'clock in Ackerly. The Mustangs are 0-1, losing to Grandfalls 7-6 last Friday, while Wink won their opener over Dell City in a very convincing fashion.

Sands, coached by Dickie Leopard, had over 300 yards total offense last week, but were victims of their own mistakes. The Mustangs lost five fumbles and had a touchdown called back due to a penalty.

Jesse Ybarra, who was the outstanding player of the Grandfalls game, will lead the Mustang attack along with Van Gaskins, quarterback David Mosley and halfback Bill Wiggington.

Sands is a much improved club from last year, with participation and enthusiasm vastly increasing.

Walton speaks from Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Just a few hours before professional basketball training camps were to open today, the National Basketball Association's most valuable player was sitting in front of the Sphinx listening to the rock group Grateful Dead.

Bill Walton, the red-bearded giant who led the Portland Trail Blazers to the championship in 1977, has come to Egypt to escape the controversy brewing over his desire to be traded and wait for his broken left foot to knit.

"The foot was X-rayed a week ago and it's looking pretty good," said Walton. "But I definitely am going to miss part of the season." The 6-foot-11 star wouldn't estimate just how much of the season would pass him by before he was ready to play, but it was clear that he was brooding and still bitter about his injury.

"I don't think it very professional of Portland to jeopardize the future of a player who was voted the most valuable player," said Walton.

"I believed them but if I hadn't had that injection I would be playing Friday," he added. Walton demanded to be traded because of the team's handling of his foot injury, which he said occurred last February. Walton says he was given painkilling injections so he could participate in the playoffs but that playing aggravated the injury and opened a fracture in his arch.

As a result, Walton has not been on the court since last April. Now, he said, "I'm looking for a good team with a management attitude that if a player is injured they don't jeopardize his career by making him try to play."

Walton says he has feelers out to several teams but that he is seriously negotiating with the Golden State Warriors. He praised both their management and the quality of the players.

BILL WALTON AND FRIENDS — Basketball player Bill Walton is surrounded by curious Egyptians as he waits for the Grateful Dead rock group to begin a practice session. Walton, the 1978 NBA most valuable player is travelling with the Grateful Dead. He has been a fan of theirs since 1969, and travels with them whenever his schedule permits. The Grateful Dead are giving three concerts on stage in front of the pyramids and Sphinx.

Animal rabies cases up

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Animal rabies cases reported in Texas now total 396, more than those reported in all of 1977, the Texas Department of Health said Thursday.

There were 389 cases last year. The record year was 1953 when 524 cases were reported. There were 436 cases in 1966.

Dr. F. V. McCasland, chief of the department's bureau of veterinary public health, said skunks continue to be the number one cause of rabies in Texas. Their close proximity to humans and household pets still continue to be sources of concern, he said.

Other rabies cases have been reported in bats, cats and dogs.

McCasland said the largest outbreak this year was along the coastal plains and in the north and north-east parts of the state.

Newcomer invites entire town to party

CICERO, Ind. (AP) — Newcomer James Peachey wanted to meet some of his fellow townsfolk, so he decided to throw a little dinner party.

Well, hardly so little. Peachey invited the entire town, with personal invitations sent to 1,300 families.

The big event is set for Sunday in the town park of this lake-front suburb about 25 miles north of Indianapolis, where Peachey had been a long-time resident until he moved last year.

"I found that all Cicero is divided into two parts," Peachey said. "There's pretty much old Cicero, made up of the people who have lived in the town many years, and new Cicero, the families who have moved here since the Morse Reservoir development.

"I thought it might be a good way for the new residents to meet the old residents if everyone got together for Sunday dinner."

Feeding a town dinner shouldn't be much of a problem, either.

100 diesels on order

ST. LOUIS — The Missouri Pacific Railroad has announced an initial 1979 budget totaling a record $196.7-million for an additional 100 diesel locomotives and 3,850 units of freight equipment.

The orders include 3,250 freight cars and 500 trailers plus conversion of 100 cars now used to haul automobiles into flatcars for transport of highway trailers in piggyback service.

MoPac's record 1979 program eclipses the previous high of $160-million in 1978 for acquisition of 3,523 freight cars and 80 locomotives.

Included in the 1979 program are: 1000 box cars of 70-ton capacity, 1000 gondolas of 100-ton capacity, 50 air dump cars of 100-ton capacity and 200 new flatcars for transport of highway trailers which are in addition to the cars being converted to that use.

Seniors can seek trips, scholarships

Seniors of Big Spring High School are buckling down to take full advantage of an opportunity to win local, state and national awards by demonstrating their awareness, concern, and knowledgeability about the needs and challenges that are expected to face the nation in the future.

