Castro makes offer to release 3,000

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban President Fidel Castro, offering to release more than 3,000 political prisoners, said today the United States "cannot deny its obligation" to accept those who want to immigrate.

Castro, in announcing the planned releases, said he was also relaxing travel restrictions for Cubans wishing to go to the United States and for exiles around the world seeking to visit their homeland.

He said the travel restrictions would be eased on "a humanitarian basis" to reunite families, and that the visits could begin in January.

Castro said the 3,000 inmates constituted 80 percent of the political prisoners in Cuba, and would include the about 50 women held as political prisoners. The inmates who will not be freed committed serious crimes, generally of terrorist nature, he said.

Speaking at a press conference early today after two days of sessions with a delegation of 75 Cuban exiles from several nations, Castro criticized the United States.

The Carter administration "has to assume its obligation" to the prisoners, he said, because many were jailed for crimes related to what he said were CIA attempts to overthrow his government.

Castro repeatedly said he wanted "nothing, absolutely nothing" from the United States in return for his gesture.

The Cuban president told reporters he would also release about 600 prisoners jailed because they tried to leave the island illegally. But the number of prisoners released would probably not reach the requested 3,600, he said, because some of the 600 may have committed other crimes and would not be freed.

Responding to a question about Cuba's acquisition of MiG-23 jet fighter planes from the Soviet Union, Castro angrily declared that they are "strictly of a defensive nature."

He said mockingly that Cuba had had these planes — capable of carrying nuclear warheads — for about a year. And he said the United States knew of the planes. "They are not so idiotic that they didn't know it," he said.

The exiled men and women who met with Castro were overjoyed by what they said were major concessions by the Cuban government.

FIDEL SPEAKS — Fidel Castro, Cuba's President, gestures while speaking to newsmen late Tuesday night in Havana, Cuba where he made the announcement that he will release some 3,000 political prisoners provided the United States will accept them. A two-day meeting in Havana was carried out before the announcement.

Some may get more benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — People who retire before age 65 will be able to earn up to $3,480 next year without losing any Social Security benefits, the government says.

That's an increase of $240 from 1978. Workers aged 65 to 72 will be able to earn $4,500 in 1979 before starting to lose Social Security benefits. That's up from $4,000 in 1978.

A retiree loses one dollar in benefits for each two-dollars earned above the exempt amounts. There is no limit on earnings for those 72 and older.

The Social Security Administration said Tuesday the higher limits will allow 1.5 million persons under 72 to draw an additional $300 million in benefits.

The $500 increase for the 65-and-above workers was fixed in the law passed by Congress last December.

The increase for those under 65 is tied to a national average wage formula and has just been announced by the Social Security Administration.

Using the same formula, the agency said Tuesday, a worker must earn $260 per quarter in 1979 to qualify for one quarter of Social Security coverage. That means a person who earns at least $1,040 in 1979 will be credited with the full four quarters of coverage. The same person would have had to earn $250 per quarter — or $1,000 for the year — to qualify for four quarters of coverage in 1978.

A worker needs from 24 quarters (six years) to 40 quarters (ten years) to qualify for benefits.

As previously decided, both the tax rate and the amount of earnings taxed also will rise in 1979. The tax rate for employers and employees will jump from 6.05 percent to 6.13 percent. That tax will be taken out of earnings up to $22,900, up from $17,700 this year. That will mean a tax hike of $333 for those earning at least $22,900 next year if they paid the maximum in 1978.

The Social Security tax rate for five million self employed workers will remain unchanged at 8.1 percent.

Three suspects arrested

Death probe deepens

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (AP) — The Guyanese government and the FBI probed deeper today into the murder of Rep. Leo J. Ryan, D-Calif., and his companions that was climaxed by the mass suicides of 405 American cultists.

Guyana officials said they had arrested three prime suspects in the killing of Ryan and his companions. They were identified as Michael Prokes, 31, a former Stockton, Calif., television reporter; Tim Carter, 30, a former U.S. Marine from Garden City, Idaho; and Larry Layton, 32, whose hometown was not known. They were expected to be arraigned in court later in the day.

The FBI announced in Washington that it had opened an investigation of the slaying of Ryan by members of the Peoples Temple cult at the Jonestown airstrip. The agency said it was acting under the congressional assassinations law, which makes it a federal crime to kill a congressman, and said the investigation was being conducted in the United States and in Guyana. The Peoples Temple has its headquarters in San Francisco.

Ryan and his party arrived at Jonestown Friday to investigate alleged abuses of members of the settlement. He and four others were murdered by cultists while trying to leave Saturday afternoon. Shortly thereafter, 405 persons in the camp died after drinking a fruit drink laced with cyanide.

Americap military forces prepared the decaying bodies of the 405 Jonestown dead today for transfer to the United States. The U.S. Air Force said the first plane loads should arrive at its mortuary in Delaware on Thanksgiving Day.

The evacuation of the bodies had not started by late morning. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said there was a delay in getting helicopters into the country. Two giant CH-53 helicopters, which can carry about 35 soldiers each, were in Guyana. Three more, plus six smaller helicopters, were expected to arrive later in the day. The helicopters are being brought dismantled to Guyana.

They will be used to ferry the bodies from Jonestown, where the suicides took place, to an airstrip at Mathews Ridge about 12 miles away. There, the dead will be loaded on Air Force cargo planes for the trip to the United States.

Meanwhile, the FBI announced in Washington Tuesday night that it had opened an investigation of the slaying of Calif. Rep. Leo Ryan by the Peoples Temple cult at a Jonestown airstrip. The agency said it was doing so under the congressional assassinations law, which makes it a federal crime to kill a congressman, and said the investigation was being conducted in the United States and in Guyana. The Peoples Temple has its headquarters in San Francisco.

Defectors from the death-marred

Peoples Temple claimed that hit squads are scattered around the United States hoping to murder those who broke away from the cult.

"I know there are 200 people that Jones set up to stay alive and to assassinate us," Wanda Johnson, a former believer in the Jones movement, said in Berkeley, Calif.

In addition to the hit squads, Mrs. Johnson said, Jones "set aside money, that if the assassination squads did not accomplish their mission, the Mafia was to be contacted and contracts were to be taken on our lives."

The FBI in San Francisco confirmed that its agents were investigating rumors that members of the Peoples Temple in California planned to kidnap or assassinate high-ranking U.S. officials and others to avenge Jones.

In New York a spokesman for Bantam Books Inc. said it would issue its 64th "instant" book the week of Dec. 3 entitled, "The Suicide Cult: The Untold Story of the Peoples Temple Sect and The Massacre in Guyana."

Police Commissioner Lloyd A. Barker said the teams searching for the fleeing cultists had gone to friendly Indian villages in the area, but there was no report from them yet.

Nightly curfew lift by Somoza

Nicaraguan political foes break talks

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Anastasio Somoza's political foes broke off talks with the dictator as Costa Rica severed diplomatic relations with his government after a series of border shootings.

Despite these developments, Somoza lifted the nightly curfew in Managua because of the start of the cotton and coffee harvests. The national guard, his army, stepped up its patrols throughout the sprawling capital, and no violence was reported.

Martial law, which allows shooting on sight, remained in effect.

The Broad Opposition Front, a coalition of anti-Somoza political factions, broke off negotiations for a political settlement with Somoza because he again rejected its demand that he resign and go into voluntary exile with his family, opposition spokesman Alfonso Robelo said.

The Front had given Somoza until midnight Tuesday to meet its demand.

The negotiations were fostered by the United States and several Latin American governments in hopes that they would avert a resumption of the two-week war between rebels and Somoza's forces in which more than 1,500 people were killed last September.

The national guard crushed the revolt.

Mediators from the United States, Guatemala and the Dominican Republic had met with one side and then the other in a last-ditch attempt to keep the talks going.

Somoza, who vows to stay in office until his term expires in 1981, called a late-night meeting of his cabinet and top military commanders.

He had no comment on the break in relations with Costa Rica, Nicaragua's southern neighbor, or Costa Rican President Rodrigo Carazo's appeal for "all international sanctions" against Nicaragua.

Carazo asked President Carter to intervene for the return of a border patrol lieutenant's body and three patrolmen he said were seized by Nicaraguan troops Tuesday.

