'A prescription for economic disaster'

Senate okays gas bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today broke the 17-month logjam on President Carter's energy program, approving and sending to the House a crucial natural-gas deregulation compromise.

The vote was 57-42. The bill, the product of nearly a year of difficult negotiations between Congress and Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger, would lift federal price controls from most natural gas by 1985.

Schlesinger watched from the gallery as the Senate, presided over by Vice President Walter F. Mondale, handed Carter his biggest energy victory since August 1977 when the House approved most of his original plan intact.

Just before the vote, Senate Energy Committee Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., told the Senate the compromise should end nearly 30 years of congressional haggling over gas price controls.

And, Jackson said, "it will provide the incentives for increased production," thus enabling the nation to ease its heavy reliance on imported oil.

But Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, one of the leading opponents, called the bill as "a prescription for economic disaster" which he said would disadvantage both consumers and gas producers.

He accused the administration of riding roughshod over the major consumer, farm and labor groups opposing the bill just to get a long-denied congressional energy victory.

"Some victory," Metzenbaum said. Passage followed an intensive lobbying campaign by the White House.

Administration officials depicted the measure as the most important surviving part of the energy program Carter submitted to Congress in April 1977 as the "moral equivalent of war."

In winning Senate approval for the compromise, administration forces overcame efforts of an unusual coalition formed to fight the bill.

It consisted of liberals who called the compromise too costly for consumers and conservatives who complained that it didn't deregulate gas prices quickly enough.

And the vote came on the anniversary of the first all-night Senate session in more than a decade — during a filibuster on an earlier version of the same piece of legislation that passed today.

Foes of the measure conceded in advance of today's vote that they would lose. They blamed it on the administration's all-out lobbying efforts.

Confusion may have caused disastrous plane collision

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The pilot of a passenger jet that collided with a single-engine plane in a cloudless sky may have thought he was past the tiny craft because he was confused by a second light plane, investigators say.

Phillip Hogue of the National Transportation Safety Board said that a twin-engine light plane may have played a part in Monday's crash that left at least 150 people dead when the Pacific Southwest Airlines jet and Cessna 172 crashed into a residential area. It was the nation's worst air disaster.

But Hogue emphasized Tuesday that investigators were nowhere near fixing blame for the crash.

"The only conflict I have at this moment is to determine if the PSA pilot saw the aircraft he collided with," Hogue said. "Did he see a third aircraft out there or did he see any aircraft at all?"

Hogue also said that the PSA Boeing 727 and Cessna were being controlled by the Lindbergh Field tower on the same radio frequency, contrary to testimony in Washington on Tuesday by Elwood Driver, acting chairman of the safety board. He said Driver might have received wrong information before identifying the planes were talking to different towers on different frequencies.

The small plane was practicing instrument landings and the jet was descending for a landing when they collided.

"It was virtually head-on," Hogue said of the crash.

Hogue said pilot James McFeron, 45, calmly reported his jet was going down as it plunged into the North Park neighborhood three miles from the airport. "We're going in," Hogue quoted McFeron as telling the tower in a soft voice.

If Lockheed fails to exercise option

Hanger rent to help pay debt

Members of the Big Spring city council and the Big Spring Steering Committee, meeting together in the Terminal Building at the Municipal Airport Tuesday, were in agreement that the 90,000 square foot hangar recently authorized could be rented for more than enough to make monthly payments should Lockheed Aircraft Service Co., fail to exercise its option to set up operations here.

Lockheed is entering into competition for a government contract to modify naval aircraft here. Winner of the pact will be announced in Washington Dec. 1. Should Lockheed set up operations here, it would pay an estimated $17,000 a month in rental fees over a period covering at least four years and ten months.

Should Lockheed move in, it's likely Big Spring's share of the debt on the original $300,000 it will commit to the project can easily be retired in less than five years. It was agreed that all rental fees collected beyond expenses needed to maintain the airport would be placed in escrow to pay off the debt.

Several other industries have expressed interest in such a building, including one or two planning expansions here. The structure would not stand empty in any instance — for example, it could be used as a place to store cotton.

Doyle Marshall of the General Services Administration's Regional office in Fort Worth and Bill Howard, Federal Aviation Administration, Albuquerque, N.M., were present for the Tuesday meeting.

Marshall said conveyance of the government property to the City of Big Spring would likely take place about Oct. 25, assuming that all the required surveying is finished. Marshall also traced boundary lines of property which would be included in the transfer.

The conveyance will not include the estimated 50 acres being embraced by the Federal Bureau of Prisons, which will be transferred directly from the GSA to the Bureau, nor does it include the former Webb AFB hospital, which could be transferred at a later date or which could eventually be used as a regional hospital for federal prisoners. That idea has been broached but not thoroughly explored. Harry Spannaus, Industrial Park manager, reminded the committee members present that time is becoming critical if the control tower is going to become activated in time to accommodate Lockheed. The aircraft firm said it would need the services offered by such a facility early late this year. Costs to make the tower operable might run as high as $3,000, Spannaus said.

McRee Building Systems of Levelland has been commissioned to undertake construction of the hangar, which eventually may cost as much as $1.8 million. The city has qualified for a $1 million EDA grant, which would go toward construction of the facility. Mayor Wade Choate and City Manager Harry Nagel both missed the meeting, the latter due to illness. Mayor Pro-Tem Polly Mays and County Judge Bill Tune presided.

Little car causes big accident

An unidentified "little yellow car" caused a major accident on Highway 87 south of Big Spring Tuesday.

An 18-wheel flatbed truck, unladen, and driven by David Perry, 24, Roswell, N.M., was northbound on 87. In the cab with Perry was Mark Mainwaring, Roswell, N.M., a fellow employee headed home from Sterling City.

According to Perry, at 3:20 p.m. the truck topped the rise before Co-manche Trail Park, and "there was this car in my lane coming right at me."

"I said, 'The hell with this,'" Perry recalled, "and swerved to my right. I don't remember anything about the car, not the color or the year or anything."

The young man glanced at his truck and at his fellow employee, lying half under a barbed wire fence in the rain, where he had been hurled from the skidding vehicle.

"My boss will kill me," he said, "but it wasn't my fault."

According to state troopers Ben Lockhart and Bill Jennings, an eyewitness at the scene confirmed Perry's story, and added the color of the car, and the report that it didn't even hesitate as it went over the hill at high speed.

Perry's truck jackknifed across the highway, leaving the pavement on the west side, skidded back across a culvert, throwing Mainwaring from the cab, and stopped in the middle of 87.

The injured man was treated for cuts and bruises in the Malone-Hogan hospital emergency room, and released.

Fishback named Coahoma chief

COAHOMA — Benny Ray Fishback has been elevated to the position of police chief in Coahoma, succeeding Joe Corey, Mayor Joe Swinney announced this morning.

Fishback has been a patrolman. His place will be taken by David Weaver. Corey, police chief here for the past eight months, quit to take a job in Kansas.

Bids for ambulance service to VA Hospital triggers fuss

By JAMES WERRELL Controversy flared Tuesday at the opening of bids for ambulance service to the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital.

Wayne Kohlenberg, director of Big Spring's Alert Ambulance Service, lodged formal protest with hospital officials and the office of Cong. Omar Burleson (D-Tex.) for what Kohlenberg alleges was improper handling of his bid.

Two sealed bids for ambulance service were received by the VA Hospital; one from Alert, and one from Big Spring EMS, which presently holds the contract.

"When the bids were opened, our's wasn't even read out loud, and I was given the impression that it wouldn't be considered," said Kohlenberg. "And if the EMS bid is what was stated, we (Alert) would be $42,000 cheaper."

Kohlenberg used estimated charges for patient pickup and per-mile ambulance use to come up with his comparison.

George Tarpley, chief of supply at the VA Hospital, when contacted today, stressed that no bid had been formally awarded, and that the situation would be reviewed by him, Dorothy Summers, the hospital's contract specialist, and Dr. Jack Margolis, hospital director.

"This will be reviewed here at least through this week. There are a lot of considerations that go into the awarding of a contract. For example, we are instructed by our head office to utilize minority-owned and small businesses as much as possible," said Tarpley.

The VA Hospital is under no obligation by law to accept the lowest bid on a contract, but rather to award the bid to the "best" bidder; the bidder who best meets the standards required by the hospital.

"I am also pretty upset that Mr. Kohlenberg went over our heads, to the congressman and to the press, before he bothered to contact us about his complaint," said Tarpley. In fact, Kohlenberg did not deliver his protest, in the form of a Mailgram, to local VA officials until today.

Burleson's office responded to Kohlenberg's complaint with a letter to the Office of the General Counciling in the Federal General Accounting Office (GOA) Washington, D.C. The letter outlines Kohlenberg's protest, and asks that Paul Dembling, general counsel, consider the matter.

If Dembling or one of his staff members determines that the protest should be reviewed, it will be sent to the Big Spring Control Unit of the GOA.

"We are concerned with the fact that the bid was lower, and wasn't considered," said John Haugen, caseworker for Burleson. "We sent a letter to the General Counsel's office, and instructed Mr. Kohlenberg to file a formal protest with the (Big Spring) VA Hospital, as he is required to do."

Haugen also stated that neither he, nor anyone from Burleson's office, has contacted or spoken with officials of the Big Spring VA Hospital, concerning the Congressman's actions.

Dollar weaker in Europe

LONDON (AP) — The dollar was generally weaker in Europe again today but rose slightly in Tokyo as foreign-exchange traders awaited the announcement later in the day of the U.S. trade deficit for August.

One London dealer said the markets were "more nervous than active." By contrast, the gold market was extremely active, with a heavy volume of orders to buy from persons hedging against more declines in the dollar.

London's five major bullion dealers fixed the morning price for trading in gold at $217.15, 60 cents below Tuesday's closing price.

Action / reaction: Hill(billy) advice

Q. What is the recommended way to park on a hill or sloping driveway?

A. When parking downhill, your front wheels should be turned to the curb. On an upgrade, the front wheels should be turned away from the curb. If there is no curb, your wheels should be turned to the right. Make certain your parking brake is pulled tight. If you have a vehicle with a standard transmission, put your gearshift in Reverse when parking downhill and Low when parking uphill. On automatic transmissions cars, place the shift in the Park position.

Offbeat: Conscience wins out

CINCINNATI (AP) — "There's a bad man out there with a conscience," said suburban Mount Healthy Police Chief George Hunt.

Hunt said last Monday there appeared to be a break-in at an office on the town's main street, but nothing was taken.

On Thursday, a letter arrived addressed to Hunt and his secretary. "Money for damage and expense to building at Main Theater. No theft intended. Stupid vandalism on 17 September '78," the note said in part. There were five $20 bills in the envelope.

"I've been a police officer since 1961 and I've never heard of anything like this before," the chief said. Hunt turned the money over to the building's owner to pay for repairs to a door.

"It wasn't $100 worth of damage, but who's he going to give the change to?" Hunt wondered.

TELLS OF NEW PLAN — Paul Gann, co-author of the Jarvis-Gann Prop. 13 fame, told reporters at a Sacramento news conference Tuesday of plans to put a government spending limitation initiative on the June 1980 ballot. Gann said the proposed constitutional amendment would put a spending limit on all state, county and city governments and school districts.

Crackdown on aid abusers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — HEW Secretary Joseph Califano Jr. says his department is forming "crackdown teams" to lower the legal boom on "notorious doctors" who use forged Medicaid forms to prescribe drugs to pushers.

Califano told the Commonwealth Club that Health, Education and Welfare Department fraud units are being set up in 16 states which accounted for 62 percent of Medicaid payments in 1977. He called the drug-purveying doctors "croakers."

Bed selling for $100,000

CENTRALIA, Wash. (AP) — The bed in which assassinated President James Garfield died, along with the remainder of the bedroom set, is up for sale. The price tag: $100,000.

Owner McCoy Looney says he can trace the set's travels from Garfield's death in 1881 to Ohio and then to Centralia. He says papers prove the furniture's authenticity. Looney is selling the furniture and most of his antique collection because he is "tired of guarding my house."

More may join talks

MIAMI (AP) — The special U.S. representative to the strategic arms limitations talks says as many as six other countries may join the nuclear arms race unless Russia and the United States succeed in their negotiations.

Paul Warnke's remarks came on the eve of renewed arms limitation meetings, the first of which is scheduled today at the United Nations Soviet Mission in New York. "Unless we and the Soviet Union can find some way to begin to bring our nuclear arsenals under control we can't indefinitely expect the other countries of the world to stay out of the nuclear weapons game," said Warnke.

18-year-old convicted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Melvin Yu has been convicted on five counts of first-degree murder and 11 counts of assault with a deadly weapon in connection with last year's gang-related massacre at Chinatown's Golden Dragon restaurant.

The 18-year-old Yu was the second of three triggermen accused in the incident in which five persons were killed and 11 were wounded.

Mansfield to receive special tribute at Post

Two Howard County residents will play major roles at the annual OS Ranch Roping and Art Exhibit, which unwinds Saturday and Sunday at the historic ranch 13 miles southeast of Post.

