Carter vetoes 'inflationary' measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, risking congressional wrath, vetoed a $10.2-billion energy and water development bill today he said was wasteful and inflationary. House and Senate leaders prepared for quick attempts to override. "The question is one of fiscal responsibility," Carter said moments before signing the veto message in the oval office. "This has not been an easy decision for me to make," he said. "It's something I do not enjoy." He urged members of congress to work with the administration to develop a "responsible bill" for water projects, one that "we actually need at a cost we can afford." It was the sixth time Carter has used his veto authority. Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., told the Senate on Wednesday that he expected override attempts from both houses within hours of Carter's veto. He said he believed the Senate would succeed in its attempt, but House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, said he wasn't sure the two-thirds vote could be mustered among House members. "I think we had them today," he said Wednesday night, "but the White House is really putting on a full-court press." Both Byrd and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., took issue with the veto, which Carter promised Tuesday, and warned it could lead to a backlash against the president's top-priority energy package. "I don't like to see this brewing," said O'Neill, who predicted the House would override the veto. "There's going to be some rancor." The bill contains $6.1 billion for the Department of Energy, but that's not at issue. Most of the rest would go for dams and other water-resource projects. He was unhappy, too, that Congress restored six water projects he thought had been scuttled last year in a compromise on similar legislation. White House press secretary Jody Powell declared that even if Carter loses a veto fight, "The people will believe the president has done the right thing." But Gov. Richard Lamm of Colorado and several other Western officials called it "an act of war on the West" where more than half the projects are slated for construction. Lamm appeared at a briefing session for congressmen by Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus, Budget Director James T. McIntyre and others, exclaiming, "This administration has recommended no new water project starts in Colorado ... with the result that California takes a bigger drink from the Colorado River than we do. We have a claim to some of those resources... It's our life blood."

VETO NUMBER SIX — President Carter vetoes the $10.2 billion energy and water development bill at the White House before cameras today. He called the bill wasteful and inflationary. This was Carter's sixth use of his veto authority.

Food prices rise for first time since April's 1.8 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale food prices turned upward again last month, signaling a possible new round of increases at the grocery store, government figures indicated today. The Labor Department said wholesale food prices jumped 1.7 percent in September after two months of declines. It was the largest monthly increase since the 1.8 percent gain in April, when food prices were spiraling. Over-all wholesale prices of finished goods rose 0.9 percent, also the biggest gain since April. Non-food items rose 0.6 percent. The biggest increases were in wholesale prices for beef and veal. The higher costs of producing food are usually passed on to grocery shoppers eventually. So far this year, prices have been rising at an rate of about 10 percent, but the Carter administration has expected inflation to slow to 8 percent for the entire year. The administration has been counting on lower food prices to help slow the inflation rate, which was 8.8 percent in 1977. Only Wednesday, the administration's Council on Wage and Price Stability said in a report that "pressures on food prices have eased in recent weeks, bringing some relief to consumers." "However," it added, "the inflation rate for the year as a whole will show a clear acceleration from the rate of the past two years." It takes more than one month to establish a trend, but prices were rising rapidly at all stages of food production. Grocery store prices had remained steady in July and August, but the new report indicated more pressure on grocers to raise prices. Prices turned up after decreasing in August for processed poultry, vegetable oil and black pepper. Prices also went up, but less than in August, for pork, fish, dairy products, processed fruit and vegetables and flour-base mixes. Wholesale prices declined for fresh and dried fruits and vegetables, eggs and milled rice. Roasted coffee prices were unchanged. Among other items: —Wholesale prices turned upward for rubber shoes, home heating oil, home furnishings, soft drinks and prescription drugs. —Larger increases for gasoline, over-the-counter drugs and paper plates were reported than in August. —Prices dropped for motor oil and tires. —Prices rose 0.4 percent, a smaller increase than in August, for long-lasting consumer goods, called durable goods. Prices declined for luggage, household appliances. Furniture rose slightly, but prices for home electronic equipment, cars and lawnmowers rose sharply. After sudden swings in food and energy prices are removed, "the underlying rate of inflation has moved up from a rate of 6 percent in 1976-77 to an annual rate of over 7 percent this year," the wage and price council said in Wednesday's report.

Police can't weight to refute figures

By JAMES WERRELL. Big Spring Police have called estimates of their average weight fat-headed and short-sighted. "No way!" said Capt. Jim McCain about the average police officer who is supposed to be five feet, six-and-a-half inches tall, and weigh 236 pounds, according to estimates by local YMCA officials. McCain checked the department personnel files and did some figuring himself. Lo and behold, the average policeman grew two-and-three-quarters inches, and lost 36 1-3rd pounds. "Our math may have been wrong on the heights, but we were just using the height figures given to us by the men," said Jerry Zambrano, physical director at the Y. "We stick by the weight figures. We weighed each of them personally, and those are the most recent weights. Some of those personnel files could be 20 years old," he added. "Those files are updated, and a lot of the men are new anyway," countered McCain, who is on the tall-and-lean side himself. "There are some men who are pretty big around the middle, but I think their figures are a little high." Mike McCracken, YMCA director, had a suggestion: "The police shouldn't say anything. If they really are lighter, their charts will look a whole lot better at the end of the program." The program to which McCracken referred is a four-week shape-up course undertaken by the Big Spring Police and Fire departments at the YMCA under Zambrano. The figures which caused the fat to hit the fan were taken to gauge the progress made by each department during the program.

dead pope until the cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church meet on Oct. 14 to elect a new leader for the second time in two months. Workmen were already busy with preparations in the area to be sealed off for the electoral conclave, including the Sistine Chapel, the frescoed Borgia Apartments and a large section of offices and private apartments in the Apostolic Palace. The voting will begin Oct. 15. Many cardinals predicted it would continue for longer than the one day it took to elect Albino Luciani, the patriarch of Venice, to succeed Pope Paul VI on Aug. 26. Cardinal Juan Landazuri Ricketts, the archbishop of Lima, Peru, said the cardinals would "hold several encounters before the conclave in order to exchange opinions, impressions and experiences." In pre-conclave meetings in August, the cardinals reportedly had more discussion of the general criteria for Pope Paul's successor than of individual candidates. They agreed they wanted an Italian with pastoral rather than bureaucratic experience. "Undoubtedly those criteria retain now their full validity, which has actually increased," Cardinal Eduardo Pironio of Argentina said in a newspaper interview. "The fleeting

Dollie Decker stops worrying about One Mile Lake battle

Dollie Decker is quite ready to let someone else worry over the future of One Mile Lake, which has been the center of a storm of controversy for several years now. City officials announced plans to drain the lake many months ago but their hands were stayed by environmentalists who wanted to protect the wild life which frequents the area. Critics of the body of water said it was a breeding ground for mosquitoes, was an eye sore and discouraged growth within the immediate area. The environmentalists stuck by their guns, pointing to the fact that it is a bird sanctuary and, from a distance, is attractive to the eye. negotiated the sale of the 137 acres embracing the property for a cash consideration. The purchasers were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lusk, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lusk, Mr. and Mrs. Geary Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Monger.

Just when it appeared the lake would be sold for taxes in 1965, Mrs. Decker bought it. However, the property has been in Dollie's family since 1923. Dollie is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Denton. Her father once operated a dairy in the area. She had long hoped the lake could be drained and the land be used for industrial purposes. Water from the lake, when fed from heavy rains to the west, had posed problems for the lower parts of town in the west end. The City of Big Spring has already received $165,000 in federal funds for a drainage improvement project along Beal's Creek, which would include One Mile Lake. However, Bebe McCasland and other environmentalists stymied the project last year by appealing to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, claiming the city may not have done a thorough job in preparing an environmental review.

"We will do all we can... to stop the drainage of the lake," Ms. McCasland said recently. "Nobody yet has questioned the fact that here is federal money being given to a local community to affect state water. "One Mile Lake is a small puddle compared to everything else, but it is an important puddle to me. I can see beauty in it, and I'll fight for it." Ms. McCasland said that at one time she tried to purchase the land in order to develop a wild life refuge. Regardless of what happens in the controversy, Mrs. Decker has disassociated herself with it by selling her rights to the property. And she adds she breathed a great sigh of relief when the transaction was completed earlier this week.

United Way drive gains momentum

The Howard County United Way campaign is beginning to get the desired momentum and prospects are good that the drive will wind up on a successful note no later than Dec. 1. The UW committee met Wednesday at the Brass Nail Restaurant to hear a report that collections total $32,734.84, or 23 percent of the objective. The Professional Group, captained by Jimmy Anderson, is leading the teams in the field, with 55 per cent of objective behind it. Dr. Ron Cohorn is also a driving force behind the group. UW president Charles Bell and general chairman Daryle Hohertz are urging campaigners to be certain they work all their cards and to double back on those they have been unable to contact. Next meeting of the committee will take place at noon Wednesday at the La Posada Restaurant.

