Plane crash kills 200 Indonesians

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (AP) — Almost 200 Indonesian pilgrims en route home from Mecca were killed in the crash of a chartered Icelandic airliner while landing at the Colombo airport in a severe thunderstorm, the Indonesian Embassy said today.

Hospital spokesmen said there were more than 60 survivors.

The DC-8 jetliner was to refuel in this island nation off the tip of India and then fly on to Surabaya, the capital of East Java. It crashed about a mile short of the runway just before midnight Wednesday, plowed up 400 yards of coconut plantation, broke into three sections and burst into flames.

One survivor, Saudi Arabian government clerk Amir Husain, said he was looking out from his window seat as the plane made its descent.

"Suddenly I saw the wing hit something," he said. "Immediately the plane rolled violently and I heard a crash. I looked around for my wife and saw her wedged in the debris. People around were wailing. I was dragging my wife out when I saw the first flames." His wife was hospitalized with serious injuries.

Icelandic Airlines said there were 246 passengers and 13 airline employees aboard — eight crew members and five flying as passengers. Five of the airline personnel survived.

The nationalities of the crew members were not immediately reported, but the airline said no Americans were aboard the plane. The Indonesian Embassy here said today the death toll stood at 199 and all the dead were Indonesians.

"It passes all understanding how anybody at all could have come out alive after a wreck like that," said one official, surveying the quarter-acre of charred and twisted debris.

Many of the survivors walked from

DESCRIBES PLANE CRASH — Indonesian newspaper editor Mas Abi Karsa, with his wife by his side, describes his survival of the crash of an Icelandic Airlines DC-8 Wednesday night. "We were descending to land in Colombo when the plane plowed through a forest of coconut trees and broke up. I tore myself from my seatbelt, walked out and shouted... I don't know what happened to my friend."

the crash site to the airport. Ambulances took them to a nearby air force hospital or to the Ngumbo Hospital, about 20 miles to the north.

By mid-day today, police and air force personnel cutting through the smoldering wreckage had recovered almost 100 bodies. Many victims were still strapped in their seats.

Two of the jetliner's four engines were torn off and hurled far from the impact site. Brightly colored Moslem prayer rugs, other belongings and bodies littered the area.

Sri Lankan aviation officials said they had recovered the two "black boxes" — the plane's flight recorder and cockpit voice recorder. They said the devices would be sent to the United States for expert analysis of what might have caused the crash.

The plane was chartered by Garuda Indonesian Airlines in October to carry Moslems from East Java to Saudi Arabia for a month's pilgrimage to Mecca and Medina, Islam's holiest shrines. Some 70,000 Indonesians are making the pilgrimage this year.

For peace modification

Carter admits need

WASHINGTON (AP) — Faced with a virtual deadline in Mideast peace talks, President Carter said today the Camp David agreements might have to be modified to complete a peace treaty between Egypt and Israel.

At a breakfast meeting with reporters, Carter said he was disappointed that the negotiations had become protracted. He said that initially he had expected the two sides could reach agreement "in a very few days."

The talks, now more than a month old, are snagged over a dispute over Palestinians and a handful of other issues.

Carter met in midmorning with Egyptian Vice President Hosni Mubarak, who was delivering President Anwar Sadat's response to an American compromise proposal for overcoming the Palestinian issue.

The idea of the U.S. proposal would be to link the treaty to moves to establish Palestinian autonomy on the West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza Strip.

"Both sides are acting in good faith," Carter said.

However, he said, Egypt and Israel are interpreting the frameworks reached at Camp David in September to their own best advantage. One set a basis for an Egyptian-Israeli treaty, the other the groundwork for negotiating the Palestinian issue.

To reach agreement, Carter said, "in a few cases it might be necessary to modify the Camp David accords."

The president called the talks a "most frustrating experience." The differences between the two sides, he said, are "minor, but significant politically and symbolically."

And, Carter added, the Egyptians and Israelis clearly do not trust each other at this point.

When Mubarak arrived at the White House, Carter told him: "I hope our conversation will be constructive toward finding peace."

On Wednesday, Sadat said the peace talks are facing a "serious crisis" and suggested a suspension might be needed while both sides think things over.

Meanwhile, the Israeli cabinet delayed its consideration of the latest U.S. proposal, waiting for the Egyptian presentation to Carter. The president had urged Israel not to take a final position on the American proposal until he had heard from Egypt.

The American compromise offer deals with several unsettled issues, including the link between the talks and future discussions on the fate of Palestinians on the West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza Strip.

Sadat, in remarks to university professors and students, said "we have gone a long way at the Washington talks and have achieved 90 percent of the road."

Informed Egyptian sources, requesting anonymity, said the Cairo government had formulated new proposals in hopes of avoiding a complete deadlock in the peace talks.

Krueger, Hill ballots recount begins Monday in county

The official recount in the U.S. Senatorial and Texas gubernatorial races in Howard County will take place Monday, according to an order by 118th District Judge Ralph Caton.

Robert Miller, local attorney representing Democratic candidates Bob Krueger and John Hill in the recount bid, received the money in his office this morning and finished the paperwork shortly before noon.

After learning that the required $500 had been deposited in the County Treasurer's Office, Caton signed the order and designated Monday for the recount.

Miller said that a representative to oversee the recount for the two candidates had not yet been officially appointed, but would be designated by Friday.

Of Texas couple missing since August

Discovery of bodies ends search

PAGOSA SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A frustrating three-month search has ended with the discovery of two bodies believed to be a missing Texas couple whose van was used by two escaped Arizona convicts to crash a roadblock, authorities say.

Archuleta County Sheriff Neal Smith issued a statement saying the bodies found southwest of here Wednesday "from all appearances and information available" were believed to be those of James Judge, 23, and Jeanette Margene Judge, 26, of Amarillo, Texas.

The couple had been married less than a week and were on a honeymoon camping trip in southern Colorado when they disappeared Aug. 8. For several weeks, dozens of searchers combed the rural areas of southern Colorado for a trace of the Judges.

Their van was used by Gary Tison and four members of his gang to crash through a roadblock near Casa Grande, Ariz., on Aug. 11.

Judge's brother, John Judge of Amarillo, an attorney, said Wednesday that relatives of the slain couple had been notified.

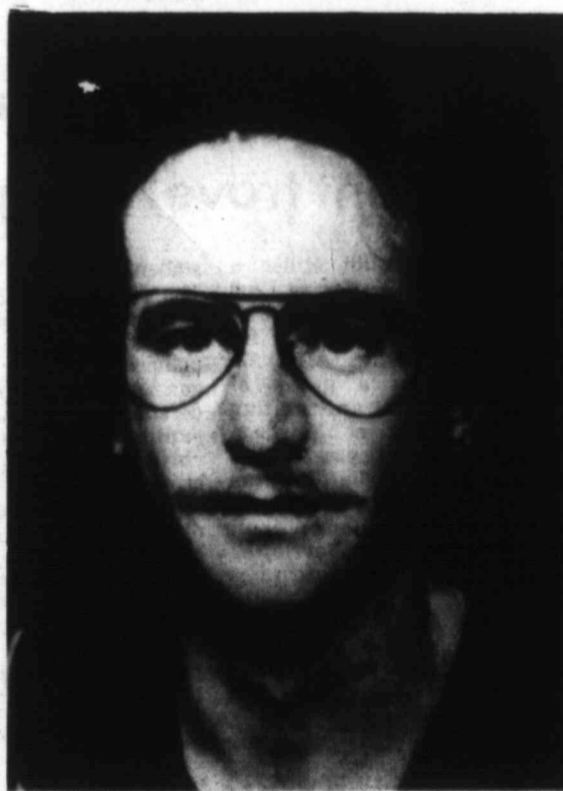

"They have some pretty positive identification," he said. "We're glad they're found. It's over as far as we're concerned."

Jeanette Judge's father, F.H. Davis, said in Borger, Texas, that he had been told the bodies "did show gunshot wounds."

District Attorney Craig Westberg told reporters in Durango that the deaths were being classified as homicides and he expected to file murder and kidnaping charges against three members of the Tison gang, who still are alive and being held by Arizona authorities.

The bodies will be taken to the Bernalillo County Medical Center in Albuquerque, N.M., for an autopsy, Westberg said.

Smith's statement said the bodies were found about 11 a.m. Wednesday by himself and other law enforcement officers, but provided no other details.

BODIES BELIEVED TO BE FOUND — A three-month search has ended for missing Amarillo, Texas, couple who were honeymooning in Colorado. The discovery of two bodies believed to be those of James Judge, Jr., 23, and his bride Jeanette Margene Judge, 26, was made near Pagosa Springs, Colorado, Wednesday. The couple was married in Amarillo, Texas, Aug. 5, 1978, and were reported missing while on a camping trip Aug. 8.

Tison, 42, and another convicted killer, Randy Greenawalt, 29, of Thornton, Colo., escaped from the Arizona State Prison on July 31. They were aided by Tison's three sons, Donald, 20, Rick, 18, and Raymond, 19, who held guards at bay in the visitors' center with guns apparently smuggled into the prison in an ice chest.

The gang was suspected of then killing four members of a Yuma, Ariz., family near Quartzsite, Ariz., on Aug. 2. The bodies of John Lyons, 24; his wife, Donelda, 24; and son Christopher, 22-months-old; were found four days later by a game warden. The body of a niece, Teresa Tyson, 15, was found several days later. She apparently had crawled some distance away.

The five men allegedly used the Lyons car to travel to Flagstaff, Ariz., and New Mexico and finally to the South Fork, Colo., area, where they are believed to have obtained the Judge's van.

An extensive manhunt followed that climaxed by the gang's attempt to run the roadblock near Casa Grande — about 380 miles southwest of here — in a hail of bullets.

Donald Tison was killed by the gunfire, and Greenawalt and the two other sons were captured. The decomposed body of Gary Tison was found 11 days later under bushes in the desert, about a mile from the roadblock.

The Tison brothers and Greenawalt face trial Dec. 9 in Florence, Ariz., for prison escape and Dec. 12 in Yuma, Ariz., on charges of four counts of murder, two of armed robbery and one of auto theft.

Action / reaction: Law headlighted

Q. A couple of months ago someone asked for clarification on the "right turn on red" law. Even though you answered it, many people still don't understand the law or they try to take advantage of it. Would you please restate the law?

A. The "right turn on red" law is still rather new and it will take people a while to get used to it. The law says that, unless prohibited by a posted sign, you may make a right turn on a red light after you have made a complete stop and have yielded to traffic in the intersection and pedestrians. Also, you may make a left turn on a red light if the intersecting streets are both one way and a left turn is permissible.

Police beat Assailants injure man

Charles H. Johnson, 908 Bell, was treated and released from the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital after he was assaulted by four men, early this morning.

According to reports, Johnson was sitting in his car at 1:30 a.m. today, in a parking lot near the Ramada Inn Lamplighter Club when four men forced their way into the car and kicked and hit him. He told police that his ribs and legs may have been injured, and he was taken to the VA Hospital.

Investigators have not determined a motive for the attack.

The windshield of a car belonging to Paula Adams, 909 Wason, was smashed while the auto sat in the lot of the College Park Shopping Center, 10 p.m. Wednesday. Damage was estimated at $150, but police have the license plate number of an Odessa man who may have been the culprit.

Burglars broke into the home of Epifanio Gaspar, 408 N.W. 7th, sometime between 7:45 a.m. and 5:10 p.m. Wednesday, and stole an AM-FM portable radio. The radio was valued at $17.50.

Darrell Martin, 1905 Alabama, miraculously escaped injury when his pickup left the South Service Road of IS 20 at the intersection of Tulane, and flipped several times, knocking down two Texas Electric light poles in the process. The accident occurred 11:40 p.m. Wednesday.

Six other mishaps were reported Wednesday.

Vehicles driven by Ba Van Mai, 411 Edwards, and George Pedro, 1602 Stadium, collided at 11th and Nolan, 1:38 p.m.

Vehicles driven by John Pitts, 2314 Brent, Ray Matthews, 600 W. 16th, and Larry Teinert, Cammie, collided at Fifth and Gregg, 8:10 a.m.

A parked vehicle belonging to John Hansen, 3300 Drexel, was struck by a vehicle that left the scene on the 100 block of W. Second, 2:36 p.m.

Not even the police are immune. Two officers, Ted Lancaster and David Caudle, collided in their private vehicles in the parking lot of the Big Spring Police Department. The accident occurred at 5:40 a.m.

Vehicles driven by Gurli Sepuya, 2904 Stonehaven, and Gertrude Hamlin, 4 Indian Ridge, collided at 1400 Goliad, 8:42 a.m.

A vehicle driven by Jack Price, 604 George, struck a traffic sign at 600 N. Benton, 8:39 a.m.

LUCKIER THAN IT LOOKS — Although his pickup is a little worse for wear, Darrell Martin, 1905 Alabama, managed to escape injury when his car left the road, 11:40 p.m. Wednesday. According to reports, Martin's truck left the South Service Road of IS 20 at the intersection of Tulane, flipped several times, and knocked over two light poles in the process.

Over 100 officials attend K mart has grand opening

K mart held their official opening here this morning with over 100 city, county, college and chamber of commerce officials inside for the ceremonies and customers lined up outside waiting for the store to open for business.

The corporation, which was 1,403 stores across the nation and 125,000 employees, was opening 26 new stores today with six of them in Texas.

A lot of enthusiasm was shown by civic leaders about the new store, but there were also a lot of enthusiastic first customers outside the building, to the delight of store officials.

The local manager is J. F. Truitt, who has over ten years experience with the company, coming from Alamogordo, N.M. where he was manager of the store there.

The assistant managers are Pete Phillips, Don Marx and Alex Saranda.

Also introduced were Betty Morris, office supervisor and Judy Faulkner, in charge of personnel.

John Martin represented the C. W. Manhattan land developers and Matt Lang represented the Lang Construction Company, who built the building.

Also introduced were Mayor Wade Choate who welcomed the store to Big Spring; Ray Don Williams, chamber of commerce president; Stanley Bogard, police chief and Alvin Harrison, fire chief. The Ambassadors were also recognized and thanked for attending.

SERVICE AWARD — K mart is a brand new store, but they were already presenting service awards here today. J.F. Truitt, left, local manager and Robert Yepsen, district manager, present a five-year pin to Roger Auger who helped set up the local store prior to the opening of the doors here today.

Knous elected president of TMTA unit

Verlin Knous, West Texas trucking manager of American Petrofina Co. in Big Spring, was recently elected president of the Private Carrier Division of the Texas Motor Transportation Assn. (TMTA) at the 13th Annual Private Carrier Conference in Irving.

TMTA represents the public and private sectors of the truck and bus industry in Texas. Private carriers are companies that own or lease a fleet of trucks to haul their own products.

Before joining American Petrofina in 1972, Knous worked as sales and trucking manager for the 7-Up Texaco Bottling Co. American Petrofina transports natural products such as asphalt and oil.

The Conference, held Nov. 2 to 3, featured panel discussions on "Maintenance, Equipment & Energy" and "Drivers:

Selection, Training and Management," and presented speakers Earl Haddock, safety inspector of the Department of Public Safety; Department of Transportation Regional Motor Carrier Safety Director, L.D. Friesen and State Department of Highways and Public Transportation Director Bob Townsley.

Knous resides in Big Spring with his wife, Edith, and has three children.

NEW FLAG — Mrs. Bill Bodin, American Legion Auxiliary Americanism chairman for the 19th District and the Howard County Unit 355 and Mrs. Ollie Bransom, Americanism chairman of Big Spring Unit 506, present a flag to the Christian Academy school here. Accepting the flag are Bruce Hinshaw, principal and the Rev. Jack Mullins, administrator.

Mitchell Deaths — cotton crop J. L. Lloyd estimated

COLORADO CITY — Mitchell County farmers are anticipating a bigger cotton crop than many of the area counties.

However, the cotton producers are apparently waiting for the freeze before heading to the gins.

Last year at this time, there were 27,203 bales ginned and 3,525 bales on the yard.

This year there were 1,062 bales ginned and 54 on the yard.

Stanton to add 310 gym seats

STANTON — The school board voted to purchase 310 seats for installation on the west side of the high school gymnasium.

Total cost of the fiberglass seats is expected to total $1,736.

The board also voted to take verbal bids on putting a suspended ceiling, insulation and new lighting in the high school field house.

They also authorized Superintendent Russell McMeans to prepare a new mandatory retirement policy for the school system, raising the mandatory age from 65 to 70 years of age, as approved by the federal government.

Trustees discussed building new tennis courts but took no action. The annual audit was presented by George Thorburn, Big Spring Certified Public Accountant.

He is survived by his wife, Velma of the home; two sons, James Leslie Lloyd of Big Spring; brother, R. G. Lloyd of Big Spring; three grandchildren, Donna Sellers, Rodger and Ricky Lloyd; and one great-granddaughter.

Theft charge hits Aldridge

Leroy Aldridge Jr., 23, of 207 NW 12th Street, was arrested Wednesday on a theft charge. Bond was set at $5,000 by Justice of the Peace Bobby West.

Broncho Boosters Club praises BSHS band

Sometimes local fans fail to "toot their own horn," but an Odessa fan sent in a letter of praise to the Big Spring High School band that was really appreciated, according to Superintendent Lynn C. Hise.

Les Fisher, president of the Broncho Boosters Club in Odessa wrote a letter last week which said, "Fans from Odessa who attended the Big Spring-OHS football game last Friday night enjoyed a treat quite unlike anything I have seen in my 18 years here. I refer to the performance of the Big Spring High School band."

"Actually the sportsmanship of your team, coaches and fans were exemplary," but the sound and the execution of your band was truly superior.

"Particularly outstanding were the soloists and the riflemen. You should know that their performance ranks as the very best I have ever seen by a high school band. Our fans applauded throughout their show and gave them a standing ovation at the end. That's an honor, which, to my knowledge has never been accorded any other visiting band in Odessa."

Needless to say, the letter was "sweet music" to the Big Spring band.

Three men sentenced

HUNTINGDON, Tenn. (AP) — Three men, two of them brothers, have been sentenced to between 25 and 35 years in prison after pleading guilty to kidnapping the teen-age daughter of a wealthy furniture maker.

The three — David Michael Wilson, 25; William Andrew Dixon, 22, and his brother Harvey Douglas Dixon, 20 — unexpectedly pleaded guilty on Wednesday to the kidnapping of Jodie Gaines, 18, last April. Wilson and the elder Dixon were sentenced to 35 years in prison and the younger Dixon was sentenced to 25 years in prison. Miss Gaines escaped from a cabin four days after she was abducted.

Backpacker rescued

SONORA, Calif. (AP) — A backpacker who discovered a chapter on survival in his first aid handbook was rescued after four days in the wilderness when a search and rescue team spotted the huge "SOS" he stamped out in the snow.

Arthur Reschke, 47, was airlifted by helicopter from Piute Lake in the Stanislaus National Forest on Tuesday, Tuolumne County Sheriff's deputies reported. He said he was passing the time reading his handbook when he came upon the survival chapter and the SOS suggestion.

Agent gives up bill boards

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — Real estate agent John Shea will give up his advertising billboards on Friday. He says he can't see the need for them.

