Turkey Day Next Big Event--November 18

Knowing the great possibilities of poultry raising in the Pecos Valley and wishing in every way to encourage and awaken the farmer to the fact that they heretofore have been overlooking a source of income that is one of the main reliances in other parts of Texas—a reliance which is proving to be one of the most important the farm affords, and one from which can always be drawn ready cash—the Pecos Valley Commercial Club has inaugurated this first great Turkey Day for Pecos on Saturday, November 18th, and on this day guarantees to have a buyer who will give the highest market price for every turkey brought to Pecos on that day. It matters not where you live, bring in your turkeys and get your cash.

The live and progressive business men of Pecos offer the following valuable prizes which will be given away at the fountain at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Turkey Day, November 18th:

Special offer: "I want to buy the biggest turkey brought to Pecos on Turkey Day and will pay Ten Dollars in cash for it."—W. E. Hamilton, road contractor.

Dr. and Mrs. Lusk Coming to Pecos

The Enterprise is delighted to make the announcement that Dr. and Mrs. H. N. Lusk are to again become residents of Pecos. It is also a pleasing fact that he will be associated with Drs. Camp & Bryan in the practice of medicine. Drs. Camp & Bryan are physicians who stand in the front rank of their profession and keep well posted, and the addition of Dr. Lusk to the firm will make a trio second to none in the state. There is no special need to worry over being sick now, for if your case is not hopeless they will pull you through and nothing will be the worse for your experience except your purse.

Dr. and Mrs. Lusk will also be a most desirable addition to our church and society circles. The Doctor is true as steel and a conscientious, christian worker and besides being an able assistant to her husband along these lines, Mrs. Lusk is not only pleasant to look upon but a most delightful entertainer and a splendid cook. These good people are most highly commended to the best people of Pecos, and The Enterprise extends to them a most cordial welcome to our city.

Hunt & Co. of El Paso, the new owners of the Adams ranch south of town, today shipped in 32 car loads of young white faced cattle which will be driven at once to this splendid ranch.

The secretary nor any member of the commercial club or any business firm of Pecos doesn't get paid one penny for services, or one penny for commission in working up the Turkey Day, or the handling of the turkeys on that day. Whatever the market price is on Turkey Day it will be paid by the purchaser direct to the seller and there will be no middle man to rake off a big commission. I beg the support of every man, woman and child to help me boost and advertise Turkey Day. Talk to your friends in person; phone and wire them; write them to bring in their turkeys Saturday, November 18th, and when you meet any one say, Gobble, Gobble, Gobble; then tell them all about it.

For further information call on, write or phone

Popular Young Misses Celebrate Birthdays

Misses Callie DeRacey and Evelyn Slack, two of Pecos' most popular and charming young misses, and who are the very closest of friends, entertained on Saturday afternoon of last week, October 21, at the home of the former celebrating their birthdays—Callie's on the 16th and Evelyn's on the 21st. Their ages were 12 and 13 years respectively. A very attractive color scheme of red and green was carried out in pleasing effect in decorating this well appointed home. There were about sixty children present and they enjoyed music and various kinds of games. Some interesting contests were given—one in biting suspended apples and one in pinning the nose on Buster Brown. For efficiency in this contest Relia Kiser was given a prize of a pocket-book and the consolation prize was awarded to Gladys Grafius—a large stick of candy.

The two young hostesses were the recipients of many beautiful and valuable gifts, which attest to their popularity among their friends. Their mothers, Mrs. John DeRacey and Mrs. Henry Slack, know just what it takes to complete the happiness of the participants on such an occasion and had prepared such an abundance of the most delicious viands in sandwiches, cake and punch.

This occasion will be long remembered by this happy band of youngsters as one of the bright places in their lives, and in taking leave the guests wished the charming young hostesses many returns of this delightful occasion.

The Merry Wives Club met Wednesday afternoon at the library with Mrs. H. H. Johnson as leader. Roll call was answered with quotations from Longfellow. Study text was Longfellow. Reading, "Paul Revere's Ride" by Mrs. Johnson.

NOTICE BY PUBLICATION

The State of Texas and County of Reeves,
To George Shumway and all persons owning or having or claiming any interest in the following described land, delinquent to the State of Texas and county of Reeves, for taxes, to wit:

For the years 1911, 1912 and 1913 on sections Nos. 12 and 13, block No. 45, public school survey, which said land is delinquent for taxes for the following amount: $42.62 for state and county taxes, and you are hereby notified that suit has been brought by the State for the collection of said taxes, and you are commanded to appear and defend such suit at the November term of the district court of Reeves county, and State of Texas, to be held in Pecos, Texas, November 20th, 1916, the style of said suit being, The State of Texas vs. George Shumway, No. 310A, and show cause why judgment shall not be rendered condemning said land (or lot), and ordering sale and foreclosure thereof for said taxes and costs of suit.

Witness my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Pecos, Texas, this 10th day of October, A. D. 1916.

Glory Barn Meeting Now in Full Swing

The big meeting was started in the "Glory Barn" Wednesday evening, and the services will continue to be presided over by the local pastors until Sunday night, when it is expected Rev. Lockett Adair will be here to take charge of the meeting.

The services this week are being held only at night but are intensely interesting and drawing fairly good crowds, but if the real thing isn't pulled off here next week when Mr. Adair gets here with his band of helpers many a citizen of the town will miss his guess. The masses of our people are anticipating a great meeting and will be disappointed if it falls short of it.

BIG SHOW COMING TO TOWN

Cole Bros' World-Toured Shows and Wild West Animal Exhibition will be here for two performances on Friday, November 10. No. 5 yesterday afternoon brought in Advertising Car No. 2 of Cole Bros' World-Toured Shows, Wm. M. Gillman, manager, with a crew of twenty bill-posters, lithographers, bannermen and programmers. Mr. Gillman and his men are hard at work to give the appearance of the show here all the publicity possible. They do not only post bills on all available spaces in town, place lithographs in windows of business houses, and banners of all sizes and pictorial designs on wood and brick walls, but men are sent out on routes in all directions and to neighboring towns.

Mr. Gillman has had years of experience in the management of advertising cars for the biggest shows on the road and knows how to advertise his show to the best advantage. He says there is only one Cole Bros' World-Toured Show and it is in a class by itself when merit, novelty and quality are considered. This famous show, with its too long trains of all steel cars, the only show in the world traveling in all steel cars so The Enterprise is informed, gives a varied program of two hours, consisting of wild and domestic animal acts interwoven with dozens of high class European and American Arenic acts. Twenty funny, foolish clowns under the leadership of "Happy" Billy Reid keep the audience in good humor throughout the long program.