Workers complete Pope's tomb, site for conclave

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Hundreds came to pray before the tomb of Pope John Paul I beneath St. Peter's Basilica today, but the grotto was closed and Vatican officials said work on the tomb was not finished. There was no indication when the work would be completed. In St. Peter's, Cardinal Timothy Manning of Los Angeles celebrated the first of the masses to be said there daily for the 14,631 voters are registered in Howard County

The final day of registration for new voters, people who have moved to Big Spring, and people who have changed their voting precincts will be Sunday, according to Tax Assessor-Collector Zirah Bednar. "They can register if the letter is postmarked by the eighth," she said. "But they will be able to register here in the courthouse only through Friday afternoon."

Thus far, a total of 14,631 voters are registered in Howard County. The city has 10,737 registered voters. According to County Clerk Margaret Ray, four political parties will be represented on the November ballot: Democratic Republican, Raza Unida, and Socialist.

This is also the first month of the new automobile license cycle. Driver's who will have to renew in October should have received their renewal notice in the mail. If they have not, a title and registration receipt for the vehicle will be required. November notices will be going out in mid-October, according to Mrs. Bednar.

Conveyance of property to city expected Friday

The City of Big Spring likely will get conveyance of property on the 2½ acres at the Big Spring Industrial Park needed for construction of a 90,000-foot hangar. Lockheed Aircraft Service Co., will make use of the $1.8 million hangar if it wins a government contract to modify naval aircraft, starting operations in December.

The General Services Administration will convey the property to the city. City Manager Harry Nagel said the city can't spend any money on the hangar project until the property is deeded to the city. The Department of Defense will accept bids on the modification contract until Oct. 15 and will open the bids Dec. 1.

Nagel said that once the conveyance is made, construction on the 180x500 foot hangar should get under way within two weeks. The facility will be built with the help of a $1 million U.S. grant. McRae, a Levelland-based firm, will expedite work on the hangar. The conveyance of the remainder of the property in the industrial park likely will be made by the GSA toward the end of this month.

Extradition papers signed

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George Wallace has signed and mailed to Georgia Gov. George Busbee the extradition papers to return Gary Thomas Rowe Jr. to Alabama to stand trial for the 1965 murder of civil rights worker Viola Gregg Liuzzo.

Rowe, the FBI's chief informant inside the Ku Klux Klan during the civil rights protests of the 1960s, was indicted two weeks ago by a Lowndes County Grand Jury in the slaying of Mrs. Liuzzo. The mother of five children, the 39-year-old Mrs. Liuzzo had come to Alabama to help in the voting rights march from Selma to Montgomery when she was killed by a bullet fired from a passing car.

Ten claim paddling record

VENICE, La. (AP) — Ten members of the Royal Air Force claim to have set a record for paddling the Mississippi River in kayaks — 42 days, four hours and 59 minutes from Itasca, Minn., to the head of the river delta, 90 miles below New Orleans.

Only six of the British airmen actually paddled the three kayaks. Two others rode an inflated motorboat that was kept close by for safety, while two more men rode ahead in station wagons, setting up camp and preparing meals. They said the old record was 56 days, set in 1937.

Committee disbanded

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Stanford University's medical school faculty has disbanded its minority admissions committee following last July's Supreme Court decision in the Allan Bakke case. The university said Wednesday the faculty voted to create a single, expanded admissions committee that will screen the 5,500 applicants who apply for the 86 positions open in the freshman class. Stanford said its new admissions committee would consider grades, test scores and "distance traveled in the context of social or economic disadvantages." Since 1968, the school had sought a minimal goal of 20 percent of each entering class from minority groups.

Public assumption wrong

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The public and even the health professions seem to think tuberculosis is a disappearing disease, the state director of tuberculosis control has told the Florida Public Health Association, but their assumption is incorrect. "When one in every 14 persons in Florida, and the United States, is infected, how incredible, how seemingly illogical, how impossible that such an amazing truth could be so largely ignored," said the director, Dr. Clifford Cole, Wednesday.

CRMWD figures released

Rain cuts deliveries to West Texas cities

What rain will do in West Texas is reflected in the production figures of the Colorado River Municipal Water District for September. The district's meteorologists logged 17 days with precipitation, and deliveries to the cities plunged 456 million gallons or 30.29 per cent. The total was 1,051,080,000 gallons. However, for the year the 11,319,620,000 gallons for cities is a quarter of a billion gallons ahead of the 1977 pace, or 2.91 per cent. Total deliveries for September were 1,366,438,700, which is 702 million behind the same month a year ago. For the year, the total through September was 14,490,856,300, down a billion and a half gallons from the first nine months of 1977, or 9.33 per cent. The loss, however, is due to the cutting off deliveries of surface water to oil companies, which therefore declined by 1,819,000,000 gallons for the period. September mining deliveries were 315,358,758 gallons, off a quarter of a billion gallons. In September, Odessa used 452,099,000 gallons, down 31.40 per cent; Big Spring 209,590,000, down 24.83 per cent; Snyder 78,218,000, down 11.27 per cent; Stanton 8,452,000, down 41.38 per cent; Midland 302,723,000, down 34.28. Robert Lee took no water for the month.

Police spent a thankfully slow Wednesday. A burglar broke into the recreation room, and rifled a snack machine at the Sands Motel, early Wednesday morning. Stolen were 20 small cakes, several soft drinks, and the change in the machine's coin box. Loss was estimated at $16. Bruce Withey, Silver Saddle Motel, told police that he had been assaulted by a man he knew, 2:30 a.m. today. Withey had bruises on his right shoulder, both knees and elbows, and his right hand. Three people were treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital after a three-car collision at the intersection of Birdwell and

East Third. Vehicles driven by Jerry Walton, Snyder, and Leopoldo De Los Reyes, Coahoma, collided, 5:56 p.m. Wednesday. The Walton vehicle was then pushed into a stopped car driven by Robert Rogers, 1413 11th. Six other mishaps were reported Wednesday. Vehicles driven by Robert Lloyd, 401 Edwards, and Wanda Brock, Hunt, collided at 304 Scurry, 3:15 p.m. A vehicle belonging to Robert Rivera, Knott, was

Carter's message to 4-H'ers revealed

4-H, the informal education program for youth administered by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of the Texas A&M University System, opens the doors to a lifetime of growth and fulfillment for many youth. That's why the 1978 theme of National 4-H Week Oct. 1-7 is "4-H — Freedom to Be."

4-H tries to reach out to all youth 9 to 19 years old through a "learning-by-doing" approach that involves educational projects and community involvement. 4-H is providing useful guidance and direction to young people and to help them become more responsible and sensitive adult citizens.

volunteer leaders, businesses and others who make 4-H a viable, contemporary youth program.

In a commemorative message to 4-H'ers across the nation, President Jimmy Carter said:

"I welcome this opportunity to congratulate all 4-H'ers, your volunteer leaders, and your professional youth workers throughout the country on another year of significant growth and achievement. Your theme, "4-H — Freedom to Be," is most appropriate for a program which is reaching out to all young Americans — rural and urban — from every cultural and social background. For many, 4-H is opening doors to a lifetime of personal fulfillment.

"Through the involvement of several members of my own family, I am personally well acquainted with what 4-H is accomplishing for youth. Dallas Morning News article denounced here by Mrs. Hill

By MARJ CARPENTER
"The attack by the Dallas Morning News and two citizens in Laredo against John Hill was most unfair and utterly ridiculous," Mrs. Bitsy Hill, wife of the Texas Democratic candidate for governor, said here Wednesday.

She settled herself on the edge of a table at the chamber of commerce director's room and talked earnestly.

Mrs. Hill discussed a copyrighted story in the Dallas newspaper that suggested that Hill didn't do a thorough job in investigating a Webb County scandal involving $900,000 in unaccounted funds.

She pointed to the claim that Hill refused to pursue a probe of the Webb County road and bridge funds because he "had a lot of friends in Laredo" with disdain. "It is totally false," she emphasized.

Mrs. Hill said the copy of the grand jury report which gave "special recognition and appreciation to Hill and two others for their thorough investigation and invaluable assistance to the grand jury" speaks for itself.

The candidate's wife added, "He could not have gone into Laredo simply because of concerned citizens. He would need to be invited by the grand jury or the District Attorney to come into an investigation."

Then she said, "In the case of Civil Liberties cases such as the Lozano case he can, but he usually waits until the grand jury is finished."

Bitsy also took a strong stand on claims being made from the Bill Clements camp that the expense of running the attorney general's office took sharp rises under his administration.

"Of course they did," she claimed. "The workmen's compensation division was added to his office for the first time and this made a big difference. Litigation also doubled during his administration and he added a few lawyers to the staff."

"But he's brought more money into the state as well. And if he wins the Howard Hughes case, and it sure looks good, it will mean $100 million for Texas," Bitsy concluded.

She told the group that John Hill has employed Harry Ledbetter, defeated candidate for state treasurer, to start attending budget hearings and start studying the governor's budget because he wants to be "ready" and "be knowledgeable on" where the fat is in the various departments."

She again emphasized

Hill's stand that there would be no new taxes and that he stands for "fiscal responsibility."

His campaign chairmen here, Bob Miller and Travis Floyd, were in charge of a reception at the Chamber of Commerce offices Wednesday afternoon.

Colorado City resident found guilty of murder

COLORADO CITY — Raymond Gonzales, 31, Colorado City, was found guilty in 32nd District Court here Wednesday of murder and sentenced to 50 years in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Gonzales was convicted of the Jan. 28 shooting death of Malva Rene Forbes, also of Colorado City. The victim was 39.

