After 34 days as pontiff

Pope dies of heart attack in sleep

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul I, the humble "little man" elected pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church just 34 days ago, died of a heart attack during the night, the Vatican announced today. The 65-year-old pope's reign was one of the briefest in history but his warmth and good humor had nonetheless endeared him to millions.

An official Vatican announcement said John Paul, who had a history of health problems, died at about 11 p.m. Thursday (5 p.m. EDT) while reading the 15th-century book of meditations "The Imitation of Christ."

In death he still had his usual smile, said a senior cardinal.

The body was discovered this morning at about 5:30 by his private secretary, the Rev. John Magee of Ireland, who went to the bedroom after noticing the pontiff was not in his private chapel at the usual time, the announcement said. The bed light was still on.

A doctor was immediately summoned, and he attributed death to "acute myocardial infarction." Monsignor Canisio Van Lierde, the pope's vicar for Vatican City, blessed the body.

"Providence took him away from us so suddenly," said Carlo Confalonieri, the 85-year-old dean of the College of Cardinals. "We are all with our eyes turned upward wondering about the inscrutable designs of God."

By noon, the body of the church's 263rd pontiff lay in state beneath a fresco of angels in the Vatican's Clementine Hall, just a few rooms away from the bedroom where he died. A stream of people, from cardinals and political leaders to foreign tourists and housewives, filed past.

The body lay on a velvet-draped bier, dressed in a white embroidered ankle-length robe and a red chasuble, a white mitre on his head and a pastoral staff placed alongside the body. His hands, the fingernails blackened, were clasped together holding a rosary. His mouth was slightly open. Behind the bier stood a tall crucifix.

The bells of the churches of Rome tolled in unison at noon in mourning. Some faithful knelt in St. Peter's Square and prayed. Messages of condolence began flowing in almost immediately from around the world. The Italian government declared national mourning.

In the north Italian mountain hamlet where the pope was born, the 30 villagers attending morning Mass burst into tears when the parish priest interrupted the service to announce the news.

Confalonieri said in an interview: "He lay in his bed, with the face slightly reclined on the right, with his usual smile. I prayed, kissed his hand, then went to the papal chapel to say Mass."

Vatican sources said that before retiring to his bedroom Thursday night, John Paul learned about the fatal shooting of a Communist youth earlier that evening in a right-wing ambush in Rome. "They kill each other even among young people," he reportedly commented in what may have been his last words.

As it did after the death of 80-year-old Pope Paul VI on Aug. 6, also of a heart attack, the church machinery of the papal succession immediately went into motion. The Vatican's secretary of state, French Cardinal Jean Villot, who takes over Vatican leadership during the interregnum, went to the papal apartments to organize the funeral rites and ordered that the 112 cardinal-electors around the world travel back to Rome to prepare for the selection of the 264th pope.

Under church law, the conclave of cardinals must meet between the 15th and the 20th day after the pope's death.

Though he reigned barely a month, John Paul, the former Cardinal Albino Luciani of Venice, had made a worldwide impression with his warmth and kindness.

Only two days ago, he appeared in good spirits during his customary Wednesday general audience when he referred to his own health.

Big Spring slogan sought

Chamber offers reward

A special committee of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce is offering a $50 reward for the most viable slogan which best describes Big Spring as an outstanding place in which to live, visit or shop.

The slogan may be submitted by any area resident, young or old. It should be short with the ability for adaptation in retail, industrial, tourist or media advertising. The committee is anxious to encourage community input. The contest ends Thursday, Oct. 19.

Lubbock residents refer to their home town as the Hub City. Midland makes use of the slogan "Land of the High Sky." Abilene is known as the "Key City" while Dallas is often called simply "Big D."

The Chamber has made this campaign a part of the Program in Action, responding to requests from people who advertise Big Spring from all vantage points — industrial, tourist and retail.

Judges will be members of the Chamber Committees. It has representatives from the artistic, commercial, business, media and tourist interests of the community. Entries should be submitted to the Chamber of Commerce, Box 1391 or taken by 215 W. 3rd Street, the Chamber office.

Those taking part in the contest should fill out the following form and return it to the Chamber office.

Mail or take to Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, Box 1391, 215 W. 3rd Street, Big Spring, Texas.

Ambulance bids rerun announced

The Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital will re-advertise for bids for ambulance service to the hospital, according to George Tarpley, chief of supply.

The two bids which had been received by the hospital previously will be canceled, and the bidding will be open to any interested company, said Tarpley, this morning. A new date for the opening and review of bids has not been set.

Controversy arose Tuesday at the opening of the two sealed bids which had been received for ambulance service to the hospital. The bids had been submitted by Big Spring EMS, an emergency service based in El Paso, and Alert Ambulance Service of Big Spring.

Alert owner Wayne Kohlenberg claimed that his bid had received improper consideration by hospital officials.

Local union on strike in sympathy

By CARLA WALKER

"We are out in sympathy with the clerks of the Norfolk and Western Railway," said one of the picketers at the Big Spring Missouri-Pacific Railroad station today. "From what we've been told, negotiations between Norfolk and Western and their clerks began falling down at 2 p.m. Thursday and at 7:30 p.m. we went on strike."

The N&W disagreements began, according to union sources, when the railroad began using non-union people to do jobs which, by contract, were to be done by union clerks. The "scope rule" disagreements were further complicated by union demands for job stability.

When the union went on strike, the other railway companies aided N&W to keep up operations, as lined out in a pact signed by the companies to lessen the effects of strikes.

"N&W was operating with the help of the other companies at 90 per cent capability, so they weren't hurting at all and they refused to negotiate," said a Big Spring member of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks, the only railway union on strike. "When they were forced to negotiate for a 24-hour period, they refused to budget at all, so the other chapters of the union went out last night in sympathy."

Although BRAC is the only union striking, the other six unions represented locally are honoring the strike by refusing to cross picket lines. The airline clerks in BRAC have not made a move to strike in sympathy with the railway clerks.

A diesel truck making a delivery to the Big Spring station at about 10 p.m. Thursday also honored the lines. Only a few trains are fueled at the Big Spring station, so the effect may not be large, but local union members were encouraged by the cooperation.

The Big Spring BRAC chapter, has set up a temporary strike office in Room 305 of the Settles Hotel. Jim L. Phillips, local union chairman, was unavailable for comment.

A railroad employee here said one of the local grievances by the clerks evolved from the dismissal of six clerks from the local staff months ago.

Larry W. Hensley, MP trainmaster here, could not be reached for comment. Pickets are reportedly displaying placards in Abilene, Toyah and Pecos.

Compounding the Missouri Pacific's problems, recent West Texas rains have halted traffic west of Pecos where traffic was halted.

The area affected was Hermosa near Toyah, where the rocks and ballast was washed out from under the rails. Considerable damage was also reported in the Van Horn area.

There was still vast amounts of water on the ground in the Van Horn, Hermosa and Pecos areas, according to local railroaders who have returned from trips west.

Railroad officials shipped a pile driver and ballast as far west as Big Spring, only to have them tied up by the walkout.

'Falconaires' Show Band to perform here tonight

The United States Air Force Academy "Falconaires" Show Band will appear in concert at 8:00 p.m. tonight in the City Auditorium. The free concert, which is being co-sponsored by the Big Spring Herald and the Cultural Affairs Committee of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, will close out "Community Concert Week" in the city of Big Spring.

Members of the Falconaires, 18 of the most accomplished musicians in the military today, have performed with many of the major "big bands" in the United States including Stan Kenton, Les Elgart, and Glenn Miller. Many stars have also performed with the Falconaires such as Bob Hope, Sandler and Young, Johnny Smith, Joanie Sommers, Mark Lindsey, Louie Bellson, Clark Terry, Art Pepper, Rosemary Clooney, Anna Maria Alberghe, Ed Shaughnessy and "Doc" Severinsen.

The Falconaires combine their talents to provide today's music in its biggest and most exciting form. Weaving their way through Dixieland, the big band era, jazz, country-western and today's top 40 hits, the Falconaires paint a complete picture of American forms of popular music leaving their audiences thoroughly entertained. Oscar winning composer Henry Mancini says, "The Falconaires are a unique ensemble by any standard. To be contemporary and maintain such high professionalism is great. I salute you."

The Falconaires have recorded their own arrangements in Hollywood and Las Vegas for use in Air Force radio shows including the "Serenade in Blue" radio show, produced by the USAF Recruiting Service.

The band performs for numerous stage band clinics throughout the nation, appears in concert at many colleges and universities and on national radio and TV as well as performing for cadet dances at the Air Force Academy.

Individuals wishing to attend the concert, who have not already received tickets for the free performances, will be admitted at 7:45 p.m.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Leaves of pain

Q. My children, for some reason, occasionally put leaves of plants in their mouths. Some are poisonous, I know. Can you help isolate them?
A. Horticulturists say more than 50 plants are on the taboo list, among them the poinsettia, daffodil, oleander, diffebachia, hyacinth and hydrangea. If eaten in large amounts, any plant can make one sick. The doctor should be consulted in such instances and a sample of the plant should be taken to the physician for analysis.

Calendar: Highway 87 meeting

Concert by United States Air Force Falconaire band, 8 p.m., Municipal Auditorium. Free to public.

Merry Mixers sponsoring benefit dance Friday from 8 p.m. until 11 p.m. in the Settles Hotel.

Highway 87 meeting, registration at Holiday Inn, get-acquainted party at 6:30 p.m., dinner, 7:30 p.m. Big Spring Country Club.

SATURDAY

Highway 87 meeting continues with breakfast starting at 8 a.m. in North meeting room of Holiday Inn.

SUNDAY

Hi-Noon Motocross Races resume after four months at track northeast of town. Gates open at noon.

Offbeat: Pop rock surprise

Pop rock candy was popular last year and a girl from Brazil who was a foreign exchange student in Stanton was wild about it.

Marcia Martin, who came from Juiz de Fora, Brazil and lived with Amy Hazelwood at the home of the Cliff Hazelwoods from January to July, really liked pop rock candy.

She had written Amy that there wasn't any in Brazil. Thursday, Amy left by plane to visit Marcia and will remain there 60 days.

What did she take as a surprise? Well, she took $21 worth of pop rock candy, as a gift for Marcia and her friends.

Tops on TV: 'Rockford Files'

It's a tough choice: James Garner, Rita Moreno and Abe Vigoda on "Rockford Files"; or John "Duke" Wayne and a host of others in a tribute to comedy, music and dance. Both begin at 8 p.m. with Rockford on NBC and the special on ABC. The best idea is to catch Rockford and then switch over for the last half of the Duke.

East Texas Indians not satisfied

DALLAS (AP) — An East Texas Indian tribe is unhappy with the federal government's manpower program and Washington officials flew to Dallas today in attempts to rectify the problem.

Leaders of the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Reservation have told the Lufkin News the tribe is not getting its fair share of money funded through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, administered by the Department of Labor.

The act's purpose is to find unemployed people and train them for jobs in demand in their area. Reservation Supt. Emmett Batise said the Alabama-Coushattas have only three CETA trainees while the Tigua Reservation in El Paso has 48.

But Wayne Phelan, executive director of the Indian Employment Training Service Inc., which administers the CETA funds, claims there are presently 16 at the East Texas site and 30 in El Paso with the running totals from the year being 32 for the Alabama-Coushattas and 98 for the Tiguas.

Phelan, governed by a board of Indian representatives from both reservations and others around the state, claims the East Texas tribe has not been able to apply the program. Tribal leaders have also criticized they term the "lavish" office Phelan maintains in Houston.

Phelan was a former police chief in Diboll and later a manpower training director for the Deep East Texas Council of Governments in Jasper.

Another 273 CETA Indians make up the running total for the balance of the state, said Phelan. That includes all of Texas except an 11-county Dallas-Fort Worth region which has another type of federal funding.

Phelan said the difference in the number of workers at the tribes and elsewhere is justifiable because of the Alabama-Coushatta's inability to meet CETA criteria, specifically that a worker be unemployed for a certain period of time.

Local Kiwanians install Canning as president

By MARJ CARPENTER A large crowd of Kiwanians began their Golden Anniversary year with an installation banquet Thursday night at which time Harold Canning was installed as the new president by Lt. Gov. Billy T. Smith of Division 22.

Guests from the local affiliation, the clubs from Midland, Odessa, Lamesa and Snyder, along with representatives from the local Key Club and the newly-organized Circle K Club, attended the event.

Don H. McGonagill, outgoing president, was honored as president for obtaining the most new members during the year and as Kiwanian of the year.

Other new officers installed include Jere Sink, first vice-president; Robert Goodwin, second vice president and Smith, who will again serve as secretary-treasurer.