Toots Mansfield of Big Spring, holder of a record seven national roping championships, will receive a special tribute during the event.

Mansfield will be recognized Sunday during the steer roping climaxing the weekend event. The program blends the best in arena action with top-notch western art. Sales benefit the West Texas Boys Ranch.

A special attraction this year will be Ken Curtis, the celebrated Festus Haggin of Gunsmoke fame. Curtis will serve as arena director. The Texas Playboys will play during the Sunday barbecue lunch.

Jennifer Miller Knight of Big Spring will give a documentary entitled "Day for Decision." Her presentation will be followed by Curtis leading the assembly in the song, "America."

Jennifer is the wife of Jess Knight, a saddle bronc rider and a student at Howard College.

Jennifer, age 20, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Riley Miller of Justiceburg, Tex. She is presently employed by Malone and Hogan Clinic here as a medical secretary.

Saturday events at the OS Ranch start at 7 a.m., with jackpot team roping. There will be a cutting horse contest at 10 a.m.

An invitation calf roping starts at 2 p.m., and will feature 50 outstanding ropers from five states. That will be followed by a special roping match between Roy Cooper of Durant, Okla., and Phil Lyne of Artesia Wells, both national champions.

An old-timers breakfast at 8:30 a.m., begins the Sunday activities, to be followed by a brush arbor service at 9:30 a.m., 30 minutes after barrel racers begin the day's arena activities.

Breakfast, the church service and the barbecue lunch will be held in the chinaberry grove where plans for the organization of Garza County were made in 1907. Post, the county seat, was named for C.W. Post, the cereal magnate, who was a special guest at a picnic held to commemorate the event.

A historical marker to the famous picnic stands beside the OS Ranch House which this week will overflow with western art.

This year's souvenir catalogue carries a tribute to artist Tom Ryan, who helped arrange the art show.

Since the boys' ranch benefit began, more than $200,000 has been raised for the facility by the event. Gate fee this year is a $5 donation to the boys' ranch. A barbecue ticket costs $2.50.

Mansfield will be the third recipient of the OS special recognition award. A page in the 1978 catalogue will focus attention on Mansfield's roping feats and his penchant for helping people.

Mansfield was raised in Bandera but has resided in the Big Spring area for many years. He was one of the founders of the organization now known as the Rodeo Cowboys Association.

Chamber execs of West Texas to meet here

The 42nd Annual Conference of the Chamber of Commerce Executives Association of West Texas will be held in Big Spring in September, 1979.

The announcement was made by President W.L. Albright of Big Spring, at the annual meeting in Lubbock on Tuesday.

Rose Thomas, of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Convention and Visitors Bureau, successfully bid against Amarillo, Abilene and Kerrville for the conference. It was last held in Big Spring in 1971. Details will be announced at a later date.

Albright, who is executive vice president of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, commended Thomas on her efforts and credited the success to her.

"Ms. Thomas had five minutes to 'sell' Big Spring to the group, the same time allotted to the other cities making proposals," Albright said. "After the ballots were cast, Big Spring won the bid thanks to Mrs. Thomas' fine presentation."

Albright was succeeded as president of the organization by Colie Donaldson of Borger, but will continue to serve on the board for an additional year as past president.

Albright was presented a plaque commending his efforts for the past year.

Herbal tonic aids cosmonauts

MOSCOW (AP) — An herbal tonic has helped two Soviet cosmonauts become the first men to spend more than 100 days orbiting the Earth.

Guardianship trial snagged

A motion by nine children to declare Chon Rodriguez, owner of the Spanish Inn, incompetent was continued until Oct. 12 after a full-day of testimony Tuesday in county court.

The motion asks that Rodriguez and his wife be declared incompetent to cope with the management of his business affairs and personal resources, and that one of the petitioning children be appointed guardian.

The defendants' answer asks that, in the event the motion is granted, Rodolfo Rodriguez, presently manager of the Spanish Inn, be appointed guardian.

The motion will be ruled on by County Judge Bill Tune. There is no jury for this motion.

Falconaires to present big-band sounds Friday

The United States Air Force Academy show band, the Falconaires, will tour New Mexico, Texas and Kansas from 26-30 September. Concerts will be presented in Las Vegas, N.M., Lubbock, Lamesa, Big Spring and Liberal, Kan.

Capt. William R. McCamley, leader of the Falconaires, has selected an entertaining program for performance on the fall tour.

The Falconaires will present works ranging from the big-band sounds of Count Basie to the sounds of today, such as "Star Wars" theme and the theme from "Close Encounters of the Third Kind."

Soloists on the tour include saxophonist Technical Sergeant Bucky Asboth performing "All My Life," Master Sergeant Rick Crafts exhibiting his fantastic range and style with "Speakin' of Dave," Technical Sergeant Ron Foster performing his own composition "Portrait" on alto saxophone, Staff Sergeant Dave Bauer singing "On a Clear Day" and "Feelings" and Staff Sergeant Wayne Miller trumpeting his artistry on trumpet performing "My Ship."

Performances by the Air Force Academy Falconaires are presented as a public service by the Air Force Academy. All concerts are free and open to the public. Individuals wishing to obtain tickets to the free concert should call or come by the Big Spring Herald or the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce. The concert will be held Friday, September 29, 1978, at 8:00 p.m. in the City Auditorium.

Deputies no longer searching for couple of truck thieves

The Howard County Sheriff's department is no longer searching for a pair of thieves who stole two pickups trucks Friday night, along with an oilfield trailer.

According to Sheriff A.N. Standard, the second pickup truck was returned to Will Guthrie, who owned both vehicles. The first pickup was recovered after the duo wrecked it Friday on a road connecting Frosan and U.S. 87.

According to Standard, "We identified the parties responsible for the thefts, but the complainants did not wish to prosecute."

The trailer belonged to Bob Wash, Forsan.

Theories aired to area farmers

By MARJ CARPENTER

Close to 30 interested area farmers stood inside the Big Spring Experiment Station to keep out of the rain Tuesday to hear reports on how to grow better cotton during a drought.

But this is typical of West Texas and the problems which beset farmers. Most of them had either plowed under or planned to plow under a cotton crop plagued with problems of drought.

Jerry Quisenberry and Bruce Roark, United States Department of Agriculture, Lubbock, spoke on Dryland Drought Tolerance experiments.

Their theory is that in the early years of developing cotton, emphasis was placed on varieties that would grow well with irrigation or lots of rain.

They believe that some of the early types of cotton were discarded and might be more tolerable to drought. Their experiments at the Big Spring station are from some of the original lines brought back from Guatemala and Central America which they are testing for tolerance of drought.

It looks as though the experimenters may eventually come up with strains that will produce twice as much cotton during dry spells as the varieties now used.

Dr. Jerry Johnson and James Phillips of the Texas A&M Experiment Station in Lubbock discussed Dryland Millets. They showed that it is a more productive grain crop in a dry, sandy area than many of the grain sorghums now grown in this part of the state.

The local Experiment Station with Bill Fryrear and J.D. Bilbro as spokesman, talked about a skip row planting procedure test. Their tests have determined that alternating the two rows planted and the two rows resting on alternate years makes no difference to the crop.

However, they have determined that the production can be doubled by placing cotton burrs in the vacant rows rather than leaving them clean. They said this is due to the fact that less water evaporates.

They also did tests on growing millet, sunflowers, winter wheat and other crops between the rows.

Ken Lindsey, area agronomist from the Texas Agriculture Extension Service in Fort Stockton, Charles Neeb, area entomologist, and George Sultemyer also talked to the farmers. Lindsey discussed the cotton defoliation products available and Neeb, Sultemyer and James Lee, county entomologist, discussed the boll weevil habitat project now in progress in Howard County.

Others talking to the group included Tim Hall, Howard County, ASCS, executive director; and Ken Dawson, district conservationist, Howard Soil and Water Conservation District. The district also hosted a hamburger supper for the group.

Sponsors included the Howard County Rural Development Committee and the Howard County Crops Subcommittee.

"If it dries up, we can go back to alley pickup, but it's just too muddy now," he added.

Damage at park tops $10,000

Mexican Independence Day festivities costly

LUBBOCK — City Manager Larry Cunningham said Aztlan Park here was damaged to the extent of $10,000 during Mexican Independence Day festivities.

Cunningham said the destruction may mean new park regulations to protect taxpayers from having to foot the bill for similar situations in the future.

The damage to the park's sprinkler system, which occurred when cars were driven on the grass, would be substantial, Cunningham stated.

Cunningham said there was hardly any grass left in the area and that the soil had been pulverized.

Fiesta participants also left a large amount of unsightly trash in the park. The city manager also said fiesta organizers also agreed to provide their own security, yet no attempt was made to prevent the consumption of alcohol in the park — a violation of city ordinances.

Raul Sanchez, one of the fiesta's organizers, said he was unaware of any damages to the park, adding his people were not responsible if such a thing occurred. He added some of the damage likely occurred prior to the fiesta.

Deaths

Viva Burton

LAMESA — Graveside services for Viva Burton, 79, of Colorado City and formerly of Lamesa, will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in Lamesa Memorial Park with the Rev. Cecil Foster officiating.

Burial is under direction of Branon Funeral Home.

Mrs. Burton died at 6:30 a.m. Tuesday in Lamesa's Medical Arts Hospital after a long illness.

The Bowie County native had lived in Colorado City for the past 16 years, moving there from Lamesa where she had lived for 18 years.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Veesee Nance of Lamesa and Mrs. Martha Holman of Forsan; two sons, Howard and Henry, both of Colorado City; a sister, Mona Dennis of Missouri; a brother, C.M. Windsor of Yuma, Ariz.; 12 grandchildren; and 19 great-grandchildren.

Burial will follow in Lamesa Memorial Park under supervision of Branon Funeral Home.

Mrs. Dennis died at 7 a.m. Tuesday in Lamesa's Medical Arts Hospital after a short illness.

She was married to J.R. Dennis Aug. 19, 1919, in Haskell County.

Deaths

B. Lounsbury

Bessie Potts Lounsbury, 83, of 904 Redwood, Richardson, died in Plano, Tex., last Saturday.

Mrs. Lounsbury, who was born in Gonzales, Tex., Feb. 10, 1895, formerly resided in Big Spring. She was a retired registered nurse. Her husband, C.S. Lounsbury, preceded her in death in 1941.

Graveside rites were held at 3 p.m., last Sunday in Montvale Cemetery, Sterling City.

Mrs. Lounsbury had resided in Plano since 1977. Prior to that, she had lived in Midland. She was married May 20, 1930, in Manila, the Philippines.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Mary Jane Standifer, Richardson, Tex. Arrangements were handled by Harrington-Bratcher-Dickey Funeral Home of Plano.

Tot Lee Coen

BROWNWOOD — Last rites for Mrs. Tot Lee (Stalcup) Coen, 81, will be said at 2 p.m., today in the Morelock Funeral Home Chapel here.

The Rev. Stanley Wilson will officiate. Cremation will follow in the Restland Crematory in Dallas.

Mrs. Coen, a longtime Big Spring resident, died Monday morning in a Brownwood hospital.

Sweetwater maps ambulance buy

SWEETWATER — City commissioners here have voted to spend $8,750 toward the purchase of a new ambulance, half the amount needed to retire the debt. The other half will be furnished by the state.

The new van-type ambulance will be leased to Mercury Ambulance Service, a private concern. The ambulance will be delivered in about four months.

In other action, the commission voted to annex 13.64 acres of land, located north of the Union 76 station on IS 20, to the city. No one opposed the annexation.

Bonds posted by suspects

Two out-of-town arrests on Howard County warrants have resulted in bonds posted.

Anthony Eli Eaves, Ft. Worth, posted $5,000 bond on charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Louis Eugene Sprague, under indictment in Howard County for theft, was arrested in Snyder and posted $2,500 bond on the charge.

Also, Greg Posey, charged in Justice of the Peace Bob West's office, was transferred to the county today under $5,000 bond on charges of theft from White Auto Store during June, 1978.

Stanton budget to draw look

The Stanton city council will tackle a routine agenda Thursday night, and will probably return their ranks to full strength.

The only item, other than a public hearing on the 1978-79 budget, is the appointment of a councilman to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Stacy Payne.

OUTSTANDING SALES PERFORMANCE — Jack Lewis admires the plaque given him by Buick for exceeding the company-set sales objective on 1978 Buicks. According to official auto registrations, Buick is the number two selling auto in Howard County. "We're looking for a good year on the 1979s, but I'm not out solely for numbers of sales," Lewis said. "As long as I'm making a living selling autos and am giving good service to my customers, nobody will hear me complaining."

Rail strike causes auto industry layoffs

By The Associated Press

As travelers coped with the second day of a railroad strike that has crippled parts of 42 states, two major automakers announced layoffs due to parts shortages and, by one estimate, half the nation's average daily food shipments by rail were halted.

