Somoza expected to reject it

Nicaraguan opposition may accept referendum

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nicaragua's opposition alliance is expected to accept a proposed national referendum for President Anastasio Somoza's continued rule, provided the dictator leave the country during the vote, a source close to the alliance said. Somoza was sure to reject the proposal, said the source, who declined to be identified, but he added, "We cannot refuse the alternative presented by the mediators. We cannot afford to be the intransigent party in this situation."

A source close to the international mediating panel that developed the referendum plan said the Somoza government had no immediate reaction and he could not predict its response.

The plan, submitted by the United States, Guatemala and the Dominican Republic, reportedly calls for an international authority to observe the election that would determine whether Somoza remain in power.

The opposition informant said his alliance of political parties and labor unions will vote on the plan today.

Meanwhile, Nicaragua's relations with neighboring Costa Rica have been strained by a reported shootout Thursday between the Nicaraguan national guard and guerrillas of the leftist Sandinista National Liberation Front, who are fighting to overthrow Somoza.

A police spokesman in San Jose, Costa Rica said three guardsmen were killed, but the guard denied there was a clash.

President Rodrigo Carazo, of Costa Rica, had asked the Organization of American States Thursday to investigate the death of two Costa Rican border patrolmen in an alleged clash with guardsmen earlier this week.

Costa Rica broke relations with its northern neighbor over the incident Tuesday although traffic was allowed to resume across the border Thursday.

Sandinista guerrillas, who led the bloody fighting against Somoza for two weeks in September, are training in Costa Rica. They use San Jose as a headquarters with the tacit approval of the Costa Rican government.

Broadcasters urge government to abandon ad restrictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Association of Broadcasters urged government regulators today to abandon proposed restrictions on television advertising directed at children.

In a statement prepared for filing with the Federal Trade Commission, the broadcasters' organization argued that the restrictions under consideration "are founded upon conjecture and supposition, are arbitrary and ambiguous and are not amenable to substantiation or implementation."

The FTC voted last week to continue consideration of the proposed advertising ban. Hearings are to begin in January in San Francisco.

Among the proposals under consideration is one that would prohibit all commercials aimed at children under 8 years of age. The FTC staff has concluded those children are too young to understand that the purpose of advertising is to sell the product being shown.

An estimated $500 million to $600 million worth of television advertising is aimed at children annually.

Much of the FTC staff's expressed concern is with commercials for highly-sugared breakfast foods and many nutritionists and dentists back the suggested restrictions.

Besides an outright ban on advertising aimed at young children, the FTC is considering a ban on commercials for highly-sugared foods aimed at older children and a requirement that advertisers also pay for what broadcasters term "counter-commercial type" messages on health and nutrition.

The proposals are strongly opposed by the cereal and toy industries as well as broadcasters.

The broadcasters association statement maintains that parents, not television, exert the strongest influence over children and questions the FTC staff's conclusion that young children are unable to understand the selling purpose of advertisements.

Moreover, the NAB argued that it would be an unconstitutional prior restraint of speech to ban truthful advertising for lawfully sold products just because large numbers of children are in the audience.

The NAB said it has a membership of more than 4,600 radio stations and 560 television stations.

OSHA not mourning their loss

Picky safety rules flushed away

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's watchdog of work-place safety is flushing away a lot of picky rules that drove employers crazy — like how to design the proper toilet seat or how to choose a tool belt.

In all, 928 regulations of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration meet a timely death today.

But don't look for any mourners. OSHA is glad to see the rules go. They never saved any lives or warded off any injuries or illnesses, as far as agency officials could tell.

And the 5 million businesses affected by agency rules will be tickled pink. After all, they used to get fined by OSHA inspectors for failing to comply with the rules.

Some of the former rules were just plain silly, like the one that said, "Piping located inside or outside of buildings may be placed above or below ground." That covered just about every possibility.

Others went a little too far in the area of product design. For instance:

"Every water closet (toilet) shall have a hinged seat made of substantial material, having a non-absorbent finish. Seats installed or replaced...shall be of the open front type."

Then there were rules that pioneered protective remedies for health threats that don't exist.

"A covered receptacle shall be kept in all toilet rooms used by women" for the disposal of sanitary napkins, said one.

But Jerry Purswell, OSHA's safety standard director and chief rule scratcher, says the agency was unable to find a single case "in which a woman became ill because of exposure to a sanitary napkin."

Another batch of ex-rules set records for providing incomprehensible and unnecessary gobblegook.

The telephone company, for example, could only provide linemen:

"Belts that have pocket tabs that extend at least 1½ inches down and 3 inches back of the inside of the circle of each D-ring for riveting on plier or tool pockets...There may be no more than 4 tool loops on any body belt."

And was it really helpful for a company that uses wood ladders to know that:

"Black streaks in Western Hemlock shall not be considered an irregularity, except that chambers associated with black streaks when present in the part, shall be limited as specified for pitch and bark pockets?"

The rules accumulated over nearly four decades. But it took just short of a year for OSHA to review its books and comply with President Carter's order that regulatory agencies drop "nuisance" standards.

Fear not, though, that OSHA may un-regulate itself out of business. The defunct regulations eliminate only some 30 pages of fine-print rules. Another 280 pages remain alive, well and intact.

OSHA Administrator Eula Bingham says the agency now can "concentrate on reducing or eliminating the more serious and significant work-place safety and health standards."

Commissioners will canvass election ballots on Monday

County commissioners officially canvass ballots of the general election Monday at a special meeting at 9 o'clock a.m. in the Commissioners' Courtroom. Other business will also be conducted.

County Clerk Margaret Ray will present the final tabulation from the governor and U.S. Senate races along with results from other general election races to the commissioners' court for certification. From there the certified canvass will be mailed to Secretary of State Steve Oaks in Austin.

Since the recount the official results in the governor race between Bill Clements and John Hill are: 3,595 for Clements and 3,676 for Hill. U.S. Senatorial race results between Bob Krueger and John Tower are: Krueger with 2,999 and Tower with 3,226.

In other business the commissioners will discuss library renovation, office space for the Tax Appraiser, and the 1979 hospitalization contract with Paul Martin, Blue Cross-Blue Shield representative.

The commissioners will also have a conference with Bill Mims, county engineer, and at 10 a.m. a conference with the representative of Lanier. They will open bids on roller shelves for the offices of the County Clerk and County Treasurer and approve bond for Justice of the Peace Lulu Adams. A delinquent tax report, bills and correspondence will be under review.

The Newark lodge of the Fraternal Order of Police is waging a "Fear City" campaign to protest the December 31 layoff of 200 Newark officers. Kormash is one of the patrolmen who stands to lose his job.

Action / reaction: Precriptions puzzle

Q. Why can't a person get a legitimate prescription or refill filled in Big Spring Pharmacies unless the prescription is written by a Big Spring doctor? Why are prescriptions written by out of town or military doctors not good enough to be filled by Big Spring Pharmacies?

Recently I attempted in two pharmacies to have a simple RX for high blood pressure filled which was plainly marked for 2 refills and I had ample identification to prove for whom the prescription was written. I was refused in both cases because the prescription was not written by a Big Spring doctor. I did not desire to make a trip to San Angelo last week but it was less expensive to drive to San Angelo for a refill than to pay for an office call in Big Spring.

A. There have been some cases of forged prescriptions from out of town passed in Big Spring in recent months. In the case of an out-of-town prescription, if the customer would offer to pay the cost of a telephone call to the out of town physician, it would probably be accommodated. This might be cheaper than driving to whatever town is careless about accepting prescriptions.

Tops on TV: Dick and Jane fun

Usually when a movie travels quickly from the big screen to the little one in your living room it's a sure sign the flick is a turkey. But in the case of "Fun With Dick and Jane," which was released in 1977, the viewer is lucky. The film is an amusing look at a couple who, hit hard by economic problems, turn to crime. It stars able performers George Segal and Jane Fonda, and airs at 8 p.m. on ABC.

Briscoe indicates tax reductions

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe indicated today his lame-duck budget will recommend further tax reductions along lines proposed by Republican Gov.-elect Bill Clements.

Clements said Wednesday he will ask the Legislature for tax cuts totaling $1 billion over the 1980-81 biennium.

Briscoe talked with reporters after taking part in a partial canvass of returns of the Nov. 7 election.

No statewide returns were canvassed because of recounts going on in seven counties. This also caused the canvassing board, of which Briscoe is a member, to skip several district races involving the recount counties.

Bob Lemens, head of the secretary of state's elections division, said another session of the three-member canvassing board has tentatively been scheduled for Dec. 7.

"From the preliminary figures we have together on the budget, I hope we have a proposed tax cut in the range of $1 billion in the budget I recommend," Briscoe said.

He said he saw "a great deal of appeal" in a proposal to use one-fourth of the state sales tax revenue — or about $500 million a year — to replace property taxes now used to finance public schools.

Clements said he also is thinking about a simple, across-the-board reduction of the sales tax rate from 4 percent to 3 percent.

Briscoe said he prefers to use state sales tax revenues to enable cuts in local school taxes because the property tax is where Texans are suffering the most.

"The ad valorem tax itself is basically an unfair tax," Briscoe said. He disagreed with Clements proposal to impose a state tax on Texas natural gas sold in the interstate market.

Briscoe called it "a great idea" in principle, but said every time the Legislature tried it in the 1950s and early 1960s, it was declared to be an unconstitutional burden on interstate commerce.

The only way to tax gas sold across state lines, he said, would be to raise the production tax, which hits Texans and out-of-staters alike.

"I see no need in the near future for new taxes," he added.

Police beat Theft suspect arrested

Police arrested a Howard College student suspected of trying to cash a stolen money order.

The 24-year-old resident of the Howard College Men's Dormitory, was arrested, 4 p.m. Wednesday, at the Desert Sands Motel, 2900 West Highway 80. According to reports, he had attempted to pay his $52 motel bill with a money order for $150.

When the clerk noticed that the money order was not properly endorsed, he called police. Investigators suspect that the bonus order may be one of 11 stolen Nov. 11 from the Seven-Eleven Store, 300 11th.

The money orders could have been redeemed for up to $200 apiece, according to reports.

According to reports, Williams reported that a .32 caliber pistol and holster were stolen from his apartment, sometime between 4 and 6 p.m. Thursday. Then at 9:30 p.m. Thursday, the intruder apparently in retaliation for reporting the burglary, beat up Williams.