New directors include the outgoing president, McGonagill; and Willie Lane, Jim Beam, Horace Reagan, Tom Balderach, Buzz McMillan, Dale Glenn, Joe P. Gordon, and Gene Adkins.

Outing officers included McGonagill, Canning, Sink and Smith and the directors were Ed Corson, John Hale, Noel Reed, Jack Lee, Pete Hull, McMillan, Glenn and Gordon.

tendance awards including Terry Stovall with ten; Don Green, eight; Dub Moore, Canning and McGonagill, six each; Bob Crowell, three and Sink two.

Crowell also was presented a Legion of Honor award for 25 years service to the club.

A special guest was David Manley, lieutenant and governor of District 22 Key Club.

Jack Alexander installed Terry Stovall as the 51st member of the club. The club thereby topped its years of existence in numbers.

The new Circle K Club, organized at Howard College, has 49 charter members. Sponsor is Roxie McDaniel. The officers include Mike Edwards, president, and Mariella Wise, Andrea Hohertz and Shauna Henry.

Special music at the dinner was provided by Bill Shaffer at the piano, and accompanying vocalist, Wade Burris.

Crowell gave the invocation and George Esak led the pledge to the flag. Former Lt. Gov. Jerry Hayes of Odessa passed his banner to Smith.

Deaths

Curtis Hill

Curtis B. Hill, 72, died at 2:30 a.m. today in a Dallas Hospital following an illness. He had lived in Big Spring and resided at 2411 Morrison at the time of his death.

Services are pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Survivors include his wife, Gertrude, of the home.

Granville Glenn

Funeral services for Granville Glenn, 73, who died at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday at Collin Memorial Hospital in McKinney after a long illness, will be at 2 p.m. Saturday in Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with Clint Higginbotham and Royce Clay, Church of Christ ministers, officiating.

Burial will be in Mount Olive Memorial Park.

Born Oct. 7, 1904 in Big Spring, Mr. Glenn grew up in Haskell and married Ilma Key May 18, 1926 in Haskell. He returned to Big Spring in 1929 and worked for the Big Spring Herald for 40 years retiring in 1969 due to ill health. He was a member of the 14th and Main Church of Christ.

Survivors are his wife, Ilma, of the home; a daughter, Mrs. Doris Stevenson, Ardmore, Okla.; a brother, Walter Glenn, Tyler; and two granddaughters.

R.W. Meador

LAMESA — Richard W. (Dub) Meador, 63, operator of an ambulance service here since 1971, is the third person to announce as a write-in candidate for the office of Dawson County Justice of Peace.

Meador attended public schools in Idalou and attended Lippert's Business College in Plainview where he studied and later taught court reporting, business law and business arithmetic.

Meadow and his wife, Dorothy, have three children, all of whom are grown and living away from home.

Arlington city officials form their own posse

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — It looked like a scene of Western movie. "Gun-smoke" maybe.

Arlington Mayor Pro Tem Harold Patterson and three officials of First City Bank Center, of which Patterson is president, formed their own impromptu posse to chase an alleged bandit who had just robbed the bank.

And using two bank automobiles—instead of horses—Patterson and the posse rounded up a suspect before the police arrived.

Police were holding an Arlington man in the city jail Thursday afternoon.

Patterson said a young man—holding what appeared to be a pistol inside a brown paper sack—approached a woman bank teller just before 10:30 a.m. Thursday and demanded money.

Two accused of forgery

A husband and wife accused of forgery are in custody in the Howard County jail today under a total of $15,000 bond.

Milton Dale Roberts, 29, and his wife, Virginia, 21, Forsan, were arrested Wednesday in Baton Rouge. Roberts has been charged in Justice of the Peace Gus Ochotorena's office with forgery and his wife has been filed against in J.P. Bob West's office.

Roberts is under two bonds of $5,000 each set by West. Mrs. Roberts is under one $5,000 bond, also set by West.

The charges of forgery are apparently related to the theft of six checks later cashed in August in Big Spring, for approximately $50 each.

The course will cost $10.75 which includes the book cost necessary for the class. The class has been limited to 25. The course will be interesting to any age level.

The instructor for the course is Bill Alexander, the meteorologist specialist in weather forecasting at the Municipal Airport. Mr. Alexander received his B.S. in Meteorology from Texas A&M. He has been an avid meteorologist for most of his life.

Interested people may pre-register at the Adult and Continuing Education Office located in the Administration building. For more information, call 267-6311 extension 66.

Stenholm fund-raiser booked here Oct. 21

By MARJ CARPENTER Congressman and Mrs. Omar Burleson will honor Charles Stenholm, Democratic nominee for Congress in the 17th District, with a fund-raising dinner Oct. 21 in the Howard College Union Building.

The event will be at 7:30 p.m. and tickets are $25 a plate for the event. Plans were made and tickets distributed this morning at a steering committee breakfast for the candidate.

Clyde McMahon Sr., co-chairman of the Stenholm campaign here with Frog Koger, pointed out, "The purpose is twofold. We want a crowd at the dinner to back our candidate for Congress and we want to raise funds for what has been a long and expensive campaign," McMahon stated.

Mrs. James Barr is chairman of the dinner. Mrs. Virginia Black is ticket chairman.

Members of the Stenholm Committee for Congress, and Democratic precinct chairmen were invited to the event this morning. Jane Ray, State Committeewoman for the 30th Senatorial District, acted as mistress of ceremonies.

Stenholm, who campaigned in Abilene Thursday, attended the Stamford Chamber dinner Thursday night and arrived here for the 7 a.m. breakfast, was in Forsan this morning talking to people there.

He also pointed out today, "I am concerned about the energy bill which passed in the Senate and I am opposed to it. The gas regulation provisions do not give enough incentive for oil exploration."

Omar Burleson and most of the Texas delegation are opposed to it. It is a complicated, complex bill that nobody can understand and it will be expensive to regulate," Stenholm added.

"If elected, I will do all I can to try to change it and to add incentive for the oil man. I also will be for development of solar energy sources," he continued.

"I may be a minority voice but I plan to stand firm on the things in which I believe," the candidate stated.

This will be the fifth $25 a plate dinner for Stenholm in his district. Graham, Stephenville, Abilene and Crosbyton were sites of the other four.

Tickets for the dinner may be obtained by calling 267-2421.

Murderer denied parole

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — A three-man Prison Review Board has voted unanimously to deny parole for Richard Speck, serving long prison terms for murdering eight nurses.

The parole hearing was one to which Speck was routinely entitled. He declined to appear at the hearing, although parents of two of the young women killed testified against his release. His next hearing will be in 1981. Speck said recently he hoped someday to be paroled, but the chairman of the review board, James Irving, said that's not likely to happen for possibly 20 or 25 years.

Five teens killed

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Five teen-age boys, including two brothers, were killed when their pickup truck collided with a tractor-trailer rig on U.S. 150 northwest of here, state police reported.

A third brother in the pickup truck was hospitalized in serious condition. The victims, all of West Terre Haute, were identified as Richard Carne, 17, the driver; his brother, Curtis, 13; Michael Carpenter, 14; Steve Hatke, 14, and Andy Moore, 15. Douglas Carne, 14, was taken to Union Hospital in Terre Haute. The truck driver, Graham Long, 28, of Pontiac, Mich., was reported in good condition.

Petition to stop prayer

METUCHEN, N.J. (AP) — Paul Marsa plans to ask Superior Court Judge David Furman for a court order to stop township council members from praying before each meeting.

Marsa, who calls himself "an atheist by intellectual reasoning," objects to the prayer because he said it violates the right of separation of church and state. "The prayer didn't matter to me," Marsa said. "You were coerced into joining them." The 44-year-old divorced father of three boys said residents of this central New Jersey community of 16,000 have been cool to his proposal.

"His fingerprints are pretty close" to fingerprints found on the abandoned truck of the slain Texas family, Oklahoma County Sheriff Gene Wells said today. However, authorities could not be sure the prints matched until more detailed testing was made later today, Wells said.

Navy fliers think their base jinxed

BRUNSWICK, Maine (AP) — The Navy fliers who patrol the waters of the Atlantic out of Brunswick Naval Air Station are scared. They think their base may be jinxed.

In the past nine months, 28 colleagues have died in three separate, puzzling crashes of the propeller-driven P-3 Orion — a top-secret, submarine-hunting aircraft.

"There's a feeling that the wing has been hexed, jinxed or is under some supernatural spell, and it's almost impossible to fight because we don't know why our planes have crashed," says Rear Adm. Ralph Hedges, commander of all P-3s on the Atlantic Coast.

Police beat Reserve officer struck

A reserve policeman was struck, 2:30 a.m. today, while helping two other officers break up a fight at Bogart's Club in the Big Spring Industrial Park.

Detectives Mike Kelly and Jimmie Hensley and Reserve Officer Larry Miller were involved in a routine inspection of the club when a fight between two customers broke out. The officers managed to move the two assailants outside, but when one of the fighters was told he was under arrest, he reportedly took a swing at Kelly.

Miller jumped in, and the two tangled, with Park Security Police eventually being called in to subdue the suspect. During the scuffle, Miller's head struck the brick wall of the club.

The local man faces charges of assaulting a police officer and disorderly conduct. He is being held under $2,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Bob West.

Anyone can make use of Catalog

Are you always grumbling you don't have enough information about buying a home, investing your money or doing what you are supposed to do in order to cut down on energy bills? Or perhaps you have a mate who won't turn a hand, using as an excuse he or she would bobble the job for lack of knowledge and experience.

Take heart. The Consumer Information Center of the United States government has put together a handy little booklet called the Consumer Information Catalog which may solve your problem. In it are listed more than 200 federal publications you can send for.

THE HANDY LITTLE booklet embraces the titles of such subjects as automobiles, consumer protection, child care, health, food and nutrition, gardening, housing, energy conservation and employment.

If you'd like to learn about the causes and preventions of automobile rust, the catalog can direct you to the right booklet.

Concerning children, everything from child development in the home to helping the tykes make career plans is covered in the catalog.

Can you really strike it rich in the government oil and gas lottery? How do older people go about protecting themselves from common frauds and swindles? The government has addressed itself to these problems and has made booklets available to the public, titles of which can be obtained in the Consumer Information Catalog.

The handy little magazine also gives the right numbers to write for information about choosing a vocational school, the federal financial aid programs for education and the art of merchandising your job talents.

THERE ARE ALSO booklets available about breast self-examination, the proper way to donate the body and its organs, soft contact lens, first aid and contraception.

If the individual is fearful of being taken by land sharks, he might feel better after reading "Buying Lots from Developers," also listed in the catalog.

The government has prepared numberless booklets on home maintenance and security. Those, too, are listed in the catalog.

The catalog comes free as do more than half the publications in it.

Those interested should write to Consumer Information Center, Dept. D, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

No midterm coattails

Evans, Novak

ASHEVILLE, N.C. — A jubilant Jimmy Carter swept into the Smokies of western North Carolina five days after concluding the Camp David summit to confront the difficulty of translating that personal triumph into help for embattled Democratic candidates.

On his Sept. 22 visit to Asheville, the president was radiantly self-confident and his speeches reminiscent of their 1976 pre-convention form. But it is doubtful that Mr. Carter significantly helped the candidates he came to support. The feeling in North Carolina, before and after his visit, was that the president could generate extra campaign funds here — and little more.

Presidents usually have found it difficult to affect midterm elections, and Mr. Carter has a special problem. Despite his renewed popularity after Camp David, embracing the president's liberal domestic program is risky business for Democratic candidates in an anti-tax, anti-government atmosphere.

NORTH CAROLINA is especially important because of Sen. Jesse Helms, a rigidly conservative Republican targeted for defeat by the Democratic party's national hierarchy. National chairman John White has taken special interest in this Senate race, bracketing Helms with Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and John Tower of Texas as "radical right" senators to be defeated.

One problem with White's strategy is that North Carolinians simply do not regard Helms as a "radical" six years after he leaped from right-wing television commentator into the U.S. Senate. "Jessie is generally thought of as a fine, Christian gentleman even by people who don't agree with him," one prominent Democrat confided to us.

Another, bigger problem is his opponent: state insurance commissioner John Ingram, a plutocrat-baiting, Bible-quoting populist who upset banker Luther Hodges Jr. in the Democratic primary. The Democratic establishment's contempt for Ingram is typified by this private assessment by one Democratic politician close to Gov. Jim Hunt: "To be blunt, Ingram is irresponsible and demagogic."

Ingram's money-starved campaign sounds more like the early 1930s than the late 1970s, with the candidate declaring "this fight against the special interests." He says nothing about inflation, refuses to take a position on tax limitation or the Kemp-Roth tax reduction bill and concentrates on blasting Helms as "the $5 million man" because of his bountiful campaign war chest. To establishment Democrats, that will not unseat Jesse Helms.

