

RATTLE SNAKE BITE IS EASILY CURED

Since the Volsted act became effective the newspapers have been full of recipes for cures for snake-bites, the old recipe now bring of no avail. That splendid newspaper, the San Angelo Standard prints the following in a recent issue which may be of value to Enterprise readers:

During the last month rattle snake bites have caused the death of five persons in this section. In all of these cases the right sort of preventative steps could have saved the lives of these people. Snake bites should not be fatal. All physicians say that it is ignorance and carelessness that causes most deaths from snake bites. Perhaps most people know what to do when a snake fastens his fangs into you—if you don't you'll find the following article, based upon interviews with several physicians, well worth reading and perhaps saving:

Prepare for rattle snake bites. There are many snakes in this country. We see them every few days—we read of them killing people every year—yet few people prepare for the attack which comes ever so often to someone we know, and may come to us.

Every ranch house, every camping party, every automobile should have a small solution of permanganate of potash and a hypodermic syringe. The syringe costs about $2 and the solution of potash 50 cents. With this any snake bite can be so devitalized that the venom will lose its strength. Five or six shots of the solution about the wound will prevent all danger from a snake bite if administered within a reasonable time.

The first thing to do, however, is to tie a cord, handkerchief or anything that will bind between the wound and heart. That is if the wound is in the arm or leg, tie a cord about the arm or leg above the wound. Tie it tight so that the circulation of the blood will be shut off. This will prevent the poison from going directly to the heart. Take a knife and cut the flesh about the wound so that it will bleed freely, thus allowing as much as possible of the venom to flow away with the blood.

The ligature should be loosened for a few seconds every minute or two, to permit the circulation to continue for a few seconds. This allows the poison-laden blood to be assimilated in the system gradually and gives the system time to build up against it, while if the poison carrying blood were allowed to flow unrestrained to the heart, the shock would be too great for it to withstand and death would be almost certain to result. It is one of nature's greatest wonders, that no matter what the mishap may be to our body, immediately the body starts to work generating some sort of counter force that rebuilds the torn or contaminated member.

Kerosene—just old time coal oil—is one of the best known remedies for snake bites. Doctors say they'd about as soon risk that as a sure cure as any simple remedy. After binding above the wound, if possible submerge the entire wound in kerosene. If the wound is in such a place that this is impracticable, soak a heavy towel in kerosene and wrap it over the wound. As soon as the oil evaporates or runs off, repeat the operation. This, after the ligature has been tied, will form an antitoxin that will so subdue the effects of the wound that no disastrous results will follow.

Physicians recommend the old method of sucking the poison from the wound in case of snake bite if the other methods are found impossible. The practice is not as dangerous as some might suppose, physicians say, unless there is an open sore in the mouth. It is practically safe to suck the poison into the mouth, for the fluid is retained for the most part in the interior part of the mouth and is not likely to reach any portion which might become infected. The method of treatment is effective in drawing off a considerable part of the poison.

In case there is no one near who is in a position to suck the blood and poison from the wound cupping has been found effective. This treatment consists of placing hot water into a bottle and then, pouring the water from the bottle, apply the mouth of it to the wound. The heat in the bottle creates a vacuum which draws the flesh. In case no hot water is available, a small piece of paper may be lighted and inserted into the bottle and the same effect will be gained.—San Angelo Standard.

DADDY OF TRAINS STEAMS FOR ANOTHER RUN

In August, 1831, the DeWitt Clinton, first train of the Mohawk & Hudson Railroad, now of the New York Central lines, made its first trip from Albany to Schenectady. Times changed as man advanced and the little DeWitt Clinton gave way to its bigger and better fellows, the Pacific type locomotive which now hurls the Twentieth Century across country at 70 miles an hour.

All this time the little train has been kept intact and used as an exhibit. This month it comes to life again and will make the trip from New York to Chicago under its own power, where it will be on exhibit in the Pageant of Progress, to be held there the latter part of this month. The picture shows the DeWitt Clinton and Twentieth Century in New York Terminals.

MORNING CAPS

Every woman loves a morning cap and such dainty ones, as shown in the Bush Terminal Sales Building in New York, makes rising a pleasure. At the top is an exquisite cap of fine lace with rosebud trimmings and silk band and streamers. The cream colored lace and style of the cap in the center makes it quite charming. The Pullman cap at the bottom combines a thing of dainty beauty with real service to the woman who is traveling by train or automobile.

SHE DID NOT WORK FOR PAY

She never "earned" any money. She lives on an Ohio farm, but she lives on almost every other farm. She is somebody's mother, maybe your own. She has earned nothing. No, but her thirty working years, she has served 432,983 meals; she has made 3,123 garments, 32,000 loaves of bread, 5,930 cakes, 7,932 pies, 1,500 gallons of lard, she has grown 1,432 bushels of vegetables and 1,550 quarts of all kinds of fruits; she has raised 7,660 chickens, churned 5,430 pounds of butter, put up 3,625 jars of preserves, scrubbed 177,725 pieces of laundry; and she has put in 35,839 hours of sweeping and washing and scrubbing. At accepted prices for this work it is worth $115,485.50. She can't retire on her savings—she has to keep on. Not earning! No. How do you define the ordinary American woman's contribution to her family wealth—to the nation's wealth.—Collier's Weekly.

