Biggest Snow in Several Years Falls Here

FOUR AND A HALF INCHES FOLLOWED BY SLOW RAIN AND MORE SNOW MAKES CATTLEMEN HAPPY

The big snow which fell Monday afternoon and night was probably the heaviest to fall in Reeves county in seven or eight years, and the heaviest to fall this early in the season for many years.

This snow was very heavy and contained much water which will be worth many thousands of dollars to the stockmen.

Judging from reports from other parts of the State the snow was lighter and in many places sleet and rain accompanied the snow.

Stockmen in Reeves county say their stock suffered very little during the snow as there was not much wind and the temperature was not so low, and the spell was followed by warm days.

Early this morning a slow rain began falling continuing until daylight, when it turned to snow, and as this issue goes to press a very heavy snow is falling which bids fair to outstrip that which fell the forepart of the week.

War Risk Department Issues Instructions

SOLDIERS MAY CONTINUE INSURANCE IN CIVILIAN LIFE —PREMIUMS WILL BE PAID TO U. S. TREASURER

Section 404 of the Act of Congress continuing the war risk insurance after the war was emphasized in a memorandum from the headquarters of the Southern Department received at the local bureau this week.

"It is the privilege of the men in the service to continue Government insurance after leaving the service of the United States. Premiums will be paid by check or money order payable to the order of the Treasurer of the United States, and will be sent direct to the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, Treasury Department, at Washington, D. C.

W. H. Kemper, field examiner for this district, said that if it becomes necessary to communicate with the Bureau of War Risk Insurance with reference either to war risk insurance or allotments and allowances or compensations for disability resulting from injuries sustained or disease contracted in line of duty while in the service of the United States, the communications should be made out in special form.

Name in full, army serial number, date of enlistment, date of discharge and rank and organization at the time of executing the allotment or insurance application.

Mr. Kemper said that the order was not new, but only made to re-inform the men and relatives of the men in the service of the future of the insurance. The section of the bill is as follows:

Section 404. That during the period of the war and thereafter until converted the insurance shall be term insurance for the successive terms of one year each. Not later than five years after the date of the termination of the war as declared by proclamation of the President of the United States, the term insurance shall be converted, without medical examination, into such form or forms of insurance as may be prescribed by regulations and as the insured may request.

Statewide Prohibition Law Declared Invalid

HIGHER COURT SO DECLARES AND REFUSE REHEARING OF CASE—ONLY ONE MEMBER OF COURT DISSENTS

Austin, November 27.—The Attorney General's motion for a rehearing in the statewide prohibition test case was overruled by the Court of Criminal Appeals today.

Judge Prendergast dissented. However, the Attorney General has held the portions of the act which forbid transportation, receiving and delivery of intoxicating liquors to be unaffected by the decision of the Court of Criminal Appeals.

The Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railroad has appealed to the Third Court of Civil Appeals to dissolve the injunction, and the constitutionality of these features of the law will likely be carried to the Supreme Court.

The telegram brought forth the following statement from Mr. McAdoo: "Well, I'm glad somebody appreciates my financial straits. Mr. McAdoo was in Atlanta when the contents of the message were made known to him, on a trip of inspection. He added that he intended to resume the practice of law.

War Lords of Austria to Face Trial

EMPEROR CHARLES AND MANY GENERALS INVOLVED AS INSTIGATORS—ALL WAR DOCUMENTS TO BE PUBLISHED

Many of the noted leaders among the Allies have hinted that peace negotiations will not be successfully brought about until the instigators of the world war are brought to trial and, of course, justly dealt with.

This vein of public opinion in the Allied countries, especially in England, has caused a statement to be issued from the Austrian government, making it plain that it intends to fix the blame for the war on those who were guilty. Among those who are to be tried are Count Berchtold, who was the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister when war broke out, and Count Czernin, foreign minister at a later period.

That the blame may be fixed the German-Austrian national council is negotiating with the Hungarian and Czech governments for the purpose of securing their cooperation in the publication of public war documents and in an investigation into the responsibility for the conduct of the war, says a Vienna paper, and adds that recent revelations show that former emperor Charles had secretly drawn 1,500,000 crowns on the army account, while charges involving archduke Frederick and other high officials, are, sure to be looked into.