The purpose of the president's visit was to put a few coins in Ingram's empty treasury. President Carter and Gov. Hunt nudged their rich friends, appalled by Ingram, into buying $500-a-couple tickets to a steak dinner at the distinctly non-populist Biltmore Estate in Asheville. Added to the program was an airport rally for freshman Rep. Lamar Gudger, facing a tight reelection battle.

Next came the customary bickering between the White House and local politicians. The president's men demanded that the Gudger rally be held at the airport instead of downtown Asheville, where a much bigger crowd would have gathered. They also insisted the president's speech include a proposal to make North Carolina a "rural laboratory," which Democrats here correctly forecast would be lost in the hoopla.

'Nerves' can trigger hives

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I've had hives a couple of times in my life. The doctor called them giant urticaria and said they were caused by my nerves. I find this difficult to believe. I am normally an even-tempered person. Do doctors find this much? Would you attribute it to nerves? Can't there be other causes? — H.A.

It's often hard to pinpoint the cause of hives. There are so many possibilities — drug allergy, insect stings or bites, food allergy (especially seafoods) and, of course, nerves.

"Emotional stress" is a better term. It's suspected when more obvious causes are eliminated. We know little about these so-called "psychogenic" factors. Doctors, especially those in internal medicine, see much of it in their practices. Giant hives are particularly dangerous because they can be life-threatening, as when the tongue or other structures in air passages become greatly swollen. In most cases, there is a single attack with no recurrence. In about a third of individuals there is a second or third attack.

In a third of the cases, drug sensitivity is the cause. And, yes, in a significant number, "nerves" are either a cause or worsen the situation. Often, an emotional dilemma can be traced to the timing of the hives attack. For example, a hives patient told me he had faced a job decision — to keep his job and security, or take a new one with better pay but less security. He also had gorged on strawberry shortcake at about the same time. Such mixed factors often exist. One does not have to be "high-strung" for an emotional strain to trigger an attack.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: X-rays show that I have kidney reflux. My urine flows back into the kidney pelvis. My doctor says this causes my cystitis and that corrective surgery is needed.

I get cystitis every three to six months. Is surgery in this case an absolute necessity or simply elective? — Mrs. R.B.

Surgery seems necessary from the facts as you state them. A recurring infection anywhere in the urinary tract (as in your bladder) can mean an obstruction or malfunction somewhere along the line and it should be corrected, otherwise, serious kidney infection can result.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was told at a health store that vitamin E will help men with low sperm counts. Please tell me if this is true? — T.J.H.

That claim might help sell vitamin E, but it has no validity. Years ago a study was done in which laboratory animals were deprived of vitamin E. Predictably, they began feeling ill because of the absence of this vital substance; so poorly, in fact, that they stopped reproducing. When the vitamin E was restored, they perked up, and started acting normally again. To conclude that vitamin E is somehow helpful in restoring lagging sperm counts is weak logic.

More is being learned of the role of vitamin E, but this is not among the revelations. Some vendors tend to make enthusiastic claims for their products.

NOTE TO T.D. — Your ear noises might be avoided by altering your aspirin dosage. One authority advises arthritics using aspirin to stop briefly, then resume with an altered dosage. For example, if you are taking four aspirin every four hours you might try three every three hours. This also applies to other unpleasant effects, such as stomach distress. Be sure you take the aspirin with meals, or with milk.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can nocturnal emissions weaken a person? — N.F.

No.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband and I have been married for two years and I have a virus called "herbies."

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am 9 years old, and I believe I have accepted Jesus as My Savior. However, my father says I'm too young. Is this true? — B.B.

DEAR B.B.: The Bible teaches that you can come to Christ at a very early age. That does not mean you know everything there is to know about being a Christian, but you will grow in your faith just as you will grow physically and mentally.

Once, when Jesus was very busy, some children wanted to see Him. The disciples wanted them to leave. But Jesus welcomed them, and said, "Let the little children come to me, and do not hinder them, for the kingdom of heaven belongs to such as these" (Matthew 19:14, New International Version).

The Gospel of Mark, speaking of the same occasion, tells us that Jesus

Our medical book does not list this. Can you tell us about it? — Mrs. L.

Your misunderstood your doctor. It's "herpes." Your medical book should have a reference to this under that heading.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for his booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Women drivers are 'hard sells'

Women drivers are increasing in numbers. Cynical man will likely say the accident rate will go up but the news could have the opposite effect on traffic, if only it serves to cause more males to turn in their drivers' licenses.

The number of women who purchase cars in their own names is increasing about five per cent annually. They now account for about 13 per cent of total car sales — 1.5 million out of 11.2 million last year.

The good news for the auto industry is that more women holding better jobs serve to boost car sales.

The not so good news, perhaps, is that they tend to be tougher to sell than men. Or, again, that could be a definite plus. La Femme is more set in her ways and less easily gulled by a sales talk.

The files are kept for the employees' protection, the spokesman insisted. Their purpose, he explained, is to prevent unproven or irrelevant allegations from being placed in an individual's official service record. Under no circumstances, he added, are these raw files kept for more than six months without some kind of action being taken.

Best, worst aspects

Around the rim

Bob Burton

At first, everyone seemed to enjoy the rain. Not many people actually went out in it — most of the city dwellers acted like my cats, putting a tentative paw outside, then withdrawing with astonishment and distaste. But they didn't complain, knowing how important it was to the farmers and ranchers.

Some of those strange folk, on the other hand, got so excited by the showers they slogged out to the middle of their fields and watched, entranced, as their land turned into a gigantic wet glue pot.

It meant money, which is good, especially for those raising bread mold.

BUT THERE are still a lot of things to hate about the rain, and after about three days, more and more grumblers could be found.

One hardy soul commented that he hated the rain because each day his bad breath would condense on the inside of the windshield, waiting for the first sun to dry it out and make his car uninhabitable.

Our wire editor Walt Finley, says he hates the rain because he's never been able to pick a mudder, and "it hits me on the head all the time."

Another staffer, James Werrell, says the worst aspect of the rain is crunching snails whenever you walk down a sidewalk. "And," he adds, "it makes your beer soggy."

Aggie Marie Homeyer tells us that "it gets your feet wet", but somehow she says that with great insight.

Our version of St. Francis of Assisi, Eileen McGuire, asserts that she doesn't have to "water her dog" on rainy days. Right.

BUT FOR ME, there are a few special aspects of the rain. I like, for example, being able to walk out to the curb and dip up a cupful of drinkable water.

I like avoiding the scuba divers as I drive through the locks up Scurry St. through Texas' own version of The Great Lakes.

I like being able to use fresh crackers as a source of moisture — just wring them into a measuring cup.

I like the way our wooden gates and doors warp and split, and I like the way my windshield wipers, which I haven't used for two years, shredded and fell off the first time I needed them.

I like the good spirits everyone I met during the rain was in, and the stoic cheerfulness with which they bore their various arthritides, bursitis, rheumatism, and other "rain gauge" diseases.

I like wet football games.

Salty Marj Carpenter says she'll like the rain, no matter what, to walk in, to listen to on the roof, and to make things smell better. She says she hopes she'll remember that when it floods her house.

I like that.

Tactics haunt

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — In a disturbing rerun of the late J. Edgar Hoover's notorious private files on the high and mighty, the Navy maintains files on the sex lives, drinking habits and financial affairs of some of its employees, reliable Navy sources have told.

The files are not part of the employees' official service records and, of course, their existence is not known to the affected employees. According to one Navy official, the hush-hush files contain "unsubstantiated gossip" about the subjects' private lives. Yet this same official said the files are sometimes used in "reviewing legal actions, making assignments to sensitive positions and deciding promotions."

In a sworn affidavit obtained by our associate Gary Cohn, another reliable Navy source who has read some of the files stated that they contain "information on drug and alcohol abuse, sexual habits, domestic affairs and letters from ex-wives and mistresses."

THE LATE FBI director was known to have a file cabinet full of information on the personal behavior of prominent people, including President John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson and Richard M. Nixon. The widespread knowledge that these files existed was enough of a blackmail threat to assure that Hoover's power — and the FBI budget — would never be questioned.

The existence of the Navy files is known only to a few key officials. The dossiers have been known variously as the "F" files and "PERS F," according to our sources.

An official Navy spokesman acknowledged that information on the sex lives and financial affairs of certain employees is sometimes collected. But he insisted that the files in this category are kept only until a particular matter is resolved. The data is then destroyed, he said.

The files are kept for the employees' protection, the spokesman insisted. Their purpose, he explained, is to prevent unproven or irrelevant allegations from being placed in an individual's official service record. Under no circumstances, he added, are these raw files kept for more than six months without some kind of action being taken.

The Navy spokesman also contended that an employee is never denied promotions, a discharge or other administrative processes on the basis of unsubstantiated material in the files.

We find it hard to believe, however, that knowledge of the material in these files — or even knowledge that someone has thought it necessary to maintain such a file on a particular Navy employee — carries no weight with the brass when promotions or sensitive assignments are being considered.

AND WHILE THERE is no evidence that the files have been used for blackmail purposes, either by the Navy or by individuals with access to them, the very compiling of dossiers on a person's sex life, drinking patterns and financial difficulties presents a whopping opportunity for abuse.

AIR BAGS: Rep. Bud Shuster, R-Pa. is a dedicated foe of air bags. Time and again, he has inveighed against the suggestion that automobile safety belts be replaced by air bags, even though experts believe such a move could save thousands of lives each year.

The congressman recently leaped astride his hobbyhorse and charged after a minor event scheduled in the town of Altoona. His aides succeeded in puncturing a demonstration of the inflatable device which had been set up by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

The agency had arranged to demonstrate the air bags at the annual Keystone Council Festival on Sept. 10. The local chamber of commerce was to sponsor the event.

Five days before the festival, though, an aide to Shuster called the safety agency and demanded to know who had arranged the demonstration. Another Shuster assistant telephoned festival officials; she later explained that she was merely trying to make sure her boss was given "equal time" to rebut the safety claims of the air-bag proponents.

Soon afterward, an Altoona official told the federal safety people he had decided to skip the demonstration because of "some negative phone calls."

A festival official told us the demonstration was canceled because of the controversy surrounding it. "We have a fun festival," he explained, adding that the chamber of commerce didn't want to get caught in the crossfire between their representative in Congress and federal safety officials.

New voice set for Revivaltime

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. — A veteran broadcaster and pastor has been named to succeed C.M. Ward as speaker for the Assemblies of God international radio program "Revivaltime." Dan Betzer, who has served as secretary of denomination's Radio-TV Department since November 1977, will take the microphone January 1, according to Lee Shultz, national director of communications.

Ward will retire in December after 25 years and over 1300 broadcasts as speaker for the program. He will be honored at a special banquet here in November.

As head of the department, Betzer, 41, is also producer for the broadcast which is aired over 600 times each week around the world. He began his involvement with broadcasting at age 5 on a weekend children's program in Yankton, South Dakota.

An ordained Assemblies of God minister, Betzer served pastorates in Dayton, Vermilion, and Sandusky, Ohio. He also spent three years as an associate evangelist with the Ford Philpot association, producing a weekly television show, "The Story," that appeared on 85 stations across the nation.

In addition to his broadcast activities, Betzer has authored two books, "A Trumpet in Zion" and "The Story," and served five years as editor of "The Storyteller" magazine. He has published a number of short stories and written for the "Toledo Blade" and "Sandusky Free Press" newspapers. He also wrote a column for a TV magazine.

He and his wife Darlene have four children, three daughters and one son. A native of Iowa, Betzer moved to Springfield at age 15. He returned to the city a year ago to assume his Radio-TV Department post.

The program is heard locally at 9:30 p.m. Sundays on KBST.

Long Search series examines Orthodox Christianity outlook

NEW YORK (AP) — When British playwright Ronald Eyre went through a period of "asking endless questions: about God, belief, what I was here for, how things started, what goodness is, what evil is, what happens when you die," his relatives passed it off as "his religious phase."

"Well, it's 30 years later and I'm still going through my religious phase. If that's the right word for it," Eyre declares. "I still want to know who I am, what I'm here for, what's real, what isn't real, what I should worship, and I want somebody, some teacher, some teaching to tell me."

What better leader than Eyre for "The Long Search," a 13-part examination of the world's religions now being broadcast on Public Broadcasting Service stations.

The series, which began in September with installments on the Protestant spirit in this country and Buddhism in India, continues this weekend with an examination of orthodox Christianity.

"The Long Search" took the articulate and witty Eyre, a self-described "lapsed Methodist," on a 150,000-mile journey that included visits to 14 countries.