Mrs. Forbes was shot once with a 22-caliber single-action magnum pistol, which later was recovered.

Gonzales claimed that the gun discharged accidentally while he was cleaning it. The prosecution accused Gonzales of shooting the woman in a fit of rage. Both had been drinking, testimony showed.

Gonzales' defense attorney was Wayne Basden of Big Spring, who said no decision had been reached on whether to appeal the verdict.

Root plowing resumes at Lake J.B. Thomas

Root plowing has been resumed at Lake J.B. Thomas in an effort to diminish the spread of water-consuming plants in the all-but-dry lake basin.

A big plow with 8-foot sweeps slides six inches under the surface, and since most of the salt cedars, willows and cottonwoods have lateral roots, the root system generally is detached. Later, the brush will be raked.

If the basin is not inundated by Spring, then the District will return its D7 Caterpillar tractor to pull heavy disc plows over the basin to cut down emerging sprouts.

District officials estimated that a previous plowing killed about 50 per cent of the water hogs (called phreatophytes), and it is hoped the present operations will reduce the water loss problem to a minimum.

Polish-Jewish writer wins 1978 Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The 1978 Nobel Prize for Literature was awarded today to Isaac Bashevis Singer, a Polish-Jewish writer residing in the United States.

Singer, who lives in New York and writes in Yiddish, was cited by the Swedish Academy of Letters for "his impassioned narrative art which, with roots in a Polish-Jewish cultural tradition, brings universal human conditions to life."

The 74-year-old Singer emigrated to the United States in 1935 and became a naturalized citizen in 1943.

Last year the winner was Spanish poet Vicente Aleixandre, 78, little known outside the Spanish-speaking world.

This year English novelist Graham Greene and Turkish writer Yasar Kemal had been considered probable choices after many years as top contenders.

The Nobel prize this year is worth about $165,000.

best-known works depict Jewish life in Poland between the world wars.

The family-chronicle trilogy of novels, "The Family Moskat" (1950), "The Manor" (1967) and "The Estate" (1969), have been compared favorably with Thomas Mann's great novel "Buddenbrooks."

Other well-known Singer works are "In My Father's Court" (1966), "The Magician of Lublin" (1961), "The Spinoza of Market Street" (1961), "A Friend of Kafka" (1970) and "A Crown of Feathers" in 1973.

His stories often appear in The New Yorker magazine.

Singer, born near Warsaw in 1904, emigrated to the United States in 1935 to escape the threat of persecution and became a citizen in 1943. He began writing for Polish publications in the mid-1920s and after going to America frequently wrote for the New York Yiddish newspaper the Jewish Daily Forward.

melancholy, sense of humor and a clear-sightedness free of illusion," an academy statement said.

This world of the Polish Jew, annihilated in the Nazi Holocaust, is the characteristic milieu of Singer's work.

"It is the world and life of East European Jewry, such as it was lived in cities and villages, in poverty and persecution, and imbued with sincere piety and rites combined with blind faith and superstition. Its language was Yiddish—the language of the simple people," the academy noted.

For the second year in a row, the most prominently mentioned candidates for the prize — including British novelist Graham Greene and Turkish writer Yasar Kemal — lost out. Last year's winner was Spanish poet Vicente Aleixandre, 78, little known outside the Spanish-speaking world.

Court ruling could turn many criminals loose

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — An Austin prosecutor says any court ruling that the July 1 "speedy trial" law applies to offenses committed before that date could turn criminals loose on the street.

"It could bring about an absolute ban on prosecution," said Assistant District Attorney Bill White of Travis County.

An appeals judge, however, questioned whether this would be the result.

White and defense lawyer Dain Whitworth argued the first test case of the new law Wednesday before three judges on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Whitworth's client, Linzy Wade, was arrested here Feb. 5 and charged with driving while intoxicated, second offense, which is a felony. On July 7 State District Judge Tom Blackwell found Wade guilty and assessed a three-year probated sentence.

Whitworth contends the "speedy trial" act guaranteed his client a trial within 120 days of his arrest. He said the state waited 30 days too long and "gave no explanation for the delay."

He asked the appeals court to overturn the conviction.

The 1977 Legislature enacted the law but set the effective date at July 1, 1978.

White argued that the law applies only to offenses committed after July 1. He asked the court to affirm Wade's conviction.

Additionally, the Texas District and County Attorneys Association has urged the appeals court to hold the law unconstitutional. The association says the law is an "unwarranted intrusion of the Legislature upon the judicial branch of our state government."

Whitworth said the law is procedural and remedial and should also apply to offenses that occurred before July 1. The law, he said, merely "set some time frames so there can be uniform application throughout the state of Texas."

He said the law was in response to the public's desire to try cases promptly.

White said defendants have always had a constitutional right to a "speedy trial" so "no rights of the accused are going to be violated" if the appeals court rules against Wade. "Obviously," he added, "all defendants do not want a speedy trial."

Judge Carl Dally asked Whitworth, "Should the court hold for you, couldn't the Legislature enact legislation to reinstate cases" pending on July 1?

"I believe it could," Whitworth said.

Asked why he thought the Legislature had delayed the effective date, White said, "I'm not sure what the Legislature had in mind." He said.

Christian districts in Beirut bombarded

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The Syrian bombardment of Beirut's Christian districts diminished somewhat just before dawn after an all-night pounding, then "resumed and continues unabated," the Lebanese capital's Christian radio station reported today.

The Christians' Voice of Lebanon gave no new casualty figures but said four Syrian army trucks "full of bodies of Syrian soldiers killed in the fighting" were seen driving away from Beirut.

More than 1,000 dead or wounded Lebanese were reported in the first seven days of fighting that began Sept. 27.

The Christian broadcast said Syrian shelling of East Beirut and its environs "did not cease for a single moment during the night."

The two Beirut stations and reports sent out by plane were the only sources of news of the fighting. Commercial communications channels were knocked out by direct hits on the electric power stations Tuesday.

The blackout left the Christian sector without water, and the threat of famine also was growing there because Syrian troops were blockading all approach roads and streets.

Christian militiamen were reported fighting to dislodge the Syrians from one bridge on the highway to the Christian hinterland north of the city, but so far there was no indication they were having any success.

"Beirut is like a military island surrounded by smoke, flames and destruction. ... There is no water, electricity, transportation, medicine or food supplies," the Christian station said.

The broadcast said bodies were rotting in the streets and in hospitals because the heavy fighting made it impossible to dispose of the dead.

More than 400,000 of East Beirut's 600,000 Christian residents were believed to have escaped to the mountains or the countryside. But the Syrians were reported shelling Christian towns in the mountains and there were expectations of an offensive against Jounieh, the unofficial Christian capital 12 miles north of Beirut and the Christian militias' supply port.

The air control center in Cyprus said the Beirut airport was still open officially, but some planes avoided landing there because of reports of fighting in the vicinity of the airport.

Diplomats at the United Nations conferred on the crisis. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim and Security Council President Jacques Leprette of France appealed to all those involved in the fighting to end "all acts of violence." Waldheim offered to help arrange a truce.

Government to ban toys with small parts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is getting ready to ban the sale of babies' toys with small parts that can be choked on or swallowed.

Staffers of the Consumer Product Safety Commission spent months preparing the regulation, which is designed to reduce risks for children less than 3 years old. The commission was expected to adopt it today.

The new rule will not become law soon enough to apply to toys this Christmas, most of which already have been manufactured.

It affects 18 categories of toys and other articles intended for very young children. These include such children's items as blocks, jack-in-the-boxes and stuffed toys.

The rule prohibits the sale of any item that would fit into a cone 1 1/4 inches by 2 1/4 inches.

It also bans any part, such as a button off a teddy bear, that could come off after it was given rough treatment.

The commission staff said only a small portion of toys and other children's items are involved because the industry has set voluntary standards similar to the CPSC regulation.

Beth Blossom, spokeswoman for the Toy Manufacturers of America, said the industry group is in favor of the regulation. She said the test involving the cone device "already is part of our voluntary standards. Most of our members have been following this for years."

About 90 percent of domestically sold toys are made by members of the association.

Reporting on a three-month study of injuries from small parts to children under age 10, the committee staff said almost half the 3,800 injuries recorded were to those under 3.

Of 45 deaths from small parts on children's products, 25 were to children less than 3 years old, the report said.

The regulation does not cover items intended for use by children age 3 and older or other items that babies might have access to in the house.

Specifically exempted are articles with "utilitarian or educational value" including children's clothing and accessories, fingerpaints, marbles, balloons and crayons.

The commission already has approved other regulations on toys with sharp points for children younger than 8, design of pacifiers to prevent infant chokings and electrical toys.

Health to be important factor in the selection of new pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — At the Vatican this coming week, they get down to the solemn business of finding the right man to carry on what the Encyclopaedia Britannica calls the world's oldest continuing institution: the papacy.

The job description calls for an administrator, a communicator, a linguist, a motivator, a theologian (preferably a canon lawyer), a financier, a teacher, a discreet politician and an able public relations practitioner.