Two-thirds of the nation's railroads were brought to a virtual standstill Tuesday when a strike on behalf of a 4,600-member local in a dispute with a Virginia-based railroad was expanded to 43 other carriers.

The strike continued virtually in full force today despite injunctions issued by federal judges in at least 10 states as picketing members of the railroad clerks union defied the court orders.

The only small break came when the union dropped its picket lines against the Milwaukee Road, which announced it would provide normal service today to its 30,000 Chicago commuters. However, 70,000 other persons in the Chicago area who depended on two other strike-affected lines still faced huge traffic jams.

Industry spokesmen reported no other changes in the strike situation from Tuesday. They said in most cases local railroad officials were having trouble finding union leaders to serve with the court injunctions.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall scheduled a news conference today to outline the Carter administration's plans for trying to end the strike.

Sources who asked not to be identified said Carter was expected to refrain for now from declaring a national emergency and ordering rail workers back on the job, opting instead for stepped-up mediation efforts.

Congress traditionally has passed emergency legislation quickly to end any long strikes because of the devastating national impact they can have.

Pregnancy speech topic of experts

Speakers at the Permian Basin Planned Parenthood, Inc., annual meeting and dinner, Thursday, will be Drew Alexander, M.D., director of the West Dallas Youth Clinic and assistant professor, Department of Pediatrics, University of Texas Health Science Center, Dallas, and Margaret M. Bushong, pediatric nurse practitioner, consultant in adolescent health care, and nurse clinician, West Dallas Youth Center.

Both speakers are active in a variety of pediatric and adolescent health projects and sexual development programs in the Dallas area, including the Adolescent Medicine Clinic, Children's Medical Center, and the Adolescent Health Training Project. They will speak on the topic "Teen Pregnancy" at 8 p.m. following the dinner and annual business meeting in the Odessa Country Club Ballroom.

Nabar Martinez, Big Spring, president of the board of directors of Permian Basin Planned Parenthood, will preside at the business meeting and introduce special guests. Officers and new members of the board of directors will be elected. The meeting is open and the public is welcome to participate. The evening will begin at 5:30 p.m., with no-host cocktails. Dinner is at 6:30 p.m. and is also open to the public.

The Coahoma City Council will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the city hall for a regular meeting.

On the agenda for the meeting are:

He said Salt Draw was full and Cottonwood Draw was overflowing. An addition called the Lindsey Addition, with about 20 homes in the area behind the Drive-in Theatre on the Balmorhea highway, had people packing up planning to evacuate Tuesday night but when the rise halted, most of them stayed in their homes.

There was also high water in a ditch off Cottonwood Draw which crosses Eddy Street in a residential area.

'Extraordinary windfall' Renter now 'owns' apartment complex

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — All Terry Sundkvist wanted was his $50 cleaning deposit refunded. Now he "owns" the $1.5 million apartment complex where he once lived.

TERRY SUNDKVIST

Using his knowledge of small claims court, and a corporation's unwitting cooperation, the attorney was able to pay $449.31 at a county marshal's auction and receive a certificate of sale for the 95-unit Laura Dawn Manor.

The former owners, Sacland Investors, are trying to settle with Sundkvist so they can sell the complex. Sundkvist, now an attorney in Portland, Ore., says he has refused an offer of $10,000.

The firm also is disputing his claim in Sacramento Superior Court, calling the acquisition an "extraordinary windfall."

It all began in 1973, when the then 23-year-old McGeorge Law School student and his wife moved from their apartment.

Sundkvist says that when the manager said the cleaning deposit would not be returned although the apartment had been left clean, he wrote to the firm's legal agent, Patricia Lapan of San Leandro.

He says he received no reply. She claims she vaguely remembers instructing the manager he was not entitled to a refund.

On March 13, 1975, Sundkvist filed suit in small claims court, seeking $50 plus costs and $200 in punitive damages.

Mrs. Lapan was served with a summons May 4, 1976, but she ignored it, and on June 1, 1976, a default judgment of $312 was awarded to Sundkvist.

When he could not get Sacland to pay the judgment, Sundkvist requested that the county marshal's office auction off the complex to meet the court's judgment.

The sale was scheduled for Sept. 17, 1976, at the county courthouse and notices were sent to the parties involved. Only Sundkvist showed up and he was advised by marshals to bid for the property at $449.31, the amount of his judgment plus marshal's fees and interest. He got a certificate of sale of real estate.

title, but Sundkvist ignored the letters until the time for redemption ran out. The firm's lawyers offered Sundkvist more money to extend the redemption period, but his Sacramento lawyer, Clarence Brown, told them, "You're too late." "Anyone could have done the same thing," Sundkvist said. "It might have taken longer for someone not familiar with the procedures, but the avenues are there."

Weather Flooding Pecos forces evacuation

By The Associated Press
Flood water roared through Pecos early today as the rising Pecos River forced about 40 families from their homes.

More rain continued in Southwest Texas, but forecasters said it was light. But Pecos was expected to continue having problems with high water for about four days, forecasters said.

No one has been injured in the flooding, officers said. The Rio Grande crested at 26 feet at Presidio, about three feet below the tops of levees in the Presidio area. The flooding will move downstream along the Rio Grande.

Elsewhere around the state, skies were cloudy except clear skies were reported in northern sections of the Texas Panhandle and in the El Paso area.

Library's annual losses substantial

If a book store in our community lost 600 volumes in a burglary, the news might shock a lot of people but the Howard County Library suffers such attrition almost every year and friends of the facility accept the news as a sign of the times.

In an average year, that many tomes are borrowed from the library here and never returned. The incidence of loss might be even greater but for the fact that people with poor records for returning books have those privileges cut off unless and until they make good on their losses.

SOME PEOPLE, of course, keep books so long after checking them out that they become embarrassed. The sad fact, however, is that no one is charged more than $1 for being delinquent, no matter how long they keep them.

The library's record for recovering books has improved somewhat in recent months, thanks to help offered by the county attorney's office and the sheriff's department.

If a book is kept more than a month, the borrower's name is turned over to the county attorney and he makes an effort to recover the book. If no response is forthcoming after two months, the sheriff's office is notified and personnel in that office tries to retrieve the tome.

People who move from the area often take library books with them and the volumes are very hard to recover. It's next to impossible to start legal action in such matters against individuals who have moved into another tax district.

Earlier this year, librarian John Deats exacted a promise from a borrower who had moved to Oregon to return books estimated in value at $100 but the person reneged on his vow.

A borrower is considered delinquent at the library if he doesn't return a volume after three weeks.

ODDLY ENOUGH, the books most apt to be kept by library patrons are not best-selling novels but "how-to" manuals and those offering suggestions for test-preparations (usually for GED enrollees).

Considering the cost of books these days (some run as high as $30 and $40), the loss to the tax payers is substantial in a year's time.

Of course, some borrowers are forgetful. It's slipped their mind that they have library books in their possession. Those who can't remember should check their shelves and see if they have any on hand.

The library record for collections would improve substantially if even that group would take the time to run an inventory.

No wonder

Around the rim

Eileen McGuire

An Associated Press story recently warned that next year an average family of four can expect to pay $3.40 to $6.15 per week more for groceries. I'm still trying to catch up with 1978 increases.

I don't know how the rest of you do it, but in figuring out my family's food budget, I allow so much money for each member of the family. From the story I deduced that last year you could figure on spending about $15 per person per week. No wonder my budget hasn't been working! I've been clinging to a $10 per person estimate.

I BARELY squeaked through math classes in high school and somehow avoided them in college. How I passed economics, I'll never know, but I still get a headache when I try to decipher any reports on America's economic situation. Generally, I ignore them.

All I know about the situation is that when I was a bride eight years ago, groceries averaged out to around $5 to $7 a bag. Now, they average out to $10 to $12 a bag.

I see no big improvement in quality or quantity, yet toilet paper cost around 53c back then; now it's close to a dollar. That's inflation!

This morning, I became the victim of consumerism fraud. My son awoke with a headache so we had to stop for a bottle of children's aspirin before school. The only brand that the store carried was one I hadn't used since he was a toddler. The price had doubled, but so had the size of the bottle.

I didn't stop to read how many aspirins were contained within. Was I disappointed when I discovered that the amount of cotton had also doubled and there were no more aspirins in that bottle then they used to put in the little ones. The same sort of thing has happened recently with potato chips — the bag was mostly air.

I realize this is all rather depressing, so here's something on the lighter side of family life.

After a summer in Sunday school, my six-year-old son who is always in search of answers now has an ultimate reason for everything that happens, including the turnabout of weather last week.

THE RAINS began the day after I had my hair cut. When the sprinkling started, I noticed that Billy had left his bike out in the rain. I dashed outside to haul it up on the porch. Just as I reached it, it began to pour.

I had a difficult time getting it over the steps and by the time I did, I was thoroughly soaked. What was once a mass of carefully blow-dried curls now resembled something like wet spaghetti noodles.

Billy interrupted my resulting outburst of anger with a logical explanation for both the rain and my getting caught in it.

"Maybe God didn't like your hair, Mommy."

Sunday school has also made the chain of command very clear to Billy. According to his explanation of the order of things, our cat is in charge of our dog, four-year-old Lee is in charge of the cat, Billy is in charge of Lee, I am in charge of Billy, and only God is in charge of me.

His teacher and babysitters also have a place in the chain. They are on the same plane as me, but only count if I'm not around.

I'm not quite sure where my boss fits in, but it must be somewhere between myself and God.

Salt selling

William F. Buckley, Jr.

The other day, battling around the subject of Salt II with Senator George McGovern, I flushed out what emerges — I take — as the major paradox of the Salt Sellers as Paul Nitze, former arms negotiator, Secretary of the Navy, and defense specialist, refers to them. It is this: On the one hand, the Salt people give us, again and again, the argument of redundancy ("We have enough nuclear weapons right now to kill everybody in the world twenty times over" — is the standard version). On the other hand, they tell us that if we don't sign a SALT agreement, the Soviet Union will proceed in the next three years — I cite Senator McGovern's figures — to construct another 700 missiles.

THE QUESTION IS, why? Why would they build more weapons, having more than enough already? An examination of exactly that question is the beginning of wisdom in the consideration of the horribly complicated business of arms control.

The planted axiom is: the fewer bombs, the less danger.

But that axiom, persuasive, in the abstract, is not very useful in the current picture. If one could eliminate all weaponry with the exception, let us say, of bows and arrow, the scale of potential death in a world war would be greatly reduced. Although even then — a point not to be thrown away in disgust — it could easily be that there would be a world stockpile of arrows sufficient to kill everyone in the world twenty times.

Consider the converse proposition. Is it conceivable that to have more atom bombs is to have greater, rather than less security? Not only greater national security, but greater security against the prospect of having to fight a war in order to maintain that security?

It is precisely this point that such as Paul Nitze are in effect maintaining. Now to have more missiles does not necessarily mean to have more than the existing firepower. Consider: if you have one 1-megaton bomb, you have the firepower of one thousand 1-kiloton bombs. If (to argue ad absurdum) a country decides to arm itself with a single megaton bomb, you have — as they say — put all your eggs in a single basket. An aggressor would need only to take out that one bomb and you would be defenseless. If, on the other hand, you opted for one thousand 1-kiloton bombs, you would still have a bomb strong enough to eviscerate large cities, but it would require 1000 direct hits to put you out of action.

It is the perception of those who oppose the direction in which we are headed under Salt II that we will be effectively prevented, by a protocol which will take us into 1981 but would instantly be the basis of any Salt III negotiations (the Russians would insist on the continuation of the protocol) from taking advantage of that proliferation of weapons that would discourage the Soviet Union from its current, relentless pursuit of a counterforce capability.

EVEN IF WE DID not increase the number of weapons we now have, we would achieve substantially the same deterrent effect by the simple expedient of (brace yourself) "MAPS — ALPSING" then. The acronyms are jargon for increasing the potential number of aiming points. The equivalent is that of entering, pistol in hand and with intent to kill, a totally dark room, and hearing the voice: "Drop that gun, I've got you covered!" — and not knowing where that voice is coming from, in what direction to fire your pistol. If we multiply by five or even ten times the number of silos, and if we keep moving our Minuteman from one silo to another, by random schedule, the Soviet Union cannot know which silos they would need to take out in order to take out our principal deterrent force.

Schooltime is head lice time

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My child came home from school with head lice. We were so embarrassed. He is a very clear little fellow and no one in our family ever had them. Can you write on this problem? Are there good non-prescription products that can be used? — Mrs. K.E.

I trust that by now you have your general under control, yet the problem subject bears discussion. Head lice have received a great deal of attention lately, and with school back in session, a rise in the number of cases is no doubt already occurring. Some preparations are by prescription, others over-the-counter. The pharmacist can recommend one.

There were, according to one study, about 5 million cases of lice infestation in the U.S. last year. That compares with only about a quarter of a million in 1963. This is shocking when one considers the health problem posed. The figures are not reliable because they were based on the sales of lice remedies. The actual figures could be much higher.