The diplomatic investigation will be directed chiefly against count Berchtold, who was the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister at the beginning of the war, and count Czernin, later prime minister, the latter being accused of summarily rejecting alleged American peace proposals in the fall of 1917 and at the beginning of the war.

The statement made in Bavaria, discloses the fact that the late count Tisza, then Hungarian premier, was opposed to the hostile tone of the Austro-Hungarian ultimatum to Serbia, is said to conform with the facts. Count Stuerghk, the Austrian premier, on the other hand, is represented as having proceeded in the manner of a ruthless dictator.

In the meantime, the Austrians are frantic in their appeals for aid from the Allies. Without an immediate supply of food they say it will be almost impossible to preserve order among the people.

Citizens Join in Service of Thanksgiving

SPLENDID PROGRAM RENDERED AND COLLECTION TAKEN FOR CHARITY PURPOSES—OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

The Union Thanksgiving services were held at the Baptist church Thursday morning with H. L. Magee in charge. It was a splendid service and about one hundred of our citizens attended it.

The service was opened by singing "America." This was followed by prayer, led by Rev. W. A. Knight, after which the following program was carried out:

Hymn—"Count Your Many Blessings."

Scripture reading, by Bro. Magee. Prayer—Rev. Fred B. Faust.

Vocal Solo—"News From the Home Land," Miss Nannie Mae Collings. "This Thanksgiving Compared with Others of the Past"—Bro. Magee.

"Special Uses of Our Material Prosperity"—Bro. Faust.

"Sin of Ingratitude"—Rev. W. A. Knight.

The meeting closed with the election of officers of the United Charities Association and the taking of a collection for same, amounting to $33.50. The officers elected were:

W. W. Camp, president, S. M. Prewitt, vice-president, A. J. Curtis, secretary, H. A. Wren, treasurer.

Each subject was ably discussed and the Thanksgiving service was one of unusual interest.

The big Thanksgiving barbecue, which was to have been pulled off in Pecos yesterday, and for which all arrangements had been made, failed to materialize on account of the big snowfall and consequent bad weather, so the Enterprise is informed.

It certainly would have been a sloppy time and many in Pecos and Reeves county saved their usual Thanksgiving turkey in anticipation of the feast of barbecued beef, etc., which had been promised.

CONTRACTS AGGREGATING $19,051,000 ARE CANCELED

Contracts to the amount of $19,051,000, including those for 300 hydroplanes and naval supplies, have been canceled by the Navy Department since the signing of the armistice.

This information was given out by Rear Admiral Peoples this week in a report to the House Naval Committee which is framing the 1920 appropriation bill. Other contracts expected to be canceled will exceed $100,000,000, Admiral Peoples said, in addition to approximately $500,000,000 canceled by the Naval Ordnance Bureau.

Rear Admiral McGowan, Paymaster General, reduced his estimates for supplies, including pay of the navy, from $971,000,000 to $466,000,000.

FARMERS HAVE BORROWED $139,378,000 OF LOAN BANKS

Washington, Nov. 25.—Farmers have borrowed $139,378,000 from the twelve Federal Farm Loan Banks since their organization in March of last year.

In reporting this today the Farm Loan Board announced that capital stock of the banks, originally subscribed by the government has increased from $9,000,000 to $15,975,000 through additional subscriptions by Farm Loan Associations, and that bonds amounting to $140,122,000 have been issued.

The farmers are making their payments promptly. The report shows only $86,000 in loan overdue, and delinquency occurred almost entirely in sections where there had been crop failures.

Three banks, Wichita, Spokane and Houston have actually shown a surplus.

OPEN LETTER TO ROOSEVELT

The following letter appeared in the New York World: Dear Sir: In the face of this morning's message from the President to Germany, I feel impelled to write this public letter to you.

Both presidents who have followed you in the occupation of the most onerous and responsible position in the world today have suffered from your attacks, both insidious and open. The one an old friend and political comrade; the other a political opponent charged with a task beyond the power of any human being to perform...

But it is impossible for you to say nothing about anything. In this last fact lies perhaps the one thing which renders you powerless and harmless excepting to exasperate. We have been so long and so persistently inculcated with small doses of your venom, sometimes fevered and distressed by it, that when we are now exposed to the disease of Rooseveltism we do not take it; we remain uninfected and healthy.

Like begets like; so if you desire prosperity and happiness and success, think, talk and act these things and seek the company of those who are prosperous and happy and who live near to the heart of things that are worth while.