"The usual way of doing a program like this is to invite somebody we call an expert to discuss these weighty subjects," Eyre says. "The trouble is, it's difficult to find anybody who can be regarded as an authority on even one of the religions, much less them all."

"This assignment required somebody like me who was prepared to be experimented on."

"The Long Search" in succeeding weeks, examines religion in Indonesia, Judaism, Hinduism, Islam, Catholicism, Buddhism in Japan, African religions, Taoism in China, and alternative lifestyles in California.

"Based on your travels," Eyre was asked by a friend on his return to London, "what religion that you studied impressed you most?"

"Come now, you know I'm not going to answer that," was the reply. "One of the main points I try to make in the series is that there are no pat answers to such questions. There are just more questions."

The Big Holy is religion of many American Indians

In the native religion of American Indians, the great, all-pervasive spirit of Wakan Tanka — the "big holy" — is regarded as animating and binding together in brotherhood all the creatures and elements of the universe.

Belief in this kinship of all beings — the people, the animals, birds and insects, the moon, stars, rocks, rivers, wind and thunder — gives the Indian faith a special reverence for the earth.

That quality has a particular relevance in the present-day concern for safeguarding nature from industrial ravages, conserving its resources and maintaining the delicate ecological balance of forces.

"Helpers," Indians call the mutually inter-acting orders of nature, communing with them as counterparts of human existence, assuming they, too, share in the mystery of knowing bestowed by the Great Spirit on all life.

"The Indian has something to contribute to our society in teaching us about the sanctity of nature," says artist Martha Eagle of Oklahoma City, a Caucasian painter of Indian life and student of it.

"Our age is being compelled to come to terms with our close relationship to the natural world, and our need to respect both its vulnerability and its bounty — something the Indian has always realized."

However, some Indian religious practices in recent times have encountered government restrictions and interferences — obstacles that a newly adopted Congressional resolution seeks to eliminate.

Passed both by the House and the Senate, it directs that U.S. policy and procedures of all federal agencies be shaped to "protect and preserve" traditional Indian customs.

"There have been increasing incidents of abrogation of the religious rights of American Indians," says Sen James Abourezk, D-S.D., head of the Senate Select Committee on Indian Affairs and sponsor of the measure.

It got final approval in mid-July at the same time that hundreds of Indians gathered in Washington at the end of a 3,000-mile "longest walk" across the country to plead for defeat of 11 other bills pending in Congress.

"A Farthing's Worth"

AMERICA NEEDS CHRISTIAN HOMES!
I'm preaching on the Christian home during the month of October. I believe that the deteriorating of the home is the greatest single factor relating to America's condition. The family is God's basic unit of life, and when we lose sight of the family from God's point of view, we will not see life from a proper perspective either.

OUR RELATIONSHIP WITH GOD IS BASED ON THE FAMILY UNIT. When our families are not God-ordered, then our lives are more difficult to live according to God's order.

OUR RELATIONSHIP WITH THE CHURCH IS BASED ON THE FAMILY. The church is God's family. If we don't have true Christian families at home, then we'll have difficulties understanding the purpose of the church and how it is to function.

OUR RELATIONSHIP WITH OUR FELLOW MAN DEPENDS ON OUR HOME RELATIONSHIPS. When homes are God-ordered, then lives become God-ordered, and we have a wholesome, healthy relationship with our fellow human beings.

Join us this Sunday, won't you?

BAPTIST YOUNG WOMEN — Waiting for their turn as models this week at First Baptist Church were visitors from other Baptist Churches including Brenda Riffey, Joetta Newsom, Glyn Drewery, Pat McNary, Sharon Brown, Barbara King, Anita Vaughn, Sandra Wright, Duwanna Sutton, and Suzanne Cranford.

Airport Baptist sets revival

Airport Baptist will hold a Revival from Monday, Oct. 2 to Sunday, Oct. 8. Evangelist will be the Rev. Richard Wells, pastor of Kenwood Baptist in Dallas and the music director will be Mike Westberry, Gross Road Baptist Church in Mesquite. Services will be held at 7:30 p.m. daily and 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Sunday. A nursery will be provided. The public is invited to attend at the church at 1208 Frazier, according to the Rev. David McNary, pastor.

Holy Land tour slated by local pastor

Rev. Phillip McClendon, pastor of the Hillcrest Baptist Church, will lead a tour group to the Holy Land this year after Christmas. "We have an exciting nine-day itinerary that covers all the significant Biblical sites in Israel," Phillip McClendon said. Phillip McClendon has been appointed as Associate Tour Conductor on the Bible Lands Seminar, which is conducted annually by Dr. Wayne Dehoney, a past president of the Southern Baptist Convention. In addition to McClendon and Dr. Dehoney, the travel seminar will have on the faculty Dr. Huber Drumwright, dean, and Dr. William Tolar, archeologist, from Southwestern Seminary; Dr. Roy Honeycutt, dean, and Dr. Wayne Ward and Dr. Dale Moody, New Testament Scholars, from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, and other lecturers and inspirational speakers.

REPRESENT SERVICE — Wanda Driver, Diane Wood and Connie Walker hold three different symbols of the service by the Baptist Young Women in the Big Spring area.

Baptist Young Women host style show here

Members of Baptist Churches throughout the city participated in a style show and luncheon at First Baptist Church Tuesday, Sept. 26. The style show was designed to show the various mission opportunities available through Baptist Young Women, the mission organization for young women 18 through 36.

Connie's supplied fashions deemed appropriate for such activities as delivering meals on wheels, rolling bandages for missionaries, Bible study and a Christmas Tasting party at which time a mission book is studied.

Following the style show, Mrs. Galen Bradford, former missionary to Malawi and Japan spoke to the group.

Mrs. Bradford and her husband were the first couple employed as missionary associates by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board. They will make their home in Big Spring where Bradford will be manager of Canterbury, a retirement center built by the Episcopal Church. Mrs. Bradford is employed by St. Mary's School.

Members of the First Baptist Church responsible for the event were Mrs. Hannah Coleman who planned and narrated the style show, Mrs. Lyn Phillips and Mrs. Ella Morrison, decorations; Mrs. Wanda Driver, food and Mrs. Jan Sims coordinator.

Loyalty class has luncheon

The Loyalty Sunday School class of Baptist Temple Church met Tuesday, Sept. 26 for a luncheon at the Fenestra Restaurant.

Following the luncheon, the group met in the home of Mrs. Willard Smith for election of class officers. Elected president was Maedell Bennett with Dovie Smith as vice president; Marjorie Grissom, secretary-treasurer and Ozie Sumruld and Velma Graham as call captains.

Mrs. Bennett gave the devotional with the prayer given by Mrs. Eva Wiggins. Refreshments were served.

Coahoma sets Wednesday meets

Coahoma Presbyterians are sponsoring Wednesday evening workshops from 7:30-9:00 p.m. on preserving our resources for the work and commitment to the Lord and the church.

On Oct. 4, there will be a workshop on Personal and Family Money Management under the theme "You've Already Got What You Need."

The following week, the workshop is on "You Really Can't Take It With You." The Wednesday evening service is open to all denominations.

It is held each Wednesday through Dec. 6.

Mormons schedule world conference

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints invites the public to view its annual conference on TV Oct. 1 at 9-11 a.m. This will be the 148th conference for the church.

Presiding over the conference will be President Spencer W. Kimball, world leader of 4 million members. He will be assisted by his counselors in the First Presidency, N. Eldon Tanner and Marion G. Romney. These three men and other General Authorities of the Church, including members of the quorum of Twelve Apostles, will be speakers during the two-day General World Conference.

The Mormon Tabernacle choir will furnish the music. There are 375 members in this choir, and they often drive as far as 100 miles to practice and broadcast on the radio. They are not paid for their services.

The conference will meet in the famous tabernacle. Construction on the tabernacle was begun in 1863. It is 250 feet long, 150 feet wide and 80 feet high. The massive roof, supported only by the great wooden arches which span the width of the building is of special interest. It was constructed at a time and under conditions that precluded the use of steel girders or tie rods. Its latticework of timbers is latched and pinned together with large wooden pins.

There are no nails used in the tabernacle.

There is a trusswork that occupies a space of ten feet from the inside plastered ceiling to the outside roofing. The roof rests like a great inverted bowl on 44 pillars or buttresses of cut sandstone masonry.

Each of these are nine feet in length from the outside to the inside of the building. They are three feet thick, and from fourteen to twenty feet high. Spaces between the buttresses are used for large doors opening out, to permit a more rapid exit from the building, when the World Conferences or other meetings are held there.

The acoustics are perfect in the building. You can drop an ordinary straight pin at the podium, and it can be heard all over the tabernacle without the aid of speakers. The tabernacle seats above 8,000 people. It serves as more than religious center. It is the concert home of the famous Utah Symphony Orchestra. Great artists of the world have sung and played there, and leading figures have spoken there, including outstanding clergymen of many faiths, and every president of the United States except President Coolidge (since the turn of the century) has spoken there.

One of the finest organs of the world, is the massive organ that is played for the choir to sing with. There are 8 divisions in the organ, comprising 11,000 pipes in 189 ranks. The present console has 5 manuals. Some of the pipes are made from the tall straight grained pine found growing 300 miles south of Salt Lake. These pipes are still there in their original form. The organ has been renovated and enlarged several times. It is thirty feet wider than the original organ.

The organ was fashioned by Joseph H. Ridges, a Britisher who had moved to Australia, and later to Salt Lake to build the organ. It was constructed and first used in 1867, and had only 700 pipes. The last renovation of the organ was done in 1948. Church officers from all over the world will attend this conference, and for those who can not, it will be televised or on a closed circuit radio broadcast. The station in this area will be KO5A Channel 9.

People of all faiths mourn Pope's passing

Catholics and non-Catholics around the United States, stunned by the sudden death of Pope John Paul I, mourned his passing today and praised the warmth, love and faith he brought to his brief reign.

"Although he was pope only a short time, John Paul I made a deep and lasting impression as a man of great energy who had the rare gift of being able to share the joy that was so clearly the product of his deep faith," said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Like Kennedy, Rosalynn Carter was present at the funeral of John Paul's predecessor, Pope Paul VI. And like Kennedy, the president's wife had words of praise. "I was stunned and saddened by the death of Pope John Paul I," she said in a statement issued in Miami. "I think there was an immediate affection for him by people all over the world because of his warmth, his openness and his love."

The White House said President Carter would comment later today.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale, who represented the president at John Paul's investiture, called the late pope "a man of wisdom, simplicity and striking warmth."

Cardinal John Carberry of St. Louis, said the death "has shaken all of us. We ask God for strength... He affected all people of all faiths. They felt his warmth and humility and love."

Penicillin marks 50th birthday

A miracle discovery remembered

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Dr. Alexander Fleming returned from a holiday to his cramped office laboratory, he found the cluttered workbench he had left and much more. Hidden in the papers, test tubes, bottles and dishes was one of the greatest discoveries in medical history. Back to work at London's St. Mary's Hospital, Fleming started straightening papers, rearranging bottles and discarding old nutrient-smear laboratory plates used to grow bacteria. The quiet, ever-meticulous man inspected each dish before discarding it and one arrested his attention. Before going on vacation, he had put a drop of staphylococcus culture on the dish and expected to see little bacterium colonies growing all over the plate. But somehow a mold got into the dish and in the area where it was growing, bacterium clusters were absent or beginning to dissolve. Fleming identified the mold as a species of Penicillium and identified a byproduct it secreted that killed harmful bacteria. Fleming's discovery was 50 years ago this month and he named it penicillin. Now, that event is hailed as a medical milestone. It resulted in the first human antibiotic, the first of the so-called "miracle drugs."

Fleming, who died in 1955 at age 74, said years after the discovery: "People have called it a miracle. For once in my life as a scientist I agree. It is a miracle, and it will save lives by thousands." But even then Fleming did not see the full ramifications. "It was one of the most important discoveries in medicine," says Dr. Paul Lietman, director of Johns Hopkins Medical School's clinical pharmacology division. "It saved an enormous number of lives and helped countless more in reducing suffering from infection."

Without a doubt, it changed the whole course of medicine," adds Dr. Frank G. Standaert, chairman of the pharmacology department at Georgetown University School of Medicine. "I've seen figures of lives saved in the hundreds of millions." Penicillin probably had its greatest impact upon pneumonia, then one of the most common causes of death. It also helped control general infections, rheumatic fever, scarlet fever, syphilis and gonorrhea. An estimated 8 to 10 percent of people are allergic to forms of penicillin now. But the successes of the first antibiotic spurred work on other drugs that these people can use. Penicillin's journey from Fleming's Petri dish to medical use owes much to World War II. Learning how to produce the antibiotic in large quantities resulted from what was once called a medical Manhattan Project, after the program that produced the atomic bomb.

