DAVIS MOUNTAINS AS A STATE PARK

By W. J. Sutherland.

A place where the "kiddies" can see animals of the wild in their native state, a place to which a man may come after loading his family in the flivver and camp out in the good old-fashioned shirt sleeves style, and a place in which wild nature has achieved its greatest natural beauty; that is my idea of a State Park for Texas.

This expression was made by Senator T. W. Davison of Marshall, before a gathering of Davis Mountain folks at Fort Davis during the recent inspection of these mountains by the legislative committee, and aptly expressed the common thought of the other members of the committee of twelve from both houses of the legislature who had spent four days in the mountains. That the Davis Mountains filled the bill of specification is evident from the fact that a unanimous endorsement of the site as a location for such a park was made by the committee before leaving the mountain area.

The four days outing, which followed a trip to the Palo Duro Canyon near Canyon City, also proposed as a State Park site, was a revelation to the visitors several of whom had never been west of Fort Worth and Austin before. They were agreeably surprised at the scenic beauty that lay before them, and expressions were frequent, such as, "Well, I never knew we had anything like this in Texas." But what impressed these East Texans as much as the scenery laid out before them was the bigness and vastness of the West.

Aside from the probable establishment of a State Park that is expected to result from the visit, the trip was hailed by many as a great unifying influence in Texas, and the trip will probably draw dividends for years in the better understanding of the problems of West gained by the members of the legislature who made the trip.

"The Davis Mountains State Park would not be a West Texas park," declared Speaker Charles B. Thomas of Lewisville, in a talk at Fort Davis. It would be a park for all-Texas. Its location should not be decided by political reasons but by scenic reasons, and the great road systems, which Texas is now building and will continue to build, will make it possible for Texans in all parts of the state to make auto trips here at comparatively little cost and in good time.

"I would not advocate the theory of 'Texas money for Texans only,' declared Representative Newt Williams of Waco, but I do advocate that if Texans can get in their own state the same things which they can obtain outside, that the money should be spent in Texas. There are many problems yet to be decided in regard to the establishment of a State Park, but for the foregoing reason alone I would favor the Davis Mountains location." Mr. Williams has visited mountain areas in California and Colorado, and has spent considerable time in Western Texas, but had never visited the Davis Mountains and expressed himself as considerably surprised at the scenic beauty he viewed there.

The members of the party seemed convinced following the first days' trip when during a fourteen mile horse-back ride they scaled the steep sides of Madera Canyon to a level of 6,000 feet above the sea and viewed the broad mesa at that level, which mesa they again visited by automobiles from the southern sides of the mountains. The Madera and Abjua canyons and Cherry canyon seem to hold the wildest pieces of scenery in the Davis Mountain area, and these points were all viewed in part by the legislative committee.

These canyons are cut out of the solid lava rock formations by the constant flow of water over a period of centuries, and wind through steep gorges of brightly colored walls many of them covered with heavy timber growths. Many of them head near Spring Mountain, where the highest springs in Texas send a constant stream of water down the roughly hewn out canyons.

The Davis Canyons differ considerably in appearance from the Colorado canyons in that the rock formations stand straight up, where in Colorado the formations lay parallel to the ground.

Inability of the camera to catch the vivid colorings of these gorges and mountains, and the sylvan beauty of the high mesas make it impossible for anything but the master artists' brush to reproduce the scenery in any way favorably comparing with nature's handwork. Red, green and brown blend with each other in an indescribable beauty. It was into this wonderland that the legislative party plunged the second day of the trip. Leaving Pecos late in the afternoon the party did not reach the canyons until after nightfall, and after a night in the open, rose with the deep sides of Madera Canyon towering on either side of them, and with Madera Creek bubbling over its rocky bed at the edge of the camp.

Col. "Bill" Kingston, who two score years ago came to these mountains and established his big ranch, which covers much of Madera canyon, had provided horses for the party of more than fifty visitors, and led them into the deep recesses of the canyon where new vistas of wonderful scenic value opened before them at every turn of the road, and then later, I sat by Land Commissioner J. T. Robinson, one of the few men in the party who had ever visited the mountains, the party ascended the goat trails on the sides of the canyons and reached the mesa some 2,000 feet above the bottom of the canyons and from that point viewed the wonderful panorama of the canyons which extended for miles and miles in either direction from them.

The bulk of Senators Dudley, Fairchild and Darwin, all of whom top the 225 pound mark, made them heavy loads for the sturdy cow ponies of the Davis Mountains ranches, but the ponies stood the day's trip much better than some of their riders, whose years at desks had not fitted them for the hardship of such a long ride the first day of the outing. Thrills there were aplenty during this trip, as the ponies picked their way among the rocks and the riders soon learned to let the sure-footed little animals pick their own way without guidance from the reins. Many times as the party rounded the sides of a steep cliff there seemed to be nothing between them and the bottom of the canyons, but the two-foot trails which the horses were following, but the real safety of the trip was emphasized by the fact that not even a minor accident occurred.

Water that ran up hill was one of the wonders of the trip to the legislative visitors. This natural phenomenon seems to take place at several points in the Toyah Valley irrigated section around Saragosa and Balmorea southwest of Pecos. Hure mountain springs feed the irrigation ditches of this district which was preparing for its fifth cutting of alfalfa when the legislative party passed through and although there is a drop of nearly twenty feet to the mile away from the mountains, the height of the mountains, and the long apparently level tableland leading to the foot of the mountains gives the impression that the slope is towards the mountains and that the water runs up hill.

Many stories are told of this "vision," and many visitors to this section of the valley are not satisfied until a level is run.