The "John Shea Real Estate" signs along state Route 2 are scheduled to be the first roadside signs removed under Maine's billboard law, which allows the state to buy and remove signs adjacent to interstate and primary highways. The amount of compensation varies according to the sign's condition.

Chain store a casino?

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The firm that owns the Two Guys department store chain wants to put a casino where its Atlantic City store is.

Vornado Inc. chairman Frederick Zissu, asking the city planning board for a zoning change Wednesday, proposed a $97 million complex including two hotels with casinos for the site on U.S. highway 40, about a mile west of the Boardwalk.

Drug arrest ends in fight

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Three drug arrests sparked a rock-and-bottle melee involving 500 New Bedford High School students and more than 30 police officers, police said. No serious injuries were reported, but windows in police cruisers and cars in the school parking lot were smashed.

Police Capt. A.J. Correia said the battle outside the school Wednesday resulted in the arrests of 14 youths on disturbing the peace charges. All pleaded innocent and were released. Correia said the fracas broke out shortly before the school opened when undercover agents moved into a parking lot to make drug arrests.

New desegregation plan

CLEVELAND (AP) — A security staff of 183 persons and radio-equipped buses are part of the Cleveland school board's plan to implement a partial desegregation program in February.

Preliminary arrangements detailed Wednesday by Wayne F. Howard, chief of security and safety for the schools, also include plans to post monitors on the 80 buses and establishment of a rumor court center. The schools are under a federal court order to complete desegregation next fall.

City sales tax allocation drops

Big Spring's sales tax allocation for October dropped slightly compared to the same month last year, but the total payments so far this year are still over those for 1977.

The payment for October came to $35,002.03, compared to $42,420.21 for the same month last year. This brings the total for the year to date to $708,448.30, compared to $666,024.59 for the same period in 1977.

A number of area cities also received payments for the month. These included Coahoma, $1,218.30; Colorado City, $6,011.25; Lamesa, $14,326.67; and Stanton, $858.23.

According to State Comptroller Bob Bullock, a total of $19.8 million was received by Texas cities as their October share of the local option one per cent sales tax. This is slightly less than last month's rebate, but the yearly total is about $42 million ahead of payments made over the same period last year.

The October checks raise the cities' total to $349.8 million.

Hoston's check this reporting period will be $4 million, raising its total for the year to $73.3 million, up 17 percent over last year.

The city of Dallas will receive $2.3 million, bringing its total for the year to $40.9 million, up 9 percent.

San Antonio will get a check for $1.1 million, making its year to date total $20.1 million, up 9 percent.

Fort Worth's check for the month totals $306,717, raising its total to $14.5 million, and Austin will get $600,777, for a total of $11.7 million for the year.

Corpus Christi will receive $376,896, raising its total for the year to $7 million.

The sales tax is collected by merchants and other sales tax permit holders along with the state sales tax and is rebated monthly to cities in which it is collected by the Comptroller's Office.

Charlotte Tate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tate, was named baby of the year and Marlow Forman, daughter of Bertie Ford and Clarence Forman was named tot of the year.

Adult supervisors included Mrs. Viola Thomas, Mrs. Shirley Tate, Mrs. Vernice Jacobs, Mrs. Katherine James and Mrs. Essie L. Person, director and the Rev. F. Nelson, pastor.

Prior to the parade, a short program was presented by the youth department led by Carol Cooper, vice president and Teresa Ezell, song leader.

Photos of all contestants and youth on the program were made by Photo-West, who donated a percentage of the cost to the church.

Two categories were set in the contest for ages one month to 12 months and two to five years in separate competition. Each contestant was sponsored by either a parent or a member of the church.

An honorable mention went to Nicole Woodruff, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Woodruff.

Other participants and their sponsors were Teresa Ross, sponsored by Mrs. Louisiana Jones; Santana Paschall, sponsored by Mrs. Doris Perry; Howard Foster, sponsored by Mrs. Clemmie Johnson and Mrs. Leola Harper; Marlow Forman, sponsored by Mrs. Katherine James; Timothy Banks, sponsored by Mrs. Viola Thomas, and Charlotte Tate, sponsored by Charles Tate.

Energy— Union plans open house

Adding to progress in the area, Local Union 460 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers will officially celebrate open house in its new building at terminal airport near Midland this Saturday, it was announced today by Louis Garramone, business manager for the local.

The new union hall is a modern 3,750 square foot structure which includes a meeting hall, additional class rooms for the training of electrical apprentices to man the construction jobs in our area. Office spaces, kitchen and coffee bar complete the new building.

The open house will start at 2 p.m. The public is invited.

Weather

Light snow falls in Texas Panhandle

By the Associated Press
Light snow fell in the Texas Panhandle early today and forecasters warned of possible flash flooding in Northeast Texas, mainly around the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex.

The flash flood watch covered most of Northeast Texas and most of Southeast Texas.

Most areas of the state had precipitation in some form during the night and forecasts called for most of the snow, sleet, freezing drizzle and rain to start ending from the west during the afternoon with the last activity in Northeast Texas expected to end by Friday morning.

Snow was falling on a base of frozen sleet in the Amarillo area, causing hazardous driving conditions. Fog was reported over many areas of the state.

Although most rainfall amounts were light, usually between .75 of an inch to an inch, reports from the Dallas-Fort Worth area indicated much heavier rainfall although official readings were not immediately available.

Water was running about five inches deep over a road between Hurst and Euless in the Fort Worth area.

County Court docket cut in Oct.

The County Court docket at the end of the month of October was 18 cases lighter than at the end of September.

As October began, there were 507 criminal and 224 civil cases pending in the court of County Judge Bill Tune. As the month closed however, there were only 486 criminal cases pending. The civil docket had increased slightly, to 227 cases pending.

During October there were eight driving while intoxicated cases, five marijuana cases and 13 other criminal cases filed. There were 23 guilty pleas and 32 case dismissals, including six DWI dismissals. Two cases were transferred, charges were reduced in four cases, nine were remanded and one case was tried before a jury totaling 71 criminal cases disposed of during the month.

Nothing's good for us, experts insist

According to government experts it is almost impossible to process foods that are grown in open fields and not include some foreign matter. The only alternative is to spray the fields and all of us know how much trouble the Pure Foods people have with chemicals.

The American consumer has a choice... bugs or spray. A report received in the mail yesterday contained a report made on unprocessed food that was just as startling as the bugs and sprays.

THE INFORMATION was included in a report made by Dr. Richard L. Hall, who was chemist of the year in 1976 in Maryland. Dr. Hall concluded that, based on modern research, there's one inescapable conclusion... the food you're eating is killing you.

Dr. Hall's report appeared in the Army Reserve magazine and stated that unfortunately, the science that made our present food supply system possible is a mystery to most people... it is misunderstood. The best way to point out how misunderstood some ingredients are, is to look at them as they appear in unprocessed food.

And the best way to do that is to look at number of items that occur naturally and then see what happens when we apply the modern day safety standards.

BEWARE OF THE carrot. Everybody from Bugs Bunny to night fighter pilots knows that carrots are good for you. What is less well known is that carrots contain carototoxin, a fairly potent nerve poison, with chemical structure that would excite suspicion in any toxicologist's mind.

Carrots also contain myristicin. The substance is a hallucinogen and is thus wholly inappropriate for food use. Carrots also contain some unknown substances, probably isoflavones, that show an estrogenic effect... in other words, they mimic one of the female sex hormones. Forget carrots.

Have a radish? Radishes raise a different problem. They contain two substances which are goitrogens; that is, they promote goiters by interfering with our use of iodine. So no radishes.

Like olives? Yes, but consider this: Olives, of course, are processed... soaked in dilute lye to remove their bitter flavor, then washed and brined. They contain far too much sodium to be acceptable within the safety limits. No olives in the martini or on the salad.

And speaking of salad. Don't have a shrimp salad. Shrimp contains far too much arsenic, iodine and copper to be tolerated within safety limits, Dr. Hall observes.

POTATOES, LIKE all members of the nightshade family, contain... get ready for this... glycoalkaloids. The alkaloid in potatoes is solanine. It is a cholinesterase inhibitor; that is, it interferes with the transmission of nerve impulses in much the same way as nerve gas. The safety factor may only be ten or less, but if you find yourself feeling drowsy or paralyzed or having difficulty breathing after your next serving of potatoes, it may be the solanine at work.

Broccoli contains not one, but five goitrogens, two of them in large quantity. These different promoters of goiter, and the chemicals our bodies produce after we eat the broccoli, act at five different states in our metabolism or use, of iodine. It's like kinking your garden hose in five places. Skip the broccoli. An apple a day keeps the doctor away? Well, let's apply our regulatory yardstick of toxic chemicals to its content. Apples' most interesting component is phlorizin, which interferes in a number of ways with enzyme systems in our cells to produce glucosuria; that is, glucose in the urine. Several dozen apples a day will not keep the doctor away but they would scare off your life insurance agent.

AND DR. HALL'S list goes on and on. In these absurd but true examples, he points out that if we applied so me of our safety standards to major or natural ingredients, we would have nothing to eat.

If you are still wondering "What really is safe?" the good doctor points out that the foods on our menu are not dangerous when consumed as part of a normal, balanced and varied diet. They are nutritious and they are safe. Nor does he imply that we should throw caution to the winds and abandon all efforts to weigh risks and choose wisely.

Bugs and sprays, and now this. Makes you wonder how any Americans lived long enough to collect Social Security.

'Phooey' on TV

Around the rim

Eileen McGuire

I am delighted that at least one person I know of made it all the way through to the end of my rim last week. Not only that, but he or she took the time and expense of a stamp to comment on it.

Whoever you are, it should be pointed out that "Phooey" is properly spelled "Phooey". Other than that your message was very inspirational and I am considering it.

Until then, here's another of those inconsequential rims, designed to entertain or infuriate, whatever the case may be:

Well, it's Nov. 16. How many of you made it through a whole day of not smoking? If this question baffles you, you're not alone.

Despite numerous commercials on television urging people to give up smoking for one day on Nov. 16, few people that I've talked to saw any of the commercials. I attribute this to the fact that there's not a whole lot of good reasons for turning on the set anymore.

JAMES WERRELL wrote a rim a few weeks back describing some of the fall television viewing with his usual brilliant flair of sarcasm and wit. I felt, however, that he ended his saga of television blues too abruptly.

I too am disappointed with the selection now available on the screen from which I expect something that resembles entertainment. My source of entertainment is now the television guide, which I read diligently each evening to find out what I'm not missing.

Rather than repeat Werrell's observation regarding the corporations that attempt to bring us what they feel we want to view, I offer understanding. Perhaps the networks are simply trying too hard this year.

The resulting "Mork and Mindy," and "Battlestar Galactica" may be their version of interesting viewing for a space-age audience, but for those of us who are earthbound, the networks' projections into the future are too far out to take our minds off of our day-to-day problems and afford us an hour of "escape."

Escaping with Lorne Green to a planet I can't even pronounce is not my idea of relaxation.

I realize that at this point in the season, a great amount of money is at stake in turning bad programming into good. I suggest inexpensive ways of developing some program alternatives: few props, everyday people instead of actors and actresses, and real-life situations instead of fantasies created by overworked minds.

COMEDY: Take one ten-month-old child who has not yet learned how to handle spoon and fork and place him a high chair. Add to this a bowl of spaghetti and you have a ready-made situation that will keep audiences amused for at least 30 minutes. The only additional props needed is lots of newspapers for the floor. This could be the first of a series called "Please Pass The Pasta". Additional episodes could feature mashed potatoes, a beef pot pie, and for variety, chocolate

Lost his life for lust

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — On the night of Wednesday, March 8, 1978, Gen. Reynaldo "Perro" Perez, Nicaraguan President Anastasio Somoza's most notorious henchman, was murdered by Sandinista guerrillas.

The Somoza regime issued a formal statement that the ferocious Perez had been killed. This was duly reported in the world press. The real story of his death is far more interesting — but much more embarrassing to the dictator.

The truth is a lurid modern-day tale straight out of Greek mythology, with the old-fashioned badger game thrown in for good measure. It was told to our reporter Bob Sherman by the femme fatale herself, a pretty, 29-year-old Nicaraguan rebel named Nora who once was a pre-law student at Catholic University in Washington, D.C.

Whether Nora's inspiration came from the classics or was purely original, her story is a reasonably exact replay of the tragedy of Agamemnon, the Greek king whose wife Clytemnestra, with promise of amorous dalliance, lured him to her boudoir where he was promptly dispatched by her lover.

When she first met Perez, Nora was 27, the mother of two and soon to be divorced. After two years as a student in Washington and a year in Rome, she returned home to Managua, completed her legal training and became a lawyer for a construction company. She also became a member of the anti-Somoza underground.

Perez was negotiating a complicated and time-consuming land deal through the company Nora worked for. From the outset, he began making advances to her.

Nora said she put him off for almost a year. "But then I began to think that maybe we (the underground) could use this to our advantage," she said. "So I talked to my contact and the order came back that I should try to set him up."

The next time they met, Nora made it clear to Perez that she was now willing to be his mistress. The general was aware that she had just been divorced, so her sudden change of heart after months of coy rebuffs seemed entirely plausible, at least to a man of Perez' macho delusions.

Nora invited the general to her modest home in Managua for the long-awaited tryst, but told him she needed a few days to get things arranged. Two days before the rendezvous, two Sandinista guerrillas slipped into Nora's house and waited.

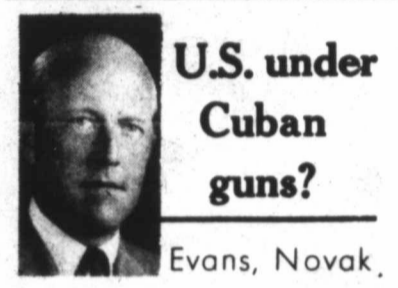

The general's chauffeur-driven limousine arrived on schedule the evening of March 8. The unsuspecting Perez was greeted at the front door by Nora.

Impatient to embark on what he obviously anticipated as a long and delightful affair, Perez led his hostess directly to the bedroom — precisely where the two guerrillas were hiding. "I embraced him immediately, holding him tightly around the chest," Nora said. The guerrillas slipped up behind Perez and cut his throat from ear to ear. Then they dumped his body on the bed and covered it with a red-and-black Sandinista flag.

There was still the problem of how to handle the chauffeur waiting outside. Not wanting to harm him during their getaway, Nora decided to send him on an errand. "I went to the door and yelled to him, 'The general wants some rum. Go see if you can find some.'" He hurried away to do his chief's bidding.

Nora's two companions then fled the scene and went underground. She left her two children with her family in Managua and made her way to a secret Sandinista camp near the Costa Rican border. It was there that our reporter met her.

Nora has been on two raids, including the successful attack on the National Guard post as Penas Blancas in September. If the Sandinistas' highest hopes are realized, she plans to join the victory celebration in Managua with in a few months.

U.S. under Cuban guns?

Evans, Novak,

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union is surreptitiously arming Cuba with MIG-23 aircraft to the type now deployed in Europe for nuclear attack against NATO, a development casting a long shadow on President Carter's hope for Senate ratification next year of a strategic arms limitation (SALT) treaty.

In a top-secret memorandum informing President Carter of this on Oct. 23, Defense Secretary Harold Brown specifically raised the question whether supplying Cuba with the high-performance NIG-23 violates the "understandings" between President Kennedy and the Kremlin that ended the Cuba missile crisis in October 1962. Those understandings forced Moscow to remove ballistic missiles and other nuclear-armed weapons from Cuba, including the Badger bomber.

According to U.S. intelligence findings on which Brown based his memorandum to the president, the Cuba-based MIG-23 has the configuration of the nuclear-attack aircraft that comprises the Warsaw Pact's most advanced nuclear-delivery tactical strike force.

There was no suggestion in Brown's memorandum to Carter that the Cuba-based MIG-23s — believed now to number some 12 to 15 aircraft — have actually been fitted or "wired," in the technical phrase, for carrying a nuclear payload. What can be said is that the MIG-23 now in Cuba appears to be the same Model D or F long observed in the Warsaw Pact's nuclear-delivery training exercises: an attack, not an air-defense, aircraft.

TOP CARTER administration officials, not concealing their shock at discovering the MIG-23 with its one-way, 1,200-mile range based on 90 miles off the Florida coast, are now hotly debating what to do and say about it. As Brown warned Carter in his memo, the totally unexpected Soviet move presents the president with a problem of "high political sensitivity."

To make the fact public poses this unpleasant choice: demand that Moscow immediately remove all MIG-23s, as the U.S. successfully demanded of the Soviet missiles and Badger bombers in 1962 when the strategic balance was overwhelmingly in Washington's favor; or try to explain it away as a mere upgrading or modernization of Cuba's air force, whose MIG-21s are now largely in the service of C-ba's African adventures.

If Carter chose the first option odds are prohibitive that Moscow would tell him to go jump in the lake, diplomatically or not, and probably make it stick. That would bring an instant crisis in detente and put the new SALT agreement in jeopardy.

But to accept the presence of the MIG-23 in Cuba, knowing its apparent capability for being fitted with nuclear-delivery, would violate the doctrine laid down by John F. Kennedy during the Cuba missile crisis and by the Nixon-Kissinger strategists in 1970.

Time often only cure for bedwetting

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My seven-year-old son wets his bed nightly. A few times he has gone for a week or so dry. Then he starts again. He is an extremely heavy sleeper, but restless, tossing and turning. He was trained by two bedwetters run on both sides of our family.

My doctor had a son the same age with the same problem. He suggested we wait before testing him for urinary problems. Do you have printed material on this? I never yell or embarrass my son, but don't know what to say when he is invited overnight somewhere. Should he be taken to a urologist? — Mrs. C.N.

First of all, bedwetting at five is not at all unusual, and most youngsters overcome it. Statistics show that slightly more than 10 percent of all youngsters persist in bedwetting past age 5 (13 percent boys, 9 percent girls). I say this only to put the matter into perspective for you, not to lull you into false security to the point where you give up trying to solve the boy's problem.

It's interesting that this lad has periods of dryness. Could be a valuable clue. An allergy can cause bedwetting. In this respect, it is also important that the problem occurred on both sides of your family. Allergies can be passed on. Try to detect what might be involved in his periods of dryness. Perhaps a food, overactivity (causing exhaustion-type sleep), etc., can be pinpointed.

By seven, it is well to begin thinking about possible urinary defects, which in most cases can be corrected. Presumably, your doctor's child overcame his problem. Most children will. If physical factors are not involved, such as an allergy or a defect, the singles best "cure" for you son may be his desire to get in on one of those overnight visits to friends. My booklet on this is "Bedwetting: Ways to Stop It." You can order one for a quarter. Mail a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was having trouble with leg and foot cramps in bed. I started wearing light socks. No more cramps. — L.S.

The warmth can aid circulation. Worth trying.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a problem. I was not circumcized when I was born. I am now 15 and it is embarrassing. Can I go to a doctor and have him fix it in his office, or do I have to go to a hospital? Is there something I can do at home to fix it? — Worried.