If, on the other hand, you enjoy being miserable and unsuccessful, emphasize that side of life, anticipate disaster and live in an atmosphere of gloom. Inevitably you will attract toward yourself people who are failures and your own skies will be lowering and laden.

HIS MANNERS AND KINDNESS TO CHILDREN CHARM OUR ALLIES WHILE HIS SLANG TICKLES THEM

"Sammy's" appearance, his social conduct, and conversation, to say nothing of his military prowess, has endeared him to all classes in France and England. French newspapers tell of his chivalrous attitude toward the fair sex generally, and his paternal and kindly way with children in war-racked villages; the English daily papers print columns about his alert, military bearing, and of the charm of his native slang.

"Sammy is my ward, and I like him. His face he describes as 'one of the sort that only mother could love,' but somehow 'lambent-jawed and high-cheeked as it is, it appeals to me."

"Even more than his face I like his conversation. His experiences during the war, I suppose are much the same as those of other men; his mode of relating them is peculiarly his own.

"Then they went into camp and spent their time 'hiking' about the countryside. The 'eats' here were not overgood. They were given tea which tasted like 'last water Noah kept afloat in' and fish 'that never was caught but must have given itself up.'"

"Ultimately he and his companions crossed to the front. The country pleased him but he found the language difficult and the French people slow of comprehension. On one occasion he wanted a pair of duck shoes, so he went to a boot-maker's and quacked—but he could not get the old 'dame wise to it.'"

"Hence his presence in the hospital. 'It is my duty to give Sammy his letters and to-day as he read a voluminous epistle his face brightened to such an extent that I was forced to inquire what good tidings had arrived. He hesitated, then grinned.

"I don't mind telling you nurse," he said. "It's my wife writing, and from what she says I calculate that when I get home there will be something besides a fence running around my little place in Seattle."

HUNS POISON WELLS AS THEY EVACUATE CITIES

Terms in the armistice plans provided for the evacuation of French and Belgium cities, and further, that no depredations should be committed on the inhabitants or their possessions. How they kept this promise is clearly set forth in the following, taken from the Literary Digest:

"A recent army order requires that we shall proceed in the future with more method and less haste in the destruction of property which has been marked out. Divisions have already been notified that they will be held responsible for building not destroyed in their area. In consequence, all preparations should be made by firing straw which has been collected."

"All soldiers are bound to assist to the best of their ability in the execution of this mission. The rear-guard battalion will select groups to complete the work of destruction. These detachments will not set fire to anything till three a. m. It will be remembered that there are means to defile all wells. Mines must not be exploded too soon. It is the duty of every man to cooperate in the work of destruction."

To Avoid and Relieve Influenza

BY DR. FRANKLIN DUANE

Many people have been frightened by what they have read or heard of influenza. The more you fear the disease, the sure you are to get it. Go right about your business and forget it.

If you have any of such symptoms as chilliness, nasal obstructions, flushed face, headache, feverishness, restlessness, weakness, or irritating cough, give up work at once and go to bed. This will save your strength to help overcome the disease. Put your feet in hot water for fifteen minutes.

To relieve nasal obstructions and excessive discharge from the nose, probably nothing is better than such a mild, soothing, antiseptic wash as Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It will give great relief. Employed as a gargle, in same strength as made up for use in the nose, and as hot as can be borne, it quickly arrests soreness and dryness in the throat.

Do That Cheering
When You Have Bought W.S.S.

The boys have kept their pledge. They have won the war. Have you kept your War Savings Stamp Pledge? Have you won the right to call yourself an American and meet these boys when they come home? Don't spend your time in cheering. Build up the number of War Savings Stamps you have. Don't wear the flag, or just wave it. Serve it by paying off that War Savings Stamp Pledge of yours. Don't take out your gratitude for victory in talking. Show it by hitting the line hard with your dollars and making it possible for the Government to pay the $50,000,000 it will cost every day for months to come to take care of these soldier boys and sailor laddies. If you are an American of the right sort, now is the time to prove it by the right sort of Americanism. Help your Government take care of its fighters by lending your money in War Savings Stamps.