Some of the qualifications would be needed in any top executive job, but this is not anything like finding a new chairman for the Ford Motor Co.

Ford, a younger institution by nearly two millennia, doesn't worry about tradition as much as the Roman Catholic Church, whose goals are eternal and whose prospective clients embrace all civilization, making them difficult to program into a computer.

Ford could get executive recruiters — headhunters, they're called — to do the looking, instead of cardinals.

Even before the conclave begins Saturday, Oct. 14, the cardinal recruiters will be looking among themselves for a man of learning, of wit, eloquence, tact, charm and — something not usually sought in industry — piety.

In principle, any male — even a married one willing to put his wife in a convent — is eligible for the post first held by St. Peter 263 popes ago and most recently by John Paul I, who died in his bed only 34 days after his surprise election as the church's top executive.

In practice — a practice going back 600 years to Pope Urban VI — only cardinals, the princes of the church who do the electing in secret sessions, are likely prospects — preferably Italian cardinals.

The last non-Italian to occupy the chair of Peter was Pope Adrian VI, born Adrian Florenz in Utrecht, Holland. Roman mobs hailed his election by stoning the cardinal electors after the conclave in 1522.

The right man must not be too young, since tradition dictates wariness toward a papacy that might last a quarter of a century. Cardinal Jaime Sin of Singapore, just 50, is the youngest elector.

The candidate sought must not be too old either — John Paul's fatal heart attack at 65 undoubtedly will be a factor this time in weighing the "papabili," the papal possibilities, although the average age of the cardinals eligible to vote is just a bit over 66.

Pope Paul VI, who died Aug. 6 after a 15-year reign, revised the 1,000-year-old papal election process to exclude cardinals who have passed their 80th birthday from entering the conclave.

"Health is always a consideration," New York's Cardinal Terence Cooke admitted as he arrived for his second conclave in two months, echoing a now current theme that was not even discussed with reporters the last time.

Yet, unlike other big organizations, this most pervasive of all multinationals, dealing with 700 million members in 146 countries, does not insist on thorough physical for its top management prospects or require an annual checkup after their selection.

In this unique high-rise world of steeples and campanile, there is room at the top for both a traditionalist and an innovator.

However, he must not come on too strong (in the beginning, anyway) as a radical reformer or a hidebound reactionary, since the Catholic Church in the past 15 years has been heavily buffeted by the cyclonic winds of change emanating from the reforms of Vatican Council II, which John XXIII inaugurated and Paul VI had to carry out.

Ford's River Rouge plant could easily swallow up the 108-acre Vatican City State and its 1,000 resident population. Yet the man the recruiters seek must have a wide knowledge of the world, without appearing worldly.

In a job where the pope is considered infallible in matters of doctrine, his credibility in temporal affairs must go beyond the image Madison Avenue seeks to create for other corporate heads.

Energy Wildcat venture in Borden County

A wildcat is scheduled to be drilled in Borden County and a wildcat re-entry in Dawson County. Confirmers are slated in Glasscock and Martin counties and one was finalized in Dawson.

Brittain Management Corp. will drill the No. 1-270 Gray, a 9,000-foot wildcat in Borden County, 3 1/2-mile southwest of the recent Mississippian opener and lone producer from that play in the Lucy (Clearfork and Mississippian) field, and nine miles east of Gail.

Location is 660 feet from the south and east lines of 270-87-H&T.C.

The Mississippian opener, Sterling Williams, Snyder, No. 1 Sterling Williams Fee, was finalized July 3 to pump 30 barrels of 39 gravity oil, no water, through perforations at 8,315-324 feet.

The field, which also produces from the Clearfork at 4,065 feet, formerly produced from the Wichita Albany at 5,696 feet and the Pennsylvanian at 7,692 feet.

IN DAWSON COUNTY, Ferguson, Bosworth and Associates, Bakersfield, Calif., will re-enter and deepen to 12,000 feet for wildcat tests at the former Terra Resources, Inc. Houston, No. 1 E. Lauderdale, 9,220-foot failure, two miles west-northwest of the Knight and Miller (Fusselman oil) field, but separated by Fusselman failures and seven miles south of Lamesa. It is the No. 1 Lauderdale.

Abandoned Dec. 10, 1974, it recovered mud on a drillstem test at 8,520-77 feet.

Location is 660 feet from the south and 1,980 feet from the east lines of 39-36-5N-T&P. The Knight & Miller discovery produces at 11,638 feet.

The Welch, Southeast (Spraberry) field of Dawson County gained its seventh producer and a location northeast extension with completion of BTA Oil Producers, Midland, No. 1 Davis, 10 miles north of Lamesa, to pump 58 barrels of 38.5 gravity oil, plus 58 barrels of water.

Production was through perforations at 7,734-779 feet, which had been acidized with 250 gallons and fractured with 20,000 gallons and 28,000 pounds of sand.

Drilled to 7,860 feet, with 5 1/2-inch casing set at that depth, it is plugged back to 7,784 feet.

Location is 1,150 feet from the south and 990 feet from the east lines of 3-4-D.L. Cunningham.

IN GLASSCOCK COUNTY, Lingen Exploration Inc., Houston, will drill the No. 1 Pearl and Joe Cole as a 3 1/2-mile north-northwest outpost to the five-well Wolfcamp oil area of the Clyde Reynolds (Wolfcamp, Clearfork and Queen) field 10 miles north-east of Garden City.

Location is 2,173 feet from the north and 467 feet from the east lines of 4-32-4s-T&P. Contract depth is 8,000 feet.

The field, in addition to Wolfcamp, has one Clearfork and one Queen producer.

IN MARTIN COUNTY, a portion of the Lacoff multiphase field gained its third Dean gas producer and a 3 1/2-mile north extension that with reclassification of Henry Petro Corp., No. 1-15 University, 6 1/2 miles northwest of Patricia will be a calculated, absolute open flow of 39,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

Production was through perforations at 9,577-716 feet, which had been acidized with 5,000 gallons.

Location is 933 feet from the south and east lines of 15-7-University Lands.

Mom-daughter tea slated

"The Japanese Woman at Home, in the Church and in the World" was the theme for the Baptist Women's Program Oct. 2. Six women met in the Westbrook First Baptist Church fellowship hall with Mrs. Gerald Rollins and Mrs. Altis Clemmer in charge of the program.

Mrs. Floyd Rice said the opening prayer and spoke on Japanese women in the world. Mrs. Clemmer told of Baptist work in Japan and "The Same is My Sister." Mrs. Rollins told about Japanese women; Mrs. Bob Manning told of the women at home and Mrs. Homer Rice of the women in church.

group meets the first and third Monday of each month. Refreshments were served to the group from a table overlaid with a gold satin cloth adorned with bamboo placemats, Japanese plates and cups, and centered with a Japanese flower arrangement. A scroll inscribed with the scripture Matthew 12:50 in Oriental fashion hung above.

CHARLES RICE accompanied his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Mearis Currie, Colorado City, to Odessa for the weekend to visit with the Larry Curries.

MR. AND MRS. P.L. BYRD were in Panhandle for the weekend to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. L.F. Forbes. Forbes suffered a heart attack and is hospitalized in Amarillo.

GUESTS OF MRS. Frank Oglesby Sunday were Jewell Criswell of Merkel and Mrs. H.C. McDonald of Kermit. Mrs. Criswell is the former postmistress of Westbrook, and Mrs. McDonald is Mrs. Oglesby's sister-in-law.

Clubhouse

Altrusa plans carport sale

The Altrusa Club of Big Spring met Sept. 28 at noon at the Brass Nail, Presiding over the meeting and leading the club in the Altrusa Blessing was Bonnie Bennett.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Jack Alexander of Big Spring High School who spoke on Home Economics Cooperative Education.

The program, she said, requires that a student attend school three to four hours and then work half a day, either in the morning or in the afternoon.

"Our HECE program began in the 1972-73 school year with ten students," she said. "It has grown to a full unit since then. Last year we had 41 students enrolled in the program."

She said that Vocational Education is helpful as a way to learn by doing, but that participation is limited to only Juniors and Seniors.

The program was created in recognition that many students choose to enter the world of work rather than go on to college after high school. And that personal happiness depends a great deal on work satisfaction.

Some of the fields that the students have been trained in through the program include bridal consultant, aide to the elderly, dietitian aide, fashion coordinator, nursery school aide, interior decorator aide and food specialist.

An announcement was made that the Altrusa Club will have a car port sale at 705 Tulsa on Oct. 6 and 7.

Attending the meeting were 18 members. Mrs. Alexander and Mrs. Milton Knowles of Greenville attended as guests.

The next meeting is slated for Oct. 12 at the Brass Nail.

Pecan sale discussed

The Big Spring Chapter of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs met the evening of Sept. 26 for their monthly dinner at Herman's Restaurant.

President Kip Bracy was in charge, and hostesses for the meeting were Lois Eitzen, chairperson, and her committee, Mary Newell, Louise Nuckolls and Delphia Gordon.

The theme for the evening was finance, and Ms. Eitzen presented details on the club's annual money-making project, the sale of pecans. The program was then turned over to Ms. Newell, who introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Curt Mullins, vice president of the First National Bank of Big Spring.