Motor trips carried the legislators to the remainder of the wonder points in these mountains, the roads being in good condition at every point except in the Madera, Cherry and Abjua canyons, in which the wildest and most rugged sections of the mountains are located. The natural rock foundation of these canyons and the excellent drainage conditions make these canyons ideal for road construction, according to Division Engineer, D. E. H. Manigault of the State Highway Department who made the trip with the legislative party. Mr. Manigault stated that roads could be built into these canyons so that autoists could make the trip to these rugged sections and that the cost of construction would be very small.

The fifty miles length of Limpia canyon was traversed in automobiles the second day, this wide canyon containing some of the best grazing land in West Texas, and the big and handsomely furnished homes of the wealthy Davis Mountain ranchmen viewed. The third day was spent in visiting the Mesa, a wide and nearly level tableland some 6,000 feet above sea level at the head of all the canyons of the Davis Mountain region.

Here one may view the country for miles and miles around, and visit Mt. Livermore and Sawtooth Mountain the two highest points in the proposed park area, and look down the wild gorges of the canyons.

On this mesa is situated Spring Mountains, so named because of the numerous springs which originate on its sides, and send their water trickling down over the rocks to form the creeks which have through the ages with the aid of storm waters worn away the deep cuts on the face of nature.

TOOLS THROWN 350 FEET HIGH IN HOLE BY PRESSURE OF GAS

An enormous gas pressure and more than 1,000 feet of oil standing in the Toyah Bell No. 2 above the string of tools caught which were caught about 350 feet from the bottom of the hole leave only the removal of the tools from the hole to prove what many believe will be the biggest pool of oil found in Texas.

The presence of oil in the hole discovered on Thursday afternoon removed the last doubt about the possibilities of the Toyah Bell as a producer, and from now on the big question will be "how much?"

To take the events in chronological order: On Thursday night a week ago the drill penetrated a pocket of gas estimated at about 5,000,000 cubic feet per day. Several bailers of free oil had bailed from the hole earlier in the week. After drilling about 35 feet deeper on Wednesday morning, just after midnight the drill penetrated through 12 feet of oil saturated shale and went into a gas formation which immediately raised the bit about 350 feet in the hole.

Frantic efforts were made as soon as the gas was struck to raise the tools from the hole, and the crew working at greatest speed threw the ropes on the bull wheel and started the cable up. The cable wound loose almost from the start showing that it was not pulling weight, and after winding about 350 feet it was stopped.

Subsequent investigations showed that the string of tools had been caught by the gas and hurled upward, and acting much as a cork tied to a string in the neck of a bottle, had overtaken the cable, which cable had evidently wound around the tools and wedged into the hole in such a way as to make an effective plug.

This plug practically stopped the flow of gas from the well, but after a short time the enormous pressure below caused the gas to find its way around the plug and a flow estimated at five million cubic feet or more was coming from the hole late this week.

Many calculations were made by Drue D. Christner, field representative of the U. S. Geological Survey, and by representatives of five of the big operating companies of Texas who were present, and the consensus of opinion was that from 2,500 to one hundred million cubic feet of gas pressure would be necessary to force 2,500 pounds of tools up the hole with such speed.

The cable was broken from above the string late on Wednesday, and on Thursday afternoon a small string of tools was lowered into the hole. The plug was loosened for a time by the pounding of this small string and a flow of gas that lived up to expectations issued from the well, but the plug almost immediately popped back in place much the same as the cork pops back into the neck of a bottle filled with water (or something else), and the hole was plugged.

When the cable was taken from the hole oil showed on the last 1,000 feet taken out and the tools were covered with the dark green fluid. It is presumed that this oil worked its way by the plug when the plug was loosened.

Additional efforts are to be made today to remove the plug from the hole, and while this work may require hours, days or weeks, there can be no doubt but that the bit has made a discovery that means great things for West Texas and the Pecos country.

B. Ramsey, who has had charge of operations on the well, has asked The Enterprise to announce that the last salt formation found in the well was struck at about 4,000 feet, and that there is no salt rock within several hundred feet of the oil formation. The gas was found under thick layers of exceedingly black limestone of exceptional hardness, and other layers of very hard sandy limestone, formations that give every indication of big production.

Mr. Ramsey states that he and his associates consider it necessary for safety's sake to deny access to the derrick to visitors, due to the enormous gas pressure back of the tools, and the possibility that the tools may be loosened in such a manner that they may shoot out the top of the hole.

The big flow of gas will solve one of Pecos' big problems, that of cheap fuel. With such a flow it will undoubtedly be possible to pipe the product to Pecos for use, and if the field should live up to expectations the pipes could be continued to El Paso.

SHOT OF NITROGLYCERINE INCREASES FLOW OF BELL WELL

At 12:30 yesterday afternoon the Bell or Discovery Well was shot with sixty quarts of nitroglycerine at about 2,150 feet. The three containers, about seven feet in length each, were let down after having been filled, the fuse lighted and sent down. The shot brought forth oil and gas in large quantities, sufficient to saturate the derrick and throw a spray 1500 feet to the windward which specked and smeared all who were in its wake.

About an hour after the shot the bailer was sent down the second time and was filled each time about half full of pure oil.

A phone message today just as The Enterprise goes to press gives the information that the well shows the production of about double the quantity of oil now than it did before shot, and this in face of the fact that the hole is either bridged or filled with the shale blown loose by the shot, through which the oil is coming up. At the time the shot was fired there were about 150 feet of open hole without casing.

It is impossible to even guess what this well will do when cleaned and tested out, and this will be done, it is understood, immediately.

PECOS-ANGELES RESUME DRILLING

A. F. Scherer of Los Angeles, Secretary and Manager of the Pecos-Angeles on scrap section 68, a few miles South of the Bell well, is in Pecos and announces that his company will resume work on this well by the first of the week, and will put on two shifts and keep things moving until the well is completed. This well is now down 750 feet with one of the best Standard rigs in the field and is believed to be on one of the best locations in the Pecos oil field. It will be a deep test.