Police will investigate the incident further.

Burleson announces summer job exam

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Rep. Omar Burleson (D-Tex.) said today that the Civil Service Commission is now receiving applications for the 1979 competitive examination for summer employment with the United States government. The examination, which includes a written test, applies to most Federal summer jobs in clerical and administrative positions, as well as in engineering and the physical and biological sciences, GS-1 through GS-4.

The Congressman urges applicants to file early to receive maximum consideration for employment because opportunities for summer employment are extremely limited.

Tests are scheduled locally by CSC area offices. Applicants who file with an area office by Dec. 15 will be tested in January. Applications received after Dec. 15 and postmarked no later than Jan. 12, will be tested in February. Any applications postmarked after Jan. 12 will not be accepted.

Notification of when and where to report for the written test will be given about two weeks in advance.

Those candidates who took the test and qualified for summer employment in 1978 are not required to retake the test in 1979. The Civil Service Commission will communicate in writing with 1978 eligibles to determine their interest in applying for Group I jobs in 1979. Those eligibles who respond and indicate availability, will be issued a new notice of written test results to be used in applying for Group I jobs in 1979.

Space toys running out

SEATTLE (AP) — If you're planning to get your child a space toy for Christmas this year, you'd better buy it quickly. Seattle shoppers are finding.

Jane Durham, manager of a toy store here, says, "I've never seen anything like it." And one parent, who didn't want her name used for fear that her child may see it, says she called 15 stores trying to find some space-related toys, but none had any. "I'm on every waiting list in town," she said.

Poor examples for children

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Jotting one's signature on greeting cards, instead of writing a letter, sets a poor example for children, an official of the National Council of Teachers of English says.

Robert Hogan, executive director of the council, said because some adults don't read or write enough, children aren't learning basic communication skills. Hogan made the comments at this week's meeting of the council.

Chicago man wounded twice

CHICAGO (AP) — A Chicago man scheduled to testify against a reputed crime syndicate member has been wounded for the second time in a shotgun attack near his South Side home, police said.

J.B. Willis, 56, was hit in the shoulder and back as he emerged from his car Wednesday. Police said he was in satisfactory condition. Willis was wounded Feb. 7 when a gunman fired four slugs into his groin as he waited for a bus. Michael Antonelli, 30, a convicted auto thief and reputed crime syndicate assassin, was charged with aggravated battery. Willis was to be a witness against Antonelli in that case.

Caught scarf kills boy

MONROE, N.J. (AP) — Police say 7-year-old James C. Kelley Jr., died when his scarf caught in a wheel of his motorbike, breaking his neck.

Township policeman Leon Gennett said the youth was riding in a field near his home when a long neck scarf became entangled in the sprocket of the rear wheel of his dirt bike, a motorized bicycle to be ridden off roadways. The boy was pulled off the vehicle, apparently breaking his neck in the fall, the patrolman said. The Jamesburg First Aid Squad took Kelley to Princeton Hospital after he was found unconscious by his sister Christina, 10, Gennett said.

Evangelist purchases $10 million campus

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Evangelist Lester Roloff announced plans Thursday night to purchase the campus of Ambassador College in Big Sandy for $10.6 million.

Roloff said he will move the headquarters of Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises from near Corpus Christi to the Upshur County town of 1,200 in East Texas.

Also, Roloff said, girls from the Rebekah and Help-Hers homes near Corpus Christi will move.

The City of Refuge in Culloden, Ga., and the Anchor Home for Boys in Zapata will be sold, Roloff said. The boys will be taken to Corpus Christi to live in the Rebekah home.

Roloff announced the moves to a packed, cheering house Thursday night at his People's Church in Corpus Christi. Ambassador College was operated by the Worldwide Church of God, the former organization of Garner Ted Armstrong.

The church shut down the Big Sandy campus in 1977. The campus will be purchased from Herbert W. Armstrong through a friend of Roloff's in Virginia, Roloff said.

He said divine intervention will allow him to raise the money by Jan. 4.

"Now then, here's where we come to the place where the news media is going to have a hard time," Roloff said in front of television cameras as the congregation laughed.

"You will have a hard time reporting this. We have no money. There are no hidden accounts. If there are, they're really hidden."

The money will come from donations from church followers, he said, and relatives of children in his homes will be asked to contribute.

"Just like I praised Him for putting Bill Clements in the governor's chair in the mansion, I'll praise Him for getting us that money," Roloff said.

Roloff opposed Democratic gubernatorial candidate John Hill because of his efforts as attorney general to force Roloff to have his children's homes licensed by the state.

A Roloff spokesman, Bill Jeffers, said the move to Big Sandy has nothing to do with the licensing dispute. The Ambassador campus is about 2,000 acres, Roloff said, and includes a 16,000-seat auditorium, a 4,000-seat auditorium, two gymnasiums, tennis and handball courts, a golf course, a lake with homesites, classroom and housing space, broadcast studios and a cafeteria.

"Dear friends," Roloff said, "that's going to be the promised land."

He said he plans to keep the People's Church in operation and that it will have a fulltime minister, although he said he plans to preach there a great deal.

Moves into fourth year

Nazis' trial continues

LUBLIN, Poland (AP) — Gas chambers, crematory ovens and mounds of human ashes at Majdanek death camp are sickening reminders of the Holocaust. Some 600 miles to the West, the trial of 14 Nazi camp guards for World War II atrocities here drags into its fourth year.

"It's a phantom trial, a classic case of stalling," Professor Czeslaw Pilichowski, chief of Poland's war-crimes investigation commission, told

The Associated Press.

Pilichowski reflected the anger and frustration of a number of Polish officials over defense delaying tactics at the Majdanek trial in Duesseldorf, West Germany.

Former New York housewife Hermine Braunsteiner Ryan, extradited to West Germany to stand trial after surrendering her U.S. citizenship, is one of the five women and nine men charged with the murders.

The trial passes its third anniversary Sunday, and court officials say the verdict is at least another year away.

Polish officials say 360,000 men, women and children were gassed, shot, hanged, drowned, beaten or starved to death at Majdanek between 1941 and 1944. Victims came from 28 countries, but the majority were rounded up in the Nazi occupation of Poland.

Pilichowski said the German prosecutors have conducted an excellent case against the 14 defendants, who face maximum sentences of life imprisonment.

"But," he said, "the defense lawyers have delayed the trial with a variety of time-consuming protest motions. The case is certain to drag on into 1980."

The controversial West German statute of limitations, which would expire Dec. 31, 1979, for war crimes unless it's extended, has no effect on the Duesseldorf trial. It applies to German war-crime suspects not under investigation or indictment by the deadline.

Pilichowski was bitterly critical of the defense lawyers' tactics of badgering Polish witnesses who survived Majdanek.

Federal prosecutors not talking

HOUSTON (AP) — Federal prosecutors were not talking today following an ABC News report that the government plans to indict several oil companies allegedly involved in an oil pricing scheme.

An ABC report Thursday named the Uni Oil Co. as a target of the investigation. The network claimed American consumers were milked out of millions of dollars.

Uni officials were not available for comment today due to the extended Thanksgiving holiday.

ABC reported unidentified sources in the U.S. attorney's office in Houston said the companies since 1974 had classified "old oil" as "new oil" to get the higher price for it.

"Old oil" refers to the amount a well produced in 1972. To encourage oil production about the 1973 Arab oil embargo, the federal government set a higher price for oil produced above this amount.

Stars in Christmas special

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When stars have a TV show afoot, they tend to discuss it at great, boring length. I now admit to great admiration for Loretta Lynn. She goes about these things quite uniquely.

She'll appear Dec. 7 in a CBS special, "A Country Christmas." But in a recent interview, the tiny, black-haired country music queen didn't discuss it at great, boring length. Or at all, in fact.

Nope. She just poured a cup of coffee, sat cross-legged on the bed at her hotel room here and, in an hour of amiable talk, none of it hard-sell as is the Hollywood custom, managed to:

—Proudly note that one of her six kids, a 22-year-old former Marine with the stage name Ernest Rey, has followed her into the singing trade and works the progressive-country side of Nashville.

—Speak briefly of a movie being made about her life, "Coal Miner's Daughter," the script of which is by Tom Rickman, author of Burt Reynolds' Nashville classic, "W.W. and the Dixie Dancekings."

—Say she digs such non-country singers as Barry Manilow, Lou Rawls and the late Billie Holiday (and credit Ray Charles for sparking country music's now-wide acceptance with his soul version of "I Can't Stop Loving You" in the early 1960s).

—Emphasize, despite the liberated themes of her 1975 hit, "The Pill," and her new "We've Come a Long Way, Baby," she's not a rural Gloria Steinem, except in wanting fair treatment for women.

Loretta Lynn not boring

"I'm not a women's liber," said Miss Lynn, now rich but born of a poor, hard-working family in the coal town of Butcher Hollow, Ky. "But I am for the woman. And maybe that's what I sing about..."

"I think the man should be the head of the house. But I think he should talk it over with the woman, whatever goes on."

Miss Lynn, wed at age 14 to a Butcher Hollow boy, Doolittle Lynn, and still with him, was asked if she's ever been asked to campaign for the Equal Rights Amendment. She said yes.

She was asked to cut some radio spots for ERA, but declined for the same reason she doesn't do as many Hollywood stars did this fall — campaign for political stars seeking work.

"Music and politics don't really mix gell," she said.

And it's not because she dislikes politicians. She's a fan of President Jimmy Carter from way back, she noted.

"But when it comes to people — well. For example, I feel that with Jimmy there are just as many who hate him as like him," she said.

"And you can't mix music with politics, because the ones that didn't like Jimmy, they'd dislike me because I was politticking."

For some Colorado citizens Almost a turkey of a day

It wasn't a turkey of a day for most Americans. November's fourth Thursday was traditional: parades, football games and feasts of turkey and all the trimmings.

However, folks in Eads, Colo., almost went without, and the dishes are still stacking up there.

An ice storm Monday knocked out power lines and the town of 900 residents had no electricity until just before midnight Wednesday. However, the water supply was still out today.

In Plymouth, Mass., site of the first Thanksgiving, nearly 2,000 spectators watched 51 townfolk dressed as Pilgrims march from Plymouth Rock to a nearby church.

The marchers, ushered through the town by a drummer, represented the survivors of the Pilgrims' first winter in the New World.