In 1941, British researchers asked Americans to see if they could help make penicillin to treat war wounds. The U.S. effort, centered at a Department of Agriculture lab in Peoria, Ill., combined government and private scientists to find mass production techniques. This resulted in better mold strains, new growth mediums and methods of fermentation in giant vats instead of laboratory bottles. U.S. penicillin production went from zero in 1941 to thousands of grams a month in 1945. Without the war incentive, many experts agree, the revolution of antibiotics would not have occurred so quickly — and untold millions would have died.

The discovery that began the revolution was more than pure chance. Fleming's research had been devoted to finding such an agent and he had been looking a long time.

Highest-ranking POW retires from military

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Air Force Lt. Gen. John P. Flynn, who piloted fighter planes in three wars and was the highest-ranking American prisoner of war in North Vietnam, plans to spend the next six months attacking army worms — in his garden. "My sole ambition right now is to become a fairly good gardener. I think I'll attack army worms," quipped Flynn, 56, who retires here today as inspector general of the Air Force, ending a 35-year military career. Flynn was the ranking POW colonel when he was held more than five years in North Vietnamese prisons after his F-105 fighter was shot down over Hanoi in October 1967. "I very seldom think of the POW experiences anymore, no more than my experiences in World War II or in Korea," Flynn said Thursday. "It's all a part of the fabric of military life. It would be unusual if we dwelled on those experiences." Flynn began his career here as an aviation cadet and later commanded the Air Force Military Training Center at Lackland, the Air Force's largest training command. About 80,000 recruits are trained at the base each year. Gen. Lew Allen, Air Force chief of staff, presented Flynn with the Distinguished Service Medal, Flynn's 80th military decoration. Flynn also has been awarded two Purple Hearts, the Air Force Cross and 15 Air Medals. "I have nothing against the North Vietnamese people nor do I have anything but sympathy for the people of Cambodia," Flynn said. "Cambodia is stark reality in such viciousness and magnitude, I think it ranks with Hitler's destruction of the Jewish population. "But I have nothing but contempt and distrust with those governments. I completely disregard what they say and respond only to what they do," he added. Because of his rank, Flynn spent most of his imprisonment in solitary confinement. He had to rely on codes to transmit any orders or communicate with fellow POWs. "It was probably the greatest challenge there is from the standpoint of faith and service and nation," he said in 1976, three years after his release. "The POWs were not specially selected to hold that duty," he added. "They were a random selection of officers and airmen.

Powell sentenced to death for killing

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — David Lee Powell, portrayed as a young genius who became a "speed freak" during the heyday of the counter-culture, has been assessed the death penalty in the AK-47 slaying of Patrolman Ralph Ablanedo. An appeal to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals is automatic. Defense attorneys have indicated they will make a new challenge to the constitutionality of the death penalty. The jury of seven women and five men only took 90 minutes to reject an emotional plea by the defense for Powell's life. Ablanedo's slender young widow, Judy, refused to talk with reporters, but District Attorney Ronald Earle said she was "grateful to the jury."

Powell, 27, took the verdict without any display of emotion. But he looked haggard and his eyes were red-rimmed on the final day of his trial, which began Sept. 18. Ablanedo was cut down May 18 with a burst from an AK-47 assault rifle that tore through his "bullet proof" vest after stopping Powell's car for out-of-date paper dealer plates. The 7.62mm AK-47 was made behind the Iron Curtain and functions like a machine gun when set on full automatic. Powell also allegedly threw an M-67 American grenade at other officers, but it failed to explode.

Sheila Margaret Meinert, 27, the driver of Powell's car, also is charged with capital murder and is scheduled for trial next month. Jurors found that Powell deliberately killed Ablanedo, 26, and would threaten society with further violence. Those two findings made the death penalty automatic. "This is a great travesty of justice. ... The jury was out for blood and they got it. David may get the death penalty, but almighty God will witness this," said Powell's maternal aunt, Frida Malone of Dallas. Powell's mother, whose loud sobs filled the courtroom when the guilty verdict was announced Wednesday, was back home in Dallas. "She said she couldn't endure any more," said Mrs. Malone. Earle said the verdict was "an indication of how the community feels."

"Nobody hated David Lee Powell, but what happens to David Lee Powell now is necessary," Earle said. Powell was valedictorian of his senior class at Campbell, near Greenville, in 1968. With an IQ of about 145 — genius level — he entered the Plan II honors program at the University of Texas here. Relatives and a psychiatrist they retained said that's when he began to experiment with drugs and show changes in his personality. Defense lawyer Edith Ruwerts, wearing an all-black pants suit and a large silver cross, shocked the audience into audible gasps by brandishing a large hypodermic needle before the jury. She reminded jurors that condemned persons in Texas now are executed with a lethal dose of sodium thiopental, injected through an intravenous (IV) tube. "When you go to injection, then one of you will be the one — if you sign a death penalty — that injects it into the IV. You sleep with it. I don't. I've done my work," said Mrs. Roberts.

MARATHON SWIMMERS — Diana Nyad, 29, left, and Stella Taylor, 46, both challenged the sea last August and failed. Miss Taylor, who failed in her effort to swim the 100-mile stretch from the Bahamas to Florida, will make another try starting next Saturday. Ms. Nyad, who was unsuccessful in her attempt at a 103-mile Cuba to Florida crossing, is at a crossroads in her life and is undecided about what she wants to do next.

The secret is to stay in bed Snoozing diet sweeps Italy

ROME (AP) — A new diet is sweeping Italy — or at least languishing its way up the Tyrrhenian seacoast from Amalfi to Naples to Rome and will one of these days yawn its way to the Italian Riviera.

In the easy going Italian style, no jogging, sprinting, yoga or calisthenics are required.

Quite the opposite, in fact. One stays in bed all day and refrains from getting nervous.

Reclining like a Roman in Lucullan luxury (after the manner of Lucius Lincinius Lucullus, the Roman general and epicure who according to surviving statuary definitely had a weight problem) has become the new fad diet for cruiser class Italian opera divas who put aboard too much pasta during the summer recess and want to get back to clipper-sized by La Scala's opening night.

Darya Quinn, gossip columnist for the Rome Daily American, revealed the secrets of the snoozing diet after a recent fact-finding expedition down the Via Veneto, her turf for titillating tattle and an occasional pinch of scandal. Fortunately not all of Rome had taken to its beds to shed excess poundage and few acolytes of the dolce vita were abroad on that famous boulevard to fill her in on the details of what she soon told her readers was "the new, comfortable and chic" way to shape up.

"You don't get up in the morning," Ms. Quinn passed on the new horizontal counter-attack on calories, "but you sip your tea with a biscuit. You freshen up, and rest in bed reading, ringing up, writing, painting, thinking and doing whatever doesn't make you nervous."

That, apparently, is the nerve center of the whole diet: don't get nervous, even about the mounting telephone bill as you chatter with your friends in recumbent ease.

"Then at midday," columnist Quinn continues, "You get up and go for an hour of strolling." — This probably to prevent bed sores and give the phone a rest. — "Then again in bed after a light lunch of meat, vegetables and water. In the afternoon you receive your friends, while in bed and while sipping with them a strong tea."

Sandwiches and cakes are permitted the visitors, but the couchant calorie counter must be satisfied solely with the tea.

"At dinner," Quinn resumes her rundown, "you participate in the family evening meal, eating cheese and vegetables and drinking milk. Then to bed again."

Nothing about a midnight snack or somnambulant raid on the fridge.

If the slumbering slimmer can endure this indolent pace for a week, "you lose three or four kilos" (up to almost 9 pounds), Quinn promises, "and emerge from bed with splendid complexion, soft humor and resplendent eyes."

Which is the way I usually arise from bed anyway, except the scale always shows I have put on another pound or two. It must be nerves.

Dear Abby

Bills Dentist For Making Her Wait

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I had a 2:30 p.m. dental appointment for a routine cleaning and checking. The dentist's office phoned me at noon to ask if I could possibly make it 1:30 p.m. instead, so I broke my neck to get there an hour earlier. Would you believe I sat in the waiting room cooling my heels until 3:30 p.m.! I was fit to be tied.

When I finally got in to see the dentist he didn't even apologize for keeping me waiting, and nobody thanked me for coming early. His nurse mumbled something about an emergency which was supposed to make everything all right.

Today I sent my dentist a bill for $30, explaining that my time was worth at least $15 an-hour.

Care to comment?

STEAMED IN CONN.

DEAR STEAMED: Had you been the emergency, you would have been much more understanding. But they did owe you a "thank you" for coming early, as well as a "sorry" for the delay.

Billing the dentist for your time was an appropriate protest, but getting the money will be like pulling teeth.

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen this subject in your column, but I think it's worth mentioning.

I am constantly baffled as to why so few people, male or female, lower the toilet lid after use. Many men show a shocking lack of consideration for others by failing to lower the SEAT — but failing to lower the lid is equally offensive in my view.

I notice that even women who maintain immaculate homes are as guilty as those who lead a more casual lifestyle. I've never been able to understand this.

It would be difficult to consider a toilet a thing of beauty, but with raised lid or seat, the total esthetics of the room are lost if indeed they ever existed.

Have you noticed similar behavior? Or do you agree that the lid is to be used for purposes other than a back rest?

JIM IN PANAMA CITY, FLA.

DEAR JIM: Personally, I don't care whether the lid is up or down. However, the seat is quite another matter.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please ask your professional consultants how close to a TV set a child can sit without damaging his eyes? My grandmother keeps telling me that my kids will ruin their eyes if they sit too close to the set.

Also, my neighbor says she heard that constant exposure to the radiation rays of television can cause cancer.

Please print your answer. I am sure many others would like to know.

BOSTON HERALD AMERICAN FAN

DEAR FAN: My experts agree that sitting too close (closer than six feet) to the TV set can cause eye strain, headaches, etc. And they recommend that a dim light should be on while watching television. To date there is no evidence that television radiation causes cancer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LEE ON LONG ISLAND: "Chutzpah" is borrowing ice and glasses from a neighbor whom you have not invited to the party.

THE LIGHT TOUCH
By Sherry Wegner

You know you've reached middle age when your weight-lifting consists mainly of standing up.

Remember when an "expensive drinking habit" meant bourbon, not coffee?

Most of us who got wrist watches when we graduated from high school now have kids who wear them to kindergarten.

Folks who are always hitting the ceiling are apt to be full of hot air.

Look out the window from the breakfast table, and you see the bird after the worm, the cat after the bird, and the dog after the cat. It gives you a little better understanding of the morning's news.

Clubs, organizations to be listed in tabloid

Family News has begun work on the 1978 Clubs and Organizations tabloid to be included with the Oct. 26 edition of the Big Spring Herald.

Questionnaires to be filled out by presidents have been mailed to 180 organizations on whom we had an address. If you have not received your questionnaire, please check with last year's president and other members of the club as our information is not current.

If your organization was overlooked, questionnaires are available at the Herald.

The completed forms must be returned to the Herald no later than Oct. 10. Presidents will have their pictures taken for the tabloid from 1 to 5 p.m. Oct. 9 and 10.

Included with the mailed questionnaires and also available at the Herald are letters for club reporters containing information to help them in reporting club news.

The purpose of the Clubs and Organizations tabloid is to provide the public with information on who does what for Big Spring. It is a valuable reference source for individuals, organizations and businesses. We appreciate your cooperation in making it complete.

TWEEN 12 and 20
Smoke in room got him 'high'
By Robert Wallace Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I was attending a party where pot was being smoked. I didn't smoke, in fact I have never tried pot, but somehow I got the feeling I was "high." Is this possible? — Fergie, Santa Rosa, Calif.

Fergie: You don't have to be a pot head to get "high." Just breathing the smoke in a smoky room can do it! Tests by doctors have proven this true.

Dr. Wallace: My dad and I have blue eyes and my sister and mother have brown eyes. Last night we had a friendly family feud discussing which color of eyes are better. Personally, I don't think the color of eyes has anything to do with seeing. What do you think? — Brenda, Goshen, Ind.

Brenda: A doctor, Allan Markle from Huntsville, Ala., used 40 students in a variety of tests. He concluded that light-eyed people excel at work needing patience and consideration. Dark-eyed people were better at tasks requiring fast action.

According to Dr. Markle, a blue-eyed man may make a better baseball pitcher because he must be cool and calculating on the mound; while a brown-eyed man would most likely be a better batter because of his quick reflex in hitting the ball.

I think I'd really have faith in Dr. Markle's tests if I knew Pete Rose's eyes are brown.

Dr. Wallace: Last August my family moved from Colorado to Ohio. I had lived in Colorado all my life. It was my first year in high school so I was nervous enough without the move.