There were some surprising facts emerging from the study. Female cases outnumbered male by almost 2 to 1, yet short hair was no absolute preventative. About 27 per cent of head lice victims were males with short hair.

It was thought that elementary age children were the most vulnerable. However, only about a quarter of the cases were in children age 11 to 16. The southeastern U.S. seemed more susceptible. The Northeast was the only area showing a decline in cases in the year.

Body lice, considered rare in this country, was mentioned by a surprising number of community health officials who answered the survey. Body lice is a different type, the kind capable of carrying diseases.

Early detection and treatment is still the best defense. Parents should cooperate in control programs.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes curvature of the spine? Is curvature of the spine hereditary? — Mrs. L.M.C.

Curvature of the spine stems from many causes. It may be present at birth (congenital) or acquired through various diseases. Poliomyelitis, which may cause weakening of back muscles on one side, can produce it. There may be an infection in the spine. Injury can lead to it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You mentioned that exercise can help young girls who have menstrual cramps. How about older women? Can exercise make a difference for them, too? — Mrs. P.A.

Exercise can help older women as well. My reference was to young girls who engage in athletics being less likely to have menstrual discomfort. I don't expect middle-aged women to begin running track or playing basketball. Just keep physically active. Bicycling can help. So can a regular program of calisthenics.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How does the nitroglycerin get into the body to help angina pectoris attacks? I know what it does to the blood vessels and all. But I always wondered how it gets to the vessels to help if you only put it under your tongue. — Curious.

Nitroglycerin is readily and rapidly absorbed through the mucous membrane. Put under the tongue, it spreads through the body in a matter of minutes.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you tell me about beef marrow? Does it have any nutrition value? There is no reference to this in my cookbooks — H.S.C.

I have no figures on this, but it is high in calories because it is rich in fat. The fat produces the oily effect when bones are boiled.

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer, individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor: I would like to share with you what I experienced this morning after taking my son to school. I turned South on Birdwell and stopped at the crosswalk so a school child could cross the street.

The people traveling north on Birdwell were thinking of other things apparently because the first two cars didn't even slow down at the crosswalk to see if it was occupied. I thought surely if the next driver did not see the child (who was in full view), surely they would see that my vehicle was stopped and do likewise.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I recently had a close call with death in an automobile accident. Now the thought of death terrifies me. Can you help me overcome this? — R. T.

DEAR R. T.: Probably, you are afraid of death because you do not know what lies beyond. It is natural to fear death, but God has given us the means to overcome this fear, and to know definitely what is beyond the grave.

The Bible tells us that death is not only an end, but a beginning — a beginning of a new dimension of life in eternity. We were created by God, and we bear His image and His nature. We are not just physical beings, we are spiritual beings as well. "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul" (Genesis 2:7). Because you bear the image of God, because you are a living soul, death does not end your existence.

The Bible also tells us that we have rebelled against God. We have sinned and we are under the judgment of God. Unless something is done about our sin and guilt, we will go into eternity separated from God. This is hell.

But God loves you, and does not want you to be separated from Him. He loves you so much that He sent His Son into the world to take away your sin. Christ redeemed you by paying the price of His own life on the cross. By accepting God's offer of eternal life by faith and trust in Christ, you can be saved. You can know, on the basis of God's Word to you, that you will spend all eternity in Heaven with God. I urge you to invite Jesus Christ into your life. Tell Him you want Him to cleanse you of your sin as you confess it and turn from it, and ask Him to live in your heart. He will.

Wise guys winning

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — The federal law enforcement apparatus appears powerless to cope with organized crime, whose ominous growth has reached crisis proportions in America.

If the Mafia were suddenly to incorporate its assets and revenues would place it close to the top of the Fortune 500. The mob has mushroomed into a $50 billion empire, with the money and muscle to challenge city and state governments.

The syndicate bosses control the illegal drug flow into the United States. They direct the back-alley commerce in pornography, prostitution and gambling. They have also invested billions of dollars in such legitimate enterprises as real estate, hotels, restaurants, construction companies and liquor stores.

NOTORIOUS MAFIA figures also hold key positions in some labor unions, thus giving sticky mob fingers access to lucrative pension funds. All the crime syndicate's endeavors, of course, are attended by bribery, violence and murder.

In all too many localities, the corruption of politicians and police has rendered law enforcement relatively ineffective against organized crime. It has fallen on the federal government, therefore, to battle the underworld. It's an intense struggle, with the good guys pitted against the wise guys. Sadly, the wise guys are winning.

Two years ago, the General Accounting Office charged that the "war on organized crime is faltering." The campaign, declared the study, "is not planned, organized or directed efficiently."

But there is more behind this federal failure than common inefficiency. Under ex-President Richard Nixon, the Justice Department was more enthusiastic about enforcing the laws against street crimes than the rackets. This strange reluctance to pursue the criminal godfathers reached such a stage under ex-President Gerald Ford that several organized crime strike forces were disbanded.

Now the Carter administration is bringing new vigor to the subterranean war against the crime syndicate. But the crackdown will never be successful, as we have pointed out in past crime reports, as long as the populace patronizes the rackets. For it is the American people who provide the substance that the Mafia needs to spin its spiderweb.

EVERY PAYOFF to a bookie, prostitute or pusher strengthens the mob and subsidizes lawlessness in this country. The General Accounting Office has concluded that "consumer demand for organized crime's goods and services provides billions of dollars of income each year."

All federal lawmen can do is to throw an occasional running block in the path of a dangerous crime lord. They recently got a break which has turned a notorious Mafioso into the most important underworld witness since Joe Valachi.

This inside informant is 63-year-old

Aladena Fratianno, known in crime circles simply as "Jimmy," whose life is now better protected than the president's. For every hit man in the murder business would like to collect on the contract that the crime chiefs have placed on Fratianno's life. As one source close to the case told our associate Marc Smolonsky, Fratianno's information could "bring them all down."

Years ago, the Chicago Mafia dispatched Fratianno to help protect its crime operations on the West Coast. The FBI believes Fratianno was the Mafia's chief West Coast executioner. He has performed 15 alleged killings that the FBI has heard about.

HE IS MOST celebrated in the underworld for allegedly knocking off Frank "Bomp" Bompensiero, once a fearsome figure on the West Coast. Bomp was killed for violating the Mafia's most deadly taboo: he was slipping information to the FBI.

He had tipped off the FBI about mob shakedown of pornographic operators in Los Angeles. Allegedly applying the squeeze were some of the ugliest customers in the West Coast underworld — Michael Rizzitello, Louis Tom Dragna, Thomas Ricciardi, Jack LeCicero, Dominick Brooklier known on the streets as "Jack Regace" and, of course, Bomp and Fratianno.

Bomp kept the FBI informed on the shakedown. There was one porno operator, for example, who paid a $20,000 tribute to the mob for the privilege of staying in business. For betraying such confidences to the FBI, Bomp was efficiently rubbed out, it is alleged, under the direction of the ruthless Fratianno. Now it is Fratianno who is talking to the FBI and watching over his shoulder for a Mafia hit man.

Fratianno jumped sides after a Cleveland racketeer, Ray Ferrito, began singing to the FBI to save his own skin. One of the big names he mentioned was that of Fratianno. Meanwhile, the FBI learned about a murder contract on Fratianno for plotting against his syndicate superiors. The FBI used inside information to persuade Fratianno that his life wasn't worth a plugged nickel if he stayed on the streets.

So Fratianno, under indictment on racketeering charges and facing execution by his underworld bosses, began squealing. He filled in details that his erstwhile victim, the late Bomp, had omitted about the porno shakedown. The FBI built a strong case against the Los Angeles mobsters, even setting up its own undercover porno business to gather the proof.

The investigation led to indictments against Fratianno's ex-associates, an indictment that has been dismissed but, according to insiders, will be renewed.

Swiss on shopping spree

BASEL, Switzerland (AP) — Christmas is still three months away but many Swiss are on a shopping binge that is worrying businessmen in this city, reputedly the wealthiest in the Western world.

Retailers are concerned because bargain-hunters from Basel and a growing number of other Swiss realize spectacular savings are in store if they spend their francs across the border, in neighboring West Germany or in France.

Switzerland is a small country geographically, and it would be as if most U.S. shoppers realized they were only miles from tremendous savings in some neighboring country.

As both the German mark and the French franc — along with the dollar and all other currencies — are plunging almost daily to ever new lows against Swiss money, the buys were never better for the Swiss, statistically proven to be the thriftiest people on earth.

"I would be crazy if I middle-aged Swiss housewife as she fed a parkometer in Loerrach, a West German border town of 35,000 about a 10-minute ride from here.

Loerrach, where the flow of Swiss-licensed cars is causing traffic jams almost every weekend, has become a favorite shopping place for Basel citizens. The French town of St. Louis is equally close but the buying there is chiefly for food and wine.

With the average monthly salary of a sales clerk now at 3,753 francs — $2,470 — the Swiss have impressive purchasing power in the two neighboring countries where salaries — and prices — are now roughly about 30 percent lower.

Often, the bargains are much better than even the average price gap. Three bottles of Scotch cost a Swiss buyer in Germany as much as a single bottle of the same make costs in Switzerland.

Two pounds of steak bought in France — the maximum allowed per border crossing — cost a Swiss about $10.45 across the border and $20.90 at a local butcher.

A German-made hi-fi in Loerrach costs $846, compared with $1,257 for exactly the same model when bought in a Swiss store.

For a German-made washing machine, the difference is even more staggering: $445 in Germany, $913 in Switzerland.

Cheating customs would be silly because even with taxation, the savings are still substantial.

The most tempting bargains are cars. Switzerland, where there is one car for every three inhabitants, has no auto production of its own. Dealers are reluctant to pass up huge profits, thus the potential economy for a "private import" is impressive.

A BMW 528 that carries a $18,500 tag in Switzerland costs $2,950 less when the buyer imports the car directly from Germany.

The savings are comparable on new cars brought privately from Italy or France where some German cars are even cheaper than in their homeland because of taxes.

Producer companies have instructed French and German dealers not to publicize the advantages of "direct importing" — the bringing in of the car by the individual buyer — in order not to hurt their Swiss dealers. But word of the windfall opportunities has been spreading, and recently Swiss newspapers have started publishing lists comparing the prices.

Price cuts of up to 8 percent during the past few weeks in Switzerland have not stopped the trend, although direct imports still make up only a fraction of total Swiss car sales.

Trustees plan Runnels tour

A special meeting of the Big Spring school Board of Trustees will be held Thursday at 11:45 a.m. in the Runnels cafeteria.

Trustees will eat lunch in the cafeteria and then tour Runnels Junior High School.

No action will be taken by the board at this session.

Adult education meets Thursday

An organizational meeting of Texas Association for Continuing Adult Education will be held at 6 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 28 at the Howard College Learning Center.

All past and present adult education students are encouraged to attend this meeting to start this new organization.

Gets doctorate in sexuality

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Stephen Sloan is believed to be the first person in the country to receive a doctorate in human sexuality.

He received the degree in September, 1977, from New York University where a program that offers a Ph.D. in human sexuality was established in 1970. A lot of people started through the program before he did, he said, but most were part-time students, and he was the first to finish.

Dr. Sloan, 28, who has been doing some counseling work here, said his primary interest was in counseling the handicapped and the elderly, and in teaching.

Vance, Gromyko open negotiations

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko reopened negotiations today that may determine whether a new treaty to limit the nuclear arsenals of the two superpowers can be completed by the end of the year.

The two men planned two days of meetings, beginning in the late afternoon at the Soviet Mission to the United Nations and continuing Thursday morning at the U.S. Mission.

U.S. officials said after Vance addresses the General Assembly Friday, the negotiations probably would be shifted to Washington on Saturday with President Carter taking charge.

Last October, speaking in Des Moines, Iowa, an optimistic Carter forecast completion within weeks of a strategic weapons limitation treaty that would be "the pride of the country."

Now, 11 months later, the agreement remains elusive despite three rounds of Vance-Gromyko negotiations since April and Carter's intercession last May.

There are a number of issues in dispute. Chief among them is "modernization," how many new missile systems the two governments will be allowed to build and how many they will be allowed to improve for the duration of the treaty, until 1985.

Paul C. Warnke, the chief U.S. arms negotiator, outlined the latest American bargaining position on a two-day visit to Moscow earlier this month.

Gromyko will convey the Kremlin's response to Vance. There has been no tip-off to it, although Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev in a speech last week and Gromyko in a speech to the General Assembly Tuesday expressed hopes for completing the accord.

"The distance between the positions of the two sides is not all that great and is quite surmountable, given good will and state wisdom," Brezhnev said.

Gromyko said a new agreement "is equally needed by the Soviet Union, the United States and the world at large." He said he hoped forces favoring a treaty would prevail in the United States.

After speaking for about an hour, the 69-year-old foreign minister became ill and slumped against the speaker's desk. He was helped from the podium but returned 55 minutes later to complete his speech.