Mullins' speech was entitled, "How Well Are You Using Your Bank?" In an informative, easily-understandable manner, he described many services that are available to bank customers; services about which most customers do not know. He opened the meeting for questions and answers.

The B&PW club meets the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month and membership is open to all working women. For further details, one may contact Ms. Bracy at 263-1758 or Mamie Roberts at 267-2317.

V.A. Hospital

changes name

The Daughters of the American Revolution met Monday evening at 7:30 in the Green Room of the Dora Roberts Community Center with Margaret Barnett, vice regent, presiding.

Lola Kilman, chairman, reported on the D.A.R.'s participation in the Howard County Fair during September.

Dene Sheppard, chief of volunteer services at the Veteran's Administration Hospital, stated that from now on, the hospital will be known as the Veteran's Administration Medical Center and gave a talk on services rendered by volunteers at the hospital. She said that there is a place for everyone who wishes to volunteer her services; a time schedule can be arranged to fit anyone's needs. Those interested should contact her.

She added that many foreigners are amazed at the services given by the U.S. government to veterans, as most foreign countries do not afford their veterans such treatment.

Serving cake on Wednesday nights at the hospital has been discontinued at the chaplain's request.

Members are reminded of the workshop to take place at the Midland Hilton from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Nov. 6. Reservations should be made by Nov. 1.

Mrs. Charlie Parrish, Coahoma, gave the devotion and read a poem called "My Neighbor's Bible."

Seven clubs were represented with 21 members and guests present.

Rozelle Dehoney, yearbook chairman, announced that the yearbooks would be presented by November and will cover a 16-month period from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31.

Mrs. Alton Underwood, chairman of the council Christmas party, will select a site for the event to be announced later. The party will take place Dec. 12.

Three thousand used stamps collected by the county home demonstration clubs were sent by Mrs. Underwood to the Salvation Army Organization in Kentucky. These stamps are to be used in a charity project to provide food for needy children in the area.

A basic sewing class will be conducted each Thursday for four weeks beginning Oct. 12 at the First Methodist Church from 9 to 11 a.m. Committee and officer training meeting will take place from 2 to 4 p.m. Oct. 23 in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

During the Howard County Fair, 550 pamphlets were given to prospective home demonstration club members.

Members were reminded that the Midland County Home Demonstration Club Annual Day will be from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Oct. 13. An all-you-can-eat luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. for $2.50.

TWEEN 12 and 20

Custom causes disagreement

By Robert Wallace Ed. D.

It's guest writer time, and I would like to welcome Janet Smith, 17, of Galesburg, Ill., and Rick Dempsey, 18, of Sacramento, Calif., who will help Chuck with a family problem that is quite unusual.

Dr. Wallace: Every so often I eat dinner at a friend's house. The parents were born in Italy and serve wine with the meal and, of course, they pour me a glass of wine and I drink it with dinner.

I made the mistake of telling my mother of this custom and she was furious when I told her I had drunk wine. Next week I am again invited to their house for dinner. My mother said I should not touch a drop, but I know they will expect me to have a glass of wine with dinner. What should I do? I'm 17 years old. — Chuck, Newton, N.J.

Chuck: Honor your mother's wish and refuse the wine. The parents of your friend will understand. — Dr. Wallace.

Hi Chuck: This is Janet, and I'm very happy that I have been selected to help you with your problem.

If you enjoy the wine with the meal, drink it and this time be smart enough to keep your mouth shut at home. — Love, Janet.

Hi Chuck: I think it's cool and neat that your friend's family has wine with dinner. Most Europeans do it and it's a very sophisticated way of life. I think it's about time that we in this country shared some of this sophistication. By all means drink the wine, enjoy the friendship, and don't say a word to your parents. — Good luck, Rick.

If you would like to become a guest writer, please drop me a line in care of this newspaper stating your name, age, and enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent stamped large self-addressed envelope to Dr. R. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Abby

Must She Act As Husband's Skill?

DEAR ABBY: My husband loves to sing. He has had a few voice lessons and is quite good for an amateur. He has a large repertoire of songs and even has the piano accompaniment on tape to take with him when he goes where there will be no piano accompanist.

Sometimes he sings beautifully, but he usually sings too long and he frequently forgets the lyrics. He is 74.

The problem is that he wants me to ask him to sing when we have guests, or when we go elsewhere as guests. Our friends have been very patient with him so far, but no one else has ever asked him to sing, and when I ask him, it's like asking little Johnny to recite before a captive audience.

For years I have urged him to join a choral group, but he prefers to sing solo. This is partly because he can't read music, and partly because he can't hold a part if someone is singing a different note next to him.

Am I wrong in refusing to ask him to sing? He gets very upset with me, and says if I loved him I'd cooperate. Is there a solution?

DEAR WIFE: Yes. Suggest that he give recitals, invite his friends, and sing to his heart's content.

DEAR ABBY: This letter is one more comment in the debate on the mother-daughter trust that has been raging in your column.

It seems that a great many mothers have among their daily chores the cleaning up of their children's rooms. During that cleaning, mothers invariably discover things that their children prefer to keep secret.

Fortunately, I have never had that problem. My mother has always believed that I should clean up my own room - or not clean it up, as I choose. Besides, she has enough other things to do without doing for me that which I am perfectly capable of doing for myself.

N.L. IN W.H.

DEAR N.L.: You sound like a very together daughter. Congratulate your mother for me. She taught you responsibility.

DEAR ABBY: Let me tell you about a handicapped person I know. He's paralyzed from the waist down. Now some folks think that the disabled are also retarded. That's not so! My friend attended college, and now works for a large insurance company as an underwriter.

And as for getting around - yes, it takes a few minutes more for him to get into his car, but he gets there. His car is equipped with hand controls of course, but you should see this guy dance! When he does the "bump" his whole body and chair swings with him.

He also lifts weights - up to 300 pounds. He's even won medals for it. Some of you able-bodied men should try lifting a 300-pound weight. This guy has won scores of medals for racing, shot-put and discus in wheelchair sports.

And as for love - well, he knows more about love than a lot of people.

How come I know so much about him? He's my husband. And he's not nearly as "handicapped" as most people think. Sign me...

YOUNGSTERS TAKE TO COOKING like the proverbial duck to water. Let them loose in the kitchen to whip up easy and appealing dishes such as Orange Tuna Tubs or Treasure Island Seashell Salad.

Youngsters display cooking skills at school and home

Cooking has caught on with the younger generation. Many schools now use it to teach grade schoolers measurement, elementary science and the cultures of foreign lands. A number of large department stores are even staging cooking seminars for fledgling chefs. And the boys are as enthusiastic about the ideas as the girls.

The ideal place for children to unleash their considerable culinary creativity, however, is in the kitchen at home. They love to putter among the pots, pans and spatulas. And you may be surprised at the amount of skill they bring to meal preparation. Present them with some kitchen projects the next rainy afternoon and see how eagerly they accept the challenge.

Start out with popular sandwiches. Not the peanut butter between two slabs of bread variety they're already family with, but cunningly fashioned Orange Tuna Tubs. Round rolls, hollowed out, are stuffed with a salad mixture: tuna, fresh Florida orange morsels, with chopped celery and tomatoes, dressed with mayonnaise and zesty orange juice. Youngsters will delight in making sails for the "boats" — long food picks each threaded with a halved orange slice, a bright cherry tomato and topped with a jaunty pennant of colored construction paper. It's an appealing yet simple idea that requires a minimum of instruction from mom or dad.

Allowing children to use the stove makes them feel quite grownup and confident. Teach them to turn pot handles away from the edge of the stove to avoid hot spills and to keep towels, pot holders and clothing away from the burners. Then let them go to town boiling the macaroni shells for Treasure Island Seashell Salad. They'll enjoy mixing the drained shells with colorful bits of fresh orange, chopped green pepper and shredded carrot in a sweetened blend of mayonnaise and Florida orange juice.

Give the youngsters a crack at the kitchen, and who knows? You may find yourself requesting an encore performance the next time you could use a hand in getting dinner on the table!

ORANGE TUNA TUBS
2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna
½ cups Florida orange sections, cut into bite-size pieces
½ cup chopped celery
1 large tomato, chopped
1-3rd cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon Florida orange juice

4 round rolls
2 Florida orange slices

Combine tuna, orange pieces, celery and chopped tomato in medium-sized bowl. In small bowl, blend mayonnaise and orange juice; add to tuna mixture, mix well. Cut thin slice off top rolls; scoop out centers, fill with tuna mixture. Cut orange slices in half. Place each half on long food pick and top with a paper pennant, cherry tomato or olive. Push into side of each roll to form a sail.

YIELD: 4 servings.

TREASURE ISLAND SEASHELL SALAD

½ cup mayonnaise
3 tablespoons Florida orange juice
1 tablespoon sugar
8 ounces shell macaroni, cooked and drained (4 cups cooked shells)
½ cups Florida orange sections, cut into bite-size pieces
½ cup chopped green pepper
1-3rd cup shredded carrot

In medium bowl, blend together mayonnaise, orange juice and sugar; add macaroni, orange sections, green peppers and carrot. Toss to mix well.

YIELD: 4 to 6 servings.