A NEW SYNDICATE ENTERS PECOS FIELD

The A. B. C. Syndicate which was recently organized in Los Angeles with offices at 1305 and 1306 Baker-Detweiler Building, has formulated a very extensive drilling program in the Pecos field. Although their first well will be drilled in Huntington Beach, California, where they feel sure of production as they have a choice drilling site with two flowing wells less than three hundred yards away, the hope for large profits lay in the Pecos field. The holdings in the Pecos field are also very choice as one ten acre tract is about four hundred yards from the Bell well. When operations are started in the Pecos field a Standard rig will be installed with the latest drilling equipment and it will be financed to go to the oil, say the managers.

The trustees of the Syndicate are, C. E. Anderson of Los Angeles, who has been identified with this field for the past year; Arch W. Bell, organizer and field manager of the Los Pecos Syndicate, and one of the field's greatest boosters, and Phil P. Carr, an oil and mining man of Butte, Montana, and Los Angeles.

THE LAURA CREW ARE AGAIN BUSY

The cable for the Laura well of the Sunshine Oil Corporation came in last week and was immediately carried to the well and operations resumed, and the work will be pushed with all the energy of which George Livingston, the driller in charge, is capable.

HAWKEYE TO RESUME DRILLING AT ONCE

Mr. O'Mara of the Hawkeye, south of the Bell well about three miles, announces that he will resume operations on his well next week and push the work to completion. This well is on the same structure as the Bell well and has a most favorable location. They will push the work with a standard rig and two shifts and make a deep test.

PECOS SUFFERS IN LOSS OF CASEY

Mr. and Mrs. T. Y. Casey left yesterday in their beautiful car for their new home in Dallas where Mr. Casey is vice president and general manager of the Dallas Transfer and Warehouse Co. Mr. Casey has been a prominent figure in the progress of Pecos almost since it was first put on the map and through his energy, generosity and business ability it is believed the town has grown to an extent it would not otherwise have done. For several years he has been manager of the Pecos Mercantile Company, one of the biggest and best department stores in West Texas and under his management it has prospered.

To show their appreciation of T. Y. Casey as a man and as a factor in the upbuilding of the town about twenty-five or thirty, mostly officers and directors in the Chamber of Commerce, gave a supper and banquet in his honor at the Mint Cafe Wednesday night. Owing to the fact that the dining room would not accommodate more than this number, only a select crowd were invited to participate, the editor not having the honor of being present on this occasion, is unable to give in detail just what happened on this occasion, but suspects that many very complimentary remarks were made in regard to this worthy citizen.

Not only will our people suffer a substantial loss in the removal of Mr. Casey to Dallas but the church and society circles will suffer an equally great loss in Mrs. Casey's departure. She has not only been a faithful worker in club and church enterprises but in society circles as well and is a brilliant woman who will be greatly missed by our town as a whole.

The best wishes of The Enterprise family as well as a host of Pecos friends go with them.

BAPTIST YOUNGSTERS HAVE HAPPY TIME

Last Saturday afternoon was a happy occasion for the members of the beginners and primary classes of the Baptist Sunday school. After meeting at the church for practice for the promotion day program which took place Sunday, the children with their teachers retired to the home of the pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Garner where the children were royally entertained by playing many interesting games on the spacious lawn under the supervision of the teachers of that department. Delicious refreshments of ice cream were served to more than fifty bright and happy little lads and lasses who will long remember the delightful occasion.

HAWAIIANS ORGANIZE FOR SHARK FISHING

San Francisco.—Shark, the plain, ordinary man-eating shark, and other species of the shark which habitate the Pacific, are to be utilized for human needs, according to plans just hatched by business men of Honolulu.

Details of the venture were made public when a committee of three arrived from the island the other day seeking to purchase some of the smaller craft now idle on the Pacific Coast.

These vessels are to be used in a fishing fleet to catch sharks off Hawaii. The water adjacent to Hawaii are said to be filled with various kinds of shark, and their skins are said to have a high commercial value.

At Honolulu, where a series of experiments have been conducted, it was demonstrated that nothing need be wasted at a shark fishing plant. It is stated that no finer food can be found for public consumption than shark meat. The proposed industry will also help solve the problem of a plentiful supply of fertilizer, now much sought in the islands.

Glue is taken from the shark's head, while the fins are much in demand as a delicacy by Chinese. Leather and other byproducts are also secured.

NEW POSTOFFICE FIXTURES ARE HERE

The new fixtures for the postoffice are here and are being placed in position in the First National Bank building.

The Enterprise editor has not inspected them but from a glance through the plate glass front of the building they look swell and equally as good as the best Pecos has ever had in the way of postoffice fixtures.

It is surmised Postmaster McKellar will move in in the next day or two and that our people will again enjoy the privilege of going to the postoffice, unlocking their boxes and getting their mail without having to call at the window.

It might not be out of place to state here that Postmaster H. N. McKellar has had even a harder time and has been more inconvenienced by the poor equipment since the fire than has the public. Also that he has been universally courteous and most obliging to all. He is a splendid postmaster as well as perfect gentleman and the many patrons of this office—especially the democrats and also many republicans, hope the "powers that be" will see fit to retain him in this position.

BAPTIST REVIVAL TO BEGIN OCTOBER 9

The revival at the Baptist church will begin October 9. Dr. T. N. Neal, pastor of the First Baptist church at El Paso, will be here to do the preaching. The music will be directed by Mr. H. V. Reynolds of Fort Worth. He will have as his helper his accomplished wife who is a splendid musician and a sweet singer. Mr. Reynolds is known all over the South as a pianist and choir director. He will bring with him his marimba which will add much to the music. Be sure and hear it.

As for Dr. Neal, few men are his equal as a preacher. He is witty and winsome, but spiritually minded. We are fortunate to have such men as these to visit us. They are both men of culture and consecrated common sense.