U.N. spokesmen said he

No market for grapefruit wine 'They're beer drinkers' Texas wine maker says

PROGRESO, Texas (AP) — The Queen is dead.
Queen Citriana — a noble attempt to turn grapefruits into wine — succumbed to a combination of red tape, a spectacularly unsuccessful first batch and a poor market.

"Texans are not wine drinkers. They're beer drinkers," said Billy Drawe, the Rio Grande Valley farmer who made and bottled Queen Citriana. "They want something that'll give them a little kick."

In 1971, amid a series of crop failures on his farm here, Drawe decided the world was ready for a low alcohol, grapefruit table wine. He bought the equipment and opened the state's second existing winery.

The experiment ended March 11, 1977 — leaving a trail of broken bottles and dead alfalfa.

"We had some pretty good wine in the barrels," Drawe, 55, said of the initial batch of Queen Citriana.

The first inkling of doom came after the wine was aged for a year. Drawe went looking for appropriate bottles and found there was a glass strike.

"We bottled it in an ugly looking bottle. Nobody liked the bottle and nobody liked the label," he recalled.

And, six months later, nobody liked the Queen.

"It turned rancid. The color and flavor changed," he said.
So Drawe, a proud man who lives by his word, bought the wine back from the stores.

"I bought back $30,000 worth of it trying to hold onto my reputation," he said.

Drawe learned from his mistakes. The second batch of wine, he said, was good.

But he found winemakers to be an unforgiving lot.

"We had many unsatisfied customers from the first year," he said. Among the unsatisfied were the distributors. No one would handle the Queen — despite an attractive new bottle and label.

Drawe's problems were further complicated by a bout with cancer.

"I damn near kicked the bucket and I figured why waste all that money I didn't have in the first place," he said.

So, shunned by the supermarkets and unwanted by the distributors, the Queen died.

"We ended up with a good wine. We failed in marketing. Queen Citriana had such a bad reputation," the winemaker lamented.

For awhile he had thoughts of making the winery on his farm here into a tourist attraction. But state law prohibited selling the wine on the premises. Now he is looking for a buyer for the equipment.

"I've had about 10 suspects, a couple of prospects but no buyers," he said over a glass of grapefruit wine.

Drawe remembered that closing the winery was about as hard as opening it.

"To stop the wine permit we had to sell or destroy all the wine," he said, adding that he had 20,524 gallons on hand.

Selling it, he realized, was not a feasible solution.

"It used to be on the shelves next to those 99 cent pop wines. What do you think they're going to drink...those hippies," he said.

Drawe kept about 100 cases "for posterity." The taxman made sure he paid 34 cents per gallon.

The remainder of the wine wound up in the Mercedes city dump and Drawe's irrigation system.

State and federal witnesses watched as Drawe supervised the city dump operation. A tractor mashed thousands of gallons of bottled wine into the dump.

"The Caterpillar got stuck and the driver nearly got drunk from the fumes," he recalled.

The wine that wasn't carted off to the dump was poured out on the farm here.

"It killed three acres of alfalfa," Drawe whined.

She's Stuck With Live-In Freeloader

DEAR ABBY: Who should pay for what in a live-in type relationship?
The female is divorced, has two children and is on welfare. The male is well-to-do, with a good steady job. Should the rent and food expenses be divided?
In this case the guy pays no rent and is living in her home.

THE FEMALE

DEAR FEMALE: In any kind of relationship, the assets, liabilities and responsibilities should be shared 50-50. And if you're the female living on welfare, you (and the taxpayers) are supporting the guy who's living with you.

You might consider living with this free-loading, well-to-do creep just long enough to confirm a common law status (under recent court decision), and then sock it to him!

DEAR ABBY: You answer to that 16-year-old who felt that girls expected him to make a pass on the first date fell short. The kid said, "On the first date, I feel no irresistible urge to make out with her or even kiss her," and you said, "Most girls prefer the slow approach."

Why didn't you tell him that the only right time to kiss someone (or to make love) is at the precise time when the urge is irresistible? If it happens on the first date, you're in business. If it hasn't happened by the 15th date—don't kiss her just because you think you ought to. Admit the fact that the chemistry is wrong in the relationship, and then either go on enjoying her company on that basis, or end it on that basis.

If everyone just followed their inclinations—or didn't act when the inclinations weren't there—there would be a lot less stress, guilt and resentment between the sexes.

I am a 45-year-old divorcee, and believe me, most middle-aged men don't seem to understand this any better than 16-year-olds.

W.C.M.

DEAR MS. M: The rules for kissing, dating and making love are vastly different for 45-year-old divorcees and middle-aged men than they are for 16-year-old boys on their first dates!

I still say, the slow approach is preferable for kids. They may feel like making out (or making love) on the first date, but they lack the experience and maturity to handle it.

DEAR ABBY: This evening while working in my yard, I noticed the very pretty little neighbor girl—about 6, wandering up and down the street in nothing but her panties.

A few months ago I saw this same little girl and her older brother struggling to get a heavy band instrument from the bus stop (three blocks away) to their home, so I stopped and offered to drive them to their home. They accepted gladly. I assumed they knew me. Once in the car it became apparent that I was a stranger to them!

Abby, please remind parents that it is their duty to instruct their children never, never to get into a car with a stranger.

Says magazine for teens

Increased responsibility will reduce unwanted pregnancies

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The 1970s have seen an epidemic of teen pregnancies in America, with one million pregnancies occurring each year among 15-to-19-year-olds, and 30,000 among girls under 15. This means that ten per cent of U.S. teens get pregnant each year with six per cent giving birth.

"Individual stories of these unwanted pregnancies may vary, but all those concerned have one thing in common — the need to resolve who is responsible for what no one wanted," observes writer Judith Wax in October's Seventeen Magazine.

"It's important, then, to reexamine the mistaken attitudes that can cause these unhappy circumstances, to ask such questions as 'What should a sexually active girl expect from her partner in the way of accountability?' and 'What does she owe herself?'"

It's the unfortunate truth that many teen-age boys feel pregnancy is entirely a girl's responsibility.

"Studies show that the vast majority of teenage boys only pay lip service to responsibility for pregnancy," says Gail Cantor, a Planned Parenthood counselor of pregnant teens. "They may sincerely say they can be depended on if something goes wrong, but rarely do they stick around if a girl gets pregnant."

Statistics show that although more teens are sexually active than ever before, more than half of America's teens have not had intercourse. In fact, more and more young women, realizing the risks involved, are discovering the right to say no.

As one female college freshman says, "A lot of us have misunderstood what liberation is all about. I

"Very few boys are sensitive to what a girl has at stake," confirms a male teen counselor. "There's little emotional understanding on their part. Most of the guys I talk to say things like, 'No matter how much I pressure a girl, she doesn't have to have sex with me.'"

Among those teens who have decided to have sex, studies show that the usage of contraception has increased in recent years. Nevertheless, teens still have a long way to go toward achieving responsible use of birth control.

It's interesting that the one safe and effective method of birth control that divides the responsibility between both partners — condoms used in conjunction with vaginal contraceptive foam — is often rejected by teens because "it's not spontaneous." But then, neither is childbirth, abortion or raising a child.

Statistics show that although more teens are sexually active than ever before, more than half of America's teens have not had intercourse. In fact, more and more young women, realizing the risks involved, are discovering the right to say no.

As one female college freshman says, "A lot of us have misunderstood what liberation is all about. I mean, what's liberated about always being available? I finally realized that I didn't owe anything to anybody but myself."

One of the ways a boy can be responsible is by trying to understand this "No" and respect it. And a girl who is responsible won't give one message when she really means another.

Overall, there's no simple answer when it comes to questions concerning responsibility. But as Rhonda Alter, a former peer counselor at a youth health service, suggests, "One of the first responsibilities anyone has is to his or her growth as a person. In a good relationship, responsibility begins the first time you say hello to each other."

Fall fashions, hair styles borrow softness from 50's

CHICAGO (AP) — Fall's figure flattering "V" silhouette is fashion's biggest change in recent years, with wide padded shoulders in the '30s styles of Joan Crawford, or like Lauren Bacall in the '50s.

The "new waist" looks small in wide leather belts or double wrap sashes, pants are pared down to a straight "cigarette" style, and skirts hug hips and thighs often with a slit up the front or side.

Hairstyles adapt to the "executive suite" look, too, with subtler, more controlled styling, according to the Helene Curtis Hairstylists Advisory Board.

The overall effect of fall '78 hairstyles, according to Don Hill of Los Angeles, is that "novelty is out. People want a refreshing look, hair that's attractive, prettier and more natural. The frizz and 'mechanical' looks are changing into softer, more classical styles."

To set the stage for attractive hair, advisory board members agree that Leslie Caron length short layers and pixie look curls play a leading role this fall.

Brenda Longhofer, of Louisville, Ky., explains, "Hair's going to be shorter, cut closer to the head to reflect the slimmer fashion shape."

Instead of tight, all over curls and "unfinished" styles, Michael Swiger of Phoenix, Ariz., sees "lots of waves, curl and movements looser and a little more controlled," with an assortment of hair textures in contrasting straight and wavy sections.

Waves range from a

Veronica Lake "dip" style for longer hair to John Dellaria's "rippled" effect of delicate, smooth curls molded close to the face. The trend setting Boston hair dresser's "Quasar" collection for fall features short, curly looks, banged and multiple layered for softness. His light, easy wear, closer to the head hair fashions reflect the sophisticated '50s look.

'Bug' problem stumps expert

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D

Dr. Wallace: I'm 10 and I have to share a bedroom with my 8-year-old brother who bugs me.

When I buy candy, he grabs it and pops it in his mouth. Once he and my cousin used my camera to take a picture of a vacuum sweeper. Whenever I read, he talks.

My parents won't let me move to another room. What should I do? — Tim, Scottsdale, Ariz.

Tim: Wow — you do have a problem and I honestly can't help you solve it. But I will ask my readers to help. If anyone can help Tim, please send your solution to me in care of this newspaper and I will pass it on to him.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 16, and about three months ago my boyfriend and I "went all the way" for the first time. It won't happen again, believe me, because I consider myself lucky. I'm not pregnant and we didn't use any protection.

My problem is my mother found out and whenever I go on a date with any boy she calls me a tramp, a pig, and other names I'm embarrassed to tell you.

I admit that I was wrong in what I did but what is done is done. Do you think I deserve these names? Am I a tramp? — Gina, Newark, Ohio

Gina: No, you do not deserve to be called names and by no means are you a tramp. Mother is doing this because she has been hurt deeply by your "mistake." But, she is definitely wrong.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a sophomore at a Catholic seminary high school but I get embarrassed when people ask what high school I attend. Guys give me the cold shoulder and girls are turned off.

They all want to know if I'm going to be a priest. My peers don't understand how boys can live without girls. Girls aren't everything in life. Are they? — Dennis, South Gate, Calif.

Dennis: Ask some of the older guys in your high school how they handle the same situation. Of course, girls are not everything in life. Are they?

Send questions to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 25-cent stamped large self-addressed envelope to Dr. R. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

Going down the street

with Marj Carpenter

This house, which was going down the street this week being moved to the Tubb Addition south of town, was at one time a rent house on the back of a lot owned many years by S.I. (Sam) Cauble.

It was located facing E. 8th behind the house on Eighth and Johnson.

The last person to rent it was Mrs. Winifred Greenless, widow of a Presbyterian preacher. She stayed there until one day in 1972 when she fell and had trouble getting to the telephone for help. She then moved to Midland.

Rick and Pam White purchased the house and have moved it out in the country where they had it placed behind a large mesquite tree that looks as though it may be 25 years old. "The tree and the house look well together," Pam said this week.

"We have already fixed the front porch and while propping up the back porch before it was moved, the movers found a sign lying under the back porch which said 'Rooms.' We are keeping that sign. I think at one time, the front rooms were rented in the house," she continued.

The last person to live in the front house which is now being renovated at 8th and Johnson was the late Lad Cauble, who was killed when

AN OLD CAUBLE HOME
... there's several of those hit by a car while leaving a funeral in 1973.

The present owner of the house on the front of the lot is Bonnie G. Shaw. He purchased it from H.C. and Frances Hock. Hocks purchased it from Jess C. Cauble and Olive Rogers Cauble.

It had been sold in 1975 to Olive Rogers Cauble by Billy Jack Cauble, Richard Lad Cauble and Doris Eulene Cauble Hood.

Quite an interesting legal document is included in the abstract telling a little Cauble history since there was no probated will at the time S.J. Cauble died.

The house out back was purchased by Sam Cauble around 1929 and moved from the corner of 7th and Runnels near the old portion of the Presbyterian Church. It was moved a block and a half by original town of Big Spring. They did not sell their investment until 15 years later when on Jan. 13, 1902, they sold all of lot one to E.L. Tidwell for $75.

On the following year, Tidwell doubled his money and sold the lot to Weldon Bennett for $150.

During that same year in December, Bennett sold it to Frank Winn for $350. So somebody was making a little money.