Dorothy Garrett Coliseum events attract 53,500

By MARJ CARPENTER

"Over 53,500 people have already been through the Garrett Coliseum during the first six events held there," according to Mike Bruner, business manager at Howard College.

Dr. Charles Hays, president and Bruner reported to the college board of trustees Tuesday on the success of early events including the opening, the Arts and Crafts Festival, the Shrine meeting, the Gala, the Johnny Harra show and the basketball games.

"It is working out to be a community building like we said it would be and planned for it to be," Dr. Hays pointed out. The board discussed possible future needs such as a marquee type sign and better lighting in the parking areas.

The attendance figures were thought to be a little bit high by some sources. Carl McMillen, director of the Coliseum said that "We—and by, we I mean the exhibitors—estimated 45,000 at the arts and crafts festival in two days." The balance of 8,500 was for all of the other events combined including the open house, Gala, Shrine, Harra and basketball.

In other business, the board accepted three resignations including John Freeman, chairman of industrial education who went into private business; Steve Clark, drafting instructor who went into a private job and Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery, assistant to the president, whose resignation had been announced earlier.

The board issued a resolution expressing gratitude for Mrs. Avery's 13 years of service in an administrative position.

A student discipline problem was discussed in executive session. It was requested by a nursing student.

The student and her parent and the director of nursing were all in attendance.

The entire board was in attendance including Don McKinney, chairman; Dr. Charles Warren, Harold David, Dr. P.W. Malone, Jimmy Taylor, K.H. McGibbon, and James Barr.

Administrators present included Dr. Hays, Bruner, Dean Ben Johnson, Dr. Bobby Wright, Terry Newman and Mrs. Avery.

Demos in control of Penn

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — The Democrats are back in control of the Pennsylvania House — for the time being — after winning the recount of a race that finished in a tie on Election Day. The recount gave incumbent Kenneth Cole a 14-vote margin and gave the Democrats 102 members to the Republicans' 101.

But two other recounts are pending. And Tuesday's loser, Republican Donald Moul, has five days to appeal, although his attorney said that was unlikely. He and Cole finished with 8,551 votes each in the original balloting in Adams County.

Singing bus driver back

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Benford Stellmacher, Hartford's singing bus driver, is going back behind the wheel. The 25-year-old driver was fired last month for handling fares in violation of company rules, but after a public outcry, the company offered Stellmacher reinstatement, and he said Tuesday that he will accept.

Stellmacher had received national publicity in the past for singing to passengers and holding impromptu birthday and Christmas parties on his bus. He admitted handling money, but said he did it only to make change for customers.

Satellite officially lost

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Seasat, a $75 million satellite launched into Earth orbit nearly five months ago to monitor the world's oceans, has been declared officially lost.

Spokesmen at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Tuesday that communication was never restored after the spacecraft suffered an electrical short-circuit Oct. 9. The 5,050-pound Seasat-A was launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base June 26.

Atlantic City following

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Inspired by New York City, Atlantic City officials are considering their own "pooper scooper" law to keep animal droppings off the Boardwalk.

Under an ordinance introduced Tuesday, persons who did not clean up after their pets on any resort street could be fined $100. The ordinance would also ban dogs from the Boardwalk throughout the year. Currently, leashed dogs are allowed on the boards from September to May. They're not allowed on the beach.

Health probe prompted

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Six months of unexplained illnesses at the University of Massachusetts Graduate Research Center has prompted a federal health investigation. The National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health is sending a team to search for a cause, school officials said Tuesday.

The research center was shut down for a week in an emergency action last May, when workers first began getting sick, and the toxic chemical toluene was first suspected of causing the illness. But UMass later claimed its research showed toluene was not the problem. Most of the complaints from workers involve women who say they have menstrual irregularities, although some men reported last spring that they had suffered nausea.

Members of the First Baptist Church gathered on Tuesday in their sanctuary that was dedicated in 1965 to plan for a $1,119,000 expansion.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held outside the east door since the expansion will be on the east side of the facility.

Taking part in the ceremonies prior to the groundbreaking were the Rev. Kenneth Patrick, Roy Reeder, honorary chairman of the building committee; Dr. P.W. Malone, Mrs. Annie Matt Angel, Dr. Charles Warren, Clem Jones and Billy T. Smith.

A brief ceremony was held where the actual contracts were signed on the communion table and then the group stepped outside where Mrs. Norman Read had the honor of shoveling the first shovel full of dirt along with members of the building committee and trustees.

Several members of the community and Bill Albright and Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery from the chamber were also on hand for the event.

Farm Soviets-U.S. Swap cotton-breeding ideas

A significant chapter in the history of Soviet-U.S. agricultural relations was recorded recently when Dr. Delbert Hess, Director of Cotton Research for AC-CO—Paymaster Seed, visited the U.S.S.R. with a team of leading U.S. cotton breeding specialists.

The trip was made as part of an agreement between the United States and the Soviet Union to exchange ideas and cooperate in agricultural research and development. The objective of this trip, which was arranged through the USDA Foreign Agricultural Service, was to study methods of cotton breeding and pest control.

"Cotton is one of the most important agricultural crops in the U.S.S.R.," reported Dr. Hess. "In fact, in recent years the Soviet Union has produced essentially the same amount of cotton as the United States. The value of the export of cotton is important in the balance of trade, and Soviet officials are very interested in increasing cotton production."

Accompanying Dr. Hess on the three-week trip were Dr. P.A. Miller and Dr. Richard Ridgeway, Staff Scientists for USDA at the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center, Beltsville, Maryland; and Dr. Luther Bird, Cotton Plant Pathologist at Texas A & M University.

The U.S. emissaries were met in Moscow by officials of the U.S.S.R. Ministry of Agriculture. They then traveled to the Vavilov All-Union Research Institute of Plant Industry, the Institute of Plant Protection, and the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences Library, all in Leningrad.

In Tashkent, they met with officials at the All-Union Scientific Research Institute for Cotton, the Institute for Cotton Genetics and Breeding, and the Central-Asiatic Scientific Research Institute of Agriculture in Dushanbe.

"We feel this exchange of ideas between the world's two leading cotton producers was very productive," said Dr. Hess. "We hope that it is just the beginning of a continuing relationship."

More than 200 refugees believed drowned today

KUALA TRENGGANU, Malaysia (AP) — More than 200 Vietnamese refugees were believed drowned today when their boat capsized off the northeast coast of the Malaysian peninsula after officials refused to let them land.

Local reporters said a survivor told them there were 254 people aboard the wooden boat. A police spokesman said 51 survivors were accounted for and five bodies had been recovered, including those of two children.

The survivor who talked to the reporters said the boat capsized in rough water after hitting a sandbar at 9:30 a.m. as it was moving out of the Trengganu River estuary.

Police said villagers rescued some who were struggling in the water by throwing them inflated inner tubes.

The boat, which was reported to have been between 50 and 70 feet long, went down a few miles from the offshore island of Pulau Bidong, on which Malaysia's largest refugee camp is located. There are 22,000 Vietnamese in the camp.

The tragedy was certain to produce more foreign pressure on the Malaysian government to ease its efforts to check the flow of Vietnamese refugees to its shores. This has become a major international issue since the freighter Hai Hong arrived off the west coast two weeks ago and the government refused to let the 2,500 refugees from Vietnam land.

Despite the bar on the Hai Hong passengers, 7,000 Vietnamese refugees in small boats have been allowed to land at island refugee camps off the Trengganu coast or on the coast since Nov. 1. But the report that the boatload had been turned away Tuesday indicated that the government might be extending its ban.

The disaster was among the worst known in terms of lives lost among the boat people who have fled from Vietnam since the Communist victory in 1975.

Prosecutors say Davis' attorneys have failed

HOUSTON (AP) — Prosecutors say attorneys defending Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis on murder-for-hire charges failed miserably in their attempts to damage the testimony of key state witness David McCrory.

But defense lawyers, ending a fiery four-day cross-examination Tuesday night, said anyone would have to be crazy to believe McCrory, who previously testified that Davis paid him $25,000 to have a judge killed.

FBI agents say they broke up the plot before the alleged target, Joe Eidsen, the judge in Davis' divorce case, was hurt.

Prosecutors said today's first witness would be Joe Gray of Dallas, the FBI agent who helped rig a van

(in remembering) what he wore and what he ate last January."