The performance will be presented in three rings, a stage and a large steel arena. There will only be one Cole Bros' Show day in Pecos this season and on that day plenty of instructive and amusing features will be found. Notice the display ad in another place in this paper. The show is well advertised and record breaking crowds may be expected on Friday, Nov. 10—Cole Bros' Show day.

Rev. Robert L. Armor, pastor of the Methodist church at Toyah, was a Pecos visitor Friday of last week and made The Enterprise office a pleasant visit. Mr. Armor is a pleasant gentleman and will, in the opinion of The Enterprise, make a valuable acquisition to the citizenship of that town.

Missionary Society in Regular Social Meeting

The monthly social meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church was held at the home of Mrs. Max Krauskopf Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Krauskopf, Mrs. Ben Randais, Mrs. A. J. Curtis and Mrs. O. Curtis as hostesses. This was probably one of the most instructive social meetings held for some time as the following interesting contests will attest: First, large post cards illustrating the connectional work of this society were placed on the walls of the several receiving rooms of this spacious home and after close inspection of these posters questions relative to the work asked, and to answer them necessitated earnest thinking. After this cards were passed containing a series of questions concerning the life of Jesus, which proved very interesting. Following this was an alphabetical spelling contest of scripture names which was both interesting and amusing.

The last but not the least on this most delightful program was the refreshments of angel food cake and hot chocolate, served by the four charming hostesses to the large number in attendance.

The visitors on this occasion were Mrs. Maggie Jefford of San Antonio, Mrs. A. Bohanan of Toyah, and Mrs. L. E. Alexander of Pecos.

W. T. Halliday, a man of considerable wealth of Denver, has been in Pecos this week and has been looking over the country with a view of investing. He is favorably impressed with the country but believes land values are inflated and too high. However, he states land in his country, which will probably not produce much more than half as much as Reeves county lands on account of the shorter seasons, is selling at from $100 per acre on up. He is considering the matter of either purchasing or renting property in Pecos and with his family spending the winter here.

BANKRUPT NOTICE

WIFE TOO ILL TO WORK IN BED MOST OF TIME

Her Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Indianapolis, Indiana. — "My health was so poor and my constitution so run down that I could not work. I was thin, pale and weak, weighed but 109 pounds and was in bed most of the time. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and five months later I weighed 133 pounds. I do all the housework and washing for eleven and I can truthfully say Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a godsend to me for I would have been in my grave today but for it. I would tell all women suffering as I do to try your valuable remedy."—Mrs. Wm. Green, 332 S. Addison Street, Indianapolis, Indiana.

There is hardly a neighborhood in this country, wherein some woman has not found health by using this good old-fashioned root and herb remedy. If there is anything about which you would like special advice, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Metal Tent Supports.

Those fond of camping out will be glad to hear of a new contrivance consisting of a combined tent frame and cot, which dispenses with cumbersome poles and simplifies the question of how to move one's sleeping accommodation from place to place. The new tent supports are of light angle iron, and the longer pieces as well as those forming the cots which go with each tent are jointed so that they may be folded up when necessary. The frames of the cots are suspended from the uprights by two coil springs, used for the same purpose as springs in the ordinary house-bed. During the day the cots can be folded up against the tent frame and well out of the road, by releasing one of the springs at each end.

Whenever You Need a General Tonic Take Grove's

FAITH IN GOOD ROADS

COUNTY SPENDING $200,000,000 YEARLY ON IMPROVEMENTS.

Ratio Expected to Be Double That Amount in Next Decade—Government Won't Aid Community That Doesn't Help Itself.

The country is now spending well toward $200,000,000 a year on rural roads—perhaps twice what it was spending for that purpose ten years ago. Faith in good roads probably increased during the decade in an even greater ratio, and it will be surprising if the expenditure ten years hence is not double $200,000,000.

This is mainly, of course, an effect of the motor car; but a lot of people misjudge the motor car because they forget—or do not know—that in all the more prosperous rural regions a gasoline vehicle nowadays is just about as standard an implement as a mowing machine. The day has long gone by when good roads agitation could be discredited by ascribing it to bloated urban plutocrats who wanted to ride comfortably.

By an act that became law last month the federal government proposes to contribute $75,000,000 for good country roads used by the postal service, sharing the expense equally with the states or other local units. The work is to be done on specifications approved by the department of agriculture, duly inspected and approved.

The federal government ought to contribute, for highways are a legitimate national interest. Under this law it helps no community that does not first help itself. Its participation will tend powerfully to standardize road building and to distribute the results of experience; so it should tend to give a better quality of road for no greater cost.

Twenty-five years ago any given so-called public highway was usually the exclusive affair of a board of supervisors or commissioners who ruled for a year over a territory three or four miles square. Presently the counties came in; then the states; now the federal government—which is as it should be.—Saturday Evening Post.

HANDY HOG SHIPPING CRATE

Timber Used in Construction Should Be Southern Yellow Pine—List of Material Needed.

A strong shipping crate for hogs is an easy thing to make. It should be well built of southern yellow pine. A neatly built crate, a shipping tag bearing the shipper's name and that of his farm often will aid in selling stock.

1—1 by 12, for bottom end board; 1—1 by 1—6—16 uprights and opening end; 3—1 by 16—10 sides and closed end; 2—1 by 12—10 floor and bottom side boards; 1—1 by 6—8 cleats.—Farm and Home.

SMALL TRACTOR IS FAVORED

Profitable Implement if Enough Land is Cultivated to Use It Economically, Say Users.

The farm tractor is generally a profitable implement if enough land is cultivated to use it economically. This is the opinion expressed by three-fourths of the two hundred tractor users in Illinois to investigators of the United States department of agriculture. About one-third of the men in this list increased the acreage, on an average 120 acres to the farm, after buying the tractors and finding that they did not have room to use them to the best advantage.

Cover Farm Implements.
There are a number of farm implements that you are through with till another season. Get them under cover at once and give the polished steel parts a good coating of oil and paint.

For Breeding Ducks.
Both ducks and drakes in their second year are preferred for breeding.

EVERY FARM NEEDS WOODLOT

If Nature Has Not Provided One, Plant One—It Is Not Difficult and Will Pay Well.

(By W. J. MORRILL, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.)

A permanent woodlot is an essential part of a well-organized farm. In the mountain valleys and along the streams in the plains, nature has provided these woodlots. In many places, however, the farmer must plant and raise his woodlot.

The woodlot is convenient in providing fuel, posts, and wood for repairs. It may also serve as a wind-break, and for shelter for stock. On light soils or on steep slopes the trees will bind the soil, to prevent erosion. A woodlot needs proper protection from stock and fire, and intelligent thinnings. After planting and cultivation during a few years, if the woodlot is of artificial origin, the work expended on it and the harvesting of its crops may be done in the winter, when other work is not pressing.