The public is not only invited but urged to attend and co-operate in these services. In the meantime let us lend our support and influence to the Christian meeting now in progress.

J. M. CARNER, Pastor.

BAPTIST ENTERTAIN IN HONOR OF MRS. CASEY

At the home of Mrs. F. W. Johnson on Tuesday evening the ladies of the Baptist church had one of the most elaborate entertainments of the season in honor of Mrs. T. Y. Casey who left Thursday for her new home in Dallas.

The opening address by the president of the Ladies Aid, Mrs. Clem Calhoun, was a masterpiece according to those present, and showed conclusively that Mrs. Calhoun is talented and fully capable of handling any subject entrusted to her with credit to herself and her society.

The program as carried out consisted of a piano solo by Mrs. Stevenson, reading by Mrs. Kenneth Slack, song contest, vocal solo by Mrs. W. H. Browning, Jr., a Bible contest in women characters of the Bible, in which latter part the ladies were dressed in costumes suitable to the occasion and the time represented, as well as the characters, such as Ruth, Rebecca, Naomi, etc.

The closing address was delivered by Mrs. J. W. Brooks who is always equal to any occasion, and in this she did herself great credit.

An ice course was served to some seventy-five or eighty guests, and a most delightful occasion is reported by those present.

Mrs. Casey was an active church worker and did her full part every time she was called upon and the honor conferred in this, one of the swiftest affairs of the season, was only a meager evidence of the esteem in which she is held by her church associates.

CHRISTIAN REVIVAL IS DOING MUCH GOOD

The revival now going on at the Christian church is growing in interest daily and those who are attending are hearing some very fine sermons and singing. If you have not been attending better get busy and start in for you do not know what you are missing.

MURDER CASE IN FISHER COUNTY RESULTS IN MISTRIAL

The case of the state vs. J. W. Forrester, charged with the murder of Frank Posey and wife near Rotan, Fisher county, last June, went to trial in Roby last Monday and after the evidence had been heard and the charge read by the court, a big array of attorneys argued the case and it went to the jury Thursday morning. After considering the case until Friday and the jury failed to agree and were discharged by the court. The jury stood seven for acquittal and five for conviction, but we did not learn what penalty the five jurors were in favor of. Forrester was admitted to bail late Friday afternoon and the case continued until the February term of court.

Forrester was indicted by the Fisher county grand jury on a charge of murdering Mr. and Mrs. Frank Posey at their home near Rotan, and there was no eye witnesses to the terrible tragedy except Forrester himself, but from the day of the crime up until this time he has kept silent and refused to testify in his own behalf, and it may never be known just how the killing occurred. The theory of the State was that Forrester killed Posey in the presence of his wife and then in order to forever seal her lips he struck her and she fell dead from the terrible blows inflicted with a heavy iron rod which the State claims was used in killing the wife. Posey was a well known farmer of Fisher county, and the crime was one of the most noted that ever occurred in the West, and for a time mob violence was feared.

The State was represented by county attorney Joe C. Randle, M. A. Hopson, W. W. Beall of Sweetwater and Judge Allen of Roby, while Stinson & Brooks, of Abilene, represented Forrester. The case was hard fought, the attorneys contesting every inch of ground throughout the trial, and the court room was crowded each day throughout the week.

Forrester's bond was furnished by relatives and friends from East Texas, where he formerly resided.—Sweetwater Daily Reporter.

A TIMELY SUGGESTION
To Whom it may Concern:—
On my rounds this summer I took notice of many things and among these were the nice and neat way in which the cemeteries were kept; I had occasion to visit our own here in town, to me it looked ragged and neglected. Would it not be respectful for us to get together some day, go up and clean off the ground, trim up the trees and straighten up the graves of our dead?
It would commend us to the public and respect our loved ones. Let us do it—What say you?
C. S. M'CARVER.

MARRIED.
W. E. Turner and Miss Velma Ward stole a march on their friends last week, went up to El Paso and were married Wednesday by the Rev. McCall, pastor of the Central Baptist church.

These young people are both well and favorably known in Pecos where they have resided for years. Bud is an all round good fellow, whose friends are numbered by his acquaintances. He has been with the Pecos Mercantile Company for some years where his service are appreciated. Mrs. Turner is a daughter of Mrs. George Ward, is a splendid and business woman has held a responsible position with the First National Bank for some time.

The Enterprise joins their many other friends in wishing for them much happiness and prosperity.

No Worms in a Healthy Child
All children troubled with Worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a General Strengthening Tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or dispel the worms, and the child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 60c per bottle.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

Prepared For The Enterprise By The First National Bank In St. Louis.

The indicated production of wheat on August 1st, amounted to 757,000-000 bushels, which is 52,000,000 less than the forecast on July 1st, and 67,000,000 bushels less than the average production during the past six years. The estimate for September is 754,000,000 bushels, registering another decline of 3,000,000 bushels. The wheat crop is estimated to be unusually large throughout the Pacific Northwest and in the Kansas-Nebraska section, but is below average for the years 1915 to 1920 in all other States.

July figures of the corn crop also showed that there was some deterioration, but on August 1st, the estimated production was 3,032,000,000 bushels, which is about 162,000,000 bushels greater than the average production in the last six years. For September, production reached 3,185,000,000, an increase of 154,000,000 over August.

The oats crop suffered more serious damage in July than any other grain crop, and the estimated production on September 1st, was only 1,090,000,000 bushels, as compared with the August estimate of 1,137,000,000, the actual production of 1,526,000,000 bushels in 1920 and an average production of 1,433,000,000 bushels for the years 1915 to 1919. The crop was much damaged by green bugs and rains during the period of thrashing.