This story should be printed in every newspaper in the land. It is a story of millions of women. It is a tale that is not often told. Captains of industry are given pages. Military chieftains are pictured and portrayed. Prize fighters are worked upon by feature writers and camera photographers. Hundreds of newspapers and thousands of writers place in cold type the fistic glories of the champion maulers of the world and the promoters of the game. Woman is the maker of the home as well as its mistress. She is the one superb and never dying institution of the race. She makes the sacrifices; she toils from dawn until dark; her work is never ended until her eyelids are kissed down on the bed of death. She is the wealth maker of the world, but man may not believe it; she is the angel of mercy of the world and man knows it. All that is beautiful in the world, all that makes life worth the living are her mind creations and soul labors. Collier's printed the story, but it should be passed on and on and on.—For Worth Record.

PROTECTING AMERICAN CROP PLANTS FROM ALIEN ENEMIES

The Federal Government expends several million dollars annually in efforts to combat serious insects and plant diseases that have been brought here from foreign countries. Several thousand insects have been listed in foreign countries which are known to injure crops and which have not yet been brought to our shores. Many foreign-plant diseases are also known to occur, and it is of the utmost importance to prevent their reaching us. The Federal Horticultural Board, an independent branch of the Department of Agriculture, is endeavoring to keep as many of these alien enemies out of the country as practicable. Special quarantines have been issued and rigid attention is being given to the inspection of plants reaching us so as to avoid the introduction of the pests.

The Bureau of Plant Industry is desirous of encouraging in every way the production of promising new crops in this country, and its Office of Foreign Seed and Plant Introduction is cooperating with horticulturists and plant growers in aiding them in introducing new varieties of plants in such fashion that they will not bring in any diseases or insects. It is often necessary to introduce plants in very small numbers and to grow them for a considerable time either in green-houses or under very special conditions out of doors to make sure that all pests have been removed. When it is certain that the plants are freed of insects or diseases they then can be propagated more extensively and distributed to collaborators. In this way new crops are introduced without danger to the country.

BUREAUS OF MARKETS AND CROP ESTIMATES COMBINED

As provided for by an act of Congress, the Bureau of Markets and the Bureau of Crop Estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture were combined and became one organization July 1. The new bureau is now known as the Bureau of Markets and Crops Estimates.

Preparations for the merging of these two important branches of the department have been going forward for several months past, and the change was effected without any perceptible interruption in the business of either organization. Leon M. Estabrook, who had been chief of the Bureau of Crop Estimates since 1913, was transferred April 1 to the Bureau of Markets as associate chief in order that he might study the personnel of both bureaus and work out ways and means of combining the two to eliminate any possible duplication of work.

In combining the two units of the department careful plans have been made for the future development of the new bureau, so that it can be of the greatest benefit to the producers and marketing agencies throughout the country. It will work with farm organizations that need Federal aid in securing dependable crop and market news and information on supply and demand.

Following the resignation of George Livingston, who has been head of the Bureau of Markets since 1920, Dr. H. C. Taylor, Chief of the Office of Farm Management, has been appointed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

PLACES ORDERS FOR CHRISTMAS SEALS

The Texas Public Health Association has placed an order for 45,000,000 Christmas seals with the National Tuberculosis Association. These seals are for the 1921 seal sale.

The seal this year is a departure from the usual style, being diamond shaped and depicting Santa Claus holding two small children. Last year the sale of seals amounted to $90,000.00 in Texas. This is the second year that the National Tuberculosis Association has had entire charge of the seal sale. Previous to that the sale was held in connection with the American Red Cross.

The Texas Public Health Association has at the present time twelve affiliated local societies which are carrying on an extensive campaign for better health. The work of these different organizations is financed entirely by the sale of Christmas seals.

The Texas Public Health Association in co-operation with the local societies is carrying on an extensive health program, specializing in the prevention of tuberculosis. An increased seal sale means increased activity in the fight for better health.

A. D. DePasquale returned this week from an extended trip in the East and believes it only a short time now until those hoarding their money in their socks will be after turning it and putting it where it will be bringing in a revenue. I mean hold it all and not sell an acre. If we hit we will have what you want. MONEY and lots of it. If you now know me well enough to trust me and want a real opportunity to make something worth while let me hear from you. I also want a few honest, hustling representatives.

MEET 'UNCLE JOHN,' FOLKS

Of the few men in America today who are writing human interest, homey poetry, Dr. John J. Gaines is excelled by none. Quaintly musical, full of the human tone, disdainful of the "highbrow," they strike the responsive chord that is so charming to the ears of the great mass of American people today.

This is the man and this is the poetry that will entertain our readers through the Autocaster service, in which this newspaper holds an exclusive franchise. We will, therefore, publish a poem, or prose poem, by Dr. Gaines regularly during the next year. Watch for it.

Dr. Gaines ("Uncle John") resides and thrives at Excelsior Springs, Mo., which he describes as being as high to the center of the earth as you can drive a stake." Unlike other well-known newspaper poets, Dr. Gaines is country made, country bred, and continues in the country town life. Our readers will soon realize that he is one of them—a plain American citizen.