About 700 people took part in an ecumenical worship service and about 1,000 more showed up for a traditional Thanksgiving dinner sponsored by the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce.

American military families in West Germany, hit hard with the fall of the dollar, got Thanksgiving help from the U.S. government.

The military allowed dependents to eat in mess halls where a full course meal for civilians costs about $2. There are 180,000 American soldiers stationed in the country.

Other military families feasted on U.S. turkeys bought from government-subsidized commissaries.

Some German children got a taste of a traditional American Thanksgiving dinner at Weierhof, an Army base just west of Worms.

American first graders, clad as Pilgrims, invited German first graders from nearby Bolanden elementary school to join them at their feast clad as Indians.

Kathy Vollbrecht of Hicksville, N.Y., a first-grade teacher and organizer of the dinner, was quoted as saying, "We, as Americans, are pilgrims in this land, and they (the Germans) are the Indians, so we invited them to their first Thanksgiving dinner."

President Carter and family gathered at Camp David, Md. More than two dozen relatives were invited, including Carter's mother, Lillian Carter, and Rosalynn Carter's mother, Allie Smith.

The weatherman gave the annual Macy's parade a cold reception as it snaked through the streets of New York City.

But the holiday treat, featuring floats and balloons of a world of fantasy, warmed the hearts of tens of thousands who turned out undaunted by the chilly autumn weather.

It ended with a float carrying Santa Claus, who sat in a giant sleigh fashioned after the traditional Christmas goose and pulled by a team of larger-than-life reindeer.

Bolivian army announces seize of its government

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The Bolivian army announced at dawn today it has seized control of this Latin American nation in an apparently bloodless coup that ended the four-month-old government of Gen. Juan Pereda.

"We take over command of the country temporarily with the purpose of creating the Bolivia that was dreamt by generations of Bolivians," an army communique said. It was delivered to the offices of news organizations by armed men in civilian clothes.

The communique, signed by army commander Gen. David Padilla Arancibia, promised to hold national elections and transfer power to a civilian government by August of next year.

It was Pereda's refusal to hold elections before 1980, that apparently set the stage for the coup, the fifth in this central American nation in the last 14 years.

"It seems they (the army) have control of the situation," said Walter Rios Gamba, an Interior Ministry undersecretary. He spoke to a reporter as he left his office after the army surrounded the ministry.

The streets around the presidential palace were quiet and except for troops ringing the Interior Ministry there were no outward signs of the military takeover.

A spokesman at the palace told the Associated Press that Pereda resigned before 4 a.m. (EST). Unconfirmed reports said the former air force commander had flown in an air force plane to Santa Cruz, his personal power base in eastern Bolivia.

American Airlines make move to Texas

NEW YORK (AP) — American Airlines chief Albert V. Casey says he will move even more jobs, personnel and business from New York City if threats of boycotts against the carrier continue because of American's plan to relocate its headquarters in Texas.

"We spend $400 million in New York," Casey claimed in an interview published in today's editions of the Daily News. "There are other jobs we can move out. We have a lot of flexibility."

The executive said he was angry after Warner Communications said it would cancel its annual $1 million worth of travel business with the airline and after unions representing police officers, firefighters and state civil service workers called for a boycott of American.

The planned boycotts are to protest the proposed move of American's headquarters and 900 jobs from New York City to the Dallas-Fort Worth area. Some 10,000 jobs will remain in New York City.

Casey, an original member of the city's Emergency Financial Control Board which helped pulled the city from the brink of fiscal ruin, said he was "shocked" by the Warner boycott. "But I'm still going to show Warner Brothers (a subsidiary of Warner Communications) films on my planes," he said.

Casey said the relocation was based on economic and productivity benefits to the airline. The carrier's headquarters also will be more centrally located he said.

The airline already has facilities at the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport and its most profitable runs are from New York to Los Angeles, Chicago and San Juan.

A Daily News survey indicated the headquarters relocation stemmed from what it called a "Sun Belt power play" and not economic considerations. A coalition of banking and political interests out-muscled New York counterparts after a six-month campaign for the relocation, according to the survey.

The campaign included a promise of Washington power, and pressure from American Airlines executives and extensive letter-writing by Texas businessmen in favor of the move, according to the newspaper.

In the battle, the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport Commission lured the airline with a multimillion dollar package.

Mrs. Edgerly says she still feels more at home in a T-shirt and blue work pants than she does in a dress. Hunting and fishing are her passions, and she spends part of each fall hauling three cords of wood home to feed the stove, an oil drum in a previous life.

Just past the woodpile stands her 20-year-old house, a snug, cement-block building.

The fog burned away during the mid-morning hours, leaving most of the state with a low cloud cover and continued mild temperatures. Highs

Pennsylvania House again is divided

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The Pennsylvania House is again a house divided because of the death of a young Democratic representative, one day after his party gained the upper hand through an election recount.

Frank Meluskey, 26, of Bethlehem died Wednesday of a heart attack while vacationing in Florida, the Dade County Medical Examiner's Office said.

Chief Deputy Medical Examiner Ronald Wright said Meluskey developed a cough and sore throat after a grueling campaign for a second-term in the Nov. 8 election. He was suffering from viral pneumonia which probably triggered the heart attack, Wright said.

"I think the stress of the campaign certainly was a factor in his death," Wright said.

Meluskey's death again leaves the state House divided 101-101 with neither Democrats nor Republicans in control.

Democrats tentatively gained a 102-101 majority Tuesday when a vote recount gave them victory in a disputed election in Gettysburg.

Hydraulic jack is transportation

WOODBURY, Vt. (AP) — In a small shed tucked away in the northern Vermont hills, a 70-year-old great-grandmother scoots across the floor on a hydraulic auto jack.

Florence Edgerly, former cook and hunting guide, says she's finally found her niche.

"Some men have said, 'How do you do it? How do you fix cars?' I tell 'em to come over here and find out," she says.

Mrs. Edgerly spends her days as a mechanic and auto body worker, knee deep in tools and splattered with paint. "Generally my hair's green. Sometimes it's red, and now and then, it's purple," she says, primly patting her white curls.

But overhauling engines is not new to Mrs. Edgerly, who spent much of her life married to an auto mechanic. When her husband died, she decided it was time to go back to work.

"I do the mechanics and body work and hitch 'em together so's they look like new — good enough to pass inspection, anyway," she says.

Her advertising is a hand-lettered sign displayed at the grocery store in nearby Hardwick. At the top is the crayoned likeness of a rust-

Waive of extradition to Texas is declined

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A man and two women from Oklahoma City, accused in the robbery-kidnaping of the wife and stepdaughter of a Dallas oilman, have declined to waive extradition to Texas.

A hearing is scheduled to approve their return to Dallas to face charges in the Nov. 12 robbery at the home of Michael C. Clark, whose family once lived in Oklahoma City.

Clark returned from a hunting trip to find his wife, Lavetta, and her 16-year-old daughter, Denise, bound with tape and lying unconscious in the living room of the Clark home in Highland Park.

Aggravated robbery charges were filed in Dallas against Robert Cecil Goddard, 30; Shirley Mae Fennel, 26; and Debarah Ann Maupin, 27. Bond of $100,000 each was set after Highland Park detectives traveled to Oklahoma City to verify information linking the three to the robbery.

Goddard had been arrested in Oklahoma City in connection with a robbery there, and Oklahoma City police learned of the Highland Park robbery from informants who had heard about two women in the Dallas area being drugged, Dallas authorities said.

Mrs. Clark and her daughter picked the two Oklahoma City women from a lineup earlier this week in Oklahoma City. Police said Goddard was not put in a lineup, since the man involved in the Dallas robbery kept his face concealed from Mrs. Clark and her daughter.

Police said Mrs. Clark and her daughter identified several items, including weapons, recovered after the trio's arrest in Oklahoma City, as having been taken from their home.

On Nov. 12, Mrs. Clark was taken unconscious to a hospital, where she came to and told detectives her daughter admitted two women into the Clark home after they said their car had broken down. When Mrs. Clark told the women she didn't see a car, one of them pulled a gun from her jeans and threatened her and her daughter with it, Mrs. Clark told police.

Mrs. Clark said she and her daughter were forced to the floor and then handcuffed until a roll of tape was later found in the house.

Charitable car dealers target of FTC

The Federal Trade Commission usually takes a skeptical view of the businesses it regulates.

But used car dealers are an exception. The FTC is now proposing a rule based on the assumption that the dealers are a generous and charitable group of fellows who are going to give the consumer something for nothing.

That is the essence of the proposed rule requiring sellers to inspect second hand cars and certify in writing various parts of the car are either "OK" or "Not OK."

NO ONE CAN DENY such a plan.

honestly carried out and rigidly enforced, would have some advantages. It would come close to giving the buyer of an ancient junker a new car guarantee on all the parts and systems the dealer is willing to certify as "OK."

The trouble is the FTC assumes that Generous Joe, your friendly dealer, is going to pick up the tab for this wonderful service himself just because he is a public-spirited citizen and wants to help protect buyers from acquiring lemons.

In fairness, the dealers have been honest enough to tell the FTC and the public in advance they have no intention of going into charity and that they will have to recover the cost of the program from their customers. An official of Independent Auto Dealers Association estimates the regulation will increase the price of the average used car $200.

Anyone who has ever had eighth grade economics already understands the simple fact that extra costs mean higher prices.

BUYING A USED CAR can be chancy. Old cars don't run as well or reliably as new cars. But that is precisely why they are cheap. That is why a used car can be a real bargain for the sensible, careful shopper who is willing to inspect a vehicle carefully and to take a little bit of a chance. Remove that risk and the price must go up.

Here is another case in which government regulators are attempting to solve a problem without asking how much it costs or whether the solution is worth money.

Ghost of Thanksgiving

Around the rim

James Werrell

Everybody talks about the wonderful, heart and hearth warming experience that is Thanksgiving.

But since I'm stuck with this spot on the day after Turkey Day, I think I'll play T-Day Scrooge (picture a dried-up old buzzard in a Pilgrim's outfit walking around dispensing Roloids to the Indians). My big line is "Bah-turkey sandwich."

In the original, old Scrooge got mixed up with all those ghosts, but I only need one: the ghost of yesterday.

MY GHOST COMES into your bedroom at about four in the morning. Instead of chains, he is dripping with cornbread dressing and cranberry sauce.