The white potato crop deteriorated seriously during July and the September estimate was 323,000,000 bushels or 7,000,000 more than August as compared with a production of 428,000,000 bushels in 1920 and an average production of 371,000,000 bushels during the previous 5 years.

"GASSED"
On Wednesday afternoon our efficient County Clerk, S. C. Vaughan, was "gassed" and went home with a headache. On the same day several others' report a similar experience. One over-seas veteran says he came through the world war unscathed but has worn out two gas masks within the past few weeks. Verily, there is some gas in evidence whenever you find a crowd gathered on the streets of Pecos.

SEEK LIGHT ON CATTLE LOAN

Representative Hatton W. Summers of Dallas and A. C. Williams, assistant secretary of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association, will leave Fort Worth Friday morning for a ten days' automobile trip through West Texas for the purpose of obtaining first-hand information regarding financial problems of the stockmen and farmers of that section. Summers is a member of the Joint Congressional Investigating Committee, which recently conducted extensive hearing for the purpose of disclosing the condition of agriculture and to outline, if possible, a solution of some of the more pressing problems.

While the Agricultural Loan Agency of the War Finance Corporation, established in Fort Worth last week, is expected to prove helpful to the stockmen and farmers of the Southwest, many express the opinion that the full measure of relief needed can come only through a very liberal interpretation of the War Finance Corporation act, with elimination of needless delay and red tape.

Sunners and Williams will endeavor to ascertain the opinion of representative bankers, stockmen and farmers as to the measure of relief which they expect from the Agricultural Loan Agency and suggestions as to some permanent method of furnishing adequate credits to the agricultural and livestock interests for a reasonable period of time at reasonable rates of interest.

Towns to Be Visited. They will visit Weatherford, Mineral Wells, Palo Pinto, Breckenridge, Albany, Abilene Sweetwater, Colorado, Big Spring, Midland, Odessa, Monahans, Grandfalls, Fort Stockton, Sheffield, Ozona, Sonora, El Dorado, Christoval, San Angelo, Ballinger, Colman, Brownwood, Comanche, Dublin, Stephenville and Granbury.

"The measure of relief which may be extended to the agricultural and livestock interests by the Fort Worth Agricultural Loan Agency will depend largely upon whether the officers of the War Finance Corporation at Washington desire to be of real service to the Nation in being willing to administer the act liberally and to grant broad powers to the local committee," said Williams. "The members of the committee, who will make recommendations on all applications, not only are experienced in loans, but also are familiar with cattle values and general conditions in this part of the country, and are capable of determining better than the Washington office as to the advisability of making loans.

"While the officers of the corporation have announced that no direct loans will be made, it is believed that a liberal interpretation of the act makes such loans possible in exceptional cases. Marion Sansom of the Texas committee on the loan agency work, was connected with the War Finance Corporation in Dallas during the war, and made direct loans to stockmen who were unable to obtain through the usual channels the money that was needed.

Direct Loans Needed. "Within recent months they have expressed the opinion that the full measure of relief needed by the livestock industry can come only through direct loans. It, therefore, is quite likely that, if they can be shown that a worthy stockman having adequate security has been unable to secure needed funds from other sources, they may recommend that a direct loan be made.

"At the recent meeting of the executive committee of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association, a committee, consisting of Frank Kell, Wichita Falls; Marion Sansom, Fort Worth; R. L. Ball, San Antonio; J. D. Jackson, Alpine; C. B. Hudspeth, El Paso, and A. C. Williams, Fort Worth, went to Washington in the interest of the direct loan plan, but failed to obtain the desired amendment, largely because officers of the corporation declined to support the measure and insisted that the relief needed by the agricultural and livestock interests could be extended under the law as passed. If the relief is not extended through the banks, and the officers of the corporation decide that direct loans are not possible under the present act, the committee representing the association again may visit Washington and make a determined effort to obtain the

MASTER OR SLAVE

Money! Money! Money! The Bible tells us that the love of money is the root of all evil. Diogenes says love of money is the mother of all evil. But neither the church nor the world can run without it. Money, per se, is no more an evil than property, but it is the "love of money," referred to above. The pride of wealth and the boast of power that it brings, is where the evil lurks. Love of money will corrupt everything under the sun. How many Christians are worshipping the "Almighty Dollar" instead of the Almighty that gave them every dollar that they ever possessed?

"Gold will be either slave or master."—Horace. We do not believe any human being was ever really happy that allowed his gold to become his master, and we have known many. On the other hand, some of the noblest characters we ever knew were men of wealth, who made gold their slave, that is, used it to better the condition of those in need around them.—Baird Star.

LIFT CORNS OR CALLUSES OFF

Doesn't hurt! Lift any corn or callus off with fingers

Don't suffer! A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops on the corn, callus and "hard skin" on bottom of feet, then lift them off.

When Freezone removes corns from the toes or calluses from the bottom of feet the skin beneath is left pink and healthy and never sore, tender or irritated.

News of the death of Bishop Walter R. Lambuth at Yokohama, Japan, was received at Nashville, Tennessee, by relatives on September 17th. Bishop Lambuth was one of the most beloved as well as one of the most noted Bishops in the Methodist church and his untimely death has spread a gloom over Methodism all over the United States. He was a grand man and many of our citizens heard him at El Paso a year or so ago.

The Lubbock Avalanche, one of the best weekly papers in Texas, came out on September 22nd, with 128 page edition, which is probably the largest edition, as to number of pages, ever gotten out by a Texas weekly. It is filled from the first to the last with well written feature stories of the resources and achievements of the South Plains section and besides being profusely illustrated it is well printed and gotten up both from a news, editorial and mechanical standpoint. The Enterprise congratulates editor James L. Dow on his splendid achievement and its inestimable value to the entire South Plains country.