If you have free movement of the foreskin you don't need a circumcision. No need for embarrassment. You will need to use a bit more care in cleaning yourself. I hope this note lifts that great weight from your shoulders.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true a person can drink too much water, and if so what would the signs be? — B.D.

Reminds me of the writer years ago who asked me if a person could "drown" from drinking too much water. The answer is one can't drown.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: In trying to follow God's will and do it, when should you just step out in blind faith, and when should you wait until God has given you very direct and specific guidance? I face a decision now, and I don't know whether to just make a decision and hope it is right, or wait until God gives me definite guidance. — Mrs. L. B. G.

DEAR MRS. L. B. G.: God's promise to those who know Him that He will guide them is a very wonderful thing. One of the first verses I ever memorized was Proverbs 3:5-6, and I go back to it time and again: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths." This has been true in my own life.

What does these verses say? They tell us that God does have a will for us. "Thou wilt shew me the path of life" (Psalms 16:11). They also tell us that God wants to show us His will. That is

For that to happen the lungs would have to be filled with water, and I'm sure one would be forced to stop before that happened.

As to your question, yes, a person can drink too much water. The signs would be mental confusion. A large volume of water can alter the balance of sodium and other minerals in the body.

There's an old saying — if your feet hurt, you hurt all over. Dr. Thosteson's new booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," shows you how to avoid and take care of foot problems. To get your copy, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple — write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Cattle producing hanging back

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cattle producers still are hanging back from expanding herds and could decide to continue their liquidation longer than some experts predict, says a Colorado livestock economist.

Johnnie Lou Avery resigns from HC

Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery, assistant to the president of Howard College has submitted her resignation after 13 years of service, effective Jan. 1.

JOHNNIE LOU AVERY

Mrs. Avery, who began her work at HC as director of financial aids in a newly created position at that time, established the office, set up procedures, guidelines and forms and developed the method of operation for that position. She served with distinction in this capacity having been named to important state and national level appointments as well as being recognized as a leader in the financial aids field with model office operations.

In 1975, Mrs. Avery was elevated to the position of assistant to the president, where her duties and responsibilities have continued to widen. In this capacity she is responsible for college information and public relations, institutional data and research, grant proposals, master calendar, development and fund-raising activities, personnel, affirmative action programs, as well as contribution to various programs and of student activities and services on the campus. Her primary duty is to serve as assistant to the president in the operation of that office and its duties.

Mrs. Avery noted in her resignation a great reluctance to resigning her position because of her pleasant and rewarding association with HC but said it was necessary to return to graduate school and to explore some additional opportunities open to her at this time which will be in the direction of her personal and professional goals.

She expressed her deep gratitude to Dr. Charles Hays, and to the board of trustees for their encouragement and support.

When contacted, Mrs. Avery said, "My respect and appreciation for Dr. Hays' dynamic leadership, his excellence as an administrator and his many capabilities make it even harder to resign. My years at HC are filled with so many pleasant memories and good friends gathered from the association with the college employees and students. There is definitely going to be a void in my life but my devotion to and support of HC will remain strong and constant."

Even though the resignation has not yet been acted upon by the board, Dr. Hays sees no problem with Mrs. Avery being released from her contract. He stated, "There will be a loss felt when Mrs. Avery leaves. She's been a positive force at HC and we'll all miss her. However, I wish her well and know we can count on her continued loyalty to HC."

He continued, "Mrs. Avery had earlier discussed the possibility of resigning but wanted to wait until the college had gotten through the major impact of the loss of Webb. That, in itself, is evidence of her unselfish attitude and her concern for the College and her colleagues," Dr. Hays noted.

Robert Reiersen, who works for one of the nation's largest feedlot and packing firms, told an outlook session at the Agriculture Department that most experts think the current liquidation phase in the cattle business will end next year.

But for this to happen, he said Wednesday, producers will have to begin moving more heifers into breeding herds in addition to reducing the number of older cows they are sending to slaughter plants.

So far, Reiersen said, this has not occurred to a significant degree, although cow slaughter is declining.

Meat comprises nearly one-third of consumers' grocery spending, and beef is the biggest item in the meat bill.

A cutback in cattle numbers the past several years has resulted in much higher animal prices and is a major factor in overall food prices going up 10 percent in 1978, the sharpest rise in four years.

Led by beef and pork, food prices are expected to go up again in 1979, "most likely" by about 7.5 percent, according to department economists.

Reiersen said that "for whatever the reason, cow-calf operators are not yet sufficiently encouraged" by higher market prices to expand their herds.

Reiersen said U.S. cow slaughter in 1978 totaled about 10.5 million head but has declined to an estimated 8.5 million head this year. He said the slaughter will probably be less than 7 million head in 1979 and drop "towards or even under" the level of 6 million head a year in 1980-82.

Cow beef is the main source of hamburger. Thus, with reduced cow slaughter, hamburger prices probably will go up relatively faster than cuts from grain-fed cattle.

But Reiersen and others said that as hamburger prices rise, more meat from chucks and other cuts of grain-fed beef probably will be ground to meet the demands of consumers.

President Carter's decision to veto a new meat-import law favored by cattlemen and uncertainty about future prospects for price controls and other federal regulations are contributing to the situation, he said.

Reiersen's firm, Montfort of Colorado, is based in Greeley, Colo.

Reiersen did not predict that the liquidation phase of the cattle cycle will continue through next year but suggested that this is one "scenario" of what could happen.

Dollar value boosts sale of farmland

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lower value of the dollar overseas has helped boost foreign interest in buying U.S. farmland, according to Agriculture Department analysts.

During the year that ended Sept. 1, the value of the dollar compared with currencies of six industrial nations depreciated in a range of 10.5 percent in Britain to 32.8 percent in Switzerland, one of the analysts said Wednesday.

The report was made to the annual outlook conference at the department by Larry A. Walker of the Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service.

"For example," he said, "the Swiss, who with the same number of francs that would have allowed him to pay $1,000 per acre last year, could offer $1,488 per acre a year later."

Even a British investor would have gained $117-per-acre bidding advantage for U.S. farmland during the year, Walker said.

"In conclusion, the devaluation of the dollar has provided many of the potential foreign buyers a significant bidding advantage," he said.

Slaughter lambs are rising

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of sheep and lambs being fed for the slaughter market continues to decline, says the Agriculture Department.

As of Nov. 1, there were about 1.19 million head in feedlots in seven major producing states, down 1 percent from a year ago, the department said Wednesday.

Those included: Arizona 77,000 head, up 54 percent from a year ago; California 215,000, down 14 percent; Colorado 460,000, up 10 percent; Iowa 77,000, down 4 percent; Nebraska 93,000, down 2 percent; Texas 140,000, down 12 percent; and Wyoming 125,000, down 11 percent.

Cooking oil substitute could cut cholesterol

DALLAS (AP) — A manmade substance, which tastes like margarine and could substitute for cooking oil, dramatically reduces high cholesterol levels and the accompanying risk of heart attacks and stroke, say two teams of scientists.

"Sucrose polyester seems to have remarkable potential as a cholesterol-lowering agent," with many advantages over existing drugs, said Dr. Charles L. Glueck, who heads the University of Cincinnati's General Clinical Research Center.

Too much cholesterol in the blood greatly increases the risk of major heart problems, according to heart specialists, who blame much of the problem on Americans' fondness for high-cholesterol foods such as eggs and red meat.

Drugs are available to reduce cholesterol but most are difficult to take because of unpleasant side effects and "drugs are of no value if you can't get people to take them," Glueck told a news conference.

The experimental substance could simply be used like butter on toast or pancakes, like vegetable oil for fried foods and like shortening for many recipes, Glueck told a news conference.

"It would even be effective with a high-cholesterol, high-fat diet...that doctors would otherwise shudder about," said Dr. John Crouse of the University of California-San Diego. He quickly added that it can never replace a sensible diet.

Glueck said sucrose polyester has produced "no obvious or substantial side-effects" in initial tests. He said it does reduce the level of vitamins A and E, but these are easily replaced.

Considered safe by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, sucrose polyester is apparently several years from being commercially available. It was developed and patented by Proctor & Gamble.

Glueck and Crouse described their separate studies Wednesday at an American Heart Association conference here.

Glueck said tests with 24 healthy males showed the substance reduced cholesterol levels an average of about 10 percent. Crouse, who gave sucrose polyester to 11 obese patients who had been dieting for three weeks, reported decreases of 11 to 15 percent.

The researchers said the substance seems to work by attaching itself to cholesterol in the intestine, before it moves into the blood. Because sucrose polyester cannot be digested, it and the captured cholesterol are passed out of the body with other wastes.

The substance, which results from a chemical reaction of sugars and fatty acids, was developed several years ago for possible use in low-calorie foods, said Fred H. Mattson of Proctor & Gamble's laboratory in Cincinnati.

He said its value in reducing cholesterol was only recently discovered and "it's impossible to guess when or whether it will be put on the market. We're still in the very early stages."

Cholesterol is a fatty substance found in all living things. It is produced naturally by the human body and consumed in substantial quantities in eggs and red meat.

Too much cholesterol in the blood can cause deposits to form on the walls of arteries. That leaves less room for blood flow and sets the stage for heart attacks and strokes.

House Assassinations Committee says

No evidence that Ray was a paid triggerman

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators say they have found no evidence that James Earl Ray was a paid triggerman in a conspiracy to assassinate Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Chief Counsel G. Robert

Blakey told the House Assassinations Committee Wednesday that Ray conceivably could have been part of such a conspiracy — but if he was there is no evidence he got his money. "The fact is that a lot of triggermen carry out a contract and then don't get paid for it," Blakey said. Blakey's investigators concluded instead that Ray probably financed his escape from Memphis, Tenn., to Europe after King's assassination April 4, 1968, with money from a $27,000 bank robbery. He said they found no payoff stashed in any bank or with any of Ray's relatives or associates. And if Ray had been paid off, Blakey said, he would not likely have risked robbing a bank in London when he was wanted worldwide for King's murder. Investigators say Ray robbed a London bank just before he was arrested June 8, 1968. Ray pleaded guilty to King's killing and is now serving a 99-year prison sentence. He recanted his plea almost immediately after making it and now contends he was framed.

Ray tentatively had been scheduled to testify today but the committee voted not to call him and canceled today's meeting on grounds the cost was not justified. Former Assistant Deputy Chief Counsel Michael Eberhardt, who resigned in protest of Ray not being called back, said he thinks some committee members were "intimidated" by Mark Lane, Ray's lawyer.

ROTARY GOVERNOR VISITS — Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rochester, left, are shown receiving a gift from Big Spring Rotary club president Charles Beil and Mrs. Beil. Rochester is governor of Rotary district 573 which includes 46 clubs stretching from Odessa to Sweetwater and north to Amarillo. Rochester met with club officers and committee chairmen Monday night at a club assembly and addressed the ladies' day luncheon Tuesday at the Brass Nail. Over $350 was raised for the Rotary foundation during the session. Rochester is from Odessa.

Conference request refused

Meany angry with Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — An angry AFL-CIO is charging that President Carter, breaking his only campaign promise to the labor federation, refused George Meany's request to talk over Carter's anti-inflation program a few days before its formal unveiling.

The AFL-CIO president had tried repeatedly without success since late summer for a meeting with Carter to discuss Meany's objections to the plan's voluntary wage and price guidelines, AFL-CIO sources said Wednesday.

Carter's refusal incensed Meany, the sources said. The 14-million member federation's executive council subsequently rejected the program as unfair to workers and called for mandatory wage-price controls.

Administration officials said a personal meeting was unnecessary and could not be scheduled. One official, noting frequent reports about Carter and Meany not mixing well personally, said the AFL-CIO would not have changed its position had the two men met.

The source said, "It's no secret that there's not perfect chemistry between Carter and Meany." He added that past meetings between the two "all turned out unsatisfactory."

"If the AFL-CIO knew the program in advance and if positions on it were already locked, it (a meeting) would have been a bust, anyway."

But one Meany aide charged Wednesday that "Carter broke the only campaign promise he ever made to us: 'Anytime you have a problem, come see me.'"

"No Democratic president has ever not seen us," added the aide, who declined to be identified.

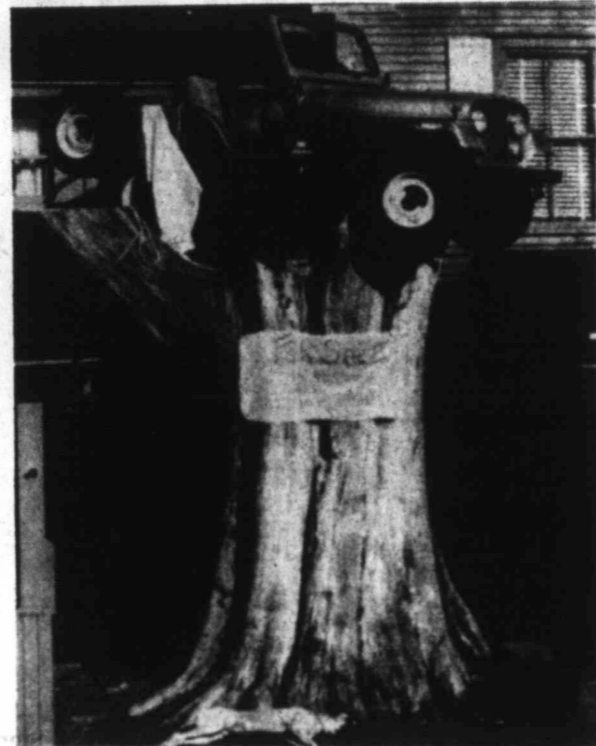

In the 26 years that he has headed the AFL and later the AFL-CIO, Meany has worked — and tangled — with seven presidents, dating back to Harry S. Truman.

Two years ago, the AFL-CIO was reveling over the election of a Democratic president it had helped to victory. Last week, the 84-year-old Meany was reviling Carter, calling him the most conservative president since Calvin Coolidge.

Meany's last request for a meeting was made Thursday, Oct. 19, five days before Carter announced his program in a televised address. Meany had specifically asked to meet before the program was announced.

Carter turned down the request on Oct. 20, citing a tight schedule that included a long weekend at Camp

David, the nearby presidential mountain retreat, the AFL-CIO sources said.

JOKE BACKFIRED — A phoney wedding, held as a joke by Art Holback, of Keene, N.Y., backfired when fellow construction workers, who had shelled out for a bachelor party and an $85 rollbar for Holback's jeep had a crane lift the vehicle atop a dead elm tree in front of the Elm Tree Inn in Keene. Holback's friends had shown up at the inn to find the bartender, Pete, dressed in a wedding gown. The innkeeper's great dane, Duke, lies under the tree.

State's surplus is $2.7 billion

AUSTIN — State Comptroller Bob Bullock has reported that Texas state government ended the last fiscal year with a $2.7 billion surplus.

Bullock filed with the governor's office the 1978 annual financial report for the fiscal year which ended Aug. 31.

This year-end cash balance was $244.8 million greater than the cash balance at the beginning of the year.

"The economic environment of Texas government should be the envy of budget-makers in the other 49 states and is closely linked to the state's prospering economy," Bullock said.

The report showed that Texas government had total revenues and beginning cash of $11.1 billion during the year and spent $8.4 billion.

The favorable position was made possible by record revenues from all major sources, including $5 billion in tax collections, $2 billion in federal funds, $414 million in licenses and fees, $665 million from investments of state funds and $405 million in income from state-owned lands.

Support for public education at all levels accounted for the biggest state expenditure, $3.7 billion or about 46 per cent of state spending.

Public welfare was the second largest function of state government with outlays of $1.6 billion. Spending for state highways amounted to $921.8 million.

Texas' predominant role in the rise of the Southwest as a major economic population center has resulted in substantial increases in state revenues, the report notes.

Economic indicators such as population growth, personal income, employment and energy production were detailed. These developments include:

For the year ended June, 1977, the Texas population was estimated 12,830,000, a 1.8 per cent increase above previous years. For the past ten years, the state's population had an annual increase of 1.7 per cent, more than double the percentage increase of the nation as a whole.

Texas per capita personal income averaged $6,803 in 1977 — a 10.3 per cent boost above the prior year.

Texas employment totaled 5.07 million in May 1978, excluding agricultural workers. This is a 4.3 per cent increase over the previous year.

The number of state employees in Texas declined relative to the state's population in 1977.

Although Texas crude oil production has continued to decline in recent years — it averaged a 3.1 per cent annual increase over the last six years through the second quarter of 1978 — higher prices have kept the value of production roughly constant.

SMOKEOUT PARADE—A group of local schoolchildren bearing a giant ashtray and a dozen 10-foot tall dancing cigarettes join in a parade in Hartford Wednesday. The parade was part of kickoff ceremonies for Thursday's American Cancer Society Great American Smokeout.

At end of pretrial motions

EDINBURG, Texas (AP)—Three days of lengthy testimony in pretrial motions here have left conflicting stories concerning a murder plot purportedly hatched by suspended Hidalgo County District Attorney Oscar McInnis.

The longtime South Texas prosecutor is named in an indictment alleging he plotted to have a friend's ex-husband kidnapped and killed. The murder solicitation charge carries a possible 20-year prison term and $10,000 fine.

The hearing ended Wednesday when State District Judge Vernon Harville of Corpus Christi postponed ruling on two key requests from the defense team. Defense attorney Frank Maloney of Austin argued here for dismissal of the charge on the grounds that McInnis was entrapped.

Harville asked the attorneys to submit briefs concerning the entrapment question and a defense motion to suppress secretly compiled tape recordings. Harville postponed ruling on the motions pending the filing of the briefs. The judge did rule on one motion—denying a state change of venue request.

In final arguments here Wednesday, attorneys for the defense and prosecution disagreed on who initiated the alleged plot to have Noe Villanueva lured into Mexico and killed.

Maloney argued that McInnis was entrapped—the helpless victim of a trap set in part by a vindictive local sheriff.

"The question is who solicited whom," Maloney said.

Prisoner Daniel Rodriguez—the prisoner who says he went to Hidalgo County Sheriff Brig Marmolejo after McInnis approached him about finding a hit man—testified here that he first suggested to McInnis that they get someone to "blow (Villanueva's) brains out."

But Rodriguez said the suggestion was offered "jokingly."

Maloney also argued that Rodriguez initiated most of the conversations with McInnis.

But special prosecutor Michael Hinton of Houston—basing his case on the tapes—argued that McInnis initiated the plot. He also contended that there was no entrapment because one of the parties (Rodriguez) consented to having the jailhouse tape recordings made.

"We're not dealing here with the naive. We're not dealing with the gullible or a man who would be prey to clandestine police methods," Hinton said of McInnis. "This is a man who knows and should know the risks of violating the law."

'Part of a national pattern'

People pouring into Texas

COLLEGE STATION — People are pouring into the Lone Star State in ever-increasing numbers, according to Dr. R. L. Skrabanek of the Texas Real Estate Research Center at Texas A&M University.

"Texas is like a giant magnet drawing people from other states and regions at an accelerating rate," Skrabanek writes in the fall issue of TRERC's Tierra Grande magazine.

"Migration of Texas is part of a national pattern where more people are leaving the Frost Belt states of the industrialized Northeast and Midwest for the Sun Belt states."