MUST CONTINUE TO BUY W.S.S. TO TAKE CARE OF FIGHTERS

If the public has an idea that the coming of peace has eliminated expenses of the Government and that there no longer exists the necessity to save and economize and lend money to the Government by investing in War Savings Stamps, then the public is mistaken, it is pointed out by the Government in an official statement. Whether or not another gun is fired, the Government will be at an expense of about $50,000,000 every day, or $1,500,000,000 every month, to take care of its 3,764,000 men in France, Russia, Italy and in training camps. This expense will last for many months. It will take a year at the least to demobilize the army. Secretary of War Baker points out, and United States soldiers and sailors will probably remain for months on necessary police duty in Europe. The following figures are given by the Government to show just a tiny part of the expense it must bear in just taking care of American soldiers: The cost of bread alone for the army for one month amounts to $5,646,000. Subsistence for the army for just five days costs $7,528,000. Bacon alone for one month amounts to $8,410,000. Clothing, including blankets, adds $712,540,910 to the list. This does not include the cost of shoes, which comes to $127,140,260. These are just a few of the items, all of them absolutely necessary for the soldiers, which have to come out of that $50,000,000 a day. The Government must have the money to take care of these men. They gave up everything to go to France to fight and risk their lives to gain peace. They have won peace. Are the people of Texas going to let these soldiers go hungry, cold and without clothing now? That War Savings Stamp Pledge is a binding obligation. Every unpaid War Savings Pledge, bearing the signed agreement of the pledger, is held for collection by a designated agent of the United States Treasury Department. All necessary steps to bring about the liquidation of these pledges will be taken, but in addition to paying their pledges, the Government points out that it requires the assistance of all to meet the heavy expenses that are upon it and everyone is urged to buy War Savings Stamps regularly and as often as possible, and in addition to those already pledged. War Savings Stamps now mean food and clothing for United States soldiers. They must have these things.

Stop! Look! Loosen! Buy these U. S. Government War Savings Stamps you pledged yourself to get.

LAST WORD ABOUT GERMAN-MADE GOODS

carry through successfully a treacherous nation does not let its murders

Under the heading, "Mr. Buyer, It's Up to You," the Industrial Record, in no uncertain language blames the path that we should take with Germany in the marts of trade after the war. The article is intensively interesting, and should be carefully read by every American. As the caption intimates, the instrument of a just punishment for Kultur is in the hands of all who buy goods of any kind whatever. The article follows:

The other night one of General Pershing's boys went out into No Man's Land. He didn't come back. Three hours later a searching party went out to find him. That boy had been killed and his body hacked to bits. His comrades gathered up the remains and brought them back in a sack. That brave young American was "chopped to pieces with German cutlery. Before the war we bought two million dollars' worth of German pocket cutlery each year.

In the past three years American factories have vastly increased their output of pocket knives. Patterns have been simplified; quality has invariably been improved; an American industry has been encouraged and developed; "Made in Germany" on a knife blade carried in an American pocket has become but a distasteful memory.

Shall we be customers of these bloody-stained butchers after the war? I hardly think so, but it's up to you, Mr. Buyer.

A captured British officer was recently found with his throat cut from ear to ear. This brutal job had been done with a very keen-edged instrument. It was not the work of the trench-knife. The ghastly wound looked as if it had been done with a razor. It probably was. Before the war we imported annually half a million dollars' worth of razors from Germany.

Since the war began razor factories in the United States have enjoyed a greatly increased business. Their employees are well-paid, contented Americans. This industry must be perpetuated. German competition in the days to come should suffer a handicap in proportion to German crimes.

When the dove of peace lights in the pool of blood, shall we go on buying German razors? It doesn't seem possible, but, Mr. Buyer, it's up to you.

Two Canadian Red Cross nurses outraged. Their hands chopped off, and their tongues cut out that they might never tell the hideous story of the frightful wrongs perpetrated upon them. In America hundreds of thousands of Red Cross workers are using shears and scissors to make bandages. Before the war we bought 400,000 dozen shears and scissors from the Central Powers annually. American factories making shears and scissors are busy places now, and they are making good scissors and shears. After the war, German or American? Mr. Buyer, it's up to you.