Besides the direct value of a woodlot in furnishing wood and shelter, its esthetic value in improving the appearance of the farm and in furnishing recreation is of considerable importance in making life more worth living. Incidentally the well-kept, properly located woodlot adds selling value to the farm out of all proportions to the cost of establishing or tending the grove.

FORMALIN TO RELIEVE BLOAT

Promising Results Secured in Experiments Conducted by Experts at Kentucky Station.

Experiments conducted at the Kentucky station with formaldehyde as a treatment for cattle badly affected with bloat caused by eating too much succulent clover or alfalfa has given very promising results.

One-half ounce of formalin in one quart of water makes the proper solution for treating bloated animals. After administering the remedy, a block of wood is placed in the animal's mouth to allow the better escape of the gas. In all the cases tried the cows were in normal condition 20 to 25 minutes after the formalin solution was given, even when the animals were badly bloated and in a dangerous condition. Formalin is a trade name for a 40 per cent solution of formaldehyde, and can be secured at any drug store.

Draft of Farm Machinery.

It is estimated that where farm machinery is not kept properly lubricated the draft is increased 20 per cent. Which is cheaper—a fifth more horse and tractor power, or a little good grease?

Care of Celery Plants.

Keep celery plants well cultivated and manured. Bank them with earth, tile, boards or paper.

Two-Year-Old Leghorns.

On the large egg farms the Leghorns are kept until they are two years old. Their carcasses at that time command a ready sale, but do not bring much money on account of their light weight. For winter laying April and May hatched stock is best.

Green Stuff for Chicks.

Feed finely cut lettuce, onion tops, or other green stuff if the chicks cannot be allowed to run on grass, for they must have something of this kind to keep the bowels working properly.

Guard Against Disease.

The larger the hog runs, the more alfalfa, rape or other forage crops the hogs have to graze on, the less will be the tendency of the herd to develop disease.

The Flock Increase.

Sheep reproduce their kind very rapidly. From a few ewes and one desirable ram enough lambs can soon be raised to stock a farm or a ranch with considerable acreage.

CALOMEL IS MERCURY, IT SICKENS! STOP USING SALIVATING DRUG

Don't Lose a Day's Work! If Your Liver Is Sluggish or Bowels Constipated Take "Dodson's Liver Tone."—It's Fine!

You're bilious! Your liver is sluggish! You feel lazy, dizzy and all knocked out. Your head is dull, your tongue is coated; breath bad; stomach sour and bowels constipated. But don't take salivating calomel. It makes you sick, you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel crashes into sour bile like dynamite, breaking it up. That's when you feel that awful nausea and cramping.

If you want to enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone. Your druggist or dealer sells you a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone under my personal money-back guarantee that each spoonful will clean your sluggish liver better than a dose of nasty calomel and that it won't make you sick.

Dodson's Liver Tone is real liver medicine. You'll know it next morning because you will wake up feeling fine, your liver will be working, your headache and dizziness gone, your stomach will be sweet and your bowels regular. You will feel like working; you'll be cheerful; full of vigor and ambition.

Dodson's Liver Tone is entirely vegetable, therefore harmless and cannot salivate. Give it to your children! Millions of people are using Dodson's Liver Tone instead of dangerous calomel now. Your druggist will tell you that the sale of calomel is almost stopped entirely here.—Adv.

"I reckon," was the nonchalant reply. "What have they been doing?"
"Doing! Why, ten or a dozen of them were playing in a mudhole, and when I came along, the whole squad lined up and threw mud at me as fast as they could sling it. Look at me! Look at my car!"
"Aw, well, what can I do about it? This is presidential year, and they've got a right to sling all the mud they—yaw-w-w-wn!—want to."—Kansas City Star.

Want Hens in English Parks.
In the hope of saving a large part of the $40,000,000 spent every year for foreign eggs, an agitation is on foot to throw open London parks for poultry breeding. The scheme is receiving serious consideration from the authorities because it is one of the latest war-time economies suggested on a large scale. The promoters of the idea have asked for part of one park to start with. The plan provides for a site of about three acres and accommodation for 600 hens. The leading poultry breeders of the country will be invited to send six selected fowls of the same breed and strain. Scientific feeding tests are to be made. All the eggs will go to the wounded soldiers, and prizes will be awarded to the owners of the hens laying the most eggs.

TO END HAY FEVER

EXPERTS RECOMMEND THE ERADICATION OF WEEDS.

Extermination of Worthless Plants, They Believe, Would Help Greatly in the Effectual Stamping Out of the Disease.

By a "war on weeds" hay fever sufferers may be relieved of an annual orgy of sneezing, according to an article in the Medical Record by Dr. W. Scheppegrell of New Orleans, La. Doctor Scheppegrell was one of the men who caused the enactment of a city ordinance in New Orleans for the control of weeds as the best means of controlling hay fever and preventing its spread. In his article, "The Cause, Treatment and Prevention of Hay Fever," he says it is a simple disease, "whose continued existence would be a reflection on preventive medicine."

"The plants that are responsible for hay fever are practically all common weeds, such as the ragweed, the cockle-burr, the yellow dock and others," he writes. "They are wind pollinated, without attractive color or fragrance, very numerous and with abundant pollen. The lack of color or scent is due to the fact that these plants are wind pollinated, the qualities mentioned being intended to attract insects for fertilization."

"The most common weeds that cause hay fever are the ragweeds, which are the causes of most cases of fall hay fever. The marsh elder is also a cause of fall hay fever and frequently prolongs the attack. The early cases are due to the yellow dock and the mid-summer cases to the careless weed, cockle-burr and other wind-pollinated weeds. In early summer many cases are due to the various grasses."

"The indirect reaction of pollinosis is partly due to the effects of the primary irritation and partly to the absorption of the protein of the pollen and the toxin formed by the proteolytic action of the cells."

"The important factor in the treatment is the removal of the exciting cause. In many cases the pollinating weeds are in the neighborhood of the patient's residence and the cutting of these will frequently give marked relief. My first prescription to such patients is, 'Have the weeds and grass in your neighborhood cut and keep away from other weeds.'

"A method which has given relief in almost every case is the removal of the patient during the hay fever period from the infected locality. This does not necessitate an expensive trip to the mountains or seaside, which frequently fails to give relief on account of the presence of hay fever pollens in the air at these places. A temporary visit to a mere central part of the city will be sufficient, provided the areas with pollinating weeds or grasses are at a sufficient distance (one-half mile or more)."

"As hay fever has been shown to be a distinctly preventable disease, it is clearly our duty to use every effort to eradicate the cause. Investigations indicate that the large majority of the plants whose pollen give rise to hay fever are worthless weeds, which are alike an expense to the farmer and a menace to health."

Demand for Dyes.

There are two industries in the Cork district of Ireland that might consume considerable quantities of yellow dye. Cork is one of the leading butter markets in the world and has lately become a margarine-producing center. The manufacturers have had difficulty in securing dyes of a sufficiently concentrated and powerful character. Their chief sources have been Scandinavia. American dyes have been found uneconomical in quality as related to price, even though war conditions have increased the price of north European dyes.