"Ah, my friend, perhaps I am merely an undigested third helping of pumpkin pie, or that glass of wine you lost count of."

"No, no, I can't take it," you say as he holds a steaming drumstick under your nose.

Then, before you can say "candied yam," he has whisked you up and out of your bed (which you were about to get up out of anyway on a mad dash to the medicine cabinet) and into a nightmare landscape.

THERE BEFORE your eyes are a sea of dirty dishes and pots and pans. The spectre points to a puddle of giblet gravy on the kitchen floor and smiles knowingly while you gag at the sight of a half-finished turkey-bacon-lettuce-mayonnaise-cranberry Swiss-pickle-Russian dressing-and-Sauce Cheese sandwich lying on the counter.

"Please, please, I've had enough!" you whimper.

"There's more!" he replies mercilessly. He takes you by the hand, and guides you to the front of the television set, still warm from the Cowboy-Redskin game, and the seven beer cans carefully staked into a pyramid on the floor. And there among the rubble is, of all things, an empty bowl of French onion-guacamole dip (You had your big dinner, but no, that wasn't enough! You had room for just a little snack before you hit the sack!).

YOUR MIND reels as you remember pints of corn pudding, mountains of mashed potatoes, helping after helping of green beans, buckets-full of Jello salad (There's always room for Jello, ho-ho-ho), enough buttered rolls to choke a horse, and your 99th helping of the old gobbler.

You are just about to do a creditable imitation of Linda Blair in "The Exorcist" when, poof, the ghost vanishes. But this ghost, unlike the one in "A Christmas Carol," is a real pain in the neck.

ALL THE DIRTY dishes and leftovers are still there, and instead of it still being Thanksgiving Day, it is 7:30 in the morning, and time to get up for work.

"What is this? The Ghost of Thanksgiving Future I see? You look even worse than the last ghost," you say as another haggard creature walks into the room.

"No, I'm your wife, and my whole body is killing me. Here, take this," she says, handing you a glass of something fizzy.

Saudis' Signal sighted

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — A "near panic" on Wall Street the week of Oct. 23, possibly instigated by Saudi Arabia as a move to force the U.S. to defend the dollar, was the real explanation for President Carter's belated dollar-saving actions on Nov. 1.

The panic conditions were created when up to several billion dollars' worth of Arab investments in what are called certificates of deposit (CD's) came due and the cash was demanded by the Arabs — most of it from one bank, Morgan Guaranty of New York City and its European branches.

THE EFFECT of the Arab decision to liquidate this huge investment — instead of rolling it over by buying new CD's was electrifying and potentially devastating. It forced Morgan Guaranty to scour other New York banks for cash. Worse, it put the focus on the long-dreaded specter of the Arabs liquidating tens of billions of their holdings and converting the dollar receipts into stronger foreign currencies such as the German mark or the Swiss franc.

Analysts have differing interpretations of the true reason for this unexpected, crisis-making liquidation. Some believe that the Saudis, whose immense dollar resources from the sale of Mideast oil make them bankers of the world, were signalling President Carter: shore up the dollar fast! A falling dollar makes it far more difficult for the Saudis to resist pressure from other oil-producing states for a steep increase in oil prices later this year.

Other analysts say the Saudis were caught short of cash and converted the CD's because they had to. Whatever the true explanation, the crisis created in the money markets, described by one insider as "near panic," forced Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal into action. The result was President Carter's defense-of-the-dollar actions announced Nov. 1.

A BATTLE between Republicans in the new Senate for the key post of chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee now seems unavoidable, with the result certain to affect the party's ideological thrust in the years ahead.

Moderate-liberal Republicans supporting Sen. John Heinz of Pennsylvania see dark portents for the party if Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah, one of the most outspoken conservatives in the Senate, gets control of the campaign committee. With some 6 to 10 million dollars likely to be raised for the campaign kitty leading up to the 1980 election, anti-Hatch forces say privately that a Hatch-run campaign committee would ruthlessly use that money in favor of conservative candidates.

One anti-Hatch Republican told us privately that Hatch is planning a "national conservative crusade" backed by the formidable assets of the campaign committee, including its large staff. Traditionally, the campaign committee chairman runs the staff and controls contributions with a high degree of independence.

THE MIRROR image of that complaint was directed at Sen. Bob Packwood during his tenure as campaign committee chairman the past two years. Conservative claim that Packwood shored up the cause of New Hampshire's Gordon Humphrey. In the end, victory went to Humphrey, one of the most conservative Republican nominees in the nation.

Only 10 Republican senators will be up for reelection in 1980, meaning that Heinz or Hatch as committee chairman will have larger resources to spend on capturing Democratic seats than this year.

With 17 Republicans in the new Senate clearly conservative and about 14 in the liberal-moderate range, the balance of power in the Heinz-Hatch battle will lie with about 10-middle-roads.

Chromosome defect may prompt abortions

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When we were married two years ago, my husband was told he had a low sperm count. I have been pregnant twice since and each time I aborted at about two months. The doctor advises us to try again and if I abort again to have my husband checked. I am wondering if his low sperm count has anything to do with my inability to carry a child. I am 22 and so is he. — A.H.

Your husband's sperm count has nothing whatever to do with whether you can carry a baby full term. It takes only a single sperm cell (of millions) to impregnate an egg (ovum) and your husband has been able to accomplish this twice. This is pretty good evidence that his sperm count is not all that low.

Now, what your doctor may be referring to is a chromosome study. These are the structures present in all body cells that carry genetic information. A chromosome defect might be responsible for a hereditary problem that creates a defective fetus. Spontaneous abortion (miscarriage) is often nature's way of preventing the birth of an imperfect baby. Either parent might be at fault.

It is not unusual for a young woman to have difficulty carrying to full term in her first or second pregnancy. If she miscarries three or more times in succession she would be considered an "habitual aborter" and a chromosome study of both parents might be in order.

You need further discussion with your doctor to clarify matters.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor advised me to avoid salt to help relieve my premenstrual tension. About the same time we went on vacation, so I vowed to take a vacation from salt at the same time. I was a heavy user. During those two weeks my acne cleared up like magic. I had it for about 10 years. I was using iodized salt. Could you mention other sources of iodine? — Mrs. V.L.

The richest source is all forms of seafood. You can buy non-iodized salt for your table and cooking use. Since soil is usually poor in it, fruits and vegetables are low in iodine. Avoiding iodine foods will not work the "magic" on others it did on you, but for those with a severe acne condition it is well worth a test. Generally speaking diet is not considered of great importance in acne.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible for an older woman who is not sexually active to pick up trichomonas infection other than by sexual intercourse? I know in my case the answer must be yes. But for obvious reasons I need it confirmed by someone who knows. Thanks. — Mrs. E.Y.

The trichomonas organism is a parasite and apparently a fairly hardy one. It has been known to survive in places other than the vaginal tract, in toilet water, for example. Rare, but possible. It has also been known to survive in warm moist spots, as in damp towels. There are sufficient remote possibilities so that you can assure those you need to assure that you did not necessarily contract the organism by sexual contact.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Whenever I overindulge in alcohol the first few hours of sleep are sound, but invariably I wake up at 2 or 3 a.m. unable to go back to sleep. I am not nauseous, just wide awake and usually very hungry. My husband never has this and he drinks far more and much more often than I do. — S.M.

Alcohol is a notorious dropper of blood sugar. Your wakefulness and hunger are both signs of a low sugar level. It may take a few hours to appear after drinking. Meanwhile the sleep-inducing qualities of the alcohol are being felt. Since your husband drinks more than you do, that effect, would last longer than yours. A protein snack after a night of merry-making might help.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been divorced for 12 years and have not had sexual intercourse since then. Is it still necessary to have a Pap test every year? I am 52 years old. — K.C.S.

Apparently you have some strange ideas of what a Pap test is all about. Its purpose is chiefly to detect abnormal cells in the cervix of the uterus. Such cells may be detected in any woman, married or unmarried, sexually active or not.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you explain in simple terms just what temporal arteritis is? — Mrs. P.M.

Arteritis means inflammation of an artery. The temporal artery is the one serving the temple area of the head. The inflamed vessel is thick and very tender to the touch and headaches usually accompany the condition. It is more common in the elderly.

Besides the obvious symptoms

(pain, headache) blood sedimentation tests will confirm it. Corticosteroid drugs relieve pain, and if diagnosed early enough they can save eyesight.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Two, maybe three times a year I get what I call a "face ache." I am puzzled as to what this pain could be from. Sinus has crossed my mind, but would that be more in the nose area? My pain is not near the nose, but nearer the temple and ears. It makes me very tired. It affects only one side of the face at a time and it seems tender to the touch. Could it be a tumor? I am 37. — Mrs. L.R.

I doubt this is caused by the sinuses. Sinus pain usually occurs in the mid-cheek area or in the forehead above the eyes. And you would likely be having nasal problems along with it.

Since the pain is one-sided, one would suspect a neuralgia (nerve pain), possibly caused by malocclusion of the teeth (improper bite). It would be well to have your dentist check on this. I might also suggest the possibility of tic douloureux, also called trigeminal neuralgia, especially with the start-and-stop features of the pain. On the basis of your information, I would question both the sinus and tumor theories. A tumor would tend to make the pain continuous.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet, explaining what sinus trouble really is and what can be done about it. For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Low blood sugar is often the cause of faintness, headaches, visual and emotional disturbances. To learn how it can be identified and brought under control, write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of "Help for Hypoglycemia," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have been through three marriages, and nothing ever seems to work. Can God somehow help me? — P.R.L.

DEAR P.R.L.: Yes, I believe He can, and I also believe He wants to help you. That does not mean everything will be easy for you, but God loves you more than you can ever imagine, and He wants to help you.

I do not know your whole story or why your marriages have not worked. But I do know that God created you for a purpose, and that purpose was for you to live for God. However, all of your life you have neglected God, and instead you have lived for yourself. When you live for yourself instead of God, it means you neglect the guidelines and rules He has given us, and you pay the consequences of your neglect. If you got married, for example, because you were hoping to get security or happiness out of marriage, you probably found that these did not come to you. These are by-products of love, and love — in its truest sense — means giving, not just trying to get something.