McCrory was allowed to step down after undergoing a vigorous cross-examination by chief defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, whose questions drew a number of "I don't know" or "I don't remember" replies.

Defense attorney Steve Sumner said McCrory "has said, 'I lied, I lied, I lied; I don't know, I don't know, I don't know.' There is no question in my mind that the jury has found him unworthy of belief."

Prosecutors previously acknowledged that McCrory was a vulnerable witness. But they insisted their most damaging evidence is not his testimony but movies and tapes of the secretly filmed meeting between McCrory and Davis, 45.

Haynes said he plans to show the tapes have been misinterpreted. "The opera ain't over till the fat lady sings," he said after Tuesday's session.

Asked what he expected next from Haynes, Strickland said, "I'm sure what's up his sleeve is inuendo, gossip and smokescreen and the 'ABC' defense: 'Anybody But Cullen.'"

The defense sought through its marathon cross-examination to discredit McCrory and link him with the millionaire defendant's estranged wife Priscilla in an alleged plot to kill or frame Davis.

"I haven't talked to Priscilla Davis in a year," McCrory testified. "I don't like Priscilla Davis."

Financing easy for Peoples Temple: Give it to Jim Jones

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Keeping track of money was a simple task for Peoples Temple members: "If you were on welfare, you gave your welfare check to Jim Jones. If you owned a house, you... gave it to Jim Jones."

This formula, according to Toni Alston of Bakersfield, Calif., whose cousins are missing in Guyana, was how temple leader Jones amassed a fortune of untold millions.

Along with more than 400 poisoned bodies found at the temple's jungle commune in Jonestown, Guyana, authorities found $500,000 cash and a safe full of jewelry. Unconfirmed reports said another $500,000 in gold and hundreds of Social Security checks also were found.

Although the extent of the church's wealth is not known, how Jones raised funds is an all too familiar story to friends and families of impoverished church members.

Real estate records on file in San Francisco show that several people gave their homes to the temple, free and clear. The homes were sold when the church needed cash.

In 1973, for example, Ruby Lee Johnson gave her house to the temple, which sold it four years later for $42,000. Vernell Henderson's home was sold in June for $127,500, four months after he died of cancer.

One former member told a reporter she and other temple members who owned property were ordered by sect officials to sign blank power-of-attorney forms and blank deed papers.

Deborah Layton Blakey, who managed finances for Jones in Guyana before escaping last May, confirmed that more than $65,000 in Social Security checks came into the jungle mission each month. She reported Jones had bank accounts totalling as much as $10 million in European, South American and California banks.

Stephan Jones, the messianic reverend's son, said he had been "reliably informed" that his father had at least $3 million stashed away at the camp.

The temple also holds title to at least 25 parcels of land in Ukiah, Calif., and properties in Mendocino and San Francisco counties valued at an estimated $1.5 million.

Traffic ticket lottery interviews

If you have ever wondered whether highway patrolmen occasionally let one motorist off with a warning under circumstances where another driver might get a ticket and a fine, you're right.

Reporters on an Oklahoma City newspaper interviewed 25 troopers, promising anonymity if they would talk candidly about how they decide when to write a ticket.

THE REPORTERS found out that if you are stopped for exceeding the speed limit a few miles per hour, you are more likely to get a ticket if:

- You have a radar detector in your car.
- You are driving an expensive car or a sport model.
- You have an Oklahoma license tag.

The research indicated you are less likely to get a ticket if:

- You are driving an old car and might be severely strapped to pay the fine.

- You are an out-of-state motorist who would be subject to a long delay and inconvenience if forced to pay a fine.

Troopers also differed on what level of speed violation they would usually stop a car or write a ticket. The rule is to stop a speeder at 65 and write a ticket at 60. But some are more strict, others admittedly less so.

WHAT IT TELLS you is that the troopers are trying hard to enforce the law with an even hand and without rancor. We think they usually do a good job.

The survey also shows that the patrolmen subject to common human feelings, which means they can and do sometimes exercise judgment and common sense rather than sticking rigidly by the book. Put another way, it shows that the troopers are human beings with human feelings and frailties just like the citizens that they serve and protect.

Blumenthal's mission

Treasury Secretary Mike Blumenthal is on a kamikaze mission for the Carter Administration. All he has to do is convince the oil exporting countries not to raise their prices this year.

A price increase by OPEC of at least 5 per cent and maybe 10 per cent is expected.

Blumenthal will argue that U.S. efforts to control the slide of the dollar and to fight inflation are sufficient for OPEC leaders to keep down the price of their oil.

BUT THE BRUTAL FACTS are that OPEC has acted with some restraint on prices since the cartel was put together and prices quadrupled several years ago.

The efforts of friends of U.S. in the cartel has won out over the zealots in OPEC. Given the sorry performance of the Carter Administration on inflation and the plunge of the dollar, we can't expect that to happen this year.

SINCE THE OPEC countries take payment for their oil in dollars, their return has been directly affected by the dollar's drop. Blumenthal will be representing the administration which has largely been responsible for the problem because of its fiscal policies.

Despite the recent actions of the administration to prop up the dollar, it's doubtful that OPEC leaders will be influenced by Blumenthal's arguments.

This is for loving me

Around the rim

Dusty Richard

Today, besides being the anniversary of a tragic event in American history, is my best friend's birthday.

My best friend and I have known each other since I was born, and maybe even before that. Our friendship possesses all the qualities that a good friendship should: telling each other secrets; knowing things that we'd never admit to anyone else; accepting each other's faults; helping with the other's problems; and, of course, loving each other very much.

Some people seem rather surprised when I tell them who my best friend is. And some girls are slightly envious of me. You see, my best friend is my mother.

And so, Ma, this is for you.

what was going on, but we knew you were hurting very badly.

This is for all the times I laid crying on my bed, sobbing out those age-old words uttered by about every girl the world over: "But I love him, Mama. I'll die without him!" And you didn't make light of my little puppy (and deeper) loves, you sympathized with me, told me you had gone through the same hurts, and told me that no matter what I thought, there would come a day when I indeed would no longer love him, and I would get over the heartache. And I did.

This is for all the clothes you ever made me, even the ones that I begged and pleaded for, until they were finished, when I said, "Yuck," and refused to wear them.

This is for the time I had to get some stubborn baby teeth pulled when I was 16 and I was sure my teeth would never be straight, even if I did get braces, and I was also sure that no boy would ever ask me out again with my snaggle-teeth. But you just said sure they will, and you know, they did.

THIS IS FOR loving me and Lissa enough to tell us about our bodies, and how babies are made, and in a very loving manner. Not just a cold clinical way. So we never came home bleeding and scared, like some girls.

This is for the time I was supposed to get married and the church was reserved, the wedding dress that you pain-stakingly hand-sewed for me was finished, the shower was held, the flowers were ordered and the invitations were about to go out — and I came home and said, "Forget it." And you said, "Whatever you want," instead of forcing me to go through with certain disaster.

This is for all the times I didn't have enough money to buy you a birthday or Christmas or Mother's Day present, and you smiled and hugged me and said, "Just having you is a present, tutti-frutti."

This is for all the times you ironed my clothes, washed my clothes, cleaned up my room, helped me fix my hair, sewed my prom dresses, gave me money, let me use your car, chewed me out when I needed it, loved me when I needed it (and even when I didn't) and never, never let me lose confidence in myself.

AND FINALLY, this is for all the times I forgot to tell you just how much I really love you. Happy birthday, Mama.

Carter's biggest gamble

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Shortly after crusty old George Meany, the hammer-tongued AFL-CIO president, called Jimmy Carter the "most conservative president" since Calvin Coolidge, a key presidential aide confided that Meany was "doing the president's work for him."

The remark, made not at all in jest, was an insight into the thinking of White House insiders as President Carter tries to move the nation into fiscal austerity. Ahead lies the most fateful period of his presidency and perhaps the answer to whether the U.S. retains its ability "to act as a nation rather than as a collection of special interests," as he said in his anti-inflation speech.

The presumption that Meany is "doing the president's work" shows that as of today there is very little hedging of bets inside the White House on the president's plan to cut federal spending and reduce the limiting state spending and taxing power. Carter's political aides are betting a bundle that the anti-big government, anti-tax crusade is no weekend fancy but an emotional, deeply-ingrained conviction that will sustain Carter's tough fiscal and anti-inflationary policies.