The Wynn's, Fran and Lavenia, apparently built front house on the front of the lot and in 1918, on April 30 sold it to S.I. Cauble for $345 in cash and $3,000 in three notes.

After that, the property remained in the Cauble family until the Hocks purchased it in 1976. And S.I. Cauble moved the second house to the lot.

In the meantime, out in Tubb addition, the Whites are quite excited about renovating the house. They plan to open up the attic and put a bedroom upstairs. The downstairs has four large square rooms plus a kitchen off the back.

It's another of the historic local homes being saved — and it's now out in the country south of town. It's still in Howard County it is being preserved and it is probably a very content home being renovated as it nestles behind a beautiful large mesquite tree — out where I ride fence.

Taxpayers picking up tab for unwanted Puerto Ricans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The surplus Puerto Ricans are gone now, most flown home at Uncle Sam's expense, and growers in four Eastern states are smiling again because Jamaicans are picking their apples. The situation might be funny if it weren't so sad and costly.

A critic called it "The annual Shenandoah Valley Follies, a not very amusing production."

This season's follies script goes like this:

Hundreds of Puerto Ricans are brought to New York, Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland to fill specific requests for apple pickers; they're rejected by growers who prefer Jamaicans; they languish in camps, if available, or in motels until they are sent home without ever plucking a Red Delicious or a MacIntosh — except perhaps from the dining room fruit bowl.

Of course, taxpayers pick up the tab which, by statistics compiled last Friday, had run $246,687 for rooms, meals and air fares.

To get Puerto Ricans to the orchards, the government advances transportation money and is reimbursed by growers after a worker has completed 15 days. Thus, each Puerto Rican who couldn't find work, costs the government $122 round trip under group rates.

Jamaicans, who are British subjects, get loans from banks at home under a similar reimbursement scheme.

The apple harvest in the four states lasts 6-8 weeks, beginning in early September. Growers can request Jamaican pickers after the Labor Department certifies that workers can't be found in the United States — including its territory, Puerto Rico.

"The growers have a distinct preference for foreign workers," says Aaron Bodin, chief of the division that certifies that Jamaican pickers are needed to fill manpower orders.

"Foreign workers are more highly motivated," he says. "A Jamaican can earn in six weeks picking apples as much as he can earn in Jamaica in a year. Growers placing their orders for Jamaicans can specify they only want male workers and that makes housing easier. They can ask for those in the prime work age."

The Labor Department estimates a Jamaican picker can average about $168 a week — a gross of $1,008 in six weeks with only $4 a day for meals as expenses. A World Bank economist said the minimum wage in Jamaica is $14.50 a week, or $756 a year.

JAMAICAN APPLE PICKER — A Jamaican apple picker, one of 350 employed in the Auburn, Me., area, empties his load into a bin at West Breeze Orchards. Jamaicans are preferred over the hundreds of Puerto Ricans brought up at taxpayer expense.

Hiring a Puerto Rican, by contrast, means more bother and less profit. Orchard owners must contribute 6.05 percent to Social Security and withhold income tax.

The growers oft-stated claim is that Jamaicans pick better. Some growers gave the Puerto Ricans a few days' trial, reported them incompetent and asked for Jamaicans. Labor Department figures Friday showed 838 Puerto Ricans hired, 656 fired — some more than once. The total still employed was 217; returned to the islands were 558.

Researcher David S. North once labeled the Jamaican worker "a virtually indentured servant... a worker without rights."

Testifying last year, North said: "Every year the department raises the ante, at least on paper, in terms of the hourly wage to be paid. Every year the growers complain mightily; every year an effort is made to recruit resident workers; every year it fails and every year the growers are rewarded with failure by being given the foreign workers they had wanted all along."

Eager for Jamaicans, growers have found various ways to avoid hiring Puerto Ricans. In past years, Puerto Rico has set conditions beyond federal law for its workers, and growers have been reluctant to enter into contracts. This July the conditions were lifted, but growers claimed they weren't sure they had been exempted.

The result: a new delay in hiring Puerto Ricans.

Bodin said everything went smoothly through this year's 60-day recruitment period ending in late August.

Pardee remembers Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — It was 1972 and the Washington-Dallas rivalry was never any hotter. And Jack Pardee, the new Washington coach, found himself right in the middle of a controversy as a linebacker for George Allen's team. Dallas wide receiver Lance Alworth dogged Pardee all day with crackback blocks that finally sent Pardee limping to the sidelines. Later Washington retaliated and a Charley Taylor block put Cowboy linebacker Chuck Howley on the bench for the year. Pardee has despised the Cowboys since that day. And the topic came up again Monday a full week before the once-beaten World Champions travel to Washington to play the unbeaten Redskins in critical National Conference Eastern Division game.

"I didn't think it (the crackback) was a very good tactic at the time and I still don't," said Pardee in a telephone hookup with Dallas writers. "I'm not all that fond of the Cowboys. However, Dallas is great competition."

Dallas Coach Tom Landry refused to be drawn into a six-year-old controversy. "Oh, Jack just wants to be sure his team is in the right frame of mind when we play them Monday night," said Landry. "We have a great rivalry. When you are in Washington on a Monday night it's an interesting spot to be."

Pressed on the point, Landry said "I'd like to beat them."

Landry said of Pardee "He has a good memory. That crackback thing was back in 1972. That's history."

Landry added "Jack is using the crackback right now. It's legal above the waist and ours was too back when we were using it."

The defending World Champion Cowboys trail the unbeaten Redskins by a full game in the National Conference Eastern Division and Landry said "We've got to beat them if we are going to do any good."

"It's too early to call it a must game because the division will be won in the last part of the season. You've got to be within striking distance after eight games. I'm sure they (The Redskins) feel good about the game. They can lose it and still be tied."

SPOT PAIGE DOUG ARCHER RANDY CREGAR LELAND KEY PEPPE GARZA

Third "Above the Call" winners named

The third week of area high school action produced four new "Above the Call" winners, with only one player making a return to the growing list of outstanding Friday night gridiron performers.

Big Spring Steer mentor Ron Logback singled out the noticeable all around performance of offensive guard defensive end Doug Archer in the Snyder game. Doug has done a good job blocking in the last two games, and also earned this week's award due to his defensive play. Logback said that Doug showed a lot of stamina in the late stages of the loss to the Tigers. Coahoma's Spot Paige takes home the honors for the Bulldogs this week. Playing both ways as a fullback and safety, Spot had "a good game in all phases", according to coach Roy Winters. Spot's kicking was also a most definite plus for the Red Machine, as he successfully converted a field goal and an extra point in the narrow 10-9 Bulldog victory over Crane. Winters also added that "his punts kept us out of the hole all night". The biggest Wildcat of them all, 220-pound Leland Key wins the adulation of Grady coach Richard Gibson. The center-noseguard graded out over 90 per cent offensively and was a big asset in opening up some huge holes in the Wildcat rout of Highland. Defensively, he was responsible for 11 unassisted tackles, two of which were quarterback sacks.

Forsan's Randy Cregar is the first repeat performer of the young season. The senior halfback scored the Buffaloes only touchdown in the loss to Robert Lee when he raced 82 yards to paydirt. He was also recognized by coach George White for his 13 tackles and 38-yard punting average. The Forsan coach also had words of praise for Rusty Henderson.

Peppe Garza, 180-pound offensive and defensive tackle, wins the award for Garden City this week. He made nine assisted tackles and one unassisted tackle in the Bearkats loss to Klondike. Coach Jesse Smelley singled out Garza "primarily for his punting." Peppe punted six times for a 42-yard average.

The Stanton defense was outstanding in the Buffalo decision over McCamey. Coach David Thompson said he could not single out any one individual, so he listed the entire defense. Stanton limited McCamey to only two first downs, one of which came by a penalty, and a total offense of 80 yards. Sharing the honor for the Buffaloes are Chuck Straub, Ralph Tarrango, Charlie Phillips, Mitch Elmore, Miles Tollison, Gabriel Romero, Keith Hall, Gary Douglas, Bobby Mims, Loye Eubank, Freddie Silva, and Ernie Byrd.

OFF TO A FLYING START — St. Louis Cardinals Willie Shelby (30) is upended by an unidentified Dallas Cowboys' defender as he returns the opening kickoff against the Cowboys Sunday afternoon. Dallas tight end Jav Saldi (87) rushes in to make sure Shelby goes no further. Although St. Louis led through the half at Texas Stadium, Dallas scored two fourth quarter touchdowns to win the game, 21-12.

NCAA probes Memphis State

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association has asked Memphis State University officials about alleged recruiting violations involving a former football player.

In a letter to university President Billy M. Jones, the NCAA asked specific questions that NCAA investigators have raised about recruiting two years ago involving Ralph Griffin, a former Tiger football player from Louisiana. "The university has received a report from the investigative arm of the NCAA relating to the Ralph Griffin incident," Jones said in a prepared statement Tuesday. "The report asks the university to respond to certain questions."

Jones declined comment on the nature of the questions, saying it was NCAA policy to make no comment.

The investigation, however, reportedly grew out of an incident that began with a one-day boycott by 22 black athletes in October 1976. The next day there were rumors

Griffin, a highly regarded linebacker from Baton Rouge, had been promised a series of money payments for his mother if he would sign with the Tigers.

The payments reportedly were made by persons outside the university and were subsequently stopped, prompting Griffin to leave the football squad.

Although players and MSU athletic officials refused to discuss the boycott, it was reportedly staged in sympathy for Griffin, who had quit the team a week earlier.

WINS SUIT — A federal judge has ordered the New York Yankees to allow women sports writers into the locker room and find other ways of insuring the players' privacy. The suit had been brought by Melissa Ludtke (above) of Sports Illustrated. The ruling was issued Monday.

Women, Bosox chase Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees are being chased by the Boston Red Sox ... and a bunch of women.

Not the usual baseball groupies. Rather, they are newswomen who invaded the Yankees' clubhouse Tuesday night following a court ruling ordering baseball's locker room doors opened to all accredited members of the media regardless of sex.

Five women were in the Yankees' dressing — and undressing — quarters. They included four television reporters — one from as far away as upstate Schenectady, N.Y. — and one writer from a New Jersey newspaper.

"It's enough to make me come out of retirement," quipped former catcher Fran Healy, who ended his active career earlier in the season and became a broadcaster.

Some players like Sparky Lyle and Reggie Jackson weren't bashful about disrobing and parading around the clubhouse as if only male members of the media were present.

"It's not a very comfortable situation," said relief pitcher Rich Gossage. "They don't belong here. As athletes, we feel this is a pretty private place for us. It's a place to get away from people and be comfortable. If a woman is able to handle it professionally, I guess it's okay, but if they're gonna stand around and watch you undress ..."

"Where are they when you need 'em," third base coach Dick Howser asked with a smile. "When you need 'em, you can't stir 'em with a stick. Now they're all over the place."

Pitcher Ron Guidry, who rarely gets excited, shrugged it off.

"They've gotten into everything else," he said. "But if I walked into their locker room they'd probably have an epileptic fit."

Pete Sheehy, who has been in charge of the Yankees' clubhouse for more than 50 years, said that a woman in the clubhouse was unheard of in the old days.

Hangin' out

By NATHAN POSS

Ah, the glamour of pro football. When the Dallas Cowboys meet the Washington Redskins next Monday night, many of the local fans were planning to check out John Thomas Smith, former Steer and North Texas State star. I'm sure they wouldn't exactly cheer for the Redskins, but just hope that John looked good.

But pro football can at times be the epitome of the cutthroat. John was released last Friday by the Redskins after playing in three games, all of which Washington won. He was replaced by the former great Arkansas running back, Ike Forte.

I talked to John yesterday on the phone, and although he never said anything in a negative way, one could tell he was somewhat disappointed. After surviving all of the pre-season cuts, most people would assume that John had the team made for the year. In point of fact, John explained that he missed the final waiver date by 12 days, which comes in the first week of October. Which means if a player is on the team at this date, he must be paid for a full season.

John, who was always a most versatile athlete, had made the Redskins squad with the help of his all-around abilities. In an NFL depth chart that ran across my desk, he was listed as a back-up to wide receiver Frank Grant, safety Jake Scott, and a punt returner. He was listed as ranking ninth in the league in the punt return department, returning four for 33 yards. His longest was a 12 yarder. Teammate Tony Green, another rookie, had overshadowed him by leading the league with seven returns and a plus 20-yard average. Not bad company!

The Redskins have been tabbed in recent years as a bunch of meat and old men, but John said they were really nice people. "It's a real close team. Some may be old, but they're still doing the job." He also said the Redskins have an excellent chance of beating the Cowboys.

So last week when a Redskins running back was injured, Forte was summoned and John was out of a job. Now he says "all I can do is wait and hope that someone picks me up." When asked if it mattered whether it be the NFL or Canada, John said he would go with whom ever calls.

He said that his inexperience was probably the main reason he had been released. He felt that he was as good as the other backup wide receiver, but the receiver coach had been reluctant to use him due to his inexperience. But one obvious asset that could help him get picked up by another club is his ability to play offense, defense, and the specialty teams.