The first, most important, step in rebuilding your life is to turn it over to Jesus Christ. You have lived for yourself too long — now live for God. Repent of your sins, and accept Christ as your Lord and Savior. Then begin to study the Bible, God's Word. Christ wants to come into your life and take away the selfishness and the sin that is there. You also need to become involved in a church where Christ is preached. You may be surprised to find in it some people who have had backgrounds similar to yours, and yet who have been changed by Christ. They can help you in very practical ways.

Dear Editor:

Our laws are not generally known; they are kept secret by the small group of nobles who rules us — Frank Kafka, Parables and Paradoxes

You also have a freedom which won't last very much longer, to act in an unrestrained way against the status quo — Jimmy Carter — addressing high school students, summer of 1977.

The presidency of the United States and the key cabinet departments of the federal government have been taken over by a private organization dedicated to the subordination of the domestic interests of the United States to the international interests of the multinational banks and corporations.

This seizure of public power by private interests is the most serious political scandal in American history. Watergate was someone named Martinez breaking into the office of the Democratic National Committee in the dead of night. Cartergate is David Rockefeller breaking into the Oval Office in broad daylight.

The Trilateral Commission was organized in 1973 by David Rockefeller, chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank, and by his chief foreign-policy adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski, then director of Columbia University's Research Institute on Communist Affairs. Brzezinski's idea was to weld the United States, West Germany, and Japan — the world's industrial giants, which had fought each other for control for cheap labor and open markets twice in this century — into an alliance that would rule the world and exploit their own citizens. America would finally put an end to its reviling with the Axis powers of World War I and World War II. It would join them to create a new, three-sided "axis" that would subdue the rest of the world, not militarily, but economically.

The key to Rockefeller and Brzezinski's plan was to gain control of the executive branch of the U.S. government. The first step was the selection, in 1973, of an ambitious, capable presidential candidate, with no political base of his own, to be a founding member of the Trilateral Commission. In October 1973 Brzezinski said, "The Democratic candidate will have to emphasize work, the family, religion, and, increasingly, patriotism if he has any desire to be elected."

The second step was to get this candidate elected — with the help of 200 Trilateral commissioners drawn from the industrial and financial elite of Europe, Japan, and the United States, including the heads of CBS, Time Inc., and the Chicago Sun-Times and directors of the New York Times, the Wall Street Journal, and the Los Angeles Times.

The third step was for the new president to appoint Trilateral Commission members to all the policymaking roles in the departments of State, Defense, and Treasury — and to name Brzezinski himself to replace Henry Kissinger as head of the National Security Council.

Their success was stunning. Carter did get elected, and as a result, nineteen members of Carter's Cabinet were placed in the top key positions of our government, and were all members of the Trilateral Commission.

The Trilateral Commission report "THE CRISIS OF DEMOCRACY," issued in 1975, proposed action "to restore a more equitable relationship between governmental authority and popular control." Its most ominous recommendations were such limitations on freedom of the press as "prior restraint" of what newspapers may publish in unspecified "unusual circumstances." The assurance "to the government of the right and the ability to withhold information at the source," and a "moving promptly to reinstate the law of libel as a necessary and appropriate check upon the abuses of power by the press." The Carter Administration finally got a bill passed that makes it illegal or a crime to publish government information that had not been made available officially to the press. The way these bills read with the use of wording, it made it a crime to use WORDS. With this one bill, our "FREEDOM OF PRESS" is taken away from the American people. The government can hide facts, very important facts, that the American people need to know. By controlling the press, the government can brainwash the people with their propaganda, and more or less make the people believe what they want us to. Freedom of press, is the one thing that the Trilateral Commission fears more than anything else. But evidently our top news media people, who are not members of the Trilateral Commission, don't care enough about our country, or the lives of every American, to let the truth be known. Don't fool yourselves one bit either, because these top news-media people know the truth.

Here is one for instance of our controlled press: There is very strong evidence that today, that working in the White House, there is a communist spy. It is believed that this spy is working hand in hand with President Carter and leaking our most top secrets to the Soviets. One such top secret, is the "death ray gun" and the manual concerning all of its fine details has landed in the hands of the Soviets, and has put us even further behind in our strategic war weapons. The Washington Post ran a few short paragraphs about this, but didn't reveal enough that anyone could learn from it. Since the article was printed it has been hushed-up and nothing more said. The "death ray gun" is the most advanced, sophisticated weapon ever devised in the history of the world. The United States was the only country that had the technology and know-how to develop this weapon, and yet, Carter and his administration would not let it be permitted to build this weapon. Now the Soviets have this weapon constructed and ready for use. This is why the big scramble took place in Washington a few days ago, to appropriate the money for our defense, over the next five years, to construct this powerful weapon. What do we do in the mean-time, since the Soviets already have this weapon?

If most of you will remember, the COMMUNISTS have told us they will take us without firing a shot. That's exactly what is happening to us today and is being carried out by the Trilateral Commission. Control of Energy, Economics and Food; and finally complete and total control of PEOPLE. The American people are economic SLAVES to our government, but worse yet, when they get their way, we will be slaves to these people in the truest sense of the word, SLAVERY.

No longer can we sit back and take for granted all of the Freedoms we have enjoyed for so many years. If we are going to turn our country around and preserve the Freedoms we have been used to, the time to do something is NOW.

Questions... Answers!

Why giraffes, with their towering necks and peculiar patterns? Why zebras, striped in black and white? Why cardinals, scarlet against the winter snow?

For that matter, why man? Why can only man speak? Yet so often he fails to understand those around him. And only man can think, but the riddles of life elude him.

Questions. The world is full of questions, and none are so provocative as those that concern the "whys" of how it all began. Where can you find some of the answers? Try the Church.

Mrs. J.K. Somerville, general chairman, announced that the Regional and Spring Meeting of the Texas Garden Clubs Inc. will take place Apr. 1-3, 1979. The Council of Garden Clubs will host both meetings, and all Golden Gardeners will be recognized in a large scrap WESTERN LOOK — The place isn't Texas; it's a disco in New York, but the look is strictly Western for smart girls staking their claim to free-wheeling fashion. Designed by Glentex and available everywhere, the Disco-Western gear consists of a "satin leather" cummerbund and partnered with a girl-of-the-golden-West hat and rhinestone cowgirl bandanna at the neck.

The bad isn't in the music

By Robert Wallace Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I enjoy rock music very much but I read in a Christian magazine that rock music's origin comes from Africa; that the African natives consult evil spirits to get a beat. We then put words to the beat so that listening to rock is evil. Now whenever I hear rock music or go to a dance I feel that I am doing something wrong. Am I? — Mary, Dubuque, Iowa
 Mary: Rock music is not evil, but some of the lyrics are crude and suggestive. The adjectives crude and suggestive also apply to some of the dances.

Dr. Wallace: I'm taking a home management class in high school and at present, we are discussing deceit in television advertising. Our teacher asked us to watch television and find a deceitful ad.

I think I've found one but would like your opinion. If you agree with me, I'll use it as an example.

One company, that sells travelers' checks, advises the customer to hold on to their last traveler's check so they can have some "emergency" money. Wouldn't this practice help the company by using the customer's money interest free? — Roberts, Oklahoma City

Roberta: You are a very observant young lady. If 100,000 people held back a $20 express check for a year, the express company would have $2 million on which it could earn about $200,000 in interest.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 17-year-old male with a big problem. My parents haven't spoken to me much at all lately because they have found out that I have a male lover.

Although I don't want to leave my guy, I'm seriously thinking of leaving home. Any suggestions? Please print this — No Name, Fresno, Calif.

No Name: 1. Stay at home. 2. Leave your guy. Teens should not have "lovers," male or female. 3. Seek professional family counseling with your parents.

DRESSING DOWN — Actress Linda Purl has words with a drill instructor, recently, while filming the CBS-TV movie "Women at West Point." The Greenwich, Conn., actress plays one of the first 64 women admitted to the U.S. Military Academy in 1975. The movie was shot on location at the Point.

Family income never better

It may be hard for the average struggling housewife to believe, but on the average she has more money to spend than ever before.

The American Council of Life Insurance came to that conclusion after reviewing government and private surveys of changes in households and families since 1950.

The key finding to this: the average American family has experienced a 90 per cent jump in real family income (after inflation) over the past 26 years.

The Council's latest study of the American family also revealed that 18 per cent of the population is in the "higher income" bracket, as compared to 3 per cent 21 years ago.

Also, the median income of families almost doubled from 1950 to 1976 with the growing participation of wives in the labor force a major factor.

Short Shrift For Tall Girl

DEAR ABBY: For years I have suffered from an inferiority complex because of my height. It has ruined my whole life. I am a woman, 5 feet 9. I love to dance, but I'm taller than the average man and I feel like a fool when a man looks up at me.

I am uncomfortable unless I wear flats. I won't even walk to the coffee machine at work because I feel so conspicuous. I became so desperate I even asked my doctor if he knew of some kind of operation to shorten the bones in my legs, but he said no one has ever attempted such an operation. I told him I would be more than willing to be the first.

Abby, you can't imagine what a miserable feeling it is to walk into a room and pray to God that there is someone there taller than you are. Would you believe that I have even considered taking my life? I'm sure there are other girls who feel the same way.

Any advice you can give me will be appreciated. Don't tell me to see a psychiatrist because that is where my problem has already landed me.

TALL IN CANADA

DEAR TALL: Since you've already wisely consulted a psychiatrist, you must surely know that it's your attitude — not your attitude that needs changing.

You are much too self-centered in assuming all eyes are constantly focused on you. Not true!

Instead of those negative feelings you have about your height, stand tall, throw your shoulders back, chin up, and come on proud, confident and alive! If you have two good arms, legs, eyes, a voice and a mind, thank God in your prayers!

Get rid of those flats (they make you shuffle); wear heels. It will improve your figure. Practice walking with grace and dignity. You get no sympathy from here, dear. Now get going, and remember those prayers of gratitude.

DEAR ABBY: This is in reference to the woman from Joliet, Ill. about obscene phone calls. I also was bothered by a man who called periodically for this reason. It made me very nervous and upset so I contacted the police, and you wouldn't believe their suggestion.

They told me to make a date with the caller, let them know where he was meeting me, and they would be there to arrest him. I refused to endanger my life this way.

Then by chance I mentioned my problem to the minister's wife who gave me the best tip of all — one she had used. She said, "The next time he calls, say hello as usual, listen for a moment, then while he's still talking, say, 'Are you there, operator? This is the call I asked you to trace ... he's on the phone now!'"