Indians Made Rich.

The Indian bureau at Washington during the last three years, has collected for and paid to American Indians, who are its wards, the tidy sum of $5,563,000 in royalties on oil lands which they own. If economic prosperity insured cultural perfection, the descendants of the Five Tribes resident in Oklahoma would not need to continue to be wards of the government. But wealth may be acquired much faster than capacity to use it aright, as Lowell intimated when he wrote of the "piteous and irreparable poverty of the rich parvenu," and when he said, "The gold of gold is noble use."

May Develop Irish Coal Mines.
The idea that Ireland will never become a mining country of any account is not the view of the Newry Urban council, which at their last meeting considered the proposals made by the Irish Association of Gas Managers at Dublin, in view of the present condition of the Irish coal supply. If not relieved, the gas managers said, the smaller gas works must be shut down and the government should be urged to provide an adequate supply of coal at reasonable rates. The Newry council approved this opinion and passed a special resolution to be presented to the British executive stating that the time was opportune for the development of the large and valuable coal measures which undoubtedly exist in Ireland.

CITATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS.

To the Sheriff or any constable of Reeves county—greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Emma White by making publication of this citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the 70th Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District, then in a newspaper published in the nearest District to said 70th Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the District court of Reeves county, to be holden at the court house thereof, in Pecos, Texas, on the third Monday in November 1916, the same being the 20th day of November 1916, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 1639 wherein Mitchell White is plaintiff, and Emma White is defendant, and said petition alleging that the defendant is an actual bona fide inhabitant of the State of Texas, and that he has resided in Reeves county for at least six months next preceding the filing of this suit, and that on the 7th day of January, A. D. 1907, plaintiff was lawfully married to defendant, that they continued to live together as husband and wife until about July 1st, 1913, when by reason of the cruel and harsh treatment, and improper conduct of defendant toward plaintiff, he was forced to permanently abandon her, and since which time they have not lived together as husband and wife. Plaintiff alleges that during the time he and defendant lived together as aforesaid, he was kind and affectionate to her, and always provided for her support and maintenance, but defendant, unmindful of the duties and obligations of her marital vows began a course of unkind, harsh, outrageous treatment toward plaintiff, which continued until plaintiff was forced and compelled to abandon her, as aforesaid. That defendant was insulting and violently abusive in her treatment toward plaintiff, and negligent of her marital duties in every respect, and did so without any cause or provocation on the part of plaintiff. The defendant became addicted to the immoderate use of intoxicating liquors, and became a drunkard, and also became a lewd woman, and lived for many months with other men, which men were drunkards and vagabonds and gamblers; and defendant was arrested, indicted and convicted in the District court of Lawrence, Massachusetts for the offense of lewdness and also for drunkenness and was sentenced to serve a term of three months imprisonment upon the State Farm of the said state of Massachusetts, and did serve same, all of which occurred after her marriage with plaintiff. That the defendant has not reformed, but is still living a life of shame and disgrace. That such conduct upon the part of the defendant is unbearable to plaintiff, and renders their living together as husband and wife insupportable. Therefore plaintiff prays that the defendant be cited to appear and answer herein, and for judgment dissolving said marriage relations, and for costs of suit and all other and further relief, to which he may be entitled.

Herein fail not, but have you before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness Willie-de Woods clerk of the District court of Reeves county.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Pecos, Texas, this the 19th day of October, 1916.

CITATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Reeves County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Juan Franco by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the 70th Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District, then in a newspaper published in the nearest District to said 70th Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Reeves County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Pecos on the third Monday in November, 1916, the same being the 20th day of November 1916, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 9th day of October, 1916, in a suit, numbered on the Docket of said Court No. 1664 wherein Marie Franco is Plaintiff, and Juan Franco is Defendant, and said petition alleging, that the plaintiff is an actual bona fide inhabitant of the State of Texas, and has resided in said County of Reeves for at least six months next preceding the filing of this suit; that on or about the 1st day of January, A. D. 1903, plaintiff was lawfully married to defendant in Brewster County, Texas, plaintiff then being a single woman by the name of Marie Baldez; that they continued to live together as husband and wife until about the 1st day of November 1910, and during all the time they lived together as aforesaid, plaintiff was always kind and affectionate to her said husband and was ever mindful of her marital duties toward him, and did all in her power to make him a good and faithful wife, but the defendant unmindful of his duties and obligations towards plaintiff, and without any cause whatever, left her with the intention of abandonment, and did permanently abandon plaintiff, and their children, and left her to make a living for herself and children, and has not contributed anything to the support of plaintiff or her children for more than three years next preceding the filing of this suit. That said abandonment has been for a period of more than three years. That plaintiff does not know the whereabouts of defendant, and does not know his place of residence. Therefore plaintiff prays the Court that defendant be cited by publication to appear and answer herein, and for judgment dissolving said marriage relations, for costs of suit, etc.

Herein fail not, but have you before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness Willie-de Woods Clerk of the District Court of Reeves County.

Given under my hand and the seal of said Court, at office in Pecos, Texas, this the 9th day of October, 1916.

IMPORTANT NOTICE!
With the exception of black ink, all raw materials used in manufacture of a newspaper have advanced in cost during the past twelve months approximately 100 per cent. This means that it will cost your publisher practically double to supply you with a newspaper the coming year.
Under stress of these unusual conditions, The Star-Telegram has been forced to increase its "Bargain Days" rate from $3.25 to $3.65. An increase of 40c per year (3 1-3c per month) or 12 per cent. Based on the conservative estimate increase in production cost of 100 per cent, under this price the division of added expense will be as follows:
Increased expense to The Star-Telegram 66%
Increased expense to The Reader 12%
This situation means that after "Bargain Days" the regular rate of $3.00 per year must be strictly enforced. We have battered the price to the very bottom in order to protect our Annual Subscription Cheap Rate Period, which has been in effect since the establishment of The Star-Telegram.
Do not take chances, save the $2.25, by ordering before Bargain Days expire. Take advantage of the $3.65 rate.
The high standard of The Star-Telegram will be maintained as long as there is a Star-Telegram regardless of any war burdens.

COTTON, GRAIN AND STEEL PRICES SOAR

SPOTS AT NEW ORLEANS ADVANCE NEARLY $4 A BALE TO HIGHEST IN 50 YEARS.

MINNEAPOLIS WHEAT IS $2

United States Steel on New York Stock Exchange Sets New Record at 12 3/4.

New Orleans, La.—Cotton was lifted nearly $4 a bale to new high levels for the season on this market Monday on heavy buying, which seemed to be the result of early bull sentiment. Late in the session trading months were 74 to 80 points up. The close was a net gain of 71 to 74 points. The July option sold up to 19.26c.