I had hoped to run a story on John as a preview to the upcoming Monday night game. I mentioned it to him, and he said he had really been looking forward to the game. But I guess that's life. Just hoping that he gets another chance soon.

ON THE MOVE — John Thomas Smith, in college days for NTSU, returning a punt against the SMU Mustangs.

Tom Sorley, who combined for many completions with John Thomas during their senior year at OSU, is in the news. In statistics released by the University of Nebraska, Tom leads the Cornhuskers after three games in passing and total offense. Sorley has completed 28 of 50 tosses for 383 yards. That comes out to a very respectable 56 percent completion rate. He has been intercepted three times and has two touchdown strikes. He has also rushed 27 times for minus one yard. The negative yardage is due to quarterback sacks. Sorley also leads the Huskers in scoring with 14 points. Nebraska is on the road this week for a regionally televised game against the University of Indiana.

An interesting note caught attention in reading the Nebraska depth chart. Four of the offensive starters are from Texas, more than any other state, including Nebraska. Three of the starters hailed from District 5-AAAA. They are Sorley, tight end Junior Miller of Midland Lee, and Kelvin Clark, an offensive tackle from Odessa High. Clark, a 275-pounder, was an honorable mention All-American last year. He is also the strongest player ever to wear a Nebraska uniform.

Niekro brothers duel; Bucs gain

By the Associated Press
Joe Niekro had a bittersweet victory over his brother, while those Pennsylvania blood brothers, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, moved a little closer together in the National League East.

Joe Niekro of Houston beat Phil Niekro of Atlanta 2-0. Joe's third victory in five fraternal decisions, keeping Phil from winning his 20th game. Both knuckleballers said they had a trouble getting a grip on the situation Tuesday night.

"I don't like to face him if I don't have to," said Joe Niekro, whose 13th victory in 27 decisions kept the Astros from falling below the Braves into the NL West cellar. "We both do our best to win. I don't think it's as tough on him and me as on the folks backhome."

"I want to see him win 20, but I want to win as many as I can, too. Phil feels the same way."

Meanwhile, it appears the four-game, season-ending weekend set in Pittsburgh

Royals clinch West; Yanks, Sox win

By the Associated Press
The crowd of 3,662 rose to its feet at Memorial Stadium in Baltimore as left-hander Mike Flanagan faced Cleveland's Gary Alexander for what is hoped would be the final out of the first no-hitter by an Orioles' pitcher since 1969.

Then, almost in unison, they sat down when Alexander launched his 26th home run of the season into the right field bleachers.

"The pitch," Flanagan explained after the 3-1 victory Tuesday night, "was not really where I wanted it."

But it was just where Alexander wanted it. "He'd been getting me out with curve balls all night," said Alexander, who connected on a 2-1 pitch, "so I was looking for the curve ball. If he had thrown me the fast ball inside, I probably would never have swung. But it's hard to second-guess him now."

Flanagan, 19-14, may well do enough second-guessing himself. After Alexander touched home plate, he gave up singles to Ted Cox and Duane Kuiper, then was replaced on the mound by Don Stanhouse, who preserved the triumph for Flanagan and recorded his 23rd save in the process.

Meanwhile, the American League's top East Division teams remained one game apart with five games to play while the Kansas City Royals clinched their third consecutive AL West title. The Yankees beat the Toronto Blue Jays 4-1 behind Ed Figueroa, while Boston ace Dennis Eckersley carried the Red Sox to a 6-0 victory over Detroit.

The Royals beat the Seattle Mariners 4-1, while the Oakland A's blasted the Chicago White Sox 10-3, the Minnesota Twins downed the Texas Rangers 6-2 and the California Angels nipped the Milwaukee Brewers 4-3 in 10 innings. The game marked the fourth time since August 9 that a Baltimore pitcher has carried a no-hitter into the seventh inning.

Davis Cup picks Ashe, Davis

NEW YORK (AP) — Spurned again by Jimmy Connors, U.S. tennis officials unexpectedly chose veterans Stan Smith and Arthur Ashe for the team that will meet Sweden Oct. 6-8 in the Davis Cup semifinals.

The Swedes were optimistic. "I think this looks a bit easier than we thought," Swedish captain Martin Carlstein said Tuesday in Stockholm. "I am surprised at the American team selection. I did not believe that Arthur Ashe and Stan Smith would be picked."

Neither did a lot of other people.

But American captain Tony Trabert chose the 35-year-old Ashe and the 31-year-old Smith, along with Vitas Gerulaitis and Dick Stockton, to face the strong Swedes, led by three-time Wimbledon champion Bjorn Borg.

In so doing, he went ahead without Connors, the U.S. Open titleholder, who ignored an invitation to join the team. "We never got a reply from him," said Trabert.

Connors, the United States' top player, has not played Davis Cup since 1976, when he lost in the decisive match to Mexico's Raul Ramirez.

Completing the U.S. team are Brian Gottfried and Bob Lutz, a doubles specialist who has teamed well with Smith in the past.

Ashe, a former Wimbledon and U.S. Open champion who appears to have recovered from a nagging heel injury, and Gerulaitis probably will play singles. Smith and Stockton, both powerful servers and volleyers, are expected to handle the doubles assignment.

Ashe routed Gottfried 6-2, 6-4 Monday night in the final of a $200,000 tournament at Los Angeles.

Joining Borg in singles and doubles for Sweden will be 6-foot-6 Ove Bengtson. Also on the Swedish team are Kjell Johansson and Tenney Svensson.

Borg has won 26 Davis Cup matches in a row.

The Swedes and Americans will meet in a best-of-five series in Goteborg, Sweden, in a 12,000-seat indoor arena with a medium-fast surface.

The winner will face either England or defending champion Australia in the Cup final.

DOWN DEFENDING CHAMP — Dick Stockton, Carrollton, Texas, returns today of Butch Walls, San Jose, Calif., at the Cow Palace last night. Stockton defeated Walls, defending champion in the Trans-America Tennis Open 6-4, 6-4.

Dante goes AWOL

HOUSTON (AP) — Disgruntled Houston Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini went AWOL from Tuesday's workout following criticism of his play selection in a 10-6 loss to Los Angeles but Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips expected everything to be ship-shape today.

"I think Dan knows that 44 individuals are more important than one and what is best for the team is for him to come back," Phillips said.

Pastorini's action followed a series of events in which Oilers offensive coordinator Ken Shipp had criticized Pastorini for one play he called and Phillips announced that he would start calling the plays in clutch situations.

Phillips said he met with Pastorini Tuesday morning and Pastorini told him that he would not be at the workout.

The Oilers start putting in their game plan today for Sunday's divisional battle against Cleveland. So far, Phillips said, Pastorini's absence hasn't meant much.

"What we do on Tuesday you can stick in your ear," Phillips said and review film.

Phillips said Pastorini, who could not be reached for comment, was just upset at losing the game.

"I know that kid as well as I know anyone and right now his feelings are really hurt," Phillips said. "I've never seen a great one that didn't get upset when he lost."

"I don't think he resents the fact that we're going to send in some of the plays as much as he is upset that we lost the game," Phillips said.

"I think if we had won the ball game, none of this would have come up."

Phillips said the Oilers actually wouldn't be making any drastic changes in their play-calling. It will amount more to a suggestion.

YOUNG IDEAS

By DICK YOUNG

World Series set to open on high Jewish holiday of Yom Kippur eve, Oct. 10. Baseball biggies wrestled with problem for two months, but decided to go with it because alternative to that Tuesday night opener was following Saturday, Oct. 14, considered too late. Says Bowie Kuhn, Catholic, "Sports events are held on Christmas, Easter, Good Friday. Personally, I won't go to a movie or ball game on Good Friday, so it remains up to the individual and World Series games on Yom Kippur are not new. You'll remember Sandy Koufax not pitching that day."

At this moment, 65 big leaguers are unsigned and eligible for free agency, but most are small fish. Among bigger names are Pete Rose, Willie Stargell, Jim Barr, Al Bumbry, Jim Slaton. Also in there somewhere is Jim Bouton. Furniture merchant trying to put syndicate together to purchase A's and keep them in Oakland doesn't seem to have much chance. In order to meet Charley Finley's asking price of $12 million, buyer wants to put up nine, get 2 million subsidy from AL, and 1 million loan from Oakland Stadium authority. As one AL owner put it: "Charley isn't so unpopular that we're willing to pay $2 million to get rid of him." Actually, Lords of Baseball are more anxious to unload city of Oakland than get rid of Finley.

Remember the umpires' strike that ended with temporary injunction after one day? Legal briefs have been filed with federal judge in Philly. His decision can be expected momentarily. It is believed he will uphold no-strike clause, thus assuring that ump's will not walk out during playoffs and World Series. Meanwhile, NLRB is due to rule on umpires' union grievance. Labor board could order owners to open negotiations on five or six items, including request for summer vacations. It is interesting to note that during original bargaining, two years ago, ump's asked for one-week vacation, and negotiated it away for another gain. Now they are asking three weeks — and will settle for less.

Raiders' notorious forward fumble, wherein they played paddleball with loose football until it was nudged over goal and recovered to steal game from Chargers, will lead to much needed ban on such things. I long have campaigned for rule that would return ball to point of fumble. Why should a team benefit from making a mistake? Colleges have rule which bans forward fumble on fourth down only, inside 10-yard line, but that's not enough. Pete Rozelle concedes it is impossible to read minds for purpose of intent, and therefore expects rules change to come up at annual meeting in March. Meanwhile, NFL must suffer with this bad situation for entire season — so you can expect more hanky-panky.

Here's what has happened to U.S. dollar: After 1974 season, Mets toured Japan. Each player received $5,000 plus expenses if single; $3,000 if wife accompanied. Reds making same trip this year will get $7,500 single; $4,500 if wife goes — plus an exchange adjustment on yen between now and then. Dave Garcia, fired as Angels manager, will be back coaching with a big league team. Smokin' Joe Frazier lip-synched National Anthem at Superdome before big fight, in case you wondered, and he did it better than lot of big-time entertainers.

If Yankees and Pirates get into World Series, and Dale Berra comes up in 9th with score tied, which way will Yogi be rooting? Big Eight has offered to pay all legal costs if district attorney will prosecute fan charged with assaulting official at Kansas U. football game. That's interesting precedent. More such firm action, with attendant publicity, will cut down undisciplined crowd activity.

Former Green Bay running back Jim Taylor, now prosperous New Orleans biz man, still carries resentment against Sam Huff his leg-twisting nemesis in those violent Packer-Giants games. Taylor calls Huff overrated.

Catfish Hunter rates Hall of Fame on character as well as performance. In good times, in terrible times, and again in comeback times, Cat has been a model of deportment — never big-headed, never bitter, never self-pitying. Just a farm boy with acres of innate class.

Teo Stevenson, the Muhammad Ali of Cuba, makes long-awaited U.S. appearance when Castro's Clouters, alleged amateurs, come into Madison Square Garden, Oct. 6 Jimmy Clark, from Westchester St. College in Pa., takes on the big guy. In 1975, Clark licked Soviet champ Igor Vysotsky, who twice beat Stevenson. Too bad we can't put Spinks in against Stevenson. Leon qualified as reborn amateur with his pawing, wild-swinging, back-handing demonstration against Ali.

Here's Mets' luck: Other teams go into free-agent market and come up with 20-game winners or ribby-leaders. Mets gets Tom Hausman, who comes up with ulcers.

Little's decision pays big money

CALABASAS PARK, Calif. (AP) — Sally Little realized three years ago that it was time for one of those major life decisions — whether to give up golf and go back for her native South Africa or to devote herself completely to the tour.

She chose the latter, and it has paid off for the striking 5-foot-8, blue-eyed blonde. Little's earnings on the Ladies Professional Golf Association circuit this year — her best — are nearing the $80,000 mark, and she ranks in the top 10 on the money list.

Little, a 26-year-old who now lives in Dallas and says she plans eventually to become an American citizen, is one of the favorites in a $100,000 tournament beginning Thursday at Calabasas Park Country Club.

"I wasn't doing all that well on the tour and decided that if I was going to be a success, I'd have to give all my time and energy to golf," she said. "I'm kind of hard-headed, don't give up very easy, so I threw myself into it."

"I've come back from a couple of operations, and I feel better this year than I have since I joined the tour in 1971," she continued. "I'm playing more tournaments, and I'm playing better."

Little said adjusting to life on the tour and a new country was a challenge for her at first, but added that she gradually grew to feel at home with both.

"It was quite a transition for me," she recalled. "I had a lot of close ties in South Africa. The style of life here isn't all that different, but it took some adjustment for me. One thing I like about it here is that women have a very good chance to go out and be successful."

DALEY MARATHON VICTOR — Mark Stanforth, of Phoenix, Ariz., is accompanied by Cynthia McKenzie after crossing the finish line to win the Mayor Daley Marathon Sunday in Chicago. Stanforth completed the 26.2-mile course in 2:19:20.