According to the El Paso papers yesterday "Fatty" Arbuckle was held, after the examining trial, on a charge of homicide, or manslaughter, instead of murder as was contended for by the prosecuting attorney in his trial at San Francisco, in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe during a "gin fest" at his (Arbuckle) rooms in that city on Labor Day. There are few, if any, who believe that Arbuckle really intended to kill Virginia Rappe but his connection with the case will kill the effects of his antics on the screen for all time to come by most decent, law-abiding citizens. No matter what he may do or how the trial may terminate the best people of America will look upon him as a brute, notwithstanding Billy Sunday's opinion to the contrary.

A STRIKE WOULD BE FOLLY.

Reports from the meeting of the officers and the general chairmen of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen now in progress in Chicago indicate that the trainmen have voted overwhelmingly to strike rather than accept the 12 per cent reduction in wages decided upon by the Railroad Labor Board. This is in line with reports from the other railroad brotherhoods and the shop craft unions.

We cannot believe that any such strike will ever be put into effect, for it is so palpable beforehand that it would be a disaster for all concerned, not the least for the men themselves, that it is incomprehensible that they would attempt such a thing. It is said that there are railroad officials who hope that the strike will be called, in order that there might be a finish fight with the brotherhoods. Apparently there are many employes of the railroads who feel the same way about it. Both of these seem to be confident that they can defeat the other by force. But meantime the war in which they engage will be disastrous for the country as a whole. We must have no such war. Conditions are bad enough now, and recovery is slow enough without any such industrial cataclysm.

The Star-Telegram in the above editorial hits the nail squarely on the head as to the outcome of such a strike, but that will doubtless have no effect on the labor unions who seem to think nowadays that the employers should invest their millions only in an effort to give employment to others. Just so they get their wages, which must be the limit, the owner of the business be damned. Every wage earner should have decent pay but he should also be willing for his employer to make a few pennies while he is making a few dollars.

UNITED CAMPAIGN FOR BETTER AGRICULTURE

Prominent Texas Banker Discusses Cotton Situation and Sounds Warning for Next Year.

Dallas, Texas, September 28.—Nathan Adams, vice president of the American Exchange National Bank of Dallas and chairman of the United Campaign for Better Agriculture, gives out the following interview on the cotton situation and diversified farming: "In undertaking a campaign for diversified farming, it must be understood that the bankers and business men contributing to this campaign realize that they are not experts on farming. They do believe, however, that they know something of the world's needs and the world's financial condition at this moment, and they feel that a large cotton acreage for 1922 would be a serious mistake. They believe, from their knowledge of the world's needs that diversified and intensified farming means more prosperous communities, and the world needs particularly at this time a better grade of cotton than is being produced.

"On account of the present price of cotton, it is their belief that many farmers and land owners will be led into planting a larger crop than was planted in 1921. Three months ago every pound of cotton in the State of Texas could have been bought at around 12 cents a pound. The agricultural interests of this State must realize that the world can consume only a certain amount of cotton and that, with the German mark at 1 cent which was formerly 24 cents, the French franc at 6 cents formerly 19 cents, and the pound Sterling of England at $3.55 against $4.85; with China famine stricken, Japan having its own financial trouble, Belgium and Austria struggling for their existence, and Russia in the hands of the Bolsheviks, it can be readily seen that, no matter what the world needs, it comes down to a question of what the world can pay for.

"Therefore, the sensible thing for the farmers and land owners of this State to do is to diversify their crops to the extent that they can feed themselves and their live stock on their farms, making cotton the surplus crop. It can be readily seen that if three million bales of cotton will bring $100 per bale, plus the seed, it will run about $125 per bale, or $375,000,000. Four million bales of cotton in Texas means a price around eight cents per pound, or $40 a bale, $180,000,000 for the State. So, no matter which way round you want to go, the sensible thing to do is produce less cotton rather than have the one million bales surplus set the price for eleven million bales which is all the world actually needs or can consume.

"It is time for the business interests of Texas, in co-operation with the farmers of Texas, to get a fair return for the products of this country, and it can only be done through active co-operation of both, and certainly, if we expect to see this State prosper, we cannot do it upon the theory that we can sell four million bales of cotton and that no matter how much we raise, it will still bring twenty cents per pound. I hope, therefore, that when this campaign is started it will receive the active co-operation of every thinking man in this State. Every southern state has agreed that they will not increase their cotton acreage for 1922, provided Texas, which is the largest cotton producing state, sets the example and begins a campaign for diversified farming for independence of character and rebuilding of its homes.

MANY MOTORISTS LACK IN COURTESY

Lack of courtesy and a failure to recognize the reasonable rights of users of the highways have frequently been cited as faults of many motorists who in most other respects are careful to recognize the rights of their neighbors. The Golden Rule, says H. Clifford Brokaw, technical director of the West Side Y. M. C. A. automobile schools of New York, should be observed while driving on the public roads as much as anywhere else.

If every driver, he explains, would operate his car as he would have other drivers on the road, do more would be fewer accidents and more enjoyment in motoring. The number who do, however, is steadily increasing.

AND BEHOLD, HE IS SUSPICIOUS

A writer in this issue of the paper, who is well known as being opposed to almost every progressive movement that is ever started in the city, says that he is "suspicious of newborn projects that need to be persistently boomed and defended," and further states that "good and sound business never needs any defense whatever." We do not wonder then, that this man is constantly in hot water, and continually fighting progress. Nothing in the world that has life, has ever developed into the state of maturity without continual care and protection and coaxing along. Take the trees, the grass, that grace the yards of the people of the city, they had to be cared for, protected and coaxed along in order to get to the point where they could be of value or importance. Take the young life of any kind. From the beginning it must be cared for and given much attention and persuaded to do the things that are for its best interest, and yet no one ever says they are suspicious of the thing simply because it needed this attention and care and coaxing along to make it do the things that is expected of it.