"Texas is getting more than its share of people following better jobs as industries relocate in areas where energy is available, wages are lower, unions are less organized and the general cost of living is lower," Skrabanek said.

Between 1950 and 1960, people moving to Texas exceeded the number leaving by an average of 11,400 per year. The average jumped to 112,000 per year between 1973 and 1976, and to 228,000 between 1976 and 1977. While migration accounted for only 13 per cent of Texas' total population growth in the 1960s, it made up two-thirds of the population growth between 1976 and 1977.

In total population, Texas now ranks third behind California and New York, and its growth rate of 14.6 per cent between 1970 and 1977 was more than twice the national average.

With the exception of California, Texas increased its population more than any other state between 1976 and 1977.

"If Texas continues to add population at the same place:

in the remaining years of the 1970s as it did between April 1, 1970, and July 1, 1977," Skrabanek comments, "it will have a larger population increase between 1970 and 1980 than in any census decade in state history."

"Until now, the largest increases in number of people for any census decade took place between 1950 and 1960, when Texas added more than 1.86 million.

To anthropologist's life

Walking stick adds character

NEW YORK (AP) — The walking staff which supported her tirelessly, inquisitive march between the world's simplest societies and its most complex lay propped near the hospital bed when Margaret Mead died.

"It was in a corner, waiting for her to get up and use it," said Dr. Rhoda Mettraux, a friend and associate for 36 years.

The famous American anthropologist and outspoken advocate of human tolerance died Wednesday after a year-long struggle against cancer of the pancreas. She was 76.

A memorial service was scheduled Friday at Columbia University with private funeral and burial at an undisclosed time in Buckingham, Pa.

Miss Mead's black, lacquered staff, which was often mistaken for a tribal token, was a traditional British walking stick known as a thumb-stick. She began carrying one in 1960, when a doctor advised her to use a cane after an ankle injury. She said she adopted the stick rather than be forced to stoop.

The injury healed but the staff remained, giving Miss Mead's short, rotund, often robed figure a Biblical air. Sometimes, she would wave it at meetings to gain the floor.

It was Oct. 2 when Miss Mead abandoned the tower office she had occupied for 52 years at the American Museum of Natural History here to enter New York Hospital.

A niece, Madeline Lee, said she talked, wrote and read avidly until only a few days before her death.

Miss Mead was unconscious on the morning of her death, said Dr. Mettraux, a research associate at the museum and among those at her deathbed. But at the moment of death, she smiled, she said.

"It was as if she knew where she was going and it was where she wanted to go," said Dr. Mettraux, who, as an anthropology student during World War II, belonged to the first of three generations of young people to come under Miss Mead's influence.

"It was a very gentle and quiet smile so that you felt very sad. But also — I'm sorry this seems a little sentimental — as if she had at the end of the illness returned to us from a far country and said goodbye," she said in a telephone interview.

At the White House, President Carter issued a statement saying Miss Mead's life was "impressively full and productive."

U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim called it a "great human loss" and Edward Lehman, executive director of the American Anthropological Society, a group she once headed, called Miss Mead "irreplaceable."

Her scientific and popular reputations were established in a single stroke when, at the age of 26, she published "Coming of Age in Samoa."

The book, an account of living for eight months in three small coastal villages on the island of Tau, delighted young people and shocked their elders.

It compared the easy-going Samoan attitude towards teenage sex with the vexation of being a teen-ager in the more repressive West.

In 1970, 11 field trips and more than a score of books later, "Coming of Age" was still selling 100,000 copies a year.

"People used to think they could go somewhere else and find a congenial society and now they know they can't," she told an interviewer that year. "It's all one world, there are no islands anymore."

She married three anthropologists and divorced them all, joking later that her marriages were "endogamous," an anthropological term meaning sticking to one's own clan.

But Miss Mead, a devout Episcopalian, was an ardent supporter of family life and kept touch with her family. She was especially close to her only child, Mary Catherine Bateson Kassarian, born in 1939, the daughter of her third husband, British anthropologist Gregory Bateson.

Joe Eidson, the presiding jurist in Davis' divorce case. Davis contends he was framed by a vindictive wife and others, including McCrory. The Aug. 20 tape is from the second of two recorded parking lot meetings between Davis and McCrory, a one-time pool-shooting friend and employee and now the state's key witness.

McCrory, 40, was wired for sound on both occasions. Jurors heard the first tape Wednesday along with three recorded telephone conversations in which the Aug. 20 encounter was arranged between the accused and the accuser.

According to the transcripts of the tapes, there was a cryptic exchange between the two at 2:49 a.m. that day, just minutes after Davis and his girlfriend returned home from a Dallas Cowboys football game.

McCrory: "...need to uh, see you. Uh, he's finished with the job and he's wanting to get out of here."

Davis: "Oh... I have it — how — how do I know?"

McCrory: "I got the proof. That's no sweat."

Davis: "...all that information is down at the office."

The state contends the "information" was an allusion to the payoff money for the hit man hired to kill Edison.

According to the tape, McCrory arranged a meeting at 9 a.m. that Sunday morning, saying:

Sound-over-film production key to state's case against Davis

HOUSTON (AP) — "I have got the money," the voice on the tape recording reports. "He has got the gun. I have to drive to the front ... so he won't get suspicious..."

With that disclosure, FBI informant David McCrory ended a videotaped encounter Aug. 20 with Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis, 45.

Minutes later, FBI agents seized Davis with a silencer-equipped pistol and recovered $25,000 from McCrory which they said was earmarked for a phantom "hit man."

A sound-over-film reproduction of that pivotal meeting is the trump card in the state's case against Davis for allegedly masterminding a bizarre murder for hire scheme.

The darkly handsome oilman-industrialist is accused of soliciting the capital murder of Fort Worth Judge

"Cullen, for God sake's, don't leave me hung out on this."

Davis: "No ... that'll work out just fine."

In the final tape, there is this alleged exchange:

McCrory: "Well, look (expletive) murder business is a tough son of a bitch."

Davis: "You better..."

McCrory: "Now, you got me in this goddamn deal..."

Davis: "Give me a little advance notice."

McCrory: "I got Judge Eidson dead for you."

Davis: "Good."

McCrory: "I'll get the rest of them dead for you. You want a bunch of people dead, right?"

Davis: "All right."

McCrory contends Davis compiled a "hit list" of targets he wanted killed and that it included his wife, his adopted daughter, his younger brother, two judges, and three accused witnesses in a 1977 murder trial.

In that trial, an Amarillo jury acquitted Davis in the shooting death of his young stepdaughter, one of four shot and two killed in a bloody rampage at the $6 million Davis mansion.

Priscilla was wounded and her lover slain, and charges in that episode are still pending against Davis.

Prestigious award earned by Coahoman

Rob Shive, a native of Coahoma and a senior at Texas Tech University, has been named as one of the five college students in the nation to receive the George Hoffman Freedom Award.

The prestigious award is given once a year to the five students judged to have performed an outstanding service to the community and to the university. Shive was honored for his contributions to program developments in the field of mental health and mental retardation.

Rob, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex A. Shive, Coahoma, has gained several other laurels during his university career. He is president of Kappa Sigma fraternity, Chief Justice of the University Supreme Court, vice President of the Interfraternity Council, and a recipient of the Will Rogers Award for outstanding contributions to the university.

He has also been named by the American Association of College Deans to the list of Top Ten Students, and to the list of Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities.

COOL DRINK — After an obliging photographer left a drinking fountain open in Everglades National Park, a crow dropped in to investigate and get a cool drink of water. The bird was afraid of the running water at first, later he decided it was too inviting to resist.

What constitutes safe water depends on use

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — What constitutes safe water depends on what it is used for, says a panel of scholars at The University of Texas at Austin.

Water considered pure by European standards may actually contain organisms and bacteria harmful enough to "get an American completely on his back for two or three weeks," says Dr. Joseph R. Malina, professor and chairman of civil engineering.

Europeans have developed an immunity or resistance to disease-carrying organisms common to their water, Dr. Malina adds.

In the U.S., water unfit for human consumption has been used as a secondary supply for industrial cooling, sewage facilities and fire fighting, says Dr. Gerard A. Rohlich, the C.W. Cook Professor of Environmental Engineering.

However, Dr. Rohlich frowns on maintenance of dual water supplies — drinkable and undrinkable water — because of the danger of cross-connection between the two.

"There's (also) a problem of the economics of having dual distribution systems," he observes.

Drs. Rohlich and Malina are joined by Dr. Neal Armstrong, associate professor of civil engineering and director of UT's Environmental Health Engineering Laboratories, in the first of two discussions on water quality next week (Nov. 20-26) on "The Next 200 Years," a weekly radio program produced at the University.

"Making the water supply safe to drink — that level of quality is something different than would be necessary to sustain fish or recreational activities," Dr. Malina says. "So we must identify the use of water and then we can look at which the quality must be in order to sustain that useful purpose."

The first standards of water safety set out only to place limits on the amount of impurity allowed in drinking water, Dr. Rohlich points out.

"The laboratory curiosity 'pure water' is something that's unattainable in nature," he says.

Some waters, such as those found on the coast, would not be suitable for drinking under natural circumstances because of high salinity, Dr. Armstrong adds.

However, technology exists which makes purification of any kind of water possible, Dr. Rohlich says.

"One could do this by distillation," he explains.

But purification by distillation is not economical, he adds, and is done only in countries where fresh water is in short supply.

Disinfection is usually all that is necessary to purify "good raw water" enough for drinking, Dr. Rohlich says.

Water treatment may be more extensive depending on the kind of pollution sources in the area of the water source, he says.

"Many of our pollution problems can site specific," Dr. Rohlich continues. "It depends upon concentration of population, concentrations of industry and, in rural areas, agricultural practices."

People discharge organic material and disease-causing pathogens into water, Dr. Armstrong notes. Industrial discharges are also organic, but more complex, and sometimes are thought to be a cause of cancer or abnormalities in offspring when ingested by humans, he relates.

"Water containing such offal can be recycled almost directly into the drinking supply, Dr. Armstrong says, but the cost of treating that water can be very high.

"It becomes a trade-off of not only cost, but also simply whether one wants to think about the water being consumed coming directly from a waste discharge — after treatment," he says.

On birth control pill-related disease

Cancer research inaccurate

BOSTON (AP) — Yale researchers who studied cancer of the uterus say earlier studies linking the disease to estrogen pills were based on inaccurate research with a built-in bias toward finding cancer.

The doctors said no evidence exists that connects uterine cancer to estrogen.

Moreover, they said, the faulty research technique may also have caused erroneous findings in studies that reported a relationship between birth control pills and breast cancer.

The new research, conducted by Ralph Horwitz and Alvan Feinstein, was published today in the New England Journal of Medicine, the same journal that carried three of the original estrogen reports.

Women often take estrogen to relieve the ill effects of menopause. Previous studies during the past three years warned that the medicine can cause cancer of the endometrium, the inner lining of the uterus.

Those studies, now challenged by the Yale doctors, showed that women who take estrogen during menopause face up to eight times the risk of uterine cancer as other women their age.

Horwitz and Feinstein counter that there is no evidence that estrogen will cause this kind of cancer. Their study found that estrogen increased the risk of uterine cancer 1.7 times — so slightly that no significant hazard can be shown.

"We conclude that the strength of the much-publicized association between estrogens and endometrial cancer has doubtlessly been exaggerated and needs re-evaluation," they wrote.

The Yale doctors stopped short of saying estrogen definitely does not cause this form of cancer. "All we can say is that the relationship has not been proved," Feinstein said in a telephone interview.

After cancer of the cervix, cancer of the uterine lining is the most common malignancy of the female reproductive tract. It usually occurs in women between 50 and 60.

Estrogen, often taken by women going through menopause, can cause bleeding of the uterus, a major symptom of uterine cancer. This bleeding factor led to what the new study says was a built-in bias in favor of finding a cancer link in the earlier reports.

In the earlier studies, researchers compared estrogen-using women who had been treated for uterine cancer with a group of control subjects — women who had other forms of cancer of the sex organs.

The Yale doctors said it may have been the estrogen, not the cancer, that caused these women to bleed and the bleeding could have prompted them to have hospital tests that detected cancer which otherwise would have gone unnoticed.

This way, they said, an unusually large number of estrogen-taking women were found to have uterine cancer — even though there is no proven link between the two.

Feinstein said, "Estrogen leads to the detecting of cancers, not to the causing of them."

LONDON (AP) — The dollar continued improving on the world's money markets today as gold dropped back toward the $200 level.

The U.S. currency closed on the Tokyo foreign exchange at 191.35 Japanese yen, up from 190.05 yen Wednesday. At one point during the day the dollar reached 192.40 yen, its highest level in two months.

Morning dollar rates in major European financial centers, compared with Wednesday's closings:

Frankfurt — 1.9040 West German marks, up from 1.8930.

Zurich — 1.6520 Swiss francs, up from 1.6380.

Paris — 4.3525 French francs, up from 4.33875.

Milan — 843 Italian lire, up from 840.20.

Amsterdam — 2.0522 Dutch guilders, up from 2.0440.

In London it took $1.9616 to buy a British pound, compared to $1.9676 Wednesday.

On the London bullion market, gold was trading at $202 a Troy ounce, down from $204.50 Wednesday. In Zurich, the metal was quoted at $201.625, down from $206.375 Wednesday.

E.A. Austin is 79 years old and he helped lay the bricks in the streets in Lamesa.

"Well really," he tells folks, "I helped lay the curb and gutter for almost every street in town. I mostly did cement work."

Austin is glad he built good streets because he still uses them a lot. He gets in his old pickup and drives down to the Senior Citizens Center, Monday through Friday.

He's activity director and he leads the singing every third Friday. And, my oh my, E.A. Austin really like to sing those old gospel songs.

He also is on a committee to help with enlarging the center by adding a recreational room and a work shop. And he loves it.

And then there is his daily domino game. He always sits on the south side of the table. He doesn't admit to being superstitious. He just likes that side.

He moved to Lamesa in 1919 and said for many years he drove a dray wagon for Red Conkle. "I hauled a little bit of everything," he recalled.

Then, Austin and John Renfro went to work running streets around Lamesa, laying the curbs and gutters. "I helped build the highway to the old glider field and it's still a good road," he stressed.

He worked for the highway department as a construction worker for many years.

E. A. AUSTIN and his domino partners

He not only helped with streets in Lamesa, he also helped build highways all over the area.

And he still rides on those as well. Not too long ago, he took a load of clothing from the Senior Citizens Center to Girlstown. "Got to help out a little," says Austin.

He has a sister in Big Spring, a Mrs. Blanche Thompson and he also has three daughters, of whom he is very proud. They include Faye Walls in Lamesa, Barbara White in Snyder and Paula June Walls in Seminole.

Austin is busy at the center five days a week trying to help out and his Sundays go to work at Crestview Baptist Church.

That really just leaves him one day for himself, but he likes it that way.

I like to stay busy. I always liked to build things, but nowadays, I'll settle for helping wherever I can," he told one of the senior citizens workers recently.

And the workers at the center agree that they really enjoy E.A. Austin. "If he fails to show up some morning and hasn't told us he's going to be going somewhere, we will really be upset," they stated.

Because E.A. Austin helped build Lamesa and he's proud of Lamesa and he's still enjoying Lamesa — out where I ride fence.

Purchasing managers conclude

Economy 'pumping iron'

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't all bad. Blended faintly through the new consensus recipe, which calls for a weakening economy through the next few months, are a few sweeteners to keep the taste buds alive.

Whether they are simply the pleasant aftertaste of four years of economic expansion or, instead, ingredients that could indeed sweeten the economic pie, is debatable. But they cannot be ignored.

One survey of purchasing managers, the people who buy the commodities that are processed into products of greater value, leads to the conclusion the "economy looks like it's been pumping iron."

That is the opinion of Purchasing Magazine, reached after interviewing buyers. "It (the economy) is putting on more muscle without serious supply disruptions," it states in the current issue.

Like so many surveys, however, this one was completed just prior to the combined antiinflation, save-the-dollar program announced simultaneously by the White House and the Federal Reserve Board.

The program's effect, in the form of a new business psychology and higher interest rates, will not be determined for weeks. Even so, it is not likely to totally demolish the purchasing agents' confidence.

The magazine study is buttressed by one released Nov. 6 by the National Association of Purchasing Management. It found 43 percent of respondents expect fourth-quarter business to improve over the third.

The study does include evidence of a slowing of economic activity.

Inventories are being tightened, for example. But the overall verdict of a strong economy was termed "unexpectedly good."

While declaring that business confidence has declined, Faculty Associates, a surveyor of small business, notes that 47 percent of respondents still expected sales increases in the fourth quarter.

Based on random sampling of the 500,000 member firms of the National Federation of Independent Business, based in San Mateo, Calif., Faculty Associates said only 24 percent expected sales declines.

What the studies indicate is that despite fears, business has been able to retain a degree of faith, and in some instances very strong faith, despite rising personal debt, interest rates and prices.

Pets help improve patient's recovery from heart attack

DALLAS (AP) — Pets from dogs to gerbils significantly improve their owners' chances of recovering from heart attack, probably by offering an escape from loneliness, researchers said Wednesday.

Pet owners were more likely than those without pets to survive at least a year after being hospitalized for heart attack and related coronary problems, according to a study of 92 patients.

The results were outlined at an American Heart Association conference by Dr. Erika Friedmann, a University of Pennsylvania biologist. She said 11 of 39 patients without pets died within a year after hospitalization, while all but three of 53 pet owners were still alive.

The relationship between pet ownership and survival, she said, held up even when compared statistically with other factors, such as severity of illness, sex, income, education or type of pet.

"Pets are a form of social contact ... that keeps you from being totally preoccupied with yourself," Dr. Friedmann said in an earlier interview. "People tend to personify their pets, to talk to them and ask them questions. The pet is not just an animal to them. It has some definite place in the family."

Co-researcher Margaret Nector, a registered nurse at the University of Maryland

Hospital, added: "The patients now have someone else to live for and that may play a role. The pet cannot survive without its owner, and they feel needed."

Dr. Friedmann said the effect of psychological factors on recovery is well-documented and that pets have proven therapeutic value as companions for the elderly and in treating severely withdrawn children.

The research, part of a much larger study of social and psychological factors involved in recovery, has important implications for hospitals and nursing homes, Dr. Friedmann said.

However, she cautioned that "we're not saying you should go out and get a pet if you have a heart attack. We won't know that until further studies are done."

Scientists optimistic but want to keep quiet

DALLAS (AP) — Scientists who pioneered an experimental alternative to some open heart surgery say they're still optimistic but want desperately to quiet the premature excitement and false hopes their research has spawned.

The technique — in which a tiny balloon is inserted without surgery into an artery on the heart and inflated to clear obstructions — has exciting potential as an effective, low-cost treatment for some victims of heart disease, the international team of doctors said Tuesday.

But, they stressed at a news conference, the technique is in very early stages of development and would help less than 10 percent of patients who now face surgery to ease the danger of heart attack. It was first used on human patients only a year ago.

Recent research also suggests a number of potentially fatal complications, such as punctured arteries, although none have developed in nearly 100 experimental patients.