Belgium, poor, brave, outraged little Belgium! When Germany threw to the winds a treaty she termed a "scrap of paper," she not only shredded her honor, but tore to bits business contracts that will never be pasted together again. America has fed starving Belgium. We fed, and clothed, and cared for her suffering people long before we became her proud ally on the battlefields. Thousands of orphaned Belgium and French children have been adopted into American homes. In the days to come are we going to force these children to play with German-made toys? God forbid! American toy manufacturers have stripped us of the last vestige of an excuse for the purchase of toys from the Huns. Our factories are making more toys than we ever imported, and they are not the flimsy jim-cracks we formerly bought from abroad. They are largely exercise toys which develop a child's body, or mechanical or structural toys which train the mind. Before the war we imported eight million dollars' worth of toys from the Central Powers. Who will make our kiddies' toys in the days to come? One more, Mr. Buyer, it's up to you.

A few weeks ago the Llandoverly Castle, a Red Cross hospital ship, was sunk by a German submarine. That great ship was fully equipped to care for wounded, suffering soldiers. Its only passengers were doctors and nurses. It was marked with a great red cross made of red electric lights. The sides of that ship were illuminated, showing for miles away the character of the vessel. There was no possible chance of mistaking the Llandoverly Castle for anything but a hospital ship. And damn them, they deliberately torpedoed that ship and took American doctors from open life boats and abused them. The ship of this distinctly British Act we have been pretty well trained to expect such atrocities from the Austrians and Germans, who have deliberately shot our doctors, outraged our nurses, bombed our hospitals and destroyed other hospital ships. It is kultur spelled with a "K."

Before the war we imported practically every surgical instrument used in America, not because we couldn't make them, but because the volume of such business was comparatively small and the Germans made a specialty of hand-made surgical tools. The other day in Washington I saw the set of surgical instruments adopted by the medical chief of our army. Practically every instrument could be readily made by any of our plier manufacturers and the orders are running into such quantities that they will be stamped out as are the American-made plier. In the days to come will those American surgeons who are seeing and caring for the thousands of victims of Hun atrocities ever permit themselves to forget sufficiently to purchase a surgical instrument made in Germany? Never! The memory of those doctors and nurses who lost their lives in the Llandoverly Castle murder cry in protest even against the thought. The Germans may ship their instruments over here without identifying marks. Not if true Americans are in the purchasing department. Is Germany's surgical instrument business dead in America? Mr. Buyer, it's up to you.

Say, loyal Americans, how would you have liked to have your wife in the town of Gembloux when it was captured by the Germans? Scores of innocent people were butchered there. The raping of women and young girls was common and continuous. One young woman was outraged by several soldiers, stripped naked and fastened to the door of her own home by a cutlass driven through her chest with sufficient force to hold her body to the heavy panels. Her breasts were brutally cut off and with her head hanging, and her hair flying in the wind, the body of that poor young martyr stiffened in death. Horrible! Yes more hideous than the Indian massacres that caused our pioneers to shudder in the early days of the West. Brutal and beastly! You may well thank God that your loved ones were not in Gembloux.

Before the war we imported annually millions of dollars' worth of kitchen enameled ware from Germany and Austria. These utensils were used in the kitchens of American homes. There was probably some of the same ware in the kitchen back of that blood-stained door in Gembloux.

Before the war American manufacturers made great strides in the manufacture of enameled wares. Their goods were favorably known in every state in the Union. Yet in every American town there was a line of heavy-coated colored wares and of white enameled wares that came from the Central Powers. The blockade against their shipping very quickly broke these foreign-made stocks and the odds and ends were cleared up with special sales. Complete lines of enameled wares made in our factories have replaced them. Will German and Austrian enameled wares go on our shelves again when the kaiser and his Prussian war maniacs are whipped? Will we swallow the story that all the Germans were forced into these atrocities with absolute proof that the Bavarians worked single-handed and in apparent glee at many of these hellish outrages? It would seem that a good American would starve rather than foul his lips with food from a German utensil. That's the way it looks, but after all it's up to one single class of Americans, over whose doors are letter the big word, "buyer."

Postal cards. We have used millions of them to say a brief hello to the folks at home when we were on the road. Postal card holiday greetings that could be written quickly and mailed with ease when pleasure or business, magnet-like, speeded the use we made of our time. For the past three years postal cards have frequently told brief stories so direct in their wording that the full shock of their horror equalled or excelled those telegrams from the War Department which are bringing home to us the price we are paying for democracy.

Imagine a postal card telling that your son had lost his third finger, deliberately cut from his hand that a Hun might become possessed of the ring he wore.

Picture the postal that told you of the burning of the lunatic asylum at Obourg, Belgium, and the frightful death of the 200 insane women who were being cared for in that institution.

fully tell of that French woman 80 years of age who was raped at La-houseoye.