ASIDE FROM mixed referendum results, the election pointed toward a rightward political swing that far exceeds the apparent numerical and ideological changes in Congress. Particularly hard for liberal Democratic operatives, for example, was not only the defeat of such liberal stalwarts as Iowa's Sen. Dick Clark and Colorado's Sen. Floyd Haskell. It was also that their conquerors — conservative Republicans Roger Jepsen and William Armstrong — were less than super candidates.

"To say that Dick Clark was beaten just because of the abortion question is to cover our eyes to what really is happening," one perceptive liberal Democrat told us. In short, Clark was thrown out on a whole range of issues on which he predictably and invariably voted the liberal cause, often against the president.

Moreover, the defeat of Clark and other liberals is bound to have a spillover effect on voting habits of other liberal Democrats in the Senate such as Iowa's other Senator, John Culver. "We picked up two votes in Iowa, not just one," one Republican-oriented Washington lobbyist told us.

Thus, although the apparent liberal-conservative balance between the new and old Senate seems not to be all that different on the surface, deep political current have been set in motion that will give Carter important assets, tending to move liberals toward the center and centrists toward the right.

IN THE HOUSE, the new liberal-conservative balance is difficult to assess. But one leading strategist in the Democratic Study Group, a liberal pressure group in the House, figures that the results of the election — without any spillover effects — cost the liberals about a dozen votes on economic-ideological issues. In addition, Carter's "new conservative tone," according to another liberal activist in the House, "is having massive impact up here. It is shifting the center of gravity toward the right."

That shift deprives Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the Democratic party's tireless liberal leader, of allies in the battles now shaping over Carter's fiscal austerity program.

Bulk medicine weight loss gimmick

Dr. G. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I went on a diet about a month ago and have lost 11 pounds. I have read about a prescription pill called methylcellulose, which one takes to add bulk to a diet and make you feel full and want to eat less. I started taking them, but I get the shakes and feel sick. Could this be the pills? Are they safe? — Mrs. B.A.

Methylcellulose tablets are quite safe, but they have specific uses. Under normal circumstances they have no place in weight loss programs. The dieter needs the full benefits of whatever caloric intake he is getting. The methylcellulose can interfere with the absorption of your meals. Your malaise and "shakes" can be a consequence of this, creating a blood sugar drop.

I suggest you stop the methylcellulose and get your bulk from foods such as fruits and vegetables. This kind of bulk acts in the lower part of the digestive tract to help keep you regular. At the same time it will not interfere with food absorption higher in the gastrointestinal tract.

Warnings about nutritional gimmicks apparently go unheeded. I was warning about the liquid protein idea of weight reduction early in the game, but it took high-level studies to alert the general public. I guess we will never quite learn the single most important fact about losing weight; it is not easy and there is no really safe short cut. Forget your pill idea. It's like solving the energy crisis by inventing something to put into fuel so that motors won't be able to use it. OK, if you don't need the motors.

You're to be congratulated on losing the first 11 pounds. You know how difficult it was. I can't promise you it will be any easier in the future.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 60 years old and in pretty good health. But about five weeks ago I started to be bothered with a black spot in front of my left eye. My doctor says he thinks there's nothing wrong. Are you of the same opinion? Is this something that will be permanent? What causes it? — Mrs. R.B.

This might be nothing more harmful than a "floater," a bit of debris floating in the eye fluid (vitreous). If the spot were red or brownish, it might indicate a minute hemorrhage in the eye.

Whatever the cause, any vision problem should be a signal for a thorough eye examination. The floater can be identified easily. It will usually appear and disappear and be worse when you walk into sunlight. The floater itself is not dangerous. But you want to be sure that it is what it is.

You can lose weight if you really want to! Dr. Thosteson's booklet,

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My husband and I have become Christians. We are in music school and we wonder if this is really where God wants us. Do you think God can use us in music in any way? — Mrs. P.S.

DEAR MRS. P.S.: There are various opportunities to use your musical skills for God's work. Many churches, for example, are seeking people who combine musical talent with Christian commitment. Music is a wonderful means of praising God, and it often can open the hearts of people to the Gospel in ways that nothing else can.

Music has always played an important part in the life of God's people. In fact, the whole book of Psalms apparently was originally written to be sung. The apostle Paul told the Christians at Colosse, "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord" (Colossians 3:16). The Psalmist said, "While I love will I praise the Lord: I will sing praises unto my God while I have any being" (Psalms 146:2).

The most important thing for you to seek is God's will for your life. God may want you in something which is directly related to His work, such as church music. He may lead you to stay in music, even if it is not church-related — and if He does, you should do everything to His glory.

Gold Star Moms, Dads honored

The American Gold Star Mothers met Thursday at 9:00 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Herbert Smith, 901 Scurry, for their regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. Truett Thomas, president, presided at the business session and opened the meeting according to the Ritual. The Pledge of Allegiance was read by Mrs. W.J. Barnes, Americanism chairman, and was recited in unison.

Mrs. Smith, hospital chairman, reported that 65 patients were served coffee at the Veterans Medical Center on Wednesday morning. Those assisting in the serving were Mrs. Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. A.W. Moody.

December activities at the Veterans Medical Center, with which the Gold Star Mothers will assist include decorating the Christmas tree in the lobby on Dec. 4 and distributing Christmas gifts to patients on the third floor on Dec. 18.

An announcement was made that the Bell Ringers of the First United Methodist Church will present a Christmas program for the VAMC patients on Dec. 14. The Community Service report showed 43 trays of food given to friends and needy, 23 errands for handicapped, 35 visits to rest homes, 315 donations to charity, and 44 flower arrangements to sick and shut-ins.

Gold Star Mothers and Dads were honored guests to a Veterans Day program presented at the high school by the student council on Nov. 9 and to a Veterans Observance Service at the memorial plaque on the court house lawn on Nov. 9. At that time Mrs. Moody, chaplain of the Gold Star Mothers, placed a wreath at the plaque.

She was assisted by Moody, also an All Veterans Organization Service member at the VAMC.

The Christmas meeting will be at the home of Mrs. S.R. Nobles, 405 Washington Blvd.

As Peace Corps volunteers

Texans trade turkey for toil

DALLAS — While most Americans will sit down for their traditional turkey this Thanksgiving, the 195 Texas Peace Corps volunteers in 45 developing nations will stand up to hunger and disease, even death, all around them.

Americans have been celebrating Thanksgiving since 1621. The Texas Peace Corps volunteers, to whom poverty in Togo is more stirring than turkey, have been helping the forgotten peoples of the world since 1968. From two Texans in 1968, the number of Lone Star Peace Corps volunteers jumped to 139 by 1973. The Peace Corps was initiated in 1961.

Although many come from cities like Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Austin, El Paso or Lubbock, almost one-half are from towns of fewer than 25,000, like Diboll, El Campo, Kerrville, Kountze, Malakoff, Perryton, Plainview, Stephenville.

"I'd rather be doing what I want to do and be happy than trying to make a buck," said Corpus Christi native Scott

Swearingen recently in Miami before flying to Belize, formerly British Honduras, where he teaches biology and math.

"I was fortunate enough to go to college, I'd like to spread that knowledge around a little. The Peace Corps is an experience that you can't get any other way."

While their personal growth is an important motive for joining the Peace Corps, 65 percent of the returned Texas volunteers considered helping others as their main reason. If only 46 percent of these feel they have succeeded, it may well be the state of the world that had frustrated them:

There are more than 100 less-developed nations that make up the so-called Third World and they comprise 70 percent of the world's population, although they share only eleven percent of its income.

About 1.4 billion people receive less than their minimum daily requirement of food, up from 1.1 billion a decade ago. Some 800 million persons — one in five — now earn less than $50 yearly, living in "absolute poverty," conditions

"beneath any reasonable definition of human decency," according to World Bank. Americans, says the Overseas Development Council, "feed more to animals than all Indians and Chinese eat."

Although Sweden, Netherlands, France, Canada and Australia each give a larger percentage of their gross national product in foreign aid than does the U.S. — Communist Romania is also ahead — the U.S. boasts the largest overseas corps of volunteers in the world.

Close to 7,000 Peace Corps volunteers, 40.6 percent of them women, serve 64 developing nations. Their average age is 27.4 years. Thirteen percent of all volunteers are 41 or older.