"We have not found an alternative to surgery for the majority of patients and we have not found a cure for coronary disease," said Dr. Richard Mylar of St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco.

He said over-enthusiastic news reports last summer led to a deluge of calls from heart disease victims hoping in vain for a miracle cure that would spare them the operating room.

Mylar said they were turned away because "we just don't really know yet whether this is going to be successful."

But if perfected, the procedure might cost a tenth as much as open heart surgery, where bills often total more than $10,000, said Dr. Simon Stertzer of University Hospital in Zurich, Switzerland. The device was developed there by Dr. Andreas Gruntzig.

The new procedure was obviously exciting to doctors attending the American Heart Association conference here, where Gruntzig reviewed generally promising results in Europe and the United States.

"We can say that the procedure can be done," Dr. Martin Kaltenbach of Lennox Hill Hospital in New York said later. "And we can say now that once we have established the reopening (of the artery), it can apparently stay open (for at least a year)."

"But you have to realize that we are still at the very beginning."

The procedure, called coronary percutaneous transluminal angioplasty, is designed to clear obstructions inside the wall of the coronary arteries. The obstructions — formed of cholesterol, fat or debris from dead cells — limit blood flow into the muscles which operate the heart. If the artery becomes completely blocked, the result is a heart attack.

The problem is currently corrected through coronary bypass surgery, in which a section of vein is taken from elsewhere in the body and sewn like a bridge around the obstruction.

Gruntzig said his procedure involves a sausage-shaped balloon thinner than a kitchen match. The balloon is attached to a plastic wire and inserted into an artery on the leg or arm. It's then threaded up the vein to the damaged coronary artery.

When x-rays show it's positioned inside the blockage, the balloon is expanded to compress the obstruction out of the way. With carefully selected patients, he said, it proves effective about 60 percent of the time. None of the unsuccessful attempts caused severe complications.

Parker, Bucs negotiating new pact

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dave Parker, whose line drives helped make him the National League's Most Valuable Player, apparently isn't driving too hard a bargain for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"Right now, I'm going to say that we will sign Dave Parker," Pirates General Manager Pete Peterson said Wednesday after Parker was named MVP.

With one year left on a three-year contract, Parker could become a free-agent after next season. But talks are underway on a new pact.

"I'm very optimistic that Dave is going to spend the rest of his career with Pittsburgh," said Peterson.

Parker, winner of two straight NL batting titles, took the same positive stance, but he put his thoughts to rhyme.

"I said last season, 'When the leaves turn brown, I'll be wearing my second batting crown,'" he said.

"At this time, I'll say that when the leaves turn green, I'll be playing for the same team."

That brought grins from Peterson and Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner, who flanked Parker at a press conference.

"Dave's the best ballplayer in the game today. Nobody can do it better," said Tanner, who watched the 6-foot-5, 225-pound right fielder lead a stretch drive last season despite a cracked cheek-

Steer basketballers host Ector tonight

The Big Spring Steers basketball team open their 1978-79 season tonight at eight o'clock when the host the perennially tough Ector Eagles in the friendly confines of Steers gymnasium.

The Steers will be led by 6'2" senior Mark Poss, who was picked to the pre-season District 5-4A Dandy Dozen. Poss, the only returning varsity player from last year, will be joined by four junior varsity graduates in the starting lineup. Tony Rubio and James Magers will fill the guard slots, while Cesar Espinoza will join Poss at the forward positions. John Fleckenstein will secure the center role. Adding bench strength are transfers James Cooper and Willie Walker.

The Steers will be short three players due to a ruling of temporary ineligibility. Two of these players are starters. Two other performers from the football team will play as soon as the gridiron season is over. Coach Tommy Collins has been pleased with the pre-season work-outs and saw some positive signs in last night's scrimmage with the Howard College reserves.

Collins said: "Our offensive movement is coordinated and our defensive fundamentals seem sound. Our shooting has been adequate. We are being challenged by a traditionally strong team. Also, the loss of three of our players will give us a chance to show our character by overcoming adversity."

The Big Spring club travels to Fort Worth Western Hill for a Saturday night affair before returning to their home court to entertain Snyder Tuesday.

SECTION B SECTION B

Hangin' Out by Nathan Poss

Although he probably would have preferred to beat a conference opponent, Monday night's win over Sul Ross will have to suffice as the milestone of Howard College Coach Harold Wilder's 20th career victory while at the local junior college.

Wilder is only the third coach in the 25-year history of the school, and he is quick to mention that the other two, Harold Davis and Buddy Travis, were also winners in their stints here. Both compiled records of more than 200 victories. In fact, Howard College has had only one losing season in its history.

One can't question that good players and smart coaching are major qualities in building and sustaining a winning program, but Coach Hal also cites the loyal support by the local adults as being a major contributing factor in the Hawks success. The Board of Trustees and the school administration have also been helpful to the Hawk program.

Sports fans naturally support winners, so as Howard College continues to win, people persistently buy tickets. It is sad but true that the sagging football fortunes of Big Spring High School help Hawk basketball. Howard College annually has the highest attendance in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference. Schools such as Odessa JC are hurt drastically by the competition with Permian Panther football.

Like any facet of life and its surroundings, junior college basketball is a different way of life than from a high school or four-year college. Therefore, any successful junior college coach must have the perception to effectively analyze the role of a two-year school and the psychology of the athletes involved.

Wilder has two basic philosophies that he works within his system. The first philosophy deals with maintaining continuity despite the turnover rate that a junior college involves. Since each player is at the most only at Howard College for two years, time is extremely essential. Wilder believes in a sound, simple system of basketball that his newcomers can quickly learn and relate to.

The second philosophy is the selfishness factor. Nearly every athlete that signs has visions of starring here and signing with a creditable four-year institution. This can be seen as very good in the category of motivation, but creates a common problem of selfishness. Wilder believes that the winning basketball coach, especially at his level, is the instructor that can make his players accept their roles on the team. He admits that this is hard but stresses to his players that good teams bring major college scouts. Anyway, a basketball coach from a four-year school scouts juco basketball for specific. This means they are scouting for a quickly needed area for their teams: In other words, the coach is especially looking for a point guard, a defensive-minded big man, etc.

A most vivid example of this on one of Coach Wilder's Hawk teams was in his first two years here. Guard Archie Myers was a prolific scorer. The other members of the team had to accept this and understand their respective roles, whether it be passing, rebounding or defense.

The other four starters on the team were Jim Krier, Lawrence Young, Harry Miller and Herbert Lee. Each accepted their roles properly and were rewarded with scholarships to respectable schools. Krier played with Sam Houston, Young with TCU, with Miller and Lee opting for Texas Lutheran.

One may wonder why Coach Hal has stayed around this long. He may move on, but for now is content. He cites three main reasons for still being at Howard College.

The first reason is that there aren't any other juco jobs as good. He commends the support of town and the excellent Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. He also enjoys the people of Big Spring. Although I personally believe one should probably never be totally satisfied with his salary, Wilder did state that he has a good one in comparison to most coaches at his level.

Another reason, and Harold's wife Jean voiced her opinion on the subject, has been the inopportune timing problem it would have involved with their two sons, Casey and Scott. Casey is a sophomore at A&M and Scott a freshman at HC.

The third reason for not advancing to a four-year school is an old axiom in life. Wilder words it like this: "The one's I want, I can't get. The one's I can get, I don't want."

One factor that caught Wilder's eye when he accepted the job, and one that also helps keep him here, is the non-presence of football at the school. Don't take him wrong, he has nothing against football. He is a Dallas Cowboy fan and has a good knowledge of the gridiron game. He simply states: "Basketball is the sport with the main emphasis at Howard College and basketball is my main interest. If basketball was not the number one sport at the college, I would not like it."

Akers questions call

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Coach Fred Akers may figure the officials in Texas' 10-7 loss to Houston on Saturday owe him one — one penalty.

Akers told the Longhorn Club on Wednesday an official erred in calling a clipping penalty that might have cost Texas the Southwest Conference football championship.

The punt return on which the clip was called "was the kind of play that gets you in or keeps you out of the Cotton Bowl," Akers said.

Houston's victory Saturday enabled the sixth-ranked Cougars to remain undefeated in the Southwest Conference. It was No. 9 Texas' first loss after four SWC victories.

Houston will represent the conference in the Jan. 1 Cotton Bowl at Dallas if it wins one of its two remaining conference games.

The clipping call against defensive tackle Kenneth McCune erased a 54-yard return by Texas safety Johnnie Johnson to the Houston 21 in the second quarter of what was then a 0-0 game. It amounted to a 63-yard penalty, Akers said.

Asked if the coaches' film showed a clip, Akers said, "No, it does not." He said McCune's block "was a good block."

The film the club watched showed numerous other apparent officiating mistakes but there was not a clear view of McCune's block.

"It was just one of those things they missed," Akers said of the clipping call. "But you're going to miss a lot any game. ... Things in the game went unnoticed that we did wrong. ... Who's to say which play that is missed (by the officials) is a key one? They (officials) can't see everything. I've had it work both ways as a coach."

One club member, however, said he was concerned that "A&M people" officiate Texas games.

Former Texas A&M player Glenn Lippman was the line judge in the Houston game but another official called the clip.

Akers said there probably will be some changes in officiating lineups before the 1979 football season. "The preparations have been under way for some time," he said.

Akers said, "I'm very discouraged we did lose, but there were a lot of positive things toward team development. We attacked from the word go and did the best we could. There were two good teams out there — Houston had a fine team. ... Either team could have won."

Asked if he had talked to the squad about possibly going to a bowl, Akers said that he had and "they indicated a preference if we get an invitation." He did not say what bowl the team preferred.

Most bowl invitations are expected to go out Saturday.

Labor Board rejects complaint

CINCINNATI (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board, reluctant to overturn a negotiated contract between the National Football League and the NFL Players Association, has rejected a complaint by a St. Louis lawyer.

The Cincinnati regional office of the NLRB cited the uniqueness of professional athletics Wednesday in its dismissal of a challenge to the contract's union security clause.

Gerald Tockman, the lawyer, had named 29 members of the 1977 Cincinnati Bengals team in the complaint.

Tockman had filed a similar action on behalf of Baltimore Colts players with the NLRB office in Baltimore.

Mike Brown, assistant general manager of the Bengals, said that if the NLRB had issued the complaint throwing out the contract, there would be "800 players going on the free agent market."

Tockman had attacked the clause that requires players to either join the players association or begin paying the equivalent of union dues to the association.

He said failure by any player to either join or pay dues would require the teams to suspend or fire that player.

The NLRB decision cited a decision by the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals dealing with professional sports contracts.

NBA Roundup

By The Associated Press

It isn't the kind of talent you have, says Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, it's the way you use it. And the Los Angeles Lakers are in the enviable position of having both the talent and the ability to use it wisely. That was evident Wednesday night after the Lakers posted their 11th straight National Basketball Association victory with a 133-126 triumph over the Detroit Pistons.

Coach Jerry West has certainly seen the dramatic difference from last season, when the Lakers finished fourth in the Pacific Division. Currently, they're just a half-game off Seattle's division-leading pace with a solid 12-4 record.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Philadelphia 76ers defeated the Denver Nuggets 109-103 in overtime; the Seattle SuperSonics routed the New Orleans Jazz 135-118; the Washington Bullets hammered the Milwaukee Bucks 138-111; the Chicago Bulls turned back the Houston Rockets 117-103; the Phoenix Suns stopped the San Antonio Spurs 125-119 and the Kansas City Kings turned back the Atlanta Hawks 109-100.

Adrian Dantley's early scoring and Abdul-Jabbar's late flurry provided the Lakers with their victory. Dantley, who finished with 33 points, had 17 in the second period when the Lakers outscored Detroit 43-20 and added eight more early in the third to help Los Angeles roar in front 86-71.

At that point, Abdul-Jabbar was sidelined with his fifth personal foul and Detroit countered with a 25-10 uprising of its own, led by rookie John Long's five baskets to even the score at 96. But Abdul-Jabbar returned and hit four straight baskets to put the Lakers in front to stay.

76ers 109, Nuggets 103

Julius Erving scored 10 of his game-high 33 points in a five-minute overtime period as Philadelphia defeated Denver.

The 76ers scored their 10th victory in the last 11 games despite a 29-point performance by Denver's George McGinnis, who returned to Philadelphia for the first time since being traded to the Nuggets last summer for Bobby Jones. McGinnis fouled out with 4:17 remaining in the overtime period.

Sonics 135, Jazz 118

Fred Brown led seven Seattle scorers in double figures with 20 points as the SuperSonics defeated New Orleans.

Seattle trailed 26-22 with 2:39 left in the first period, but took control with a 16-5 spurt that carried into the second period. Wally Walker, who scored 14 points, capped the rally with a basket that gave Seattle a 38-31 lead with 9:36 left in the half.

Bullets 138, Bucks 111

Kevin Grevey's 24 points led Washington over listless Milwaukee. The Bullets jumped to a 31-14 lead midway through the first quarter and never were threatened while coasting past the slumping Bucks, who now have lost nine straight road games.

Elvin Hayes and Bob Dandridge scored 21 points each while playing about half the game for the Bullets.

Bulls 117, Rockets 103

Reggie Theus scored a career-high 27 points and Mickey Johnson added 25 more as Chicago raced past Houston. Artis Gilmore added 20 points and pulled down 11 rebounds as the Bulls spurred to a 12-point halftime lead and never were headed.

Suns 125, Spurs 119

Paul Westphal hit six key points in the final 46 seconds and finished with 39 to propel Phoenix past San Antonio.

San Antonio's Larry Kenon had tied the game at 117 with a pair of free throws with less than a minute remaining. But then Westphal tossed in two free throws with 46 seconds remaining to put the Suns ahead by two points and added two consecutive baskets in the next 29 seconds to ice the game.

Kings 109, Hawks 100

Otis Birdsong scored 26 points and Sam Lacey added 22 to lead Kansas City over Atlanta and move the Kings into a first-place tie with Denver in the Midwest Division.

Kansas City, which had not been in first since early in the 1974-75 season, took the lead early in the first quarter and held it the rest of the way.

DISCUSS STRATEGY — Boston Celtics new player-coach Dave Cowens sits on floor and discusses strategy with the team during practice session Wednesday in Brookline, Mass. Behind Cowens is guard Nate Archibald. After the two-hour practice Cowens made it clear he's in charge. "I don't want to hurt any players and I don't want to get hurt," he said. "If a player doesn't give me what I want, he owes me."

Paralyzed Husker accepting fate

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Watching the "big game" between Nebraska and Oklahoma Saturday was a young man who once played on that same green turf but will never play there again.

Now, every day is the biggest game in his life. Bundled against the cold, but kept warm by the excitement of the game, Budge Porter tried not to think about what might have been had he not suffered a paralyzing injury during spring practice in 1976.

"I really try not to think about how I should be out there playing," he said. "That defeats the whole purpose because I want to sit out there and act like nothing happened and support my teammates. If I started thinking about how badly I want to be out there, that can get kind of depressing."

Irish eliminate Fiesta Bowl

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Notre Dame has been eliminated from consideration for the Fiesta Bowl game because it will be played on Christmas Day.

Bill Shover, bowl president, said Wednesday Notre Dame decided its appearance in a postseason game on a religious holiday was not in keeping with the school's image.

"The decision was made by Father (T.M.) Hesburgh," Shover said of the Notre Dame president. "The team and athletic department were very interested in the bowl. But Father Hesburgh decided against it. He decided a Christmas Day game was not consistent with the university's image and status. Notre Dame is a Catholic university."

Notre Dame was a leading candidate for a Fiesta Bowl invitation. Because of the school's decision, Shover said bowl officials will not scout the Fighting Irish's game Saturday with Georgia Tech.

Swimmers earn points in Midland

The third meet for the Big Spring High School Swim Team was held in Midland on November 10 and 11. This was an Invitational Meet consisting of the following schools: Abilene Cooper, Abilene High, Big Spring High, El Paso Spring, Lubbock Coronado, Lubbock Monterey, Midland Lee, Midland High, Odessa High, Odessa Permian, and San Angelo Central. There were over 200 individual swimmers in this meet. Some of the states top swimmers competed. In the elimination competition on Friday Big Spring carried 18 boys and 17 girls. The 15 girls and 9 boys qualifying for finals and consolation returned Saturday. The girls scored 100 points to take eighth place. The boys with 79 points came in for tenth place.

Big Spring Girls' Championships:
200 Medley Relay: 6th place — Cathy Miller, Carrie Little, Marie Bonewitz, and Ellen Karwedsky.

Big Spring Boys' Championships:
200 Medley Relay: 3rd place — Morgan Wise, Kirk Nelson, Bill Hart, Randy Stukel.
100 Back: 4th place — Wise.
100 Breast: 4th place — Nelson.
Big Spring Boys' Consolations:
200 Individual Medley: 7th place — B. Hart
Diving: 12th place — Nelson
100 Fly: 7th place — B. Hart

500 Free: 8th place — Chuck Williams
100 Breast: 4th place — Doug Horton
400 Free Relay: 8th place — R. Stukel, R. Stukel, Williams, Bill Davey.

The next meeting will be a Tri at Abilene with Big Spring, Abilene Cooper and Abilene High on November 18.

Foxy Jayne Kennedy proving grid knowledge

By The Associated Press

When Jayne Kennedy got the job as Phyllis George's replacement on CBS' "The NFL Today," a network official called her parents' home with the news.

Her 13-year-old brother Herb took the call. "This is CBS calling and we thought you'd like to know that we've hired Jayne to replace Phyllis George on 'The NFL Today,'" said the caller.

Silence. "Is anything wrong?" asked the official. "You don't seem too excited."

"You mean Phyllis George isn't going to be on the show anymore?" cried Herb. "How am I going to watch Phyllis?"

It isn't easy to follow a legend and Jayne Kennedy isn't even trying. She wants to do it her own way. She hasn't watched any tapes of Phyllis and she hasn't asked her for any pointers.

Phyllis was a media phenomenon. Somehow she became a star by doing a series of soft interviews with football players and smiling to beat the band. She became a household name. People who don't know a football from an eggplant shouted greetings when they saw her on the street.

Kennedy is more reserved than Phyllis, less sure of herself, less of a natural on camera. She is intelligent, has a genuine love of football, is eager to please but slightly confused by all the technology involved in the show.

She is friendly, honest, very religious, a bit shy, cooperative, very teachable and intent on making a substantial contribution to the show. "Jayne wants to say something every time she opens her mouth," says Mike Pearl, the show's producer. "If she has nothing to say, she won't talk."

She is an actress, having made occasional appearances in TV series and a handful of movies. She survived a tryout with 19 other women, started out on trial for six weeks but had her contract extended for one year with options after her first two shows.

And she resents inferences that (a) she got the job because she's gorgeous and a former Miss Ohio and (b) she doesn't know anything about football.

"I don't like to talk about that Miss Ohio thing," she says. "That was eight years ago. The fact that I was Miss Ohio didn't help me get this job. There were 19 girls at the audition and they were all beautiful."

"When I got the job everyone was saying I knew nothing about football without even talking to me about it. That hurt. I came into the show knowing football, how it's played. I've loved it since I was a kid."

scrimmage in April 1976. A broken neck left him immobilized and in hospitals in Lincoln, Denver and Omaha for 10 months.