Leading long operators predicted cotton on its way to 25c a pound, and this brought many buying orders. Spot prices were lifted 44 points to 18.13c, the highest level in nearly 50 years.

U. S. Steel Sets New Record.

New York.—United States steel made a new high record in Monday's market, a block of 3,100 shares changing hands at 120 3/4. This exceeds its previous maximum by one-eighth of a point. Later steel touched 121. Other industrial shares, particularly the steel and iron issues, sugar, Central Leather and moderately priced rails were higher by 2 to 6 points.

Steel ascended to the new high price of 12 3/4 during the noon hour for the first time in its history, passing the preferred stock, which was quoted at one-fourth of a point under that price.

Cash Wheat $2 at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Five thousand bushels of No. 1 durum wheat sold in the cash market here at $2 a bushel. The wheat was purchased by a local concern from another local concern for milling purposes. Several cars of Montana durum, to arrive, sold at the same price.

Flour prices increased 20c to 50c a barrel as a result of the bullish condition of the wheat market and reports of a strong foreign demand.

Fancy patents, which sold Saturday at $9.35, were quoted at $10.55. This grade of flour has increased 65c a barrel in one week.

Wheat $1.75 at Chicago.

Chicago.—Wheat prices made a sensational fresh jump upward of more than 5c a bushel. The December option reached $1.75 7/8 and May $1.75 3/4. Prodigious buying accompanied the advance. Estimates that the world's crop was 25 per cent under last year's total tended to emphasize the shortage in the United States and so, too, did dwindling receipts in the northwest on both sides of the Canadian line.

THIRD DISASTER ON LAKE ERIE.

Vessel Pounds to Pieces in Gale, Carrying 21 to Death.

Cleveland, Ohio.—Storm-swept Lake Erie Friday gave up another fragment of the story of its "black Friday"—another vessel pounded to pieces carrying 21 men to their deaths. The last vessel is the James B. Colgate. It's lone survivor, adrift 80 1/2 hours on a raft, brought the story ashore.

Every one of the crew of 21 perished, 19 of them sucked down to death the instant the big steel boat foundered in the storm, adding two to the roll when exhaustion and the relentless waves watching over the raft that carried their captain, washed them off when their strength gave way.

The Colgate went down the night of what came to be known in marine circles as "black Friday." Six men were lost when the steamer Filler sank in Lake Erie Friday, only Captain Mattison being saved. Early that same night the steamer Marshal F. Bitters foundered, but its crew of 13 were saved.

EASY TO MASTER

UNDERSTANDING OF HOMELY "SQUARE" REALLY IS SIMPLE.

Most Useful Tool Requires Little Study—Explanation of Its Value and Properties Makes the Principle Plain.

Perhaps there is no other tool among the many used by the mechanic so useful as the steel square, or carpenter's square. Although there are a number of marks and figures on the steel square there is nothing complicated or that requires any knowledge above the ordinary to be able to use it in many cases, and after a few hours' careful study every mark should be clearly understood.

The long arm of the square is called the body and the short arm is called the tongue. The junction between the body and the tongue on the outside is called the heel. The body of a standard steel square is two inches wide and 24 inches long, the tongue is from 14 to 18 inches long and one and one-half inches wide.

In this article the face of the square will be that side toward the observer when the body of the square is held in the left hand and the tongue in the right. This is true except with the Nicholas square, which will be taken up later. The most important marks on the steel square are its graduations, which are divided into inches and fractions of an inch. It is just as necessary that the graduations be perfect as for the body to be at right angles with the tongue. The inch may be divided into eighths, sixteenths or twelfths.

The first scale we will try to describe will be the octagon scale. This scale is on the face of the tongue of the square and is shown by dots along the middle, the marks being numbered in tens, the first number being two inches from the heel. The octagon scale is used as follows: Let it be required to make an octagonal or eight-sided post from a stick of timber 12 inches by 12 inches. First divide the end of the stick into four equal parts by lines parallel to the faces, now set off from each side of the center line on each face as many spaces from the octagon scale as the timber is inches square, in this case it would be 12. These points represent the angles of the octagon.

The brace scale, which is on the middle of the back of the tongue of the square, consists of two equal numbers placed one over the other which represents the two legs of a right angle triangle the hypotenuse of this triangle. Some squares have the two legs unequal but the scale is used the same way. The use will be seen from the following: Let it be required to put a brace between a post and a beam 39 inches on the post and 39 inches on the beam, by looking at the scale we find the brace must be cut 55.16 inches long.

Russian Enterprise.

The enterprise of the Russian peasants is continually giving evidence of the nation's readiness for progress. The phenomenal success of the consumers' leagues has enabled the establishment of numerous factories and distributing centers on capital owned by the peasants themselves. The mistaken impression of the mujik as a moneyless dweller on the soil is brought into sharp contrast by the realization that the Russian peasant is now thrifly investing his savings in industrial enterprises. Thus, the credit society of Sapojok, government of Riazan, has just bought a factory for the purpose of manufacturing agricultural machinery for 23,000 rubles. Members of the society alone will be employed in making the winnowing and crushing machines.

Chinese Women Students in Japan.

Chinese girl students in Tokyo are no longer the curiosity that they were in former years, there being scarcely any girls' school in the metropolis but has among its students young ladies from China. Many of these girls are studying to become teachers, others are only anxious to acquire new knowledge and become worthy citizens of their country. There are 20 Chinese women, mostly married, studying at Mme. Yoshioka's Medical School for Women, Kawadacho, Ichigaya. These naturally wish to go into practice when they have completed their studies.—Herald of Asia.

At Daggers Drawn.

"They say the soprano and contralto are bitter enemies." "Bitter? Why, they won't even write testimonials for the same brand of face powder."

A Burning Ambition.

"I am afraid De Binks is going to have hot times breaking into society." "How so?" "He went to some boiling springs resort to get into the swim."

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—In Wellston, Texas, it becomes with Buckley Duane a case of fight or run from Cal Bain. Duane kills his man and becomes an outlaw.

CHAPTER II—He meets Luke Stevens, an outlaw.

CHAPTER III.

Late that day, a couple of hours before sunset, Duane and Stevens, having rested their horses in the shade of some mesquites near the town of Mercer, saddled up and prepared to move.

His pause was significant. He grinned, and his brown eyes danced with a kind of wild humor.

"Stevens, have you got any money?" asked Duane.

"Money!" exclaimed Luke blankly. "Say, I haven't owned a two-bit piece since—well, fer some time."

"I'll furnish money for grub," returned Duane. "And for whisky, too, providing you hurry back here—without making trouble."

"Shore you're a downright good pard," declared Stevens, in admiration, as he took the money. "I give my word, Buck, an' I'm here to say I never broke it yet. Lay low, an' look fer me back quick."