Texas now has the tenth largest contingent of Peace Corps volunteers in the nation. They serve in a variety of agricultural, educational, health, business, urban and rural development projects. Colombia and the Philippines particularly have many Texas volunteers.

"Some people think I'm overqualified to teach in the Peace Corps," said Austin-born Jean Love in Philadelphia. She has two master's degrees in languages. "When you work in a foreign country you're never overqualified," added Miss Love who, instead of sitting down on November 23rd for a turkey, will teach an English class in Morocco.

Almost half of the Texas Peace Corps applicants actually turn down well-paid jobs to be able to confront the

Dear Abby

Should She Tattle On Boss's Prattle?

DEAR ABBY: I have a terrific job as assistant to the head of a professional firm. I've been here only three months and love it.

My boss gets frequent calls from women who are in reality his girlfriends.

I know for a fact that he is divorced. His ex-wife phones him — and he calls her often to discuss their children. They have a friendly and even close relationship.

I have heard my boss tell his girlfriends that he is only separated, and that his wife will never give him a divorce. He is aware that I have heard him lying, and he's asked me to answer no questions about his personal life. I never have.

I feel that by not volunteering the truth I am lying. My mother thinks I should quit my job and tell my boss why. I don't think I could ever get a job I like as much, and I don't want to quit. My mother and I have agreed to follow your advice.

CONFUSED

DEAR ABBY: It is not your place as an employee to volunteer the facts to interested girlfriends concerning your boss's private life. But if you feel that you are lying by withholding the truth, and your conscience can't handle it, quit.

DEAR ABBY: Last month our teen-age daughter ran off and got married. She realized within two weeks that it was a terrible mistake and came home.

We succeeded in having the marriage annulled and are now trying to live down the embarrassing episode. We don't care to discuss it with anyone, but this is a small town and news of this kind travels fast. When people ask us for the "details," what should we tell them?

EMBARRASSED IN IOWA

DEAR ABBY: Don't tell them anything. Your friends won't ask. And your ~~secrets~~ won't believe you anyway.

DEAR ABBY: My dearest friend talks about her two grandchildren constantly! Not only that, but she always drags her daughter and grandchildren along with her whenever she visits or is invited out socially. Daughter and children always seem to pop up at Mom's whenever Mom has company.

The grandchildren are cute, but they are always "on" and their mother and grandmother encourage them to be the center of attention.

I resent having toddlers underfoot when I plan to relax and socialize with adults.

Abby, don't you think that young mother should take her little ones and socialize with the diaper crowd where they can all enjoy the cute antics and baby talk?

A TIME FOR ADULTS

DEAR TIME: Yes. But you are addressing your complaints to the wrong person. If you want results, tell your dearest friend in your most diplomatic manner what you've told me.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ANYONE FOR WHOM IT IS NOT YET TOO LATE": The gestation period of a mother's advice is anywhere from one week to 50 years. Losing one's mother before having thanked her for the many precious things she taught you is one of life's greatest tragedies.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters For All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (25 cents) envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Lessons for a pot smoker

By Robert Wallace Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: A couple of months ago I went to a slumber party and smoked some pot. I told one of my girlfriends what I had done and asked her not to tell anyone. Well, she told a lot of other girls and now almost everyone at school knows, and I'm really getting hassled.

The girl I told even told her mother and now I'm afraid her mother will contact mine.

I'm 12 years old and I don't think I will ever smoke it again. Do you know any way to stop these girls from talking about my smoking pot? — Shirley, St. Louis, Mo.

Shirley: Don't get involved in an argument with any of those students who are hassling you. If they ask you if it's true that you smoked pot, be honest and say that you tried it but you have decided it is not for you. I think you've learned two lessons: (1) Not to smoke pot again, and (2) not to trust anyone with your innermost secrets.

Dr. Wallace: I recently read in your column about a girl who wanted to be popular. May I please respond to this?

Popularity is not all it is cracked up to be. I am a very popular girl in high school and I can honestly say that it's lonely at the top. People tend to think popular girls have all the guys, but actually guys tend to shy away from them.

Guys think you are stuck-up and that you'll shine them on and leave them flat on their faces. Being popular you are expected to do the "in" things. Because you're popular some teachers hold a resentment toward you, while others are exceptionally nice hoping to be a very popular teacher. Dr. Wallace, let me tell you that these are just a few drawbacks to being popular. There are many, many more.

I'm popular but very unhappy. — Janet, San Diego, Calif.

Janet: I guess what you're saying is that it is better to be unpopular and happy than popular and unhappy, both of which are better than being unpopular and unhappy, or something like that.

Dental services of BSSH gain ADA accreditation

Big Spring State Hospital is proud to announce that the Council of Hospital and Institutional Dental Services of the American Dental Association has approved accreditation of the dental services of Big Spring State Hospital.

Henry R. Beckcom, D.D.S., is in charge of the dental services at Big Spring State Hospital. Adolph Supak, assistant superintendent, stated, "Dr. Beckcom has provided quality leadership for our Dental Program. It is a real credit for us to have him and his staff pass such a survey."

The Council on Hospital and Institutional Dental Services was established in 1948 and is authorized by the American Dental Association to examine dental services in hospitals and to issue, in the name of the American Dental Association, certificates of approval to those institutions with dental services meeting the basic standards established by the House of Delegates of the ADA. Of the 3700 hospitals in the United States which provide dental health services to their community, 890 have received from the American Dental Association certification of approval.

The council's approval program is conducted through on-site evaluation visits by consultants with expertise in the areas of hospital dentistry. The purpose of the site evaluation is to obtain in-depth information concerning all aspects of the dental service and to ensure that high quality oral health care is provided consonant with those Standards for Hospital Dental Services.

The council is recognized by the American Hospital Association and the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals as having the responsibility for the evaluation and accreditation of dental services in hospitals as assigned by the ADA Bylaws. The Joint Poverty, illiteracy

Still the darker side of childhood

Texas is considered a great place to rear a family — yet one in every five children in the state lives in poverty. Texas has a history of free public schools — yet its illiteracy rate is nearly double that of the United States.

These are just two of the facts presented in "Still the Darker Side of Childhood: 78 Things You Need to Know about Texas Children." Published in November by the Early Childhood Development Division of the Texas Department of Community Affairs, the book provides specific information about the conditions under which Texas children live.

The 78 facts cover the major areas that effect and are effected by children from birth to 18. These include environment, family, health, handicaps, education, troubled youth, child care, hidden (abused) children, and services to children and families.

The title of the book is based upon the facts. Among these are:

- The cost of rearing a child has jumped 50 percent since 1969.
- Almost 31,000 children under six are left to care for themselves while their parents work.
- The number of babies born in Texas to girls 14 and under has increased 64

Commission is recognized as the national agency for accreditation of health care facilities, as confirmation by Congress in 1965 with the enactment of Public Law 89-97 (Medicare).

Per capita surprise

Ridin' fence — Per capita surprise

with Marj Carpenter

Some people like to read. And I'm one of those fool folks. One of the good things held around here last month was a Read-a-thon out at Elbow School.

Anything that encourages boys and girls to read is a good project....in my opinion.

But having the reading disease, I read lots of things that nobody else would ever plow through.

For instance this week I obtained a Bureau of Business Research report from the University of Texas which discusses Per Capita income in Texas.

Nobody else would read such a dull report, but when I started reading it, it wasn't dull at all. One thing it said didn't surprise me too much, but simply confirmed something I already suspected. Midland is the most prosperous metropolitan area in Texas with a 1976 per capita income level of $7,701.

The Midland SMSA ranks ninth among all metropolitan areas in the United States in per capita income. Houston is second in Texas and 12th in the nation with $7,617; Dallas-Fort Worth is third in the state and 36th in the nation with $7,096.

The next five metropolitan areas in Texas are Galveston-Texas City, Amarillo, Wichita Falls, Beaumont-Port Arthur-Orange and Odessa. Three of those are in West Texas and that's interesting to us. Those areas are all above the national average.

The ones below the national average and in rank of going on down the scale in Texas include next — Tyler, Longview, San Angelo, Abilene, Waco, Sherman-Denison, Killeen-Temple, Lubbock, Corpus Christi, San Antonio, Austin, Texarkana, Bryan-College Station and El Paso. The metropolitan areas that are last are all South Texas areas — Brownsville-Harlingen-San Benito, Laredo and finally McAllen-Pharr-Edinburg areas. That's the lowest and the per capita is $3,338.