I did as she suggested, and the caller got rattled and hung up. And that's the last obscene phone call I ever received.

When you tire of turkey...

By the end of this holiday season you may think you could gobble after eating roast turkey, turkey sandwiches, turkey a la king, etc. Dairy Council, Inc. home economists know that turkey loses its glamour after you've had it a few times.

Here's a leftover recipe that combines it into something a little more sensational and hearty.

In Turkey Loaf, flavorful bouillon cubes are combined with dairy rich butter and milk and seasoned with traditional herbs and spices. Celery provides the crunch, and chopped onion is the flavor flirt. Eggs and crumbs hold it all together.

Select a vegetable and dessert to be baked in the same oven with the Turkey Loaf to save time and energy.

In keeping with the holiday mood, top your finished dish with hot tart Cranberry Sauce. Or, heat up some of those leftover cranberries. This sauce recipe adds a festive touch to make your creation look as good as it tastes. Garnish with parsley, and serve piping hot. Your family will hardly guess they're eating leftovers.

- TURKEY LOAF (6 servings)
 2 cups milk
 1 tablespoon cornstarch
 4 chicken bouillon cubes
 1 tablespoon butter
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon ground thyme
 1/8 teaspoon pepper
 2 1/2 cups diced cooked turkey
 2 cups soft bread crumbs
 3/4 cup finely chopped celery
 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
 1 tablespoon chopped parsley

3 eggs, slightly beaten
 Heat over to 350 degrees F.
 Blend cornstarch in 1/4 cup milk until smooth; set aside.
 Dissolve bouillon cubes in 1 1/4 cups milk over low heat.
 Add butter, salt, thyme and pepper; cool slightly.
 Meanwhile combine turkey, bread crumbs, celery, onion and parsley in a large bowl.
 Combine bouillon mixture, cornstarch mixture and eggs; add to turkey mixture.
 Mix lightly until blended.
 Place mixture in 8 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 2 1/2-inch loaf pan.
 Place in pan of hot water.
 Bake in preheated oven 50 to 60 minutes or until knife inserted near center comes out clean. Remove from water immediately; allow to stand 10 minutes. Invert onto serving platter. Slice and serve with hot Cranberry Sauce.

CRANBERRY SAUCE
 1 pound package fresh cranberries

1 1/2 cups water
 3/4 cups sugar

1 teaspoon grated orange peel

Bring cranberries, water, sugar and orange peel to a boil, stirring occasionally. Boil until all skins pop open.

Three arrested in connection with killings

Military search finds 32 cultists

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (AP) — U.S. forces were flying home the last of 408 mass suicide victims from the Peoples Temple commune at Jonestown and were trying to figure out how many cultists may be missing in the dense jungles around the camp.

U.S. Air Force Capt. John Moscatelli said he expects to be ordered to conduct helicopter searches of the jungle after the body evacuation is complete.

Thirty-two survivors have been located so far. Most of them were believed to have fled the Jonestown commune during the bizarre suicide rite six days ago.

The Rev. Jim Jones led his Peoples Temple followers in the suicide after a squad from the commune allegedly gunned down a U.S. congressman, three newsmen and a defuncting cultist. Rep. Leo Ryan, D-Calif., was in Guyana investigating the commune.

Three of the surviving cultists have been arrested by authorities in Guyana in connection with the killings of Ryan and his party. One was charged with murder.

Officials and survivors have variously estimated that from 100 to 800 members U.S. to take all refugees from Vietnam

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Malaysia says the United States has promised to take in all the Vietnamese refugees aboard the freighter Hai Hong who cannot find refuge in other foreign countries.

Reporters were told of the purported U.S. promise today by Osman Cassim, secretary general of Malaysia's Home Affairs Ministry.

Malaysia and the United States appear to be at odds over whether Washington will take in refugees from the Hai Hong, anchored off Port Klang 20 miles west of here, or an equivalent number from the 40,000 Vietnamese already crammed into refugee camps on islands off the Malaysian coast.

Earlier this week Washington raised its quota for Indochinese refugees from 25,000 to 27,500 for the year ending next May 1.

Robert Havel, deputy director of information for the U.S. Department of Justice, said Thursday evening in Washington that the United States would take refugees from camps to free places for Hai Hong passengers.

But Cassim insisted the United States had agreed to take all the Hai Hong refugees who can't be placed in other countries, possibly as many as 1,400 people. He said they will not be allowed into the camps.

Fed treatment programs saves costs, losses

WASHINGTON (AP) — A six-year-old treatment program for drug addicts and alcoholics has saved millions of dollars in court and prison costs and theft, according to a federal study.

The federal project, which has cost $30 million, has provided treatment as an alternative to jail for more than 60,000 persons in 52 localities since it was started in 1972, said a report released by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

The report said one typical treatment program involving 400 persons a year saves at least $1 million in property that addicts would otherwise steal to support their habits, plus an estimated $450,000 in court and jail costs.

The study examined treatment programs in Cincinnati; Salt Lake City; New Orleans; St. Paul, Minn.; Des Moines, Iowa; Tucson, Ariz.; Austin, Texas; Miami; Chicago; San Juan, Puerto Rico; Milwaukee and the state of Rhode Island.

The LEAA said the other localities with such programs are:

Anchorage, Alaska; Dallas; Baltimore and Montgomery counties, Md.; Birmingham, Ala.; Boston and Bristol County, Mass.; Nassau and Westchester counties and Buffalo, N.Y.; Camden County and Newark, N.J.; Charleston, S.C.; Charlotte, Raleigh and Greensboro, N.C.

of the Jonestown commune are not yet accounted for.

There has been some speculation that many cultists are hiding out in the jungle fearing reprisals for having escaped the suicide rite, but other sources say only a handful of Jonestown residents may have fled because estimates of the camp's population were put too high.

Gerald Parks, 45, a Springfield, Ohio, native who came to Jonestown with his mother, wife and three children last year, said he thought at least 100 survivors were wandering in the jungle. His son, Dale, 27, estimated there could be as many as 200. Both men were attempting to leave Jonestown with Ryan and survived the airport ambush in which the congressman was killed.

Odell Rhodes, 36, a teacher who survived the poison-drinking suicide rite, told reporters he had information that could lead to murder charges in connection with the Ryan slayings, but said he wanted to tell his story to Guyanese police.

Hyacinth Thrush, a 76-year-old San Francisco woman crippled by arthritis, told a reporter she slept through the mass suicide and later dragged herself to the scene. She said she found "everyone was still. Some were sitting up with their eyes closed. Others were lying down. I saw my sister. I walked over and touched her to wake her up. She was very cold."

Military officials said today there still are 138 bodies lying on the ground around the open pavilion where the death rite was performed in Jonestown, about 150 miles northwest of Georgetown.

The bloated bodies are being placed in rubberized olive-drab bags, sealed in aluminum caskets and ferried by helicopter to Georgetown, where they are placed on C-146 transports and flown to Dover Air Force Base, Del.

A total of 280 bodies already have arrived at the Dover base where medical experts are attempting to confirm the identities of the dead and prepare the bodies for burial.

A sickly stench hung over a remote corner of Guyana's Temehri Airport on Thanksgiving Day. Young men and women in T-shirts and fatigue pants transferred the bodies from the helicopters to transport jets.

"This is just another day to us," said Master Sgt. Philip Flynn of Portsmouth, Ohio. "It's just a job we have to get done."

The U.S. Embassy in Georgetown released names of 170 victims early this week. Officials said further identifications would have to be made in the United States. Jones' body was identified Thursday by the FBI as being among the 280 already received at the Delaware mortuary.

Terrified survivors of the suicide had speculated Jones had fled the mass suicide by boat with a few followers, leaving a lookalike to die in his place. But police sources said two of the three boats owned by the settlement had been located along with about a dozen crewmen. Still unaccounted for is a cruiser that police said could carry only a few persons.

A U.S. Embassy official said 803 passports were found at the colony, leaving 395 persons still to be accounted for. He said the passports are being compared with Guyanese customs lists to determine how many people may have been at Jonestown last weekend.

Oilers, Bengals in rematch

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston, impressive against the top-ranked National Football League clubs but depressive against the lower echelon, has a rematch with the Cincinnati Bengals Sunday amid reports of strife within the Oilers management.

Cincinnati has won only one of 12 games this season, that a solid victory over Houston.

The Oilers have looked like playoff contenders the past two weeks, with victories over strong New England and Miami.

In recent days, however, there have been rumbles of discontent from Coach Bum Phillips because he has not been offered a new contract. His two-year contract expires Jan. 31.

Phillips said recently, "I guess I'm coaching out my option. I don't want to be, but I am."

"I would like to know something. It's not fair to my coaches. If they don't know my situation, they can't make plans of their own," he said.

K.S. "Bud" Adams, owner of the Oilers, answered, "There is no problem between him and me. It is just too early for this to have come up. We have never talked contract until after the season is over. We shouldn't even be discussing it."

The Oilers are now 8-4 for the season and have been solid during the past six games, after a shaky start.

Monday night before a national television audience, Houston dropped the Miami Dolphins, 35-30, as rookie Earl Campbell ran for 199 yards and scored four touchdowns.

Haynes not a typical jock

By the Associated Press

Young Mike Haynes wears three hats — the most visible but not necessarily the most important being that red, white and blue helmet with the picture of a New England Patriot emblazoned on the side.

"You never know when your number is going to come up in this business," says the slim, good-looking cornerback of the AFC Eastern Division leaders in the National Football League.

"When that happens to me — because of injury or some other reason — I don't want to be left out in the world without a handle. I intend to have something to fall back on."

So the 25-year-old Los Angeles native out of Arizona State is completing his college career in his spare time and setting himself up in business under the shingle "Mike Haynes, Inc."

Need a sports figure to show up at the department store to sell for a product? Call Mike Haynes, Inc. Need an articulate after-dinner speaker? How about someone to give an inspirational testimony at a church's young people's society? Mike is your man.

"When I got into pro football, I intended to play only three years and then get into something else," Haynes said, "but that was based on my getting my degree in marketing, which I failed to get. I think that is imperative. Besides, in the four years I've really come to enjoy the game. So I will play it by ear."

Sharing in the Patriots' 19-17 victory Sunday over the New York Jets which kept them precariously atop AFC East, young Mike stayed over in New York to touch a few business bases before hustling back to Foxboro, Mass., to get ready for next week's game against the Colts in Baltimore.