Shopping 'secrets' can help reduce family's food costs

COLLEGE STATION — Cut food costs with a week's menu plan and other "shopping secrets," says a food and nutrition specialist.

Plan the week's menus and make a shopping list from them, advises Marilyn Haggard. She is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

First, check supplies already on hand to avoid extra purchases. Then remember the following shopping secrets:

Eat before shopping to avoid impulse buying.

Shop at a leisurely pace and make cost, quality and amount comparisons.

Use "cents-off" coupons — on items the family will accept.

Shop without children for efficiency — or take the children and teach them how to shop and cut costs.

Keep a record of money spent for snack foods and beverages. These items are high in calories and price — but they are often low in nutritional value, and they can account for ten per cent of every food dollar.

Select more economical and nutritious snacks, such as popcorn, fresh fruits and fresh vegetables to make better use of the food dollar.

Also, limit the purchase of soft drinks to a certain number per family member each week.

Plan to use leftovers — so the garbage disposal doesn't take the biggest bite out of the family food budget. For example, leftover meats and vegetables or macaroni can become a quick-and-easy casserole. Just add a simple white sauce, cheese and bread crumbs.

Also, to avoid leftovers, buy and prepare less in the future.

A sad and lonesome tale

with Marj Carpenter

The lonesome graves out near Ackerly have turned out to be a rather lonesome and forlorn tale.

Several people called or wrote in about the graves. And I really appreciate the readership and the help.

Thelma Ingram, who said she is not worthy of a story (and there's people who would argue with that) said that I had confused her with Mrs. Ruth Ingram in the original column. Both are from Lamesa.

Mrs. Thelma Ingram recalls that her father-in-law, G. W. Ingram bought the land that the graves are on in the 1930s and later lost it during the Depression.

The Depression was extremely hard on the farmers out in the Ackerly area, as many an oldtimer can recall.

She said that her late husband and she lived on the place and farmed it in 1926. She recalled that her father-in-law often talked about what a hard time he had getting a clear title to the land. She said the name "Risher" showed up from years before.

Two of the graves in that locality were Risher graves of 1907 and 1908.

James Billingsley, who lives over at Tarzan said that he was raised on that place. He said the graves held the names of "rissuer" — giving it a French spelling.

He recalls that there were two gravestones and several wooden markers. He recalled them from when he was a boy — probably living at the farm after the Ingrams.

He said one of the stones had an upright granite marker with a lamb on top.

"The story I heard was that the family of five lived on that place in the early 1900s and were working hard trying to farm it.

"Around 1907 and 1908 two of the children died and there were granite markers for them. They apparently had some childhood disease.

"Then around 1917 or 1918, the rest of the family died of the flu. And they were buried with simple wooden marks. Apparently there was nobody left in the family to purchase stone markers," he added.

That's a pretty lonesome story. To think of a family named Risher or Rissuer who evidently came out to this area about the turn of the century and began to farm.

They evidently lost two of their children early — apparently from something they both caught.

Then they battled the loneliness, the sandstorms, the bitter winters and other handicaps another decade.

And around 1917 or 1918, they got the influenza which was sweeping across the land. Over at later are two brothers graves who died in that epidemic.

Supposedly, they died off one by one with some neighbor apparently discovering the last one. And the family was gone.

Except for those small graves on the Dyer place which still puzzle the passer-by and makes them wonder about the story of that small family whose graves are huddled together near Ackerly — out where I ride fence.

Victims of the shooting were Valton Vernoid Gandy, 73, and his 68-year-old wife, Cora Hughes Gandy.

They were killed outside their home, located about a half mile north of Lorenzo, while unloading groceries from their car.

It has been established that the murder weapon was a .38-caliber special pistol.

No suspects in murders

CROSBYTON — Crosby County Sheriff Fred Owen said here Wednesday he still has no prime suspects in the killing of a Lorenzo couple, which occurred here Monday.

Race looking good, says wife of candidate White

Mrs. Mark (Linda Gale) White visited in the Howard County Courthouse during the noon hour Wednesday with approximately 30 persons as she campaigned across the state for her husband's candidacy for Attorney General on the Democratic ticket.

His local campaign chairman is Glynn Mouton, local attorney.

Mrs. White graduated from Baylor and worked in Dallas until she married Mark White in 1966. While he served as an assistant attorney general in Austin, she taught vocational office education at an Austin high school.

Later they moved to Houston where he went into private practice. They have three children.

Mrs. White told backers here that the race is looking good across the state for her husband. On this particular two-day West Texas tour, she had stopped at Abilene, Sweetwater, Roby, Snyder, Colorado City, Robert Lee, Bronte, San Angelo, Sterling City, Big Spring, Lamesa, Seminole and Andrews and she ended in Midland this morning flying out around noon.

Business heads challenged

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Business leaders must mobilize if they are to meet the challenge of those who oppose private enterprise, according to a sanitary engineering consultant.

The consultant, John E. Kinney of Ann Arbor, Mich., told a meeting of the Water Quality Association business must decide on which goals must be achieved if the interests of the people are to be served.

AP picks Sooners by 7

By The Associated Press
This is "Big D" weekend for Big D Dallas — "D" standing for delirium. When Oklahoma and Texas meet in football — this is edition No. 73 — people forget the Alamo. It's the Super Bowl, Mardi Gras and World War III rolled into one neat package. Fans go berserk.

This is a game that needs no embellishments but they are there this year — in clusters. Both teams are unbeaten — Oklahoma No. 1 and Texas No. 6 in the rankings. The Sooners have one of the nation's most potent offenses, averaging close to a point a minute. The Longhorns are a rock on defense.

The Sooners fooled us last week. We thought they would drop their guard for Missouri. Score: 40-17, 702. Season: 117-41, 740.

Oklahoma 20, Texas 13; The Longhorns can't stop the Sooners' runaway wishbone speed. Uwe von Schamann wins the kicking duel.

Michigan 35, Arizona 14; The Wolverines feast on foreign meat before tackling

Big Ten hard tack.

Arkansas 37, Texas Christian 7; "We will move the football, and I hope to God it is forward." Porker coach Lou Holtz.

Penn State 28, Kentucky 6; Scott Fitzkee is a split end — he splits his chores between pass-catching and punting.

Texas A&M 30, Texas Tech 13; The Aggies have a bull of a runner named Adger Armstrong. When you call him "Adger," smile.

Alabama 27, Washington 17; A meeting of two major bowl winners. The Tide, remembering USC, has a score to settle with the West.

Pittsburgh 22, Boston College 7; Hey, Pitt, be wary. Don't start thinking about Notre Dame.

Nebraska 36, Iowa State 21; Haul out those red handkerchiefs — there'll be plenty of reason to wave 'em.

Louisiana State 22, Florida 17; The Gators are beginning to show teeth. May be tough in their own waters.

North Carolina State 19, Maryland 14; The Terps keep harpooning our average. If they win this one, we'll fire our Southern spy, X-9.

Colorado 19, Kansas 14; If the buffalo is an endangered species, Colorado hasn't heard about. The Buffs in a tight one.

Ohio State 27, Southern Methodist 14; There's a Ford — Mike Ford, SMU's aerial whiz — in the Buckeyes future. They're aware.

UCLA 30, Stanford 23; Theophilus Thistle is a popular tongue-twister. UCLA's Theotis Brown only twists his hips.

Florida State 34, Cincinnati 13; This is a time Cincinnati could use Pete Rose, but he's busy pondering an $800,000 contract.

Auburn 27, Miami 7; After Tennessee, the Floridians will look like a fudge sundae to the Plainsmen.

Michigan State 19, Notre Dame 17; One of the fiercest of rivalries. The Spartans should want it more.

Horns hurting?..

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Four starters on Texas' stingy defense, as well as its top runner and pass receiver, have missed Oklahoma workouts because of injuries or illness.

Coach Fred Akers told the Longhorn Club on Wednesday "it is too cloudy" to say which of the six will play Saturday when No. 6 Texas plays the top-ranked Sooners before a regional television audience and a sellout crowd of 72,032 at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas.

Texas suffered the injuries in Texas' 24-7 Southwest Conference victory over Texas Tech last Saturday, a game Akers called "very physical."

The injury list includes safeties Johnnie Johnson and Ricky Churchman and defensive tackles Steve McMichael and Bill Acker, who lead the team in tackles with 39 and 34 respectively.

The 250-pounders are both from Freer, and Akers said, "We're thankful for Freer, Texas. They have really been playing well."

McMichael has a pulled hamstring muscle and Acker also has a hurt leg.

Also ailing are Johnny "Ham" Jones, Texas' leading rusher with 236 yards on 55 carries, and Johnny "Lam" Jones, who has averaged nearly 33 yards a catch on five pass receptions.

"Ham" has a bruised shoulder, and "Lam" had a flu-like illness.

"They're not working out," Akers said Wednesday, "but the main thing is that they be there on Saturday."

BARRY SWITZER
 FRED AKERS

..but OU has depth

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — With only two days separating Oklahoma from their annual clash with the Texas Longhorns, the thing the Sooners did not need was to lose their leading tackler in the secondary.

But they did.

Senior strong safety Sherwood Taylor is out for the remainder of the regular season with a neck injury.