Then the report figures per capita by counties. There are some surprises there — sure enough. The highest is Loving County that I write so many stories about — That's Mentone folks. Their average income is $15,710. Of course there aren't many folks that live out there.

I wrote a column about Mentone last week and since then a lady told me they have an automatic flag raiser and lowerer (is there such a word?) at their courthouse for which they doled out $1,800. Not too many counties got called quite a few names. But this here fancy report said the nine low income counties have the following county seats, Brownsville, Edinburg, Laredo, Crystal City, Alice, Kingsville, Beeville, Del Rio and Eagle Pass. All but three of those are below the Nueces and those three are along the Rio Grande.

What this all says is that our part of the state is a lot better off than some. And personally, I think this part of the state is great and one of my favorite places in all the world — out where I ride fence.

Wrapped Walk Ways' project

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Christo's "Wrapped Walk Ways" project, which charmed some Kansas Citians and outraged others, met a fitting end over the weekend.

The three miles of saffron yellow industrial strength nylon was cut up and given away to hundreds of art collectors and souvenir hunters.

Christo donated the fabric to the Kansas City Parks and Recreation Department after the wraps came off Loose Park's sidewalks.

Giant ending fires coach

With a friend like this, John McVay might well wonder who his enemies are? McVay's friend, Bob Gibson, was offensive coordinator of the New York Giants until Joe Pisarcik rickoed the ball off Larry Csonka's hip and into Jerry Edwards' hands last Sunday. The play was Gibson's final play, and the final act of a man who, it appears, really didn't know what he was doing — with X's and O's on the blackboard and with Pisarcik and Jerry Golsteyn at quarterback. In these days of multiple offenses and sophisticated defenses, Gibson's idea of an offense was roughly something like "off-tackle run, off-tackle run, short pass."

But he was McVay's friend, and when people become head coaches (or politicians or corporate executives, for that matter), friends tend to show up on sidelines, in ambassadorships and in vice presidencies.

It was a sort of mirror image of Alex Webster's days as head coach, when he brought along a friend, Jim Garrett, to mastermind the Giants' defense. What happened was that other National Football League teams looked at the Giants' defense and saw a welcome mat. For every four touchdowns the Giants scored, the opposition scored five. These days the defense is respectable — but the offense seems to go nowhere.

"I think what I did, John did. I made a few bad moves, putting the wrong people in charge," Webster said as he reflected on Gibson's dismissal.

Webster eventually stepped down and his assistants, Garrett among them, were canned. With Gibson's firing, the guillotine would seem to be poised over McVay's head. It's more likely, though, that he'll be back next year.

But don't look for Golsteyn or Pisarcik when training camp opens next year. The Giants have given up on Jerry (he was third on their depth chart last Sunday behind unused Randy Dean) and there's a pretty good chance they'll shop around or draft for a replacement for Joe, too.

Gibson's conservative offense early in a game usually led to a catch-up offense late in a game. On occasion, though, it was the Giants who led — as they did 17-12 with less than half a minute to go in Sunday's game against Philadelphia.

If Gibson had been watching a game not too many miles away at Shea Stadium, he would have seen how a professional runs out the clock. With New England leading the New York Jets 19-17, Patriots' quarterback Steve Grogan had the ball on his 20-yard line with about half a minute to go.

The final three plays, according to the game's official statistical sheet, were:

"Grogan falls down with ball, no gain."
"Grogan falls down with ball, no gain."
"Grogan falls down with ball, no gain."

Russian rally by Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Sergei Iovaisha scored on a layup with 58 seconds remaining in the second overtime Tuesday night to give the touring Russian Nationals a pulsating 81-79 exhibition game victory over Arkansas. The Razorbacks had taken a 79-77 lead on Alan Zahn's 25-foot jumper with 2:14 remaining, but didn't score again. Anatoli Mishkin evened things with a layup on an alleyoop pass with 1:45 remaining before the teams took turns scrambling until Iovaisha hit the winner. Mishkin led all scorers with 26 points and also had 10 assists. He was 12 of 17 from the field to key a Russian attack that produced 53 percent field goal accuracy. Sidney Moncrief had 24 for the Hogs on 10 of 19 field goal shooting and four of four free throwing. U.S. Reed added 15 for the Porkers and Steve Schall had 14 before exiting with a slightly sprained ankle in the second half.

It was the final game of an American tour for the Russians, who finished with a 9-4 record and had triumphs over Notre Dame, Indiana, Athletics in Action and Arkansas, among others.

The Russians threatened to break things open twice with hot surges. Trailing 12-6, the Russians outscored the Razorbacks 16-4 to snare a 22-16 lead.

After the Razorbacks had closed within two at 26-24, Stanislav Eremim made a pair of buckets and Mishkin added a layup as the Russian press bothered the Hogs into three consecutive turnovers.

But Reed hit two buckets and a free throw, Moncrief scored on a remarkable reverse layup and Zahn drilled a 15-footer to give the Razorbacks a 37-36 halftime lead.

Hangin' Out

by Nathan Poss

Yeah, I knew it was coming. The three girls, or whatever, that complained about the volleyball coverage did so in a week that I've been in a somewhat detestable mood. So let me thank you three for letting me air out some loose steam. You mentioned that I was at the Big Spring-San Angelo game. You're exactly right. You're also correct in saying that I didn't write a story about the game. I'm not too knowledgeable or experienced at telling volleyball stories. Without the scoring summary and coaching comments, it's hard to write one.

As the game ended, I had to go to the coliseum to cover a Hawk game. I planned to talk to Coach Bartsek the next morning to write a correct and more accurate version of what exactly happened. She could not be found, and never called to comment on the game, which she usually did. In an effort not to completely write false material and to placate the volleyball team, I used two larger than normal Danny Valdes photos to let the readership know the outcome of the game.

You three left yourselves completely uncovered on the last two paragraphs. The first dealt with late two-inch stories concerning the volleyball games. If the coach calls in before nine o'clock the morning after the game, there is a 99 percent chance it will get in. It has so far and will continue this way. Ask Jane Upton, volleyball coach at Rannels. But, as one coach in the system did, if you call in seven volleyball games that are as late as two and a half weeks ago, forget it. You could call the World Series in two weeks late and it wouldn't be printed.

Speaking of four pages of "nothing but separate pictures of the football team" without "finding the time or money to put separate pictures of the volleyball team" is out of my control. Those pages were put in by the advertising department. They were advertisements. In case nobody has told you three the facts of life, money plays a large role, especially in America. This newspaper is not a charity organization. Besides, even if the football team is losing, it brings in many more times revenue than the volleyball game receipts. This is a football oriented region of the country, so until you guys can compete financially and/or with fan interest, I must basically print what the reader is interested in.

What a great game the Miami-Houston was! I'm glad to see Houston prove that they are a first-rate club. I also have to feel delight that Dan Pastorini is showing America and the Houston fans what a good quarterback he can be. The past few years the media and fans in the Houston area have hounded him. Much of it was certainly out of jealousy. Dante is a handsome man with an extremely foxy actress—model for a wife. He also has been known to drive his truck into trees at three o'clock at night in the middle of the season. With an image like that, a man nearly has to produce in order to keep most of the people content.

Everytime I watch Earl Campbell play pro football, I feel a little more at ease with my conscious. I played against Earl on three occasions during my college career, and I must admit that he ran over me on more than three collisions. It's really embarrassing, especially when 60,000 or so people are watching from the stands. But I no longer feel so worthless. Especially when the people he is on are the likes of Jack Lambert and Jack Tatum.

Two weeks ago, Rice lost to SMU by a 58-0 score. Last week they rebounded for a 24-10 win over Grant Teaff's beloved Bears. How can a team rebound from such a loss to such an upset. I called Owl wide receiver Doug Cunningham, who led the Owl charge with nine receptions in the contest. Doug is a fifth year senior. His reply to the question was: "Hell, Scooter, I don't know. We had a hard week of practice, but I've been around this place five years and I can never tell what's going to happen." Which means that Doug probably wouldn't be too much help to the bookies.

Redskins invade Dallas Thursday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins travel to Dallas on Thanksgiving Day with more at stake than an almost-cinch for a National Football League playoff berth. Bobby Beathard, Redskins general manager, will be taking a close look at his team's performance against the Cowboys, who now share first place in the NFC East. Both teams have records of 8-4.