MIXING IT UP — World Boxing Council heavyweight champ Larry Holmes (R) and Jody Ballard of Houston, Texas mix it up during a three round exhibition fight in Miami Beach, Fla. Tuesday night. Holmes also fought another three-rounder with Luis Rodriguez.

Permian Panthers crack Top Ten

By the Associated Press

Odessa Permian and Highland Park, a pair of playoff-wise Class 4A teams, returned to The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll this week while Grapeland, ranked No. 1 in A last week, won the game but lost its top billing to the Farmersville Farmers.

Temple in 4A, Huntsville in 3A and Mount Vernon in 2A held onto their No. 1 rankings while Grapeland fell into second place when 11 first place votes compared to Farmersville's four.

Grapeland and Farmersville went into last week's games ranked 1-2 in the state with unbeaten records and in weekend games, Grapeland beat Westwood 26-14 and Farmersville knock off Kenedale 34-7.

But when the AP's panel of sports writers and sportscasters cast their weekly ballots, the Farmers had outpointed the Sandies 184-168 in total points.

Ten points are awarded for first place votes and nine for second place. The Farmers moved into first place based on 14 second place votes compared to only two for Grapeland.

Temple, Garland and Arlington Lamar continued their stranglehold on the top three positions in Class 4A but LaPorte, Houston Forest Brook and Abilene Cooper tumbled from the unbeaten ranks.

Forest Brook and Abilene Cooper dropped from the top 10 and LaPorte fell from No. 6 to No. 9 after losing to Houston Stratford, ranked sixth this week.

Odessa Permian, 3-0, and Highland Park, 2-0, replaced Cooper and Forest Brook as the Nos. 9 and 10 teams.

Permian's Panthers, who perennially reach the playoffs with rock-hard defense and just enough offense, have undergone a personality change — suddenly they are offense minded rolling up a 3-0 record by a composite score of 101-19 over the opposition. Highland Park, meanwhile is 2-0 and won't have to wait long to test its new rank. The Highlanders meet defending state champion Plano, currently ranked No. 5, this weekend before a sellout crowd of 13,000.

Gregory-Portland lost for the second straight week to a 4A team and Kilgore lost to Palestine among the 3A ranks. Unbeaten Pecos and Kerrville Tivy are their replacements in the ninth and 10th positions.

Breckenridge, No. 6, Wills Point, No. 8 and Bellville, No. 10, suffered losses among the 2A ranks and only Breckenridge remained in the poll as the No. 8 team.

Wills Point, which lost to Quitman, and Bellville, formerly ranked No. 1, was beaten by No. 6 Cameron. Sealy and Childress moved in as the Nos. 9 and 10 teams this week.

Charlotte, No. 8 and China Springs, No. 10, were Class A upset victims. Charlotte dipped to the No. 10 spot this week and Lovelady, 2-1 with only a 25-23 loss to No. 2 Grapeland, replace China Springs in 10th place.

Browns ink Calvin

BEREA, Ohio (AP) — "I think I can still play," veteran running back Calvin Hill said after coming out of retirement to sign with the Cleveland Browns Tuesday.

Browns Head Coach Sam Rutigliano concurred. "How much does Cal have left?" Rutigliano pondered the question and replied, "I don't know, but I don't think the tank is empty. He's a bright, classy guy, and I think he'll help."

Hill, who once starred with the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League, was signed to replace the injured Tom Sullivan. He is expected to see some action in the Houston game Sunday at Municipal Stadium.

Hill was made rookie of the year for Dallas in 1969. He went over 1,000 yards rushing in 1972 and 1973 and is 16th on the NFL all-time rushing list, with 5,567 yards.

With the Washington Redskins the last two seasons Hill saw limited action, and he left the Washington training camp last summer after six weeks.

"I thought that I had enough football," said the 6-foot-4, 228-pound back. "Then when the season started and I went to several games, I got the itch to play again. I began inquiring around and discovered some interest in me."

He said he talked to several clubs, including the Browns and the Los Angeles Rams.

"I wanted to get into a winning situation and where I could help," Hill said. "I liked the opportunity here. The Browns are one of the top teams in the American Conference."

Hill, who tried out with the Browns last week, said he hasn't done much "in the way of exercise except for some tennis since leaving the Washington training camp."

"I was there for all the two-a-day drills and feel I'm in pretty good shape for a guy who has played nine pro seasons."

As for learning the Browns' system, "this is my fourth pro team, and they all have pretty much the same offense except the plays have different names and numbers," Hill said. "It's a matter of learning the terminology and getting into the football condition."

With Sullivan knocked out by the knee injury against Pittsburgh Sunday and Greg Pruitt also nursing a knee injury, the Browns were down to three backs — Mike Pruitt, Cleo Miller and rookie Larry Collins.

Grandparents Day' praised

NEW YORK (AP) — National "Grandparents Day" was officially celebrated two weeks ago, but a weekend tribute to grandfathers and grandmothers here proved a natural for politicians.

The cast: the nation's "First Grandmother" and the state's "First Grandfather" — Lillian Carter and New York Gov. Hugh Carey.

They were among nearly 10,000 great-grandparents, grandparents and grandchildren who turned out for a celebration in the Bronx.

Mrs. Carter, grandmother of 15, great-grandmother of four and mother of the president, turned aside a question on her favorite grandchild. "All 15," she said. "You know we don't have any favorites."

And Carey, who is campaigning for re-election and a grandfather of two, father of 12, said: "Try it. You'll like it. It's good being a grandparent."

Powell trial goes to jury

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The capital murder trial of David Lee Powell, one-time high school valedictorian accused of machine-gunning Patrolman Ralph Ablanedo, today goes to a jury that must decide which psychiatrist to believe.

State District Judge Tom Blackwell gave jurors the afternoon of Tuesday so he could prepare his charge and so attorneys could polish final arguments.

Powell, 27, faces death by lethal injection if the jury convicts him and finds he would present a continued danger to society if allowed to live.

Ablanedo, 26, was riddled with at least 10 shots, fired machine-gun style from an AK-47 automatic rifle, about 12:40 a.m. on May 18. He had stopped Powell's car for improper paper registration tags, then learned Powell was wanted on a petty theft charge.

As Ablanedo walked from his car to arrest Powell, a man opened up with the AK-47 from inside the Mustang, shattering its rear window and cutting down Ablanedo.

Powell was that man, an eyewitness testified.

The driver of the car, Sheila Margaret Meinert, 27, was also charged with capital murder but is free on bond.

Powell's defense produced testimony from Dr. Emmanuel Tanay of Detroit, a nationally recognized psychiatric expert on homicide, that Powell was a paranoid schizophrenic and had been mentally ill for 11 years.

He said Powell claimed to lead a band of followers and thought he was in a "Vietnam-style fire fight" when he killed Ablanedo.

Tanay called Powell a "drug pusher," and there was evidence that Powell had between $5,000 and $14,000 worth of methamphetamine — "speed" — in the car when Ablanedo stopped it.

Prosecution psychiatrist Richard Coons said he believed Powell was sane, and several jailers testified Tuesday that Powell did not seem insane to them.

Few actions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress provided a stew of relatively minor agriculture actions Tuesday, including:

- Final action by the House on bills naming agricultural research facilities in three states after retiring of former colleagues.
- Sent to President Carter Senate-passed measures that would name a bee research laboratory in Tucson, Ariz., after the late Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., a pecan field station in Brownwood, Tex., after Rep. W.R. Poague, D-Tex., and the meat animal research center near Clay Center, Neb., after former Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb.
- Fishing operations will be able to obtain larger 15-year loans from production credit associations under legislation given final approval by the House.
- The Farm Credit Administration asked for the change in the federal rules. Associations now can lend money to fishing operations with the understanding it has to be repaid within three years.
- But 15-year loans are needed to finance purchases of larger boats and more sophisticated equipment so that fishermen can take advantage of the new 200-mile territorial limit for fishing waters, the agency said.
- Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Texas, said taxpayers will be saved $25,088 a year by a House-passed bill repealing an 1884 law requiring the secretary of agriculture to publish notices in local newspapers and write railroads and other commercial carriers when a quarantine is imposed to stop the spread of certain insects and animal diseases.
- De la Garza said the Agriculture Department's news releases and other information activities make the old requirements unnecessary. The Senate has already approved the measure.

Lower prices means more food for needy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lower prices of some commodities will enable the United States to ship about 10 per cent more food to needy countries under the Food for Peace program in the coming year.

The Agriculture Department, which administers the program, said Tuesday that about $785 million has been tentatively allocated for the year beginning Oct. 1 for the part of the program providing long-term credit to qualified countries to buy American farm products.

This year's allocation was $800 million. But the breakdown by USDA also showed that lower prices of some commodities in the coming year will mean recipient countries will be able to buy more than 5.25 million metric tons of food items compared to 4.77 million metric tons allocated in the current year. As it has been traditionally, wheat is the largest item scheduled in the coming year, some 4.17 million metric tons against about 3.78 million metric tons this year.

'The shadow' dies in auto

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bret Morrison, whose sonorous voice as The Shadow thrilled millions of radio listeners in the 1930s and 1940s, has died of a heart attack in Hollywood. He was 66.

Morrison, who as Lamont Cranston portrayed The Shadow, was found dead Monday behind the steering wheel of his car parked on a Hollywood street. Friends said the heart attack may have been caused by searing 107-degree temperatures in Southern California's heat wave.

Morrison's radio career began while he was in high school in the 1930s. It reached its apex when he played The Shadow, a wealthy man who righted wrong, championed the innocent and made short work of the guilty.

He is survived by his son, Edward.

Other commodities tentatively estimated for the coming year's allocation under the Food for Peace long-term credit program include:

Rice 500,000 metric tons in 1978-79 compared to 428,000 this year; feedgrains 502,000 and 354,000 and vegetable oil 77,000 and 211,000.

Those are total allocations including some commodities to be held in reserve in case some countries later want more or new countries enter the program.

Egypt and Indonesia are currently scheduled to receive the largest allocations of aid, $184.8 million and $104.3 million respectively, against $189.1 million for Egypt and $135.7 million for Indonesia this year, according to a similar breakdown issued by USDA as of June 30.

Assistant Secretary Dale E. Hathaway said that of the $785 million total for Title I aid some $83 million is being held in reserve to buy commodities "for any countries which may be added to the list" later on.

Further, he said in a statement, "situations may develop which would cause a change during the year" in the tentative allocations announced now for the various countries.

Corn crop mostly good

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's corn crop, estimated as of Sept. 1 at a record of 6.8 billion bushels, continues to be in "mostly good" shape, according to the Agriculture Department.

A weekly weather review said Tuesday that the crop as of Sept. 18-24 was doing well except in the Southeast where it was "poor to fair" because of dry weather.

Nationally, only 8 per cent of the crop was harvested as of Sept. 24 compared with 14 per cent a year ago, the report said.

Soybeans in the Corn Belt were rated "good" as of the past week, with maturity ranging from 20 per cent in Indiana to 70 per cent in Michigan and Illinois.

Officer no-billed in death of Mexican

WACO, Texas (AP) — A county grand jury has no-billed Waco police officer Keith Reed in the August shooting death of a Mexican national, Jesus Martinez Gallegos.

After 18 hours of deliberation the grand jury said Monday night it found no evidence the support prosecution of Reed.

State District Judge Carl Anderson told the jury "there are people who won't agree with you but the vast majority will."

A coalition of Mexican-American groups has vowed to bring the matter before federal authorities, seeing it as another case of police brutality.

Following the announcement, grand jury foreman Tom Turner said, "We were all aware of the extreme interest in the case, but we agreed to put out of our minds the news conference held by the coalition."

There were four law enforcement-related members on the 12-member panel — a former FBI agent, a former McLennan County deputy, a retired CIA agent and assistant Municipal Judge Tony Duty.

This fact perturbed members of the coalition who claimed the Reed investigation would be whitewashed.

But Turner said of law enforcement connections, "I wouldn't call it a preponderance."

District Attorney Felipe Reyna, who presented the case, agreed.

"They were law-abiding citizens," Reyna said.

Reyna also said he felt Attorney General John Hill's office, which had an observer on hand at Reyna's request, is "satisfied also."

Turner said the grand jury had agreed not to make the final vote public, but said the vote did not split along law enforcement versus non-law enforcement lines.

Reed was the last witness to be called before the panel and he spent less than an hour in the grand jury room.

Reed and his partner had answered a call at the home of Gallegos common-law wife, Connie Palacios, the night of Aug. 22. She had called police.

Gallegos, a 34-year-old Mexican national in this country illegally, was shot while fleeing from Reed. He had struggled with Reed before he broke away. Reed said he fired two warning shots and ordered Gallegos to stop.

Neighbors had said Gallegos and Mrs. Palacios had quarreled many times and he had forced open the door to her house the evening he was shot.

At the time of the shooting, there was some question as to what Mrs. Palacios told police upon their arrival.