This great and glorious country in which we live did not just grow into public favor. The great Panhandle country would still be the broad expanse of uncultivated and undeveloped country that it was years ago, had men who knew about it, and had confidence in it not told the world about it, had not boosted it along, and influenced the minds of homeseekers with a desire to see the country, and to become interested in its progress by becoming owners of farms or small ranches in this territory. The people did not become suspicious of the country, and say: Oh, there is something wrong there or the people would not have to do all that boosting.

Boosting is merely an educational proposition. It is simply a matter of bringing before the people the conditions and the advantages of the possibilities of things. This is an age when progress is rapid. It is too rapid for the sluggish minds and dispositions of some people. There are people who are not willing to prosper—these people look with "suspicion" or disfavor upon anything that will cause them to move up. The old ox wagon was a good way to travel years ago, but progress has put this mode of travel out of existence. The horse and buggy was a faster and much better way to travel till the automobile came into use and now the fellow who has to depend upon the horse and buggy to attend a bargain sale, would get there after the bargains were all gone, and the same conditions exist in every walk of life. The fellow that depends upon making crop with a bull tongue plow and other similar farm implements would have a mighty slim show at competing with the progressive farmer of today. The markets would change a dozen times before he could get his grain gathered and to the elevator. The same is true of every business or enterprise. The existence of the fellows who are clamoring for the old time schools and the old method of doing things are really a blessing to the community after all for they are the means of spurring up to a point of activity some of those who are inclined to become drowsy and go to sleep on the job.

We believe in boosting things along. We believe that if a thing is good, it is good enough for the people to know about. And the best way we know to inform them is to boost it. This is a new way of educating the people. Just the same as riding in an auto is a new and improved method of travel over the ox wagon. The telephone over the old method of communicating with your neighbor by going across the mountain to see him and find that he is not there, and have to plod back and try again some other day.

Just at this point we too become suspicious, and decide that those who are suspicious about the new-born things, were also kinfolks of those who were suspicious when Noah built the ark, and were suspicious when Columbus discovered America. Were suspicious when Fulton invented the steam boat, and when the first airplane raised its body into the air and sailed away, all along down the line of life suspicion fills their life, and they are not satisfied with anything that is a project because of their uncontrollable suspicion. These same people have to be dealt with in every progressive movement, and though their property may have enhanced in value under the new condition of things they still hold on to their suspicion, and fight progress—Lubbock Avalanche.

DRIVERS NEED TRAINING

A well-known authority in automobile circles has indicated that it is not too much to say that the future of the motoring world depends upon the behavior of the motorist toward the public. The subject of training the driver is consequently worth attention, and that the automobile community as a whole realize this is evident by the establishment of various schools where the mechanical side of the profession is taught to the future driver.

"A motor car needs a driver who is a skillful mechanic," adds Mr. Brokaw, skillful in manipulating a car on the road. An excellent mechanic is not necessarily a good driver. What is required in a driver besides a general knowledge of his machine is a knowledge of the rules, customs and courtesies of the road and the habits of traffic, also the possession of the qualities of alertness, foresight and a consideration for others. He should have temperate frame of mind and an abstinence from even moderate drinking.

"The motor car driver needs to be the best driver on the highway, if he is to drive without offense to the public and danger to others and himself, for he has to conduct a vehicle which is more valuable than any other and more speedy.

Should Be Mechanic. The complete driver should have a working knowledge of the different materials of which roads are made, of their comparative tendency to cause skidding and of the perils which arise from badly laid street car tracks. He must be observant and realize that children hanging on rear of wagons are apt to drop off suddenly and run across his path. He should also know how to read a road map.

"He must be on the lookout for pedestrians, stupid, drunk or deaf, for wagons on the wrong side of the dangerous corners and be prepared to find vehicles in charge of sleepy drivers who will often do the wrong act on being aroused."

Those drivers who have had long practice in city streets have arrived at expertness through training plus the hard school of practical everyday experiences assisted by police supervision and the fear of the results of accidents.

THE TOYAH BELL-- THE MAGNET WELL

Last October I took over the drilling of the Toyah Bell No. Two, being on a featureless prairie where neither dome, anticline or a structure is visible to me. I had but one thing to lead me to believe that the Toyah Bell well would open a real oil field. No guide or encouragement but a magnet, hence the "magnet well." I have no stock or interests to sell concerning this magnet nor do I wish to make locations for others. My sole and only intention is to use this magnet to make a fortune for myself and my friends associated with me in developing the oil lands which I have secured in the Pecos district. While the world smiled and untold thousands were spent in drilling for oil the bit at the Toyah Bell the "magnet well" went straight into the oil which came in a spray from the well. Then the tremendous gas pressure which blew the drilling tools some few hundred feet up the hole where they jammed and stuck. When the tools are recovered I firmly believe that the well will come in a real commercial producer even at its great depth and that the district surrounding the well will prove a profitable field as the cost of drilling is very light in comparison with other deep fields. For many months I worked over hundreds of sections of land in search of the really big production all geologists have predicted would be found here. My next well will be drilled on a fossiliferous structure where the magnet records a real Texas Gusher fully as good as the best wells were at Ranger. I do not claim to know depths but can distinguish between shallow and deep production and this structure will, I believe, yield an enormous production at a comparatively shallow depth and open the largest field in the Pecos country. I will give drilling sites and make locations to responsible parties who will help me to develop my oil lands. I am going to develop a part of it myself and want my share of the investors money for this purpose. Under my management and contracts the Toyah Bell was drilled from 1,500 feet to where it blew in. Mr. B. Ramsey of Willits, California, having had the drilling contract the last several hundred feet. Under my personal supervision my next well will be drilled where I expect a real gusher. If you want action, honest development, a square deal and quick profits see me at once in Syndicate Building, with Judge Hubbard or write. Sincerely yours, C. H. WILLOUGHBY, Pecos, Texas. DAVIS MOUNTAIN AS A STATE PARK