"There are too many guys on this team who don't give a damn, and those are the worst kind you can have," said Beathard, who is responsible for the hiring and firing of players. "There is no question we are losing to teams that we should beat," he said. "If this is a true indication of the type of some of the players we have that they don't care about winning, then we have to get players in the future who want to win, that it means something to."

Beathard declined to point out individual players or name names. "We've won this year and we've beaten some pretty good teams," he continued. "And that's proof that we can play well against anybody in the league. It's up to the guys to get back together and put the team as their top priority."

"Each person has to do everything possible to help the Redskins win. The players who don't want to do that may be better off in some other business. Too many don't give a damn whether we win or lose. "We want 45 players who want to play football. At the end of the year, in analyzing the team, if we find out there aren't 45 players who want to play football, we'll go out and find players who want to play," said Beathard.

The Redskins won their first six games of the season, including a 9-5 victory over the Cowboys, but have dropped four of their last six. At one time, they held a two-game lead in the NFC East.

"We've had lots of help from all over to win our division this year, and we haven't taken advantage of it," said Beathard.

GAME HERO — Rookie San Diego Charger wide receiver John Jefferson (83) is congratulated by teammate Bob Klein after Jefferson scored the Chargers winning touchdown Sunday against the Minnesota Vikings. Jefferson scored on a 10-yard pass play from quarterback Dan Fouts.

NBA Roundup

The book on Truck Robinson is that he's a great inside player, virtually unstoppable around the basket. Give the rugged New Orleans forward the outside shot, the book says, but don't let him work inside. Well, it may be time to rewrite the book.

Robinson, shooting mostly from 15-18 feet, hit on 20 of 26 shots from the field — including 12 in a row starting in the second period, many of them bank shots — en route to a career-high 51 points as the New Orleans Jazz ended a fivegame losing streak by beating the New Jersey Nets 140-118 Tuesday night.

Robinson's 51 points were the most by any NBA player this season, surpassing the 46 posted by San Antonio's George Gervin and New York's Spencer Hawwood earlier.

Elsewhere, the Golden State Warriors beat the Philadelphia 76ers 115-105, the New York Knicks defeated the Detroit Pistons 96-79, the Phoenix Suns edged the Cleveland Cavaliers 110-108, the Milwaukee Bucks blasted the Portland Trail Blazers 123-93, the Indiana Pacers trimmed the San Antonio Spurs 108-103 and the Atlanta Hawks beat the San Diego Clippers 113-107.

Warriors 115, 76ers 105
John Lucas scored 35 points, handed out 17 assists and made five steals in leading the Warriors to their sixth victory in seven road games this season. "You don't win on the road unless you play well and that's what we've been doing," said Warriors Coach Al Attles.

Knicks 96, Pistons 79
New York scored 38 points in the final period to pull away from the Pistons and raise its record to 5-0 since Red Holzman replaced Willis Reed as coach. New York has allowed 100 points or less in each of those five games, and Detroit's 79 points equalled the lowest of the season in the NBA.

With forward Bob McAdoo sidelined by a bruised toe, Spencer Hayward picked up the slack for New York with 27 points and 13 rebounds.

Bucks 123, Blazers 93
Milwaukee snapped a fourgame losing streak behind 24 points by Marques Johnson and 23 by Kent Benson. Milwaukee scored 12 in a row late in the second quarter to lead 63-51 at halftime and then pulled away in the second half.

Rookie guard Ron Brewer led the Blazers with 25 points. Suns 110, Cavaliers 108
Alvan Adams scored 20 of his 22 points in the second half as the Suns wiped out a 16-point halftime deficit and handed Cleveland its eighth straight loss and 14th in the last 15 games.

Paul Westphal made two free throws with 1:25 to play to give Phoenix the lead for good at 107-106 and added another free throw with 12 seconds left to close out the scoring.

Pacers 108, Spurs 103
Indiana ended a six-game, 13-day road trip by upsetting San Antonio to snap a seven-game losing streak. Center James Edwards had 26 points for Indiana and guard Ricky Sobers added 24.

The Spurs took a 10-point lead into the fourth quarter but were outscored 31-16 over the final 12 minutes. Larry Kenon led San Antonio with 27 points but George Gervin, the NBA's leading scorer, managed just 14.

Hawks 113, Clippers 107
Dan Roundfield scored a career-high 38 points and John Drew added 25 as Atlanta beat San Diego. With the score tied 99-99, the Hawks trailed off six in a row — four by Roundfield — to take the lead to stay. The Clippers drew within two at 105-103 but Drew made four straight free throws to clinch it.

Stanton exploded in the latter stages of the Forsan game for a convincing victory, and senior tailback Todd Smith helped trigger the outburst. The 6'2", 175-pounder rushed twenty times for 156 yards and two touchdowns. He further displayed some versatility, catching two passes for touchdowns. Despite their discouraging season ending loss to San Angelo, the Steer that played a very good game from his wide receiver-safety positions was Mike Evans. Snyder defeats Steers in overtime

Snyder used some excellent free throw shooting in the overtime period to take an exciting 66-62 victory over the Big Spring Steers Tuesday night. The game was close throughout, with neither side being able to hold more than a seven point lead at anytime. The game was a see-saw match throughout the first half. Steer guard Tony Rubio directed a Steer attack that led by as many as four points, only to see Snyder tie the game at half.

Snyder jumped to a 34-30 lead in the early stages of the third stanza, but the Steers rallied behind the shooting of Cesar Espinosa, James Magers and Mark Poss to take their biggest lead of the night at 42-36.

Snyder used a full-court press, whoever, to reel off nine straight points and take a 45-44 lead at the end of the stanza.

The Tigers increased their lead to seven with only three minutes remaining. Big Spring then staged a furious rally. John Fleckenstein, Cecil Cooper and Mark Poss each sank buckets and Poss connected on two of four free throws to bring the Bovines to a 56-56 tie, with 39 seconds remaining.

Snyder scored to take a narrow two point lead shortly afterward. The Steers then brought the ball down the court and shot three times without success before Poss grabbed a loose rebound and scored the tying basket as the buzzer sounded ending regulation.

Pokes close home dressing room

DALLAS (AP) — The defending World Champion Dallas Cowboys are closing their home dressing room to all reporters because of increasing demands that women reporters be given equal access. It's a permanent step that sets a precedent in the National Football League.

Two women sports writers cover the Cowboys — one from Corpus Christi and the other from San Antonio.

Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry, saying it had to be done, called it "an unfortunate situation."

Schramm said he could not personally "guarantee" that every player requested for an interview would show up.

Interviews with the Cowboy players will now be held in a room across from the Dallas dressing room — if the players want to show up.

In the fourth quarter, a list will be circulated in the press box for writers and broadcasters to indicate the players they want to interview.

When Dallas is on the road, the dressing rooms will be open because the Cowboys have no control over the situation. Visiting dressing rooms in Texas Stadium, home of the Cowboys, also will be open.

"We will do everything we can to see that a player cooperates," said Schramm.

Some NFL teams have limited access to the press, but not on an organized basis like the Cowboys, who will institute the new policy at their showdown National Conference Eastern Division game with the Washington Redskins on Thanksgiving Day.

"We're not going to have an integrated locker room. This was coming and we had to face it. We didn't create it," Schramm added.

"I don't like it but something had to be done in my opinion," said Landry, who added: "This has nothing to do with women's rights. There are certain rights nobody has — I don't want to go into a women's locker room."

Asked if the Cowboys would rescind the interview policy if the new one didn't work, Schramm said "We're going to make it work. We're not going to have a mixed grill in our locker room."

Landry added, "If it comes to the point where this (co-educational dressing rooms) doesn't make any difference in society, SNYDER BASKET...An unidentified Snyder Tiger goes up for two points despite Big Spring's Mark Poss' attempt to distract him. Other Steers awaiting a rebound are Cecil Cooper (50) and Cesar Espinosa (22).

Duke starts at the top

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

It's time for Bill Foster to get serious. Last year, his lightly-regarded Duke basketball team laughed all the way to the NCAA finals before suffering a sobering knockout punch by the Kentucky Wildcats.