Haynes' bride of less than a year, his campus sweetheart, is his business partner. Her name is Julie. Daughter of a college professor, she is working on her degree in accounting.

As a defensive cornerback and an occasional kick returner, the 6-foot-2, 195-pound speedster isn't exactly a household word, although he was the Patriots' No. 1 draft choice in 1976. He justified this confidence by winning a new car as the AFC Rookie of the Year.

When you flick on your TV screen, you don't catch Mike modeling pantyhose a la Joe Namath or running over people in airports in the fashion of O.J. Simpson.

like a thoroughbred Thanksgiving Day in a 37-10 rout that gave the Cowboys a game lead over the Redskins in the National Conference Eastern Division with three games to play.

"We were ready to play — this is the best we've played," said Landry whose teams characteristically flatten out in the middle of the season then breathe fire when it counts.

Landry added "We were just going so strong it would have been difficult for any team to stop us today regardless of who we played."

Washington quarterback Joe Theismann concluded "All you can say is the Cowboys kicked the hell out of us. I know they kicked the hell out of me."

Asked if he liked Dallas'

Dallas is 9-4 to

Washington's 8-5. The Cowboys, should the teams again fall into a tie, have an insurmountable tiebreaker edge over the Redskins. "Dallas is certainly in an advantageous position," said Washington Coach Jack Pardee.

NBA Roundup

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Larry Kenon and George "Ice" Gervin poured in baskets during the third quarter to power San Antonio from an 11-point deficit to a five-point lead, then helped on defense and from the freethrow line in the final period as the Spurs ended a three-game losing streak and gained some confidence.

"I was really struggling before this game. I thought after my last two games that I had lost my rhythm," said Gervin, the leading scorer in the National Basketball Association with a 29.4 point average, after the Spurs beat the Milwaukee Bucks 116-114 Thursday night.

"Now I think we've got our concentration back. I know I got my rhythm back. Maybe now we can start rolling," Gervin said.

The Spurs were behind 65-54 with 10:13 left in the third period but led 81-76 going into the final quarter as Kenon scored 13 of his 34 points and Gervin eight of his 28 in the spurt. The two added back-to-back steals and dunks after the Bucks pulled to within four points at 106-102 with 2:38 left.

Then, after Marques Johnson and Brian Winters led another comeback which pulled Milwaukee to within 112-110 with 27 seconds left Gervin and Kenon each hit a pair of free throws.

In the only other NBA game of the night, the New Orleans Jazz beat the Golden State Warriors 106-98.

Jazz 106, Warriors 98
Pete Maravich scored 33 points and Gail Goodrich came off the bench to add 22 to lead New Orleans over Golden State. With the score tied at 62, Maravich hit a pair of long jumpers to put the Jazz ahead to stay.

Forward Truck Robinson, who scored a career-high 51 points against New Jersey Tuesday night, got into early foul trouble and played only 29 minutes for New Orleans. He had 17 points and 11 rebounds before fouling out with 2:07 remaining.

John Lucas led Golden State with 18 points.

OH NO YOU DON'T — San Diego Chargers linebacker Don Goode (50) keeps an arm on Minnesota Vikings tight end Bob Tucker after causing Tucker to fumble the ball in Sunday NFL action. The Vikings recovered the ball on the play but the Chargers went on to win 13-7.

Vikings, Raiders favored in key games

By the Associated Press

Talk about your basic showdowns, the National Football League had two beauties cooking for its Thanksgiving weekend.

First, on Thursday, Washington and Dallas, tied at 8-4, went head-to-head for first place in the National Conference East, Dallas coming away with a 37-10 victory. Now, for Sunday, Green Bay and Minnesota, deadlocked at 7-5, duel for the top spot in the NFC Central.

The Vikes, with a string of four straight victories, were poised to move on the Packers a week ago. But San Diego torpedoed that plan, upsetting Minnesota 13-7 at home while Green Bay was losing its fourth game in the last five, a 16-3 defeat at Denver.

Last week's 10-4 and 1-1 on Thanksgiving Day made the season's record 101-68 for .598.

The picks:

Vikings 17, Packers 10

Green Bay has fallen on hard times after a 6-1 start and the Vikes returned from oblivion with four straight wins before losing to San Diego.

Patriots 31, Colts 14

Now that it has the AFC lead, New England could be tough to overtake. Baltimore without Bert Jones is like a day without sunshine.

Dolphins 23, Jets 14

Without Earl Campbell to worry about Miami should be in good shape against the Jets, who've had a see-saw season.

Raiders 27, Seahawks 21

Seattle should have lost to Kansas City last week. Oakland is a tad better than the Chiefs and should handle the troublesome Seahawks.

Rams 34, Browns 21

Los Angeles plays well enough to win, which ought to be good enough but doesn't seem to be for the team's harsh West Coast critics.

Eagles 24, Cardinals 13

That gift win Philadelphia got from the Giants last week has the Eagles on Cloud 9. Add to that some healing injuries which ought to help them end St. Louis' four-game win streak.

Chargers 17, Chiefs 7

San Diego has won four straight. If the Chargers could beat Minnesota on the road, they ought to handle Kansas City.

Bucs 19, Bears 10

Tampa Bay believes in itself and that's half the fight in pro football. Chicago still needs some convincing.

Oilers 31, Bengals 13

Is there anybody who still wants to know why Houston traded for the No. 1 pick in last May's draft?

Steelers 27, 49ers 17

This one matches the AFC's best record, owned by Pittsburgh against the NFC's worst, owned by San Francisco. Any doubters?

Lions upset Broncos with English

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — English settlers celebrated the first Thanksgiving 357 years ago. Thursday at the Pontiac Silverdome it was Doug English doing most of the celebrating.

He led the Plymouth Rockhard Detroit defensive line that sacked Denver quarterback Craig Morton six times as the Lions defeated the Broncos, 17-14, in their nationally televised National Football League game.

English, a fifth-year tackle from Texas, where he was an All-American, tackled Morton four times behind the line of scrimmage. He and his linemates — rookie Al "Bubba" Baker, John Woodcock and Dave

Yankees sign Tommy John

NEW YORK (AP) — If the decision were based strictly on dollars and cents, free agent pitcher Tommy John, who officially joined the million dollar pitching staff of the New York Yankees Wednesday, probably would have headed elsewhere.

"Cincinnati and Atlanta and Kansas City all offered substantially more money," said the 35-year-old left-hander, who played out his option with the Los Angeles Dodgers. "I took less from the Yankees because it was an opportunity to play in the best city in baseball."

It was, however, a close call for Yankee owner George Steinbrenner's active wallet.

New York thought it had John wrapped up with a $1.375 million investment for a three-year contract which Yankee President Al Rosen presented to Robert Cohen, John's attorney, in a Sunday night phone conversation.

"The Yankees restructured their economic package in the area of deferrals and insurance," said Cohen.

On Monday, Cohen spoke with Dick Wagner, president of the Cincinnati Reds, who apparently offered more than the Yankees. Then, on Tuesday, another complication was added to the picture.

UH-Tech highlights SWC action

By the Associated Press

The Houston Cougars are 11-point favorites to earn the host role in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day with a victory over the Texas Tech Red Raiders Saturday and the underdog role certainly isn't anything new with Coach Rex Dockery.

"We've been in that position most of the year," said the freshman Red Raider coach who has taken what was expected to be a second division team in the Southwest Conference football chase and made the Red Raiders uncomfortably competitive.

Tech is 6-3 overall and 4-2 in the SWC. Those numbers should serve a warning to Houston, which is fifth-ranked in the nation in The Associated Press poll.

The Red Raiders boast the leading rusher in the nation, former tight end James Hadnot who has rumbled for 1,189 yards—an average of 132 steps per game.

The Cougars are looking for their second Cotton Bowl trip in three years. Notre Dame will be the guest team.

In other games Saturday, Texas was a 13-point pick over Baylor at Waco, Texas A&M was a prohibitive favorite over Texas Christian at College Station, and Arkansas was a 7-point nod over Southern Methodist at Dallas.

Houston has had two weeks to get ready for the Red Raiders and Coach Bill

Yeoman pronounces the team in perhaps the best shape of the season.

Senior quarterback Danny Davis, who led the Cougars to their first Cotton Bowl in 1976, is again the catalyst for Houston after sitting out a year with an injury.

"This game is what we have worked for starting in August," says Davis. "I don't think we'll be overconfident."

Texas, which has lost only to Houston, is waiting in the wings should the Cougars stumble at Lubbock.

Coach Fred Akers and the Longhorns have already accepted a Sun Bowl bid to play Maryland but pointed out: "This race isn't over yet."

Evansville rebuilding

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)

— After nearly a year without basketball, a year lived under the pall of the air crash that killed the entire University of Evansville basketball squad and coach, Dick Walters says it's time to bury the sorrow.

The new coach and a new team begin that mission with a dose of hard work Saturday when they visit Southern Illinois University, a powerhouse in the Missouri Valley Conference.

"We'll never forget what happened here," said Walters, the coach named to rebuild the program. "But, we can't allow ourselves to be buried with it. Life goes on and the greatest tribute we can give to last year's team is to build our program back up as quickly as possible."

The trip to Southern Illinois is the opener of a rugged schedule that is a part of Evansville's effort to build itself as an NCAA Division I team after many years as a Division II power which sent players like Don Buse and Jerry Sloan to the National Basketball Association.

The program began last year, but was halted when the team was destroyed in the crash of a DC-3 just four games into the season. Twenty-nine persons died in the crash.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

FLYING HIGH — Texas Tech quarterback Ron Reeves has some high stepping to do in last week's 19-16 victory over SMU. Defending for the Mustangs is nose guard Charles Hunt (61) and Puit Choate (58). Tech will try to upset the Houston Cougars tomorrow, while the Mustangs entertain Arkansas in their season finale.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show that you follow every rule and regulation that applies to you and advance in public esteem. Study career activities.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make plans to engage in a new project that can give you added income in the future. Come to a better accord with loved one.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Carry through with promises you have made with close ties and maintain goodwill. Try to be less critical of others.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will get along well with others and should be given the best possible education. Precision is important in this chart, so make the surrounding in such a way to inspire your gifted progeny. Ethical training is a must.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rural women who work outside their homes generally are paid much less than their city counterparts, partly because they are willing to take lower-paying jobs, according to an Agriculture Department report.