With that he spurred his horse and rode out of the mesquites toward the town. At that distance, about a quarter of a mile, Mercer appeared to be a cluster of low adobe houses set in a grove of cottonwoods. Pastures of alfalfa were dotted by horses and cattle. Duane saw a sheep herder driving in a meager flock.

Presently Stevens rode out of sight into the town. Duane waited, hoping the outlaw would make good his word. Probably not a quarter of an hour had elapsed when Duane heard the clear reports of a Winchester rifle, the clatter of rapid hoofbeats, and yells unmistakably the kind to mean danger for a man like Stevens. Duane mounted and rode to the edge of the mesquites.

"Was jest comin' out of the store," yelled Stevens. "Run plumb into a rancher—who knowed me. He opened up with a rifle. Think they'll chase us."

They covered several miles before there were any signs of pursuit, and when horsemen did move into sight out of the cottonwoods Duane and his companion steadily drew farther away.

Stevens was pale, and his face bore beads of sweat. The whole front of his shirt was soaked with blood.

"You're shot!" cried Duane. "Wal, who said I wasn't? Would you mind givin' me a lift—on this here pack?"

Duane bade him sit down, removed his shirt, and washed the blood from his breast and back. Stevens had been shot in the breast, fairly low down, and the bullet had gone clear through him. His ride, holding himself and that heavy pack in the saddle, had been a feat little short of marvelous. Duane did not see how it had been possible, and he felt no hope for the outlaw. But he plugged the wounds and bound them tightly.

"Feller's name was Brown," Stevens said. "Me an' him fell out over a hoss I stole from him over in Huntsville. We had a shootin' scrape then. Wal, as I was standin' my hoss back there in Mercer I seen this Brown, an' seen him before he seen me. Could have killed him, too. But I wasn't breakin' my word to you. I kind of hoped he wouldn't spot me. But he did—an' jest shot he got me here. What do you think of this hole?"

"It's pretty bad," replied Duane; and he could not look the cheerful outlaw in the eyes.

"Reckon we'd better keep right on in the dark—till I drop," continued Stevens, with a laugh.

All that night Duane, gloomy and thoughtful, attentive to the wounded outlaw, walked the trail and never halted. Dawn caught the fugitives at a green camping site on the bank of a rocky little stream. Stevens fell a dead weight into Duane's arms, and one look at the haggard face showed Duane that the outlaw had taken his last ride. He knew it, too. Yet that cheerfulness prevailed.

"Buck, will you take off my boots?" he asked, with a faint smile on his pallid face.

Duane removed them, wondering if the outlaw had the thought that he did not want to die with his boots on. Stevens seemed to read his mind.

"Buck, my old daddy used to say that I was born to be hanged. But I wasn't—an' dyin' with your boots on is the next wust way to croak."

"You've a chance to—get over this," said Duane.

"Shore. But I want to be correct about the boots—an' say, pard, if I do go over, jest you remember that I was appreciatin' your kindness."

"Be quiet," said Duane. "Talking uses up your strength."

"Aw, I'll talk till I'm done," he replied, doggedly. "See here, pard, you can gamble on what I'm tellin' you. An' it'll be useful. From this camp we'll—you'll meet men right along. An' none of them will be honest men. All the same, some are better'n others. I've lived along the river for twelve years. There's three big gangs of outlaws. King Fisher—you know him, I reckon, fer he's half the time livin' among respectable folks. King is a good feller. It'll do to tie up with him an' his gang. Now, there's Cheseldine, who hangs out in the Rim Rock way up the river. He's an outlaw chief. I never seen him, though I stayed once right in his camp. Late years he's got rich, an' keeps back pretty well hid. But Bland—I knowed Bland fer years. An' I haven't any use fer him. Bland has the biggest gang. You ain't likely to miss strikin' his place sometime or other. He's got a regular town, I might say. Shore there's some gamblin' an' gun-fightin' goin' on in Bland's camp all the time. Bland has killed some twenty men, an' that's not countin' greasers."

Here Stevens took another drink, and then rested for a while.

"You ain't likely to get on with Bland," he resumed presently. "You're too strappin' big an' good-lookin' to please the chief. Fer he's got women in his camp. Then he'd be jealous of your possibilities with a gun. Shore I reckon he'd be careful, though. Bland's no fool, an' he loves his hide. I reckon any of the other gangs would be better for you when you ain't goin' it alone."

"Feller's name was Brown," he rambled. "We fell out—over a hoss I stole from him—in Huntsville. He stole it fust. Brown's one of them sneaks—afraid of the open—he steals an' pretends to be honest. Say, Buck, maybe you'll meet Brown some day—You an' me are pards now."

"I'll remember, if I ever meet him," said Duane.

That seemed to satisfy the outlaw. Presently he tried to lift his head, but had not the strength. A strange shade was creeping across the bronzed, rough face.

"My feet are pretty heavy. Shore you got my boots off?"

Duane held them up, but was not certain that Stevens could see them. The outlaw closed his eyes again and muttered incoherently. Then he fell asleep. Toward sundown Stevens awoke, and his eyes seemed clearer. Duane went to get some fresh water, thinking his comrade would surely want some. When he returned Stevens made no sign that he wanted anything. There was something bright about him, and suddenly Duane realized what it meant.

Duane buried him in a shallow arroyo and heaped up a pile of stones to mark the grave. That done, he saddled his comrade's horse, hung the weapons over the pommel, and, mounting his own steed, he rode down the trail in the gathering twilight.

CHAPTER IV.

Two days later, about the middle of the forenoon, Duane dragged the two horses up the last ascent of an exceedingly rough trail and found himself on top of the Rim Rock, with a beautiful, green valley at his feet, the yellow, sluggish Rio Grande shining in the sun, and the great, wild mountainous barren of Mexico stretching to the south.

No wonder outlaws were safe in that wild refuge! Duane had spent the last two days climbing the roughest and most difficult trail he had ever seen. From the looks of the descent he imagined the worst part of his travel was yet to come.

The trail proved to be the kind that could not be descended slowly. He kept dodging rocks which his horses loosed behind him. And in a short time he reached and rode down the green retreat, wondering what would be his reception.

The valley was much larger than it had appeared from the high elevation. Well watered, green with grass and tree, and farmed evidently by good hands, it gave Duane a considerable surprise. Horses and cattle were everywhere. Every clump of cottonwoods surrounded a small adobe house. Duane saw Mexicans working in the fields and horsemen going to and fro. Presently he passed a house bigger than the others, with a porch attached. A woman, young and pretty, he thought, watched him from a door. No one else appeared to notice him.