Continued From Page 1. and wild oak trees abound near the head waters of these canyons, and State Forester C. O. Fiske, who accompanied the party, reported that he had located fourteen different varieties of vegetation during the trip up the Madera canyons. The wish of the poet, "backward, turn backward, Oh, Time in your flight, and make me a boy again just for tonight," whether expressed or not by the dignified members of the party was franted to them on the trip. With appetites that were not a suggestion of the careful diet that many of the party followed in the physical inactivity of their daily lives, the party plunged into feasts of barbecued calf, sour dough biscuits, frijole beans, and honey, with all the rapacious eagerness of boyhood, and dashed for the old swimmin' hole in Madera creek for a sun-down bath and splashed water as in the "kid" days which are never to return to them. This committee, with one exception, composed of East and Central Texas men very early expressed their full approval of the plans for the park, but desired information as to how these plans may be carried out and their conviction is shown by the unanimous vote when the committee decided on the completion of the inspection to recommend to the legislature that that body act favorably on the proposition. No definite proposition regarding the part was placed before the committee by the Davis Mountain people during the trip, due to the fact that no action can be taken toward securing a price or making definite arrangements until after the matter is passed upon by the state legislature as a whole, but the most favored plan is for the legislature to send another body of investigators to the mountains to report on the amount of land needed, the roadways needed and what other expenditures would be necessary to make and serv the greatest number in the most efficient manner. By establishing a game preserve the wild animals of Texas may be preserved for future generations as is done at Yellowstone and other national and state parks. By establishing free access to the mountain area the state may assure to future generation the right to view rugged natural scenery, which may be denied them if the onward march of civilization continues in the future as it has in the past. The matter of purchasing the park area will not be a simple matter, as the mountain ranchmen love their hills and canyons as much as any other land owner loves his homestead, but it is the general belief that they will bow to the will of the great people of Texas in the request that these mountains be saved for the future generations in their present wild state. It is probable that arrangements can be made for the ranchmen to retain the grazing rights to the lands they now occupy, and continue to run their cattle there, as the movement of stock will tend to keep down the growth of wild grass and prevent forest fires, as well as providing a steady income to the state for purposes of upkeep. The party which made the trip through the mountains numbered at times more than one hundred men. The legislative committee was headed by Senator I. D. Fairchild of Lufkin, as chairman, with Ramond Brooks of Houston, secretary to Lieutenant Governor Lynch Davidson of Houston as secretary. Other members of the legislative party were: Senators Dan McMillan of Whitesboro; T. W. Davidson, of Marshall; C. F. Richards of Lockhart and H. L. Darwin of Paris; and Representatives Charles G. Thomas of Lewisville, speaker of the house, Newt Williams, of Waco; B. E. Seagler, of Palestine; A. R. Shearer of Bellevue; Sam Lackey, of Dewitt; and R. M. Chitwood of Sweetwater, and John Quaid of El Paso. Others present were: J. T. Monroe of the Southern Pacific lines; O. B. Webb, of the Texas & Pacific line; D. E. H. Mangaul of the State Highway Department; W. E. Stockwell of the city planning commission of El Paso; Jack Sheehan of El Paso, representing the Rotary Clubs of Texas; C. O. Fiske, State Forester; Joe H. Brothe, of the Sweetwater Board of City Development; C. E. Thomas of El Paso, former speaker of the house. The arrangements for the affair were in charge of a central committee composed of the following: Representative W. W. Stewart of Balmorhea, chairman; Judge James F. Ross of Pecos, vice chairman; Charles Boyd, of Balmorhea, treasurer; J. M. Pouncey, secretary; George H. Clements, publicity secretary; and Walter N. Sutherland of Reeves county; J. M. Otgan of Brewster, county; Judge J. F. Merrill, of Fort Davis county, members of the committee.

MEXICO STOPS HUNTING UNTIL NEXT JANUARY.

Austin, Texas, Sept. 16.—Nimrods who expected to take hunts in Mexico this fall and winter will not be able to do so, as the Mexican Government has annulled all open season provisions of game laws and stopped hunting until January next with intimation that the closed condition will be continued thereafter. Notice that these new regulations have been posted at Mexico border entry points has been communicated to the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Department. They are printed in Spanish and their full import has not been realized by Americans as yet. Game deletion in Northern Mexico is given as the reason for the ban on hunting, as indicated in an official statement issued at Saltillo, Coahuila, Mexico.

VICTORY

On the day after the armistice that ended in the not so late war a Southern mountaineer, driving down from the hills on one of his rare visits to town encountered a whiskered squirrel hunter. "What was that thar racket down to the Gorks last night, stranger?" he inquired. "Red lights and fireworks and sich like. Sounded like it might be some sort of a celebration." "It shore war," said the other. "Didn't ye hear? The war's over." "It is? Say, did we—did de win?" "We shore did." "Hooray!" shouted the mountaineer. "It took a leetle more time than I expected but I never had a doubt for one durn minute but what we'd finally lick them dam yanks."

WHY THAT LAME BACK?

That morning lameness—those sharp pains when bending or lifting, make work a burden and rest impossible. Don't be handicapped by a bad back—look to your kidneys. You will make no mistake by following this Pecos resident's example. Ask your neighbor. Mrs. R. E. Miller says: "Several years ago my back was weak and lame and ached constantly. My kidneys acted too often and that annoyed me very much. It didn't take many boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills to cure me." Mrs. Miller gave the above statement October 27, 1913, and OVER THREE YEARS LATER on April 7, 1919, she added: "I still recommend Doan's Kidney Pills highly. They are fine. I use a few of Doan's occasionally and they keep my kidneys in good condition." Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Miller had.