One enterprising high school senior in the nation will win a $10,000 scholarship as the top national prize in the Century III Leaders Scholarship Program. Two students from each state and the District of Columbia will win $1,500 scholarships and the opportunity to talk with national leaders in a conference at historic Colonial Williamsburg, Virginia. And, before the national winner is announced in Williamsburg, nine finalists will have earned $500 awards on top of their $1,500 scholarships. To state alternates from each state will receive $500 scholarships.

"We feel the program is very worthwhile for reasons in addition to the scholarships and the Williamsburg trip," said John F. Smith, principal of the school. "We are encouraging seniors to participate because the Century III competition is a fine way for youngsters to become more involved with the community and social issues."

According to Smith, the Century III Leaders is a national scholarship program open to high school seniors which emphasizes the future concerns of America. Students are initially judged on their leadership abilities, community involvement and current events awareness. The school winner is also required to write a brief projection outlining what he thinks is a particular issue America is likely to confront in the future and how such a challenge should be met.

The Century III program, which offers $218,500 in scholarships, is administered by the National Association of Secondary School Principals and funded by the Shell Oil Company.

Deadline for student submission of applications is October 13.

Handling people is downfall of corporate chief executives

NEW YORK (AP) — Ineptness in dealing with people is emerging in recent years as the fatal flaw for corporate chief executives, although a decade ago it was hardly even mentioned as a weakness.

The assessment comes from an analysis of top executive changes in the nation's 500 largest industrial concerns by Eugene Jennings, among other things a confidential adviser to presidents and chairmen.

A chief executive fired for "people ineptness" also has the most difficulty finding another job, Jennings found, mainly because he is branded as having a character deficiency nearly impossible to overcome.

Being fired for this reason was almost unheard of in the 1960s, said Jennings, who has spent more than 30 years studying corporations and executives, and who has written many basic volumes about them.

In recent years, he observes, respect for authority has diminished in the corporation as in some other institutions, while respect has grown for executives who lead by cooperation and team-building.

The problem isn't uncommon, and it isn't necessarily limited to the corporate institution. "If Jimmy Carter were a corporate president he'd get fired," said Jennings.

Jennings, a Michigan State professor, came to his conclusions after studying the annual 12 percent egression rate of top people in the nation's 500 largest industrial companies.

About half left involuntarily, he estimates, although various reasons were given for their departure. Jennings grouped the firings into six categories, of which people-ineptness was the most serious.

Such people, he said, cannot understand how to build a cohesive team or resolve conflict. In fact, they have "a marvelous capacity for offending everyone eventually, and then claiming they get no support."

When dismissed, such a person also spends the most time finding another job, takes the biggest pay cut, and is more likely than others to be forced into accepting a job at a much smaller company.

In contrast to being people-inept, those fired because of conflicts over corporate strategy, in effect because of their strong convictions, find little difficulty in landing on

Filibusters more commonplace today

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's getting so a senator has to get in line if he wants to stage a filibuster.

As the 95th Congress slogs toward its last hurrah, at least four filibusters are a very real threat in the Senate.

When Capitol veterans try to figure out why filibusters — or at least the threat of them — seem more commonplace these days, they often point to the more gentlemanly approach to filibustering that has evolved during the past few years.

They also note the time pressures members of Congress feel when they see election day closing in, as it is this year.

Opponents of the natural gas bill now being debated in the Senate are threatening to use their right of unlimited debate to hold the floor a block a final vote on it measure.

Lined up behind them a threats to try to talk to dea bills that would extend t deadline for ratification the Equal Rights Amendment, designate millions acres of Alaska as park a wilderness and implement $31 million settlement shipbuilding claims by tv defense contractors.

Talk is a cherishe pastime in the Senal chamber. And the filibust is honored as the minority defense against th majority.

However, the majority i not defenseless against filibuster. A limit can b placed on debate by invokin cloture, which requires th support of 60 of the 10 senators.

It all sounds very orderly but there's a feeling aroun the Capitol that something has gone wrong with th system.

Students of the rules, lik the late Sen. James B. Allen D-Ala., made a mockery o cloture by managing to prolong debate for days ever after the majority hac mustered 60 votes. An effort to tighten the rules to prohibit that was blocked. By a filibuster, of course.

In recent years, under majority leaders Mike Mansfield and, now, Robert C. Byrd, the response to filibusters has changed.

Filibusters no longer are like they were in the days of the late Lyndon B. Johnson when senators bedded down on cots and were jarred awake at any hour by quorum calls that sent them red-eyed and staggering onto the Senate floor to register their presence.

In those days the physical