Presently the trail widened into a road, and that into a kind of square lined by a number of adobe and log buildings of rudest structure. Within sight were horses, dogs, a couple of steers, Mexican women with children, and white men, all of whom appeared to be doing nothing. His advent created no interest until he rode up to the white men, who were lolling in the shade of a house. This place evidently was a store and saloon, and from the inside came a lazy hum of voices.

As Duane reined to a halt one of the loungers in the shade rose with a loud exclamation:

"Bust me if that ain't Luke's hoss!"

The others accorded their interest, if not assent, by rising to advance toward Duane.

"How about it, Euchre? Ain't that Luke's bay?" queried the first man.

"Plain as your nose," replied the fellow called Euchre.

"There ain't no doubt about that, then," laughed another, "fer Bosomer's nose is shore plain on the landscape."

These men lined up before Duane, and as he coolly regarded them he thought they could have been recognized anywhere as desperadoes. The man called Bosomer, who had stepped forward, had a forbidding face, which showed yellow eyes, an enormous nose, and a skin the color of dust, with a thatch of sandy hair.

"Stranger, who are you an' where in the h—l did you git that bay hoss?" he demanded. His yellow eyes took in Stevens' horse, then the weapons hung on the saddle, and finally turned their glinting, hard light upward to Duane.

Duane did not like the tone in which he had been addressed, and he remained silent. Something leaped inside of him and made his breast feel tight. He recognized it as that strange emotion which had shot through him often of late, and which had decided him to go out to the meeting with Bain. Only now it was different, and more powerful.

"Stranger, who are you?" asked another man, somewhat more civilly.

"My name's Duane," replied Duane, curtly.

"An' how'd you come by the hoss?" Duane answered briefly, and his words were followed by a short silence.

Bosomer appeared at the door, pushing men who tried to detain him, and as he jumped clear of a last reaching hand, he uttered a snarl like an angry dog. Bland and the other outlaws quickly moved aside, letting Duane stand alone. When Bosomer saw Duane standing motionless and watchful, a strange change passed quickly in him. He halted in his tracks, and as he did that the men who had followed him out piled over one another in their hurry to get to one side.

Duane saw all the swift action, felt intuitively the meaning of it, and in Bosomer's sudden change of front. The outlaw was keen, and he had expected a shrinking, or at least a frightened antagonist. Duane knew he was neither. He felt like iron, and yet thrill after thrill ran through him. The outlaw had come out to kill him. And now, though somewhat checked by the stand of a stranger, he still meant to kill. But he did not speak a word. He remained motionless for a long moment, his eyes pale and steady, his right hand like a claw.

That instant gave Duane a power to read in his enemy's eyes the thought that preceded action. But Duane did not want to kill another man. Still, he would have to fight, and he decided to cripple Bosomer. When Bosomer's hand moved Duane's gun was spouting fire. Two shots only—both from Duane's gun—and the outlaw fell with his right arm shattered. Bosomer cursed harshly, and floundered in the dust, trying to reach the gun with his left hand. His comrades, however, seeing that Duane would not kill unless forced, closed in upon Bosomer and prevented any further madness on his part.

Of the outlaws present Euchre appeared to be the one most inclined to lend friendliness to curiosity; and he led Duane and the horses away to a small adobe shack. He tied the horses in an open shed and removed their saddles. Then, gathering up Stevens' weapons, he invited his visitor to enter the house.

It had two rooms—windows without coverings—bare floors. One room contained blankets, weapons, saddles and bridles; the other a stone fireplace, rude table and bench, two bunks, a box cupboard, and various blackened utensils.

"Make yourself to home as long as you want to stay," said Euchre. "I ain't rich in this world's goods, but I own what's here, an' you're welcome."

"Thanks. I'll stay awhile and rest. I'm pretty well played out," replied Duane.

Euchre gave him a keen glance.

"Go ahead an' rest. I'll take your horses to grass."

Euchre left Duane alone in the house. Duane relaxed then, and mechanically he wiped the sweat from his face. He was laboring under some kind of a spell or shock which did not pass off quickly. When it had worn away he took off his coat and belt and made himself comfortable on the blankets. And he had a thought that, if he rested or slept, what difference would it make on the morrow? No rest, no sleep could change the gray outlook of the future. He felt glad when Euchre came bustling in, and for the first time he took notice of the outlaw.

Euchre was old in years. What little hair he had was gray, his face clean shaven and full of wrinkles; his eyes were half shut from long gazing through the sun and dust. He stooped. But his thin face denoted strength and endurance still unimpaired.

"Hev a drink or a smoke?" he asked. Duane shook his head. He had not been unfamiliar with whisky, and he had used tobacco moderately since he was sixteen. But now, strangely, he felt a disgust at the idea of stimulants. He did not understand clearly what he felt. There was that vague idea of something wild in his blood, something that made him fear himself.

Euchre wagged his old head sympathetically. "Reckon you feel a little sick. When it comes to shootin', I run. What's your age?"

"I'm twenty-three," replied Duane. Euchre showed surprise. "You're only a boy! I thought you thirty anyways. Buck, I heard what you told Bland, an' reckon't that with my own figgerin'; I reckon you're no criminal yet. Throwin' a gun in self-defense—that ain't no crime!"

Duane, finding relief in talking, told more about himself.

"Huh," replied the old man. "I've seen hundreds of boys come in on the dodge. Most of them, though, was no good. An' that kind don't last long. This river country has been an' is the refuge for criminals from all over the states. I've bunked with bank cashiers, forgers, plain thieves, an' out-an-out murderers, all of which had no bizness on the Texas border. Fellers like Bland are exceptions. He's no Texan—you seen that. The gang he rules here come from all over, an' they're tough cusses, you can bet on that. They live fat an' easy. If it wasn't fer the fightin' among themselves, they'd shore grow populous. The Rim Rock is no place for a peaceable, decent feller. I heard you tell Bland you wouldn't like to join his gang. They'll not make him take a likin' to you. Have you any money?"

"Not much," replied Duane.

"When the money's gone how will you live? There ain't any work a decent feller could do. You can't herd with greasers. Why, Bland's men would shoot at you in the fields. What'll you do, son?"

"God knows," replied Duane, hopelessly. "I'll make my money last as long as possible—then starve."

"Wal, I'm pretty pore, but you'll never starve while I got anythin'."

Here it struck Buck again—that something human and kind and eager which he had seen in Stevens. Duane's estimate of outlaws had lacked this quality. He had not accorded them any virtues. To him, as to the outside world, they had been merely vicious men without one redeeming feature.

"I'm much obliged to you, Euchre," replied Duane. "But of course I won't live with anyone unless I can pay my share."

"Have it any way you like, my son," said Euchre, good-humoredly. "You make a fire, an' I'll set about gettin' grub. I'm a sour-dough, Buck. They man doesn't live who can beat my bread."

"How do you ever pack supplies in here?" asked Duane, thinking of the almost inaccessible nature of the valley.