For the past year and a half he has had his own apartment in Lincoln and has studied Business Education at Nebraska with a full NCAA scholarship from his playing years.

Every Saturday, he can be seen down on the side of the field, watching the players he once practiced with. Last Saturday, he watched them defeat top-ranked Oklahoma

(AP WIREPHOTO)

HER OWN WAY — Jayne Kennedy, who replaces Phyllis George on CBS' "The NFL Today," walks unnoticed on New York's Fifth Avenue, near her studio recently. It isn't easy to follow a legend, and Jayne Kennedy isn't even trying. She wants to do it her own way.

EYES PLANTED — Women's tennis star Chris Evert, using her patented two-hand backhand, keeps her eyes on the spot where she just hit the ball during a second round match Wednesday night against Virginia Ruzici in the Colgate Series Championships in Rancho Mirage. Evert defeated Ruzici 6-1, 6-3 to advance to the Semi-finals Friday night in her quest for first place of $75,000.

Suns gamble by Spurs

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Phoenix Coach John MacLeod took a defensive gamble that turned into genius Wednesday night against San Antonio.

The Suns successfully trapped the Spurs with presses at points in the game and rolled away with a 125-119 National Basketball Association victory on the first leg of a five-game road trip.

"We gambled using traps against such an excellent passing team like San Antonio," said MacLeod. "Tonight it worked, although I did see some men open at times."

So did Spurs' Coach Doug Moe.

"We didn't handle the press at all," said Moe. "Our philosophy is to attack it, but instead we just held the ball. (Larry) Kenon was loose under the basket much of the time.

"If you don't attack, you lose the ball."

The Spurs erred 23 times Wednesday and were outscored, 37-29, in the final period. San Antonio led 90-88 after three periods.

The Suns not only did in the Spurs with a potent defensive performance, but defeated the NBA's top scoring club in shooting, too.

San Antonio entered Wednesday's game averaging 147 points at home as compared to 122 by the opposition.

The Spurs also have been shooting 58 percent from the field.

They had 46 percent against the Suns.

"Tonight we simply pounded the ball on the floor too much," summed Gervin.

EARL'S BACK IN UNIFORM — New York Knicks Earl Monroe, missing the first 15 games in the season because of a contract dispute, is back on the court working his magic. Here Monroe is presented a yellow rose Tuesday night by budding actress Johnnie Richard at the Madison Square Garden in his first appearance back in uniform.

Steers, Bobcats seeking victory

Two teams still searching for a district win in the last week of the season will meet tomorrow night when the Big Spring Steers play host to the San Angelo Bobcats.

The Steers will also be hoping to avoid a 0-10 season, while the Angry Orange will be gunning for their second win of the season. The San Angelo crew defeated Austin Anderson in the third week of the year.

The Bobcats are a young team that has been the victims of a poor defense and numerous turnovers. In fact, San Angelo has the worst defense in the league, allowing in excess of 400 yards per contest.

Statistically the Bobcats also have the worst pass defense in District 5-4A. For this reason, the Steers will probably try to use one of their own strengths to pull out a victory. The Steer aerial attack clicked last week for 12 completions in 18 attempts for 197 yards, with both Bill Ray Johnson and Ricky Myers looking sharp.

Wide receiver Joe Willie Jones also had his best game of the year, and the dependable Mike Evans always presents a short threat.

One reason for the Bobcats inability to stop the pass is their weak defense against the run. This has forced the Bobcat secondary, who Big Spring coaches consider the strongest part of their unit, to become more run conscious and therefore become suspect against the tosses of the opposition. Two of the starting defensive backs, Jack Fannon and Doug Larson, are two-way starters. The other, Brian McLaughlin, is a 165-pound senior.

Stalwarts in the Bobcat front are defensive end Clifton Knox and linebacker Pedro Santellano. The Bobcat front line averages 190 pounds and includes four juniors.

San Angelo runs a "60" defense, which installs two tacklers, two ends, four linebackers and three defensive backs. It is similar to a defense that Darrell Royal used at Texas in the late 60's.

The San Angelo offense has been very erratic thus far. For example, Midland Lee held them to near negative yardage one week; then the Bobcats rebounded to score 34 points the following game against Odessa.

Much of this is due to the play of junior tailback Glen Payne. Payne can be a tremendous back. He is fifth in the district in rushing, with 628 yards in six contests. One incentive that Payne might have is the fact that he needs only 36 yards to become the all-time leading ground gainer in San Angelo Central history. He also poses a most dangerous threat as a kickoff and punt returner.

The bad rap on Payne is that he sometimes doesn't come to play. The Bobcats have an inexperienced line, and this is probably a contributing factor to Payne's moodiness.

San Angelo does boast an excellent receiving duo in wide receivers Doug Larson and Jack Fannon. Larson leads the district with 21 receptions for 458 yards and six touchdowns. Fannon is fifth, with 10 receptions for 222 yards and three scores. Both have good speed and aren't afraid to catch the pigskin.

Quarterback Todd Fields, a junior, is usually the San Angelo field general. He is the district's second leading passer behind Vic Vines of Permian.

Big Spring Head Coach Ron Logback is still optimistic when most everyone else has thrown in the towel. In speaking of the Odessa game last week, Logback said: "For the first time in a long time, we really played like a football team. We showed some improvement, and without the penalties could have changed the progress of the game."

HOWLS AT A WHISTLESTOP — An unidentified toddler erupts in howls Tuesday as an actor in the guise of Mickey Mouse administers a paternal pat on the head during a stop in Albuquerque, New Mexico. The whistle-stop train tour was to mark the 50th anniversary of the birthday of Mickey Mouse. Some 1,000 persons turned out to meet the train at Albuquerque.

Of probation revocation Hurst man wins reversal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Hurst man won reversal of his probation revocation Wednesday because a judge involved in the case was a temporary official who had not been sworn in.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ruled in favor of John Allen French who was placed on two years probation in March 1975 in a driving-while-intoxicated case.

In August 1975, the state moved to revoke French's probation and impose a 60-day jail sentence after police allegedly discovered marijuana while searching his home.

French argued that the search warrant was not signed by a proper magistrate. The warrant was signed by R.A. Hargrave Jr., who had been appointed alternate municipal judge in 1974.

The Hurst mayor appointed Hargrave and two other men to act as judges when the city judge was out of town. Hargrave said he was not sworn because the city attorney said the city charter did not require it.

"We hold that without the taking of the oath prescribed by the constitution of this state, one cannot become either a de jure or a de facto judge," the appeals court said, "and his acts as such are void."

The appeals court also reversed the murder convictions of Larry Plunkett and Louis Ward Jr. in separate cases.

A Palo Pinto jury sentenced Plunkett to 50 years in prison in the beating death of April Dawn Peters. The appeals court said the trial judge improperly instructed the jury on what law to follow in returning a verdict.

"The indictment alleged murder by intentionally or knowingly causing the deceased's death," the court said, "but the jury charge authorized a conviction if appellant intended to cause serious bodily injury and committed an act clearly dangerous to human life."

Plunkett's case was remanded to Palo Pinto for possible new trial. Ward was sentenced to 12 years in prison after a Houston jury found him guilty in the Dec. 12, 1974, shooting death of Dorothy Gayden in Houston.

During his trial, the state asked Ward's wife if she knew of his past arrest. The appeals court said prosecutors improperly questioned Mrs. Ward.

The case was returned to Houston for possible new trial.

Science Fair meeting to be Saturday

A special organization meeting or those interested in participating in the Permian Basin Regional Science Fair will be held 10 a.m. Saturday in the Big Spring High School Auditorium.

All students and parents of students in grades one through eight are urged to attend. Joe Reed, fair director and local high school biology instructor, will be present to answer any questions that might arise.

The fair will be held March 23 and 24 in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, and will feature projects by students in a 21-county region. Although the fair is still some time off, Reed has urged those interested in submitting a project to fill out the proper forms and begin work right away.

'Pennies from heaven' really

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Neither the police nor the residents of this city's Vila Ana slum can figure out where the "pennies from heaven" came from.

In the wee hours of the morning Friday, envelopes containing sums of money in Brazilian cruzeiro equivalent to $50 to $250 were distributed throughout the slum. Each envelope, in addition to the money, held a slip of paper with the message, "Just thank God."

An estimated $10,000 was given away — quite a sum in this country where the minimum monthly salary is about $75.

"I didn't believe it when I saw so much money," said Reinaldo Dias Rocha who received the equivalent of $150. "I even told my wife that it probably was counterfeit. But then I compared it with a 100 cruzeiro ($5) bill I had and I saw that it was real. In my opinion, this money came from some politician running for office."

Air horns sub for sleighbells

SLICK, Okla. (AP) — It took an act of Santa Claus, but Neil Grooms' Country Store finally got the ton and a half of shelving it wanted.

It seems that the Oklahoma Corporation Commission does not allow trucks to make deliveries in Slick, a community of about 150 residents in east Oklahoma.

And a tongue-in-cheek news story suggested that maybe only Santa Claus could drop off goods here because of the delivery ban.

That story sparked an idea with Frank Sawyer of Tulsa. "I wanted to do something to help those young people (the Grooms) so a friend, dressed like Santa Claus, and I loaded the shelves on my pickup and hauled them to Slick," Sawyer said Tuesday. "They couldn't believe we went through with it."

Sawyer, a retired Tulsa policeman, said 25 helpers showed up to help unload the shelves.

"Everyone wanted to see Santa," he said.

Wallcoverings work decorating magic

If decorating problems are driving you "up a wall", take a look around. The walls might be the best place to start.

"Because walls are the most visually dominant areas in a room, wallcoverings can make or break a decorating scheme," says Marianne Gilbert, Decorating Consultant of the Sherwin-Williams Decorating Center at 1608 Gregg Street.

What's more, you can get same-day service on wallcoverings, Marianne points out. The store has an in-stock program with Style Perfect wallcoverings patterns on hand that you can carry home the same day you make a pattern selection.

"Each wallcovering design presents a unique combination of color, texture and pattern that works decorating magic in just a few hours' time," says Marianne. "All that's needed are advance planning and imagination. Even tight budgets are no problem as there are hundreds of styles available in every price range."

Marianne Gilbert offers several wallcovering tips for both the veteran home decorator and the "first-timer."

First, decide what kind of look you want to create. Then "zero" in on a pattern to fit your plans. For instance, mini-prints and checked designs create a traditional feel. Muted florals often look Victorian. Grasscloth and bamboo patterns create an oriental look. Bold geometrics are "exciting."

Next come the room itself. If its dimensions are small, use wallcovering with a small design on a light background to create a more spacious effect. If it's broken up with windows or cabinets, put the same wallcovering on the cabinet fronts or window shades to unify the room.

When choosing wallcoverings, check colors both by artificial light and daylight. If practical, take samples of your draperies and carpeting to the store to check for color and print coordination. Or you can take the wallcovering sample book home with you on a loan basis.

"Strippable" wallcoverings, which are good for renters and perennial redecorators, come off easily without scraping or steaming.

Marianne Gilbert adds that today's wallcoverings are easy to hang so that most people can do the job themselves. The most important things to remember are: measure carefully (subtracting paneled areas, doors, windows); clean walls before hand; match designs exactly; and make sure the strips are straight. Most Sherwin-Williams Style Perfect wallcoverings are pre-primed, which means the simply need to be moistened with water and placed on the wall.

The steps involved in hanging wallcoverings are explained and illustrated in a booklet titled "How to Hang Wallcoverings," which is available free of charge at the Sherwin-Williams Decorating Center.

Marianne Gilbert reminds interested persons that free clinics on "How to Hang Wallcoverings" will be held on Monday, November 20, and Monday, December 11, 1978. Both clinics will start at 7 p.m. and will be held at the store on 1608 Gregg Street.

Improved lighting aids older adults

By JANET ROGERS
County Extension Agent

Improved home lighting and convenient fixtures and switches aid older adults.

Many older adults require about twice the level of illumination as do younger people with good vision.

While more lighting is needed, however, the elderly are especially sensitive to glare. Minimize glare by using frosted or shaded bulbs.

Adapting to dark and light takes up to three times longer for older adults. Night lights in bedrooms, bathrooms and hallways can aid in this transition.

Incandescent lighting is recommended because the flicker of fluorescent lighting is troublesome.

Avoid exposed bulbs because after-image hinders vision.

Wall fixtures and ceiling lights that pull down make bulb changing easier for wheelchair users and remove the temptation to stand on a chair to change a ceiling light bulb.

Three-way switches — with the first one at the front door — eliminate groping in the dark. Luminous switches are also helpful.

Lower light switches for wheelchair users. In addition, place outlets 28 or 30 inches off the floor to reduce bending and stooping.

Bedside lamps, well-lighted work areas and ample light at outside doors, walks, steps and porches are a must.

Adopted Koreans now all-American

CRETE, Neb. (AP) — Eighteen-year-old Susan Manley says she's never given a thought to what life might have been like growing up in her native Korea.

At 11 months, she came to Lincoln as the adopted daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Manley, and she is now in her senior year at Crete High School.

She works as a nurse's aide at a Crete nursing home and is planning a career as a teacher of the blind.

Susan is not reluctant to talk about her heritage, but it's obvious that she doesn't think of herself as anything but Nebraska-variety American.

Her mother confirms this and adds that Susan's married brother, Kelly, also born in Korea, feels the same way.

"This is home. This is where they belong. They don't think of themselves as anything different," says Phyllis Manley.

She quickly added that the children had known other Korean-born children and had had the opportunity to learn informally about Korean culture.

But the children have never taken a great interest in anything Korean, she said.

"Kelly once told me: 'You think about this things Korean more than I do.'"

Susan and Kelly are less than a year apart in age. Each was left in the city hall in Seoul by their Korean mothers, said Mrs. Manley. Twice a day, Harry Holt, of Holt International Children's Services, would go to city hall to pick up infants for adoption, she said, adding that Kelly and Susan were among those infants.

Kelly was brought to the United States in 1960 and Susan in 1961, Mrs. Manley said.

Holt, who with his wife Bertha began the international adoption program in 1955, visited the Manleys in 1964, only a few weeks before his death in Korea. He was on his way to place an infant girl with a family in South America when he stopped in Lincoln, where the Manleys at that time were active in a group of families with adopted Korean children.

Susan Manley says she has known prejudice, mainly when she moved back to Lincoln with her family from Scottsbluff.

Her mother confirmed that there have been instances of name-calling, both with Susan and Kelly and with two younger adopted girls, Joy and Becky. But the children have always been encouraged to forgive, Mrs. Manley said.

Their lack of interest in things Korean may be due to the fact that Susan and Kelly's father is deeply into frontier American history.

Bob Manley is a former history professor at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and was later chairman of the social sciences division of Hiram Scott College in Scottsbluff.

For most of his career, he has combined teaching with music, accompanying his talks on American history with an ever-present guitar.

He now heads SRI Media Productions, a Lincoln firm that produces audio-visual materials on histories of Nebraska and neighboring states.

He and his wife have four other children, not adopted, who are grown.

Early this year, the Manleys moved to Crete and exchanged country life for a house in town "where things are that they the three girls enjoy doing."

For Susan Manley, that's where life is. And it is of little consequence that as a fragil Korean infant she was a part of a unique chapter in international human relations.

Of a possible trip to her native land, she said, "It would be nice to visit some day."

He's Oversexed And Underwilled

DEAR ABBY: My head is spinning with indecision. I'm in the process of getting a divorce, and my husband is begging me to give him another chance.

The problem has always been that Harry can't resist young girls! I was 16 and he was 27 when we married, and during our six-year marriage Harry got five girls pregnant! One was barely 15, and he'd have gone to jail for sure if his boss hadn't retained a really good lawyer. After that Harry had a vasectomy and now we can't have any more children. We have one little boy and I've had four miscarriages, and I've always wanted another child.

I decided to divorce him after I caught him in the bushes in broad daylight with his 18-year-old niece at a family 4th of July picnic.

Abby, Harry is really a sweet guy and a wonderful provider. (He's a top salesman.) Half of me says, "Take him back," and the other half says, "Go through with the divorce."

I may be crazy, but I still love him.

PRISONER OF LOVE

DEAR PRISONER: Listen to the half with the brains in it and don't take him back until he gets into therapy. If you resume your marriage in his present state, prepare to live indefinitely with a weak man who has a weakness for young girls.

DEAR ABBY: Where is it written that it is bad manners to tip the owner? I mean the owner of a saloon, a restaurant, a beauty parlor or a barber shop.

When the owner is right there serving the public I think he (or she) is every bit as entitled to a tip as an employee. If there is such a rule of etiquette, I think it is dumb and should be done away with.

What do you think?

A QUESTION OF TIPPING

DEAR QUESTION: Some die-hard traditionalists insist that "owners of the establishment should not be tipped." However, I believe good service should be appropriately rewarded regardless of who provides it.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell SICK OF THE SAME DRESS whose co-worker wears the same dress for two weeks straight that's she's lucky she doesn't work with my husband.

He wears the same pair of trousers every day until they wear out. He says it's too much trouble to take the things out of his pockets every night!

GIVEN UP ON HIM

DEAR GIVEN UP: Your husband is slackadassical.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (25 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 152 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Waiting for Santa is hard on kids

No one questions the axiom that Christmas is especially for children. But the same children who will be feted and feasted on Christmas day can feel very much left out of things during the frantic preparations for the holidays.

By Dec. 24, many a woman has felt more like a Christmas witch than the loving, caring mother she really is. How can she buy and wrap the gifts, bake dozens of cookies, prepare a sumptuous Christmas dinner and also find time for sharing this very special time of year with her children?

One way is by sitting down with the December calendar and planning some special activities that will make the children feel they are an important part of the festivities. By presenting them with their own special "countdown to Christmas" they'll be so busy, happy and useful that they may not want their mother under foot.

Start out with a handmade invitation to join Big Bird on Dec. 3 for one of the first Christmas specials of the year, "Christmas Eve on Sesame Street," which will be shown at 8 p.m. on Public Broadcasting Stations.

The invitation should also say, "Refreshments will be served." While they're watching the special, you can be making lists, writing Christmas cards, etc. Throughout the month, note any other specials that you think are suitable and "invite" the children.

A very rewarding (and time consuming) project for children is making Christmas decorations for their very own tree. An inexpensive artificial tree can be set up in their bedroom or playroom. You provide lots of colored paper, foil, ribbon and glitter and they'll spend hours designing their own ornaments.

Organize a gift wrapping session for the children. Promise them absolute privacy while they wrap their gifts for teachers, friends and family members. They'll need several rolls of gift wrapping paper, tape, scissors and stick-on bows. Offer to be on "stand-by" if they need special assistance.

Show them how to make a Christmas collage for their door. Buy a 3-by-6-foot piece of poster board in red or green. Then give them a pile of magazines that have lots of Christmas goodies and let them cut out all the ornaments, teddy bears, candy canes and cookies (or whatever strikes their fancy).

The November and December issues of many women's magazines are filled with such illustrations. After they've pasted on as many cutouts as they wish, attach the poster board to their door and add a big, floppy red bow.