During the school year I felt out of place and didn't make many friends because I'm rather shy. I want things to be different this school year. What are some of the things I should do? — B.L. Piqua, Ohio

B.L.: You will feel much more comfortable in your sophomore year. Most freshmen feel lost regardless of moving.

My answer to you is to get involved in school functions and activities and clubs. It is through these meetings that close friendships are formed.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

PTA leader course reset

Sherry Wegner, president of the Big Spring City Council PTA, has announced that the PTA Leadership-Parliamentary Course planned for Oct. 2 has been postponed and rescheduled for Oct. 9.

The workshop will take place from 6 to 10 p.m. at the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room and participation is required of all PTA officers.

It is also open to school principals and all PTA members.

All parents of school children are urged to become a member of their PTA. Membership dues range from $1 to $1.25 depending on which school your child attends.

Birthday gift is baby girl

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen of Fort Worth announce the birth of their first child, a daughter named Alisa Alaire. Mrs. Allen is the former Alice Long of Big Spring.

The baby was born on her mother's birthday, Sept. 14, at 3:09 a.m. at Harris Hospital, Fort Worth. She weighed 6 pounds, 4 ounces and was 19 1/2 inches long at birth.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. M.A. Long of Big Spring. Mr. and Mrs. Bowers Purcell of Lamesa are the paternal grandparents.

Alisa also has a paternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Nora Bankhead of Big Spring.

It's A Small World

Ever run into a friend in Tokyo, or meet one of your neighbors in Amsterdam? Maybe not—but such things are happening every day!

It makes you stop and think—the way this world is shrinking. It makes you wish that the men and women who live on opposite sides of the globe had more things in common.

There can be no more unifying force in the world than a common belief in God. And toward that ideal we are rapidly progressing. Christians the world over are feeling and expressing their unity of faith and purpose.

Sunday is World-Wide Communion Sunday. On that day, within the space of a few short hours, Christians in every land will reverently participate in the Lord's Supper which has been a mark of Christian faith for almost two thousand years.

House making little headway in investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators say they've made little headway in determining whether there was crime syndicate involvement in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. On that note of frustration, the House Assassinations Committee wrapped up a month of public hearings on Ken-neddy's death. It has scheduled additional hearings in November on the assassination of civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. Staff investigators are pursuing a few remaining clues in both the King and Kennedy cases and the committee convenes in December to reach final conclusions in both. As the Kennedy hearings ended Thursday, the committee chairman, Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, noted, "There have been loose ends in our hearings. Most of them we hope to be able to tie down in our final report. But frankly, life itself contains loose ends. Not every question that can be asked can be answered." The issue of possible crime syndicate involvement in Kennedy's murder has been one of the toughest for the committee to resolve. "The question of organized crime involvement is still an open one. Nothing that has been uncovered excludes it," remarked Robert Blakey, the committee's chief counsel. Frustration was evident as committee members pondered the sworn testimony of Santo Trafficante, identified by law enforcement authorities as a longtime boss of La Cosa Nostra operations in Florida. Trafficante denied any knowledge or participation in the assassination.

MASH MEETS LAFD — Actor Jamie Farr, left, introduces a Los Angeles Fire Department fireman to the star of the "M.A.S.H." television series, Alan Alda during a fire on the set call in Los Angeles Wednesday. Farr, who plays the phony transvestite Cpl. Clinger said the real hero of the fire was the man who saved all his dress costumes.

Falconer nurses birds to health

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Master falconer John Karger isn't choosy about the birds he perches on his wrist. It might be a picturesque falcon, a stately eagle or maybe even — ugh — a homely vulture. Karger, you see, runs a halfway house for birds.

The bearded young falconer takes in wounded birds of prey, nurses them back to health and uses the ancient art of falconry to retrain them to hunt for themselves in the wild.

"No money, nothing is as valuable as seeing a bird fly out that had been found shot or injured," said Karger, who's been caring for birds for 15 years — ever since some grade school friends dumped a box of baby barn owls at his doorstep.

"I want to educate people to be rational about these birds. Hunters see a hawk and think, 'That's just an old chickenhawk,' so they shoot it. There's no reason to slaughter birds of prey," he said.

Karger, who has no college degree and taught himself to train animals and birds, takes his educational program to civic clubs, schools, fairs and festivals across Texas.

The star of the show will be one of his current patients, gracefully swooping through the air and landing on Karger's gloved wrist precisely on whistled commands.

The meager honorariums, donations and fees from the shows finance his efforts. He lives with his parents and is aided by a few veterinarians, who must perform the surgery on the injured birds.

Karger, one of very few falconers licensed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, to handle endangered bald eagles, hopes to open a rehabilitation center near Houston next year with money promised by a Houston donor.

It was the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service that sent Karger a protected golden eagle that had been gunned down in New Mexico. For two years, Karger nursed and trained the eagle, which became popular at his shows. The eagle later died from a heart attack brought on by infection from an overlooked shotgun pellet.

"Sometimes it takes two years in a severe case like that one for the bird to heal and be retrained to go back in the wild," said Karger.

Among his current patients are a red-tailed hawk named "Solitaire," a young black vulture and an incredibly ugly turkey vulture, which bit Karger's already talon-scarred hand the first time he touched the bird.

State and federal wildlife officials, zoos and private citizens refer the birds to Karger. Most are picked up by concerned individuals.

Karger, who says he'll take in anything except a wild skunk, cared for about 120 injured birds at his facilities last year. More than 80 were successfully released on South Texas ranches.

"At first, I have to handle them all the time, so they become dependent on man for food. You have to retrain them for the wild, remind them they can hunt," said Karger.

His patients begin flying gradually to strengthen unused muscles, before Karger takes them on hunting excursions, where they hunt for game from his wrist.

They are housed in big rooms, where Karger can release mice for the birds to capture in order to sharpen their hunting instincts and reduce their dependence on man.

Karger recently stopped a rogue hawk from terrorizing the ducks at Fort Sam Houston's historic 5th Army Quadrangle by capturing it with a net rather than killing it. "That's an example of how a problem can be solved without losing a life," he explained.

His hawks are also handy in clearing buildings and airport runways of pesky pigeons and grackles, natural prey for hawks.

"The hawk isn't going to catch the whole flock," grinned Karger, "but he'll scare the rest away."

'Kaz' not your usual lawyer television series

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Like many lawyers, Martin Kazinski has had lots of experience with criminals. But his is from the wrong side of the bars.

Kazinski is the unorthodox hero of the new CBS Sunday night series "Kaz," which is not just another lawyer show. Kaz learned his law from the inside — he studied and passed the bar while in prison.

The concept of the show, which plunges a streetwise excon into the staid world of a prestigious law firm, was created by actor Ron Leibman, who plays Kaz with unusual energy and intensity.

Leibman is married to Linda Lavin, whose series "Archie" immediately precedes "Kaz."

"Kaz" could be one of the few new series to survive in a competitive atmosphere where rookie shows have as much chance as kamikaze pilots. In a preview showing Sunday, Sept. 10, "Kaz" more than held its own against the conclusion of ABC's "Roots." The final chapter of the rerun of "Roots" placed first in the ratings, while "Kaz" tied for 18th with 29 percent of the audience.

It appears to be just the right show to harness the talents of Leibman, who starred on Broadway and in such movies as "Slaughterhouse Five," "Where's Poppa?," "Hot Rock," "Super Cops," and the upcoming "Norma Rae." The series resulted partly from the failure of another pilot he made for CBS last year.

"They liked him very much, they even liked the pilot, but in the end they didn't put it on," said executive producer Marc Merson. In that pilot, Leibman played an individualistic policeman whose behavior gets him into trouble, in the mold of "Baretta."

Leibman brought his idea for "Kaz" to Merson and Lorimar Productions. The characters and story were developed by Leibman and Merson, the script written by Sam H. Rolfe, who became the producer.

Merson said, "We've had people ask us if it's possible to become a lawyer while in prison. It is possible. There are some examples from real life and there is even one judge here who became a lawyer after a record as a juvenile offender."

Washington (AP) — Tax credits for college tuition still have a chance of becoming law this year after winning a last-minute reprieve in a congressional conference committee.

It came Thursday when House members on the committee, eager to save at least part of the package, dropped the part allowing tax benefits to also go to pupils in private elementary and secondary schools.

The sticking point was that most of the aid to private school pupils would go to those in church-run schools, something opponents said would violate the Constitution's provisions guaranteeing separation of church and state.

Senate members on the committee argued that rather than accept that, the Senate would be willing to sacrifice even the college credits.

Faced with that possibility a few weeks before the November elections, House members reluctantly agreed to let the college aid stand alone.

But House and Senate approval of the hard-fought compromise still would not guarantee final approval of the college credits.

Even as the conferees were meeting, President Carter was repeating to a news conference his concern about the whole tuition-credit concept.

Carter has said several times he considers the idea wasteful because the aid would go to the rich and poor

Poodle grooming tips at HC

The Adult and Continuing Education department at Howard College will be offering a six-week course in Poodle Grooming beginning Monday. The course will be held on Monday nights from 7:30-8:30 in Room A4 of the Administration building. The cost of the course will be $7.

The course is designed to teach poodle-owners how to groom their poodle at home. Lillian Wheat, a local poodle owner, will be the instructor. Ms. Wheat grooms her own dog in her home and enjoys doing it.

For additional information, call the Adult and Continuing Education office at 267-6311 extension 66 or come by the office located in the Administration building.

The winners are being held until the televised Saturday evening competition crowns the new Miss World-America. Miss Photogenic was selected by the Huntsville Media and announced in Thursday night's Pageant competition. Miss Photogenic, Miss Texas Deborah Palmer, from Irving, Texas, displays her trophy.

UT law students claim Board pries too deeply

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — University of Texas law students say the Board of Law Examiners pries too deeply into their personal lives and charges them too much for doing so.

Elizabeth Alston distributed copies Thursday of the students' complaints at a hearing before the Sunset Advisory Commission.

The board, as well as the State Bar of Texas, will go out of existence next Aug. 31 unless the Legislature, which created the commission, extends its life.

The commission staff recommended that the bar become a private professional organization and that a state agency supervised by the Texas Supreme Court regulate lawyers.

The staff also recommended ending the bar's restriction on lawyer advertising and transferring the new Texas Law Center to the state for use by courts and judicial agencies.

The students said Texas is the only state that requires two character investigations before a student may take the bar exam to obtain a law license. They recommended eliminating the second investigation.

They said first-year students are required to answer questions on marital status, political affiliations, financial affairs, emotional difficulties and civil litigation against them. They recommended eliminating "those questions which invade the individual's privacy and are irrelevant to the issue of good moral character."

Students must pay at least $75 to the Board of Law Examiners for the first investigation fee — plus a possible $75 penalty if they wait too long to file their answers — and another $75 before taking the bar exam. They asked that the fees be lowered.

"One criticism of the state bar is that it is too establishment, and I hope that will change by the next convention," said bar president Cullen Smith.

He said, however, it is in the public interest to force lawyers to join the bar and that all should belong to it — rather than have voluntary membership.

Spokesmen for the Texas Turnpike Authority told the commission it would be impossible to sell long-term bonds for toll roads if the Legislature assumed more control over the authority.

Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, suggested the Legislature might consider tax support for toll roads to reduce interest rates on bonds.

The authority, as well as the bar, board of law examiners and 23 other agencies are being reviewed before the Aug. 31, 1979, deadline.

Tuition tax credit bill still has chance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tax credits for college tuition still have a chance of becoming law this year after winning a last-minute reprieve in a congressional conference committee.

It came Thursday when House members on the committee, eager to save at least part of the package, dropped the part allowing tax benefits to also go to pupils in private elementary and secondary schools.

The sticking point was that most of the aid to private school pupils would go to those in church-run schools, something opponents said would violate the Constitution's provisions guaranteeing separation of church and state.

Senate members on the committee argued that rather than accept that, the Senate would be willing to sacrifice even the college credits.

Faced with that possibility a few weeks before the November elections, House members reluctantly agreed to let the college aid stand alone.

But House and Senate approval of the hard-fought compromise still would not guarantee final approval of the college credits.

Even as the conferees were meeting, President Carter was repeating to a news conference his concern about the whole tuition-credit concept.

Carter has said several times he considers the idea wasteful because the aid would go to the rich and poor alike, regardless of need. Despite those misgivings, however, Carter has never said flatly he would veto college credits.

Sen. Russel B. Long, D-La., whose Finance Committee produced the credit bill, said Thursday he "has been led to believe the president might sign it if the cost is held down."

The provision approved by the conference committee would cost the federal treasury about $1 billion a year when fully effective in 1980. That is considerably less than the version originally advocated by the Senate.