Another mail and the postal that tells of the women and children at Mons, who were forced to march on their own soldiers, acting as a screen for the German troopers. Read that the fifty who refused to go were bayoneted.

You might receive fifty postals, each telling of similar acts which can be verified. Read and then calm yourself to the statistics that inform you that before the war we purchased souvenir post cards to the amount of nearly two million dollars from Germany annually.

Do it again? Surely not while we are in our right minds. Sign our names to a postal card made in that empire of rape? My God, no, and that we may never be tricked into unconscious violation of this just resolve, Mr. Buyer, it's up to you.

In that little French village within hearing of the incessant boom of the kaiser's cannon, Isaac Marcosson, that great American writer, applied for lodging one night at the cottage of an old French woman. She greeted him courteously, but before she asked him to sit down took him to the side of her fire-place and pointed to the wall. Pinned to a little French flag were three little metal tags with the identification numbers of her three sons. Below each tag was pinned the French Croix de Guerre. As Marcosson stood at salute, paying his silent tribute, she took from the mantel a French wrist watch. Her last boy had worn it until a German grenade had ended his brave effort to stem the unprovoked invasion of the land he loved better than life. One of his comrades had taken that watch from his wrist, wound it up and sent it back to the old mother in the village back of the Marne. It was still running when it was put into her trembling hands. To her the ticking of that watch, said Marcosson, is the beating of that boy's heart, and as it registers the passing of time it is also registering the passing of a cursed power that has been allowed for half a century to prepare for the brutal domination of the world. Is this just another story to tug at your heart strings? You be the judge. Before Germany and Austria turned loose their hellish hordes, we imported annually from them over a million dollars' worth of clocks and watches.

Millions of graves have been filled with brave young men who were alive, happy, and ambitious three years ago. The wrist watches of many of those boys have come back with their little tin tags. There is no necessity for us to buy time-pieces from these people who have so titanically and treacherously caused the death of the flower of this century's manhood. There are plenty of good clocks and watches manufactured right here at home and in the days to come keep that in mind, Mr. Buyer. You are going into the front line trenches to protect us from such merchandise. In the name of that old French mother, watch your step.

"Music, that sublime art which affects the passions by sound. Few of us who have not felt its charms and acknowledged its expressions to be intelligible to the heart."

Music outraged. Raise the curtain of Kultur ever so little and peek at those villages in France and Belgium occupied by the invaders. Before your ever-widening, horror-struck eyes, is an unearthly panorama of encouraged lust. Villages burning everywhere, the streets strewn with viciously flung bodies of the helpless inhabitants. From a house before you comes the terrified shrieks of a young girl who is being outraged. Suddenly the door of the house is burst open and an old man is hurled into the street. It is the grandfather of the girl who makes your blood run cold. He is seventy-five years of age, and has gone to her rescue. As the forcefully impelled body of that courageous old gentleman strikes on the cobble stones the crowd of half-drunk soldiers, on whose belts you see inscribed, "Gott is with us," begin jumping with fiendish glee upon him. Their heavy hob-nailed marching boots soon reduces his frail old body to a battered and bloody mass.

No. Mr. American, these are not hallucinations of your own imagining. They are actual sights made hideously clear by burning buildings which are being wantonly destroyed. Then you see a load of straw on a quaint two-wheeled cart coming down the street. It is stopped. Oil is thrown over it, and in its highly inflammable state the willing hands of the Huns throw it into a cellar where a large number of women and children have taken refuge. And then, merciful God, a laughing soldier of Wilhelm, the Brute of Berlin, scratches a German-made match and one more absolutely inhuman atrocity has blotched the historical page of a couple of nations whose thin veneer of civilization has been scraped away in a war that is but a few

W.S.S. FUND FOR EVERY FIGHTER

Every soldier, sailor and marine who returns home from the service should find a "fighting fund" waiting for him. Every home should commence building up this fund now by investing in United States War Savings Stamps and laying them aside to be given to the fighter upon his return.

If relatives and friends of the men who have achieved victory want to show their appreciation they will now commence putting aside War Savings Stamps to be presented to them on their return.