The Blue Devils might not take things so lightly this season, now that they're starting out with the No. 1 ranking in the country. Like Kentucky before them, the Blue Devils must live up to their top billing from the start. And like Kentucky, they may have the talent to do it.

The players who won applause for their blazing style and admiration for their lighthearted approach are all back — including the ubiquitous Gene Banks, who prophetically stated after last year's finals:

"Well, at least we'll be No. 1 next year."

That, of course, will eventually depend on how Banks, Mike Gminski and Jim Spanarkel and Co. can handle the pressure in the tough Atlantic Coast Conference.

There, the Blue Devils must face competition in a league recognized as one of the toughest in the country. Virtually everyone in the ACC is stronger this year, with the possible exception of North Carolina, which lost the redoubtable Phil Ford.

Banks at forward and Gminski at center are two of the very best at their positions in what most certainly looks like the Year of the Sophomore in college basketball.

Another good one is Earvin "Magic" Johnson, the passing wizard who led Michigan State to the Big Ten championship last season. Johnson alone makes the Spartans a palpable threat on the national scene and the foremost team in a league that many consider as strong as any in the country this season.

There would seem to be almost as many contenders in the Big Ten as there are members. Along with Michigan State and its magical guard, the competitive teams there include arch-rival Michigan, Indiana, Ohio State and Illinois. Minnesota, with one of the best recruiting crops in the country, and Purdue — coached by incoming Lee Rose — also are worth watching.

Notre Dame features another of the nation's most celebrated sophomores — forward Kelly Tripucka. As a freshman, Tripucka was instrumental in leading the Irish into the Final Four last season. And Digger Phelps' team could be there again this year, with an outstanding collection of front-court players and plenty of depth. In Darnell Valentine, the Kansas Jayhawks have another highly-prized sophomore, making Ted Owens' team the Big One in the Big Eight. The Jayhawks reportedly had the best recruiting year in the conference this season.

Meanwhile, Kentucky's fall from national power is inevitable with the loss of four of its top six players. Yet the Wildcats might have enough to hold their own in the weakened Southeastern Conference.

The SEC will be as balanced as it ever has been, with Mississippi State and big man Ricky Brown rated a good chance to supplant Kentucky as league champion. New coaches around this year in the SEC, with Mississippi State, Georgia, Tennessee and Auburn all presenting new faces.

The other member of last year's Final Four, Arkansas, is in a position similar to Kentucky's — suffering irreplaceable losses in Ron Brewer and Marvin Delph. The Razorbacks might have to take a back seat to Texas, the class of the Southwest Conference. Witty Abe Lemons' sharpshooters, led by Jim Krivacs, won the National Invitation Tournament last year.

In the Pacific-10 Conference, UCLA once again rates as the favorite — and not only because of its lustrous history.

YOUNG IDEAS
By DICK YOUNG

LAS VEGAS — Billy Martin just punched out a young newsman in Reno, and what else is new? Shows you how much he, and things, haven't changed. All ingredients were there: A couple of social drinks in hospitality room, an interviewing newsman asks a few questions, fine. Then, one question Martin doesn't like. The mention of Reggie Jax' name. Words: Louder words. A grab. A swing.

My source in Reno says it went something like this after three pages of notes:

Reporter Ray Hagar: I understand you said Reggie Jackson will never be a Yankee because he doesn't have the true Yankee spirit.

MARTIN: Did you hear me say that?

HAGAR: No, but I read it.

MARTIN: What are you trying to do be a Dick Young overnight? I've given you a good interview. Now you can give me those notes back.

HAGAR: Oh, no. (Hides pad behind back).

Martin made a grab for notes. Pages went flying. Ans Dilley, publicist of local basketball team, stepped between them. Martin left fly punch over Dilley's shoulder. Hagar's glasses flew off. Hagar has three chipped teeth, cut lower lip, black eye. Publisher of Nevada State Journal, Warren Larude, is asking police to determine whether criminal charges should be filed.

It's sad, really. Billy doesn't drink alcohol. He drinks the fiery chemicals that Dr. Jekyll drank, and right away turns into Mr. Hyde. If he could master that, he'd be the greatest manager in the game.

Knicks' rehiring of Red Holzman is object lesson to America, which has wasted a generation via extreme youth orientation. Knicks fired Holzman and hired Willis Reed. It mattered not that Holzman was a basketball genius. He was 60, and Reed was thirtyish. But Reed had no coaching experience. He had refused transitional year as Holzman's assistant; wanted to break right in at top. Knicks, after little more than one season, recognized mistakes, and brought back Red, who isn't any younger.

Larry Holmes had harsh words with Leon Spinks and almost took shot at him. Incident occurred at Holmes' victory party in Caesars Palace. Spinks made pass at champ's lady friend, including some remarks described as obscene...Looks like grudge match is shaping up...Spinks hasn't much couth...Holmes is humble sort of guy who will have difficulty overcoming shadow of Ali, but he'll keep trying... "I'll be around as champ for five years," he tells newsmen, "so you had better get to like me" — and he smiles.

At victory party, Scott LeDoux said to Holmes' lawyer, Charley Spaziani, "Larry's a nice kid. I'm gonna hate to beat him!"...Holmes has promised LeDoux a shot. LeDoux has been moved into top 10 by WBC as result of Jimmy Young's runoff against him, allegedly due to rib injury...Holmes says he'll go home to Easton, Pa., for holidays, return to gym after new year, take warmup bout in February while Norton fights Shavers (Feb. 18), then take on winner in summer...By then, Ali should have announced retirement.

Despite new NBA rule, zone defense growing

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

The zone defense, a perennial headache for the National Basketball Association, is more of a problem than ever this year despite stronger sanctions against its use.

Although a team is now assessed a technical foul — instead of a warning — the first time it is spotted playing a zone, use of the supposedly illegal defense has grown. A total of 58 technical fouls have been called against teams for using zones in the 191 games played so far this season.

Of the 22 NBA clubs, 18 have been penalized at least once. New Jersey and Phoenix are the leaders with seven zone technicals each, while Milwaukee and Los Angeles are right behind with six apiece.

Phoenix got called for two zone technicals in a game at Philadelphia last Friday and wound up losing 95-94. The second call came with 1:03 left and Doug Collins hit one of two free throws to put the Sixers ahead to stay.

DOING THE JOB — Tom LaGarde has found a job as the Seattle Supersonics' starting center this season. The 6-foot-10 LaGarde replaced Marvin Webster, who left Seattle to join the New York Knicks. LaGarde is averaging 11.8 points and 9.5 rebounds. The Sonics lead the Pacific Division with a 13-3 record.

"It was a half-court trap," maintained Phoenix Coach John MacLeod. "People played zone all last year and it wasn't called. This year they're calling it even when you're not playing it."

To which referee Ed Rush countered, "My 6-year-old son could have called it. No one was guarding a man at all."

Rule 12A, Section 1, of the official NBA rules deals with zone defenses and states flatly, "A zone defense is not permitted in NBA games." Pressing defenses are legal, however, including full-court zone presses.

The problem arises once the offensive team moves the ball over the midcourt line. Then, no defensive player may position himself within the key for three seconds "if it is apparent he is making no effort to play an opponent." This is a defensive three-second violation and a technical foul.

What's more, once the ball crosses the midcourt line, "no defensive player can guard an area of the court, instead of guarding an opponent. Penalty — technical foul." Thus a half-court press is illegal if the men not double-teaming the ball cover areas of the court rather than playing specific men.

HOT ITEM IN TENNIS — John McEnroe gestures during play recently in London. He earned over $80,000 last week and will be making his Davis Cup debut for the United States in the next few weeks.

Dry's contract renewed

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Coach F.A. Dry of Texas Christian has a new six-year contract for making "excellent progress" with TCU's staggering football program.

The Horned Frogs had a 2-9 record under Dry last year and have only won two games this season. Rumors had flown in recent weeks that Dry might either become the offensive coordinator for the Houston Oilers in the National Football League or head coach at his alma mater, Oklahoma State.

But Athletic Director Frank Windegger said Tuesday, "F.A. stabilized the football program. We felt excellent progress has been made in our football program in 1977 and 1978. This progress is attributed to F. A.'s leadership and his ability to make the years ahead prosperous for TCU football."

Dry said "I'm pleased with the confidence the University has shown in me and my staff. We intend to repay that confidence in the near future."