"He was an excellent player for us in the secondary, as well as a fine leader for the team. He will be missed, but there is a possibility he will be ready to play for a bowl game," Head Coach Barry Switzer said. Taylor, from Ada, had 17 unassisted tackles, assisted on seven more as well as intercepting two passes, this year.

Switzer said he will move Mike Cobb to strong safety from his right cornerback position, and move Jay Jimmerson to corner to fill the defensive alignment.

Switzer says the Sooners have plenty of depth in the position.

He says it is the Horn defense and their kicker that concern him. "Houston was the first team to score a rushing touchdown on them last year, and that was in the eighth game of the season. That's unbelievable," Switzer said.

'HANDS OFF' POLICY — National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle gestures to newsmen in Chicago Wednesday evening after a meeting of the NFL owners. Rozelle announced that the owners have adopted a "hands-off policy" regarding cheerleaders, which has become a controversial issue in recent weeks.

Rozelle rules more clothing

CHICAGO (AP) — National Football League owners have taken two uniform steps — to ensure that those on cheerleaders are more proper, and that their players' jerseys stay on their backs.

NFL owners decided at a Wednesday meeting to allow each of the league's 28 teams to individually monitor cheerleading squads — agreeing that "closer supervision" is needed over costume appearances and off-the-field activities of cheerleaders.

They also agreed to outlaw tear-away jerseys beginning with games scheduled for this weekend.

The two-day meeting concluded today.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said it was agreed that the jerseys are a safety hazard because they don't provide adequate support for shoulder pads.

"The pads are made to be worn with regular jerseys," Rozelle said. "Another factor in the decision to discontinue the tear-away jerseys was the delay involved when players had to leave the game to change."

The owners, who met at the downtown Chicago Marriott Hotel, decided not to adopt an official NFL policy on the cheerleader question, which has become a controversial issue in the past few weeks.

However, Rozelle said the owners agreed the cheerleaders need "closer supervision." He said the owners felt it would be better if each club appointed a "responsible person" to monitor the squads.

The NFL commissioner said the owners interpreted "more supervision" to mean screening of cheerleader applicants, checking out costumes before games and signing application agreements placing certain restrictions on their off-the-field activities.

There has been controversy over the exposed navels of the Washington Redskins' cheerleaders, and the cut of the skin-tight uniforms of the Los Angeles Rams' Embraceable Ewes. The controversy came to a head when the San Diego Chargers' contingent was disbanded after one of its members posed nude for Playboy magazine.

The owners decided to wait for their annual meeting in March before deciding on whether NFL owners can own franchises in other sports.

Rozelle said the North American Soccer League was concerned about how an ownership ban would affect it. The NASL went to court last week to seek an injunction against such a ban and the judge advised the NFL officials to wait until the outcome of the case before deciding the question of multiple-team ownership.

Most owners frown on cross ownership. The two who stand most directly affected in the event of a ban would be Jack Kent Cooke and Lamar Hunt. Cooke, of the Washington Redskins, owns the Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League and the National Basketball Association's Los Angeles Lakers. Hunt, owner of the Kansas City Chiefs, also owns the Dallas Tornado of the NASL, and has a big interest in the NBA's Chicago Bulls.

The owners also put off until March a decision on the

Andretti realizing goals

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — New world driving champion Mario Andretti says that he is getting what he wants out of auto racing and is not about to give it up.

Only a few short years ago, Andretti was frustrated, unable to win on the U.S. Auto Club circuit and practically an unknown in European Formula One racing despite having won the 1969 Indianapolis 500.

Now the handsome 38-year-old from Nazareth, Pa., has clinched the Formula One driving title for 1978. Those days of frustration were only an unhappy memory as Andretti spent Wednesday at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. complex taking care of some corporate public relations.

"I've been blessed with enough luck on my side to realize my goals in the sport," he said. "I go for whatever goal I set out for and work hard to get it."

"That was a frustrating time for me," he said. "After winning at Indianapolis, I went with the Vels-Parnelli team, which was the winningest team in American auto racing at that time. But things happened. They just got too big and things didn't work right anymore. The team just went through a heck of a period and there I was. Somehow, we just didn't finish races."

"The thing that always kept me going in a positive way during that time was that I kept myself diversified," Andretti continued. "I wasn't able to win the USAC races, but I was winning somewhere else — on Formula One, occasionally, and in other types of racing."

"Deep down, it was frustrating not to win regularly in USAC as I had before. You want to get to the bottom of it and you worry about it, but the years go by. You've just got to keep setting goals."

Two San Antonio councilmen turn down tickets

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Two city council members here have refused to accept free season tickets from the National Basketball Association's San Antonio

Spurs, saying they believe the practice is unethical. Councilman John Steen said Wednesday that the free tickets were "a clear conflict of interest" because the council has direct control over the rental rates paid by the Spurs at the city-owned HemisFair Arena. The council also sets the concession prices charged by the team.

Councilman Henry Cisneros sent a letter Tuesday to Spurs President Angelo Drossos, saying that he was refusing the tickets because he has reservations about the ethics of the practice.

Drossos, Mayor Lila Cockrell, City Manager Tom Huebner and City Attorney Jane Macon, however, have defended the long-time custom of giving two season tickets, worth a total of $670.80, to each of the 11 city council members and some city officials.

"There is nothing secret or under the table about this," said Drossos. "I don't think it is any kind of big deal whatsoever."

Drossos said the custom, which has been in effect since the team moved here in 1973, did not affect the concession or rental rates.

"Regardless of the price they set, council members would still have complimentary tickets as city officials and as representatives of the community," added Drossos.

The Spurs sponsored a trip for city officials to an exhibition game in Austin Wednesday night. Steen took the trip, but said he will reimburse the Spurs for his share.

Former college official hit with fraud charges

WICHITA FALLS — William Weldon Fairchild, former president of Draughton's Business College in Abilene and vice president of Draughton's Business College in San Angelo, has been indicted on 15 counts by a federal grand jury in Wichita Falls. He is accused of defrauding the Department of Health, Education and Welfare on student loans.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Prather of Dallas said Fairchild's arraignment is scheduled for 10 a.m. Thursday at the Federal Building in Fort Worth.

The indictments allege a total of $50,365 in financial misdeeds by Fairchild, beginning Jan. 1, 1974, and continuing to the present.

The two business colleges are now closed. The 15 counts against Fairchild claim five areas of misconduct, including one for embezzlement of student

No changes in airlines

DALLAS (AP) — Don't hold your breath waiting for big changes in Southwest Airlines now that Howard Putnam has taken over as president. He's not about to tamper with success.

"I'm the head cheerleader," the 41-year-old Putnam said as he was unveiled at a news conference.

Putnam took over from interim president Herb Kelleher in August. Kelleher assumed the reins after the departure of the flamboyant Lamar Muse, who built the airline into a charismatic, scrappy intrastate carrier with an impressive growth rate.

Kelleher remains as board chairman. Putnam came over from giant United Airlines, where he was group vice president for marketing services. The question was, why?

"It's a challenge to run your own thing," Putnam said. "It got to my wife and I. It's a challenge not to let Southwest become just another airline...with delusions of grandeur."

While Putnam is low-keyed when compared to Muse, who resigned, he is still interested in growth — but a controlled growth.

"Texas will always be our No. 1 priority," Putnam said. Despite that, he said plans are still perking to operate at Chicago's Midway Airport, New Orleans, Beaumont and Amarillo.

"We haven't given up on Midway, and we've filed for New Orleans," Putnam said. He said whether Midway service becomes an extension of existing routes or a hub under a subsidiary corporation depends on the future of proposed regulatory bills.

Putnam said he's a team player, from enlisting the help of board members to making it a point to visit as many employees as he can.

Muse departed after a reportedly stormy confrontation with the board, but Putnam said he could work with the directors of the company.

"I think a lot of trunk carriers have taken a lesson (in short-haul operations) from Southwest," Putnam said. He said the challenge is to maintain the airline's ambience within an expansion program. "If we go too far too fast we stand to lose that," he said. "We need to stay beneath the big guys."

Along the expansion lines, Putnam said Southwest will take possession of two new 737 aircraft in December and return one, bringing the fleet size to 13. Southwest is also leasing a larger 727 to test its adaptability to Southwest operations.

Three men arrested for plot against sub

ST LOUIS (AP) — It reads like the script for a best-selling spy thriller: Board a U.S. nuclear submarine, kill the crew, head for the high seas after firing a nuclear-tipped missile at an East Coast city and then turn the sub over to a buyer.

But the FBI says the plot was real. It arrested two men Wednesday in St. Louis and a third early today in New York State.

Edward J. Mendenhall, 24, of Rochester, N.Y., and Kurtis J. Schmidt, 22, of Kansas City, Mo., were to be arraigned this morning before a federal magistrate in St. Louis on charges of conspiring to steal the U.S.S. Trepang, based in New London, Conn. They were being held in lieu of $50,000 bond each.

The FBI said James W. Cosgrove, 26, of Ovid, N.Y., was arrested in upstate New York and will also be arraigned today on similar charges.

The FBI described Mendenhall as a married insurance company employee and Schmidt as an unmarried carpet cleaner. There was no background on Cosgrove.