By Dec. 20 things usually reach a fever pitch and it sometimes gets almost unbearable for children to wait any longer for Santa Claus. To reduce tension and frayed nerves, let the children plan a menu for a "Getting Ready for Santa" party.

They can make place mats, party favors and some slice-and-bake cookies with a little assistance from you. The menu may consist of hot dogs and potato chips or tomato soup and grilled cheese sandwiches, but you'll be sure to express your appreciation for everything they've done to make Christmas extra-special this year.

CARE holiday card plan assists needy

DALLAS — "This holiday season special greetings to friends, relatives and business associates in this country can help impoverished families in developing countries," Marjorie H. Pincshmidt, Regional Director of CARE, said today.

She was announcing the international aid and development agency's seasonal holiday gift card plan.

"Your gift to CARE provides food for hungry children, helps build schools and water systems, assists farmers in increasing their produce through agricultural expansion projects and sends teams of medical personnel to teach better health care in the poorest parts of Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East," Ms. Pincshmidt said.

For example, she pointed out, "only $5 serves 100 children a daily bowl of nourishing porridge for a week, $10 builds space for a child in a school classroom in a village that never had a school before, $15 brings water to a family via a village water system, the same amount trains a student nurse for one week through CARE-MEDICO and $25 instructs a village leader to teach other farmers how to grow more food."

Describing the gift card plan, Ms. Pincshmidt explained that "simple, but attractive holiday greeting cards let each person on your list know you have given in his or her name. The seasonal gift provides help throughout the year for destitute families, helping them not simply to survive but to work their way out of poverty."

CARE has a wide range of feeding, nutrition education, agricultural expansion and other self-help development programs in more than 35 developing countries designed to aid the poorest of the poor in shaping better futures for themselves and their children.

To allow time for mailing, order promptly. Send the names and addresses on your gift list, with a contribution for each card, to CARE Dept. HOL, Box 50457, Dallas, Texas 75250. CARE will send the cards to you, or if you want them mailed directly to the person being honored, indicate how the cards should be signed.

For the record An error in the Sunday edition of the Herald identified the date of the upcoming wedding of Connie Darlene Gary and Gregory Scott Spencer as Dec. 3. Their vows will be exchanged on Dec. 30 at the First Christian Church in Artesia, N.M.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Spencer of Big Spring are grandparents of the prospective bridegroom.

Lees host reunion

The home of Mr. and Mrs. H.O. Lee, 1904 Morrison, was the site of a two-day Reed Reunion Nov. 4 and 5. Reunion events were also held at the Holiday Inn.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Lee and their son, Tommie, those attending the family affair were Dr. D.H. Reed of San Diego, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Norris Chesser and Norris Lee Burnett of Christoval; Mrs. R.C. Reed and Judy of Mineola; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Ross of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Chesser and sons of Abilene; and Clay Reed of Luther.

Also attending were Buzzy Burnett, Jane Mints, Sidney Chesser and Reed Mints, all of Midland. Attending from Big Spring were the Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Clay McPherson and Gertrude McPherson.

Clubhouse

Joint school conducted

Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 met at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 14 at the I.O.O.F. Hall with June Wiggins, Noble Grand, presiding.

In attendance were 14 members including eight Past Noble Grands. The group reported 17 visits to the sick.

Guests attending from John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge No. 153 were introduced and welcomed.

Members were reminded of the Thanksgiving dinner slated for Nov. 18. Each member was asked to bring a covered dish. Named to the committee for the event were Marion Savell, Malinda Blackburn, Sheri Wilson and Rosa Lee Hill.

A joint School of Instruction was given by Mrs. Wilson, District Deputy President of District No. 11. She reminded members of the coming elections and that they must have their dues paid before they are eligible to hold office.

Following the business meeting, members and guests adjourned to the recreation hall where they enjoyed cake, punch, and good fellowship.

In keeping with the holiday ahead, the dining area was decorated with a Thanksgiving theme. Turkeys and leaves were depicted on the walls. The tables also featured decorations of turkey figures and orange candles with fall flower arrangements.

The next regular meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Optimists to sell trees

Bruce Griffith presided over the 7 a.m. Wednesday meeting of the Morning Optimists. The meeting took place in the Cactus Room at Howard College.

The program was presented by John Owusu, an engineer for Cosden Oil and Chemical Company. Born in Ghana, Africa, Owusu still retains his African citizenship. He received his college education at San Angelo State.

Owusu captivated his audience with details of his experiences as an Olympic competitor in broadjumping in 1972 and 1976. His greatest jump was 27 feet.

The Optimists received their assignments for the annual sale of Christmas trees. Their location will be across from Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home on Gregg St. The group finalized plans for the Gray Y Football's Hotdog Feed at 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

The Morning Optimists will meet for their next regular meeting Wednesday morning.

Alpha Kappa plans social

Alpha Kappa Omicron Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Nov. 14 at the home of Verna Grimes with Doris Arcand presiding.

Rose Stukel was welcomed into the chapter in a transfer ritual.

Plans were made for a couples' Thanksgiving social, slated for Nov. 18 at the home of Paula Gilmore.

Final plans were also made for a Thanksgiving basket which will be given to a local needy family Nov. 22.

A program entitled "Estates" was presented by Ms. Grimes. She outlined the importance of a will and the consequences of not having one.

Cynthia Zertuche won the hosts gift.

The next meeting will be Nov. 28 at the home of Donna Newell.

Clean Up Day reviewed

The 1941 Study Club of Coahoma met at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the home of Mrs. Wendell Shive with Mrs. Carroll Choate co-hosting.

Mrs. Charles Murphy led the Club Collect.

Mrs. Quail Dobbs presided over the business meeting during which Mrs. Dwayne Clawson reported on the Clean-Up Day in Coahoma on Oct. 14. She thanked the club for their support and donations of food for the workers.

She said that many companies had donated heavy equipment and operators for the day and that several businesses and individuals have donated money for the club to use for improvements and beautification. There will be more work days in the future.

Mrs. Dobbs announced that the club's annual Thanksgiving dinner will be tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Reed.

A program entitled "Tax Action in '78" was presented by Jack Watkins. He stressed that everyone should get involved, be fair and be knowledgeable about where and how their tax money is spent as taxes have become so complex in many cases that some elected officials are not totally aware of what's happening.

Refreshments were served to the 16 members and two guests, Mrs. Ovis James and Mrs. Shive, from a table decorated in fall colors.

The next meeting will be Dec. 4 with Mrs. Paul Allen, Mrs. Rob Etheridge and Mrs. Ray Swann co-hosting.

Brownies receive pins

An Investiture Ceremony was conducted Nov. 14 at the Scout Building in Garden City for Brownie Troop No. 170.

After looking into the Brownie Pond and repeating the Girl Scout Promise, Brownie Pins were presented to second-graders Leta Burns and Leason Cypert, and to first-graders Lois Carter, Dara Moore, Jenny Smelley, Julie Smelley and Juanita Talamantes.

Following the ceremony, refreshments were served by the Brownies to their parents. Leaders of the group are Linda Smelley and Nelda Carter.

MR. AND MRS. BUD HANSON

Hansons honored on anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hanson of Garden City celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently with an anniversary dinner in Midland and a vacation trip.

The couple were married on Nov. 3, 1928 in San Angelo. Lifelong residents of Garden City, they have been active in ranching, and raising sheep, cattle and Appaloosa horses.

They have two sons, Leonard Hanson of Midland

MISS WORLD FACE FUSS — The face of Malek Nemlaghi, 19, the reigning Miss Tunisia, created the latest uproar at the Miss World contest in London Sunday. Miss World contest organizer Julia Morley ruled Nemlaghi out of the contest after she refused to remove her traditional veil. Nemlaghi changed her mind and agreed to show her face and removed her veil, whereupon she was reinstated in the contest, allowing her to compete in today's final competition at Royal Albert Hall in London.

Food show ribbon winners

Coahoma, Gayhill 4-H cooks reveal recipes

By EILEEN McGUIRE
Family News Editor
It's no secret that some of the best cooks come from 4-H clubs. About 65 people who attended the Nov. 11 Howard County 4-H Food Show can attest to that having sampled some of the entries.

Participating in the event were 14 juniors and five seniors from area 4-H groups. The judging took place at the First United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall. The difficult but tasty task of selecting winners was the responsibility of four experts from surrounding counties.

Judging the seniors were Earnestine Stubblefield and Mary Ann Finch, both of whom are adult leaders in Mitchell County. The juniors were judged by Bonitta Rowlett and Johnnie Sneed, adult leaders of Gaines County.

Each contestant was presented with a gift, along with their ribbons, by Pat Johnston, Chairman of the Home Demonstration Council, and Linda Fuchs, Assistant County Extension Agent.

The top scoring winners in each division were presented with a rosette ribbon and the seniors received medals donated by the Morrison Milling Company. Each of the seven who placed first will compete in the District Six 4-H Food Show at Odessa High School on Dec. 9.

The categories for competition in each of the two divisions were Main Dish, Side Dish, Bread and Desserts, and Beverages and Snacks.

Senior winners are Paula Kay Allen, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Allen, for Bread and Desserts; Robin Ethridge, 14, daughter of Robin Marie Ethridge, for Main Dish; and Sharon Tindol, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Tindol, for Side Dish. All three are members of the Coahoma 4-H Club.

Junior winners include three children of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Underwood. They are Scott Underwood, 13, for Main Dish; Dawn Underwood, 11, for Side Dish; and Tessa Underwood, 9, for Snacks and Beverages. Also placing first was Tanya Hollis, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S.T. Hollis, for Bread and Desserts. All four winners are members of the Gayhill 4-H Club.

Following are the seven recipes that qualified them for the district competition. They're proven ribbon-winners.

SOFT PRETZELS

By Paula Kay Allen
2 cups warm water (105-115 degrees)
2 packages active dry yeast
1/4 cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 cup margarine
1 egg
6 1/2 to 7 1/2 cups unsifted flour

1 egg yolk
2 tablespoons water
Coarsesalt
Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add sugar the 2 teaspoons salt, margarine, egg, and 3 cups flour. Beat until smooth. Add enough additional flour to make a stiff dough. If desired, cover bowl tightly with foil and refrigerate 2-24 hours.

Turn dough out onto lightly

SENIOR WINNERS of the recent Howard County 4-H Food Show are, from left, Paula Kay Allen, Robin Ethridge and Sharon Tindol. The girls are all members of the Coahoma 4-H Club and are now eligible to compete in the District 4-H Food Show in Odessa on Dec. 9. Their winning recipes are included in the accompanying article.

floured board. Divide in half; cut each half into 16 equal pieces. Roll each piece into pencil shapes about 20 inches long. Shape into pretzels. Place on lightly greased baking sheets.

Blend together egg yolk and 2 tablespoons water; brush pretzels with egg yolk mixture. Sprinkle with coarse salt. Let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk. Bake at 400 degrees F. for about 15 minutes or until done. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks.

They are delicious with mustard and served with vegetable soup.

CHICKEN 'N BROCCOLI CREPES

By Robin Ethridge
6 tablespoons margarine
6 tablespoons all-purpose flour

Dash of salt
3 cups milk
1/2 cup shredded sharp American cheese (2 oz.)
1 2 1/2 oz. jar sliced mushrooms, drained
1 10 oz. pkg. frozen chopped broccoli
2 cups finely chopped cooked chicken
12 Basic Main Dish Crepes
For sauce: In a medium saucepan melt margarine. Blend in flour and salt. Add milk all at once. Cook, stirring constantly, till thickened and bubbly. Stir in cheese, after cheese melts remove 1/2 cup of the sauce; set aside. Stir mushrooms into remaining sauce.

For Filling: Cook broccoli according to package directions; drain. Combine drained broccoli, chicken and the 1/2 cup of sauce.

To assemble: Spread 1/4 cup filling over unbrowned side of crepe, leaving 1/4 inch rim around edge. Roll up crepe. Place seam side down in skillet or chafing dish. Repeat with remaining crepes. Cook, covered, over low heat till bubbly. Makes 6-8 servings.

BASIC MAIN DISH CREPES

1 cup all-purpose flour
1 1/2 cups milk
2 eggs
1 tablespoon cooking oil
1/4 teaspoon salt

In a box combine flour, milk, eggs, oil and salt; beat with a rotary beater until blended. Heat a lightly greased 6 inch skillet. Remove from heat; spoon in about 2 tablespoons batter.

Lift and tilt skillet to spread batter evenly. Return to heat; brown on one side only. (or cook or inverted crepe pan) To remove invert pan over paper towel; remove crepe. Repeat with remaining batter.

To make Calorie Counter's Crepes use skim milk, 1 egg and eliminate the cooking oil.

BROCCOLI SUPREME

By Sharon Tindol
10 oz. pkg. frozen broccoli spears
1 cup American cheese, grated
1 cup cream of mushroom soup

2-3rd cup evaporated milk
1 3-oz. can french fried onion rings
Prepare broccoli as package directs. Cool for 5 minutes and drain. Place in greased 2 quart baking dish. Sprinkle grated cheese over broccoli. Pour over top a mixture of mushroom soup and milk. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 25 minutes. Remove from oven. Top with onion rings. Bake 8-10 minutes more or until onions are crisp and golden brown. Serves 6.

BRAIDED BUTTERMILK HERB BREAD

By Tanya Hollis
2 packages active dry yeast
3/4 cup lukewarm water
5 cups all-purpose flour
1 1/4 cups buttermilk
1/4 cup salad oil
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt
1/2 cup chopped chives
1/2 cup chopped parsley
1 tablespoon dill seeds

In large mixer bowl dissolve yeast in water. Add 2 cups flour, buttermilk, oil, sugar and salt and beat at low speed until moistened. Add herbs and mix well. Stir in additional flour. Turn dough onto a floured surface and knead until smooth. Place dough smooth side down in greased bowl, turn to grease all sides. Turn smooth side up. Cover with towel and let rise in warm place, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Grease two large cookie sheets. Punch dough down. Turn out onto lightly floured surface. Divide dough in half, then each half into 3 pieces. Roll each piece into a 14-inch rope. Place 3 ropes on large cookie sheet.

Pinch together at one end. Braid dough and pinch other end to gether. Let rise until doubled in bulk, about 30 minutes. Bake for 35 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool on wire rack.

Makes 2 loaves. 55 calories per 1/2 inch slice.

PEPPER STEAK

By Scott Underwood
1 cup ketchup
1/2 cup water
1/4 cup vinegar
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 1/2 tablespoon wor- chestershire sauce
1 tablespoon mustard

2 tablespoons brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1-3rd teaspoon pepper
3 lbs. round steak, 1/2 inch thick

Combine all ingredients except steak in a 5-qt. saucepan and bring to boil. Simmer 5 minutes. Pound steak, cut in serving size portions and place in 3-qt. baking dish. Pour sauce over steak, cover tightly with foil and bake at 325 degrees for 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Serves 12.

BROCCOLI AND RICE

By Dawn Underwood
1 stick margarine
1 large onion, chopped
1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
1 package chopped

broccoli (10 oz.) thawed
1 can mushroom soup
1 cup cooked rice
1 small jar Cheese Whiz (8 oz.)

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cups bread crumbs
Melt butter in skillet, add onion, garlic salt and chopped broccoli. Cook slowly until onions are tender. In bowl, mix all ingredients except bread crumbs. Pour into a 2-qt. baking dish. Top with bread crumbs. Bake at 325 degrees for 20 minutes. Serves 8.

ENERGY BARS

By Tess Underwood
1/2 cup peanut butter

1/2 stick (1/4 cup) margarine
1/2 lb. marshmallows (40 large)

2 1/2 cups toasted oat cereal
1 1/2 cups oven toasted rice cereal
1/2 cups raisins
1/2 cup peanuts

Melt peanut butter, margarine and marshmallows over hot water. Place cereal, raisins and peanuts in large bowl. Stir in peanut butter mixture and blend well. Spoon into buttered 9x9 inch square baking dish and cut into bars. Cool. Makes 18 3x1 1/4-inch bars.

Pen pals help

By Robert Wallace Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm going nuts, crazy and looney. I need someone to talk to. My mom is always too busy or too tired to listen. Besides she thinks I'm stupid and all she does is yell.

My stepdad is sort of like my mother. My real dad lives in another town and besides he has a girlfriend.

If only I had someone to talk to, I'd be OK. I've tried praying to Jesus but He doesn't answer back. I'd like to go to church but it's too far away.

Please tell me where I can talk to someone. — Donna, Centralia, Wash.

Donna: I'm sending you two pen pals — one boy and one girl. I know you will find excitement and pleasure with your corresponding friends. Their letters will keep you so busy you won't have time to go nuts, crazy or looney!

Dr. Wallace: For the past two weeks my mother has been literally yelling at me. Even my dad has told her that she is yelling. I love my mother very much, but how can I get her to stop yelling?

I've talked to her and she said she would stop but she hasn't. Please help. I'm a 12-year-old girl. — M.L., Petaluma, Calif.

M.L.: Since mother wants to stop, but hasn't, make a game out of it. When she is in a good mood, have her agree to put a nickel into a jar for you every time you tell her she is yelling.

Moms sometimes go through periods when they just can't cope too well (dads do, too). The nice thing is that these periods don't last too long. Don't let it get you down.

Dr. Wallace: I am 16 and a junior in high school. Three weeks ago I thought I was pregnant, but the only way I could be positive is if I went to a doctor. I was afraid to tell my parents because of what I thought they would do. I finally told them; they understood my situation and helped me.

I have seen a lot of letters from girls who don't know what to do when they think they're pregnant. My advice is to tell your parents. They will understand. You must at least give them the chance. — The Lucky One, Johnstown, Ohio.

Lucky: If your letter helps only one girl, it's worth printing. Thanks for taking the time to share your experience.

Texas Praline Cake

1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine
1 cup Imperial Brown Sugar
1/2 cup Imperial Granulated Sugar
4 eggs
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
1 1/2 cups water

1 tablespoon instant coffee granules
1 cup all-purpose flour
4 cups cocoa powder
1 tablespoon baking powder
5 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup pecans, coarsely chopped

In large mixing bowl, using low speed, cream butter or margarine with the Imperial Brown Sugar and Imperial Granulated Sugar until well combined. On high speed, add eggs and cream about five minutes. Add vanilla, water and coffee granules and mix on low speed just to combine. Combine flour with cocoa powder, baking powder and salt and mix on low speed just until all ingredients are well combined. Stir in pecans by hand. Bake in 10" tube pan, greased on bottom only, in preheated 350° F. oven about 55 minutes, or until cake tests done. Cool in pan on rack. Frost with Whipped Cream Imperial. Combine 1 cup heavy cream, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla and 1/2 cup sieved Imperial Brown Sugar (not packed). Chill 1 hour. Beat with chilled beater until stiff.

Civil Appeals Court rules

Couple should have read the fine print of document

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A couple who discovered too late that their $25,700 lot on Lake Travis could be flooded by the lake's managers should have read the fine print, the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals ruled Wednesday.