Moreover, women in both rural and city areas earned far less than men during the year examined in the study. And wages were much higher for both women and men who worked in cities than those who worked in rural areas.

The report was included in a new publication, Rural Development Perspectives, issued this week by the department's Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service.

Based on 1974 information, women in rural or "non-metro" areas of the United States, earned an average of $3,952 a year. That compared with an average of $8,912 a year for rural males.

Women in cities or "metro" areas averaged $5,034 a year, compared to $11,164 for city men.

"Limited job training and experience among women new to the labor force, their willingness to accept part-time jobs, and the labor force needs of employers locating in rural areas contributed to the lower wage levels among non-metro women," the report said.

But the report, written by Jeanne M. O'Leary of the agency, cautioned that this favorable outlook might be darkened by the labor needs of firms that choose to locate in rural communities.

"A large pool of relatively low-skilled and low-paid female labor may in fact have been among the inducements that attracted many firms to nonmetro areas in the first place," it said.

As used in the report, nonmetro areas are counties that lack an urban center of at least 50,000 inhabitants and whose people are not in the "commuting zone of a metropolitan area."

Appointees not likely to bring about change

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, the money-managing Federal Reserve Board will soon have appointees of President Carter in the majority, but it is unlikely to bring any change in the board's high interest rate policy.

The seven-member Federal Reserve Board has been carrying most of the load lately in trying to control inflation — by pushing interest rates to record and near-record levels. The goal is to slow the economy and take pressure off prices.

It's a calculated risk, because if there is a serious recession next year, the board will get much of the blame, as will Carter.

But it's also a load the board can't easily rid itself of because there isn't anybody else who can carry it right now. There's little confidence either among the public or even within the administration that Carter's voluntary wage and price guidelines will succeed in slowing inflation.

Carter has also made clear he agrees the board has no other real option at this point except to keep interest rates high. His administration has encouraged some of the most recent increases.

Although Carter nominates members of the board, subject to Senate confirmation, the board is independent of the administration and is responsible to Congress. Members are named for 14-year terms although few actually serve that long.

Although policy probably will remain the same, there still will be comfort to Carter in having the board controlled by people he has appointed.

Carter has filled two vacancies so far this year and two more have occurred in recent weeks, one with the resignation for personal reasons of Philip C. Jackson and the second with the death Sunday by cancer of Stephen S. Gardner, 59, the board's vice chairman.

Not since 1966 has a president had an opportunity to name four members in a single year. At the beginning of this year, the board was made up entirely of members appointed by Republican presidents, including the chairman, Arthur Burns.

Carter's first appointment was G. William Miller, named to succeed Burns, who resigned. While Miller is independent of the administration, he has worked closely with Carter and his advisers in coordinating Fed policy with administration actions and objectives.

Carter's second appointment came in August when he named Nancy Teeters, the first woman ever on the board, to fill another resignation.

It is understood Carter has not made a decision on who to nominate to the vacant posts, although North Carolina banker Luther H. Hodge Jr., and Lyle C. Gramley, a member of Carter's Council of Economic Advisers, have been mentioned as possible candidates for Jackson's seat.

Miller told reporters the other day he would like to see somebody other than an economist named to the board, since four of the five remaining members are economists.

Rev. Jim Jones returned to U.S.

DOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Del. (AP) — The body of the Rev. Jim Jones — positively identified by the FBI — lay side by side with those of a growing number of his followers today in the chill of a military morgue.

The decomposing corpses of more than half of the 408 Peoples Temple followers who died in a mass cult suicide in Guyana were returned to the United States by early today, but the grisly task of identifying and cleaning the bodies remained.

The C-141 Air Force cargo planes carrying the bodies were scheduled to arrive throughout the day. By early morning, four planes bearing 270 bodies had landed at the base, which military spokesmen said was the only morgue in the country equipped to handle the large number of casualties.

Air Force spokesmen said two more flights would be required to complete the airlift.

Maj. Brigham Shuler, chief press officer for the base, said Jones' adopted daughter had been notified of the identification. He said the State Department had raised the issue of an autopsy of Jones' remains with the woman, who was not identified.

However, Charles Carson, mortuary officer at the base, said no autopsies would be performed here.

Former Peoples Temple members had said the body might not be Jones' because he sometimes had lookalikes to stand in for him in dangerous situations.

But three hours after the second plane arrived, carrying a body in an aluminum case labeled "13B" and "Rev. Jimmie Jones," the FBI announced the identification was official.

FB Director William Webster, in a statement, said the FBI disaster squad had positively identified the body as that of James Warren Jones, based on fingerprints supplied by Los Angeles police.

The bodies were taken from the aluminum cases used for the flight and lined up in their plastic bags to await identification. The cases were being steamed, disinfected and returned to Guyana because the Air Force did not have enough for all 408 bodies, Shuler said.

The arrivals were handled in an assembly-line fashion. The first plane, which arrived shortly before dawn on Thanksgiving Day, was greeted by a prayer read by the base chaplain.

Ridin' fence — They call in Midland with Marj Carpenter

Midland is the highest per capita income city in Texas. It is located 98 miles west of Big Spring and is often referred to as the "Tall City" because the downtown business district just kind of juts up into the sky on the prairie. It is a petroleum center and has most of the production offices for the entire Permian Basin. Oldtimers in Big Spring still recall that this city had first shot at obtaining some of those offices and that some of the residents at that time refused to sell the oil companies the property they wanted for offices. Midland also has something else that Big Spring used to have and that is the air terminal. People from all over West Texas go to the Terminal to get flights out. In the old days, Big Spring had the main airport and recalls the days when such notables as Will Rogers and Eddie Rickenbacker and many movie stars stopped at the Big Spring airport. Midland was originally named by the Texas and Pacific Railroad as Midway. It was the halfway point between Fort Worth and El Paso. When application was made for a post office, the name was changed to Midland because of another town of Midway down in South Texas. The first post office in Midland was located in a boxcar set off the tracks on July 14, 1885. C.H. Welch was the first postmaster. The county was not organized until 1895 when it was cut away from Tom Green County. It is one of the few counties that is not named for a person in Texas. The town has had at least three courthouses through the years. Now in the early days around Midland, there was a sea of grass and so there were cattlemen. But amazingly, after the early Buffalo hunters left and the Indians withdrew, the very first permanent settlers were sheep herders. Some say this was because it was not the choice place to settle and the cattle barons let it go to the sheep men. However, there were some big cattle barons that remained like the Scharbauers and the Cowdens. In the first place, it was better cow country than sheep country and the cattle finally prevailed. The only sheep you find around there now are at stock shows raised by 4-H kids. The old Scharbauer Hotel was a landmark and was torn down and replaced by the present modern Hilton. Midland used to be the only place to go for people out around Andrews and Seminole. I remember one lady out at Andrews named Mrs. Pinnell who told about the early days, when her son fell out of the haymow and cut off his finger. She wrapped it with a rag dipped in turpentine and told him to hold his finger on his hand while she drove a wagon across the sand to Midland. So Midland was at that time their nearest source of a doctor. The town is progressive. They have a junior college, two high schools, and a lot of cultural events. They have an airport that is a mess and has been for over a year. It is being renovated and nobody appears to be keeping it very clean or organized while the renovation is occurring. They have a Community Theatre with some good presentations. They have a symphony orchestra, which is outstanding for that size community. Their mayor is Ernie Angelo. They are one of the few counties in Texas that traditionally votes Republican. That's Midland—Big Spring's neighbor to the west—that springs up suddenly in the prairie and has some of the most expensive and beautiful residences in the west. And Midland has an interesting combination of oil production people, ranchers and businessmen — with a large smattering of conservatives — out where the ride fence.

House serves as savings, credit

NEW YORK (AP) — A house is to live in but, an economic analyst points out, it also serves as a savings account and a line of credit as well. In numerous instances, he notes, families are making use of inflated equities by refinancing their homes to obtain money for other goods and services, thus vastly extending their borrowing power. And simultaneously, perhaps, frustrating efforts of the Federal Reserve to cool the economy. As a consequence of mortgage refinancing, rising interest rates have lost some of their effectiveness in cooling inflation, says Arnold Moskowitz of Dean Witter Reynolds, the securities firm. The practice of tapping home equity had been rather rare until the 1970s, partly because of fears lingering from the Great Depression of the 1930s. But homeowners have become more daring, as have lenders. Thus, says Moskowitz, housing joins credit cards as a new saving-spending medium against which one can conveniently borrow, in the process causing an enormous expansion of the domestic credit base. Home equity is not the only reason for credit ease. The urge to borrow has also been stimulated by savings accounts that function as checking accounts. But housing equity is huge; it may be as high as $1 trillion. More and more, says Moskowitz, mortgage debt is assuming the traits of short-term installment debt, which includes credit cards. He explains: "Installment debt differs from long-term mortgage debt in that it is viewed as a short-term obligation to be paid down at least in part during recessions, whereas mortgage debt is relatively permanent." But, he says, the lines separating them are becoming indistinct, especially with the advent of open-end mortgaging, which almost automatically permits a homeowner to borrow on accumulated equity. Says Moskowitz: "Consumer spending may not be robust in 1979 but it should expand moderately, with mortgage debt continuing to substitute for consumer installment debt." He also observes that the consumer is probably in a stronger buying position than might be realized from looking at the savings, which in 1977 had fallen 5.1 percent from 7.5 percent in 1967. Because of the rapid buildup in home equity — increases in market value

Home run for Rusty
Home Run for Rusty, an entertaining film for the entire family, will be shown at Crestview Baptist Church Sunday at 6 p.m. Home Run For Rusty can be quickly described as "lot of kids, lot of action," but that really doesn't tell the whole story. Rusty is a small-for-his-age boy, 12 years old, who constantly carried a "chip" on his shoulder. Normal "bickering" for the average youngster always ends in fighting for Rusty and the fact that he is a little smaller doesn't seem to matter. His belligerent attitude brings antagonism from every quarter except one. There's a pretty little blonde who risks his wrath in order to tell him of God's love. A thrown bat, a speeding car, a hurt child and a wise coach are added ingredients which teach that God has answers, not only for Rusty, but for all who trust Him. While Home Run For Rusty was filmed primarily for children, it is a film to be enjoyed by every age group. Filmed in Northern Indiana by Heinz Fussle and released by Gospel Films, Inc. of Muskegon, Mich.