Roy B. Klager Jr., special agent in charge of the FBI's St. Louis office, said the alleged plot came to light last month when Mendenhall and Cosgrove attempted to recruit an undercover agent into a 12-man crew that was to take the Trepang into the Atlantic Ocean, where they would rendezvous with an unidentified buyer.

Klager said the two men showed the agent written plans for stealing the sub.

After the killing of the sub's crew of about 100, the men allegedly planned to blow up a submarine tender moored alongside the Trepang to create a diversion and to block pursuit by other naval ships at the New London base.

If needed to cover the sub's getaway, the plan called for firing a nuclear missile at the base or a major East Coast city, Klager said.

The FBI did not say if any city had been singled out. It said other details of the case could not be released pending further investigation.

A Navy spokesman, Rear Adm. David Cooney, said in Washington, D.C., that such a plot could not have been carried out.

"No 12 people off the street are ever going to operate a submarine like this," Cooney said.

He said the Trepang would require a crew of about 100 officers and men who require special training.

Neither Cooney nor Assistant Defense Secretary Thomas Ross, the Pentagon's chief spokesman, said he had heard of the FBI's investigation.

Country singer abducted from shopping center

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Bruised, battered and choking from pantyhose tied tightly around her neck, country music singer Tammy Wynette was found staggering up a rural driveway after her release by a masked gunman she says tried to kill her.

State investigators said the blonde, 36-year-old singer told them she was abducted at gunpoint from a Nashville shopping center Wednesday night and driven about 80 miles in her yellow Cadillac before being set free.

Miss Wynette said the gunman made no threats or demands for money and, after leaving her with her car, walked away and fled in another vehicle, officials said.

She was released in Giles County near the home of Junette Young, who said she cut a pair of pantyhose from around Miss Wynette's neck.

"She couldn't breathe. It was real tight, in fact I had to cut it off," said Mrs. Young. "She just said, 'He had tried to kill me. He tried to kill me. He tried to kill me.'"

Mrs. Young said the entertainer's neck was swollen but not cut.

"Her neck hurt real bad and her mouth hurt her where he had slapped her in the mouth," Mrs. Young said.

State Safety Commissioner Joel Plummer said Miss Wynette's condition did not appear serious and that she was treated at Giles County Hospital in Pulaski, Tenn.

"Apparently she was just slapped around some," Plummer said. "She just had bruises on her cheek and had scratches and bruises on her face and neck."

Miss Wynette, whose hits include "Stand By Your Man," "D-I-V-O-R-C-E" and, most recently, "Womanhood," was voted top female vocalist by the Country Music Association in 1968, 1969, 1970 and 1972.

Authorities were first alerted to the abduction by Miss Wynette's fifth husband, record producer George Richey, who called Gov. Ray Blanton at the executive mansion to ask for help after his wife had called him from the Young home, according to Trooper Jerry Ferrell.

Ferrell assigned to the mansion, said that at Blanton's orders, state investigative agents and troopers were pressed into service.

The singer's ordeal began Wednesday afternoon when she got into her car at Nashville's Green Hills Shopping Center and discovered a masked gunman in the back seat, Plummer said.

"He had already positioned himself in the back seat where she didn't see him until she was already in the car," Plummer said. "He was either wearing a mask or a sack over his head and had a pistol, which she described as a blue steel gun."

Mildred Lee, the singer's mother, said Miss Wynette was shopping for a birthday gift for her 8-year-old daughter, Georgette. Mrs. Lee said Miss Wynette had left her car unlocked.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, OCT. 6, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There are delays and obstacles in your path today, but if you persevere you will be successful in overcoming your problems. Persistence is the keyword for success in your projects.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can get an early start on a trip that is important to your welfare, but don't let some delay bother you later. Have the meetings that can be most helpful, worthwhile. Think, be active, interesting.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Start handling responsibilities early and accomplish much. Don't be hesitant about asking advice from loved ones. Feel more secure.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Any revisions in arrangements with associates can be done successfully today. Express yourself clearly, precisely. Calm the ruffled feathers of one who does not agree with you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Schedule your work intelligently otherwise you will be frustrated and not accomplish much. Improve health via exercise, etc.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make recreational plans early and you find they work out beautifully later. Show true devotion for a loved one and get fine response.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The situation at home is both good and bad, so concentrate on the good and all works out fine. A project you start could meet with stumbling blocks, but keep at it and you succeed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Contact a good friend and gain the cooperation you need for some fine plan you have in mind. Get out reports and pay bills on time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be sure you analyze your property and possessions correctly so that you know where you really stand. Find new outlet for success, if necessary. Make needed repairs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be persistent if you want to gain personal aims today. After a busy day at business, you can enjoy the social side of life. Make sure that you budget your money carefully.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You stand a better chance of gaining your objectives if you do some careful planning. Work out differences with one you confide in.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get in touch with friends early and make plans for a gettogether later in the day. You may have an argument with someone, but don't let it bother you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have to handle a bigwig with kid gloves if you are to gain your objectives. Make bigwigs aware of your talents. Settle credit affairs.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will get ahead fast in life provided your child is taught early to be more direct and honest in dealing with others. Add foreign languages to the school curriculum since there is bound to be much traveling during the lifetime.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

'Rent-a-Dent' offers cheaper way to travel

EL DORADO, Kan. (AP) — El Dorado's only car rental agency features an 11-year-old Rambler, two 1966 pickup trucks and a 1964 Ford dump truck that have carried rabbits to the State Fair and little old ladies to doctor's appointments.

'Rent-A-Dent' has been in business for a month, and most of its rolling stock is on the streets of this oil town of 12,500 every day.

"People don't seem to mind the rust and the dents — the price is $9 a day, with the first 50 miles free."

"What's the difference if a car is seven or eight years old, as long as it will get you where you want to go?" asks Dennis Cooke, an auto salvage yard owner and Rent-A-Dent partner.

El Dorado attorney Gene White enlisted Cooke and Darryl Traylor, a building supply firm owner, after reading of a similar agency in California.

"I first got the idea when I had to rent a car," the 34-year-old White said. "I was shocked. Something like $16 a day and 15 cents a mile. I thought then that something could be done to beat that." The partners borrowed $3,000, buying the Rambler, a 1970 Chevelle station wagon, a 1972 Buick and the pickups.

Until then, the only cars for rent in El Dorado were from new car dealers, who offered fancy cars at higher prices.

Their first customer was a Chanute, Kan., man on his way to the State Fair in Hutchinson with rabbits ready for competition. His car broke down in El Dorado, so a Rent-A-Dent pickup took the rabbits the rest of the way.

Another early customer was not so pleased. She rented a Buick and drove it to Wichita, returning to complain of a foul odor in the car. Inspection revealed a dead mouse under the back seat.

"The lady was understanding but she had a right to be hollering," Cooke said.

Many customers are elderly persons who don't trust their cars for trips out of town, or who don't own a car but have a driver's license.

"Most of our customers have been average, good people who want to save a dollar," White said. "A need existed, and nobody just took the effort to fulfill a need in the community. Obviously, we couldn't put out $5,000 or $7,000 cars and get people to rent them at the price we're charging."

'Experts' advise to change

NEW YORK (AP) — Who are the financial "experts" who so freely give of their advice?

One is the financial counselor who tells readers this month in a national publication to exchange their Series E Savings Bonds for Series H, in order to obtain 7.5 percent interest instead of 6.

Series H bonds pay 6 percent, not 7.5. It's been that way for years.

Another is the stock market analyst who offers on the telephone an erudite explanation of why the price of gold has suddenly risen — only to realize that he has misread the ticker. The price had barely moved.

The expert is also the advisory firm that tells subscribers that if both husband and wife are eligible for Social Security benefits they will receive whichever is largest, the husband's or the wife's.

In fact, the benefits could be the total of the two.

The expert is the stock advisory service that forgets its poor selections but reminds you of the one in 10 that came out ahead, and even chides you for not having had faith enough to buy the stock.

And then insults you by attaching a cautionary warning to his report, advising that past results should not be taken as an indication of future profits.

The expert is the mutual fund that plugs its superiority — "Let us show you how our professional management and skilled research might enhance your estate" — and then produces a 10-year, no-gain record.

It is the popular economic analyst with the penchant for beginning his current reports with the words, "As I told you six months ago, knowing that few people will look through the record."

The expert is his cousin (figuratively speaking) who tosses names as easily as he gives advice, knowing that the important personalities he expatriates for his own uses aren't likely to squeal on him.

Are there really any experts at all?

An educator, Nicholas M. Butler, once said experts know more and more about less and less. But, weaving cosmic theories, financial experts sometimes claim to know more and more about more and more.

In personal finance there are authorities. But "expert" may have acquired a special meaning, at least to the many innocents who believe such people are endowed with superior intellectual powers.

There are responsible advisers, many of them, but peddlers too, and they aren't any more likely to offer guarantees than the automobile mechanic is. All the descriptions referred to involve real people.

Perhaps the problem with personal finance experts is that so many people listen to them. Such believers relieve themselves of personal responsibility and assign to others the job of thinking for them.

In the end, each individual is probably more informed and responsible to himself or herself than another possibly could be.