The court upheld a decision by State District Judge Charles Mathews of Austin that Mr. and Mrs. Warren H. Smith of Dallas take nothing in their suit against NRC, Inc. The Smiths bought a lot at Highland Lakes Estates for retirement purposes from NRC, a major Lake Travis developer, in 1973. Two years later, they discovered the Lower Colorado River Authority had a legal right, by "overflow easement," to inundate the entire lot.

According to the easement, the LCRA can inundate any part of Highland Lake Estates that lies below the 715-foot contour line.

The appeals court pointed out the easement's terms are stated on page 8 of a document called "Declaration of Reservations Highland Lakes Estates" that the Smiths received when they signed their purchase contract.

"Smith could not determine the contour line of his lot short of a survey," the court said. It also said none of NRC's agents told the Smiths of the easement, nor did the purchase contract or NRC's advertising brochures mention the possibility of the lake overflowing. But it said the Declaration was "some evidence" that NRC did not fail to disclose the overflow easement.

Had the Smiths read the Declaration,

"they would have known that some portions of the subdivision were subject to an overflow easement," the court said. "The district court could have reasonably concluded that appellants (the Smiths), possessed of such information, should have made further inquiry as to whether the lot in question was subject to the overflow easement," it said.

Doctor on trial for the death of his mother

CLEBURNE, Texas (AP) — A doctor on trial accused of trying to suffocate his mother by taping her mouth shut and stuffing tissue into her nostrils says he was actually trying to make the woman more comfortable.

Nurses at Johnson County Memorial Hospital testified previously they found the woman, Bertha Brown, with her mouth taped shut, her nose stuffed with tissue and a sheet pulled over her face — and the defendant, Dr. Milton Rains standing at the head of her hospital bed.

She died three months later of stomach cancer, and Rains, 52, of Littlefield, Texas, is on trial charged with attempted murder.

But the doctor Wednesday denied murder was intent when he went to the room of his mother about 3 a.m. July 29.

"I've always had a close relationship with my mother," he said. He said he noticed her lips were parched and said she asked for a drink of water.

He said he tried to moisten her lips with glycerin swabs, but ran out of swabs, so he said he decided to use Kleenex.

"I folded it, saturated it with glycerin, and put it on her open mouth and lips," Rains told the jury.

But he said the elevation of her head in the bed made the tissue slide off repeatedly.

"I took some of the tape and anchored some of the glycerin-saturated tissue to her mouth," he said. "My mother reached down and pulled the sheet up over her chin like she was cold."

Then the nurses came in and removed the sheet and became angry, Rains said.

"I said, 'No. Leave it alone. She's cold,'" the doctor testified.

Earlier, Dr. Vincent DiMaio, assistant Dallas County medical examiner, testified for the prosecution that suffocation "would be a very effective way of killing an individual."

"It can kill very rapidly and once the evidence is removed, there is no way you can tell they were asphyxiated," he said.

"Once the evidence is removed, it is a perfect murder."

Two die, three are wounded in shooting spree

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — Two people died and three others were wounded in a late-night shooting spree at a Longview bar Wednesday, and police said the gunman responsible later shot and killed himself.

Police Chief Roy Stone said identifications of the dead and wounded were being withheld.

The gunman fled the bar, and police surrounded the area where he was believed to be hiding. Some five hours later, they closed in on a burned-out warehouse. "We lobbed in tear gas, then we heard a shot," Stone said. The man was found dead inside the warehouse.

Police Lt. Travis Puckett said those killed in the bar were a woman customer and a male tavern employee. A man and two women were wounded. Puckett said all the victims were from Longview, except one of the wounded women, who is from Gilmer.

Appeals court judge corrects marshal's attorney

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The attorney for former Castroville, Texas, marshal Frank Hayes, who is appealing his life sentence for shooting to death a Mexican-American prisoner, was sharply corrected by a 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals judge Wednesday.

Miller said when he represented Hayes during the ex-officer's state trial he decided not to appeal the conviction because he was told there would be no further action against Hayes, 54.

The former marshal was convicted in state court of aggravated assault and sentenced to two to 10 years in prison for killing Richard Morales, 27, slain by a shotgun blast on a remote rural road in 1975. But the federal government did prosecute, and Hayes is appealing the resulting civil rights conviction and life sentence.

Miller told a three-judge panel of the appellate court that after the state trial, the U.S. attorney in San Antonio had assured him the federal government was not interested in the case because of the possibility of double jeopardy.

"I never would have let my man start serving his sentence," Miller said. "I would have got him out on bond and appealed the case. We have a right to rely on the government's policy in effect at the time of the offense."

But Judge Peter Fay of Miami shot back: "Didn't you know the U.S. Supreme Court said they (Justice Department) can be that ambivalent, that they could change their mind from one day to the next."

Miller also argued that Hayes had no prior criminal record and said he had been "given punishment higher than Al Capone would get."

Hayes' wife, Dorothy Foley Hayes, and sister-in-law, Alice Baldwin, were also indicted in the case and convicted in September 1977 after a jury trial in Waco. The women were named as accessories to the crime because they transported Morales' body 400 miles to the Hayes family farm near Carthage, Texas, and buried it in a shallow grave.

Prosecutor Dan Rinzel told the appeals judges that U.S. Attorney General Griffin Bell's decision to try the case after a state conviction was not unusual.

But Miller argued there were inconsistencies in Bell's turning down federal prosecution of Dallas policeman Darrell Cain, whose five-year sentence in a state court for the slaying of 12-year-old Santos Rodriguez drew bitter complaints from the Mexican-American community in Dallas and statewide.

Lawyer blasts verdict

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A state jury's decision that a 45-year-old San Antonio man should serve 18 years in prison for the 1977 "mercy killing" strangulation of his invalid mother is a "travesty of justice," says one of the man's attorneys.

"For a man to be placed in the penitentiary for any term of years for an act of love is a travesty of justice," attorney Jim Law of Dallas said after the jury returned the decision Wednesday against his client, John Maxwell Hunt.

The state jury had taken an hour and 40 minutes Tuesday to convict Hunt of murder in the Oct. 31, 1977 slaying of Frances Adele Hunt, 68.

State District Judge John G. Benavides, who formally sentenced Hunt, is legally bound by the jury's recommendation of an 18-year prison term.

Law had fervently sought a probation sentence for Hunt, begging the jury, "Please do not dehumanize this gentle, beautiful man by sending him to the penitentiary."

Law said he would ask for a new trial and file an appeal if that request is denied.

Prosecutors had asked for a prison term, but did not press for the maximum penalty of life in prison.

Mrs. Hunt suffered a stroke in 1964 and was confined to a wheelchair. Hunt testified Monday that he strangled his mother with an electrical cord and his hands after she had fallen from her wheelchair and repeatedly begged, "Don't make me live anymore."

He said he used the cord before he realized it was cutting him and his mother. He then choked her with his hands, he said.

"It was like squeezing a teddy bear," he said, adding that his mother said nothing and didn't struggle.

Hunt said he then lay down beside his mother's body and wept for about an hour.

"If John Hunt did anything in this case, he did it as an act of love," Law said in his final arguments. "When he finally found her in a condition where she said she would rather die, he couldn't stand it. He did what he had to do."

But prosecutor Bill Blagg argued, "Mercy killing is not excused by the law of this state or any other state. This man, on Oct. 31, 1977, took it upon himself to play God."

Blagg said an acquittal would set a dangerous precedent. "We would be stacking bodies up like cord wood," he added.

Defense attorneys used a handwriting expert to help them select the jury.

Unless appeals are successful, Texas law dictates that Hunt must serve at least a third of his prison sentence before becoming eligible for parole.

For 35-year-old California woman

Little daily rituals are preventative medicine

PALMDALE, Calif. (AP) — Sandy Duvall and husband Frank don't just hop into bed each night. They perform a little ritual first: shake out the bedclothes, keep the sheets and blankets off the floor, push the bed away from the wall. It's a bothersome routine, but if neglected one night, it's possible Mrs. Duvall, 35, might never see the morning. As if in some recurring nightmare, Mrs. Duvall lives in terror in her own house.

Her enemy is a tiny insect with the harmless-sounding nickname, "kissing bug." She is so allergic to the bug's bite, which is harmless to most people, that a bite could prove fatal.

She fears her "days are numbered" because the major supplier of the antigen that combats the bug's poisons may soon quit manufacturing the substance.

Mrs. Duvall's life-and-death flight from the small, black blood-sucking "kissing bug," which has the scientific name Triatoma Protracta, began in 1971.

"I was in bed reading the Sunday paper when I felt something bite me on the thumb," she recalls. "By the time Frank had returned from the bathroom with the spray, I was itching all over — my ears, my mouth, even my insides.

"My face was spitting, my throat was swelling and I could hardly breathe. I was burning up. But I didn't associate any of this with the bite. I thought it was because of something I had eaten."

Duvall rushed his wife to a hospital, where a doctor, thinking Mrs. Duvall had been bitten by a spider, gave her an injection. The symptoms eased.

When the Duvalls returned home, they found the bug in the sheets and took it to an insect expert, who identified it as a kissing bug.

Since then, Mrs. Duvall has protected herself with monthly injections of an antigen made from the bugs themselves and supplied to her by Dr. Raymond Ryckmann of the microbiology department of Loma Linda University. The antigen builds up a resistance to the bites.

However, research money that enabled Ryckmann to collect the bugs, freeze them alive and produce the life-saving antigen, has run out.

"My supply will last only until next October," says Mrs. Duvall. "My doctor says after that, a sting could be fatal." Their physician, Dr. Alan Greenfield, says the bug "is kind of endemic to the Antelope Valley and San Joaquin Valley (of California). It isn't generally found east of the Rockies."

Mrs. Duvall lives the life of a woman on the run. They can't move from California because Duvall is allergic to weather extremes.

They are trying to outsmart the bug by trimming their lawn back because the bug likes to hide out there, they've gotten rid of their dog because dogs are sometimes carriers, and they've adopted five cats to keep away rats, which are also carriers.

And they perform their ritual every night.

"Some days I cry about the whole thing," Mrs. Duvall says. "I can't believe my entire life is at the mercy of a bug."

Geese guard nursery

BRICK TOWN, N.J. (AP) — Dare to swipe a shrub from Vincent Dvorak, brother, and your goose is cooked. If you don't believe it, take a gander at what he's got guarding his nursery.

"I can tell you this," Dvorak said, "they have put a stop to the pilfering and vandalism."

Why not? If honking geese could save Rome from marauding Gauls creeping in at night they ought to be able to protect a mere nursery, but Dvorak said that wasn't what gave him the idea.

"A wine merchant told my grandfather, who is in the liquor business, that some of the wineries in upstate New York use geese to watch over their premises," Dvorak said. "My father and I decided to give it a try. Nothing else seemed to work."

"We have six acres here. As you can see, except for the fence out front, it's wide open."

"For several years we had trouble with people stealing supplies from the back — bales of peat moss, topsoil, even shrubs. There was nothing to stop them."

"We tried dogs. We had a succession of German shepherds, three or four at different times. They weren't at all satisfactory."

"The dogs had to be chained, of course, and were effective only the length of the chain. Also, we were afraid they might really hurt somebody. Watchdogs are messy and require a good deal of care."

"Geese turned out to be the perfect answer. They roam around the place, summer and winter, and need no shelter. They have their down jackets, you see. All they need is a little corn and a kiddie pool to splash around in. And they do the job."

My, yes. They do the job, all right, and anyone who has been the direct object of a wild goose chase can understand why.

Slip up unexpectedly on those eight rascals and the whole nursery, it seems, explodes in the wildest flapping and honking and hissing you ever beheld, truly frightening, all eight of the blamed things coming at you at once with fire in their eyes.

That racket, in turn, sets the guinea hens to shrieking and the Rhode Island Reds to cackling and the Polish roosters to crowing, all of which mightily disturbs Remus, the black billygoat, who goes bucking around his pen butting errant chickens and acting crazy.

Oh, no, geese are not the only critters at Dvorak's nursery, but all the others are there for fun. The watch geese mean business.

World War I 'Tap' bugler dies at 83

DENISON, Texas (AP) — The man who blasted "Taps" on his bugle to signal the end of World War I is dead.

Hartley B. Edwards, 83, died Tuesday in a Denison nursing home. A bugler Friday will be playing the same song for Edwards in a North Texas cemetery.

Edwards was Gen. John J. Pershing's lead bugler when he was called on to play his battered, #6.25 Army-issue horn at Toul, France.

"They couldn't find any other man who could blast a nice, cold bugle," Mrs. Irene Edwards said of her husband's nickname, "Hot Lips."

In his later years, Edwards grew deaf and suffered foot problems resulting from a severe frostbite received in France.

Travel advisories in effect

By The Associated Press
Snow and freezing drizzle plagued the central and south-central sections of the nation today with travelers advisories in effect for parts of New Mexico, Texas, western Oklahoma and southwestern Kansas.
Some 3 inches of new snow was expected for parts of the New Mexico mountains and northwestern Oklahoma by the end of the day.
Drizzle fell from west and north Texas across eastern parts of Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska and into Missouri, Arkansas and the Tennessee and lower Ohio valleys.
Scattered rain dampened the East Coast states from Virginia to southern New England.

Flash flood watches have been issued for parts of Oklahoma, Arkansas and eastern Texas.
Skies were mostly clear over southern California, parts of the central Rockies, northern New England and from the northern Plains across the upper Mississippi Valley to the western Great Lakes.
Early morning temperatures from around the nation ranged from 10 in Worland and Evanston, Wyo., to 79 in Brownsville, Texas.
Some other reports include:

Great American Smokeout

'I can take the chance'

By The Associated Press
Marleen Duley started smoking seven years ago. Today, the 29-year-old Philadelphia woman joins Americans across the country in trying to give up cigarettes for 24 hours as part of the second annual "Great American Smokeout."
"I decided for one day I can take the chance," said Ms. Duley, administrative assistant to the chief of Philadelphia's smoking prevention program. "If things really get rough, there's always the next day...I know you shouldn't smoke, that it's bad for your health, but I do enjoy it. I felt this one-day stopping may encourage me to really stop — I hope."

The American Cancer Society, which is sponsoring the smokeout, estimates that at least 5 million people will participate. Like Ms. Duley, local society officials say they hope the effects of the one-day action will linger.
"It's psychological," said Dot Zellner, public relations director for the South Florida chapter of the cancer society. "If they know that they can stop for one day, they can do it for longer."

Julius Richmond, the surgeon general of the United States, said he hoped those who stop smoking today "will then find the willpower to join permanently the growing ranks of former smokers."
The society estimates that 31 percent of the nation's more than 50 million smokers tried to quit during last year's smokeout on Nov. 17. Thirteen percent of them lasted through the day, the society said. When contacted 60 days later, 10 percent of those who passed the 24-hour test said they had quit for good. About 34 percent of the nation's adult population now smokes, compared to 42 percent in 1964.
The smokeout was criticized by the Tobacco Institute. The group said the society was "misleading the public with its tunnel vision of the cancer problem" and added: "No individual needs the advice of the American Cancer Society — or the Tobacco Institute for that matter — as to whether he or she may enjoy smoking."

In advance of the smokeout, supporters handed out buttons and pledge cards and organized contests and parades. The Colorado chapter of the cancer society used the slogan "Stamp Out Dragon Breath" to win support for the smokeout. Promoting the campaign was a sixfoot green and yellow dragon with pink wings.
Ray Schweitzer, city manager of North Las Vegas, who quit during last year's smokeout and hasn't gone back to cigarettes, was honored Wednesday night at a cancer society party.

Mayor R. Paul Saylor of Berlin, Pa., a Somerset County town of about 1,700, urged all community residents to join the smokeout. "I wouldn't guarantee that everyone will quit," said Saylor, a cigar smoker himself. "But I think it's a good thing." Berlin high school students will help out by running "crisis centers" at banks and shopping malls. Anyone who craves a cigarette can stop by for carrot and celery sticks or sugarless gum instead.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, NOV. 17, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are in a sensible frame of mind and can resume making decisions about the future and about the ways and means by which you can take care of basic problems regarding home and property.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Discussing policy matters with allies is wise. Complete present tasks before looking into a new project. Take kin into confidence.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Find the best way to take care of important monetary matters early and then get right to work. Make sure you know the exact status of your finances.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Show you have good practical sense in money matters and also in personal relationships. Plan social affairs for some time in the future.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good time for going after your private aims. Listen to advice given by one who admires you and then follow it for good results.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) See clever friends you want to cultivate more and then quietly make secret plans. Get the assistance of kin for such. Avoid a tendency to brag or others will resent it.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find someone in public life who can assist you to get ahead now. Improve credit and then go after personal goals.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have good ideas that will help you to advance, but check them out with a bigwig to be sure. A new contact can prove most helpful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Pay bills, collect money owed you and then you can start an uptrend in business. Make new plans. Listen to suggestions from mate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Come to a real understanding with a good associate and then do your share of work. A civic matter crops up that opens your eyes to new sources of revenue.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't waste time but get right into the work ahead of you. Be with associates and make new deals, arrangements. A good time for socializing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan now for future recreation, but be careful in social circles. Spend more time perfecting a special talent.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take care of necessary chores first before you make plans for amusement. Listen carefully to one who has a good idea to present to you.

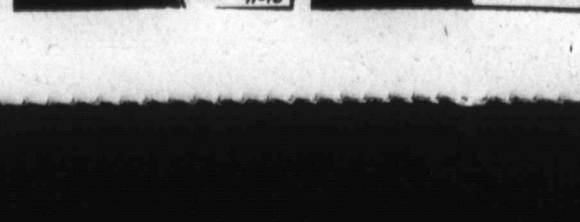

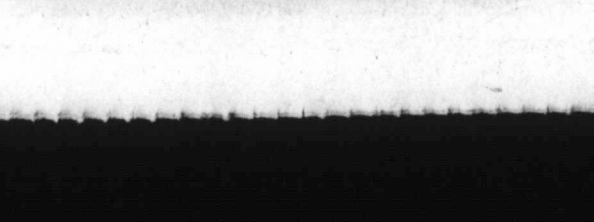

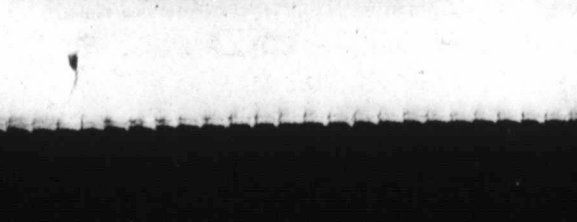

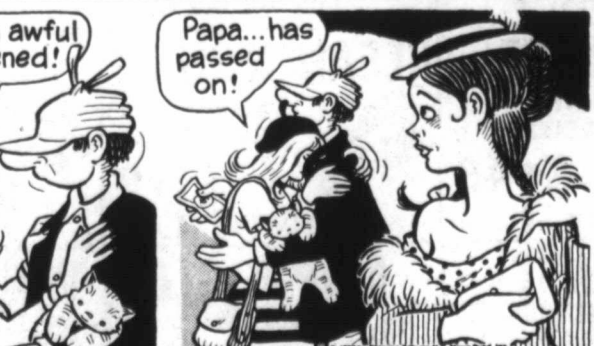

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will do very well in studies in school and upon reaching maturity will become a solid citizen. Some musical ability here also. One who speaks well and clearly.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