The bill would allow a tax credit, which is subtracted directly from taxes owed, of 35 percent of tuition costs paid after July 31, 1978. The maximum credit for 1978 would be $100, rising to $150 in 1979 and $250 in 1980.

The credit would be available to full-time students in college or post-secondary vocational schools. Half-time students would become eligible starting in 1980.

An individual could get the credit for himself, his spouse and dependents. But none of the benefit would go to families or students who are so poor that they owe no income tax.

GOD HAS SPOKEN TO HIS PEOPLE

19 Since therefore, brethren, we have confidence to enter the holy place by the blood of Jesus,

20 by a new and living way which He inaugurated for us through the veil, that is, His flesh,

21 and since we have a great priest over the house of God,

22 let us draw near with a sincere heart in full assurance of faith, having our hearts sprinkled clean from an evil conscience and our bodies washed with pure water.

23 Let us hold fast the confession of our hope without wavering, for He who promised is faithful;

24 and let us consider how to stimulate one another to love and good deeds,

25 not forsaking our own assembling together, as is the habit of some, but encouraging one another; and all the more, as you see the day drawing near.

Youngster leads World Series

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Severiano Ballesteros, the spectacular young Spaniard who has dominated European golf for three years, is having some second thoughts about joining the American tour.

"I don't know. I haven't made up my mind. It is very difficult for me to decide," Ballesteros said after a 1-under-par 69 had staked him to the first-round lead Thursday in the prestigious World Series of Golf.

After his surprise victory in the Greensboro Open this year, he'd said publicly he would accept the offer of an American Tour card and join the U.S. circuit in January. Now, however, he's not so sure.

"The courses are better, the conditions are better, the money is better, everything is better over here," the hard-hitting 21-year-old admitted. "But they need me in Europe. It is very difficult for me to decide. I don't know what I'll do."

Ballesteros, who counts the German and Scandinavian Open titles among his four European victories this year, won his way into the select, 26-man field here by leading the European Order of Merit for the third consecutive season. And he took the lead with a little wedge shot to three feet on the 17th, a birdie that made him the only man in the field able to break par 70 in the chilly, windy weather that played over the dry, fast, 7,180-yard South course at the Firestone Country Club.

His troubles were nothing compared to those of some of the world's finest players. Bill Kratzert, for example, had the lead until he visited two hazards on the way to a triple-bogey 8 on the 16th hole about the same time Ballesteros was making birdie on the 17th. Lee Trevino also had an 8 on his card and shot 75. And Jerry Pate scored a pair of 7's, hit at least 2 shots left-handed, once hit from his knees and finished with an 84.

Jack Nicklaus shot a 72 and was glad to get it after a bogey-bogey-bogey string beginning on the seventh. And Tom Watson, gunning for repeat titles as Player of the Year, Vardon Trophy winner and leading money-winner, said he "was fortunate to shoot a 74. I didn't play very well. If you can ever say you're happy to shoot 74, I guess I can say it today."

Masters champ Gary Player shot 76, U.S. Open king Andy North had 77 and PGA titleholder John Mahaffey 75.

That left defending champion Lanny Wadkins and Hubert Green tied for second at par 70. Wadkins had 91-putt greens, including one 40-footer to save par, and Green scored an eagle-3. Hale Irwin, runner-up in this event the last two years, Tom Kite and Dr. Gil Morgan were another shot back at 71.

BASEBALL'S CROWNING GLORY — This Associated Press cartoon by staff artist Joe Yeninas is for use as desired with stories on the upcoming World Series. Runnels sweeps by Pecos, Sweetwater

Both teams representing Runnels Junior High were victorious in Thursday night action.

The White team stormed to a 22-0 lead against Pecos Zavala and then relied on a stingy defense to escape with a 22-12 victory. The Yearlings compiled 260 yards total offense, with all of it coming on the ground.

Runnels took the opening kickoff and drove 66 yards in six plays. Keat Wilkins had the big run on this drive, a 50-yard scamper in which he was injured. Bancroft capped the drive on a one-yard plunge. Jesse Woodruff ran the two-point conversion.

The Yearlings scored again in the first quarter when they drove 22 yards in three plays. Woodruff's return set the scoring drive up, which was culminated on another Bancroft drive.

Runnels scored again with 1:29 remaining in the first half when Woodruff raced 63 yards to paydirt. Bancroft added the conversion run to make the score 22-0.

Pecos returned the ensuing kickoff for a score to make it 22-6 at halftime. Zavala scored again late in the third quarter for the final touchdown of the night.

Coach Bobby Zellars had praise for his offense consisting of quarterback Adam Rodriguez, backs Ricky Patton, Woodruff, and Bancroft. Lineemen drawing praise included Fred Rubio, Cliff Baker, John Smithwick, Phillip Harrison, James Stroud, David Moore and Mike Rountree. Defensive stars were Pernel Parker, Tim Rangell, and Gerald Wrightstill.

The Runnels Red scored with 26 seconds remaining in the first quarter to take an 8-0 victory over Sweetwater. Kenny Hart capped a five play, 33-yard drive on an 18-yard run for scoring honors. Hart also added the two-point conversion.

The rest of the game was a defensive struggle. Runnels tallied for an apparent touchdown when Gerry Hamilton made a beautiful 40-yard run, only to be nullified on a clipping penalty.

Zellars had praise for the Red offense, consisting of QB Pete Valenzuela, Hart, Hamilton, Alan Trevino, Ron Clanton, Del Green and Kelly Rogers.

Defensive stars for the tough Red defense went to Johnny Ross, Rod Faulkner, Tod Cudd, John Roemer, Ricky Garcia, Rod Harris and David Humphrey.

Goliad at Monahans

The Goliad Mavericks, both the Black and White football teams, travel to Monahans tomorrow to play the Green and White 7th grade teams of Monahans. This game is an annual affair which always proves to be a tough contest.

The Black team of coaches Hise and Tipping will begin play at 9:30 a.m. against the White team. Co-captains for tomorrow's game will be Marty Rodriguez, Robert Porras, Mike Brown, and Tracy Farthing. Quarterbacking and leading the team on offense are Scott Richardson and Rodriguez.

The White team of coaches Roberson and Ibarra will play the Monahans Green team at 11:00 a.m. Co-captains for the Mavericks will be Mark Johnson, Allen Davis, and Elijah Aldridge. Leading the team at the quarterback position will be Johnson and Holston Banks.

Both games are to be played in the junior high stadium which is a few blocks east of the high school stadium in Monahans.

WATSON SHOOTS 74...Tom Watson, bidding for his second straight Vardon Trophy, claims he was lucky to come out with a 74 in opening action of the World Series of Golf.

Horns a 2-TD favorite

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

Freshmen quarterbacks could decide Saturday night's Southwest Conference football clash between the sixth-ranked Texas Longhorns and the surprising Texas Tech Red Raiders.

Coach Rex Dockery said Ron Reeves, who engineered the Red Raiders' 42-26 come-from-behind victory over Arizona, will start against the rugged Texas defense which has eight starters back from last year.

Texas Coach Fred Akers will likely start either Randy McEachern or Mark McBath but freshman quarterback Donnie Little will be on call. "You'll start seeing more of him," said Akers after Texas struggled to a 17-3 victory over Wyoming last week.

Odds-makers rate Texas a 14-point favorite over the Red Raiders, who scared Southern California before falling 17-9 in their opener.

Texas will be missing All-SWC defensive end Tim

Campbell who is out for the season with torn ligaments in his left knee.

"Texas has a great defense," said Dockery. "It will be a big test for our offense."

A sellout crowd of 50,000 plus was expected for the 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

In intersectional games involving SWC teams, Texas Christian was a three-touchdown underdog to unbeaten Penn State on the road; Baylor was a 14-point underdog at Ohio State; Houston was a six-point underdog at Florida State; Arkansas was a three-touchdown pick over Tulsa; and Louisiana State was a four-touchdown nod over Rice in Houston.

The SWC is 9-7 against outside competition. The league was 14-6 after three weeks last year when it went on to lead the nation in non-conference winning percentage.

There can be no more a frustrated team than the Baylor Bears who have lost by two points to Georgia and four points to Kentucky.

Southern Methodist last week while TCU is on the upswing with a 14-10 victory over Oregon.

Houston outgained Utah 45-28 after losing its opener to Memphis State.

Arkansas has beaten Vanderbilt and Oklahoma State but has yet to flash all its firepower in one game. After playing Iowa State tough in a losing cause, Rice was blasted 66-7 by Oklahoma last week.

Grady host Paint Rock

The Grady Wildcats, fresh from a 48-0 win at the hands of Highland, will try to improve on their 1-1 record when they host the Paint Rock Indians.

Paint Rock rides into town with a 2-0 record. Grady coach Richard Gibson said that "Paint Rock has good size, depth, and a lot of speed. I was talking to the Cherokee coach, who was their opponent last week, and he said they (Paint Rock) were a very solid six-man team."

Sands visits Loraine

The Sands Mustangs will be hoping to break into that elusive win column when they travel to Loraine tomorrow night. It will be homecoming for the Loraine Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs, with a 1-2 record, are coming off a loss to Christ the King in Lubbock. Coach Clay Lightfoot lists size and quickness as the top assets of his team, with overall team speed being a weakness. The Bulldogs return nine starters both offensively and defensively. They will be led by ends Junior Martinez and Ricky Williams, plus tackle Frankie Martinez.

Coach Dickie Lepard will send his very young Mustang team into action tomorrow night with a lineup consisting of ends Frank Garfias and Steve Parker, tackles Danny Peugh and David Hall, guards Dennis Martin and Scott Robinson, center David Calivo, quarterback David Moseley, fullback David Long, and right halfback Bill Wiggington. Van Gaskins and Jesse Ybarra will run the plays in from their left halfback position. Sands starts only two seniors.

Coach Lepard says his Mustangs are physically as big as Loraine, with his main concern being the speed of the Bulldogs. Game time is 8:00, and the game will be broadcast on KBST.

Bum preps Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — If O.A. "Bum" Phillips knows his Houston Oiler football team, and he says he does, problems of the past week will be put aside Sunday for an important American Football Conference Central Division game at Cleveland. Bum Phillips is a confirmed optimist.

"There's no problem with this team," Phillips said. "We're not a junior high team where they say if this guy doesn't come out or this guy doesn't do that, you'll have a problem."

Phillips referred to a Tuesday walkout by starting quarterback Dan Pastorini, angered when he was criticized in public by offensive coordinator Ken Shipp for his play selection in Sunday's 10-6 loss to Los Angeles.

Pastorini also was unhappy that Phillips told his weekly news conference before he told Pastorini that the Oiler coaching staff would start calling plays in clutch situations.

Phillips said he'd bet his job that Pastorini would be back at Wednesday's workout and sure enough, the controversial quarterback showed up and worked out. Phillips termed the case closed.

"The situation with Pastorini was touchy but he is a grown man and I am a grown man and we've kissed and made up — not literally," Phillips said.

With the emotional problems apparently settled, Phillips still faces physical problems — those of two key players, rookie Earl Campbell and kick-return ace Billy Johnson.

Campbell suffered a strained hamstring in the fourth quarter against the Rams and Johnson, who missed the early season with a knee injury, injured the knee again in Wednesday's workout.

Both are expected to play but whether they will be at full speed is not known.

The Oilers will be trying to improve their rush and their 2-2 record against the Browns, who are 3-1 for the season after an overtime loss to Pittsburgh last week. Houston could tie the Browns for second place with a victory.

"Our rush has to improve and it will improve," Phillips said.

Concerning the Browns, Phillips said "Cleveland is a good football team. They were good last year until they lost (quarterback Brian) Sipe. You don't lose your quarterback and win many games. Cincinnati has a great football team but not without (Ken) Anderson."

And, thanks to Pastorini's return to workouts, the Oilers will have their No. 1 quarterback available to meet the Browns.

J.R. kayoes Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Houston pitcher J.R. Richard had reason to be pleased after pushing his season strikeout total — already a National League record for right-handers — to 303.

"I'm pretty well satisfied. I'm not totally content," Richard, 18-11, said after whiffing six in five innings as the Astros completed a three-game sweep with a 4-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

"I have to give God all the credit for all the glory I achieve," Richard said. The victory clinched at least a tie for fifth place for the Astros, who took a three-game lead over the last-place Braves in the National League West with three games to play.

Braves Manager Bobby Cox said, "It's disappointing to be in that position. But when you look at our club this same time last year and look at it again this year, you have to be enthused about the future."

Richard, a tall fastballer, socked his first homer of the season in the third inning, breaking up a scoreless deadlock with Atlanta rookie Larry McWilliams, 9-3.

Garden City hosts Miles

The Garden City Bearkats will be hoping to stop the speedy Miles Bulldogs tonight in a homecoming tilt.