By doing this, it is pointed out by the Government, not only will there be a number of first-class Treasury securities paying good interest, to assist every fighter when he returns to civilian life, but the money invested in these War Savings Stamps will enable the Government to feed and clothe the soldier, sailor or marine until he is discharged. To properly care for its men until demobilization is made, the Government must spend in the neighborhood of $50,000,000 every day and, it is further pointed out, it will be approximately a year before the army can be demobilized and the fighters returned home.

Start that fund for that fighter now by investing in War Savings Stamps for him.

Show him that you appreciate what he has done.

Among the bits of choice German propaganda that was discovered recently was that learned through the arrest of a German agent who tried to stir up the negroes by telling them that the kaiser loves the black men, and after the war, he was planning to form a kingdom of several States for the negroes. One can imagine how the people of the Sunny South received such news.

SHIP YOUR CHRISTMAS PACKAGES BY DEC. 5TH

Indications point to the fact that the shipping of packages this Christmas will exceed that of any year known. For that reason the National Council of Defense and nearly every State Council have set December 5th as the last day Christmas packages might be forwarded.

Uncle Sam, who now controls the express companies of the country, wishes to impress on each person anticipating sending Christmas packages any distance to have the packages ready to go forward not later than December 5th. If all will observe this rule congestion at Christmas time will be avoided, your presents will get to your friends and relatives on time and in good shape. Also, the express employees will be able to have a few hours at Christmas time to enjoy the Christmas spirit.

WEEK OF PRAISE AND SELF-DENIAL IS OBSERVED

The Missionary Societies of the Methodist church held their annual praise and self-denial program last week at their church, the first of the programs being on Monday afternoon by the Adult Society, which was led by Mrs. Albert Sisk.

The Junior Society, under the supervision of Mrs. Hibdon, gave a program Sunday afternoon, and the Young People's Society, led by Miss Poe, gave a program Sunday evening just before the preaching service.

These programs were interesting and to the point, giving sketches of the life work of many of the missionaries. Liberal donations were made at each session for a retirement fund for retired missionaries.

W. S. S. PLEDGES FOR NOV. ARE PAYABLE BEFORE DEC 1

All War Savings Stamps pledges for November will be due for liquidation before December 1, it was announced this week by Louis Lipsitz, State Director of the War Savings Committee, who pointed out that the signing of the peace armistice does not release anyone from the pledge made to the U. S. Treasury Department to invest in War Stamps.

The war savings director also called attention to the fact that the expenses of the government, have not stopped but are going on at the rate of about $50,000,000 daily, or nearly $1,500,000,000 every month and that this expense will continue for months to come.

BAKER AND CROWDER ISSUE STATEMENTS

The following statements, showing the necessity for everyone to continue investing in War Savings Stamps and lending to the Government, have just been issued:

Secretary of War Baker says: "I think all Americans now recognize the fine record of our army, but we must not fail to appraise the work it has yet to do. Following the exhilaration of combat comes the tedium of peace, but the tasks of peace are infinitely important and we must uphold our sons as they perform them."

Provost Marshal General Crowder declares "Our boys will remain in the service for many weary months. New governments are not formed in a day. The period of reorganization and rehabilitation has to be gone through with. During this time the Allied soldiers will have to be the policemen of the world; they will be doing as valued services in the interest of world peace as they have done as world soldiers."

Both Secretary Baker and General Crowder point out the need of continued activity upon the part of every one in the interest of the Government. War Savings Stamp Pledges are binding obligations and are to be met as such, and at the same time, it is shown, every man and woman is expected to continue to be economical and invest as often and as much in War Savings Stamps as possible in addition to the amount already pledged.

W. S. S. PLEDGES MUST BE MET

Peace does not abrogate or affect in any way pledges made to the Treasury Department to invest in War Savings Stamps and the Government considers every War Savings Stamp Pledge a binding obligation upon the person who made it, expecting its full liquidation on or before the date on which the pledge matures. It is pointed out in an official notice from the War Savings section of the Treasury Department.

War Savings Stamp Pledges were personally signed by the persons who executed them and they are held for collection by designated agents of the Treasury Department. While it is desirable that War Savings Stamps be purchased through the Treasury agent who holds the pledge card, they may be purchased from any sales agency and will be credited upon the pledge.

The Government is now calling for the liquidation of all War Savings Pledges.

The Government has to spend about $5,000,000 daily to take care of those fighting boys of ours and if you appreciate victory and the work those fighters have done you will have to show it by lending to your Government which is now calling upon you. Get those War Savings Stamps.