"Some comes across from Mexico, an' the rest down the river. That river trip is a bird. It's more'n five hundred miles to any supply point, Bland has mozos, greaser boatmen. Sometimes, too, he gets supplies in from down-river. You see, Bland sells thousands of cattle in Cuba. An' all this stock has to go down by boat to meet the ships."

"Where on earth are the cattle driven down to the river?" asked Duane.

"That's not my secret," replied Euchre shortly. "Fact is, I don't know. I've rustled cattle for Bland, but he never sent me through the Rim Rock with them."

Duane experienced a sort of pleasure in the realization that interest had been stirred in him. He was curious about Bland and his gang, and glad to have something to think about. For every once in a while he had a sensation that was almost like a pang. He wanted to forget. In the next hour he did forget, and enjoyed helping in the preparation and eating of the meal.

during which the men looked at him. Bosomer began to twist the ends of his beard.

"Reckon he's dead, all right, or nobody'd hev his hoss an' guns," presently said Euchre.

"Mister Duane," began Bosomer, in low, stinging tones, "I happen to be Luke Stevens' side pardner."

Duane looked him over, from dusty, worn-out boots to his slouchy sombrero. That look seemed to inflame Bosomer.

"An' I want the hoss an' them guns," he shouted.

"You or anybody else can have them, for all I care. I just fetched them in. But the pack is mine," replied Duane. "And, say, I befriended your pard. If you can't use a civil tongue you'd better cench it."

"Civil? Haw, haw!" rejoined the outlaw. "I ain't takin' your word!

own what's here, an' you're welcome."

SHERIFF'S SALE

The State of Texas, County of Reeves.

By virtue of a certain order of sale issued out of the honorable district court of Erath county, on the 21st day of October, 1916, by the clerk of said court against J. Lee Carlisle for the sum of one hundred ninety-three and 40/100 ($193.40) dollars and costs of suit in cause No. 4216 in said court, styled W. H. Crouse versus J. Lee Carlisle and placed in my hands for service, I, Tom Harrison, as sheriff of Reeves county, Texas, did, on the 23rd day of October, 1916, levy upon certain real estate, situated in Reeves county, described as follows, to-wit: The north one-half of section No. 4, block No. 6, H. & G. N. R. R. Co. survey, in Reeves county, Texas, and levied upon as the property of said J. Lee Carlisle, and on Tuesday, the 5th day of December, 1916, at the court house door of Reeves county, in the town of Pecos, Texas, between the hours of ten a. m. and four p. m. I will sell said real estate at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said J. Lee Carlisle by virtue of said levy and said order of sale, and in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Enterprise, a newspaper published in Reeves county.

Witness my hand, this 25th day of October, 1916.

Tom Harrison, Sheriff
Reeves county, Texas.
By Henry Kerr, Deputy.

NOTICE BY PUBLICATION

R'y Co. survey, Reeves county, which said land is delinquent for taxes for the following amount: $20.30 for state and county taxes, and you are hereby notified that suit has been brought by the State for the collection of said taxes, and you are commanded to appear and defend such suit at the November term of the district court of Reeves county, and State of Texas, to be held in Pecos, Texas, on November 20th, 1916, the style of the suit being The State of Texas vs. Frank Black, No. 225A, and show cause why judgment shall not be rendered condemning said land (or lot), and ordering sale and foreclosure thereof for said taxes and costs of suit.

Witness my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Pecos, Texas, this 10th day of October, A. D. 1916.

Willie-de Woods, Clerk,
District court, Reeves county,
Texas. [Seal]
By Lila Williams, Deputy.

Citation.

The State of Texas.
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Reeves County—Greeting:
You are hereby commanded to summon Martin Skove, J. R. Bruce and G. F. Ray by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Reeves County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Pecos, Texas, on the Third Monday in November, 1916, the same being the 20th day of November 1916, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 24th day of August, 1916, in a suit, numbered on the Docket of said Court No. 1646 wherein E. B. Anderson, is Plaintiff, and Martin Skove, H. M. Carl, J. R. Bruce, G. F. Ray and A. C. Keinath are Defendants, and said petition alleging that on April 7th, 1911, defendant Martin Skove executed and delivered to defendants, H. M. Carl, G. F. Ray and J. R. Bruce, his ten promissory notes for the sum of $185.00 each, numbered from one to ten inclusive, all bearing date April 7th, 1911, due in one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine and ten years from date respectively, payable to defendants, bearing 8 per cent interest from date, bearing 10 per cent attorney's fees, and providing that a failure to pay any one of said notes or any installment of interest thereon when due should mature all of said notes. That said notes were given for a part of the purchase money of the following described tract or parcel of land, situated in Reeves County, Texas, to-wit: All of Block No. Fifteen, in Section No. 207, of the Toyah Valley Grape and Alfalfa Company's Subdivision of Sections 207, 255, 265, 271, North 1-2 and S.W. 1-4 of 266, N. 1-2 of 270 and the East 280 acres of the S. 1-2 of 256, all in Block No. 13, of the H. & G. N. R. R. Company's survey, in said Reeves County, Texas. That said property was on said 7th day of April, 1911, conveyed to the defendant, Martin Skove by the defendants, Carl, Ray and Bruce, by their deed of said date, in consideration among other things of the ten notes herein described, and in said deed and in said notes a lien was reserved to secure the payment of said notes. That thereafter, for a valuable consideration and before the maturity of said notes, the defendants, Carl, Ray and Bruce, sold and transferred eight of said notes, being numbered from three to ten respectively, to Edward M. Holt, and that afterwards, Delia B. Holt, the widow and administrator of the estate of Edward B. Holt, deceased, sold and transferred said notes to the plaintiff, E. B. Anderson, who is now the owner and holder thereof. That two of said series of notes, to-wit, notes Nos. three and four, are long past due and unpaid, and that no part of the interest of any of said series of notes has ever been paid, and the plaintiff has declared all eight of said notes due and payable, and has placed same in the hands of his attorney, J. A. Drane, Esq., and has contracted to pay said attorney the 10 per cent stipulated in said notes for bringing said suit. That defendants, H. M. Carl, G. F. Ray, J. R. Bruce and A. C. Keinath, are each and all claiming some interest in the property herein described, which interest plaintiff alleges is inferior to his vendor's lien and they are made parties hereto that said claim or interest may be barred. Plaintiff prays judgment for the amount of his debt, and for foreclosure of his lien on the above described property, and for judgment barring the interest or claim of the defendants, H. M. Carl, G. F. Ray, J. R. Bruce and A. C. Keinath, and for his costs of suit.

Herein Fail Not, but have you before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness Willie-de Woods Clerk of the District Court of Reeves County.

Given under my hand and the seal of said Court, at office in Pecos, Texas, this 20th day of September, 1916.