Miles will sport a 2-1 record. They have beaten Loraine and Sterling City, with their only loss coming at the hands of Blanket. Garden City coach Jesse Smelley said that the Bulldogs have "speed galore. They are not big in size, but have 40 people on their squad."

The Bearkats are sporting a 1-2 record. After opening with a 7-0 victory over Merton, they have been overwhelmed by Forsan and "I said before the season that we could be a good or great football team," said Baylor Coach Grant Teaff. "Right now I'd say we are a good team. The difference between good and great is being able to do what it takes to win."

Water Valley sweeps 'Kats

Water Valley swept two matches from the Garden City Bearkats in girl's volleyball Tuesday night.

Water Valley won the junior varsity match by scores of 15-8, 15-3. Farris had 10 for the winners, with Lisa Carstensa the high point girl for the Bearkats.

In varsity action, the Garden City girls lost a close match by scores of 12-15, 16-14, and 10-12. Lanette Schwartz was the high point girl for Garden City.

Who'll be No. 1?

UNDATED — Now that Notre Dame has been taken care of, the rest of the country's college football teams can get down to serious business — the pursuit of the No. 1 ranking.

A RECORD — Houston Astros righthander J.R. Richard recorded his 300th strikeout for the season, which is a National League record, in Atlanta on Thursday. Richard left the game after the 5th inning when he developed a blister on the little finger of his pitching hand. The Astros won 4-3 over the Atlanta Braves.

Sands-Loraine on KBST

Big Spring High, Coahoma and Forsan all take a grid holiday tonight prior to next week's district openers. Ron Douglas Cowling, general manager of KBST, has announced the local radio station will broadcast the Sands — Loraine game on Saturday night 'live' from Loraine. New head coach of the Mustangs is former Coahoma standout, Dickie Lepard, who'll be looking for his first season victory. All you Sands boosters can expect a lively tussle from Loraine as it will be homecoming tomorrow night. KBST will begin coverage of the Sands — Loraine game Saturday with the Mustang warmup show at 7:45 p.m. Kickoff time is eight o'clock.

Farm Report suggest increase

WASHINGTON (AP) - A task force has told Congress that U.S. food aid should be increased and more emphasis put on helping needy countries develop economically so that their people can afford to eat better.

The task force's 268-page report on operations of the Food for Peace program was requested by Congress last year. It was sent to Capitol Hill earlier this week by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

It also criticized some aspects of using food aid as a foreign policy weapon, including the enforcement of human rights policy at the expense of hungry people.

Since the program began in 1954, about $26 billion worth of farm commodities has been shipped to scores of needy countries.

The panel said that its criticisms "should in no way be construed as a condemnation of U.S. food assistance efforts."

Nevertheless, it said, a number of factors "have at times compromised the program's effectiveness" to get food overseas, including:

- A limited responsiveness to world hunger needs during periods of world-wide food shortages.

- Vulnerability to domestic prices of commodities when supplies are relatively scarce.

- Administrative obstacles within the program such as budget limitations and different views among agencies handling food aid.

- The use of food aid for "foreign policy objectives unrelated to long-term development efforts" to help poor countries.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Dale E. Hathaway is chairman of the 14-member task force, which includes other federal officials and representatives of private foundations, the grain trade and a university.

The panel said it "recognizes that United States foreign policy objectives must continue to be given appropriate consideration" in the Food for Peace program, authorized by Public Law 480.

"Nevertheless, food assistance policy should firmly establish a consistent program commitment to feed the hungry and malnourished through direct distribution of food and to use P.L. 480 more effectively to promote economic development," it said.

China buys large amount of soybean oil

WASHINGTON (AP) - China has bought 20,000 metric tons of soybean oil from U.S. exporting firms for delivery by Sept. 30, 1979.

But the Agriculture Department said Thursday that the sales were listed as "optional origin" contracts, meaning that the exporters could provide China the oil from sources outside the United States. Brazil is a possibility.

As customary, the department did not identify the firms involved nor the terms of the sales.

China has bought U.S. cotton and oilseed products in recent years but until a few months ago had not bought U.S. grain for four years.

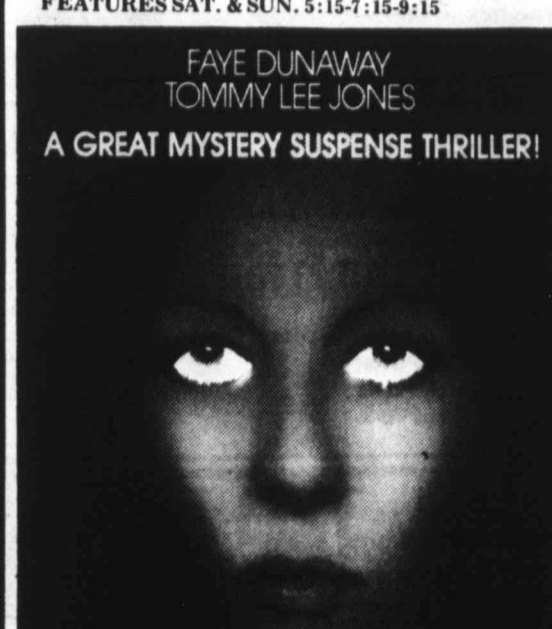

So far this year, however, China has bought about 2.5 million metric tons of U.S. wheat.

Camp David: A new way to do business?

WASHINGTON (AP) - Suddenly, people with a project to push are clamoring to get it the Camp David treatment.

It may point to a new way of doing political business.

The latest request came from Rep. John Conyers Jr., a Michigan Democrat who walked out of a White House meeting between President Carter and the Congressional Black Caucus after saying the administration is not doing enough to promote full employment.

Conyers and his colleagues want the White House to push for swift adoption of a bill that would set as a national goal the reduction of unemployment to no more than 4 percent within four years.

White House officials say Conyers proposed a meeting at Camp David to put pressure on congressional leaders for action on several bills, particularly the jobs bill.

Conyers' associates say he wasn't necessarily seeking a return to the presidential retreat in the Maryland mountains, site of the 13-day summit on the Middle East but, rather, was suggesting a "Camp David style" meeting to give the legislation a push.

Carter said that would not be appropriate, and after some argument about the blame for inaction on the full employment bill, Conyers walked out.

It's starting to appear that Carter has done for Camp David what Lyndon B. Johnson did for the telephone as a tool - or weapon - of political persuasion.

Ridin' fence
They call it Roscoe
with Marij Carpenter

Roscoe. That's in Nolan County. And unlike many of the towns I have written about in recent weeks, it is not a county seat. It was first made into a town plat in 1890. And at that time, the land speculators called it Vista for View. And there is a pretty view around Roscoe. I know one of the best times I ever had on the Fourth of July was at a gathering on the Fee Ranch over near Roscoe in 1977 where they had country music, barbecue, watermelon, singing on the grounds and all kinds of good things. It was lots of fun. And there certainly was a beautiful "vista" out there on that ranch. But around 1905, when somebody sent in the name of Vista for an official post office approval, there was already a Vista. It's down in South Texas where they have a "vista" of the Gulf. So, the group named it Roscoe. Some say it was for Roscoe Thompson, a Texas and Pacific Railroad foreman. Others thought it was for an early engineer. But it definitely was for some railroad named Roscoe. Like Westbrook, which was named for an early railroad surveyor. Roscoe's main economy for a town of around 2,000 good folks, is farming. And there are a lot of successful hardworking German farmers around there. A lot of folks say that the Roscoe farmers are so good that they can raise a crop if they just get six drops of rain in the spring. But this year, they only got two drops, and they have a bad crop by Roscoe standards. However, it's a better crop than many of the West Texas farming areas have this season. Some say that George Parks at the Roscoe Times has brought the rains each year with an Indian Dance he does on March 22 calling himself Indian George. But he missed a step or something, this year, because the spring rains failed to materialize. He had seven good crops out of eight years of dancing. He stole the idea from Injun John up in Plains who always danced on March 22 and said if the wind was out of the northeast that day, the spring rains would come. There used to be real Indians passed through the Roscoe area as they made a trek from Oklahoma to Mexico each year where they stole horses. They would go down through what is now Sweetwater, Roscoe, and Colorado City, on to the Big Spring, through Castle

Gap near Crane, across the Pecos at Horsehead crossing near Iatan and on to Mexico. There is also a small railroad in Roscoe called, the Roscoe, Snyder and Pacific Railroad. It is owned by a fellow in Snyder named Roger Mize and it goes to Snyder. It originally was scheduled to go on to the Pacific but it only made it one town past Snyder. But it is still used to unload cars from the Texas and Pacific and take them over to the Snyder area. A few years back, Roscoe farmers grew some beautiful sunflowers. A lot of people saw them as they passed by on IS 20. They were beautiful to behold, but the company went broke and the farmers didn't get any sunflowers seed money so they returned to cotton. The football team at Roscoe is called the Plow Boys and they play up about as many victories as they do defeats. Roscoe has hung on to its own personality out there on the edge of Nolan County and refused to give up and move into Sweetwater. Because people from Roscoe are from Roscoe—and nowhere else. And Roscoe does have a good "vista" out where I ride fence.

Action by Farabee should save funds, cut duplication

AUSTIN — The Legislative Budget Board voted unanimously to cut off funding of the Texas Industrial Commission's Mexico City office Friday. In a hearing on state budget requests, the board also decided to join two apparently duplicative programs for aiding homemakers who suddenly find they must become wage earners. Sen. William Moore, D-Bryan, argued for closing the Industrial Commission's only foreign office. "I've always thought that was a waste of money," Moore told the other budget board members. But he made one qualification: "If they come in and justify it, we can put (the money) back in." That would amount to $108,000 over the next two budget years. James H. Harwell, Industrial Commission executive director, said he thinks the office will be funded at some point in the state appropriations process. "Business between Texas and Mexico is increasing," Harwell said. He said the office assists Texans who are trying to do business in Mexico. For example, it arranges business contacts and participation in trade fairs. Ben Glawe, a former U.S. Embassy employee in Mexico City, runs the office. He has one secretary, a Mexican. The budget board — consisting of the lieutenant governors, house speaker, four senators and four representatives — also voted to save the state $100,000 a year by transferring a displaced homemakers pilot program from the Texas Rehabilitation Commission to the Texas Education Agency. The program, authorized by the 1977 Legislature, helps women 40 or older who are divorced or widowed after years of working only as non-paid homemakers. Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, recommended the transfer after budget board staff members said the Education Agency has a similar federally funded program. The Texas Employment Commission is authorized for another displaced homemaker program but has not developed it, the staff said. Farabee said the transfer should save the state money and cut duplication. In the fiscal year that ended Aug. 31, the Rehabilitation Commission had served 200 displaced homemakers at an average cost of $500 each. Only Rep. Joe Wyatt voted against the program transfer. One of the two program offices is in his home county of Victoria. The other is in Fort Worth. The budget board voted to seek an attorney general's opinion on whether the Texas Indian Commission has authority to contract for a $16 million housing project for Indians in the Dallas-Fort Worth area. Board members expressed concern about the state's responsibility under the proposed agreement with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The Indian Commission would contract for the federal money on behalf of intertribal organizations. Full funding would provide 420 dwelling units.

Merrill Lynch branches out into real estate

NEW YORK (AP) — Merrill Lynch, the big bull of securities, is planning to become a real estate agent, and things in that fragmented industry of small, local firms might never be the same. "We want to lead the industry in change," said Dakin B. Ferris, the Merrill Lynch & Co. executive vice president to whom the newly created operation, Merrill Lynch Realty Associates, will report. "The state of development in the residential real estate is comparable to the securities industry in the 1940," he said, referring to the many small firms that grew, merged, or sometimes disappeared. "We believe we're headed toward that move in real estate." Merrill Lynch's advantages are enormous in the real estate market which, though made up of local rather than national companies, is much larger than the securities industry. It already operates an employee relocation firm, a mortgage insurance company, and an asset management concern, and announced a couple of weeks ago that is negotiating to buy a mortgage broker. "This is the closing of the circle in real estate," said Ferris as he sat in his 47th floor office in lower Manhattan. "It fits very naturally into our concept of being in total financial services." Merrill Lynch has been positioning itself for years, observing the rising prices, the 67 percent home ownership rate, the constant geographical relocation of families — and the profit potential of it. Securities? Profitable, especially to Merrill Lynch, the biggest factor in the industry. But few people consider there might be even greater profit available in residential real estate. "We did an in-depth study last year and estimated that $8.7 billion was paid in residential real estate brokerage commissions," said Ferris. "We think that's conservative." That "conservative" figure, he continued, is several times larger than commissions in the total securities business, which last year amounted to about $2.7 billion.
